Voters return incumbents to council Proposal loses

By Mary Klomic
staff writer

Robert Wagner, Thomas Artley, Ben DeHart and A. Kent Herbert finished in the top four spots in the general election Tuesday to keep their posts on the Westland City Council. They came in ahead of four challengers backed by Mayor Charles Pickering.

Also in Tuesday's election, the City Charter amendment on the ballot was rejected by 320 votes. The amendment would have taken away the mayor's authority to veto council appointments to office and to veto the appointment of the city's independent auditor.

A total 8,035 ballots, or 17 percent, were cast Tuesday out of the 46,433 registered Westland voters, according to the city clerk's office.

Pickering, who openly supported the four challengers and was strongly opposed to the proposed charter amendment, said he was "disappointed" in the returns and in the voting turnout.

The candidates who landed in the top three spots — Wagner, Artley and DeHart — each won four year council terms. Herbert, coming in fourth, won a two-year council term.

Final tallies from the city clerk's office Tuesday night showed 3,952 votes were cast against the charter amendment, compared to 3,630 in favor of it.

Wayne-Westland studies dual tax collection

By Sandra Armbruster
editor

A new committee of Wayne, Westland and Canton Township residents will study the feasibility of dual tax collections for the Wayne-Westland school district. Appointed at Monday night's school board meeting, the 14 members will meet at 7 p.m. for the next three Tuesdays. The public meetings will be in the board room of the Dyer Center on Marquette between Wayne and Newburgh.

This isn't the first time that dual tax collections have been considered by the district. Taxes were collected two years in a pilot program that split the bill, collecting half the total amount in August and the remainder in December.

The program was dropped subsequently when district residents complained about huge increases in escrow payments required by some mortgage companies.

"We have a lot of research to do," said John Baracy, assistant superintendent for business and finance. "We don't want to put our people through what happened two years ago."

COMMITTEE MEMBERS who have been appointed to study the proposal are Stephen Larson and Kenneth Barnhill Jr., both of Canton Township; from Wayne are Keith Millar, Marty Howard, Greg Acquinto, Eric Gears and Kathie Rockwell; and from Westland are Carol Gillingtine, Joe Williamson, Dwight N. Patalocco, Bernice Mrazna, Phil Chomiuk and Carol Sharp.

Also joining the committee will be Pearl Hoffarty of Plante & Moran, the district's auditing firm.

After the committee concludes its study, notice of the dual tax collection proposal will be published in the paper on Dec. 1. A public hearing on the plan will be held on Monday, Dec. 12, and on Monday, Dec. 19, the board will be expected to take some action.

In addition, information will be sent to all residents in the district with this month's issue of the school newsletter, "Focus." If the proposal is approved by the board, district residents will be repeatedly notified about the dual collection of taxes in an information campaign to run from January through July.

That information is expected to explain what the district believes are the benefits of collecting half the tax bill in August: reduced borrowing costs, less amount needed to be borrowed and an increase of money available for programs.

LACK OF notice was one of the criticisms leveled against the district two years ago when taxes were first collected on a twice-yearly basis. Although the local media printed stories about the change, the city and school district each expected the other to notiday and Saturday, Nov. 11 and 12, in Glenn's auditorium, on Marquette west of Wayne Road. Tickets may be bought at the door, at the school or from any cast member.

Eatery OK'd by council

Special approval for an addition to an Elias Big Boy Restaurant has been granted by the Westland City Council in a 6-1 vote at its Nov. 7 regular meeting.

The business is located at the site of the former Sambo's Restaurant, on the southeast corner of Hunter and Wayne roads. The proposal involves adding another 340 square feet to the existing building. Petitioner Andrew Ansara agreed that the restaurant's sign would measure a maximum of 23 feet high, while its "Big Boy" doll would measure 9 feet at most.

Council President Thomas Artley cast the only vote against the special approval, expressing concern about the size of the sign.

"In the past five or six years we've held a lot of these (businesses) to a 14-foot limit, and some a little bit more," Artley said. "I think this opens the door for the next guy coming down the road."

ALSO AT the Nov. 7 meeting, the council unanimously denied a request to allow a drive-through window for the Taco Bell on the southeast corner of Wayne Road and Noréne.

A drive-through window would help ease congestion in the parking lot, and wouldn't cause a problem with stacked vehicles, petitioner Don McCarty told the council. But council members said the drive-through window would generate more traffic.

In other action at the meeting, the council:

- Unanimously approved engineer consultant fees of $27,494 for the Nankin Boulevard sanitary sewer Community Development project.

The services with Orchard, Hiltz and McCliment Inc., include supplemental topography, design, construction layout, contract administration, inspection services and density testing in sewer trenches.

- Authorized the City of Westland to work with the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation regarding studies for use of Eloise property, located north and south of Michigan Avenue between Merriman and Henry Ruff roads on the grounds of Wayne County General. The council authorization was passed by a 6-0 vote, with Councilwoman Nancy Neal absent.

The city will work with the corporation to prepare a market study and land re-use study for the property, according to the council resolution. Also under the resolution, the city will consider using Community Development Block Grant monies to fund the studies, and will consider sharing the cost of the studies.

Our new look unveiled today

Dear reader:

For the past few weeks, we've been revamping the appearance of the Westland Observer. We have updated the logos that introduce the sports, suburban life, entertainment and other sections. Beginning today, we're changing to a newer, easier-to-read style of type for all headlines. This latest improvement, evident throughout today's newspaper, is our most obvious change.

Our editorial page also has been redesigned. It is now in a five-column format, which will be a bit more lively and easier to read.

The plays are the thing

Student productions will be presented at two local high schools this week. Wayne Memorial High School's production of "Voices From the High School," featuring Dan Booth (lower left) and Sue Briggs, will be performed at 8 p.m. Thursday-Saturday at the Stockmeyer Auditorium, Glenwood at Fourth. Director Adele Price says the play is about "growing up too fast in a rapidly changing world." Tickets are $2. Also, Jim McIntosh (upper left) and Dawn Smithers will appear in "A Haunting We Will Go," a production by John Glenn High School, at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Committee examines dual tax plan benefits

ly residents about the change. Neither did that's changed about this year's proposal.

Baracy noted that a new state-law officially sanctions the dual collections. The law, House Bill 4150, also gives the governing city or township the first chance at collecting the taxes. If that government, declines, the school district how may negotiate with the county for the collection or may collect the taxes itself.

In Westland, city taxes already are collected in August, and the city treasurer, Mark Knapp, foresees no problems in collecting half of the taxes for the Wayne-Westland district at that time.

"We already do it for the Livonia district," he said.

Economic conditions also make this year's collection proposal different, according to Baracy. He said that part of the reason for escrow shortfalls was the "large assessment growth" or state equalized value of property as well as Public Act 114, which equalized assessments by class. That act required residential property to be assessed at up to 50 percent of its value while differentiating between commercial and residential property values.

Baracy said that very little increase in property values is expected next year, and that, it is hoped, the additional information provided residents will help allay problems.

cial, however, is the method mortgage companies use to calculate escrow accounts. Because Manufacturer's Hanover uses a different escrow accrual analysis, the dual collections of taxes caused escrow shortfalls for Westland residents.

"This is still our concern. It's one of the main issues we'll be bringing up with the citizens committee," said Baracy. "We want to ensure that our residents aren't harmed."

At a study session last week, district officials said they would be willing to become "advocates" for homeowners experiencing problems with their mortgage companies. Officials also talked about taking the issue to court, but the city of Livonia has met with limited success in doing so.

"They (Livonia) threatened legal action against Manufacturer's Hanover, but what they did was have the department of housing and urban development investigate the company," explained Baracy.

"Based on that investigation, Manufacturer's Hanover agreed to spread the increases over two years."

BARACY SAID that part of the problem with Manufacturer's Hanover was that it had "inadequately analyzed escrow accounts the previous year. So they started with a shortage even before the (property value increase) came to be."

"Unfortunately, they are within the law," he continued, adding that HUD guidelines "indicate that mortgage companies should stay away from that method if at all possible."

ONE POINT STILL of concern to district offi-

Candidates renew call for working together

WAGNER GARNERED 4,288 ballots to place first. Artley, current council president, placed second with 4,129 votes. DeHart received 4,041 ballots to land third.

Herbert placed fourth with 3,663 ballots, 141 votes ahead of Marjorie Daniels, an office manager for a Romulus firm who was in her first council race.

The race for fourth place was a close one, with only 415 votes separating Herbert from Henry Johnson, who landed in eighth place.

Daniels was followed by Rick Grajek, Westland planning commissioner. Harry Conner and Johnson, a former member of the Westland Civil Service Commission. The three came in sixth, seventh and eighth, respectively.

Grajek, who retired as a fire battalion chief from the Westland fire department three months ago, received 3,339 votes, while 3,270 went to Conner and 3,248 to Johnson. Grajek and Conner also were in their first council race.

Joseph Doline received one write-in vote Tuesday. City clerk Diane Rohraff was unable to say Tuesday night which precinct recorded the vote.

ALL VOTING results are unofficial.

They will be certified by the Board of Canvassers this week, according to Rohraff. She said the board was scheduled to meet Thursday morning.

After returns were in Tuesday night, the challengers congratulated the incumbents and said they hoped the council and the mayor would work together.

"We congratulate the victors," Johnson said. "I hope they are committed to help with the healing process in this community. Whatever I can do to help, I will offer my talent. I would ask them to put aside their political ambitions and begin healing this community."

"It was a real close race, and I don't feel I have anything to be ashamed of," Daniels said. "I gave it my best shot. I met a lot of super people. It was a great experience. The totals are so close, it shows how the people feel."

"We had a lot of good workers in our campaign," Conner said. "I congratulate the winners, I wish them the best. I would like them to bring back the respect that we should have in the city. I'd like to see that."

"We gave it our best shot," Grajek said. "We'll get 'em next time."

THE INCUMBENTS, speaking from the Woodcrest Club, where they and their supporters met Tuesday night, said they were willing to work with the mayor.

"The olive branch is out to the mayor to sit down and talk with us," Wagner said. "Anytime he wants to talk with us, all he has to do is ask us. The people have said to him, 'Damn it, get to work.' Moving the city forward is the number one priority that this mayor and this council should be focusing on."

"The people have still spoken," Artley said. "The mayor says he is elected by the people. So are seven other people in the city, and the people want all eight to work together. I'm still willing to work with him. We've extended the olive branch many, many times."

"I just hope we will be able to work together," DeHart said. "I'll make every effort."

"This is not a landslide by any way, shape or form," Herbert said. "The people have said they are concerned about Westland politics and government."

"We will be working on an implementation plan. We will sit down with the mayor and talk about what we want to accomplish. He can join us or stand in the way."

Blanchard tells 3 job plans

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Gov. James J. Blanchard moved on three fronts this week to diversify and rejuvenate Michigan's economy.

"State government should be an active partner and catalyst in putting people back to work," Blanchard told a Wayne State University Forum on Research, Technology and the Economy. During his three-day visit to the metropolitan area, the first-year governor:

- Cut a ribbon at the expanded Percepton Corp. on Research Park Drive in Farmington Hills Wednesday afternoon, noting the high-technology, robotics-related firm is the first in Michigan to receive financing through state pension funds.
- Embraced, in his WSU speech, a state-university-corporation partnership in research aimed at economic expansion. He also endorsed WSU President David Adamany's proposal to give university faculty a share of earnings from their inventions as an incentive to research.

• Said he would announce today a series of state reforms of the business regulation process. These were to include appointing an ombudsman in state government to aid businesses and streamlining the Commerce Department. "Business will know they have the ear of the governor," he said.

BLANCHARD WAS clearly cheered by news that Ohio voters Tuesday rejected ballot proposals to roll back a 90 percent increase in that state's personal income tax.

The governor was also cheered when Adamany praised him for "vision" in passing a temporary 38 percent increase in the Michigan tax, a move he credited with "stanching the bleeding of higher education." Adamany said he hoped suburban voters would "do even better than Ohio," by rejecting the recalls of two state senators, including Philip O. Mastin, D-Pontiac, who supported Blanchard's fiscal program.

Adamany, president of WSU since 1982, committed the urban university to partnership with state government and industry — provided they help the university in return.

"Student enrollments are shifting dramatically into areas focused on technology and private sector endeavor," he said. And he downgraded talk that universities need to "downsize" to any great degree, adding, "Wise planning does not dismantle facilities just in time for them again to be needed." Blanchard responded by promising a 9 percent increase in higher education appropriations in his fiscal 1985 budget, recalling that "50 percent of new inventions come from university-based research."

ADAMANY OUTLINED his own steps in aiding business:

- "Incentives for university inventors, which will allow faculty and outside enterprises to benefit substantially from discoveries made in the course of university service." This would necessitate changes in state conflict-of-interest laws, he said. (Blanchard endorsed the idea in a news conference afterwards.)
- "New formats for spin-off companies in which university faculty and non-university participants can develop, produce and market goods and services while maintaining contractual lines to universities for research and development."

Arena plans skating events

Ice skaters in the City of Westland can celebrate November as National Ice Skating Month with a full program of activities at the Westland Multipurpose Arena, 6210 N. Wildwood.

There are 15-million recreational ice skaters in the United States, according to the Ice Skating Institute of America (ISIA). The public is invited to attend the special events listed below and see why skating is rapidly becoming known as the "fun way to fitness" and one of the best ways to maintain needed physical activity.

The Westland Multipurpose Arena, a member of the ISIA, offers figure skating lessons at all levels. For information on National Ice Skating Month activities, contact the Westland parks and recreation department at 722-7820 (Bailey Center) or 729-4580 (Multipurpose Arena).

THE ISIA'S "I Love Skating Party" will be 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12. The theme will be based on love. Participants may bring a boyfriend, girlfriend, teddy bear, parent or skates (if they love to skate). Participants who identify their "love items" to the cashier when paying will receive a free "I Love Skating" sticker.

The ISIA Open Team Competition is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18 and 19. The open competition, Westland's first, will be sponsored by the City of Westland and the Westland Figure Skating Booster Club.

MORE THAN 800 entries for the event have been received from Westland, Garden City, Wayne, Livonia, Canton, Rochester, Detroit and other cities. A trophy will be awarded to the community with the highest overall scores.

Alpha, Delta and Intermediate judging will take place 4 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, while all freestyle (interpretive) and drill teams will compete 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Saturday. After the competition, there will be an open skating period to celebrate. Skaters who participated in the competition may skate free of charge. Other skaters must pay regular rates.

Westland teen volunteers will sponsor the "Teen Turkey Trot," an open skating period, 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 26, to raise donations for their spring trip to the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry. The teens are a service group who gain exposure to special events and activities in exchange for their volunteer efforts.

The Westland Hockey Association (WHA) will hold a "Turkey Tournery" for peewee and bantam. Call WHA president Barry Wallace at 326-7571.

When science is magic, it's no bore

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

Airport security officers never know what to make of Richard Moyer's black bag. When he travels, the University of Michigan-Dearborn faculty member carries empty soup cans, balloons, string, bottles, paper, rubber bands, paper clips and corn starch. And he usually throws in his force fluxer, which looks a little like a lethal weapon. "I almost got arrested in O'Hare Airport," recalled Moyer, who told suspicious officers that he uses "junk stuff" to show teachers how to make science more interesting. "Somehow they believed me."

INSTEAD OF glass beakers and Bunsen burners, the Plymouth resident does science experiments with household items such as pop bottles. An associate professor of education, he travels around the country with his talk, "Science Dazzlers with Junk," which he will present at Metro Detroit Science Teachers Association's Nov. 12 meeting in Lakeview High School, St. Clair Shores. A co-author of seven science books, he's now putting one together on his favorite topic. "I just put some science things together," explained Moyer, whose force fluxer is a cardboard tube with a thread spool and a magnet attached to it. "There's nothing forbidding about any of it. No tubes."

RECYCLING HOUSEHOLD junk for use in the classroom is something Moyer started when he was teaching middle school science 10 years ago. Once a week, he would come up with an experiment designed to get students thinking. One favorite — which he still uses — is a red plastic bowl from a magic set. He empties water from the bowl into a soup can, and then it mysteriously refills itself. "It's a magic trick, but it's based on a scientific principle," explained Moyer, who uses the gimmick to talk about air pressure. Usually, though, Moyer stays away from magic and relies on items that can be found at home. The idea is to provide teachers with inexpensive equipment and also to make science real to kids. "IT GETS them talking about real life things," said Moyer, whose junk gets him into topics like why trees are round and why cities salt streets in the winter. In his ninth year on the Dearborn campus, he teaches methods of teaching science to elementary and secondary teachers and environmental education. One of his main goals is to get teachers — who, he says, usually lack science backgrounds — excited about the subject. And to pass that enthusiasm on to youngsters. "There's a crisis going on in science education," said Moyer, a member of the state Superintendent's Study Committee for Mathematics and Science. The committee is making recommendations for improving science education in Michigan.

"You go into a first grade room and do science — the kids love it. But by junior high, they're turned off. They don't see it as relevant, and they see it as hard. But it doesn't have to be."

MOYER SAID that in U.S. high schools, only half the students take chemistry and only 9 percent physics. He thinks one problem is the stereotype people have of scientists as Caucasian males who wear lab coats and use glassware. "And they're evil looking. You wouldn't want your daughter to bring one home after church," said the professor with a smile. The science series he co-authored for Charles Merrill Publishing Co. attempts to do away with some of those stereotypes. "Accent on Science" deals with real life situations which young readers could run into. And it shows kids actually doing the experiments. In his college classes, Moyer works at helping teachers handle science with ease. "I try to get them not to be afraid to try these things."

Some of the experiments are classics which he has reworked to be more interesting to students. He has added his "Star Wars"-like force fluxer to the traditional Cartesian diver experiment to give it a little more punch. ("I used to have one with a light bulb on the end — it was sexier," he said.) Most of the experiments are "marvelous discrepant" experiments which fool kids because they don't do what they're expected to. A favorite experiment consists simply of two soup cans — one black and one silver — which keep water hot for different lengths of time. "We need to apply teaching to real life stuff and not just deal with the cliché." He believes youths need some science education to eventually vote on issues like nuclear waste and energy — which are all related to physics. And they're not getting that background. "If you're a romantic like me and believe in democracy, that's terrible."

Parents wrestle with 'dark side of love'

A 5-MONTH-OLD baby died in her mother's arms last week from liver failure after spending the last few hours of her life in the sudden glare of publicity.

That day's story told of a Westland couple who chose to let their daughter die rather than suffer through an experimental liver transplant and its painful, doubtful aftermath.

The couple, Erik and Kelly Decker, decided to let nature take its course, whatever that course may be, instead of trying to keep their daughter alive through medical heroics.

The Deckers gave a lot of reasons for their decision. They didn't want to put a daughter they loved through a rare and difficult operation that offered little hope for survival or a normal life. If the daughter, Samantha, did survive, she faced months of hospitalization, up to 50 medications a day to maintain the transplanted liver and maybe even daily sessions on a kidney machine. The doctors put the price tag for saving Samantha's life at $150,000 or more. The couple's insurance didn't cover the operation.

THE DECKERS said they based their decision on one word — love. They loved their daughter so much they wanted to spare her the pain and horrors of a transplant operation that might not work.

Just hours after the story broke, Samantha died.

For the 5-month-old baby, the painful ordeal was over. For her parents, the pain of losing a daughter they loved will go on and on. Not only are the Deckers suffering the normal grief all parents suffer after losing a child, but two questions will ever haunt them:

Did we do right? Did we have the right to take away our daughter's one chance for life?

ON JULY 11, after a lifetime of fighting an unwinnable battle and with no medical miracles ever in sight, my own 18-year-old son died in Children's Hospital. His body, the body of a fragile 9-year-old, had been destroyed by the ravages of heart disease. Only the parent of such a child could understand the words I cried to him as I held his lifeless body: "I'm so happy for you, Jeff."

At last, my son was without pain and free.

ONE WORD was missing from the story about the Deckers. That word is courage.

Samantha's birth brought home to the Deckers a cruel fact every would-be parent fears — some babies get cheated by nature. Sometimes the deformity is life threatening.

It takes real courage for two parents to accept the fact their child got "cheated." But less-than-perfect babies are no less loved, cuddled and cherished. In fact, sometimes they are loved more because their future is so bleak, their needs so much greater and their parents take so little for granted.

Parents of such children desperately want to believe in the miracles of medical science. They want to hear a doctor say those magic words, "We can help."

Parents who don't hear those words feel their child is doubly cheated, once by nature, then by science.

They are powerless to help the child they brought to life and love. They stand helplessly by as a bad heart or kidney or liver does its deadly damage. Most of these parents would gladly give their own organs or their own lives if it would give the child they love a fighting chance.

We revere life, applaud the fighter's spirit and honor heroics. Damn the torpedos and full speed ahead, as the admiral would say. But there are times when torpedos do hit, and the ship is listing and sinking.

It takes courage for an admiral to admit he is whipped.

And it takes courage for a parent to let a small hand go.

LOVING A CHILD means wanting the best for that child. Parents will take a chance if the chance is offered, if the odds are with them, if a glimmer of hope is seen. No parent wants to see a child die — to be dropped from their life forever — without grasping at a chance for life.

But for some children, there is no fighting chance. The future holds daily doses of death without the blessed relief of death.

Well-meaning friends remind parents of all the miracles being done today by medical science. It takes courage for parents to face the fact that those marvels were not meant for their child.

Or that the price to be paid for one of those marvels is just too great to pay.

Loving a child can also mean letting go. That's the dark side of loving, the side that brings forth tears, anguish, grief.

Credit is available in the wrong places

IS YOUR mail running like mine? This fall I've been receiving a lot of missives that begin like this:

"Did you ever notice how Xtra expenses always seem to crop up this time of year . . . for back-to-school items, preparations for fall and winter, and even a little pre-season holiday shopping like microwave ovens, or home entertainment units such as stereos, video games and computers?"

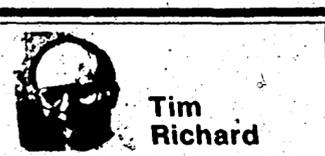

"Now Michigan Bankard has an Xtra credit line to help handle those Xtra expenses today — and pay for them without using or affecting your regular Visa and/or Mastercard revolving credit line. We call this Xtra credit line 'XTRALINE' and it's available to you at over 2,500 merchant locations throughout the state of Michigan."

Or this:
"Now, because of your excellent credit record, you are entitled to the prestigious Citicorp Diners Club Card without completing the long, detailed application usually required."

"In fact, you have already been approved for Citicorp Diners Club membership. Just accurately complete, sign and return the enclosed Membership Form, and meet our minimum income requirement, and your Card will automatically be issued!"

AND ALL ALONG I thought the United States of America had a capital shortage.

I was under the impression the federal government, with the massive debts that even Ronald Reagan is making more massive, was out there soaking up all the capital.

I had the notion, from Prof. David Brophy at the University of Michigan Business School, that venture capital firms were few and far between in this state, and that a lot of effort was needed to put inventors in touch with investors.

I had the feeling, from Jean Paluzzi and the National Association of Women Business Owners, that loans were tough for female entrepreneurs to get unless they had a husband (preferably) or a male accountant (acceptable) along to talk to the bank officer.

I believed the black businessman, testifying before the state Senate Economic Development Committee, that blacks had a tough time getting financial support. I thought I recollected that blacks wanted a share of Gov. James J. Blanchard's Michigan Strategic Fund funneled to black businesses because it was so difficult for them to get loans.

I had the idea Michigan was known as a capital short state, from one of those innumerable studies of the economy, and that NBD stood for "No Big Deals."

Wow, was I ever wrong.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS are bombarding me with junk mail to urge me to use credit to buy such consumer items as microwave ovens, home entertainment units, stereos, video games and home computers or blow big wads dining out, buying flight insurance and staying in overpriced motels at airports.

Little do they realize my 11-year-old

Magnavox just needs a new needle every 10,000 records, my banjo repairs are cheap, and my idea of a luxurious vacation is camping in a tent in the mountains with a poodle to share my sleeping bag on cold nights.

But apparently there are growing numbers of inventors, potential boutique operators and would-be barbecue restaurateurs who would like some kind of backing from their friendly local financial institutions.

Not to mention scads of young couples who would like to buy a house and call it home, if only the interest rates would come down.

One reaches the inescapable conclusion that there is plenty of capital floating around, but financial institutions are offering it to people who don't need it.

Faust points out improvement

To the editor:
As winter approaches and the 1983 construction season draws to a close, I would like to remind your readers of the significant highway improvements that have occurred in our area. The reconstruction of Ford Road is now complete and the reconstruction of Warren Road west of Inkster Road is well underway. In addition, significant portions of Wayne Road have been widened and resurfaced.

We are fortunate for the cooperation existent between past and present city, county, state and federal officials in these undertakings. Most importantly, recognition and thanks must be given to our people, who have financed these projects.

In addition, I would like to remind everyone of former Representative Thomas H. Brown's diligent work and perseverance to make these improvements possible.

Godspeed to all persons who travel on our roads and highways.

Friend wishes Dan Henry luck

To the editor:
I would like to comment on your article in the Oct. 20, 1983 issue of the Livonia Observer headed "The big mess at Glenn High."

I have lost touch with Dan Henry in the last couple of years but think of him so often as a fine young man from a very close-knit loving family.

Not knowing any of the circumstances on April 1980, the fact that he was acquitted and found innocent in August was enough for me to back up any good references I can give him.

I would like to quote Dan in saying "If your right, you better stand up and be counted. I'm right for the job."

I have never responded to any other article in my life but I did get a little ticked off when it appeared to me that such a fine young man was being railroaded.

Let's give Dan more good works of encouragement for all his past work and let him know he has another who wants to stand up and be counted in his corner.

Station owner innocent victim

To the editor:

In recent days, the news media has presented stories charging several gasoline service station operators with substituting methanol to increase profits from the sale of gasoline. The implication is that they were doing serious damage to the engines of those cars involved.

In presenting these charges serious damage has been done to the reputations of the service station owners with little regard as to whether they might be innocent victims as well as the automobile owners.

The owner of Ben's Quality Service in Southfield represents to me all that is good about the independent businessman. His reputation for honesty and fairness is unparalleled in this community. As a customer, I have personally witnessed the concern and care he demonstrates to provide not only gasoline at a reasonable price, but service which is competently performed. At a time when the oil companies have made it increasingly difficult for the independent service station operator to stay in business, he has continued to operate a full service facility.

Hopefully, as responsible journalists follow up this story, efforts will be made to insure that persons, such as Ben, will be allowed to protect the integrity of their reputations. Fairness demands as much.

Famous people are maligned

To the editor:
If I were to ask what do the following people have in common: Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Eleanor Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy, Robert Kennedy, Charles Laughton, Errol Flynn, Elvis Presley and, the latest in an endless list, Jessica Savitch, I wonder how many readers would come up with the right answer.

Each gave us something fine to remember — public service, entertainment — people who we looked up to and admired. Why is it, then, when one of these basically fine people passed away their memories were desecrated before the last flower wilted on the grave?

It has been said, when you are in the public eye, your life belongs to the people. I say, why weren't these celebrities so viciously attacked while they were alive so they could defend themselves?

But why should they have to defend themselves? Assuming we are all human "with feet of clay," we have a right to a personal, private life, be it perfect or less than perfect.

This scandalizing is done with no regard for family, loved ones or friends of the deceased, who are having difficulty enough just handling their grief.

I say let the dead rest in peace.

A generation soft on math

Emerging occupational areas in high technology demand a strong background in mathematics and the sciences.

However, a recent study conducted by the Michigan chapter of the American Association of University Women found the number of students taking math courses declined sharply after completion of algebra in high school.

In addition, the National Science Foundation (NSF) recently documented data from a number of sources indicating a decline in student achievement in both mathematics and science.

- NSF based its findings upon the following trends:
- Science achievement scores of U.S. 17-year-olds as measured in three national assessments of science.
 - Mathematics scores of 17-year-olds as measured in two national assessments of mathematics. The decline was especially severe in the areas of problem solving and applications of mathematics.
 - Mathematical and verbal scholastic aptitude tests (SAT) scores of students over an 18 year period through 1980.
 - Students prepared for post-secondary study.

REMEDIAL MATHEMATICS enrollments at four-year institutions of higher education increased 72 percent between 1975 and 1980, while total student enrollments increased by only 7 percent.

At public four-year colleges, 25 percent of the mathematics courses are remedial; at community college, 42 percent are remedial.

The NSF study declared, "As many as one-third of U.S. secondary schools do not offer sufficient mathematics to qualify their graduates for admission to accredited engineering schools."

Only one-third of the 21,000 U.S. high schools teach calculus, and fewer than one-third offer physics courses.

BESIDES INSTRUCTION in mathematics and sciences, appropriate courses in modern technology also are not available.

Few systematic attempts are made to integrate learning in mathematics, science and technology.

high tech Ronald R. Watcke

As a result, little coherent preparation is offered for the disciplinary courses encountered for the first time in the ninth and 10th grades (usually earth science and biology).

This condition is particularly unfortunate because a wealth of data supports the conclusion that students who dislike mathematics and science courses in the early grades, or who receive inadequate instruction in those grades, are unlikely to participate effectively in upper level courses.

We appear to be raising a generation of Americans, many of whom lack the understanding and the skills necessary to participate fully in the technological world in which they live and work.

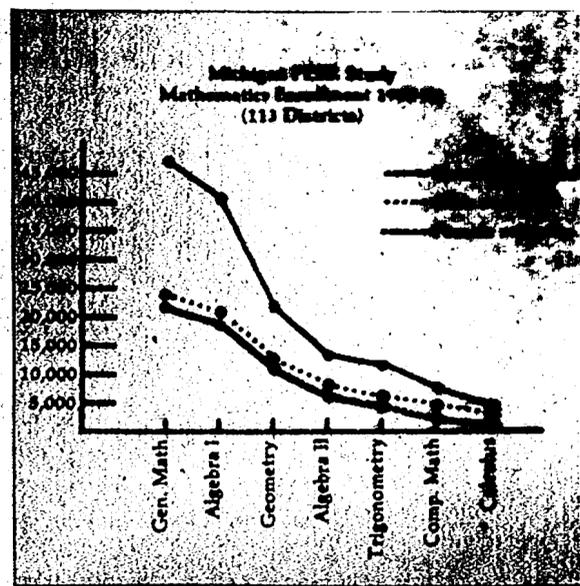

This phenomenon is occurring at a time when the nation is experiencing unprecedented growth and development in highly technological areas.

SOME OBSERVERS have stated that we are in the process of developing two societies — one which is technologically literate and one society which is not. To interrupt this trend, the National Science Foundation recommends the following three goals for educational systems.

1. To continue to develop and broaden the pool of students who are well prepared and highly motivated for advanced careers in mathematics, science and engineering.
 2. To widen the range of high-quality educational offerings in mathematics, science and technology at all grade levels so more students will be prepared for, and thus have greater options to choose among, technically oriented careers and professions.
 3. To increase the general mathematics, science and technology literacy of all citizens for life, work and full participation in the society of the future.
- During the 1980s, the revolution in technology will create some 15 million new jobs, many of them in occupations and careers that didn't even exist 10 years ago.

Businesses and industry are changing the way they perform tasks dramatically with the infusion of new technology. Many of the old occupations are becoming unrecognizable while others are disappearing altogether. At the same time, many new occupational classifications are replacing the old familiar jobs.

This chart shows how American high school students tend to quit taking mathematics courses once they complete algebra.

Come January 1, you'll still get through to Edna in Engadine or your mom next door... as quickly and efficiently as ever.

You've probably heard about the sweeping changes taking place in the telephone industry, and maybe you've been wondering just how they'll affect the telephone service in your home or in your business.

As a matter of fact, when you pick up your phone on January 1, you may be very surprised to learn that your service has changed very little. For one thing, you will be able to dial your local and long distance calls exactly as you did before. About the only immediate change will be how your calls are billed. That's where LATAs come in.

LATA is a new word to all of us. It stands for "Local Access Transport Area." In Michigan there will be five LATAs (which happen to closely approximate our Area Codes — see map). For now, the important thing about LATAs is this:

Starting January 1, 1984, whenever you place a local or long distance call within the LATA in which you live, you will be billed for that call by Michigan Bell, if Michigan Bell is your carrier. When you place a call from your LATA to another LATA in Michigan or elsewhere, you will be billed by another long distance carrier. Some carriers may elect to have Michigan Bell include their charges in the bill Michigan Bell sends you. Others may not, and will bill you directly. We'll be telling you more about LATAs and other calling information as the details unfold.

So, as the expression goes — "not to worry." You'll still have your phone service — as good as ever — because we're working to make the changes in your phone company better changes for you. After all...

IT'S AT&T WE'RE SEPARATING FROM... NOT YOU.

Facts down the line.
Because your telephone business office is busy engaged in normal day to day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company. We also suggest that you watch for our informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. 1 800 555-5000.

Recovery is threatened

Blumenthal cites big debt, low savings

By Tim Richard
staff writer

'We have the most consumption-oriented economy and the least savings-oriented economy in the free world.'
—Michael Blumenthal
Burroughs chairman

America's economy will rebound in the next year, but long-term recovery is seriously endangered by the mounting federal debt, according to W. Michael Blumenthal, board chairman of Burroughs Corp.

"If we want to get the budget in shape, you can't do it by cutting waste. You can't do it by cutting defense. It must be a package deal. Every element must make a contribution," said the former treasury secretary under Jimmy Carter.

HE AND OTHER former treasury chiefs — Democrats and Republicans — are urging national leaders not only to cut spending but to raise consumption taxes and encourage savings.

"Our savings are not growing. We have the most consumption-oriented economy and the least savings-oriented economy in the free world," Blumenthal said.

The former college economics instructor Monday addressed the Detroit Economic Club and guests from Lawrence Institute of Technology, the University of Michigan and Southfield public schools.

"THE SAVINGS pool is too small to continue the recovery," said Blumenthal, blaming a projected series of $200 billion-a-year deficits for soaking up 51 percent of available savings this year, 57 percent in 1984 and 55 percent in 1985.

In normal recoveries, he said, government debt absorbs 30 and 21 percent of savings in the second and third years of recovery.

Besides eating up savings, how are federal deficits hurting the economy? Blumenthal said deficits keep interest rates high, juring in foreign currency. This generates a demand for U.S. dollars, keeping the dollar's price high.

A COSTLY DOLLAR raises the price of American exports and lowers the prices of imports — particularly Japanese autos.

"The dollar is over-valued by 20 to 25 percent," Blumenthal said. "Cut demand for the dollar, and the yen will go up. You won't need to worry about quotas and (domestic) content legislation."

He said the trade deficit of $70 billion this year, rising to an expected $100 billion next year, would cost American labor 2 1/2 to 3 million jobs.

Moreover, if developing countries default on their debts — $750 billion and rising — some American banks, which hold much of it, could go out of business, he added.

"WHY CAN'T political leaders act?" asked Blumenthal. He answered his own question: "Politics, politics, politics."

"To get the budget in shape requires difficult decisions that will not be pleasing to voters. Everyone is dug in. Everyone is engaged in codified double-talk."

"The president says taxes must go down and defense must go up."

"Liberals say their kind of spending should not be reduced and certain taxes should go up. Privately, all know action must be taken."

BLUMENTHAL advocated:

- Holding the line on civil service and military pensions. A federal employee with 30 years seniority can retire on 80 percent of his last pay while a similar employee in private industry draws 50 percent.

- Putting a lid on medicare, whose increases he described as "astronomical."

- Holding down on social security because "we cannot afford 100 percent indexing" (tying benefits to the consumer price index).

- Placing a value-added tax on consumption, raising revenue and relieving the income tax's pressure on savings and capital gains. To those who raise a liberal eyebrow at consumption taxes, Blumenthal replied "it's possible to have progressiveness by exempting food."

- Closing unspecified "loopholes" in the income tax.

- Taxing energy in an unspecified way.

Far from regretting his company's commitment to Detroit, Blumenthal said, "Detroit and Michigan have been very good to our company."

Reaganomics and women: Is it working? Views differ

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

EVEN THOUGH the presidential election is almost a year away, debate is still swirling about Reaganomics and its effect on women. In her recent talk to Livonia Republican Women, Dr. Martha Seger warmly endorsed Reaganomics.

To obtain a second opinion, several economists and feminists were asked for their views about the impact on women of the economic ideas of the Reagan administration.

Interviewed were Mitchell Stengel, lecturer on economics at the University of Michigan-Dearborn; Collette Moser, associate professor of agricultural economics at Michigan State University; Laura Callow, a Livonia activist in the struggle for the Equal Right Amendment; and Carol King, administrative aide to Detroit councilwoman Maryann Mahaffey and Great Lakes regional director of the National Organization for Women.

Their main argument against Reaganomics was its impact on the poor, the majority of whom are in female-headed households.

"The principal policies of Reaganomics inordinately shifted the burden of the recession onto the poor," said Stengel. "It was a conscious policy. The biggest tax cuts went to corporations and the wealthy."

He added that because of the growth of single parent families, headed by females, women "suffered this burden very heavily."

"THE TRADE-OFF between higher inflation and high unemployment pursued by the Reagan administration resulted in an increase in unemployment," reported Moser. "Rural areas were very hard hit by unemployment. In areas like the Upper Peninsula and northern Michigan, the unemployment was much higher than before Reaganomics."

"This was a major issue to women because their participation dramatically increased in the labor force in the past 10 years. Since they were new entrants in the labor force, they were hard hit by the increase in unemployment."

Carol King also had strong words to say about the Reagan economic plan to cool the economy despite the certainty that it would bring unemployment.

"Since Reagan was elected in 1980, there are 2.5 million more poor women in the U.S. and 2.5 million more poor children," she said. "The Office of Economic Opportunity, now defunct and disbanded by Reagan, published a statement that by the year 2000 virtually 100 percent of the poor in the country will be in female-headed households."

Laura Callow noted: "The recovery was at the expense of a lot of people who went bankrupt, lost their jobs and homes, and are still unemployed. Maybe the economy had to be cooled. But the safety nets were taken from under people who needed protection through social programs. But these were cut by the administration."

"This is the feminization of poverty. Clearly more women were affected by cuts in social programs. Many of them are older women."

STENGEL POINTED OUT that inflation went down, "but at what cost? The standard of living dropped and there were the highest number of bankruptcies since the 1930s, and the highest unemployment since World War II. Now the auto companies are making record profits, and you still see unemployed workers."

Moser indicated that women were the ones most adversely affected by the reduction of welfare payments and the tightening of eligibility for Aid to Families of Dependent Children.

She also asserted that high military spending shifted resources away from social programs that benefited women.

King also addressed defense spending, claiming that it costs women jobs. With a large part of the budget going for arms, social services were reduced, and many women lost jobs in this field.

She referred to information provided by Employment Research Associates of Lansing, saying that "for every $1 billion increase in military spending, women lost 9,500 jobs. Defense contracts are not labor intensive. Defense spending is not cost efficient. There is no real way to keep costs down. Reagan is reluctant to impose cost effectiveness on defense contracts."

AND WHILE THERE are cost savings on military contracts, there is an increase in infant mortality in Detroit where the rate equals that of Honduras," King continued. "The most common cause of infant mortality is low birth weight. This can be traced to inadequate prenatal care."

She then claimed that 480,000 women of child bearing age and children lost access to health services because of budget reductions.

"This is the first rise in infant mortality since World War II," she added.

Callow claimed that the Reagan tax cut benefited families making $80,000 yearly, allowing them to pay about $13,000 less than before.

"Their money was gained at the expense of the child immunization program, health care services and energy assistance to senior citizens," she said.

Dr. Martha Seger
Reaganomics is working for women

By Sherry Kahan
staff writer

THE SLOWING down of inflation will be the trump card used by the Republicans to bridge the gender gap before the 1984 presidential election, judging by a talk given recently to Livonia Republican Women.

In a speech titled "Reaganomics: The Economics Benefits For Women," Dr. Martha R. Seger, a professor of finance at Central Michigan University, said "Reaganomics is working."

The effectiveness of the president's program can be measured not only by the decline of inflation, but the drop in interest rates and the improvement in the economy, she explained.

The Bloomfield Hills resident also said that an effort would be made to found a Republican group that would deal with women's issues. The organization would concern itself with such matters as networking, educating women about economics and job and credit rights. Members could learn to start a business.

Members would also lobby legislators "on issues not pushed by vested interests."

"Women have much more commitment to doing what is right," she told about 25 women meeting at Westworld.

Seger, who is chairman of the Economic Advisory Council of the Republican Caucus of the Michigan Senate, added that she would be meeting soon with Spencer Abraham, state chairman of the Michigan Republican Party, to get the project going.

BUT THE MAIN body of her remarks centered on the economic value of Reaganomics. She said that the bad and misleading. "The experts on TV make you think it's still 1939," she said. "But the recovery is booming. We're now a year into the recovery. Industrial production has gone up every month since last November."

A year ago plants were operating at 69 percent of manufacturing capacity, and now they are up to 79 percent. She added that an effective peak is considered to be 87 percent.

"It is a very, very good improvement."

Home building has also improved, according to Seger. "In the first month of this year, 30 percent more homes were built than in all of 1982. Even Michigan construction is picking up."

The employment situation is also improving, she said. "We've added three million more jobs since the beginning of the year." She added that the unemployment rate was 9.3 percent in September, "way down from the recent high of 10.8 percent last December. From 10.8 down to 9.3 in the time it takes to have a baby, that's a very good performance."

Her prediction for October was an 8 percent unemployment rate.

"IT IS HAPPENING because the private sector is back on its feet," reported the CMU professor.

Part of the recent slump was due to the fact that we "let productivity slip," said the speaker. "We weren't paying attention to new techniques and new, modern equipment. When our production techniques are not efficient, the cost of our products goes way out of line. I can't believe we can't produce products as well as the Japanese."

Productivity is starting to improve, she told her listeners. Reagan had a conference on productivity which identified this as a problem. The tax cut he gave was designed to help business replace worn-out equipment with "more modern, up-to-date stuff to make employees more efficient and get out more cars."

Corporate profits have rebounded, she observed. "Now we're seeing the yearly corporate profit back up in the neighborhood of 30-35 percent."

To Seger this means "the president has made absolutely phenomenal progress in fighting inflation. To bring inflation under control has allowed some of these other things to take place like the improvement in production and jobs."

"This is doing it fundamentally, and all of us benefit."

"Citizens especially is just phenomenal. We all will get older, and it will be important to all of us as we plan for retirement to know that the dollar means something and can buy more than a candy bar."

The drop in the interest rate, also reflected the impact of Reaganomics, according to the professor. At the beginning of 1981 the prime rate was 21 1/2 percent; today it is 11 percent.

"You don't need to know calculus to see that 11 is below 21 1/2," said Seger.

She also pointed out that a conventional mortgage in 1981 was from 17-18 percent. Today it is about 13 1/2 percent. Federal Housing Administration rates, up to 17 percent, are now at 11 1/2 percent.

"I think Reaganomics is a success," she said.

Helen Caldicott: 'Nuclear freeze possible'

Dr. Helen Caldicott
'one person can be extraordinarily powerful'

By Sharon Dargay
staff writer

Stopping the Soviet-U.S. arms race is "a piece of cake."

It doesn't take money. It doesn't require political savvy or extensive knowledge of the world's nuclear arsenal.

It takes unity, a "work your tails off" commitment to the cause and ballot box muscle in the 1984 presidential election.

But if Americans allow the Pentagon to deploy Pershing II and Cruise missiles, arms control is doomed — and nuclear holocaust inevitable.

The urgency of that message was evident last week when Dr. Helen Caldicott, "mother" of the nuclear freeze, spoke to a full house in the Southfield Pavilion.

The 45-year-old Australian breezed into Detroit to appear on talk shows — while fending off interviews with most other media — and to meet with directors of the Physicians for Social Responsibility, a group she founded five years ago. Then it was off to Southfield Civic Center where she raced through an hour-long speech and skimmed through a stack of written questions before being whisked off to Metro Airport.

Her comments, a rapid-fire assault on America's lethargy in arms control, were at times cynical and accusatory, at others impassioned and warm. When one listener complained that her bullet-like delivery was difficult to understand, she apologized for having "so much to say in so little time."

PUNCTUATING HER SPEECH with "jokes" and personal anecdotes, quoting the U.S. constitution, Jesus

Urges listeners to work to end nuclear threat

Christ and Shakespeare. Caldicott challenged listeners to commit their "lives, future and sacred honor" to saving the earth.

"I learned that one person can be extraordinarily powerful. It just takes the guts to do it. Every one of you can do what I've done," she said, prompting enthusiastic applause.

She described her single-handed effort to rouse public outrage against French bomb tests off the Australian coast several years ago. She rallied unionists, pressuring her government to cease exporting uranium, the radioactive makings of nuclear missiles. A former practicing pediatrician, she also authored "Nuclear Madness" a primer for peace activists and began making personal appearances to convert others to the cause.

"Why not have a million people go into Congress and lobby? It would freak them out of their minds. We could stop the arms race in one day."

"Who runs your Congress? The corporations do. I was in Congress on the day of the MX missile vote. The halls were full of lobbyists from the Pentagon and missile contractors. Where were the people and their children?"

She urged voters to dump politicians who support arms build-up, including President Reagan, who she described as "ill-informed" and "lacking" the background knowledge to debate the topic. Caldicott said her 90-minute meeting with Reagan earlier this year was a "worrying experience," during which the president referred to a Reader's Digest article to support his arguments.

SHE POINTED OUT that the United States has enough firepower to kill every Soviet citizen 40 times over. Fifty percent of its missiles are housed in nearly invulnerable submarines. Only 25 percent are land-based. The Soviets, with land-based missiles constituting 75 percent of its arsenal, can fatally strike every U.S. citizen 20 times.

"And Reagan plans to build more. We only have a year left. Even though the Cruise and Pershing missiles are being deployed this year, just a few are going in. This year we can get them pulled out."

"If not it's too late. It signals the end of arms control."

Caldicott said that Pershing IIs hit their targets six minutes after launch, allowing virtually no time to reverse computer mistakes. She claims that during the first six months of this year alone, computers in charge of America's defense system erred 130 times, "thinking nuclear war" had begun. She also charged that a computer snafu signaled a "red alert" for six minutes in 1979 when a war "games" program was mistaken for the real thing.

"The Russian computers are far less sophisticated than ours, and we won't sell them technology. I should think we would," she said.

Caldicott claims the Soviets would "cease to be our enemies," if the United States flooded the country with "GM cars and blue jeans," and responded to Soviet disarmament proposals.

"The Russians are paranoid. They have no allies. One thing we've learned in medicine is not to threaten a paranoid patient."

"We're married to the Russians. We either learn to live with them, or we die with them."

THE DEPLOYMENT of cruise missiles further strains that relationship. Undetectable by Soviet satellite, the weapons erode the mutual system of verification that forms the basis of arms control, she said.

That in turn, she told the Southfield audience, threatens survival of the planet. She exploded an imaginary 20-megaton bomb over the Southfield Civic Center graphically driving home her point. Caldicott also urged skeptics to watch "The Day After," a controversial made-for-television film on nuclear war, scheduled for broadcast Sunday, Nov. 20.

Although most of some two dozen written questions submitted by her audience sympathized with her views, several demanded concrete suggestions for action.

Glossing over several, she referred their writers to Physicians for Social Responsibility for more information, urged them to watch the Nov. 20 broadcast and read her forthcoming book.

Area "super patriots" Sadie Odowichuk of Livonia (left) as the Statue of Liberty, Ernie May of Pontiac as Uncle Sam and Judy Sunberg of Auburn Heights (right) as Betsy Ross are helping publicize Mary Jo Jansson's quest for a national flag monument in Washington. Jansson (third from left) holds a drawing which is a rough concept of what the monument could look like. However, it's still in the "impossible dream" stage, she said. The design is subject to change.

Rallying 'round flag monument

Marle McGee

Mary Jo Jansson is singer with a mission. If you were at the Detroit Lions football game Oct. 9 at the Silverdome, you heard her sing the national anthem and it was an impressive rendition.

Her magnificent contralto voice sends shivers down the spine and tugs at the heart strings — probably what Francis Scott Key had in mind when he wrote "The Star Spangled Banner" at that crucial moment in this country's history.

Jansson's style is reminiscent of that of the immortal Kate Smith whom people say she resembles, in looks as well as singing. And like Smith, she champions patriotism. She didn't get much of an introduction at the Silverdome, and that's too bad, because she came all the way from New Jersey to perform — free — to promote a cause that many folks feel needs promoting. Particularly on the eve of this 85th Veterans Day — maybe one of the most troubled in recent history.

JANSSON came to town to promote a new national monument in Washington that will use a flag as its symbol so that the world will know that Americans love this country and are as united as ever.

The project is as awesome as the flag she is proposing be used. The flag would be 411 feet wide (41 1/2 football fields) and 211 feet high (as tall as a 21-story building). The stripes would be 16 feet wide and the stars 13 feet across.

The flag has been constructed. It made its formal debut at the Washington Monument on Flag Day June 1980. It has been unfurled three times subsequently: at Andrews AF Base for the return of the Iranian hostages in 1981; in New York City's Central Park later that same year; and again this year on Flag Day when it was formally presented as a gift to President Reagan on behalf of the American people.

The General Services Administration (GSA) has custody of it and the truck in which it is stored and transported. GSA anticipates laying out the flag each flag day.

Jansson and a small band of area residents known as the "Super Patriots" have other ideas. They want the flag to be on display every day "to remind us of the great nation we are all privileged to live in."

"THERE are lots of monuments in our nation's capital for presidents, other great men and for wars. But none representing the greatness of America and the spirit of its people," she said.

Jansson envisions a 50-section revolving platform from which the flag could be raised or lowered. However, plans are still in the "impossible dream" stage, she admits. She hopes to get before Congress and get a resolution passed providing land for the monument.

Nor does she feel the government should pay for the monument.

Because it symbolizes the spirit of the American people, she feels the people should pitch in and pay for it. Much like the pennies school children contributed to help with the Washington Monument, she said.

"It will mean more that way because in order to generate money, people will have to get involved in all types of activities. It will make everyone more flag conscious than ever," she feels.

TO GET her message across, she plans to tour the country with a patriotic musical revue, using young peoples choruses. She has already received government permission to take the flag with her wherever she goes.

She came to Detroit at the bidding of Pontiac's "super patriot" Ernie May, who was involved in the Great American Flag Fund. A group supporting the fund had the flag constructed and intended to string it across the Verrazano Bridge in New York, across from the Statue of Liberty.

Lack of a public response for a plea for funds to mount the flag prompted the organizers to turn the flag over to the government. It was then that Jansson stepped in and formed her one-woman campaign for the construction of the monument in Washington.

"When I would travel around the country singing," she recalled, "people would ask me why they should give money to a flag in New York."

May's band of super patriots, which includes his mother-in-law Sadie Odowichuk of Livonia, have jumped on the flag bandwagon. As Uncle Sam and the Statue of Liberty, they plan to step up their activities that call for appearances at parades and other public functions to help draw attention to the project.

CHIEFS Part I. Mystery drama with Heston as Hugh Holmes, banker and founding father of fictional Delano. From 1920 through the 1960's, the town grows and prospers... but what no one knows is that, for decades, young hitchhikers passing through Delano on their way further south never made it to their destinations. Over the years, three police chiefs stumble upon the grisly crimes.

AIRPLANE! The ultimate spoof of airline disaster films includes such perennials as the exploit forced to take the controls, the seasoned executive who must "talk him in", the singing nun and the sick child being transported for a life-saving operation. A box office smash of cheerful lunacy and hilarious take-offs!

ROGER MOORE

FOR YOUR EYES ONLY Non-stop

Bond-age action as 007 is trapped in a runaway helicopter, stalked in the snows of the Alps, and flung to the sharks in the Mediterranean, usually with a young lovely along for company. Lots of fun, with Roger Moore as the impetuous British Secret Service agent.

MOMMIE DEAREST

MOMMIE DEAREST. Faye Dunaway pulls out all the stops as actress Joan Crawford in a film based upon the best-seller by her oldest daughter Christina, who learns the value of wooden coal hangers. Wait for "Tina, bring me the axe!" It'll raise your hair while you roll on the floor in laughter. This might just become a camp classic, but let's hope not!

SUN., NOV. 20
8-10:15PM ABC (7 Central/Mountain)

THE DAY AFTER. A starkly realistic stomach turning view of nuclear attack on the United States, and what the effects might be on the average citizen... far removed from political origins or reasoning. Jason Robards, Jobeth Williams, Steven Guttenberg, John Lithgow and John Cullum. Beyond imagining... reel in a rain of terror. Parental discretion advised.

Making a dent

Small center collects food, clothing in a big way

Everyday food, clothing, kitchen utensils, bedding, furniture pour into the Plymouth Seventh Day Adventist Church in Plymouth. It doesn't stay long. Too many people need it.

Under the guidance of Irene Peterson, director of the Community Services Center of the church, these items are directed to those in the community and outside.

The demand continues, so she is asking the community for donations of children's clothing which is desperately needed, along with food, toys, clothing for all ages, shoes, household items, baby cribs, furniture, bedding and dishes.

She also would be happy to accept money and your time. Volunteers are needed to help at the center, 4295 Napier, Plymouth, which is open 9 a.m. to noon Mondays for deliveries.

PETERSON'S annual report revealed the donated items have fed and clothed more than 17 families in the Plymouth-Canton area, and helped many others as well.

Full of energy and enthusiasm, Peterson was appointed by the church to meet the needs of the community through the center. Her van has been loaded almost each day this year with donated items which have been distributed to victims of house fires, and to homes for the mentally retarded and elderly.

Her assistants Jeanine Lynch, Karen Marsh and Shirley Henning have sent donations and packed more than 100 boxes of clothing which were sent to the Seventh Day Adventist World Services. They have also packed and sent over 700 pieces of clothing to a poor village in Poland.

When a church member visited a former Plymouth teacher in South Carolina, he found many of the school children in need of shoes, clothing and textbooks. Peterson managed to collect a truckload of supplies which was sent to South Carolina last month.

More is being collected for another trip to be made in November.

Duty calls, but God's call is transcendent

I am going to Haiti with a group from our church to build a building. Why are we going? It's not a simple question. Personal motivations for making such a trip to spend time and money on the needs of others far from home might include the call to adventure, the desire to help others in need and the decision to support the work of your church. Yet there is another dimension to such a venture.

From ancient times, people have recorded the fact that they have left home to go to a far country because they believe God is leading them out. They may not be fully conscious of why they are going, but they must go.

Moses and his people left Egypt to go to the promised land. The promised land was a vision of somewhere else. Moses realized that he would never get there. Those who did get there probably wondered whether this was really what they had sought after. Often the arrival is much less important than the journey. The belief which arose from such an experience was that the people felt they were "called out."

Albert Schweitzer felt that he was called out of the comfortable successes of his life to an unknown corner of Africa. In this unknown corner of the world, he learned many things about life and about himself.

flow not out of our own motivations but out of a call from One who is beyond and above all. This is what religious people call the transcendent dimension of life.

In an ultimate sense, this call is to go into the unknown. In so doing, it requires that we have faith. Such a call may be identified with the word "God" or it may not.

It is in the transcendent call to go out into the unknown that we learn to live out our faith. In the midst of such a journey, we see rare sights, we are tested by unexpected circumstances. A friend of mine is going on this Haiti work project. He says he is not sure why he is going. On the deeper level of life this is the truth. When we venture out in response to a call that has this transcendent quality, we are not sure why we go.

ALBERT SCHWEITZER said that he went to Africa because of the story of Dives and Lazarus. This is a story of a poor man who asks for food from the rich man. This story, however, was only the vehicle of the call to leave the known and venture out into the unknown.

Those who see such a story reflected in the stories of the past call this the "hero journey." Whatever we call it, it is the consistent thread of persons being led out to transform this world.

FEELING ANY PRESSURE?

What is it for you? The job? The boss? Traffic? Bills? PMS? Family? Deadlines? Quotas? Getting on top? Or just staying afloat? Are there more conflicting demands in one day than you'd rather face in one week?

First, reassured pace of life can come from your own inner push for recognition and achievement. Or, it can be the result of those outer pressing demands.

You may not be able to alter your schedule or situation. But you can change the way you look at it, deal with it, live through it, and rise above it. Our people are seeking that inner center of calm and serenity is available. What Jesus said about lasting peace that nothing can take away makes a lot of sense.

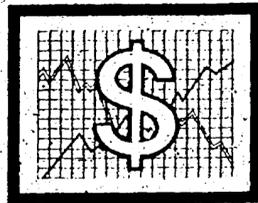

We all have pressure — but do you have peace?

Take losses to offset stock market profits

With next April's tax-filing deadline still several months away, it is all too easy to neglect some tax-cutting moves that you would have to make in the next few weeks — before 1983 ends.

Thanks to the likelihood of profits from the advancing stock market — and a new wrinkle that widens the reach of the "alternative minimum tax" — you may have to do some more sophisticated maneuvering.

In the TEFRA, Congress made certain changes in the tax laws that require you to figure your taxes two ways and pay according to whichever one shows you owe the most. It is known as the alternative minimum tax.

HERE IS HOW the tax law might affect you. Until this year, if you exercised an option to buy 5,000 shares of your company's stock at $10.00 each, when the market price was $110,000, you paid no tax on the immediate bargain element of $500,000.

And what if you were also lucky enough to have big depreciation deductions on a real estate investment, enough to reduce your 1983 tax liability to near zero?

Unfortunately, the picture has changed, and you must also figure your tax bite under the expanded alternative minimum tax.

Because your stock option's bargain element is a preference item, you end up owing $92,000 to Uncle Sam.

AND IF YOUR stock plunges next year, you can wind up having paid tax finances and you

on a paper profit you will never realize. Obviously, if you are in a position to exercise a stock option in 1983, you should gather your records and compute your tax bite before deciding whether to acquire the stock now — or if you would save by waiting until 1984.

It is possible that not every stock you bought in 1983 rose in value. There may be some real tax benefits if you sell the losers before the end of the year.

The reason is that short-term capital losses that result from assets that have been held less than one year are fully deductible first, against short-term capital gains, then against long-term capital gains, and then against a maximum of $3,000 worth of regular income.

YOU SHOULD ALSO carefully examine the stock you bought only a few months ago that may have increased substantially in value, but that you suspect is reaching a plateau.

Selling will produce a health gain — and heavy taxes, too. So check your portfolio for a bond that you have held for 10 or 15 years, one that is paying a low rate of interest and has a depressed value in today's market.

You can sell it for a long-term capital loss.

Ordinarily, if you are trying to offset regular income, a long-term loss is not as good as a short-term loss. The tax laws require you to have two dollars worth of long-term loss to offset every one dollar of your salary.

But it can offset the short-term stock game, dollar for dollar. Selling both the bond and the stock can put you in a position of profit without a big tax liability.

SEMINAR: The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and I will conduct our next financial planning seminar Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1983, from 8-9:30 p.m. at the Michigan State University Management Education Center, Troy. Topics will include year-end tax planning, tax shelters, retirement and comprehensive planning. The seminar is free, but registration is required. For more details, call 643-8888.

Sid Mitra is president of Coordinated Financial Planning Inc. in Troy and a professor of management at Oakland University in Rochester.

Comfortable risk best

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investment Clubs

I am not comfortable when I have my money at risk. To make sure that I do not have any risk, I have all of my money, except my retirement plan (I am retired) in annuities, in bank accounts and in certificates of deposit. I have a friend who continually chides me for not putting part of my money in stocks. She says the risk is not that great and that I am losing the opportunity for my money to grow and give me more income. What would you advise?

Being comfortable with your investments is, very important, and I don't think I would advise anyone at retirement age, as you say you are, to try to change his or her attitude towards investment risk.

You sound to me like you are in pretty good financial shape, and at this stage of life, it is better that you feel secure than be worried about an adjustment to a different way of thinking.

But I would like to say something for the benefit of the large number of people who are still in their forties or early fifties and have a fear of risk as you have.

IT IS IMPORTANT to plan for the future. Having a proper understanding of risk is basic to doing a good job of building an adequate retirement.

It is important to understand that having your money in cash doesn't free you from risk. Cash is subject to a risk called purchasing power risk.

Although the rate of inflation is down substantially from what we had two or three years ago, it is still present.

YOU MAY PROTECT the number of dollars you have, but you can't stop the fact that what it will buy keeps shrinking. It's an amazing fact, but the purchasing power of $1 in 1940 is now only 14 cents.

If you maintained the same cash from 1940 to the present, you would have had no risk as far as the number of dollars is concerned. But the automobile you could have bought then for $1,000 would probably now cost you $10,000.

Your dollars would buy you a tenth of what they bought in 1940. That is purchasing power risk.

ON THE OTHER hand, the value of the stocks in the Dow-Jones Industrial Averages in the same 43-year period has gone from about 150 to over 1,200. The person who had his money in those stocks now would be able to buy just about as much as he could have 40 years ago, excluding taxes.

The record suggests that you really have less risk in holding a good group of stocks than you do in holding cash; however, the value of stocks fluctuates continually, and a person has to understand them to be comfortable emotionally when their money is in stocks.

To gain that understanding, it is helpful to start early in life to acquire a small amount of stock and get used to the way it acts. As time goes on and your understanding increases, you can increase your holdings.

By retirement age, you will be comfortable with a substantial part of our assets in stocks.

Fitness can be 'funny'

Several years ago, I had the opportunity to supervise an adult fitness and calisthenic program at a local YMCA. One participant, Jim H., was perhaps the most dedicated exercise enthusiast I ever have seen.

I watched Jim several evenings a week go through his ritual of 20 to 30 minutes of vigorous calisthenics followed immediately by a three- to four-mile run.

Jim was particularly conscientious to take every opportunity he could to "cram in" as much exercise as possible within each conditioning session.

DURING HIS upper body calisthenics, Jim moved quickly from exercise to exercise while keeping his legs simultaneously moving in place.

I noticed that he jogged with a clicker in his hand, logging each lap he covered, always running on the "outside" rather than the inside of the track. As he ran, he would constantly watch the large clock with the sweep second hand so as to drive his sweating body to maintain a seven-minutes-per-mile pace.

After he finished his run, Jim would stay moving and literally sprint to the weight room for some light lifting and progressive exercise. This was followed by a few chinups, dips on the parallel bars and sits up on the slant board.

Finally, I noticed that even in the steam and shower room Jim would continue to bend and stretch his flexible, athletic body, putting the final touches on his workout.

AS WE LEFT the Y together one evening and began walking the 50 or so yards to the parking lot, Jim suddenly stopped to get in his car — parked adjacent to the building in a space marked "Reserved for the Handicapped."

I asked, "Jim, why do you park your car here?"

"Too far to walk," he replied. Fitness is a funny business.

Barry Franklin, Ph.D. teaches in the Wayne State University Medical School and is in cardiac rehabilitation at Sinai Hospital.

Legislators favor War Powers Act

Thursday, November 10, 1983 O&E

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 27 through Nov. 2.

HOUSE

GRENADA: The House voted, 403 for and 23 against, to apply the 1973 War Powers Act to the recent U.S. invasion of Grenada, thus demanding that President Reagan remove all troops from the Caribbean island by Dec. 24 or seek an extension of the deadline.
The Senate was expected to follow suit and make the deadline official. It voted once for withdrawal by Dec. 24 (below), but later voided that decision.

roll call report

Among House members voting yes, were both supporters and critics of the invasion.
Most members voting no supported the military action and did not want to limit the president's options for bringing it to an end.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

MARKETING FOOD: The House rejected, 47 for and 319 against, an amendment to weaken the federal "marketing orders" that restrict growers in their selling of oranges, lemons and certain other foods.

Backers said the amendment was pro-consumer because the orders covering 47 crops artificially boost prices to the unfair advantage of agribusiness. Opponents said the regulatory structure protects growers through boom-and-bust cycles and helps consumers by insuring a stable supply of perishable foods.

The amendment sought to retain the Office of Management and Budget's power to recommend abolition of a given order.

The overall bill (HR 4139) was sent to the Senate, where a move also is afoot to remove the OMB's power over marketing orders.

Supporter George Miller, D-Calif., said marketing orders are "price-fixing" and the agriculture community has gotten the government to go along with it.

Opponent George Brown, D-Calif., said the orders are used "not to exploit the consumer, but to ensure the orderly marketing of a high quality product."

Members voting yes were opponents of marketing orders.

Voting yes: Pursell, Levin and Broomfield.
Voting no: Hertel and Ford.

LEBANON: By a vote of 153 for and 274 against, the House refused to force the withdrawal of U.S. Marines from Lebanon by cutting off funds for the operation.

Killed by the vote was an amendment to the fiscal 1984 defense appropriations bill that sought to end funding for the Lebanon deployment next March 1. The $237 billion Pentagon spending measure (HR 4185) later was sent to the Senate.

Supporter Barbara Kennelly, D-Conn., said "I differ with the president of the United States. I do not agree with his placement of our troops in Lebanon."

Opponent Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., said removing the troops would trigger "the renewal of a savage civil war in Lebanon, with anti-government forces aided and abetted by Syria."

Members voting yes wanted the marines in Lebanon brought home by March, 1984.
Voting yes: Hertel and Ford.
Voting no: Pursell, Levin and Broomfield.

SENATE

TELEVISION: The Senate refused, 32 for and 57 against, to expedite an effort by the three major television networks to gain financial rights to programs made for them by independent producers.

At issue was the Federal Communication Commission's proposed rule to permit ABC, CBS and NBC to acquire syndication or re-run rights to such programming. The networks seek this source of revenue to offset financial losses inflicted by pay-TV and other emerging competitors.

Although on a parliamentary technicality, this vote had the effect of delaying until next May 30 or later any change in the FCC's syndication rules.

Senators voting no wanted to delay the networks' effort to gain syndication rights.

Carl Levin, D, voted no. Donald Riegle, D, voted no.

GRENADA: By a vote of 64 for and 20 against, the Senate agreed with the House (above) that the 1973 War Powers Act should apply to the U.S. invasion of Grenada. The Vietnam-era law is intended to give Congress a degree of control over a president's decisions as commander-in-chief.

This vote occurred during debate on a debt ceiling measure (HJ Res 308) that later was defeated. The Senate was expected to reconsider the question of how long U.S. troops should remain in Grenada.

Sponsor Gary Hart, D-Colo., said the Senate should invoke the War Powers Act and "affirm congress' rightful place in matters of war and peace."

Opponent John East, R-N.C., said the Senate should instead be "commending the president for not having 'Cartierized' American foreign policy in a situation that had the potential for degenerating into another Iranian hostage situation."

Senators voting yes wanted to give the president a deadline for bringing troops back from Grenada. Levin voted yes. Riegle voted yes.

OU panel deflates JFK 'myth'

By Kathy Parrish
staff writer

Is John F. Kennedy truly a "hero" for our times?

Or did martyrdom make the 35th president seem bigger than life?

"When a person becomes a martyr, his personal achievements are forgotten and his ideals magnified," said DeWitt Dykes, associate professor of history at Oakland University, during a panel discussion on "Realities and Myths: John F. Kennedy the Person."

"That's why we need to put him in perspective."

DURING ONE of three discussions marking the 20th anniversary of Kennedy's death, the OU panel tried to do just that.

About 20 students and faculty heard two historians and a campus minister debunk the Kennedy "myth." And for some — too young to remember the Kennedy era — it was a sobering experience.

"I've always been led to believe that one of Kennedy's greatest achievements was that he acted decisively during the Cuban Missile Crisis," said one young woman.

"But that's not what you're telling us. Why weren't we told these things?"

DURING THE noontime discussion, the panelists compared Kennedy to two other legends — Presidents Teddy Roosevelt and Franklin Delano Roosevelt. They pointed out that all three had charisma which appealed to voters.

But the educators agreed JFK's actions just didn't put him in a league with those American heroes.

"When Kennedy ran against Nixon (in 1960), he was very popular because he represented something tangible; he represented a vigorous, forceful man with intentions," said history Professor Patrick Strauss, adding that as a U.S. senator, Kennedy initiated liberal legislation but usually voted as a moderate.

"Kennedy was a myth. He was not liberal or progressive, but in many ways a conservative."

DYKES CREDITS Kennedy with being a "good enough president to put on the right image." And for surrounding himself with the "right people."

"He had the quality of seeing the best public relations gesture and course of action; in choosing the image he chose the one that played the best," he said.

Dykes, who teaches black history, believes Kennedy made some strides on behalf of minorities through executive orders and proposed legislation. But he doubts Kennedy could have persuaded Congress to pass as strong a law as the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

And Strauss agreed. "Kennedy's relations with members of Congress he served with just weren't that good," said the historian, who believes President Lyndon Johnson got the legislation through because he had been a Senate leader. "Kennedy was a follower."

ALL THREE speakers see the Cuban Missile Crisis as Kennedy's biggest mistake — one that could have had disastrous results.

In 1962, Kennedy imposed a blockade on Cuba to keep the Soviet Union from bringing in more missiles. The crisis was resolved when the Soviets disbanded the bases.

"The Cuban Missile Crisis was the ultimate test of brinkmanship, and I think it could have been handled differently," said Strauss, who believes the episode could have resulted in nuclear war.

"I just don't think it was the best thing for us."

Dykes credited Kennedy with not "invading Cuba and getting us into a shooting match. But obviously the Bay of Pigs was a big mistake."

CAMPUS MINISTER Eric Kolbell, who is involved in peace work, said, "Twenty-one years later people still read the Cuban Missile Crisis as a unilateral act of Soviet aggression. And of course, it wasn't."

BUT TO KOLBELL, it's no surprise that JFK is even more of a hero 20 years after his death.

"We as a culture need myths," said the campus chaplain, who thinks Kennedy's charismatic personality and martyrdom combine with America's "basic need to have that kind of myth."

"We all need a vision of Camelot. We need that to aspire to."

Shamrock harriers No. 1

Catholic Central wins 'A' crown

By Brad Emons
Staff writer

The hard work for Catholic Central's cross country team began in August at a camp near Grand Bend, Ontario.

And the fruits of labor were finally realized Saturday as the Shamrocks won their first boys' state cross country championship at Eagle Creek Golf Course near Hartland.

Thirty Class A schools participated with CC scoring one of the widest margins of victory in the history of the event.

CC tallied 92 points, 118 ahead of second place Grand Blanc and 122 ahead of third place Warren Woods Tower.

"I told the kids if they run the way they can, they could win it," said CC coach Tony Magni. "We knew, though, we had to have under a 100 to win it with 30 teams there."

The Shamrocks, who finished second to Grosse Pointe North in last year's meet, was the top-ranked team heading into the finals.

"GOING IN we're thinking they had to beat us," Magni said. "That was even though Grand Blanc beat us earlier in the season in an invitational by nine points."

"But we had three kids out." CC junior Steve Shaver, injured most of the summer, came on strong at the end of the season, finishing fourth overall, covering the 3.1-mile course in 15:48.5.

Fellow junior Marty Hegarty, who spent his summer roofing houses, gained seventh individually with a time of 15:54.4.

"What was different is that they usually never come in together," Magni said of his two standouts. "I think they were 5-5 against each other this season. One would be up, and then it was the other."

"For those two it was a matter of getting into shape because they had missed all summer, but as the season went along they started coming."

Depth was a key for the Shamrocks, who got strong performances from: Bob Shaver, 16th, 16:20.3; Jim Cauzillo, 21st, 16:24.9; Mark Anderson, 44th, 16:42.2; Chris Rito, 74th, 16:56.5; and Pat Isom, 93rd, 17:09.2.

"BOTH BOB (Shaver) and Jim (Cauzillo) really hung us in there," Magni said. "Cauzillo was a pleasant surprise and Anderson has been our leader from the beginning of the season."

The CC harriers, the first Catholic League team to win a state title, was honored Monday during a school pep assembly.

"They had a pep band," said the CC coach. "and on Saturday we took a whole busload of kids to the meet." Livonia Churchill, the other area qualifier, finished 26th in the team standings with 535 points.

Doug Plachta was 17th overall and Don Miller 30th for the Chargers. In the individual race, Livonia Stevenson's Ken Dubois gained sixth with a time of 16:06, while Westland John Glenn's Jay Hunt finished 14th.

Other top area finishes were recorded by RU's David Adkins (18th) and Garden City's Dave Homann (32nd).

Football fun: play for pain

HERE'S THIS THING we humans have with pain. What psychologists might call a love/hate relationship.

Perhaps the highest paid group of professional people on the face of this planet are those entrusted with our health. They spend most of their adult lives training and searching for ways to help us live longer without the burden of pain.

I can tell you now, they're working toward the wrong goal. Instead of trying to curb pain, they should try to cure the human attraction to it.

Maybe that's why the oath doctors take is so Hippocratical.

People just don't make sense. All that money spent to stay physically well, and on insurance to insure staying physically well. Then we go out and purposely subject ourselves to pain.

NOW, IN SOME cases there may be a semblance of logic to this. I mean, if a guy is getting something of worth for risking his physical well-being, it's understandable.

Take professional athletes, for instance. They get paid lots of money for playing games meant for kids. They inflict and absorb their fair share of pain, but they are normally remunerated handsomely.

And amateur athletes? Well, they do have dreams. Play hard enough, work hard enough and get a college scholarship or maybe a pro contract.

I GUESS THE GUYS I can't understand are those living in a Michelob Light commercial. The guys that sacrifice anything because a beer is at stake. Or just pride.

Every Saturday morning during the fall, men fitting the above description gather behind the old Pierce School in Birmingham to knock heads. It's organized, mind (?) you. It's called the Michigan State Flag Football League.

The Birmingham league is open to any team that wants to pay the $225 entry fee. They've even got a state championship series scheduled.

A dozen teams from six leagues throughout the state — Southfield, too, sponsors a league — will play a double-elimination tournament, with the championship game scheduled for Nov. 20 at Birmingham Groves. Top teams from the Southfield and Birmingham circuits (both are in their playoffs at present) will take part.

Plymouth sponsors a football league, but it's touch football. Instead of ripping a nylon strap from a player's belt to make a tackle (as in flag football), in touch football you just touch a player with one hand and he's down. Play is stopped.

IT ALL SOUNDS reasonable. There are plenty of rules to prevent over-active play in both flag and touch. No fumbles. Head slaps. Nose twisting. Nothing like that.

But that doesn't mean it doesn't happen. Who's to say what's aggressive and what's over-aggressive?

Not everybody plays for pain, mind you. Some play for the competitiveness. The thrill of victory. They probably don't even like pain or aggressive play.

Quarterbacks, for instance. Still, the risk of physical debilitation should make some of these guys think twice. And for what?

Compare these football standards:

- Pro and college players are coddled and pampered by the media and play their games in front of huge crowds and TV audiences. Recreation players? They play on a back lot in front of a handful of wives and friends — and maybe one newspaperman crazy enough to go and watch.

- Pro and college players wear first-rate equipment, cushioning the blows delivered and taken. Recreation players are forbidden padding. The smack you hear on every play is flesh on flesh, cushioned by nothing more than a sweatshirt.

- Pro and college players compete on artificial turf, sometimes in the comfort of the great indoors. Recreation players — let me relate this: On one recent Saturday morning I awoke, pecked outside and went back to bed. The rain poured down like out of a Morton's salt box, and it was so cold the trees were shivering.

- Know what? I later drove by Pierce School and those guys were playing anyway.

- Pro and college players get money or a free education for risking their bodies. Should something happen, the finest doctors in the land are called in. Recreation players pay to play. If they get hurt and miss work, their bosses give them dirty looks. Or something worse.

RECREATION FOOTBALL isn't blossoming everywhere. In Farmington, the sport was dropped due to a lack of interest. Maybe getting up at 8 a.m. on Saturdays didn't appeal to many.

Other communities dropped the sport for economic reasons. With cutbacks in police forces, these areas couldn't afford to have cops making constant runs over to the playing field to break up fights.

But in Birmingham, the move is toward expansion to two flag leagues next year. Teams were turned away this season.

I guess all this reminds me of that vintage Dick Butkus story. When an interviewer asked the old Chicago Bear linebacker what he did for fun, he said he enjoyed movies.

Then he recalled a horror movie in which a victim's head rolled down a flight of steps. Often, Butkus said, he dreamed of doing something similar to a running back.

All for the love of sport. Call in the psychologists.

Blazers, Mercy set for rematch

By Chris McCosky
Staff writer

Round three will be for the Catholic crown. Farmington Our Lady of Mercy (16-2) and Livonia Ladywood (16-2) will meet for the third time this season at 6 p.m. Sunday, at University of Detroit's Calihan Hall, in the finals of the Catholic League A-B playoffs.

The season series is tied at 1-1.

Ladywood earned a berth in the finals by holding off gritty Harper Woods Regina, 48-43, Tuesday night at Harper Woods Notre Dame High School in the semifinals.

Mercy had a far easier time of it, blowing away Harper Woods Gallagher 50-39, in its semifinal match.

LADYWOOD WAS LED by the torrid shooting of junior guard Emily Wagner. Wagner connected on seven of 12 shots from the floor and five of seven from the foul line en route to a game high 19 points.

Seven Wagner points in the second quarter helped give the Blazers a 24-17 edge at the half. The score remained in Ladywood's favor, 35-29, after three quarters. The Blazers extended that lead to 10 points, 39-29, early in the fourth quarter.

The key to Ladywood's effectiveness, according to coach Ed Kavanaugh, was being able to control Regina's JoLynn Schneider. Going into the final quarter, Schneider had just seven points.

"We tried to control her the best we could," Kavanaugh said. "We saw that when they (Regina) beat Divine Child (in the first round of the playoffs), they went over the top a lot. We had one girl play in front of her, then we double-teamed behind her."

Schneider caught fire in the fourth quarter and brought Regina back into contention. Schneider scored six points in a two-minute span to pull Regina within two, 43-41.

AT THAT POINT, with 4:15 left in the game, Kavanaugh decided to go into a stall. Kavanaugh said afterwards he went into the stall to slow Regina down.

"They made a real nice run at us. We showed a lot of composure. We didn't fold. We went into the stall and made the big free throws," he said.

With 2:31 remaining, Wagner was tied up by Regina's Rita Russo. Wagner won the tip, and Ladywood remained in control. Tracey Ladouceur was then fouled and sank a clutch front end of a one-and-one. The Blazers led 44-41.

The Blazer defense forced Schneider to toss up two bad shots in a row which resulted in hoops by Trish White and Wagner.

Char Govin added 15 points and some deft ballhandling to the Blazer cause. Regina was paced

girls basketball

by Janice Seherer with 16. Schneider finished with 13.

The Ladywood victory avenges a 77-72 loss to Regina earlier this season which cost the Blazers a share of the Catholic League Central Division title.

MERCY JUMPED OUT to a 12-4 lead in the first quarter, had it 20-12 late in the second half, and then more or less took an early halftime. Gallagher scored six straight points in the final two minutes of the half to make it 22-18.

"The fact that we started making turnovers against their press concerned us," said Mercy coach Larry Baker. "But, their zone defense didn't concern us."

Baker was also concerned about his junior point guard Annette Ruggiero. Ruggiero, one of the heroes in Mercy's thrilling overtime victory against Flint Northwestern Saturday, injured an ankle in practice. Baker hoped he wouldn't have to use her. But he did.

"We just felt we needed her savvy in there. She did a terrific job," Baker said.

With Ruggiero running the offense and Sarah Basford filling the net with jumpers, Mercy outscored Gallagher 18-4 in the third quarter. Basford scored eight of her game-high 18 points in that third quarter.

The fourth quarter was a sloppy affair with Mercy playing all its reserves and Gallagher frantically pressing to get back into the game.

"GALLAGHER HAS improved a lot. They really wanted this one," Baker said.

Mary Rosowski played a very strong inside game for Mercy. She totally dominated Gallagher's big 6-foot-2 center Joan Rieger. Rieger fouled out in the fourth quarter with just four points. Rosowski scored 13. Terri Ford added 10 for Mercy.

Mercy, the champion of the Catholic League Central Division, is making its first appearance in the Catholic League finals since 1980. They haven't won the Catholic League since 1977.

"It's nice to be back in the finals," Baker said. "We'll be ready. I think both teams will come to play on Sunday. And I think you'll see both teams play better than they did today."

Ladywood defeated Mercy in their first encounter this season, 49-46. Mercy took round two, 54-49.

Win puts Bulldogs in title match

Livonia Bentley has another crack at the Western Lakes girls' basketball crown. The Bulldogs, who lost last year's final to Plymouth Salem, has a new opponent for 1983 — undefeated Walled Lake Western, winners of 18 straight. The two teams will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Walled Lake. Bentley, using a full-court press to take a 16-6 first quarter advantage, eliminated Walled Lake Central from contention with a 50-38 semifinal triumph Tuesday night at home. The Bulldogs, 16-2 overall, got 16 points from Sheri Wolfe and 14 more from Laurie Day to gain the victory. "We played well defensively, but offensively not that great," said Bentley coach Tom Lang. "Defensively we did all the things we had to do — press, man-to-man and match-up zone. I was real happy." Trailing 35-24 after three quarters, Central made a late charge, pulling within six points as Bentley missed the front end of four one-and-one free throw attempts. But Day hit two free throws and Wolfe made a basket to stave off the challenge. Bridget Nicole and Lonnie Payne each contributed eight points for the winners, while center Theresa Aragona had five steals and 12 rebounds. Aragona also limited Central's inside attack of Pam and Patty Fitzgerald to 12 points. STEVENSON 35, HARRISON 20: The Spartans raised their season record to 10-9 behind Lisa Bokovoy's 14 points, four steals and six rebounds.

Chris Schemanske and Amy Rozman combined for 16 more rebounds as Stevenson controlled the boards against the visiting Hawks. Karen Sklar led winless Harrison (0-19) with nine points. CHURCHILL 44, CANTON 42: Amy Brow scored what proved to be the winning basket with 25 seconds remaining to beat the Chiefs, who had a chance to tie it at the buzzer, but failed. Brow finished with nine points, while teammate Patti Schmidt pumped in 14, including six in the final period in a Western Lakes match-up played Tuesday night at Canton. Senior center LaDonna Sevakis contributed eight points and eight rebounds, while freshman Tracy Greenwald chipped in with six points and nine rebounds.

Lisa Russell and Lou Ann Hamblin tallied 14 and 12 points for Canton, now 6-11 overall. (Churchill is 7-11). CLARENCEVILLE 36, KINGSWOOD 31: The Trojans won their fourth Metro Conference game of the season behind Maureen Burke's 13 points. Darlene Glaser added 10 points for the winners, now 4-13 overall. "We were down by three points at one time in the third quarter," explained Clarenceville coach Vickie Bunetta. "We were missing shots like crazy and making lots of turnovers, but then we started to pick it up." On Friday, Glaser scored 14 points and sophomore center Kelly Watson added 12, but it wasn't enough in a 50-35 loss to Luthetan West.

Roulo heroics bolster Glenn

Nancy Roulo's late heroics carried Westland John Glenn to a come-from-behind 29-25 non-league girls' basketball victory Tuesday over visiting Dearborn.

Glenn trailed 25-23 with 1:06 to play before Roulo made a three-point play. Teammate Sophie Castonguay added two free throws and Roulo followed with another free throw to put the game out of reach with three seconds remaining.

"It was no beauty," said Glenn coach George Sommerman, whose team is 14-4 overall. "We were terrible from the floor. I don't think we hit 10 percent from the floor." Michele McCullen led the winners with 11 points.

BISHOP BORGESS 44, GABRIEL RICHARD 26: "It's nice to win," said Redford Bishop-Borgess coach Denise Zatkoff Monday night, after her team beat visiting Riverview Gabriel Richard for their third victory of the year.

Borgess, 3-16 overall, was led by Rene Ponto's 13 points. Her running mate at guard, Carol Klotz, added nine.

Klotz and Nancy Rzepka each scored 14 points Friday in a 48-44 loss to Madison Heights Bishop Foley, while Mary Pidek led all scorers with 15.

ST. AGATHA 55, PONTIAC CATHOLIC 41: Freshman Maryann Kick and Lisa Micou combined for 39 points Monday as Redford St. Agatha pounded Pontiac Catholic, 55-41.

Kick, a 5-foot-4 1/2-inch guard, scored 21 points while Micou contributed 18.

Junior Tia Littlejohn also chipped in with a fine floor game, according to coach Jim Murphy. She grabbed 12 rebounds and scored six points.

Meghan O'Flynn and Kathy Lewis tallied 12 each for Catholic.

The win gives Agatha a 4-13 overall record.

Rockets' Boles fuels city crown

Westland John Glenn sophomore running back Tony Boles rushed for 184 yards and two touchdowns Friday in a 19-10 season-ending football victory over crosstown rival Wayne Memorial.

"The pleasing thing about this game is that we were still improving at the end of the season," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon, whose team finished with a 7-2 record. "The offense in the second half played real well and Tony had a good game."

The Northwest Suburban League co-champs pulled away from a 7-3 half-time lead for the victory.

Boles scored on runs of 53 and 27 yards, while quarterback Jeff Hawley hit Rob Bell on a 15-yard pass for Glenn's other score.

Matt Mason had a TD and Dennis Korzelke added a 32-yard field goal for the Zebras, who finished at 4-5.

"Wayne is a big game for us because it's for the city championship," said Gordon.

SOUTH LYON 26, THURSTON 20: The Eagles finished the year at 2-7 as host South Lyon led 26-0 at the half and never looked back in a non-league game played Friday night.

"They were a good club and I'd rank South Lyon, as far as its line play goes, up there with John Glenn and North Farmington," said Thurston coach John Switchenko. "They had a good, solid line, and we couldn't handle their power. But we've had trouble against physical teams all year."

Dave Kress, who rushed for 60 yards in eight carries, scored two TDs for football

Thurston — a one-yard run followed by a 14-yard screen pass from quarterback Raffi Kostogian.

Cornerback Mark Rayha scooped up a fumbled pitch and raced 40 yards for Thurston's other TD.

"In the first half they overran us," Switchenko said. "We could have given up and put our heads down, but we made it respectable in the second half."

"We stopped them twice on drives in the second half."

CRESTWOOD 7, GARDEN CITY 6: The Chargers (7-2) scored the winning points with just under four minutes to go in regulation play.

Mike Kocieski's stole the ball from Garden City back Kevin Harkness and dashed 52 yards to knot things up at 6-6. Pete Stoyanovich then kicked the extra point to provide the final margin of victory.

Eric Hebestreit returned the opening kickoff 85 yards for GC's only score. It was his third TD kickoff return of the season and the second time in as many games that he returned the opening kickoff for a score.

John Romano completed seven of 14 passes for 103 yards. Hebestreit led the Cougar ground attack with 37 yards in 12 carries.

Garden City finished 3-6 overall.

Borgess concludes successful season

The running of Fred Owens carried Redford Bishop Borgess to a 28-0 victory Saturday over U-D High in the season football finale for both teams.

The win ties a Borgess record for most victories in a season, equalling the mark of 7-2 set in 1971.

Owens, a junior fullback, ran for 108 yards in 17 carries and two touchdowns. He opened the scoring with a 27-yard TD run with seven minutes to play in the second quarter, capping a 90-yard, 11-play drive. Owens then added a two-yard TD run in the third quarter.

The 108 yards gives him a final season total of 944.

"It's really too bad because he could have had a 1,000," said Borgess coach Gary Cook. "He had an 82-yard run nullified by a penalty. It was a holding call."

Linebackers accounted for Borgess' other two scores.

With 1:15 to go in the first half, Jim Holdscaw scooped up a U-D fumble and raced 64 yards for a TD. That was followed by Tim Walton's 68-yard interception return in the final quarter.

football

Kicker Joe Burns rounded out the scoring, booting all four extra points.

Borgess had 115 yards passing as Kendall Cobb caught four passes for 48 yards.

Defensively, the Spartans held U-D to 59 total yards.

"Defensively we had a great day hitting," Cook said.

Junior linebacker Ron Costello, making his first start, was in on 11 tackles and had "several great hits," according to Cook.

And the usually reliable Gordie Pacheco, a junior cornerback, was in on nine tackles.

ST. AGATHA 39, HOLY CROSS 0:

The Aggies recorded their third win Saturday at Marine City as Kevin Bell scored on touchdown runs of 12, 25 and 18 yards.

Bell finished with 174 yards rushing in 18 carries.

Quarterback Frank Hill hurled a 32-yard touchdown pass to tight end Andy Robertson and added a two-point conversion toss to Dean Tonli.

Robertson scored a TD on a 35-yard fumble recovery and Tom Zacharias plunged four yards for another score.

All the scoring occurred in the first half.

Agatha coach John Goddard substituted freely in the second half, going to an all-senior offense which included tackle Bob Menard at running back.

CATHOLIC CENTRAL 56, ROYAL OAK SHRINE 22: The Shamrocks (5-4) closed out their season impressively in a Catholic League crossover game at Royal Oak Kijmball.

Junior running back Tom Bridenstine scored three TDs and finished with 150 yards rushing in 13 carries.

Prognosticators finish strong

The prep football season is officially over for 1983.

But thirty-two teams from across the state will participate in post-season play, culminating in the championship finals in each of the four classes Saturday, Nov. 26 at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Tickets, $3.50 per session (Class D-A and Class C-B), can be purchased in advance for the championships by sending ing a check to Michigan High School Athletic Association, Inc., 1019 Trowbridge Road, East Lansing, Mi., 48823-9990; or the Pontiac Silverdome, 1200 Featherstone Drive, Pontiac 48057. (Specify number of tickets and sessions desired).

Area fans can get a glimpse of regional Class B playoff action as Dearborn Heights Robichaud (9-0) and Sable (9-0) tangle at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Westland John Glenn High School.

As for predictions, both Brad Emons and Chris McCosky ended the final week with 11-2 records. Emons won with an overall season record of 83-30, compared with McCosky's 75-38 mark (not bad for a rookie).

Rocks out, 29-26

By Brad Emons

Staff writer

A new champion will be crowned in Western Lakes girls' basketball.

Walled Lake Western saw to that Tuesday night, holding off defending league champion Plymouth Salem, 29-26.

Western, sporting an 18-0 record, meets Livonia Bentley (16-2) for the championship Friday night in Walled Lake.

The determined Rocks played well enough defensively, but were unable to shake loose offensively against Western, led by 6-foot-3 junior center Val Hall.

Unlike the first meeting earlier this season, which Western won by 14 points, Salem had its chances to win.

"We wanted to control the tempo and we did," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We wanted to challenge their big players at the basket, but there was a reluctance at times because of the 6-3 girl. When we did challenge we had good opportunities."

ALTHOUGH Hall scored just five points, her presence was felt underneath.

She grabbed 14 rebounds and sealed the victory, blocking Fran Whittaker's attempt at a reverse layup with 31 seconds remaining that could have put the Rocks even.

Western's Nancy Leach then was fouled and made one free throw with four seconds remaining to end the suspense.

"The defense was something else on both sides," said Western coach Tom Stitner. "Right from the start we stressed defense. We pride ourselves on defense just like they do."

The Warriors, however, had a little more scoring punch.

Sherri Davis, who scored 10 points to share game-high honors with Salem's Pam McBride, got loose for two key baskets off back-door cuts in the final quarter.

Western also made 11 of 18 free throws compared with Salem's four of nine.

girls basketball

THOMANN, protesting a blocking call, was hit with a technical foul with 6:36 to play and Barb Watts stepped to the line, making both shots to give the Warriors a 24-20 lead.

But Salem pulled within two, 28-26 on Whittaker's basket with 1:12 remaining. The Rocks then caused a Western turnover, but couldn't buy the equalizer.

"We hit some perimeter shots and that was a key to the game," Stitner said. "We had some people step in and make the shots."

"And I thought we kept our composure well under pressure."

Using a patient, ball-control offense, Salem jumped out to a 10-5 first quarter advantage as McBride and Dawn Johnson combined for eight points. (Johnson finished with nine points).

The Rocks, however, went stone cold in the second quarter, scoring just two points, both on free throws.

"IN THE FIRST quarter we had the court spread good enough, but then they made a few adjustments defensively," Thomann said. "In the second quarter we had some great scoring chances, but we just didn't put them down."

Western enjoyed a five-point lead in the third quarter, but Salem finished the period trailing by only two, 22-20, thanks to McBride's six points.

"We have to take this game and go from here," said Thomann. "The season doesn't stop here."

"There are some disappointed people, but I look at our players and they accepted the challenge."

The talent is as good as any in the league, but we were beat twice by Walled Lake Western — we were just beat by a better basketball team I'd say. Maybe somewhere down the line we'll get another chance to play them."

Ocelot spikers set for region tourney

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

How well Schoolcraft College's volleyball team fares in the NJCAA Region 12 Championships this weekend will depend largely on its ability to reach a level of play it has been able to attain only on occasion this season.

In short, the Ocelots have to be good — consistently.

"I'm sure not counting us out," said Schoolcraft coach Joe Jandasek. "We're going to have to play steady. We've got the capability to play with anybody if we play aggressively consistently."

"By aggressive, I mean we have to take charge at the net and keep pressure on our opponents. We've been playing too conservatively, a kind of 'see if you can do the job without pressing to the limit' attitude. We can't do that because it gives our opponent the opportunity to come back."

SCHOOLCRAFT WILL OPEN the 14-team, double-elimination tournament at 9 a.m. Friday at Schoolcraft, which is hosting the tournament.

The Friday morning match is against Grand Rapids Community College. Cuyahoga East Community College from Cleveland will play Kalamazoo Valley CC in the other 9 a.m. contest.

The Schoolcraft/Grand Rapids winner will play Lakeland (Ohio) at 1:30 p.m. Friday. Jandasek figured Lake Michigan, a nationally-ranked team, to be one of the favorites. Other community college teams competing are Henry Ford, the Eastern Conference champion; Muskegon, Lansing, Southwestern Michigan, Vincennes (Ind.), Kelllogg, Sinclair (Ohio) and Mott.

Saturday the tournament resumes at 9 a.m., with the championship match slated for 8 p.m. and, if another match is needed, 10 p.m.

SCHOOLCRAFT TUNED UP for the regionals by playing in the 15-team Can-Am Tournament at the University of Windsor last weekend. It was not one of Ocelots' better performances. They won just two of eight pool play games, splitting with Brock (Ont.) University and Lake Superior State.

In the consolation tournament, Schoolcraft topped Lansing, 15-11, 15-11, then "played well for the first nine points" Jandasek said against Waterloo (Ont.) College before "really letting up" and losing, 15-9, 15-1. Oakland University eventually won the championship, beating Grand Valley.

Jandasek singled out the performances of setters Beth Wesman of Livonia Churchill and Tina Boll of Ida for consistently solid performances.

Last Tuesday (Nov. 1), Schoolcraft wound up its Eastern Conference season with a tight, five-game victory over Mott, 16-14, 16-18, 15-13, 13-15, 15-11, at Mott. The victory assured Schoolcraft of at least a tie for second place behind unbeaten Henry Ford (8-0) with a 5-3 mark.

S'craft title hopes ride high

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Good things happen when a team wins.

Like awards and honors and post-season tournament berths. All of which started rolling toward Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team this week.

Ocelot coach Larry Christoff was voted Region 12 Coach of the Year for the second-straight season and for the third time in the six years such an honor has been awarded. The balloting was completed Monday night at a meeting of region coaches.

In addition, Schoolcraft sophomore Jim King was the top vote-getter in a coaches' ballot for region players to be submitted for All-American accolades. King and teammates Doug Marshall and Manny Murra were named to the All-Region first team, while Hashim Aldabal and Dan O'Shea were chosen to the second squad.

SCHOOLCRAFT, WHICH won the region title with a 7-1 mark, will play in the NJCAA Inter-Regional tournament against Lewis and Clark College, the Region 24 (southern Illinois) representative, at 1 p.m. Saturday at Triton College in River Grove, Ill.

The winner plays in Sunday's 11 a.m. championship contest against the Bethany Lutheran of Minnesota-DuPage winner.

Victory in the Inter-Regional means a trip to the NJCAA national tournament in Trenton, N.J., Thanksgiving weekend. Eight teams will vie for the title in the double-elimination nationals.

Lewis and Clark was the region champ a year ago, beating Macomb CC in the finals; 1-0. Christoff called his first-round opponents "basically a good passing team. That's their style."

AS FAR AS SCOUTING Lewis and Clark, Christoff explained that wasn't his style.

"I'll watch a game but rarely will I base my strategy on that," the Schoolcraft coach said. "You never know if a kid is having a good game or if he'll even play against you. You could aim your practices at stopping one player and he might not even play. That would ruin a whole week's worth of work."

Christoff's strategy is formed in the first three to five minutes of the game, a span he called "critical. I determine weaknesses and strengths and then make the necessary adjustments."

"Few coaches are outcoached. Players and how well they're coached in team concept determine the outcome."

Christoff is entering the tournament with high hopes, partially based on strong practices during the last week. The game will be played on Triton's artificial turf, a surface Schoolcraft's players have not played a game on this season. However, they did get some practice time on the much faster surface at an indoor arena in Farmington last week.

Christoff CALLED his selection as Coach of the Year "a great honor, not so much for me but for the whole program. For the program to be successful, it needs support like I get from (athletic director) Marv Gans."

Christoff called King, a Livonia Franklin grad who played fullback-midfield for Schoolcraft, as the one who "initiated the attack for us and had to play back on defense, too." King and Marshall, who was the team's top goal-scorer with 18, are two of only three sophomores on the squad.

Kickers get respect

Three straight losses in national tournament play may not sound like anything to be proud of.

Yet consider that Schoolcraft College's women's soccer squad is in its first season, that it is the only two-year college team of its kind in the region (which is why the Ocelots earned a berth in the NJCAA tournament — by default), and that the roster and practices fluctuated much of the season — and just surviving through nationals is good reason for optimism.

Schoolcraft, which finished its regular season with a 3-3-1 mark, absorbed a 7-1 pasting in its first game at the nationals to Morrisville (N.Y.), top-ranked nationally among junior colleges. The eight-team tourney was played at Essex Community College in Baltimore last weekend.

"After that game some opposing coaches felt, 'Should they be in the tournament?'" Schoolcraft coach Ed Dudek said.

SCHOOLCRAFT SHOWED its detractors it did belong by staying close to its next two foes. The Ocelots lost to Nassau (N.Y.) in their second game, 2-0, and to Florissant (St. Louis) in their third by a narrow, 2-1 margin.

"That last game could have gone either way," Dudek said. "Before the game, people were saying maybe we should be dropped, that the selection process should be changed."

Dudek is hoping the sport will transcend from its present club level to varsity next year. "I can really recruit if we do (go varsity)," Dudek said.

"After that (Florissant) game, they decided to keep the format for another year. I think we impressed them, showed them that players from this area do have good skills."

Biggs beats Craig Payne

boxing

Craig Payne would just as soon forget the 1983 U.S. Amateur Boxing Championships.

The super-heavyweight from Livonia was a first-round casualty Tuesday in Colorado Springs, Colo., dropping a unanimous 5-0 decision to nemesis Tyrell Biggs of Philadelphia.

It was Payne's third career loss and most dismal showing against Biggs, who quickly regains his No. 1 status among U.S. super-heavyweights.

Biggs, the 1982 World Champion, had fallen behind Payne in recent rankings after the Livonian stunned Cuban gold medalist Teofilo Stevenson for the North American title in September in Houston.

Last month, Payne was runner-up in the World Championships to Italy's Francesco Damiani.

"Craig didn't perform the way he's capable of performing," said Livonia Boxing Club coach Paul Soucy. "We're very disappointed."

"We're going back and training 20 times harder. We're going to be there when the Olympics are there."

PAYNE'S CAMP was disturbed at the first-round pairing, which pitted the top two Olympic contenders in the opening round.

"I wasn't prepared for it," said Payne in a press conference afterward. "I wasn't expecting to fight him first."

"He didn't really surprise me. My timing was missing and it just wasn't there for me.

"I thought I established the pace of the fight in the first round. In the second round, you have to start determining the fight. You have to be the aggressor with Biggs."

Biggs, always humble in victory, said his "physical skills" were enough to beat Payne.

"I'm just looking to win my fights and take care of business," he said. "He hit me only four or five times in the match and I caught him that many times in the first round alone."

FOR PAYNE, it's time to regroup. "It looks like I have to knock him out (the next time)," he said. "It was a bad fight. I'm going to keep working hard and forget about it and go back to the drawing board."

"He (Biggs) has been in boxing longer and he's got certain things going for him that I don't have and it makes a difference."

All medalists in the tournament will gain an automatic berth in the 1984 Olympic Trials in June.

Despite the loss, Payne should gain a spot anyway because of his record. The U.S. Amateur title, however, is the only national crown to elude the Livonian.

Poised skaters set for nationals

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Need an example of what sports can do for the youth of our country? Check out Gwen Cirbes and Kim Mojeski.

They're figure skaters. And they're good at what they do. At the Eastern Great Lakes Regional in Cleveland, Ohio, last week, Cirbes placed third in novice singles and Mojeski was second in intermediate singles.

Both showed considerable poise in an interview Tuesday at the Plymouth Cultural Center Ice Arena, where they train four hours a day, six days a week. They answered questions clearly and directly — something of a novelty in this profession.

But, then again, Gwen Cirbes is just 13. And Kim Mojeski is only 12.

FEW GIRLS their age could handle such a thing as a newspaper interview without getting flustered. Few people any age can.

It didn't bother Gwen or Kim. That's the kind of poise sports can teach.

"I went into open skating through the parks and recreation program," Gwen, an eighth grader at Central Middle School, said.

"My older sister got me interested," answered Kim, who is in seventh grade at Dearborn Riverside.

Another benefit of an athletic career? Discipline. Gwen is up and on the ice by 6 a.m. six days a week, working out for four hours. Kim joins her twice a week in the morning, then sacrifices her afternoons for workouts.

Kim's schedule doesn't interfere with her classwork. For Gwen, "They have to arrange my schedules because I go in late" due to a long morning practice. The rigorous schedule doesn't bother either girl.

"I don't really get sick of it," Gwen said. "Well, maybe practicing the old stuff a little. But we're always learning a lot of new things."

"It's really a lot of fun," Kim added.

THEIR IMPRESSIVE performances in the regionals qualified them for the Midwestern Championships Nov. 30 to Dec. 3 in Minneapolis, Minn. The top three (a group of 12 competed) in each of four regionals qualified.

Intermediate competition ends at the Midwesterns, so that's it for Kim. Should Gwen place in the top three, she would qualify for the nationals.

Both girls need to pass a certain number of tests to move up in quality of competition. Gwen's next jump would be to juniors; Kim's would be to novice.

Neither is certain if they'll make a jump next year. Part of the decision certainly will be made by their coach of nearly three years, Teresa Romano.

"We'll just keep going and see what we can do," said Gwen matter-of-factly.

Both girls smiled easily, without a blush or giggle between them.

Records broken in 'star' leagues

If, As the sages say, coming events cast their shadows before them, the bowling record book for the Detroit area will be re-written by the end of the season.

The high scoring that has marked competition since opening night is continuing and showing up in the perfect game category.

So far 39 have been recorded, compared to 32 at this time last year. And all classic average lists are showing the trend. In the all-star Tuesday classic, 52 of the 80 bowlers are averaging better than 200. This is compared with the times in the not too distant past when a 200 average bowler was tops. Today he would finish fifth in his league.

MERRI-BOWL: Chuck O'Rourke continued his heavy firing in the handicappers league when he posted a 766 that earned him a place in the 700 club. Gary Nagle, of the father and son league, was right behind him with a 746. In other good showings, Sue Lewka paced the ladies classic with 653. And Shirley Wald was high in the doubles with 697.

WOODLAND LANES: Shirley Smith took scoring honors among the women with a 242 game in the kings and queens league. Mary Brown paced the wonder women with 223 and in the 990's league Walter Chazernoby was high with 245.

WESTLAND BOWL: Two more

in the pocket

by W.W. Edgar

members were inducted in the 700 club. Tim Detherage used a 279 opener from a 729 to show the way in the classic, and Greg Proctor closed with a 259 for a 710. In the Monday all-star league, Scott Wilson had a 268 in 672 and Herschel Parris followed with a 650.

BEL-AIRE: As usual, the pins were flying in the classic. Tony Stitak opened with a 279 for a 720 series and right behind him came Roger Leoma with a 706 and Bill Horowitz had a 691.

GARDEN LANES: With a 635 series, Ray Jaganic took top honors in the St. Linus league. He was only seven pins ahead of Ron Larkin who had a 608 and Joe Natagas was next with 602.

PLAZA LANES: Ray Bajer, fashioned a 683 that was good enough to top the business and industrial league, while John Shandillis continued his high shooting with a 686 in the pin busters circuit. Dave Bazner landed second with 662, and Don Miller had a 651.

COUNTRY LANES: Tina Schafer, a junior in the Saturday monraing league, who carries a 145 average, reached a new high with games of 212, 209 and 185.

Girls' harriers

"It was probably the only bad race Julie ran all year," said Churchill coach Dave Westover. "I really don't know what happened."

Glenn was led by Karen Opp, who took 29th place. She was followed by teammates Pam Eldridge, 30th, and Laura Grazulis, 49th.

"We had a pretty good meal," said

Glenn coach Ed Phillips. "We were only two points out of 12th."

IN THE INDIVIDUAL race, Stevenson's Sue Tatigian was 35th with a time of 20:30 followed by Kris White, Bishop Borgess, 44th; Kelly Holzwar, Livonia Franklin, 47th; Denise Durrer, Redford Union, 48th; Janis Bilinski, Redford Union, 51st; Sherry Williams, Bishop Borgess, 67th.

Locally produced albums don't bring fame, fortune

By James Windell
special writer

THE CLOSEST THING to Nirvana, if you're a musician, is your own album. Right?

And if you've got that well-produced album, you're on your way to a best-selling record. Right again?

It ain't necessarily so. Local musicians who have produced their own albums have found the way to fame and riches in the music industry is not exactly paved with vinyl.

Sheila Landis can attest to this.

A singer and songwriter with outstanding talent, Sheila Landis has just produced and released her fourth album ("Singer/Songwriter") on her own Shelan label. But she's not making a lot of money from the sale of her albums and neither are they bringing her and her band the kind of steady work she enjoys.

"I think as I keep making albums they become less important to me," said Landis, a Rochester resident.

AFTER GIVING her first album the greatest push because she was riding on great hope and enthusiasm at the time, she now adopts a different attitude toward the making of records.

"In the beginning I had all my hopes so high and essentially nothing happened," she said. "So now I just do them as sort of a hobby." A hobby, she added, that costs her about the price of a car each year.

That translates into about $3,000 each year she records an album. Other musicians may spend up to $30,000 to record an album.

"I'm very realistic because I don't expect anything to happen with my albums," Farmington Hills reeds player Larry Nozero conceded.

A musician with a large Detroit-area following and successful appearances at last summer's Montreux-Detroit International Jazz Festival, Nozero said he doesn't record his own albums for profit.

"You always want to recoup your costs," said Nozero, who recently released "Up to Your Neck" on his own Larcon label. "But you have to be realistic about what your potential is."

NOZERO IS well aware of what his potential is. After appearing as a sideman and studio musician on hit singles and albums for other people while building a following with his own jazz group, Nozero can reasonably expect to sell several thousand albums locally.

It's getting the album in record stores outside Detroit that presents the greatest problem after an album is finished, however.

"Finding distribution for a small label is very, very difficult," Nozero said. "Often it's not worth it for big record distributors to deal with a small independent label and deal in terms of 500 records."

If distribution of an album is a major problem after a record is finished, the economics of producing an album from the start tends to be prohibitively expensive for most musicians and bandleaders.

"I just save the money through the working gigs," said Landis, "and when I've got wad of four or five thousand saved, then I hire musicians, rehearse and go into the studio."

With the experience of four albums behind her, Landis reports the largest amount of money goes to the musicians she hires to play on the album. Musicians who work in a studio must be paid union scale during a session.

THEN, THE COST of a sound studio can range from $50 to $175 an hour. That cost could soar into the thousands of dollars with actual recording time, overdubbing, mixing and assembling the final tape.

The next chunk of money goes to the pressing plant where the master tape is converted into a vinyl disc. On top of these costs are expenses related to promotion and distribution.

Detroit's Wendell Harrison, a top-notch reed player who has fronted a successful jazz group for years, has put out six of his own albums. His last record, released in 1982, was "Organic Dreams" on his own Wenh Records label.

"You've got to sell albums if you're going to stay alive," said Harrison, who years ago formed Rebirth, Inc., a non-profit organization to deal with his recordings and promotion.

"To get any kind of club or concert work, you got to have an album out there — whether it's selling or not," he said.

Harrison presses as many albums as he can afford — which may be as few as one, up to 2,000. "We then try to keep them in print as long as the people want them," he said. When the demand is depleted, he records a new album.

ALTHOUGH HE, like many local musicians, has a new record project in mind most of the time, recording plans often get shoved aside when the demands of reality intrude. "Records spend money," he quipped, "while concerts and tours pay the bills."

John Katalenic, a pianist who lives outside of Redford in northwest Detroit, recently recorded and released his Katalenic-Kwek Band on his own Great Dane Records label.

This was a more expensive recording project than most because he and saxophonist Gary Kwek front a big band. Katalenic hopes the record ("Morning Sun") serves some purposes.

"The benefits of an album are that it gives you more exposure and a chance to get in the real game," Katalenic said.

The real game, as defined by Katalenic, is national distribution of an album and being able to book tours outside your hometown.

But musicians who record on their own label, and therefore qualify as small independent record companies, are not equipped to distribute nationally.

"Caddyshack" (1980), 9 p.m. Friday on Ch. 4. Originally 99 minutes. This is the week for 1980 films, starting with "Caddyshack," a callow comedy from the "destruction is funny" school of humor. Rodney Dangerfield manages a few zingers and Ted Knight is a fine comic foil, but Bill Murray is wasted and Chevy Chase, as always, seems out of place. Some recent comedies — Mel Brooks' "Blazing Saddles," for one — with a little editing, have come off better on TV than they fared on the big screen, though. So there's hope, however slim.
Rating: $2.70.

"9 to 5" (1980), 9 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 2. Originally 110 minutes. There's no hope for "9 to 5," the would-be secretaries' liberation film that takes three downtrodden working girls and subjects them to the humiliating paces popularized by Lucille Ball's "scatterbrained dame" school of humor. Dabney Coleman, a wonderful comic actor, can't even right this mess of a picture that begins with one good idea and doesn't know where to go from there. Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton co-star.
Rating: $1.98.

Robert Hayes and Julie Hagerty also star in this takeoff on airplane disaster films that rates high on both the laugh and groan meters.
Rating: $3.

No discourse here — just a recommendation: See Stanley Kubrick's "2001." Note its subtle wit, the overwhelming irony and watch for clues, or links, that explain the mysterious ending. Keir Dullea and Gary Lockwood co-star.
Rating: $3.50.

"The Professionals" (1968), 12:30 Tuesday night on Ch. 7. Originally 117 minutes. Lee Marvin, Burt Lancaster, Robert Ryan, Jack Palance, Woody Strode and Claudia Cardinale propel this western adventure beyond the realm of standard, shoot-'em-up, cowboy fare. A clever plot twist at the midway point assures continued interest.
Rating: $2.90.

Could "Airplane" be the funniest film of the past few years? It may be, which says as much about the state of comedy films as it does about this hit-and-miss laughter. "Airplane" certainly has its moments — dozens of them — many provided

Forty Carats' ought to dazzle but doesn't

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Forty Carats" continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at Central Middle School at the corners of Church and Main Streets in downtown Plymouth. For ticket information call Ann Schaffer at 453-7505 or Robin Galick at 281-2875.

By Victoria Diaz
special writer

Although a few parts of it manage to sparkle, much of the Plymouth Theatre Guild's recent production of Jay Allen's "Forty Carats" seems in need of some vigorous polishing.

review

The two-act comedy, directed by Al LaCroix, focuses on the May-December romance of a 40-year-old New York divorcee, Ann Stanley, and her 22-year-old beau, Peter Latham.

Individually, Marie-Louise Capote as Ann and David Ide as Peter are capable enough in the delivery of their lines. But as a couple these two don't always appear to be genuinely drawn to each other in their actions.

Most of the time, when Ide kisses Capote, for instance, it's so quick and perfunctory, he makes it look as if he were performing some kind of unpleasant but necessary duty. With only a couple of exceptions, there's no lingering whatsoever, no discernible tenderness or warmth, no apparent romantic spark all around.

SINCE THE play itself is centered around a strong attraction these two are supposed to have for each other, what's left when this attraction often just doesn't seem to really exist? Not a lot.

One bright spot is Gail Mesner, cast as Ann's outspoken and eccentric mother, Maud Hayes. Parading around in her cock-eyed costumes and delivering her own brand of advice in a quirky voice that is comical in itself, she threatens to steal every scene in which she appears.

Karen Wendt, in a minor role as Peter's mother, Christine, is also impressive. Besides being exquisitely rich, thin and blonde, Wendt's character is also warmly human and surprisingly funny.

Tobin Hissong is appropriately goatish, and ultimately endearing, as Ann's part-time ex-husband Billy Boylan. Laurel Twichell as Ann's daughter, Trina; Wayne Belzer as Trina's wealthy, middle-aged suitor, Eddy, and Donna Barnes, who plays Ann's secretary, Mrs. Margolin, seem miscast.

The sets, regrettably, don't add to the production. They're inappropriately chintzy and unattractive. Moving them around between scenes presents an even bigger problem than their appearance.

SCENE CHANGES take too long, eventually become a tiresome distraction and manage to slow the pace of the play significantly.

Makeup seems carelessly applied. The gray in Hissong's hair, for instance, looks as if it had been applied with a large brush, dipped in a bucket of aluminum paint. Besides looking downright absurd, it is maddeningly distracting.

In addition, Mesner, because of some heavy-handed attempts to make her face look older, appears instead to be suffering from a bad case of five o'clock shadow.

Allen's "Forty Carats" is a strong, well-wrought play, with some very funny lines, and, some believable, endearing — even memorable — characters. It's regrettable that, with such promising material, this version of it doesn't shine just a little brighter.

Michigan Opera Theater breathes life into gothic tale

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

"Faust" hasn't been a popular opera in the United States for a number of decades.

Although it was the first production of the Metropolitan Opera a century ago and is still enjoyed in Europe, American audiences tend to be jaded in respect to the simplistic religious theme of the story.

The Michigan Opera Theater (MOT) production at the Music Hall is an enlivened version of this dark and dreary Gothic tale, adding humor to the interpretation of the devil Mephistopheles, visual drama to accompany the music during the scene in hell, and innovative staging that doesn't follow the traditional "Faust" productions.

The result is a high-quality blend of music and theatrics that doesn't back away from the opera's biblical theme but brings the chorus on stage to visualize the conflict between Good and

review

Evil, dramatizes hell in sexually explicit terms, and gives a contemporary conception to the final scene that exemplifies the meaning of the opera. Bernard Uzan is responsible for this creativity.

The show has a little bit of everything: quality singing, lots of movement in the chorus, humor, passion and a combination of the traditional staging we expect in opera and some non-traditional staging we aren't expecting.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING, on Friday evening tenor Vinson Cole was brilliant in his "Salut demeure chaste et pure" (and throughout the evening) and was equally matched by conductor Willie Anthony Waters, who always seems to turn in a high-quality performance from the MOT orchestra.

Suzanne Acton's well trained MOT chorus was vital and strong both evenings and a credit to her and MOT.

On Friday, opening night, Marguerite was sung by film star "Diva" Wilhelmina Fernandez, whose career has taken off since that new wave film. She has two records soon to be released and will sing in Paris again this year. Her debut at the New York City Opera was postponed because of a strike.

But, Fernandez should pick her parts carefully. She is a powerful actress and has great dramatic qualities, as she aptly demonstrated in the final prison scene and in her passionate love duet with Cole, but Marguerite is too sweet a part for the harshness in her tone.

Mephistopheles has been portrayed as diabolical and vulgar, with no likeable aspects. MOT stage director Bernard Uzan has given him a humorous side, particularly in the duo between Mephistopheles and Marthe in Act II. Both nights Mario Pratinicki made a favorable impression as Marthe.

BOTH JOHN Cheek in Friday's cast and James Butler in Saturday's carried out Uzan's intentions. Cheek was solid in both his singing and acting and almost debonair as the devil — if that is possible. Butler is robust, forceful and crude in his delivery with his powerful and expressive bass voice.

Especially for those who have seen a more serious and traditional Mephistopheles, this interpretation gives relief to the story.

'Finally!'

Affordable arts and crafts

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

For what looks like a quiet, unimposing business, the Penniman Showcase of Art and Crafts already has made quite an impression since it opened in mid-October.

Owner Scott Smith and his partner, Tony Guerriero, show a visitor a guest book containing rave reviews from others who have stopped in at their establishment at 827 Penniman, just off Main in Plymouth. Many of the written comments said "Finally" or "Lovely!" or express similar sentiments. And, the partners said, already every artist in the showcase has sold at least one work.

"We've had a tremendous response," Smith said. "There has been nothing but positive comments. 'There's an element of surprise when people come in here,' he said. "It may look expensive, but it isn't. It feels very warm and comfortable."

"Here you can get a gift, box, bow and card for under $20. So few people realize that art is so affordable."

SMITH RESEARCHED and started the showcase out of his interest in art. He holds two degrees in design and a certificate in art origin from the Pratt Institute in New York.

The idea behind the Penniman Showcase is to take away the intimidation many persons feel when they go into a gallery, Smith said. He describes the showcase as a combination of an art gallery and retail and service businesses.

"You cannot go anywhere and buy something decent for $100," Smith said. "We offer the finest at a very moderate, affordable price, and you can feel like you're a Rockefeller when you come in here."

Along with fine arts, Penniman Showcase offers such crafts as basketry, wool rugs, sculptures, pottery, jewelry, kiln-fired glass, laminated wood, weavings, blown glass, porcelain and photography.

SERVICES OFFERED by the showcase include boxes and bows and layaway. Penniman representatives also are available to work with decorators, speak to organizations and invite art students to the establishment. Smith hopes to start a bridal registry and educational workshops on art next year.

Prices at Penniman Showcase begin at $3 and average less than $40, according to Smith. Jewelry starts at less than $10 and goes up to $100. The prices for pottery average $15 to $20.

"It gives the average person a chance to buy art at a reasonable price," Guerriero said.

Smith is proud of the fact that the showcase's displays are made up of American art by both local and national artists. Artists are encouraged to bring work into the showcase.

"We're always open to new work," Smith said. "We're very willing to see anyone's work."

THE PENNIMAN Showcase will take special orders, such as portraits, or items redone in a different color or pattern.

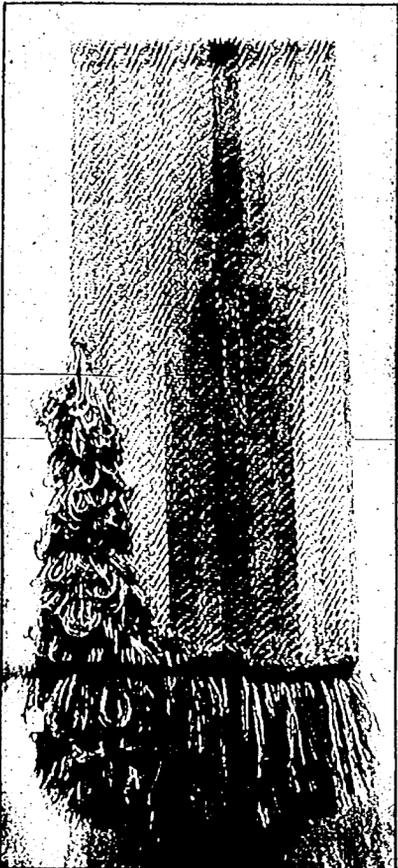

"Everything is a one-of-a-kind original," Smith said. "That's our nice feature. It's an art show every day."

"Everytime you come on in, you can see something you never saw before."

Unusual items at the showcase include Christmas ornaments and glass plates that resemble watermelon slices. Porcelain and stoneware are the more popular works, Smith said.

Penniman Showcase is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays, and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays. Special holiday hours of 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekdays will begin later this month.

"People can just come in to browse, and enjoy the beautiful art produced by American artists," Guerriero said. "That's our concept."

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

Visitors to the Penniman Showcase are encouraged to "feel like a Rockefeller" as they browse among the fine arts and crafts on display (below). A variety of arts and crafts, including this wall hanging (above), are on display at the Plymouth shop owned by Scott Smith and Tony Guerriero.

CRICKETS

'Cricket' contest clicks

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing
special writer

A month or so ago I announced that I was having a contest. Anyone could enter. You were supposed to come up with a logo and symbol for a fictitious jean company called "Crickets."

I asked that the art work be camera-ready. The entries were to be in by Oct. 29.

Well, it's over. After looking carefully at each entry, I have put the results in today's Artifacts. I hope you enjoy reading about the contest, even if you didn't enter.

Art contests are like learning patience. You don't gain patience until you are pushed to the end of the patience you already possess. There you have the choice to re-evaluate and grow in patience or simply lose your patience and become upset.

When you win an art contest, you possess the winning prize and enjoy the moment greatly. But it seems to me that you learn more from losing than you do from winning.

Of course, everyone is different, but when I win or do well in a contest I think "yeah! For my next painting I will do..." On the other hand if I lose or show poorly, I ask myself, "Did I over-paint, or under-paint, did I over-express or understate, was I too bold or too vague, etc.?" So the art contest is like patience — if you win, you are happy. If you lose, you can win by learning to re-evaluate yourself.

BUT LET'S TALK about a winner. David Brichford is a winner. David is 25 years old, tall and sports a handsome beard (of course, his beard isn't as nice as mine, but it looks good on him). David has (take a deep breath) a bachelor of science degree in architecture from Lawrence Institute of Technology, 1980.

He must be pretty versatile because he is doing engineering drafting for Diclemente-Siegel Engineering firm. David admits that drafting is rather boring and wishes to move more into the area of design in architecture. However, with the building trade depressed as it is, David's architectural goals are temporarily on hold.

But the Lord never closes a door without at least opening a window somewhere. So David is finding a new love, which is commercial design. He told me that in architectural design, you are constrained by codes, and in advertising design you are free to do whatever looks good.

So David is attending classes at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. There he hopes to make his already-excellent portfolio a little more commercial looking.

Let's look at the winning design. The stitching bordering the pocket breaks to form the outline of the grass, and on the tallest blade of grass sits a very clean and stylized cricket. It is no accident that the shorter blade of grass slowly leads your eye towards the symbol.

"SOMEWHERE BETWEEN" concept and rendering, the logo shrunk to become a little too small on the pocket design," David admits.

But what a logo! In designing a logo you try to capture the feeling or cognition of the name. To me David's cricket logo looks somewhat oriental, which conveys a "kung-fu in blue jeans" feeling. Or at the risk of being too biological, the strokes comprising the letters make me think of an insect's legs.

The execution of the lettering is excellent. Notice that the first C and the second C are identical. The illustration accompanying the pocket design is done with halftone screens, pen and ink. Truly a piece of (camera-ready) art. If a picture is worth a thousand words then I will take a break and let you look at David Brichford's art work.

Now before some of you get severely hummed, I know what you are thinking: "It's not fair to compare my work to David's because he has a degree in design."

If I have learned anything in business it is to apologize. I say "I'm sorry" all the time. If I am out of certain stock or late framing a picture or even behind in my work, I always must say "I am sorry."

I even apologize for things I have no control over, like unemployment, inflation and poor weather. "I'm very sorry."

But I am really sorry about not dividing this contest into age groups. Some middle schools made the cricket contest part of their lessons. I had some entries from high schools and some from adults or young adults. So I will offer another contest in a couple of weeks and there will be three divisions. Again, I'm really sorry.

I WOULD LIKE to mention, however, when it comes to ideas, Central Middle School in Plymouth is loaded with 'em. Greta Schnurstein wasn't content to use bugs for the symbol. She chose to use the game for her symbol. Her pocket design was two cricket paddles crossed. Below she added copy reading... it's not just a game anymore."

Joann Bitale came up with a pleasing and usable design. Joann's design was four diagonal lines with a little cricket on one of them, but it worked well.

Tammy or Tommy Brown had a good concept with a cricket jumping into a folded pair of jeans with the copy underneath reading, "Jump into Crickets." This kid has got to become an artist because the signature is already illegible.

In designing a logo, sometimes the type face that best fits the name is unexplainable. It just looks good. So it is with Laura Zoltowski's cricket logo design. It is kind of angular and pointy and sort of straightish yet it conveys a feeling... a cricket feeling.

Carrie Calhoun came up with a convincing looking "CJ" stitch design and a nice placement of the logo.

Brenda Barta came so close to what I imagined for this contest that I would like to award her a $10 gift certificate and an Art Store & More T-shirt.

Her design has a cricket jumping onto the pocket from the left and off to the right. Here the lines of his bounce become small as he comes to rest on the sewn tag on the right pocket. Very good, Brenda.

ASIDE FROM the winning entry, the three best illustrated designs would be those of Diane Geis of Northville, Barbara Gosney of Garden City and Grant Carmichael, a student at Central. Also, thank you for the many good entries from Ladywood High School. The students of Ladywood had very interesting designs and clever copy to go with them. Now don't forget to look for the next contest.

One last note I would like to end this article on. I once golfed with my uncle... once. His ability in the game is too far above mine.

When I drove the ball I had the sometimes-good, sometimes-bad aspect of seeing where the ball landed. When Uncle Clair drives the ball, his tee usually lands somewhere in the vicinity of my ball. His ball, though out of sight, will assuredly be in the middle of the fairway.

After a few holes with my uncle, I feel like my clubs are those giant fluorescent plastic golf clubs for little kids. Instead of reaching for, and learning from, his excellence, I quit trying. Don't let this happen to you in art.

Quitting is a decision only you can make; it is not forced on you. So look at David's design and illustration. Even if he is more educated or shows greater ability than you, this is an opportunity to grow.

Instead of running, start reaching; instead of quitting, keep competing. As a matter of fact, I'm even going to try golfing with my uncle again, so long as he buys and goes halves on the cart.

Q. With Winter coming why should we market our home now? Mrs. M. Westland.

Q. Our marketing agreement just lapsed. Our Realtor says we should renew our contract now. We are thinking of waiting until spring. Why do you suggest? M/M T. Garden City.

A. Many people do believe that this is an improper time of the year and take their homes off the market. However, this is one of the reasons why you would have the advantage, because there is less competition. Many serious buyers make use of their holiday time to shop for homes. With interest rates dropping, even more buyers will be looking. And remember, at no other time of the year does your home take on that special holiday glow. A definite selling advantage!

A. No one ever knows what the future will bring, the time to act is NOW. Thinking of selling your home? Tipping the balance

'High key,' 'low key' shots can be exciting

Most photographs that we are accustomed to seeing contain an even range of tones from light to dark. But by being creative and deliberately tipping the balance toward either extreme, you can produce exciting, unusual pictures. Tones that are predominately on the light side throughout the entire image will result in what is called a "high key" shot. Just the opposite, if dark tones dominate the photograph, we have a "low key" picture.

should select a subject that is light in color, and, if in a controlled situation, use a light background and arrange the lighting so that there are very few shadows. Small patches of dark tones are acceptable, even important in that they will keep a high key picture from looking washed out and pale.

Some common outdoor high key subjects are sand dunes or a freshly fallen snow. Inside, you can be more creative. Try shooting white objects such as eggs or even crumpled paper against a white background. Portraits taken in front of a light backdrop also can be classified as high key.

photography

As in high key shots, exposure can be tricky because the dark tones will "tell" the meter to open up and, as a result, you'll overexpose the film. So, here too, use a gray card or your hand for correct readings. In fact, in all high key and low key shots, bracket your exposures slightly to be assured of getting an optimum print.

With the right subject, some thought, and a little creativity, high key and low key techniques will add exciting images to your photo portfolio.

A dramatic, low key portrait is captured here by Monte Nagler, who used a single light source and a black background. The model is Miss Michigan-USA, Kimberly Mexicotte of Livonia.

Music Hall goal: $330,000

F. James McDonald, president of General Motors Corp., will head up Music Hall Center's 1983-84 corporate campaign for operating fund contributions.

Under McDonald's leadership, Music Hall Center hopes to raise $330,000 to support the non-profit organization's presentations of dance, family and musical events.

Music Hall recently completed its 10th season of programming in the downtown theatre.

Built in 1928 by Matilda Dodge Wilson, it is recognized as an historical landmark. A fund-raising campaign to support interior restoration recently raised more than $100,000 for renovated auditorium seats and a new stage curtain.

McDonald succeeds Thomas B. Adams, chairman of Campbell-Ewald Co., who chaired the 1982-83 corporate fundraising drive.

McDonald has been president and chief operating officer of General Motors since February, 1981. His many cultural and civic affiliations include directorships on the boards of the H.J. Heinz Co., the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, Economic Club of Detroit and Up with People, a non-profit educational and cultural organization.

PROPER EXPOSURE is essential to get quality high key results, but a little camera expertise is required. Because the majority of the subject area will be light in tonality and will reflect most of the light striking it, your camera's meter will be "fooled" and you'll get an underexposed shot. Solution: Take the meter reading off either an 18 percent gray card or, more easily, off the back of your hand. This way, your exposure will be correct and you'll obtain a rich, high key print.

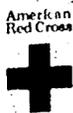

Low key pictures are opposite high key in that the dark tones dominate. Outdoors, the dark skies often seen after a storm will reward you with a strong, low key landscape shot. Or an abundance of dark foliage can provide the necessary background for that low key image. Dramatic lighting com-
