Doctor: Murder suspect insane

Psychiatrist testifies for 6 hours

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Statements from an interview used by a psychiatrist to determine a Westland murder suspect's state of mind when his former supervisor was shot and killed conflict with the man's statements to police, testimony provided by witnesses and other evidence presented to the Recorder's Court jury hearing the case.

Dr. Emanuel Tanay testified Friday that he relied heavily on defendant Robert Michael Zellin's description of the incident before reaching his conclusion that Zellin was legally insane at the time of the April 22 shooting outside the Ziebart rustproofing business at Ford and Venoy.

Zellin, 45, is charged with the first-degree murder in the slaying of Michael LaDuc, 40, of Harrison Township. He is also charged with possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

If convicted of the murder charge, he faces a maximum sentence of life in prison with no possibility of parole.

LaDuc oversaw operations for the Troy-based rustproofing company's Detroit, Chicago and Kansas City franchises.

ATTORNEYS EXPECT the trial to conclude this week.

Tanay — one of three expert psychiatrists or psychologists testifying in the case — was on the witness stand for six hours Friday, most of the time spent under cross-examination by Michael Reynolds, the Wayne County assistant prosecuting attorney handling the case.

At times, the exchange grew heated, with Tanay admonishing Reynolds. "Stop accusing me, I am not a defendant," Tanay said at one point.

Tanay testified Zellin was suffering from atypical associative disorder, a temporary mental illness that left him without the capacity to determine whether his actions were right or legal.

He told the court that Zellin acted "on a momentary impulse" when — after learning he was to be dismissed from his job as manager of the Ziebart store — he pulled a loaded 12-gauge shotgun from the trunk of his car and fired three rounds at LaDuc as he chased him across the parking lot and onto Venoy shortly after 2 p.m.

Ceremony honors missing soldiers

Westland veterans and community leaders paid tribute Friday night to a local soldier who served in the Vietnam War and is listed as missing in action.

The third annual ceremony, held at the Westland Vietnam Memorial in the city's Civic Center, focused on Army Sgt. Refugio "Tommy" Teran, a 1968 Wayne Memorial High School graduate whose unit was attacked on May 6, 1970. While 44 comrades were killed in the attack, Teran was listed as missing in action.

The ceremony was also held in memory of the thousands of other American service men and women who didn't return from past wars.

Teran's parents, who attended the Friday ceremony, said their son was reported missing just two days before his 21st birthday.

"Tommy is a shining light" and a reminder that the Vietnam War hasn't ended for those families who have MIAs or POWs in that country, said Eileen Thompson, Michigan MIA/POW committee chairwoman.

NEAR THE Vietnam Memorial, dedicated two years ago at the Civic Center, is a marker bearing Teran's name and the date he was first reported missing in action. The marker was bought by the Westland Jaycees and installed in Jaycees Park in the early 1970s and later moved to the Civic Center site.

A committee spokesman said the Friday event was designed to make sure that the community remembers the service men and women listed as missing in action or prisoners of war from all wars. There are 77,000 in that category from World War II, 8,000 from the Korean War and 2,400 from the Vietnam War, including 74 from Michigan.

In continuing a tradition, local veterans' group members maintained a vigil at the Vietnam Memorial from the end of the ceremony to 9 a.m. Saturday.

Taking part in the ceremony were Mayor Charles Griffin, who presented a city council resolution to the Teran family, state Rep. Justine Barnes, and Leo Lelonde, representing Gov.-James Blanchard.

'Les Miz' features Glenn grad

Dan Cooney signed up for the John Glenn High School choral program because he was interested in the year-ending Cedar Point trip for singers.

Aside from Cedar Point, Cooney's interest in music was stirred by the classes and choir performances under the direction of teacher Bruce Graden.

Now, Cooney is in the ensemble for the national touring company performing the popular musical, "Les Miserables," which opened this month at the Fisher Theater in Detroit for a four-month run.

Cooney, a 1985 John Glenn graduate, returned to his alma mater last week to talk with journalism students and administrators about his first years in the school choir and what happened to him after graduation.

He recalled as a Marshall Junior High School student, Graden came to his class to recruit teens for the next year's choir program.

The Cedar Point trip was the hook that got Cooney interested.

But once he got into it the following year at Glenn, he became more interested — and interested.

He performed in numerous school musicals, such as the "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Once Upon a Mattress."

Cooney also sang with the school's Chamber Singers and Concert Choir.

After graduation, he worked at the Kinney Shoe Store at Westland Center, rising to assistant manager.

But he missed show business.

HE ENROLLED at Henry Ford Community College for acting classes and performed in a Dearborn theater group's production of "Jesus Christ Superstar."

In that show, he met director Harold Jerkowitz, a Garden City West High School graduate who was successful in the theater profession in New York City.

From there, Cooney made contacts and performed several years in dinner theater shows in Florida and Kentucky, starting out at $75 a week.

About two years ago, he heard the music from "Les Miserables" and said:

"That's my kind of show."
The musical is very demanding. Cooney told the journalism students and Dr. James Myers, John Glenn principal who remembered the singer when Cooney was a student council vice president.

Cooney said that while his primary role in the show is Joly, he plays 15 other roles, which demands fast costume changes and running back

State grant will be used for improvements at park

The Sam Corrado Park in the city's northeast section will soon have improvements, thanks to a Michigan Department of Natural Resources grant.

The $53,000 grant, financed by a statewide quality of life bond issue approved by Michigan voters two years ago, will pay for sidewalks, trees, horseshoe pits, a basketball court and an expanded parking lot.

Sam Corrado Park is in the middle of a subdivision north of Ann Arbor Trail and east of Merriman. It was named several years ago for Corrado, who had been campaigning for years to have the Livonia school board demolish the vacant Monroe effort to make himself look mentally ill.

 And tape-recorded excerpts of Zeilin's description of his actions to Tanay, played for the jury Friday, differ substantially in several areas from previous testimony.
 For example, Zeilin told Tanay he couldn't remember his actions between the time he fired the second shot and several moments later when he was handcuffed by police — including his confrontation with Mark Relich, an off-duty Garden City police officer who eventually apprehended Zeilin.
 Partial memory loss is a symptom often associated with atypical associative disorder, Tanay said.

 But Zeilin's statement to Westland police, admitted as evidence, includes a detailed description of the confrontation with Relich. In that statement, Zeilin told police his shotgun jammed as he pointed it at Relich and he was surprised Relich didn't shoot him.
 The defendant also told Tanay that his Dodge Colt had been parked directly in front of the store since early that morning.
 TWO ZIEBART employees testified that Zeilin moved the car from a parking space several yards away to the spot right in front of the store just moments before the incident.

 According to the tape, Zeilin told Tanay his decision to use the shotgun was made on the spur of the moment, as he was putting other items in the trunk.
 Police testified the items Zeilin allegedly placed in the trunk were found in the car's back seat.
 After he removed the shotgun from the car, LaDuc approached him and the two struggled over the weapon, Zeilin told Tanay.
 Several witnesses, including store employees and people passing by the scene, reported no such struggle between the victim and the defendant.

cop calls

A BOY, 8, reported to police that a neighborhood youngster struck him with a hockey stick Wednesday afternoon.
 The youngster said he and another boy, 11, were playing in their front yard on the 36000 block of Manilla when a neighborhood boy, 9, yelled obscenities at them.
 The alleged assailant approached him from the rear with the hockey stick and struck him, he said.
 THE MOTHER of a teenage woman told police Wednesday that she wants to prosecute a man, 23, who is her daughter's ex-boyfriend, for trespassing and harassment.
 The mother reported to police that the Westland man was told repeatedly to stay from her daughter and their home on the 36000 block of Booth, but that he kept making harassing telephone calls and threats.
 The latest incident, she said, was the man pounding on her front door, getting no answer, and then walking to the rear of the house and pounding on her rear door.

Woman killed in car crash

An elderly Westland woman died Thursday night of injuries suffered in a three-car accident earlier in the day.
 The victim was Maxine Ivey, 74, who died of cardiac arrest in Westland Medical Center after entering surgery for internal bleeding, according to the Westland police department's traffic bureau.

 Officer Donald Haigh reported that Ivey was turning left from Middlebelt onto Manchester, a street in the London Townhouses complex, about 11:35 a.m.
 Her car collided with a north-bound car, and the impact caused her car to spin across all Middlebelt lanes. It was then hit by third vehicle.
 Mrs. Ivey was wearing a seat belt, Haigh said.

 While in Detroit, Cooney will visit with his parents, Charles and Ruth Cooney, who still live in Westland, who have followed his theater career since he graduated. At one point, they traveled to Louisville to see him in a dinner-theater production.

IN DRIVING around Westland in the past week, Cooney said he has noticed a lot more shopping malls.
 While strolling through the halls of his former high school, Cooney said that the students haven't changed much.
 Cooney was happy to learn that a group of Glenn students is planning to attend the musical on Nov. 9 — his 23rd birthday.

Youngsters enjoyed the games at the Fall Festival, which opened under a rainy sky Thursday night.

Shining on?

Early festival weather, crowds cool

LOCAL youngsters who enjoy carnival rides and corn dogs should have been given free umbrellas Thursday night, the opening day of the Garden City Jaycees' annual Fall Festival.

In past years, the festival attracted thousands of teens and youngsters from Garden City and Westland at the location in City Park, Cherry Hill and Merriman. But only a handful of people were on hand Thursday for the four-day festival. The weather was forecast to be improved, although still a bit wet, for the weekend.

The weather may cut into the Jaycees' profits from the festival, used to finance community service projects held throughout the year.

The festival included a "cute as a button" baby contest for tots 4 and younger, live bands, arts and crafts booths, flea market, food booths and an American Red Cross blood donation tent.

The "cute as a button" contest had contributions donated to the Rosalyn Bryant Foundation for Abused Children.

Police officer is credited with saving life

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

A Canton police officer is credited with saving the life of a second officer in the shooting of a Westland man who has been charged with armed robbery, according to an internal investigation by Canton police.

Officer David Boljesic, who returned to regular patrol duties in mid-August after three years as a community relations officer, is credited with saving the life of officer Joseph Bippus, who was rushed by a knife-wielding assailant following the robbery of a convenience store in Canton on Sunday, Sept. 30.

"There was no question in his mind he was going to be stabbed. He believed the assailant was going to kill him," said John Santomauro, public safety director, in releasing results of the investigation that includes accounts from both officers and five witnesses.

Westland's Jeffrey Bushbacher, 31, is in stable condition in Westland Medical Center with bullet wounds to the left elbow, left thigh and stomach. He was arraigned Tuesday in the hospital on armed robbery charges stemming from an incident at the Dairy Mart on Warren Road.

The shooting of Bushbacher by the Canton officers was also investigated by the State Police, who concluded both officers acted in self defense, according to Detective Sgt. Greg Leech, who submitted findings to the Wayne County prosecutor Friday.

"THERE IS NO question about it. We have a situation where one officer was saved by another," Santomauro said, adding both officers "exhibited exemplary restraint and courage in an adverse situation."

Boljesic, a four-year veteran of the force, and Bippus, hired last year, returned to work today from temporary paid leaves.

Acting on tips supplied by two youths at the scene of the holdup, Boljesic and Bippus stopped Bushbacher, who was driving east on Joy Road shortly after the robbery. Police say Bushbacher emerged from his vehicle and, brandishing a knife overhead, rushed Bippus, ignoring repeated orders to halt.

When he was four feet from Bippus, Boljesic fired two shots, followed by a single shot from Bippus. The knife was retrieved at the scene.

Bushbacher, who was previously convicted in 16th District Court of assault and battery, credit card misuse and disorderly conduct, is married to the daughter of an area police officer, police said. He is employed by a manufacturing firm in Livonia.

Bushbacher now faces an Oct. 13 district court preliminary hearing on great concern," Santomauro said. The station broadcast a clarification the following day, but it was also damaging because it implied officer misconduct, according to Santomauro.

Police shootings are automatically investigated by State Police, Leech said, especially when jurisdiction is unclear.

Bushbacher was shot on Joy near Haggerty. Joy is the dividing road between Plymouth and Canton townships.

Additional charges against Bushbacher are unlikely, according to Richard Padziesky, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, who reviewed findings of the state police investigation.

charges he used an unidentified object described as a long screwdriver or an ice pick to rob the Dairy Mart of $350. The weapon has not been recovered. District Court Judge John MacDonald set bail at $500,000 cash.

FOLLOWING THE early evening robbery and shooting, it was erroneously reported in a television newscast that Canton police had shot an unarmed assailant.

Cable company airs shows for use in the classroom

Two new commercial-free programs, designed by educators for use in the classroom, are available on cable TV to local students, announced Continental Cablevision.

"Assignment: Discovery" and "CNN newsRoom" are designed to fit into a teacher's curriculum at the junior high and senior high school levels.

"Assignment: Discovery" will appear in these districts on The Discovery Channel 9-10 a.m. weekdays, beginning today for local subscribers.

"CNN newsRoom" is offered by the Cable News Network to be broadcast early in the morning weekdays. Schools are encouraged to videotape it for later use.

"Continental's involvement in video technology gives us the capacity to support Michigan's teachers as they look to new ways to meet the challenges of educating today's young people," said Richard Weigand, senior vice president of Continental Cablevision of Michigan.

"These programs make the same resources available to parents in the home as are available to teachers in the classroom," said David Childs, Continental's statewide project coordinator.

Continental has provided cable service free to all junior and senior high schools in its service areas. However, "Assignment: Discovery" and "CNN newsRoom" will be used in a few pilot school classrooms.

"Our intent, with the involvement of pilot schools, is to give educators a chance to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of these programs," Childs said.

"Assignment: Discovery" will feature a different area of study each weekday.

SUBJECT areas will include science and technology, social studies, natural science, arts and humanities, and world events and contemporary issues.

Each hour will contain two 20-to-25 minute segments, in response to teachers' requests for ready-made programming of this length for classroom use.

"Assignment: Discovery" will air throughout the year. Teachers can use it in the classroom up to a year after taping it.

"CNN newsRoom" is a 15-minute weekday segment on CNN designed for secondary schools. Each program contains current news presented with graphics to help students better understand the news.

Feature segments are drawn from CNN's programs, such as "Science and Technology Week," "CNN World Report," "Money-week" and "The Big Story."

"CNN newsRoom" has the endorsement of the National School Boards Association. The NSBA also will join the American Association of School Administrators, the National Association of Secondary School Principals and the National Education Association on an advisory panel to support the Discovery Channel in the development and implementation of the Discovery educational initiative.

Both "Assignment: Discovery" and "CNN newsRoom" are part of "Continental in the Classroom," a package of educational support services from Continental.

Statewide reading test changed

A new reading test will be part of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests given to Wayne-Westland Community Schools students beginning next Monday.

The annual achievement tests in math, science and reading are taken statewide by students in the fourth, seventh and 10th grades.

Local parents and students are being alerted that this year's reading tests have been changed.

The new reading tests will measure how well students understand what they read, according to a press release issued by Dennis O'Neill, district superintendent.

"Before, MEAP reading tests measured isolated reading skills, not comprehension," the release said.

The new reading tests took five years of research and planning, said Donald Bemis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The new test is "a reflection of what nationwide research shows is the best method of teaching reading," Bemis said.

The new tests feature two long reading selections from which students are asked four sets of questions in an effort to determine how well they understand the passages. The previous tests contained lists of questions and occasional short reading selections.

Junior Miss program seeks applicants

The Wayne-Westland Junior Miss Scholarship Program is seeking applicants for its 23rd Junior Miss program. The application deadline is Friday.

High school senior girls who live in Wayne or Westland or any student attending a Wayne-Westland school may enter.

The girls will be judged in five categories: scholastic achievement, physical fitness (which is a group choreographed routine), talent, poise, appearance (also a group choreographed routine) and an interview by a panel of judges.

A minimum cash scholarship of $1,000 will be awarded to the new Junior Miss who will have the chance to win additional scholarship awards at the state program in Marshall in January.

No entry fee is required.

Applications can be obtained in the Wayne Memorial, John Glenn, Churchill or Franklin High School offices. Girls attending private schools or high schools in other communities but living in Westland or Wayne can obtain applications by contacting Tony Rosati at 729-1779.

Shooting at area mall investigated

By Keith Postler
staff writer

By early Friday afternoon, it was business as usual at Livonia's Wonderland Mall, with no indication that a shooting had occurred a day and a half before.

An argument between two groups of teenagers at the mall, allegedly over a girlfriend of one of the youths involved, ended in gunfire Wednesday night.

Livonia police Detective Mike Murray said the incident occurred around 9 p.m. when one of the youths pulled out a handgun and fired five or six shots.

Two of the shots were directed at the crowd and the others hit the ceiling, Murray said. No one was injured in the incident.

Witnesses told police that some of the youths involved brandished baseball bats.

One of the bats was recovered by Wonderland Mall security and given to Livonia Police.

THE INCIDENT began in the Eaton Place and ended up in the mall near the information booth where the shooting occurred, Murray said.

Police suspect the weapon used was a .38-caliber revolver, "possible larger," he said.

A number of witnesses were brought in for questioning but Murray said no one was in custody.

The police have several suspects and still are investigating the incident, he said.

ONE WITNESS observed a suspect wearing a Taco Bell uniform leave the scene with three other youths. The youths were arrested by Livonia Police and brought in for questioning after fleeing the scene.

Murray would neither deny nor confirm that one of the suspects was a Taco Bell employee or that the incident occurred as the result of an argument over a girlfriend.

A Wonderland Mall information booth employee said the suspect was fired from his job at Taco Bell.

The manager at the Taco Bell restaurant, which is housed in the mall's Eaton Place food emporium, refused to comment on the incident.

Security officers at the mall also declined to comment.

Last park concert set

The European Brass will perform Wednesday night in the Westland Cultural Society's final concert in the park musical series.

The free concert will start at 7 p.m. in the Central City Park gazebo, south of City Hall, on Ford near Carlson.

Ten musicians make up the European Brass and will perform on a "travelogue of music," said a group spokesman, featuring music from Poland, Germany, England, Spain, Greece, and other European countries, before returning to the U.S. for traditional numbers such as "Stars and Stripes Forever."

The Wednesday concert is sponsored by the Lions Host Club and the Musicians Trust Fund. Concertgoers are urged to bring their lawn chairs or blankets.

Sheriff: Drivers will be stopped in drug fight

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

As soon as tomorrow, drivers in western Wayne County could be stopped at a police check point as part of a crackdown against illegal drugs.

An experimental check point will be established in an undisclosed western Wayne County community, Sheriff Robert Ficano said Friday. All vehicles approaching the check point will be stopped. Drivers will be asked to show their license and registration.

Though he declined to name the site, Ficano said deputies are establishing the check point at the community's request.

The check point is being established in response to traffic complaints, the sheriff said, though a department release added that check points would target "areas of narcotic activity."

"IF WE'RE going to put some teeth into what we're doing, we're going to have to take drastic steps," he said, pledging to "do everything legally possible" to fight the drug trade.

These are the first such check points authorized since he's been sheriff, Ficano said.

Though state police check lanes for suspected drunken drivers were deemed illegal, Ficano said he believed the new check lanes would pass judicial scrutiny.

"The big difference is that this is not a random search," he said.

Deputies will chase cars attempting to elude the check point by making a U-turn.

The first check lane represents a "pilot program," Ficano said. If successful, check lanes could be established in other suburban communities. At this point, there hasn't been discussion of check lanes in Detroit. Local police officers may be used in the check points. The procedure follows guidelines set in a Washington, D.C., case decided earlier this year in U.S. Appeals Court. In the case, U.S. v. McFadden, the federal appeals court upheld traffic stops at routine check points.

"If there are valid, reported concerns over traffic then there should be no problem," said chief assistant Wayne County prosecutor George Ward, who advised the sheriff's department on the appeals court ruling. "But, of course, police can keep their eyes open for anything they see."

Signs will mark the check point area.

Rival tax plans aim for '90 ballot

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Anti-tax people can take their pick of two suburban groups working for 1990 ballot proposals to cut property taxes.

"It's better if we let everyone go their own way," said economist Patrick Anderson after the former CUT (Citizens Unfairly Taxed) split Sept. 9. He is allied with former Oakland prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson.

The rival group is keeping the old CUT name and is headed by William D. McMaster, Bloomfield Township public relations man.

"It was a rocky marriage," quipped Patterson, "and I thought it was better to split before we had kids."

HERE ARE the differences:

- The Patterson-Anderson group, which reorganized last weekend, advocates a complex amendment that concentrates on cutting school millage rates and allowing assessments to rise no faster than inflation.
- McMaster's group attacks assessments, the valuation local government puts on land and buildings for tax purposes. It rejected the Anderson-Patterson proposal.

After crediting Patterson and Anderson with much volunteer work, McMaster summed up their differences: "They concentrated their attention on changing the school millage rate that not only wouldn't cut property taxes, but contained provisions that would have guaranteed continued future increases in property tax assessments."

Countered Anderson: "We limit it (assessments) to the inflation rate and new construction."

JUST WHO HAS the right to use the CUT name is unsettled.

McMaster last week issued a statement on behalf of CUT, accusing Patterson and Anderson of "quitting and leaving the meeting. Upon their departure, the majority of the total board members of CUT voted to have McMaster serve as 'acting chairman of the CUT board of directors.'"

Anderson's version: "We disbanded the group last Saturday morning (Sept. 9). We had four of the five officers — three there and a proxy.

"He (McMaster) used the name in the press release. But he's not going to be able to use it because we have it registered."

Anderson said a dozen of the 35 board members were with McMaster, Anderson and Patterson say the rest of the board members are with them.

Anderson said it's relatively unimportant who has the CUT name because the group has no treasury. "All the work, the people, the momentum — that comes with us," said Anderson, chief economist of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. in Farmington Hills.

Each group will need 240,000 legal signatures to get its plan on the ballot — 320,000 actual names to allow a margin for errors.

THE POSITION of Richard Headlee, chief executive of Alexander Hamilton, was unclear.

"Dick was out of town and didn't participate (Sept. 9)," said Anderson. "I talked to him on the phone afterwards, and he didn't seem broken up."

"He has not taken a formal role in the group Patterson and I have. He's very much interested in opposing Proposals A and B on the Nov. 7 ballot. My guess is that he'll just work against A and B."

Headlee chaired the group that won voter approval of the 1978 tax limitation amendment — the so-called Headlee amendment.

Anderson said his group wants to strengthen the Headlee amendment by:

- Reducing school operating property taxes to a 30-mill limit, saving $600 million statewide.
- Allocating more of the state budget to K-12 education without compromising local control.
- Limiting assessment increases to the rate of inflation. Currently the Headlee amendment allows assessments to rise with the market but requires a corresponding tax rate cut if assessment hikes exceed the consumer price index of inflation.

Beating the odds

A self-test for signal patterns

PICK ANY traffic light in the world at random and drive up to it. The odds are 50 percent the light will be green and 50 percent red, right?

Not in Livonia. In Livonia the odds are overwhelming that it will be red. Try this test: Get on westbound Eight Mile at Vernier — that's in East Detroit — and accelerate to the posted speed limit. Even in heavy traffic and wet weather, you'll be greeted all the way across town by green lights — Gratiot, Groesbeck, Mound, Ryan, Dequindre, the I-75 ramp, Woodward, Telegraph, Beech — 19 miles of green lights. Until you get to Livonia.

AT INKSTER, you will almost certainly hit a red light. If you make it past Inkster on yellow, you'll hit a red at Grand River a block away. Starting at Inkster, you can make Grand River on green. But at Brentwood, a half-mile away, you are certain to be stopped by a red light. Another red at Middlebelt. Merriman will have a green light if you go 5 mph over the limit. A red light at Farmington Road.

Unless traffic slows you down, which is increasingly likely, you can make Newburgh Road on green, but you'll be stopped by red lights at both the I-275 ramp and Haggerty Road.

Tally them up: six red lights, three greens if you are lucky.

TRY SIX MILE going west from Haggerty.

There will be red lights at the I-275 ramp and Newburgh, greens at Levan, Wayne and Whitby (Stevenssoil High), a red at Farmington, greens at Hubbard and Merriman, reds at Middlebelt and Inkster.

The tally is five green and five red, but let's eliminate the lights at the residential streets and count only the mile roads and the freeway ramp. Our revised tally is one green, five red.

I will not belabor the point by citing every intersection in town, except to point out that two miles of Newburgh are a nightmare at Schoolcraft, Amrhein, Plymouth, Ann Arbor and Joy roads.

In all examples, I drove the roads around 8 or 9 p.m. on a mid-summer evening with light traffic and daylight. Naturally, it's worse with daytime traffic and horrendous in rush hours.

THERE'S A WAY to beat Livonia's bad odds, though I hesitate to report it.

Tim Richard

On many roads — I won't say which — if you exceed the speed limit by 10 mph, you can reverse the odds and make 80 percent of the intersections on a green light.

As a responsible newsman and pillar of the community, I can't advocate breaking the law, although the odds you'll be caught are slim.

But the truth is that there are many advantages to speeding just a bit. Figure it this way:

• If you travel the posted speed limit in a 40 zone, your effective speed, with all the red lights, is 20 to 25.

• If you travel 10 mph faster, your effective speed is more than 40.

You'll cut your driving time nearly in half, you'll save fuel, you'll put less strain on your brakes and motor, and you'll reduce the stress on yourself.

Livonia's traffic lights reward the speeder and punish those who observe the speed limit.

MOST MILE roads are under the jurisdiction of Wayne County. The traffic engineer who timed Livonia's traffic lights either was totally incompetent or has a malevolence of soul that borders on the demonic.

There are lots of collisions at Livonia's intersections. When police investigate, they note on their report whether they believe any drivers have been drinking. They do not, however, note whether the driver was subconsciously frustrated at hitting five red lights prior to the collision.

I strongly suspect driver frustration is a major factor in many collisions. Test it for yourself by watching a traffic light at a major intersection for a half-hour. Observe how many drivers hit the gas pedal to make a yellow light. Notice how many left turns are completed after the light turns red.

THE CITY Council is studying a report by Brian L. Bowman, Ph.D., P.E., of the consulting firm of Goodell-Grivas, Inc., of Southfield, on the deplorable driving conditions and "congestion."

Bowman makes many, many suggestions. At virtually every problem spot, he advocates lengthening the periods of the traffic signals.

He's correct. No single improvement could be cheaper and more effective in alleviating congestion, making our mile roads safer and relieving driver frustration than resetting our traffic lights.

It can be done. Try Eight Mile from Vernier to Inkster, where the law-abiding driver is rewarded.

Ask Geake hard questions

To the editor: I read with dismay M.B. Dillon's Sept. 11 article about Sen. Robert Geake's recent survey. Dillon appears to be a Geake supporter, having failed to ask any hard questions.

Sen. Geake's crusade against tobacco products and citizens who choose to use them, I'm sure, is well intentioned. But, in fairness, I feel Sen. Geake should add some questions to his survey. For instance:

Do you feel property taxes, though not based on ability to pay, are a fair way to finance our children's education?

Do you agree with the excise tax measures I've supported, even though they are the most regressive form of taxation?

Should we raise the income tax rate, once tobacco products are eliminated from their scourge on society, to make up for the millions of dollars lost in excise taxes now derived from their sales? (Mr. Geake will tell you taxes won't have to be raised because of the tremendous financial burden smokers put on society. A recent study published in Business Week disagrees.)

Do you feel teachers should eat foods high in cholesterol salt, or fat, and red meat on school property even though they can be harmful to their health and set a bad example for all children?

Do you agree with the time I

Jaycees take issue with column

To the editor:

As past presidents of the Michigan Jaycees, we take serious issue with Steve Barnaby's Aug. 24 column regarding an incident of racial discrimination involving a South Carolina Jaycee chapter.

By omitting critical facts, the reader was left with a seriously erroneous impression that Jaycee officers minimized its importance, when, in fact, the officers of the United States Jaycees and Michigan Jaycees deeply regret this tragic incident.

The facts: On July 13, three black teenagers were denied access by a non-Jaycee employee to a swimming pool located on land owned by the Saluda, (S.C.) Jaycees. The Jaycees had contracted with an independent swim club to operate the pool, and were not involved with its operation whatsoever.

The Jaycee chapter, upon learning of the incident, immediately held an emergency meeting, and informed the swim club that unless it operated the pool in a non-discriminatory fashion, the pool would be closed and the Jaycees would find another operator. The president of the national Jaycees spoke with the governor and the governor of South Carolina to outline the steps taken.

Unfortunately, the Observer & Eccentric column only repeated the original negative media reporting without stating any of the actions taken by chapter or national officers to resolve the issue, even though those actions were taken one month prior to your column.

The column also seriously misrepresents the response taken by Michigan Jaycee officers. Contrary to your editorial, Sharon LeMieux was allowed to address a Michigan Jaycee District meeting in Fraser with her concerns. When the entire story was presented to that meeting, virtually all in attendance agreed that appropriate remedial action had already been taken. Additionally, the only attempt to place this issue on the agenda at our recent convention took place just before the meeting, well after the established deadline to do so.

Jaycees is a worldwide leadership training/community service organization for all young people 21-39, irrespective of race, color, creed, religion, or country of national origin. There are 7,500 members in 175 local chapters in Michigan.

We do agree with your column that a recruitment program to encourage minorities and any young person to join the Jaycees is worthwhile, and such efforts have occurred for years. Based upon the column, we assume the Eccentric newspapers will join with us in this effort, and promote the positive aspects of Jaycees.

If anyone desires information about involvement in the Jaycees, please call our state office at (517) 487-6077.

Abortion sends wrong message

To the editor:

Kill it.

That's the message we send with the current attitude towards abortion. I don't care what anyone says, deep down everyone knows it's killing, plain and simple.

So our youth, fresh from the womb, get this distorted view of the value of life.

Measure life by things or by life? War, genocide, abortion, euthanasia, suicide, murder, all answers to problems.

Problem is by the time we notice that the solution is worse than the problem it's started a cycle of killing that's repeated itself throughout history.

I imagine we could solve all of life's problems by killing someone or everyone. Yeah we got some great bombs for that. What self-worth can someone have whose parents aborted their brother or sister. Is this true or untrue?

Truth rings like a bell!
You can call it anything you want, I call it selfish.

Support for homeless is needed now

To the editor:

As a concerned citizen about the problem of homelessness, I am writing about an important event that you will, no doubt, want to write about in your suburban papers. This event is Housing Now! A march on Washington scheduled Oct. 7 to bring pressure on our legislators to take action for affordable housing. As many as 3 million Americans are presently homeless, this is surely a national disgrace.

Last week I heard on the radio that the average cost of a house in this country just topped $100,000. Where will even a small portion of these new homeless save enough for a down payment or qualify for a mortgage? We cannot think it just for some of us to have everything, and others to have nothing.

Rite stuff: downing an oyster

It used to be true that oysters should only be eaten in months that end with an "r." For all we cared, the months could end in "z," because swallowing one's first raw oyster is a rite of passage reserved for that minute classification of people who dared eat tripe, mountain oysters and snails.

Oysters are neither cute nor do they have a compelling aroma. One must work at loving oysters.

If memory serves me correctly, I was into the age of adulthood before I sampled my first raw oyster. It was somewhere between my second and third new car and well past the age when my driver's license was no longer required proof to enter a bar.

All oysters are considered "filter feeders," meaning that they do not necessarily move about to get their food but, instead, get nourishment by pumping hundreds of gallons of water a day through their valves and filtering out tiny larvae and plankton for nourishment.

OYSTERS THRIVE on every coast and are categorized by that geographical definition. Domestically, there are Atlantic oysters, Pacific oysters and Gulf oysters.

In the last few years, an incredible amount of new classifications of oysters has sprung into prominence. What used to be simple groups like Bluepoints, Olympias and Cotuluts have been integrated with the assorted tastes like Belons, Hog Island Sweetwaters and Portuguese, along with about a dozen or so other varieties. And that doesn't even begin counting the thousand or so varieties available from other worldwide coastal areas.

As stated earlier, it used to be written in seawater that oysters only be consumed during months that end with an "r," namely, September, October, November and December.

Oysters reproduce during the summer and, as a result, most summer mainland oysters used to be unappealingly fat (about to spawn) or have a strange texture (just spawned). However, oyster harvesters now say that oysters can be perfectly acceptable in summer, especially if you order some of the colder-climate varieties like those from Washington State, British Columbia or Nova Scotia.

Because oysters are filter feeders, they are continuously exposed to infectious bacteria and viruses that get pumped through their bodies along with the food supply. These bacteria and viruses are usually found in waters polluted by industrial wastes and sewage. Periodically, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration issues advisories warning consumers not to eat raw shellfish, including oysters.

BUT THE FDA has never really come forward and said that eating raw oysters is harmful. If it's any consolation, all oyster harvesters and distributors must use a detailed system of tagging every box of oysters that reveals the exact date of harvesting, including the specific oyster bed and the date received by the distributor and the date received by the restaurant. Restaurants are supposed to keep the tags on hand for 60 days, ensuring that any resulting health problem could be traced quickly.

Judging from oyster sales, safety is not weighing on most oyster-lovers' minds. Oysters have become so popular that for several years they have been over-harvested. As a result, there are fewer and fewer oysters, and they cost more and more.

According to data from the National Marine Fisheries, on the East Coast alone, 48 million pounds of oyster meat valued at $46 million were sold in 1976. By contrast, in 1986 only 35 million pounds were sold, valued at $72 million. That's a 27 percent decline in production and a 57 percent increase in price.

Lobster Crustacean stars at ultimate bash

Its claws taped, a live lobster awaits its fate.

By Larry Janes special writer

IF YOU REMEMBER correctly, it was just a few short months ago when a story was run on a Livonia firefighter's quest to throw the ultimate backyard barbecue — a pig and lamb roast for about 150 close friends, neighbors and fellow firefighters.

Watch out, Livonia, because vying for a little friendly one-upmanship are Keith and Louise Malinowski and the firefighters from Redford.

Right after the last story ran, this reporter received an invitation to a backyard lobster bake and I've got to admit, it was quite a party.

It never ceases to amaze me how folks can throw parties for between 125-150 friends, with ease. Simple get-togethers at Chateau Janes for six people send me over the proverbial fire hydrant, and thoughts of multiplying the guest list 20-fold sends shivers down my spine.

So what's the secret to these ultimate backyard bashes? The Malinowskis and their kids from Redford have been doing this for the last seven years, and the only time I noticed firefighter Malinowski slightly flustered was when he was told by another firefighter that they were having trouble with the beer tap.

BEFORE MALINOWSKI could utter an, "Oh no, what next?" his friend volunteered to head to the nearest party store and get another tapper. Ah, the secret has been revealed. It isn't enough that these guys trust their lives with each other every day. They all seem to band together and help each other when the need arises.

To pull off a party of this magnitude, however, a few months of solid planning are de rigueur. So what if the weekend weather bantered back and forth with intermittent showers and sunshine? After successfully throwing parties like this for the last seven years, a little experience never hurt anyone.

The reason for the ultimate lobster bake came up many moons ago when the Malinowskis discovered their taste for fresh Maine lobsters. After many pilgrimages to the East Coast, they found themselves carrying back requests from firefighters and other friends for fresh, live Maine lobsters and clams.

Fortunately, with today's jet-fresh transport services just a short drive away at Metro Airport, it seemed like a piece of cake to request 12 dozen lobsters and 50 pounds of clams to be packed, wrapped and sent via air cargo. Malinowski claims his East Coast supplier-wholesaler said the lobsters were still swimming in the ocean Friday morning, and after being caught Friday afternoon, they were immediately boxed, topped with seaweed and put on a plane for the Motor City.

Unlike the Livonia firefighter's, pig roast where a straw hat was passed at the end of the soiree to help defray expenses, the Malinowskis send out a flyer every summer asking guests to r.s.v.p., along with a check to secure their requests. For those attending the party who chose not to indulge in live lobsters, New York strip steaks prepared just the way you like them also were handled on a large, portable grill.

FIREFIGHTER Jim Gomulka and Malinowski's brother, Mark, were in charge of grilling while the big boss man and compadres Gary Burke and Ed Leonard assisted the chef himself with the "exactly 13 minutes in rapidly boiling, lightly salted water" for the lobsters.

In addition to the hardy surf-and-turf fare, Malinowski included fresh, boiled, corn on the cob and what I thought were the best-tasting onions I had ever sunk my teeth into. A side trip to the Detroit Eastern Market at 5 a.m. — the day of the party — had the Redford fireman slinging 50-pound sacks of corn and onions over his shoulder for the hungry guests. The onions were boiled in their skins till tender, again for about 13 minutes.

Immediately upon their removal from the steaming, institutional-sized cauldron, the root ends were sliced off, and tender, juicy, tasty onions were squeezed out by hand. I could have a dinner just on the onions, but I chose to indulge in the other culinary fantasies in order to save my breath from sheer disaster.

Tucked away in the tidy Malinowski kitchen was Bob Thomas, president of the firefighter union lo-

TO COOK FRESH LOBSTERS:

lobsters into water and when the water returns to a full boil, cook lobster for 13 minutes exactly. Serve with melted butter.

BOILED ONIONS

Drop whole small cooking onions into boiling water with a little salt in it and boil for 13 minutes or until tender. Remove from water and drain. Cut onion on the root end and squeeze onion out of skin. Best if served warm or hot.

NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER

2½ pounds butter

3 pounds salt pork, diced into ¼ inch cubes

7 pounds onions, chopped medium
10 pounds potatoes diced medium
2½ gallons water
10 cans clams (51-ounce can)
10 quarts cream, scalded pepper, thyme and cayenne pepper to taste
pork cracklings

Cook salt pork in butter over medium heat until pork is golden brown. Remove cracklings and reserve for garnish. Sauté onions in

Love that pizza — from wood-burning oven

Its doors opened just a few weeks ago, but America's Pizza Cafe is having no trouble finding customers. It seems like everyone who loves pizza (and that's everyone, right?) is rushing to try out Mike Ilitch's newest venture, a diner-like gourmet pizza place in Southfield.

And the response is just about as enthusiastic as the staff that serves you: good and excitingly different pizzas, modest prices and a fun atmosphere. The pizzas are definitely terrific — familiar enough to be comfortable, yet different enough to inject a whole new enthusiasm for pizza.

The setting is upbeat too. White-painted brick walls, turquoise vinyl booths, formica-topped tables, copper-trimmed counter, ceiling fans and a wonderful, lifelike sculpture of two waitresses sharing a smoke.

The standard pepperoni et al pizza is all but gone from this menu. Here you can select from a dozen variations including Mexican burrito style with chicken, Italian and cheddar cheeses, as well as mild salsa, pinto beans, onions and tomatoes; a teriyaki chicken version with chicken in an orange teriyaki sauce, onions and red and yellow peppers; or Greek style with lamb sausage, grape leaves, red onions, tomatoes, olives, green peppers and, of course, feta cheese.

combination of Italian cheeses and is very heavy on the garlic. The light, crisp crust and touch of tomato sauce are gentle reminders that this is, indeed, a pizza.

Another wonderful selection is the "Polynesian" pizza featuring pineapple, Canadian bacon, ground cashews and tomato sauce. It has a refreshingly sweet taste. One of the most popular selections is the "traditional bar-b-que chicken" with a sweet sauce, red onion and cilantro.

Brian Freshwater, vice president of restaurant concepts for Little Caesars, tends the pizza oven at America's Pizza Cafe in Southfield.

All the pizzas are cooked, in full view of the diners, inside a wood-fired oven which brings a little different taste to the food. Each pizza is small, designed for one person. Most customers order at least one pizza per person and then share. It seemed everyone was leaving with a "carryout."

There are six salads to choose from, including an excellent romaine and watercress salad ($4.75) with apples, onions, walnuts, gruyere cheese and a sweet parmesan dressing. This was easily shared before the main entree. Other selections include an antipasto or a Caesar salad.

The menu isn't exclusively pizza. There are 12 pasta dishes, some of which are similar to the pizzas offered — like the lemon-garlic pasta or the garden vegetable marinara. The pastas also are moderately priced ($4.25-$7.95), though they definitely play second to the pizzas.

You can finish your meal with a dessert, like harvest apple cobbler pie or caramel praline cheesecake. Beverages range from standard soft drinks, California wines, wine coolers and beer to Kaliber, a non-alcoholic Guinness beer, and Perrier. Espresso and cappuccino are also available.

BECAUSE THIS restaurant is taking off like a rocket, allow time for standing in line — especially on weekends. We waited nearly an hour, but the amazingly upbeat staff made the wait as pleasant as possible. We were constantly reassured that we would be seated as quickly as possible — and we were. The instant a table was vacated, it was prepared for the next customers.

Even though the strain of the steady stream of traffic was showing on some faces (there was still a line at 9:45 p.m. on a recent weekend), the staff was exceedingly friendly. They seem to share the exuberance of the place. Or maybe they sense they are onto something big.

Details: America's Pizza Cafe, 24459 Telegraph Road, Southfield, 352-5588. No reservations. Carryout available.

Hours: Monday-Thursday, 10:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Friday 10:30 a.m. to midnight; Saturday 11:30 a.m. to midnight; Sunday 11:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Prices: Pizzas and pastas $4.25-$7.95, salads $1.85-$4.75. MasterCard, Visa.

Value: Terrific. Innovative pizza, modest prices — how could you lose?

It's the rite stuff: downing an oyster

A call to a few of the local area's major seafood retail outlets has found an interesting assortment of oysters for sale. Some, like the Belons, are definitely for discerning palates, but for the most part, a basic supply of the top flavor-getters are available, for a price.

Expect to pay anywhere from 39 cents to about $1.50 each, depending on where they came from and their size. All the retailers polled stressed that they can special-order just about any type of oyster. Some of the selections available locally include:

• Belon. Used to hail from Brittany, France, but is now grown on both coasts. It has round, flat shells, with a pronounced metallic flavor, especially iron.

• Bluepoint. Originally from Blue Point, Long Island, this oyster is no longer harvested. Bluepoint is a generic term for a mild Atlantic oyster.

• Coutit. From Cape Cod, Mass., medium-to-large size, with a plump body and salty flavor.

• Hot Island Sweetwater. From Tomales Bay, Calif., small-to-medium sized, with a deep shell. Plump, creamy and sweet, with a light, smoky flavor.

• Louisiana Gulf. Found in the bay-

oas of the Mississippi Delta. Thick shell and soft fatty texture, slightly salty, with a light metallic flavor.

• Malpeque. From Prince Edward Island, Canada, this small oyster has a light bitter, lettuce-like flavor with a clean aftertaste.

• Chincoteague. From Maryland and Virginia; small-to-medium sized, with a flat, round shell. Sweet with a distinctive aftertaste.

• Olympia. From Puget Sound, Wash., and Humbolt Bay, Calif., round and flat shell, with a robust flavor and a mid-coppery aftertaste.

• Pacific Jumbo. From Fanny Bay, British Columbia, large, oblong and grayish, about 5 inches long. Has a mild flavor and firm texture.

• Quillcene. From Quillcene Bay, Wash., tastes fairly briny, with a cucumber flavor and strong aftertaste.

• Rhode Island Select. From Rhode Island, it is meaty, with a crisp flavor.

• Willapa Bay. From Washington, medium-sized, with a deep cup and a clean, salty and sweet flavor.

cal 1206. His job was to prepare the 10 gallons of steaming clam chowder that served as a welcome accompaniment during a sudden downpour, as guests huddled under a miniature circus tent set up between the volley ball net and horseshoe pit. Both Malinowski and Thomas laid claim to the recipe, with Thomas calling most of the shots and offering piping hot bowls to guests who had to cut through the kitchen to use the facilities.

When asked his secret, the chowder chef (with beer mug in hand) seemed proud of his accomplishment, with only one regret. "Next year I'm bring my special secret jar of Tabasco to give it a little more

oomph" was his reply.

APPETIZERS AND munchies were about as hard to find as Thomas' secret jar of tabasco, with the hosts offering not one but two steaming lobsters to each guest. Needless to say, no complaints were heard from the masses.

And if all that wasn't enough, all you had to do was look around to find a 25-pound bowl of fresh cole-slaw on the service table, not to mention the numerous kegs of beer, wine and soft drinks.

I wandered through the crowd, trying to spot the experienced lobster eater going after what I considered to be one of the most tasty parts of the crustacean next to the tail, those tiny little legs. I wonder if the guests minded me suggesting they snap off the little beauties and treating them like slurpee straws, getting small succulent shots of tender lobster meat down their gullets with a swift enough slurp.

When it came time to depart, I noticed a few of the guests wrapping what was left of their orangey-red treats for take home, surely to be enjoyed the next day in a salad or stuffed into pita with some ripe tomatoes and crisp lettuce.

And to top it all off, if a guest worked up a little hunger on the horseshoe pits or volleyball field, giant platters of Louise Malinowski's "Down East Blueberry Cake" was brought out to satiate any remaining hunger pangs. This recipe was purportedly gleaned from an old fisherman-type restaurant that was a favorite of the host and hostess.

WHEN ASKED for a bit of advice to someone like you or me who might consider throwing a lobster bake of this magnitude, Malinowski said, "It just gets more fun and bigger every year." A word to the wise, be careful or this might turn into a yearly event at your house, especially if your friends had as much fun and great food as the Malinowskis.

As I was driving home with the sweet taste of lobster still clinging to my tastebuds I couldn't help but think, "If Livonia firemen throw pig and lamb roasts and Redford firemen go for lobster bakes, what do the other suburban firemen do for a great party?"

pork fat till golden brown. Add potatoes, boiling water and clam juice (reserved from clams) and bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 15-20 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Add clams and bring to a boil. Remove from heat, cool. Before serving, reheat the soup and stir in scalded cream and butter.

Season to taste with pepper, thyme and cayenne. Garnish with pork cracklings. Makes enough to serve about 125, 6 ounces each.

LOUISE MALINOWSKI'S COLE SLAW

6 large heads of green cabbage
2 pounds carrots
6 large green peppers
1 gallon cole slaw dressing

LOUISE'S DOWN EAST BLUEBERRY CAKE

2 boxes yellow cake mixes (preferably Duncan Hines)
7 eggs
1 cup butter or margarine

1 1/2 cups water
1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries
Blend all ingredients except blueberries on low speed of mixer until well moistened. Mix at high speed for 5 minutes. Pour into a 13-by-18-inch greased pan. Sprinkle blueberries on top and bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes. Cool cake and sprinkle with powdered sugar, if desired. Recipe can easily be cut in half.

Look for mushrooms with the veil attached

AP — Mushrooms grow in the dark. But you needn't be in the dark when it comes to buying, storing and preparing fresh mushrooms. Follow these simple tips to add their special elegance to everyday meals.

• Look for smooth, firm mushrooms with the veil — the membrane between the stem and cap — still attached. Those with open veils are still delicious, just more mature.

• Mushrooms are marketed in three general sizes: small (button), medium and large. Size is a matter of preference, not quality or age. Choose the size most appropriate for your recipe.

• Store fresh mushrooms, unwashed, in the refrigerator. Store pre-packaged mushrooms in the package.

• Loose mushrooms or those in an opened package should be stored in a paper bag or a damp cloth bag in the refrigerator. This allows them to breathe so they stay firmer longer.

• Do not store in plastic bags; this causes mushrooms to deteriorate more quickly.

• Stored properly, mushrooms will keep for several days.

• Do not wash mushrooms or soak them in water. Instead, wipe gently with a damp cloth or special mushroom brush. Because they're porous, mushrooms absorb water like a sponge, softening the texture and causing a loss of nutrients.

• Store-bought mushrooms never need peeling.

• Choose button or medium mushrooms for slicing in salads or sauteing in butter or wine. Large mushrooms are best for stuffing as appetizers, broiling, or in stews or soups.

• Cook mushrooms covered and avoid overcooking. Sautéed mushrooms require 3-5 minutes cooking time. In soups and stews, they can be cooked 30 minutes or longer.

MEASURING MUSHROOMS:

• One pound equals approximately 17 large, 34-40 medium, or 75-85 button mushrooms.

• One pound whole mushrooms equals about 5 cups sliced or 4 cups chopped mushrooms.

• One pound raw mushrooms equals 2 cups sliced and cooked.

• One pound raw mushrooms equals 1 1/2 cups sliced and cooked.

OYSTER BISQUE

1 pint oysters, in liquid, 4 cups milk
1/4 onion, sliced
4 sprigs parsley
1 bay leaf
1/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
dash fresh ground pepper, preferably white

salt in a large, oblong baking dish. Place an oyster or half of one in each shell. Put spinach, onion, parsley, salt, pepper, tobasco in a food processor or blender and blend until well chopped. Stir in bread crumbs and saute in butter or margarine for 5 minutes. Spoon over oysters. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes or until oysters are heated throughout and hot. Serve with lemon slices.

Drain oysters; reserve liquid. Chop oysters, set aside. Combine milk, onion, parsley and bay leaf in a saucepan. Scald milk. Cook celery in a small amount of butter or margarine until tender. Add to milk mixture. Melt butter or margarine in a second saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper and make roux. Strain milk mixture through a sieve and stir into flour mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add oysters with liquid. Heat through but do not boil. Serves 6-8.

OYSTER STUFFING
4 quarts toasted bread cubes, about 32 slices
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 1/2 cups chopped onion
1 quart oysters with liquid
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon powdered sage

Measure breadcrumbs into a dry, large bowl. Melt 1/4 cup of the butter or margarine and cook celery and onions over medium heat until soft and tender. Pour over bread cubes. Heat remaining butter and margarine in a large skillet and add oysters with liquid. Heat for one minute, remove oysters and pour liquid from skillet over bread-cube mixture. Chop oysters coarsely, combine with bread-cube mixture, along with sage, milk, salt and pepper. Mix well. Stuff lightly into turkey, cornish hen or chicken. Bake until cooked throughout, depending on size of bird used.

OYSTERS ROCKEFELLER
18 large raw oysters
2 cups spinach, cooked and well drained
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
dash salt and pepper
3 drops Tobasco
1/4 cup soft breadcrumbs
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Open oysters; remove from shells. Place shell halves on a bed of rock

family-tested
winner dinner

Betsy
Brethen

Here is the deal: send us your meal

A tuna casserole is bubbling away. Another dinner prepared for the day.

"What's this stuff?" the boys all say. "We wouldn't touch this for pay!"

Alas, my efforts have been in vain. Yet another mealtime starts in pain.

"Why do you make us eat this stuff?" "It's GOOD for you," I reply in a huff.

"Why don't you just call Domino's." "You-know the number, 5-4-0-6-oh-oh-oh!"

As I clean the kitchen and scrub the sink, I take a moment to reflect and think.

There MUST be a solution to this daily dilemma. A steady diet of pizza does not make strong men-a!

If only I could find other children-tested dinners. Surely among them I'd find a winner.

So please send in your family's favorite meal. Recipes included is part of the deal.

We will swap these "Winner Dinners" so that as you read, You'll soon have a collection of favorite recipes.

Hopeful, this column will be a shot in the arm. These "Winner Dinners" promise to work like a charm.

Dear Frustrated Mothers,

This bit of poetry was inspired by real-life experiences with my three boys. In conversations with other mothers, I realized I wasn't alone in the frustration of trying to plan and prepare dinners that my children and husband would eat.

So, in an attempt to improve the great "dinner dilemma," I offer you an opportunity to share your family's favorite Winner Dinner and explain why it works for you. As an added incentive, an apron printed with "Winner Dinner Winner" will be given.

Together we can work toward providing each other with an ongoing selection of tasty and nutritious family meals. As well as saving you time, these complete menus might even result in your hearing those yearned-for words, "Gee, Mom, that was great. May I have some more?"

Please include a complete dinner menu with recipes as needed. Submit your recipes to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012.

clarification

There was an error in the recipe for Chicken and Shallois, in Betsy Brethen's column "Family-Tested Winner Dinners" that ran Sept. 11. The description should have read: Continue adding the broth as needed and cook until a light gravy has been formed.

Observer & Eccentric Winner Dinner

PORK ORIENTAL
WHITE RICE
APPLE CRISP

PORK ORIENTAL

This was one of my favorite dinners growing up. You might not think that any child would like this, based on the ingredients, but everybody who has ever tried it loves it. It can be prepared in advance up to the last step, which should be done just before serving. It is served over white rice, cooked according to directions on the box. Serves 4-6.

- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 pound of pork cut into cubes (pork chops work well)
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup celery
- 1 package frozen French-style green beans
- 1 tablespoon Accent (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- dash of pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered ginger
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 can mushrooms (undrained)
- 2 tablespoons corn starch
- 3 cups shredded lettuce
- 3 cups cooked white rice

Saute pork in oil for 2 minutes. Add onions and celery and continue cooking until onions are tender.

Add beans, spices, soy sauce and mushrooms. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer covered for 25 minutes.

In a small bowl, combine cornstarch with 1/4 cup of water. Stir until smooth. Add cornstarch mixture and lettuce and stir to mix well. Bring to a boil, stirring, and serve with hot rice.

APPLE CRISP

This is quick and easy to make, and especially good in the fall, served with vanilla ice cream or soft-serve vanilla yogurt.

- 7 medium-size tart apples (Jonathan), peeled and sliced
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg beaten
- 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
- cinnamon

Place apples in a greased 8-inch-square baking dish. In a large bowl, mix dry ingredients together with a spoon. Add beaten egg and mix well. Spread crumbly mixture over apples. Drizzle melted butter over the top. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes.

Shopping List

- Salad oil
- 1 pound of pork
- onions
- celery
- 1 10-ounce package frozen French-style green beans
- lettuce
- 7 medium-sized apples
- rice (I prefer Minute Rice)
- 1 can mushrooms
- 1 egg
- baking powder
- butter or margarine
- flour
- corn starch
- Accent
- salt
- pepper
- powdered ginger
- soy sauce
- sugar
- brown sugar
- cinnamon

Notes

Potatoes, chicken mix well in microwave

AP — The potato is earning a reputation for being fast, thanks to the microwave oven.

A whole potato cooks in the microwave in about 6 minutes, a sliced potato in about 5, and you can have a meal-sized potato dish in 12 minutes.

Cook and serve this Southwestern-seasoned meal on the same microwave-safe platter. The secret is the arrangement of foods, with the slowest-cooking food placed on the outside, the fastest in the center. You don't even peel the potato.

SOUTHWESTERN

- POTATO-CHICKEN PLATTER
- 1 pound potatoes, scrubbed and sliced crosswise into 1/2-inch-thick slices
- 1 pound boned and skinned chicken breasts, cut into 2-by-1-inch strips
- 2 cups fresh corn or one 10-ounce package frozen corn, thawed
- Southwestern Chili Sauce (recipe follows)
- 2 green onions, sliced
- 8 flour tortillas (optional)

Arrange potato slices around edge of a 12-inch round microwave-safe platter or pizza dish. Place chicken pieces in a ring inside potatoes, overlapping about 1 inch. Combine corn and 1/2 cup of the Southwestern Chili Sauce; place in center of platter. Spoon remaining chili sauce in a 1-inch ribbon between potato and chicken pieces. Sprinkle green onions over corn. Cover tightly with clear plastic wrap, turning back one side slightly to vent steam. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 12-14 minutes until chicken is no longer pink and vegetables are just tender, giving platter a half-turn after 6 minutes. Spoon mixture into warm tortillas, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Southwestern Chili Sauce: In a medium bowl stir together one 8-ounce can tomato sauce, one 4-ounce can chopped green chili peppers, drained; 1/4 teaspoon ground cumin; oregano, crushed; and 1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper.

Recipes in 'Food for Friends' stand the test of time

By Geri Rinschler
special writer

"Food for Friends" by Barbara Kafka, Harper & Row, 1989, $10.95.

When I was first asked to review "Food for Friends," I thought the title sounded familiar. As it turns out, the original, cloth version was published in 1984.

Why reprint a paperback five years later? Well, first of all, "Food for Friends" received a prestigious Tastemaker award. That's a literary award given annually to a select number of cookbooks in a variety of categories such as best ethnic, international or basic.

Since 1984 Kafka has gone on to write two other award-winning books, "Microwave Gourmet" and "American Food and California Wine." Besides being the recipient of these distinguished awards, Kafka also writes a food column for the

cook's books

Geri
Rinschler

New York Times and teaches on a weekly Canadian television program.

I don't know why I didn't remember "Food for Friends" because the recipes do appeal to me. Although many of the recipes are basic and traditional, a number of them are healthy, easy to prepare and made with some unconventional ingredients.

FOR EXAMPLE, the first recipe I tested for a family dinner, Vegetable Pancakes, worked out nicely. It's prepared with the same technique you would use for making potato pancakes but shredded zucchini and shredded carrots are added to the batter. I was disappointed there weren't any herbs included in the ingredients. So I improvised, which is just what the author encourages in her introduction.

There are a few other recipes I'd still like to try this summer, which sound appealing — Raspberry Bread Pudding, Curried Chicken Salad and Parsley Soup. Not all the recipes in "Food for Friends" are summer dishes but just the most appetizing ones.

My biggest disappointment with this cookbook is that there are no suggested menus or advice on dishes which specifically complement one another.

Some of the recipes are simple, others a bit complicated. The title suggests a collection of recipes for out-of-the-ordinary recipes — which is just what I look for when I entertain friends. Does the book meet with those expectations? On a scale of 1-10, I rate this one 7 1/2, but that's just this cook's opinion.

VEGETABLE PANCAKES
(This is a sort of multi-colored potato pancake.)

- 1 medium onion, minced
- 1 pound carrots, scrubbed and shredded
- 1 pound zucchini, washed and shredded
- 1 pound potatoes, peeled and shredded
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 large eggs
- 2 teaspoons kosher salt
- teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Put the onion, carrots, zucchini, potatoes and parsley in a bowl. Stir in the flour, eggs, salt and pepper.

Heat about 1/2-inch of vegetable oil in a 12-inch skillet until hot but not smoking. Take about 3 tablespoons of the mixture and put it into the skillet. With a spatula, immediately spread the mixture into a 4-inch circle. Cook for about 3 minutes; turn and cook for 3 minutes on the other side. You can cook about 3 at a time. Remove the cooked pancakes with a slotted spatula and drain on absorbent paper. Keep warm. Repeat until all the batter is cooked. Serve warm. Makes about 14 4-inch pancakes.

Two local area teams placed in the Pepto-Bismol chili cook-off at the Michigan State Fair recently.

Second place and $150 went to Gary and Lauren Ray of Livonia for their Old No. Seven Chili, which used a traditional chili recipe. Third place and $50 went to "Chili Joe TV Chili," which used a not-so-traditional chili recipe.

Contestants varied from the cultured cooking expert to the first-time novice.

"Chili" Joe Wnuck had a simplified version of his Guinness world-record chili, which contains 1,000 ingredients. Motor City Chili cooks Neil Michaels of Westland and Ken Kirkman of Livonia said their team's secret was sirloin marinated in wine and cooked in dry beer.

"It's one can of beer in the chili and six cans of beer in the cook," Kirkman joked.

Their strategy was to entertain as well as please the palate, so they greeted fairgoers in cowboy hats and rang cowbells. Michaels and Kirkman were awarded Best Booth for their unique chili display.

After the judges had their sampling cups filled, the chili makers served their leftovers to the hungry crowd of nearly 300 people.

Homemade pickles are tasty treats, fun to make

The cucumbers are ripe and plentiful, and it's pickling time.

True, it takes a bit of work to make pickles. But they taste so much better than any you can buy that you won't ever be sorry you did it.

I've included some old-fashioned favorites here, as well as some very easy recipes. Even the more complicated ones are well worth the time it takes to prepare them, and I personally think it's rather fun.

The aroma of pickling spices in hot vinegar syrup makes your whole neighborhood smell good. Everyone who passes by will wish they lived at your house.

And those who do live there will be glad they do — especially next winter, when you open a jar of their favorites to accompany a Sunday dinner, or to turn a sandwich snack into a gourmet delight.

PICKLES ARE the "frosting on the cake" at any meal, but with a lot less calories. One whole dill pickle averages from one to seven calories. And even a whole ounce of the sweet varieties, such as crisp sweet gherkins, bread and butter pickles, slippery jacks, or candied types average only 18-40 calories.

Of the recipes I have included here, Mae Bullock's Sweet Relish is my favorite. Once you have tasted it, store-bought relish will never again satisfy you. You may never want to eat another hamburger without it as long as you live.

It does more to happily domesticate a man than anything else I can think of (with the possible exception of crown roast with cornbread stuffing and hot German potato salad, which is what I'm about to fix for supper tonight).

DILL PICKLES IN A CROCK
These may be eaten after a few days, as what we used to call "half-dones." Or, you may wait several weeks or several months, until they are completely pickled.

10 quarts of water
2 cups salt
1 quart vinegar
several cloves of garlic (optional)
4 tablespoons whole black peppers
1 1/2 peck cucumbers
5 stalks fresh dill

Make a solution of the water, salt, vinegar and peppers, and bring it to a boil. Fill a crock with cucumbers, placing sliced garlic cloves and dill between the layers of cucumbers. Add the hot solution. Cover the crock for at least nine days before using.

MAE BULLOCK'S SWEET RELISH
(absolutely the easiest and best pickle relish ever)
1 1/2 quarts diced cucumbers
1 quart diced green tomatoes
2 quarts finely chopped cabbage

1 cup finely chopped celery
6 large onions, finely chopped
2 green peppers (ground)
2 red bell peppers (ground)
3 pounds light brown sugar
1 quart light cider vinegar
3 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon celery seed
2 tablespoons mustard seeds
1 box pickling spices, sewn into a cheesecloth bag

Bring mixture to a boil, and simmer for 20-25 minutes.

SWEET DILL PICKLES
(an unusual pickle you will either love or hate) cucumbers
salt
dill
1/2 cup light corn syrup

1/2 cup sugar
2 cups water
onions
1 cup vinegar

Put a good sprig of dill in the bottom of each sterilized jar. Pak with cucumbers, then top with a small peeled onion and 2 teaspoons of salt to each quart jar of pickles. Boil the syrup, sugar, water and vinegar together. Pour over the cucumbers in jars, and seal.

REFRIGERATOR PICKLES I
8-12 cucumbers, unpeeled
1 medium onion per jar
4 cups sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons mustard seed
1/2 cup salt
4 cups vinegar
1 1/2 tablespoons celery seed
1 1/2 teaspoon turmeric

Slice cucumbers into jars and add one sliced onion to each jar. Mix the remainder of the ingredients and pour over the cucumbers and onions, filling jar to 1/2-inch from the top, and screw lid on tightly. (No seal required.) Place in the refrigerator, and let stand for at least 5 days before serving. These will keep in the refrigerator for a year.

FREEZER PICKLES
2 quarts sliced cucumbers
1 sliced onion
2 tablespoon salt
4 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups vinegar

Combine cucumbers, onions and salt and let stand two hours. Drain. Cook sugar and vinegar until sugar dissolves. When mixture has cooled, pour over the pickles and mix well. Put in containers and freeze. Pickles are crisp and green.

COMPANY PICKLES

These pickles are very good but take lots of work. They got their name because they were saved only for special company dinners.

8 cups sugar
2 tablespoons pickling spices
5 teaspoons salt
4 cups cider vinegar

Cover whole cucumbers with boiling water, and allow to stand overnight. Drain. Repeat this procedure three more times. On the fifth day, drain, and slice into 1/2-inch pieces. Combine sugar, salt and vinegar. Bring to a boil and pour over the cucumbers. Let stand for two days. On the third day, bring to boiling again and seal in hot, sterilized jars. Makes seven pints.

HOW CAN YOU TELL IF A MEDICINE IS HELPING?

Imagine that your arthritis medicine is a complete success, and your arthritis leaves. Or assume the medicine is a thorough failure, and your arthritis becomes worse. In either case, you have no problem deciding whether or not to continue the therapy. Unfortunately, most arthritis medicine rarely works so well or ill. Usually you must make a decision when it has helped in less than a perfect manner. How can you decide?

Ask yourself the following specific questions: Were you stiff for hours in the morning when you started the medication, and now the stiffness lasts only minutes? Or, has the duration of stiffness remained unchanged?

Did you formerly awaken 3-4 times a night, and now only 1-2 times? Or, are you still repeatedly disturbed from sleep? Finally, how many joints are swollen today as compared with the past and how long do they now stay swollen?

Changing medication is fraught with hazards of side effects and unexpected interactions. However, reliance on a medicine that isn't helping is foolish. The guidelines described above allow you to decide whether it is appropriate to continue present medications or to consider other choices.

Give yourself a hand against breast cancer

Breast self-examination is easy, takes only a few minutes and can be performed in the privacy of your own home. It's an important way you can detect early and highly curable breast cancer. Through monthly breast self-examinations, you will learn how your normal breast tissue feels and will be able to recognize a change if one occurs. In fact, most breast lumps are found by women themselves.

Take control of your body and your life.

Make breast self-examination a part of your monthly routine. And see your doctor regularly for clinical exams and advice on mammography.

Exotic vegetables can liven up an ordinary meal

For health reasons, there has been a renewed interest in vegetables. Many grocers are carrying some very foreign looking vegetables right alongside the familiar carrots and broccoli.

For variety as well as nutrition and good taste, these vegetables are worth trying. Some of these vegetables may even come with a label that offers tips on handling and cooking. Many can be eaten raw and are easy to cook, low in calories and relatively high in vitamins, minerals and fiber. Perfect for everyone.

Daikon is a white carrot-shaped root known as a Japanese radish. It is crisp and spicy. Serve raw in salads or use for dipping. Add to soups, stews and stir-fry. A half cup has about 10 calories and has some vitamin C and potassium.

Fennel is common in Italian cooking. It has a mild licorice or anise flavor. This is a feathery-topped vegetable resembling celery. Trim, slice and serve raw in salads or as a dipping vegetable. Add to soups and stir-fry. A half cup serving has about 15 calories, plus beta carotene and calcium.

JERUSALEM ARTICHOKEs are also called "sunchokes" or "sun roots." Raw chokes are crispy and crunch with a nutty flavor something like a water chestnut. Peel, slice and serve raw in salads or team with or substitute for potatoes. A half-cup serving has 57 calories, plus some calcium, iron and phosphorus.

Salsify is an oyster plant that's carrot-shaped with a black or white skin. It has a mild flavor somewhat like asparagus. Steam whole. Then peel and slice for a side dish or addition to soup. (It darkens like potatoes very quickly when peeled.) A half-cup serving has 35 calories, plus some calcium and iron.

Select a hard, glossy, yellow or cream-colored spaghetti squash. Cut the squash in half, lengthwise, and steam until tender. Then use a fork to shred the pulp into "spaghetti" strands. Spaghetti squash can be served plain or with pasta sauce or tossed with a small amount of olive oil and grated cheese. Cooked and cooled it can be added to salads. The stringy but flavorful yellow flesh supplies vitamin B6. Best of all, spaghetti squash has only 22 calories in a one-half-cup serving.

Chayote squash is a dark green zucchini-like flavored vegetable, sometimes called mango squash. Peel, boil, bake or stir-fry like any other squash. The large seeds are also edible. Unpeeled halves can be stuffed and then baked. A half-cup serving has 19 calories, plus beta carotene, vitamin C and potassium.

A Mexican potato is called a Jicama. It is light-skinned, round but slightly flat, with crisp, sweet and white flesh. Peel before using in salads or dips. A half-cup serving has

CELERIAC is celery root that can be peeled, sliced and eaten raw or cooked in soup and tastes like celery. Peel and slice or julienne. Good raw if marinated in lemon juice or a flavorful dressing. A half-cup serving has 20 calories, plus small amounts of beta carotene, iron and calcium.

Bok choy or Chinese mustard cabbage is probably very familiar. Choose large white stems that have dark green leaves, mild flavor and are shaped like a head of celery. It can be stir-fried, added to soups or eaten raw in coleslaw or salad like any cabbage. Half-cup serving (cooked) has 10 calories, some calcium, vitamin C and beta carotene.

You can add lots of variety and lots of nutritional value to dull meals by trying a vegetable that is new to you. If you tried a half cup of each of these I have listed you would have 4 1/2 cups with only 213 calories — unbelievable, not to mention the vitamins and minerals. Widen your choice of vegetables, try them. I'm sure you will like them.

All plus. No minus.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

MSL

In August, the Michigan Lottery reported that Jackpot prizes won in Lotto games had passed $1 billion. This column responds to recent reader questions on Lotto Jackpots.

Q. How long has Michigan had Lotto games?
A. Advance of Jackpot prizes past $1 billion in the August 23 drawing occurred just two days short of the fifth anniversary of the first drawing on August 25, 1984.

Q. How many players have been jackpot winners?
A. The August 23 winner was the 378th to win or share a Jackpot prize. Of these, 85 won Jackpot shares of less than $1 million and 107 others won between $1 million and $2 million. Ten have won prizes of more than $10 million.

Q. What's been the average won?
A. Wins have averaged just over $2,645,000 to provide annual pre-tax payments of about $132,000 for 20 years.

Q. What's been Michigan's biggest jackpot?
A. The largest Jackpot, $33.5 million came in September, 1988, after seven consecutive rollovers. It was shared by two winners. This followed a $28.9 million jackpot shared by five winners after six rollovers in January, 1988.

Q. Why doesn't Michigan have more big jackpots like those we hear about in other states?
A. These high jackpots usually occur in more populous states with higher odds games where more frequent rollovers keep the Jackpot growing along with player interest.

Q. Are Michigan's Lotto sales declining?
A. Through the first ten months of the current fiscal year, Lotto sales were down some 7 percent compared to the previous fiscal year because of fewer rollovers. Introduction of the "Fame & Fortune" instant game, and features such as Zinger, are helping keep total Lottery sales near the record levels of last year.

Q. What's caused the drop in Lotto sales?
A. Experience here and in other states shows that many players only try for big jackpots. Many do not buy tickets until the top prize grows to $10 million or more. Last year the jackpot reached $10 million or more 14 different times. This level was reached only four times in Michigan in the first 10 months of this fiscal year.

Q. Will Michigan change its Lotto game?
A. To provide more net revenues for support of K-12 schools, Michigan constantly evaluates all its games and attempts to make changes necessary to keep Lottery products fresh and exciting to players.

For submitting the first question leading to this column, Louis LaLonde of Cedarville will receive 50 "Fame & Fortune" tickets. Note: When duplicate questions are received, that with the earliest date stamp upon arrival at Lottery Central wins. In case of a tie, the winner is selected by random drawing.

If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 36077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Rite stuff: downing an oyster

It used to be true that oysters should only be eaten in months that end with an "r." For all we cared, the months could end in "z," because swallowing one's first raw oyster is a rite of passage reserved for that minute classification of people who dared eat tripe, mountain oysters and snails.

Oysters are neither cute nor do they have a compelling aroma. One must work at loving oysters.

If memory serves me correctly, I was into the age of adulthood before I sampled my first raw oyster. It was somewhere between my second and third new car and well past the age when my driver's license was no longer required proof to enter a bar.

All oysters are considered "filter feeders," meaning that they do not necessarily move about to get their food but, instead, get nourishment by pumping hundreds of gallons of water a day through their valves and filtering out tiny larvae and plankton for nourishment.

OYSTERS THRIVE on every coast and are categorized by that geographical definition. Domestically, there are Atlantic oysters, Pacific oysters and Gulf oysters.

In the last few years, an incredible amount of new classifications of oysters has sprung into prominence. What used to be simple groups like Bluepoints, Olympias and Cotuitus have been integrated with the assorted tastes like Belons, Hog Island Sweetwaters and Portuguese, along with about a dozen or so other varieties. And that doesn't even begin counting the thousand or so varieties available from other worldwide coastal areas.

As stated earlier, it used to be written in seawater that oysters only be consumed during months that end with an "r," namely, September, October, November and December.

Oysters reproduce during the summer and, as a result, most summer mainland oysters used to be unappealingly fat (about to spawn) or have a strange texture (just spawned). However, oyster harvesters now say that oysters can be perfectly acceptable in summer, especially if you order some of the colder-climate varieties like those from Washington State, British Columbia or Nova Scotia.

Because oysters are filter feeders, they are continuously exposed to infectious bacteria and viruses that get pumped through their bodies along with the food supply. These bacteria and viruses are usually found in waters polluted by industrial wastes and sewage. Periodically, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration issues advisories warning consumers not to eat raw shellfish, including oysters.

BUT THE FDA has never really come forward and said that eating raw oysters is harmful. If it's any consolation, all oyster harvesters and distributors must use a detailed system of tagging every box of oysters that reveals the exact date of harvesting, including the specific oyster bed and the date received by the distributor and the date received by the restaurant. Restaurants are supposed to keep the tags on hand for 60 days, ensuring that any resulting health problem could be traced quickly.

Judging from oyster sales, safety is not weighing on most oyster-lovers' minds. Oysters have become so popular that for several years they have been over-harvested. As a result, there are fewer and fewer oysters, and they cost more and more.

According to data from the National Marine Fisheries, on the East Coast alone, 48 million pounds of oyster meat valued at $46 million were sold in 1978. By contrast, in 1986 only 35 million pounds were sold, valued at $72 million. That's a 27 percent decline in production and a 57 percent increase in price.

Lobster Crustacean stars at ultimate bash

Its claws taped, a live lobster awaits its fate.

By Larry Janes
Special Writer

IF YOU REMEMBER correctly, it was just a few short months ago when a story was run on a Livonia firefighter's quest to throw the ultimate backyard barbecue — a pig and lamb roast for about 150 close friends, neighbors and fellow firefighters.

Watch out, Livonia, because vying for a little friendly one-upmanship are Keith and Louise Malinowski and the firefighters from Redford.

Right after the last story ran, this reporter received an invitation to a backyard lobster bake and I've got to admit, it was quite a party.

It never ceases to amaze me how folks can throw parties for between 125-150 friends, with ease. Simple get-togethers at Chateau Janes for six people send me over the proverbial fire hydrant, and thoughts of multiplying the guest list 20-fold sends shivers down my spine.

So what's the secret to these ultimate backyard bashes? The Malinowskis and their kids from Redford have been doing this for the last seven years, and the only time I noticed firefighter Malinowski slightly flustered was when he was told by another firefighter that they were having trouble with the beer tap.

BEFORE MALINOWSKI could utter an, "Oh no, what next?" his friend volunteered to head to the nearest party store and get another tapper. Ah, the secret has been revealed. It isn't enough that these guys trust their lives with each other every day. They all seem to band together and help each other when the need arises.

To pull off a party of this magnitude, however, a few months of solid planning are de rigueur. So what if the weekend weather bantered back and forth with intermittent showers and sunshine? After successfully throwing parties like this for the last seven years, a little experience never hurt anyone.

The reason for the ultimate lobster bake came up many moons ago when the Malinowskis discovered their taste for fresh Maine lobsters. After many pilgrimages to the East Coast, they found themselves carrying back requests from firefighters and other friends for fresh, live Maine lobsters and clams.

Fortunately, with today's jet-fresh transport services just a short drive away at Metro Airport, it seemed like a piece of cake to request 12 dozen lobsters and 50 pounds of clams to be packed, wrapped and sent via air cargo. Malinowski claims his East Coast supplier-wholesaler said the lobsters were still swimming in the ocean Friday morning, and after being caught Friday afternoon, they were immediately boxed, topped with seaweed and put on a plane for the Motor City.

Unlike the Livonia firefighter's pig roast where a straw hat was passed at the end of the soiree to help defray expenses, the Malinowskis send out a flyer every summer asking guests to r.s.v.p., along with a check to secure their requests. For those attending the party who chose not to indulge in live lobsters, New York strip steaks prepared just the way you like them also were handled on a large, portable grill.

FIREFIGHTER Jim Gomulka and Malinowski's brother, Mark, were in charge of grilling while the big boss man and compadres Gary Burke and Ed Leonard assisted the chef himself with the "exactly 13 minutes in rapidly boiling, lightly salted water" for the lobsters.

In addition to the hardy surf-and-turf fare, Malinowski included fresh, boiled, corn on the cob and what I thought were the best-tasting onions I had ever sunk my teeth into. A side trip to the Detroit Eastern Market at 5 a.m. the day of the party had the Redford fireman slinging 50-pound sacks of corn and onions over his shoulder for the hungry guests. The onions were boiled in their skins till tender, again for about 13 minutes.

Immediately upon their removal from the steaming, institutional-sized cauldron, the root ends were sliced off, and tender, juicy, tasty onions were squeezed out by hand. I could have a dinner just on the onions, but I chose to indulge in the other culinary fantasies in order to save my breath from sheer disaster.

Tucked away in the tidy Malinowski kitchen was Bob Thomas, president of the firefighter union lo-

Keith Malinowski of Redford gives each live lobster exactly 13 minutes to boil, its meat cooking to tenderness and its shell turning an orangey-red.

Keith and Louise Malinowski's Lobster Bake Recipes

TO COOK FRESH LOBSTERS

lobsters into water and when the water returns to a full boil, cook lobster for 13 minutes exactly. Serve with melted butter.

BOILED ONIONS

Drop whole small cooking onions into boiling water with a little salt in it and boil for 13 minutes or until tender. Remove from water and drain. Cut onion on the root end and squeeze onion out of skin. Best if served warm or hot.

NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER

2½ pounds butter

3 pounds salt pork, diced into ½ inch cubes
7 pounds onions, chopped medium
10 pounds potatoes diced medium
2½ gallons water
10 cans clams (51-ounce can)
10 quarts cream, scalded
pepper, thyme and cayenne pepper to taste
pork cracklings

Cook salt pork in butter over medium heat until pork is golden brown. Remove cracklings and reserve for garnish. Saute onions in

Love that pizza — from wood-burning oven

Its doors opened just a few weeks ago, but America's Pizza Cafe is having no trouble finding customers. It seems like everyone who loves pizza (and that's everyone, right?) is rushing to try out Mike Ilitch's newest venture, a diner-like gourmet pizza place in Southfield.

And the response is just about as enthusiastic as the staff that serves you: good and excitingly different pizzas, modest prices and a fun atmosphere. The pizzas are definitely terrific — familiar enough to be comfortable, yet different enough to inject a whole new enthusiasm for pizza.

The setting is upbeat too. White-painted brick walls, turquoise vinyl booths, formica-topped tables, copper-trimmed counter, ceiling fans and a wonderful, lifelike sculpture of two waitresses sharing a smoke.

The standard pepperoni et al pizza is all but gone from this menu. Here you can select from a dozen variations including Mexican burrito style with chicken, Italian and cheddar cheeses, as well as mild salsa, pinto beans, onions and tomatoes; a teriyaki chicken version with chicken in an orange teriyaki sauce, onions and red and yellow peppers; or Greek style with lamb sausage, grape leaves, red onions, tomatoes, olives, green peppers and, of course, feta cheese.

combination of Italian cheeses and is very heavy on the garlic. The light, crisp crust and touch of tomato sauce are gentle reminders that this is, indeed, a pizza.

Another wonderful selection is the "Polynesian" pizza featuring pineapple, Canadian bacon, ground cashew and tomato sauce. It has a refreshingly sweet taste. One of the most popular selections is the "traditional bar-b-que chicken" with a sweet sauce, red onion and cilantro.

All the pizzas are cooked, in full view of the diners, inside a wood-fired oven which brings a little different taste to the food. Each pizza is small, designed for one person. Most customers order at least one pizza per person and then share. It seemed everyone was leaving with a "carryout."

There are six salads to choose from, including an excellent romaine and watercress salad ($4.75) with apples, onions, walnuts, gruyere cheese and a sweet parmesan dressing. This was easily shared before the main entree. Other selections include an antipasto or a Caesar salad.

The menu isn't exclusively pizza. There are 12 pasta dishes, some of which are similar to the pizzas offered — like the lemon-garlic pasta or the garden vegetable marinara. The pastas also are moderately priced ($4.25-$7.95), though they definitely play second to the pizzas.

You can finish your meal with a dessert, like harvest apple cobbler pie or caramel praline cheesecake. Beverages range from standard soft drinks, California wines, wine coolers and beer to Kaliber, a non-alcoholic Guinness beer, and Perrier. Espresso and cappuccino are also available.

BECAUSE THIS restaurant is taking off like a rocket, allow time for standing in line — especially on weekends. We waited nearly an hour, but the amazingly upbeat staff made the wait as pleasant as possible. We were constantly reassured that we would be seated as quickly as possible — and we were. The instant a table was vacated, it was prepared for the next customers.

Even though the strain of the steady stream of traffic was showing on some faces (there was still a line at 9:45 p.m. on a recent weekend), the staff was exceedingly friendly. They seem to share the ex-

Crustacean stars at ultimate bash

It's the rite stuff: downing an oyster

A call to a few of the local area's major seafood retail outlets has found an interesting assortment of oysters for sale. Some, like the Belons, are definitely for discerning palates, but for the most part, a basic supply of the top flavor-getters are available, for a price.

Expect to pay anywhere from 39 cents to about $1.50 each, depending on where they came from and their size. All the retailers polled stressed that they can special-order just about any type of oyster. Some of the selections available locally include:

• Belon. Used to haul from Brittany, France, but is now grown on both coasts. It has round, flat shells, with a pronounced metallic flavor, especially iron.

• Bluepoint. Originally from Blue Point, Long Island, this oyster is no longer harvested. Bluepoint is a generic term for a mild Atlantic oyster.

• Cotuit. From Cape Cod, Mass., medium-to-large size, with a plump body and salty flavor.

• Hot Island Sweetwater. From Tomales Bay, Calif., small-to-medium sized, with a deep shell. Plump, creamy and sweet, with a light, smoky flavor.

• Louisiana Gulf. Found in the bay-

ous of the Mississippi Delta. Thick shell and soft fatty texture, slightly salty, with a light metallic flavor.

• Malpeque. From Prince Edward Island, Canada, this small oyster has a light bitter, lettuce-like flavor with a clean aftertaste.

• Chincoteague. From Maryland and Virginia, small-to-medium sized, with a flat, round shell. Sweet with a distinctive aftertaste.

• Olympia. From Puget Sound, Wash., and Humboldt Bay, Calif., round and flat shell, with a robust flavor and a mid-coppery aftertaste.

• Pacific Jumbo. From Fanny Bay, British Columbia, large, oblong and grayish, about 5 inches long. Has a mild flavor and firm texture.

• Quillcene. From Quillcene Bay, Wash., tastes fairly briny, with a cucumber flavor and strong aftertaste.

• Rhode Island Select. From Rhode Island, it is meaty, with a crisp flavor.

• Willapa Bay. From Washington, medium-sized, with a deep cup and a clean, salty and sweet flavor.

cal 1208. His job was to prepare the 10 gallons of steaming clam chowder that served as a welcome accompaniment during a sudden downpour, as guests huddled under a miniature circus tent set up between the volley ball net and horseshoe pit. Both Malinowski and Thomas laid claim to the recipe, with Thomas calling most of the shots and offering piping hot bowls to guests who had to cut through the kitchen to use the facilities.

When asked his secret, the chowder chef (with beer mug in hand) seemed proud of his accomplishment, with only one regret. "Next year I'm bring my special secret jar of Tabasco to give it a little more

oomph" was his reply.

APPETIZERS AND MUCHLES were about as hard to find as Thomas' secret jar of Tabasco, with the hosts offering not one but two steaming lobsters to each guest. Needless to say, no complaints were heard from the masses.

And if all that wasn't enough, all you had to do was look around to find a 25-pound bowl of fresh cole-slaw on the service table, not to mention the numerous kegs of beer, wine and soft drinks.

I wandered through the crowd, trying to spot the experienced lobster eater going after what I consider to be one of the most tasty parts of the crustacean next to the tail, those tiny little legs. I wonder if the guests minded me suggesting they snap off the little beauties and treating them like Slurpee straws, getting small succulent shots of tender lobster meat down their gullets with a swift enough slurp.

When it came time to depart, I noticed a few of the guests wrapping what was left of their orange-red treats for take home, surely to be enjoyed the next day in a salad or stuffed into pita with some ripe tomatoes and crispy lettuce.

And to top it all off, if a guest worked up a little hunger on the horseshoe pits or volleyball field, glutton platters of Louise Malinowski's "Down East Blueberry Cake" was brought out to satiate any remaining hunger pangs. This recipe was purportedly gleaned from an old fisherman-type restaurant that was a favorite of the host and hostess.

WHEN ASKED for a bit of advice to someone like you or me who might consider throwing a lobster-bake of this magnitude, Malinowski said, "It just gets more fun and bigger every year." A word to the wise, be careful or this might turn into a yearly event at your house, especially if your friends had as much fun and great food as the Malinowskis.

As I was driving home with the sweet taste of lobster still clinging to my tastebuds I couldn't help, but think, "If Livonia firemen throw pig and lamb roasts and Redford firemen go for lobster bakes, what do the other suburban firemen do for a great party?"

pork fat till golden brown. Add potatoes, boiling water and clam juice (reserved from clams) and bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 15-20 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Add clams and bring to a boil. Remove from heat, cool. Before serving, reheat the soup and stir in scalded cream and butter.

Season to taste with pepper, thyme and cayenne. Garnish with pork cracklings. Makes enough to serve about 125, 6 ounces each.

LOUISE MALINOWSKI'S COLE SLAW

6 large heads of green cabbage
2 pounds carrots
6 large green peppers
1 gallon cole slaw dressing

LOUISE'S DOWN EAST BLUEBERRY CAKE

2 boxes yellow cake mixes (preferably Duncan Hines)
7 eggs
1 cup butter or margarine

1 1/2 cups water
1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries

Blend all ingredients except blueberries on low speed of mixer until well moistened. Mix at high speed for 5 minutes. Pour into a 13-by-18-inch greased pan. Sprinkle blueberries on top and bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes. Cool cake and sprinkle with powdered sugar, if desired. Recipe can easily be cut in half.

Look for mushrooms with the veil attached

AP — Mushrooms grow in the dark. But you needn't be in the dark when it comes to buying, storing and preparing fresh mushrooms. Follow these simple tips to add their special elegance to everyday meals.

• Look for smooth, firm mushrooms with the veil — the membrane between the stem and cap — still attached. Those with open veils are still delicious, just more mature.

• Mushrooms are marketed in three general sizes: small (button), medium and large. Size is a matter of preference, not quality or age. Choose the size most appropriate for your recipe.

• Store fresh mushrooms, unwashed, in the refrigerator. Store pre-packaged mushrooms in the package.

• Loose mushrooms or those in an opened package should be stored in a paper bag or a damp cloth bag in the refrigerator. This allows them to breathe so they stay firmer longer.

• Do not store in plastic bags; this causes mushrooms to deteriorate more quickly.

• Stored properly, mushrooms will keep for several days.

• Do not wash mushrooms or soak them in water. Instead, wipe gently with a damp cloth or special mushroom brush. Because they're porous, mushrooms absorb water like a sponge, softening the texture and causing a loss of nutrients.

• Store-bought mushrooms never need peeling.

• Choose button or medium mushrooms for slicing in salads or sauteing in butter or wine. Large mushrooms are best for stuffing as appetizers, broiling, or in stews or soups.

• Cook mushrooms covered and avoid overcooking. Sautéed mushrooms require 3-5 minutes cooking time. In soups and stews, they can be cooked 30 minutes or longer.

MEASURING MUSHROOMS:

• One pound equals approximately 17 large, 34-40 medium, or 75-85 button mushrooms.

• One pound whole mushrooms equals about 5 cups sliced or 4 cups chopped mushrooms.

• One pound raw mushrooms equals 2 cups sliced and cooked.

• One pound raw mushrooms equals 1 1/2 cups diced and cooked.

1 pint oysters, in liquid, 4 cups milk
1/4 onion, sliced
4 sprigs parsley
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
dash fresh ground pepper, preferably white

Drain oysters; reserve liquid. Chop oysters, set aside. Combine milk, onion, parsley and bay leaf in a saucepan. Scald milk. Cook celery in a small amount of butter or margarine until tender. Add to milk mixture. Melt butter or margarine in a second saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper and make roux. Strain milk mixture through a sieve and stir into flour mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add oysters with liquid. Heat through but do not boil. Serves 6-8.

18 large raw oysters
2 cups spinach, cooked and well drained
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
dash salt and pepper
3 drops Tabasco
1/4 cup soft breadcrumbs
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Open oysters; remove from shells. Place shell halves on a bed of rock

OYSTER STUFFING

4 quarts-toasted bread cubes, about 32 slices
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 1/2 cups chopped onion
1 quart oysters with liquid
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon powdered sage

Measure breadcrumbs into a dry, large bowl. Melt 1/2 cup of the butter or margarine and cook celery and onions over medium heat until soft and tender. Pour over bread cubes. Heat remaining butter and margarine in a large skillet and add oysters with liquid. Heat for one minute, remove oysters and pour liquid from skillet over bread-cube mixture. Chop oysters coarsely, combine with bread-cube mixture, along with sage, milk, salt and pepper. Mix well. Stuff lightly into turkey, cornish hen or chicken. Bake until cooked throughout, depending on size of bird used.

family-tested
winner dinner

Betsy
Brethen

Here is the deal: send us your meal

If only I could find other children-tested dinners. Surely among them I'd find a winner.

A tuna casserole is bubbling away. Another dinner prepared for the day.

So please send in your family's favorite meal. Recipes included is part of the deal.

"What's this stuff?" the boys all say. "We wouldn't touch this for pay!"

We will swap these "Winner Dinners" so that as you read, You'll soon have a collection of favorite recipes.

Alas, my efforts have been in vain. Yet another mealtime starts in pain.

Hopeful, this column will be a shot in the arm. These "Winner Dinners" promise to work like a charm.

"Why do you make us eat this stuff?" "It's GOOD for you," I reply in a huff.

Dear Frustrated Mothers,

"Why don't you just call Domino's?" "You know the number, 5-4-0-8-oh-oh-oh!"

This bit of poetry was inspired by real-life experiences with my three boys. In conversations with other mothers, I realized I wasn't alone in the frustration of trying to plan and prepare dinners that my children and husband would eat.

As I clean the kitchen and scrub the sink, I take a moment to reflect and think.

So, in an attempt to improve the great "dinner dilemma," I offer you an opportunity to share your family's favorite Winner Dinner and explain why it works for you. As an added incentive, an apron printed with "Winner Dinner Winner" will be given.

There MUST be a solution to this daily dilemma. A steady diet of pizza does not make strong men-a!

Together we can work toward providing each other with an ongoing selection of tasty and nutritious family meals. As well as saving you time, these complete menus might even result in your hearing those yearned-for words, "Gee, Mom, that was great. May I have some more?"

Please include a complete dinner menu with recipes as needed. Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012.

PORK ORIENTAL
WHITE RICE
APPLE CRISP

PORK ORIENTAL

This was one of my favorite dinners growing up. You might not think that any child would like this, based on the ingredients, but everybody who has ever tried it loves it. It can be prepared in advance up to the last step, which should be done just before serving. It is served over white rice, cooked according to directions on the box. Serves 4-6.

In a small bowl, combine cornstarch with 1/4 cup of water. Stir until smooth. Add cornstarch mixture and lettuce and stir to mix well. Bring to a boil, stirring, and serve with hot rice.

APPLE CRISP

This is quick and easy to make, and especially good in the fall, served with vanilla ice cream or soft-serve vanilla yogurt.

- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 pound of pork cut into cubes (pork chops work well)
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup celery
- 1 package frozen French-style green beans
- 1 tablespoon Accent (optional)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- dash of pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered ginger
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 can mushrooms (undrained)
- 2 tablespoons corn starch
- 3 cups shredded lettuce
- 3 cups cooked white rice

- 7 medium-size tart apples (Jonathan), peeled and sliced
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg beaten
- 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Saute pork in oil for 2 minutes. Add onions and celery and continue cooking until onions are tender.

Place apples in a greased 8-inch-square baking dish. In a large bowl, mix dry ingredients together with a spoon. Add beaten egg and mix well. Spread crumbly mixture over apples. Drizzle melted butter over the top. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes.

Add beans, spices, soy sauce and mushrooms. Bring to a boil,

Potatoes, chicken mix well in microwave

AP — The potato is earning a reputation for being fast, thanks to the microwave oven.

A whole potato cooks in the microwave in about 6 minutes, a sliced potato in about 5, and you can have a meal-sized potato dish in 12 minutes.

Cook and serve this Southwestern-seasoned meal on the same microwave-safe platter. The secret is the arrangement of foods, with the slowest-cooking food placed on the outside, the fastest in the center. You don't even peel the potato.

SOUTHWESTERN

- POTATO-CHICKEN PLATTER
- 1 pound potatoes, scrubbed and sliced crosswise into 1/2-inch-thick slices
- 1 pound-boned and skinned chicken breasts, cut into 2-by-1-inch strips
- 2 cups fresh corn or one 10-ounce package frozen corn, thawed
- Southwestern Chili Sauce (recipe follows)
- 2 green onions, sliced
- 8 flour tortillas (optional)

Arrange potato slices around edge of a 12-inch round microwave-safe platter or pizza dish. Place chicken pieces in a ring inside potatoes, overlapping about 1 inch. Combine corn and 1/2 cup of the Southwestern Chili Sauce; place in center of platter. Spoon remaining chili sauce in a 1-inch ribbon between potato and chicken pieces. Sprinkle green onions over corn. Cover tightly with clear plastic wrap, turning back one side slightly to vent steam. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 12-14 minutes until chicken is no longer pink and vegetables are just tender, giving platter a half-turn after 6 minutes. Spoon mixture into warm tortillas, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Southwestern Chili Sauce: In a medium bowl stir together one 8-ounce can tomato sauce, one 4-ounce can chopped green chili peppers, drained; 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin; oregano, crushed; and 1/2 teaspoon ground red pepper.

clarification

There was an error in the recipe for Chicken and Shallots, in Betsy Brethen's column "Family-Tested Winner Dinners" that ran Sept. 11. The description should have read: Continue adding the broth as needed and cook until a light gravy has been formed.

Recipes in 'Food for Friends' stand the test of time

By Geri Rinschler
special writer

"Food for Friends" by Barbara Kafka, Harper & Row, 1989, $10.95.

When I was first asked to review "Food for Friends," I thought the title sounded familiar. As it turns out, the original, cloth version was published in 1984.

Why reprint a paperback five years later? Well, first of all, "Food for Friends" received a prestigious Tastemaker award. That's a literary award given annually to a select number of cookbooks in a variety of categories such as best ethnic, international or basic.

Since 1984 Kafka has gone on to write two other award-winning books, "Microwave Gourmet" and "American Food" and California Wine." Besides being the recipient of these distinguished awards, Kafka also writes a food column for the

Geri
Rinschler

New York Times and teaches on a weekly Canadian television program.

I don't know why I didn't remember "Food for Friends" because the recipes do appeal to me. Although many of the recipes are basic and traditional, a number of them are healthy, easy to prepare and made with some unconventional ingredients.

FOR EXAMPLE, the first recipe I tested for a family dinner, Vegetable Pancakes, worked out nicely. It's prepared with the same technique you would use for making potato pancakes but shredded zucchini and shredded carrots are added to the batter. I was disappointed there weren't any herbs included in the ingredients. So I improvised, which is just what the author encourages in her introduction.

There are a few other recipes I'd still like to try this summer, which sound appealing — Raspberry Bread Pudding, Curried Chicken Salad and Parsley Soup. Not all the recipes in "Food for Friends" are summer dishes but just the most appealing ones.

My biggest disappointment with this cookbook is that there are no suggested menus or advice on dishes which specifically complement one another.

Some of the recipes are simple, others a bit complicated. The title suggests a collection of recipes for out-of-the-ordinary recipes — which is just what I look for when I entertain friends. Does the book meet with those expectations? On a scale of 1-10, I rate this one 7 1/2, but that's just this cook's opinion.

VEGETABLE PANCAKES (This is a sort of multi-colored potato pancake.)

- 1 medium onion, minced
- 1 pound carrots, scrubbed and shredded
- 1 pound zucchini, washed and shredded
- 1 pound potatoes, peeled and shredded
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 large eggs
- 2 teaspoons kosher salt
- 1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

vegetable oil. Put the onion, carrots, zucchini, potatoes and parsley in a bowl. Stir in the flour, eggs, salt and pepper.

Heat about 1/4-inch of vegetable oil in a 12-inch skillet until hot but not smoking. Take about 3 tablespoons of the mixture and put it into the skillet. With a spatula, immediately spread the mixture into a 4-inch circle. Cook for about 3 minutes; turn and cook for 3 minutes on the other side. You can cook about 3 at a time. Remove the cooked pancakes with a slotted spatula and drain on absorbent paper. Keep warm. Repeat until all the batter is cooked. Serve warm. Makes about 14 4-inch pancakes.

Two local area teams placed in the Pepto-Bismol chili cook-off at the Michigan State Fair recently.

Second place and $150 went to Gary and Lauren Ray of Livonia for their Old No. Seven Chili, which used a traditional chili recipe. Third place and $50 went to "Chili Joe TV Chili," which used a not-so-traditional chili recipe.

Contestants varied from the cultured cooking expert to the first-time novice.

"Chili" Joe Wnuck had a simplified version of his Guinness world-record chili, which contains 1,000 ingredients. Motor City Chili cookers Neil Michaels of Westland and Ken Kirkman of Livonia said their team's secret was sirloin marinated in wine and cooked in dry beer.

"It's one can of beer in the chili and six cans of beer in the cook," Kirkman joked.

Their strategy was to entertain as well as please the palate, so they greeted fairgoers in cowboy hats and rang cowbells. Michaels and Kirkman were awarded Best Booth for their unique chili display.

After the judges had their sampling cups filled, the chili makers served their leftovers to the hungry crowd of nearly 300 people.

Homemade pickles are tasty treats, fun to make

The cucumbers are ripe and plentiful, and it's pickling time. True, it takes a bit of work to make pickles. But they taste so much better than any you can buy that you won't ever be sorry you did it.

I've included some old-fashioned favorites here, as well as some very easy recipes. Even the more complicated ones are well worth the time it takes to prepare them, and I personally think it's rather fun.

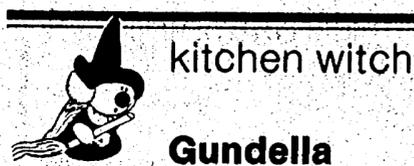

The aroma of pickling spices in hot vinegar syrup makes your whole neighborhood smell good. Everyone who passes by will wish they lived at your house.

And those who do live there will be glad they do — especially next winter, when you open a jar of their favorites to accompany a Sunday dinner, or to turn a sandwich snack into a gourmet delight.

PICKLES ARE the "frosting on the cake" at any meal, but with a lot less calories. One whole dill pickle averages from one to seven calories. And even a whole ounce of the sweet varieties, such as crisp sweet gerkins, bread and butter pickles, slippery jacks, or candied types average only 18-40 calories.

Of the recipes I have included here, Mae Bullock's Sweet Relish is my favorite. Once you have tasted it, store-bought relish will never again satisfy you. You may never want to eat another hamburger without it as long as you live.

It does more to happily domesticate a man than anything else I can think of (with the possible exception of crown roast with cornbread stuffing and hot German potato salad, which is what I'm about to fix for supper tonight).

DILL PICKLES IN A CROCK
These may be eaten after a few days, as what we used to call "half-dones." Or, you may wait several weeks or several months, until they are completely pickled.

10 quarts of water
2 cups salt
1 quart vinegar
4 whole cloves of garlic (optional)
4 tablespoons whole black peppers
1 1/2 peck cucumbers
5 stalks fresh dill

Make a solution of the water, salt, vinegar and peppers, and bring it to a boil. Fill a crock with cucumbers, placing sliced garlic cloves and dill between the layers of cucumbers. Add the hot solution. Cover the crock for at least nine days before using.

MAE BULLOCK'S SWEET RELISH (absolutely the easiest and best pickle relish ever)
1 1/2 quarts diced cucumbers
1 quart diced green tomatoes
2 quarts finely chopped cabbage

1 cup finely chopped celery
6 large onions, finely chopped
2 green peppers (ground)
2 red bell peppers (ground)
3 pounds light brown sugar
1 quart light cider vinegar
3 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon celery seed
2 tablespoons mustard seeds
1 box pickling spices, sewn into a cheesecloth bag

Bring mixture to a boil, and simmer for 20-25 minutes.

SWEET DILL PICKLES (an unusual pickle you will either love or hate)
cucumbers
salt
dill
1/2 cup light corn syrup

1/2 cup sugar
2 cups water
onions
1 cup vinegar

Put a good sprig of dill in the bottom of each sterilized jar. Pack with cucumbers, then top with a small peeled onion and 2 teaspoons of salt to each quart jar of pickles. Boil the syrup, sugar, water and vinegar together. Pour over the cucumbers in jars, and seal.

REFRIGERATOR PICKLES I
8-12 cucumbers, unpeeled
1 medium onion per jar
4 cups sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons mustard seed
1/2 cup salt
4 cups vinegar
1 1/2 tablespoons celery seed
1 1/2 teaspoon turmeric

Slice cucumbers into jars and add one sliced onion to each jar. Mix the remainder of the ingredients and pour over the cucumbers and onions, filling jar to 1/2-inch from the top, and screw lid on tightly. (No seal required.) Place in the refrigerator, and let stand for at least 5 days before serving. These will keep in the refrigerator for a year.

FREEZER PICKLES
2 quarts sliced cucumbers
1 sliced onion
2 tablespoons salt
4 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups vinegar

Combine cucumbers, onions and salt and let stand two hours. Drain. Cook sugar and vinegar until sugar dissolves. When mixture has cooled, pour over the pickles and mix well. Put in containers and freeze. Pickles are crisp and green.

COMPANY PICKLES (candied)

These pickles are very good but take lots of work. They got their name because they were saved only for special company dinners.

10 medium cucumbers
8 cups sugar
2 tablespoons pickling spices
5 teaspoons salt
4 cups cider vinegar

Cover whole cucumbers with boiling water, and allow to stand overnight. Drain. Repeat this procedure three more times. On the fifth day, drain, and slice into 1/2-inch pieces. Combine sugar, salt and vinegar. Bring to a boil and pour over the cucumbers. Let stand for two days. On the third day, bring to boiling again, and seal in hot, sterilized jars. Makes seven pints.

If you have any questions about these recipes, you may call Gundella at 427-1072. Or, write her at Box 434, Garden City.

Arthritis Today

Joseph J. Weiss, M.D. Rheumatology

HOW CAN YOU TELL IF A MEDICINE IS HELPING?

Imagine that your arthritis medicine is a complete success, and your arthritis leaves. Or assume the medicine is a thorough failure, and your arthritis becomes worse. In either case, you have no problem deciding whether or not to continue the therapy.

Unfortunately, most arthritis medicine rarely works so well or ill. Usually you must make a decision when it has helped in less than a perfect manner. How can you decide?

Ask yourself the following specific questions: Were you stiff for hours in the morning when you started the medication, and now the stiffness lasts only minutes? Or, has the duration of stiffness remained unchanged?

Did you formerly awaken 3-4 times a night, and now only 1-2 times? Or, are you still repeatedly disturbed from sleep? Finally, how many joints are swollen today as compared with the past and how long do they now stay swollen?

Changing medication is fraught with hazards of side effects and unexpected interactions. However, reliance on a medicine that isn't helping is foolish. The guidelines described above allow you to decide whether it is appropriate to continue present medications or to consider other choices.

Give yourself a hand against breast cancer

Breast self-examination is easy, takes only a few minutes and can be performed in the privacy of your own home. It's an important way you can detect early and highly curable breast cancer. Through monthly breast self-examinations, you will learn how your normal breast tissue feels and will be able to recognize a change if one occurs. In fact, most breast lumps are found by women themselves.

Take control of your body and your life.

Make breast self-examination a part of your monthly routine. And see your doctor regularly for clinical exams and advice on mammography.

For a free pamphlet about breast self-examination, call your local American Cancer Society.

Exotic vegetables can liven up an ordinary meal

For health reasons, there has been a renewed interest in vegetables. Many grocers are carrying some very foreign looking vegetables right alongside the familiar carrots and broccoli.

For variety as well as nutrition and good taste, these vegetables are worth trying. Some of these vegetables may even come with a label that offers tips on handling and cooking. Many can be eaten raw and are easy to cook, low in calories and relatively high in vitamins, minerals and fiber. Perfect for everyone.

Daiikon is a white carrot-shaped root known as a Japanese radish. It is crisp and spicy. Serve raw in salads or use for dipping. Add to soups, stews and stir-fry. A half cup has about 10 calories and has some vitamin C and potassium.

Fennel is common in Italian cooking. It has a mild licorice or anise flavor. This is a feathery-topped vegetable resembling celery. Trim, slice and serve raw in salads or as a dipping vegetable. Add to soups and stir-fry. A half cup serving has about 15 calories, plus beta carotene and calcium.

JERUSALEM ARTICHOKEs are also called "sunchokes" or "sun roots." Raw chokes are crispy and crunch with a nutty flavor something like a water chestnut. Peel, slice and serve raw in salads or team with or substitute for potatoes. A half-cup serving has 57 calories, plus some calcium, iron and phosphorus.

Salsify is an oyster plant that's carrot-shaped with a black or white skin. It has a mild flavor somewhat like asparagus. Steam whole. Then peel and slice for a side dish or addition to soup. (It darkens like potatoes very quickly when peeled.) A half-cup serving has 35 calories, plus some calcium and iron.

Select a hard, glossy, yellow or cream-colored spaghetti squash. Cut the squash in half, lengthwise, and steam until tender. Then use a fork to shred the pulp into "spaghetti" strands. Spaghetti squash can be served plain or with pasta sauce or tossed with a small amount of olive oil and grated cheese. Cooked and cooled it can be added to salads. The stringy but flavorful yellow flesh supplies vitamin B6. Best of all, spaghetti squash has only 22 calories in a one-half-cup serving.

Chayote squash is a dark green zucchini-like, flavored vegetable, sometimes called mango squash. Peel, boil, bake or stir-fry like any other squash. The large seeds are also edible. Unpeeled halves can be stuffed and then baked. A half-cup serving has 19 calories, plus beta carotene, vitamin C and potassium.

A Mexican potato is called a jicama. It is light-skinned, round but slightly flat, with crisp, sweet and white flesh. Peel before using in salads or dips. A half-cup serving has

CELERIAC is celery root that can be peeled, sliced and eaten raw or cooked in soup and tastes like celery. Peel and slice or julienne. Good raw if marinated in lemon juice or a flavorful dressing. A half-cup serving has 20 calories, plus small amounts of beta carotene, iron and calcium.

Bok choy or Chinese mustard cabbage is probably very familiar. Choose large white stems that have dark green leaves, mild flavor and are shaped like a head of celery. It can be stir-fried, added to soups or eaten raw in coleslaw or salad like any cabbage. Half-cup serving (cooked) has 10 calories, some calcium, vitamin C and beta carotene.

You can add lots of variety and lots of nutritional value to dull meals by trying a vegetable that is new to

you. If you tried a half cup of each of these I have listed you would have 4 1/2 cups with only 213 calories — unbelievable, not to mention the vitamins and minerals. Widen your choice of vegetables, try them. I'm sure you will like them.

All plus. No minus.

American Red Cross

In August, the Michigan Lottery reported that Jackpot prizes won in Lotto games had passed $1 billion. This column responds to recent reader questions on Lotto Jackpots.

Q. How long has Michigan had Lotto games?

A. Advance of Jackpot prizes past $1 billion in the August 23 drawing occurred just two days short of the fifth anniversary of the first drawing on August 25, 1984.

Q. How many players have been jackpot winners?

A. The August 23 winner was the 378th to win or share a Jackpot prize. Of these, 85 won Jackpot shares of less than $1 million and 107 others won between $1 million and $2 million. Ten have won prizes of more than $10 million.

Q. What's been the average won?

A. Wins have averaged just over $2,645,000 to provide annual pre-tax payments of about $132,000 for 20 years.

Q. What's been Michigan's biggest jackpot?

A. The largest Jackpot, $33.5 million came in September, 1988, after seven consecutive rollovers. It was shared by two winners. This followed a $28.9 million jackpot shared by five winners after six rollovers in January, 1988.

Q. Why doesn't Michigan have more big jackpots like those we hear about in other states?

A. These high jackpots usually occur in more populous states with higher odds games where more frequent rollovers keep the jackpot growing along with player interest.

Q. Are Michigan's Lotto sales declining?

A. Through the first ten months of the current fiscal year, Lotto sales were down some 7 percent compared to the previous fiscal year because of fewer rollovers. Introduction of the "Fame & Fortune" instant game, and features such as Zinger, are helping keep total Lottery sales near the record levels of last year.

Q. What's caused the drop in Lotto sales?

A. Experience here and in other states shows that many players only try for big jackpots. Many do not buy tickets until the top prize grows to $10 million or more. Last year the jackpot reached $10 million or more 14 different times. This level was reached only four times in Michigan in the first 10 months of this fiscal year.

Q. Will Michigan change its Lotto game?

A. To provide more net revenues for support of K-12 schools, Michigan constantly evaluates all its games and attempts to make changes necessary to keep Lottery products fresh and exciting to players.

For submitting the first question leading to this column, Louis LaLonde of Cedarville will receive 60 "Fame & Fortune" tickets. Note: When duplicate questions are received, that with the earliest date stamp upon arrival at Lottery Central wins. In case of a tie, the winner is selected by random drawing.

If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Late TD drive secures Glenn triumph

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

On an afternoon marked by defense, Westland John Glenn's offense came alive late in the game Saturday to seal a 9-0 victory at North Farmington.

The outcome of this annual rivalry between Lakes Division foes puts the Rockets at 3-0, while the Raiders suffered their first loss after two wins.

Having taken a 3-0 lead on Wes Taylor's 32-yard field goal midway in the third quarter, Glenn punched out the only sustained drive of the game on its last possession.

The Rockets, overcoming a driving rain and sloppy field, went 82 yards in 12 plays as Shannon Layne scored the game's lone touchdown on a 1-yard dive with 1:43 remaining.

"The pass play got us out of a big hole," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon of Eric Stover's 20-yard pass to David Ryan. "I don't know if it ignited us, but we seemed to play better from then on."

THE ROCKETS also converted key fourth-down plays on that drive and the one leading to Taylor's field goal.

On fourth and 2 at the North 16, fullback Alonzo Jackson plowed ahead for 3 yards. Glenn took advantage of a fumble recovery early in the third quarter to take a 3-0 lead, but the Raider defense was resilient as usual.

It took the Rockets seven plays to go from the North 20 to the 14, Layne converting a fourth-and-1 situation along the way, but the Raiders minimized the damage.

As usual in such hard-fought affairs, the game turned on missed chances, of which both sides had their share.

After linebacker Rob Zeno, who led the North defense with 16 tackles and three quarterback sacks, recovered a fumble, the Raiders were at the Glenn 25 when Mark Johnston intercepted a Jon Kraus pass.

"We had made an audible call," North coach Jim O'Leary said. "They were going to double our outside people, and we made a tight call and the receiver didn't hear it."

"HE WAS SUPPOSED to run a streak (across the middle) and ran an out. If he'd heard it, it was there for the TD."

Gordon pointed to the interception as one of the big plays, because North has a "heckuva field goal kicker" in Mike Cowen. "Looking back, that was a big stop," he said.

After intercepting a Chris White pass late in the half, the Rockets had a scoring opportunity foiled. A personal-foul penalty put Glenn at the Raider 14, but White intercepted in the end zone with :53 to play.

"We should have capitalized," Gordon said. "You don't get down there too many times on North, and we were lucky that screw-up didn't come back to haunt us."

Beside the interceptions, the passing game — or rather the inability to pass — was a factor in the outcome, O'Leary said. Stover was 4-of-7 for 63 yards, Kraus 4-of-13 for 23.

"I hate the rain when you've got a little quarterback and you can't throw the ball," he said. "(Kraus) has small hands and can't throw when the ball is wet."

"I DON'T THINK they would have been able to win the ball game if they hadn't been able to throw, and I think we might have won the game if we had been able to throw."

The Raiders moved the ball well in the first quarter. White dashed 31 yards on a counter on North's first play, and the Raiders had four first downs in the opening period.

But the Rockets also got tough on defense, holding North to 106 yards in total offense. Glenn had 158 overall and outruled the Raiders 95-83. Layne had 84 yards on 24 carries.

"They did some things we were not really prepared for, but we were able to make some adjustments," Gordon said. "They ran the one-back, and they put Chris White in a lot of different positions."

O'Leary called it a typical North-Glenn game, featuring plenty of hard knocks.

"White took some tremendous shots; he might not walk for three days," he said, alluding to one pass play when the 6-foot-3 junior leaped and went head over heels after being hit. "But I'll bet Stover got hit more than he ever did."

Shamrocks cover like a blanket, 13-0

By Brad Emons
staff writer

For Whom the Bell Tolls?

It wasn't exactly out of Hemingway, but it was darn close Friday as a sturdy Redford Catholic Central defense, led by 6-foot-3, 245-pound tackle Ryan Bell, limited usually high-scoring Ann Arbor Pioneer to only 94 yards total offense in authoring up an impressive 13-0 victory.

It was the Shamrocks' third straight shutout in 1989, but more importantly, it signaled that CC is a team to be reckoned with again this season.

In past years Pioneer has tormented a perennially sound CC defense with short passes and gimmick plays, but on this night in a battle of state-ranked teams, it was all Shamrocks.

On Pioneer's first play, junior tailback Damon Jacobs literally had his Bell rung as the massive CC tackle threw him to the ground for a 1-yard loss. Bell also ended his evening of terror by throwing Pioneer quarterback Kevin Meyer for a 10-yard loss, stopping Ann Arbor's only real scoring threat.

"IT KIND OF set the tone," said CC coach Tom Mach of the game's opening series. "That first hit is what we needed. We came in as a young team trying to find ourselves. We had not played up to this level until this point."

"A guy like Ryan Bell, who is playing well both ways, provided the senior leadership we were looking for. I'd say he's got to be one of the best linemen in the state."

Pioneer coach Chuck Lori, who has led Ann Arbor to a pair of state Class A championships, including two wins over CC en route to the coveted title in 1987, pinned the loss on himself.

"When you're playing a good team you've got to control the ball, but they did things defensively that we weren't prepared to face," he said. "We adjusted too late and part of that is my fault. They came at us with an eight-man front with their tackle over our tight end. It created a mismatch."

"And there is Bell knocking the crap out of our 180-pound tight end. We needed more time to change our offensive line schemes."

Mach called the early going "a chess game."

NEITHER TEAM could sustain a lengthy drive until CC marched 75 yards in nine plays, capped by Jason Carr's 4-yard touchdown pass to Arshon Stewart with just 44 seconds left in the half.

Ironically, Carr was trying to kill the clock when he suddenly found Stewart open just crossing the goal line.

"He (Carr) is improving every game and showing tremendous strides," said the CC coach. "He does not make mistakes and that's a key ingredient. He's showing poise and he's gaining more confidence in himself, and the team is gaining more and more confidence in him."

Carr finished the night hitting seven of 15 passes for 80 yards, but the bulk of the Shamrocks' offensive came from 5-7, 165-pound tailback David Owens, who led all rushers with 128 yards in 27 carries.

Owens made a nifty 13-yard run to set up CC's other TD in the third quarter, a 1-yard sneak by Carr with 5:06 to play.

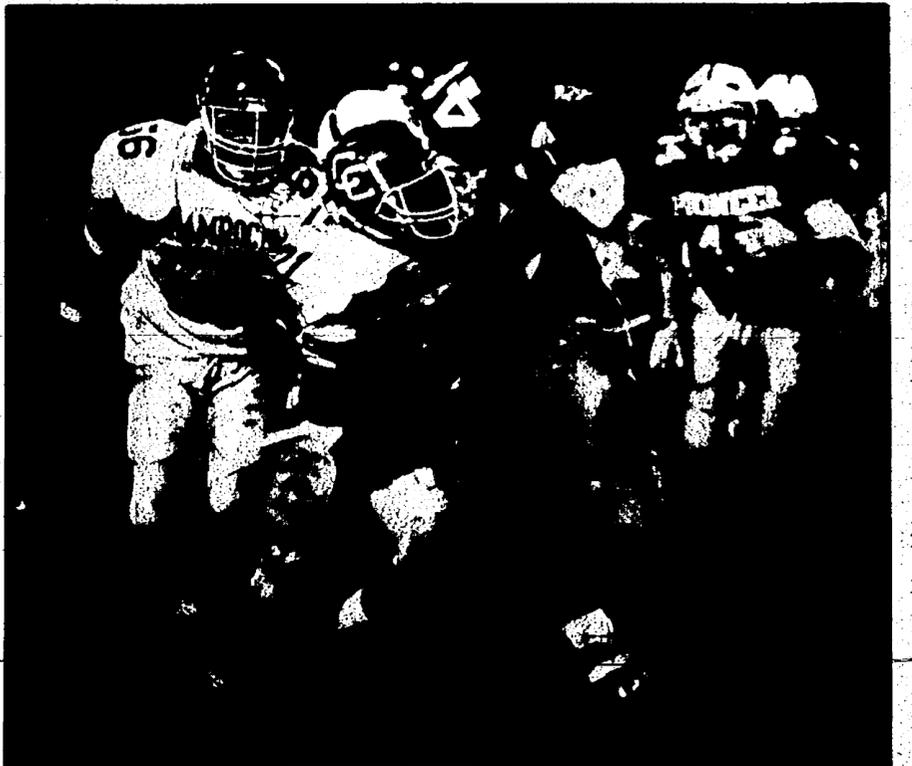

"THIS IS WHAT it's all about, beating a great team like Pioneer," said Owens. "Our offensive line did a great job and I think everybody wanted it a little bit more. It was the most intense week of practice I've ever seen."

"Our demonstration squad gave me all I could handle in practice. They're one of the toughest defenses I face, even though they don't get to play. They play so hard. I had to be physically ready to go. Give them credit."

Mach, meanwhile, put a heavy emphasis during the week on: "Play like you practice."

"We had very good practices all week and we told them the mental part of the game is 4-to-1 to the physical part," said the CC coach. "We stressed that all week."

The Shamrock coach said the victory over previously unbeaten Pioneer will serve as a springboard to the tough Catholic League Central Division schedule.

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

David Owens (with ball) of Redford Catholic Central eludes a Pioneer tackler as Shamrock CC won the encounter, 13-0. Teammate Dan Kanda tries to separate the two

"We shut down a good football team and I didn't know if we could hold them as well defensively," said Mach. "We hadn't seen them throw (in Pioneer's previous two games), but we knew they could. The tempo of the game they wanted to set was that 'we're going to run at you if we can,' and then mix it up with the pass."

BUT THE PIONEERS could generate little, if anything against a fired-up Shamrock defense. CC held

Ann Arbor to only 11 yards passing and 83 yards rushing.

"I can't say enough about our rising to the occasion," Mach said. "This is a great level to be on going into league play."

Franklin can't stop Canton's start, 21-0

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Plymouth Canton's football team broke new ground Saturday in a 21-0 victory at Livonia Franklin.

The Chiefs, who have never had a winning season in the school's 18-year history, ran their overall record to 3-0 with the Western Lakes Activities Association (Western Division) triumph.

It was also Canton's fourth straight win dating back to a victory over rival Plymouth Salem in the 1988 season finale.

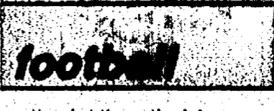

"I'm not over-excited about this because you have to keep things in perspective," said Canton coach Bob Khoenie, whose Chiefs are off to their best start ever.

"IT'S NICE, but what we have to do is keep it going. I still see a lot of room for improvement."

A steady rain made playing conditions treacherous, but Canton was able to come up with the key plays and stay away from costly mistakes.

AND WHILE Canton's offense

sputtered at times, the defense was rock-solid.

Four Chiefs picked off passes: Brian Riggs, Jason Lee, Dave Cesante and Jason Riggs. Craig Piwko and Liam Rents also recovered a fumble.

The score remained 7-0 until the final quarter when Rents pounced on a loose ball off a punt at the Franklin 18.

Six plays later, Wukie scored on a 4-yard keeper, and Mike Krejcar kicked the second of his three extra points to make it 14-0 with 9:19 left to go.

WUKIE, WHO passed for 119 yards (seven of 18), then added another TD via the run, running by a blitzing Patriot defense on an option keeper for a 73-yard TD run with 1:23 to play.

"Our defense held us in," Khoenie said. "But we have some kids who can make the big play. He (Wukie) has been through this, and he knows."

"Franklin was big and strong up front, a lot stronger than we were, so we had to do some of the other things that we do best offensively to try and get them going."

THE PATRIOTS, who were out-gained 235-204 in total offense, could only point to the six turnovers, untimely penalties and fumbled snaps for their demise.

"We were embarrassed by mental mistakes," said Franklin coach Armand Vigna, whose team fell to 1-2 overall.

"Not that they didn't hit us and play a good football game, they're a good football club. They kept making the big plays. Their quarterback (Wukie) did a great job under the conditions. We couldn't throw the ball as well."

"We dug our own grave, and they kicked us in it. The defense played very well, but they were on the field too long."

"WE COULDN'T generate any offense. I don't know what was wrong. I thought we were ready to go."

A win next week by the Chiefs against Livonia Churchill would match the highest victory total ever by a Canton team.

Khoenie, however, remains cautiously optimistic.

"We had a lot of opportunities to score today, and we didn't take advantage," he said. "We made some mistakes out there, too. The offense has to catch up with the defense."

Ironical, isn't it? A Canton football coach guarding against complacency.

Hawks light up Churchill

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

The first time Farmington Hills Harrison football coach John Herrington met Roy Granger, he had a hard time believing him.

"I had him in study hall last winter, and Roy told me he'd like to come out for the varsity," Herrington said.

"He was a freshman at the time, and I said 'Well, you can come out for my JV.'"

"He said, 'But coach, I played varsity for (Detroit St. Martin) DePorres.'"

Herrington is glad he reconsidered, because Granger is making believers out of everyone.

THE 5-FOOT-8, 145-pound swingback scored two touchdowns as Harrison rolled to another rout, 48-7, on homecoming Saturday of Livonia Churchill.

The win keeps Harrison, the No. 1-rated Class B team, undefeated at 3-0, 1-0 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Granger caught a 24-yard touchdown pass from Mill Coleman on Harrison's second series. Later in the first half he scored on a 23-yard reverse.

Granger caught three passes for 42 yards, and he also was instrumental defensively, lining up at cornerback.

The addition of Granger means Herrington doesn't have to play Coleman, his all-state quarterback, on defense.

"ROY'S GOT good quickness, and I was able to move (Scott) Raisos from cornerback to safety and get Mill out of there," Herrington said.

"His family lives in Farmington Hills, and I guess his father didn't feel like driving him every day to DePorres anymore, and I was glad."

The Hawks scored on five of their first seven possessions and led 35-7 at halftime. A light rain turned into a steady downpour after halftime, but by then the day was about over for Coleman, who completed 12 of 19 passes for 237 yards and three touchdowns.

It was a typical performance by Coleman, who afterward had a complaint to make. And that's not typical.

"I thought it was supposed to be nice," said Coleman as he tried to separate himself from the wet uniform afterward. "I looked forward to a sunny homecoming."

"I'VE NEVER had one here. It hasn't always rained during the game on homecoming, but it's always at least rained later that night."

"But it's nice to win. Opposing teams can't key on one guy. If they key on Ray, I can go to Mike (Saputo) or Scott (Raisos), or whoever."

The loss dropped Churchill to 0-3 overall, and it meant the end of the Chargers' murderers-row schedule. Churchill opened the season with a loss to Sterling Heights, an East Side power, and last week lost to North Farmington. Friday won't be a breather either for Churchill because it travels to Plymouth Canton, another undefeated team.

"I TOLD the kids at halftime today that no one wants to play three in row like we did," Churchill coach Herb Osterland said. "But we had to do it."

"We just have to keep going. With the experience we gained, maybe this will make us a better football team."

Harrison outgained Churchill 304-94 in the first half and for the game, the Hawks held a 443-193 advantage.

Reserve back Gary Devine, who scored two Harrison TDs, led all rushers with 70 yards on 12 carries. Starter Matt Conley contributed 65 yards in 12 attempts.

Joe George caught three of Coleman's passes for 72 yards to tie Granger in the receiving department.

Harrison took a 21-0 lead before the game was nine minutes old on a 1-yard run by Conley. Granger's 26-yard TD reception and a 3-yard TD pass from Coleman to Raisos.

Churchill surprised Harrison late in the first quarter, scoring on a 29-yard halfback option pass from Mike Brooks to Trent Naumcheff. The extra point by Kurt Roth made the score 21-7.

GRANGER'S REVERSE put Harrison ahead 28-7, and Devine closed out the scoring in the first half with a 6-yard run.

Coleman's 53-yard TD pass in a steady rain to Raisos gave the Hawks a 42-7 lead in the third quarter. Devine finished the rout with a 4-yard TD run with 6:20 left in the game.

The Chargers juggled Tom Diaz and Mike Spaccarotella at quarterback, but the most effective passer was Brooks.

The junior halfback gained 64 yards on 20 carries, and he completed four of 10 passes for 82 yards — all coming on halfback options.

"We expected the halfback option, unfortunately, our secondary didn't," Herrington said. "There's no excuse to get beat on it deep like we did."

"Brooks is their best thrower, and I told them to be alert on it."

SC's Teeters eyes repeat

By C.J. Blesk
staff writer

Now the impossible begins. Or so it seems. How does one follow up a national championship season? The best to be hoped for is matching the previous success. And when three of six starters are graduated, that task seems insurmountable.

But it's nothing new for Tom Teeters, to whom the unlikely seems an everyday chore. Remember, a week after guiding Schoolcraft College to the National Junior College Athletic Association volleyball championship, he was back at the controls as Livonia Ladywood's coach. Two months later, he took the Blazers to their second-consecutive Class A state title.

Can Teeters do it again? Can he reconstruct SC's team and have the Lady Ocelots in contention for another NJCAA crown by November?

Love proved to be outstanding; she was named to the NJCAA all-tournament team.

LOVE IS back for her sophomore season, and this year Teeters hails her as "our top returning player." Her value is evident, according to her coach.

"She's what we call our bait on the right side," he explained. "She baits the other team into coming her way. They feel they can take advantage of her size."

"But Alisha can get up there with the best of them. She plays the best defense on our right side, and she's probably the best server in the country."

That is something that must be understood about Teeters' teams: If you don't play all facets of the game, you don't play much. Returnee JoAnn Kolnitys is an example. Although Kolnitys, a 5-9 sophomore from Wayne Memorial, was an outstanding blocker a year ago, her hitting wasn't what Teeters had hoped for.

Kolnitys has improved, said Teeters. "She still has to learn to hit different kinds of sets," he said. "The more kinds of sets she can hit, the better team we'll be."

TWO NEWCOMERS Teeters is expecting major contributions from Elena Oparka and Angellette Love, Alisha's younger — but not littler — sister. Angellette stands a whopping 5-6 and possesses the same kind of leaping ability her sister has.

"Angellette is our top hitter," said Teeters, who has inserted the younger Love on the left side. Oparka ("She's the strongest, the hardest hitter on our team") and Lukas also expect to see playing time in hitting roles.

Anjanette Lankford, from Garden City, was slated to be a starting middle blocker until she wrecked an ankle at Michigan Tech's Husky Invitational a week ago. SC lost its first two matches at the tournament while Teeters tinkered with the lineup, then won its final two to capture the title. Lankford could be back within a week.

WHAT WAS a question mark coming into fall practice has become a pleasant surprise. Teeters decided to switch Jennifer Sproul, an outside hitter at Livonia Churchill, to setter. "She's 6-8, she had nice hands, and she was a good hitter," he said.

Sproul also lacked experience, having never played the position before. Wasn't that a problem? "No, it hasn't been," claimed Teeters. "She has strong athletic ability and she's putting it all together."

Indeed, Sproul has progressed so surprisingly well that Christy Clark, who last year at Churchill was setting for Sproul, has become the backup setter to Sproul. Clark, in true Teeters style, has excelled elsewhere. "She's very good at all three back-row positions," he said.

Questions still remain. How will Sproul stand up under the pressure of a four-day tournament? Will the Lady Ocelots all-around ability and scrappy style of play be good enough to carry them to the NJCAA tournament?

Teeters has managed to blend his past teams into contenders before. He's been challenged again.

Churchill smothers Western, Stevenson next on the agenda

John Gentile's hat trick sparked unbeaten Livonia Churchill to a 5-0 boys soccer victory Wednesday over visiting Walled Lake Western.

The Chargers (5-0) travel tonight to face city rival Stevenson (2-0-1) in a big Livonia battle. (Game time is 7.)

Dominic Vella assisted on goals by Gentile and Brady Ericson to give Churchill a 2-0 halftime cushion.

Ericson added a goal and two assists in the second half as the Chargers pulled away.

Jovan Trpovski earned the shutout in goal for Churchill.

"My fullbacks played very well," said Churchill coach John Neff. "We pretty well shut the field down. We maintained a large territorial advantage."

STEVENSON 3, GARDEN CITY 0: Shane Millner scored one of three goals Friday as the Spartans rebounded from Wednesday's 1-1 tie with Farmington.

Garden City fell to 1-2-1.

Mike Shelton's goal gave the underdog Falcons a standoff against the defending state Class A champions.

REDFORD UNION 2, THURSTON 1: On Friday, the Panthers (3-0) are off to their best-ever varsity start as they defeated host Thurston (2-4-1).

After a scoreless half, goalie Derek Shuk was awarded a penalty kick and put it through.

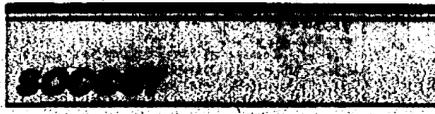

Steve Nowak then put it out of reach later in the half on an assist from Shannon O'Neil.

Thurston outshot RU, 17-13.

GC's Carlos Bazerrelli tallied the first goal from Sama Jishi, but Dearborn Heights Crestwood's Derek Langlots tied it 1-1.

Pete Gallo tallied a second-half goal from Llinangi to put the game out of reach for GC.

Defensively, Jim Horvath played well, while goalie Greg Dahn made 11 saves.

THURSTON 5, ALLEN PARK 0: Senior Jason Muller scored three times, and teammates Mike Steagall and Jamie Zaleski added one apiece as Redford Thurston thumped the visiting Jaguars.

Jim Marunich collected a pair of assists, while goalie Roy Neal made nine saves in posting the shutout.

On Tuesday, Thurston fell to visiting Dearborn Edsel Ford, 4-2, despite a pair of goals, including a penalty shot, by Brazilian exchange student Leonardo Morieda.

Earlier in the week, Thurston was edged by visiting Monroe Catholic Central, 3-2. Jeff Garsteppe tallied both goals for the Eagles.

TEMPLE 2, FAIRLANE 1: Redford Temple Christian evened its overall record at 2-2-1 with a Michigan Independent Athletic Association victory over host Dearborn Fairlane Christian (1-4).

Temple led 1-0 at the half on a goal by Kraig Dalton with Kevin DeMoss drawing the assist. Dave Schalte then made it 2-0 early at the 15-minute mark of the second half from Sean Cogglin.

Fairlane ruined Temple goalkeeper Daryl Pauley's shutout bid on a penalty kick with two minutes to go.

Defensive standouts include middle-back Joey Mullins, who turned in an outstanding first half before leaving with an injured toe, and fullback Curtis Johnson.

REDFORD CC 1, BROTHER RICE 0: Kerry Zavglin, who is also the kicker on the football team, set up the game-winning goal Friday as unbeaten Redford Catholic Central edged Catholic League Central Division rival Birmingham Brother Rice.

CC is 6-0 overall.

Predictions at this time are pointless

A year ago, no one could have anticipated SC would win the national championship. This year's team can be viewed in the same light.

The Lady Ocelots aren't that big — they're tallest starter is Tricia Lukas at 6 feet. But they were no bigger a year ago.

Last year, however, they had a proven setter in Chris Paclero and a pair of top-quality hitters in Marla Evans and Nikki Stubbs. All three have gone on to four-year schools; their replacements will be the key to SC's season.

"I never used height as a judge for hitting," said Teeters. That belief was proven a year ago when Teeters installed a newcomer who measured a mere 5 feet as right-side hitter. Al-

Madonna tops Henry Ford; mark 2-1

Madonna College split a pair of women's volleyball matches last week.

On Thursday, the Fighting Crusaders downed visiting Henry Ford Community College, 15-5, 15-7 and 15-13.

Livonia Ladywood High product Stacey Girard led the Madonna offensive assault with 11 kills, while Redford Bishop Borgess products Kristy McFadden, Ann Di-Mambro and Melissa Mars combined for 20 more.

Setters Lynn Bernwanger (Walled Lake Central) and Penny Baker both turned in excellent performances in running the Madonna attack.

Defensive standouts included Wendy Wesala, Val Perone (Borgess) and Lisa Dreske (Borgess).

On Wednesday, Madonna fell to host Kalamazoo College, 15-13, 17-15 and 15-10.

Madonna (2-1) returns to action at 7 p.m. Tuesday at home against Spring Arbor, an NAIA opponent. The Crusaders will also face Northwood, 7 p.m. Thursday at home.

Lady Ocelots tie Siena in fracas, 1-1

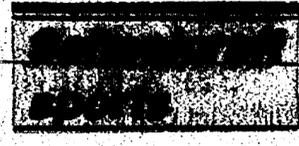

A seesaw battle turned into a slugfest and ended in a 1-1 tie Tuesday when Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team visited Siena Heights.

Siena finished fourth in the NAIA a year ago, so the tie was encouraging to SC coach Nick O'Shea. The Saints scored first and, according to O'Shea, they "dominated the first half."

That changed in the second. The Lady Ocelots came alive and took the match to Siena. Joan Arndt converted a Cindy Bowman pass into the game-tying goal for SC.

The back-and-forth complexion continued into the two overtimes, with Siena exerting great pressure in the first with some good crossing passes and SC taking command in the second.

With three minutes remaining in the second OT, SC sophomore defender Rosemary Hally and a Saint player started exchanging punches as both benches cleared. After the teams were separated, Siena's Lisa Broccardo (from Livonia Stevenson) and Hally (Livonia Churchill) went at it again, according to reports from the SC side.

The back-and-forth complexion continued into the two overtimes, with Siena exerting great pressure in the first with some good crossing passes and SC taking command in the second.

Hally and Broccardo were given red cards. Hally hurt her knee in the melee, but the injury was not expected to be serious.

SC plays again 4 p.m. Wednesday at the University of Michigan.

New season highlights 300 showing by Lang

THE LEAGUE opens have come along with some outstanding efforts showing up on the scoreboards all around town.

"One of the better 'Classic' Leagues has undergone a slight change. The Miller Lite Classic League bowls each Friday, in two shifts, at Plum Hollow Lanes. The name is different, but most of the faces and high shooters are the same, since this had formerly been the Budweiser Classic.

Many of the area's finest bowlers compete here, with a 300 game by league secretary Dick Lang highlighting the opening night. This was the 10th perfect game for Lang.

"Lang has had a lot of highlights in his career as a bowler, including several berths on the All-City team and a first-place finish in the GDBA Masters Tournament.

Other recognizable names competing at Plum Hollow include Eddie Lubanski, Billy Golembewski, Dave Tulak, Mike Samardija and Randy Pierce.

"Other highlights from opening night included a 755 series by Eric Tulley of Livonia, a 748 series by Jeff Lillard and a 289 game by Amos Mathis. Tulley and Mathis are fresh from the ranks of youth leagues.

Anyone who is interested in watching some of the best bowling in the area should get over to Plum Hollow Lanes at Nine Mile road and Lasher any Friday night.

Not to be overlooked, the women are starting the season with some nice scoring in the Ladies Classic League at Country Lanes on Nine Mile road in Farmington Hills.

This group hits the lanes at 9:15 p.m. on Tuesdays.

Last week's opener featured Chris Chism tallying a 269 game in a 617 set, while Sandi Weed rolled up a 257 game, and Joan Schmid came in with a 602 series.

In the Greenfield Mixed League, Jim Waldrep started the season with a 265 game and a 616 series, Katie Szonye bowled a 607 series and Billy Franklin rolled a 615 series. This was Franklin's first-ever 600 series.

Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington had Janelle Jamerson recording a 232 game in a 569 series while rolling in the Friday mixed league.

Julie Willis led the "Funimers" league with a 203 game, remarkable since it was exactly 104 pins over her average. The Men's Senior House League started out with a bang, as recent Hall-of-Fame inductee Fred Vitale fired a 698 series with a 255 game.

"Also, Dave Halstead scored a 671 series, Jim McPhail Jr. rolled up a 668 with a 253. Tom Johnston added a 656 and John Robertson came in with a 255 game.

Not to be out-done, senior citizens can still show the youngsters a thing or two when it comes to bowling.

This was demonstrated by Paul Puts, who bowled a 256 game and 600 series in the "Senior Wings Leftovers" League at Merri-Bowl Lanes in Livonia. Arthur Lyons also contributed a 244 game in this senior's competition.

In other action at Merri-Bowl, the Men's Senior House League had a "head start" on August 30th, with Jim McPhail leading the scoring with a 735.

Other top series were notched by John Watkins (717), Mickey Przytulski (713), Howard Davis (679) and Garrett Nagle (658). Additionally, John Bryngelson rolled a 267 game.

On Sept. 6, the group was again led by Jim McPhail with a 672 series, while Pat Frasier totaled 666, and Fred

Al Harrison

Young shot a 290 game. In the newly formed "Right Approach Scratch Trio League," Garrett Nagle topped the scorers with a 268 game and a 671 series.

Other top rollers included Charlie Ruffe with a 243 game and a 671 series, Rick Iannetta with a 254, Steve Pauls with a 257 and Mary Mohaci with a 248.

At Mayflower Lanes in Redford Township, "That Old Gang of Mine" Mixed League action featured a 275 game from John Maddison.

In the "Harried Housewives" League, Brenda Korp fired a 219 game. The "Tuesday Nite Men's League" had Marjy Radka hitting a 233 and a 607. Tom Ellington rolled a 233, Karl Reel spun a 212, and Dave Schoeninger bowled a 210.

In the Wednesday AM's, Elaine Klopoc had a 211 and Debbie Wood a 221.

Westland Bowl did not have a lot of high scoring to open the season, but one young lady did come through in a big way. Lona Palise, a 17-year old, picked up where she left off last year with a 748 series on a block of 220-269-259.

Super Bowl in Canton has a senior citizen's league called the "Double Nickel-Plus," which saw senior bowler Robert Morin open with a 255 game. In the "Super Bowlers," Rick Patterson cranked out a 288 game. The Canton Little League featured Gary Pemberton with a 192 game, Jim Weber a 552 series and Marsha Baron a 500 series.

Woodland Lanes in Livonia is the site of the Ford Parts League, had Tom Reno kicking off the season with a 739 series, including a 289 game. In the "Morning Glories," Kathy Sherry rolled games of 234 and 200.

The Senior House League action featured Craig Demco at 692, Tim Grates at 681 with a 279 game, Dave Wisniewski at 698, Ari Kapelansky at 692, Kevin Borg at 694, Dave Gignac at 713 with a 269 game and Jerry Tomczak at 691 with a 275 game.

The "Midnighters" had Gary De Mea score a 278 game in his 685 series. In the "Strikers," Ed Winters fired a 268 game.

In the Grandace League, Bud LeBlanc Jr. shot a 709 series with a 257 game. The "Kings and Queens" featured Tom Elsey with a 727 series and Walt Smith at 714.

Mike Koslowski shot a 277 game in the Allied Men's League. The Thursday AM Ladies saw two bowlers roll their first 200 game. Terri Griffin shot a 200 even, and Jan Deane bowled a 203.

In the Morning Stars League, Judy McDermott rolled a 234 game. Marilyn Vaughn hit a 521 set and Becky Teeter roll a 517 series in the "Flyers" circuit.

At Clover Lanes in Livonia, the Moslem Shrine Bowling League started its 57th year with 22 teams in action. They will be holding a "Head Pin" tournament, 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 29. (It is open to the public.) The league bowls at 6:30 p.m.

Big plays key another Clarenceville victory

Quarterback Chris Foss tossed four touchdown passes Friday to help Livonia Clarenceville trounce visiting Harper Woods 35-7 in Metro Conference football action.

The win keeps the Trojans unbeaten for the season at 3-0 overall. Harper Woods is 0-3.

The Trojans took command of the game on their first possession by driving over 80 yards for a touchdown. The score came on a 10-yard pass from Foss to halfback Derrick Herr. The TD was set up by a 70-yard halfback-option pass from Herr to Kendrick Harrington.

CLARENCEVILLE INCREASED its lead in the second quarter when Foss ran in from 1-yard out.

The Trojans struck again later in the quarter when Foss hit Herr with a 50-yard scoring pass. Clarenceville had a short pass called on the play, but Foss, with his first two reads covered, spotted Herr open running a deep pattern.

On their first possession of the second half, the Trojans found paydirt again, with Foss capping a long drive with a 10-yard pass to Harrington.

"It was a great scramble by Foss," said Clarenceville coach Vic Balaj. "The receivers broke off their patterns, and he stuck it in one of the seams to Harrington."

BALAJ DID not appear happy with the number of penalties called in the game, which led to Harper Woods' only TD.

"There were more penalties called in this game than any I've been associated with in 11 years of high school football coaching," he said.

The Trojans scored their final touchdown later in the quarter on a 30-yard pass from Foss to tight end Gary Lay.

A bright spot for Clarenceville throughout the game was the running of fullback Jay Larson. Larson rushed for over 100 yards, including a pair of dashes of 40 or more.

WAYNE 23, MONROE 8: Wayne Memorial scored the final 17 points Friday to run away from the host Trojans. The Zebras trailed 6-6 in the second quarter, before a 24-yard field goal by Brent Tapp on the last play of the half gave them the lead for good.

Wayne, now 2-1 for the year, added to its lead with a pair of second-half touchdowns.

Oreg Walker, who led the Zebras with 93 yards in 13 carries, scored the first on a 48-yard run in the third quarter. Tapp added the PAT to increase the lead to 16-0.

Wayne put the game away in the final period with a 7-yard scoring pass from Tapp to Jason Hodge.

It was the duo's second touchdown hookup of the evening. Tapp hit Hodge with a 17-yard pass in the first quarter to stake Wayne out to an early 8-0 edge.

Monroe grabbed the lead back in the second quarter on a 1-yard run by Tom Wrighten and a successful two-point conversion play.

Wayne, however, took control of the game after this, leaving the Trojans, a state playoff qualifier a year ago, witless at 0-3.

The Zebras also had the edge in the statistical battle, gaining 131 yards on the ground and throwing for 106 more. Monroe was held to 131 yards in total offense.

Tapp was 7-19 passing with two interceptions. Senior linebacker Brad Weisman was the defensive star for the Zebras, recovering two fumbles and getting in on 15 tackles.

ST. AGATHA 20, LIGGETT 6: Redford St. Agatha (2-1) rode a strong defense Friday to a solid victory over host Grose Pointe University-Liggett (2-1).

The Aggies dominated throughout the game, as Liggett scored its only touchdown on a kickoff return.

St. Agatha's defenders even scored a touchdown of its own, with Shannon Tontl scampering 35 yards with an intercepted pass in the fourth quarter.

This was the third TD registered by the defense in the past two games, a fact that did not go unnoticed by Agatha coach John Goddard.

"That is the third score by our defense in the last two weeks," he said. "You can't ask for much more than that."

Goddard said the Aggies are using a more aggressive defensive format this season.

"We're really going after the ball," he said. "We've changed our defense up this year. We used to just sit in the 50, now we are going after people."

The Agatha offense was also successful against Liggett. Senior tailback Ken Prokes scored on a 5-yard run in the first quarter to give the Aggies an early lead. The two-point conversion try after the touchdown was unsuccessful.

Prokes was a thorn in the Knights' side all day, rushing for 107 yards on 28 carries.

The Aggies lead did not last long, however, as the Knights returned the kickoff all the way to knot the score at six.

Agatha forged ahead in the second quarter, with quarterback Brian Kutch running in from 18 yards out. Fred Schick's PAT gave Agatha a 13-6 advantage.

The Aggies put the game away in the final quarter on Tontl's interception return.

ANNAPOLIS 6, THURSTON 3 (OT): Redford Thurston lost a football game Friday that it seemed to have won many times. Missed opportunities, however, came back to haunt the Eagles (1-3), and the result was a heart-breaking three-point overtime loss to host Dearborn Heights Annapolis (1-2) in a Tri-River League encounter.

Thurston penetrated the Cougars' 50-yard line four times in regulation play — and twice were inside the 10 — but could not score any points.

In the overtime period, the Eagles had the ball first, and, facing a fourth-down-and-goal situation from the four, they elected to kick as Jason Muller made good on the 21-yard field goal for a 2-0 Eagles' lead.

However, this would not prove to be enough as Annapolis scored a TD on second-and-goal from 9 yards out to gain the win.

Thurston had 192 yards in total offense, compared to 96 for Annapolis.

Fifty-four of the Cougars' yards came on a single play, and they were able to cross midfield just once in regulation play.

"The defense played a tremendous game," said Thurston coach Bob Snell, whose team held Annapolis to 13 yards total offense in the second half.

The Eagles' offense had many chances to win the game, missing three field goals inside the 25 and fumbling once on the Annapolis 28.

Despite the loss, Thurston tailback Jesse Welker had a big day rushing, carrying 34 times for 161 yards.

YPSI LINCOLN 13, GARDEN CITY 12: On Friday, Ypsilanti Lincoln nipped visiting Garden City in a non-league battle.

GC had a chance to take the lead with 8:50 remaining in the game. After a 1-yard scoring run by quarterback Jim Marszalek made the score 13-12, the Cougars went for two, but Marszalek's pass went awry.

GC got the ball back one more time after this but failed to produce any points.

The other GC points were registered on a 23-yard pass play from Marszalek to Dion Wujik in the second quarter. The PAT was not good, and the Cougars trailed by a point at the half, 7-6.

Lincoln added to its lead in the third quarter on a 4-yard run by Juan Perez, his second TD of the game. The Raiders missed the extra point, leaving the score at 13-6 and setting the stage for GC's comeback attempt.

GC's Frank Gotzham was a workhorse all evening, carrying the ball 20 times for 101 yards.

Marszalek was 5-14 throwing for 86 yards. Perez rushed for 98 yards on 25 carries for Lincoln.

DEARBORN 10, RU 7: Joe Ruggiero kicked a 23-yard field goal with 5:02 to play in the fourth quarter to lift the host Pioneers (2-1) to a Northwest Suburban League victory Friday over Redford Union (1-2).

Dearborn scored its only touchdown on a 3-yard pass from quarterback Mohammed Abdrabboul to Randy Nickel in the opening quarter.

Stevenson's offense opened up in the second half. Piergentili relieved Micallef at quarterback in the third quarter. Micallef was shaken up after receiving a late hit in which the Vikings received one of their many 15-yard penalties in the game.

PIERGENTILI took charge, engineering a five play, 38-yard drive for Stevenson's first TD. He completed four-of-six passes for 31 yards.

The defense turned stingy. Piergentili helped block a 39-yard field goal attempt by WLC early in the fourth quarter.

Spartans gain 1st win at Central's expense

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

If the Lone Ranger played Friday, he would've been maskless by night's end.

Players grabbed cages, helmets and anything else they could get their hands in the penalty-filled football game. But it was Livonia Stevenson who pulled out a 16-13 victory over visiting Walled Lake Central in the Western Lakes (Lakes Division) opener for both teams.

Quarterback Brian Piergentili hooked up with end David Born for a 3-yard touchdown pass with 2:20 left to give the Spartans their first win of the season. The Piergentili-Born combination worked again on the two-point conversion.

The TD capped off a second-half rally by Stevenson (1-2 overall, 1-0 Lakes Division), which erased a 13-0 halftime deficit.

NEITHER TEAM was lighting the wicks to any offensive fireworks. The officials walked off nearly 200 yards in penalties, including a rather unusual five facemask infractions.

That made only Gary Tuz's face red. The Walled Lake Central coach was more than a bit miffed after his team was assessed 11 penalties for 117 yards, including three costly 15-yard penalties on the Spartans' game-winning drive.

"I was upset about the whole second half," Tuz said. "It stunk. I've never had a problem with penalties like that before."

Needless to say, Tuz and his squad did stick around long to savor the fresh nighttime air. The bus couldn't leave fast enough.

The loss was a bitter tablet for the Vikings to have shoved down their throat. Especially after the team dominated in the first half, scoring on TD runs of 14 yards by Nick Kiffner and 7 yards by Joe Gough.

A BLOCKED point-after kick on Gough's touchdown in the second quarter was perhaps a sign of things to come.

Tailback Chris Lehti took a pitch from starting quarterback Randy Micallef and ran in from the Central 3. The Spartans then took a broken play and turned it into a two-point conversion.

Born found Paul Rockwood in the end zone after taking a high snap on the point-after attempt.

"When we make a bad snap we say, 'help,' and the receivers run a set pattern," said Stevenson coach Jack Reardon. "Fortunately, he (Born) found him (Rockwood) open in the end zone."

Stevenson's offense opened up in the second half. Piergentili relieved Micallef at quarterback in the third quarter. Micallef was shaken up after receiving a late hit in which the Vikings received one of their many 15-yard penalties in the game.

PIERGENTILI took charge, engineering a five play, 38-yard drive for Stevenson's first TD. He completed four-of-six passes for 31 yards.

The defense turned stingy. Piergentili helped block a 39-yard field goal attempt by WLC early in the fourth quarter.

Tounsel's 28 pumps up Borgess

Senior forward Tanya Tounsel scored a game-high 28 points, added seven rebounds and blocked five shots Thursday, leading Redford Bishop Borgess to a 47-43 girls basketball win over host Southgate Aquinas.

Borgess is now 2-2 overall, while Aquinas slipped to 1-3.

The game turned into a free throw shooting contest. Borgess hit 18 of 35, while Aquinas was 12 of 27.

Junior guard Angie Kendrick, who finished with eight points, hit four crucial free throws down the stretch to preserve the win for the Spartans.

Joelle Surma, a junior forward, paced Aquinas with 21 points.

LADYWOOD 50, SOUTH LYON 36: Forward Rebecca Willey scored 19 points and hauled in 18 rebounds Thursday, leading Livonia Ladywood (9-1) to a non-league victory against the host Lions (5-1).

Willey, a 6-foot junior, was second in the high jump in last spring's state Class A meet.

"She was just a demon on the boards, using her jumping ability," said Ladywood coach Toni Gasparovic. "I thought we played great defense. We were all over them."

Cari Miller, a senior center, contributed 12 points and nine rebounds, while guard Krista Campeau contributed 12 points.

Justina Holman tallied 12 for the Lions.

Ladywood also overcame a huge deficit at the free throw line.

The Blazers were six of 12, while South Lyon was 20 of 33.

TAYLOR CENTER 59, THURSTON 39: Defending Tri-River League champion Taylor Center made it four straight without a loss Thursday, damping visiting Redford Thurston (1-2).

Senior forward Wendy Jamula led the victorious Rams and all scorers with 20 points.

Karen Linberg tallied 18 for the Eagles, who couldn't recover from an 18-2 first-quarter deficit.

"We got off to a bad start," said Thurston coach Mike Schuette. "I think we were in awe."

WAYNE 48, WYANDOTTE 41: In the Wolverine A League opener Thursday for both teams, the Zebras (3-2 overall) made it three straight, coasting home against the visiting Bears (2-1) after jumping out to a 35-18 halftime lead.

Senior center Dorris Bathwell scored 22 points and added 15 rebounds, while teammate Maya Lewis, a senior guard, added 21 points.

FARMINGTON 53, CHURCHILL 37: Mandy Cannon, a senior transfer from Redford Temple Christian, led the victorious Falcons (2-2) with 17 points, eight rebounds and six assists in a game Thursday at Livonia Churchill (0-4).

Shelli Gaul added 10 points and grabbed four rebounds, while junior Rachael Cannon contributed eight points and five assists.

Freshman Chrissy Daly led Churchill and all scorers with 19 points, including a trio of 3-pointers.

The Chargers had only six available players as coach Don Albertson handed out suspensions for disciplinary reasons.

"We were undermanned. We had to play conservative," Albertson said.

DEARBORN 53, REDFORD UNION 33: In a Northwest Suburban League encounter Thursday, the host Pioneers (2-2) got 23 points from senior center Cheryl Kuchnerus to down the Panthers (1-3).

Dearborn broke open a close battle by outscoring RU 19-8 in the decisive third quarter.

Shannon Morris and Carrie Burke tallied 13 and 10 points, respectively, in a losing cause.

NOVI 50, GARDEN CITY 48 (OT): Carolyn Shanks' 23 points was not enough Thursday as the host Wildcats won their first game in five tries.

The visiting Cougars were outscored 4-2 in the overtime after the game was knotted at the end of regulation at 48-all.

Senior Adrienne Miskovich led the victors with 13 points.

Garden City drops to 2-3 overall.

OUR LADY 81, ST. AGATHA 37: On Thursday, Sue Robak tallied 17 points and teammate Dana Sevechek added 16 visiting Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes (3-1) crushed Redford St. Agatha (1-2).

Kelli Carr had 15 points for the Aggies, who trailed 23-6 after one quarter and 38-17 at the half.

FLAT ROCK 66, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 48: In a battle Thursday among the Warriors, host Flat Rock (3-1) came out on top thanks to 23 points from senior center Clarissa Jones and 20 by junior forward Holly Barry.

Earlier in the week, Lutheran Westland (3-2) dumped Detroit Dominican, 48-35, as Stephanie Locke scored 12 for the winners.

Pats gun down city rival

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The game was important enough to Dan Freeman that he bought all of his players a corsage.

And his Livonia Franklin girls basketball team took kindly to the coach's gesture Thursday, pulling away in the second half for a 62-39 victory over previously unbeaten Livonia Stevenson.

"This is always a big game for us because whenever we play Stevenson or Churchill, it's like a city championship game," said Freeman, whose team is 3-0 overall. "We had a team meeting at 7:30 this morning because I think we've taken them lightly in the past. Last year in our district game they gave us a pretty good game."

Freeman made sure his girls wore the appropriate apparel along with the red carnations.

"They came all dressed up," he said. "We wanted to make it a special day. They loved it and I thought they responded well."

But despite three intense days of preparation, Freeman had reason for concern during the early stages of the game.

STEVENSON, sporting an imposing front line, sat back in a zone defense and had the Patriots frustrated most of the first quarter, leading 8-7.

But Franklin began to loosen things up in the second quarter, outscoring the Spartans 20-11 as senior Shannon Eberly came off the bench to score six of her 11 points.

And sophomore guard Dawn Warner began to find cracks in the Spartans' defense, hitting a three-pointer with 42 seconds left in the half to give the Patriots a 27-17 lead.

It was all Franklin in the third quarter as Warner, who finished with a game-high 25 points, continually made her way to the free throw line. She finished the night hitting 12 of 15.

"Dawn is a make-it-happen kind of player," Freeman said. "She does things to get everybody involved in the offense, but then she also does things on her own defensively. At times I let the reins out and let her go because she's much more mature this year."

WARNER, who had seven steals and six assists, spearheaded Franklin's three-quarter court diamond press, which had the Spartans spinning in circles most of the night.

"There are parts of the press that I'm not pleased with, especially the back part," Freeman said. "We're not reacting fast enough, but it's coming."

Stephy Sutter, a senior forward, led the Spartans with 15 points, but no other Stevenson player scored in double figures.

"Our girls felt they played better than they did against Churchill (a 43-41 win Tuesday), but they felt their outside shooting let them down," said Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit, whose team is 3-1 overall. "Our three perimeter shooters just didn't open it open enough for us to get the ball inside for Sutter, Sarno (Teresa) and Martin (Jessann). Franklin was able to do a lot of double-teaming. They deflected a lot of passes away inside.

"Had we hit from the outside, we would have forced them to guard us and play us more one-on-one."

Eberly, a 5-foot-8 senior center, was a big factor in the win. She was able to successfully hold her own against the Spartans' tall front line.

"SHE PLAYS bigger than what she is," Freeman said. "She works hard on getting position. Tonight she made a couple of nice step-and-rolls to the basket. I was very pleased. She started for us the first game, but right now she's more comfortable coming off the bench. But it's getting to the point where she's getting hungry and wants to play."

Freeman had to juggle his lineup a bit with the absence of guard Julie Rettig, who is nursing a bad foot.

Sophomore Patty Shea started at point guard, teaming up in the backcourt with Warner, while Julianne Stesiak (eight points), Cheryl Hintz (seven) and Janet Gardner started up front.

"In the first quarter Stevenson was switching off their defenses between a 1-3-1 and a triangle-and-two and we had trouble adjusting," Freeman said. "But once we recognized what they were in, it fell into place."

HARRIER STREAK ENDS

Dearborn Heights Annapolis snapped Redford Thurston's Tri-River League dual victory string at 16 Thursday, scoring a 25-31 boys cross country victory over the Eagles in a meet at Cass Benton Park.

Tom Biskner and Jed Kramer finished one-two for Thurston with times of 17:01 and 17:23 over a mushy 3,000-meter course, but the Cougars, led by Shane Neely's third-place finish, took the next five spots to gain the victory.

"Annapolis is a nice team, and they ran well in a block," said Thurston coach Bob Lake.

Thurston, now 2-1 overall, took places 8-10 led by Mike Murchison (18:46), Jake D'oszak (19:14) and Clint Sanford (19:16).

They named a street after Budget Rent a Truck.

"You know, I've had to send a lot of players packing in my time. So I always try to soften the blow by suggesting that they look into a Budget One-Way Truck. Budget Rent a Truck has a special fleet of 15- and 24-foot diesels and cargo vans that are priced just right for that one-way move to Miami or San Francisco. And they come equipped with automatic transmission, power steering, AM/FM stereo and air conditioning. Like I tell my players: there's only one way Budget rent a truck."

STREET SCENE

'Hey, buddy, will you sell that guitar?'

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

If you're a big fan of Bruce Springsteen, you probably know he plays a Fender Telecaster guitar on stage.

That's because fans who closely follow the top-name artists of the rock'n'roll age often know the top-name guitars played by the stars.

To many rock fans, a mention of Fender guitars sparks images of Keith Richards flailing away on his Telecaster, or Eric Clapton bending strings on his Stratocaster.

Say Gibson guitars, and it calls to mind Chuck Berry duck-walking with his ES-335 model, or Guns 'n' Roses cranking out power chords on their Gibson Les Pauls.

As rock enters its fifth decade, musicians have come to treasure vintage Fenders, Gibsons and other select guitars as fans treasure vintage recordings.

And that's where Doug Wasserman of Southfield comes in.

He's one of a half-dozen or so guitar brokers nationwide who searches out the vintage guitars prized by top artists.

Wasserman, 35, has sold guitars to name players including Graham Nash and Earl Klugh, and to amateurs and semiprofessionals who seek top-quality instruments.

"I've been playing for 29 years," Wasserman said. "I had a large collection of instruments I had amassed over a period of years and I didn't realize how valuable these instruments had become."

"I HAD A friend stop over one day and he offered me a large sum of money for these instruments. The light bulb went on in my head — I know where some more of these are," he said, recalling how he entered the business seven years ago.

To find vintage instruments, Wasserman travels to cities around the country, making stops at certain music stores. He's a friendly guy, but don't ask what cities and which music stores.

"I don't want to give away trade secrets," he said.

But the popular models are no secret to guitarists, as the vintage guitar market has taken off in the '80s.

Players into Fender guitars prize pre-CBS models — those made before CBS bought the company in 1965.

"Pre-CBS guitars have a whole different feel and sound to them," Wasserman explained. "The woods are generally lighter in weight. (Fender used ash in the early '50s, then alder.)"

"And their pickups were different too, they seemed to have a more open sound, what we term now that classic Fender sound."

When talking vintage guitars in general, "what seems to cause the prices to go up is a great number of rock'n'roll stars use these vintage guitars," Wasserman said. "And of course every kid who sees MTV wants what their favorite rock stars play."

While Fender guitars have been hot in recent years — Springsteen plays a vintage Telecaster — Wasserman said Gibson Les Paul guitars are currently the hottest, possibly because the popular band Guns 'n' Roses plays Les Pauls.

THE TOP ON a Les Paul is maple, a dense wood which allows a player to sustain a note longer, Wasserman said.

"Different types of woods will produce different types of resonances," he explained. "The Les Paul electric guitar has always been the consummate rock'n'roll guitar, ever since the late '50s."

The Les Paul — named for the popular '50s performer who designed it — is prized in part for its style of construction, Wasserman said.

"It's a set-in neck that is glued to the body rather than bolted on (like a Fender)," he added. "They're just excellent playing and excellent sounding guitars and they're extremely durable."

"You're a cool guy if you have a good guitar, and they've always been considered a good guitar."

Particular players who seek out the Gibson ES-335 model — B.B. King plays his on a current McDonald's commercial — are going for ones made between 1958-63, Wasserman said. In this period, the guitar featured PAF (patent applied for) pickups and mahogany necks, among other features.

While Gibson and Fender guitars are the most popular, Wasserman said vintage Rickenbacker guitars — played by John Lennon and Roger McGuinn of the Byrds — and Gretsch guitars — played by George Harrison with the early Beatles — are extremely popular. And in certain models, bringing extreme prices.

"And there are more, of course," he said.

When you're talking vintage acoustic guitars, "Martins are certainly the most coveted. Gibson J-200s (a big, rounded body acoustic with flowered pick-guard) have always been popular," Wasserman said. Old Guild and Epiphone guitars are also valued.

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Doug Wasserman of Southfield didn't realize how valuable the large collection of instruments he had amassed over a period of years was until a friend offered a large sum of money for them. That's when a light bulb went off in his head and he became a guitar broker.

Settling in at Michigamme lodge

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Travelers love to discover new places, especially off-the-road accommodations that nobody else knows about. I found such a place and you could probably still get in for the color season this year, if you want to drive as far as the Upper Peninsula.

Michigamme Lake Lodge, a log cabin lodge set in the trees above Lake Michigamme, 33 miles west of Marquette on U.S. 41, isn't even known to most Yoopers although it's been open since May.

Linda and Frank Stabile are part of a family of hotel owners that is slowly creating a dynasty of hotels in the U.P. None of them had been in the hospitality industry when Frank and Linda left the Detroit area to move north a dozen years ago to replace city streets with a world of lakes and trees.

Frank and Linda bought, and still own, the Bay View Motel in Escanaba and later the Westwood, now the Days Inn, in Marquette. In the meantime, two other Stabile brothers emigrated to the U.P. Ralph bought a hotel in Curtis. Jim and Shirley bought the Cedar Lodge, a roadside motel with adjacent log cabin accommodations in Paradise.

They were all enjoying Upper Peninsula life, their fortunes rising and falling with the tourist cycles in the U.P., when the lodge on Lake Michigamme came on the market a couple of years ago.

The lodge was built by a local financier, Sam Cohodas, in 1934 as a private retreat for family, friends and business associates. Cohodas entertained a lot of important people there over the years.

THERE'S NO way to make a totally logical decision about a place like this, so Frank and Linda Stabile took a plunge and bought the lodge when Sam died.

There is a certain mood to any lake in the north country of Michigan, where glaciers carved lake beds out of ancient rock 6000 ago. Gleaming water, surrounded by low treed hills. Water slapping against boat docks and boat houses. Occasional houses and cottages peek out through trees to the lake.

It's what most of us think of as cottage country, but most cottages don't look like this. Nobody used the word atrium when this place was built, but the word describes

MOVING PICTURES

Detectives Keller (Al Pacino) and Touhey (Michael O'Neill) about his extramarital dating (John Goodman) question Raymond Brown habits in "Sea of Love."

This 'Cookie' crumbles as slow-paced comedy

"The Two-Headed, Schizoid Scenario From Hell" is not the latest low-budget, sci-fi epic — it's a plague striking screenwriters and this week's two major releases, "Cookie" and "Sea of Love," are perfect examples of films that haven't decided what they want to be when they grow up.

"Cookie" (C+, R, 90 minutes), under Susan Seidelman's ("Desperately Seeking Susan") direction was written by Nora Ephron ("When Harry Met Sally...") and Alice Arlen ("Alamo Bay").

One would expect such a talented crew could do a lot with a clever idea and a good cast. Not so, however, as "Cookie" crumbles under the slow-paced weight of a romantic comedy about reconciliation and bonding interwoven with a double-scams D.A./Mafia movie.

Big-time mobster, Dino Capisco (Peter Falk), is paroled after 13 years. Under the terms of parole, he must go home to his wife, Bunny (Brenda Vaccaro) — she groams dogs — even though his heart belongs to Lenore (Dianne West) with whom he had a daughter, Cookie (Emily Lloyd), about 18 years ago. Cookie is a tough, streetwise chick, long since alienated from her father.

Meanwhile, Dino learns from big-time developer Arnold Ross (Jerry Lewis) that his mob partner, Carmine Tarantino (Michael V. Gazzo), defrauded Dino of big bucks while Dino was in the slammer. As Dino takes action to get his due, mob warfare spreads, complicated by pressure from a federal attorney trying for headlines to bolster his run for governor.

Well, what will it be? Will Dino and his estranged daughter reconcile? Will Carmine's heaves hit Dino? Will the Feds nab somebody?

The slow-paced, domestic comedy of Dino and Cookie learning to love each other gets in the way of the fast-paced mob action and the double-scams whereby Dino and Cookie outfit cops and robbers alike.

Part of the fun in such films is watching the hero/heroine outwit the bad guys, but "Cookie" has too many loose ends and the hoax here is never clearly presented.

The other problem with "Cookie" is heavy-handed stereotypes. While the acting is good — Peter Falk does an excellent Peter Falk and Emily Lloyd is a very talented young lady — the gravely wheezing of mobsters and Brenda Vaccaro's semihysterical, "Brooklyn-broad" gets old pretty quick.

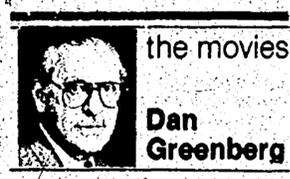

Al Pacino may not drown in a "Sea of Love" (C, R, 110 minutes), but somebody better throw screenwriter Richard Price ("The Color of Money") a life preserver before he goes down for the third time in a sea of maudlin confusion.

Billed as an "erotic suspense thriller," "Sea of Love" has Pacino as New York detective Frank Keller alternately pining and slobbering over Helen (Ellen Barkin). She returns those sentiments which are more erratic than erotic.

There isn't a great deal of suspense either as Keller tracks down a psychotic, serial killer. First, Keller teams with Detective Gruber (Richard Jenkins) who is married to Keller's ex-wife. Then detective Sherman Touhey (John Goodman) joins up with Keller.

If Pacino and Goodman generated more charisma, had better lines and more screen time together, they might have pulled it off as a duo in the ever-popular buddy genre.

As it is, "Sea of Love" stammers badly in Keller's maudlin cynicism. He's just another divorced, burnt-out detective waiting for a good woman to save him from himself. That cliché needs buddy-buddy charisma, a meaningful love story, real suspense, or a script without loose ends and unexplained plot elements. Try all of the above, they're mostly missing in a "Sea of Love."

"Vital Signs" (*) is a romantic drama about five medical students who, rest assured, have all the usual problems of growing up and learning how to doctor people.

"Heart of Dixie" (*) (PG) features Ally Sheedy and Phoeby Cates in a story of Southern gentility in the late '50s as times began to change.

STILL PLAYING:
"The Abyss" (D-) (PG-13) 135 minutes. Despite excellent underwater sequences, this muddled and murky sci-fi sea saga sinks.

"Batman" (C+) (PG-13) 120 minutes. Michael Keaton is a dud in the title role but Jack Nicholson's Joker is terrific.

"Casualties of War" (B+) (R) 105 minutes.

Grim, gripping and graphically violent story of Vietnam war.

"Cheech" (D-) (G, 75 minutes

Slow, cliched Disney in Africa epic that left its excitement at the airport.

"Dead Poets Society" (A+) (PG) 124 minutes.

Robin Williams' sensitive portrait of a fine teacher is complimented by excellent young actors as his students.

"Eddie and the Cruisers II: Eddie Lives" (PG-13).

They're still looking for Eddie's body.

"Honey, I Shrank the Kids" (B+) (PG) 105 minutes.

It's fun but it ain't easy to be small.

"Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade" (B+) (PG-13) 120 minutes.

Good entertainment, but enough already.

"Kickboxer" (*) (R).

Vengeance and rescue are in order as an American Kickboxer travels to Thailand.

"Lethal Weapon II" (B+) (R) 115 minutes.

Glover and Gibson do it again in high, albeit violent, style.

"Licence to Kill" (B+) (R) 105 minutes.

Number 16 in the 007 series with Carey Lowell as Dalton's lovely lady. Outrageous but entertaining.

"Lock-up" (R).

Stallone in jail and Donald Sutherland is the warden. Best wishes to the latter.

"Millennium" (PG-13).

Sci-fi thriller features Kris Kristofferson as government investigator who finds strange clues at airline disaster site.

"Nightmare on Elm Street: V" (R).

"Parenthood" (A-) (R) 120 minutes.

Large, talented cast in complex, but entertaining story about a family which includes Jason Robards, Steve Martin, Tom Hulse, Martha Plimpton and Diane West, among others.

"Peter Pan" (A) (G) 77 minutes.

Disney's classic animation of Sir James Barrie's story.

"The Package" (R).

Gene Hackman and Joanna Cassidy in story of deceit on the international scene as career military man escorts prisoner back from Russia.

"Releaseth" (*) (R).

Judd Nelson, Robert Loggia, Leo Rossi and Meg Foster in story of driven young man who becomes a killer.

"Romero" (A) (PG-13) 105 minutes.

Disturbing, frightening but provocative story of El Salvadoran Archbishop Oscar Romero and the events leading to his assassination. Superb performance by Raul Julia in title role.

"Sex, Lies, and Videotape" (R).

Everyone's talking about this romantic comedy with James Spader.

"Time Trackers" (*) (PG) 105 minutes.

Follow that mad scientist in a stolen time machine.

"Turner & Hooch" (D) (PG) 95 minutes.

Man and slobbery dog bonding against background of confused — and confusing — murder investigation.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

Film pays tribute to comics

By John Monaghan special writer

Documentary filmmaker Ron Mann was reading a comic book in an airport lounge when he noticed people around him giving strange looks. He saw his mission — to convince people that comic books are an art form, not just junk culture.

His resulting film, "Comic Book Confidential," traces the history and future of comics, and it's as entertaining and offbeat as the works themselves. The award-winning film screens this Friday and Saturday at the Detroit Film Theatre.

Faster than a speeding bullet, "Comic Book Confidential" breezes over the creation of superheroes like Superman, Batman and Captain America. Artist Jack Kirby discusses the patriotic role of comic books in battling the Nazis.

After the war, comic books had other battles to fight. William M. Gaines, publisher of the gruesome "Tales from the Crypt" and "Weird Science," is grilled during Senate subcommittee hearings on juvenile delinquency — a forerunner of the anti-Communist Inquisition of Joseph McCarthy.

And in another amazing piece of archival footage, a TV show preaches the evils of comic books on modern youth. Glassy-eyed children look on while a narrator warns that comics promote "sexual perversion" and the most despicable of crimes.

INTERVIEWED today, Gaines says censorship had a "chilling effect on the art of the business." Artistic freedom in mainstream comic books didn't really return until the 1980s.

There were, however, mavericks working outside the superhero realm. Robert Crumb, for instance, relates in the film how he quit his job at a Cleveland greeting card company to create the drug-inspired "Mr. Natural" and "Keep on Truckin'."

Director Mann understands that kind of passion. To get the film he wanted, the Toronto-based filmmaker scraped together $325,000 in funding, "borrowed" spare film stock from other projects and talked technician friends into working for part of the profits.

For Mann, "Comic Book Confidential" is the third in a trilogy of documentaries about artists. The others, "Imagine the Sound" (1980) and "Poetry in Motion" (1984), dealt with experimental jazz and poets, respectively.

In each film, he has steered clear of the dry documentary style. Instead of simply interviewing the artists, he asks them to narrate stories while he pans back and forth across their panels. Although some are self-conscious, Will Eisner, creator of "The Spirit," confesses that "most of us in the field are closet actors anyway."

IN THE '60S section, he talks with Lynda Barry, Art Spiegelman and Bill Griffith, whose Zippy The Pinhead may soon have his own feature film.

"If you can't say something nice," Griffith comments on the comic's success, "say something surrealistic."

The film is only slightly marred by its noble concept. A decade ago, comics were indeed outcasts — and falling financially. Today, they are a billion dollar industry, more respected than ever and read by as many intellectual adults as children.

Anyone paying to see a movie called "Comic Book Confidential" already realizes the power of the art.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg special writer

In the '50s, Hollywood box office suffered as everyone stayed home to watch television. The movies retaliated with the slogan, "Movies are better than ever!"

While that wasn't necessarily true, films in those days certainly grew bigger, longer and more extravagant as Hollywood offered what black-and-white TV on small home screens couldn't — wide-screen, technicolor extravaganzas.

CBS-Fox Home Video has just released four of those blockbusters in a package called "Swords and Sandals." All are unrated and in color. Each may be rented separately. While there's plenty of cleavage and epic battles, it's pretty much G or PG stuff by today's standards.

"Swords and Sandals" includes "Demetrius and the Gladiators" (1954, 101 minutes) with Victor Mature and Susan Hayward. Mature also stars in "The Egyptian" (1954, 139 minutes) with Jean Simmons, Gene Tierney and Peter Ustinov.

Susan Hayward and Gregory Peck headline "David and Bathsheba" (1951, 116 minutes) while Stewart Granger, Pier Angeli and Anouk Aimee star in "Sodom and Gomorrah" (1963, 148 minutes). That's almost 8 1/2 hours of "big-budget, biblical blockbusters with casts of thousands."

If you watch them all, you'll overdose on moral rectitude, sword fighting and chariot racing, but at least one or two are worthwhile. Even on your small home screen, they are pretty spectacular.

STUDENTS OF "Genesis" may be surprised how Hollywood rearranged biblical history but then the movies always favored spectacle over accuracy. Along with "The Robe," these Twentieth Century Fox spectaculars were the product of Darryl F. Zanuck out-DeMilling Cecil B.

"Sodom and Gomorrah" is the lone exception. An Italian production filmed in Morocco, a Joseph E. Levine film directed by Robert Aldrich with Stewart Granger as Lot, Pier Angeli as his wife, Ildith, the pillar-of-salt-to-be.

Stanley Baker is Prince Astaroth, scheming with the Helamite tribesman to take over Sodom and Gomorrah from his sister, Queen Bera (Anouk Aimee). She's particularly good, albeit the stereotypical evil queen. Rossana Podesta is Lot's daughter, Shuah. The music was by Miklos Rozsa.

Despite all that talent, the plot — besides differing radically from the Old Testament — is pretty stodgy and leaden. Lot shows up with his portion of the Hebrew people after he and Abraham split. His arrival is manipulated for their own ends by the various forces in Sodom.

There's a pretty obvious moral lesson with soft and sexy living in Sodom representing the seductive evils of materialism.

Sodom's wealth was founded on its control of salt mines and the original film had graphic sequences of slaves working in those mines, but that footage is missing in the current video that runs six minutes shorter than the original film.

deo that runs six minutes shorter than the original film.

THE SALT MINE sequences, like much of the film's violence, are pretty tame. It's a puzzle why that footage was excised. What's six minutes more when you've passed two hours?

In those days, cameras had the good grace to avert their eyes at particularly unpleasant moments. Now, of course, the lens zooms in and rubs our noses in the gore.

All this notwithstanding, "Sodom and Gomorrah" is worth watching, over and above its historical stature and position. There's lots of singing and dancing — the Hebrew children doing what we might term folk music while the Queen of Sodom has some suggestive court dancers doing some pretty slick dancing.

There's also lots of Helamite cavalry trotting around and if you watch closely, you'll be able to count a "cast of thousands." That was not an idle boast. The battle scenes are expansive and quite impressive.

"Sodom and Gomorrah" is the longest and least successful of the "Swords and Sandals" package, but any of the four are worthwhile. Of course, if you like one, try the others.

Peter Falk and Emily Lloyd star as a hot-tempered father-daughter duo who manage to outsmart both the mob and the law in "Cookie."

Susans strum way to success

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Susans might be increasingly difficult to come by, but Band of Susans has never been short on guitars.

The New York-based coed group endured personnel changes that included two of the three Susans leaving and has released what some say is its best album to date, "Love Agenda" (Blast First/Restless).

The LP is a brick wall of guitar noise with no less than three axe masters at the helm.

Now before the comparisons start, let's get a few things straight. Yes, Band of Susans are from New York and, indeed, the group is on the same label.

But Sonic Youth they're not. Band members will be the first to say so.

Nonetheless, it doesn't prevent people from putting two and two together and coming up with 17.

"I think people are just trying find a reference point," said Susan Stenger, who is the last remaining Susan in the band. "It's not justified, really."

"The guitar on Sonic Youth records are more far back," added Robert Poss, who performs in the dual role of guitarist and producer for the band. "There seems to be more of an emphasis on vocals and almost an ethereal kind of murky guitar sound where it's almost acoustic sounding."

"OUR STUFF has the guitars right up in your face." Poss joins two new guitarists, Libby Flynt and Mark Lonergan, on this current tour that stops Tuesday at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor. Susan Don't look for everyone to be named Susan in the band of Susans. The New York-based group includes Susan Stenger, Robert Poss, Libby Flynt and Mark Lonergan.

All the founding members had performed with such avant-garde guitar composers as Glenn Branca and Rhys Chatham. Thus their love of Fenders is exposed.

Although Band of Susans places a heavy emphasis on guitar sound, there is a bonding agent that draws the shrills into one stream of consciousness. The glue that holds it together is "the stuff we sniff before we go on stage," Poss said jokingly.

On a serious note, Poss believes the homogeneity nature of the music is due to the fact the Susans are less random than other bands of its ilk.

"We're not a jammy band," Stenger said. "We do deliberately limit ourselves in certain ways to the kind of songs we play to even the way we tune our guitars."

People here are just tuning into the Band of Susans. The group formed in 1986 in New York City, but has toured primarily in the East Coast.

In the United Kingdom, it's a different story. The British music press has been fawning over American guitar bands, such as Sonic Youth and Dinosaur Junior, with the journalistic vigor usually left for Lady Di and Prince Chuck.

BAND OF SUSANS has enjoyed the exposure. "Love Agenda" debuted No. 4 on New Musical Express' independent chart and received thumbs-up reviews on a recent UK tour as a support act for Throwing Muses.

Any premature inflated egos don't seem present, however. Band members are not about to quit their day jobs to support their guitar habit, which for Spenger and Poss included working as clerks in a New York law firm (Spenger worked on an investigation looking into the financial holdings of deposed Haiti leader "Baby Doc" Duvalier.)

Such work keeps them grounded in reality. Any success stateside will definitely have to be earned the hard way. Touring is a major component of that.

"We don't plan to change what we are doing," Stenger said. "So whether or not we appeal to mainstream tastes is not our worry."

Band of Susans will perform Tuesday, Sept. 19, at the Blind Pig, 208 S. First, Ann Arbor. For information, call 996-8555.

LIVE

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

— U-Club, Ann Arbor

Ah, it all comes back — red brick institutions of learning, the kiosk announcing the next frat party, a bit of nip in the air. Yes, returning to a life of academe in the fall, there's a certain amount of excitement.

Especially when a band like Strange Bedfellows help bring in the new school year. The five-member group performed a 22-song set Tuesday to a small but enthusiastic crowd at the University of Michigan U-Club.

Up front, let's level a nebulous criticism. At times, lead singer Misy Gibson looks like her body's possessed by R.E.M.'s Michael Stipe. Too much straddling the microphone stand and endless gesturing (including kneeling), especially at the start.

OK. Feel much better now that that's out of the way.

Such distractions didn't overshadow an enjoyable show where one could help but become a bit carried away. The Strange Bedfellows have come a long way from the last time we watched them perform 10 months ago (and we thought they were better than the average band then). Since that time, there have been lineup changes and Beth Yates of Birmingham has added keyboards to her duties as backup vocalist.

In that time, Gibson has gone from a whimsical frontwoman, singing about such things as sugar doughnuts, to a self-assured performer who dominates the stage with her vocals and presence. Her voice has grown even more forceful.

So, too, has Yates'. Her role is not limited to the shadows. She picked up the harmonica on one number and was able to display her vocal ability with a poignant solo version of "Bobby McGee."

Though, it was the two-part harmonies Yates and Gibson mastered on many of the Strange Bedfellow songs that provided some of the better moments.

The band itself is tight. Credit goes to bassist George Staaw, drummer Jim Faulkner and guitarists Kenny Tudrick and Bill Tudrick for that.

The musicianship allows Strange Bedfellows to switch gears from ya-ya rock numbers to bluesy tunes like "Green Eyed Kitty" without a glitch.

Strange Bedfellows gained momentum as they proceeded to burn through the set. Just when it looked like the band was ready to call it a night, it did one better. Things ended on a bang with the rousing guitar-infested "Prayers." Even solo performances didn't hinder the flow of the show.

The original purpose of the trip was to see the opening band, Shouting Club, with new lead singer Walter Babinski. Plans were to be back home before midnight (you know, having to go to work in the morning), but midnight became 12:30 a.m. and then 1 a.m. and then 1:30 a.m.

Strange Bedfellows' music wouldn't let us go home.

MUSIC NOTES

LETTERS FROM HOME: A rather disturbing note passed by our desk recently. Sensitive Big Guys say they will be calling it quits after a pair of "farewell shows" Friday, Sept. 29, at Paycheck's Lounge in Hamtramck and Saturday, Sept. 30, at Club Heidelberg in Ann Arbor. The Big Guys will open for the Junk Monkeys for both shows.

According to the Sensitive Big Guy newsletter, issue No. 5, the four members are leaving to pursue outside interests.

Guitarist and vocalist Brian Russell will become the "oldest and first non-hispanic member of Menuedo." Bass player Steve Bauer will resume his teaching career at the Dale Carnegie School. Rob Paul has been asked to play keyboards on an upcoming Bon Jovi tour.

That didn't arouse our suspicions so much as the line about guitarist and vocalist Rob Varney devoting his time to knitting and pottery. C'mon, Varney probably doesn't know the difference between a pair of knitting needles and a pair of chopsticks.

"Let's just say it's true, for now" said Varney, trying to lodge his tongue in his cheek without choking. "Let's just say there will probably be a reunion tour in a couple of months."

During the layoff, the band plans to write some new material. So not to worry. The Sensitive Big Guys will ride again.

Another band on hiatus for a while is World State, which is looking for a new drummer after Todd Kulman left recently. The band is also busy writing some new songs, according to singer Rachel Sinaott.

Incidentally, World State and Sensitive Big Guys are both featured on the compilation CD release "Detroit Underground, Vol. 1," which is available at finer record stores in the area.

RELEASES AND OTHER PIECES: The "Underground Detroit" CD is one of several releases from bands in the area. The Civilains, Opossums, Figure 4, No Right No Wrong and Gangster Fun all have products in record stores.

All of them avoid the the R.E.M./U2/Iggy of the Stooges/Cure rehash some bands are particularly fond of playing.

Glynn Scanlan of the Idiots sent along his band's recently released tape. The raucous brand of Livonia punk has been getting regular air play on Scott Campbell's "Detroit Music Scene" radio show that is heard on WDTR-FM.

CLUBBED: The club scene picking up again after the August doldrums. Roland Diazis booking several acts from this area Wednesday through Saturday at Club Heidelberg in Ann Arbor and Todd's has started Monday music series featuring local bands.

Goat 24, a national act, will perform a special show tonight at Todd's. No cover until 10 p.m. After that, it costs $3.

REVIEWS

— Starship

There are times when it's just not worth it — writing these reviews I mean. OK, so I get to hear a lot of the latest releases, and usually that's not too bad. It can be enjoyable.

But then along comes that one day when it's time to pay the ferryman. That one day the editor has been relishing. He's a gentle soul beneath it all, but it's the evil malicious side that comes out after a late Sunday night's indulgences. Monday morning has arrived a bit too quickly. Everything is colored bloodshot.

The Monday morning Mr. Hyde glares in my direction and sees the innocent, blameless child who slaves so selflessly to make him happy. A cracked Freddy Krueger grin breaks across his face. He licks a prying messenger boy and launches an LP, Friar-like, toward me. Upon extracting the warped cover from my eye, and in an immense philosophical moment, I comprehend the heavy toll to be paid for the decade-long life led by all record reviewers.

But my sadness runs deeper than that. It is a heartfelt devastation for the whole of humanity. It is a slap in the face of Glamour. It is an aberration that strikes against East, West, black, white, Arab, Jew, Catholic and Protestant. It is a crime to be treated with the same contempt reserved for the evil of the Holocaust.

Jefferson Starship has released a new album.

Burn as many copies as you can. We have got to work together to save the world. Greenpeace will forgive for you damaging the ozone layer for this one cause.

Please God, be merciful in our hour of need.

— Cormac Wright

MARSUPIAL ERUPTIS

— Opossums

The Opossums don't put a headlock on the music listener and whip them into submission. Instead, this Ann Arbor-based foursome plays an endearing brand of a rock 'n' roll that invites you to sit down and enjoy a tall cool one.

The Opossums make it sound so simple on their 11-song debut LP on the independent label Picnic Horn Records.

An easy backwoods beat, snappy lyrics and effortless vocals are the hallmarks of "Marsupial Eruptis." What's remarkable is that this disc was knocked off in two days' time in the studio, providing not only a live feel but a cohesiveness as well.

Whether it's the Byrd-like guitar lines provided by Mark Neff and Marty Fletcher on numbers such as "Heart's Run Wild" and "Roll River" to the rock 'n' roll free-for-all "Alphabet Roadway," a tightness prevails. The Opossums are definitely charting their own course.

Fletcher does a good portion of the songwriting. His country/bluegrass influences can be heard in bits and pieces of each song without sounding like somebody on some revivalist trip.

Neff is the other half of Opossums songwriting tandem. He's so stonch either contributing two excellent numbers in "In and Out" and "Something's Here." The latter pulls you by a lance of some great guitar hooks.

Also, aside from the music, the Opossums have a first-rate package. The cover is sharp and the liner notes are easy to read.

If you've never bought an album by a local band, there's no better place to start than here.

— Larry O'Connor

— The Pogues

Oliver Cromwell's name is not often mentioned in rock and roll lyrics. But the English lord protector is cursed on The Pogues fifth recording, in a song that sent listeners scurrying to their World Books Cromwell bandits ravaged Ireland in 1649, and on "Young Ned in the Hill" he is damned "to burn in hell tonight."

Title notwithstanding, "Peace and Love" is an spirited (in that the word) as past recordings. The band that made its name selling Celtic sounds to a thump-thump-thump beat continues to expand. Songwriting credits are spread more evenly. Strains of pop music appear via catchy electric guitar riffs and melodies — 14 big songs in all.

Phillip Chevron has written two of the best, "Loretta," a love song with a mythical feel, and "Blue Heaven," a raucous rife through fantasy land.

Singer Shane MacGowan brings us back to reality, of course. He sports a beard on the album cover, but has not mellowed. His "Don't Waste" takes us on an entirely different rife and he spews words like women.

"Down All the Day" tells the story of "Christy Brown, a blind street town/ now a man of renown from Dingle to Down."

Tribute is paid to London, the band's collective hometown, with two songs. One is an endearing MacGowan serenade. The other, a Jack Hiner love song set on Albert Bridge, is also evocative: "I dreamt we were strolling/ By the banks of the Thames/ Where the cold grey waters ripple/ In the chilly morning light."

The title on "Peace and Love" seems a bit heavy-handed. The sound is more than adequate for a band that's been around for a few years.

Two final things: The album is available at the local record stores. The follow-up CD is scheduled for release in October.

STREET SENSE

FEAR AND LOAFING

Liver pate, lush lawns and Arnie

Karl Nilsson

Believe me, life in the suburbs is not as safe as it looks. Sure, the inner city has crime, drugs and poverty. But living in suburbia poses its own special dangers.

Consider this case in point: According to eye witnesses, a recent DSO concert at Meadowbrook was interrupted by a near-tragic accident. Sometime during the overture to Mozart's "Magic Flute," a concert goer stood up and headed for the restrooms, cautiously tip-toeing his way between the checkerboard of picnic baskets, he squinted in the fading light.

Suddenly, his right Gucci slipped on a loaf of French bread. Gropping for balance, his left foot came down on a liver pate. Lurching into the air, his body flew upward, landing heavily on a platter of clams-casino. Greased by a superb bernaise sauce, he began to roll wildly down the grassy hillside, his linen Perry Ellis picking up bits and pieces of gourmet food as he went.

Seconds before catapulting into the covered seating, he was finally stopped by a gooey mocha torte. Although the unidentified man was unhurt by his fall, 13 spectators were injured by attorneys rushing to represent him.

AS DEADLY as classical music can be, there's an even worse threat in suburbia that can't be seen or heard. Of course, I'm referring to "immaculate lawn syndrome" — the new religion of the '80s.

Ironically, the reason many folks moved to the suburbs in the first place was to escape the pollution of the city. Out in the new frontier, a man could stand tall in his wife's slippers and smoke a cigarette in fresh, clean air.

You see, out here, we don't tolerate factories covering our homes with soot. No incinerators. No hazardous waste dumps. Even our rivers don't catch fire.

In fact, we're so environmentally conscious, we passed ordinances making it illegal to burn our leaves. A permit to roast hot dogs must be obtained two weeks in advance. Aerosol deodorants can only be applied on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

And yet, all is not well. In our escalating quest for landscape perfection, we voluntarily spray millions of gallons of deadly poisons, weed killers and pesticides on our lawns, shrubs and slow-moving pets.

Try to follow the logic here: We give up red meat. We eat more oat bran than Mr. Ed. We insist our ice cubes be made from Perrier to avoid contamination. All in the name of good health. Then we shell out big bucks to soak our lawns with known carcinogens. Does this make sense to you?

NO ONE fully knows what the long-term side effects of lawn chemicals will be. However, preliminary reports trickling in may be worth noting:

• In Southfield, a prominent newscaster accidentally dropped his toupee on the freshly sprayed lawn. The next morning his hairpiece had grown to the size of a Quonset hut and a family of four squatters had moved inside.

• In what is perhaps the strangest development yet, certain hardy species of weeds have actually developed a resistance to the poisons. Instead of keeling over as planned, they have miraculously developed the powers of speech and have been overheard ordering hundreds of anchovy pizzas to punish the homeowners.

Concerned that the lush, green lawns surrounding my home represent an ecological time bomb, I began a door-to-door campaign, urging people to switch from toxins to salad dressing.

"Couldn't you just spray the weeds with oil and vinegar? I mean it always makes my salad go limp..."

Yesterday, my speech was interrupted by a sports-minded neighbor who helped me put the whole lawn care issue into proper perspective.

"Look, on one hand, it's a definite health hazard. But on the other hand, it's a welcome mat for any pro golfer in the area. Suppose Arnold Palmer drives by. If my lawn's up to snuff, he might pull over and practice putting. You don't expect me to pass up a free lesson like that?"

No love? Better forget marriage

Dear Barbara, "Gilda" (let's call her that) and I met about 18 months ago and waited 3 1/2 months to begin making love. That has been the most positive area of our relationship.

In general, I can only describe the overall relationship as pleasant because the lows are as frequent and as exaggerated as the highs. We seem to meet verbally in our goals, but in living, we diverge rather quickly.

I prefer the simple life, generally happy with who I am and what I do. She prefers the night life, always desiring the new stimulus, the new band, the new place to hang out. Money is important to her; my work is important to me.

I am not afraid of the time and effort required to obtain the Ph.D. that I want, but "Gilda" is. The question that I strive to answer is whether or not I'm being too selfish.

What should love feel like? Is it all-consuming or is it simply pleasant? How would you feel if you never saw your loved one again? It scares me that "Gilda" says that she would "die" if she lost me, that she would be heart broken. I, on the other hand, don't even think I would be fazed in the slightest, if I never saw her again. That scares me because it just doesn't seem right.

Is this normal? In many ways I want to be married. I am not kidding when I state that the most noble thing a person can do in this world is live life with another person, raise a family and remain together in our ever-macho society.

There is another factor which makes the marriage question so pressing. "Gilda" has a condition which will make child-bearing dangerous as she grows older, so I feel guilty in asking her to wait. That's what I would like to do. Also, my desire to start and raise a family is starting to increase and that plays a factor in my confusion.

I am looking for some telltale signs that would help indicate whether or not we have a chance or whether it would be best for both of us to exit the relationship right now.

GUILTY LOVER

Barbara Schiff

Dear Barbara, I saw "When Harry Met Sally" this week. I loved it. I feel so uplifted and optimistic.

My problem is that I am dating a man with problems similar to Harry's. He was divorced about a year ago by his wife and now seems fearful of another committed relationship. He says he feels he must protect himself from ever suffering similar pain again.

Our relationship is different than Harry's and Sally's because "George" and I are physically involved.

My question is how long do I wait? My friends have told me to break up, with him or at least start dating other people. I really don't want to. He says that if he could love someone it would be me.

Linda

are trying to put "round pegs into square holes." They want to get married or have a baby so they pretend that the fit with another person is a good one. After the marriage and parenthood, when the romance is gone and the reality bleak, they wonder how they didn't see the poor fit.

If you do not like yourself as you are because you feel incapable of loving deeply, you would be better off with competent professional help than with the pretense of a loveless marriage.

Barbara

Dear Linda, I, too, very much enjoyed "When Harry Met Sally." Can we use the last few sentences of your letter to show you that you have answered your own question. One, your friends have given you good advice. Two, this man tells you that he can't love. What better answer do you want?

Lodge maintains its 1930s charm

They are small upscaled "cottage" rooms — varnished log walls with windows overlooking either the lake or forest. Three have in-room baths, the rest have sinks in the room and bathrooms next door or down the hall. All have chenille spreads and Linda's homey Victorian touches.

Most of the rooms cost $75 for two, including a continental breakfast in the dining room or on the glassed-in porch. The exception is Sam's room on the main floor, overlooking the lake, which is slightly larger, has its own bathroom and costs $100.

The grounds also include a caretaker's cottage, which can be rented on a housekeeping basis. The rates are $60 a night or $350 a week for four people.

MICHIGAMME Lake Lodge lists itself as a bed-and-breakfast, so there are no other eating or drinking services available, unless you ask them to cater meals for groups.

There are a few eating places within an easy drive of the lodge. Mt. Shasta, five miles west on U.S. 41, serves casual meals and cocktails. There is a cafe — no cocktails — about two miles and another food-and-drink place three miles beyond that.

The town of Michigamme has a couple of interesting craft shops. You can walk or drive the mile along the lake to Van Ryper State Park, named for the doctor who treated mining families for $1 a month, including pulling teeth.

The park has a great little sand beach, playground, campground and camper's store that sells Moosetrack ice cream.

The best thing in the park is a tiny building with a moose head mounted behind a glass and a plaque commemorating the moose lift. Twenty-nine moose were carried from Algonquin Park in northern Ontario to Marquette County in 1985 and another er 30 in 1987. There are now 116 moose re-establishing a herd in the forests near the Lake Superior shoreline.

Michigamme Lake Lodge probably won't stay open beyond Nov. 1, although it will be a year-round lodge once people have heard about it and they have a full house. For reservations, call (906) 225-1392 or (906) 339-4400.

You can write to Michigamme Lake Lodge, Michigamme, Mich., but you might be better to send mail to Frank Stabile at the Days Inn, 2403 U.S. 41 West, Marquette, Mich. 49855.

TYPICALLY, prime vintage guitars range in price from around $1,000 to "many thousands of dollars," Wasserman said.

To point up the current popularity of vintage guitars, both Fender and Gibson have in recent years been manufacturing re-issues of their earlier models — '52 and '62 Telecaster and Stratocaster and a '59 Les Paul, among others.

What does the future hold for the vintage guitar market?

"The type of instruments that I see from the collectability standpoint in the future are going to be the genuine luther-made type instruments," Wasserman said.

Comic gears his act for TV

By Bob Sadler, special writer.

Just when you thought all the comics in the world came from New York, here comes Wayne Cotter. Oops. He's from New York, too. But he was born there, not just transplanted by the necessities of comedic big time. Still, a lot of the comics roaming the American club circuit happen to be from the city that doesn't sleep, the Big Apple. Cotter just thinks the comedy factor is a matter of percentages. "There's a lot of people living in New York," Cotter said.

BORN IN the Bronx, Cotter shuns any comparison with that Brooklyn bad boy whose career has taken off like a rocket recently — Andrew "Dice" Clay. "That act of his... well never mind. I forgot for a minute that this is print," Cotter said. Cotter has maintained a commitment to clean material through the years, and it has earned him regular status on "Late Night with Letterman" and appearances on the Showtime Comedy All-Stars and "The Tonight Show." He believes the television work has been a natural outgrowth of his approach to comedy.

"I'VE ALWAYS done my act like I was working on television," Cotter said. He mentioned how he leaves the microphone on the stand (something only a fellow comic would pick up on) and keeps the comedy squeaky clean. He started developing the comedy technique at an early age, making an impression on family, friends and others. "In fourth grade, my teacher called my mother in for a conference. I was terrified. I didn't know what I was doing wrong. My mom came home all excited because what he'd wanted to discuss was her kid's exceptional sense of humor." By Cotter's teen years years, his zeal for comedy became even more apparent. "ALL THE kids back then were getting into—Iron—Butterfly and Mountain. I had comedy albums. I had a big clunky tape recorder that was my dad's. "I used to hold the microphone to the TV and record the comedians, then listen to them over and over again. I had all of them memorized." Among his favorite comics of that time were Robert Klein, Bob Newhart, Shelly Berman, Albert Brooks, Mel Brooks and Alan King. "If I could turn into another comedian, Alan King would be the guy." When Cotter finished high school, an electrical engineering scholarship put him in Philadelphia — at the University of Pennsylvania. He never got his degree but managed to get a day job in engineering. At night he performed at Philly's Comedy Works, one of the first places on the infant club circuit.

BY 1981, Cotter quit his day job. The turning point of Cotter's career came in 1987, when "Late Night with David Letterman" left a message on his answering machine. He was on the show the next day and has become a regular.

Those appearances on "The Tonight Show" and Showtime (with Birmingham's own Tim Allen) also increased recognition of him. Like all the comics around today, Cotter is riding the crest of the comedy boom, which has seen clubs spring up just about everywhere. However, Cotter knows all good things must come to an end, and that eventually the club circuit will shrink, with just the better-run places surviving. He's determined to still be standing on his comedic feet. "There were comedians before (the boom), and there'll be comedians after it. I'm just trying to make sure I'm one of the guys still there." Wayne Cotter will appear Friday and Saturday at Main Street Comedy Showcase in Ann Arbor. Call 996-9030 for information and reservations.

Hemingway's Traverse — 'No place more beautiful'

As Ernest Hemingway and his first bride, Hadley Richardson, reached the crest of the biggest hill overlooking Petoskey and Little Traverse Bay, the groom asked his driver, Earl Bacon, to stop the car.

"See all that. Talk about the beauty of the Bay of Naples. I've seen them both and no place is more beautiful than Little Traverse in its autumn colors," Hemingway exclaimed.

Today, Bacon, a retired farmer of 84, and a handful of his contemporaries still recall their famous neighbor whom they call Ernie.

Forty years after the Nobel Prize-winning novelist last visited Michigan, Hemingway's memory lives on in the northern woods that became the settings for his comic novel, "The Torrents of Spring" and the Nick Adams stories. Memories of 21 Michigan summers gave Hemingway the people and places from which he forged his fiction.

The novelist's favorite sister, Madeline, nicknamed Sunny, still spends her summers in the family's cottage on Walloon Lake. The 83-year-old Sunny Miller seeks to preserve her privacy, but Windemere, a national historic landmark, attracts Hemingway buffs from all over the world.

Bacon's grandfather, sold Dr. Clarence Hemingway of Oak Park the property on which he built the summer place for his wife and their six children in 1898.

The two families became lifelong friends and when the Bacons were ill, Dr. Hemingway attended them. In turn, the Bacons supplied produce to the Hemingways on a regular basis, and Ernie came for milk every day. Bacon's brother Carl became a good friend of Ernie.

EARL ENJOYS showing a snapshot of the two teenagers pitching hay. Bacon also proudly displays an oil painting of his family homestead by Grace Hall Hemingway, the exact landscape which her son described in "Ten Indians" and "Fathers and Sons."

Carl, who was four years older than Earl, appears as Carl Garner in the stories and teases Nick Adams about his Indian girlfriend, Prudence Mitchell.

Although Hemingway's stormy relationship with his mother is well known, Earl perceived Grace Hall as a great lady.

"She was stern, autocratic and very aristocratic, a very proper person," he said. "When you were around her, you were courteous."

"Mrs. Hemingway was a wonderful person who gave me books to read about young folks growing up. She is partly responsible for my being what I am today."

He recalls Hadley Richardson of St. Louis as an attractive woman of 30, eight years older than her husband.

"I took an instant liking to her. She was friendly, courteous and magnanimous. What Ernie wanted, she got for him and she looked after Ernie as well as she could."

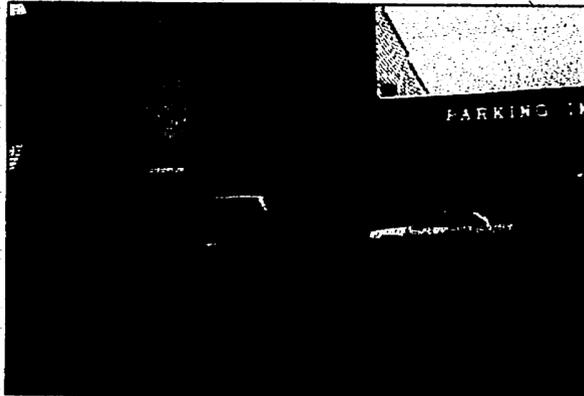

Although the Bacon farm has long since been torn down, the home where Irene Gordon first met her date, Ernest Hemingway, in 1919 still stands across from the Bay View Post Office. Gordon, who was Irene Goldstein then, was exactly Ernie's age and they played tennis together. In later years, the writer sent copies of his poems and even a Shangri-La is one of two cabins in Horton Bay that were prominent in Hemingway's life and literature. The cabins were where Liz Dilworth, a friend of the Hemingway family, prepared chicken for the author's wedding.

Among Ernest Hemingway's friends was Marion Smith's late husband, Bill, who first met the author in 1916.

Built around 1875 by A.J. Stroud, the Horton Bay General Store still carries the groceries and hardware items popular in Hemingway's day.

"Horton's Bay, the town, was only five houses on the main road between Boyne City and Charlevoix," Hemingway wrote in "Up in Michigan." "There was a general store and a post office with a high false front and maybe a wagon hitched out front."

Except for a few photographs left by a TV crew, the locals maintain that the store has remained unchanged since Nick Adams described it.

Almost directly across the highway stand the Dilworth cottages, Pinehurst and Shangri-La, both important locations in Hemingway's life and literature. He returned to the cottages with friends for fishing trips.

William Ohle, 77, recalls the wedding guests assembling beside the store before Hemingway's nuptials in 1921. The wooden Methodist Church, bedecked that day with wild flowers, has long since been torn down.

Ohle, who lives across from the cottage where Liz Dilworth, a friend of the Hemingway family, proudly exhibits Hemingway's helmet and canteen from World War I, which the young soldier had given to his friend, Wesley Dilworth, at Horton Bay's Fourth of July celebration.

Ohle said his first cousin, Marjorie Bump, was hurt by her portrayal as the character of Marjorie in the stories, "The End of Something" and "The Three Day Blow." She died last year and was buried in Petoskey, but in 1981 wrote a letter acknowledging that she knew Hemingway when she had a summer job as a waitress at the Dilworth cottages.

"SHE ALWAYS kept her friendship with him in the background," Ohle recalled. "She wrote that her relationship with him was not romantic, but that he was like a brother and good to me who was so much younger and afraid of boys."

Bump was in high school when she knew the young soldier who had come back to Michigan to heal his wounds.

Ernest first met Bill Smith in Horton Bay in 1916 and they remained lifetime friends. Smith later stayed in the Hemingways' apartment in Paris and traveled to Spain with them.

Smith appears as Bill in "Three Day Blow" and "The End of Something," companion tales of a broke love affair.

"Bill's only rupture with Hem came when Ernest wanted to tell his brother, Y.K., that his wife Doodle's was having an affair," said Smith's widow, Marion. "There was some drifting apart. Bill wrote him that blood was thicker than water and he sided with his brother. He cried a lot when Hemingway shot himself in 1961."

THE PETOSKEY library on Mitchell Street, where young Hemingway exhibited his bullet riddled breeches to the ladies auxiliary, still attracts fans of the writer.

So does the Potter rooming house at 602 State St., where Hazel Potter remembers the boarder in the top front bedroom forever banging out stories on the typewriter.

The Nativity window, dedicated to the memory of Ernest by his sister Sunny, in the Emmanuel Episcopal Church also draws visitors.

Not everyone is touched by Hemingway fever, however.

In Kalkaska, the scene of one of Hemingway's most famous stories about a homosexual cook and two obese prostitutes, neither the ladies in the museum, which was the railroad station where the prostitutes argued, or the Kal-Ho Bar, where Nick Adams and his friend drank, know that Hemingway wrote about the town.

The small town inspired the story, "The Light of the World."

After he was married in Horton Bay, Hemingway never returned to Petoskey for a long stay. In 1947, Gordon saw him on his last visit to Michigan.

"He came into the store with a great deal of gusto," she said. "I remember he grabbed me and kissed me and I said, 'Ernie, why haven't you been up here before?'"

"He said, 'Irene, I've always been disappointed in places where I've returned. I have such loving memories of northern Michigan that I didn't want them interrupted.'"

Roberta Schwartz is a free lance writer and photographer and also teaches journalism at Oakland University. She has visited some 50 countries in search of Hemingway's friends and haunts.

Just shooting 'craps' the Leelanau Sands way

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Forget the neon lights and naughty shows, Frank Sinatra and Wayne Newton. If you want straight up, no frills, blackjack and craps, the Leelanau Sands Casino is fair game.

Not only is it the only game in the state, outside of New Jersey and Nevada, it's one of a very few in the entire country.

The casino, set back off Route 22 in a rather unobtrusive enclave of cedar finished one-story buildings, just north of Suttons Bay on the Leelanau Peninsula, has been in existence since 1984.

It is operated by the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians as a fund-raiser for the Indians who live on the Federal Indian Reservation there. As such, it succeeds far beyond what any number of highly influential rain gods and sun gods could ever have done.

Indian bands in Mt. Pleasant and the Upper Peninsula and in other states run bingo games regulated by the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act passed by Congress Oct. 17, 1988. The card and dice games, which were taking place at the Leelanau Sands Casino before the act was passed, were grandfathered in.

That cleared the way for the bigger action on the Leelanau Peninsula, seven nights a week during July and August and Wednesday-Sunday the rest of the year. Video poker is available 2-6 p.m. when the casino is open.

"THE VIDEO poker machines are real popular," said Greg Bailey, casino general manager. "We have 16 (lined along the back wall of the casino's main room) we could easily have 60-80."

There's a $2 minimum at the blackjack table and a $100 limit, but you can play two hands. Bets at the craps table are $1-25. And if there's a pause while you wait for a place at blackjack or video poker, there's something called pull-tabs for light amusement, not unlike the $1 state lotto games.

On a week night summer evening, Bailey said there will be 125-250 people in and out and more than double that on weekends.

Dress is informal; the decor is clean, tidy, bunkhouse modern, the atmosphere is quiet, relatively businesslike; and the employees are pleasant, but not effusive. Not a single dealer looked up and said, "Good evening, my name is Ellen and I'm going to be your croupier this evening."

The security guard by the door is moderately friendly — pay your $2 entry fee and choose your game. Drinks, for players, are on the house.

Just east of the casino, a long wooden outdoor stairway, with half a dozen or so landings for quick R and R, leads to the Indian-owned and operated GTB Motel. At night, it's dramatically accented by tall globe lights every few feet — the only concession to the nighttime drama of Monte Carlo or Reno.

THE ATTRACTIVE, 28-unit motel, built last year, is surrounded by tall trees and woods. The $1.1 million price tag was completely covered with proceeds from the casino and Super-Bingo.

Rates are modest by area standards — $45 for two people September-April; $55, May-June; and $65 July-August. And that comes with a $5 complimentary gambling chit for the casino.

Rooms are attractively furnished, with two double beds and a VCR. There's a VCR library behind the lobby. Continental breakfast is included in the room rate. No pool, restaurant or bar, but it is handy to gambling, if you don't mind a hundred or so stairs.

"Everything's cash, but we do take Visa or MasterCard," said Bailey.

The casino, Super Bingo, the Peshawbestown Indian Art Store, the motel and all other enterprises on the Reservation are under the direction of a Tribal Council, the elected governing board of the tribe. As such, they are really community property. The council, in turn, appoints the board of directors of the Economic Development Authority, EDA, which acts as the administrative manager of these and other enterprises.

WHILE THE Leelanau Sands isn't into bringing in plane loads of gamblers at bargain air rates a la Las Vegas and Atlantic City, there are bus loads of optimists arriving regularly at the GTB Motel's door from downtown, arranged by the bus transport companies.

Nobody says you have to gamble if you stay at the GTB Motel, but if you do, be assured your picture won't show up on the pages of People Magazine, EQ, or the daily papers.

Indians cash in with casino

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

The Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians, like its counterparts around the United States, is really a nation within a nation.

According to an annual report published by the Economic Development Authority (EDA) of the tribe, "The modern day era of the Grand Traverse Band began on May 27, 1980, when the federal government acknowledged its historical and legal obligations to the Tribe."

This included, according to the Tribe, a complex status as a sovereign "domestic dependent nation" within the federal and state system of government.

JOHN PETOSKY, EDA director, tribal member and attorney, first reminds his listener that the 2,000 members of the Grand Traverse Band are the "children of the people who signed treaties with the federal government in 1834, 1855 and 1858."

"The Indians believe the non-Indians stole their lands," he said quietly, alluding briefly to these treaties.

He also mentions modern day animosity left from the fights over fishing rights.

He is business-like, but not secretive about the financial situation of the Grand Traverse Band. Casino gambling nets approximately $1 million a year and Super-Bingo $500,000 — that's above the cost of doing business and beyond what is funneled back into tribal programs. That's pure profit, money in the bank, so to speak.

ACTUALLY, IT'S becoming a trust fund. As stated in the annual report, "This trust fund is the beginnings of a permanent fund for tribal programs and purposes that will benefit the Tribe."

The jobs that the gambling provides for the 350 people presently living on the reservation is important, but obviously, secondary.

There are 135 employees in the summer, 60 percent are Indian and all the management is Indian," said Greg Bailey, casino general manager.

Training programs for dealers are every spring for both Indians and non-Indians, Petosky said. Many of the dealers are college students who took the course, passed and return for several summers to be dealers. Current pay for dealers is approximately $9 an hour.

No question about it, gambling proceeds are helping raise the standard of living for these Indians. The stated long-term goal is to raise it to that of the non-Indian population.

Granted the quality of life is gradually improving, Indian young people can now think in terms of college and careers. Yet, Petosky and Bailey are keenly aware that their house of cards and dice could collapse at any time.

They know laws can be amended, restrictions imposed, promises broken. This time, they want an ace in the hole — if and when the casino folds.

Neatnik 'myths' clarified

Q: I just don't understand people who are poorly organized. Tell me about those people who come to you for help.

A: I'm always amused when "neatniks" question "those people" who need organizational help. A number of people have made similar statements and I welcome the opportunity to clear up some myths.

MYTH 1: Only terribly disorganized people take organizing classes. Of all stigmas, this one needs eradicating most. My students represent a healthy cross section of society. Many have good jobs and beautiful homes but feel weighed down with too many time commitments or need help with filing. Many highly organized people take time management classes. Because society is becoming more and more complex, they're constantly striving for better ways to control their lives. Of the innumerable consulting jobs I've done, only one or two were truly cluttered. More often they were neat and tidy but the client just needed help in refining a few specific areas.

MYTH 2: Disorganized people are "losers." Not true! Many highly successful executives are poorly organized. (Of course, their secretaries help!) It is more difficult to be successful without order but certainly not impossible. They just have to work harder.

MYTH 3: "I'm the only one who's disorganized." It's fun watching some of my new students arrive at classes with a little anxiety and then seeing them relax as they realize there's a whole room full of people there just like them.

MYTH 4: Being disorganized means you are dirty and lazy. Actually, many people who live in disarray are not only very clean but are hard workers, too. They have just never learned how to systemize. Depression may be a factor for some, while others may just be "creative."

5 IS NOT A MYTH: Organizing students do tend to sign up late for classes and arrive late for the first sessions. Procrastination does seem to be a hallmark of those who need help. By the end of the series, however, that changes.

6 IS NOT A MYTH, EITHER: Being a saver causes disorder. About 95 percent of my students admit they are savers. I help them understand their affinity for saving and teach them how to overcome that tendency.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl's classes will begin the week of Oct. 2. Daytime "Organizing For Success": Tuesdays — Birmingham Community House (644-5832); Wednesdays — Schoolcraft College (462-4448). New pilot course, "Organizing Your Business Life": Thursday evenings — Troy Adult Education (879-7582). Call those centers to enroll.

Cranbrook Guild Violin prodigy highlights 38th season

FOR ITS new season, starting next month, Cranbrook Music Guild is presenting a roster of artists from as far away as Poland, Germany and Bulgaria and as close as Chicago and Bloomfield Hills.

As in other years, the chamber music series offers a variety of artists, and music ranging from early works through the romantic era to the 20th century. All concerts are held in library of Cranbrook House, former home of George and Ellen Scripps Booth, founders of the Cranbrook complex, internationally recognized for the beauty of the grounds and architecture. Afterglow receptions are held in the Oak Room.

The Penderecki String Quartet of Poland will be the guests for the season's opener at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 11. The group, named for Polish composer, Krzysztof Penderecki, was singled out by Musical America as "young artists to watch in 1989." The Quartet made its American debut in 1988.

Trio Fontenay (piano, violin, cello) of Hamburg, Germany, will give the concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7. Their recordings of the complete Mozart trios will be released on the Teldec-Decca label in 1991.

THE ALWAYS POPULAR Christmas concert, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 5, will feature the Ashbury Brass Quintet of Chicago which won two prestigious music competitions in one year. The repertoire ranges from jazz, spirituals and rag to folk and musical theater selections. The Cranbrook student brass choir will return by popular demand to perform ancient carols at the front door of Cranbrook House to set a holiday mood for the evening ahead.

Bulgarian pianist, Pavlina Dokouska, will be featured for the concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 27. She studied in Paris and at the Juilliard School on a Fulbright. She placed first in the Debussy competition in France and at the International Piano competition in Senigallia, Italy. She was a guest artist at the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy, the Mal Musical in Bordeaux, France and the Interforum Festival in Hungary.

One of the highlights of the season will be the return to the Cranbrook Music Guild series of Corey Cerovsek, violinist. The 17-year old musical and mathematical prodigy is in doctoral programs in math and music at Indiana University where he studies violin with Josef Gingold.

He will be accompanied by his sister, Katja, who is also a highly regarded artist and student at Indiana University.

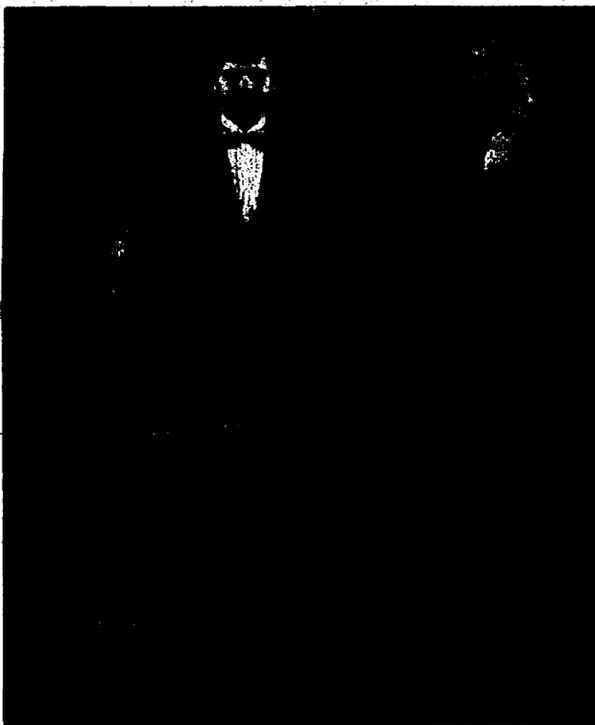

HE HAS PERFORMED with the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra, Zubin Mehta conducting, the Montreal Symphony with Charles Dutoit and last summer at the opening concerts of the new Opéra de la Bastille in Paris as part of the French Bicentennial celebration.

The April concert will be given by Frederick Weldy, pianist, winner of the Guild's Betty Brewster Scholarship. The annual award is given to an outstanding graduate student at University of Michigan School of Music in an effort to promote and support outstanding student talent.

Season tickets are $85. For brochure and information, call 761-2435.

Cranbrook House is on Lone Pine, just west of Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills. Parking is in the Christ Church Cranbrook lot across the street with shuttle bus service to Cranbrook House.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

James S. Bonadeo, president of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan and owner of a building company that bears his name says, "You would be amazed at young couples under 40 moving into houses at anywhere from $300,000 to $600,000. It's amazing." One such subdivision is Beacon Meadows in Plymouth Township.

There's no predicting building hot spots

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A bank robber when asked years ago why he robbed banks reportedly answered, "Because that's where the money is."

Developers who build residential subdivisions, shopping centers and office buildings think along similar lines. They go where the vacant land is.

But it's much more complicated than that. Land seems to be available in metropolitan Detroit. The trick is to build not necessarily where people and their money are now, but where they want to be in the years ahead.

"What makes for a hot spot — I don't think anyone knows," said James S. Bonadeo, president of the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan and owner of a building company that bears his name.

"I don't think there's any simple answer to that question," said Bud Kasselmann, vice president and branch manager for the real estate firm of Cushman & Wakefield of Michigan.

BUILDING PERMITS were issued for more residential units in Farmington Hills (565), Novi (434) and Rochester Hills (315) for the first six months of 1989 than any other community in Oakland or Wayne counties. Those preliminary figures were provided by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. Southfield and Troy continue to show the highest volume of office construction, according to a mid-year market report prepared by Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Services.

That report said 1.6 million square feet are under construction in Southfield, 1.1 million in Troy.

Chrysler Corp. expects to move some people into the first phase of a 3.3 million-square-foot corporate headquarters under construction in Auburn Hills later this fall.

Construction of other speculative office buildings in Auburn Hills likely will follow.

The suburban office market, with a vacancy rate of just over 17 percent, may be approaching the saturation point, said Scott Elliott, vice president and resident manager for Coldwell Banker.

Nationally, the suburban vacancy rate is 21.4 percent, he said.

"It seems like most new projects going on have been on the drawing board for a long time," Elliott said.

"In the I-696, I-275 corridors, there's still some things happening in Southfield, Novi, Farmington Hills and Livonia primarily being finished up, but not much new stuff is starting now," he said.

"WE'VE CERTAINLY had five, six, seven years of the biggest boom we've ever had," said Dick Roeser, president of Beachum and Roeser Development Corp. and president of the Building Owners and Management Association.

"I don't think any of us seasoned players would suggest it would continue ad infinitum," he said.

Elliott said he believes lenders are hesitant to release money for office construction until demand catches up with supply.

Commercial construction seems to be sprouting everywhere.

"We've been in a period of relatively inexpensive money," Kasselmann said. "It encourages development. It encourages people maybe new to development. Building strip centers is one of the easiest ways to get into the development business."

He especially notices commercial hot spots along Haggerty Road in Wayne County and along M-59 in Oakland.

OTHER FACTORS come into play, at least where residential is concerned, Bonadeo said.

Buyers of detached homes today seem to prefer large houses on large lots with a rolling terrain and streams in places like Rochester Hills, Plymouth and Novi, he said.

"The school system is very important," Bonadeo said. "You would be amazed at young couples under 40 moving into houses at anywhere from $300,000 to $600,000. It's amazing."

Another big factor, regardless of kind of development, is cooperation of local government officials to expedite paperwork approvals so a developer can get going.

It generally takes 18 months to two years from when property is acquired to when work begins with the construction of utilities on a project, Bonadeo said.

"Cooperation or accessibility to a community's agencies — inspection department, building department, zoning — a harmonious working relationship obviously prevails in hot areas," Richards said.

TO OVERSIMPLIFY, development of residential, commercial and office tends to stimulate each other, real-estate experts said.

A desirable housing stock will draw commercial. Office development shifts to where clients are in business and where employees live.

There's no magic formula to determine whether a given area will become hot. Demographic studies don't always accurately forecast what area will hit or miss. Bonadeo has been in the residential development business for 42 years.

"It's a matter of touch and experience," he said. "I look at it, drive around. I'm familiar with communities."

"I fly by the seat of my pants. I think you'll find a lot of builders feel the same way. It's a gut feeling," Bonadeo said.

And the winner is . . .

A traditional colonial's floor plan was the feature that convinced Homearama visitors to vote the Bayview the favorite house of the annual showcase of idea homes.

The Bayview, also cited for its woodwork, took 23 percent of the vote, beating out the Brookshire with 20 percent and the Jacquelynn Maria with 16 percent, in a poll taken the weekend of Sept. 9 at the Oakland Township site.

Built by Palazzolo Brothers Construction Co. of Utica, the Bayview was designed by architect Ron Meyers & Associates of Plymouth.

WITH 4,400 square feet, its price range is $390,000-$550,000. It features an open foyer with an oak circular staircase, four bedrooms plus a 300-square foot "bonus room" off the master suite, six bay windows, three fireplaces, four full and two half baths, and a finished walk-out basement with kitchen/bar area.

Homearama will close Sunday, Sept. 24, with a sale of furniture and accessories from most of the houses. The houses, in the $375,000-$675,000 price range, will be for sale after the show closes and can be bought with furnishings included.

Homearama is in the Hills of Oakland subdivision, developed by Mocer Development of Grand Blanc, on Adams Road north of Dutton Road, which is north of Rochester. Hours are 9-11 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Admission is $5.

'In-house' attorney a bad idea

Our board of directors insists upon using an attorney who lives in the condominium project to assist in drafting contracts for the site. Some people are concerned because the attorney is a personal injury lawyer and has no experience in real estate. Others have claimed that there may well be a conflict of interest particularly if the attorney "screws up." How can we convince the board that this action is not proper?

Tell the board to exercise common sense and think the matter through. If a co-owner is also the attorney for the association, how can he exercise independent judgment with respect to advising the board? He may also become involved in the political process to keep the present board in power so as to preserve his position as attorney for the association. If a problem arises either in regard to his competence, performance or billings, the fact that he is co-owner at the condominium makes things even worse. It can create potential divisiveness in the condominium that would not ordinarily be there. Finally, he may actually be in a conflict of interest in performing his duties for the association while being a co-owner there. Show the board this column, and perhaps they'll be persuaded to obtain independent counsel. Let me know the results.

The best insurance for the board of directors is to run the association in a prudent fashion.

Is there a law protecting homeowner association boards in the event of a lawsuit? We are a new subdivision checking. Our research shows such rates to be astronomical, thus prompting the above question.

An amendment to the Nonprofit Corporation act of 1988 basically limits director liability in certain instances if the amendment has been approved and passed to the articles of incorporation. But it does not totally eliminate director responsibility. Moreover, while there should be provisions in the association bylaws providing for indemnification for the directors, that too may not be fool-proof, particularly if the association does not have the funds to satisfy the requirements of indemnification.

Obviously there are ways of drafting your homeowner association documents to insulate certain liability of the board, but the best insurance for the board of directors is to run the association in a prudent fashion, to get good advice and to have adequate insurance to protect the interests of the board of directors as well as the association.

Would you please describe the benefits of incorporation as opposed to operating as an individual? I am buying a home and wish to rent it out and wonder whether it would be advisable to incorporate.

Putting aside consideration of the tax ramifications of operating as a corporation as opposed to an individual, when one incorporates that means the person is not personally responsible for the debts of a shareholder in the corporation.

Generally speaking, in a small, closely held corporation, the investor will be liable only to the extent of his investment in the corporation. The obligations of the corporation must be satisfied from the assets of the corporation. Therefore, it may be advisable for you to own the home as a corporation so long as the tax ramifications are not detrimental to you. You should consult with your tax adviser in that regard.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my lovers. You give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and You are in all instances of my life with me. I, in the short dialogue, want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with You, my loved One, in your Perpetual Glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After 3 days your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as the favor has been granted. Thanks, St. Jude, for favors received. DK

MONTHLY ALBUM

On the cover. . .

Suzanne Thomas-Ross and Bernard Turchin were the first couple to be married in the Francis S. Thomas Plaza-Clock Tower in downtown Trenton, named after the bride's late grandfather who was the city clerk there for 23 years. She is the daughter of Gaylord Francis and Linda Thomas of Plymouth and he is the son of Fabian and Joan Turchin of Dearborn. The couple have one son, and three children by previous marriages.

The bride's pale pink gown and veil are from Lina's Bridal in Plymouth. She was attended by Robin Jeanotte and Karen Gattes-Barham. The groom was attended by Bobby Turchin and Dave Kusdak.

Reck has owned and operated The Ultimate Image Photography since 1980 and this year moved to new quarters in the Laurel Manor Banquet and Conference Center in Livonia. He specializes in wedding photography with the goal of helping make the wedding day an unforgettable experience. Within the past five years he has won several awards and has had his work published in numerous magazines and publications.

The newlyweds continued their carriage ride down West Road to Westfield Center where they received 80 family members and guests. They honeymooned in Mountain Villas, Gatlinburg, Tenn., where the bride's grandparents honeymooned 52 years ago.

The bride is president of Payroll, Inc. in Plymouth and operations manager for CTC Engineering in Dearborn. The groom is a designer for Pioneer Engineering in Dearborn and owner-landlord of several rental properties.

Buelteman

Mr. and Mrs. R. Merrill Buelteman, 20 year residents of Farmington Hills, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary Sept. 5.

Their family of two daughters, nine grandchildren and nine great grandchildren honored them at an anniversary reception in Nardin Park United Methodist Church where the couple have been active members for 60 years.

Just for Brides

The Monthly Album is published the third Monday of every month for the announcements of engagements and weddings.

Engagement announcements will be accepted no later than 45 days prior to the wedding. Wedding announcements must be submitted within 60 days following the wedding. All announcements are run on a space available, first-come, first-served, basis.

Photos submitted should be black and white glossies, preferably 5 x 7 inches in size. Color photos can be submitted, and will be accepted, but they do not reproduce as well.

Due to the volume of photographs handled, the newspaper will not be responsible for any that may get lost or damaged. Photos can be picked up after publication in the Farmington Observer office, 33202 Grand River, in downtown Farmington. Or, if a self-address sufficiently stamped envelope is received with the photo it will be returned, generally within a week after publication.

All engagement and wedding announcements pertinent to Livonia, Redford, Garden City, Westland, Farmington and Farmington Hills are to be address to Loraine McClish, in care of the Farmington Observer at the above address. The zip code is 48024.

All inquiries are taken by McClish, or Rose Butler, at 477-5450.
