Family thanks donors

By Marie Chesney
staff writer

The Smith family has only one word to the thousands of Michigan residents who reached deep into their pockets over the Labor Day weekend and donated $2 million to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

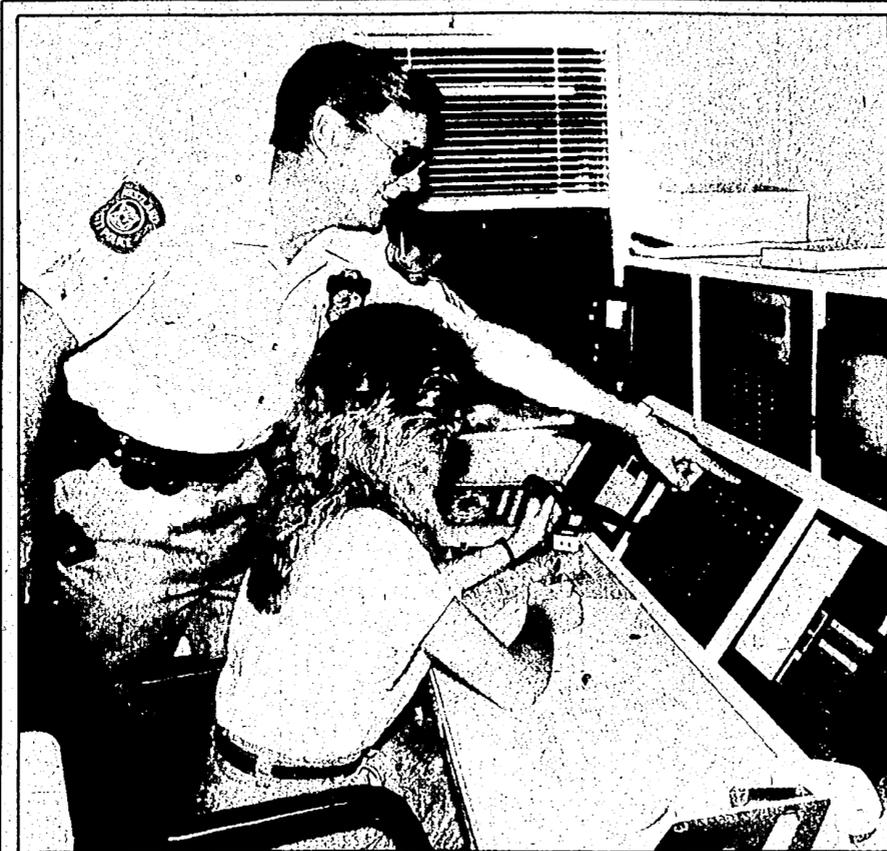

That word is thanks. Roger and Sue Smith of Michele Street appeared on the Telethon to tell how the Muscular Dystrophy Association had helped their son, Eric, 16, who was to have attended special education classes at Westland's John Glenn High School this fall.

THE SMITHS found out their son had MD when he was 14 months old. Eric died of heart failure July 15, the very day he returned from a week at a MD-sponsored camp in Lexington.

"We told them (the TV audience) how much Eric loved camp," said Sue Smith. "It was the favorite thing in his life. He looked forward to it all year long. It was the bright spot out of his year."

Eric had gone to the camp every year since he was nine. For those seven years, the Muscular Dystrophy

Test for 9-1-1 dispatchers hard to pass

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

The test being used to hire 9-1-1 emergency police and fire dispatchers is so stringent that only three of the first 50 people who took it passed — and some of those who failed were former police officers.

"We wondered if we were being too tough, but we decided that this would give us people who were truly prepared to handle the job," said Joseph Benyo, coordinator of emergency telephone system implementation in Westland.

The enhanced 9-1-1 system, which provides computer terminal display of the location and number from where calls originate, has been in operation throughout western Wayne County since last June.

The city has approved the phased-in hiring of six new dispatchers to handle emergency calls.

The first three, along with three dispatchers hired several years ago, began six months of paid training this summer. Three more will be hired this fall.

REQUIREMENTS FOR prospective dispatchers include U.S. citizenship, high school diploma or GED, vision correctable to 20-20 and good physical and emotional health, said Executive Lt. Michael Frayer, who is supervising the training.

Advanced first aid or CPR training is preferred, Frayer said.

The three new hires are women and two people of the latest group to apply are disabled, Benyo said. There are several minority applicants as well, he said.

Candidates must take a written general knowledge test that focuses on comprehension, map reading skills and memory of numerical sequences. They must be able to type at least 25 words per minute.

Pronunciation and speaking skills are also analyzed.

Students get hands-on training

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

By the time students complete their emergency medical training at Westland's Emergency Education Inc. nothing they come across on their jobs should be unfamiliar to them.

"Our motto has been that our students never should encounter something that they have never seen in class," said Garden City Firefighter Bill Forbush, co-director of the school and a certified emergency medical technician (EMT) and EMT specialist instructor/coordinator.

Emergency Education was founded in 1982 by Forbush and his sister, Crystal, who holds a master's degree in speech pathology and is a certified teacher and state licensed as an advanced emergency medical technician (paramedic) instructor/coordinator.

Another family member involved in the business is their mother, Janice, who is office manager.

"The real difference here isn't so much the material that we teach because we all have the same state guidelines," Crystal Forbush said. "It's our orientation to the field and hands on experience."

"We try to stress what they could expect on a call-by-call basis and integrate theory into that," she added.

Located on Executive Drive North in one of Westland's industrial parks, the school uses actual equipment. EMTs and the more highly trained paramedics will work with trainees in the field. The school features a reproduction of the interior of an ambulance as well as a fully equipped ambulance used as a mobile training center.

"THE SINGLE most important skill you have to learn is how to lift properly," Bill said. "The class run simulator is the height and size of an ambulance with oxygen and suction equipment."

'Our motto has been that our students never should encounter something that they have never seen in class.'

— Bill Forbush

The mobile unit is especially good for training sessions with volunteer fire departments, according to Forbush.

"If half the department was here for a training session there could be trouble if there was a fire in the town," he said. "This way we go to them and they are still in town."

During part of the course, students undergo training working on ambulances and at hospitals.

As might be expected, many of the 2,500 students who have completed training to become EMTs or advanced EMT/paramedics are firefighters.

As a Garden City firefighter, Bill Forbush has provided in-house emergency medical training for his co-workers. He said the school itself has provided EMT and paramedic training for many of Westland's firefighters.

"Crystal does most of the teaching while I handle the administrative end," Bill said. "She really has a gift for it."

Besides firefighters, many other students are people who want careers in medical related fields, according to Ms. Forbush.

"We also get a lot of people who want to be doctors or medical technicians," she said. "A lot of times this is related to the field they eventually want to work in and they can make money in the short term while they are in school."

DESPITE a public perception that EMTs or paramedics are usually found working in ambulances, Crystal said students completing the program find the same skills can be

Livonia teachers get 7 percent raise

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Students in Livonia Public Schools started class as scheduled Wednesday, nearly 24 hours after teachers and administrators settled on a tentative contract.

The settlement was reached at 7 a.m. Tuesday — less than 12 hours after teachers voted 7-to-1 to strike, saying they were dissatisfied over the progress of negotiations.

Superintendent Joseph Marinelli said he was "elated" over a contract settlement in time for the opening of school, while teachers union president Steve Nuamcheff, after a productive all-night bargaining session, said, "We were happy campers."

Livonia School District

The Livonia School District includes the northern section of Westland.

CONTRACT PROVISIONS included a 7 percent pay raise for teachers in each year of a three-year contract. The Metro Bureau of School Studies has reported that teachers in metro Detroit have been averaging pay raises of 6 to 8 percent.

"What we look at is what's the pattern around us," said Sam LaMonica, director of employee relations for the district. "The board would have preferred a little less, the teachers a little more."

Teachers received pay raises of 7½ percent in 1988-89 and 7 percent in 1987-88, under the previous contract.

By the tentative contract, the average teacher salary — $41,800 in 1988-89 — will rise to more than $51,000 in 1991-92, the final year of the proposed three-year contract.

Roughly 80 percent of the district's teachers have master's degrees, and many are at the high end of the salary scale, due to experience, said Michael Furlong, director of finance for the district.

As negotiations opened in March, teachers stated their intention to rewrite the entire contract, to bring contract language up-to-date. The three year contract which expired Aug. 15 included language from contracts carried over since the late '70s.

AS A state mediator was called in to join talks over the weekend, teachers stressed that differences over contract language were the

Group plans to buy wetlands bordering city

By Keith Postler
staff writer

Canton residents concerned with preserving open land and farm lands in the township could have a powerful weapon to add to their arsenal — the Southeast Michigan Land Conservancy.

The newly formed conservancy, patterned after other land preservation groups, has already set its sights on 40 acres of wetlands and open fields in Canton along Koppernick near Hix and Joy roads, said Jack Smiley, conservancy president.

"We need to preserve essential lands in order to balance development and to maintain our quality of life," he said.

One important goal of the group is to identify key areas which need to be preserved and then purchase them, or negotiate conservation easements that would preserve the areas natural features, he said.

Conservation easements are similar to development rights, which allow a landowner to enter an agreement with a governmental body to establish a specific use for a portion of land for a specified length of time. Canton voters voted similar development rights proposals in 1978 and 1981 that would have allowed the township to preserve farm land and other open spaces.

Because of this, the conservancy may eventually play a role in preserving farm lands and other endangered open spaces in Canton, Smiley said.

"The conservation easements would be ideal for farm land preservation, because it's important to preserve these areas, otherwise we're going to have one big urban area from Detroit to Ann Arbor," Smiley said. "If you can preserve some of the open spaces, you will be able to prevent urban sprawl and maintain the quality of life."

Urban sprawl refers to the trend for developers to move away from urbanized areas into undeveloped areas.

"There has to be a point where you say enough is enough to development," he added. "It's too costly, and we just need farms and open lands for the sake of the environment."

The Koppernick property is owned by a group of private investors, he said, but will be purchased by the conservancy for $150,000 to add to the William P. Holliday Forest & Wildlife Preserve, which borders Westland, Livonia and Canton.

Because the property is a wetland, it has little potential for commercial development and needs to be preserved, Smiley said.

He also maintains that this piece of property is essential to the survival of the great horned owls, red tailed hawks, copper hawks, deer and other wildlife that roam the preserve, he said.

"It will preserve the habitat they already have because they don't know the boundaries of the preserve. It's essential if the animals are to survive, and it's necessary that we have as big a continuous area as possible for the preserve," he said.

Smiley warned that without the additional land, a significant number of species on the preserve could be lost if they are not allowed to habitate naturally.

Some groups that have become organizational members in the SMLC include the Detroit Audubon Society, Holliday Nature Preserve Association, Snow Woods Preservation Committee, Dearborn Naturalists Association and the Livonia branch of the Woman's National Farm & Garden Association.

used in other positions.

"We have trained people who work as body guards, the National Ski Patrol requires EMT training," she said. "You could be working for the Department Health caring for patients or in urgent care clinics."

The school, which moved from Belleville to Westland a year ago, was established for several reasons.

"Our goal was to improve patient care, and I think we have had an impact on the quality of that," Bill said. The pair also recognized a need for a different type of training than what was being offered through hospitals and colleges, he added.

"The training programs were very good with academics and books but the need was for more hands on oriented field training," he added. "So we became a private occupational school and we are the only one licensed in the state."

When they decided to start the school, the Forbushes were both EMTs.

BILL'S experience included working for an ambulance company and Crystal had long experience as a volunteer Red Cross first aid and CPR instructor.

The school offers two formats for completing training courses, a 19 week session with four hour classes two nights each week or a five week session with five day per week eight hour classes.

"The 19 week class works well for working people and after four and a half months you are an EMT," she said, adding that students must then pass state licensing exams, held at the end of each month.

To enter the program students need to have a high school diploma or GED and be 18 years old. Crystal Forbush said she wouldn't discourage a person interested in the program because of physical limitations.

"I am only 4 feet 11 inches and I have cerebral palsy. We can teach them to lift," she said. "After people try, we let them decide if they want to continue."

The school, which draws students from as far as Jackson and Midland, has a very high completion and licensing rate, according to Ms. Forbush.

"If someone is having trouble, we will work with them on a one to one basis to bring them up to the level they need," said Bill.

"We can't cut corners with people's lives. We don't change the level but try to help them reach it."

Dispatcher test is tough

"The last thing you want if you're in an emergency situation is a dispatcher who can't speak clearly or keeps asking the caller to repeat things," Frayer said. "That could send a panicky caller over the edge."

IF THEY pass the written and oral exam, candidates are required to take a psychological evaluation and a drug test.

The training includes 40 hours per week of classroom work, observation of emergency dispatchers in other communities and plenty of hands-on training in the dispatch center at the Westland Police Department.

Last week, the new dispatchers were visiting the 9-1-1 dispatch center in Detroit to observe how that city handles emergency police and fire calls.

THE TRAINING is more comprehensive than the previous program and programs employed by other public safety departments, Frayer said.

"In the past, the theory has been if you pass the (written) test, you start tomorrow," he said.

"Dispatchers learned the work mostly through on-the-job training, and that didn't guarantee getting the most capable people to perform at their best," Frayer said.

Starting annual pay for dispatchers is $17,006. That figure is bumped to $19,527 after the six-month training period and $20,370 after one year.

The salary schedule was "competitive" with other public safety departments, Benyo said.

THE NEW dispatchers seem capable of handling the pressure that goes with the job, said Sgt. Lawrence Squier, who is in charge of the hands-on portion of the training. He said the new training methods would benefit the department.

The hardest part about learning to be a dispatcher was "being able to do more than one thing at a time and shut out all the background commotion so that you can get your job done," he said.

Dispatchers "have to be able to handle the everyday kinds of things that pile up, not just emergency calls," said Officer David Rozenbaum, also a trainer.

Association had paid Eric's $300 camping fee.

"On the way home from camp he talked all about it," said Roger Smith. "He said it was the best camp he had ever been to."

Because of the association, Sue Smith said her son never went without anything he needed to cope with his disease. This included wheelchairs and braces.

"Anything he needed, they were there to help," she said. "There never was a piece of equipment he was denied."

SUE SMITH had special praise for the mostly young people who give up a week of their summer vacation to be an unpaid helper for each child who attends the camp.

The association matches every child with a helper who takes care of him for the week. Eric's volunteer helper was Robert Smith.

"I don't think they have any idea the amount of work involved in taking care of each child," she said. "They leave these kids with a lot of wonderful memories. It's amazing the closeness that develops between the two."

Eric was a sports fan who played sports for the physically disabled for the Tri-City Seals in Westland.

"For all the problems he had, he was happy most of the time," Sue Smith said. "He accepted his limitations. He was a straight A student. He was a very compassionate, very caring young man who had a great sense of humor."

cop calls

AN EMPLOYEE of the Westland Florist shop, 34235 Ford, told police someone broke into the store's greenhouse Aug. 30 or 31 and stole about $300 worth of power tools, hand tools and a wheelbarrow.

The break-in occurred between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m., the employee said.

The culprit apparently cut a hole in the fence on the southeast side of the store to get into the greenhouse, police said.

THE LATE WALT Disney might like to know his work is still appreciated — at least by one Westland thief.

A security guard at Technicolor Videocassettes, 1515 S. Newburgh, reported the theft of 56 copies of the movie "Bambi" from the company's warehouse Aug. 25.

The videocassettes were packaged and ready to be shipped to a distributor, the guard reported.

Car owners, buffs gear up to meet

THE BODIES are glistening and the engines purring as classic car owners and buffs gather each week at the place to see and be seen — in Garden City's City Park on Cherry Hill at Merriman.

On warm, clear Wednesday evenings more than 100 vintage cars are parked on display around the park with the roads filled with spectators.

"We started meeting here a couple years ago. There are a lot of clubs that meet here," commented Ed LaBelle of Farmington Hills, who has a 1947 Ford modified with 1979 Pontiac ac V-8 engine.

"Rather than restore the car it is modified to make it run better and more reliably and make it better looking," he said. "Some make their cars go faster but I don't."

A wide range of cars are on display at the park, from Model Ts to 1970s muscle cars that have been restored or modified.

The car owners start gathering in the spring, about the time daylight savings time begins, LaBelle said, continuing until the evenings start getting chilly.

"The weather governs us really," he said. "On a rainy night you will find a few diehards out here. It's getting crowded so people who want to get a good spot, they come early."

The cars start gathering about 6 p.m. and many people drive through the park to look at the vehicles.

Ed LaBelle's 1947 with its "Kruzer" vanity license plates sits at the center of activity at City Park. His Ford has been jazzed up with custom body and paint work.

main roadblocks to a settlement. One such roadblock involved language concerning job descriptions, Naumcheff said.

"That was very important to the (Livonia Education) Association," he said. "Because if you do not have the provision that we have, the employer can take work you do and assign it to another unit," such as teacher's aides, he said.

LaMonica said the administration got language it sought in this area, related to future curriculum changes sparking changes in job descriptions.

Another difference over contract language involved requiring teachers to attend open houses, dances, graduation, honors night, and other after school activities.

"All that other stuff is important but not to be abused," Naumcheff said. Teachers won a provision by which teachers whose classes were not involved in after-school activities would be paid for attending.

LaMonica said the administration got what it wanted by not having a set number of after school programs to which teachers can be called.

LAMONICA SAID the administration also got what it wanted by not having maximum class size numbers reduced.

He said that while the LPS often have lower than state mandated maximum class sizes, "We didn't want to lock these in if funding dries up or the state changes the way they fund education."

Naumcheff said teachers also were able to remove a provision in the previous contract, which required laid-off teachers called back to school to pay back benefits.

By late next week, Naumcheff said teachers would receive printed copies of the tentative contract. "We'll give them the weekend to look at it, and then the next week vote on it."

President's drug plan gets mixed reaction

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Like counterparts throughout the nation, area law enforcement professionals and drug counselors greeted President Bush's new anti-drug measures with hope and concern.

While they praised the president for tackling the issue, they also wondered whether his program would go far enough.

"Overall, I'd have to say it was a positive step," Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said. "My concern is that he said money would be taken from other areas of the budget. If those people complain when their ox gets gored it could hurt the program."

Others said the balance was wrong.

"I added up the figures and it came out of about 70 percent for hardware and 30 percent for treatment and education," said U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. "I have a concern we're not doing enough in education."

The president announced his anti-drug proposal during a televised address Tuesday night.

The $7.9 billion dollar proposal equates to about $32 for every U.S. citizen. It represents a $2.2 billion increase over previous proposal for the next fiscal year.

The president's program includes $1.6 billion for prison construction, drawing praise Ficano.

"THERE HAS to be the certainty of swift, sure punishment," Ficano said. "We need to put the drug dealers away."

Still, Ficano said education was as powerful a tool as incarceration.

The $1.2 billion set aside for prevention and education programs was essential, Ficano said.

"Education is ultimately the key," he said.

The proposal would also set aside $925 million for drug-treatment programs. Despite its size, one area professional predicted that figure would do little to help treatment centers expand programs.

"When you see it on TV it looks like a lot of money," said John Farrar, executive director of the Community Commission on Drug Abuse.

'My concern is that he said money would be taken from other areas of the budget. If those people complain when their ox gets gored it could hurt the program.'

— Robert Ficano
Wayne County sheriff

"But when you divide it by the 50 states, then by statewide regions and then by the number of treatment centers in each region, it doesn't amount to too much."

Drug treatment centers, including CCDA centers in Livonia, Westland and Northville, would see budgets rise by a mere 2-3 percent, Farrar predicted.

"THAT'S NOT enough to expand what they're doing," he said. "It's just enough to keep them going."

The $350 million set aside for state and local law enforcement may or may not benefit suburban police agencies, depending upon whether it is further earmarked for the war on crack cocaine.

"You don't find much crack cocaine here, but we have found powdered cocaine and, lately, we've even found heroin," said Lt. John Sheuell of the Western Wayne County Drug Enforcement Task Force, a 20-year drug war veteran. "Drug dealers live in the suburbs, too. A lot of them are affluent people living in big houses."

While the president promised federal anti-drug grants to communities willing to come up with matching dollars, Sheuell said there were steps area communities could take even in advance of the grants.

Chief among them, he said, was assigning officers to the regional drug task force.

"Some communities send an officer to participate, others don't," he said. "But if there's one thing we need it's more people in the field."

The president's proposal also includes $3.1 billion for additional law enforcement, $449 million for international anti-drug operations and $250 million to expand the nation's court system.

The problem, Farrar said, is that the nation is still falling to put its money where its mouth is when it comes to fighting the drug problem.

"Every election, candidates of both parties say they want to do something about drugs," Farrar said. "But I've been operating treatment programs for 10 years and I've seen precious little change."

"As a society, we haven't yet gotten serious about drugs."

Pursell, though, said money was tight.

"You have to remember we're dealing with a $150 billion federal deficit," he said.

Despite criticism, the president drew praise for spotlighting drugs.

"What I'd like to see is a national effort, similar to that President Kennedy started by saying we intended to put a man on the moon in the 1960s," Ficano said.

Added Farrar: "Anytime the president goes on TV and announces something is a nationwide problem, it's going to get attention. I suppose I'd be more critical if he wasn't doing anything."

Area schools sue over state aid

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

A recently filed lawsuit could mean more money for Michigan's less wealthy school districts, according to area superintendents whose districts joined in the suit.

Wayne-Westland, Garden City and Redford Union schools are among the 112 public school districts suing the state. The group calls itself In-Formula Caucus School Districts. Its long-range goal: change Michigan's school aid formula.

"It's an opportunity for equity," Garden City Schools Superintendent Michael Wilmot said. "It's an opportunity to see spending for our kids reach that of neighboring districts."

Changing the state aid formula isn't directly a part of the lawsuit.

The group filed suit Friday in Wayne County Circuit Court seeking the right to spend public money to sue the state. If successful, however, the group will challenge the state aid formula.

While school spending is the focus of two proposals on the November ballot, superintendents said the lawsuit was necessary because the ballot proposals don't go far enough.

"PROPOSAL A (a half-cent state sales tax increase) does very little, if anything, for equity," Wayne-Westland Superintendent Dennis O'Neill said. "Proposal B (a 2-cent sales tax increase) addresses equity, but it's like stopping a nose bleed when surgery is needed."

A similar lawsuit forced Kentucky to change its state aid formula. "We hope we're as successful as the people there," O'Neill said.

Gaps between wealthy and less wealthy districts are widening, Redford Union Superintendent Kenneth Erickson said.

Superintendents said the lawsuit was necessary because (state) ballot proposals don't go far enough.

"I have figures that show that if we spent as much as Southfield did per pupil, it would increase our budget by $21 million," Erickson said. "That's a big difference."

Redford Union spent $4,000 to educate each of its 6,195 students during the past school year. In contrast, Southfield spent $7,265 per student.

As in-formula districts, Wayne-Westland, Garden City and Redford Union receive state aid for basic classroom expenses.

Despite the state aid, per student spending in each district ranks below that of most of their out-of-formula neighbors.

Wayne-Westland spent $4,373 per student in the past school year. Garden City spent $4,595.

In contrast, each levies at least 5 mills more in operating taxes, compared with nearby out-of-formula districts.

"We're property poor," Erickson said. "We don't have the factories and high-rises. If we had what some other districts had, our millage wouldn't be as high."

The superintendents were unaware of when the lawsuit would be settled.

"Anything associated with the courts moves slowly," Wilmot said. "But the point is you've got to take a stand somewhere. And we're taking a stand for equity."

Beard wins honor as commissioner

Kay Beard, who represents Garden City, Westland and Inkster, has been picked to share the commissioner of the year award, recently given by the Michigan Association of Counties. She is the first Wayne County commissioner to win the award since the recognition program was initiated four years ago.

She was honored during a recent MAC summer conference, held in Muskegon.

For the first time since the award was initiated, there was a tie for commissioner of the year.

Kay Beard wins honor

Sharing the honor with Beard is Andrew DeKraker of Kent County, who served on the county board for 21 years.

In the past four years, the MAC board of directors has named a person from three categories: countywide elected official, staff member and a county commissioner.

James Callahan, MAC executive director, said the nominees were persons who were active in the association's programs, policies and committees and provided leadership in county government.

"Kay Beard has shown exceptional service and is an outstanding example of what a county commissioner should be," he said. "Her constituents should be very proud to have Kay representing them."

Beard was appointed to a board vacancy in April 1978, winning election to a full term that fall. Since then, she has been re-elected to five two-year terms.

In MAC, Beard serves on the social services/aging committee, which she chaired for five years, and was recommended by the association to serve on the Michigan Child Care Fund Advisory Committee.

She was recently named a new chairperson of the county board's audit committee, which is only one of two committees mandated in the county charter.

Coin investors can profit from advice

By Keith Posler
staff writer

For "Larry," a 34-year-old businessman from Pickney, the proposal seemed too good to pass up: He could spend $3,000 on an investment that was almost guaranteed to double in value in less than three years.

Or so he was told. He spent $3,000 in 1988 on a $1 1873 U.S. gold coin, and later found out it was really only worth approximately $1,300. He also spent $2,600 on an 1892 Colombian coin, when it was only valued at $1,300.

Imagine an investment so good that for a decade, it outperformed all others — from oil and U.S. Treasury Bills to U.S. stamps — compounding annually at a whopping rate of 25.7 percent.

ENTER RARE U.S. coins, the investment rage of the '90s.

"I know what I'm doing now that it won't happen to me again," Larry said recently. "I just assumed everybody was playing by the same rules, but apparently they weren't."

Larry knew of the potential for appreciation, but wasn't aware of some of the rules involved when buying rare coins. Like millions of others, he was the victim of less-than-ethical business practices bordering on fraud.

In Larry's case, a Miami, Fla.,

'Coins can be a tremendous investment if you just follow the rules. It's just like any other investment, but people just don't know the rules involved with rare coin investment.'

rare coin gallery sold him a number of coins that were improperly graded and overpriced. He has gotten some of his money back, he said, but will be more careful in the future.

LARRY'S STORY is not uncommon, said Charles Jarrait, president of Richard Charles Rare Coin Galleries in Plymouth.

"When you find an area that is really blossoming, you find men who come into the business to take advantage of people, and rare coins are no exception," he said.

The market for rare coins has been blossoming since the turn of the century, Jarrait said.

The reasons for the surge in popularity, he said, are twofold. Truly rare, high-quality coins are available in a fixed, limited supply only, while the number of collectors and investors continues to grow.

In the late 1950s and early '60s, for instance, Jarrait estimated that 500,000 coin collectors were in the United States. Today, that number has ballooned to 18-20 million, he said.

"Coins can be a tremendous investment if you just follow the rules," Jarrait said. "It's just like any other investment, but people just don't know the rules involved with rare coin investment."

JARRAIT SUGGESTED the following rules:

- Make sure the coins have been graded and certified by one of the major independent grading services. The services are the Professional Coin Grading Service (PCGS), 1-714-250-1211; the Numismatic Guaranty Corporation of America (NGC), 1-201-984-6222; the American Numismatic Association Certified Service (ANACS), 1-719-632-2846; and the Numismatic Certified Institute (NCI), 1-214-742-2200.

The PCGS is the industry standard for grading rare coins and can provide a list of authorized PCGS dealers in the United States and Canada, said Mike Saum, a rare coin dealer with Richard Charles. Of the four services listed above, the NCI is generally viewed as more liberal, Jarrait said.

- Buy quality. Low-grade coins, as a rule, tend not to perform as well as high-grade coins.

Why is a high-grade coin so rare and valuable? There is no one answer, Jarrait said. Rare coins are more valuable because fewer were minted and even less are in circulation today. Some are high quality because of the detail and the artisans who handcrafted them; others are rare because of their metal content and bullion value.

- Don't bounce in and out of the coin market. Coins are normally considered long-term investments (three-to-five-years). If you don't think you will hold the coin for a minimum of three years, don't buy it.

- Buy coins that are special and unusual. When looking at rare coins as an investor rather than a collector, you only want high quality rare coins, not high quality old coins.

- For your protection, deal only with a dealer that is a member of the Coin and Bullion Dealer Accreditation Program (CABDAP). CABDAP is an independent, voluntary and industrywide program of self-regulation, like the Securities Exchange Commission is to the securities industry.

Single, independent male. Likes seafood, birdwatching. Desperately needs someone to share it all with.

They're handsome, faithful, and fun to be with. But right now, they're lonely. These are just eight of the hundreds of perfectly healthy animals waiting at the Michigan Humane Society (MHS) for that certain special someone to go home with. Someone, we hope, just like you.

Because you can provide what we can't: a permanent home. One that will be filled with all the love and attention they deserve.

But if you're already spoken for, there is another way you can help. Your donation to the MHS, no matter how big or small, will help us give these animals the best care possible and the chance for us to find them a proper home.

So, share your love with those who need it most: the bachelors and bachelorettes at the Michigan Humane Society.

Jobless rate down in western suburbs

Unemployment shrunk in western Wayne County during July, helping contribute to a statewide decline.

The statewide unemployment rate was 7.3 percent for July, according to just-released Michigan Employment Security Commission figures. The figure represented a slight decrease from June, when unemployment was 7.5 percent. It also represented a slight decrease from the 7.4 percent unemployment posted in July 1988.

Unemployment in the Detroit area was 7.5 percent. Though slightly higher than the state average, the figure represents a substantial decrease over the 8.5 percent unemployment posted for the same period one year ago.

AMONG THE state's major job markets, only Flint showed an unemployment increase.

Flint's unemployment rate for July, 12.6 percent, was the highest in the state and nearly double that posted in most other regions. The Ann Arbor region posted the lowest monthly unemployment rate, 4.4 percent.

Monthly unemployment fell among area communities as follows:

- Livonia — 4.3 percent, a decrease from 4.4 percent in June. There were 53,600 Livonians working, according to the MESCC, and 2,400 unemployed in the city.

Unemployment shrunk in western Wayne County during July, helping contribute to a statewide decline.

- Westland — 6.9 percent, a decrease from 7.1 percent in June. There were 49,350 Westland residents with jobs, compared with 3,025 unemployed city residents.

- Redford Township — 5.1 percent, compared with 5.2 percent in June. There were 29,600 township residents with jobs and 1,600 unemployed.

- Canton Township — 4.6 percent, compared with 4.5 percent in June. There were 23,925 township residents with jobs and 1,125 unemployed.

- Garden City — 6.7 percent, compared with 6.9 percent in June. There were 17,525 Garden city residents with jobs and 1,275 unemployed.

- Plymouth Township — 3.9 percent, compared with 3.8 percent in June. There were 11,900 township residents with jobs and 475 unemployed.

- Plymouth — 3.3 percent, compared with 3.4 percent in June. There were 5,250 Plymouth residents with jobs and 175 unemployed.

Returning Schoolcraft College students were greeted by informational pickets this week as members of the Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel protested contract offers made to date. College office workers conducted the lunchtime pickets. They were assisted by members of the college's maintenance workers union. Contracts with both groups had yet to be settled as of Wednesday morning, though both sides were expected to resume contract talks by week's end. Despite the pickets, both groups remained on the job. The SCAP represents 53 college workers. The maintenance workers group represents 38 workers.

Tougher laws proposed for nursing home closure

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

Nursing home advocates are hoping some good will come from the shutdown this summer of a Bloomfield Township nursing home.

The decertification of Bloomfield Hills Care Center in June and actions against two other facilities were cited by lawmakers seeking to revise state law covering nursing home closures, to make it easier on the patients and tougher on the nursing homes.

State Reps. Sharon L. Gire, D-Mount Clemens, and Michael Bennane, D-Detroit, and state Sen. Frederick Dillingham, R-Howell, plan to introduce bills in October.

The bills, Gire said, would make it easier on residents of nursing homes that failed to meet government standards.

The legislation, which would amend the public health code, is based on the recommendations of Citizens for Better Care, a nursing home advocacy group.

CBC issued a letter in July detailing the decertification of the Bloomfield center on Square Lake Road in June, and actions against Chateau Gardens in Flint and Roselawn Manor in Lansing.

THE FEDERAL government stopped Medicaid and Medicare payments to the 366-bed Bloomfield center after the facility failed several inspections.

Bloomfield was the state's largest nursing home, and the move sent hundreds of residents scrambling to find another nursing home before insurance payments ceased. The nursing home has remained open, though, with approximately 25 private pay patients.

Dillingham and Gire said the legislation would:

- Require residents and their family members to be notified as soon as possible when the government moves to revoke a nursing home's license.

- Ban new admissions to a nursing home that is scheduled to close.

- Establish a multi-agency committee to coordinate the closure of a nursing home.

- Appoint receivers to operate substandard nursing homes and establish qualifications for receivers.

- Prohibit the state from issuing a new nursing home license to the operator of a facility that has been delicensed.

CBC OFFICIALS were pleased by the proposed bills.

"The legislation, to the best of our knowledge, looks like it reflects very much our concerns about strengthening the Michigan Department of Public Health's ability to act to enforce state law," said Susan Rourke, CBC's executive director.

"We want it to move as expeditiously as possible so these protections are in place, hopefully, by the time the Legislature recesses for Christmas," said Hollis Turnham, the state's long-term care ombudsman, and a member of CBC.

The legislative services bureau is drawing up bills, Gire and Dillingham said.

"What we've decided to do is to work together to develop the legislation and then do what we call a joint introduction, in the House and Senate," Dillingham said.

Bennane was out of town last week, and could not be reached for comment.

BLOOMFIELD CENTER residents and family members said they were given little notice that the center lost its approval to receive Medicaid and Medicare payments.

One woman told of a relative who was admitted to the Bloomfield Hills center, then learned two weeks later the facility had been decertified.

"That just complicates what is an already difficult situation," Gire said.

The bill's sponsors would likely hold public hearings to determine support for and opposition to the bills.

Turnham said she expected that state agencies, nursing home operators and CBC regulators would get together to consider any proposed legislation.

"It's going to take a lot more work to flesh out the concepts that CBC has outlined," she said.

Mayor's race Griffin, Artley merit support

WESTLAND HAS undergone dramatic changes during the last four years. In fact, someone who left the city in 1985 and returned this summer might be hard pressed to recognize his old hometown.

A spate of projects — from the Meijer superstore and Showcase movie complex, to new apartments, condominiums and even a few subdivisions of single-family homes — dot the Westland landscape. A major roadway (Central City Parkway) winds through an area that was unusable, undeveloped land as recently as two years ago.

A monument to Vietnam veterans has been erected in front of a refurbished city hall. Outdoor basketball courts are under construction near the Bailey Recreation Center.

We have watched the burgeoning economic development of Westland with both pride and caution. The expansion was not only good, but necessary. However, as the city continues its transition from rural township into major metropolitan suburb, we see some difficult problems on the horizon.

THAT IS why we are recommending incumbent Charles Griffin and city councilman Thomas Artley to be nominated in next Tuesday's mayoral primary. They are the two candidates best suited to guide the city into the 1990s.

Griffin has benefited by having his first term in office coincide with the national and state economic recovery. The recession of the early 1980s was fading from view as he took office in January 1986. But he deserves some of the credit for helping steer the boom Westland's way.

Griffin's appointments, particularly in key financial and development positions, have been motivated and capable people. Tim Schroeder, the outgoing director of economic development, and Robert Matzo, who has served as assessor and director of the department of public services, are examples.

Judging by results, the administration's effort to streamline and create a higher profile for the city's economic development department has been successful.

THE EXPANSION has been accomplished for the most part without reckless spending. Griffin favors a fiscally conservative approach — working within the budget and looking for innovative, yet inexpensive ways to accomplish his goals.

Griffin also seems attuned to some of the problems that come along with development. In a questionnaire mailed to all candidates, he responded that one of his top concerns for the immediate future was making sure Westland roads can handle the increased traffic that has already begun flowing into the city.

He has also talked about prudent development and ensuring that new projects conform with the master plan worked out by city leaders in the 1970s.

Controlling commercial development so that both residents and businesses benefit is also one of Artley's top priorities. He believes homeowners should not be shortchanged when it comes to input on what is best for the city. He understands that while no single resident contributes more revenue than the city's largest commercial and industrial taxpayers, collectively they are the city's bread and butter.

ARTLEY ALSO favors the current proposal before the council for a comprehensive study of the city's police and fire departments. With his colleagues, he recognizes that increased economic development may require a substantially larger commitment to public safety.

In his 12½ years on the council, Artley has demonstrated a well thought out approach to problem solving that could serve him well in the mayor's office.

Although he has capably served Westland residents as a councilman and has no glaring faults, Artley does need to work on his approach to other council members. As a council member, his direct and sometimes abrasive comments can be viewed as part of the overall debate.

But the same management style as mayor would almost surely sidetrack the legislative process and could lead to a return of the divisive administration-council relationship of the early 1980s.

City Council

These candidates offer quality

WESTLAND VOTERS will have a large field of qualified city council candidates to pick from in Tuesday's primary.

There are incumbents and numerous challengers among the 13 candidates seeking the eight nominations. Those nominated Tuesday will advance to the Nov. 7 general election at which time four will be elected.

City Councilmen Kenneth Mehl, William Ziemba, and Ben DeHart deserve to be renominated for many reasons.

They have played positive roles in the recent economic growth of the city and are working hard to make sure that the developments are well planned and fit in with the surrounding areas.

The three have shown they are concerned about homeowners' problems and how the council's actions affect them. While residents may not like all the council decisions, at least Mehl, Ziemba and DeHart have shown they have heard the complaints and considered their views.

As council president, Mehl is getting better at handling complaints from irate residents at business meetings, although there is still room for improvement.

While they have shown a sense of cooperation with Mayor Charles Griffin, elected nearly four years ago, the three council members have occasionally displayed their own independence.

For the other five nominations, Westland voters will have an interesting field of challengers seeking election in November.

There will be at least one new council member elected in the fall because of Kent Herbert's decision to not seek a new term.

The best of the challengers are Terri Reichgard Johnson and Ethel Bollinger, who have excellent backgrounds in dealing with policy issues. Johnson has wider name identification in serving the past three years on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education. Based on her answers to the Westland Observer's candidate questionnaire and our observation of her in public office, she has demonstrated she has a good understanding of the issues facing the community in the next 10 years. She has offered the most innovative approach on several issues, especially her suggestion on improving deteriorating or blighted neighborhoods.

Bollinger has demonstrated a commitment in trying to improve the community and its quality of life. She is on the city's planning commission and has a clear thinking approach in solving problems. She came close to defeating an incumbent and winning a council seat in 1987. This year may be her year.

In rounding out the field of the top eight candidates, Dorothy Smith, Sandra Cicirelli, and Joseph Eadeh should be nominated in the Tuesday primary.

Smith, who has run for council seats before, would be a good representative of the city's southeast corner and would provide valuable input from the community's black residents who sometimes feel isolated from the rest of the city. With a background on the city's community development block grant advisory committee, Smith clearly cares about the city and solving its problems.

Cicirelli, a lawyer, has served on the city's zoning board of appeals, which deals with a variety of land development issues.

Eadeh demonstrates that he is concerned with the lack of long-term planning for economic development, and the need for an effective substance abuse program in the community.

On Tuesday, Sept. 12, we recommend Kenneth Mehl, William Ziemba, Ben DeHart, Terri Reichgard Johnson, Ethel Bollinger, Dorothy Smith, Sandra Cicirelli and Joseph Eadeh.

Cries of urban sprawl mask other problems

SUBURBS, HEAR THIS. You can't have it both ways.

You can't try to isolate yourselves from Detroit and Pontiac and their problems, and then cry that you should have been consulted when word surfaces of a proposed mega mall way the heck out in Auburn Hills or a Somerset North in Troy.

Both impact your communities. The communities of Southfield, a major suburb struggling to remain viable, and Lake Angelus, a tiny suburb trying to remain uncluttered, will ask the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) for a regional impact study of Auburn Mills, the 2.3-million-square-foot mall slated for I-75 near Joslyn Road. Size-wise, that's about twice Troy's Oakland Mall. Other communities may join the chorus.

Southfield has been on record against urban sprawl, for some time — well, uh, sometime after Northland. City fathers don't like what's happening in Novi, particularly now that Southfield-based Providence Hospital wants to shift some of its services that-a-way. They were on record against The Palace and the new GM Tech Center.

"We ought to learn from our experiences," Southfield City Manager Robert Block said. "If it (Northland) was wrong and eventually hurt Detroit, then let's not repeat it."

"AUBURN HILLS' immediate neighbor, Rochester Hills, is also making noises of concern. "Here we go again," according to Rochester Hills Mayor Billie Ireland, who last fall successfully fought against a traffic pattern for getting to The Palace which used Rochester Hills' streets.

The proposed mega mall "shows the lack of coordination between the municipalities in this fast-growing county of Oakland," said Rochester Hills councilman Ed Baron. He said there should be some sort of regional analysis of a community's plan for such a large project.

Enter SEMCOG, which is on record on behalf of curbing urban sprawl, favoring older cities and preserving nature in the countryside. As the official planning agency for the seven-county region, they recently endorsed such a plan as proposed by "the Big Four" — Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy, Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and Macomb Board Chairman Mark Steenburgh.

But what will a review by SEMCOG do?

- Southfield county commissioner Lawrence Pernick says that SEMCOG has already violated its principles by making the Auburn Hills mega mall site eligible for federal road aid.

- It will only do the review if a clearing house-review committee says it should.

- And, bottom line, it is only an advisory body, although its advice could influence that federal aid for roadwork.

BUT, WHAT, if not SEMCOG? It seems to be the only agency with the potential for making us stop, look and listen to the sounds of growth. Is the growth real or manufactured? Is it just one more move to avoid dealing with our real problems: racial polarization, unequal educational opportunities, crime and drugs?

Suburbs, you can't duck from what happens in Detroit and Pontiac and then hope to control what happens in Novi and Auburn Hills.

Once again, the Detroit metro area is in this together. If we attack the real problems, the growth can re-spring from where there are already roads, sewers, water.

"What we're doing here is spending dollars to build a mall in a corn field, while we abandon our older cities," says Rochester Hills' councilman Baron.

Sure wish I'd said that.

Judith Doner Berne is assistant managing editor for the Oakland County editions of the Observer & Eccentric newspapers.

Land sale was protested

To the editor:
I read with interest the Aug. 31 front page article regarding the Hawthorne golf course expansion. But I find your survey results very confusing. When the extent of the expansion came to light in July, I covered a three-block area, on August around my home and found not one person in favor of the park being sold to Hawthorne Valley.

I would like to know who conducted the survey. Some of my neighbors on August saw the surveyors, but were not asked their opinion. These surveyors were going to a street that does not border the park.

I also wonder why you didn't quote anyone against the park sale. Wouldn't that have been objective reporting? Please be fair. The land purchase extends from Merriman to Middlebelt and that is a large section of the parkway.

However, the golf course isn't the main issue here. The real issue is the sale of public parkland to a private developer, depriving many families of access to the park. We don't need golf courses as much as we need parks which can be used by many as opposed to the few who can afford the golf fees.

If this piece of park is sold, we can probably expect more parkland to be sold and we can end up with no place for picnics, baseball and other free summer and winter recreational activities.

Residents who oppose this sale of parkland have not been able to get the publicity that a rich restaurant owner has. We did hold a protest in the park on Aug. 6. The Observer was notified but evidently did not find our efforts worth covering. We did get on the Channel 4 news on that date and also in the Detroit News.

We have circulated petitions throughout the area and have many signatures of county residents who object to the sale of county parkland, especially to a private developer. We plan to continue to object to the sale until we have exhausted all possible avenues open to us.

But please do us the courtesy of listening to us. We are your neighbors and we read your newspaper too. We know there are many people bordering the park who don't want it sold. The people you quoted in your paper are people who already live on the golf course that now exists. Talk to those who do not live on the edge of the course too. They purchased land on the parkway and would like to see it stay that way.

Chidester gets praise

To the editor:
As advocates for older adults and the disabled community, we work with many organizations, and businesses in resolving transportation related problems. Many solutions can be inexpensive yet nofable.

We would like to recognize a member of the Livonia community which has proven an understanding and willingness to work with us, Dennis Chidester and the management of the Wonderland Shopping Center.

Our committee received a complaint from a public transit rider about the bus stop at Wonderland. The location was a particular inconvenience to older adults and disabled customers. We approached Mr. Chidester, who acted quickly and responsibly in making the change to a safe, accessible bus stop near the mall entrance.

We in the older adult and disabled community do not want to be "given" everything, just the opportunity to participate like others. Actions like Mr. Chidester and the management of the Wonderland Shopping Center do help.

A 'brush' with salesman

YOU'D HAVE to call him slight, the man standing on our front porch when I went to answer the doorbell.

The satchel on the porch beside him seemed half as big as he was, although that perception was an exaggeration.

"Damn," I thought. "Another peddler." Fortunately... or unfortunately, I wasn't sure which... he wore a picture ID badge indicating he had duly registered with the township before beginning his foray into the neighborhoods.

"He's probably legitimate," I thought, studying the badge. "Still, this won't take long." After all, I'm the guy who's been known to tell school kids selling M&Ms to take a hike.

I had opened my mouth to ask what he wanted when he said, in a voice that sounded almost apologetic, "Hello. I'm the Fuller Brush man."

MY MOUTH stayed open, but no words came out. I just stared at him. My brain was active, but the lips wouldn't work.

"You can't be the Fuller Brush man," I thought. "You don't look the least bit like Red Skelton." But I couldn't say a word.

He went into a brief spiel... I don't remember any of what he said, and all I could say was something like, "Uh, my wife's not home and I'd want to check with her before I ordered anything, but do you have some catalogs you could leave for us to study? We might be interested in

Several tax bills on fall ballot

This is the second in a series of six articles on the November school finance reform ballot proposals from The Michigan Tax Information Council.

THE MICHIGAN Legislature must approve a package of bills designed to relieve the sales tax burden for certain taxpayers before voters can vote on two school finance reform proposals in November: HB 4309 would provide utility tax relief for low-income people if Proposal B is approved.

If Proposal A passes, electricity and heating fuel provided and billed to residential customers would not be exempt from any portion of the sales tax. Effective Jan. 1, 1990, the sales and use tax would increase to 4.5 percent under this proposal.

a new mop."

He wrote a name and telephone number on a couple of catalogs and handed them to me.

"Would you like a free sample?" he asked. He opened a case containing a variety of small kitchen gadgets. I took a vegetable brush.

We exchanged a few more non-committal words and he trundled off down the street, hoping, presumably, to have better luck with some of the neighbors.

I closed the door and went back inside. I picked up the cup of coffee that was starting to get cold and indulged in thoughts of my childhood in a small town in Arkansas.

BACK THEN, in the olden days of my youth, the Fuller Brush man was a regular visitor, like the milkman, the mailman who came twice a day, the iceman who would deliver wooden cases of Coca Cola and Nehi in addition to 50- and 75-pound blocks of ice, the doctor who made house calls, the dry-cleaner who both picked up and delivered, the grocer who would take your orders over the phone, add the total to your standing charge account and then deliver the goods in his own car.

If you were sick and needed medicine, you called the pharmacist, who would fill your prescription, add it to your bill and deliver it.

And once a month or so, the Fuller Brush man came around with mops and brooms and hairbrushes and always a free sample of some small gadget.

But that was years ago, in a different world. People trusted each other then, and "mugging" was a term yet to be invented. The Fuller Brush man didn't have to have a permit from the city to tour the neighborhoods, and if an occasional tramp did show up, you gave him a sandwich and a piece of pie because you knew he was just a harmless drifter who was broke and hungry.

My mind kept flashing back on such things for the rest of the afternoon, until it was time to go to work. Thoughts of an earlier, and more trusting, world.

When I left my car in the office parking lot later in the day, I made sure I locked the doors. But I still kept thinking of the little man with the big sample case, trudging off to try to sell one of my neighbors a brush or a broom.

I wish I had bought something from him.

U.P.'s tourism soars

MY OUTBOARD motor was on the fritz one day in 1982. I took it to the place where I had bought it, but the guy was out of business.

The telephone directory, in the days when it wasn't so bulky as to be unusable, yielded a number of outboard dealers capable of handling my brand of quiet fishing motor.

Most were out of business. Traveling US-2 in the Upper Peninsula that July, I noticed one boarded-up restaurant and motel after another.

That was in the bottom of the recession. Today you fight for recreation space. And maybe prosperity is better.

THIS SUMMER WAS Michigan's first $10 billion summer, according to Travel Bureau director John Savich.

The record occurred despite a slowdown in the national economy and an erosion of consumer confidence, he said. Erosion of consumer confidence? A poll of metro Detroiters released last week showed just the opposite. And shopping mall stores in Oakland and Washtenaw counties, in particular, are so hard-up for help that they're offering tuition incentives and child care.

Savich last week launched the bureau's new Michigan Fall Travel Guide and Calendar of Events at a news conference, saying:

"Make no mistake: Although preliminary figures may say that travel had a $10 billion economic impact this summer, this has been a tough year. Every year since 1985 has set a record in Michigan travel history, and it becomes harder and harder each year to improve on the record performance of the previous 12 months.

"We started 1989 faced with predictions of rising gasoline prices and a softening economy. We got erratic prices, slow growth in the gross national product, a seven-point decline in consumer confidence, and a 10- to 15-percent growth in hotel rooms — all of which makes for a very unusual year full of mixed signals."

"MIXED SIGNALS"?

State parks now take reservations, and over the Labor Day weekend many were filled — despite the abundance of mosquitoes generated by early season rain.

In florid language, Savich unveiled the new "user friendly" fall travel guide. It combines a calendar of festivals and activities with a selection of 25 color tours, 80 elder mills and other goodies.

Copies of the free Michigan Fall Travel Guide and Calendar of Events can be obtained by calling the Travel Bureau at 1-800-5432-YES.

The travel industry has come a long way since the bottom of the recession, when UP restaurants were boarded up and boat dealers were belly up. If one were old-fashioned, one could even say it's getting crowded out in our beloved boonies.

Ignore tales about staff

Q: My son, after only three days of school, is already making some pointed remarks about one of his teachers and his new principal. Some remarks are not very good. His ninth grade buddies joined him the other afternoon on our outdoor basketball court and their observation of a couple of teachers makes me wonder. Who do you believe?

cent Accreditation Analysis. Unbeknown to them, they are into a "psychological mapping" or a printout of each teacher so to determine strategies on how to deal with each teacher's style and each teacher's expectation this school year.

This first week of school, therefore, is really a mutual assessment program; teachers assessing their students' personalities and behavior patterns and students scrutinizing their teachers' egocentricities.

As parents of a ninth grader you must be experiencing the metamorphosis of early adolescence, when your son is the epitome of knowledge, brighter than the teacher or parent (the parent who becomes more limited every year). But don't despair, by the time your son/daughter is 25 you will — if your patience can last that long — have children that recognize you were not so "out of touch" after all.

Don't overreact when your son perceives a teacher to be "different." Time and again, students return to school years later and thank the very teachers they thought were unfair at age 16.

On the other hand, if a pattern develops over a period of a few months in a certain class where your son exhibits a real nervousness or anxiety, you, as a parent, have an obligation to talk with the teacher, counselor or principal to clear the air based on factual information — not idle parking lot chatter.

SC wind ensemble has new conductor

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Victor Bordo, a noted symphony band conductor and author of musical publications, has been named the new conductor of Schoolcraft College's wind ensemble.

The ensemble, comprised of community musicians and students of music at Schoolcraft, perform publicly four times annually.

"Participating in a music ensemble is a lifetime skill and individuals with musical talent should continue to enhance their talent," Bordo said.

A former director of the Ann Arbor Symphony Band and former symphony band director for Pioneer High School in Ann Arbor, Bordo is an accomplished musician who holds bachelor's and master's degrees in music from Wayne State University. He is currently working on a doctorate in music performance from the University of Michigan.

In his new position with Schoolcraft, Bordo will conduct weekly ensemble rehearsals and four public performances, scheduled both on and off campus. The group performs selections ranging from pop to classical music.

ALL INTERESTED musicians are welcome to participate in rehearsals, even those who have not played in recent years, according to Larry Ordowski, associate dean of liberal arts for Schoolcraft.

Bordo was selected from a field of three finalists who, as part of the interview process, auditioned with the wind ensemble, Ordowski said.

Bordo was named distinguished bandmaster of America, First Chair of America, in 1977 and won the Mac Award for maintaining high ideals in band performance in 1976. He has participated in numerous Midwestern Conference competitions and clinics and has authored "The Modern Concert Band — Where Do We Go From Here?" "Rehearsal Techniques, In-

Wind ensemble rehearsals, held weekly during the school year, begin 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 6, in Room 310 of the Forum Building at Schoolcraft, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

Consumers customers to get refund

Consumers Power Co.'s typical residential natural gas customer will receive a refund of approximately $20 in September and $15 in lower gas bills over the next three years following Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) approval Tuesday of a settlement agreement.

In September, Consumers Power will refund a total of $36.7 million to the 3.3 million Michigan residents it serves with gas. Its industrial, commercial and residential gas customers will receive the refund as a one-time bill credit.

Approval of the settlement agreement will reduce the cost of Michigan natural gas bought by Consumers Power by an estimated $24 million from now through 1991.

Michigan-produced gas accounted for approximately 18 percent of the utility's total gas supplies last year. The matter had been pending for several years, said Michael G. Morris, executive vice president of natural gas.

The settlement was reached with the state attorney general's office, staff members from the MPSC's gas division, the Residential Ratepayers Consortium and the Association of Businesses Advocating Tariff Equity, as well as a large group of companies that produce natural gas in Michigan.

McNamara hosts picnic for senior citizens

Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara expects 4,000-5,000 people at his annual senior citizen picnic Saturday in Edward Hines Park.

The free outing takes place 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Warrendale Picnic Site, east of Telegraph off Warren Road in Dearborn Heights.

Volunteers will furnish refreshments, games, prizes, entertainment and music for senior citizens throughout Wayne County.

This is the third consecutive year that McNamara has sponsored the picnic.

Senior citizens can obtain free tickets by contacting their local nutrition sites.

Community college offers tuition guarantee

Students who graduate from Henry Ford Community College now have a tuition guarantee.

All students will still have to pay tuition increases at the time of class enrollment. Those who graduate within four years, however, will have their increases refunded.

To qualify, students must complete all course work at the Dearborn-based community college.

Current tuition is $34 per credit hour for Dearborn School district residents and $48 per hour for non-residents.

It is believed to be the first offer of its kind in the nation.

Fact or fiction: Finding your 'roots'

By Sue Mason
staff writer

The year was 1975, when interest in genealogy was at fever pitch, thanks to Alex Haley's book, "Roots."

A group of people, who had taken a genealogy class offered at Schoolcraft College, decided it was time to form a club especially for people looking for their "roots."

More than 13 years later, the Western Wayne County Genealogical Society is going strong. The interest in genealogy may not be what it once was, but once a month from September to May, 65 society members meet at the Livonia Civic Center Library to hear how they can make better use of courthouse records or the state archives and help each other discover their pasts.

"Once you get the hang of it, it's not hard," said Sanford Blanton, club president. "You start feeling like a detective getting a few pieces to a puzzle."

Blanton considers himself a youngster when it comes to genealogy because of his age — 35. Many people are older when they get interested in genealogy, he said.

He began his research in April 1986, partly because of the birth of his second child and partly because of a co-worker who while at a library in Fort Wayne, Ind., found a listing in the 1910 census of his grandmother, who was then a 10-year-old living in the Ridge Grove Precinct of Chambers County, Ala.

"I HAD THIS strong fatherly feeling at the time and knowing about my grandmother brought all those feelings together," Blanton said. "It's like kind of being a part of a living chain. Most people are older when they get those feelings and many say they wished they'd started (doing research) when they were younger."

Blanton has traced his lineage back nine generations to 1682, when Thomas Blanton immigrated to America from England. Blanton believes the young man was probably the first Blanton to step foot on American soil.

In his research he has cleared up "a family legend" about his second great-grandfather, Alexander Blanton, who family members had claimed was a hero in the War of 1812.

SHARON LeMIEUX/staff photographer

A filing cabinet and computer are handy tools for Sanford Blanton who shares some of his genealogical discoveries with his wife Lenore and son Sam.

By researching pension records from the federal archives, Blanton discovered that Alexander had not served in the military during the war, rather he had paid a gentleman $400 to serve in his place and go with Gen. Andrew Jackson to Fort Gaines, Ala., to fight the Indians.

Blanton and his wife have been able to trace her ancestry on her mother's side back to the 1500s when the family lived in France. The research turned up a second great-grandfather, Alexander Lamerand, who fought with Company D of the 15th Regiment, Michigan Infantry, during the Civil War and was part of Sherman's March to the Sea.

"The names, dates and places are the skeleton, but when you find out little stories about ancestors, it kind of fills out the person," Blanton said.

Members of the society come from throughout western Wayne County, including Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Redford Township and Plymouth. There also are a few former members living in Arizona and Pennsylvania who keep in touch to get the society's quarterly newsletter, Blanton said.

THE MEETING season starts off with the society's annual genealogy workshop, which will be held on Sept. 20. Like the meetings, the workshop is open to the public and club "experts" will be on hand to talk to people about getting started in genealogy, researching in the southeast, northeast, French-Canadian ancestry and the like and specific problems people are having tracing their roots.

"History and genealogy go hand in hand," Blanton said. "To understand your ancestry, you get a better feel for history. It helps you understand where your ancestors came from."

Blanton cautions people interested in genealogy that it takes time to do and it can become addictive. He spends weekends, evenings and his free time doing research.

"It's not an obsession, it's a fascinating hobby," he said. "It's a labor of enjoyment. I have many hours invested in it and I've enjoyed every one of them."

"Once you get bitten, it's hard to give it up. It's like eating peanuts. You never eat just one."

The Western Wayne County Genealogical Society meets at 8 p.m. the third Wednesday of the month at the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road, Livonia. It is sponsored by the Livonia Library Commission and the Livonia Library System. For more information, call club president Sanford Blanton at 422-8344.

Search is slow process

SO YOU WANT to find your "roots," huh? — Well, a word to the wise. Don't expect to know everything about your ancestry in a day. Genealogy is a time-consuming process that takes, among other things, a lot of organization.

Genealogy is one of the most popular hobbies in the United States today. It's a form of historical research that starts with the known and works toward the unknown — from the present to as far back as possible.

Tracing your "roots" is like constructing a skeleton. Names make up the skeletal structure and the historical and geographical information gleaned during the search puts flesh on those bare bones.

But how do you get started?

Before recording your first bit of information, make sure you have a easily accessible filing system. When you record information — names, dates and other pertinent details — be exact. And documents — birth, marriage, divorce and death certificates, marriage announcements, newspaper clippings, etc. — that substantiate your ancestry should be kept with your notes.

As for the notes, it's best to keep them brief, but accurate. Try putting them into your own words or indicate with quote marks those taken from someone else. It's also smart to record the exact source of the information.

One of the most important methods of genealogy is the oral history, obtained from older relatives. Family records, including the family Bible, diaries and old letters also provide a lot of information about the family tree.

ANOTHER SOURCE of information is deeds, wills and tax records, available from county records. But as you delve further into the past keep in mind that county boundaries change during the colonial period and early independence.

Cemeteries also can help document dates of deaths, but be sure to record the exact wording on tombstones. Words had different meanings way back when. A case in point is consort. In bygone days, it meant a spouse living at the time of the person's death. Also, wife didn't necessarily mean wife and relict was an indication that the deceased was a widow or widower.

Church, school and hospital records can also produce information on ancestry as well as military and naturalization records.

Secondary sources would be newspaper announcements, collective biographies found in libraries, directories of organizations and genealogical periodicals and related indexes.

Experts offer a word of caution when doing a genealogical search: Don't expand your research overseas until you're certain you've exhausted all the sources available in this country.

The library may be one place to start your search.

Consider reading books like Timothy Beard's "How to Find Your Family Roots," of which more than half is a guide to names and addresses of record repositories in the world.

THERE ARE several genealogical libraries throughout the country, notably the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints Genealogical Library in Salt Lake City, Utah (call 801-531-2331), the American Genealogical Lending Library in Bountiful, Utah (call 801-298-5358), and the National Genealogical Society Library in Washington, D.C. (call 202-785-2123).

The U.S. National Archives and Record Service maintains record centers across the country, the closest being the Federal Record Center in Dayton, Ohio (call 513-225-2878). There's also one in Chicago, Ill. (call 312-353-0184).

Research turns up an Indian captive

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Virginia Braun set out to prove three things when she began tracing her family tree in 1982 — that she was related to the War of 1812 hero Oliver Hazard Perry, that there was Indian blood in her family like her grandfather had said and that one of her ancestors had been kidnapped by Indians.

She has accomplished those goals, although only one — the kidnapping — turned out to be true, and she still is pursuing her past.

"I didn't know what I'd find," she said. "I set out to prove those three things and once I got started I couldn't stop."

Braun has been able to trace her family tree back 14 generations to the 1500s and her sixth great-grandfather. She has unearthed 40 different surnames and 511 ancestors.

And what she has discovered reads like chapters from a history book.

The Westland resident has found that all of her ancestors were in America by the 1800s, with some coming to Rhode Island as early as 1638. Many of them were Quakers, she said.

She also has been able to prove that five family members were veterans of the Revolutionary War, qualifying her for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution, and that one served during the Civil War, sending letters home recounting the Battle of the Merrimac.

AND ONE ancestor, a 7-year-old girl named Eva, spent seven years as an Indian captive before being kidnapped and returned to her family in exchange for a bounty offered for a return of such captives.

That happened in Pennsylvania and Eva went on to marry, have 12 children and eventually become one of the original settlers of Dayton, Ohio, Braun said.

Braun has traveled to Salt Lake City twice to do research at the Church of the Latter-day Saints library, gone to the Allen County Public Library in Fort Wayne, Ind., and perused the Burton Historical Collection at the Detroit Public Library.

She has bought a personal computer — "and even learned how to use" — to keep track of her research and taken over a family filing cabinet reserved for income tax records to store her wealth of documents.

"I've have found out quite a bit about my family written up in books," she said. "I even found my name in two books. That was a strange feeling."

Her interest in genealogy goes hand-in-hand with her love of old homes — "If I ever have an accident it will be because I'm looking at a house with a stone foundation" — and antiques. It also has led to her involvement in the Westland Historical Commission and Museum.

"It's an education and a lot of what you learn can be used in other parts of your life," she said.

She got started by taking a leisure class on genealogy and eventually began teaching a similar class in Dearborn Heights. She also read up on the subject and joined the Western Wayne County Genealogical Society.

HER ADVICE to people interested in tracing their "roots" is to read a good how-to book so they get started right, then interview older relatives "before it's too late."

"About five years ago I had my mother write down old stories about the family," she said. "I'm glad I did. She's 95 now and her memory isn't as good as it used to be."

Some day Braun would like to put all of her information in book form, not to grace the shelves of a library, but for family members.

Livonia

Dear P.M.,

Your small precise handwriting tells me you are a serious young man who seeks perfection in all things. Each and every detail is checked and then rechecked to ensure accuracy.

You adhere to a daily schedule that is structured and efficient. Flexibility is not your strong point. Productivity is best achieved in an atmosphere where you can concentrate on the task at hand free from distractions and interruptions.

There is a single mindedness about you. You set goals for yourself and are driven to achieve. The joy of achieving, however, is never quite reached.

This handwriting further suggests that as a child you were required to conform to strict behavior patterns set by one or both parents. And you soon learned the importance of self-discipline.

It seems quite possible that something from your early life is still threatening you. Someone once said, "The past is only worth what it makes of us."

You come across as a conservative, conventional person who holds to the values you were taught as a child. You are not likely to openly rebel against the establishment, but in your private life you insist on "doing your own thing."

THERE IS a certain formality about you, as well as a sense of control. You are disciplined to do the unexpected.

You feel you must do things in a certain way, ever cognizant of how others view your actions and attitudes. You are also careful of what you say or display of your inner feelings.

Friendships are developed slowly and carefully. There is a private side of you that few ever get to know. At the time you wrote me, you were experiencing anxiety and/or tension. Possibly, you are your own severest critic and overly concerned with the opinions of other people.

This handwriting also indicates more than the usual concern with money. Some apprehension about the future also is possible.

You are a modest person who does not do things for effect. And while you do not yearn for the limelight, a little recognition would be nice.

I was very intrigued by your article and like you to tell me about my personality in my handwriting. With your deftness in graphology, you should be able to decipher my characteristics. I am very

As I continue to study your handwriting and personality, I can't help wondering if you are involved in any relaxation techniques. A brisk, daily walk can do wonders for a person.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are helpful. And feedback is always appreciated.

She promotes cause to save the rain forests

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Margaret Pulgini has a dream. It's a dream shared by many people around the world and a dream that may come to fruition, but it may be too late.

The Livonia resident would like to see a portion of the world's rain forest preserved as an international park.

"It breaks my heart to see them destroy something so beautiful," she said. "Developing countries are farming down there and making money hand over fist. I just can't believe they're doing that and leaving it in rubble."

Pulgini's interest in the rain forests stems from a trip she took to Mexico several years ago. It started out as a visit to the jungles of Mexico to see the Mayan ruins. Captivated by the jungle's beauty, she ended up spending three months traveling through Central America and on into Colombia and eventually to the lost city of the Incas in Peru.

BUT PULGINI didn't get active in the movement to save the rain forests until earlier this year, when she saw rock star Sting on the "Phil Donahue Show." Sting is one of many celebrities campaigning for preservation of the rain forests. Other notables include John Denver, Robert Redford, Madonna, Ted Danson and even the Muppets.

The rain forests are a 3,000-mile-wide green band that straddles the earth at the equator. Destruction of the jungles began 500 years ago, when Europeans began colonizing the tropics, but wholesale exploitation of the forests began with advent of bulldozers and chain saws, according to a Rainforest Action Network fact sheet.

HOWEVER, MUCH of the destruction has occurred since 1980 as the result of road building, logging, agriculture, mining, hydro-electric dam construction and cattle ranching, RAN said.

Scientists believe that destruction of the rain forest — it once covered 14 percent of the earth, but now covers just 6 percent — has contributed to the "greenhouse effect," a warming of the earth's atmosphere and depletion of the ozone layer.

They estimate that 25 percent of the greenhouse gases come from the slash-and-burn agricultural methods practiced in the rain forests.

"When they clear the land, the top soil is only four-five inches thick," Pulgini said. "The heavy rain washes it away after a couple years, and all that's left is a desert. The rain forest doesn't grow back."

COMMITTED TO saving the rain forests, Pulgini has begun trying to promote a little-known RAN fundraiser — a cross-country horseback ride by Lucian Spataro.

Spataro organized the event in an effort to "organize all sectors of society in an effort to stop" the destruction of the rain forests. Starting in Los Angeles, Calif., he is riding 15 to 22 miles a day and hopes to reach the East Coast "somewhere between Washington, D.C., and New York" by October.

Spataro is raising money — $400 to $600 a mile — for RAN through corporate and private pledges. And at stops along the way, he also is educating people on why the rain forests need to be saved, Pulgini said.

Pulgini has made up fliers, promoting the ride and encouraging donations to RAN. She's even considered organizing a fax-a-thon to get people to pledge money.

"WHEN I heard about his ride, I called all over the country and found no one who had heard about Lucian. When I found out that what they're doing is ecologically unsound, I decided to help this man."

Pulgini is enthusiastic about Spataro's trek. In fact, she would have liked to have met Spataro when he stopped in Indianapolis Sept. 13. But she believes it take will more, something such as an international agreement, to save the rain forests.

"I don't think the money will save the rain forests. The Audubon Society has bought land and so has Conservation International to save the rain forests, but they may find it's already been cleared. There are no rangers down there to protect the land."

"What we need to do is preserve these areas with some kind of preservation act. It's too premature to cut down the rain forests."

Anyone interested in the preservation of the rain forests can write the Rainforest Action Network, 301 Broadway, San Francisco, Calif. 94133, or call (415) 398-4404.

World ecology threatened by destruction of forests

"It has been said that we know more about some areas of the moon than we do about tropical rain forests. Yet what we have learned about them so far has revolutionized our view of all life on this planet."

—Catherine Caufield
"In the Rain Forest"

How real is the possible loss of the world's rain forests?

According to the National Academy of Science, at least 50 million acres a year are lost, an area the size of England, Wales and Scotland combined.

Rain forest cover about 2 percent of the earth's surface or 7 percent of the land mass. Originally, they covered at least twice that area.

The rain forests are the world's oldest continuous ecosystem. Fossil records show that the forests of southeast Asia have existed in more or less their present form for 70-100 million years.

NAS calculates that a typical four-square-mile patch of rain forest contains as many as 1,500 species of flowering plants, 750 species of tree, 125 species of mammals, 400 species of birds, 100 species of reptiles and 150 species of butterflies.

IN FACT, a study of one square meter of leaf litter turned up 50 species of ants.

A 1978 United Nations "State of Knowledge" report predicted that all accessible rain forests will be lost by the year 2000. Brazil alone will lose an area 2 1/2 times the size of Portugal.

Likewise, a UN Food and Agriculture Organization study, published in 1981, predicted that one-fifth of the world's remaining rain forests will be gone by the end of the century.

Presently, all of the primary rain forests in India, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and Haiti have been destroyed, and the Ivory Coast's rain forests have been almost completely logged out.

The Philippines lost 55 percent of its forest between 1960 and 1985. Thailand lost 45 percent between 1961 and 1985.

ACCORDING to the World Wildlife Fund, unless current trends change, the Malaysian peninsula rain forest will be gone by next year, and Nigeria will be deforested by 2000.

Thailand will lose 60 percent of its 1981 rain forests by 2000. Guatemala, Colombia Guinea and Madagascar approximately one-third, and Honduras, Nicaragua and Ecuador half of their remaining forest.

J.M. Diamond and R.M. May in a 1985 article in "Nature" said rain forests in Central America, southeast Asia, western Africa, the Himalayan foothills and the Pacific Islands will largely disappear by the year 2000, accounting for the loss of 1 million square kilometers and a half million species of animals and plants.

What will be lost if the devastation of the rain forests continue? Consider this:

- One-fourth of the medicines available today owe their existence to plants found in the rain forest, and 70 percent of the plants identified by the National Cancer Institute as useful in cancer treatment came from rain forests.

Drugs used to treat childhood leukemia, Hodgkin's disease and other cancers come from rain forest plants, as do medicines for heart ailments, arthritis, hypertension and birth control.

- Rain forest play a critical role in the atmosphere because they hold vast amounts of carbon in their vegetation. When they are burned or the trees cut and left to decay, the carbon is released into the atmosphere as carbon dioxide, the second largest factor contributing to the "greenhouse effect," the warming of the earth's atmosphere and the depletion of the ozone layer.

- Many of the foods — fruits, vegetables and spices — originated in rain forests. The wild strains of these domesticated plants provide genetic material essential in fortifying the existing agricultural stock.

In fact, Brazil nuts cannot be grown commercially and can only be gathered in rain forests.

- Rubber, another rain forest product, can only be obtained from healthy, thriving forests.

Child care open to creative ideas

The "Michigan Child Care Challenge," organized by the House Republican Task Force on Child Care, recognized employers throughout the state who have responded to their employees' child-care needs. Awards ceremonies and press conferences were held in Grand Rapids and Livonia in August to honor those businesses.

Many area businesses were among the award recipients. Of those, two serve to demonstrate that the size of the company need not be a factor when considering child-care benefits.

In addition, they show that there is more than one approach to the same type of benefit.

Chiropractic Federal Credit Union, of Farmington, received an honorable mention in the "New Kid on the Block Category" for their recently implemented child-care benefit.

The credit union now offers a pre-tax dollar, or flexible spending, account for child-care expenses.

With this benefit, the employee has a specified amount of money withheld from his paycheck before taxes (up to an annual maximum of $5,500) for child/dependent care.

THE CREDIT UNION reimburses the employee on a weekly basis, while many businesses only reimburse annually. The credit union has only five employees, and president/

child care

Marcie Walker

CEO Bill Garrison jokingly boasts 20 percent enrollment.

"But, we save several hundred dollars per year by doing this, because we don't have to pay the FICA on that portion of the employees' earnings," he said.

Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company, Farmington Hills, also received a "New Kid on the Block" award for the same child-care option, which was implemented in June of this year. There are 650 employees at this location.

"We use the voucher system," said Benefits Administrator Cynthia Martin. With this system, the employees receive weekly vouchers on the first of each month, which they pay for during the course of the month through payroll deductions.

"The employees receive a listing of child-care referrals who will accept the vouchers as payment," said Martin. "The child-care provider then submits the voucher for payment."

THIS SYSTEM is administered by a California company, Voucher Care Corporation. The insurance company pays them an administrative fee to handle virtually all aspects of the program, including providing referrals.

"It's really not so complicated," said Martin. "The provider is paid in about a week, but if they don't want to use the voucher, the employee can also sign them over to himself and pay the provider cash."

While Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance doesn't benefit financially from the program, due to their administrative costs, Martin estimates that they come out "about even."

While enrollment is currently low, she expects close to 10 percent participation by November's open enrollment.

Marcie Walker, free lance writer, welcomes your input-questions, suggestions for columns, examples of good child care. Write her in care of the Observer & Eccentric, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009.

● LEUKEMIA EDUCATION

On Sept. 9-17, volunteers from the Michigan Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, Inc., will be visiting homes to share an educational message and to seek donations to maintain leukemia research, patient-aid and education in Michigan. Leukemia is the No. 1 disease killer of children between 3-16. Even more adults will die from the disease. For information on the Leukemia Society's programs, call 1-800-456-5413.

● FASHION BENEFIT

Saks Fifth Avenue-Fairlane will present the Man/Woman Show and Benefit at 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 10, at the Fairlane Town Center for the benefit of Children's Hospital of Michigan. The Rev. Daniel Helwig is settling into his new job as pastor of outreach and mercy ministries at St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Plymouth. Helwig and his wife, Amy, live in Plymouth Township.

Welcome

Pastor's enjoying his new role

By Julie Brown
staff writer

This year has been a time of changes for the Rev. Daniel Helwig. He graduated from the Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary with a master of divinity degree. Helwig, 26, and his wife, Amy, got married June 24.

He's settling into a new role as pastor of outreach and mercy ministries at St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Plymouth. Helwig, a Wisconsin native, was installed July 9.

"It's been a real joy," he said. "We're real happy to be here. We know there's a lot of work to do."

He enjoys working with the Rev. Mark Freter and members of St. Peter's. Helwig is looking forward to learning and growing in his faith.

Helwig's work includes visiting people in need of a church. He visits church members who are sick, unable to drive or otherwise homebound. Part of his job includes finding out why people don't attend church.

HE EARNED a bachelor's degree in liberal arts from Northwestern College in Watertown, Wis., in 1985. Helwig then headed for the seminary. He knew the ministry was the place for him to be.

"Nobody really pushed me." His father was a Lutheran grade school teacher. Helwig attended his school, then went to a Lutheran high school in Wisconsin.

"A couple of my friends took the pastor's course and I went along with them."

"I like to be with people. Studying the Bible gives us some answers to what people need to hear."

People need to hear that Jesus Christ is their savior.

"The biggest problem people have is that they're going to die. Helping people in that area, there's no greater joy."

HELWIG ENJOYS preparing sermons and preaching. He's looking forward to teaching a course for adults, "New Life in Christ," this fall.

He enjoys visiting people as well. Helwig knows it will take some time to get settled into his new job.

"You do your best. That's all God is looking for, to be faithful to your job and your calling."

HELWIG'S WIFE taught at a Lutheran grade school in Kenosha, Wis., before the couple moved here. She'll help out at St. Peter's Lutheran School in Plymouth and may do some substitute teaching at that school, which includes kindergarten through eighth grade.

They're looking forward to becoming parents at some point.

"We'll let the Lord take care of that," Helwig said.

Getting married, starting work and moving to their Plymouth Township home has been change enough for now.

"We'd like to have a family. I think it'd be nice. I know Amy and I'd enjoy that."

UNTIL THIS year, Helwig had never visited Michigan.

"Wisconsin was always my home. I'll miss it, but I really do enjoy Michigan. We look forward to making Plymouth our home. As long as God keeps us here, we'll be here."

He found it difficult to get around and find places when he first moved here. In the Wisconsin towns he was used to, numbered streets made it easier to find things.

Helwig was amazed at the general upkeep of neighborhoods and houses he found in Michigan.

"Everybody was friendly, and the houses were so well-kept."

Helwig noticed the extensive building going on in outer areas of his community. That provides tremendous opportunities to seek new worshippers.

IN HIS free time, Helwig enjoys being outdoors. He and Amy like to walk.

"I love basketball. Anything with basketball, I'll be there."

He enjoys fishing and follows all sports. Helwig cheers for the Wisconsin sports teams, but was with the University of Michigan all the way in NCAA competition.

HELWIG COULD have chosen another profession that would have paid him $50,000 or $100,000 a year.

Joy doesn't come from things

"What kind of life and lifestyle would make you glad to get up in the morning and glad to go to bed at night? What would give you the maximum zest and enthusiasm in life?" These words by Lawrence LeShan struck me like a thunderbolt. The image continues in my mind.

What are the things that drag us down? How can we re-energize our lives? I believe that our culture hammers at us with the wrong answers. Have fun. Take a cruise. Wear nice clothes and drive a new car. Enjoy life! But joy and gladness do not come from things.

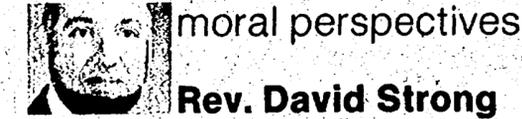

C.S. Lewis tells of his own search for joy in his book, "Surprised By Joy." He sought joy in his life. He was unable to find it. Then unexpectedly, he began to experience an inner joy. He suggests the truth, joy is not a goal but a result of something else. It is a gift of God when we reorient our inner life. When we expect different things of life, joy may come.

Lawrence LeShan's question about arising in the morning with a feeling of gladness is paradoxically written in a book for people who have cancer. Yet those who have read earlier books by LeShan will realize that this man is searching for a prize in life that truly comes from within. He is the author of the fascinating book, "How to Meditate."

WHAT ARE the things that drag us down? The list could be endless, but above all it is that our rationalistic, scientific culture denies purpose and meaning. Reason and numbers dominate our lives. "The bottom line" denies the search for meaning in our lives.

No wonder there is widespread drug use, including alcohol and tran-moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

quillizers. No wonder that more than half of Americans expect a third world war. No wonder few want to go into service professions such as being a teacher, clergy person or nurse. The shortages of our nation's service professions belie our religious affiliations.

"Once dying people have a goal that engages them, the total situation changes," LeShan says. "The decay of the inner life stops and reverses."

We might say that he speaks for a whole culture that is dominated by death: atomic weapons, guns, drugs that destroy, divorce, the discarding of old people. The list could go on.

Meditate upon this: "What makes you glad to get out of bed in the morning, glad to go to bed at night? And if you wish, read Lawrence LeShan's most recent book, "Cancer as a Turning Point," and apply its observations to our own lives. The Rev. David Strong is pastor of St. Matthew United Methodist Church in Livonia.

Area church plans renovation project

A major renovation project is under way at St. Dunstan's Catholic Church in Garden City.

A ground-breaking ceremony was held Sunday, Aug. 27, at the church. The Rev. Leonard Makulski, pastor emeritus, and the Rev. Don Demmer, the current pastor, shared a shovel and a handshake at the ceremony.

Makulski was the pastor at St. Dunstan's Church and officiated at the ground-breaking ceremony for the original structure in June 1957.

The $800,000 renovation plan includes the addition of two wings, moving of the main entrance, sanctuary seating "in the round" and the installation of stained glass windows and air conditioning.

In addition to renovating the church, the Social Hall at St. Dunstan's will be expanded and renovated, with an emphasis on updating the kitchen facilities.

Church leaders hope to complete the renovation by late December, in time for Christmas services.

Whoosh: Wind tunnel sets climate for auto air conditioners

A wind tunnel built for a Plymouth company will allow it to join global efforts to protect the earth's ozone layer.

Built for Sanden International (USA) Inc., a subsidiary of the Tokyo-based Sanden Corp., the wind tunnel will be used in the development of air compressors using alternative cooling agents in car air conditioning systems.

Freon is the most common refrigerant used in air conditioners, but it is one of the gases believed to contribute to harming the earth's ozone layer.

Some scientists have argued that as the ozone layer, which filters out ultraviolet radiation from the sun, is depleted, temperatures on earth will rise, leading to an increasing rate of skin cancer and other diseases.

"Right now we're concentrating our efforts on R134A, which is a refrigerant that does not pose a danger to the ozone layer but still needs extensive testing before introduction," said Toshiyuki "Tony" Noji, Sanden's manager of sales engineering, and a Novi resident.

"Development is at a high priority, but at the moment, the product is very expensive and on an average basis is five times more expensive than freon. However, as R134A becomes more readily available from the chemical companies, it should come down in price."

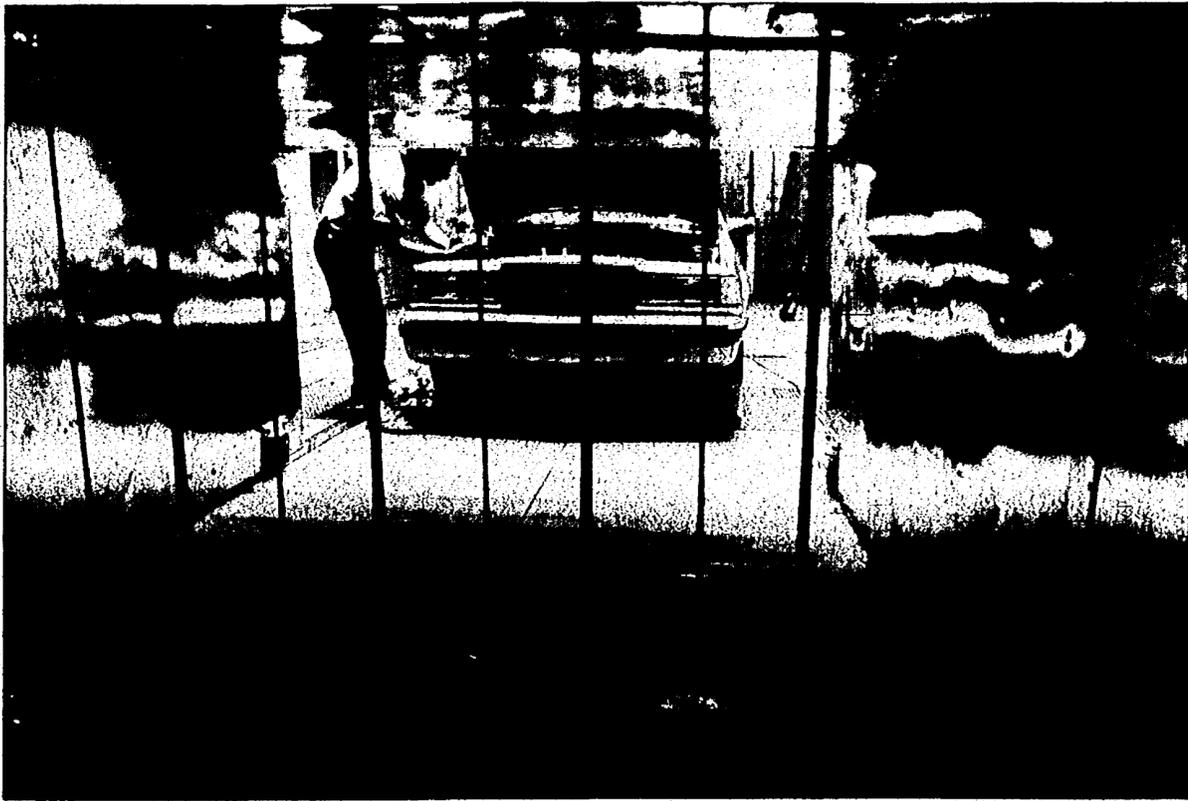

NOJI SAID SANDEN was concentrating its efforts almost exclusively on developing R134A for the consumer car market. A new system could be ready in the next two to three years, although introduction is contingent upon approval by the Environmental Protection Agency, he said.

With the ability to propel winds at up to 70 miles an hour, in temperatures ranging from 120 above to 40 degrees below zero, the wind tunnel will be used exclusively by Sanden engineers as a research and testing facility.

R.A. DeMattia Co., Plymouth, designed and built the facility. Mike Genrich, wind tunnel project manager, said it was essential the testing area be air tight.

"If there was any leakage of air, obviously Sanden would not get the correct results, so it was extremely important to make sure all the joints were fitted with very tight seals."

He said the company recently re-

tuned to fix a small leak. It is the first time DeMattia has built a wind tunnel.

Sanden's Noji said the wind tunnel, which cost $1.5 million to build, can duplicate almost any weather condition in the world. With the aid of a humidifier, the humidity level can reach as high as 85 percent.

"The car stands still and is positioned on one of two dynamometers to accommodate front- and rear-wheel driven cars," Noji said. "The dynamometers then spin underneath the wheels to simulate road conditions while the wind tunnel allows us to control environmental factors."

"In this way, we can test a car's performance with various systems under varying conditions," he said.

AS A CAR is tested, a series of cables and tubes, attached to the engine, exhaust and interior, lead to a control room from which engineers examine and record data.

One problem the company is working to eliminate with a new cooling system is torque surge, which causes a car's engine to shudder momentarily when the air conditioning system is activated. Sanden is also experimenting with oils that may be compatible with a new compressor.

Assuming an alternative refrigerant is incorporated into the mainstream car market, Noji said future uses for the wind tunnel could include engine testing and design testing.

LOCATED IN the Metro West Technical Center, Noji said the company chose the site because it offered proximity to a growing community, while at the same time providing a neutral position for automobile manufacturers in the Detroit metropolitan area.

"We did not want to locate ourselves in Dearborn or downtown Detroit because it may look like we favored one auto make over another," Noji said. "This way, we're in a developing area, while at the same time available to everyone."

Sanden's clients include Ford, General Motors, Chrysler, Mazda and Honda. The company also manufactures refrigerated vending machines and showcases, space heaters and bicycle accessories.

Sanden does not release revenue figures, but Ken Morley, general manager, said year-end sales figures have increased between 10 and 12 percent in each of the last five years and should climb within that margin this year.

In addition to the Plymouth facility, Sanden also has a wind tunnel in Dallas. The company plans to move a portion of its testing operations here by September to be closer to engineering personnel of the auto industry.

Worldwide, Sanden has offices in Australia, England, Mexico, Singapore and India. Locally, the company has five employees and will add three more by September, Noji said.

Freon disposal may turn costly

Several east and west coast cities in the U.S. have passed ordinances prohibiting the use of nearly all chlorofluorocarbons, of which freon is one, in any industrial process except in the manufacture of drugs and medical devices.

In what could be a sign of things to come in Michigan, many of those same ordinances require service stations to purchase vampire units, which cost up to $5,000 each, to draw used freon from car air conditioners before replacement, rather than releasing the freon into the environment where it may act to deplete the ozone layer.

Dan Loopp, executive director of the Service Station Dealers Association of Michigan, a Lansing-based organization of 1,000 members, said if the vampire units were required in the state, the cost of servicing air conditioners would jump dramatically.

"A lot of service stations who now service air conditioners may decide the cost-to-benefit ratio would be prohibitive with the vampire units," Loopp said. "It would then become a lot more expensive to have an air conditioner serviced, and we may even see businesses specialize."

He added he was unaware of any state legislation proposals targeting a ban on chlorofluorocarbons or freon directly, but said he wouldn't rule out the possibility.

Mentorship program: support for women business owners

By Helen Niemiec
staff writer

Three area business women are lending their expertise to assist women who recently have opened their own businesses or are planning to do so through a new nationwide mentor program sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Susan Funk, of Detroit Bandag in Redford, Jeanne Paluzzi of JGP Marketing Group International in Livonia, and Zina Kramer of Events Marketing in Birmingham, are participating in the management development program for women business owners.

The terms adopted for the SBA program are "mentor," describing a friendly adviser who already is established in business, and "protégé" for the person new to business ownership.

"Though none of the business owners yet have been placed with a protégé, SBA officials said that all mentors will be teamed up with new business owners by late fall. Officially termed the Women's Network for Entrepreneurial Training, the program is a one-year formal commitment between an established and a fledgling business woman in a compatible field to lend moral support and advise.

Paluzzi, who has been active in SBA committees for seven years, said that the program is a formal recognition of a relationship that has existed informally between established and new women business owners.

"This type of counseling has been going on for about 10 years already and this program expands that concept. This support system provides an additional level of rapport and identification that is so important to business owners just starting out."

SUSAN FUNK pointed out that

lending her experience

mentoring is especially important when women begin entering non-traditional business areas, adding that this evolution is inevitable because so many traditional business areas are saturated.

"Women are entering business at a higher rate than men now," Funk said. "There are beginning to be more women heading manufacturing companies. They need help with some of the roadblocks that are so frustrating to new business owners, that really are obvious to those of us who have gone through it before."

While rapport is important, Funk said that mentors are especially priceless when it comes to recommending associations and societies to join to further business contacts as well as to forewarn the protégés about pitfalls that can doom a business.

Kramer said that she hopes to be assigned a protégé soon and feels that the program "is a terrific idea." She tries to put together a similar program for another group about 10 years ago.

"When a woman is starting out in a business, she needs advice," Kramer explained. "She doesn't know where to begin and needs someone to talk to who was in a similar position."

Kramer said that she was fortunate to have a mentor when starting out in business and would like to return the favor.

"A BIG PROBLEM when you begin a business is loneliness. To have a mentor overcomes a piece of that loneliness. I think it's the loneliness that discourages some from going on. And women often have fewer places to meet other business people. This really helps," Kramer said.

Catherine Gase, business development specialist at SBA, said that protégés are recommended by counselors at regional SBA offices located throughout the state. Each woman who volunteers to serve as a mentor will receive a list of three potential protégés, finally selecting one to work with in this "buddy system."

"There are an incredible number of women who have volunteered to give their time to this program. The protégés need a business friend. The new business women have said that when they get to that point, they want to be a mentor too. They're already thinking of giving back the help that was given them," Gase said.

Both mentor and protégé will submit a quarterly statement to SBA explaining how the relationship is working. At the end of the year, the formal relationship between mentor and protégé is ended.

"Then we will ask the mentors if they would like to commit for another year or become a part of the Active Corps of Executives, who volunteer one hour each month for counseling new business owners," Gase said.

Broker does well playing the market just for fun

A Southfield broker will try to improve on his record as tops in the state when he competes next month in a Wall Street Games Inc. investment contest.

Don Kostoff, vice president for investments at Dean Witter, took the challenge at the urging of associate Sandra Lee of Bloomfield Hills and with her collaboration designed a strategy that placed him first in the Michigan.

His fictional $500,000 portfolio ballooned to $1,242,735 from March 13 to May 31 and placed him 17th nationally out of 6,100 entrants. He won a $250 gift certificate and an invitation to enter the next competition, which starts next month.

KOSTOFF WOULD not divulge the stocks he traded.
"As a trader I want to protect my secrets," he said.

But he did say that most of his profits were made on the short side. "This type of buy goes against the grain and can be very dangerous," he said. "Buying short is betting a stock price will go down and then buying it at the lower price, taking a profit or loss depending whether the stock price subsequently goes up or down."

"I took bigger risks knowing it was a game. You would think twice if real money were on the line."

But Kostoff used some of the game strategy in real dealings.

"The contest is not any different than what you do as a regular trader. You use the same skills."

Paige Platt, game broker at contest headquarters in Massachusetts, said the market hours, prices and other trading conditions in the contest mirror what is happening on Wall Street.

business resources

"WE GIVE YOU an actual trading account just like you'd have with a brokerage firm," Platt said. "Your account will open with $500,000 of fictional money — and you use that 'bankroll' to buy and sell any of the more than 5,000 publicly traded stocks."

"You can buy on margin (loan with some money up front) and sell short. Make all the wild impossible trades and deals you've always dreamed of with no downside risk."

The maximum loss for a participant is the $125 entry fee. Phone calls for trades are toll free, and the top 10 national winners share $78,000 with the first-place winner collecting $50,000. You need not be a broker to enter the contest.

Kostoff believes that his training as a broker works both for and against him.

"MY JOB as a broker is to safeguard capital. That instinct works against me in the game although experience gives me instincts that a novice may not have."

"A novice does not have the same feel — does not feel as protected. You must be flexible like the branch of the willow and bend with the wind."

"As opportunities arise you must take decisive action and decide what is, not what may be."

Twenty years ago Kostoff might not have given the same advice.

"In 1989 I was prospected by a broker and the stock I bought was like a Yo-Yo. I thought it was an interesting game, and I had to know what made it tick. So I went to the library and left with a trunk full of books.

KOSTOFF, A broker for 18 years, studied business at Wayne State University. The last two years have been at Dean Witter.

"It gets into a person's blood," he said.

Will his strategy change for the next contest?

"Not too much with choices (stocks), but I want to act faster. If a stock goes against me, don't wait."

"Take a small loss and conserve capital for the next opportunity. This is a key ingredient."

Although his clients are proud of his contest performance, he has a word of advice for them and all investors:

"Past performance does not guarantee future success."

You can't live without weird stuff for your car

"Moonie" is a statue of a chubby little guy you put in your rear window. Squeeze a bulb hidden under the dash and he drops his pants.

Granted, this may not be exactly a class act, but it's a sure sign that the annual APAA show is back in town.

The Automotive Parts and Accessories Association represents manufacturers of $160 billion worth of stuff American motorists buy for their cars.

Stuff such as Moonie, or new-car scent, or chrome-plated van running boards, or a whistle that clamps onto your fender and is supposed to alert deer who otherwise might commit suicide on your radiator.

I'VE ALWAYS been mildly addicted to auto-parts stores anyway and still have to fight off the urge that seems to come on about 1 p.m. every Saturday to go off and buy a bottle of Turtle Wax or something.

I end up at some auto parts store lost for the next couple of hours in the shelves full of hydraulic floor jacks, rear-window defoggers and other neat stuff.

Over the years, I've succumbed to the lure of phony sheep seat covers, a tiny auto vacuum that wasn't powerful enough to clean an ashtray and a half-dozen new jackstands, among other items.

The APAA is where all these aftermarket goodies come from.

On the floor of McCormick place in Chicago, you get to meet the in-

ventors of the Slide-N-Lock tiebar for your pickup truck, or the revolutionary NU-CHARGE system.

THE BIG BOOTHS are taken over by the Valvolines or Black & Deckers, while the small booths in the basement get the guys dreaming about inventing the next big hit, like Armor-All, which was supposed to be cutthroat on commodity items such as small wrenches and pliers.

Suppliers long ago abandoned Japan and even Korea in favor of India, Pakistan or Malaysia. I get a strong impulse to lead an expedition into the jungle to find the lost city of rubber floor mats.

BUT IT is invention that is the core of the show, ranging from 20 varieties of tune-playing car horns to a truly fascinating cupholder that works on a kind gyro-pendulum principle. A solar-powered window vent, a battery that recharges itself at the flip of a switch and a tricky butane soldering iron that ignites at a touch capture my attention.

Then I realize that no car on the market today is really adequate to handle half these items. You would need at least a set of air-operated overload springs just to support the weight of the airhorns, the battery-operated compressor, the new seat covers, mud flaps, radiator grates and bumper winches.

NEARLY READY to leave, I notice a sign for the Feather Wash System, which dry-cleans your car with select feathers from Chinese water fowl and a specially formulated silicone spray. "We will be washing cars in the booth."

Just wait until next Saturday.

Dan McCosh is the automotive editor of Popular Science.

Cut taxes

Pension, insurance can build savings

Third of five parts

The third strategy of tax reduction is deferral, which refers to the action taken to future years.

There are two main types of tax deferral: Deferral with pre-tax dollars and deferral with after-tax dollars.

Deferral with pre-tax dollars

Qualified pension and profit-sharing plans for business employees are essentially savings plans with two tax incentives for business contributions.

First, money saved from current income and contributed to properly qualified plans is deductible from gross income and therefore cuts your taxes.

Second, the interest income, dividends, and any capital gains earned in such plans aren't taxable until the participant retires and receives the money.

SELF-EMPLOYED PEOPLE with Keogh retirement plans can make tax-deductible contributions to several different kinds of plans. The maximum amount the taxpayer can deposit is up to 20 percent of self-employed earnings, with a ceiling of $37,000.

Self-employed people also may deduct 25 percent of the cost of health insurance if they do not get coverage under a subsidized plan, such as through a spouse's employer.

The third choice of tax-deferral is an individual retirement account. People not covered by retirement plans at work as well as employees whose adjusted gross income on a joint return fall below $40,000 ($25,000 for single taxpayers) can deposit up to $2,000 each in IRAs. These contributions are fully tax deductible.

People covered by 401 (k) retirement plans at work and barred from also having a deductible IRA can contribute up to $7,627 in 1989 in this tax-deductible plan. The money is subtracted from the salary automatically and put in the plan to grow tax-deferred. The company usually kicks in some additional money, which raises the yield.

Deferral with after-tax dollars

Insurance contracts bought with after-tax dollars are good for after-tax accumulation of earnings as long as these earnings accumulate within the policy contract.

The types of insurance contracts that qualify include single-premium deferred annuity, single-premium whole life, single-premium universal life, and variable annuities.

In general, at the time of withdrawal, that part of the annuity payment allocated to the cost of the investment is treated as a non-taxable return of principal; when withdrawn, the balance is taxed as ordinary income.

THE SECOND choice is non-deductible IRAs. These contributions finances and you

can be made by those taxpayers who do not qualify for a deduction. The reason to make non-deductible IRA contributions is that earnings on such deposits, like earnings on deductible deposits, accumulate without being immediately taxed.

Unlike deductible IRAs, which cannot be withdrawn before age 59½ without a penalty, non-deductible IRA deposits can be withdrawn at any time without incurring a tax on principal or penalty for early withdrawal.

Demographics can affect every part of a business

Describing customer groups that are meaningful to your business may seem like an exercise in futility.

For example, how would the median home value of neighborhood customers affect a company's promotional efforts, if at all?

Is it really important to find out how customers of a sporting goods retailer spend their leisure time? And what about the newly formed business — how does it define customers it doesn't have yet?

According to Lisa Nielsen, a Market Opinion Research vice president, business owners who attempt to understand their current and potential customer markets are in a better position to ultimately attract and serve them.

NIELSEN SAYS MOR's consumer segmentation studies usually start out by asking individuals about their activities, interests and opinions as they pertain to the business or organization commissioning the project.

Because lifestyle-related customer data isn't generally available through public sources for every business that requests it, small business owners can develop their own customer questionnaires.

"A sporting goods retailer that wants to promote his products more effectively would benefit greatly by finding out how his or her customers spend their leisure time," Nielsen said.

"As an example, if it is found that a significant percentage of the firm's customers are 'passive' sports enthusiasts and heavy television watchers, it would not be wise to focus: small business

sponsor several sporting events as opposed to developing local television ads."

COLLECTING DATA such as median home value, age, sex and average level of education represents some of the demographic characteristics used to identify a company's key customer groups.

"Once we break down the total market into segments based on their lifestyle, we'll then compare demographic profiles," Nielsen said.

Reviewing demographic data available at the ZIP code level for both businesses and resident consumer markets is one way to do this. Most businesses already know their customers' ZIP codes and can refer to library sources to see how various ZIP code markets compare and contrast.

NEW BUSINESSES can use this same information to see what the nature and composition of potential customer markets are, based on their ZIP demographics. The data can then be used to help develop promotional as well as operational-related strategies.

Investors group holds monthly forum on CompuServe

Q. I have a computer and wonder if I could get answers to my questions if I joined CompuServe. I have a long-distance connection charge as well as the CompuServe charge to pay and wonder if it would be worth it.

A. CompuServe has a great deal of information. The National Association of Investors Corp. has a monthly forum where investors' questions are answered. I would get a trial rate from CompuServe and sample their services. That is the best way to see if your needs are met.

Q. Are spin-offs a good buy? For instance, this spring Masco Corp. spun off Trimas, and you suggested selling the fraction of a share. It was $32 then and is now $48.50. Is it a good buy? Where do you get information on a new company like this?

A. A spin-off is like any other company. It can be a good buy or a poor buy. It is necessary to look at the record and see how the company has done in the past. When a company is spun off, it has usually been operating for some time as part of another company. Its sales and earnings figures are usually available from information supplied by the parent company. You can look at these figures and judge them just as you would for any other company.

If sales and earnings per share have shown good growth over the past five years, then you know you have an interesting company. The next question is what is a good price. Since the company has no history of selling by itself, it is difficult to judge what a fair price may be, but a review of the company's business and its growth record can help you form an idea of what a fair price could be.

today's investor
Thomas E. O'Hara
of the National Association of Investors Corp.

Q. Why do stocks split? Is it a good idea to buy a stock after a split?

A. Many companies like to see their stock selling in a particular price range, say $20 to $40. If the company grows and the stock price grows to $40 or above, the management may split the price of the stock two for one and bring the price back to $20. A stock split does not create any value or cause the price of the stock to go up. A split merely increases the number of shares of stock you own. It is like changing $5 in dimes to $5 in nickels. You have more pieces of money, but its value is the same as before the two-for-one stock split.

In most cases, a stock split takes place because the company has increased earnings and the price of the stock has gone up. Management will split the stock to bring the price back down to where the public has traditionally traded in it. When it appears a stock might be split, the public may run its price up a bit. Often, too, once the split takes place, some people lose interest in it and demand for the stock drops off and the price comes down.

The splitting of a stock is neither a reason to buy it or sell it.

We help put the problems of the homeless to bed.

If you think you have trouble sleeping at night, imagine what it's like for the increasing number of homeless in Metropolitan Detroit. Each year over 25,000 people sleep on the street.

Your contribution to the United Way Torch Drive helps organizations like the Coalition on Temporary Shelter (COTS), which provides a safe place to stay for people with no place to go. Plus, you're helping 153 agencies that fight drug abuse, assist youth and help the disabled.

Please, think about how much your contribution does and how much more there is to be done. This year give even more to the United Way Torch Drive. And help put the problems of the homeless to bed.

Give, for all the good you can do.

Finding an opening

Shannon Morris (left) of Redford Union is closely guarded by Redford St. Agatha's Kelli Carr during Tuesday's non-league girls basketball encounter. RU won its opener by defeating the rival Aggies, 37-31. It was Agatha's first loss in two tries. For a complete roundup of games around Observerland, please turn to page 5D.

Messner earns a spot, avoids cut by LA Rams

IS SUMMER REALLY OVER? For me, it never got started.

But here are some items that we all may have missed during the heat and humidity.

Item No. 1: The National Football League's guillotine.

The lone survivor? Redford Catholic Central High product Mark Messner, the former University of Michigan All-American has apparently avoided the ax by the Los Angeles Rams.

Messner just has too much heart to be turned away.

Not quite as fortunate was former Birmingham Brother Rice and UCLA fullback Mel Farr Jr., gone from the Rams.

Ex-Rice U-M wide receiver Paul Jokisch stand-out couldn't stick in the Canadian Football League, but was one of the last cuts by the Minnesota Vikings.

Ex-West Bloomfield High and Michigan State University defensive back Todd Krumm got the ax by the Bears after having spent most of last season and the playoffs in Chicago. (I wonder if the Seattle Mariners will try and sign him?)

And then there's the Lions, who can't be sure who is coming or going these days?

Tim Walton, the ex-Redford Bishop Borgess High and Ball State linebacker, got a late call into camp, played well in the last couple of exhibition games, but couldn't creep onto the regular roster.

Maybe Walton will gain a spot on the new six-man developmental squad, also known as the old "Taxi squad" where there are hints another local player, safety John Miller (Farmington Harrison High and MSU), may land.

Eric Hipple, Jeff Chadwick and Bruce McNorton, count your blessings.

Brad Emons

Item No. 2: The baseball season is winding down, but Wayne Memorial High's Ron Way, who pitches in the Pittsburgh Pirates chain, is apparently headed for the instructional league this fall.

Way, a left-handed hurler, threw a three-hit shutout in his last outing for Welland, Ontario (Class A New York-Penn League), according to our own minor league guru, Suburban Life reporter Larry O'Connor.

Item No. 3: Remember the name Amanda Uherek, the 13-year-old gymnast who grew up in Livonia.

Uherek trains most of the year with famed Olympic coach Bela Karolyi in Houston, Texas. She won a couple of medals at the U.S. Olympic Festival held last July in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Uherek is a good bet to be a member of the U.S. women's gymnastics team in 1992.

Item No. 4: Training camps around the National Hockey League open this week and if you want a glimpse of Westland's Mike Modano, the No. 1 pick in the 1988 amateur draft, you can travel to the Minnesota North Stars' facility in Kalamazoo, or catch the North Stars-Red Wings exhibition game at 7:30 Sunday, Sept. 17 at Joe Louis Arena.

Modano, who was embroiled in a contract holdout last year before signing a hefty bonus with the North Stars, broke his wrist during the middle of his junior league season in

Lone Wolf making best of it at SMU

WHAT IF YOU were one of the top high school football players in the state, a running back with the best college programs in the nation pursuing you, a player talented enough to take trips to Michigan, Michigan State and UCLA before deciding which you would honor with your athletic skills?

What kind of decision would you make?

Eighteen months ago, Jason Wolf faced such a dilemma. An all-state standout at Birmingham Brother Rice from Farmington Hills, Wolf was weighing his options, trying — as carefully as he could — to calculate which of the schools best suited him.

"It's one of the biggest decisions in any young person's life," Wolf says in retrospect. "It's one of the hardest for anyone to make. More times than not, they make the wrong decision."

A remark oozing with irony, considering Wolf's ultimate choice. He said sorry, no thanks, to the big names of college football and did something that didn't seem to make any sense at all.

He signed with Southern Methodist University.

WHEN WOLF committed to SMU, the Mustangs were in the midst of the darkest days imaginable — athletically, anyway. A football program that had produced runners like Eric Dickerson of the Indianapolis Colts and Craig James of the New England Patriots was blackballed.

Repeated rules violations had earned SMU the NCAA's dreaded Death Penalty. There would be no football for a year, and the number of scholarships would be severely reduced for several more.

SMU has not put a team on the field since 1986, when it was 6-5. It has been scorned nationwide, even by its compadres in the lowly Southwest Conference, where six of nine teams (SMU included) have suffered some type of NCAA sanction in the past decade.

So when the other choices are MSU, then the reigning Big Ten and Rose Bowl champion, tradition-rich Michigan and sunny California's UCLA, why would anyone choose to attend a school without a team, with a reputation more tarnished than Richard Nixon's?

LISTEN TO WOLF and it makes perfect sense. "I always wanted to leave the state of Michigan," he said. "I always wanted to go down south."

His choice was to play somewhere in the Southeastern Conference — Georgia, Alabama, Auburn, etc. But none of them recruited him. So he considered SMU.

Other factors began weighing on Wolf's decision. "I couldn't see myself going somewhere and practicing three years to play for two years," he said.

That wouldn't happen at SMU. Last Saturday, Wolf — a redshirt freshman — started against Rice in the Mustangs' first game in nearly three years. His starting wasn't so unusual; 17 of 22 SMU starters were freshmen.

C.J. Risak

The team has only 41 scholarship players (the NCAA Division I limit is 95). Which means it has little chance to win a game this year. Rice rolled to a 35-8 victory, its first after 18-consecutive losses.

But — as difficult as it may be to comprehend — Wolf found reason for optimism in the defeat. "In the second half, we came out and we were ready to play college football," he said.

TRUE, SMU was outscored just 7-6 in the second half. But that was due to the 100-degree temperatures as much as anything else. Anyway, Wolf's optimism was tempered by reality.

"That's probably what's going to happen to us the entire year," he admitted. The entire experience — the game, which meant nothing in the national polls, attracted 269 members of the media — was "pretty nerve-racking," said Wolf.

"It's different. We're not going to be written about in a positive manner, not by any means. But that's part of life, especially in sports."

He refuses to regret his decision. "I'm getting a chance to play, so I can't complain. We may lose every game but that's the decision I made when I came here. And one thing I did when I said I was coming here was that I would have no regrets."

WOLF CONTINUES to speak brightly of the future. Against Rice, Wolf gained 23 yards rushing on eight rushes; he is a slot receiver in SMU's run-and-shoot offense, the same type used by the Lions.

With little hope for victory — SMU's schedule includes games against Houston, Texas A&M, Arkansas and at Notre Dame — Wolf's goals, by necessity, are different. "I want to play up to my ability," he says. "We're trying to bring (the program) back. That's the way it is for everyone on the team."

"Probably our biggest hope is that one day everything will come together for us."

And the hoped-for result is a victory. It will take a lot of patience, though, and a lot of effort.

Prognosticators go 12-2 in opening week

By Brad Emons and Dan O'Meara staff writers

NOT BAD FOR OPENERS. Your local prep football prognosticators, who strangely agreed on all 14 games last week, came away with identical 12-2 records.

Of course, the biggest surprise to both was Plymouth Canton's upset 30-14 victory at Monroe.

The other game which stumped the experts occurred when Redford Thurston, winless in 1988, upset Dearborn, 7-6.

Week No. 2 has quite a few mismatches, but the most attractive game pits Western Lakes Activities Association members North Farmington (1-0) against Livonia Churchill (0-1) in a non-league crossover on Friday.

Here is a preview of games for the weekend of Sept. 8-9.

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Red. Thurston at Taylor Center (4 p.m.): Have the Eagles (1-0) landed after their upset victory last week over Dearborn? Thurston begins its Tri-River League quest against Taylor Center (0-1), a 28-14 loser last week to Belleville. Watch the defense, coordinated by Lee Bjerke and led by linebacker Steve Koss, to be the difference. Picks: Thurston makes it two straight.

N. Farmington at Liv. Churchill: The Raiders (1-0) have no superstars, just a lot of solid players as evidenced by their 35-7 victory last week over Southfield-Lathrup. Churchill (0-1) is coming off a 35-21 loss to highly-regarded Sterling Heights. Picks: North keeps rolling.

Westland Glenn at Walled Lake Western: Coach Chuck Gordon was not happy after last week's less-than-impressive 28-22 win over Highland Park. Glenn (1-0), however, has a week to iron out its problems against Western (0-1), which turned in a respectable putting last week against state-ranked Novi, losing 22-7. Picks: It's another tough one for Glenn.

Farmington at Ply. Canton: Which Canton team will show up this week? If the Chiefs play like they did the previous week, this should be no contest. Farmington got waxed 40-3 last week by West Bloomfield. Oh, that's scary. Picks: Canton passes the test easily.

Bishop Borgess at Redford Union: The Panthers (1-0) were less than scintillating in their 16-12 win over Livonia Stevenson last week. Borgess (0-1), under the rebirth of veteran coach Walt Bazylewicz, can only hope they stay close. Picks: Another game played close to the vest, take RU.

Garden City at Romulus: The Cougars (0-1) won only one game all last season, but that came against Romulus. After a 50-7 drubbing last week by Wayne Memorial, GC can only hope for the best. Romulus (1-0) is coached by Dan Henry, who has a penchant for turning things around. The Eagles beat Taylor Truman last week in their opener, 19-14. Picks: The coin please: Romulus.

Wyandotte at Wayne Memorial: A breather for the 1-0 Zebras? It should be even though Wolverine A League foe Wyandotte beat Taylor Kennedy last week, 14-10. Wayne has plenty of ammunition stored and should be cracking once again. Picks: Wayne shows true grit.

Clarenceville at Lutheran East: This should be a battle for second place in the Metro Conference. East (1-0), using its Stretch offense, rode into Memphis last week and strummed up a few Elvis cords to the tune of a 34-0 victory as James "Hound Dog" Tubbs ran for a pair of TDs. Meanwhile, Clarenceville (1-0) will find out if "Jailhouse Rock" is back on the charts. Picks:

Clarenceville will be singing "Love me Tender." Take East.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

(all 1 p.m. unless noted)

Liv. Stevenson at Liv. Franklin: This inter-city battle has lost a little luster over the years. Franklin (0-1) and Stevenson (0-1) were both losers last week, but not by much. The Patriots can throw the ball, but can they run it? Stevenson, meanwhile, has a quarterback dilemma. Will Randy Micallef start, or will Brian Piergentili go back to fullback. Picks: Franklin's defense makes the difference.

Walled Lake Central at Farm. Harrison: Have the Hawks already taken their best shot in 1989? Last week's 34-18 win over a strong Saginaw Arthur Hill squad only proves they're for real, once again. What thrills await Central (1-0), a 14-0 upset winner over Milford week? Picks: Quarterback Coleman drives another hard bargain as Central is put on layaway.

Lutheran Westland at Peck: Brown City defeated Peck last week, 34-0. Lutheran High Westland took out Mount Clemens Cardinal Mooney, 8-6, despite being outgained in total yardage almost 6-to-1. Is the home field an advantage? It shouldn't be because Lutheran Westland lost to Peck on its home turf last year. Picks: Call 1-800-Help. Emons takes Lutheran Westland. O'Meara picks Peck.

St. Agatha at Traverse City St. Francis: Both teams are 0-1, but the Aggies have never done well in this matchup. St. Ignace beat St. Francis last week, 14-8. Just once would the Observer sports department like to see Agatha coach John Goddard take a victory dip in Grand Traverse Bay. Picks: St. Francis plays like the Bear. Goddard will stay dry another season.

Redford CC vs. Lansing Eastern (7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville): Ypsi's Wardell Davis rattled the Eastern defense last week for 206 yards in a 23-6 victory. Don't be surprised if CC tailback Dave Owens does the same thing this week. Tommie Boyd is a fine quarterback for the Quakers and Anthony Lloyd (6-2, 250) and Joe Lopez (6-2, 220) measure up to CC's huge line, or do they? Picks: The Shamrocks go full speed ahead into their matchup next week with Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Shamrocks roll; Warriors on top

Redford Catholic Central's David Owens ran wild Saturday in the Pontiac Silverdome.

The 5-foot-7, 165-pound senior tailback rushed for 124 yards in 15 carries and two touchdowns, propelling the Shamrocks a season-opening 31-0 victory over Detroit Osborn.

CC took a 3-0 first-quarter lead on a 26-yard field goal from Kerry Zavanin. (He also went 4-for-4 in extra points.)

Owens then ripped off a 74-yard TD run in the second quarter and followed that with a 58-yard TD on a punt return.

It was Owens' 29-yard punt return later in the same quarter that set up another CC touchdown. Junior quarterback Jason Carr gave the Shamrocks a 24-0 lead at intermission when he hit senior Mike Mathis with a 20-yard scoring strike.

CC closed out the scoring in the final quarter when backup quarterback Jack Davidson raced into the end zone on a 22-yard dash.

Carr, making his first start, completed three of eight passes for 48 yards. CC added 239 on the ground for a total of 287 (to Osborn's 135). Junior Brian Chaney added 42 yards rushing on 10 carries.

Defensively for CC, senior tackle Ryan Bell led with seven tackles, including one sack. Teammate Mike

Football

Thomas, a defensive back, picked off a pass.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 8, MOONEY 6: Despite being outgained 251-63 in total yards, Lutheran High of Westland successfully opened its season Saturday at home with a victory over Mount Clemens Cardinal Mooney.

Mooney's Eric Lamont, who led all rushers with 86 yards and added 31 yards in receptions, broke a scoreless deadlock in the third quarter. He scored on a 1-yard run, but the extra point kick was partially blocked.

On the ensuing kickoff, Lutheran Westland's Mike Hardies ran for an 88-yard touchdown and Jason Ziellinski (30 yards rushing in 10 attempts) added the two-point conversion to give the Warriors the victory.

"Bend, but don't break" was our motto," said Lutheran Westland coach Dennis Tuomol. "They (Mooney) only got it down there (in scoring position) only once, even with all those yards."

"They had three turnovers and our kicking game, Mike Hardies' punting in particular, played a big role. We were able to keep them out of good field position."

Pats tripped up in Lansing, 21-7

By Brad Emons staff writer

Livonia Franklin painfully learned that one player can make a difference in a high school football game.

The Patriots traveled Saturday to Lansing Sexton for their season opener and made a respectable showing but couldn't stop junior tailback Howard Triplett, who rushed for 183 yards in 21 carries and two touchdowns in the Big Reds' 21-7 triumph.

"I knew we'd have trouble," said Franklin coach Armand Vigna. "They (Sexton) did it all on the sweep play. We've never had so much trouble against the sweep."

The Patriots knew exactly what was coming, but Triplett, who was third in the 300-meter hurdles last June in the state Class A track meet, was simply too quick and too elusive once he turned the corner and got to the outside.

"It was not only his speed, but our slowness," Vigna said. "Early in the game we couldn't get our contain man in position. And then when we got him into position, there was no fill from the inside. Our outside linebackers, defensive ends and inside linebackers have got to get off the line of scrimmage to help the contain man. If we could have controlled that play, we would have had a ball."

SEXTON, a Class A playoff qualifier from a year ago, took only two plays to score after taking the opening kickoff.

Quarterback James McIntosh connected with tight end Richardo Johnson on a 41-yard pass and Triplett followed with a 24-yard TD run just 1:01 into the game. (Jody Dungey's extra point made it 7-0.)

The Patriots' defense then settled down, picking off a pair of McIntosh passes, one each by Bobby Johnson and Dean Vendal.

It was Vendal's interception with seven minutes remaining in the second quarter which propelled the Patriots to their lone score.

Quarterback Brian Bartz directed an 87-yard, 20-play TD drive capped by a clutch 3-yard pass to Jeff Graham with only three seconds left.

Johnson booted the extra point to make it 7-7 at intermission.

But the momentum quickly shifted again in the third quarter as Triplett took over, rushing for 111 yards in only seven carries.

McIntosh snuck in from 2 yards out for a touchdown with 7:38 remaining in the period and Triplett added another TD on a 34-yard scamper with 3:52 left in the third.

"I TOLD THE kids (at halftime) that the way we played in the second quarter wasn't anything like the Sexton football we've been accustomed to over the past seven or eight years," said Meyers. "After that talk I thought we responded well in the second half."

"When you score that quickly, like we did in the first quarter, you tend to relax, but they (Franklin) were very formidable. They really came after us."

Meyers, however, admitted that Triplett's breakaway runs spelled the difference.

"You always have questions when you're playing a junior for the first time," said the Sexton coach. "But we knew he had the intensity, the speed and the size. We knew he had potential. It was a pleasant surprise."

The Patriots made a bid to erase their two-touchdown deficit in the final period when tackle Dan McKay recovered a McIntosh fumble at the Sexton 27 with 10:14 to play.

Franklin marched down to the Big Reds 6, but failed to convert a first down on a fourth-and-4 situation.

That all but ended the Patriots' hopes for victory.

Bartz, making his first varsity start, completed 12 of 29 passes for 130 yards. He was intercepted once and sacked twice.

"I WAS PLEASED with Bartz, he's very capable," Vigna said. "I thought he kept his composure pretty well. I think we can pass block for him."

"The thing he's got to learn is to shift his weight to get more zip on the ball. When he went deep, he didn't have enough zip on the ball, but he'll learn to shift his weight."

The Patriots mustered only 62 yards on the ground with Mark Little gaining 48 yards in 17 attempts. Sexton piled up 226 on the ground and 80 yards in the air for a total of 306 (to Franklin's 192).

In the penalty department, Sexton clearly had the upper hand, racking up 107 yards.

"I can take mistakes, but it's the personal fouls, the jumping offsides — the avoidable things — that I can't stand," said the Sexton coach.

Despite all that, Meyers had a running back that could more than cover for all the mistakes.

Borgess strikes 1st, but Eaglets land safely, 37-8

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Vaughn Bryant attended Redford Bishop Borgess three years ago, but just a handful of Borgess football players remember him.

The rest of the current Spartans were either in grade school or middle school and never met him. Bryant, in his third year at Orchard Lake St. Mary's, left a lasting impression Saturday, leading the Eaglets to a 37-8 win over the young Spartans at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Bryant completed eight of 11 passes for 115 yards and one touchdown. He also scored one TD rushing and drew rave reviews from Borgess coach Walt Bazylewicz.

"HE'S VERY comparable to the kid at Farmington Harrison (Mill Coleman)," Bazylewicz said. "He's one of the better quarterbacks in the state and doesn't get half the credit he deserves."

Borgess deserved credit early

against St. Mary's, taking an 8-0 lead over its highly regarded Class C opponent. The Spartans recovered a St. Mary's fumble in the first quarter at their own 36 yard-line and eight plays later, David Dobbin capped their first series with a 4-yard touchdown run. Delwin Sear's two-point conversion gave Borgess an 8-0 lead with 4:30 left in the first quarter.

THE REST of the game belonged to Bryant and his teammates.

Bryant directed a 14-play St. Mary's drive that ended with his 1-yard plunge with 9:56 left before halftime, making the score 8-6. The St. Mary's defense set up the Eaglets' next two scores.

St. Mary's recovered a fumbled snap on a Borgess punt at the Spartans' 16-yard line. Four plays later Kevin King scored the first of his two rushing TDs.

On Borgess's next series, quarterback Tom Cole was sacked near his 10-yard line and fumbled the ball into the end zone where Rick Harris fell on it to give St. Mary's an 18-8 lead with 5:22 left before halftime. Greg Palmer's extra point gave St. Mary's a 19-8 halftime lead.

THE EAGLETS' defense preserved the lead late in the half when it stopped Borgess on four plays inside its own 5-yard line. Other than that stand, St. Mary's coach George Porritt said he wasn't pleased with the Eaglets' first-half effort. St.

Mary's could have enjoyed a bigger halftime lead, but Bryant's 54-yard punt return for a TD was called back for holding.

"We were very sluggish," he said. "As a team we were not prepared as I thought we were. I'm not taking anything away from Borgess. But our (number of) penalties and special teams' play were awful today."

King, who rushed for 75 yards on 13 carries, scored his second TD on a 14-yard third quarter run. Bryant found Joe Jefferson in the corner of the end zone for a 10-yard score in the fourth quarter. Nathan Bush finished the scoring, returning a Borgess fumble 35 yards for a TD midway through the fourth quarter.

Hold the Mayo: OU wins '89 opener

After losing a player of John Stewart's stature, Oakland University soccer coach Gary Parsons was concerned about on-field leadership. Stewart was a two-time All-American; such players are not easily replaced.

But Parsons' concern was eased somewhat in Saturday's opener at Spring Arbor College, thanks in part to the offensive performance of midfielder Simon Mayo. Mayo had a hand in the first four Pioneer goals — two of which were scored by Alan Stewart, John's brother — in a 6-0 romp.

Not that the Cougars were expected to cause any trouble. OU had won the previous 10 matches going into Saturday's meeting, nine on shut-outs, and had outscored them 37-2.

It didn't take the Pioneers long to assert themselves. Alan Stewart scored just 3:01 into the match, with assists from Earl Parris and Mayo.

MAYO GOT the second at the 17:56 mark, assisted by Parris — who also finished with a goal and three assists — and John Brennan. Alan Stewart's second goal, Parris and Mayo assisting, made it 3-0 less than five minutes later.

Emmanuel Charles drilled a shot into the upper left corner to make it 4-0 less than 10 minutes into the second half (Mayo, Brennan assisted). Paul Phillips and Parris wrapped up the scoring; Goran Stojanovski as-isted on both. Brian Drury also drew an assist on Parris' goal.

Ralph Torre was in goal for OU, but he made just one save in earning the win. The Pioneers outshot Spring Arbor, 26-5.

It won't be as easy this weekend. OU travels to the Lock Haven Invitational, playing Keene State (of New Hampshire), the 14th-ranked team in the NCAA Division II, Saturday.

Churchill best of the 'Elite;' Eagles battle Cougars to tie

The Livonia Churchill boys soccer team opened its season in impressive fashion last weekend, winning the four-team Elite Invitational in Centerville, Ohio (located just south of Dayton).

Churchill, which compiled a 10-3-1 record a year ago while winning the Western Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association, bested a field which included Kettering Alter (Ohio), Evansville (Ind.) Memorial, and host Centerville.

In their opening match on Saturday, the Chargers defeated Centerville, 5-1, behind two goals from senior sweeper Brady Erickson. Other goal scorers for Churchill included John Gentile, Scott O'Leary and Phil Todino.

Another key to the victory was the playmaking of sophomore halfback Dario Rauker, who tallied three assists.

Gentile and Laun Johnson also added assists for the Chargers.

Senior netminder Jovan Trpovski played a solid game in goal for Churchill, limiting the hosts to just the one score.

In Sunday's championship final, the Chargers romped to an easy 6-0 victory over Alter.

Sophomore goalie Jeff Cassar tallied the shutout for Churchill, while Erickson (one goal, two assists) and Gentile (two goals, two assists) supplied the offense.

The other Charger goals were scored by Paul Kalszewski, Dominic Vella and Todino. Mike Gentile and Johnson each added an assist.

THURSTON 2, GARDEN CITY 2: Redford Thurston and

host Cougars battled to a 2-2 draw Tuesday in a non-league encounter played at Garden City West Junior High.

Thurston netminder Roy Neal stopped 12 of 14 Cougar shots.

Dan Horvath tallied both goals for the Cougars, including the game-tying score with just under two minutes to play as coach Scott Steiner earned a tie in his debut as coach.

TEMPLE CHRISTIAN 3, CONCEPTION 3: Kevin DeMoss and Kraig Dalton scored second-half goals Tuesday to help host Redford Temple Christian rally from a 3-1 deficit and tie Hamtramck Immaculate Conception at three.

Dalton unassisted goal midway through the final half tied the contest at three and was the game's final score.

In the first half, Immaculate Conception scored three times against Temple goalie Darryl Pauley, while the lone Patriot score was tallied by DeMoss. Sophomore midfielder Steve Toth assisted on the Eagle goal.

DeMoss scored again in the second half, also with Toth assisting, to bring Temple to within one goal of the Bengals.

The Patriots outshot Conception 19-16. Temple coach Gary Simmons was pleased with the play of midfielder Matt Ockerman and fullback Ron Pennington. "They both played real good games," he said.

The tie leaves Temple's record at 0-2-1 for the season.

OU opens against 2nd-ranked team

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Before preseason practice even began, Oakland University volleyball coach Bob Hurdle knew this campaign wouldn't be easy from the start.

In fact, he planned it that way.

The Pioneers open their season Friday with about as difficult a test as a team could ask for: against North Dakota State, ranked No. 2 in the NCAA Division II polls, at the eight-team Northern Michigan University Tournament.

OU will play ND State at noon, after arriving in Marquette at about midnight the night before. And if that doesn't sound tiring enough, consider that it will be a best-of-five match, and that the Pioneers play two more best-of-five matches Friday.

THEN REMEMBER that three of the seven other schools involved in the tournament are also members of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, of which OU is the defending champ.

The three GLIAC teams OU could run into are Ferris State, which finished second to the Pioneers after ruling the GLIAC for six-straight seasons; Wayne State, the only GLIAC team to beat OU last year; and host NMU.

"I don't know how well we'll do," said Hurdle. "I think 5-0 is almost unattainable, 4-1 would be real good, 3-2 would be good and 2-3 would not be too good."

volleyball

OU could win the NMU championship by winning four-of-five matches. And although that may seem a lot to ask for, it's an attainable goal — especially after the Pioneers' performance last weekend in an exhibition against highly regarded Western Michigan University, an NCAA Division I power.

"WE PLAYED very, very well," said Hurdle, whose team was 15-1 in the GLIAC and 25-7 overall in '88. "Missy Ward lit it up — she played great. Janice Van Velsen, our setter, was everything we expected her to be. She made all the right sets.

"Everyone is progressing on schedule, except for Jennifer Zielinski. She's way beyond where we thought she'd be. She's probably the one person in the conference most capable of dominating a match.

"We elevated our game so much it was scary. If we can sustain that, we can be real good early in the season."

Zielinski and Holly Hatcher, a team co-captain with Henry, were tough at the middle blocking positions against WMU, while right-side hitter Melissa Holman "blocked well, but didn't hit particularly well," according to Hurdle.

ALTHOUGH VAN VELSEN, the transfer from Southwestern (Mich.) CC, played well against the Broncos, Hurdle thinks she'll be even better. "The biggest problem for her may be we'll start taking her for granted," he said. "We'll start expecting her to be perfect.

"Right now she's still thinking about some things, instead of just reacting. That's to be expected. When she starts just reacting, she'll be great."

Besides ND State, two other teams in the tournament field are ranked in the top-25 in Division II. St. Cloud (Minn.) College is No. 12 and OU is 21st.

Of course, as Hurdle noted, "Preseason rankings don't mean anything." The Pioneers are strong in the middle, but settling to the middle requires more precision than setting to the outside. And OU needs to improve its outside hitting.

"We can't go the whole season depending on our middle," said Hurdle. "And we can't go the whole season setting tough sets to the middle. We need to get a little better hitting (outside)."

If the Pioneers continue to improve through the season, particularly with their outside hitting, and get the necessary on-court leadership, another banner season will be in the offing — whatever the schedule.

Missed opportunities dim SC's 2-1 triumph

WHAT IF YOU were one of the top high school football players in the state, a running back with the best college programs in the nation pursuing you, a player talented enough to take trips to Michigan, Michigan State and UCLA before deciding which you would honor with your athletic skills?

What kind of decision would you make?

Eighteen months ago, Jason Wolf faced such a dilemma. An all-state standout at Birmingham Brother Rice from Farmington Hills, Wolf was weighing his options, trying — as carefully as he could — to calculate which of the schools best suited him.

"It's one of the biggest decisions in any young person's life," Wolf says in retrospect. "It's one of the hardest for anyone to make. More times than not, they make the wrong decision."

A remark oozing with irony, considering Wolf's ultimate choice. He said sorry, no thanks, to the big names of college football and did something that didn't seem to make any sense at all.

He signed with Southern Methodist University.

WHEN WOLF committed to SMU, the Mustangs were in the midst of the darkest days imaginable — athletically, anyway. A football program that had produced runners like Eric Dickerson of the Indianapolis Colts and Craig James of the New England Patriots was blackballed.

Repeated rules violations had earned SMU the NCAA's dreaded Death Penalty. There would be no football for a year, and the number of scholarships would be severely reduced for several more.

SMU has not put a team on the field since 1986, when it was 6-5. It has been scorned nationwide, even by its compadres in the lowly Southwest Conference, where six of nine teams (SMU included) have suffered some type of NCAA sanction in the past decade.

So when the other choices are MSU, then the reigning Big Ten and Rose Bowl champion, tradition-rich Michigan and sunny California's UCLA, why would anyone choose to attend a school without a team, with a reputation more tarnished than Richard Nixon's?

Gymnast qualifies

Jason Whitfield of Westland, a junior at Livonia Franklin High, spent 10 days recently training with the U.S. Junior National gymnastics team (ages 12-18) in Colorado Springs, Colo. He was one of 13 gymnasts who qualified for the squad after scoring high in the U.S. Gymnastics Federation's Junior Nationals, held July 1-2 in Oshkosh, Wis. Whitfield took second in the all-around. He finished first on still rings, his favorite event, while also competing in the parallel bars, high bar, floor exercise, vault and pommel horse. He trains three days per week with coach Kurt Golder at the Genesee valley Club, and two days a week coaching in Lincoln Park at the O's Gymnastics Center.

Sophomores rally RU; Thurston sinks Pirates

The Redford Union girls basketball team overcame some opening-game jitters Tuesday, rallying to defeat crosstown rival Redford St. Agatha, 37-31.

The host Panthers outscored the Aggies 16-8 in the third quarter to take control of the game. It was 17-17 at the half.

"We played horrid the first 12 minutes," said RU coach Terri Anthony.

Anthony noticed the difference in the team's play in the final 16 minutes.

"We played more aggressively in the second half, and we were more patient on offense," she said.

RU was led offensively by a pair of sophomore guards. Carrie Burke and Shannon Morris scored 14 and 12 points, respectively, to spark the victory.

Junior forward Danielle Sorel had a big game on the glass for RU, grabbing 11 rebounds.

Agatha was led in scoring by Kelly Gannon with 11 points, while Kelli Carr had six.

Even though the margin of victory was small, Anthony enjoys playing the Aggies.

"It is a good rivalry," she said. "It is a down-the-street rivalry between two schools."

THURSTON 44, RIVERVIEW 35: Redford Thurston guard Michelle Birchmeyer's 18 points led the Eagles to a non-league win Tuesday over the visiting Pirates.

The Eagles outscored Riverview 15-5 in the second quarter to build a commanding 24-12 halftime lead and never were headed.

Senior forward Lynn Demers added nine points for Thurston.

The Pirates were led by Sherry Seigal and Laura Thorne, who each scored 12.

Thurston coach Mike Schulte was satisfied with his team's performance.

"We were sloppy in parts, but I am pleased with the win," he said. "We have to refine our play and play smarter. We did well for not having a preseason scrimmage."

Thurston's record improved to 1-0 with the win, while Riverview fell to 0-1.

FRANKLIN 75, ANDOVER 38: A balanced scoring attack powered Livonia Franklin to a 75-38 win Tuesday against host Bloomfield Hills Andover in the opener for both teams.

The Patriots had four players in double figures, led by Julianne Steslak's 19 points. In addition to having the hot hand shooting (nine of 13 from the floor), Steslak also contributed six rebounds and eight steals.

Other top Patriot scorers included Dawn Warner (15 points), Cheryl Hintz (11), Janet Gardner (10) and Jenny Mayle (eight).

Warner also dished off eight assists and pulled down seven rebounds.

LADYWOOD 46, TRAVERSE CITY 45: On Saturday, visiting Livonia Ladywood jumped out to a big halftime lead over Traverse City and held on to register a one-point win.

The win improved the Blazers' record to 2-0 and made the long ride home seem a good deal shorter.

In the first half, the game had the appearance of anything but a nail-biter, as Ladywood jumped out to a 16-8 lead after one quarter and increased it to 30-20 at the half.

However, bad foul shooting (6-17 for the game) and a poorly played fourth quarter allowed the Trojans to get back into the ball game. Traverse City outscored Ladywood 13-6 in the final period.

Blazer coach Toni Gasparovic was not pleased her team's play down the stretch.

"We didn't play well in the fourth quarter," she said. "Defensively, we helped out too much, and offensively, the point guard stopped shooting."

Center Cari Mitter led Ladywood with 18 points and seven rebounds. Krista Campeau added nine points and seven assists for the winners.

The Trojans (1-3) were led by Kristie Evans with 14, while Nicki Ritter contributed 11.

STEVENSON 75, BELLEVILLE 24: Livonia Stevenson opened the season Tuesday by crushing the host Tigers in a non-league.

Senior forward Stephy Suttler led Spartan scoring with 20 points.

Other standouts included Jenny Audet (11 points), Kelly Cotter (nine), Susan Stepleton (eight) and Teresa Sarno (eight rebounds).

Spartan coach Chuck Hebestreit was obviously pleased with the performance.

"We had a good start," he said. "It is nice to have the shoe on the other foot."

DEARBORN 65, CHURCHILL 40: On Tuesday, Sara Bergdahl's 22 points powered the host Pioneers past Livonia Churchill, spoiling Don Albertson's re-debut as the Chargers' coach.

girls basketball

Albertson was not happy with his team's man-to-man defense.

"We were a little slow with our feet," he said. "We were not moving."

Dearborn had a big advantage at the foul line, making 16 of 35 free throws. Churchill was 4-12 at the line.

The loss drops the Chargers to 0-1, while Dearborn is 1-0.

HARRISON 54, CLARENCEVILLE 21: Farmington Harrison dominated play Tuesday, sending visiting Livonia Clarenceville to its first loss.

Sophomore guard Andrea Najarian led Harrison with 20 points.

Clarenceville was led by junior guard Rhonda Saunders and junior forward Danielle Rose, who scored 10 and nine points, respectively. Rose also grabbed seven rebounds.

Harrison is now 1-0, while the Trojans are 1-1.

EDSEL FORD 61, JOHN GLENN 54: A poor first quarter put Westland John Glenn (1-1) in a hole that was too deep to climb out of, and consequently, the Rockets lost to visiting Dearborn Edsel Ford (1-1).

Edsel took a quick 20-9 lead after one quarter of play and made it stand up.

Glenn coach Pat Bennett knew the importance of the opening period.

"The first quarter hurt us real bad. We had quite a few turnovers in the first half (13)."

Shuwarren Lee had a big game for the Rockets, scoring 14 points and grabbing 14 rebounds.

Two sophomores also had big games for Glenn. Forward Cathy Mruk scored 12 points and pulled down seven rebounds, and guard Carrie Rachwal scored nine points.

Julie Sawicki scored 20 points to lead Edsel.

Although not happy about the loss, Bennett was pleased with the effort.

"We made a real gallant effort to come back. Unfortunately, we could not overcome that big halftime deficit."

INKSTER 50, GARDEN CITY 42: The Cougars remained winless (0-2) Tuesday, dropping a close game to visiting Inkster.

The first period proved to be the Cougars' demise, as they were outscored 17-5.

Garden City did not shoot the ball well in the beginning of the game.

"We were just horrible in the early going," said Cougar coach Marshall Henry. "Nothing was falling for us. It took us one-third of the game just to settle down."

Sparked by six fourth-quarter points by Doreen Malone, the Cougars were able to get within four points of Inkster, but no closer.

Free throws helped the GC comeback. The Cougars were 16-31 from the line, compared to eight of 21 for Inkster.

Lynn Gowen was the leading scorer for the Cougars, finishing with 15 points. Michele Tyree contributed eight points and 10 rebounds for GC.

Towardá Asney led the Vikings with 14 points.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 40, LUTHERAN WEST 24: Lutheran High of Westland (1-1) opened up a 22-13 halftime lead before rolling to a 16-point win Tuesday over visiting Detroit Lutheran West.

Stephanie Locke, a junior guard, led the winners with 17 points and 11 rebounds (all on the defensive side).

Other contributions came from Kristen Strand (six points) and Stephanie Otto (five).

Jenny Morris led an effective defensive effort for the Warriors.

LUTHERAN EAST 51, BISHOP BORGESS 26: In Tuesday's first-round game of the Madison Heights Bishop Foley Tournament, Harper Woods Lutheran East (2-0) battered Redford Bishop Borgess in its opener.

The Spartans could never recover.

"I wasn't aware until afterwards that we didn't score in the second quarter," said Borgess coach Dave Mann. "I think we got tired in the second half, and that's because we have a lot of players who haven't practiced much."

Missing their top returning scorer, junior guard Kyra Woodard (foot injury), the Spartans had to count on senior forward Tanya Tounsel, who finished with 14 points and 12 rebounds.

But Tounsel went cold after scoring 12 in the opening quarter. She hit just six of 29 shots.

"She took good shots, and I told her to keep shooting," Mann said. "She had to shoot that open 17-footer."

Blohm back, Canton wins opener

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

Plymouth Canton's 50-41 victory over Trenton in girls basketball Tuesday was more than a win for coach Bob Blohm.

Blohm, coaching his first varsity game since 1983 when he co-coached at Plymouth Salem, admitted to being anxious before the game.

"I was so excited to get the game under way," Blohm said. "After the game got started, it was just real nice to be back."

Although Blohm's debut has a special touch, it does not overshadow the Chief victory or the 26-point performance by center Susan Ferko.

"Susan just played an outstanding game," Blohm said. "She really had what I would call a complete basketball game. She played well in all phases of the game."

"FERKO IS AN excellent ballplayer," Trenton coach John Biedenback said. "She perfected all the phases of her game."

Ferko was modest about her efforts but admitted she had a quality game.

"I felt stronger as the game went along," she said. "There were times when I couldn't miss, and there were times when things were rough."

Things were roughest for Ferko in the first quarter when she connected on just one basket. That was also the toughest point for the Chiefs as they trailed 13-7 at one point.

Ferko and the Chiefs rolled back in the second quarter as the Chiefs took a 22-19 lead at the half.

Trenton struggled throughout much of the second half and had trouble mounting a threat. The Trojans never regained the lead, but at one point in the fourth quarter pulled themselves to within one, 38-37.

Biedenback blamed much of his team's downfall on a lack of physical strength.

"THEY BEAT US in the physical portion of the game," Biedenback said. "They are in real good shape from playing all summer. They played until the final buzzer."

Ferko agreed the Chiefs might have been a little more physical than Trenton.

"There was some heavy hitting going on underneath the basket," Ferko said. "It just wasn't one or two players but everyone."

Despite the Trojans (0-1) losing that battle, Biedenback said his team never gave up.

"We hustled and that's all you can ask for," Biedenback said. "Canton has a good basketball team. Maybe we will face them in the playoffs and have some revenge."

Sellout crowd sees Lindros spark win

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Eric Lindros scored a pair of goals and added three assists in his debut Saturday for the Compuware Junior A hockey team.

But more impressive, maybe, were the numbers Lindros helped produce at the Compuware Ice Arena box office. A sellout crowd of more than 1,500 paid to watch Lindros lead Compuware to an easier-than-expected 8-0 exhibition win over the Windsor Spitfires, an Ontario Hockey League team.

Compuware averaged about 400 fans a game last year and no doubt Lindros, considered North America's best 16-year-old hockey player, had something to do with Saturday's turnout.

Lindros, a Toronto native, is finishing his senior year of school at Farmington High and staying with the Mellucci family of Farmington Hills.

"I THINK everybody walked away saying it was the best thing they ever did," Compuware coach Andy Wiedenbach said. "There was a little bit for everybody. Eric was sensational. He lived up to his billing and then some."

"I haven't seen it (the arena) that rocking in a while. For its being Labor Day weekend, it was a record crowd, by far."

Compuware lost the five previous meetings against the Spitfires, so Lindros believes the Windsor team might have underestimated the home team.

Compuware is the defending North American Junior Hockey League champion, but the Spitfires are a Major A team, considered a level above the NAJHL. The Compuware Corporation owned the Windsor Spitfires before selling the team to a Windsor business group last February.

"I think they thought they'd walk in here and grab a few points," Lindros said. "I think they underestimated us. It was a different experience. There was a lot of pressure but it turned out OK."

LINDROS DIDN'T waste any time in getting the fans enthused, scoring the game's first goal off a pass from Dan Carter.

The other Compuware goals belonged to Derek Burkhardt, Jim Storm (Plymouth), Tony Zaccagnini and Andrew Shier.

Dennis Lang and Scott Vettraino split the goalkeeping duties in sharing the shutout. Compuware outshot Windsor 38-33 and has now outscored four exhibition opponents 43-1 in going undefeated.

Lindros was on the ice for six of the eight goals, so he knows more of the same is expected. Lining up next to Lindros is right wing Pat Rodgers (who had two assists) and was a linemate of Lindros when the two played for St. Michael's last year in the Ontario Junior B Hockey League.

Compuware opens the NAJHL season Saturday, Sept. 23, against Buffalo at Compuware.

"I guess the heat is on," Lindros said. "I think we'll be the dominating team in the NAJHL. We've just got to maintain our level of play. We should come out on top."

Thurston trips Hawks

The Redford Thurston boys cross country team began the season on the right foot Thursday, routing Farmington Hills Harrison, 17-47, in a non-league at Oakland Community College.

Thurston runners claimed the four top spots. The Eagles' Tommy Biskner ran away from the rest of the field, finishing the 5,000-meter course in first place at 17:51.

Jed Kramer's time of 18:43 was good for second; Matt Nagel was third, 19:08; and fourth place went to Mike Murchinson, 19:41.

Harrison runners Mark Saur and Mike Deans took fifth and sixth, respectively, with times of 20:06 and 20:26.

Cross country

"It was warm and a little bit humid so it made for heavy breathing," Thurston coach Bob Lake said. "When it's 10 degrees cooler, it's a lot easier to run distance. And, it's the first meet of the year."

In the girls' meet Thursday at OCC, Thurston also prevailed, 15-50.

Season openers

Early hunt aimed at geese reduction

HUNTERS anxious to get out into the field prior to the start of the small game hunting season (Sept. 15) can do just that by participating in the early Canada goose season, Sept. 1-10.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, has offered this early season for the last three years.

"The special hunt is set up to help control the local giant Canada goose population," explained DNR waterfowl specialist Jerry Mertz. "These (resident) geese do migrate with severe winters, but they usually try to stay around. There have been (over population) problems in some areas."

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service signed an agreement with the Michigan DNR in 1988 that would allow for an early hunt on a trial basis for three years. The hunt is set up prior to the regular season (which opens Oct. 14) to allow hunting before the migrant birds start moving through the state.

"A few migrant birds occasionally show up near the end (of the early season), but they do not appear to be the major part of the harvest."

Most of the Lower Peninsula and portions of the eastern Upper Peninsula are open to hunting during the special season. (Check the DNR's 1989-90 Michigan Waterfowl Hunting Guide for special management areas closed to hunting).

Rochester residents placed in the top 10 including the overall winner, Pat Cleppert.

Cleppert landed a limit of five bass which tipped the scale at 13-pounds 8-ounces. Cleppert fished the main lake weed flats using Gitzits and Rogues. He received $1,840 for winning the tournament.

George Hoffman placed sixth with five bass weighing 10-pounds, 12-ounces.

A field of 155 anglers participated in the tournament which paid $7,227.50 to the top finishers.

At the completion of six Red Man qualifying events, the top 24 anglers (determined on a basis of pounds and points) will compete in a regional competition against top finishers from four other divisions. The 10 highest finishers from the regional contest advance to the $150,000 Red Man All-American. The winner of the All-American will receive $100,000.

All Red Man tournaments are catch-and-release events.

'I was at the end of my rope, needing to get out of the house for a couple of hours when some friends from church encouraged me to audition.'

— Mary Jo Wilson

By Kevin Lawrence
special writer

IMAGINE SEVEN-MONTH-OLD quintuplets in one room. They're on the floor, the sofa, in walkers and highchairs. Everywhere. All vocalizing loudly and, because of their mother, very happily — a quintuplet quintet.

Each day, their very busy mother has to contend with 45 diaper changes and the preparation and feeding of 25 bottles of formula.

How does she do it? In this case, with more than a little help from her husband and friends, the secret is to get away for a few hours from the round-the-clock demands of parenting times six (the quintuplets plus their 3-year-old brother).

What does Mary Jo Wilson do with this time? She sings.

"Thank heavens for the Ridgedale Players," said Wilson, sitting in the living room of her Avon Township home. "I was at the end of my rope, needing to get out of the house for a couple of hours when some friends from church encouraged me to audition."

WILSON LANDED a singing role as a soprano, as well as a spot in the chorus, for the Ridgedale Players' upcoming dinner theater musical, an original production entitled "There Is a Beautiful Land."

Two times a week, Wilson ends her day rehearsing with the Ridgedale Players 7-11 p.m., before returning home to get as much rest as nighttime for a family with quintuplets allows.

"I'd been singing since high school, even auditioned for a New York Metropolitan Opera scholarship," she continued. "But believe it or not, with work and all, for the past few years I didn't have any time to pursue singing other than at church or at an occasional wedding throughout the year. But with quintuplets, pacing yourself is everything. And you do need time for yourself, to collect yourself. It's easy to feel scattered if I don't get out of the house for those few hours a week for rehearsal or voice lessons."

Musically, Wilson's first love is opera, "Mozart and Puccini." She is now back studying voice with a local instructor. "I practice whatever I'm working on by singing to the babies. They get a big kick out of it, and really respond. Even try to sing along. It's the funniest thing when I hit a high note and one of the babies tries to imitate it."

As it turns out, the quintuplets enjoy applause much like performers everywhere. "They like it when you clap. It calms them down when they're fussing, and they smile."

Two times a week, Wilson ends her day rehearsing with the Ridgedale Players from 7-11 p.m., before returning home to get as much rest as nighttime for a family with quintuplets allows. "They really don't fuss at night or want to be fed. It's their heart and breathing monitors that keep us on our toes all night. Sometimes their heart rate slows or they forget to breathe — which isn't unusual for babies born prematurely. But they'll just grow out of it, eventually."

RIDGEDALE PLAYERS' "There Is a Beautiful Land" is a musical revue of song and dance celebrating the world's great places. Wilson sings the role of, appropriately, the mother of a girl who wins the lottery and sets out to see America and then the world.

Mary Jo Wilson of Avon Township has five babies, seven months old. But she still needs a break from her hectic home schedule — and is appearing in the Ridgedale Players musical conceived and directed by Ridgedale members Dan See and Kerry Price, include "Give My Regards to Broadway," "Hurray for Hollywood," "Yellow Rose of Texas" and "California, Here I Come." The performance will be preceded by a full dinner, prepared and served by the Ridgedale Players.

This production is not a part of the regular, 1989-90 season lineup. Mark Carley, Ridgedale's publicity director, explained that proceeds from the show go into the improvement fund for the playhouse. "We're a non-profit group that has brought community theater to Detroit-area audiences for the last 58 years. Maintaining the playhouse structure and improving it consumes a big portion of our budget," he said.

With an expanded schedule of nine performances per show to accommodate increasing ticket sales, Ridgedale Players offers for the 1989-90 season: Neil Simon's "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," "Greater Tuna" — in which two performers play 10-15 characters each; Stephen Sondheim's "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" and "Much Ado About Murder." The last show is part of the new-wave of audience participation theater. In this production, theatergoers try to solve a murder mystery and even get to interrogate suspects.

"We're holding an open house on Sunday, from 2-5 p.m.," Carley said. "We encourage anyone interested in theater as an actor, singer or working behind the scenes, to drop by."

The new season's schedule is as follows:

• "Prisoner of Second Avenue," Fridays-Sundays, Nov. 3-5, 10-12 and

17-19. Tickets, $7

• "Greater Tuna," Fridays-Sundays, Jan. 12-14, 19-21 and 26-28. Tickets, $7

• "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," Fridays-Sundays, March 9-11, 16-18 and 23-25. Tickets, $8

• "Much Ado About Murder," Fridays-Sundays, May 4-6, 11-13 and 18-20. Tickets, $7

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Fridays-Sundays, 7 p.m. Sundays except last Sunday of run, when matinee at 3 p.m. Senior discount prices are available.

Amphitheater setting for symphony concert

State Sen. Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills will narrate Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" when the Livonia Symphony will be heard in concert at 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 10, at the Farmington Community Center, 24705 Farmington Road, Farmington.

Under the baton of music director and conductor of the orchestra, Francesco DiBlasi, the concert will be held in the amphitheater directly behind the gray stone Farmington area landmark that now serves as the community center. Bring lawn chairs. Tickets are $3.

This is the season's final concert sponsored by the center.

Featured soprano of the afternoon, Mary Sue Ewing, will perform selections from "The King and I," and "The Sound of Music."

Frequent guest conductor with the orchestra, Ernie Jones, will take to the podium with selections from "Hello Dolly."

Remainder of the program will be devoted to popular classics, according to maestro DiBlasi.

Needlepoint image has high-tech help

By Noreen Flack
special writer

It doesn't take a painter to create a beautiful picture these days.

ImagePoint, 23155 Northwestern Highway in Southfield, has developed needlepoint kits that turn photos into computerized graph patterns, allowing even personal portraits to be done in needlepoint.

"Needle craft is an age-old hobby," ImagePoint president Gene Prandine said. "This concept is totally exciting because it has brought high-technology to something that has gotten along for centuries without much change."

When a customer brings in a photo, a video camera photographs the picture, which is digitized by a computer and turned into a needlepoint or cross stitch graph. The process causes no alterations or damage to the original photo.

EACH GRAPH PATTERN has designated symbols that indicate the color of yarn that should be used for each area of the canvas.

"I think the personalized aspect is important to people," Prandine said. "It's not just any picture. It's their house, their dog, their child. That's what seems to make it special."

Prandine opened ImagePoint in 1988 after a friend came up with the idea of customizing pictures.

"The idea was a great idea," Prandine said. "But the technology just was not there. We did a lot more research and improved the kits immensely."

He sells kits for $49.95 that contain a personalized graph pattern, Persian wool yarn, yarn organizer, canvas, ruler, marker and needle.

"OTHER PLACES MAY have a similar graph," Prandine said. "But no one sells the complete kit with the carrying bag, yarn organizer and symbols on the chart which correspond with the graph."

"A lot of people are doing needlepoint these days. Needlecraft in general is the biggest hobby in the U.S. One out of every six families have someone who does needlepoint or cross stitch."

ImagePoint kits are sold throughout the country. Local stores that carry them include Jacobson's, the Berkley Knit Shop and Jean Lawler's Needlepoint.

Prandine plans to develop new products such as a paint-by-number kit using the same technology to formulate a personalized painting and a ceramic tile kit to develop company emblems on table tops or floors.

DOUG SUSALLA/staff photographer

What appears to be a family photo gallery behind Imagepoint owner Gene Prandine is actually needlecraft handiwork done from photos transferred onto graphs via the high-tech process the craft company uses.

Eaton Estates borders nature preserve

By Ariene Funke
special writer

THERE'S an open, free feeling one gets when walking into the glass-enclosed breakfast room at the Eaton Estates condominiums in Plymouth Township.

Sunshine pours into the windows of the Cambridge model. It makes you want to burst into a rendition of that old Broadway hit song, "On a clear day, you can see forever." And one of views from some of the windows is that of a nearby nature preserve that plays an important role in the overall development of the project.

"We didn't want it to look like a barracks," said 32-year old Salvatore (Sam) LoPiccolo, developer of the project. "What (most) condos lack is a lot of glass."

Eaton Estates, on N. Territorial Road between Sheldon and Beck, combines luxury and comfort with a twist. LoPiccolo hired Plymouth architect David Schaff to design floor plans with angled walls, interesting arches and, of course, an abundance of windows.

BOTH TWO-BEDROOM and three-bedroom styles, ranging from around 2,400 square feet to 2,800 square feet are available. Prices start at around $270,000.

"We wanted something that would be eye-appealing," said LoPiccolo.

Eaton Estates, which contain a spring-fed pond with fish, occupies an 18-acre parcel west of downtown Plymouth. The land formerly belonged to longtime Plymouth booster Sterling Eaton, who served in the state Legislature and was publisher of the Plymouth Mail, forerunner of the Plymouth Observer.

"I think the land is very important here," LoPiccolo said. "We try to complement it with the homes." Despite his relative youth, LoPiccolo brings years of experience in constructing houses and office buildings in Livonia, Farmington and Northville.

LoPiccolo grew up in Detroit's eastern suburbs. At age 20, he built two homes in the Francavilla subdivision in Livonia.

"I STARTED IN THE tall end of the last boom and held on through (later) recessions," said LoPiccolo, who lives on a 10-acre spread in Northville with his wife, four small children and three horses. "I did a lot of the early work to save money. I learned on the job."

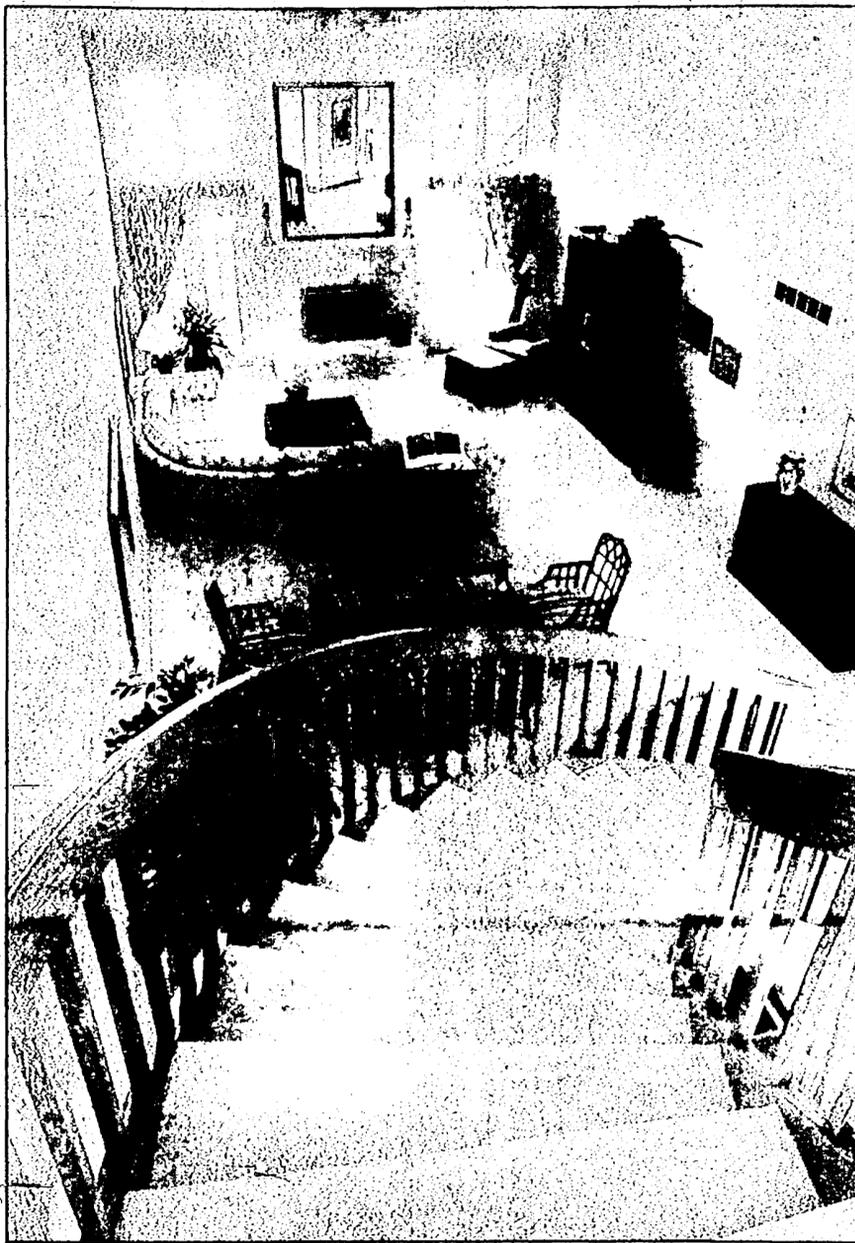

LoPiccolo went on to build houses in Farmington Hills and developed the LoPac Center, an office building in Northville, and is now working in the Quail Run subdivision in Plymouth Township.

"We want people to think this is a home — not a condo," LoPiccolo said of his plans for Eaton Estates.

LoPiccolo expressed satisfaction with the designs of Schaff, with whom he had worked on an earlier job. People also may recognize Schaff's style from another unrelated, upscale Plymouth condo community — Homestead Estates, developed by members of the prominent Lorenz family of Plymouth.

"We gave (Schaff) an idea of what we wanted," LoPiccolo said. "We wanted nothing but quality and luxury here."

The result is a cluster of attractive, spacious units with cathedral ceilings, large rooms, decks, fireplaces and plenty of safety features.

Construction began almost two years ago. A total of 25 units are completed, with about half sold. The goal of 38 units. LoPiccolo said the property could accommodate up to 43 homes, if demand warrants.

CURRENTLY AVAILABLE are two floor plans: The two-bedroom, ranch style end unit called Cambridge has 2,815-square-foot unit sells for around $270,000.

A third style, a two-bedroom ranch with 2,050 square feet, the Banbury, is sold out.

According to LoPiccolo, typical Eaton Estates residents are "auto executives and self-employed people." There are enough amenities to make even the fussiest resident feel pampered and protected.

"We cater to privacy," LoPiccolo said.

The home exteriors are beige brick with stained wood trim and a shake design asphalt roof. Walls and ceilings have energy-saving insulation. Masonry walls, which enhance security and energy efficiency, also keeps noise to a minimum.

LoPiccolo touts the following features:

- Two-car garage with auto-electric door openers
- Security alarm system and central air-conditioning
- Great room with cathedral ceilings, deck and fireplace (a second fireplace is in the full sized basement)
- Each unit has 2½ baths, a master bedroom suite with tub and separate shower. Roomy, walk-in closets are large enough to do double duty as workshop or storage room.
- Large kitchens with built-in appliances, choice of cabinets and food preparation island. All appliances — washer, dryer, microwave and refrigerator with icemaker — are included.

The ranch, Cambridge model, has a large morning room, cheerful with windows. See yourself enjoying breakfast here on a sunny day. There's enough space in the corner to tuck a chair or sofa — a cozy sitting area.

The Sussex model has a free-winding oak staircase leading to the upstairs bedrooms. Imagine making a grand entrance in a flowing, elegant outfit!

Eaton Estates is off N. territorial Road, between Sheldon and Beck. The models are open from 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays. For information call 455-4220.

● HOMEARAMA OPENS

● WILDFOWL CARVING COMPETITION

Hundreds of hand-carved and hand-painted duck decoys, game birds, birds of prey, shorebirds, song birds and freshwater fish will be on display at the North American Wildfowl Carving Championship to be the weekend of Sept. 15-17 at the Holiday Inn on Six Mile Road at 1-275 in Livonia. Admission to the judging area is $4 and is good the entire weekend.

● PHOTORAMA

More than 4,000 photographers from across the country will meet in the Dearborn Civic Center Saturday-Sunday, Sept. 16 and 17 for the fall photo trade show, Photorama USA. Blurred and out-of-focus effects in the work of 12 North American and European photographers are examined in Vanishing Presence at the Detroit Institute of Arts through Sunday, Oct. 22.

Through techniques of time and multiple exposures, these contemporary photographers allude to realities beneath the surface of everyday appearances. As nearly 150 photographs in the exhibition reveal, the medium not only records images fixed in time and place, but also fugitive images that transcend such limitations and exist in another worldly, mysterious time warp. Photography is not restricted to still subjects of decisive moments; it may also record indecisive moments.

Vanishing Presence is introduced by a section of 19th and early 20th century portraits, genre studies and urban views that foreshadow many contemporary approaches —

The larger section of Vanishing Presence features 20th century photographers who exploit the medium's temporal characteristics.

Cartoons are artists market party theme

"Crazy for Cartoons" is the theme of this year's Party in the Park, a popular annual fund-raising event for the Detroit Artists Market. Cartoons will come to life in the Cartoon Theatre. Original cartoon art will be sold in a silent auction and artists will exhibit their work 5:30-10 p.m., Friday, Sept. 15, in Harmonie Park and the Detroit Artists Market. Food and spirits will be provided by some of the area's top restaura-teurs and beverage suppliers. Guests are encouraged to let their favorite cartoon character influence their attire. The opening exhibit in the Gallery will be juried by Mary Preston of the Felgenson/Preston Gallery. The exhibits will be available for viewing Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, and will fill the entire gallery with a variety of work from all media. Tickets are $30 per person, and are available at the door.

The little black or dark-colored dress with a single color accent at the neckline or hem is also effective. A more flamboyant option is wearing a two-piece, jacketed dress or suit with a strong pattern in the jacket, and a coordinated solid color in the skirt or dress. You would look well in the red and black pattern and solid coordinates being shown this fall.

Q: I am a 39-year-old divorcee whose social life revolves around giving dinner parties, often to important business associates. I've been quite successful in coordinating my apartment except for the tabletop settings. The broad selection of patterns and styles confuses me, and I'm not sure to what extent it has to coordinate with the rest of the apartment, which is furnished in transitional style, using mauve, beige, and white, with touches of green. Can you give me any suggestions?

A: Given your circumstances as a single professional, I would go all the way with a very formal and dramatic setting for these reasons: First, a beautifully executed table setting bolsters your overall image and conveys that you are to be taken seriously — a message that won't be lost on your business associates. Second, this type of setting indulges you and your own self-esteem, even when you will be dining alone.

And third, the transitional styles, because of their usual simplicity, more often than not require an accent that a fully accessorized, formal setting will certainly provide.

Your furnishings allow you a wide range of colors to choose from. Just avoid yellow-greens (chartreuse) and purple because these colors have an unfavorable appeal related to food and the appetite.

From the many fine dinnerware patterns available, the recently introduced Christian Dior line with an ocelot and palm tree motif

“All that we were told is true!”
 We were told that Muirwood was the best and now we know that it is!
 It's obvious why Muirwood is everyone's first choice. It's centrally located in Farmington Hills and features a 24-hour secured gatehouse that always has a reassuring welcome for you each time you come home. Plus, there's a wide variety of very private and spacious one and two bedroom apartments, each with its own private terrace or balcony. Muirwood also features attached covered parking, full-size washers and dryers, window coverings, magnificently landscaped, rolling terrain that includes an 18-acre nature trail and private lagoon, swimming pools, tennis and volleyball courts, picnic area and an exquisite clubhouse.
 Everyone's talking about Muirwood, and why not? Last year alone, more than half of our new residents were referred to us by people who live or used to live at Muirwood. Talk about satisfaction!
 Muirwood is everyone's first choice. Call today and let us tell you why it should be yours, too... And then tell your friends!

Inside moisture must be reduced

By Andy Long
AP Newsfeatures

When air contains all the moisture it can hold, it is said to be saturated. What is called the relative humidity is then at 100 percent.

Excessive moisture in your house causes all sorts of problems if it is not permitted to escape to the outside.

The escape route can be one or more of several ways, but not through the outside walls. When that occurs, the most common result is the peeling of exterior paint.

Vapor barriers are used to prevent the moisture from reaching the paint film, but the condensation that takes place between the inside and outside walls can be avoided by the use of vents which allow the moist air to leave the house. Such vents should be covered with screening to keep out insects.

Condensation is the result of warm moist air settling on a cool surface. That's why you get condensation on windows, cold water pipes, toilet tanks and even a glass of ice water. Either the excessive moisture in the house should be diminished or the surfaces on which it condenses should be made warmer.

To reduce the moisture in a house means controlling the sources that produce it. Water vapor enters the air from such things as bathing, showering, washing dishes, cooking and even by breathing.

The way to control its volume is by ventilation, either in the form of one or more exhaust fans or just a simple little thing like keeping a window open a little when engaging in any activity that produces moisture.

A dehumidifier can help by capturing some of the vapor before it does any damage.

When condensation does occur, be sure some of the moisture isn't coming from your humidifier.

If your house has a crawl space under it, excessive moisture may be coming out of the ground and entering the structure.

Be sure the space is vented, then cover the ground with polyethylene sheets or something similar. Use sand to hold down the sheets at overlapping seams. If the ground cover proves to be very effective, the vents around the crawl space sometimes can be closed during cold weather.

What may appear to be a leak in the area of the toilet tanks is usually condensation. Some people find a simple solution is a fabric covering around the tank and other parts of the fixture.

This covering prevents the moist air from coming into contact with the tank. Such covers are available in different sizes, colors and styles. Care must be exercised to see the covering does not interfere with the flushing mechanism and the toilet seat.

Another way to handle the situation is with a Styrofoam kit that contains the necessary adhesive and instructions for cutting the material to fit the inside of the tank.

In the 1990s The color palette is ever-expanding

The approach of a new decade always creates excitement — it's a time of change, new promise, new possibilities. Looking toward the 1990s, the way colors are used in home decor is a reflection of this change.

A wonderful kaleidoscope, with splashes of color being moved around, replaced, then showing up again where we least expect them, is part of the change. The color palette has expanded with the addition of warm, more vibrant colors that lend a great deal of visual interest.

There are starker contrasts. Walls are getting lighter, and furniture is being deepened.

Wicker is a prime example. It has been around for a while, having progressed from all white to terrific pastels. But now it's appearing in greens, wines and browns, accented by brightly-patterned slipcovers, pillows, seats and backs.

In mood, international influences are very strong and eclecticism remains the byword. The ethnic and Asian notes we have become accustomed to are continuing, but they are being played out with remarkable new twists. One perfect Japanese Imari plate, for example, is placed on a light blond Scandinavian wood table. The blend of these starkly different styles is stunning and dramatic.

OLD WORLD TRADITION has made a strong comeback, as roses and floral patterns continue to gain favor. These designs blend elegance and comfort for a very warm, inviting and livable atmosphere. They often feature red, which is also used freely as a strong accent color in accessories.

Though the color palette remains basically warm, with emphasis on vibrancy and neutrals, the new beginnings of a new coolness in interior design are apparent this fall.

Led by the re-emergence of blue, this coolness will probably continue into the 1990s. It offers the balance between warm and cold, always sought in color selections. Blue is becoming popular in bedroom and bathrooms, often combined with white.

White has itself returned in an emphatic way. In both fashion and interior design, white is brilliant. It's a perfect background for all colors, creating a glare from which other colors emanate like a prism.

That's one reason white kitchen appliances are once again, popular. And used starkly — almost monochromatically — on both walls and furniture, white is absolutely dazzling.

Living rooms remain quite warm in color, with vibrant accents playing off that warmth. Of course, many people continue to favor neutrals, which are economic because they can be lived with so comfortably for long periods of time.

NEUTRALS ARE ALSO helpful in creating a light, airy feeling and improving the flow from one room to another — two excellent ways to make small living spaces larger.

A marvelous new look comes from tinted glass, which replaces the usual clear glass in tabletops, dinnerware and ceramics. Mexican cobalt blues lend cool, bright accents to the table.

And, perhaps, even more than elsewhere, "eclectic" remains the key word in tabletop.

And there is lots and lots of whimsy. People are willing to be more adventurous and throw caution to the winds. Whoever said all the pieces have to match?

If you are basically comfortable with the decor but have a desire for something fresh and new, a one-room experiment is often satisfying. The bedroom is the perfect location; closed off from the rest of the house, it can be discretely repainted if the experiment goes awry. An alternate possibility is a small out-of-the-way guest bathroom.

FOR A BRIEF of the prominent color families available this fall, begin with the vibrant autumn colors, which are traditional but have been made more vivid now. They include brick red, chili, amber yellow, lilac rose, classic blue, daffodil, mineral red (an orange red) and violet purple.

Next are the clean outdoor colors. Bluegrass, which is more green than blue, is notable, as are posy green, purple heather, sage green, porcelain green and straw.

Then there are the neutrals. And there is a generous selection. Reed yellow, lambswool, cream pearl and angora are all lovely winter whites. They're accompanied by the classic neutrals: toasted almond, fawn (taupe), pebble, moonlight, smoked pearl, atmosphere, desert dust, nugget (a camel color), gray sand and dusted coral.

But the neutrals have been further enriched this year by the expanded neutrals, which have the barest hint of tint. These are soft, lovely colors we can live with for a long time without tiring of them. They have such delicate names as dusty pink, cameo rose, coral blush, antelope (almost a celery green), gray violet, pinkish gray, rose lilac and asparagus green.

Finally, there are what can best be described as the inky deep tones — wonderful classic mixing colors in the Old World style that help make the transition from fall to winter. Prominent among them are plum wine, burgundy, brownstone, desert palm (greenish brown), ebony (blue black), argyle purple and china blue.

Plenty of help for novice remodeler

The wave of remodeling has also led to a boom in the do-it-yourself market. To cut costs and have more control over the project, home owners are picking up a hammer to make improvements — minor and major — themselves.

In the introduction to "The Home Hardware Handbook" (Fireside Books/Simon & Schuster), Bernard Gladston offers three reasons for the do-it-yourself trend: The disappearance of the jack-of-all-trade handyman who could be trusted to do everything; the rising cost of living combined with higher expectations; and renewed pride in the home.

If you're a novice do-it-yourselfer, don't fret — there is a lot of help for you. Home improvement centers now stock the latest how-to books, magazines and videos.

For more hands-on instruction, there are classes in everything from basic carpentry to plumbing offered by community colleges, university extension courses and home improvement centers.

And there are a number of home improvement projects that you can do over one weekend.

Some favorites include wallpapering a bathroom, refinishing and painting ture, installing closet organizers, adding shelving and racks in the kitchen and installing decorative brackets and molding in the living room.

Start your project with the right tools.

Here is the rundown of the basics recommended by the editors of "The Home Hardware Handbook:"

- Swiss Army knife — "the handiest pocket companion you can carry"
- Spiral ratchet screwdriver with interchangeable heads
- Dozuki pull saw
- Combination square
- 10-inch curved-jaw locking pliers
- Butt chisels, ranging from 1 inch to 1/4 inch
- 22-ounce, mill-face, rip-claw steel hammer
- Electric drill
- Circular saw
- Belt sander.

Home crafters have advantage in redecorating

Are your digs looking a little worn, but you don't have the cash (or the time) for a complete design overhaul?

Check out your local fabric or crafts store, or take a class at a local community college.

Chances are that a few hours and a little patience are all you need to perk up the bathroom or enliven an old chair.

To paint a headboard onto a wall, begin by preparing the wall for painting. Wash away dust and any soil that may prove damaging to the paint job. Smooth out the area to be painted by lightly sanding with a fine grain sandpaper. Then dust a final time with a damp cloth.

Define the design area for your headboard. The width of the design will need to be just slightly larger than the width of your mattress. But when marking the top and bottom of the headboard, remember to allow a space not only for the mattress but also for the pillows.

A GOOD RULE OF thumb is to begin the base of the design approximately 1 foot up from the top of the bed.

After selecting the design area, you may want to mark it with chalk. This will help keep the line straight when you paint, and any chalk not covered in the painting process can easily be washed away later.

The next step is important as you give the overall design a strong background. To do this, either paint the entire headboard area with a color that contrasts with the wall, or use a contrasting color in a large border design around the four sides of the headboard.

Another option for your background is to divide the area vertically into equal thirds, with 3 inches between each square. After stenciling, these three panels will work to help you form a cohesive design.

Once this background paint has dried, begin applying your stenciled design. A large central motif with smaller geometric elements on either side is one way to approach the design. Or apply an all-over pattern, such as diagonal stripes or a checkerboard effect.

If you have a favorite stencil pattern with a scale too small for the headboard, follow a few simple steps to enlarge it.

Use a large piece of cardboard and draw a grid on it with a ruler. Next trace your stencil pattern onto graph paper. Then carefully draw the design represented in each graph paper square onto the corresponding cardboard square. Once you have finished transferring the pattern, cut out the design portion to create an enlarged template.

ONE EXCITING project to brighten your bathroom is a new cloth shower curtain.

The easiest method of sewing a shower curtain of your own is to find bed linens that fit the style of your bath. A flat sheet for a double bed, for example, is the ideal width for a standard tub/shower. For the more narrow corner shower, a twin-size sheet fits the bill.

Among the linen designs for your bath are nautical designs such as sailboats or anchors, wildlife patterns, including ducks or geese, and floral or paisley patterns.

Because all sides of a sheet are already finished, the only sewing involved is to make buttonholes along the top of the sheet through which the curtain rings can fit.

Remember to count the number of rings before planning the spacing of the buttonholes. The standard number of rings is 12 for a tub/shower and six for a shower stall.

Space the buttonholes properly by first placing one on either side of the top border one inch from either side. Measure the fabric between these two holes. Now divide that measurement by the total number of rings, minus one. The length that remains is the space that should be allowed between each ring. Place a straight pin to mark the spacing across the top. Adjust the pins as necessary to make the spacing more exact.

AT EACH PIN marker, sew a buttonhole. Then hang the curtains simply by inserting a shower ring in each hole. At the same time, hang a plain plastic curtain on the inside of the cloth curtain. You may be able to use the plastic curtain you had been using to retain shower water. With both the plastic curtain and the cloth curtain in place, your fabric will be better protected from water and mildew.

You can keep water off the floor by tucking the plastic curtain inside the tub or shower rim. Then the full length of the cloth curtain hangs outside the rim for maximum effect.

There are a couple of inexpensive tricks that are less thorough than completely reupholstering the furniture.

One popular solution to the problem today is to sew a slipcover for a padded chair, loveseat or sofa. Although the fabric will fit more loosely than fabric stapled into place with upholstery staples, the furniture will end up with a fluffier, more rounded look as a result.

ADDING RUFFLES around the rim of the slipcover will also give the piece a softer look, and because exposed wood on the back, arms or legs of the furniture will be covered, you won't need to worry with wood that has become scratched and nicked.

At times, all you need to do is switch the sofa's location around or reupholster a single chair.

Sometimes the interior redesign bug bites a tad harder. That's when you junk the stereo cabinet and go for built-ins.

If, however, you find yourself picking at the old wallpaper, ripping up the wall-to-wall carpeting or tearing down the draperies, you haven't got a bug but a full-blown virus!

Hold on there! Replacing your flooring, wallpaper or window coverings isn't a simple Saturday project. Your home's interior should be thought of as a whole. With each room — and the elements in it — tied with the next.

The flooring, wall covering and window treatments you can use can go a long way toward unifying your home, providing a backdrop for the furnishings.

Start with a theme — contemporary, country, Southwestern, eclectic, whatever. Then decide on your base color.

Visit a paint store with a wall full of color chips. Gather those that please you. Then try to narrow the selection down to the three or four that you'll take along when shopping for floors, walls and windows.

Following is a rundown on trends you'll be seeing in home design stores this season. What's new, you'll note, is very much a play on the old.

Hard floors — stone, tile, brick, wood — are getting the most attention this year. And the more natural the material the better, say designers.

But prices! Don't fret: Synthetic flooring manufacturers are close behind, creating sheet and tile vinyls that offer the same look, whether it's granite, oak or marble, for a lot less.

The newest material this year? Concrete! No kidding, brave home owners are installing colored cement in kitchens, hallways and bathrooms. Once you get used to the idea, it starts to make sense — what could be more durable, easy to clean? It's no chillier than tile, installation is inexpensive, cleaning is easy.

Credits

This special Home Improvement section appearing today in all editions of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers was coordinated by Marie McGee, special sections editor.

Advertising coordinators were Gigi Gondek and Rex Hatt. The cover layout was by Glenn Merilat, creative services supervisor.

Questions about the section can be directed to McGee at 591-2300, Ext. 313.

But it's certainly not for all of us. Among the other "hard" surfaces, you'll note that this year hardwood floors are going back to darker stains instead of the bleached, pickled looks. Wide oak planks are out, as are parquet styles.

CONSIDERING TILE? Not only are you going to find several quarried stone tiles in your supplier's showroom, but a number of surprisingly good fakes, as well.

Large Mexican-style pavers with a wider grout line is a popular look also, just be sure you are getting a top-quality product.

A warning on colored grouts: keeping the lighter colored ones clean is murder, even the new stain-resistant materials.

The hottest trend in interior flooring right now is rough-edged natural stone grouted together. Warm, peachy flagstone or cool slate from China, natural stone looks wonderful continued up a fireplace wall. Plus, it works with a country cottage as wonderfully as with a contemporary monolith.

Wall-to-wall carpeting is certainly not passe. What's warming up this market are borders, inlays and even accent dyeing.

For instance, if your gray carpet doesn't connect with the furnishings, a carpet craftsman can pull a color or even a design from a fabric in the room and repeat it along the edge of the carpet by cutting to the shape and inlaying a contrasting shade.

There are craftspeople who, by using a shearing technique, can "shave" out a design in a plush carpet or bevel the edge of a border.

Dyeing is another way to accent an expanse of carpet. A stencil is laid down and a design in a contrasting color sprayed on. Most carpet experts agree that dyeing an entire carpet is risky, but that accent dyeing is a viable and exciting option in interior detailing.

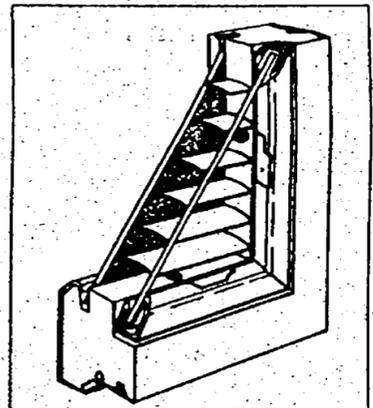

INDUSTRY NEWS includes horizontal fabric blind (by Hunter Douglas) that lets in light and costs around $350 a window, and a new custom horizontal blind with a 1/4 inch slat (by the makers of Ball Blinds). This one lets in less light than standard blinds.

Vertical blinds are easy and practical. However, they're at the bottom of the list for hot looks for fall.

Shutters are back and manufacturers can now custom-size them to work on virtually any size or shape window — even half-rounds. Use them alone, in a contemporary setting or with draperies and valance for a dressier approach.

Refinishing: Labor-intensive but fun

Great bargains can be found that do-it-yourselfers can refinish themselves. Have patience during the shopping and looking process.

Furniture that is raunchy or ragged may have a second life. No matter that it's chipped, wobbly, dented or even missing a portion.

You can infuse that table, chair or chest of drawers with new life and a new look. Necessity is the mother in invention, and invention is what will set your decor apart.

Inveterate shoppers of flea markets and junktiques know this. So do those familiar with estate sales, garage sales and Goodwill or Salvation Army stores. You can save hundreds of dollars and end up with one-of-a-kind collector's items.

Initiates into the world of restorable furniture can test the waters by devoting just one day to combing the local resources. Don't go to antique stores, where furniture is apt to be pricey.

CHECK YOUR newspaper's classified section and the telephone directory for resources. Then hit the garage sales in the wee hours, as the pros do. From there, move up to the shops and thrift stores with an open mind and imaginative eye.

That peeling credenza may only need a new or old marble top. Replace the pedestal on an occasional table with columns, statuary or a narrow bookshelf.

This route is not without pitfalls. Nor is it without work.

Stand back. First ask yourself if your find is a generally attractive piece of furniture. Visualize it in your room.

Scrutinize the finish and check the joints. Is it solid? Does it need regluing? Does it have a natural finish or has it been painted?

Sometimes secondhand furnishings can be infested with termites or roaches. Be prepared to put the piece in a closed room with a pesticide fogger if necessary.

Last, determine whether you have the place and patience to do the restoration yourself, or if it is a task best left to a professional.

YOU WILL most certainly want to consult with your hardware and paint store about the most suitable products for your specific project. And, unless you are a seasoned refinisher, you may want to invest in a how-to book before beginning.

"The Weekend Finisher," the latest restoration book from Bruce Johnson (Ballantine), is excellent, as is "The Illustrated Handbook of Furniture Restoration" by George Buchanan (Harper and Row).

Look for refinishing tips in magazines such as "Country Living" and "Fine Wood Working."

Initiates into the world of restorable furniture can test the waters by devoting just one day to combing the local resources. Don't go to antique stores, where furniture is apt to be pricey.

The Taunton Press of Newton, Conn., publishes several videos on furniture repairing. These video workshops separate myth from necessity with step-by-step lessons in reconstruction and refinishing.

Removing paint and varnish is probably the toughest task in bringing around used furniture. Wood absorbs paint, and a solid color will be labor-intensive to remove. But the effort is not without tips and tricks. And there are ever more excellent products to help you out. 3M has a new line of refinishing products, including Safest Stripper and Hand Erase Sander.

One of the most established wood finisher manufacturers, Homer Formisby, recommends against all-purpose strippers that can take out the patina and raise wood grain. He prefers furniture refinisher for dissolving varnish, lacquer and shellac and paint remover for polyurethane and paint.

COLONIAL antiques originally may have been painted with compounds made of egg and milk. These require a special paint remover called PDE.

Since paint removers work best between 65 and 85 degrees Fahrenheit, fall is the best time to undertake do-it-yourself stripping. Working in moderate temperatures and in small sections at a time will help ensure your success.
