A crowd of local officials and supporters of Wayne County General Hospital pack a meeting to air reasons why the hospital should remain open. The county's new executive William Lucas has threatened to close or sell the facility because of its operating costs.

Closing hospital may prove costly

By Maurie Walker
staff writer

Closing Wayne County General Hospital may not be much of a savings for the county, according to some county officials.

In charts assembled by Commissioner Kay Beard, whose districts include Westland, Garden City and Inkster, the county would still face a total cost in the first year of the closing of nearly $23 million.

At an open meeting held Wednesday in Inkster Recreation Center, at which more than 250 persons attended, Beard said this figure would include such ongoing expenses as utilities, insurance, depreciation, supplies and repairs as well as retirement funding, unemployment compensation and retiree's hospitalization insurance.

The county would spend $4.2 million for employees' accrued vacation and sick time, $9.2 million in unemployment compensation in which the county is liable for all 52 weeks, and $800,000 in worker's compensation. There would also be fringes on earnings totaling $1.6 million, Beard said.

"Contrary to popular belief, patients don't just come from the western Wayne County suburbs. All of Wayne County uses the hospital," she said.

THE HOSPITAL, in the year ending Nov. 30, handled 15,526 outpatients who came from all areas of the county including Detroit, Hamtramck, Highland Park and the Grosse Pointes. Emergency patients from these areas handled by the hospital totaled 4,222.

Added to these figures, the hospital handled 87,809 outpatients from surrounding cities, including Westland, Allen Park, Ecorse, Belleville and Livonia.

From Westland last year, the hospital handled 7,088 emergency patients and 17,774 clinic patients.

From Garden City, the hospital serviced 1,408 emergency patients and 3,841 clinic patients. Emergency patients from all of Wayne County totaled 31,303.

"Where would all those patients be cared for if the hospital is closed?" Beard asked.

Among those attending the meeting were Westland's Mayor Charles Pickering and Police Chief William Rechlin; Garden City's Mayor Vincent Fordell and Councilmen Gene Salvatore and Don McNulty; Inkster Mayor William Daniels; and several county commissioners, including Mary Dumas of Livonia.

Beard told the gathering that the board of commissioners "does not recommend the closing of the hospital."

"No proposals have come to the commission from Wayne County Executive William Lucas," she added.

FORDSELL said he was in attendance to support the maintenance of the hospital.

"The hospital is a safe haven for our community. In addition, many Garden City residents are employed there."

"I'm in favor of any solution for saving the hospital," Fordell said.

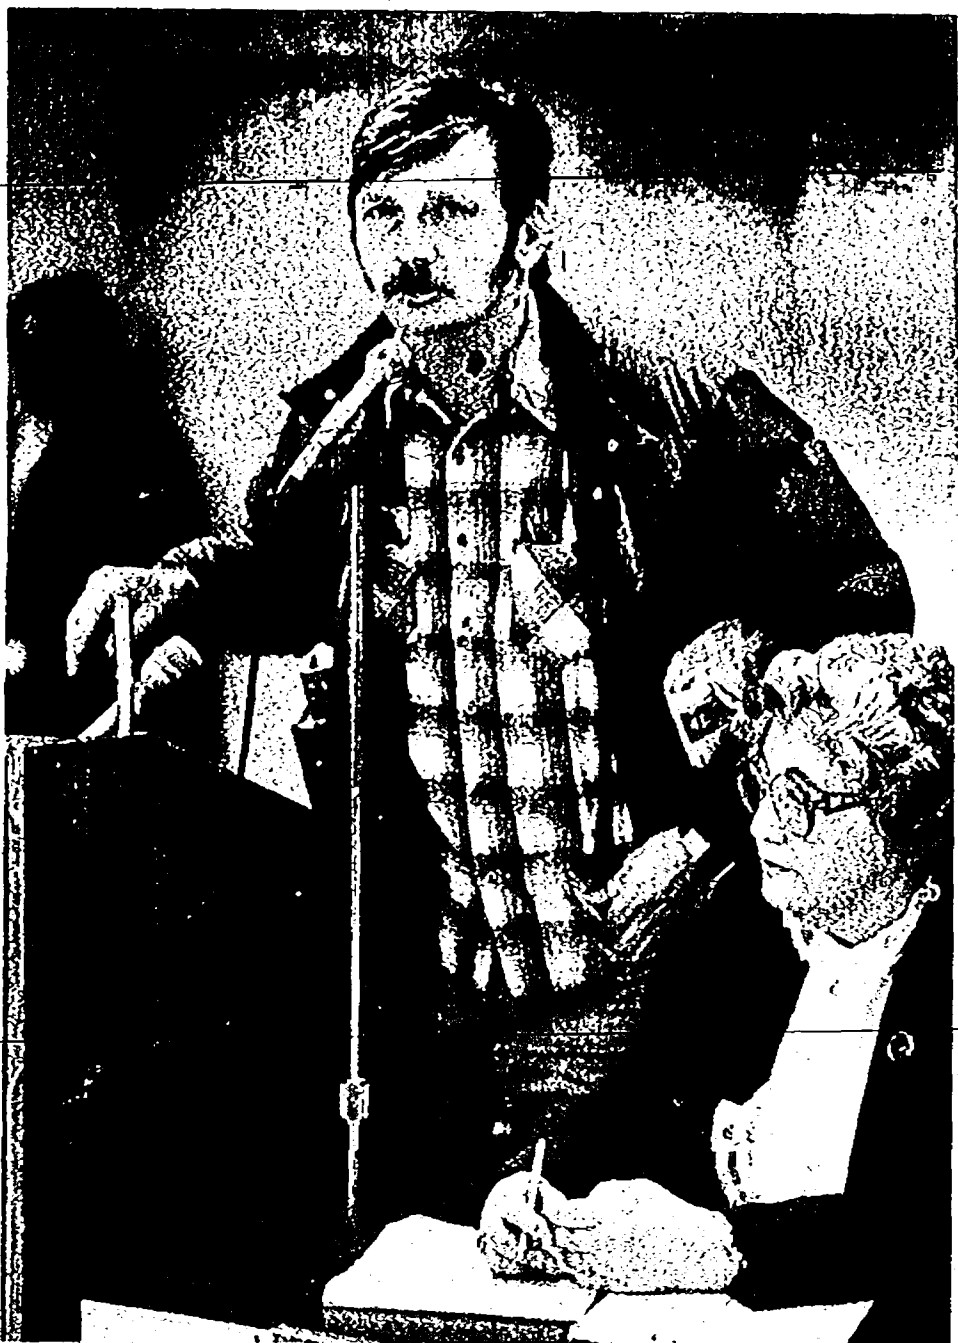

Pickering said that while he believes the people should be fair to Lucas in his efforts to work out the county budget, he hoped there would be a solution by Lucas, the employees and the commissioners.

"Our city has some 7,000 emergency runs to the hospital last year. Where would they have gone if it was closed?" The mayor added that he and the Westland City Council will do their part to help keep it open.

Several of the speakers attacked Lucas.

Bard Young, UAW representative, speaking as a resident, said "the biggest violator of the Wayne County budget has been Lucas."

Board hearing airs summer tax plan

The Livonia school board will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. Feb. 17 in the Franklin High auditorium, 31000 Joy Road, on whether half the district's millage levy should be collected this summer in the Westland portion of the district.

Total debt and operating millage amounts to about 37.86 mills ($37.86 per $1,000 of equalized valuation) for the year.

The district began collecting half the school tax in the Livonia portion of the school system last year.

According to a new state law, cities can no longer prohibit the collection of summer school taxes, but they can refuse to do it themselves. In that case, the school district itself or the county may collect the tax revenue and receive a fee for doing so.

Westland's city council was divided Monday night on whether summer school taxes should be collected for the Livonia, Inkster, Wayne County Intermediate and Schoolcraft College districts.

The council denied the tax collection to the Wayne County Intermediate and Schoolcraft districts. The law provides no recourse for community colleges, but the intermediate district will now have to decide whether to ask the county to collect the 1.1 mill levied throughout Westland. That millage is primarily used for special education programs and returned to local districts.

BUT A DECISION on summer tax collections was postponed for the Livonia and Inkster districts. A decision must be reached, by law, before March 1.

"If this was something the council could defeat, I would vote no," said one Westland councilman, Robert Wagner. "I took enough for four months. I don't intend to take that again."

Wagner was referring to a summer tax collection initiated by the Wayne-Westland school district in 1981. Due to different accounting procedures with two mortgage companies in the city, residents experienced huge shortages in their escrow accounts.

Complicating the collection was an error in calculation, a state law that equalized assessments by class and what council members have said was the failure of the Wayne-Westland district to notify residents that half their school taxes would be collected during the summer.

Despite promises by Livonia school board member James Merner and Assistant Superintendent James Carl that Westland residents would be notified about the change, the Westland city council voted to delay making a decision until a public hearing is held on the tax collection issue.

MEMBERS OF the audience applauded as the summer collection issues were either denied or delayed.

Westland councilman Kenneth Mehl asked for a survey of residents' reactions to the collection.

"I think in this case public input is important," he said.

But Carl and councilman Kent Herbert disagreed.

"Statistically, it would be less than valid," explained Carl.

Herbert called the mailing a waste of money and said he wouldn't go along with summer school tax collections unless it could be done throughout the community.

"There's no way we can do that now," he said.

Merner and Carl said the Livonia board would hold information sessions with both mortgage companies and with homeowners, establish an information control center in the district and send letters on two separate occasions.

Carl said Livonia school officials had "affirmative letters" from mortgage companies promising no escrow adjustment if there is no tax increase.

Merner admitted, however, that last year "two companies did unique things in our district." He said that they represented less than one percent of mortgage holdings in the district. He said the school system would agree to identifying who were the mortgage holders in the Westland portion of the district.

Estimates varied of the revenue the city would lose if the school system or county collected the taxes instead of Westland. A minimum for the Livonia district alone was set at $15,000.

HERBERT pointed out that interest rates are dropping making the cost of borrowing money less expensive for school districts.

"I think, especially considering the times we're in we ought to wait a year or two," Herbert suggested.

Council President Thomas Artley said that if taxes are collected this summer in the Livonia district, "Wayne-Westland will have their request in next year."

Councilman Ben DeHart said that due to the "horror stories" that resulted after a dual tax collection experience in Wayne-Westland, he would vote no.

Council woman Nancy Neal asked for timelines for notifying residents of the change, saying that trust between the city and the district had "broken down" in the past and could do so in the future.

Later the rest of the council agreed with Wagner's proposal to delay the decision in both Livonia and Inkster portions of the city.

Students mourn 2 classmates killed in crash

John Glenn High School students are mourning the death of two 10th grade classmates who died early Sunday in a car crash.

Gary A. Wade and Michael J. Knope, both 15, were killed when their car went out of control on a gravel road and crashed into a tree.

A third student, David Griffin, also 15 and the son of Westland City Councilman Charles Griffin, was reported out of intensive care at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies said the accident occurred at 4:50 a.m. Sunday, three miles north of Ypsilanti on Harris south of Cherry Hill.

The car, which was owned by Wade's mother, was reportedly being driven by the youth without his parents' permission.

Deputies said none of the boys had a driver's license.

GRIFFIN had been riding in the right front seat of the 1976 Volkswagen which was traveling at high speed, according to police. The car struck a tree 25 inches in diameter, cutting the car in half.

According to unconfirmed reports, the youths had overslept after planning an early morning excursion to check out reports of a haunted section of a road in the area.

Conflicting reports say Griffin either struggled free or was thrown from the wrecked car and made his way to a house where he collapsed.

His father said David, a John Glenn wrestler, was in fair condition at the Mott Center of University Hospital.

"He's conscious and able to walk," Griffin said. "He has a ruptured kidney which is causing internal bleeding."

John Glenn assistant principal David Boltho said that the accident has had a "very somber, sober effect on the kids. A lot of parents have called to excuse their kids to go to the funerals."

Services for Gary Wade were held yesterday from the Uht Funeral Home in Westland. Burial was in Cadillac Memorial Gardens.

Parents win delay in Bentley closing

By Teri Banas
staff writer

James Lynch and supporters fell short of what they originally set out to do Monday night — set up a community task force to study the closing of Bentley High School.

The parent group, however, did win one concession in its campaign to stall a decision by the Livonia Board of Education. The school board, after a lengthy presentation by Lynch, agreed to delay by one week public hearings on Superintendent George Garver's recommendation to close the district's first high school by June 1985.

"It's a good compromise, I'll go for it," Lynch, the parent group's chief spokesman, said later. "I'm glad the board offered us some extended time to make an intelligent and reasonable presentation to them. They are being accommodating, just not as much as we'd like."

The compromise calls for a public hearing Monday, Feb. 28. Other hearing dates will be scheduled "if necessary," Garver said yesterday. Tentatively, Tuesday, March 1 has been targeted, as well. Garver had recommended to the board that it schedule hearings Feb. 14-16.

In addition to the new hearing schedule, board president Marjorie Roach told Lynch that trustees would wait until March 21 for his committee report. On March 28, trustees will decide whether they have enough information to make a decision on the closing of Bentley.

The compromise was reached after a heated debate among trustees and some 75 people who attended the meeting.

AT ISSUE was the board's vote on Garver's report, calling for the closing of Bentley. Board action Monday acknowledged receipt of the report and set the stage for its deliberation.

Garver has said that because of declining enrollment, school programming will suffer through limited course offerings unless the district cuts down

Jaycettes seek members

Women who are interested in making new friends or want to get involved in community activities will have an opportunity to learn about the Westland Jaycee Auxiliary for women 18 to 36.

The Jaycettes will be hosting an open house at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Bailey Recreation Center to give women a chance to "find out what we're about without being pressured," according to members.

Years ago Jaycettes were required to be married to a member of the Jaycees, but that has changed. The Jaycettes still help Jaycees with their projects, including selling refreshments and applying makeup for their annual haunted house.

But now membership in the auxiliary group, which has been in Westland for 22 years, is open to all women whether they're homemakers, work outside the home, single, married or members of other organizations. Meetings are on the fourth Wednesday of each month beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Friendship Center.

Through its leadership training, the auxiliary "builds confidence so you can deal with the community if you have to," said President Sue Dickson.

"You get out of it what you put into it," she added.

THE PROJECTS operated by the group are numerous, but they're always looking for new members to bring in fresh ideas, say members.

The women visit nursing homes, work with the underprivileged and the impaired, serve on Operation Bread Basket to help feed Westland's hungry as well as offer a variety of classes on personal improvement and issues such as rape awareness, drug abuse, job hunting skills.

Recognition awards are given members for outstanding contributions.

In honor of Jaycee week Feb. 13-19, members will be handing out "Future Jaycette" t-shirts to newborns at an area hospital.

The Jaycettes have a lot of fun besides working on projects, say members. Socials are sometimes held with their children like a Valentine's party scheduled for later this month.

The auxiliary also holds social outings like picnics and family camping expeditions with the Jaycees.

The theme this year is strawberries, and events are planned with that in mind.

Dues are $18 a year and may be paid in installments.

And the age limit allows women to "make friends our own age." Like the Jaycees, Jaycettes leave the organization at age 36 when they become known as "exhausted hens."

rector Larry Williams has given notice of his plans to leave, said Westland sources.

"Everyone knows Mr. Gorman does far more and away than his job title," said Canton trustee Steve Larson. "We're here to represent the best interest of the taxpayers. (Keeping Gorman) is most cost-effective for the township."

Clerk John Flodin and other members of the Township Board echoed Larson's comments.

GORMAN HAS been finance director in Canton for the past eight years. He is involved with budget preparations, the purchasing of equipment and supplies and with long-range planning. He serves on internal committees studying paving, public safety and the proposed Super Sewer project.

"He said he was aware of the turmoil in Westland, and is happy to stay in Canton."

"I really like it here," Gorman said. "I like the work and the people."

The 19-percent raise is considerably higher than proposed increases for other department heads. Voting against Gorman's raise were trustee Carol Bodenmiller and treasurer Maria Sterlini.

Mayor to ignore council changes in budget cuts

By Sandra Armbruster
editor

Westland's mayor plans to ignore changes the city council made Monday night in his proposal to cut the budget.

Charles Pickering said that he "still intends to use my authority" to make budget cuts including library service, membership in the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, an animal control officer and the layout of the parks and recreation department director.

"After three study sessions, it concerns me that they (council) want to go in opposite directions," said Pickering.

"The council appropriates and I administer the budget. I have the authority to reduce it when necessary to balance the budget," he continued. "I'm not required to have council approval. I'm obligated to present my proposal to the council. It's their choice whether they recognize it (cuts)."

COUNCIL President Thomas Artley argued with that view.

"He can only go by what's in the budget amendment," Artley said. "This shows an unwillingness to work with the council and citizens."

Artley said he didn't know what his response or options would be if the mayor refused to follow their budget amendment. He added that the city clerk works for the council and could be directed to sign the appropriate checks.

Pickering said he was still reviewing other alternatives to cutting out all library service as of April 1 but would make the cut if other arrangements couldn't be made.

He added that city unions were notified before the council meeting about the layoffs in order to comply with contractual obligations required to have the layoffs take effect Feb. 14.

The council's proposed changes include eliminating a confidential secretary in the parks and recreation department. Pickering said that his proposal to cut more than $255,000 of the city deficit would be reduced to about $192,000 by the council's changes.

ARTLEY said that other areas of the budget the council would like to look at for savings would be in employee medical and dental plans, other building insurance, and the use of voluntary firefighters in three to four years to supplement the city's regular firefighters.

In the meantime, the city's second quarter financial report shows that after making the mayor's proposed cuts, the city will still end the year with a $151,000 deficit.

Pickering said his staff is considering ways of increasing revenue and evaluating employee suggestions which will be presented to council members at a study session.

THE MAYOR also said that the city would "have to continue to take a look at staffing. A lot depends on how successful we are in purchasing and supplies. We cut 10 percent off all supplies in all areas."

"We'll know how effective that's been with the third quarter report," he continued.

He criticized council reports, based on a legislative estimate, that the city could face another $400,000 to $800,000 cut in state aid. Pickering said that, according to the Michigan Municipal League and the city's auditing firm, the cut would more likely be in the range of $86,000 from intangibles taxes.

He further objected to the council's criticism of the effects the cuts will have on the operation of city departments.

"Cuts have to be made," said Pickering. "If necessary, I'll take the criticism."

Canton finance officer declines Westland job

By Arlene Funke
staff writer

Canton's finance director has decided against accepting a similar post with the city of Westland.

Mike Gorman, 38, opted to remain with Canton after the Township Board Tuesday increased his salary 19 percent.

The board raised Gorman's salary from $30,373 to $36,000. In addition, he will have the use of a township-owned car.

Westland's offer was a salary of $37,400, plus car allowance of $3,600, Gorman said.

GORMAN, A WESTLAND resident, is active in community affairs in that city. He serves as chairman of the administration commission at St. Bernardine Catholic Church and is treasurer of the parent-teacher group at St. Damian School. He also manages a little league softball team.

Westland currently is plagued by budget deficits and political infighting between Mayor Charles Pickering and the City Council. Current finance di-

Protests erupt over hospital closing

By Maurie Walker
staff writer

If Wayne County General Hospital is shut down, area fire department rescue units will lose an important tool in their efforts to save lives.

Fire officials in Westland, Garden City, Redford and Canton townships, say their departments rely on the hospital in many of their ambulance cases.

The 340-bed hospital faces the possibility of either being shut down or sold due to the county's financial crisis.

Wayne County Executive William Lucas has said he plans to take the county "out of the hospital business" because its $13-million budget deficit is adding heavily to the county's $100-million revenue shortage.

Westland Mayor Charles Pickering said that while he sees the county's need to get out of the hospital business, its closing would be a "definite disadvantage to Westland."

"I DON'T approve of closing the hospital," he said. "There has to be alternatives, either through private ownership or concessions."

"The main thing is to keep the hospital there, one way or the other. It's a very valuable hospital to Westland," the mayor said.

Fire Chief Ted Scott of Westland said he would be greatly disturbed if the hospital is closed.

"It's our primary emergency hospital, it can handle any situation," Scott said.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Laura Frum of Canton Township leaves the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital along with her youngsters Joshua (holding rabbit), 4, Charity, 5, and Aaron, 7. The hospital is the only acute care facility in western Wayne County.

Beds and wheelchairs used to transport patients line an empty corridor at Wayne County General Hospital which may be closed or sold by the county.

Patients line up at the many health care clinics offered at the hospital.

"For our ambulances, Wayne County General is the quickest and most efficient hospital. They are better prepared for trauma patients than any hospital in the area."

The chief said many accident and trauma patients request they be taken to Wayne County General.

"If they don't have a preference, we suggest they be taken there," Scott said.

CHIEF JOSEPH BENYO, head of public fire education for the Westland Fire Department, said the hospital is crucial to his department.

"Wayne County General is within four minutes running time from our area. It's the only trauma center that can handle anything."

Garden City's fire chief, Keith Nims, also said other hospitals are not set up for trauma patients as is Wayne County General.

"Another advantage to that hospital is that when we take juveniles there, they don't require the consent of the parent or guardian (for treatment)."

He explained that when an ambulance is sent to a school or a juvenile is injured on the street, by taking the patient to Wayne County General, the patient can get immediate attention without having to locate the parent.

"Because it's a county hospital, no permission is required by the hospital before they can treat the patient," Nims said. "Other hospitals have to have approval from the parent or guardian."

The chief said there have been instances in an extreme emergency when a private hospital will stabilize a juvenile, but if the parent can't be located, the ambulance will then take the patient to Wayne County General.

REDFORD FIRE CHIEF Richard Anderson, said he is against the closing of the hospital because it is part of the mutual aid pact which involves a number of surrounding communities.

"I've been asked to write a letter objecting to the closing. It is the major trauma center in the area and one of the better facilities."

The chief said his department doesn't transport many patients there but added, "as a department head, I would be sorry to see it closed."

"We don't know how many patients we service who may later be transported there."

Canton Township's fire chief, Mel Paulin, said that although his department doesn't transport many patients to Wayne County General, "the closing could be a sad mistake."

Paulin said before the new Oakwood

Hospital opened in Canton Township, Wayne County General was their number one hospital.

"But we still need a big hospital. We never know when there might be a disaster where the smaller hospitals couldn't handle a heavy flow of patients."

IN ADDITION to handling emergencies in the surrounding area, the hospital has played a vital role in training emergency medical technicians in the fire department.

Fern Vining, Wayne County Hospital's training coordinator, said the hospital has worked closely with the fire departments.

"We have assisted in EMT training and held cardio-pulmonary resuscitation classes at fire stations and at the hospital," she said.

According to Leonard Forster, associate administrator for the hospital, Vining has gone to the fire stations in the area to assist in EMT clinical training.

Forster said the hospital provides high-level emergency care which is not generally available elsewhere.

"The possibility of this place closing is very serious," he said, "not only to our better than 1,000 employees, but to the surrounding communities as well."

Unions pan concessions

"We need equality of sacrifice, not just the employees," he said.

"What we need is a 14 percent wage cut at the executive level. Sacrifice begins at home," he added.

Young said the hospital has always lost money but has been maintained.

"It's one place where poor people can go and be served and not need an insurance card."

RAYMOND JOSEPH, director of the hospital's department of medicine, said that if Lucas wants the employees to give, "you have to give."

"When a ship is sinking, you don't sink the life boats," he added.

Dr. Gerald L. Cox of Garden City said Lucas should re-examine his budget.

"It cost $34 million for a new jail, $4 million for the hospital. Where's the priorities?"

Edward Salontz of the University Medical Affiliates, suggested the hospital should have a more effective means of letting the public know of its many services.

"The hospital is vital to the communities. We have 100 doctors in our affiliation that are employees of the hospital."

Calvin Sallor, president of Local 25, American Federation of State County Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO said his union represents approximately 750 of the hospital's workers.

"This is something that has to be dealt with at the negotiating table," he said.

"We are concerned not only about our employees but the patients as well."

"Lucas forgets this is a democracy. We as the people elected him and we as people can take him out of office," he added.

And Tom White of Local 25 said the hospital's employees are "not sympathetic to any concessions."

Parents succeed in winning delay of Bentley closing plan

its overhead costs by closing one of the four high schools. While Bentley was the first named for that type of cost reduction, a second high school building appears targeted.

Lynch, however, tried to stall that process and gain time for his own committee's work. In the substitute resolution he offered unsuccessfully, Lynch called for the formation of a community task force to study the question. In addition, he asked to delay the public hearings until May 16.

In his resolution, Lynch charged the school board with instituting a "closed door policy" by failing to enact a task force to generate community involvement. He also maintained that unless the ad-hoc group — with some 200 members — was given more time to evaluate the superintendent's recommendation, a "proper community response" could not be formed.

Petitions signed by almost 3,000 residents from the Bentley, Franklin and Stevenson neighborhoods were offered in support.

Lynch appeared buoyed by the small victory. "We're going to move into high gear now," he said. "We're meeting again this Thursday (tonight) and we'll have some kind of report ready by then (following the public hearings)."

THE AD-HOC group's report is expected to make

"It's a good compromise. I'll go for it."

—James Lynch

a case in defense of small schools. It is also expected to address issues such as programming and financing.

Board members generally agreed that Lynch's request to delay the start of public hearings on Garver's report until May 15 would not allow enough time for affected families to make plans for the closure. The district has offered Bentley parents and children the choice of attending other district high schools in the 1983-84 school year.

In addition to Lynch, four others, including a Bentley student, two members of Lynch's committee, and former school board member John Stymel-ski spoke Monday in favor of the parents' concerns.

Pat Sari of Arden Street said the committee's intent was to offer other "alternatives" to the closing of Bentley. She maintained that "closing a school every three years does not create a stabilizing environment."

Carl Bensop, an educator, said he was concerned with the impact that more school closings would have on the ability to sell his home.

Adults taught job hunting skills at center

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Joe Akin Jr., a former truck driver from Plymouth, has been out of work for three years following a medical disability.

Today, at 35, Akin is considering clerical work and rediscovering what it's like to look for a job.

Admittedly, the prospects are enough to test the emotional strength of most people, who need only to read a newspaper or listen to the nightly newscast to be reminded of this area's high unemployment.

But help is available. In the Livonia Public School District, the Occupational Lab, a two-room office-classroom in the Whitman Center is preparing unemployed persons to re-enter a work force which has changed considerably.

"It's been 15 years since I first started looking for a job, and it's been a little rough," said Akin, the husband of a school teacher and father of a 4-year-old daughter. "This is only my second day here but so far they're showed us about job applications and resumes — and that (resumes) is something I've never done before."

SHARON M. JASKA, a job placement advisor in Whitman's Occupational Lab and one of three full-time employees there, has found that many of the clients are ill-prepared for the stiff competition of the '80s. For many who began working when jobs were more readily available in the early '70s, family ties and knowing the right people usually did the trick in landing a job.

But "knowing someone" just doesn't work by itself anymore, she said.

"The first thing people would say to me was 'Do you know someone, can you get me a job?'"

In a tight job market, looking for a job becomes a job in itself, the center's classroom instructor, David Gardiner, said.

The center's work is a relatively new arena for a public school district to undertake. While many offer job placement services for graduating senior high school students, the extension of that into the adult world is uncommon.

THE OCCUPATIONAL Lab was started last year with a $50,000 federal grant from the U.S. Department of Education. When the federal funding expired, the district picked up the costs and expanded the scope of the service. South Redford Schools, in a contractual agreement with Livonia schools, still provides the program with an instructor.

Today, the center offers a 15-week course aimed at teaching people how to hunt for a job, how to identify their work interests. In addition, it offers employment counseling, resource help on learning more about specific jobs, and assistance in setting up internship programs and on-site visits to local businesses.

The center encourages people to enroll in the entire 15-week course, which meets twice weekly, but it still offers counseling and resource help to those who aren't interested in the full program.

THOSE INVOLVED in the program range in age from 18 to 60. Participants are from many surrounding communities including Redford Township, Plymouth, Westland, Northville, Farmington, Garden City, Inkster and Wayne. Jaska puts the program's participants into two groups — young people who are looking for work, possibly their first jobs, and those who have left long-term jobs due to layoffs, personal problems or emotional upheavals.

Many of the students are enrolled in the district's high school completion program. They receive a half-credit toward a social studies requirement. Some of those referred to the program are from rehabilitation programs and are simply "trying to get their life back together," Jaska said.

At the start, students are tested for their employment interests and then given information about various jobs through instruction on a MOIS computer. More detailed information about getting a job and keeping it follows in Gardiner's 15-week course. The course includes such topics as setting goals, dealing with stress, searching for a job, preparing a resume and cover letter, filling out job applications and being interviewed. Several weeks are dedicated to the interviewing process, during which time videotaping is made available for mock interviews between the students and Jaska.

GARY WOLFE, 20, a Bentley High graduate who took the course last term, found that videotaping a practice job interview with Jaska put him at ease when a real job interview came along.

"I've been interviewed before, and usually I've been really nervous," he said. "During the videotaping, I just relaxed. Later, Sharon (Jaska) told me I needed to lean forward and look into the interviewer's eyes, and I think that's what got me the job where I am now."

Wolfe, enrolled in computer studies at Schoolcraft College with a part-time job at a fast-food restaurant, said he was steered away from studying engineering because of what he learned of the computer industry in the occupational lab.

According to Gardiner, many of the students who are planning to re-enter the job market are ill-prepared for the sophistication needed in today's competitive market. "Some don't know what resumes and cover letters are — those are new words to them," he said. "All some know of looking for a job is picking up the newspaper. The bottom line is that finding a job is a job in itself."

FINDING A JOB is where Jaska comes into the picture. She admits that only a fraction of the students who want a job will find one during the 15-week program. Last term, 75 people "seriously wanted a job" and 27 were placed, Jaska said. To assist in the search, Jaska regularly contacts some 200 local employers. Most of the jobs they place are in the fast-food industry and clerical fields. "A lot of employers don't know enough about us yet," she said.

Currently, there are 65 people enrolled in the 15-week program; but many more participate in one-day workshops and seminars. Last semester, when 160 took part in the full-course program, there were another 500 enrolled in workshops.

Jim Newman, Whitman's principal and head of all adult programming at the education center, views services such as the occupational lab a natural extension of public school education.

"With enrollments in K-12 declining, and with older pupils wanting to return to education, it's the way of the future," he said.

For Jaska and Gardiner, the Occupational Lab has tried to come a long way in a short time. At one time, it was linked to Whitman's high school completion program and called "last chance high" by some business people.

But hard work is changing that stereotype.

Since the program's start last year, a full 15-week course study, tried for the first time this year, and extended contacts with businesses by Jaska are improving the program's reputation.

Sharon Jaska is a job placement advisor at Whitman Center.

Skating lessons to start

The third session of skating lessons and figure skating will start Feb. 14 at the Garden City Civic Arena, Cherry Hill east of Merriman.

The lessons are offered for all ages and levels of ability. To measure a student's progress, a series of badges has been developed by the United States Figure Skating Association.

There are 12 badges measuring skills in such areas as turns, jumps, spins and dance steps.

Civic Arena instructional skating classes consist of three nine-week sessions, eight weeks for classes with the final week for testing.

Each lessons is a half-hour long, once a week. Lessons are held Monday through Thursday between 4-6 p.m. All levels are not offered daily. Fee is $13.50 for residents, $20.25 for non-residents.

Adult lessons are offered Wednesdays at 10 a.m. or Tuesdays at 6 or 6:30 p.m. Classes are a half hour one day per week for nine weeks. Fee is $13.50 for residents, $20.50 for non-residents.

ADVANCE POWER skating for advanced skaters meet for 50 minutes Wednesdays at 5 p.m. Fee is $19 for residents, $22.50 for nonresidents.

The purpose of the club is to encourage the instruction, practice and the advancement of the members in all phases of figure skating. A membership fee is required.

For the ladies' precision team, basic skills are all that is needed.

The team skates Wednesdays and Fridays in the morning and puts on many special performances during the season. Potential members may contact the arena at 261-3491.

Attacks-cost burden

Lucas asks one-mill tax renewal

Wayne County property owners will be asked to renew a one-mill tax that is due to expire after next December in order to keep county government afloat.

County Executive William Lucas said the mill, which yields $18.3 million a year, "must be renewed."

Otherwise, Lucas said in his first state of the county address, he wants no new taxes and expects no additional revenue from the state or federal government.

The one-mill renewal could be voted on in 1984. For a house priced at $60,000, it would cost $30 a year.

"We must be prepared to deal with our problems ourselves. We cannot expect massive bailouts from other people in the state," said the former sheriff who on Jan. 1 became Michigan's first county executive under a home-rule charter.

LUCAS DEVOTED most of his address to the county's massive fiscal problems. He repeatedly expressed disappointment that his administration is unable to reach agreement with county unions on economic concessions and new work rules.

He was asked at a news conference afterwards to respond to criticism that he wasn't setting a good example by using a chauffeur and limousine at taxpayer expense.

Lucas said "those criticisms are unfounded. The average citizen expects that I will have the accoutrements of the office. They don't expect me to ride a bicycle."

Lucas promised to introduce a revised county budget within 90 days, referring to the $283-million budget for the year that began last Dec. 1 as "phony."

William Lucas service with a smile

BESIDES THE one-mill tax renewal, Lucas's plans for facing the $331 million deficit contained these five points:

- The Michigan Legislature will be asked to "eliminate expensive and restrictive legislation which binds our hands." He cited a court decision to impose $5.4 million in fees for representing indigents and a law imposing $28 million in indigent medical care costs on county government. He called them "decisions which unilaterally impose the state's financial problems back onto local units of government."

- Later this week he will propose a study to "develop the alternatives for the county to discontinue operation of Wayne County General Hospital" while meeting charter obligations to provide a medical "facility." But Lucas warned hospital employees unions "there should be no mistake — Wayne County will not operate that facility at a loss."

- Also this week he will propose that a consulting team familiar with information processing update all computer and word processing systems.

- Within 30 days, he will propose a plan for large savings on insurance. "The county has been managing millions of dollars worth of property and insuring 5,000 employees for health care, liability problems, workmen's compensation, and so forth, without the advantage of experienced insurance personnel."

SC loan loss $450

Schoolcraft College has a shortfall of $450 in outstanding student loans.

Trustees voted Wednesday to transfer money from the college's general fund to the student loan fund to offset the loss.

"We lose an average of $900 a year because students don't pay off their loans on time," said Adelaide Raby, comptroller.

SC has 6 workshops to help unemployed

Schoolcraft College will offer free workshops to help unemployed workers make decisions about career changes.

The workshops are being offered because the college wants to become a support center for the unemployed, according to Barbara Geil, vice-president of student affairs.

Last month, a group of unemployed persons were surveyed to identify their personal and family needs, said John Webber, director of counseling services.

From this information, he said, six seminars will be developed for presentation on three nights — Feb. 16, 23 and March 2.

The workshops will run from 6-9 p.m. in Room B-200 of the Liberal Arts Building of the college, located on Hagerty between Six and Seven Mile roads.

TWO SEMINARS — "Strategies for Career Planning" and "Creative Job Search" — will be presented Feb. 16 by counselors Gary Hershoren, William Helse and John Witten. Resume writing and effective interviewing will be covered.

"Emerging Occupations" — about current and future job opportunities — and "Repackaging Your Job Skills" — focusing on new approaches to job selection — are topics to be discussed Feb. 23. Sandra Florek and James Sylvester of the counseling staff will present the first topic, and Lowell Cook, cooperative training instructor, the second.

'Venture capital' shortage slows state's rebirth

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Southeastern Michigan's economic rebirth may be hampered by a shortage of "venture capital," according to a report being circulated among political and business leaders.

The gist: Auto sales may come back, branches of high-technology firms may locate here, but the best potential for jobs is emerging growth companies and they have difficulty finding venture capital.

The report, though academic and dry reading, has been a mild bombshell in the Metropolitan Affairs Corp., a research and education foundation financed by major industries, unions and civic groups. MAC is the successor of Metropolitan Fund, the foundation which began the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, and New Detroit Inc., among others.

THE NEW report is by Dr. David J. Brophy, associate professor of finance in the Graduate School of Business Administration at the University of Michigan.

Brophy concludes there is indeed a shortage of venture capital — the moving of "capital from old established types of investment to new, perceptibly higher-risk types of investment, e.g., to independent, newer, smaller businesses."

In broad terms, Brophy suggests a half-dozen steps to increase the amount of venture capital and the access which growth firms have to it.

David J. Brophy
venture capital expert

"The report tends to unnecessarily stress the inadequacies of the Michigan venture capital supply system, even though there is ample evidence presented that great strides have been made in recent years toward making venture capital available," said James R. Waterston, vice president of Comerica, Inc.

Without dissenting from the report, Thomas H. Jeffs II, executive vice president of National Bank of Detroit sees important factors as being "a supportive climate for innovation and business formation" and "the sustained excellence and accelerated development of the state's university system."

Waterston and Jeffs were on MAC's venture capital project committee, which commissioned the Brophy report.

A SHOCKER to readers of the report is a chart showing the geographic distribution of new capital committed to private independent venture capital funds.

Of the top 14 states which attract venture capital, Michigan wasn't even on the list, although it ranks seventh in population.

In 1981, California lured $306 million, or 35 percent; Connecticut, $105 million, 12 percent; New York, $87 million, 10 percent; Massachusetts, $67 million, 8 percent of the national supply.

Said Brophy, with academic understatement: "Michigan has not been a geographic concentration point for either venture capital investible funds or for venture capital disbursements."

He said: "While the venture capital industry has expanded dramatically in the U.S. over the past five years, its development in Michigan over that period has been somewhat more modest."

And later: "The situation faced by Michigan is made difficult by the absence of heavy concentrations of both high technology industry and the investment facilities commonly found in financial centers such as New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Boston."

SOME "STRESS" will be necessary, Brophy argues, in order to correct the situation, the stress arising from the necessity of governmental action. But the combination of business and government is "a fact of life in today's economy."

His recommendations:

- There is no shortage of capital — indeed, southeast Michigan has $30 billion available. But it will take "systematic counselling of prospective investors regarding characteristics of the venture capital business" and undefined changes in state financial laws.

- "An informal network of private investors, intermediate intermediaries, providers of professional services (legal, accounting and consulting) and interested bankers."

- Facilitate commercial adaptation of technology generated by universities and research laboratories.

MR. AND MRS. James Gilligan of Plymouth gave $400 to the Physical Education and Athletic Departments. Minas Zakarian of Dearborn contributed $50 to the Athletic Department.

Gifts to Physical Education Department were given by: a Northville couple, $100; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson of Northville, $200; Deborah K. Dillon of Canton, $100.

THE COLLEGE received 1,000 pounds of scrap steel valued at $100 from Livonia Automatic Inc. The material will be used in the Welding and Industrial Fabricating Department.

Twenty-five books, valued at $50, and a contemporary millimeter graduated cylinder valued at $15 were from the estate of Dr. Ralph W. Atchley, a former chemistry instructor at the college. The materials will be used in the Chemistry Department.

A freezer valued at $450 was donated by Nick Nitchov of Livonia for the concession area of the Physical Education Building.

BROPHY'S REPORT — and the man himself — win big praise from Joseph P. Bianco Jr., one-time investment banker from Bloomfield Hills and now a vice-president for public affairs of J.L. Hudson Co.

"Brophy is the top academic expert in the country on venture capital," said Bianco. "He has pioneered bringing together venture capital with entrepreneurs once a year (in a conference)."

"Of 18 Michigan companies he brought together with investors last year, 12 have received financing."

The report is also endorsed by John Amberger, executive director of both SEMCOG and MAC.

BANKERS, HOWEVER, feel hurt at some of Brophy's strong conclusions.

Fact sheet explains Reye's

Reye's syndrome is a rare, acute condition that can be fatal. The Food and Drug Administration reports that some studies show an association between children under the age of 16 taking aspirin for viral conditions, such as influenza and chicken pox, and their developing Reye's syndrome.

So if your children should come down with flu or chicken pox, don't give them aspirin or aspirin containing products unless you have first checked with your doctor.

To help parents know what Reye's (pronounced "rise") syndrome is, what the symptoms are, and what emergency treatment may be necessary, the FDA has a factsheet called "Reye Syndrome." For your free copy write to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 509L, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Reye's syndrome involves swelling of the brain, liver malfunction, and blood chemistry disorders. Symptoms include sudden vomiting, violent headaches, and unusual behavior in children who appear to be recovering from an often mild viral illness. The child may be sleepy and lethargic, but still responsive. Within half a day, the child can become disoriented, comatose and delirious. If untreated, the child can go into a coma and die. If these symptoms are present, take your child for immediate diagnosis.

ADMISSION TO A hospital is required so emergency care can be provided. In the hospital the child can receive blood, and body fluids can be monitored and corrected; a respirator is available if breathing is failing, and if necessary surgery can be performed to relieve pressure on the brain.

In treating Reye's syndrome, the usual hospital stay is three to 10 days. The patient must be closely watched and will likely be in an intensive care unit. The patient is considered out of danger when blood chemistry, respiration, and other signs have been stable for 48 hours.

When you order "Reye Syndrome" (free) you'll also receive a free copy of the "Consumer Information Catalog." Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the free catalog lists over 200 selected free and moderate cost federal government consumer booklets.

Making do

With blades of grass still poking out, a sparse covering of snow was all that it took this week for Westland youngsters Lee Teh Eyck (left), 11, Steve Dangovia, 13, and his brother, Mike, and Jeff Allen, 12, to head for Edward Hines Park for a slide down the hills.

But the youngsters weren't the only ones out in the park. The geese and ducks waddled their way across the now frozen lake in the park.

Dawn to compête

Crime program needs more help

To the editor:

Because of the City Council's recent policy of changing priorities in the Garden City Police Department due to recent state budget cuts, we no longer have any police personnel to handle the Neighborhood Watch program.

Our last block coordinator meeting was held Feb. 1. There were several occasions when the atmosphere at this meeting reached explosive levels.

It appears that no one in the police department wants to be bothered with the Neighborhood Watch program even though it has been a proven deterrent against crime.

At present, the status of the program has been placed "on hold" while the police department analyzes the situation.

The police department has discussed the remote possibility of obtaining the services of a retired police officer from Dearborn to run this program. (Don't we have any retired police officers in Garden City?)

A local college student has temporarily volunteered his services from 8 a.m. to noon each day to help out with the program. However, he is not allowed to use the police computer due to its confidential material.

This seriously hampers his role as liaison between police and area residents.

I strongly urge that you call or write the police department, the city manager and the mayor to express our need to have a Neighborhood Watch program operative in our area.

It is an absolute necessity if we are to curb crime.

Don't allow apathy to set in our neighborhood. Remember, the next victim may be you.

Lillian Walk,

Lansing needs housecleaning

To the Editor:

In your Feb. 3 edition you printed a letter from a CPA who objected to the state income tax hike.

I would like to ditto his letter in its entirety and add a few thoughts of my own.

Since Senate Majority Leader William Faust is so gung-ho about taking away from us by means of an additional tax, why did he and others recently sit back and allow themselves an automatic increase in wages?

Our cost of living increases and we are being asked for concessions. Is he and the other pro-tax fiends any different than we are?

I would hope that the voters of this state and our district would begin keeping charts and remember all of the slippery moves made by our representatives when it comes time to vote in the next election.

I for one, think that it is about time for a general housecleaning in Lansing.

Pinkertons: America's 1st sleuths

"Who are those guys?" Paul Newman and Robert Redford kept asking of the dogged pursuers trailing them after a robbery in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

"Those guys" were Pinkerton detectives, and as Butch and Sundance were to find out, the Pinkertons live up to their motto: "We Never Sleep."

Butch and Sundance, members of the Wild Bunch, eventually headed for Argentina to continue their bank robbing. In 1909 reportedly they died in a shootout with a cavalry troop at San Vicente, Bolivia.

Before he founded Pinkerton's National Detective Agency, Allan Pinkerton might have fit right in with some of the characters of the Wild Bunch. As a young man in Scotland during the tumultuous Industrial Revolution, Pinkerton was considered a rogue, an enemy of established society.

He was among the more radical adherents of a reformist movement which advocated violence, if necessary, to democratize Parliament. A warrant was issued for his arrest, and in 1843 Pinkerton headed for America.

Upon arrival, Pinkerton apparently forgot his unconventional past and established himself in Dundee, Ill. as a barrel manufacturer. This innocuous profession led to a flowering of his hidden investigative instincts.

One day, while collecting staves for his cooper trade on an uninhabited island in a nearby river, Pinkerton discovered the remains of a fire. Convinced something strange was going on, he returned late one night with the county sheriff and spied figures there silhouetted in the dark. They turned out to be coin counterfeiters.

THUS BEGAN Pinkerton's nearly 40 years of checkmating shady capers. He died in 1884, but his sons, Robert and William, who started working with the agency as teen-agers, kept the business growing.

In the wake of his Dundee success, "I suddenly found myself called upon from every quarter to undertake matters requiring detective skill," Pinkerton said years later. In 1848, he readily accepted when the sheriff of Cook County asked him to come to Chicago to serve as deputy. A year later, he was appointed Chicago's first full-time detective.

Pinkerton's talents seemed to demand an arena of operation that was larger. In 1850, he gave up his job on the city force to establish his own private agency.

One of the first of its kind in the country, the new enterprise thrived from the start. In 1856, having signed lucrative contracts to protect the property of several Midwestern railroads with requests for his services growing daily, he wrote to a friend in Dundee: "I am overwhelmed with business."

TODAY, PINKERTON'S is headquartered in New York City, with a staff of 36,000 around the world, providing security and investigative services on a private contract basis. As in the past, agents often make citizen's arrests, holding suspects in custody until authorities arrive.

When Allan Pinkerton began his professional career, local police forces were often corrupt, usually understaffed and less than efficient. They had neither the resources nor the will to pursue criminals outside their assigned districts. What's more, the western frontier was wide open.

The Pinkertons, ready and willing, stepped into the gap, pursued criminals otherwise forgotten and gathered material on nefarious activities across the country, becoming a national clearinghouse of sorts on illegal activities.

THEY WERE ALSO doggedly patient. Take the case of Max Shinburn, skilled bank robber of the Eastern seaboard. By the time he turned 30 in 1870, Shinburn had become an expert safe cracker, even devising a set of tools specifically for opening safes.

The Pinkertons and the police relentlessly trailed Shinburn. So he moved to Belgium, establishing himself as a respectable, prosperous silk entrepreneur — and self-proclaimed nobleman.

Shinburn's attempts at the straight life soon failed. His investments turned sour, and he returned to his old lifestyle in the states. The Pinkertons had him arrested for theft in New York, and, after serving time, the ex-convict wound up poor and alone.

William Pinkerton did not forget him. He asked Shinburn to describe some of his techniques, and Shinburn obliged with an intricate and carefully planned diagram on the art of safe-cracking.

The Pinkertons were even sought out by crooks in trouble. Such a man was Adam Worth, whose career was studded with diamond heists, forgery operations and bank robberies and was crowned in 1876 by the theft of Thomas Gainsborough's priceless portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire.

Worth had hoped to use the painting as ransom to spring a buddy from jail, but the friend was released before Worth could act.

The painting was too hot to sell, and Worth, afraid to return it lest he be caught, simply rolled up the canvas and shipped it to a warehouse in America, where it remained for more than 20 years.

Then, aging and poor, Worth contacted the Pinkertons and offered to return the painting for cash. William Pinkerton paid the requested sum, but doubtless felt he had gotten the better of the deal. Not only did Worth return the portrait, he also recounted the details of his biggest exploits and confessed to crimes of which he had never been suspected.

IN THOSE GOOD old days, there were few top-flight women crooks to challenge the Pinkertons. One was Sophie Lyons, described by admirers as the international "Queen of the Underworld." Born in 1850, Lyons learned the art of picking pockets by the age of 6 and went on to bigger and more ingenious exploits. In the 1880s, posing as a prominent society woman, she headed for Paris and there was able to steal more than $200,000 worth of jewelry from her new-found upper-crust friends.

LYONS ALSO MADE an attempt to lead a straight life. In 1894, she became proprietor of the Great Western Matrimonial Bureau in Detroit. "She claims she has settled down. . . . If so, she ought to be encouraged," William Pinkerton wrote in an office memo.

The straight life didn't last. Within a short time, Lyons was under investigation for mail fraud.

The Pinkertons began expanding their horizons then. By the 1870s, their beat included the territories of the frontier West. The Pinkerton name became so entwined with the gun-slinging bandits they pursued that it was hard to distinguish the romantic adventures of the good guys from the adventures of the crooks.

The Wild Bunch, the band of bank robbers who traveled from Montana to Texas to New York City to the jungles of South America, topped the Pinkertons most-wanted list. Most sought-after were the ringleaders, George Parker (alias Butch Cassidy) and Harry Longbaugh (alias the Sundance Kid).

After robbing $30,000 from Union Pacific's Overland Flyer in 1899, the Wild Bunch was trailed closely by the Pinkertons. But other robberies followed, each more lucrative than the one before it. In 1900 and 1901, the bandits lifted $32,640 from a Nevada bank and stole $41,500 in banknotes from a Great Northern train near Wagner, Mont. — big sums in those days. This last robbery put a posse of 100 men on their trails, and the Wild Bunch disbanded.

The Pinkertons were not perfect. History-minded trade unionists still bristle over their controversial role in bloody 19th-century union-industry clashes, and Civil War buffs argue about the value of Allan Pinkerton's intelligence advice to the Union Army.

But Allan Pinkerton and his sons did secure a place for themselves in the folklore of good vs. bad guys. Long before the FBI and Interpol, they spanned the continents in pursuit of their anti-crime motto: "We never sleep."

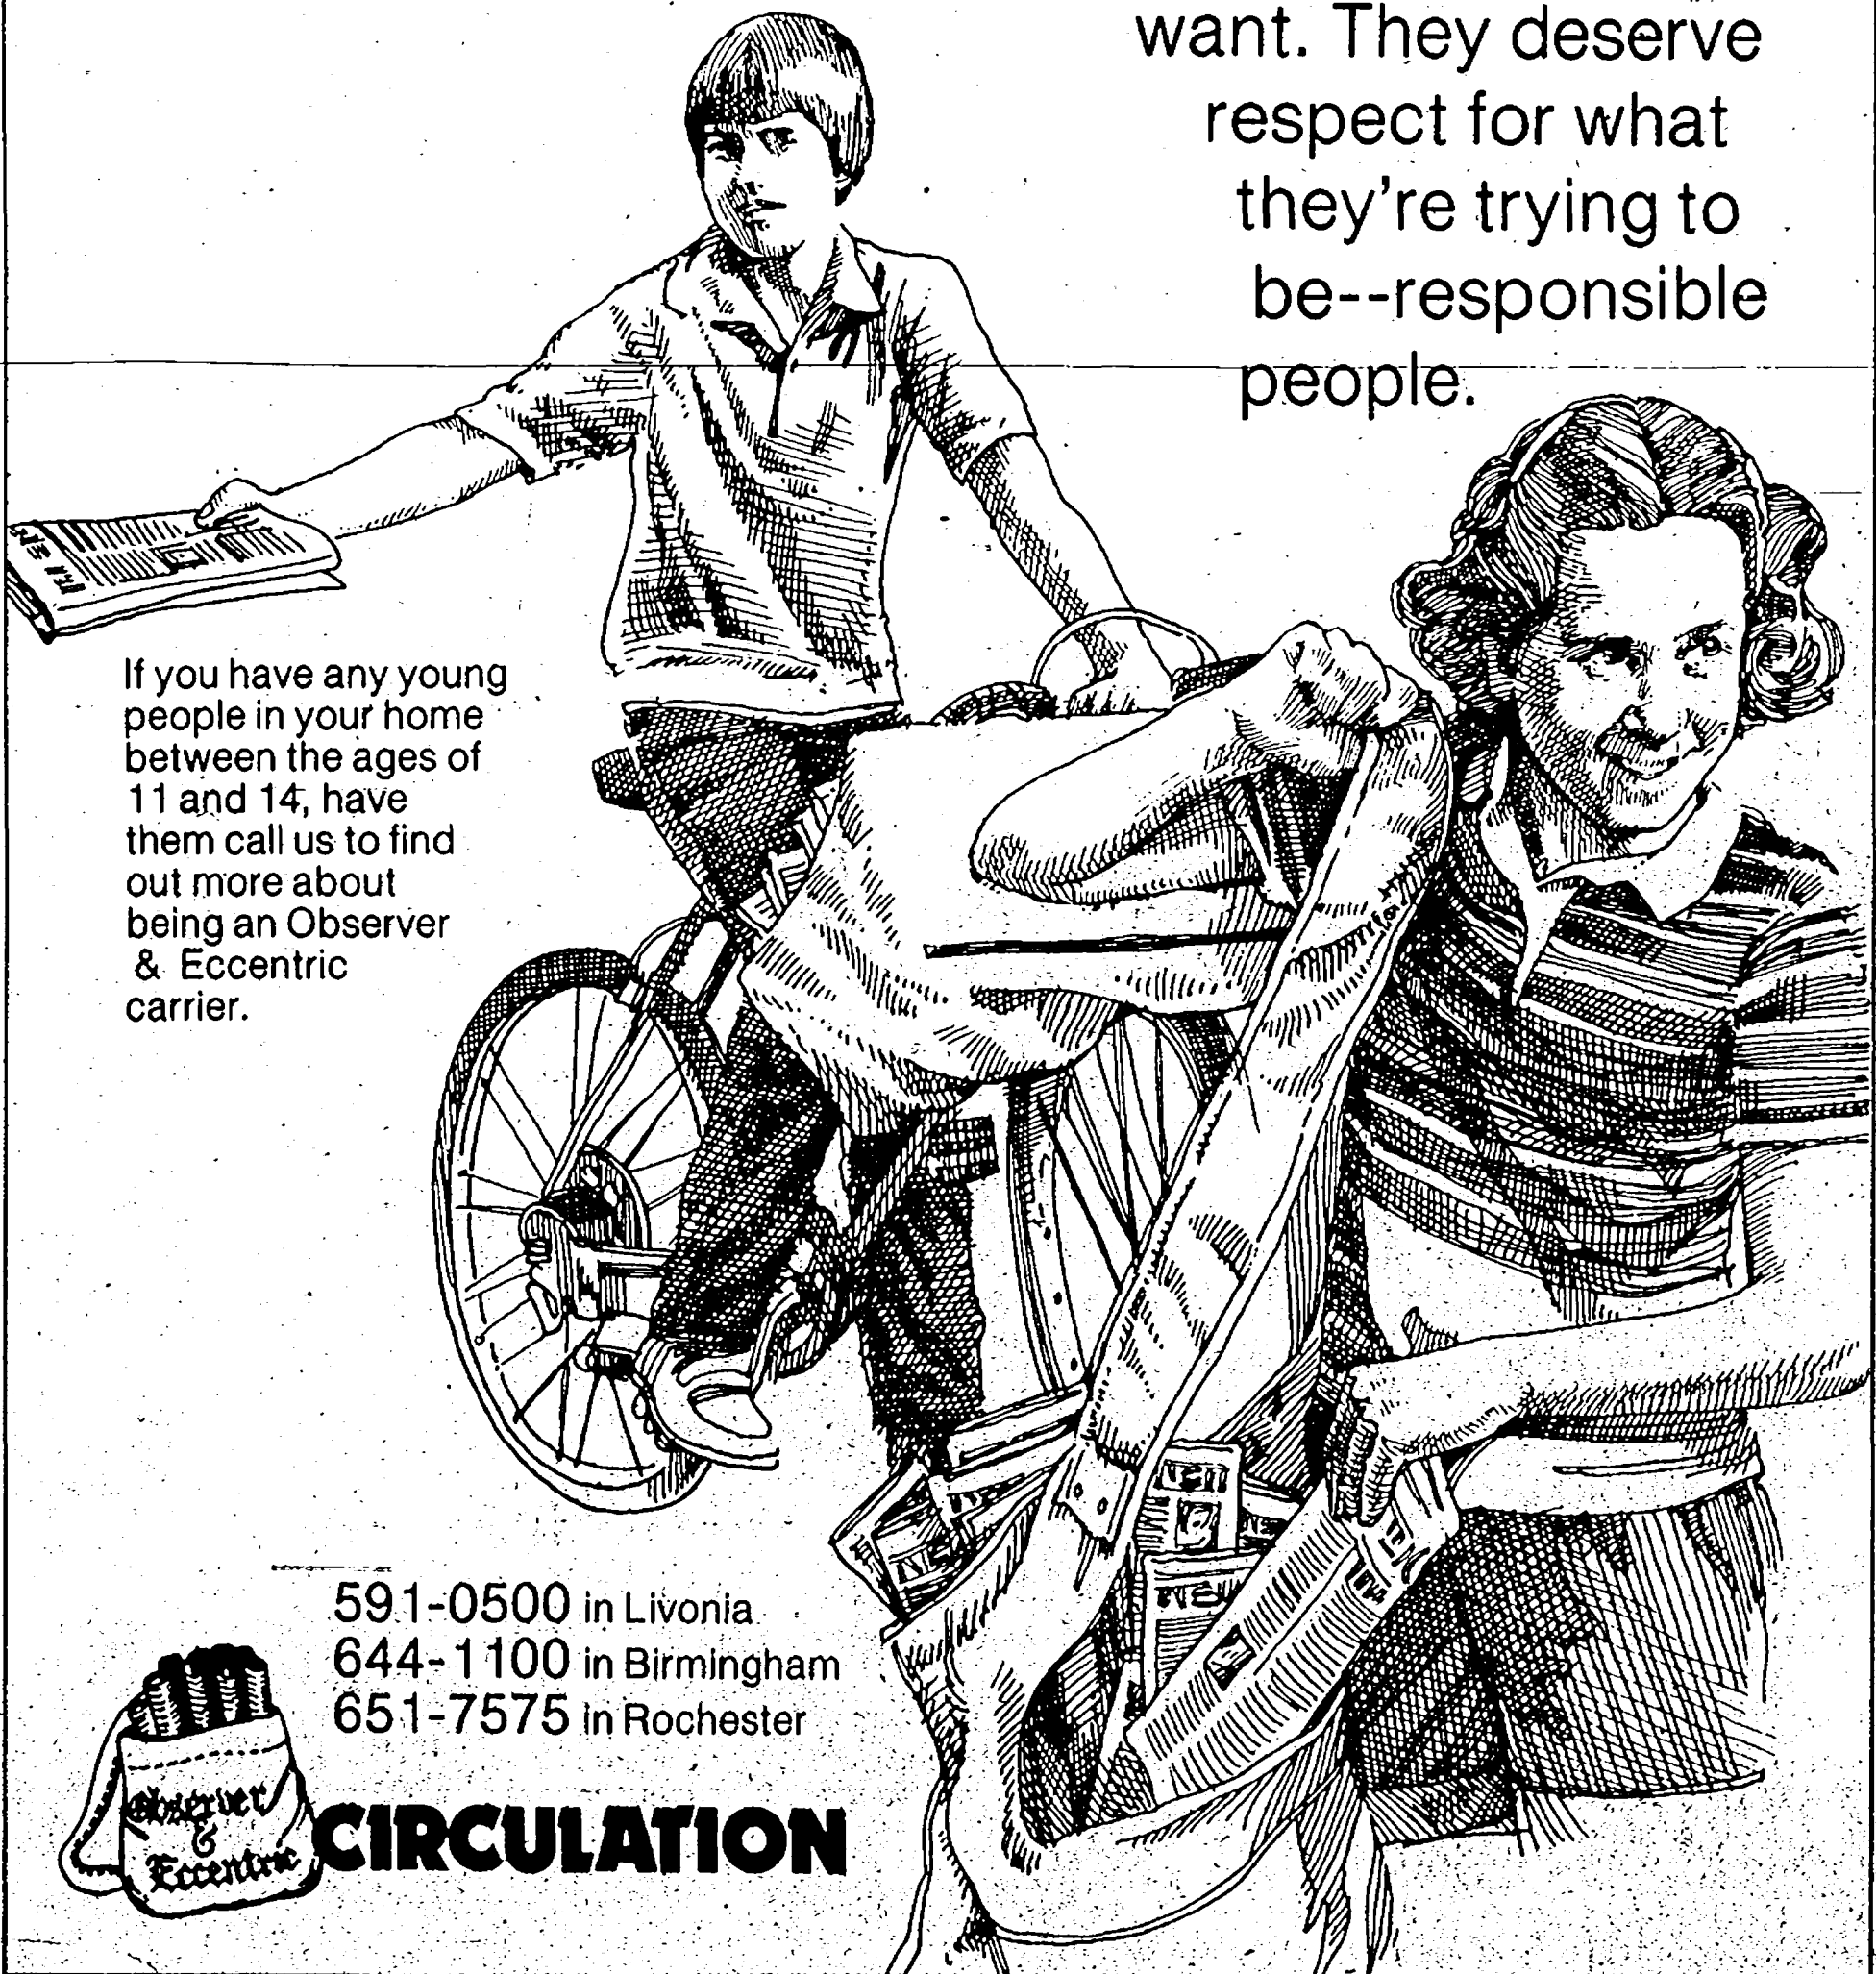

The Wild Bunch always managed to evade the Pinkerton's, but it is thought that the Pinkerton's pursuit led to the disbanding of the gang. Standing are William Carver and Harvey Logan. Seated (from left) are Harry Longbaugh (Sundance Kid), Ben Kilpatrick and George Parker (Butch Cassidy).

NICE LOOKING KIDS AREN'T THEY?

They look a bit like the ones down the street or on the next block. Or maybe in your own home. These two look a lot like any of our carriers--nice looking, clean cut, industrious, pleasant.

Our carriers are all of these things. They're young business people handling a mini business of their own, dealing courteously with customers, budgeting their time and earnings; saving for things they need and want. They deserve respect for what they're trying to be--responsible people.

If you have any young people in your home between the ages of 11 and 14, have them call us to find out more about being an Observer & Eccentric carrier.

Deacon Burton keeps the Southern chicken frying Monday through Friday at his Burton's Grill in suburban Atlanta. But don't bother stopping by on weekends — Burton reserves that time for fishing.

Down-home dinin'

Atlanta offers culinary delights — Deep-South style

What follows is an insider's restaurant tour of Atlanta: Part One.

ATLANTA — You'll never get this tour of Atlanta, unless you have an insider like Bill Schemmel to show you around. Bill, a friend and fellow travel writer, is the restaurant critic for Atlanta Magazine.

If you have taken a business trip to this southeastern hub city, or passed through on your way down Interstate-75 to Florida, you have probably seen the high-rise center of town focused on the Peachtree Center.

But have you ever had down-home Southern cooking at Deacon Burton's or Mary Mac's, or a running commentary on Atlanta's restaurant scene while driving north up Peachtree Road to the grand homes and wonderful shops near Lenox Square?

Lunch for three at Burton's, plus dinner for three at Mary Mac's Tea Room, totaled less than $25.

Burton's Grill is in Inman Park, at the corner of Hurt Street and Edgewood Avenue. MARTA, Atlanta's pioneering new rapid rail system, stops at this corner, five minutes from downtown, or you can drive it in 10 minutes on Edgewood.

This is the kind of place you would never walk in

1-of-a-kind traveler

travel editor

Bill Schemmel (left) restaurant critic for Atlanta Magazine, knows where to get Atlanta's finest — and most inexpensive — down-home Southern cooking.

off the street to explore, a single sign over the corner door and two signs that read Fried Chicken on the old brown brick on either side of the door. Inman Park was Atlanta's first grand turn-of-the-century suburb, but it became a slum before being born again in the 1960s.

This corner cafe looks like it belongs in an old area. You've seen a hundred doorways like it in Detroit, but this is a strictly Atlanta experience.

THE PEOPLE who crowd the counter and the tiny tables are young and old, black and white, a few in suits, most in workmen's caps. You can eat it here or take it out, but either way you get in line and the line moves fast.

Deacon Burton is the black man in the tall white hat; he calls all the women who work for him "mama." He serves fried chicken every day, but there are always other meats on the menu. Today it's meat loaf and chicken stew, but it sometimes gets as exotic as pigs' ears, chitlins or neck bones.

You get one meat and two choices from the vegetable list for $1.75, 25 cents extra for coffee, another 40 cents for the fruit cobbler that always seems to sweeten the end of the hot line. The vegetable list includes black-eyed peas, macaroni and cheese, turnip greens, rice.

Burton's is open from 4 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Deacon goes fishing on weekends.

If that's a little too down-home for you, try the small restaurants and pubs in nearby Virginia Highlands or Mary Mac's Tea Room on Ponce de Leon.

Virginia Highlands is the Greenwich Village of Atlanta, with a mixed crowd of every age, color and sexual preference on the streets that focus around Virginia and North Highland, just north of Inman Park. They have Sunday brunch at Theda's, jazz and food at Walter Mitty's.

The most famous tavern in Atlanta is at North Avenue near North Highland: Manuel's, where politician Manuel Maloof displays autographed photographs of John F. Kennedy and Jimmy Carter on the walls near the long, polished mahogany bar.

You'll find Mary Mac's Tea Room at 229 Ponce de Leon. It may once have been a storefront like Deacon Burton's, the small tables crowded between close walls and a window overlooking Ponce de Leon, but the shirt-sleeved crowds pushed the wall back through a second, third and fourth doorway to the skyline of Atlanta that now murals the distant wall.

They come in suits and slacks and dresses, overalls, families, retirees, young lovers, secretaries, to eat the Southern cooking and drink from the bar. Its the kind of place you could take either your grandmother or your date.

You'll find the usual steak or broiled fish on the right side of the menu, along with "fried quail on mushroom rice," but most folks like the left side, the Southern side. Choose one meat from section one — roast beef, chicken fried steak, chicken pan pie, etc. — and either two or four servings from section two. Section two includes everything from rice, squash, turnip greens and pickled beets to chicken dressing, boiled or baked custard, cherry cheese dip and ice cream.

Next week: A restaurant critic does a running commentary up Peachtree Street to Lenox Square.

Lucas makes office, team appear bad

ONE THING I can't blame County Executive William Lucas for is stealing my warm hat. It disappeared while I was covering a meeting last week of the Wayne County Commission.

Lucas doesn't attend those sessions, more's the pity. Clearly it's one reason Lucas is having troubles in his new job.

Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy attends meetings of the Board of Commissioners. So do other top administrators. Murphy, Michigan's first county executive, even attends Republican caucuses.

In person, Murphy can answer tough questions, heading off trouble before it starts.

Strange Lucas didn't learn that lesson. Before taking office, he had dinner with Murphy to discuss county government. Lucas would have been better off attending an Oakland County Board of Commissioners meeting one Thursday morning and learning the ropes firsthand.

LUCAS HAS a gigantic job ahead of him in dealing with county employees unions. He wants concessions from some of the highest-paid governmental employees in Michigan. Yet the man persists in making himself look bad, which can only raise the hackles of the unions.

His limousine is driven by a deputy from the Sheriff's Department. (Murphy drives his own car.)

At the same time his administration talks about union concessions, Lucas complains that $40,000 and $50,000 salaries for top administrators are too small. His case has merit, but his timing couldn't be worse. It's the most inept political statement since Ronald Reagan talked about abolishing the corporate income tax while staring at a $200 billion budget deficit.

AS SHERIFF until Dec. 31, Lucas was a co-defendant, with his deputies, in a suit against the county. They lost on every point. As county executive, Lucas is asking the commission to pay the whopping $269,000 legal fee of their attorney, Dennis Nystrom.

Incredibly, Lucas is having a first-term commissioner, Milton Mack of Wayne, try to steer the bill away from the public safety committee where it will run into certain trouble.

Lucas apparently has no idea how bad he looks. He has no idea how foolish poor Mack appears. But what can you expect from a candidate who didn't attend debates and an executive who doesn't attend commission meetings?

TWO WEEKS ago, Lucas asked the commission for more money for the jail. He sent in his political aide, former state Sen. David Plawecki, to handle the job.

Plawecki was totally unprepared to say where the money would come from. In Oakland County, Murphy would have had a source of funding. Lucas was royally blistered by some commissioners. Poor Plawecki was made to look like a dunce.

The Sheriff's Department needs money for jail annex guards, and yet there was a Sheriff's sergeant at the commission meeting — passing out agendas!

Lucas is trying to meddle in the commission's staffing — very bad politics. The commission is doing an excellent job hurting its own reputation with its paycheck games without Lucas's messing in.

Six weeks into his term, Lucas had yet to submit a line item budget on how we will spend his office's $640,000 allocation.

To his credit, he is participating in the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. To his discredit, he hasn't submitted his list of delegates to the commission for confirmation.

NEVERTHELESS, Lucas's extraordinary efforts to make himself look bad are not the burning social issue of the day.

The burning social issue of the day is: What kind of demented degenerate would swipe a bald guy's fur hat on a snowy, blowy day in February?

'Help!'

How Michigan State earned its 'Cow College' nickname

AFTER YEARS of remaining silent, The Stroller is about to make a confession.

He is the fellow who officially nicknamed Michigan State the "Cow College." At the time, it brought chuckles from college-officials across the nation.

This all came to mind again in recent days when the papers were filled with the hullabaloo over the manner in which the Spartans hired their new football coach and gambled close to $1 million to get him.

LONG BEFORE Michigan State was admitted to the Western Conference over the protests of the late Fritz Crisler of Michigan, the MSU football team played in Macklin Stadium, an athletic field with a seating capacity of a mere 25,000 that was donated by a Philadelphia alumnus.

It was a nice playing field, but it had one of the poorest press boxes in the country. On the windswept days of football season, it always was referred to as "Pneumonia Manor." And many were the times sports writers from the metropolis spurned the assignment to go to East-Lansing, no matter who was playing.

Then one day came a note from Ralph Young, the likeable athletic director, apologizing for the facilities. With the apology came word that while he could do nothing immediately to correct the condition, he would supply foot warmers for the writers the following Saturday.

Sure enough, when we reported the following Saturday, there was a foot warmer at each position. It was a small black box which emitted electric heat. It made a fellow feel a bit more comfortable on another wind-blown day.

BUT JUST AS the final period of the game started, a worker in coveralls came in, disconnected each heater and was about to walk away with them.

Informed that the game was not finished, he

the stroller

W.W.
Edgar

stared at the writers and explained it was milking time, and the heaters had to be returned to the cow barns.

Immediately The Stroller, then writing for the Free Press, sent a short story to the paper reporting that on this day Michigan State had officially become the "Cow College."

It was printed in a small box on the Sunday sports page, picked up by the Associated Press wire service and sent all over the country.

THAT SUNDAY morning, The Stroller got a call from Young, who explained that the foot warmers which had been ordered had not arrived, so he had borrowed a few from the cow barns. He added:

"Those fellows who took them away knew nothing about football. They are farmers, and they couldn't let milking time go by."

It was a laugh for a long time. John Hanna, then president of the college, got the biggest laugh of all.

Every time he met The Stroller, even at major college functions, he made him relate the tale of the origin of the Cow College tag which was given to the school, and which it couldn't live down.

Now, with the handling of the firing of Muddy Waters as football coach, the hiring of a fellow who broke a contract to accept the job and payment of $175,000 to settle a case out of court, it looks as though the farmers are still on the job at the school beside the winding Red Cedar River.

State crisis is no time to grandstand

GOV. BLANCHARD'S proposal to deal with a state government deficit of more than $600 million dollars was only a few days old before state lawmakers began prophesying that the Legislature would not pass a 1.75 percent personal income tax increase.

State Rep. Jack Kirskey, R-Livonia, predicted the Legislature would not pass a tax bill until 4 a.m. Good Friday.

Kirskey said he based his prediction on past legislative struggles to deal with tax issues and particularly on the passage last year of a six-month 1 percent hike in the state income tax.

The measure was approved, with hardly a vote to spare, but it took all of Gov. Milliken's and the legislative leadership's determination, perseverance and arm-twisting ability to get the last few votes.

MANY LEGISLATORS were convinced of the need for that increase to stave off the looming disaster. Others philosophically opposed a tax increase.

But too many legislators opposed it simply because they felt that a yes vote would hurt their chances of re-election. Some legislators fear losing an election even more than state financial disaster.

Perhaps now circumstances are too dire and the elections too removed for more political posturing. The 1982 elections are history, representatives do not have to face another vote until 1984, senators are free until 1986.

Yet there is already ample indication many legislators intend to attempt to make political hay with the state's current vexing problems. Political rhetoric is being used to denounce Blanchard's economic plan calling for a 1.5-percent income tax increase for operations and another 0.25-percent increase for debt retirement.

BLANCHARD'S appointees say that the state needs more than a temporary tax. Whether a tax should be of a permanent nature may be debatable.

But there is ample evidence for thinking that a tax increase is necessary if Michigan's state government is to be even a pared-down version of a reasonable state government.

Some claim the problem can be solved by cutting services further, as if burgeoning bureaucracy were responsible for the present financial dilemma. No doubt some programs can be considered non-essential.

But the real problem is the drastic decreases in tax revenue because of economic stagnation and unemployment. Falling employment has meant falling income tax revenue.

Government cannot be made solvent by merely cutting programs. And more cuts than those already proposed would damage the state in a serious way.

THESE ARE such serious matters that our elected officials should resist any temptation to flirt with shallow political gain at the cost of making headway on easing the state's financial problems.

Perhaps, as some legislators have already declared, any tax measure should be geared to the economy so that if and when the economy improves, the tax rate could be decreased.

But what is most necessary is individual and collective decisions by the entire Legislature and state government to act with diligence and statesmanship in dealing with the fiscal problem. We should be looking soberly and seriously at the alternatives without considering whether a vote can be lost here, or gained there.

Partisanship, grandstanding and publicity releases should be forgotten in a sincere desire to get a handle on state government.

Reader calls for new ruling

To the editor:

I would like to ask the Westland City Attorney a question. Which vacant position should the council be concerned about filling — a council seat or the mayor's chair?

On Jan. 4, (Mayor) Chuck Pickering finally won his five-year battle to become director of the Westland Parks and Recreation Department when he laid off Ralph Tack, an experienced, qualified, hard-working, and respected director, and appointed himself to the position.

On Jan. 19, Chuck Pickering vetoes the appointment to the Westland City Council of Westland resident Kent Herbert because, and I quote, he was "treasurer of the Working Together for Westland group."

Back in 1978 when Chuck started his fight to be director of parks and recreation, local politicians organized his campaign, which included rallies and letters to local papers. The managers for the campaign were Bob Williamson, the only person recommended by Chuck for the council vacancy, and Chuck Menzies. His wife is now Chuck Pickering's personal secretary. By the way, Chuck would like to give a raise to Mrs. Menzies at a time when other Westland employees are threatened with layoffs.

In 1978, Chuck Pickering's campaign for director of Parks and Recreation was based on his qualifications and his statement that he would get his college degree by "the end of the summer (1978)." Chuck, did you follow up on that promise? I really don't think so.

Then in 1981, Chuck Pickering decided to put his name on the ballot in his run for the director's (I mean mayor's) job. His campaign manager that year was Joe Hawrylak, who has become Chuck's administrative assistant.

Then, there is Hank Lundquist. First he was Chuck's opponent in the 1981 primary election, then his political strategist (hatchman) in the general election. What did he do? Chuck appointed Hank as Director of Public Service — it was a complete political payoff because Lundquist had no previous experience cleaning up anything.

Mr. City Attorney, can the director of parks and recreation really do all of this?

Chuck Pickering was also critical of Herbert, and again I quote, "because of friction between (Kent) Herbert and other city employees." Back in 1978, Chuck had his own problems with city employees when he refused to pay his union dues because of his "close association as deputy director with management." I guess Chuck has forgotten it's not a sin to disagree with some city employees.

Chuck Pickering's last reason for vetoing Kent Herbert's appointment was because Mrs. Herbert is a city secretary. Mr. City Attorney, Chuck's memory has slipped again. We all know Chuck supported Dewey Combs (president of a city union) for school board last spring even though Mrs. Combs is a secretary for the school district.

There certainly wasn't a question of nepotism then.

Mr. City Attorney, I feel you should rule that in fact Chuck Pickering is the director of parks and recreation and that the mayor's chair is vacant.

Pass pay cut with tax hike

To the editor:

If a tax increase is really necessary, let's all face up to Michigan's financial crisis and accompany that tax increase, which may be either temporary or permanent, by a corresponding identical percentage cut in every Michigan elected and appointed official's paycheck. This cut would be for the same period of time as the tax increase is in effect.

These present and future officials would include from the governor on down through the local governing bodies, as these people are or would be responsible for the financial condition of the state's economy and for any continuing policy that would retain a tax increase.

Further, any governing body whose officials refused to abide by this pay cut would not receive any state money.

I am no martyr. If these officials are not willing to bite the bullet, then let's start a recall petition.

Color photo grabs, but black and white lasts

Photographs are certainly an important part of our daily lives.

They can be found in newspapers, on billboards, in our magazines or in a treasured family album.

Often we take photographs for granted, looking at the image only without considering the impact that color or lack of color can have on our senses and our interpretation of the image.

Today, I'm going to take a look at color versus black and white in hopes of conveying to you a better understanding of the differences between the two. Hopefully, your appreciation for both will be enhanced.

PERHAPS THE MOST significant difference is aesthetics.

When we look at a color photograph, what is the first thing that "reaches out" and grabs our attention? Color, obviously. Color is beautiful and is appealing to our senses.

It has a ring of familiarity and makes us feel at home in our colorful world. People are comfortable with color photographs because they reflect what is seen and encountered in our daily lives.

Black and white photographs, on the other hand, present more of a challenge, not only to the photographer, but also to the viewer. The subject is complemented and enriched by the tones, contrast shadows, and textures that give a black and white photograph its "depth."

Most serious photographers prefer working in black and white because they feel they can better express themselves in this form. And viewer can better get the photographer's message by the subtleties found in a good black and white print. You might say one's imagination is more stimulated by a black and white photograph.

ANOTHER DIFFERENCE between color and black and white photographs is the keeping quality. Most color photographs will eventually fade. Look at old family albums to see how the colors have diminished.

And color pictures hanging on a wall will fade even faster because of constantly being exposed to light. Only expensive color processing methods such as Cibachrome or Dye Transfer will assure some longevity in a color picture.

Black and white photographs, properly processed, possess excellent properties and will retain a quality image for a very long time.

This is one main reason photography collectors favor black and white photographs. Obviously, if an investor is going to purchase a fine art photograph, he's going to want it to last.

COST IS ANOTHER difference in color versus black and white.

Whether you have your own darkroom or rely on your local drugstore or camera shop for processing, black and white will save you dollars.

So, next time you bring out your camera, tune in your photographic vision to some of the differences between color and black and white. Feel free to add a little color to your life. Or if you wish, add a little black and white, too.

RV dealers try to change minds at Camper Show

By Lem Meese
outdoors writer

Recreation vehicle manufacturers and dealers will be trying to change some attitudes about RVs at the Detroit Camper and Travel Trailer Show which starts Friday for a 10-day run at the W. Eight Mile Armory in Oak Park.

They will be trying to convert critics who believe RVs are too expensive, get poor mileage and aren't used enough to justify their purchase. The manufacturers are asking the public to consider these points:

- Nearly 80 percent of all new RVs sell for less than $12,000. New travel trailers, which are the best selling type of RV on the market, average approximately $9,000. Folding camping trailers sell for an average of $3,000.

- Campgrounds are usually at least three to four times cheaper than staying in a motel or hotel. Some public campgrounds charge no fees.

- RV owners use their RVs an average of 23 days a year, and more than 25 percent of all RV owners use their vehicles one to four months a year, according to a University of Michigan study. The study said "the fear of non-usage is extremely ill-founded."

Manufacturers have increased the fuel efficiency of motorized RVs over the last three years. Most of today's motorhomes, including the biggest, can get 10 to 15 mpg, and there are compact motorhomes on the market that can get more than 20 mpg.

THE U-M study, in which 1,500 telephone interviews were conducted, showed that nearly two-thirds of the heads of all U.S. households believe that "camping is the best vacation a family can take."

Nearly two-thirds of all families said they've been camping sometime in their lives, including 57 percent who said they've taken at least one camping trip in the past three years.

The survey showed that camping will likely increase. The median number of camping trips expected to be taken by active campers in the next three years is 4.5, compared to 3.5 over the past three years. And recreation vehicles are perceived to be a good value in the eyes of a majority of the families interviewed.

Asked to compare RVs with "other ways people spend their money," more than half of the respondents said they believe RVs give as much or more value for the money, while one-third said less value. Twenty-five percent said RVs give more value.

"The percentage of respondents who say RVs give more value than other products is more than twice as high as the proportion of respondents who now own an RV," the survey said. "This indicates that the RV market is far from saturated."

THE DETROIT SHOW is the largest in the country and will include vans, motorhomes, travel trailers, pop-up tent campers and truck campers. Hitches, awnings, steps and porches, toilets, suspension systems, heaters and air conditioners will be among the accessories shown.

Campground exhibits and information on tourism, camping clubs, financing, insurance and maintenance will be available.

The Michigan Association of Recreational Vehicles and Campgrounds is sponsoring three contests in conjunction with the show. MARVAC is looking for the best camper recipe, the best camper family and the best camper club. For entry forms, telephone 855-5110.

Show hours are 2-10 p.m. weekdays and noon-10 weekends. Tickets are $2 for adults, $2 for children 6-12 and $1 for senior citizens 62 and older. Discount tickets are available at participating RV dealers. Parking is $2.

SHIP AHOY. The Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 12-5 will offer its Boating Skills course starting next Feb. 15 at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

The 10-week classes runs from 7:30-9:30 p.m. for 10 Tuesdays in room F-530 of the Forum Building.

For the first meeting, arrive a few minutes early to register and pick up materials. The class is free, but a small fee will be charged for materials.

Boat handling, legal requirements, rules of the water, aids to navigation, marlenspike seamanship, weather, marine radio, marine engines and the use of compass and charts will be covered.

The class will be taught by Jon P. Adams, retired dean of applied sciences at Schoolcraft. A Coast Guard certificate will be issued upon passing a final exam.

ANGLERS are reminded that Brest Bay in Lake Erie has unsafe ice. In bays where ice is safe, good catches of perch are being taken, such as inside the "banana" at the Pte. Mouillee State Game Area in Monroe County.

In Oakland County, panfish are being taken in Gerundegut Bay in Cass Lake, Lake Louise, Maceday, Square and White lakes.

Crappies are being caught in Lake Sherwood and in Gerundegut Bay of Cass Lake. Best baits are minnows for the crappies and chub for the pike.

Cedar Island and Oxbow lakes are also reporting good panfish catches. Bluegills are being caught on Kent lake using mousies or waxworms. And large pike are being taken on suckers in Union Lake. A 34-inch pike was caught there recently.

The DNR also reports that pike spearing has been good on Elizabeth, Big Seven and Cass lakes in Oakland County. If your pike decoy is attached to a line that has a barbed hook, it is considered a fishing line.

Pontiac Lake is producing nice-sized perch — a 13-inch was taken out of that lake last weekend. Try using minnows or waxworms for bait.

HUNTERS are having some success on rabbits, but weather has been uncooperative with little snow in the field.

Application for the spring turkey hunt are available at licensed dealers as well as the DNR District Office. You have until Tuesday to return the application to Lansing. Fees are $7.25 and $1 for persons over 65.

There is still a week left in the extended goose season in southeastern Michigan. It closes Tuesday. Two surveys are being conducted this season by the DNR. One is for biological information — collecting parts of geese — and the other is for the hunter to describe his hunting experience — amount of time spent hunting, success, number of geese seen. Details can be obtained by calling the district headquarters at 666-1500.

'It is far better to own one's energy' than pay money to 'the utility company.'

—Reynold Hendrickson

Plugging into the sun...

Be your own utility

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

OUT FROM A night that was cold, dark and filled with falling snow last week came more than 160 person to Schoolcraft College to learn practical ways of bringing heat and light from the sun into their homes.

At Waterman Center they listened to those who someday may be regarded as pioneer businessmen because they own or work for solar-oriented companies in Livonia, Novi and Drayton Plains.

What these individuals were suggesting was that homeowners build their own solar utility company.

They were offering their audience a piece of the sun through such equipment as solar collectors and panels, a fuel-saving furnace flue, insulating window shades, passive solar architecture and the newest wrinkle in home use of the sun, photovoltaic (PV) cells. The cells manufacture electricity from the sun.

Several speakers pointed out that with both state and federal tax credits, the cost of solar items is cut in half. In 1983 the state will grant a 10-percent credit on the first $2,000 on solar purchases and 6 percent on the next $8,000. But the credit will die at the end of this year.

Federal solar tax credits of 40 percent on the first $10,000 will expire at the end of 1986.

THE EVENT WAS sponsored by the community services department of Schoolcraft College, which distributed a survey to see if participants were interested in further seminars on solar energy.

The department already has scheduled a workshop on preventing heat loss through windows, from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday in Room B450 of the liberal arts building. Teaching the workshop will be Penny Wright of Plymouth, former president of the Michigan Solar Energy Association. The cost is $15. Register by calling the college at 591-6400, Ext. 409.

The members of the solar panel of speakers were Roger Locke, president of Encon Corp. of Livonia, distributors of PV products; and Reynold Hendrickson, president of Star Pak Solar Systems of Novi. Other lecturers were Tom McMurtrie, president of Energy Research, Inc., Novi; and solar home builder Joseph Duran, head of Energy Craft Homes of Drayton Plains.

Hendrickson said he pays no utility fuel bills for his solar home (with the help of a wood-burning stove) on Pontiac Trail at N. Territorial in Northfield Township. He compared owning solar equipment to owning a home.

Dan Rubyan explains to an onlooker a new device on the market to save furnace heat that would otherwise vanish out the flue.

"It is far better to own one's own energy," he said, than pay money to what he called "the utility company." He spoke also of "a growing sense of outrage" about renting energy, especially when costs continue to escalate. Solar equipment can give the homeowner a greater feeling of control over his energy requirements, in his opinion.

Hendrickson also made the point that while Michigan may not have the sun of the southern states, it has higher heating bills.

"ALTHOUGH WE have less sunlight we have more demand for heat, so we can use every scrap of sun we can get," he said. "In Michigan, if the sun does half the job, it will save $450 of a $900 bill. In the South they could save 100 percent of a $200 heating bill."

"So it's more cost effective in Michigan than in the South."

Star Pak, the firm he heads, sells solar collectors that can make a big dent in the cost of heating hot water, which Hendrickson said is one-third of the total gas bill. The firm also has on sale space heaters heating collectors.

But solar salesmen are expanding their scope, he said, to include equipment that can save as well as collect energy. These include a furnace flue which reclaims energy that would otherwise be lost and thermal shades, which the company claims reduce window heat loss by 79 percent.

Photovoltaic cells, made of processed silicon, produce energy from sunlight. The Encon Corp., founded by Roger Locke and Pete DeNapoli, both graduates of Franklin High School in Livonia, receives these cells in panels from the Solarex Corp. and distributes them.

Locke reminded his audience that use of PVs turns the sun into electricity with "no noise, pollution or mess."

Solar energy is also free. In his contacts with people Locke stresses again and again the importance of having a decentralized energy system with Livonian Craig Brown has his house plugged into the sun.

Brown, an electrician, is doing something about high utility costs by converting energy from the sun. The power for the electrical and water systems in his two-story home is from photovoltaics (PV) cells which transform sunlight into electricity.

Brown is a pioneer of sorts on Penn Street in a Livonia subdivision south of W. Chicago and west of Merriman. Ten PV panels sit atop his roof.

PVs are derived from silicon solar cells which can produce electricity. By wiring several silicon cells together, power can be generated. A newly discovered semicrystalline cell has brought down the cost of PVs dramatically, making it more affordable for the consumer.

Brown bought his system from Encon Corp. in Livonia, distributors of PV products produced by Solarex Corp. of Rockville, Md. where a breeder plant was recently built.

"They have a do-it-yourself kit," said Brown. "It's simple to install. Know positive-negative — that's all it is."

"THESE SYSTEMS are simple," said Pete DeNapoli, who along with ex-Franklin High schoolmate Roger Locke, formed Encon. "It's not exotic technology and it's affordable. This equipment is an investment."

Brown has a significant system. His 10 PV panels can produce 350 watts of electricity per hour.

Included in Brown's electrical operation are 13 lights (some having 22-watt bulbs), three solar fans and four direct current (DC) receptacles. The systems covers three bedrooms, one bath, one hall, one stairway, the downstairs heater room, laundry room, bird cage and 22-gallon fish tank and pump.

PVs also enable Brown to heat his water and generate fans to blow heat

Company 5 sings the goodies

Company 5 is coming back by popular demand in the Performing Arts Sunday Showcase Feb. 13 at the Livonia City Hall auditorium.

The 5:30 p.m. performance is open to the public, and tickets at $3.50 will be available at the door.

The singing group appeared here last year in a sparkling revue that musically captures Broadway through the years. It is fully staged and choreographed and features Marilyn Mercer Hedquist, David Pulice, Barbara Scanlon and Mark Vondrak.

AN OAKLAND University graduate, Hedquist is on the voice faculty of Oakland University and is a regular singer with the Michigan Opera Co. She is singing the role of the Countess for the MOT's spring tour of "The Marriage of Figaro." Pulice also is a MOT regular and just finished being the stand-in for Jack Carter as Fagin in "Oliver" at the Birmingham Theater. He is appearing in "The Gondollers" at the Opera House.

Also a frequent MOT performer, Scanlon, has performed in dinner and musical theater and was the stand-in for Shani Wallis as Nancy in "Oliver." Vondrak is a member and soloist with the Kenneth Jewell Chorale and has sung with the Detroit Symphony. He played the role of Bill Sikes in "Oliver." He is also singing the role of the Count in "The Marriage of Figaro."

The group is accompanied by Beverly Labuta, head of the accompanying department at Oakland University and who plays regularly for the Michigan Opera Theatre.

Debra Rockwell of Westland picks up facts on the solar panels that were used in the houses pictured in the rear photographs. They absorb heat from the sun and vent it into the house. Offering the information is Tom McMurtrie, president of Energy Research Inc. in Novi.

This is how Brown's house equipped with the PV cells looks from the street.

from solar air wall panels. "You don't have to worry about electrical blackouts," said Brown. "Energy can be stored as much as 10 days."

A RENEWABLE energy battery system stores power when sunlight is unavailable. Encon supplies accessories needed to complete a storage system which includes a voltage regulator, charge controller, metering panel and inverters (AC power to DC).

In the future, Brown plans to install four more panels. He estimates it will take eight to 10 years to complete his PV system.

The total cost of Brown's system so far (electrical, water and air walls) is $7,340. But the actual cost is only $3,503 after he received federal (up to 40 percent) and state (5-10 percent) tax credits.

Brown he's saving approximately $503 per year in utility bills. His system will then pay for itself in seven years.

homeowners drawing free energy from the sun through their own home equipment.

There has been little indication from the utility companies that they will charge less for solar or wind energy, which costs them nothing, than for coal or oil which they have to buy.

PV SHOWED ITS value originally by powering solar satellites. Then PVs were placed on buildings or radio towers in remote areas that were not reached by wires or fuel trucks. These kinds of installations are still the major portion of Encon's business. As further use made them more competitive in price they became available for homes.

"A single panel costs $774, before tax credits, and produces 35 watts of energy per hour to run several lights, a small TV or radio and a pump for a solar water system," Locke said. "With PVs you can start with one or two panels and add to them each year to build your own utility company."

The additional panels cost less, and with the others are expected to last "in excess of 20 years."

As explained in an interview by DeNapoli, Encon vice president, PV panels can be erected on a house or the ground. A cable will lead from the panels to batteries in the basement, where a 10-day supply of energy can be stored. An inverter can change the electricity from DC to AC.

"This is the system of the future," Locke said, "but it's happening today."

JOE DURAN, the builder of Hendrickson's solar home, wants newly built homes to keep their sunnyside south. Or as he put it "orientation of the home is most important."

Passive design is the term used to describe the buildings he erects with the sun in mind. This includes windows facing south, heat-holding building materials such as brick, berms of earth against the north side and heavy insulation.

Landscaping with deciduous trees can keep the sun away from the house in the summer. Landscaping also can be managed so that snow can reflect sunlight into the house in winter, Duran said. In an interview, he said building solar homes "is an exciting field. It is interesting to see how consumers are becoming more technically minded. It doesn't make sense to build a home unless you make it energy efficient."

On McMurtrie's mind that cold night was the heat value of the Solarwall his company sells. Panels painted black and covered with glass are hung on the wall of a house.

"The sun produces a greenhouse effect in the chamber in between," he told an onlooker at the Energy Research Inc. exhibit at the conference. "The heat is then vented into the house."

He also favored using an insulated quilt window shade, made by his company. "They button up the house at night and make the heat last," he said.

'Heart of Gold' for ARC's Johnson

They made it official Tuesday night, but members of the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) Northwest Communities have known all along that their vice president Mel Johnson has a heart of gold.

The new recognition Johnson received, however, was a bit more prestigious than a pat on the back and a word of praise that Johnson's been getting for years from individual members. The latest honor came at the United Foundation 16th annual Heart of Gold luncheon at Cobo Hall recognizing outstanding volunteers.

Johnson, of Dearborn, was one of eight metropolitan Detroiters who were honored and presented with gold heart-shaped charms bearing the Spirit of Detroit emblem to commend their notable voluntary community services through cultural or civic activities.

TRADITIONALLY THE luncheon is held on the Tuesday closest to Valentine's Day.

In the evening, he was honored again at the second annual volunteer recognition at Webster School in Livonia, a learning center for the special education students.

During the past 15 years, Johnson has contributed nearly 20,000 hours to the children, adults, parents, families, teachers and providers of service to the retarded as well as church and civic groups in Dearborn, Dearborn Heights and Northwest Wayne County.

In addition to being the vice president of ARC/NW, he serves as chairman of the board of Widman Foundation, a non-profit organization that pays for new projects for the mentally retarded; treasurer of the Wayne County Association for Retarded (WCAR); and is a board member of ARC/BVC, ARC/Michigan and Metropolitan Agency for the Retarded.

He is the father of six daughters and is the manager of analysis and statistics at Indianhead Corp. in Detroit.

The guest speaker at the Webster awards ceremony was Ken Grounds, president of the Michigan ARC. John Gavin, U.S. ambassador to Mexico, was guest speaker at the Cobo luncheon.

"The World at Our Doorstep" is the theme of the 1983 World Missions conference hosted by Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia Feb. 13-20.

Dr. Jay Kesler will bring the keynote messages on the closing Sunday, Feb. 20. "Today's Christian in Today's World" will be his message at the 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m. services. "Our Closest Mission Field: Families that Succeed" will be his message at the 7 p.m. service.

Dr. Kesler is the president of Youth for Christ — USA. He is the author of eight books, primarily on the themes of youth and family relationships. Kesler is heard daily on the radio program, "Family Forum," which is aired daily on over 200 stations across the country.

AL KUHNLE, DIRECTOR of Voice of Christian Youth, which is Detroit area Youth for Christ, will also take part in the Feb. 20 evening service. A multi-media presentation of the Youth for Christ ministries will also be shown.

Ward pastor Dr. Bartlett Hess will open the conference Feb. 13 with the message, "Work in the World — Your's, God's, the Devil's" at the three morning services. Several of Ward's missionaries will give brief reports at the 7 p.m. service.

Mardi gras at St. Matthew

St. Matthew United Methodist Church members Jean Sanford (left) and Dick Northey will be in two of the acts in the Mardi gras variety show to be presented 7 p.m. Saturday at the church, 30900 Six Mile, Livonia. Sanford will peck her way through "The Hen's Duet" while Northey will harmonize his way through "Bill Grogan's Goat." They'll be assisted by a cast of thousands — well, maybe not that many. But there will be a lot of other singing and dancing acts plus a magician and several clowns. Tickets are $1.25 and will be available at the door. All proceeds will be used for refurbishing the youth activities room.

Writer addresses Fellowship

Juan Carlos Ortiz, author and Christian teacher from Foothill Christian Center, Los Altos, Calif., will be guest speaker at the Friday, Feb. 18, dinner meeting of the Northville-Plymouth Livonia chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

Originally from Buenos Aires, where, for several years, he served as pastor of El Tabernaculo de la Fe, he has since ministered extensively throughout Africa, Europe, Australia, Asia and North and South America.

Author of several books including "Disciple" and "Cry of the Human Heart," he has served as the principal speaker at the Lausanne, Switzerland World Conference on Evangelism.

THE 8 P.M. MEETING follows dinner at the Sweden House restaurant in Farmington Plaza. Dinner is $6 per person, including tax and gratuity. The dinner and program are open to the public.

Reservations are required and may be made by calling Daniel Beeler at 349-0006 or Earl Flynn at 348-3352, or send checks, payable to FGBMF, P.O. Box 5332, Northville 48167 by Feb. 15.

Foreign students will visit church

Foreign students sponsored by the American Field Service (AFS) will participate in International Student Day at 12:15 p.m. Friday, Feb. 11 in Grand River Baptist Church, 34500 Six Mile, Livonia.

On hand will be Spiros Exaras from Greece and Jessica Kittyle from Ecuador, both of whom are attending Bentley High School this year.

Also participating will be Michele Portaux from France and Margo Maasen from the Netherlands, who are enrolled at Stevenson High School.

Representing AFS will be Pat Childs and Elaine Blair.

Reservations for the luncheon and baby sitting should be made by contacting Carol Vorbeck at 421-0870 or the church office, 261-6950.

Davey Singers at St. Paul's

The Max Davey Singers will perform at 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 13 in the St. Paul Presbyterian church's Sunday Showcase series.

The 24-voice singing group will present a history of America through song, beginning with World War II and continuing through the present day. Included will be a portion of black gospel music as well as several contemporary and sacred hymns.

The music director at a West Bloomfield church, Davey organized the singers more than a decade ago. For years, he presented two big concerts a year, many of them at Ford Auditorium and featuring big-name stars. Included have been pianist Roger Williams, puppeteer Shari Lewis and actor Ed Asner. The Davey Singers' musical style has been likened to that of the Johnny Mann Singers or the Norman Luboff Choir.

THE SUNDAY NIGHT performance, which is open to the public, will include an Irving Berlin medley, hit songs from Broadway musicals of the '50s right on through the '70s and the heyday of composer Bert Bacharach.

John Delle-Monache of radio station WWJ will be narrator. The singers will be accompanied by a instrumental quartet of piano, guitar, bass and drums.

Tickets for the Sunday night concert can be obtained at the door or by calling the church, 422-1470. St. Paul's is located at 27415 Five Mile Road, west of Inkster Road, Livonia.

Walk in their shoes, then judge

An old Indian saying reminds us not to judge another until we have walked a mile in his moccasins. This same advice has been reiterated in a variety of phrases, but its worth remains intact.

Dustin Hoffman discovered something of its truth in his role as Tootsie. For those who have not seen the movie, "Tootsie" is the story of what happens to an out-of-work actor who masquerades as a woman in order to get a job. The sham succeeds, and he/she lands a female role in a television show. Having walked in a woman's shoes for a time he comes to a new sense of who he is as a man and comes to a different view of woman.

The story is as challenging as it is entertaining. What would happen if each of us were to walk in the moccasins of any number of people for a time. For those who can see the experience may provide a new vision of ourselves as well as a greater appreciation of those in whose shoes we have traveled.

THERE ARE SOME places in life

moral perspectives

where once having been there we can no longer view life in the same way, and the shoes of another are one of these places.

How might we come to look upon the ADC recipient if we had to buy our food with a handout? And how might we come to see ourselves through the eyes of such people. Yes, there are welfare cheats, but that does not lessen the pain or the humiliation of those who are truly in need. If we don't know that, we might dare to walk in their shoes.

And how about the out-of-work black, or white, or brown or yellow, red or whatever? They look so lazy standing around street corners. But how might they look to one who knows from experience what it is to be without work when one wants it? How might they appear to one who has stood on that street corner hoping against hope that someone will hire him.

And how different their plight might appear to one who has been turned down due to lack of qualifications when the education for such qualifications has not been available because they lived in the wrong neighborhood — the only one available to them? And how might we come to view ourselves through any one pair of those desperate eyes?

AND THEN THERE is the gay population — those who are "sick" or "weird" or whatever other tag has been attached to them. How do such people look when seen from the only line of vision open to those who live in that lonely world on the other side of the family in which they grew up?

How might we come to see such people if we lived in their world even for a short time? And how might we see ourselves when viewed from the perspective of one who hides in fear because exposure to something set in them before the age of 4 would mean the loss of their job and rejection by those they love, let alone the rest of their society? No wonder they form their ghettos. We are afraid to have them on our side of the street, and they know it.

There are many other roles we might try out, lots of moccasins to step into. For those who teach, there are students. For students, there are instructors. For management, there is labor and for labor the shoes of a boss. For the young, there are the shoes of the old, and even for the old, there are the shoes of the young of today's world.

It might pinch our feet to walk in the shoes of another, but to fail to do so — at least in our imagination — leaves an awful lot of people condemned to our very wrong judgments just as surely as it leaves us condemned to our own narrowness.

Second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"Breaker Morant" (1980), 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Feb. 17; "Gallipoli" (1981), 9:20 p.m. Wednesday and Feb. 17, at the Punch & Judy, 21 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, phone 882-7363, $2.50. Running times 107 and 111 minutes.

Frequently you can judge a nation's outlook and self-image by its films, and that's certainly the case with these two Australian imports. "Breaker Morant" and "Gallipoli" are marvelous absurdities-of-war films, but both evince a strong, thematic undercurrent of national pride and unity, and an equally strong distaste for the ruling British. See these pictures and you come away with a feeling not only of turn-of-the-century Australia but of contemporary Australia, as well.
Rating: $3.50

"Rocky Mountain" (1950), 10 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 83 minutes.

Errol Flynn was 41, and looked 51, when he made "Rocky Mountain," one in a regrettable series of westerns that he did after the war. "San Antonio," "Silver River," "Montana" and "Rocky Mountain"

WHAT'S IT WORTH? A ratings guide to the movies are enough to make the most loyal Flynn fan shudder. See if you can catch the obligatory explanation of what a Tasmanian devil (with an Australian accent) is doing west of the Pecos. A future Mrs. F., Patrice Wymore, co-stars.

Rating: $2.

"High Plains Drifter" (1973), 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 7. Originally 105 minutes.

Clint Eastwood stars in and directs "High Plains Drifter," a film that's the culmination of all the actor's spaghetti westerns. The plot line parallels the so-called logic of certain Vietnam-era military experts, who "liberated" villagers by destroying their village, but Eastwood twists and manipulates this theme until it actually makes sense. Midget Billy Curtis also stars.

Rating: $3.30.

"Knots Rockne... All American" (1940), 1 Wednesday night on Ch. 50. Originally 98 minutes.

No, you won't hear Ronald Reagan utter the immortal lines "Win one for the Gipper," because that segment of the film was cut after a squabble with the heirs of real Notre Dame footballer George Gipp, but Pat O'Brien's performance as the legendary coach is memorable; Lloyd Bacon directs and Donald Crisp also stars.
Rating: $2.50.

Dustin Hoffman, Meryl Streep and Paul Newman are among the stars most likely to be nominated for Academy Awards. Hoffman starred in "Tootsie," Streep in "Sophie's Choice" and Newman in "The Verdict."

Who will be Oscar nominees?

By Tom Panzenhagen
special writer

SOON EVERY FILMGOER worth the salt on his popcorn will have an opinion on the Oscars. And entertainment writers, feature writers, columnists, political pundits — even sports reporters — will tell you who's going to win the annual awards. But these scribes and would-be critics all will have one advantage: When they predict their winners, the nominees will have been announced.

It's not hard to assess the five nominees in the four major categories — best film, director, actor and actress — and then pick the favorite, or perhaps give the nod to the "favored" darkhorse nominee, and then claim great insight into the motion picture business when three picks out of four prove providential.

What is difficult, however, is picking the nominees. Now that demands both insight and a genuine passion for public ridicule. So without further ado and for the first time anywhere, here's a list of the nominees for this year's Academy Awards.

FOR BEST FILM the nominees are:

- "E.T."
- "Gandhi"
- "Sophie's Choice"
- "Tootsie"
- "The Verdict"

One factor permeates the three general types of films represented by these nominations: publicity. Every picture on this best-film list has garnered so much press that filmgoers really didn't have to see the pictures to know what they're about or how good they are. Media hype made the films Oscar contenders, even though only two or three of them are genuinely potential award-winning works.

Regarding the film types: "Sophie's Choice," "Tootsie" and "The Verdict" are Oscar contenders because they are star vehicles. Each features a major star in "an Academy Award performance," so it follows — unnaturally — that the films themselves are "Academy Award films."

"Gandhi" qualifies as an epic work — "20 years in the making," as the ads proclaim — and also because of its epic, larger-than-life qualities. And "E.T.," of course, makes the list because it's the most popular film of all time, and the Academy is not about to tell millions of filmgoers that they've been paying $4 to see a second-rate flick.

If there's a darkhorse bet it's "Missing," the little-publicized film by director Costa-Gavras. Unfortunately, "Missing" premiered a full year ago, and it's unlikely that Oscar voters can remember that far back.

FOR BEST DIRECTOR the nominees are:

- Richard Attenborough, "Gandhi"
- Sidney Lumet, "The Verdict"
- Alan Pakula, "Sophie's Choice"
- Sidney Pollack, "Tootsie"
- Steven Spielberg, "E.T."

No surprises here; all the directors come from the best-film nominees. Richard Attenborough's 20 years of work will not go unrewarded. Sidney Lumet and Sidney Pollack have paid their dues with strings of successful and critically acclaimed films, and Steven Spielberg can't be denied — not with "E.T." nearing the $200 million mark. That leaves as the final choice Alan Pakula, who's handicapped by too few past hits and mixed reviews for "Sophie's Choice." Still he figures to beat out Costa-Gavras, who's been "missing" from Hollywood circles for the last year.

FOR BEST ACTOR the nominees are:

- Dustin Hoffman, "Tootsie"
- Ben Kingsley, "Gandhi"
- Jeremy Irons, "Moonlighting"
- Paul Newman, "The Verdict"
- Peter O'Toole, "My Favorite Year"

"Moonlighting" is an English film that's prospered from wonderful word-of-mouth. It hasn't played in many markets but already is being touted as a best foreign-film nominee and possible best-film contender. The former is likely, the latter unlikely, and Jeremy Irons, who starred in last year's "The French Lieutenant's Woman," at least should garner a best-actor bid.

Dustin Hoffman, Ben Kingsley and Paul Newman are can't-miss nominees for their "star-vehicle" performances. Kingsley's newcomer status will work against him in the best-actor voting but won't prevent him from winning a nomination. Newman certainly will get a bid — not only because he did an adequate job in "The Verdict" but because he's been denied an Oscar so many times before. It is, after all, a Hollywood tradition to reward longevity.

Hoffman is the most-certain shoe-in and Peter O'Toole the greatest longshot for nominations, but Tinseltown loves an actor who plays a drunk (witness Dudley Moore's acclaim for "Arthur"), so O'Toole seems the likely fifth choice.

FOR BEST ACTRESS the nominees are:

- Jessica Lange, "Tootsie"
- Susan Sarandon, "Tempest"
- Sissy Spacek, "Missing"
- Meryl Streep, "Sophie's Choice"

• Debra Winger, "An Officer and a Gentleman"

It's the safest bet since Henry Fonda for "On Golden Pond" that Meryl Streep will win for "Sophie's Choice," although that really doesn't concern us here. Jessica Lange, who won notoriety for "Tootsie" and praise for her portrayal of actress Frances Farmer (in a film released in select markets in order to qualify for the Oscars), could win an Oscar bid for either film, hence the asterisk next to her name. Debra Winger deserves, and will get, a nomination for her fine performance in the best-liked sentimental film of the year, "An Officer and a Gentleman."

Because it was a lean year for actresses — and because no foreign actress distinguished herself, as is so frequently the case — the Academy likely will compensate Susan Sarandon for her loss last year, when she should have won best actress for "Atlantic City," with a nomination even though her work in "Tempest" wasn't exactly sterling.

The final spot boils down to Sissy Spacek ("Missing") and Julie Andrews ("Victor, Victoria"). Spacek is the probable fifth nominee — once again her selection would be a surer bet had not "Missing" been released so long ago. Andrews turned heads with her portrayal of a woman disguised as a man disguised as a woman, but "Victor, Victoria" is nearly as old as "Missing," and Andrews' performance in it not quite so distinguished as Spacek's.

The actual nominations are due out Feb. 17. After that the Oscars are anybody's guess.

Young artists head program

"Artists of Tomorrow," featuring winners of the largest such competition in Michigan, will be the fourth concert of the 1983 season for Oakway Symphony Orchestra at 3 p.m. Feb. 20 at Harrison High School, 12 Mile west of Middlebelt, Farmington Hills.

From a field of 42 contestants, five musicians filled out the top-prize positions. Mark Aghababian of Livonia, pianist, received first prize of $1,000. He played the Third Movement of the Khachaturian Piano Concerto.

A University of Michigan student, Aghababian has won numerous awards and recently won a four-year scholarship at the School of Music, studying under Dr. Fisher at the university.

Aghababian attended Interlochen for four years and has participated in many master classes. A finalist in the Piano Technicians Concerto Competition, he also has won in a competition sponsored by the Detroit Musicians League.

BIRMINGHAM RESIDENT Carol Sahokian began her singing career at age 13 in the character of Chavalah in "Fiddler on the Roof." A U-M graduate, she has pursued her studies in voice performance with Katherine Hilgenberg.

A member of Pi Kappa Lambda, Sahokian placed second in the advanced division of the 1982 Regional National Association of Teachers of Singing competition.

Tied for third place are Maria Fattore, lyric soprano, and flutist Jeffery Zook.

Fattore, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, has performed in France and Germany as well as in America. She is a member of the American Musical-Cabaret Vocal Trio, the Michigan Lyric Opera and the Comic Opera Guild of Ann Arbor. Her teachers are Prof. Ena Thiessen of Hanover, West Germany, and Prof. Glenda Kirkland of Detroit.

U-M freshman Jeffery Zook began the study of the flute at age 10. A graduate of Interlochen summer programs, he has studied with

Jacqueline Hafto. Selected as soloist at the Michigan Youth Arts Festival for three years, he also has performed with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

He is winner of the Flute Division in Seventeen Magazine and General Motors National Concerto Competition at the Eastman School of Music. He studies with Judith Bentley.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD violinist Tony Cross won the fourth-place prize in the competition. Among his credits are a performance with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at a Young People's Concert and a stint at the Aspen Music Festival and the Oberlin Conservatory of Music. He studies with Stephen Clapp at the conservatory.

The program for the concert includes Weber's Op. der Freischütz, Mozart's Concerto No. 2 in D Major, a selection from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" and J. Strauss's "Laughing Song" from "Der Feilermaus."

Tickets at $6, $3 for senior citizens and students, are available at Madonna College, Hammett Music, Botsford Inn and Southfield Cultural Arts Division, or can be obtained by calling Oakway Symphony's office at 476-6544 or 522-7846.

Commission removes Adray name from league

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Fans accustomed to watching competitive baseball at Ford Field will have to get used to a new name.

The Livonia Parks and Recreation Commission and superintendent Ron Reinke have decided to rename a well-known league for boys 19-and-under to Livonia Collegiate Baseball League. The league was formerly called the Livonia Adray Baseball League.

The name Adray is associated with Dearborn appliance and photo dealer Mike Adray, who took over sponsorship of the league 13 years ago from the Detroit Free Press Invitational Baseball League.

"Our major concern was the dollar situation with the budget cuts," said

Reinke. "We wanted higher visibility. 'The rules won't change.'"

THE CITY of Livonia provides parking and maintenance of Ford Field.

Last season, Livonia league had six teams — three based in Livonia, one from Redford-Westland, one from Ann Arbor and one from Dearborn. The league is affiliated with the All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAABA) of which Adray is president (his term expires in March). The AAABA holds its national tournament annually in Johnstown, Pa., and is one of the premier amateur baseball events in the country.

"Nothing has been changed," said commission member Beverly Griffin. "We wanted it in our name. It shouldn't be under a commercial name. It's not peally sponsored by Mike Adray. It's a Parks and Recreation league."

In a letter to the commission dated Oct. 28, 1982, Reinke offered the following recommendations for the program: "1. Change the name of the league, 2. Secure an AAABA franchise if possible and pay all entry fees, 3. If we can't secure an AAABA franchise, seek a franchise from another group, 4. If that is not possible, do it alone without a franchise."

IN A NOVEMBER meeting, all five commissioners unanimously accepted Reinke's proposal with a resolution.

In January, Adray and Livonia league director Perry Deakin met in an informal meeting with commissioner Roger Walklin and Reinke to define the resolution.

"They thought I was getting too much publicity," said Adray, "but anywhere you look, it's the Livonia League. That's what it's known as in Johnstown. I told them, 'You do what you want to do.'"

"I've never told Livonia how to run its program. I've always abided by national interest."

Mike Adray sponsors five teams between the Detroit and Livonia leagues. He also pays to rent Tiger Stadium for an annual All-Star game between the Lansing, Livonia and Detroit leagues.

ALTHOUGH NO LIVONIA team was involved, Adray spent almost $8,000 to host a 10-team AAABA regional last August at Ford Field. He paid for replacement of lights, absorbed umpire fees and provided vans as transportation for visiting out-of-state teams. (Livonia will host a regional again this season).

Meanwhile, Deakin, a retired Detroit school administrator, bought playoff trophies and player-of-week awards at his own expense.

And for the 1983 season, Adray has already taken care of the $200 AAABA franchise fee.

"We'd like to pay that back," said Reinke.

Last March, the commission voted to rescind a September, 1981 resolution which limited team rosters to four non-residents.

THE SEPTEMBER RESOLUTION

was passed because the commission was concerned about lack of participation in the league by Livonia residents.

League managers and officials, however, argued in a Feb. 1, 1982 meeting that in order to be competitive on a national level, they would need seven non-residents per team — the standard today.

"We were concerned that not enough Livonia kids were playing at Ford Field," said commission member John McDonald. "But I was also concerned about everybody hollering about cuts and we were taking on more work."

"We felt Livonia would get better publicity (by changing the name). Personally, I feel the commission has no animosity towards him (Adray)."

Rockets nip pesky Wayne; Chargers wrap up division

You can throw out the record books when basketball rivals Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial get together.

The Rockets, enjoying a successful season, struggled Tuesday to beat upset-minded Wayne, 58-56.

The difference in the game was the first quarter. Glenn outscored the Zebras, 18-13.

Paul Grazilis, a 6-foot-8 senior center, scored 13 points for the winners. Junior guard Greg Gill tallied 10 and 6-5 forward Jack Walker added 10 points and 11 rebounds. Todd Jennings and Mike Baydarian each netted eight.

Ty Wimberly topped Wayne and all scorers with 29 points. Tony Bass added 13.

The win gives Glenn a 12-4 overall record. Wayne fell to 6-9.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL 54
PLYMOUTH CANTON 39

Heath, McIntyre lift CC cagers

Leading scorer and rebounder Mike Maleske was out of the lineup with a sore achilles tendon, but his teammates rose to the occasion Tuesday with a 70-63 cage win at Ypsilanti.

CC, now 12-1 overall, is headed Friday for a big Central Division match-up at Birmingham Brother Rice. Maleske, a 6-foot-6 senior center, may be able to play.

The Shamrocks, trailing by seven points at the half, busted loose in the third quarter against Ypsi behind the play of guard Stan Heath.

The 6-foot senior picked up the slack by scoring 12 of his 19 points in CC's 24-10 third-quarter outburst. He had three steals during the uprising.

basketball

The Chargers led 18-2 through part of the second quarter and cruised home Tuesday to gain the Western Division crown with a 9-2 record.

Canton, minus two top scorers, used a full-court press to pull within six points in the third quarter. But Churchill (10-4 overall) weathered the rally.

"I have to compliment them on their press," said Churchill coach Don Albertson. "They (Canton) forced some turnovers and they took them right in for baskets."

"We had a talk at halftime and I told them this was an important game for us. I said: 'Let's play the way we're capable of.'"

John Merner, a 6-6 senior, made nine-of-nine free throws and finished with 17 points and 11 rebounds. Craig Hunter added 10 points and Steve O'Hara tallied nine.

Mike Jennings had 14 in a losing cause for Canton.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN 69
NORTHVILLE 39

Senior point-guard Rick Kelly, out with a bad back most of the season, returned to the lineup Tuesday to lead the Patriots victory.

Kelly ran the Franklin offense and spearheaded the defense. He finished with six points.

Franklin's one-two punch of Mike Johnson and Bob Stebbins tallied 20 and 16 points, respectively.

The Patriots led 27-17 at the half and pulled out to a 22-point lead at the end of three quarters.

The win gives Franklin a 6-9 overall record. Northville fell to 6-8.

REDFORD THURSTON 63
EDSEL FORD 56

The high-flying Eagles used a balanced attack to win their 14th straight game Tuesday against the visiting Thunderbirds (6-9) from Dearborn.

Thurston pulled away with a 17-10 scoring edge in the final quarter.

Seniors Steve Smith and Jim Weiss each scored 16 points for the winners. Smith added 11 assists while Weiss grabbed 10 rebounds.

Dan Starinsky, a 6-7 junior center, tallied 13 points and grabbed nine rebounds while sophomore Raffi Kostegi-an picked up 10 points.

Mike Betz and Tim Hughes netted 27 and 12, respectively, in a losing cause.

free throws. Kevin Kral added 10 rebounds and scored all eight of his points in the second half.

James Campbell led Ypsi (7-6) with 25 points.

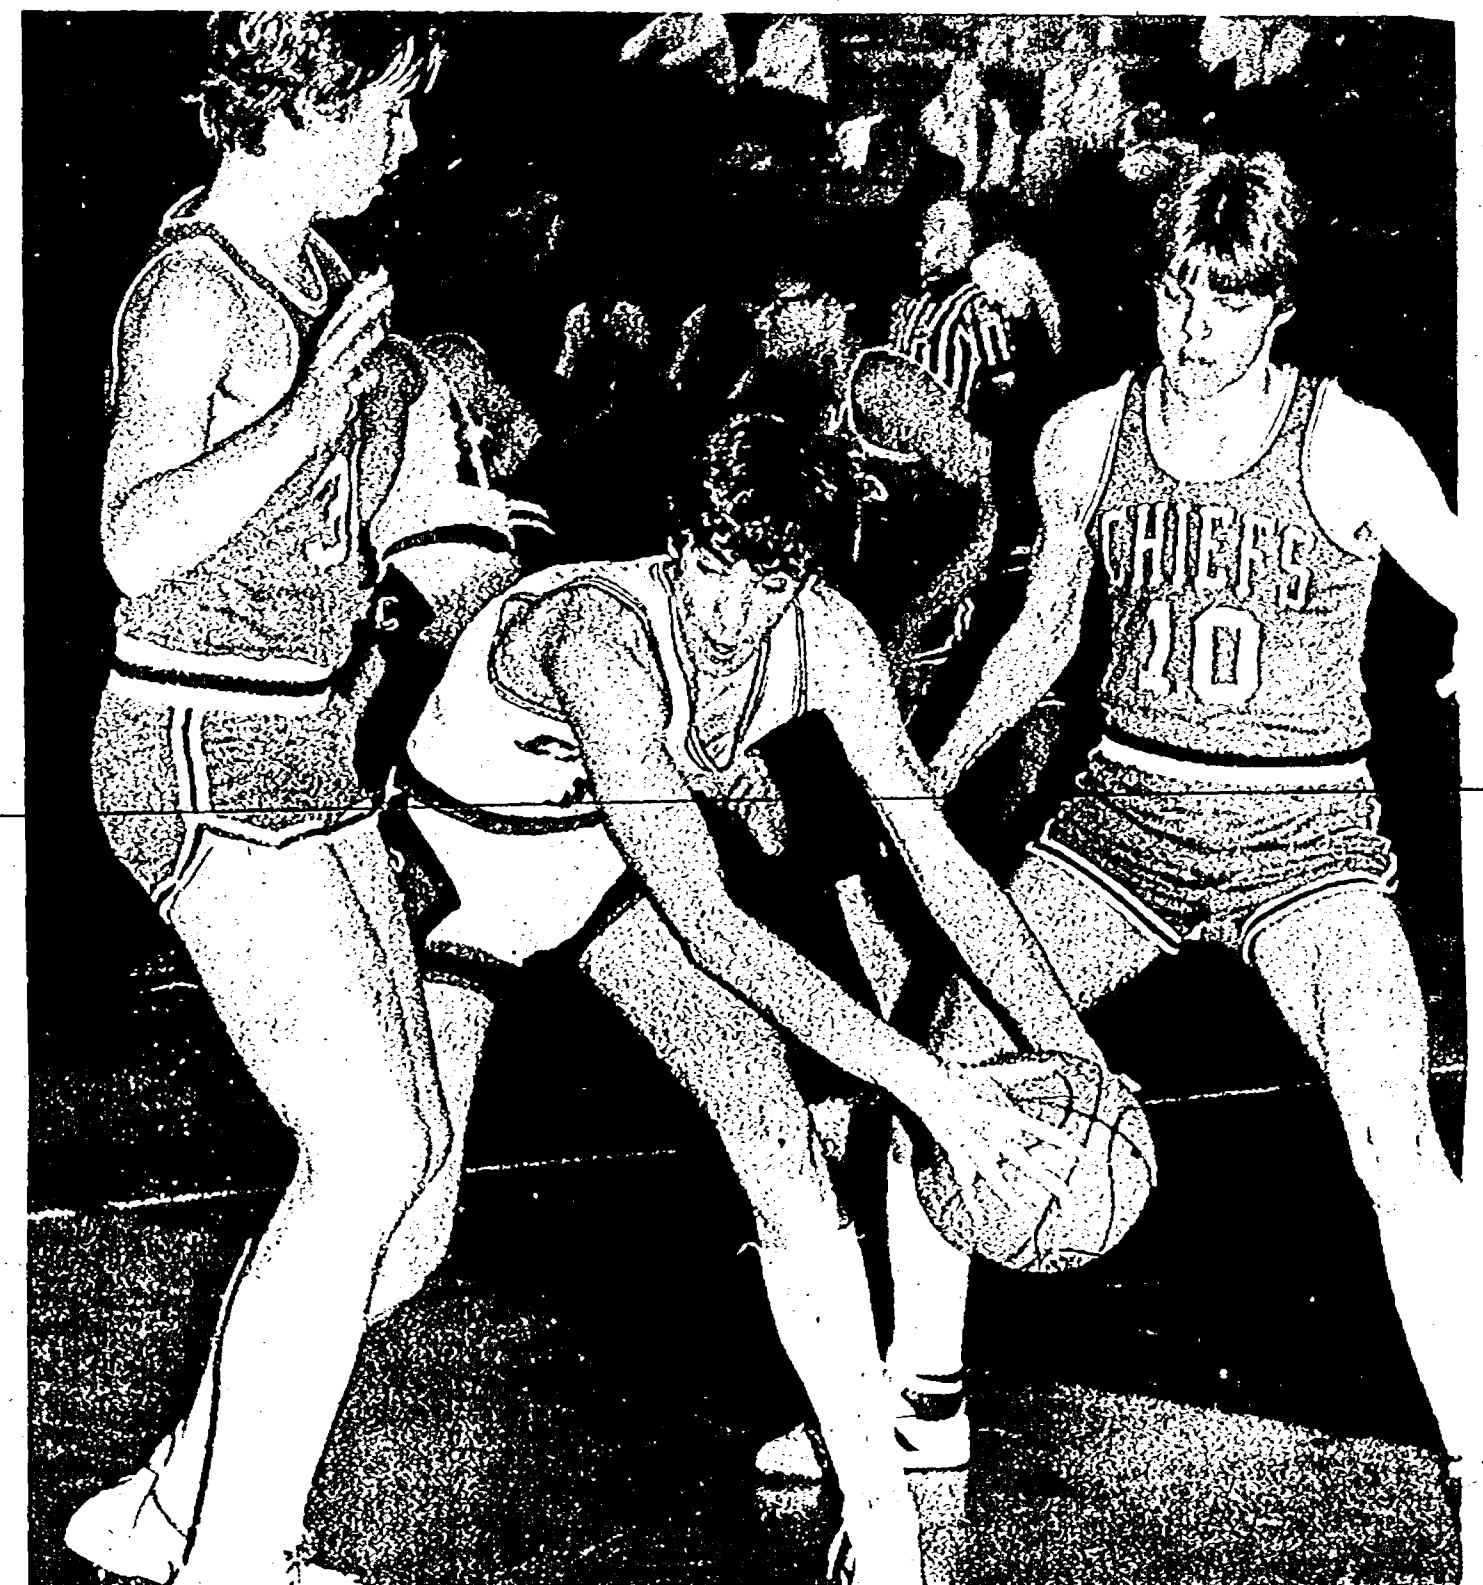

BISHOP BORGESS 64
REDFORD UNION 34

The Spartans (8-7) jumped above the 500 mark Tuesday with the comfortable win Tuesday at RU.

Lewis Scott scored 16 points for the winners. Tim Walton and Chuck Gregory chipped in with 11 and 10 each.

Rick Williams, a senior center, paced winless RU with 12.

On Friday, host Warren DeLaSalle ruined Borgess' Catholic League playoff hopes with a 65-60 victory. Scott had 27 points in a losing cause.

Churchill's Dave Riley (middle) has the situation under control as he pivots away from defensive pressure supplied by Canton defenders Mike

Try volleyball, it's action-packed

A couple years back, I was asked to play in a recreation coed volleyball league. It sounded like a good time, so I went to the first game only to find spiking was not allowed. I questioned why, and a representative from the recreation department replied, "They don't want the girls to get hurt."

I started to walk away when I realized how absurd the reply was. "They don't want the girls to get hurt?" I asked myself. "What about us guys?"

In the four years I've watched girls' high school volleyball, I've been in awe of their skill level. The sport itself is one I've always enjoyed, but the one I've played — on beaches and in backyards during the summer — is a different game altogether.

Volleyball on the high school level, in my estimation, is the most exciting sport offered to the girls. Some would argue basketball rates as the No. 1 sport, and I'm sure I'll hear some pitches from the soccer players. But for constant excitement and fast-paced action, volleyball is tops in my book.

It's fun to watch because it's a team sport, with players working harmoniously to set up the kill. And it's fun to watch in anticipation of the spike. The spike — that no-no in the recreation league — is the big play in volleyball. It's the slam dunk of basketball, the long bomb of football and the grand slam of baseball.

SATURDAY, I just happened to be in the neighborhood, so I dropped in at Dearborn High to watch its 16-team volleyball invitational. The Dearborn tourney is prestigious each year, but even more so this year since half of the teams were state-ranked.

At this point, the results of the tournament are academic. What was important was the level of play. With teams like Wayne Memorial, Warren Cousino, Battle Creek Lakeview, Portage Northern and Dearborn on hand, fans were treated to some of the best volleyball you could see at one setting.

The tournament brought out interested spectators and college recruiters. To look around and read the writing on the jackets, it also looked like a who's who of high school coaches. You need not have a team there to be present, just an interest in volleyball.

That's where I come in. Although fans do come out in respectable numbers, they're not pounding on the doors to get in. I'm just wondering if volleyball isn't one of the best kept secrets around.

Saturday, I cornered some coaches to gather their thoughts on the sport and its growth, and each was tremendously pleased with its progress and more than optimistic about the future.

DEARBORN COACH Lou Stehlik, who ran Dearborn's volleyball team when it was a club sport in the early '70s, has seen a rapid growth since her AAU team was fourth in the nation in 1972.

"There's a big difference in the quality of play and the talent the girls have exhibited," Stehlik said. "The team I had that finished fourth in the nation probably would finish 16th in this competition (Dearborn tourney). The skill level has exploded so much."

"I see it getting better and better and better. There are college recruiters all over the place. We haven't had a dual meet where a recruiter hasn't been there," she added.

Although scouts are interested in Annette Ewasek, Dearborn's talented hitter, Stehlik believes the attraction is due to the success of the schools' volleyball program.

Another school with a strong volleyball program is Bishop Borgess. Jerry Abraham, coach of defending the Catholic League champion Spartans, is a volleyball enthusiast, to say the least. His eyes open wide when he talks about the game.

"VOLLEYBALL IS supposed to be closing in on basketball, but I think it's time to surpass it. It's great. I love it. The kids are enthusiastic about it and it's created a new enthusiasm in the school."

Another reason the sport is growing is because the players themselves are improving. According to Southfield-Lathrup coach Lionel Blogg and Livonia Stevenson coach Lee Cagle, some of the school's best athletes now are playing volleyball.

"Instead of just basketball getting the top players, you're seeing big girls playing volleyball, too," Cagle commented. "I can't say I have more girls participating than in the past, but I do have better girls because the best continue on in the sport. It's probably THE top girls' sport in this area, after basketball."

"I think you're getting better and better players every year, because more of the better athletes are playing volleyball," Blogg said. "They see it as an exciting sport, and I see it as a challenging game. Five or six years ago, you had a few individual players who were good because they were natural athletes. Now you can train an athlete to be a good volleyball player."

Bob Hurdle, who coaches at Bloomfield Hills Andover and recently finished his first season at Oakland University, said the growth at the high school level has made his job easier at OU. Instead of teaching some of the fundamentals and techniques at the collegiate level the players are already sound in those areas.

"It's hard to even imagine how the sport has grown," Hurdle said. "My first team at Andover went 17-4, and they might not be able to beat some of the fair teams today. It's grown by leaps and bounds."

U-M gets Walker; MAC signs 2

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

'Twas the day after Christmas.

That's about as close as one can come to explaining how a handful of local athletes feel today. Because yesterday, they received a gift that could change their lives forever. Where it could lead is limited, only by their own imaginations and abilities.

This select group will receive a free college education — all because they have displayed an aptitude at playing a game.

Football, just a game? Perhaps not anymore. The money poured into this sport at all levels of competition — junior leagues, high school, college and pro — makes it more of a business.

That's why college scouts scour the countryside, searching for the talent that will make their team tops. And that's why the fortunate few who have exhibited the ability on the playing field will receive an opportunity to prove themselves in the classroom — for free.

Among the exceptional athletes who signed a national letter of intent (which bind a player to a college for a one year period) Wednesday, the first day allowed for signings, were: Dave Houle of Plymouth Salem; Jack Walker of Westland John Glenn; Steve Sapienza of Livonia Bentley; Todd Jennings of John Glenn; John Ericson of John Glenn; and Bob Stebbins of Livonia Franklin.

DAVE HOULE, MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY — Houle's signing with MSU was a late development. Salem coach Tom Moshimer figured the 6-foot-4, 218-pound tight end could play Division 1A football somewhere.

University of Colorado expressed the most interest. And Houle took a trip to New Orleans to visit Tulane last weekend.

"This just happened late," said Moshimer. Houle's name got lost in the shuffle between coaching staffs at MSU. A scout for former coach Muddy Waters was well aware of Houle's talents. But that information never got relayed to new coach George Perles' staff.

So Moshimer got in contact with an old acquaintance, MSU offensive line coach Buck Nystrom. Nystrom was interested in Houle and, when the Salem star returned from Tulane Sunday, he headed to East Lansing for a visit.

"We thought he was that caliber of player," Moshimer said. "My perception was that they're not recruiting him as a tight end but as an athlete. I believe he packs all the tools. He can catch the football."

Foot speed is a question mark for Houle, but Moshimer thinks he will get faster than the 4.9 40-yard dash he ran this season.

"He's going to make a lot of improvement," Moshimer said.

JACK WALKER, UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN — Not just Michigan was interested in this sizable prospect.

Michigan State wanted Walker, too. So did Central Michigan and Toledo, both Mid-American Conference schools.

football

But Michigan was Walker's choice all along.

"He wanted to go there," said John Glenn coach Chuck Gordon. "That's been his goal, to go to Michigan."

Size is Walker's biggest attribute. He stands 6-5 and weighs 217, making him a perfect prospect at defensive end for the Wolverines.

"And he'll get bigger," said Gordon. "He's very dedicated and a good student."

"The best words to describe him are, 'He's a winner.'"

BOB STEBBINS, CENTRAL MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY — "They all wanted him, I guess," was what Franklin coach Armand Vigna said of Stebbins signing with CMU.

What "all" included was four of 10 MAC schools — Western Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Kent State and Central. CMU won this battle, signing the 6-4, 215-pound tight end.

"He's got most everything — hands, body control," said Vigna. "And I think he'll get quicker."

Foot speed is the only question with Stebbins. He runs a 4.9 40 and Vigna thinks he'll run faster.

The Franklin star is an intense performer, which Vigna said helped make him a standout.

"It's that intensity and desire to win," the Patriot coach said. "He prepares mentally very well. He was our best leader."

STEVE SAPIENZA, NORTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY — It was a logical meeting of the minds.

Northern Illinois needed linebackers. Sapienza, a linebacker, needed a good business school.

A 6-2, 195-pounder, Sapienza was noted for his savage hits.

"What the people recruiting him indicated," said Bentley coach Steve Naumcheff when asked about Sapienza's greatest strength, "was his great lateral movement. He led every defensive tackling category on our team."

Walled Lake Western coach Chuck Apap gave Sapienza the ultimate tribute. "He said," Naumcheff recalled, "I'd like to send you the bill for the three facemasks he bent up."

"I just wish we had some Sapienza clones."

His speed (4.8 in the 40), size and good lateral movement should make Sapienza an outside linebacker at Northern.

"He's excited, I'm excited," said Naumcheff. "He's one of those sweet kids you get not too often."

TODD JENNINGS, EASTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY — Jennings' all-around ability landed him a scholarship at a MAC school.

The only 1,000-yard rusher in John Glenn history, the 5-11, 185-pound running back also booted five field goals in his senior year and punted for a 38-yard average.

"He's just a tremendous all-around athlete," said Gordon.

Jennings will get a shot at a running back spot with the Hurons and will also be tried as a punter.

JOHN ERICSON, WAYNE STATE UNIVERSITY — The best way to describe this John Glenn defensive end is as a late bloomer.

"He's the most improved player I've seen in 11 years of coaching," said Gordon.

Ericson did not start as a sophomore and missed his junior year with a stress fracture of his leg. But by his senior season, he had gained 25 pounds and started as a 6-3, 205-pound defensive end.

"He just went nuts in the weight room," Gordon said. "He got better and better as the year went on."

"He's a workaholic."

An admirable trait that WSU coach Dave Farris no doubt plans to develop even further.

LEANING TOWARDS — Not everyone signed with a college yesterday. Most of the state's small colleges wait until after the Big 10 and MAC schools have made their offers before trying to sign players.

The following players have not made their decisions yet, but there are certain schools they are considering.

Dave Slavin, Salem, linebacker — Has an offer from Eastern Michigan, but may wait to see what he can get in a baseball scholarship.

Keith Urban, Salem, center — Appears to be headed to Hillsdale on a tuition and books grant.

Ted Mills, Franklin, center-linebacker — Has an appointment from the Naval Academy and can play football there. That's where he'll probably end up, but some Ivy League schools are also in the running.

Rich Popp, Franklin, quarterback — His height (5-10) is a drawback, but it looks like Popp will be a Wayne State Tartar.

Dave Lewis, Franklin, defensive back — A Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) prospect.

Sasho Filipovski, Franklin, tackle — Hillsdale has the inside edge, but other small Michigan colleges are in the running.

Bebes halts Trenton; Raiders rip Bentley

By Paul King
special writer

Detroit Catholic Central is making a late season hockey run.

The Shamrocks pulled closer to first place in the Michigan Metro League's West Division with a 3-0 win Saturday over Trenton at the Redford Arena.

CC is now 7-3-1 in league play and 11-4-1 overall. The Shamrocks are pursuing Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook. Trenton, meanwhile, slipped to 5-4-2 and 9-5-2.

Goalie John Bebes, who made 25 saves, earned his fourth shutout of the season against the Trojans, who were missing five players — three of whom were on suspension and two because of injury.

Offensively, CC scored in each period.

Mike Kelly tallied the game-winner at 7:26 of the first period with Scott Summers drawing the assist. Tom Smith then assisted on the final two goals, those coming at 4:04 of the second (Jim Peterson) and 14:11 of the third (Brian Peck).

SOUTHGATE AQUINAS 10
LIVONIA BENTLEY 3

The Bulldogs trailed 4-1 after one period and never recovered as the Raiders rolled to an easy non-league win Saturday at the Southgate Civic Center.

Ernie Lewis and Rob Erdt led the assault, each gaining the hat trick.

John LaDuke countered for Bentley with two goals. Tom Anderson had the other goal while teammate Scott Smith assisted on two scores.

Aquinas outshot the Bulldogs 48-23. Scot Clancy, who played the first period, allowed four goals. His replacement in the nets, Dave Benson, allowed the final six.

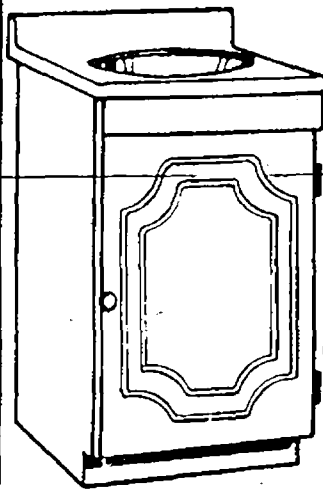

Bentley is now 9-8-1 overall while Aquinas increased its record to 13-3-1.

Hughes column

"THE SPORT itself is a sport that has a lot of appeal. The girls can retain their femininity, it's exciting, it's not specialized — a 5-foot-3 girl can play as important a role as a 6-footer.

"I think what should be noted is that the girls have to put in hour and hours of preparation in each area of skill — passing, setting, serving, spiking and diving. You can't have a player who's just a hitter," Hurdle added. "If you do, she's going to hurt you."

Although all coaches are pleased with the growth of the sport, it still isn't recognized as much as they would like. However, with the Olympic Games just around the corner, Hurdle sees the proverbial light at the end of the tunnel.

"I think what you're going to see happen after the Olympics is a growth in popularity in the sport and a lot more (media) coverage. We (the United States) had a good shot at the gold medal three years ago, but that was taken away from them (as a result of the Olympic boycott by the United States)," Hurdle said.

Personally, I think the sport needs a figurehead of an idol. Someone like Olga Korbut was for gymnastics and Mark Spitz was for swimming in 1972, or like Sugar Ray Leonard was for boxing in 1976. Then maybe, just maybe, the sport will get the recognition it so richly deserves.

RU girls top North; Agatha wins tourney

The Northwest Suburban League volleyball race tightened up considerably Monday night as second place Redford Union knocked off previously unbeaten North Farmington, 16-14, 15-10.

North is now 6-1 in league play followed by RU at 5-2. Each team has three matches left to play.

The first place Raiders led 14-8 in the first game only to have RU's Kellie Szabo serve out the final eight points, including three aces, to give the Panthers a one-game edge.

In the second game, RU jumped out to a slim lead and held on for the victory.

"We played our game and kept them off balance," said RU coach Jim Gibbons.

Kathy Storvis also contributed to the win by serving nine points and teammate Amy Livsey baffled North with her dink shots and hits. Livsey finished with four ace spikes.

RU, now 15-9-1 overall, returns to action Monday at Livonia Bentley.

LIVONIA BENTLEY clobbered Northville last week, 15-1, 15-6.

The Bulldogs, 7-2 overall, have some consistency over the past few weeks according to coach Dana Hardwidge.

Beth Mailley sparked Bentley in the opening game by serving the first seven points.

Angela Porter and Sue Pozan, meanwhile, controlled the tempo all night long with their timely setting.

volleyball

REDFORD ST. AGATHA captured the eight-team Private School League tournament Saturday at Detroit Country by defeating Ann Arbor Green Hills for the championship, 15-4, 15-7.

In the semifinals, Agatha upset Bloomfield Hills Kingswood, 15-11, 15-4.

"It was probably the best game of the year my girls have played," said Agatha coach Lois Cifaldi of the semi-final match.

The Agatha coach singled out the play of Mary Kellow and Dede Zupancic.

"They were digging up everything hit at them," she said, "and Paola Picano found everything and set it up to the net for Mona Clor to spike."

"It was a real team effort. The kids were fired up and it was exciting to see somebody hit at us."

The Catholic League's C-D Division coaches selected their all-star teams Monday. Agatha was represented by Junior Sue DeBelsio (West Division), Picano (All-C-D), Mona Clor (C-D) and Kellow (C-D).

Agatha, now 12-1 overall, will begin Catholic League playoff action Feb. 18 at Redford Bishop Borgess against an opponent yet to be determined.

Glenn pins Cougars, league meet up next

Reigning Northwest Suburban League wrestling champs Westland John Glenn pinned challenger Garden City last week, 50-22.

Glenn, ranked among the top teams in Class A, will defend its league title Saturday at home. Preliminary action begins at 11 a.m.

"Garden City is much improved over last year," said Glenn coach Tom Buckalew. "We knew this would be a tough meet and it was. The final score does not indicate the closeness of the individual matches."

Glenn, now 21-2 overall and 5-0 in league dual meets, scored six falls against the second-place Cougars, who dropped only their second dual meet of the season.

Scoring pins for the winners were Tom Gibson (112 pounds), Dan Gibson (119), Robb Paciocco (145), Don Forchione (155), Scott Lucas (167) and Tom Aloisi (198). Mike Proffitt (126), Rick Gillies (98) and Vaughn Viar (185) also scored victories for the Rockets.

Garden City winners by fall included K.C. Howell (105), Phil Kamm (132) and Kevin Richardson (heavyweight). Tom Fisher (138) had the other GC win.

On Saturday, Glenn finished third in its own eight-team invitational (see page 5c).

Saline was first with 147½ points

wrestling

followed by Howell, 139, and host Glenn, 131½.

Forchione was the Rockets' only individual champion. Gillies, Tom Forchione (138), Paciocco and Aloisi all finished second.

REDFORD BISHOP BORGESS split a double-dual meet last week.

The Spartans defeated Ortonville-Brandon (35-27), but lost to host Clarkston (44-28). Borgess is 7-15-1 overall.

Scoring victories for Borgess against Ortonville were: Joe Linck (112), who decisioned Steve Reeves, 7-2; Ray Lark (126) pinned Dusty Childers, 3-26; Young Jin Hu (138) pinned Scott Williams, 1-34; Brian Smerdon (145) decisioned Mark Parks, 15-2; Mike Graczyk (155) decisioned Dave Kuehnen, 5-58; John Ward (167) decisioned Rusty Childers, 6-0; and heavyweight John Ketchum pinned Heath Brooks in 2:45.

Ward, undefeated since coming off an injury, also won against Clarkston as did Shawn Kearney (132), Smerdon, Graczyk and Ketchum.

Schoolcraft cagers win

Schoolcraft College notched its 20th basketball victory of the season Saturday, rallying for a 70-69 win over visiting Macomb CC.

It's only the second time in Schoolcraft history that a men's team has reached the 20-victory mark. The first occurred in 1978-79.

The Ocelots, who trailed Macomb by nine points with three minutes to go, put on a late surge capped by Carlos Briggs' go-ahead basket with nine seconds to go.

Macomb had two tries at the winning shot in the final nine seconds, but Schoolcraft's Bill Keyes grabbed a rebound and Mike Cavichio batted a long pass away at the buzzer to secure the triumph.

Keyes led Schoolcraft with 17 points and eight rebounds. Briggs added 15, but hit only six of 18 shots. George Merriweather chipped in with 13, while 6-foot-4 reserve forward Ricky Johnson contributed 11 points and nine rebounds.

Schoolcraft is now in second place in the Eastern Conference with a 7-3 record, two games behind leader Flint Mott. The Ocelots are 20-5 overall.

"It's important for us to finish second because we'll get a seeding in the state tournament," said Schoolcraft coach Rocky Watkins.

On Saturday, Schoolcraft travels to meet Delta CC.
