Mayor offers environmental protection plan

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

In a dramatic reversal from last year's failed attempt to convert part of a nature preserve into a golf course, Mayor Charles Griffin is asking the Westland City Council to consider a series of measures to preserve "the natural beauty and environmental qualities" of the city.

Griffin, in a report released by the mayor's office last week, is urging legislation on both local and state levels that would help:

- The preservation of environmentally sensitive areas and open space throughout the city.
- The protection and improvement of rivers and streams.
- Strong enforcement of current city ordinances and adoption of new, environmentally sound ordinances.

Robert Thomas, Griffin's opponent in next Tuesday's mayoral election, questioned the mayor's timing and motives for the plan and called the report "campaign literature."

Griffin said the plan, which he has worked on for several months, came out of last year's failed golf course proposal.

IN JANUARY 1988, Griffin outlined a plan to convert a portion of the William P. Holliday nature preserve, owned by Wayne County, into a city-owned, 18-hole golf course. The plan was eventually dropped in the face of public pressure and following an environmental impact study that recommended against it.

"That (the golf course controversy) taught me something," Griffin said Saturday. "It showed me that I needed to take a longer look at some of the issues and how they impact the people of Westland."

Among the specific proposals offered in the report are the establishment of a city wetlands act and tree preservation ordinance requiring developers to replace all trees removed for commercial, industrial and residential projects.

Griffin also calls for granting "passive" status to Hix-Koppnick Park, a 45-acre park on the city's northwest side owned partly by the county. He said an outdoor pavilion for environmental education could be built in the park and the city could work together with local schools to develop wildlife tours.

Griffin said he didn't have a formal timetable for the plan, but would like the council to begin considering it over the next few weeks.

Candidates hit the trail at an exhausting pace

Incumbent works to keep votes

By Tedd Schneider

It's 8 p.m. and Mayor Charles Griffin is waiting for the last of the nearly 150 people attending Saturday's pasta dinner at the Wayne-Ford Civic League to go through the buffet line before taking his own plate.

He looks hungry and a little bit tired. That's understandable.

Before this fund-raiser — put on by the Westland Democratic Club for Griffin and city council candidates Ethel Bollinger, Ben DeHart, Ken Mehl and William Ziemba — Griffin attended a reception in the city's southeast end honoring the Rev. John Hearn of the Peoples Community Baptist Church.

Before that it was a full afternoon of canvassing several Westland neighborhoods, reaffirming supporters and trying to persuade undecided residents that he deserves their votes next Tuesday against challenger Robert Thomas.

"IT SURE MAKES for a long day," Griffin said as he waited patiently.

Griffin, who was up at 7 a.m., said he probably wouldn't get home until after-midnight. "And by the time I wind down and get to bed it'll probably be 2 a.m."

After a quick bite, Griffin dispels any notion of fatigue with a short, rousing speech to dinner attendees. He repeats his campaign themes of re-electing a mayor with experience and a proven record.

Then, in a reference to a rowdy debate held earlier last week at the hall, he tells his supporters they have an election-day choice "between class and no-class — like we saw here the other night."

Earlier in the day, as he walked through a north end neighborhood, it was clear that being an incumbent had its advantages. For example, while Griffin passed out literature and talked to homeowners on one side of the street, Scott Barns (son of Robert Thomas is finishing his breakfast in a Ford Road coffee shop when a large man in a colorful sweatsuit approaches the table.

The two men exchange greetings and the well-wisher asks the mayoral candidate for an assessment of the campaign. The man leaves a moment later, wishing Thomas "good luck" and getting a thumbs-up signal in return.

"You know, his face looked awfully familiar, but I just can't remember his name," Thomas tells a reporter after the visitor is safely out of earshot.

For Thomas, being recognized by strangers is something new.

Before he entered the mayor's race last summer and finished a surprising second in the Sept. 12 primary — beating out city councilman and former mayor Charles Pickering and city councilman Thomas Artley — the 19-year city employee (department of public services) was a relative unknown on the Westland political scene.

approaches, Thomas says he is becoming more comfortable with his new identity as a public person.

That was apparent last weekend as Thomas, accompanied by a reporter and photographer, canvassed homeowners in the Tonquish subdivision west of Westland-Center.

The give-and-take between the candidate and residents was friendly. While a few weren't sure exactly who they were talking to, many seemed to recognize Thomas even before he introduced himself.

Thomas spent a few minutes at each home on his list talking about his major concern, commercial and industrial over-development. The issue, he said, is one that was brought to his attention by homeowners early in his campaign.

"That seems to be what people in Newburgh reopens

On Halloween morning, Westland motorists learned that the removal of a traffic bottleneck is a treat and not a trick.

Westland city officials and a paving contractor removed the barricades on Newburgh just north of Warren Road at 11 a.m. Tuesday, opening up a 1 1/4 mile stretch from Ford to Laramie. Sections of the road had been closed since this summer.

City officials also said another major road widening project — Warren Road west of Wayne Road — is scheduled to be open Friday, several weeks ahead of schedule.

Scott Veldhuis, the city's economic development director, said that the Warren Road project will cost $2.4 million with the Newburgh widening being $1.4 million. All the funds are coming from the Tax Increment Financing Authority program, which uses the increases from property tax revenues in an area under development to pay for public improvements in the area.

Veldhuis added that Warren Road will also be paved from Hix Road to the city's western limit with Canton Township to continue that paving to Lilley.

Taking part in the ribbon-cutting ceremony were officials of the Angelo D'Orazio Paving Inc., contractor for the Newburgh widening, Mayor Charles Griffin, Councilman Thomas Brown, city department heads, members of city commissions, economic development commissioners and the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

Newcomer reaches out to gain voter support

This community are more worried about than anything else," Thomas said. "Oh, I get a question once in a while about taxes, schools or some other off-the-wall kinds of things."

"But mostly, they want to talk about development. It's the biggest issue in this campaign."

AT ONE POINT, the candidate engages in a spirited debate over zoning with a homeowner who had been repairing a van parked in his driveway. The debate evolves into a 25-minute discussion about Thomas' plans for the city before Thomas moves on, buoyed by the knowledge that he's found some common ground, if not another vote.

The first time he went out walking for votes, before the primary election, Thomas placed a pedometer on his belt. It has stayed there ever since and, as of Saturday, had chalked up 269 miles.

"I thought I'd be losing a lot of weight, but I guess as I keep walking, I keep eating," Thomas said with a chuckle.

There isn't enough time to cover every neighborhood, so Thomas makes the rounds in what he feels are key precincts, where previous voter turnout has been high or where the race will be close.

Saturday's excursion was his second time through the Tonquish neighborhood. "I want to talk to people who weren't home the first time," Thomas said.

Despite the age of high-tech campaign gimmicks and media saturation, Thomas said going door-to-door is still the most effective way to get votes, especially for a first-time candidate.

"THIS IS ABOUT the only way to get out and meet people," he said. "Their (voters) biggest concern is 'I don't really know the guy,' so this is one way that they can get over that," he said.

Thomas said he walks through neighborhoods about five days in any week, usually for several hours at a time.

While he has a serious message to impart, some of the conversations with residents have been amusing, Thomas said.

"One woman told me that she would be glad if I was elected because 'At least we'd have a mayor with some hair on his head.'"

Unfortunately, Thomas said, fundraisers, candidates' nights and other activities have "cut into the time I can spend just meeting people on a one-to-one basis."

In fact, that night Thomas had a fund-raising spaghetti dinner at the St. Simon and Jude social hall on Palmer at Hubbard.

AT THE DINNER, which draws about 100 supporters, the candidate looks animated, but a little weary as he steps up to the microphone. "If each one of you calls just 10 people in the last few days before the election we can make this thing work," Thomas tells the crowd.

After the short speech and over the din of a disc jockey spinning records, Thomas tells a reporter he's glad the campaign has reached the home stretch.

"We've got nine days to go and sometimes I have trouble remembering what day it is."

Incumbent balances job with a hectic campaign

state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland) worked the other side of the street for Griffin and "to keep in touch for my mother."

And nearly everybody recognized the mayor.

BUT GRIFFIN said that incumbency has its shortcomings as well.

"It's harder to run for office while you're an officeholder than for someone from outside, and I'm not sure people understand that," Griffin said.

"You have to campaign and manage the city at the same time."

"In '85 (when he defeated incumbent Charles Pickering) I took three weeks vacation from my job to campaign," Griffin said.

There's also the occasional flak any mayor is bound to get as he goes door-to-door. "They (residents) figure they've got the mayor on the front porch and they might as well take the opportunity to fill me in," Griffin said.

"If you're the mayor, you're responsible for whatever the complaint is," he said.

As if to illustrate his point, a woman at the next house on Mackenzie complains that the city "blew it" when it attempted to fix the uneven sidewalk out front.

"I want it done the right way, especially since I had to pay $150," the woman tells Griffin.

The mayor assures her that the city will act on her complaint.

At homes where he meets with positive response, Griffin is likely to ask if he can put a lawn sign out. Campaign staffers keep a computerized list of which homes have signs.

Griffin said he has spent 1 1/2 hours each weeknight and about 4 hours Saturdays and Sundays walking through the city's neighborhoods talking to voters, depending on the weather. He said he planned to increase his canvassing this week as the election approaches.

HE'S LEARNED to forsake appearance for comfort, removing his sport coat as the afternoon warms up and wearing a solid pair of walking shoes that aren't likely to be confused with Guccis.

He said he's lost 13 pounds since before the primary.

"I could tell I was getting older (compared to the '85 race)," he said. "The first time I went out I had to soak my legs the minute I came back."

Griffin, like his opponent, has concentrated his canvassing effort in precincts where there is a high voter turnout. "You go where the competition is toughest and where you think you have the best chance of getting your message across," he said.

And while he said he always tries to be polite, the veteran politician added this piece of advice: tactfully reject any invitation to go inside for a cup of coffee.

"Once you're inside its just too tough to get out," Griffin said.

Griffin said people's concerns this fall have ranged from taxes, to development, to city services like snow plowing and street sweeping.

Seniors say thanks

Senior citizens visited Livonia Churchill High this week with some Halloween treats as their way of thanking the Churchill Marching Band for performing, for the second year, in the opening ceremonies of the Senior Olympics Sept. 27 at Madonna College. The Churchill band, directed by Jim Murphy, played the Olympic theme and patriotic songs during the team parade and torchlighting. More than 85 nursing home residents participated in five individual events and one team event. Kathy McNamara, Senior Olympics coordinator for International Health Care Management Inc., also presented plaques of appreciation to the band.

Environmental plan proposed

"It won't happen overnight and we may have to make some major compromises, but I think it's time to begin planning for what we ought to be doing in this area in the 1990s," Griffin said.

BUT THOMAS, while expressing support for the concept of preserving the city's natural environment, questioned Griffin's apparent about-face on environmental issues.

"Last year he was talking about building a golf course and now it seems like he's joined Jack Smiley's group (the Holiday Nature Preserve Association, which fought the golf course proposal)," Thomas said Saturday.

In addition to the projects listed in the report, Thomas said his own environmental concerns included finding ways to do more recycling and making sure commercial landscaping is done properly.

"What are we going to do with all of our leaves when all the landfills are filled to capacity in five or seven years?" Thomas said.

Thomas, a 19-year employee in the city's department of public services, also said the administration needs to keep a careful watch over landscaping work being done for commercial and industrial developments. He said previous commercial landscape work has interfered with sewer lines and other underground utilities.

The percussion section of the Franklin High band does its thing during Saturday's competition.

Marching bands play the field in competition

WESTLAND musicians in the John Glenn and Franklin High School marching bands were among the 16 groups that competed in Saturday's Flight II competition at John Glenn High Saturday.

This was the first year John Glenn hosted the afternoon preliminary state finals of Flight II competition for the Michigan Competing Band Directors Association.

The top four finalists in each of the three flights competed in the finals Saturday evening for the MCBDA State Championship at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park in Canton. In previous years, the Flight I, I and II preliminaries also were at the Plymouth CEP Athletic Field.

Franklin High won sixth place in Flight II out of a field of 16 bands. This is the second year—that the Franklin band, directed by Joan Seay, has been in the Flight II classification.

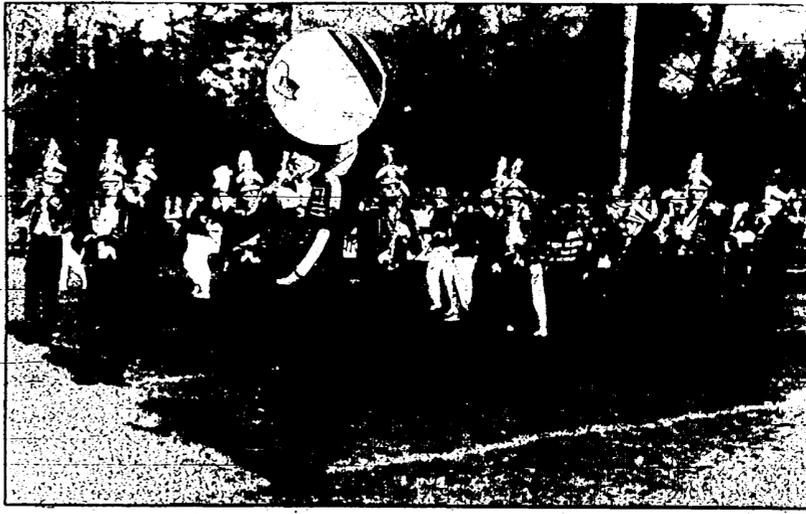

"The members of the band are elated and enthusiastically looking forward to next year's competition," said Seay, "since they have found what they are capable of achieving by dedication and many hours of practice."

cop calls

A ROBBER escaped with an undetermined amount of money after a holdup Monday night at the Arbor Drug store, 6503 N. Wayne, police said.

A store employee told police the man approached the counter twice shortly after 8 p.m. The first time, after several customers lined up behind him, the man left an item on the counter and returned to the store aisles, the employee said.

The man approached the counter again a few minutes later and demanded money from her register, the employee said. She said the man put his hand inside a jacket pocket and threatened to shoot her if she didn't cooperate.

The employee said she took several $5, $10 and $20 bills from the register, which the man grabbed from her hand before walking out of the store.

A second witness told police the man drove away from the store in an older model black car, possibly a Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

The employee described the bandit as in his late 20s or early 30s, 5 feet 9 inches tall with a medium build. He was wearing a blue jacket, blue and white shirt and jeans, the employee said.

A HOMEOWNER on the 34900 block of College called police Saturday night to report that a neighbor was firing a shotgun in an adjacent backyard.

Officers arrived on the scene at 10:15 p.m. and reported finding no one home at the house in question, on the 200 block of N. Christine.

The man told police his neighbor came into the yard carrying a shotgun and fired six shots into the air before returning to the house. The man also gave police a spent shotgun shell he said he found last week in his yard.

AN EMPLOYEE at the In N' Out convenience store, 1409 S. Merriman, reported that someone broke into the building early Saturday.

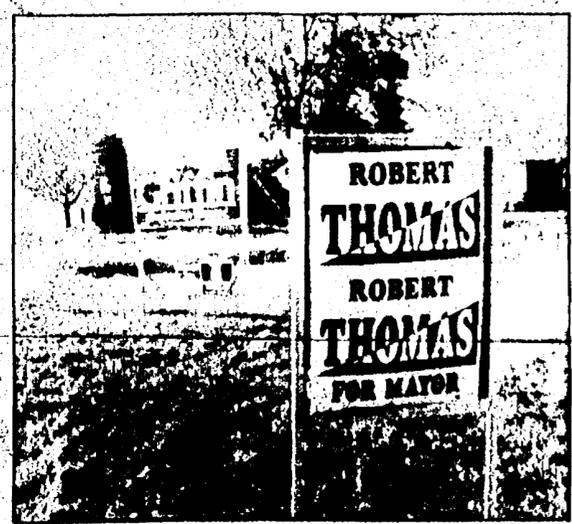

Nothing was stolen in the break-in, which occurred between 2:30 and 9 a.m. while the store was closed, the employee said.

Police said the intruder apparently entered the store through a vent on the roof. Several other roof vents appeared to have been tampered with in the break-in, the employee said.

VANDALS smashed a window on the southeast side of P.D. Graham Elementary School, 1255 S. John Hix, Sunday afternoon, police said.

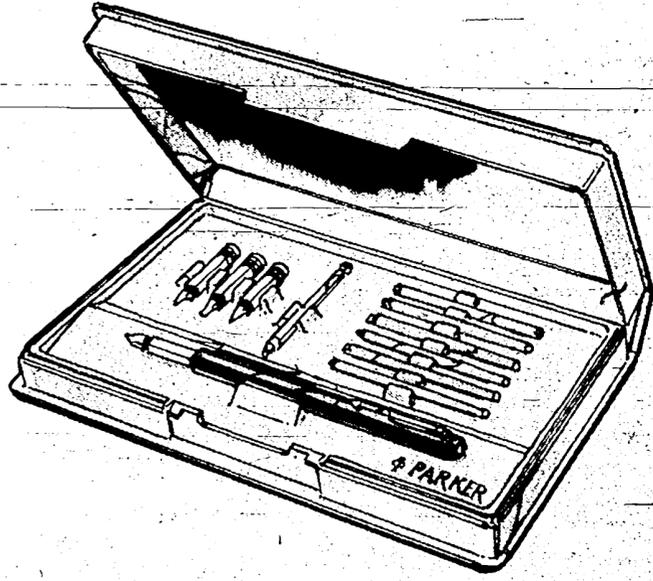

Officers were called to the school at 5:45 p.m. by a nearby resident.

Nothing appeared to be missing from the school, police said.

Frank McGraw doesn't mind providing equal campaign space on his front lawn to Mayor Charles Griffin and challenger Robert Thomas. The signs on the lawn on the Marquette-Wildwood corner don't necessarily mean McGraw is divided on which candidate to vote for, but it attracted a few chuckles from motorists driving by his house.

Chain reaction in traffic fatality ties up freeway

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

One family member was killed and two others critically injured Saturday morning in a series of collisions that left a jumble of two trucks and 11 smashed cars in the dense fog on the westbound side of the Jeffries Freeway between Farmington Road and Levan.

The family members were part of a group of seven Detroiters who were on their way in an AMC station wagon from the Seventh Day Adventist City Temple in Detroit to a church function in Lansing, said police. They said the car ran into the rear of a dump truck.

The driver of the car, Thomas Smartt, 39, was in stable condition Tuesday at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital. His wife, Joanne, 35, died about 7 p.m. Saturday at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, and a 12-year-old nephew, Joseph Smartt, was in critical condition Wednesday in St. Mary Hospital, Livonia.

Seven other people were taken to Garden City Osteopathic, said fire Chief Barney Knorp. According to police Sgt. Kenneth Marlow, all seven have been released.

"I've never seen that many cars involved in a chain reaction," said Marlow. "Usually you just read about those things happening in California."

GUY WARREN/staff photographer

THE ACCIDENT began about 9:15 a.m.

According to Marlow, two factors in the accident were a burning car on the shoulder of the freeway that distracted other drivers and the widely disparate speeds of the cars in the chain reaction.

He said with that many participants' stories to go through and because of the limited visibility at the time, it hadn't yet been determined who started the collision and what tickets would be issued or charges filed, if any.

"According to the statements, some of the drivers were going 45-55, and others obviously were not going that fast. Some were going considerably slower," said Marlow.

He said the fog was not nearly as thick up on the surface roads and appeared to have settled down in a low spot of the freeway.

Knorp said four people had to be pried from "several cars," using the Jaws of Life apparatus. "It was the worst accident I've seen in the 6 1/2 years I've been here.

"There were four cars that were practically welded together. We waited around until the tow trucks could get them separated in case there were sparks or gas leaks."

KNORP SAID he had up to 14 men at the scene, including an engine crew.

Three department ambulances were used to transport victims to the hospitals.

He said that after the 12-year-old was taken to St. Mary, that hospital declared its emergency room was at capacity, and the rest were taken to Garden City Osteopathic on Inkster Road north of Ford.

Thomas Smartt was later transferred to Henry Ford. There have been nine fatalities in eight traffic accidents in Livonia this year, said Marlow, including four since Oct. 9.

The freeway was closed until about 4 p.m., creating a huge tie-up before noon, with many of people on their way to the University of Michigan-Indiana football game in Ann Arbor.

As for the car that was burning alongside the freeway, it is being treated as a suspicious fire by Livonia police. They have been unable to reach the listed owner of the 1977 Oldsmobile.

According to a police report, the car was engulfed in flames at one point. The fire did not appear to have originated in either the engine compartment or the gas tank, but in the interior, which was melted to bare metal.

System to aid in service calls

Local Michigan Bell customers should find calling the company for service easier when a new computerized system is phased in by next June.

Using state-of-the-art call distribution equipment, the new system will provide common telephone numbers around the state for doing business with Michigan Bell.

"No matter where you live or work in Michigan, there'll be a single statewide phone number to call for placing service orders and one for making billing inquiries," said Marcia Buhl, Bell's local public relations director.

The new phone numbers will serve residential and small business customers. Large business customers will continue to have separate contact numbers.

BUHL SAID the company will use four new phone numbers with the prefix 221 for residential and business orders and billing. They will replace the approximately 40 customer service numbers currently in use. This system will replace the sometimes confusing array of customer service telephone numbers from which our residence and business customers now have to pick, based on where they're geographically located," she said.

"With Automatic Call Distribution technology, geography no longer is a barrier to fast, efficient customer service," she added.

BUDGET DINING ABOARD

Sticking to restaurants—particularly hotel restaurants—when traveling abroad can be both expensive and boring. Certainly good restaurants can be a highlight of your travel, but you can stretch your budget and broaden your horizons by considering some alternatives.

If you're not a big breakfast eater, follow your nose to the freshly baked breads and pastries at local bakeries, which make a splendid continental breakfast when accompanied by juice or coffee. Then, too, a light breakfast will leave you hungrier for lunch which is a good idea—restaurant lunch menus are often identical to those served at dinner, but can be considerably less expensive. Consider eating your main meal midday, followed by a light supper.

Bread is usually a bargain—it's filling, and every country seems to have its own delicious special sort. But watch out in restaurants for "bread and butter" charges—that basket on your table may carry its own price.

Great snack foods can often be bought on the street. Try the gaudies (small waffles) from Brussels vendors, or paper cones of fries (french fries) in Amsterdam or France. Fish and chips, wrapped in newspaper, are a filling snack meal throughout Britain.

Proposal A is front runner in Tuesday election

By Wayne Peal and Tim Richard staff writers

Two school finance proposals are on the Nov. 7 state ballot, but the big battle is over Proposal A — a half-cent increase in Michigan's 4-cent sales tax.

Proposal A is close in the polls, with 47 percent favoring it and 50 percent opposed.

It is endorsed by Gov. James Blanchard and the business-labor establishment that served on the Harden Commission. Their committee has been able to raise advertising money for a $3 million campaign. Half is coming from the Michigan Education Association.

PROPOSAL B is more extensive in its potential impact — a 2-cent increase in the sales tax with school operating property tax cuts averaging 37 percent for farms and homes, 22 percent for businesses.

But Proposal B trails badly in the polls — 40 percent in favor and 56 percent opposed. Moreover, although the League of Women Voters and many outside school boards support it, they have yet to raise any big money to change voters' minds.

Chief opponents of both are the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, which commissioned the polls, and Taxpayers United, the group organized in 1977 by Richard H. Headlee, whose name is on the 1978 tax limitation amendment.

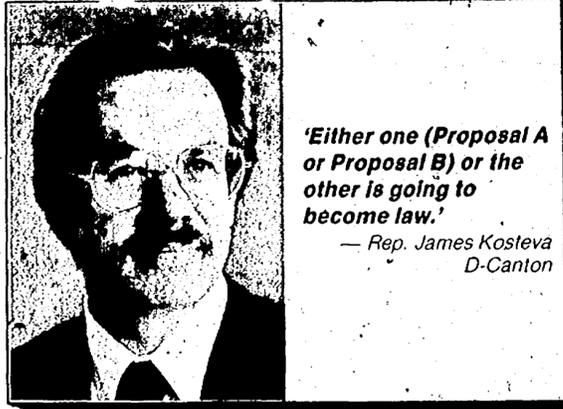

The Republican Party is deeply split. Half the 20 GOP state senators favor B. The other half oppose both — a group that includes John Engler, the probable 1990 gubernatorial nominee.

As Tuesday's vote approaches, two matters become clear:

- It's easy to decide how to vote if you want to do what's best for your local school district.
- It's far more difficult if you want to vote your pocketbook.

Each proposal is being touted as best for Michigan's public school students as a whole. But voters are rarely that altruistic.

Self-interest, whether on the part

'Either one (Proposal A or Proposal B) or the other is going to become law.'

— Rep. James Kosteva D-Canton of school districts or individuals, may well decide the issue.

Though no one is saying either proposal will bring about equality among Michigan's public school districts — and voters are free to approve both — the choice between Proposal A and Proposal B still shapes up as a battle between the haves and have nots.

Local district endorsements prove that point.

In Livonia, school board members have urged voters to reject Proposal B. If that proposal passes, Livonia will have to share a portion of its auto plant, office and mall tax revenue with other, less-developed, districts throughout the state. And that is something local officials are obviously loath to do.

In heavily residential Redford Union, school officials are endorsing both proposals. But they say they prefer Proposal B, precisely because of its tax-sharing provision.

As a rule — and regardless of official board positions — districts that receive direct state aid are pulling for Proposal B. These in-formula districts include Redford Union, Wayne-Westland and Garden City.

"We've encouraged voters to explore both proposals, but B would be best," Garden City Superintendent Michael Wilmot said.

Out-of-formula districts, like Livonia and South Redford, generally prefer Proposal A, though their support appears lukewarm at best. Livonia board members only urged "serious consideration" of Proposal A. South Redford took no official position.

Clarenceville, also out-of-formula, supports both, but doesn't believe it will benefit too greatly from either.

"We feel it's more for other, less fortunate districts," Superintendent Jerry Montecillo said.

In Plymouth-Canton, which recently fell out of formula, officials couldn't agree on either proposal. Some board members argued neither would benefit the district and either would erode local control over schools.

FOR THOSE who wish to vote their pocketbook, the choice at first appears obvious. Proposal B cuts local property taxes; Proposal A doesn't.

According to an analysis prepared for the state Legislature, school operating taxes would be cut by 17.7 mills in Garden City; 9 mills in Livonia; 16.9 mills in Plymouth-Canton;

Schoolcraft joins campaign to get more state aid

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Proposal A and Proposal B would grant more state aid to public school districts, not community colleges.

But community college leaders say they are in the same position as many school districts. Simply put, they're not getting enough money from Lansing.

Schoolcraft College officials last week approved a resolution calling on the state to finance community colleges under terms of a 1984 House/Senate agreement, which they said has been too long ignored. Other community colleges are doing likewise.

"WE HAVE agreed to the formula," Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell said. "The problem is, it's never been fully funded."

Schoolcraft would receive an additional $400,000 — and all community colleges a combined $18 million — if the five-year-old formula was fully financed.

Community colleges are currently receiving $212 million from the state, though McDowell said that figure should be $230 million.

"That's what House and Senate fiscal agents said it should be based on the formula," he said.

The resolution is aimed at increasing state aid for the 1990-91 school year. By then, community college leaders said, the state would have to provide an additional $25 million — or more than $1,000 for each community college student.

NAMED FOR ITS sponsors, state Sen. Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, and state Rep. Thomas Mathieu, D-Grand Rapids, the formula is designed to divide state aid among Michigan's 29 community colleges.

Community colleges account for 40 percent of Michigan's total college population. Because of that, community college leaders say their 3 percent share of the state's general fund is inadequate.

Proposal A and Proposal B, to be decided by voters Tuesday, involve public school districts, not community colleges.

"We took no position on either," McDowell said. "We know Proposal B would affect property taxes, but whether that would affect us, I don't think anyone could say at this time."

Schoolcraft levies a community college operating tax in the Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Garden City, Clarenceville and Northville public school districts, as well as in a small portion of Novi Schools.

Walkathon benefits meals-on-wheels

"Miles for Meals," a walkathon for local meals-on-wheels programs, will be held Nov. 11 at the University of Michigan-Dearborn fieldhouse.

The county walkathon is one of many events being held nationwide on behalf of food programs for seniors.

Volunteers are encouraged to seek donations for each kilometer of the five-kilometer walk. Contributions can be designated for use in a specific community.

Opening ceremonies will be at 9 a.m., with the walk to follow immediately afterward. A toddler trot and kiddie walk for older children will be at 11 a.m.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara will be among the walkers.

Door prizes, refreshments and T-shirts will be available.

Wayne County's Office of Nutrition Services estimates more than 1 million home-delivered meals were served last year, with demand increasing each year.

To volunteer, call 453-2808.

Madonna professor named to national advisory group

Madonna College assistant professor Marilee Smith has been chosen to serve on the national advisory committee for a $4 million project to expand licensed practical nursing and bachelor of science nursing programs.

The project is sponsored by the Teagle Foundation, an associate of the Exxon Oil Co.

Smith, a Lathrup Village resident, is project director of Madonna's licensed practical nursing and four-year nursing degree programs.

A study prepared for the foundation indicated Madonna's program is the only one in the United States with a well-developed system of nursing theory testing, clinical competency challenges and reduced clinical experience requirements to assist licensed practical nurses. Because of that, many licensed practical nursing students can complete their education in 2 1/2 years as part-time students.

The Teagle Foundation program is designed to help reduce the nation's nursing shortage by providing opportunities for licensed practical nurses to become registered nurses.

Mail-in registration continues through Nov. 18 at S'craft

Schoolcraft College's mail-in registration for winter semester is being held now through Nov. 18. Mail-in registration is convenient and gives students the best selection of classes to meet their individual schedules.

Students can pay by check, MasterCard or Visa. Day or evening classes are available at the main campus, as well as at the Garden City and Plymouth Salem centers.

New course offerings include the following: Introduction to DOS (computer related), Building Reading and College Success Skills, Introduction to Art and Music, Applications, Utility of Math, Microsoft Word and Applied Physics.

Here are school ballot proposals

Here is the wording Michigan voters will see on the Nov. 7 ballot for two school finance proposals:

PROPOSAL A

A proposal to increase the sales/use tax from 4 cents to 4.5 cents per dollar and constitutionally dedicate funds for local schools.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools: a) half-cent increase in sales/use tax; b) Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes; c) Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51 percent to 68 percent) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.

2) Distribute dedicated funds to school districts as provided by law.

3) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny 100 percent of state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans. Should this proposal be adopted?

PROPOSAL B

A proposal to increase the sales/use tax from 4 cents to 6 cents per dollar, reduce school property taxes, set permanent school operating millages not subject to voter renewal, and constitutionally dedicate funds for local schools.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools: a) 2 cents increase in sales/use tax; b) Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes; c) Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51 percent to 75 percent) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.
- 2) Reduce property taxes in most school districts. Replace school taxes with permanent statewide millages (9 mills on residential/farm; 14 mills on businesses) plus non-voted local millage not subject to voter rollback. Limit voter-approved increases to 4 mills.

3) Set per-pupil funding guarantees subject to change by law requiring two-thirds vote.

4) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny all non-guaranteed state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans. Should this proposal be adopted?

County population down 9.2 percent

AP — The number of people living in Wayne County dropped 9.2 percent between 1980 and 1988, but it remains the state's most populous county with 2.1 million residents.

An analysis of state population trends by the Senate Fiscal Agency found that Wayne County lost about 215,000 residents since the 1980 census.

The drop came even though the state's population dipped only slightly, from 9,262,044 in 1980 to 9,239,800 last year.

The analysis noted that about 42 percent of Michigan's population lives in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties.

Oakland County's population went up 4 percent, to a little more than 1 million, while Macomb County's increased 1.8 percent, to 706,900.

Luce County was the biggest population loser in terms of percentage, dropping 12.9 percent, from 6,659 in 1980 to 5,800 last year.

On the other end, Roscommon County's population went up 25.8 percent, from 16,374 to 20,600. Lake County went up 16.7 percent, from 7,711 to 9,000, and Grand Traverse County went up 15.3 percent, from 54,899 to 63,300.

Kalamazoo County went up 15 percent from 10,952 to 12,600.

Other counties of note: Kent County's population went up 9 percent, from 444,506 to 484,600.

Genesee dropped 4.4 percent from 450,449 to 430,700.

Ingham County went up 0.3 percent from 275,520 to 276,300.

Washtenaw County went up 1.2 percent from 264,740 to 267,800.

Kalamazoo County went up 2.6 percent from 212,378 to 217,900.

Saginaw County dropped 5.5 percent, from 228,059 to 215,500.

Ottawa County went up 14.9 percent, from 157,174 to 180,600.

Polls show 'A' has best chance Tuesday amount above the cap. For seniors, the rebate is 100 percent.

How to figure whether there would be a tax saving or how much would be saved?

Multiply your home assessment by the projected change in millage, then subtract the amount saved through the circuit breaker, if used, as well as the amount lost through the sales tax increase. A rough guide: add two percent to your credit card bills over the past 12 months.

Because both proposals could be approved, speculation has recently centered on whether the sales tax could rise as high as 6.5 percent.

But one local state representative said that won't be the case.

"Either one or the other is going to become law," said Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, vice chairman of the House Taxation Committee.

State elections director Chris Thomas said the proposal with the most "yes" votes would become law.

Thomas said state law clearly specifies conflicting ballot proposals couldn't be enacted.

"If someone were to challenge it, it seems to me they would say they don't conflict," he said. He added, however, he was unaware whether any group would challenge the outcome should both issues pass.

House eyes repeal of 1840s abortion law

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A bill to decriminalize abortion is on the state House of Representatives' agenda after clearing a friendly Judiciary Committee.

"Anti-abortion laws are vestiges of the Dark Ages. My procedure was safe but illegal," said Arlene S. Law, a retired University of Michigan professor who admitted having an abortion in 1957, when she was a 17-year-old high school honors student in Birmingham.

The committee gave 11-6 support Tuesday to House Bill 5170, which would amend the penal code by repealing an 1840s law making it a felony to perform an abortion. Sponsor is Rep. Teola Hunter, D-Detroit.

THE PANEL didn't vote, however, on a companion "freedom of choice" bill by Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield.

Berman's HB 5211 says the state couldn't compel a woman either to terminate or continue her pregnancy. Berman cited other states where developmentally disabled women were forced into sterilization.

"That is abhorrent," she said. "The Legislature should remove itself from the abortion issue."

The Judiciary Committee, chaired by the pro-choice Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, has yet to look at a Senate-passed bill to require girls 17 and under to get either parental or probate court permission for an abortion.

The Senate Human Services Committee is looking at four other bills to place state regulations on abortions following last summer's U.S. Supreme Court rulings.

THE LAW making the performing of an abortion a felony is unconstitutional but still legally valid, experts told the committee.

Thus, if the U.S. Supreme Court should reverse the landmark 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision protecting the right to abortion, Michigan would be in a position to prosecute doctors, nurses and hospitals which perform them.

One of the six nay votes was cast by Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield.

"It was quite a surprise" that the Hunter bill came up, he said after the hearing. "I just got notice of it yesterday. No one from the other side was prepared to testify."

Honigman, an attorney, was bothered by the possibility that Hunter's bill might make it impossible to prosecute one who performs an abortion on a viable fetus in even the ninth month of pregnancy.

But in the hearing, Bullard said another section of the penal code prohibits abortion of a viable fetus.

Only Right to Life opposed the measure. "There would be a public policy vacuum (if the Roe decision were overturned)," said RTL spokesman Ed Rivet.

BUT IF THE anti-abortion forces were barely geared up, pro-choice forces were.

Bullard happily announced that the American Civil Liberties Union, League of Women Voters, National Organization of Women of Ann Arbor, National Lawyers Guild and National Council Against Domestic Violence and others were there in support.

The personal abortion story came from Dr. Law, who said she lived in Honigman's West Bloomfield district when "I became pregnant in the back seat of a Chevy" at her older brother's Hillsdale College fraternity party in 1957.

Law, a retired U-M professor of education and now a Hartland resident, said that after an unnamed Birmingham gynecologist scolded her, she had considered suicide and a coat hanger abortion until a "worldly man" active in Birmingham Village Players showed her another option.

The man guided her to a clinic on Seven Mile Road in Detroit and gave her $300 cash. Law said two doctors there thoroughly explained the suction procedure, and a nurse afterward checked her signs and gave her prescriptions for antibiotics.

"I can't understand why people object to safe, legal abortions," she said.

DOREAN KOENIG, a professor at Cooley Law School in Lansing, said the 1840s law should be repealed because it hasn't been used in years.

"The courts say it's public policy but no longer constitutional. It would become valid if Roe is overturned," said Koening, who teaches criminal and constitutional law.

"This statute does not apply to the woman — just the doctors, hospitals and nurses," she said.

From the moment the session opened, Bullard clearly had the votes to report the bill out favorably. But the six-member minority still made its arguments.

"There has been no debate on the rights of the child," said Rep. Nick Ciaramitaro, D-Roseville, legislative spokesman for Right to Life. "Do we protect some people's rights or all people's rights?"

Added Rep. William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison: "Is a fetus a person? We've avoided the question. And what percentage of (aborted) fetuses are female versus male?"

Contest marks anniversary of copyright law

Michigan high school students are encouraged to enter a national creativity contest sponsored by the U.S. Copyright Office and the National School Boards Association to honor the 200th anniversary of the Federal Copyright Law.

The Young Creator's Contest is designed to provide young people with an education about the relationship between copyright and creativity and an incentive to make a creative contribution to society. The seven categories are short story, poem, musical work, dramatic work, videotape or audio visual work, photograph or computer program.

The individual winner in each category will receive an all expense paid four day trip to Washington, D.C., in May 1990 to participate in the Copyright Law Bicentennial activities. There will be an exhibit of many of the best works at the Library of Congress; this exhibit will then go on tour.

Deadline for entries is Jan. 15, 1990. For more information, call (202) 707-6800.

Students urge SC to keep options program for adults

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Schoolcraft College officials say they've made no decision on the future of a college adult education program.

But the mere fact they were discussing the academic options program brought nearly a dozen students to the Oct. 25 board meeting, urging trustees to keep the program alive.

"It's made a big difference," said Southfield resident Rhonda Selmon, completing her education after 25 years in the work place. "For the first time in my life, I am enjoying going to school."

The academic options program, unique to Schoolcraft, provides independent study for adults returning to college after a long absence.

"IT EASES their fears about college," said Bonnie Katschman of Livonia, a member of the program's advisory board. "It's not the kind of program where you sit in class, raising your hand, or where you have to give the teacher a note if you're absent. It treats students like adults."

Katschman said she was concerned the program could be phased out by 1991, though trustees said no decision has been made.

"What we're doing is gathering information," said trustee Michael Burley.

Trustees said they were trying to determine whether there was interest — and money — enough to keep the program going.

"The issue is, is it sustainable," Harry Greenleaf said.

If the program's future is in jeopardy, it is because some college officials believe it doesn't serve enough students.

A recent college report said the academic options program accounted for a mere 122 credit hours.

Katschman, though, disputes that figure, saying the actual credit load is more than double that.

"Its enrollment has never been so high," she said. "I don't know where they got that (122 credit-hours) figure."

The problem, Katschman said, is that the program isn't sufficiently promoted.

Though created by Schoolcraft in 1975, the program also serves students at Spring Arbor College near Adrian.

There, students lacking sufficient freshman and sophomore level credits are sent to Schoolcraft to complete their degree program.

A similar agreement with Eastern Michigan University is pending, she said.

Though some students have their education underwritten by their employer, Katschman said many are in the process of changing careers.

"These are people who feel they're stalemated and feel education will help open new doors," she said.

Happy anniversary!

Livonia Mall officials took time out Sunday to celebrate 25 years of serving area shoppers. Mall director Jeanne Hildebrandt (left) joined mall owners Jack and Miriam Shenkman, Barry and Helen Klein in welcoming the some 200 well-wishers who came to the party and dinner. Dance music was provided by an ensemble from the Livonia Symphony. The anniversary celebration was the first one held by the mall; two years ago the mall owners held a grand opening when a new wing was added.

Guests enjoy a festive dinner to help mark Livonia Mall's silver anniversary in the community.

Is The Vital-18 the Natural Path to Weight Control??

President of Vital-18, Inc.
By Staci Wilhelm

The following INTERVIEW was originally published in The Health Focus June 1987 issue. Since that time a great deal more people have tried "The Vital-18." According to reports we have received, they have had tremendous success. Since Jan. 1987, we have had one bottle per thousand returned by dissatisfied customers; and we have consistently enjoyed a 90% repurchase rate. We believe these statistics speak for themselves.

develop a lot of the health problems experienced here in the Western world. The medical bills began to get rather expensive so they brought a team of doctors and technicians in from Pakistan, India and Japan to attempt to alleviate the problem. It seems that medical people from these countries lean more to natural remedies than to synthetic drugs. After three years of research, experimentation, and several million dollars in expenditures, "The Vital-18" was the result of their work.

Question: Well, after all this money and time, what did they actually produce?

Answer: There is a rather lengthy technical answer to that, but to make it short they took a very basic form of plant life, a single cell blue green algae, and under controlled conditions fed it specific nutrients and minerals. Through the natural process of photosynthesis, they produced a super plant protein containing 18 of the known 22 amino acids, including the essential eight amino acids, and some 72 vitamins and trace minerals. It is now the highest natural source for beta carotene that I know of, and is even several times higher in vitamin B12 than liver.

Question: What does all this have to do with weight loss?

Answer: The original product was engineered as a general health aid for one of the richest nations in the world. We got them to make a change in the formula to reduce the calorie content. When it is taken as we recommend, it provides the fuel for the body with practically no calories. Your readers familiar with amino acids probably already know why it works so well. One of the amino acids provides fuel for the brain, another stimulates the thyroid gland to increase metabolism, another aids in the transfer of carbohydrates into cellular energy, another aids in the removal of waste from the cells, another assists in relieving depression. All this results in weight loss and feeling absolutely fantastically good.

Question: Some of the people we have spoken to who have taken or are taking "The Vital-18" make some astonishing claims, not only about is that you can lose weight and at the same time feel better than you ever have. If someone buys "The Vital-18" and for any reason is dissatisfied, we will refund their money.

Question: Is it a totally safe product?

Answer: Staci, "The Vital-18" is 100 percent natural I can't think of any food that is safer with no synthetics or animal parts of any sort. It is now grown and processed right here in the USA under strict USDA requirements. Because it is totally natural, the body only takes what it for? I can't think of any food that is safer.

However our tremendous success has generated a great demand by stores that we do not allow to carry The Vital-18. These stores may try to sell what they call a similar product, some of them have copper sulfate in them and some have yeast. Copper sulfate is used as an insecticide on apples, grapes and other fruits. Copper compounds are listed in USA Today as 13th of the top 25 toxins in the United States. THE VITAL-18 IS ENTIRELY SAFE. I cannot vouch for these so called "similar" products. All consumers should read the label on anything they purchase. If it doesn't say The Vital-18 (a registered trademark) then it isn't, regardless of how similar another products claims to be. The Vital-18 is an exclusive formula duplicated by no one else. Don't let someone try to sell you a substitute.

Question: How long has "The Vital-18" been available in the United States and when will we expect to see it in the stores?

Answer: We succeeded in negotiating an exclusive contract for "The Vital-18" with Sheik Jossam Califa Alfonti of the Royal Family of Qatar in December of 1986 for North America. We were incorporated in January of 1987 and made "The Vital-18" available to the American public at that time. You will only see this product in exclusive health food stores which have been selected as authorized distribution centers. We do not want "The Vital-18" associated with any other of the so-called diet products presently available. We believe the most effective way of marketing this product is simply by people telling other people what it has done for them. We have a motto in the company "Sharing the Health and the Wealth." We are growing at a steady 60 percent per month and have been since January 1987. We may have the fastest growing network of Distributors in the U.S. Actually, I prefer to call us a "Sequential" marketing company as we do not make any profit off the distributors, only on the product sold.

Question: How could someone get access to this product?

Answer: In the Plymouth area we have selected Healthways of Plymouth health food store as an exclusive authorized Distribution Center. Healthways of Plymouth is located at 942 West Ann Arbor Trail, a block west of the park. The phone number for Healthways of Plymouth is 313-455-1440. Mail orders are accepted.

Otherwise you could call Vital-18 Incorporated at 904-282-9871 or write P.O. Box 1205, Middleburg, FL 32068 for a local Distributor in your area.

Question: What if the customer is not satisfied?

Answer: Staci, the customer just returns the bottle to the location of purchase and gets their refund. The Vital-18 has a 100% unconditional money back guarantee.

Question: What does it taste like? Most diet products are unpleasant, to say the least.

Answer: It is a liquid and comes in three flavors. It tastes good enough that if you want to keep the kids out of it, you may have to hide it.

"The Vital-18" is 100% natural. . .grown and processed. . .in the USA under strict USDA requirements. . .Because it is totally natural, the body takes only what it wants. I can't think of any food that is any safer.

the weight they have lost but what it has done for them healthwise also. Is all this truly possible?

Answer: I am not really sure how to answer that. I am not a doctor or a bio-chemist. We are getting reports back every day that astound even me.

There does indeed seem to be some scientific basis for amino acids aiding in all these problems. The only claim that Vital-18 Inc. makes needs. We have a customer who must lose weight prior to having surgery. Her doctor is prescribing "The Vital-18". It does not require a prescription, and her insurance company is paying for it. As a matter of fact, we just received a request from her insurance company to send her an additional month's supply at their expense. Staci, can you name me another diet product that insurance companies are willing to pay

Meteor shower, comets highlight November sky

On the morning of Nov. 17, the moon forms an elongated triangle with Pollux (PAWL lux) and Castor, the twin stars in Gemini. Each star represents a "head" of one of the twins. Pollux is to the north (right) of the moon; Castor is north of Pollux.

That morning is also when the Leonid meteor shower reaches its maximum. The Leonids are named for the constellation of Leo, which is east (left) of Gemini and looks like a giant backward question mark.

The Leonids are no more impressive than the S. Taurids were earlier this month; expect an average of 15 meteors each hour. The Leonids are notable for having been very spectacular in 1833 when thousands of meteors lit up the sky.

Such a display is not expected in 1989. There is, however, a 33-year cycle in the Leonid display. If you wait until 1999, the Leonids may put on a very impressive show.

The bright star to the east (left) of the moon on the morning of Nov. 19 is Regulus (REG u lus), the "heart" of Leo the lion.

Last-quarter moon is at 11:44 p.m. Nov. 19. The moon is starting the last quarter of its orbit around the Earth. On the morning of Nov. 20, the moon has passed Regulus.

The moon is in Virgo on the morning of Nov. 24. The bright star to the east (left) of the moon is Spica (SPY ca). The position of the moon also points us to the location of a new comet, one that could be visible to the naked eye!

COMET Okazaki-Levi-Rudenko (named for all three of its discoverers) was first seen telescopically in August.

Kiyomi Okazaki photographed it Aug. 24 with a 10-inch Schmidt camera. Veteran comet hunter David Levi of Arizona spotted it visually with his 16-inch reflector telescope the following night, and Michael Rudenko of Massachusetts did the same with a 6-inch refractor Aug. 26.

It has been moving from the constellation Bootes (bo OH tees), which is north of (above) Virgo, into Virgo itself. On Nov. 24 the comet will be near Spica, just above the upper cusp of the waning (fading) crescent moon. The comet will certainly be visible with binoculars, and might even be bright enough to be seen with the naked eye.

Raymond E. Bullock

OF ALL the objects appearing in our sky, one of the most exciting to see is a comet.

The word "comet" comes from the Greek word "kometis," which means "hairy star." A comet looks like a furry star!

Because a bright comet is rarely seen, the appearance of one usually terrified the ancient skywatchers. Most believed comets were mysterious objects; they would appear unexpectedly, then slowly fade from view. All kinds of stories were concocted to explain the reason for their appearance.

IT WASN'T until an English astronomer named Edmond Halley (HALL ee) came along that our understanding of comets began to improve. He had noted a regular 76-year interval where historical records made mention that a bright comet had appeared.

Halley made the very daring proposal that comets orbited the sun and predicted that this same bright comet would return in the year 1759.

What made this prediction all the more remarkable was that it was made at a time when the orbits of the planets weren't fully understood.

Many laughed at Halley, but the comet did return. To honor his prediction, the comet was named in Halley's honor. But he did not live to see his prediction fulfilled. He would have been 107 years old if he had!

A COMET can appear in any part of the sky at any time of the year. Infamous Comet Kohoutek was seen in 1973 and named for the man who first spotted it when it was far from the sun.

Comet Kobayashi-Berger-Milon was seen in 1975 and named for all three of its discoverers. Comet West appeared in 1975 and put on a magnificent display in the pre-dawn sky. The recent appearance of famous Comet Halley was not expected to be exceptional, and it lived up to those expectations!

A comet is the biggest bunch of nothing to be called something there is. It's not much more than a dirty snowball; frozen dust, ice, and gas orbiting the sun.

As a comet approaches the sun, a tail begins to form and the comet becomes visible. The comet's tail is produced as the energy of the sun strikes the comet, which makes the comet heat up and vaporize. The sun blows the stream of vapor out into space, causing the tail to always point away from the sun.

WHEN A COMET disintegrates, all its debris continues to follow the same orbit around the sun. As the Earth passes through the stream of debris, we have showers of particles falling through our atmosphere. We can predict when the Earth will enter the stream, so we know when the major meteor showers will occur.

It is very difficult to predict exactly how impressive (or unimpressive) Comet Okazaki-Levi-Rudenko will become. We are not certain that a related spectacular meteor shower will be seen.

The only certainty is that the opportunity of seeing a bright comet is very rare. Everyone should make an attempt to see this one. The moon points right to it!

THE MOON also points the way to Mars on the morning of Nov. 26. Face the southeast, approximately 45 minutes before sunrise, to see the moon. Five degrees to the east (left) of the moon is Mars, the red planet. Using binoculars, look for a star named Alpha Librae (LEE bray), almost directly above Mars.

Alpha Librae also has a real name as well: Zuben Eigenubi (ZOO ben elgen U bi), which means the "southern claw."

At one time, the neighboring constellation of Scorpius included this star as its southern claw. Of course there is a "northern claw" as well. Beta Librae is named Zuben Eschamali (ZOO ben es she MA li).

NEW MOON is at 4:41 a.m. on Nov. 28. The moon is between the Earth and the sun, and is not visible.

Face west, one-half hour after sunset, Nov. 29. Venus is about as far south (left) of Saturn, as Saturn was south of Venus four weeks earlier. On the evening of Nov. 30, the two-day-old crescent moon is five degrees below Saturn.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly "Sky Calendar." A one-year subscription is $6. It is available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing 48824.

Waste not: Less garbage, more recycling in 1990s

AP— By the end of the 1990s, you may be paying by the pound to get rid of your garbage. Your house could have more recycling bins than trash cans. And your supermarket food will probably come with a little less super-wrapping.

Solid-waste specialists say such changes are inevitable because of an upcoming crunch on the garbage front: Half the nation's 8,000 dumps will be filled and closed in the '90s.

The ride into the "recycling decade" may be bumpy. Buyers for recycled newspaper, glass and plastic are sometimes difficult to find. Breaking the generations-old habit of tossing everything into one garbage can may prove daunting. New recycling systems need hefty up-front appropriations.

But the specialists see overwhelming motivations for change:

- The cost of simply throwing things away is rising, as communities ship their garbage farther and farther away and new environmental regulations make dump maintenance more expensive.

- People are growing more concerned about cleaning up the planet. A Media General-Associated Press poll earlier this year found that 87 percent of Americans would back a requirement to separate their trash for recycling.

"ENVIRONMENTAL AWARENESS is growing by leaps and bounds," said Sylvia Lowrance, director of the Environmental Protection Agency's office of solid waste. "We're going to see a lot of peer pressure, neighborly pressure on people not to throw away everything."

In garbage, the future is also the past. Greater recycling and reuse of discarded material would represent a return to pre-World War II ways in America, including fewer-frills packaging on food products.

"By the end of the decade, I think recycling is going to be part of the cultural fabric of society," said Bruce Weddle, director of EPA's municipal solid waste program. "People will be separating out all bottles, cans, newspapers, plastics, leaves and grass clippings instead of throwing them in one can."

THE TRANSITION will not occur overnight, the experts say. But "even with the recalcitrant ones," said Lowrance, "when it hits their pocketbook, they are going to become recyclers."

As it is now, many communities go to great lengths to dump their garbage.

Northeast states truck trash hundreds of miles to Midwest dumps. West Coast cities ship it by rail to rural landfills because their hometown dumps have closed. But much of the interstate garbage business is in jeopardy because landfills are closing and local residents oppose opening new ones to the out-of-state waste.

In addition, new EPA landfill regulations due out in December will accelerate the garbage crunch by shutting down many antiquated dumps, Lowrance said. She said the rules will require dump inspections and multi-layered dump liners, which prevent liquid from contaminating groundwater. About 80 percent of the nation's dumps do not have liners.

ALTHOUGH ALL this makes recycling look more attractive, most garbage specialists say recycling alone will not solve the garbage crisis.

They foresee a need to keep establishing new dumps, especially sites serving entire regions, and the building of more incinerators.

in smoke from incinerators could rise by the year 2000 to 25 percent from 10 percent. The United States now has 149 incinerators; 227 are expected to be on line in 1992. Incinerators have been opposed by environmentalists, concerned over air pollution and the problem of disposing of toxic ash.

Former EPA administrator William Ruckelshaus, now chief executive of Browning-Ferris Industries, a solid-waste management company, believes the garbage crisis demands an integrated solution of recycling, burying and burning. In a telephone interview, he said local residents across the country have thwarted percent and recycle the remainder. The EPA predicts recycling will jump to 25 percent by 1992. Some states, such as Massachusetts, have set a 50 percent recycling goal by the year 2000. That would mean widespread recovery of food and yard waste, which amounts to 23 percent of what is buried in dumps.

Jail overcrowding

Police send prisoners north to ease space crunch

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

Livonia is sending its prisoners to jail in Alpena. Westland is sending the accused to lockups in Shiawassee or Huron counties.

Those convicted of misdemeanor offenses in Canton Township are likely to serve their 30 day sentences on weekends.

District court judges across Wayne County are pleading for space for their prisoners downtown at the rate of 10 to 20 requests a week, according to Judge Richard C. Kaufman, chief of the Wayne County Circuit Court.

In fact, the Wayne County Jail overcrowding has become so severe in recent weeks that pre-trial armed robbers are being released, according to Kaufman. Those prisoners are being sent back to local district lockups, where a 72 hour holding limit is in effect.

"The jail (population) is almost entirely pre-trial violent felons," Kaufman said.

"In the four years I've been presiding over the jail, this is the worst (overcrowding) has been."

It has become standard practice to exceed the maximum of 1,550 prisoners by 200, Kaufman said. And the new county jail is still two years away from completion.

JAIL OVERCROWDING has been an issue in Wayne County since the mid 1970s — first as the result of a lawsuit which decreased the number of prisoners who could be housed. It was compounded by the closing of the Detroit House of Corrections earlier this decade, and further frustrated by the slow process of getting voters to approve a bond proposal to build the new jail.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said in the interim, his department will continue to search for jail space out of the county, and has contracted 32 beds with Oakland County and 32 beds with Alpena jails. But some law enforcement officials don't think the county is doing enough.

While privatization was mentioned as a possible solution — that is hiring a private company to house prisoners — Ficano dismissed that option.

"Privatization is not successful," he said. "Plus you would need legislation to do it (in Michigan)."

Westland police spokesman Michael Frayer said although it may cost less to house prisoners in northern Michigan jails, transporting prisoners to other counties in northern Michigan "is a burden on the manpower in our department."

"We've been taking them to Huron and Shiawassee counties. Even paying for transportation up there, it's cheaper than Wayne County," said Frayer.

Wayne County charges $65 a day per prisoner, some northern communities charge as low as $40.

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers, president of the Wayne County Chiefs of Police, said jail overcrowding "is the number one issue on our minds."

"Luckily, in Plymouth we have mostly property crime — not violent criminals. But communities like Livonia and Westland are really struggling with this one."

"Ultimately, it's not completely our problem, or the courts, or the county. We all have to work together and try as many alternatives as we can. The real loser is the general public."

LIVONIA IS transporting prisoners to northern communities up to five times a week — 100 prisoner transfers a month.

"We have two classes of prisoner," said William Hoff, deputy chief.

"The convicted misdemeanants sentenced to 20 or 30 days and the felony prisoners. We have no place to hold them between arrest, arraignment and pre-trial examination. The past few months it has really been getting worse. The volume has increased tremendously. Our arrests are up 50 percent in the last year and a half.

"The additional expense to our department has been great, we've been using officers at time and a half salary rate, plus wear and tear on our vehicles."

The Livonia lockup has a capacity for 20 prisoners — who have to be shuffled out within 72 hours.

"A few times we've exceeded that limit. It has been unavoidable," Hoff said.

One of the reasons for the three-day limit is that local lockups don't have the facilities for longer incarcerations — no recreation facilities or library. Often food comes from the local fast food restaurant.

Redford Township Police Chief David Parker admits that prisoners serving sentences on misdemeanor convictions are being released early in order to keep felony suspects in the township's over-crowded lockup.

Most of those being freed were jailed for non-violent crimes, such as drunk driving and minor assault charges.

Parker has said that felony suspects are held until there's room at the Wayne County Jail.

The law enforcement community has formed committees to seek solutions. Livonia 16th District Judge Robert Brzezinski is on a jail committee. John Santomauro, Canton Township director of public safety, is on a corrections committee.

"We are working on something right now. My concern is that we would do well not to jump at a simple solution," Santomauro said.

When asked if jail overcrowding is a burden on his department, Garden City police commander Roger Wilkes said "I just got back from the (district court) judge's office. We've got a couple of prisoners right now at the 72-hour maximum. We're waiting to hear from the judge."

If he was unsuccessful seeking space downtown, Wilkes said the department would transport the prisoners to the Washtenaw or Oakland County jail.

Kaufman admits he has been swayed by district judges arguments in favor of incarceration.

"We could have a guy with 10 priors (arrests), failure to show up in court eight times, and although it's a misdemeanor, he doesn't take the criminal justice system seriously," Kaufman said.

The overcrowded jail has had some positive effects: creation of an alternative work program for misdemeanants, and a tendency for judges to push cases quickly through the system.

New county jail still 2 years away from completion

Construction of a new 840 bed medium security jail for Wayne County may not solve all overcrowding woes, but will be a monumental step in the right direction, according to one county spokeswoman.

Ground was broken two weeks ago at the site, the Denton/Miller Industrial Park between Jos. Campau and Conant in Hamtramck. Construction of the new jail is expected to be completed in two years.

"The county will pay Hamtramck a flat annual fee equal to what a pri-ivate company would pay in property taxes," said Nancy Mouradian, spokeswoman for the sheriff's department.

"The jail expects to employ 350 workers, with a $9 million payroll." Court ordered capacity at the county jail is 1,552. As of last Monday, the number of prisoners being housed there was 1,777.

"We've been running over 200 above capacity for several weeks. The jail has been closed to misdemeanants unless court approved for over a year," Mouradian said.

In August 1988, Wayne County voters approved the one mill, 10-year tax increase to support the new jail. It is expected to raise $20.5 million annually for construction and staffing.

Nuclear power

Global warming may help it regain popularity, says Consumers head

By Tim Richard
staff writer

The global warming trend may help nuclear power regain its lost popularity, said the president of Consumers Power Co.

In Fred Buckman's view, the reason is that coal, oil and other fossil fuels give off gases that result in warming the earth.

"Nuclear power looks very benign in a global warming context," said Buckman, the utility's chief operating officer since March of 1988. He once headed nuclear operations, and has a doctorate in nuclear engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The company serves most of Oakland and northwestern Wayne County with natural gas. Outstate it sells both gas and electricity.

"WE'VE SEEN just the tip of the iceberg on the global warming trend," said Buckman in an interview.

"The summer of 1988 was hot. The summer of '87 was also hot. But if one looks at the temperature data over 70 or 80 years, the picture is a lot more confusing.

"One thing is clear: We as a people are doing more things that make it possible for large amounts of carbon dioxide, methane and chlorofluorocarbons to get into the atmosphere.

"They act as a greenhouse — they allow the sun's rays in but don't allow the equivalent radiation out. Now if the increased amount of gases do cause this to happen, it will have a significant impact on where we grow crops, where we live.

"I think we're faced with a major national decision process as to what kind of globe we will leave the next generation."

TODAY NUCLEAR power lacks the clear cost advantage of fossil fuels that it had after the Arab oil crisis of the mid-1970s, he said.

But in the 5-10-year time frame, American power companies may find they must burn less fossil fuel and look again at nuclear power.

"As a nation, we're not ready to build the next nuclear plant," Buckman said. In time, however, nuclear power will be seen as "not only acceptable but the right thing."

Currently Consumers Power generates electricity from 60 percent coal, 20 percent nuclear power and 20 percent from other fuels and hydro.

THE JACKSON-BASED utility last week announced it has a leadership position in the Global Climate Coalition, a national organization of trade associations and businesses conducting research on the greenhouse effect and its impact on American life.

The 43-year-old Kalamazoo native started with Consumers Power as a college intern in 1967, rose through the ranks, left in 1983, then returned in 1986 as a vice president overseeing the Palisades and Big Rock Point nuclear plants.

The utility gained notoriety for a failed $4 billion investment in a Midland nuclear plant that almost bankrupted it.

In a wide-ranging interview, Buckman talked about the future of the Michigan and suburban economy. Items:

- Economic growth won't exceed 2 percent annually in the next few years. "In our service area, growth in the number of gas customers will be offset by more efficient use" after a fairly robust growth period in 1982-88. But there will be no recession.

- The automotive market will be "stagnant to slightly declining." A shift from heavy manufacturing to service-oriented industry will continue.

- As the U.S. exports more, "rust belt" states such as Michigan will reverse their population losses. Oakland County and the metropolitan suburbs stretching out to Brighton, Howell and Chelsea will see continued growth. On the west side of the states, good spots will be the Grand Rapids area, Muskegon, Holland, Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

- Consumers Power's own employment has been scaled down from 12,500 in 1984 to about 9,500 currently. But it still hires 20 to 25 summer interns, mostly engineering students, and also will need

— Fred Buckman
Consumers chief

finance and accounting people in the years ahead.

- The kind of people it will hire in the years ahead will need to be more entrepreneurial than in the past because the utility will be less regulated and more market-driven.

"There is a great chance to be part of designing the utility of 1995 or 2000 . . . I left in 1983 and came back in 1986. It was the right thing to do. There is an opportunity to help shape what we're going to do."

Wear hot pink to bike at night

Dear Jo:

Your column on cycling for seniors was of interest to our household. My husband and I are both cyclists — and have been for years now. Our question for you is — what is the safest color to wear when cycling? My husband says yellow — I think that one of the fluorescent colors (lime green, orange, and pink) would be better. A reply in the paper would be appreciated.

Mrs. H. R.
Small Town Senior

Dear Mrs. R.:

You're on the right track. New research supports the use of fluorescent hot pink as the color most visible and safest for cyclists.

University of Kentucky physiologist Elmar Schmeisser and ophthalmologist Robert Baker had five colleagues view 24 slides taken through a car windshield on an overcast afternoon. Six of the pictures were of an empty road, and 18 were of bicyclists riding alongside the road fully clad in either hot pink, lemon yellow with an electric blue stripe, or denim (faded blue). Looking at each slide for 1/16th of a second — roughly the duration of a glance — the researchers noticed almost all of the riders at apparent distances of 30 and 75 feet. But at 120 feet, which is about the distance it takes a car going 50 mph to stop, they picked up on the pink outfits 30 percent more often than they saw the yellow ones, and twice as often as they noticed the denim ones.

Mrs. R., this doesn't mean that you and your husband have to buy yourselves hot pink cycling outfits. The same effect can be gained from sewing a large square of the pink material on the back of your riding jacket.

Dear Jo:

Are there any new books out on memory loss? I need help!

Mr. F. L.
Northern Reader

Dear Mr. L.:

Yes. The newly published "How to Increase Your Memory Power" by Alan S. Brown (Scott, Foresman/Little, and Brown), may be just what you need.

The author is a well-known research expert and writer on human memory. In this book he helps defuse concerns about memory losses and provides more than 100 techniques to help people improve their long-term and short-term memories.

He professes that it is not the aging process but poor mental habits that cause memory difficulties. Techniques he recommends and demonstrates are:

The "piggyback" reminder, which links two things together, such as taking pills and brushing teeth.

The alphabet search — a systematic search through letters of the alphabet to trigger forgotten words and names.

Organizing household belongings to eliminate years of clutter that can be mentally distracting. Leaving behind only what is needed for day-to-day living can make the simple act of remembering much easier.

To get the book, you can order it from your local bookstore. Its ISBN number is 0-673-24916-6.

IT'S SOLID AND LIQUID AT THE SAME TIME.

Most things are pretty much black and white. Oil and water don't mix. East is East. West is West. Something can't be solid and liquid at the same time. Well, not so with The FirstRate Fund. Because it earns you a great rate, without tying up your principal.

Earn 9 Percent For Up To 60 Days.

From October 2 until November 30, The FirstRate Fund earns interest at an annual rate of 9 percent.

After that, it's tied to the 91-day Treasury Bill, guaranteeing a highly competitive rate. All it takes is a $10,000 deposit to start. And you can add to it, whenever you like. Make a withdrawal and you won't have to pay a penalty.

So, by all means, open your FirstRate Fund now, and earn an annual rate of 9 percent for as long as possible.

Solid. And Liquid, Too.

Unlike some other investments with a high return like the FirstRate Fund, you can get to your money, whenever you need to.

All you have to do is drop us a line. Seven days later, you'll have your money.

We'll even call to tell you when you can pick up your check.

Insurance For Your Money.

Most investments like this require some risk taking. Not so with The FirstRate Fund. Your bank deposits are FDIC insured for up to $100,000. Meaning your principal's safe to the maximum amount allowed by law.

In short, you have nothing to lose. But an awful lot to gain.

Where's The Fine Print? You Just Read It.

If you're going to name something FirstRate, it ought to be just that.

So there are no funny restrictions or conditions. Just a straightforward investment that, unlike a lot of competitive investments, is unquestionably attractive. Which leaves us with one last question. What are you waiting for? The FirstRate Fund. Only from First of America.

Recap

These 5 are best for voters

WESTLAND VOTERS will go to the polls Tuesday to elect a mayor and fill four city council seats. They will also help decide the fate of two statewide ballot proposals designed to increase public school funding by boosting Michigan's sales tax.

Following is a recap of endorsements made during the past few weeks by the Westland Observer:

We are recommending Mayor Charles Griffin for re-election as well as incumbents Kenneth Mehl and William Ziembra and challengers Sandra Cicirelli and Terri Reighard Johnson for election to the Westland City Council.

We also recommend that voters say "Yes" to Proposal A and "No" to Proposal B.

Griffin has presided over an unprecedented period of growth in Westland. While the commercial and residential expansion is partly the benefit of the national and statewide economic recovery, Griffin deserves some of the credit for helping steer the boom Westland's way.

HIS APPOINTMENTS — particularly in key financial and development positions — have been motivated and capable people.

Based on his past performance and recent interviews, Griffin appears ready to handle the major challenges that are already surfacing as a result of the increasing pace of development. Those challenges include rebuilding the city's road system, improving the capabilities of the police and fire departments and keeping taxes at a level in line with the city's middle-class demographics.

Challenger Robert Thomas has presented some worthwhile ideas during the campaign. But his lack of administrative experience and failure to grasp budget-related issues make him the lesser of the two mayoral candidates.

We feel Mehl, Ziembra, Cicirelli and Johnson are the top entries of a talented and capable field of city council candidates. Mehl, the council president, has been an effective political leader.

We feel Mehl, Ziembra, Cicirelli and Johnson are the top entries of a talented and capable field of city council candidates.

He has the legislative skills to work with residents and the business community in helping to resolve difficult development problems.

Ziembra is one of the more low-key members of the council, but equally effective. He has made quality of life issues his top priority.

Cicirelli, a local attorney, is a Zoning Board of Appeals member and a candidate who would represent an effective balance of differing council views and values.

Johnson has offered a number of positive contributions during the last three years as a member of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education. She is also a local businesswoman who shows great concern for the community.

PROPOSAL A, which would increase the sales tax from 4 to 4.5 cents per dollar, and constitutionally-dedicate funds (about $390 million annually) for local schools, will not itself solve the terrible problems in Michigan K-12 education. But in fixing some of the financing problems that have affected our schools for years, it sets the stage for the wholesale restructuring that is needed.

Proposal B would raise the sales tax to 6 cents on the dollar, provide approximately the same amount of additional school aid as Proposal A, and theoretically reduce local school property taxes.

But the complex proposal would also create a two-tier tax system, one for homes and another for businesses, which would violate longtime Michigan principles of uniform tax rates and local control.

Our students' futures caught up in the cogs

"The assembly line keeps churning students toward graduation."

— Keith Geiger
NEA president

THE ASSEMBLY line is a scary notion.

It conjures up visions of Charlie Chaplin in the silent movie "Modern Times," caught in the cogs of the assembly line, unable to free himself.

As a young man I distinctly remember the quiet groups of tired men, old beyond their years, climbing on buses after the dreary, mind-stealing shifts at the local auto plant. Most would doze off, others would gaze into space. They never talked.

The routine had turned into numbing monotony. Despite all the credit given to the assembly line for providing the U.S. with its industrial might, it really only served to fill the pockets of the industrial barons. From the workers, it only stole — their hopes, their dreams, their imaginations.

It worked fine, some thought, for a while, until America was forced to compete on a world market. Suddenly, the assembly line seemed outmoded, even to the industrial czars.

THAT'S WHY Geiger's analogy is so startling.

What a hateful thing to do to education — worse than drugs, worse than any foreign enemy, real or imagined.

The former Livonia School District teacher now spends his time in

He recently visited Detroit to talk with members of the Michigan Council of School Attorneys.

On the eve of an important election dealing with educational financing, his words certainly give pause for thought, no matter how you intend to vote on the statewide ballot proposals.

OUR NATION long ago entered the information age. But many of our schools remain trapped in the industrial age, or even worse, the agricultural age," he said.

Students, he said, are forced into the same mold, no matter how their needs differ.

"Teachers have little or no voice in curriculum and precious little say in educational materials."

Educators, teachers and administrators, alike, as well as parents, need to have more say in setting this nation's educational agenda.

But the assembly has taken its toll — on students, parents, teachers and administrators.

Too many are going along to get along, leaving well enough alone.

SOME EXPERTS say that our changing lifestyle is endangering the future of American education.

More and more Americans want to spend less and less of their money to support the neighborhood school. The growing population of marrieds without children, live-ins sans kids and the skyrocketing number of singles fit into that mold.

They, it seems, are more interested in the good life — live for today and the heck with tomorrow.

They too are on an assembly line of sorts. They just haven't realized it yet.

But the wheels continue to turn. The assembly line, it comes in different styles. But it's educationally destructive, no matter what.

Water study

Detroit system owes answers

CONCERNS over future drinking water quality shouldn't be dismissed as mere Detroit-bashing.

Detroit Water and Sewer Department officials bristled at a recent metro League of Women Voters report pointing out potential problems with the water most suburbanites — and Detroiters — drink.

DWSD officials were particularly upset because they believed the League paid insufficient attention to improvements already made to the system.

More troubling, however, is the DWSD's silence on several of the League's findings.

THEY INCLUDE:

- A rising number of oil and chemical spills. The League reports 384 in 1987 and 492 in 1988. Contingency plans need to be expanded and strengthened, League members say.
- Potential expansion of the system's Lake Huron intake. The intake currently brings in 15 percent of our water. The League believes it should bring in more.
- Lack of routine maintenance and inadequate maintenance staff. The League said repairs aren't being performed on a timely basis, in part because more supervisors and backup personnel are needed.

Other concerns, disputed by Detroit, concern alleged delays in bond issues and construction projects and alleged pollution coming from the DWSD's treatment plant.

THE RELATIONSHIP between the DWSD and its suburban customers — indeed between Detroit and the suburbs in general — has often been prickly. And when it comes to blame, fingers could be pointed in all directions.

But the future of the water we all drink is too important an issue to become sidetracked by old, long-standing animosity.

The DWSD needs to address the League's findings. If the findings are correct, remedial action should be taken. If not, the DWSD should issue a definitive study of its own.

Simply put, the DWSD owes some answers, to its own city customers no less than to the suburbanites who buy its drinking water.

Alcohol policy

MSU needs some prodding

PARENTS, ALUMNI. Why aren't you screaming?

Michigan State University seems somehow powerless to control the drinking and rowdiness on its East Lansing campus.

Events of recent weeks included chaos on its streets and the stabbing of two students by a non-student, an incident which police said was alcohol-related on both sides.

Just this time last year, a freshman from West Bloomfield was killed on a football Saturday when he attempted to cross the street and was hit by an oncoming car. Both the student and the driver of the car had had too much to drink.

MSU officials say they are attempting to curb the use of alcohol on campus. But they recently threw away two opportunities to do so.

• This fall, soon after the University of Michigan announced its policy to ban all food and beverage containers from its football stands, MSU did the same.

The difference was: U-M carried it through.

Even before the first football game, MSU negated. They said their fans complained because this meant they couldn't bring their own coffee into Spartan Stadium.

Coffee?

• The other opportunity was to give students the option of asking for a roommate who didn't drink on their dormitory housing form.

MSU remains the only public university in all of Michigan which has refused to allow students this choice.

A recent survey of the three schools closest to the Observer & Eccentric's suburbs — U-M, Oakland University and Eastern Michigan University — showed that more than 1,500 students had requested alcohol-free rooming.

Michigan State is prone to more campus problems on the more basis of size.

But students see through the lip service it is paying to controlling liquor on campus, when university officials fail to change their own alcohol policies.

Parents, alumni — why aren't you screaming?

Vacant stores are criticized

To the editor:

At an Oct. 24 candidates program, mayoral challenger Robert Thomas brought up the issue of vacant buildings and stores in Westland. Councilman Kenneth Mehl responded by saying that this was a shopping center management problem, not a city government problem.

Boy! What a sharp mind this young councilman has, but he had better stop and think again. These vacancies may be a financial disappointment to the owners, but they are more than that to the city. These vacancies are the true image of the city.

Mayor Charles Griffin has gone on Continental Cablevision and has addressed many different organizations, every once in a while he is sure to remind them what a wonderful place Westland is to be in. After the speech, these people from the different organizations go out to their cars to drive home, they drive down the road and see many vacant buildings and then they begin to wonder, just who is this guy Griffin and what did he say?

People believe what they see with their own eyes, not what they are told by people in City Hall, and when anyone in City Hall tries to convince them different, then all they can do is consider the source.

Mayor Griffin has brought a lot of growth to the city in the past four years, but there is something just as important as growth, and they are called taxpayers. In the past four years, Mayor Griffin has completely ignored the taxpayers, and he also has completely ignored the city ordinances. If the mayor does not believe that, he is very welcome to visit me at any time, seeing is believing.

M.R. Todle,

Griffin record is defended

To the editor:

I have been a resident of our community for well over 30 years. Every year at election time I have had the "pleasure" of reading Joe Doline's letters to the editor criticizing the current mayor. Every year at election time Mr. Doline vents his frustrations by writing letters that are negative to the person holding the position of mayor.

I know Joe Doline very well and consider him a friend. We are both active members of the senior community. He may be unhappy because he feels that he doesn't get the recognition he deserves for his contributions to our city and because the mayor relieved him of his responsibilities as a member of the commission on aging.

Your editorial endorsing Mayor Griffin was right on target. He is the candidate with the education, experience and leadership abilities to keep our city moving forward into the 1990s.

I would urge all the voting residents of our community to read your editorial endorsing the mayor and to discount petty and negative misinformation like the kind that Mr. Doline and others like him distribute to the public through your newspaper.

Vote no on tax wastes

To the editor:

How can politicians continue to claim that Westland taxes went down?

My tax bill is proof that they increased 10 percent this year and 10 percent last year.

No one who really looks at their tax bill will believe that lie. And I suggest that those living in apartments and condos become familiar with their tax rates.

That way they'll know if their taxes are reduced if the voters are ignorant enough to vote more tax waste in (state) Proposals A or B. For certain a "yes" vote on A or B will increase tax waste and increase tax bills and the children will have no increase in educational levels.

Halloween costume conflict

LOOKING BACK... on Halloween and the reluctant cowgirl.

Two years ago she was a princess. It started with a visit to the Michigan Renaissance Festival that September. At a booth run by Hannah, the Hatter, she was outfitted with a blue conical princess's hat with long silk streamers.

Despite the built-in comb that was supposed to keep the hat in place, it kept tumbling off her head. But she didn't care. She loved that hat.

Nana and Papa had not yet retired to their Florida estate, so for Halloween that year, Nana made her a princess dress to match the hat. It was long and blue and form-fitting — not that the 4-year-old had much form to fit.

She loved the dress as much as the hat and when she wore them she was — in her eyes, anyway — a real princess. Never mind that a real princess probably wouldn't have been out trick-or-treating.

HALLOWEEN PASSED, but the princess outfit got dragged out on numerous occasions, especially when her friends were over to play dress-up. The dress got dirty. The hem ripped out. The streamers came off the hat. Still she loved them.

Jack Gladden

A few months later, with the princess wearing stater clothes, she stopped in at a western store that had just opened. I was searching for Justin cowboy boots, a brand I have rarely found outside the Southwest. The princess had never been in such a place.

She was enchanted. Real cowboy boots in her size. Leather vests with silver brads and buttons. Genuine cowboy hats that were 100-percent wool instead of felt and cardboard.

The princess decided that next Halloween she wanted to be a cowgirl.

That worked out fine, since her birthday is only five days before the holiday. Her present that year, after the layaway was paid off, was a complete cowgirl outfit — the boots, the hat, the vest, a western-style shirt and a new pair of jeans. She loved it all.

Until Halloween morning. As she was getting dressed for kindergarten — with the cowgirl outfit carefully laid out on her bed — she decided that no, she'd rather be a princess again.

After several minutes of debate and, uh, discussion streamers were dug out of the toy box and replaced on the princess hat, the blue dress was found somewhere stuffed behind something and the hem was repaired and a slightly disheveled princess headed off for kindergarten, leaving $100 worth of cowgirl gear sitting in her room.

She did agree, after a bit of intimidation, to be a cowgirl when she went trick-or-treating that night.

IN THE YEAR that followed, the hat and the vest and the shirt were carefully stored away in the closet. The jeans were worn to tatters and the boots... the boots were discovered by the live-in Scotty, who decided that real leather tasted much better than rawhide bones.

This Halloween, with the debate occurring far in advance of the holiday, the cowgirl was to be resurrected. The boots were gone, but the hat and vest were still good and there was a choice between the shirt and a new pair of jeans or a few, western-style denim dress. The night before, after the jack-o-lanterns were carved, the princess-turned-cowgirl stood in front of a full-length mirror and admired herself. The hat was at just the right angle, the silver on the vest still sparkled and the stone-washed jeans had just the right look of wear to them.

Then came... Halloween morning.

"I want to be a princess."
"No way. The dress is gone. Who knows what happened to the hat? Anyway, you're going to be a cowgirl!"

After the screams and the tears subsided, and with the substitution of the denim dress for the jeans and shirt, a reluctant cowgirl missed the bus and was given a ride to school. By the time she got there, she had decided that being a cowgirl was pretty neat after all.

"Next year we won't have this problem," she was told. "Next year you can go as a monster."

"But I don't have a costume."
"Don't worry, sweetheart. You don't need one."

Parent/staff conferences are important

I don't usually write questions to newspapers but my wife is quite upset because our parent/teacher conference is coming up and I am not going to be able to attend. My daughter is in the sixth grade and I have attended some conferences when she was in elementary school. My wife usually updates me as to what occurred at the conference. I have another commitment on the night of the conference and do not want to miss it. I'm not sure that going to every conference is necessary. Maybe I am off-base and am feeling guilty. In any case, I don't think it is necessary to attend every conference for your child. Am I right?

parents that you most need to see don't show up. A direct correlation exists between parents of children who show up and parents of children who don't show up.

Generally, children of parents who don't show up have more academic and social adjustment problems.

Yes, I believe you should go to your daughter's parent/teacher conference and you might wish to consider addressing the following questions with the teacher. What are the objectives of this course or class (if elementary)? How is my child achieving? Does my child work up to his or her potential? Is her homework completed in a timely fashion? Does my daughter comprehend the material? Does she have good study skills. How is my child getting along with classmates? Has there been any discipline problems? And, most important, what can I do as a parent at home to help my child?

We had four children go through school. My wife never missed a conference. I missed one or two over 18 years. All people should check their schedule and reschedule appointments if possible. In your case, to be brutally frank, your bowling match for first place in a season that goes to May is not that critical. You need to decide what is most important, your bowling ball or your daughter.

Where are old library cards?

WE HAD TO go out of town suddenly, so I called Good Neighbor Harriet, who has a key to our house, to take care of a few emergencies.

There was a movie videotape which had to be returned to Meijer's. And there was an educational videotape which had to go back to the local public library.

Her husband, Good Neighbor Jim, returned the commercial videotape and explained to the Meijer's clerk he was doing it for a neighbor. No problem. The clerk ran a scanner across it, sent Good Neighbor Jim through the line, and had a bill ready for him in seconds.

AT THE LOCAL library, a member of the Wayne Oakland Library Federation (WOLF), Harriet had less luck.

"Our computer is down. You can't return the videotape," said the librarian.

Can't return it??? That was the wrong thing to say to Good Neighbor Harriet.

Consider: She's a busy lady with a job and a household to run. She already explained she is returning it for a neighbor. She has fought her way through several miles of the city's badly managed traffic. She is standing there with the videotape in one hand and a $10 bill in the other. And a librarian tells her she "can't" return it.

Good Neighbor Harriet was kinder than I would have been in similar circumstances.

"I am returning it," Harriet said, extending the videotape to the librarian.

At last, the librarian began using the brain God gave her. They made an educated guess as to when I had checked out the videotape, and the librarian calculated a rental price.

IN THE INTELLIGENT Days — that is, sometime after the Good Ol' Days and before Today — libraries had a better system.

They had a small Manila card with each volume, record or tape you checked out, and they put the card in a little file. If someone came looking for the resource while you had it, the librarian could look in the little card file and in seconds report, "Oh, it's checked out."

When you brought the item back, the librarian picked out the card from the file and determined whether your return was prompt or late. If it was late, you paid a charge. Simple. School kids could handle the transaction.

You worked with tools they called pens and pencils. They were both cheap and reliable. If the electricity went out, why shucks, you could light a candle or a kerosene lamp, and it was business as usual.

That was in the Intelligent Days.

TODAY it seems to take an interminable amount of keypounding to find anything in a library computer, or "the system is down" or there's a "bug" or a power failure.

I've had my own experience with a library where a computer had been substituted for an Intelligent Days card catalog. I tried to look up the entry

BURROUGHS, Edgar Rice — Tarzan of the Apes
In 18 minutes I received eight different answers on screen, none of which told me (a) whether the library possessed it or (b) where it could be found.

Newfangled library computers will never replace old-fashioned intelligence.

With a catalog of 3 x 5 inch cards I could have had an answer in 10 seconds, found the book in 30 seconds and have read half the first chapter.

IF I WERE head of the WOLF pack, I would scrap all those expensive, "on-line," electricity-guzzling computers and substitute card files, pencils and papers — things that are cheap, fast and workable.

I would donate each and every computer to the local Jaycees chapter to use in its Halloween haunted house.

On Devil's Night, the kids, instead of soaping windows or throwing eggs, could use clubs to bash the hell out of those computers.

Woman heads county work force program

Patricia Kukula has been appointed to direct the Wayne County Alternative Work Force program.

The community corrections program provides alternative punishments to jail terms for misdemeanor and non-violent family offenders. The program was first initiated to help alleviate jail overcrowding.

"The Alternative Work Force program has grown by leaps and bounds and Patti Kukula's bright and creative imagination will be an asset to its expansion," said Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

"At the start of the program, we were receiving from five to 10 participants a day. Those numbers have now increased to 60 to 65 during the week, and averaging 100 to 120 participants on weekends."

Kukula said that prior to the county's work/release plan, misdemeanants were set free due to inadequate jail space. Judges are now sentencing those convicted of minor crimes to community service work at an increasing rate. Should the offender fail to show up for a job assignment, he or she is promptly picked up and remanded to jail.

A Detroit resident, Kukula earned a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University in occupational therapy and is pursuing a master's degree in public administration. She has worked in several rehabilitation positions and most recently served as executive assistant to the chief executive officer at Hegira Programs Inc., a substance abuse and mental health agency.

In addition to directing the operations of the work force, Kukula will oversee a collection function for jail space which the county contracts throughout the state. She will also coordinate the activities of the county's property forfeiture program whereby confiscated houses of drug offenders are turned over to neighborhood groups for renovation.

"I look forward to the challenge of making a difference in the community," said Kukula. "There are many people in the program who show real potential."

Kukula cites an example of a work force participant who discovered she liked working outdoors and performed so well that she was hired as a county laborer. Another had been assigned to clean the loading docks at the jail and afterward said: "Once I saw the inside of a jail, I don't ever want to stay overnight."

Married to Recorder's Court Judge James Chylinski, Kukula has been on the job since late September.

The alternative work program is important to county residents for three reasons, according to McNamara. First, since prisoners report each morning and are not housed overnight, there is a saving of $87 a day to taxpayers. That jail space can be used for the more serious offender.

Police to get high-tech fingerprint system

By Jeff Holyfield
special writer

AP — A new high-tech fingerprint system that rivals the crime-busting tools of comic-strip detective Dick Tracy already has helped in four murder probes, the state police director says.

"If ever there was a crime-fighting tool that came close to the gadgets of Dick Tracy, this is it," Col. Ritchie T. Davis said Thursday at the unveiling of the $22 million computer system.

The local law enforcement agencies that initially will get terminals are Livonia, Southfield, Dearborn, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and Taylor police departments and the Wayne and Oakland County sheriff's departments.

"We now will be able to go after criminals faster than before and make it tougher for them to hide," Gov. James Blanchard said. "We are truly adding to the war on crime and drugs a new high-tech weapon."

Blanchard said the Automated Fingerprint Identification System eventually would be rated as the third great technological advance in police work, coming behind fingerprints and the police radio.

The new AFIS system electronically scans fingerprints and checks them against other fingerprints on file in a Michigan State Police computer.

More than 730,000 sets of fingerprint cards are in the state police files and it would take 72 years to check each one manually. The AFIS system can do that within 24 hours or less.

Current manual checks must focus on possible suspects and take up to four days.

Davis said the system began checking fingerprints from unsolved crimes on Friday and already had generated a list of possible suspects for four murders. He declined to provide any further information about the murders, such as when or where they occurred.

Eventually county jails will have computer terminals allowing them access to the system, which will detect career criminals who sometimes go free on bond when they give aliases to arresting officers.

"That's been a real problem for us. We've had some very bad individuals slip away from us that way," Davis said. Catching those criminals not only would help solve crimes, but prevent others.

Capt. Thomas Nasser, head of the state police forensic science division, said that in addition to checking the fingerprints on file, the AFIS system also periodically will compare unidentified prints with those added to the file later.

Initially, AFIS terminals will be installed at the state police laboratories at Bridgeport, East Lansing, Grand Rapids and Sterling Heights. Others will be installed later at the labs in Grayling, Marquette and Northville.

Nasser said as more states get such systems, they can be linked together, eventually forming a national network that could be linked to an international network.

'With the symptoms I had, I kept thinking I had something very deadly. I thought I had cancer or AIDS and was going to die.'

— Maxine Charlier

Medical mystery She seeks clues to 'new' disease

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Maxine Charlier doesn't mind listen to frantic people on the telephone. She feels good about talking to them, easing their fears of the unknown and giving them some moral support.

After all, it wasn't all that long ago she was in the same position, wondering what Chronic Fatigue Syndrome was and if she was ever going to get better.

Just two years ago the 32-year-old Redford Township woman thought she was "deadly" to her husband and family. Suffering from fatigued, night sweats, nausea and diarrhea, she was convinced she had AIDS.

It took 12 doctors, doubles of almost every medical test available and medical bills totaling $15,000 before someone could tell her she had CFS.

"With the symptoms I had, I kept thinking I had something very deadly," Charlier said. "I was very active in aerobics and physical fitness and it was totally bizarre that this happened. I thought I had cancer or AIDS and was going to die."

Charlier's odyssey began in October 1987 when she noticed she had lost her appetite and was tired. She also experienced soreness after exercising and had a lump on the left side of her neck.

She went to a doctor who diagnosed the lump as a swollen lymph node, the sign of an infection. The doctor did some blood tests that showed a low white count, but nothing more. He prescribed some antibiotics.

Within two weeks, Charlier was hit with a year-long bout of diarrhea, dashing to the bathroom seven or eight times a day. Her fatigue increased and so did the night sweats. She was nauseous and had no appetite. Her weight was dropping at an alarming rate.

"I HAD TO force myself to eat to get food into my body," she said. "If I gave into the nausea and didn't force myself to eat, I could lose seven pounds in two days."

A month later and still ill, she decided to visit her family doctor. There were more blood tests and again nothing turned up.

There also were more swollen lymph nodes, so she was sent to an oncologist. Based on the symptoms alone, she was diagnosed as having Hodgkin's disease.

A CAT scan was done to determine the extent of the disease. It showed an enlarged spleen and an unknown mass in her lower abdomen. The mass was discovered to be nonexistent when the doctor attempted a biopsy, Charlier said. The doctor eventually determined she didn't have cancer.

Charlier continued working for two months before quitting her job as a health care professional. There more doctors—even a psychiatrist who determined that she was anxious about being sick and that her sickness wasn't psychosomatic—and more tests.

Annoyed at the doctors' inability to find the cause of her malady, Charlier began to diagnosis herself. She did some simple addition in her mind. She worked for a doctor who didn't have his staff wear gloves to protect themselves against infectious diseases and her symptoms were very similar to AIDS.

She decided to have an AIDS test and even though it came back negative, it didn't quell her fears.

SHE CHECKED with a number of infectious disease doctors to see if she could "be symptomatic for 10 months and not test positive for AIDS." She found support and understanding from a doctor at the University of Michigan who is researching AIDS and a young woman named Carolyn who worked on the AIDS hot line.

It was six months into the mysterious illness before Charlier was diagnosed as having CFS and referred to a doctor at Sinai Hospital who was doing research on the cause of the disease. He provided little information about CFS and prescribed a low dosage of the anti-depressant drug Prozac as treatment.

Knowing what disease she had provided Charlier with a challenge—finding out everything she could about CFS.

She talked to doctors at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, UM, Walter Reed Hospital and Northwestern University and to CFS organizations in places like Portland, Ore., and Charlotte, N.C.

"My husband was frantic when the phone bills came in," she said. "They were like a book and there wasn't one under $187. I'd tell him 'honey, I have to get some answers,' and he'd say 'can't you write letters instead?'"

Charlier didn't find out that much about CFS simply because not much is known even though it's been mentioned in medical publications under a variety of names for at least a century.

The Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta lists CFS as an "emerging disease" and has begun a nationwide surveillance study in an effort to discover its cause.

FOR CHARTIER, life has returned to as close to normal as can be expected. With the elimination of stress in her life, the disease ebbed. Within a year, the fatigue began to disappear, she slept better and enjoyed some normal activity. But she isn't totally free of CFS even now.

"I still have some symptoms—night sweats periodically—and I catch a cold more severely than my husband so I have to take care of myself," she said. "I always have a lot of phlegm and congestion. I have to moderate my physical activity. If I push myself, I regress."

Charlier has returned to work and is employed by a doctor whom she described as "more concerned with infection control and the health of his employees."

She also watches her diet although that hasn't helped avoid the tremendous weight gain she experienced once the acute stage subsided.

"When I was so sick and talking to people (other CFS patients) on the phone, they assured me I'd gain the weight back," she said. "It's a big problem and now I'm the heaviest I've been in my life."

Charlier also provides telephone support for other CFS patients through the Chronic Fatigue Syndrome Society and feels good about the work.

"I feel good because I've helped them and gave them support," she said. "There's not much information about CFS at all and as a result people are left so desolate with the medical profession. It's important for the family to give the person as much support as they would for a person with an understood disease. The person needs to be as stress free as possible. If you don't allow them to relax, I don't think they can recover."

Support groups do help

There are several groups that can provide information and listings of support networks for persons with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome.

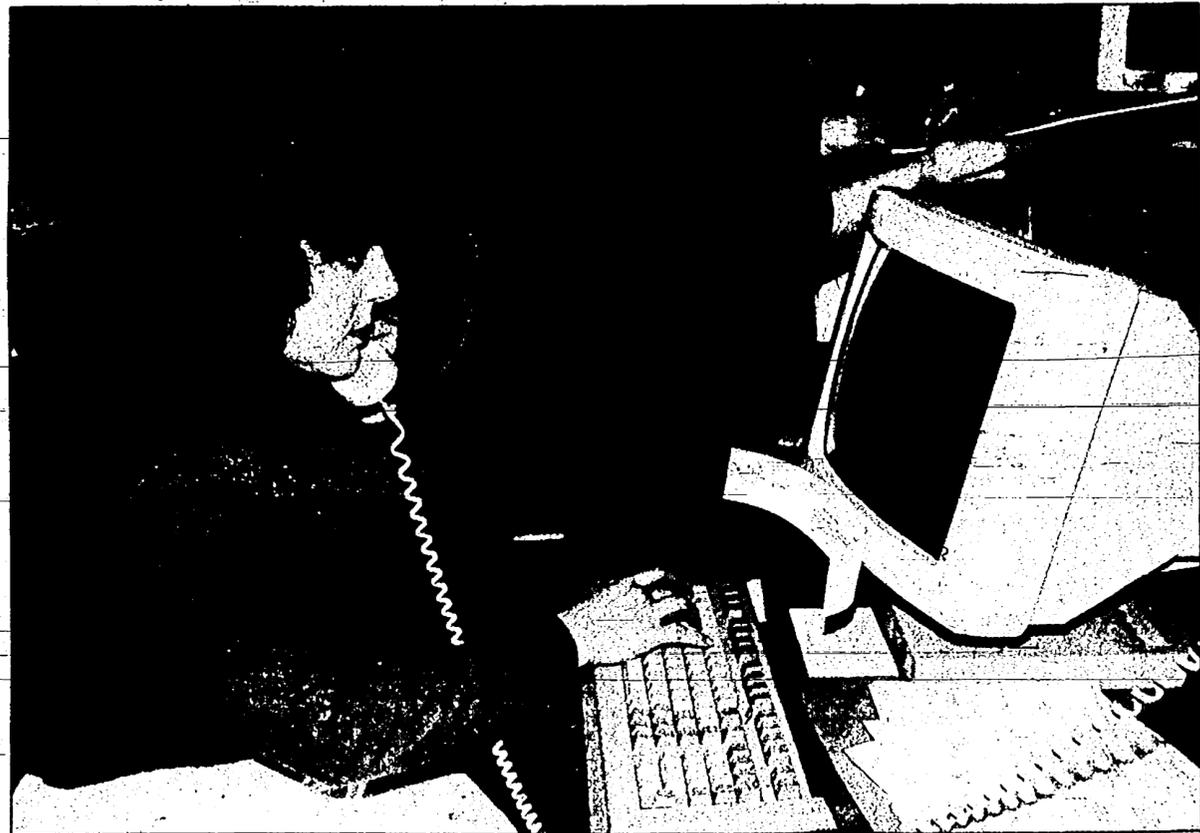

One is the Chronic Fatigue Syndrome Society in Portland, Ore. Founded by Gidget Faubion-Jones in 1985, it has 10,000 members throughout the United States.

CFSS provides newsletters to members and maintains a list of support groups around the country. It does take telephone inquiries at (503) 684-5261, however, request for information should be made by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to P.O. Box 230108, Portland, Ore. 97223.

Another group is the Chronic Fatigue and Immune Dysfunction Syndrome Association, based in Charlotte, N.C.

CFIDSA publishes the bi-monthly Chronicle, a compilation of reports and stories about the disease, as well as a CFIDS information packet.

Information is available by calling the organization at (704) 362-2343 or by writing it at P.O. Box 220398, Charlotte, N.C. 28222-0388.

A health care worker, Maxine Charlier of Redford Township has recovered enough from Chronic Fatigue Syndrome to return to work and resume some normal activities, although overexertion can cause minor relapses.

Doctors find CFS is more than a 'flu'

By Sue Mason
staff writer

At one time it was labeled the "yuppie flu" primarily because its victims were young career women in their 20s and 30s.

But Chronic Fatigue Syndrome as it's currently known has been around longer than yuppies and its victims can include entire families.

"Actually, calling it Chronic Fatigue Syndrome tends to trivialize what these people go through," said Dr. Walter J. Gunn of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. "The patients have a normal type active life and come down with something like the flu, but the flu doesn't get better and eventually they curtail all physical activity."

Gunn is one of two doctors at CDC who have the job of conducting a nationwide surveillance and case control study of CFS. Four cities—Wichita, Reno, Grand Rapids and Atlanta—have been selected for the four-year surveillance designed to determine how prevalent CFS is and create control group for isolating the cause of the disease.

CFS isn't a new disease. According to Gunn, it has been described in literature under a variety of names for more than 100 years.

But its inclusion in printed material shouldn't be construed as an indication of extensive knowledge about it. In fact, little is known about CFS and its diagnosis is basically by elimination.

"CFS is a constellation of symptoms," Gunn said. "There is no definite lab test to identify it. The diagnosis is by exclusion. You rule out other diseases and eventually you end up with CFS."

CFS SYMPTOMS can include physical exhaustion that lasts at least six months, swollen glands, difficulty sleeping and concentrating, muscle aches and a low-grade fever. CFS patients usually are depressed but whether the depression is a cause or effect of the illness is unknown.

As its name indicates, CFS is chronic and tends to be cyclical. Patients can drift in and out of the disease and its severity can wax and wane.

Doctors treat the symptoms to make patients more comfortable. Anti-depressants and anti-inflammatory medications appear to help as does physical therapy and a diet that restricts sugar, alcohol, salt, fat and processed foods.

As to who gets CFS, how they get and why is what researchers are now trying to find out.

"We have some physicians saying that they're treating entire families, but if you believe literature, you believe that a majority of the patients are women," Gunn said. "That may be an artifact because women are more in touch with health care and men are less likely to report fatigue."

Many experts believe that a breakdown in the body's immune system triggers CFS, but the question mark is what causes the breakdown.

"Basically, something, which could be a virus, invades the body and begins what may be termed a war," said Dr. Anthony Komaroff, chief of general internal medicine at Brigham and Women's Hospital, Harvard Medical School. "No side wins, however, it's a stalemate. The disease does not progress, but there's no treatment that will completely wipe it out either."

RESEARCHERS at one time thought the Epstein-Barr virus was the cause of CFS. A majority of people come in contact with EBV, one of six currently identified herpes viruses, during their childhood. One of its many manifestations is infectious mononucleosis.

However, researchers like Dr. Jay Levy of the University of California, have come to the conclusion that presence of EBV is the result of dysfunction in patient's immune system.

"What you are seeing is an immunological disorder that's allowing a reactivation (of common viruses) very similar to what we saw in AIDS," Levy said. "When we first looked at the AIDS virus, EBV was the suspected culprit."

Gunn is working with Dr. Gary Holmes on the CDC surveillance. Holmes has come up with a case definition of CFS—what CDC feels the disease should be. It's being used to identify patients for the case study.

Patients must meet the two major criteria of the disease—debilitating fatigue or the person becoming easily fatigued for six months and the exclusion of other diseases as the cause of the fatigue—in combination with different symptoms and physical criteria.

Admittedly, the case definition has a narrow focus especially in the range of symptoms, Gunn said. The case definition lists 11 symptoms, ranging from the severe fatigue, mild fever, sore throat, swollen and painful lymph nodes, muscle weakness and aches to joint pain, sensitivity to light, depression and sleep disturbances—although there are at least 20 more listed in medical literature.

"IT NARROWS down people with a conglomeration of symptoms to a tight group in order to find a common cause," Gunn said. "If a patient doesn't fit the definition, it doesn't mean he or she doesn't have CFS. They just don't fit the case study."

"This defines the illness making it easier to find an agent (cause), be it a virus or an environmental factor."

And while Gunn and Holmes are looking for the cause of CFS, they also will determine just how prevalent it is, Gunn said.

"If you go by the number of support groups and their members, it's very prevalent," Gunn said. "There's 200 support groups in the country and some of them have hundreds of members."

Writer is goal-minded, but tends to be inflexible

Dear Ms. Green,
I find myself in a difficult time in life. Perhaps your knowledge and talent in graphology could help me in making some decisions. That is, in a better understanding of myself I would have a better sense of direction.

Thank you so much.

P.M., Livonia

Dear P.M.,
This handwriting confirms that you are currently experiencing dissatisfaction and possibly isolation in your life. And I suspect you may be your own worst enemy. You are hard on yourself and are indulging in self-criticism. When we are hard on ourselves, we are usually critical of others too.

You appear to be a rather inflexi-ble person. You tend to view everything as black and white and seldom see any shades of gray.

You have definite views and standards and usually attempt to control any situation you are in. It is difficult for you to be receptive to others.

You may be an overachiever who is driven by compulsion. There is energy here that is never fully released and results in tension and inhibition.

You are goal-minded and reliable. You want results quickly and are willing to accept responsibility that will enhance your self-esteem. You become bored with things that do not present a challenge. However, you seem to be involved in more than you can comfortably handle at the time you wrote to me.

Yours is a searching, probing mind. Mentally alert, you evaluate and analyze information to render it useful for your needs and requirements. You seem to enjoy the challenge of problems, arguments and competition.

You do not waste much time in small talk, and are not particularly sensitive of compassionate to the emotional needs of others. However, when you do reach out to another the quality of what you give can be great. And while you crave social contacts, your self-involvement and rigidity are not qualities that others find endearing.

There is considerable resentment in your handwriting. This has a way of causing you to dwell on past hurts instead of working through them and getting on with the job of living. A quotation from Buddha comes to mind here. "Holding on to anger is like grasping a hot coal with the in-

I do hope this assessment of your personality will be helpful in finding the happiness you are seeking.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Full signature, date of birth and home address are helpful. And feedback is always welcome.

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Don't let the name fool you. The last thing you'll find at Munchkins is little people with falsetto voices, singing about a wicked witch and a yellow brick road.

What you will find is a children's clothing store, but it goes beyond the standard small retail shop.

"There was one certain store I remember as a child, and I wanted this to be that store," said proprietor Nancy Mazaris. "I wanted this to be a fun place, a place with a wonderful type of atmosphere."

With the help of her sister, Lori Ashton of Birmingham, Mazaris transformed a store front in a small shopping plaza at Seven Mile Road and Farmington in Livonia, into that "wonderland."

Trees scale the walls of the shop, and nestled in the trunk, close to the floor, are mirrors for youngsters to see what they look like in their new duds. Tucked away in the corner is a small play area, so children can play with toys, watch television or videos while their parents shop.

"The play area was one of the best investments," she said. "The kids don't want to leave. This isn't like other stores where you have to drag them in."

Mazaris opened the store in June and thanks to things like the mini mall's sidewalk sales in July and back to school shopping, Munchkins has begun to make a name for itself.

Mazaris DOESN'T try to compete with the large retail stores, instead she offers moderately priced clothing. She looks for a classy look and brand names during her shopping expeditions to Chicago and New York. Clothing sizes start with infant sizes and top out with pre-teen sizes for girls and size eight for boys.

"The hard part is selecting the clothes," Mazaris said. "It started out as fun, now it's hard. I try to think of it as a shopping spree. I'm spending thousands of dollars on what I think parents will buy."

She also has found some items locally like a pair of girl's pink sweats that are hand-painted by a woman who lives in Ann Arbor.

Mazaris feels it in her bones that she "has what it takes to do it" to make Munchkins a success even though she has no retail experience. She worked for 13 years at Alex's Family Dining in Redford Township. Her husband, Alex, owns the restaurant along with a second one in Wayne.

"Six months before I signed the lease for the building, I applied for a job at Kids R Us to get some experience, but things started moving along and I never got a chance," she said. "I thought about it because I never knew what went on beyond the counter."

"LOOKING BACK, the only way it would have helped was knowing someone in the business."

One way Mazaris is working to make her store a success was a children's fashion show she held recently. Forget child models, youngsters walking down the runway were the sons and daughters of her customers, 30 in all, ranging in age from 13 months to 13 years.

Mazaris husband is excited about his wife's business venture, so much so that he'd like to open more Munchkin stores. Mazaris, however, said expansion will have to wait until this store becomes profitable.

"I'd be perfectly happy to have a success here," she said.

Munchkins Children Shop is at 33472 W. Seven Mile Road, just west of Farmington Road, Livonia.

With M-CARE, the sky is not the limit.

There's a serious accident. Time is crucial. A helicopter is dispatched to speed the victim to the University of Michigan Burn Center... a service you, hopefully, will never have to call on. But it's there if you need it, and much, much more through M-CARE.

M-CARE is the only HMO that links all the resources of the U of M Medical Center to the personal care of your family doctor and your nearby hospital. M-CARE covers you for office visits, checkups, hospitalization—even emergency helicopter transport.

Of course, with the M-CARE network of hospitals in cities like Royal Oak, Dearborn and Rochester, you don't always have to go to the U of M Medical Center. But isn't it good to know it's there whenever you need it? To find out more, ask your employer. Or call M-CARE at 747-8700.

M-CARE
The HMO Choice

The only HMO backed by the U of M Medical Center.

Parish plans a renewal mission

Parishioners at St. Thomas a Becket Catholic Church are looking forward to participating in a renewal mission.

The theme of the mission, planned for the week of Nov. 13-17, is "Bring Christ Home to Your Family."

"The idea is we want to make the family so strong by centering it in Christ," said the Rev. Ernest Porcari, pastor at St. Thomas a Becket Church in Canton.

"The parish has been praying for the mission, for its success," he said. Parishioners will have a day of fasting before the mission begins.

During mornings the week of Nov. 13-17, the Rev. Jim Burke will offer daily Mass, followed by a program on spiritual and personal renewal. Evening sessions will also be offered daily.

BURKE HAS served as provincial superior of the Dominican Order in La Paz, Bolivia, where he co-founded an institute for socio-religious research and adult education. He has presented mission renewal programs in Detroit-area parishes and elsewhere.

"He is a man of very extensive experiences," Porcari said. "He has given missions throughout the world."

Burke will speak at regular Masses at the church Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 11-12. During the week, he will be available for individual counseling and celebrating the sacrament of reconciliation (penance).

Morning sessions are planned for 9 a.m. Monday, Nov. 13, through Friday, Nov. 17, at the church, 555 S. Lilley in Canton. Evening sessions will be held at 8 p.m. daily at the church.

Areas to be covered are:

- Monday, Nov. 13, Gift of Life;
- Tuesday, Nov. 14, True Meaning of Conversion;
- Wednesday, Nov. 15, Family and Family Relationships — Bringing Christ Home to Your Family;
- Thursday, Nov. 16, Healing — Jesus' Healing Mission of Wholeness;

Friday, Nov. 17, Eucharist — Bringing Christ's Healing Love to the World Family. A special liturgy is planned for 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 17, followed by a parish social.

own bootstraps." There's a need for a sense of community that's authentic and real. That community includes Christ and all its members.

Once people realize they're one with Christ, their actions should reflect that, Porcari said. Christians aren't separate from or indifferent to the world around them.

"Therefore, we want to address the problems we find in the world today."

The importance of spiritual life will be addressed during the mission.

"That throws people for a loop," Porcari said. "Some people have no idea of what spiritual life is."

The renewal mission will include opportunities for discussion. The evening sessions will enable those who have daytime work commitments to participate.

"So we try to meet all those needs," Porcari said.

Baby-sitting and transportation assistance will be available during the parish mission. For more information, call 981-1333.

Christians surrender their life to the Lord. They appropriate to themselves the kingdom of God by faith.

A person who gives a blanket to someone in need is acting in a humanitarian way, and also as a Christian, Porcari said. That faith dimension is essential, as that needy person is Jesus himself.

The renewal mission will include opportunities for discussion. The evening sessions will enable those who have daytime work commitments to participate.

"So we try to meet all those needs," Porcari said.

Baby-sitting and transportation assistance will be available during the parish mission. For more information, call 981-1333.

Moral perspectives

Rev. David Strong

Consumerism affects church

Churches are facing the pressures of consumerism. We see this in the larger proportion of people shopping for a church. We find this in the lack of loyalty to any church. In addition, consumerism in religion means higher expectations.

A familiar saying of the older generation was, "You can't please everyone." Many in the younger group are looking for a variety of program and staff that will serve their needs from parents down through babies.

The old assumption was that if we wanted something we would have to roll up our sleeves and get it going ourselves. This is rarely the case today. More and more people expect opportunities to be on the shelf, ready to consume.

The old assumption was that if we wanted something we would have to roll up our sleeves and get it going ourselves. This is rarely the case today. More and more people expect opportunities to be on the shelf, ready to consume.

Many of these attitudes have developed in our consumer society. People complain about the wait for new, custom-built cars and furniture. People tell me stories about walking out of a store because they did not have the exact item they wanted. A two-week delivery is too long a time. These attitudes flow over into church life.

WE CAN find some positive features in this change. Religions are being pushed to identify people's needs. This is good. Planning needs to include inter-generational mixes. This is a plus. The quality of offerings may be examined. Questions concerning the purpose of the church may be reviewed. These are to the good.

On the other hand, there are real dangers. Churches and their leaders may try to become what is saleable. Numerical growth can become the major symbol of success.

Programs and churches that are small may be deemed unimportant. Values and traditions may be pushed aside to make room for the "most popular products." The small group and the small person may lose a sense of self-esteem. Growth may simply mean numbers rather than depth and quality of life. These will be destructive.

ABOVE ALL, we need to retain that critical view toward our society. We need to evaluate such a trend as consumerism and retain objectivity. The best word I have heard lately that applies to this issue is the word, "discern."

Religious people need to discern the difference between a challenge and a perversion. The church is in ways in danger of perversion. The television evangelists furnish our best examples of this. Yet the perversion can be subtle and from attitudes within the institution.

We need to be wise and discern what the pressures of consumerism are doing to us. We must acknowledge that they will become more insistent.

The Rev. David Strong is pastor of St. Matthew's United Methodist Church in Livonia.

This fish story keeps brokers reeling in sales

By R.J. King
special writer

From the Mississippi delta to area restaurants and supermarkets, a classic Southern favorite making its culinary and economic mark — and it's catfish.

Wait a minute. Catfish? Yep, but it's not the same "mean-looking, whiskered 12-pound tough guy that roams the murky bottom of the Mississippi River. This fish, says Denny Inman, is raised by farmers through a process called aqua-culture.

"The hardest thing about selling catfish is overcoming the misconception that all catfish are bottom-feeders and have a slimy taste," says Inman, who is vice president of Paul Inman Associates of Farmington Hills, a full-service food broker that sold $2.5 million worth of aqua-culture catfish in Michigan last year.

"But there is a great difference with aqua-culture catfish, which are raised in spring-fed ponds and are fed a rich diet of grain and minerals through pellets which float on the surface."

Because the pellets induce the fish to look up, not down, for their food, it's one reason why the aqua-culture variety taste milder and more tender than their river-dwelling counterparts, which prefer to navigate among the mud and silt.

The fish is one of Paul Inman Associates' hottest products.

"We first started selling catfish three years ago and sold $450,000 worth in that first year, and now we've sold over four times that amount," said Dale Murnahan, account executive for Inman's food service division. It's one of our fastest growing lines and should be well into the decade."

AQUA-CULTURE catfish, as well

'The hardest thing about selling catfish is overcoming the misconception that all catfish are bottom-feeders and have a slimy taste.'

as farm-raised varieties of salmon, trout and shrimp, are also showing up with greater frequency at upscale restaurants, said Milos Cihelka, head chef and co-owner of the Golden Mushroom in Southfield. "With concern of cholesterol so high, the demand for fish is starting to outdistance the supply," he said.

"People are also becoming more leery of lake trout from Michigan's Great Lakes and other bodies of water tainted by chemicals. The farm-raised catfish offers our customers a choice, and actually it's a very mild, sweet-tasting fish, which can be prepared in a variety of ways."

Taking on the classic middle-man role, Paul Inman Associates, which has headquarters on Northwestern Highway, acts as the selling arm for more than 40 national food manufacturers, including Delta Pride Catfish of Indianola, Miss., the world's largest aqua-culture catfish processor, controlling more than 64,000 acres of catfish ponds amid land once reserved for cotton.

Delta Pride recently inducted Paul Inman Associates into its Million Dollar Club, an award that honors food brokers based on its single-year sales level.

"Rather than have a lot of sales people on staff for each market they serve, Delta Pride and other processors hire a brokerage firm like us to sell their products," Murnahan said. "It cuts down on their overhead and we earn our income through a commission rate."

LIKE MOST food brokers, the company rarely sees the product it sells. From salad dressings and cheeses to coffee makers and shampoos, the company sells to a variety of supermarket chains and food distributors, with deliveries handled by respective manufacturers.

"Of course, we research and inspect the products we sell for quality and taste, but once we've established an account between a food processor and say, a supermarket, it would be a waste of time to warehouse products here when the processor can just deliver to the supermarket direct," Inman said.

Aqua-culture catfish have accounted for substantial growth for Paul Inman Associates' food service division, according to Inman. He declined to reveal the company's revenues last year, as well as commission rates, but said the company has been profitable in each of the last 35 years of its existence.

In addition to the company's Farmington Hills headquarters, it has offices in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Toledo, Fort Wayne and Indianapolis.

As for the '90s, Inman predicted supermarkets and retail grocery stores would offer consumers a larger choice of entrees to compete with fast-food restaurants.

"The grocery store acting as restaurant is getting larger every day, and it's having a crossover effect on hospitals and hotels as well. But aqua-culture seafood is just beginning to take off, and I think we've only scratched the surface."

Business groups oppose both education proposals

Favor new priorities, same funds

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Two organizations representing business interests in Michigan have been going about it fairly quietly, but there's no mistaking their opposition to the two state proposals on next week's ballot.

Listen to Jay Sweeney, who owns a sales consulting firm in Bloomfield Hills and is chairman of the guardian advisory council of the National Federation of Independent Business of Michigan.

"We don't think throwing money at the problem is the answer," he said. "No one has sat down yet saying this is what you're going to get, chapter and verse, for what we want to tax you for."

"We say, as business people, 'Why not have new priorities with existing revenues?'"

"Michigan spending per pupil is among the top 10 states in the country. Teachers are among the best paid in the country," Sweeney said.

BOTH BALLOT proposals would modify the state constitution and provide more money for financing public education in kindergarten to 12th grade.

Proposal A would increase the state sales tax from 4 cents to 4.5 cents per dollar. Proposal B would increase the sales tax to 6 cents per dollar and reduce school property taxes.

The state chamber of commerce isn't enamored with the two proposals, either. Hear James Barrett, its president.

"There are no quality (of education) promises in either Proposal A and B," he said. "Voters who want more equity between districts won't be helped much by either A or B."

"In the case of Proposal A, there's no property tax relief at all. B offers some short-term reduction for some taxpayers, but B guts the Headlee rollback protection against assessment increases," Barrett said.

The Headlee Amendment generally requires reductions in tax rates to offset soaring increases in property values. Proponents of the ballot proposals say they will shift the method of funding away from property taxes, which they call an unfair method of school financing, while allowing more money to be pumped into the public schools.

NEITHER THE state chamber nor the federation, which primarily represents small businesses, has spent much money to get their message across.

The chamber, with 7,000 members, has contributed about $15,500 for brochures, polling and legal expenses, Barrett said.

The national federal of independent business, with some 25,000 members in Michigan, has contributed nothing to the campaign, said David J. Baerwalde, state director.

"We don't have ongoing assessments (union dues) every month that pay into coffers and build a war chest," Sweeney said.

He categorized the campaign as grass roots. Pamphlets have been mailed to the most active federation members. They have been asked to talk with their employees and make telephone calls.

"WE'RE TRYING to get information out on presentations, public affairs programs on radio and TV and requests from journalists," Barrett said.

Tax increases generally aren't well-received by business, especially small businesses.

"It's going to decrease operating margins," Baerwalde said. "Our feeling is, whenever possible, we should reduce level of regulation and taxation on business and individuals to grow."

"Michigan is a relatively high-tax and high-expenditure state for education," Barrett said.

"Business would like to see more emphasis from state policy makers on results rather than inputting higher taxes. There's a lot of room for improvement with the significant investment we already make in education," he said.

Limited partnership offers high income

Q. My broker has suggested I buy some shares in a master limited partnership for the purpose of obtaining higher income. He explained them a little bit, but I would appreciate it if you would make some comments about them.

A. MLPs are large limited partnerships, the interests of which are treated like shares of stock. They are traded on public stock exchanges just like shares of stock.

MLPs have an advantage because they allow the interest in large partnerships to be broken up into small pieces. Because they are traded on an exchange, master limited partnership shares (units) have a liquidity that would not be possible if the interests were kept in large pieces.

Because they are partnerships, the organizations themselves do not have to pay an income tax like a corporation does. All the income flows through to the share holders (unit holders).

This means the amount paid out to unit holders is larger than if the organization were a corporation. The investor should study an MLP just as carefully as he would any other investment before putting his money into it. The tax advantage is nice, but it doesn't guarantee the soundness of the interest.

Two MLPs were mentioned in Better Investing Magazine in October. Both were housing developers. One was Standard Pacific LP. It is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Standard Pacific has sold between 19% and 10% over the past year. In that year, it has paid out $1.95 to unit holders. That has provided a 10.5 percent return to those at the high price end of the range.

This company builds houses, mostly in California. In 1986 it was building at 41 locations in California; eight in the Houston area and three near Dallas.

I would not classify this as a retirement investment. We don't know that house building is up and down, and that means earnings will follow the same path.

Another MLP is UDC-Universal Development L.P. It develops and markets master-planned retirement and family communities in Arizona, California, Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas.

Its recent price was 25 1/4%. For the past year it paid $2.40 or 9 1/2 percent.

If you want to obtain more information on MLPs, including a summary of their main advantages as well as common investor concerns about them, write the Coalition of Publicly Traded Partnerships, Suite 200, 1625 K St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

New report indicates no ozone crisis in U.S.

"There is no ozone crisis in the United States," said Dr. Kay Jones, author of a just-released ozone analysis. Jones, a former official with the Council on Environmental Quality, reported that abnormal urban ozone levels in 1988 were a result of last year's record heat wave and drought.

The majority of U.S. cities where ozone levels exceed federal standards will likely come into attainment within five years without additional controls.

Jones, a Ph.D. engineer and consultant, is a former EPA official who served as chief science adviser to the President's Council on Environmental Quality. His analysis was sponsored by the Clean Air Working Group, which had taken note of his research and earlier presentations of Council on Environmental Quality data at academic conferences.

Ozone pollution levels recorded in the record heat wave of 1988 were abnormal and they declined dramatically in 1989. The record heat wave of 1988 temporarily accelerated ozone formation in many cities; but 1989 figures show a marked decline in ozone readings throughout the entire area affected by last year's drought.

Historical trend analysis shows that 1986 was a typical or "normal" year in most parts of the country. Further analysis of 1988 figures reveals that most Americans are not exposed to unhealthy ozone levels at all, he said.

Most Americans live in areas with acceptable ozone levels, he said. "Over 160 million Americans — almost 71 percent of the nation's population — live in areas where ozone levels do not exceed standards."

Michael Moore never does get to see Roger Smith

Finally, Roger and me have something in common. Which is that neither of us has seen "Roger and Me," the film that Flint's Michael Moore recently produced that chronicles his unsuccessful efforts to talk to GM Chairman Roger Smith about how GM is unemploying people in Flint, Moore's home town.

Chairman Roger, I suppose, didn't see "Roger and Me" because he figures the premise of the movie insults him, and he'd rather be duck hunting.

I didn't see "Roger and Me" because I can't afford it. I can't afford it because it costs about $750 a ticket to fly to Denver, the only place you can see the movie. In fact, I think the only person in Detroit who actually has seen the film is Michelle Krebs, a reporter for Auto-otive News, who spent Automotive News Publisher Keith Crain's money.

I WANTED to ask producer Michael Moore why I can't see the film in Detroit, so I went down to the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, where Moore often stands around taking pictures of himself.

(According to Michelle, a large part of the movie involves Moore taking pictures of himself, allegedly trying to get Smith to talk to him about Flint's unemployment. He stretches the gag out by going to places where Smith never goes and waits for him there. For this kind of thing, he is being considered for an academy award. Go figure.)

Although I waited for a couple of hours myself, Moore never showed auto talk

up at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club either. Obviously he is ducking me.

I wanted to corner Moore partly because I thought he should know it is tough to get an interview with a major auto company chairman even when you don't want to insult him. I know this personally, since I once chased Chairman Lee Iacocca around for about six months with a movie camera while I was trying to make a documentary that made him look only slightly worse than the second coming, and he wouldn't talk to me either.

I ALSO wanted to meet a guy who lived in Flint for about 30 years and thought it was full of picket fences and roses until all the GM jobs went to Mexico. I remember Flint in the old days as the kind of place where you could drop out of high school and work in an auto plant for more money than you got fresh out of dental school.

These guys, a few of whom I grew up with, were not big on planning for the future. Come to think of it, they weren't so big on picket fences or roses either.

As for Moore's accusation that GM is sending all those jobs to Mexico, GM is offended, since they actually spent $2 billion giving all those jobs to robots, who at least live in Flint. The jobs that GM didn't give to robots were lost because not enough people were buying GM cars. Part of this is Flint's fault, since practically none of the Flint robots were issued drivers licenses.

STILL MORE jobs that didn't go to robots went to engineers and technicians, who get preferential treatment these days, having spent about five years in college (mainly at GM's expense) while other Flint guys dropped out to earn enough working at GM to buy their first Corvette and pay for paint for those picket fences.

Meanwhile, Michael Moore figures his film about waiting for Roger is going to make him rich. He's lined up Warner Bros. as a distributor and thinks people will pay about $14 million to see his movie, on top of the plane tickets to Denver. This is about what Chairman Lee earned by turning around Chrysler instead of giving me my interview.

With that kind of money, the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club might even let Moore wait inside.

Government helps when disaster hits

Although the possibility in Michigan seems pretty remote, every business runs the risk of being destroyed by natural forces such as high winds, droughts or flooding. If you look over your insurance policy, chances are it will not offer coverage for a major natural disaster, spelling the end of your business.

Obviously, your most immediate need would be money to begin the rebuilding process. The Small Business Administration has developed a loan program for this situation.

Money is available after the president, the SBA administrator or the Secretary of Agriculture declares a natural disaster. The governor must make the request for assistance on behalf of the businesses.

TO BE eligible, 40 percent of more of your business must have been destroyed by the disaster. Additionally, you are eligible for a loan only if at least 25 businesses, 25 homes or a combination are suffering from the same disaster.

An exception would be if three or more businesses caused 25 percent or more of the workforce in a city or county to be unemployed for more than 90 days because of the disaster.

If your business credit is good, you will be eligible for a disaster loan of up to $500,000, to be repaid over three years at 8-percent interest. You loan could be extended up to 30 years at 4-percent interest.

Creative thinking bolsters small business' prospects

The ability to come up with good ideas as a small business owner or manager is vital to the success of any organization. Businesses that move ahead and are able to take timely advantage of their opportunities in the marketplace, identify problem areas and come up with innovative solutions are usually managed by those who think creatively.

It is important to recognize that creative thinking is not the same as factual thinking or the ability to create something tangible. Rather, creative thinking represents an ability to think in ways that are not the usual or normal in coming up with new ideas.

It is important to realize that all of us are more comfortable thinking in one specific way. As a result, we often restrict ourselves from exploring all the possibilities in a given situation.

To think creatively, there must be an ideal climate for creative thinking within the organization. Four common roadblocks that can hinder this process are status quo thinking, inertia, lack of self-confidence, and a fear of idea acceptance.

Status quo thinking is common among those who always have a predetermined solution to almost any situation based on what has worked in the past. Although past experience should not be ignored, it cannot be relied on completely. Just because a solution was satisfactory in the past does not mean it will be the best answer now.

focus: small business

Inertia occurs when individuals are not willing to risk themselves mentally and think about better or newer ways of doing things. Taking the course of least resistance may appear a safer bet, but it also paralyzes creative thinking.

Lack of self-confidence and fear of acceptance compounds this problem because many people hesitate to endorse a new idea for fear of what others might think. Even more limiting, they are afraid of how others will react if the idea is accepted and implemented by the organization.

To create an environment that encourages creative thinking, there must be the incentive to produce creative ideas. In most areas of management, this is evident in a desire to do things better, be more efficient and profitable, or resolve problem areas relating to present methods and performance.

The pressure to produce creative ideas because of problems or a forced change in the operation also serves to motivate management and staff to stretch their abilities to think creatively.

Last, the willingness to accept and try out new ideas is crucial. Creative thinking produces little change or progress if management fails to support and implement new ideas.

Next week, we'll discuss how small business owners and managers can improve work methods that affect organizational success and growth.

Mary DiPaolo is the owner of Marketrends, a Farmington Hills based business consulting firm. She is also producer and host of the cable television series, "Chamber Perspectives."

Area lawmakers support economic aid bills

Here's how Observer & Eccentric area members of congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Oct. 20.

HOUSE

ECONOMIC AID PACKAGE — By a vote of 280 for and 125 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill (HR 2494) authorizing in fiscal 1990 about $20 million to help U.S. exporters and more than $260 million in foreign aid.

The bill provides $150 million to help the International Monetary Fund subsidize interest owed by developing nations, $110 million in "tied aid" that recipients must use to buy American goods and $20 million for Export-Import Bank subsidies of borrowing by American exporters. It also sends $232 million to the Inter-American Development Bank for loans to Latin America, beginning in fiscal 1991.

Supporter Al McCandless, R-

Calif., said funding the Inter-American Development Bank is "the best way for the United States to have the maximum impact at the lowest cost in South and Central America."

Opponent Jim Bunning, R-Ky., objected to "yet another handout to the Inter-American Development Bank," which has helped the Sandinistas in Nicaragua.

Members voting yes supported the bill. Area members Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield and William Broomfield, R-Lake Orion voted yes.

AID TO POLAND AND HUNGARY — By a vote of 345 for and 47 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill (HR 3402) authorizing nearly $840 million in fiscal 1990 to help Poland and Hungary remain stable as they open their political and economic systems to the West. The amount is nearly twice as much as President Bush requested this year in special aid to the two countries. It provides food shipments, trade benefits, environmental assistance, infusions of hard currency, grants to spur private enterprise and programs bringing Polish and Hungarian students to the United States.

Members voting yes supported the bill. Representatives Pursell, Hertel, Levin and Broomfield voted yes. Ford didn't vote.

'CARGO PREFERENCE' — By a vote of 170 for and 228 against, the House rejected an amendment to scale back the "cargo preference" requirements of a bill (see preceding page) sending special aid to Poland and Hungary. The amendment was backed by farm interests and opposed by the maritime industry.

At issue was a requirement that American-flag vessels haul all U.S. food provided to Poland. Of the bill's $125 million for food for the Poles, about $50 million would go for shipping. Critics said use of lower-cost foreign vessels would free up more of the $125 million for food. The amendment sought to permit half of the food to be carried to Poland under foreign flag.

Supporter Doug Bereuter, R-Nebr., complained that money for food would be "siphoned off for the maritime industry."

Opponent Helen Bentley, R-Md.,

said 42 cents of each dollar spent on American flagships would "come back in taxes to help pay for the great subsidy for farmers that we all have supported."

Members voting yes wanted to scale back cargo preference requirements in the bill.

Area members voting yes were Pursell, and Broomfield. Hertel and Levin voted no. William Ford didn't vote.

SENATE

NICARAGUAN ELECTION AID — By a vote of 64 and 35 against, the Senate sent to President Bush a bill (HR 3385) providing a $9 million to boost the candidacy of Violetta Chamorro in the Feb. 25, 1990 Nicaraguan presidential election. Chamorro, a newspaper publisher, is the democratic opposition's candidate against Daniel Ortega, the Marxist ruler of Nicaragua.

Supporter John Chafee, R-R.I., said the $9 million will "help level the playing field" in the Nicaraguan contest.

Opponent Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said "it is time to let the Nicaraguan people attempt to resolve their own differences without interference from us."

Senators voting yes supported election aid to the Nicaraguan opposition.

Michigan Democratic Senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle voted no.

TO PROTECT THE FLAG — The Senate rejected a proposed constitutional amendment outlawing "the physical desecration of the flag of the United States." The tally of 51 for and 48 against fell short of the two-thirds majority required for approval. This killed the proposal, because both houses of Congress must approve amendments to the Constitution if state ratification is to go forward. The House has not taken up the amendment.

Taxpayer rights detailed

"Your Rights As A Taxpayer" is a six page overview, written in clear language, of all rights and responsibilities of taxpayers in dealing with the Internal Revenue Service.

It is the most requested publication of the IRS. This publication not only informs Michigan taxpayers about those rights and responsibilities, but it also includes telephone numbers and addresses for additional free information and help on tax matters," said John Hymmel, IRS district director in Detroit.

"Existing, more detailed publications on examination, collection and appeal rights and procedures continue to be available, but publication number one provides a good summary and overview of all taxpayer rights in one document."

Publication 1 is available at local IRS offices around the state or by calling the toll free forms order number, 1-800-424-3676.

SC choir performs Ukrainian cantata

The premier performance of the Ukrainian cantata "The Hand of John Damascene" will be performed by the Schoolcraft College Community Choir at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5, in St. Mary's Church, Greektown, in Detroit.

The choir, directed by David Jorlett, will be accompanied by the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra. Based on a poem about the 8th century Christian poet John Damascene, the cantata was written by world renowned Ukrainian composer Andrij Hnatyshyn. Hnatyshyn is well known in European and Ukrainian circles for his orchestral and chamber music and for his vast number of religious and secular compositions. He composed the cantata in 1988 in preparation for the Ukrainian millennium celebration of Christianity.

Hnatyshyn will attend the premier. Soloists include his daughter, Liuba Hnatyshyn, alto; Liuba Kozak of Toronto, soprano; Victor Shewill of Hamilton, Ontario, tenor; Jerome Cisaruk, baritone; and Myroslaw Hnatluk, bass.

Tickets are $15 each and are available by calling St. John's Catholic Church at 897-7800 or Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church at 278-0470. Free bus transportation will be provided between these two parishes and St. Mary's Church.

Salem dumps defending champ

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Pete Scerri knows something about state championship soccer teams, having coached five in his 15 years at Livonia Stevenson.

And he likes Plymouth Salem's chances of succeeding his Spartans after the Rocks eliminated the defending Class A champs 5-2 in a regional contest Wednesday at Centennial Educational Park.

"We lost to an outstanding team today," Scerri said. "I'll make a prediction: I don't think there is a team that can hold this team."

Redford Catholic Central will attempt to do that Saturday when it plays the Rocks, 16-3-1, for the regional championship at 2 p.m. The site will be Ford Elementary School, located a half mile west of Dearborn Fordson High School on Ford Road between Southfield and Schaefer.

Salem advanced to the final with a historic victory — its first ever over Stevenson, snapping an 0-11-2 winless streak that spanned the last nine years.

"THIS IS THE biggest win of my life; this is it," said Salem goalkeeper Matt Tudor after the Rocks avenged a 2-0, regular-season loss to the Spartans. "A lot of emotion went into this game, and we just carried it through."

Wednesday's game was significant for another reason, also. It was Scerri's last, culminating a successful career in which he made Stevenson the foremost power in the state. He coached the Spartans to 242 wins, 19 losses and 20 ties, including a 13-3-2 mark this year.

Scerri, who emphasized he was retiring and not quitting, said he decided to leave coaching after an angry parent called his home and used abusive language because his son didn't make the all-league team.

"I'm going to miss it, but I don't have it in my heart anymore," Scerri said. "When a parent hurts me, when it's no fun anymore, I don't want to be there."

"I never go to the parents, where they work, and tell them how to do their job."

Scerri added he still feels a bond with his players and will continue to be a fan of the Spartans.

"You can take me out of Stevenson, but you can't take Stevenson out of me," he said.

"I FEEL BAD because of the kids. These kids are something else. I never had so much fun in my life." Scerri also said he feared Salem more than any team, including Western Lakes Activities Association co-champ Livonia Churchill, the team beat in the district final. The Rocks offered support for that contention and appear to be peaking at the right time. Salem has played extremely well of late and has been on a roll since going 0-3-1 late in the regular season, during which time it lost to Churchill and Stevenson.

"We played the way we have the last two games," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "We're passing quicker and using our speed."

"Like our wins in the district, we knew we could do it if we spread the field and relied on team play. (The players) feel it; they've got the spirit."

The game turned in favor of the Rocks late in the first half when Jeff Gold and Greg Christensen scored goals in the last two minutes, breaking a 1-1 tie and sending Salem into halftime with plenty of momentum.

Gold and Stevenson keeper Jerry Smolenski went up for a ball in front of the goal and collided. The ball caromed toward the goal, and Gold drilled it past a defender with just under 2:00 to play.

WITH SECONDS left in the half, Chris Lajoy's throw was touched by Chris Olson, who directed it to Christensen on the right side. Christensen kicked it across to the opposite side of the net.

"I think that did it," Johnson said, adding no player has scored more than one goal in Salem's last three games. "I think it was just a matter of the whole team clicking and relying on team play."

Salem might have secured its position in the first half, but the Spartans put themselves at a greater disadvantage in the second half when defender Jason Flynn kicked the ball into his own net.

Flynn and Olson chased the ball into the Stevenson end, and Smolenski came out to take a security pass from Flynn, who lifted the ball over his keeper's head into the unattended net.

Stevenson also was minus leading scorer Shane Millner, who was red-carded in the last game.

Salem's Andy Cosenza made it 5-1 when his rebound shot ricocheted off the foot of Stevenson defender John Labadie before Smolenski could recover from the initial attempt.

Flynn scored Stevenson's second goal on a penalty kick with 15 minutes remaining. Tom Baker opened the scoring for Salem after 10 minutes of play, and Todd Krzysnik countered for the Spartans with a header.

Shawn Respert headed for MSU

Trail leads Respert to Spartans

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Rated as perhaps the top basketball player in the Catholic League, 6-foot-3 guard Shawn Respert of Redford Bishop Borgese High has announced his intentions to sign a national letter-of-intent next week with Michigan State.

Respert, who averaged nearly 20 points per game last season, narrowed his choices down to MSU and the University of Detroit.

"I like the challenge of playing in the Big Ten," said Respert, a 3.4 honor student. "Michigan State is a team on the rise. They could be in the top 10 nationally in two or three years and I'd like to be a part of it."

Respert is the third player to verbally commit to the Spartans during the early signing period (Nov. 8-14).

The Spartans are also expected to sign 6-9 Anthony Miller of Benton Harbor and Kris Weshinsky of Purcellville, Va.

"Shawn wanted to have a little bit more of the college atmosphere, but he also saw an opportunity to play in the future with a

CC ousts T-Birds; regional final next

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Shortly after knocking off a challenger named Dearborn Edsel Ford, Redford Catholic Central's soccer team received another challenge Wednesday.

This one came from CC coach John Boots.

Boots had just guided CC to a rather convincing, 5-1 prerregional win over host Ford, but the first-year coach wasn't pleased with the total picture. CC never looked better in taking a 4-0 halftime lead, but the Shamrocks played an uninspired second half according to Boots.

"I told them the first half was the best half of high school soccer I had ever seen," said Boots. "But for us to win it all (the Class A title), we've got to play 80 minutes, not 40. Honestly, that's been one of our problems all year."

"As soon as they (his players) decide it's over and the other team can't win, then they slow down. That's already cost us once this year against (Birmingham) Brother Rice. We had a 2-0 lead and gave it up."

THE WIN SENDS CC, 17-2-1 overall, into Saturday's regional final at Dearborn Fordson. The Shamrocks will play the winner of Wednesday's Livonia Stevenson-Plymouth Salem encounter.

Dominic Scicluna, a senior midfielder who assisted on two goals, understands Boots' message. Scicluna said he was rooting for Stevenson to beat Salem in the prerregional, but either way he expects a tough match Saturday.

"It'll be our toughest game all year," Scicluna said. "Everyone is going to have to play 110 percent. We haven't played a second half like the first half all year. If we do, we should go to the finals. It doesn't matter who we play, but I'd like to play Stevenson, the powerhouse of the 80s."

Jim Bernthal (who also had two assists) scored two goals, and Chris Williams, Jon Petoskey and Joe Nora scored one apiece against Ford.

CC goalkeeper J.P. Angell started and played most of the game to record the win.

FORD, THE regular-season Northwest Suburban League champion, finished the year at 18-3 overall. The Thunderbirds' all-state candidate Scott Welger, who scored 30 goals this fall and 100 in his career, went scoreless. Derek Lowe scored Ford's only goal early in the second half on an assist from Welger.

CC defeated Ford, 1-0 earlier in the year and Ford coach Mike McGinty said the Shamrocks are much improved.

"They've matured and put it together," McGinty said. "They weren't clicking early in the season on their combination passes. I believe the state title could be decided Saturday."

"I'm just happy to be in with this company. We're 18-3 but we don't play the schedule these guys do."

Boots said part of the difference came at midfield where sophomore Kerry Zavagnin and Petoskey play. Zavagnin picked up two assists and Petoskey had one.

"They played great at midfield," Boots said. "We had so many opportunities because the ball had gotten through the midfield. We also had good defense on Welger and that's because of the play of Dana Orsucci and Mike Duffy."

Temple gains region soccer final

Senior Kraig Dalton scored both Temple Christian goals.

The victory enables Temple Christian (10-6-2) to advance to Saturday's Regional at Inter-City Baptist.

Temple Christian will take on Grosse Pointe University-Liggett. The game is slated to begin at 3 p.m.

"We realize Liggett has a good team," Temple Christian coach Gary Simmons said. "We want to keep the score close at halftime."

Prior to Saturday's district final, Temple Christian shut out Fairlane Christian of Dearborn, 2-0, thanks to goals by Dalton and Kevin DeMoss. Pauley made 16 saves in goal.

Lady Ocelots go unbeaten in loop

The win streak remains intact, and because it is unbroken, Schoolcraft College's volleyball team will be the No. 1 seed at the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 12 tournament it hosts next weekend.

SC disposed of Delta College 15-4, 15-9 Tuesday in Saginaw for its 10th consecutive victory in Eastern Conference play. The Lady Ocelots have not lost a conference dual match in five seasons, since Tom Teeters became coach in 1985.

The win had other ramifications. By earning the top seed at the regional tournament, SC will get a bye Thursday. The Lady Ocelots' first match will be at 10 a.m. Friday; their second in the double-elimination tournament will be at 5 p.m. Friday.

Play begins at 10 a.m. Saturday, with the final scheduled for 3 p.m. If a second match is needed, it will follow at 5 p.m. (A complete listing of teams and times for the regional tournament will appear in Thursday's Observer).

LAST SATURDAY, SC played at the four-team Huntington College Tournament in Huntington, Ind. The Lady Ocelots won two of three matches, all against four-year colleges.

SC defeated Hillsdale College 15-7, 15-6, and Wooster (Ohio) College 15-3, 15-4, but lost to Huntington 15-10, 15-9.

Teeters singled out Jenny Sproul for her setting and serving and Aljsha Love for her passing and serving as tournament standouts. Kirsten Stelzer led the attack with 22 kills (.396 kill average) and Cathy Coak had four service aces.

SC, which won the NJCAA championship in '88, is now 32-8 overall and, according to Teeters, has a solid volleyball

chance at repeating as national champs. "If we can get our key people passing, we'll improve," he said. "Free ball passing and serve reception are our weaknesses."

— SC plays at Oakland University — ranked 20th in the NCAA Division II polls — at 3 p.m. Saturday.

MADONNA VOLLEYBALL: A three-game sweep of Nazareth College last Thursday allowed the Fighting Crusaders to clinch the No. 2 seed at the NAIA District 23 Tournament, Saturday at Northwood Institute.

Madonna will face No. 3-seed Aquinas College in a best-of-five games semifinal at 6 p.m., following No. 1 Northwood's match with No. 4 Spring Arbor. The final is slated for 8 p.m.; at stake is a berth in the Ohio Regional tournament.

The Crusaders' 15-7, 15-3, 15-10 victory over Nazareth improved their record to 6-1 against district foes. On Monday at Henry Ford CC, Madonna won easily 15-7, 15-10, 15-0 to run its overall record to 27-11.

In the win over Henry Ford, sophomore Kristy McFadden (from Redford Bishop Borgess) had 13 kills, while freshmen Stacey Girard (Redford/Livonia Ladywood), Melissa Mars (Borgess) and Marja Wordhouse (Plymouth Salem) each had seven. Senior Wendy Spencer (Walled Lake Western) and sophomore Jenny Sladowski (Livonia Stevenson) had six digs apiece.

Freshman Tonia Smith (Walled Lake Central) collected 11 kills in the win over Nazareth, with Girard adding 10 and McFadden and Mars nine apiece.

Stevenson cagers smother Central

By Bill Parker
staff writer

Livonia Stevenson didn't have to pull any tricks on Walled Lake Central on Halloween because the host Vikings handed out treats all night.

Stevenson took advantage of 24 Central turnovers and some dismal shooting by the Vikings as the visiting Spartans rolled to a 44-32 victory in Western Lakes-Lakes Division girls basketball action.

"The whole thing boils down to us not shooting well," admitted Central coach Ken Butler, whose team slipped to 4-13 overall and 2-8 in the conference. "That has been our problem all year. We play pretty good defense, but we can't shoot the ball. We had seven shots in one series and I don't think we even hit the rim."

The win was a big one for the Spartans (9-8 overall 4-6 conference), who had to win their last three games to finish third in the division and earn a berth in the league tournament.

"I give the girls a lot of credit," said Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit. "We had to beat (Westland John) Glenn, Farmington and Central in our last three games to make the upper division bracket in the playoffs. The girls came through.

They're playing hard right now and starting to respond to the things we want to do."

JESSINA MARTIN was the first to respond Tuesday. The senior forward scored five of her nine points in the second quarter helping the Spartans turn a 12-8 first-quarter deficit into a 22-17 halftime lead.

Martinaced a pair of free throws with 2:14 remaining in the half to pull the Spartans to within a basket, 13-15. Moments later, Martin took a sharp pass Kelly Cotter, made a strong move to the basket and tied the game at 15 apiece.

Teresa Sarna (nine points) gave Stevenson its' first lead since early in the game, 17-15, with a steal and a layup.

The Vikings responded with an inside basket by Leisa Herrington to even the game at 17-17 before Martin put the Spartans ahead to stay, 18-17, by making the top half of a two-shot foul. Cotter and Sarno added baskets at the end of the quarter as Stevenson rolled to a five-point lead at halftime.

Cotter and Jenny Audet led a balanced third quarter attack with four points each as the Spartans outscored Central 14-10 in the quarter to take a commanding 36-27 lead.

Cotter added six of her game-high 14 points in the fourth quarter to seal the victory for Stevenson.

Karyn Koslowski carried the Vikings with 12 points and Herrington grabbed 13 rebounds.

"Walled Lake Central played hard and scrappy," Hebestreit said. "They were all over the floor trying to press us. We've been practicing the press and were able to maintain our composure. The girls are playing pretty well right now."

Stevenson also held a distinct advantage at the free throw line, converting 18 of 29 compared to just eight of 22 for the Vikings.

NORTHVILLE 39, WESTERN 37: Walled Lake Western slipped to 10-7 overall and 7-4 in the Western Lakes-Western Division with this loss at Northville.

"We were ahead the whole ballgame," explained Western coach Bill St. John. "With about four minutes to go it was 37-34. We tied it up at 37-37 and fouled them and they made the free throw. We had a chance to win it but the last shot didn't go."

Chiefs clip RU girls for 3rd spot

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

John Barrett figured his Farmington girls cross country team "had a lock on second place no matter what" at Saturday's Class A regional at Marshbank Park.

Barrett's belief proved right enough, but — if he said the same thing to Redford Union coach Bob Ouellette — his optimism might have been tempered.

West Bloomfield captured the regional team title easily enough, scoring 31 points. After that, though, it got tight: Only three teams could qualify for Saturday's state meet at IMA-Brookwood Golf Course in Flint.

And only nine points separated the next three teams: Farmington was second with 103, followed by Plymouth Canton, which edged Ouellette's RU team for third place, 107 to 112. Livonia Stevenson was fifth with 140, Bloomfield Hills Andover was sixth with 179 and Livonia Franklin took seventh with 186.

Other Observer-area teams in the 17-team region were Plymouth Salem, ninth (280); North Farmington, 10th (285); Farmington Hills Mercy, 12th (312); Livonia Churchill, 13th (357); Westland John Glenn, 15th (408); and Livonia Ladywood, 17th (452).

THE INDIVIDUAL champion was Farmington senior Jennifer Kiel in 19:30. Her season-long nemesis, North Farmington senior Lisa Rives, was right behind in second in 19:35.

Other top-finishers from the Observer area included Canton's Amy Smith, fifth (20:39); Stevenson's Tracy Clark, sixth (20:43); and RU's Tracey James, 12th.

Still, who didn't finish may have had as big an impact: RU's Liza Mockeridge told her coach she was feeling ill just an hour before the race. Ouellette wanted to pull her out, but she convinced him she was well enough to run.

Ouellette said he would allow it, but he was going to stand at the open-mile marker on the 5,000-meter course and take her out if he thought her condition was worsening.

"She never made it that far," said Ouellette. Mockeridge, the Panthers' second-best runner, dropped out of the race early, and that quite likely cost RU a spot among the top three teams in the region. Ouellette said Tuesday Mockeridge possibly was afflicted with mononucleosis.

BUT THE RU coach would not use Mockeridge's illness as an excuse. "Everybody has problems," he said. RU's other runners did well, but not well enough to offset Mockeridge's loss. Michelle Daraban was 17th and Jenny Sturdevant was 18th; they will join James in the Class A individual race Saturday.

RU's other finishers were Kelly Murray (23rd) and Melissa Still (42nd).

Although bad luck hounded the Panthers Saturday, Ouellette was right: Other teams have endured similar problems all season. Farmington had to rest Margaret Martin part of the season and was without Amy Trunk, who was injured.

But with Kiel leading the pack, the Falcons hung on to second despite a less-than-sparkling overall performance.

"I thought if West Bloomfield had an off-day we could beat them," said Barrett. "But they ran very well and we didn't run our best."

Martin was one of Farmington's bright spots, placing 15th (21:23) in a run Barrett called "quite spectacular for her." Allison Davis was 27th (21:56), Cheryl Casaroli was 29th (21:59) and Jenny Derwinski was 31st (22:07).

FARMINGTON MAY not have been up-to-par, but Canton, according to coach George Przygodski, "ran real well. It was a great meet for us."

"We knew West Bloomfield was going to win. We figured we would have a hard time passing up Farmington, and it would be a struggle between us and Redford Union for third. We met twice earlier this year, and they beat us once and we beat them once."

The difference, according to Przygodski, was "We ran our race and they ran theirs. They ran out hard, we went out slower and ran them down at the end."

Joining Smith as Canton's scorers were Adrienne Garrow, 20th (21:39); Kim Gudeth, 21st (21:43); Anne Dibble, 28th (21:58); and Missy Jasnowski, 33rd (22:18).

IT WAS a good day for individual runners from the Observerland area as well. North's Rives will be among the favorites to win Saturday's Individual race, according to her coach, Bill Pinnell Jr. "She ran one of her best races this month," he said of Rives' run at the regional.

As for Saturday, Pinnell added, "I think she'll finish in the top five. We plan on her winning it. From what I've seen from results in the paper, I think she can handle it."

Stevenson will also send two runners to the individual race, Clark and Carrie Creehan, who placed 13th (21:08). Gail Grewe just missed, placing 22nd (21:44).

"Those three worked hard all summer and all fall," said Spartan coach Paul Holmberg. "So it was good to see them do well."

"They just wanted to get there and get a chance. They want to finish in the top third. If Tracy can break 20 (minutes), that's a goal for her. Carrie just wants to stay as close to Tracy as possible."

Salem will also send a runner to the individual race: Jenny Harris, who finished 16th (21:20). Injuries plagued the Rocks all season, with their top runner sidelined with a stress fracture and two of their remaining top six hobbled during parts of the season.

SOME OTHER teams and individuals, running in different classes, deserve mention as well. Lutheran Westland's team conquered the Class D regional at Schwartz Creek by placing all five of its runners among the top 14.

Leading the Warriors was Jennifer Gerlach, who led the field, finishing first in 20:44. Teammate Ellen Anderson was second (20:55), Lisa Shaffer was seventh (22:58), Renee Ruth was ninth (23:02) and Carrie Siggins was 14th (24:15).

Redford Bishop Borgess didn't have enough to field a team, but freshman sensation Erica Shepard was outstanding. Shepard won the Class B region at Southgate Anderson in 19:26. It was her ninth victory in 11 races this season.

CC harriers eye rebound at state

Plymouth Canton's boys cross country team, with 53 points, managed to walk away with top honors at Saturday's Class A regional cross country meet.

With almost perfect conditions at West Bloomfield's Marshbank Park, the Chiefs cruised past No. 2-ranked Redford Catholic Central, which posted 66 points, followed by Plymouth Salem (77), Livonia Stevenson (166) and Farmington (168).

Farmington's Ben Goba won top individual honors, posting a time of 16:14. CC's Mike Sheridan ran a close second (16:27) and Canton's Brian Beach finished third. Chris Antczak of CC took fifth (16:53) and Salem's Brian Uryga sprinted his way to sixth (16:55).

Mike Ream of Canton finished eighth, followed by CC's Jay Schemanske who grabbed ninth (17:06) and Stevenson's Scott Freeborn finished 10th in 17:10.

Canton, CC and Salem will convoy north Saturday for the state Class A cross country finals. Flint's IMA-Brookwood Golf Club will host the 5,000-meter race, which is slated to begin at 11 a.m.

CANTON COACH JIM HAYES said his team can compete with anyone in the state right now.

"We feel we can compete with anyone who will be there," Hayes said. "I just hope the conditions are good. No rain or snow."

Salem coach Geoff Baker also expresses confidence heading into this weekend's race.

"If we are healthy, we can compete with any team there," Baker said. "I think CC, Canton and us are all evenly matched."

Tony Magni, the veteran CC coach, said his team has an inside chance because of experience.

"We've been there before," said Magni, who led CC to titles in 1983 and 1984. "The state run is a whole different ballgame and a lot of these teams will find that out."

The Shamrocks, along with Ann Arbor Pioneer, have been two of the most successful teams in the 1980s. Last year, CC finished fifth and Pioneer second.

"I am not saying we are going to walk away with anything," Magni said. "Canton ran an excellent race in the regionals. I just think experience will help us."

LUTHERAN WESTLAND finished second in Saturday's Class D regional meet at Swartz Creek Golf Course.

Offensive line vital to Rockets' hopes in Fordson matchup

By Brad Emons
staff writer

They're the invisible men. They toil in relative obscurity, with little fanfare, but their jobs are vitally important.

Westland John Glenn football coach Chuck Gordon knows the play of his offensive line is vital to the Rockets' hopes in the first round of the state Class A playoffs against Dearborn Fordson. (Game time is 1 p.m. Saturday at Fordson.)

"It's going to be determined in the trenches," predicted Gordon, whose team is 8-1 overall. "That's where the game is really won and lost when it's all said and done."

Offensive linemen don't grab the headlines at Glenn or on any high school football team for that matter.

This season, most of the attention in Rocketland has gone to quarterback Eric Stover, who has thrown for more than 1,000 yards, and tailback Shannon Layne, who has rushed for more than 1,000.

"Those guys have great respect for our line," Gordon said. "They know how important it is because they see all the hard work they put in."

WHO ARE THESE masked men?

The reliable center is 5-foot-11, 219-pound Todd Horseman. The tackles are 6-2, 230-pound Mark Johnston, an All-Conference pick, and 6-6, 265-pound Harold Rankey, the team's biggest player.

At the guards are Skender Gocaj (5-11, 181) and Tony Prey (6-0, 190), the only junior starter. The tight end is Garnett Woody (6-3, 203).

These six players fit the criteria well this season under the formula Gordon employs.

"The first thing we look for is good size, especially in our league (the Western Lakes), because if you're not big and strong, you're going to have problems," he said. "The second thing is that you've got to love being in the weight room. You've got to love to get stronger."

"And the third thing is that you've got to be smart." The Glenn coach said a lineman stereotyped as "dumb" is a thing of the past.

"Those days are over because the game has changed so much," Gordon said. "They're now asked to block all the different fronts and pick up stunts. It isn't easy as it once was."

GLENN'S OFFENSIVE LINE is under the watchful eye each day by Gordon's staff of assistants: Mike Henry, Craig Hnatuk, Al Dobrovolec and Darrin Wubbenhorst.

"They're usually evaluated on film and nothing goes unnoticed," Gordon said. "This biggest thing about playing the offensive line is that you have to be assignment conscious. You can't afford to blow an assignment. They're effort-types of guys who love their jobs."

Fordson, a perennial playoff qualifier with a 9-0 record, will provide a stiff challenge to the Rockets' interior front.

But Gordon thinks his group is up to the task because it's adopted a positive attitude.

"They've got to be an unselfish group," said the Glenn coach. "They have to understand they won't get their name in the paper. But they typify what athletics are all about because of the sacrifice they make."

Gordon calls these invisible men a "tight unit."

"They have to be together," he said. "They do a lot of group work, whether it's on the sled or whatever."

"It takes a special guy to play up there."

Season finales Trojans, Patriots, CC go out winners

football

In the season football finale Saturday for both teams, Livonia Clarenceville defeated visiting Redford Thurston, 21-14.

Clarenceville finished the year at 7-2, while Thurston dropped to 3-6.

Quarterback Chris Foss of Clarenceville completed 20 of 30 passes for 228 yards and two touchdowns.

He connected with Andy Weighill on a 20-yard scoring strike in the third quarter, followed by a 30-yard pass to Weighill again, the game-winner with 5:05 remaining in the game.

Junior Kendrick Harrington also had a big day receiving for the Trojans, making a couple of spectacular catches. (Jay Larson booted all three extra points.)

Weighill scored the game's first TD on a 5-yard run, capping a 75-yard Trojan drive in the opening quarter.

Thurston came back to take a 14-7 halftime lead on a pair of short runs by senior tailback Jesse Welker, who rushed for 105 yards on the day. He finished with a season total of 1,060, breaking the school record of 1,034 set by Craig Mutch in 1968.

Clarenceville was stopped twice inside the Thurston 10 during the first half.

Steve Koss, a junior linebacker, paced the Thurston defense with two sacks on the day.

Thurston had a chance to tie the game, but nullified in the final minutes.

With Clarenceville trying to kill the clock, Scott Cannon picked up a Trojan fumble and ran 75 yards for an apparent score, but the play was whistled back and ruled not a fumble.

REDFORD CC 28, DIVINE CHILD 14: Dave Owens became yet another area runner to crack the 1,000-yard barrier, leading Redford Catholic Central to a season-ending triumph over Dearborn Divine Child in a game played Saturday at Crestwood High.

Owens, a senior tailback cracked an 80-yard TD run on the first play from scrimmage. He rushed for 161 yards in 19 carries on the day, finishing the year with 1,011 yards.

Junior quarterback Jason Carr, who completed seven of 16 passes for 100 yards, threw a pair of TD passes — a 42-yarder to Dave Baucus in the first quarter, followed by a 5-yard pass to Mike Mathis in the second period.

Divine Child recovered a fumble for one TD, while Dustin Cunningham scored on a 2-yard run with 1:23 left in the half.

CC's Terry Licht added a 2-yard TD run, capping a 14-play, 58-yard drive with 3:40 left to ice it for the Shamrocks, who finished 7-2 overall. (Divine Child wound up at 5-4.)

CC outgained the Falcons in total yardage, 266-137. Senior tackle Ryan Bell led CC with seven tackles (one solo and six assists). Jon Barbara, Rob Sylvester and Leo Kowalyk each recovered fumbles for CC.

FRANKLIN 20, GARDEN CITY 14 (OT): The Patriots got a break in overtime when lineman Derek Ploch fell on a Mark Little fumble in the end zone, giving Livonia Franklin (4-5) the non-league win Saturday over the visiting Cougars (1-8).

Franklin rushed for 270 of its 314 total yards. Pete Ministrelli paced the Patriots with 140 yards in 25 carries. He scored on pair of 1-yard runs in the second and fourth quarters. (Tad Dennis kicked both extra points to send the game into overtime.)

Little added 91 yards in 17 carries.

GC jumped out to a 14-0 second quarter lead on a pair of touchdowns (1 and 13 yards by Frank Golham. Tight end John Samborski set up both scores with a 20- and 30-yard catches, respectively.)

GC finished with 200 total yards, 113 on the ground and 87 in the air (4 of 21). Starting quarterback Jim Marszalek missed the final quarter and the overtime because of an ankle injury. He led the Cougars with 108 yards rushing in only eight carries.

Jon Marino was the Patriots' leading tackler, while Dean Vandal and Rick Basch each intercepted passes.

N. FARMINGTON 30, REDFORD UNION 12: On Saturday, host North Farmington (6-3) withstood an aerial assault by Redford Union (0-9). Brian Thels passed 49 times, completing 20 for 278 yards and a pair of touchdowns for RU, but North outgained the Panthers in total yardage, 227-207.

Jon Kraus led North with 51 yards rushing in 16 carries. He scored on a 2-yard run.

Luclen Van Cleave added an 18-yard TD run; Tyson Richardsón, a 4-yard run, and Brad Hirshman, a 9-yard run.

RU, meanwhile, had only 29 yards rushing in 18 carries. "They came out with a 'junk' offense, three receivers on one side," said North coach Jim O'Leary. "It was nothing we expected. We saw a whole different look."

ST. MARY'S 35, BORGESS 8: Quarterback Vaughn Bryant fired four touchdown passes Saturday to lead host Orchard Lake St. Mary's (7-2) to its second win this season over Redford Bishop Borgess (1-8).

Dwayne Carter caught two TDs — 12 and 22 yards. Kevin King added an 8-yard catch, while Nathan Bush contributed another on a 62-yard catch. Jason Janosz, who rushed for 65 yards in eight carries, added a 28-yard TD run. (Greg Palmer finished with 64 yards in four carries.)

Bryant was five of nine for 168 yards. OLSM led 21-0 at the half and 28-0 at the end of three quarters before Borgess scored in the final quarter.

Champ is declared in prediction race

The state high school football playoffs begin this weekend, but for your friendly Observerland grid prognosticators, the season is over and the final numbers are in.

For the first time in four years, Brad Emons is wearing the crown of fearless forecaster.

After going 10-2 last week, Emons finished the year at 98-28, three games ahead of last year's champion

Dan O'Meara. O'Meara didn't quite have the luck of the Irish behind him this season, winding up at 95-31. (He went 9-3 in the ninth and final week.)

As 1990 approaches, the champion will face another stiff challenge from his counterpart, who reportedly has petitioned to continue the grid prognostications through the playoffs.

But the commissioner has spoken and the results are final.

Gaels win CYO crown

St. Michaels of Livonia captured its third consecutive Catholic Youth Organization football title Sunday with a 22-16 victory over Warren St. Anne at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The Gaels, made up of seventh- and eighth-graders, finished the year at 9-0. They have now won 30 straight under coach Jerry Rioux.

Still kicking Inter-regionals next for Ocelots

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

It didn't come easy, but it did come — and now Schoolcraft College's mens soccer team is going.

The Ocelots subdued a stubborn Cuyahoga Metro CC team 1-0 last Saturday at SC to clinch the Region 12 title. The victory improved their record to 11-2-2 overall.

More importantly, the win qualified SC for the National Junior College Athletic Association Inter-regional Tournament this weekend at the College of DuPage in Glen Ellyn, Ill.

SC opens the tournament against Lewis and Clark CC (from Godfrey, Ill.) at 11 a.m. Saturday. DuPage meets Bethany Lutheran (Minn.) in Saturday's second game. The winners play at 1 p.m. Sunday at DuPage, with a berth in the NJCAA tournament at stake.

A CHANGE in fortune has improved SC's chances of advancing to the final tournament immensely. The toughest team in the Inter-regional was Triton CC, ranked second in the NJCAA. Last week, Triton was disqualified for using ineligible players.

"It's difficult to say who the favorite is now, but Lewis and Clark — the team that eliminated the Ocelots the last time they appeared in the Inter-regional, 2-0 in 1988 — was just 11-7 this season. So SC coach Van Dimitriou is optimistic.

"I really believe we have a shot at this thing this year," he said. "We've improved our team 20 to 25 percent (over last year), and I think it shows. No team has dominated us, not even the big schools."

"If we play at our best, I have no doubt we'll come out on top. I think defense is this team's strength. If our offense clicks and scores goals early we can win it."

IF TRITON'S absence isn't enough, here's more fuel for Dimitriou's optimism: Chris Speen is expected to return. The sophomore stopper strained his knee midway through the season and has been sidelined since.

"Without Chris, it put a strain on the coaching staff and the other players," said Dimitriou of his missing team captain. "Chris was our leader out there." Speen was also SC's top player.

Schoolcraft sports

Which is why he was named to the all-Region 12 team and nominated for All-American honors, even though he missed much of the season.

Also named to the all-region team were midfielder Rick Menary, defender Jeff Saylor and keeper Jeff Shuk. Sweeper Dave Dingle and striker Khaled Zeldan were second-team selections.

Saylor may prove to be the key player this season for SC. He was a substitute until Speen was injured; now that Speen is "90 to 95 percent healthy," according to Dimitriou, the Ocelots will be much improved.

How much? Saylor's development has Dimitriou thinking about moving Speen to midfield or even forward, positions where his size could prove beneficial — particularly at forward.

"THAT'S WHERE our weakness is, up front," said Dimitriou. "So far, Khaled (Zeldan), SC's leading scorer with 15 goals) has been a marked man. If we can draw some attention away from him, it's got to help."

Speen will also play some sweeper, with Dingle moving up to midfield for short stretches. All things considered, Speen's return allows Dimitriou far more leverage in juggling his lineup.

"With your top player coming back, it's got to be a bonus," said Dimitriou.

But as Dimitriou and so many former SC players know, having the talent and reaching the Inter-regional tournament is one thing; winning it — which SC has managed to do just once before — is another.

In the win over Cuyahoga, the Ocelots scored the game's only goal off a first-half corner kick taken by Brian Thomas. The ball hit a Cuyahoga defender in front of the net and bounced past the keeper to Menary, who tapped it into the net for an easy score.

The win was the fourth in the last five matches for SC, which finished 6-0-2 in Region 12 games.

Ladywood can't block Marian's binge, 80-47

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Birmingham Marian took a cue from the Pistons Wednesday.

The Marlins were hitting on all cylinders in the semifinals of the Catholic League's A-B Division girls basketball playoffs at the University of Detroit.

They avenged a previous loss to rival Livonia Ladywood, crushing the Blazers, 80-47, behind the Hazel Olden's game-high 29 points.

"We played a superb second half," said Marian coach Mary Lillie-Cicerone. "We boxed them off the boards better and forced them to take bad shots. It was rebound the ball, outlet, and let's go. We played very well as a team."

Olden, a 5-foot-7 senior, blew the game open virtually by herself in the third quarter.

She scored 16 points during the eight-minute session as Marian outscored Ladywood, 24-10, to take a commanding 57-37 lead after three quarters.

"When Hazel is feeling it, she's awesome," said the Marian coach. "In the second half we picked up the pace a put a little more pressure on them. And once we got up on them, they had to go man-to-man (defensively), and we ate that up. It seemed every time we scored, we got a little more cocky."

Peggy Knittel of Ladywood slips inside the Marian defense.

TRINA GOVAN added 18 points, while Kris Baiardi added nine. Back-up center Pam Kunse contributed six off the bench.

"She (Kunse) was the last kid on the bench for us last year," Cicerone said. "This year she comes in and gives us a little defense and some rebounding, but tonight she thought offense and she really gave us a lift."

Ladywood stayed relatively close for two quarters. The Blazers trailed 16-9 after one quarter and 33-27 at the half.

Junior forward Rebecca Willey, who led the Blazers, scored 13 of her team-high 15 during the first half.

But no other Ladywood player scored in double figures. Senior center Cari Mitter was next best with eight.

"This team is hard to predict. Some days they play, some days they don't," said Ladywood coach Toni Gasparovic, whose team is 11-7 overall. "I had a bad feeling all week. In practice we showed no emotion. It was a real downer, but hopefully we'll bounce back."

Ladywood had a difficult time getting into its half-court game.

"MY GUARDS didn't penetrate," Gasparovic said. "We can beat almost anyone in our half-court offense, but tonight we never got into it."

Gasparovic, a former assistant under Cicerone at Marian, may explore the possibility of becoming more deliberate offensively.

"When the opportunity is there, then we look to score," said the Ladywood coach. "We're a transition team, but maybe slowing it down is something I may have to look into."

The Blazers now set their sights on the state districts, while Marian (13-5) will try and defend its A-B Division crown.

Rettig shot gives Franklin upset win

Jenny Rettig made a 16-foot shot with seven seconds left Tuesday to give Livonia Franklin a 43-41 win over host Plymouth Canton in a Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division girls basketball showdown.

The basket was Rettig's only points of the game.

After the hoop, the Chiefs broke Franklin's press and had a chance to send the game into overtime, but Jenny Russell's shot with three seconds to play was off the mark.

Patriots coach Dan Freeman was ecstatic over the victory.

"It was a big win to beat them at their place," he said. "It might not have meant a lot to them (the Chiefs had already clinched the division title), but it meant a lot to us. It was the first time we've beaten them since I've been coaching here."

At the outset, it did not appear as if it would be the Franklin's night to shine.

Canton jumped out to a 15-8 lead after one quarter as Chiefs center Susan Ferko had her way underneath with the smaller Patriots, scoring 10 of her game-high 19 points in the opening period.

Franklin got out of its 2-3 zone after the quarter and switched to a sagging man-to-man defense, with Shannon Eberly guarding Ferko. Freeman pointed to this defensive switch as "the key to the game."

The Patriots outscored their hosts 11-10 in the second quarter to trail at the half, 25-19.

In the second half, Dawn Warner took over for Franklin, scoring all 11 of her points in the final two quarters to help the Patriots pull out the victory.

Foul shooting was a key element in the game. Franklin hit all eight of its attempts, while the Chiefs were five of 10 from the charity stripe.

In addition to her points, Warner had four steals on the defensive end of the court. Patty Shea also had a solid game for Franklin, scoring 10 points, dishing off for four assists and making three steals.

Jullann Steslak contributed eight points and girls basketball

six rebounds for the winners. Stacey Thompson scored 10 points for the Chiefs. With the win, Franklin improves to 14-2 overall and 8-2 in the Western Division, while Canton falls to 14-3 overall and 9-1 in the division.

N. FARMINGTON 62, JOHN GLENN 34: The Raiders clinched a tie for the WLAA-Lakes Division title Tuesday with a rout over of host Westland John Glenn.

North finishes tied with Plymouth Salem for the title at 9-1.

Kim Gurecki (26 points, six assists and five steals) and Eve Clear (19 points) paced the North attack. Vikki Seamons had a strong game on the boards, pulling down 12 rebounds.

North coach Greg Capling said the defense of senior forward Amy Post was one of the keys to the game.

"She played good defense underneath against their big people and stopped them from scoring," he said. Sophomores Carrie Rachwal and Karen Olack each scored nine points to lead Glenn.

North is now 14-3 overall, while Glenn is 6-11 overall and 4-6 in the Lakes Division.

BORGESS 52, REDFORD UNION 47: Tanya Tounsel scored 25 points and had 14 rebounds Monday to lead visiting Redford Bishop Borgess (6-12) to a victory over its crosstown rivals.

The Spartans jumped out to a 23-9 lead after one quarter and held on, as RU (6-10) outscored them in every quarter the rest of the way.

Borgess had to overcome a poor night at the foul line, hitting only four of 18 attempts. Conversely, the Panthers were solid from the charity stripe (16-25).

Kyra Woodard added 12 markers for the Spartans. Shannon Morris led RU with 24 points, and Carrie Burke chipped in with 15.

CHURCHILL 63, HARRISON 39: Fran Priebe hit for a career-high 23 points Tuesday, helping host Livonia Churchill (3-14, 2-8) to an easy romp over Farmington Harrison (2-15, 0-10) in a WLAA-Western Division game.

Chargers coach Don Albertson was pleased with the victory and the play of Priebe.

"It nice to win," he said. "Fran played a real nice game."

Jenny Willems hit 10 of 12 free throws and added 15 points for the Chargers. Freshman guard Chrissy Daly chipped in with 10.

Heather Hopkins (12 points) and April Jones (11 points) were the leading scorers for the Hawks.

FORDSON 49, WAYNE 32: A balanced scoring attack and tough interior defense propelled visiting Dearborn Fordson (13-5, 10-1) to a Wolverine A League victory Tuesday over host Wayne Memorial (10-6, 8-3). The win kept Fordson tied for first in the conference with Trenton.

The Tractors had four players score in double figures: Maggie Porada (14), Julie Klos (12), Lisa Polanski (11) and Stacey Wesala (10).

Defensively, Fordson sagged down on high-scoring Wayne center Dorris Bathwell, holding her to 10 points. "They triple-teamed her and dared others to shoot," said Wayne coach Jack Furlong. "We got good shots; they just didn't go in."

Michelle Ernst and Maya Lewis added eight and six points, respectively, for the Zebras.

KENNEDY 58, THURSTON 39: A 16-0 third-quarter spurt helped Taylor Kennedy (11-6, 9-5) to a Tri-River League win Tuesday over visiting Redford Thurston (10-6, 9-5).

Eagles coach Mike Schutte was displeased with his team's performance.

"It was the worst game of the year by far," he said. "We just didn't do anything right."

Kennedy's Joyce Plummer was the game's high scorer with 14 points.

Beth Bachman and Michelle Birchmeier each had 10 markers for Thurston.

LUTHERAN NORTH 52, CLARENCEVILLE 18: Mount Clemens Lutheran North (12-6, 11-1) had too much firepower Tuesday for visiting Livonia Clarenceville (1-17, 0-12), trouncing the Trojans in a Metro Conference match-up.

Sarah Henneman led the winners with 15 points. Rhonda Saunders (16 points) again provided most of the Trojans' offense.

Respert going to MSU good frontline," said Borgess athletic director and head coach Mike Fusco.

RESPERT will be the second Borgess Spartan to become an MSU Spartan.

He'll join 6-7 sophomore forward Parish Hickman.

"I saw how Parish has grown as a person since he's been at State, and I'd like to follow the same path," said Respert. "I've seen how he's changed and become a better person. That was somewhat a factor in my decision."

Respert is rated highly both nationally and locally.

Under Fusco, Borgess has sent several players to the Division I ranks, including Lewis Scott (Eastern Michigan University), Joe Gregory (Bowling Green), DuJuan Smith (Eastern Kentucky), Dwayne Kelley (U-D) and Hickman.

Unfamiliar face

Weisburg is the man behind top TV documentaries

By Kevin Lawrence
special writer

YOU WOULDN'T KNOW his face if you passed him on a street of his native Bloomfield Hills.

But through his award-winning work, millions of Americans, including many of the most important decision makers in Washington, D.C., better understand the often-complicated issues we face today in the United States. His most recent film premiered in early October on Public Broadcasting and was hosted by the dean and news anchor emeritus of American news reporting, Walter Cronkite.

The amazing thing is this—Roger Weisburg, 36, actually began his award-winning career as a documentary filmmaker by accident.

"I actually stumbled into this career by default," Weisburg said, from the office of his company, Public Policy Productions, in New York City. "After attending Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., I was on my way to a Ph.D. in comparative literature and life in academia. I taught Introductory Philosophy and Spanish for a year at one of the Friends Schools in Manhattan and realized that teaching really wasn't the direction I wanted to go in."

WEISBURG LEFT teaching and began working as a consumer activist with a consumer agency in New York City. He was soon pointed out to television producers as a consumer expert. By 1977 he was helping to provide stories and background on consumer law to PBS Station WNET, New York.

"My first work was very consumer-oriented," Weisburg said. "But that's how I made the transition to filmmaking—through consumer reporting.

Walter Cronkite, producer Roger Weisburg (center) and other members of the TV crew work on "Can't Afford to Grow Old," about long-term care for the elderly. Hosted by Cronkite, the documentary recently was shown on PBS television stations.

By 1978, he was working full time as an associate producer. Weisburg was a producer of the Emmy-Award-winning consumer series, "Help Yourself." His segments dealt with aging, child abuse, wife battery, divorce, consumer fraud, housing, credit and money management, and neighborhood revitalization.

His first full-length documentary, "Backward to Back Streets," about the de-institutionalization of the mentally ill, was the first in the string of highly regarded award-winning films written, produced and directed by Weisburg.

Social documentary combines journalism's inclusiveness and the sensitivity of film, to create—if well done—a very compelling story. Weisburg's documentary-making philosophy is at the core of his success.

"I BEGAN TO OPT for the documentary format because I wanted more control over the final product. And I needed more time to convey the story because the issues are so involved," he said.

"Of utmost importance is to have something worthwhile to say—knowing exactly and concisely what you want to get across. You have your message. But you have to fairly narrowly define what you hope to achieve because, one, an hour is a lot of time for a TV news story, and, two, it's not much when you get into the complexities of the issue."

Documentary combines the rigors of journalism with the creative side of filmmaking, merging the two so that the viewer is not conscious either that they're listening to a news report or seeing a movie. Hopefully the viewer gets involved with the story and doesn't feel they're being preached to the way they might on the evening news.

"I try to get the viewer hooked on the story, and slip in the reporting—and the broader implications of the story they've been drawn into. My goal is to subtly weave the story and the reporting together, so that the viewer doesn't notice where one begins and the other lets off."

Weisburg writes, produces and directs all his films. "No Place Like Home" examined the long-term care options of the frail elderly, and received numerous awards. "Old Enough To Do Time" scrutinized "get tough" juvenile justice policies and received several awards and an Emmy nomination.

"HEALTH CARE on the Critical List" concerned health-care cost containment and "Who Lives Who Dies" looked at how health care is rationed in the United States. Both received awards too numerous to name.

Other Weisburg documentaries include "Power Struggle," on alternative energy sources, and "To What End?" a 1988 documentary on the role of nuclear weapons in national security.

'Of utmost importance is to have something worthwhile to say—knowing exactly and concisely what you want to get across.'

— Roger Weisburg

His most recent project, "Can't Afford To Grow Old," hosted and narrated by Walter Cronkite, examined long-term care for the elderly and the reasons why each year a million Americans are forced into poverty by the cost of long-term care. The program also explored different approaches to providing assistance to this fastest-growing segment of American society.

Weisburg currently has two projects in the works (physical production—location shooting, editing, takes six-nine months). The first is on national health insurance and the second is on preschool children in America growing up in poverty.

"For the first time in history, children are the poorest segment of the population," he said. "In the U.S. there are 3.5 million kids living below the poverty line. Today's kids are the first ever downwardly mobile generation that this country has brought up. The report will be on the competition between the generations for scarce social dollars."

ON THE LIGHTER side is Weisburg's experiences with the big-name host/narrators he uses for his documentaries.

"When we cast, we're looking to match the message of the documentary with the prospective narrator's interests, or public service sensibilities. We, in effect, exploit their TV persona," he said.

"You couldn't work with anybody better than Walter Cronkite. He is the most incredibly congenial, personable man you could ever meet. He puts everyone at ease. And he's such a pro. I allotted three and a half hours of studio time for Walter's voice-over narration session and he completed it in 35 minutes. He read over 50 pages of manuscript. He just doesn't make mistakes. He's so good at what he does that everything he says seems to be his deepest most heartfelt conviction.

"Actor Jack Klugman was very energetic, eager to get to the guts of the issue, very interested in coming across—as uncovering scandal—much like his television character, Quincy. We had to get him to tone it down a bit. Daniel Travanti, who was at the height of his 'Hill Street Blues' fame as Captain Furillo, also had to let up on his TV persona when he hosted 'Old Enough To Do Time.'"

According to Weisburg, the most selfless host who gave of her time and effort was actress Helen Hayes. As a result of their working together, Weisburg and Hayes have maintained an active friendship. Hayes even offered her services for free but worked for scale because of union rules.

THE MOST DIFFICULT host to work with for Weisburg was James Earl Jones—who does indeed have the reputation in the industry of being somewhat cantankerous.

"But when all is said and done, and you're in the editing studio and you hear his voice coming out of the speakers, it's wonderful. It's like God talking," Weisburg said.

'You couldn't work with anybody better than Walter Cronkite. He is the most-incredibly congenial, personable man you could ever meet. He puts everyone at ease.'

Schoolcraft pairs dinner and delightful show

Performances of the Schoolcraft College Theatre Department production of "The Sea Horse" and "Sorry, Wrong Number" continue through Saturday, Nov. 18, on campus in Livonia. Dinner theater dates are Friday-Saturday, Nov. 3-4. For ticket information call 462-4400.

Schoolcraft College's current fall production is a double treat for those wise enough to choose the dinner option.

Tom Savage's Culinary Arts Department prepares and serves a tasty meal that is a cut above most dinner theater fare — and the Theatre Department's Artistic Director James R. Hartman has staged two thoroughly engrossing one acts. If you only take in the show, you still experience a double-barreled portion of drama and suspense.

The first play, "The Sea Horse," is a romantic drama often seen in theater festivals because it features two great characters. One is a tough-talking barmaid who has been used and abused by men. The other is a wandering seaman who drinks and dreams too much.

Dorianna DeSanto and Rob Rehn do an admirable job as the star-crossed pair, considering that the roles are written for people somewhat older. DeSanto is very touching as a woman searching for love and respect. Rehn creates a charming rogue and maintains the high energy of his romantic character from beginning to end. They fight like a stray dog and an alley cat. And love, because whatever their differences, they need each other.

THE SETTING is well done and the bar crowd at the beginning included interesting characters. A suggestion; however. Someone should splash water over Harry's head before his entrance, since there are lines about him being "dripping wet." DeSanto's voice becomes a bit shrill during her emotional moments, sounding more like a teenager than a tired worldly woman. Perhaps simple sarcasm or underplaying the scene would be more effective.

Second play is that classic thriller, "Sorry, Wrong Number," originally written as a "Suspense" radio drama, starring Agnes Moorehead. This time around, Jennifer Parlette is mesmerizing as a neurotic invalid whose only connection to the outside world is her phone.

One night the wires are crossed. She hears talk of a murder. She begins to think maybe she is the target. Parlette slowly draws the audience into her hysterical world as she frantically dials for help. But no one takes her seriously.

Each of these characters is excellent. Especially outstanding is Jennifer Parlette as Sgt. Duffy, an Irish policeman more interested in his lunch than a potential murder.

The lights and phones are well done, but the ending would be better if we don't see a character walk behind the French doors.

Humor is accented in 'Mr. Roberts'

By Mark S. Carley
special writer

The Farmington Players' production of "Mr. Roberts" contains several fine individual performances and captures most of the humor of the play nicely. Unfortunately, it lacks the cohesiveness and spirit needed to create a truly memorable experience.

Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan's World War II Navy comedy continues to stand as a truly great piece of American theater. The story of Lt. Doug Roberts' quest to get off a cargo ship and into combat during the waning days of the war, it remains one of the warmest, funniest and best written accounts of men in uniform ever staged.

THE TROUBLE with the Farmington Players production is that director Sandra Sutherland's cast has focused more on "acting" (making sure their lines have the proper inflection and that their facial expressions are appropriate) than they have on "interacting" (establishing comfortable relationships with the other characters on stage). This inability to gel as a unit leaves the production without the warmth and human feeling it needs.

Action focuses on the conflict between the title character and a tyrannical ship's captain. As executive officer of Navy cargo ship AK601, Mr. Roberts spends his time trying to get transferred into a combat unit and trying to make life bearable for a crew, which has not had shore leave in more than a year. The captain, one of life's truly embittered losers, has made this ship his own despotic kingdom, which he rules with an inept but iron hand. He hates Mr. Roberts for the respect and loyally the lieutenant enjoys from the crew.

CRAIG FORHAN as Doug Roberts is a likeable leader, but his portrayal lacks the strength and charisma needed to make the love and devotion of the ship's crew convincing. Jack Gruke rants convincingly as the evil captain but fails to give the character the depth needed to make him truly menacing.

Bob Locks turns in a nice performance as Ensign Pulver, the cocky but totally insecure officer who finds his courage at the show's climax. Locks' self-deprecating humor makes Pulver the most endearing member of the crew. Chuck Fisher is understated and authentic in the somewhat thankless role of Doc, Mr. Roberts' low-key sidekick.

Some of the finest moments in the show also come from minor characters, the sailors who make up the crew. The gruff-talking Jim Snideman, fresh-faced Phil Hadley and energetic Frank Marcus especially stand out.

The set, unfortunately, is cramped and awkward. Its restrictions contribute heavily to the show's stumbling pace. Costumes seem simple but authentic.

"Mr. Roberts" is a wonderful play, and despite its flaws, this production does manage to draw a lot of laughs and generate more than a few misty eyes in the audience at the end of the show.

Performances of "Mr. Roberts" continue through Saturday, Nov. 18, at the Farmington Players Barn in Farmington Hills. For ticket information, call the box office at 538-1670.

Mark S. Carley is active in local community theater, both on stage and behind the scenes. He is a member of Ridgedale Players in Troy.

Pianist doesn't forget friends

By Cathie Breidenbach
special writer

The New York Times called pianist Cynthia Raim "a musician of intelligence and judgment." The Philadelphia Inquirer praised her "impeccable technique, bright but not brittle... delicately colored."

Saturday, Nov. 11, the native Detroit will bring her critically acclaimed musicianship home to the first concert of the annual Birmingham Unitarian Church Festival of Music.

"I'm there to make music, not a show. I'm not what you would call a flamboyant artist," Raim said of her own interpretive style.

She prefers letting the music take the limelight in her interpretations, rather than resorting to keyboard pyrotechnics that draw attention to the pianist at the expense of the music, she said.

"I enjoy playing a wide repertoire," she said of her conscious decision not to become musically pigeonholed.

When asked which composer she plays best, Raim defers to the critics.

"It has often been said that I have an exceptional ability to be equally convincing in various modes."

Critics frequently say she plays Mozart with intelligent clarity, Rachmaninoff with lyrical fluidity and Prokofiev with passionate power, showing she's equally attuned to classical, romantic and modern composers.

WHEN RAIM PLAYS at the Birmingham Unitarian Church Festival of Music, she'll be returning not only to her home area, but also to the place and to the people who believed in her talent when she was a teenager attending Cass Tech High School, studying under Mischa Kottler and playing Sunday mornings at the church.

During those fledgling years of her career, a group of music enthusiasts at the church believed so staunchly

Unique Steinway coming here

Steinway & Sons and Hammell Music Inc. of Livonia, in cooperation with the Chamber Music Society of Detroit, are hosting "Steinway and Friends at Orchestra Hall" with internationally acclaimed Detroit-born pianists Ruth Laredo and James Tocco at 8 p.m. Friday in Orchestra Hall.

The concert honors Steinway piano company's 500,000th piano. Laredo and Tocco will perform.

In its 136-year history, Steinway has built just three specially commissioned pianos. The 100,000th Steinway, built in 1903, is property of the Smithsonian Institution. The 300,000th, built 35 years later, is in the East Room of the White House. Now, the 500,000th Steinway has been created as a "gift to the world."

The 500,000th piano case was designed by Wendell Castle, widely acclaimed furniture designer. CRAFTED OF RARE East Indian ebony and dyed Swiss pear and trimmed with Bubinga wood and Gaboon ebony, the piano is adorned with laser-inscribed signatures of more than 870 living Steinway artists. With an estimated value of over $500,000, it has the distinction of being the most valuable as well as visually arresting piano ever made.

Immediately following the concert, the piano will be taken to Hammell Music showrooms on Middle Belt Road in Livonia where it will be on public display from Monday, Nov. 6, through Saturday, Dec. 2, as part of Hammell's exclusive Steinway factory selection event.

It will then be moved to the Detroit Institute of Arts where it will be featured with a complete collection of famous works by Castle. In addition, gallery concerts on the 500,000th will be presented with two special "Brunch with Bach" performances in Kresge Court.

Wolf: publishers at door

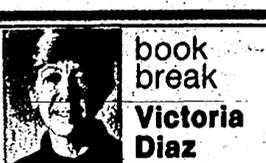

NEXT WEEK, Livonia writer S.K. Wolf's suspense-thriller, "The Harbinger Effect" (Simon & Schuster, $18.95), will arrive at area bookstores.

It'll be a very special day for Wolf (a.k.a. Sarah Wolf Shoemaker), made especially sweet by the fact that the book — just her second published novel — has been designated an alternate selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club and a main selection of the Mysterious Book Club, a division of BOMC.

The new novel, (her first, "Long Chain-of-Death," was published by Walker & Co. in 1987) is a tale of intrigue and derring-do. It centers on the defection of one Yuri Klebanoff, an important Soviet citizen who not only happens to be the son of the editor-in-chief of Pravda, but is also the grandson of a former Soviet premier.

He is aided in his attempt at defection by an ex-Peace Corps volunteer, Molly Davison, who, though short on a knowledge of international intrigue, is long on spirit and quick wit.

The action moves from Africa to Rome to Greece to points beyond, with stakes growing ever higher, and the plot thickening considerably because of one curious fact:

Victoria Diaz

Along with the KGB, U.S. operatives are also working to sabotage the defection.

WOLF, 53, has lived in Greece and Turkey, and traveled extensively in the Middle East. She wrote "The Harbinger Effect" over a three-year period, starting in 1985, while working as a librarian at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Much of it was put together, in fact, during spare moments she could grab on lunch and coffee breaks.

Ideas, outlines, characters and possible plots for the story had been rattling around inside Wolf's imagination since the early '70s, however.

At the time, living in Greece with husband Kent, she happened to meet the CIA agent who had "escorted" Josef Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, to the United States in her defection in 1978. Hearing his accounts of the experience, the then-aspiring writer was highly intrigued.

"Writers hear things like that and immediately begin to embellish, of course," Wolf said.

Over time, she kept thinking about the story. As a result, some time during the years that followed, a plot line took shape: What if an important Soviet citizen defected, and not only did the Soviets want to get the defector back, but the Americans didn't want the defection to work, either?

With that, "The Harbinger Effect" was on its way.

IT WOULD BE another couple of years, though, before any of it was on paper — not only because Wolf was sidetracked by activities like returning to college, graduating, going to work, and seeing her first book published — but because she tends to "write" most of a story inside her head before committing any of it to paper.

In the case of "Harbinger Effect," there was also the matter of conducting some important background research before getting the story down.

Fortunately, Wolf still kept in touch with her friend, the former CIA agent. When she needed details for her opening chapters on how an American embassy deals with a defector, she gave him a call.

"He gave me very detailed information and, in fact, offered to read those parts of the book which dealt with that," she said.

At no time, did the agent divulge any "secretive" information, she said.

Meet author

S. K. Wolf will be available to sign books and meet readers at the following locations during November:

- Nov. 12 — Metro News, Canton, noon to 1 p.m.
- Nov. 14 — Borders, Novi, 7-8 p.m.
- Nov. 19 — Metro News, Birmingham, noon to 1 p.m.

She is scheduled to speak to the Friends of the Livonia Public Library, at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 8 in the Civic Center Library, and at the Canton Public Library, at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 28. The public is invited to both events.

'Harbinger' has well-devised plot

By Barbara Cassani
special writer

A FEW years back, scientists introduced a phrase into our ever-deepening pool of buzz words that raised the national and global ecological consciousness: The Greenhouse Effect.

This phrase describes the warming of the Earth that has occurred because the burning of fossil fuels have increased the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, trapping solar energy.

Sarah Wolf's new book, due out this month from Simon & Schuster, introduces a similar phrase that just may become part of the language and raise the national, and possibly global, political consciousness to an even more wary level: The Harbinger Effect.

THIS PHRASE (the title of Wolf's spy thriller) describes the political manipulation of a Third World nation by the American and Soviet military, apparently unbeknownst to the governments in Washington and Moscow.

Soviet glasnost, perestroika and American proposals of "a kinder, gentler nation" have become mere political plots stoked by Soviets and Americans, in a side-by-side effort to keep the flame of the Cold War burning.

Wolf takes us first to Rafetna, a city in Bodamwe, a country in West Africa, that is the scene of a civil uprising supposedly run by a group of Bodamwean rebels. Enter Yuri Klebanoff, a Russian photojournalist working for Tass (the Soviet news agency), documenting the fighting in what the Soviets regard as a people's revolution in this torrid land.

ONE EVENING, as he witnesses another typical Bodamwean sunset, his artist's eye unconsciously reveling in the subtle watercolor hues that shadow the buildings of this exotic city on the Atlantic, Klebanoff decides to defect to the United States. After settling in motion his planned ruse, Klebanoff makes his way to the United States Embassy.

At the embassy, Klebanoff uses his undeveloped film of the fighting in the Dioula province as a barter with embassy officials who do not readily buy "seeking artistic freedom" as reason enough to grant Klebanoff asylum in America. It isn't until Klebanoff cites his infamous family tree — he's the only living grandson of former Soviet premier Sergei Butakov, the aging head of the old-school, hard-line Soviet politics (we might compare fictional Butakov with Krushchev) — that the embassy officials takes Klebanoff's request for asylum a little more seriously.

APPARENTLY UNAWARE of United States involvement in covert military operations in Bodamwe at the time of Klebanoff's defection, the officials quickly sort out the effects of Klebanoff's defection on current Soviet Premier Kalsheev's (compare fictional Kalsheev to Gorbachev) soft-line approach of glasnost and perestroika. They also consider what Klebanoff's defection would mean to United States and Soviet relations and future summit meetings.

The real consequences of Klebanoff's defection lie somewhere festering beneath the surface in a political carbuncle, code name Harbinger on the American side, and code name Phase II on the Soviet side.

WOLF'S "HARBINGER Effect"

wants to inform us that the old boy network is alive and well in both the East and the West. Soviet Phase II proponents consist of a group of old-school, pro-Butakov Soviet politicians that don't want to see the communist revolution go down the tubes by diluting it with Kalsheev's near-Western reforms.

On the United States side, the Harbinger plan is the idea of a small group of former highly positioned Army and Navy men, seeking to retain the power and money they once held in a former hard-lined American president's administration while reinstating the military-industrial complex that underpinned American government not so long ago.

IT IS this premise, the existence of a mirror-double, clandestine, non-officially authorized Soviet/American faction of covert military operations in a Third World country — one that purposefully intends to keep East and West immersed, or "buried" if you will, in Cold War politics — that makes Wolf's "The Harbinger Effect" so intriguing.

Wolf has good descriptive sense and uses it throughout the book to

"He critiqued those first two chapters very closely, so that I was confident the chapters were really accurate, even though I'd never witnessed any of that first-hand," Wolf said.

WHILE SHE conducts some of her research for her novels via personal contacts (she once learned, from her son's high school physics teacher, how to put together a bomb, and recently happened upon a helpful weapons expert — at a church service), she's quick to point out that more than 90 percent of it is done at her local library.

"I get travel books, maps, magazines — National Geographic is great for researching (locations)," she said. "Really, you can get an awful lot out of books."

Will there be another suspense novel from S.K. Wolf in the near future?

COUNT ON IT. Her third book, "MacKinnon's Machine," is scheduled to be brought out by Simon & Schuster in fall 1990.

It's the tale of a group of mercenaries sent to the Middle East to assassinate Libya's Moammar Qaddafi, only to receive a rather astonishing surprise in the bargain. The word at Simon & Schuster is that Wolf's third novel looks to be a "major book."

A fourth thriller is in the offing, too, but none of it is on paper, as of now.

"Right now, I'm 'percolating,'" Wolf said, smiling. "I don't yet feel quite sure enough about where it's going to start writing any of it down."

Plans are also afoot for several mainstream novels somewhere along the way, she said.

At times, Wolf seems totally unaffected by all the recent success.

It's not that she's unexcited, said the soft-spoken mother of three and grandmother of four. It's just that she's having trouble believing it herself. After all, she wrote for all of 15 years, not just unsung, but unnoticed and unpublished as well.

The event will be in Athens High School, on John R. between 17 and 18 Mile in Troy. There will be ample free parking in a well-lighted area.

Presenting the concert is the Caruso Concert Committee of the Italian-American Cultural Society with the aid of many organizations, including the Michigan Council for the Arts, the Italian Consulate of Detroit, the Friends of the Opera of Michigan and Italian Study Group of Troy, who are sponsoring the dinner.

Building Scene

Marilyn Fitchett editor/591-2300

Thursday, November 2, 1989 O&E

(★1F)★1H

The courtyard of this West Bloomfield home was built by Brickscape to complement the brick arches that were already in place.

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Concrete's strong grip in subdivisions may be slipping. Brick patios, brick sidewalks and even brick driveways are becoming increasingly popular with homeowners even though brick landscaping generally costs two to three times as much as concrete.

"We do 500 houses a year here," said Mike Soulliere, who owns Soulliere Decorative Stone of Utica with his brother, Roger. "(Homeowners) are looking for that cute little patio or walkway. It's more decorative, more durable," Mike said. "What they're looking for is a style of brick to fit with the house."

"People are tired of concrete and the gray look. They're tired of cracks," he said.

area in terms of sales and employees.

The other major player, Brickscape in Northville, is owned by Joe and Diane DiRado.

"A LOT of people are looking for something elegant, different," Diane said. "People are getting tired of looking down the subdivision and seeing wood deck after wood deck or concrete patio after concrete patio."

"People like the look of brick. It's very rich looking and it's a long-lasting system if installed properly," Joe said.

The concept of brick landscaping, fairly new in this country, was imported from Canada. Consumers here started showing interest after brickworks were displayed at a Homearama about five years ago, Soulliere said.

Both DiRado and the Soullieres had been in the plant landscaping business and taught themselves brick landscaping. Both also started in the business in 1984.

"ALL JOBS are done differently. I don't think we've done two alike ever," DiRado said.

"We're really pushing into deck guys," Soulliere said. "Number one, you don't have cracking. Number two, you don't need permits."

No permits means no inspections and no assessment increases on the property, unless the local assessor stumbles upon an improvement.

But we're getting ahead of ourselves.

First, bricks used for patios, sidewalks and driveways aren't the same kind of bricks used on houses.

Landscaping bricks generally are formed by pressurizing concrete and concrete aggregate using less water than regular concrete. Bricks used on buildings generally are made of clay.

Often people have bricks left over from a home improvement job, Soulliere said. "They say, 'Let's build a little patio or walkway.'

"The brick is not made for being in the ground," he said. "They throw them in the ground without thinking of pitching (for drainage). Moisture gets in, they shatter."

Lesson No. 2 — mortar isn't used in brick landscaping jobs.

DiRado described the process: "First you excavate an area. Then you install a base of slag gravel and sand — six inches for patios and sidewalks, 8-12 for driveways. You lay bricks one at a time. You lay them hand tight."

"You put a concrete edging around the surface. Then you run a compactor over the surface that sweeps sand between the joints at the same time," DiRado said.

The vibration of the compactor and the sand tighten the bricks.

Branch support, longevity key to mortgage lenders

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Who are the major mortgage lenders in metro Detroit and why?

Standard Federal Bank, First Federal of Michigan and Comerica Bank-Detroit led the way in terms of total amount loaned and number of mortgages issued during August.

According to figures provided by Lawyers Title Insurance Corp:

• Standard Federal, headquartered in Troy, recorded 1,593 mortgages during the month with an aggregate value of $94.5 million.

• First Federal of Michigan, based in Detroit, logged 626 mortgages with an aggregate value of $42.8 million.

• Comerica Bank-Detroit, recorded 870 mortgages with an aggregate value of $27.3 million.

All of those mortgages were for $250,000 or less and the great majority were on residential property.

Since the August survey, Comerica has consolidated Detroit, Ann Arbor and Comerica Mortgage Corp. operations into one entity — Comerica Mortgage Corp. — and acquired Bloomfield Mortgage.

If those branches had been included as one entity by Lawyer's Title, Comerica's totals for August would have been 1,070 mortgages with an aggregate value of $41.4 million.

THE THREE pace-setters seem to have two elements in common — longevity in the financial services business to build a reputation and lots of branches in which to draw customers.

Michael Lubig, vice president and manager of the mortgage department for Standard Federal, said he anticipates that his bank will approach $850 million in mortgage loans this year.

"First, we have a very good branch network (60) that blankets the community we serve," Lubig said. That makes it convenient to filling mortgage applications.

"Number two is the speed at which the customer gets a response back," Lubig said.

"Now, between when a customer comes in and files an application and when we're ready to close on the mortgage has been running . . . 15, 15½ calendar days.

"THE LAST thing is price," he said. "For a lot of customers, that's most important. Standard Federal is very, very competitive as far as rates and fees."

Title insurance protects ownership

You've just bought your dream house, probably the biggest investment of your life. But is it really yours?

Many home buyers mistakenly believe that the title insurance required by their lender is all they need to protect their investment. But it's important to buy an additional policy for complete protection, according to the Better Business Bureau.

What is title insurance? A title company guarantees that the title is accurate as stated. It traces the chain of ownership of a particular property, performing a title search of public records.

The purpose is to identify problems before your real estate transaction is completed. Without a title search, forged deeds or mistakes in the public record could later affect your ownership of the property.

the home buyer's interest. When you buy it, the coverage is equal to the purchase price of the property. As long as you retain an interest in the property, the title company pays all legal fees to defend against any attack on the title as insured.

Before buying title insurance, shop around to get the best policy and price. Also check with your state insurance department, Better Business Bureau and local consumer protection agency to find out if the title company you're considering has generated any complaints.

The Council of Better Business Bureaus has published a booklet, "Tips on Title Insurance," which contains more information on the subject. For a copy, sent $1 and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to CBBB, Dept. 023, Washington, D.C. 20042-0023.

Michigan homeowners tend to load up the moving vans a little less frequently than the national average.

The turnover rate for owners of single-family and condominium homes in Michigan last year was 13.7 years compared with 11.5 years for the nation, according to a study by Chicago Title and Trust Co.

The turnover rate is calculated by dividing the total number of owned housing units by the number of home sales in a given calendar year. Nationally, there were 59.3 million owned housing units and 5.14 million sales last year. In Michigan there were 2.74 million owned units and 199,100 sales.

John Pfister, vice president and manager of market research for the national title insurer, said the actual turnover frequency depends a lot upon timing and where the homeowner lives. It can be affected by a number of factors, such as regional economic strengths or weaknesses, population growth or the lack of it, the public's perception of interest rate trends, and the composition of population by age group.

THE STUDY showed Maine residents to be the most restless with a turnover rate of 7.9 percent. California ranked second with 8 years, followed by Delaware, 8.4; Vermont, 8.5; Virginia, 8.8; the District of Columbia, 8.9; and North Carolina, 9.1.

Louisiana residents stick around the longest — 26.3 years, followed by Wyoming, 20.8; Utah, 19.2; Mississippi and Idaho, 18.5; and Montana, 18.2.

Over the years, the national turnover rate has ebbed and flowed with the business cycle. In modern times, the frequency rose to fever pitch in 1978, when inflation was soaring and housing nationally was turning over at an 8.9-year clip. Four years later the national pace had slowed dramatically to 19.2 years.

In recent years, the turnover rate has stabilized near current levels, Pfister said.

They like the look that brick provides

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The appearance, pure and simple, is what attracts homeowners and commercial customers to brick landscaping.

Lesley O'Neill of Birmingham said she just didn't think a wood deck would mesh architecturally with the house she shares with husband Bill. The O'Neills wanted to do something with a small plot in the yard that had been used as a garden and contained some old patio blocks.

"I had seen it (brick) at a shopping center in town," she said. "I just think it's a nicer look."

They contracted for a small brick patio and a brick ribbon walkway along the driveway.

"We've had a lot of positive comments. People out walking have stopped and said how nice it looks," Lesley said.

Paul Camilleri of Livonia has installed a brick patio, a brick walkway between the patio and a deck and a brick walkway leading to the children's play area in the yard.

"WE WANTED it to have a park-like atmosphere," Camilleri said of his newly built house. "Asphalt or cement would take away from that."

Camilleri and his wife, Karen, became more and more enamored with brick landscaping the more they saw of it over the years at builder shows.

"If I could afford it, I would have a brick driveway and sidewalk," he said.

Molly Kuclo, who lives with husband Tom in Northville, said there was no doubt in her mind what she wanted when an old brick walkway and porch steps started deteriorating in the house they bought last year.

More brick. "I fell in love with it. It really made an entrance to the house," Molly said.

"I've had nothing but positive remarks. In fact, another neighbor down the street is going to have Brickscape do something for them."

"Even the woman who did our wallpaper and did the master bedroom called and said how nice it looked," Kuclo said.

'It provides the image the city wants to project — a positive, homey kind of image. The brick walkways add a sense of community pride.'

— Paul Sincoc
of Plymouth

BRICK LANDSCAPING is going beyond residential.

"Again, it makes a statement about what they're doing, what they're about," said Joe DiRado, owner of Brickscape.

Mike Soulliere, owner of Soulliere Decorative Stone, said his company has done 43,000 square feet of brick landscaping at the entrance to the Detroit Zoo and 25,000 square feet at the Scott Fountain on Belle Isle.

Soulliere also did a brick patio some years back at Oakland Hills Country Club in Birmingham especially for the U.S. Open.

The patio was taken apart after the tournament and the bricks were reassembled at drinking fountains and other spots around the course.

MUNICIPALITIES WITH downtowns also are going for the brick look in central business districts.

"It provides the image the city wants to project — a positive, homey kind of image," said Paul Sincoc, assistant to the city manager in Plymouth. "The brick walkways add a sense of community pride."

The bricks installed around Kellogg Park in the early 1970s were financed by private donations, Sincoc said.

Brick landscaping also projects a historical flavor, said Steven Walters, city manager in Northville, where Brickscape has done a number of projects including the area around the city's bandshell.

"Because they're more expensive, you try to get the flavor by doing accents, only the edge (of sidewalks) at certain points and crosswalks," Walters said.

"TWO FACTORS we work on closely are building a base to handle what you want to handle... and total drainage."

"We pitch (slope) at two inches per 10 feet. By doing that, 90 percent (of water) will go over the top and the 10 percent that goes through the cracks will be handled by the slag," Soulliere said.

Bricks are more durable than concrete slabs because they're individually set and, therefore, can tolerate ground movements more, DiRado and Soulliere maintain. Bricks are more dense than concrete and already have been cured before they're set.

Bricks also will stand up to snow shoveling and salt, Diane DiRado said.

Soulliere and DiRado each warrant their work for two years.

Price may be a drawback for some people.

WHILE IT'S difficult to generalize, brick landscaping, on average, will cost $7.50 per square foot, concrete $3.50, DiRado said. Soulliere estimated concrete work at $3 per square foot, brick at $6.9.

About a half dozen different styles of brick are available. Generally, the fancier the pattern, the more expensive the work.

But the total cost of the job depends on such factors as difficulty of preparation, size of the job and type of brick selected.

"It could be less expensive to use a more expensive brick that doesn't need as much cutting," DiRado said.

"Everyone has a different idea," he said. "I think more and more people know what they want. They kind of have an idea what they like and what they don't like."

Builders are starting to give buyers the option of brickwork to traditional concrete or decks, Soulliere said.

"It's an upgraded choice," he said. "They're still green and still scared, but they're doing it more."

"Rich people, of course, had it first," Soulliere said. "Now the middle class is seeing it. They're looking at the longevity of it. They say, 'I can get concrete for 1/2 the price, but it's going to crack. They look at the long-range investment now.'"

Both DiRado and Soulliere sell bricks retail and rent equipment to do-it-yourselfers.

Buyers seek quality

Builders should think of the 1990s as the decade of QVA: quality, value and affordability because the three qualities will determine the housing standards of the future and what buyers are looking for in a home.

That was the prediction of David Link, publisher of the national trade magazine Professional Builder, when he addressed the Builders Association of Michigan recently.

"QVA is increasingly more important to home buyers. They will not settle for less," Link said.

According to Link, the houses of the '90s will be traditional or contemporary in design but with high-tech convenience. Builders will offer a liberal use of brick, wood and stone. Moveable walls that will allow homeowners to create their own solutions for additional space will become popular.

Tomorrow's house will provide owners with generous amounts of storage space in answer to complaints about the lack of closets in older housing.

Link also sees "retreat areas" as popular, particularly in the master bedroom suite. The master suite will include walk-in closets and luxury amenities in the bathroom, including heated floors and his and hers vanities.

Link's look to the future offers these predictions:

- A stable level of housing starts with no major housing recession over the next several years.

- Mortgage rates currently at 10 percent will remain at 9%-10 percent through 1990.

- The biggest opportunity in the future will be in remodeling. Builders need to be diversified to take advantage of this market.

- The biggest challenge will be to provide affordable housing to as many as possible.

LINK ALSO predicted that the number of condominium communities will grow to meet the housing demand of the fastest-growing American demographic group: those over age 65. Low-maintenance convenience will be something that eve-

Plastic house debuts

(AP) — From the Jacuzzi bubbling in the bedroom to the boot dryer whirling in the mudroom, the 21st-century dream house may be molded from high-performance plastics that are literally a snap to put together.

That was the message from GE Plastics executives, who unveiled their Living Environments Concept House at the division's headquarters.

Large and imposing, the light beige colonial bristled with gadgets and innovations — from plastic toilets with built-in exhaust fans to a cedar chest for sweater storage tucked between the bedroom floorboards.

Many of the innovations borrowed from other technologies, such as model power windows and a remote control unit that made operating the sophisticated lighting and entertainment systems as simple as pushing buttons on a dashboard.

General Electric officials said the engineering plastics used in the house have little in common with the stuff of toys or with the highly futuristic, space-age type of plastic housing that has been experimented with during the past 40 years.

They said not all of the innovations must wait until the 21st century.

"From a style point of view I think that this is do-able," said Uwe Wascher, vice president for marketing. "It's an attractive style. I could see it overlooking the Atlantic in Newport, Rhode Island."

ABOUT ONE-THIRD of the showcase two-story house is plastic. The total cost is estimated at $10 million, but that includes research and model development.

The engineering plastics used typically have high melting points, create little smoke when they burn and have good sound-deadening properties. But the home is so airtight it requires strong ventilating systems.

The 3,000-square-foot house has curved bay windows, generous decks and huge atrium windows in front and back. Its amenities include double showers that convert to steam rooms and movable walls that would allow a redesign of living space without raising a hammer.

Condo class

Birmingham Lawyer Robert M. Meisner will teach an introductory course in condominium association management at the Sterling Heights Center of Wayne State University's College of Lifelong Learning 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7.

Topics include the responsibilities of directors and officers, liability, state statutes, assessment collection, restriction and bylaw enforcement, conducting membership meetings and amending condominium documents.

Tuition is $65 for one board member or representative and $50 for each additional person. For information call 577-6698.

ry age group will seek in housing. The house of tomorrow increasingly will make use of plastics to create low-maintenance living.

And we will also see greater clustering of single-family, detached houses, built on small lots, creating close-knit neighborhoods.

Electronic systems will be similar to the "Smart House," a one-cable system of controlling energy distribution and communications signals throughout the home. It is designed to offer increased safety and energy management functions.

"The 'Smart House' and its single cable control of everything in the home will be the most important innovation in housing since indoor plumbing," Link said.

Branch offices important

Standard Federal was founded in 1893.

Albert Marshall, manager for business development in the lending division for First Federal of Michigan, said his savings and loan has been in the mortgage business for since 55 years.

"I imagine there's a whole lot of reasons — size, reputation, name recognition, time in service, longevity — number of offices," Marshall said of his institution's success.

"We're the major lender sponsor of Homearama and a major sponsor of the Builder's Show. That's a half million people right there," he said.

First Federal has 60 branches in the metro area.

"I'VE BEEN here over 31 years. I'm dealing with the second generation now," Marshall said.

He projected that First Federal will loan nearly $900 million for mortgages this year.

Douglas Cook, president of Comerica Mortgage, also touched on the service angle.

"Internally, we've invested very heavily in people and (computer) systems," he said. "All of these investments now are starting to pay off in terms of increased volume. It's really helped us implement service."

"We've worked real hard the last two-three years to increase our marketing efforts and let people know we're in this (mortgage) business," he said.

"Our pricing certainly is competitive," Cook added.

Comerica, founded in 1849 as Detroit Savings Institute, has 126 branches in the metro area. Cook anticipates making mortgages of nearly $190 million this year.

Because interest rates have stabilized and even declined, 30-year fixed rate mortgages are most popular with consumers now at all three institutions.

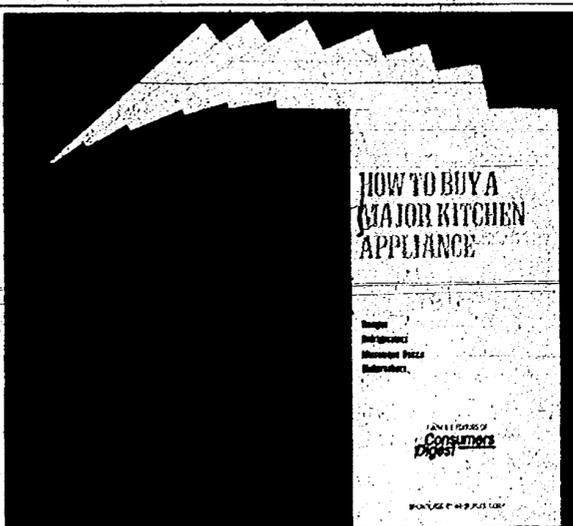

Referrals from real estate agents bring most mortgage customers to Standard Federal and First Federal, Lubig and Marshall said.

Comerica's customer base consists in large part of people who already have a business relationship with the bank as well as referrals from real estate agents, Cook said.

SHANGRI-LA

Choices come in various packages

By Joan Boram
special writer

THERE WAS a time when a slow boat to China, preferably a freighter, was the stuff of which dreams were made. Nothing to do but sit there and stare at the sky or the sea, or doze over "A la recherche du temps perdu." Food was ample and hearty; there were no lavish midnight banquets.

There were no lectures on investing in futures or seminars on how to flirt, and, please God, no aerobics. "Relaxing," it was called.

Talk about temps perdu! Today's traveler, glued to the tube at home, wants to be entertained, educated, amused, and force-fed shrimp at all hours of the day and night.

"In my dad's time, the late 1940s and the '50s at the (Joan Anderson) Agency, the mode of travel for those with the time and the money was the ocean liner," recalls Pam Nikitas.

"They took the S.S. France or the first Queen Mary, and had a private driver with a Daimler meet them at the dock. Then they took a leisurely tour of the countries they wanted to see."

Southfield resident Nikitas "grew up" in the travel business, and took over the Joan Anderson Travel Service when her father, George Nikitas, retired. "The children and grandchildren of those leisurely travelers are our clients today. They can afford the best accommodations, but times have changed. "The best" today usually implies a complete package: all you have to do is show up — and pay.

The Sea Goddess I and II and Abercrombie & Kent represent the finest in luxury tours. They are the first to fill up; there are a lot of people out there who want the best and will pay for it."

The Sea Goddess is a ship, but that's about the only thing she has in common with a slow boat to China. Lifestyle aboard the Cunard vessel is typified by the photos in the lavish brochure. Throughout, passengers are shown wearing black-tie or swim suits.

If your idea of dressing for dinner is putting on socks, you might feel a little out of place mingling amiably with nine Saudi princesses, a Swiss hotelier, a Houston oil and cattle king, and a well-to-do English family "who represent the typical Sea Goddess passenger mix."

Sea Goddesses cruises vary in price, according to destination and duration. An 11-day Caribbean/New Year's cruise is $7,900. A 14-day Orient/Holiday cruise, beginning and ending in Singapore, with stops at Jakarta, Bali and other ports, is $9,000.

On the other hand, "The Royal Air Tour," promises "the wonders of the world by private jet." Offered also by Abercrombie & Kent, The Tour is limited to 88 travelers. Four tour hosts will ensure comfortable sightseeing and personal service.

An L-1011 jetliner has been refitted to accommodate the 88 passengers in first class luxury. (The plane usually carries 344 passengers.) The entire rear of the airplane has been remodeled into a bar and lounge area. Passengers will spend no more than 7 1/2 hours in flight during any single segment of the trip, and the group will always fly west with the sun.

The tour departs from Los Angeles via Honolulu, and will return via New York thirty-five days later. In between you will experience "a program gratifyingly balanced between sophisticated urban pleasures and adventures far off the beaten path."

The itinerary includes: three nights in French Polynesia; three nights in Australia; three nights in Bali; three nights in Hong-Kong; three nights in China; three nights in Delhi and Agra; five nights in Kenya; six nights in Egypt; and three nights in England.

Promising an itinerary that explores the master works of man and nature, members of the Royal Air tour will see the beaches of Bora-Bora, the Masai Mara Game Reserve, the River Nile, as well as the Sydney Opera House, the Great Wall, the Pyramids, and the Taj Mahal.

THE TOUR OFFERS more than monuments, however. Members will also have the opportunity to meet a wide variety of interesting and influential people around the globe. Prominent local dignitaries have been invited for cocktails and dinner at each stop. In Agra, the Maharajah of Jaipur has been invited, and in Nairobi Richard Leakey will discuss his latest archaeological finds.

The all-inclusive price of the tour is $36,000, double occupancy, with a $2,850 single supplement. In addition to air transportation, all meals, cruise and land accommodations, surface transportation, sightseeing and gratuities, the fare includes First Class air travel between your home town and Los Angeles at departure, and between New York and your home town at the conclusion of the trip.

"If the world's 20 greatest sights are more than you want to cope with how about one country — in depth, with a bonafide "Jewish Mother?"

IN 1981, LOIS decided to share her experience and knowledge, and the first LARK (Lois and Richard Kozlow) tour, to Mexico, was offered. Since then, she has offered 15 major trips, in addition to Mexico. Destinations have included Morocco, England, France and Italy. In 1990, a trip to Turkey will be added to the roster.

This year, for the first time, LARK offered a one-day tour — to Columbia, Ind., where leading United States architects have been commissioned to design public buildings. Renowned architectural photographer Balthazar Korab led the tour, and local docents provided additional information. "It was a great success," said Kozlow. "I plan on more short trips in the future."

"My tours are designed to fulfill everybody's fantasy of what a trip should be," said Kozlow, who manages to be intense and buoyant at the same time. "They are a complete experience. Imagine waking up in a luxury hotel in Marrakech at 4:30 in the morning, getting into a Land Rover, and driving into the desert to watch the sun rise over a sand dune! It's an experience like no other, one that you will never forget. That's what my tours are about: the luxury of being able to live and experience a dream, a fantasy, an adventure. Everything is taken care of, there's nothing to do but enjoy."

Kozlow won't take clients to a country that she doesn't know really well. She and Richard are going to Turkey this fall to prepare for the 1990 tour. "I want to know exactly what I'm going to offer my people. I plan every detail, right down to every item on the menus. There are no surprises on my tours. I'm a real challenge to the local guides — they knock themselves out for me."

KOZLOW LIMITS THE number of tour participants to 24. "I can't watch out for everybody individually if there are any more."

"People hate sleeping in a different bed every night, so I try to stay in one place as long as feasible, and take side trips by bus. It's not the bus that everybody dreads — it's like a Five separate discs of various songs go along with the Thoren disc player in a finely crafted inlaid wood box for $725 at the San Francisco Music Box Company in Twelve Oaks Mall, Novi.

MUSIC BOXES: updated look

By C. L. Rugenstein
staff writer

MUSIC BOXES, old or new, make a luxurious gift of music for a special someone, and the San Francisco Music Box at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi is one of the places in the area that has some great new ones.

The biggest and best man will be the 144-note, cylinder music box-by the Reuge company of Switzerland.

Of rosewood inlaid with tulip-wood and brass, the box is about 24-inches long and 12 inches deep. The brass cylinder has a repertoire of four songs, including Tchaikovsky's "Waltz of the Flowers," Mozart's "Turkish March," Beethoven's "Pastorale" and Chopin's "Polonaise."

The workmanship and deep, rich tone of the box are worthy of its $4,500 price tag.

SOME OF THE most charming of the music boxes are the bird cages, also by Reuge, in three different sizes.

Two birds, one red and one blue, sing. Not like a music box, but like real birds. A card that comes with the bird cages said the songs are actual bird calls, though it doesn't specify which ones.

"Reeds and bellows make the bird calls," said Linda Jones, manager of the shop, "and an old couple in Switzerland still hand-feather the birds."

The largest cage, about 14 inches high and six inches in diameter can be had for $2,500. Prices for the smaller ones are $950 and $475.

The bigger the cage, however, the greater range of movement in the birds. All the birds' beaks open and close as they sing. But in the largest cage, the birds turn on their perches, twitch their tails and cock their heads from side to side like real birds as they sing.

One of the most charming music boxes is in the form of a shadow-box.

Titled "Danseurs 1789," two couples in white wigs, silks and velvets clasp hands and twirl to the music of Mozart's "Minuet" and Haydn's "Serenade." Three mirrors at the back give an "infinity" effect, Jones said — the scene looks like an endless ballroom of elegant dancers, all for $2,100.

MUSIC BOXES ALSO come in smaller, more personal packages. One of the more fun and portable varieties is a musical automated alarm watch.

About the size of a large pocket watch, the face is a reproduction of an 18th century painting by Geneva artist Carlo Pouzzi. Silver figures at the bottom of the scene move when the music, Mozart's "Minuet," is played.

A falconer, on horseback, moves his arm and falcon up and down. His horse's head also moves up and down to drink from a trough while a milkmaid oppo-

LUXE

Fur plus fabric

SPORTSWEAR — casual yet elegant — is a style known worldwide as The American Look since it was introduced by designer Claire McCardell in the 1940s.

It's sportswear unlike any other, combining favorite fabrics with luxurious furs. Very weekend, a leather hip-length jacket (left) collared and shawled in a natural brown color mix of finn raccoon by J. Percy for Marvin Richards Ltd. Very urbane, a mid-calf length cashmere coat (center) with a wide sable tuxedo front and sable lining by Yves Saint Laurent Fournures for G. Michael Hennessy Inc. Very upscale, a reversible brown sheared beaver and pale yellow tweed clutch-coat with matching tweed pants by Geoffrey Beene for Goldin-Feldman.

Everyone's favorite duffle coat — complete with hood and toggle closures — is styled this season in a sage green sheared beaver (left) by classic designer Calvin Klein for Alixandre Furs. And far from its polar origins, by designer Isaac Mizrahi for Revillon: a hooded, drawstring-waist parka in silk satin with a button-out Demi-Buff mink lining and sable trimming on the hood and cuffs.

season in traditional sportswear styles and an uncommon range of colors, as both American and European designers continue to encourage our love affair with luxe sport.

Once the property of Arctic-dwellers only, the hooded parka and slightly fuller drawstring anorak are favorite fur styles everywhere for winter 1989. Designer Isaac Mizrahi fashions his anorak in silk-satin, then lines it in mink and adds sable to trim the hood and cuffs. Other designers prefer the longer-length duffle coat in furs like sheared beaver with leather toggles, in colors like sage green, peach or wild mink.

Sure to be seen not only back at the ranch but also on city streets, shearing coats and jackets are this year's fashion classic. Worn leather side out, shearings are comfortable fashion for those on the go. Designer choice: shearings in bright blues and purples, in darker greens, and gold tones. Choose one that suits your lifestyle: a shaped waist-length violet shearing jacket to wear in place of a conventional jacket or sweater; a longer, full parka-style to wear over all your sportswear.

Another designer choice: mixed media — fur plus fabric — adds up to luxury sportswear. The combination of cashmere, tweed or leather with a lining of sable, sheared beaver or kolinsky can be elegant alternatives for working women Monday-Friday, or casually styled for fashionable wear on the weekend.

"It's designer sportswear for today's fur-wearing consumer," comments Sandy Blye, executive vice president of the American Fur Industry. "The look is individual and more relaxed, yet decidedly luxe."

Playing with a mix of charcoal grey, black-and-white stripes in sheared mink, designer Geoffrey Beene for Goldin-Feldman shapes his fur hacking jacket (left) with both color and pattern. And, from Perry Ellis by Marc Jacobs for Birger Christensen, a traditional Wild West red-and-black buffalo plaid zip-front coat patterned in sheared nutria. Worn with it: a ranch mink headband from Lenore Marshall Inc.

home, you can leave your walking shoes or your sweater on the seat, and they'll be there for you.

Kozlow has only two rules: "You can't complain. I've done everything I could to make you happy and comfortable. Relax and enjoy."

"And you can't get sick. I can't take chicken soup out of the country," she said with a grin.

All-inclusive prices of LARK tours vary by country. The 15-day Morocco trip was $3,500; the 15-day trip to Italy, $3,700. All prices are double occupancy and include an original Richard Kozlow designed T-shirt. To contact Lois Kozlow at LARK tours, call 313-642-5512, or write: 176 Sullfield, Birmingham, 48009.

site works the pump handle.

The music also plays when the alarm goes off. A pleasant reminder for important times, the watch retails for $1,300.

Jones also has musical lockets, with the smallest music box movement Reuge makes.

The oval locket, about one-inch long and a half-inch deep, plays "Memories," and can be had for $275.

All the lockets are .13-karat gold-plated.

The Reuge music boxes have a special feature. Jones gets boxes from Italy for the smaller, 18-, 36- or 72-note movements. The shop can then install a movement of any tune they have available for the size of the movement.

PRICES RANGE FROM $39

for the 18-note boxes, to $1,000 for the 72-note music boxes, depending on how elaborate the in-laid boxes are, Jones said.

Jones also has in one disc-playing music box by Thorens, a famous name in antique music boxes. The Thorens music box comes with five interchangeable brass discs each with a different tune, for $725.

WINE ■ a timely investment

wine-tastings help

'Wine is a time machine. Nothing else can take you back 40 or 50 years like a fine aged wine can. Try eating a piece of fish that's been in the freezer for half a century. Wine is a living thing; it accents life.'

— Ed Jonna,
Merchant of Vino

By Joan Boram
special writer

YOU PROBABLY could be a successful wine merchant if you weren't didactic, but it isn't likely. Certainly, the voluble Merchant of Vino, Ed Jonna, and the silver-tongued Tim McCarthy, of the Eastern Market's Cost Plus Wine Shoppe, are adept at giving the impression that you are doing them a favor by asking questions about wine.

Both Jonna and McCarthy see themselves as primarily educators. "I'm here to answer questions," said McCarthy in his genial brogue. "I love to talk about wine — I'll talk all day, if a customer is interested."

— And Jonna admits he would rather preside over a wine tasting than deal with a "money-is-no-object" wine customer.

"It's just more rewarding to see people discover the pleasures of fine wine. My wife (Juliette, of Juliette's Cuisine) and I offer wine-and-food tastings for private parties. After the hostess selects the foods for the seven-course dinner, I select the appropriate wines. At the tasting, we compare champagnes of the world, several red and white wines, and dessert wines. By the end of the party, guests have tasted 24 wines and know their background and characteristics. They are in the top two percent in the United States as far as wine knowledge is concerned, and they're eager to know more."

"THERE ARE VERY few gifts that will enhance everyday living for a longer period of time than a wine tasting given by an expert who shares not only knowledge, but enthusiasm."

Tim McCarthy
develop patience

'Go to a shop . . . where they have qualified people who have tasted the wines they stock. A reputable shop will only buy good vintages, so you can hardly go wrong. The secret is to ask questions.'

— Tim McCarthy,
Cost Plus Wine Shoppe

"Wine is a time machine," he continues. "Nothing else can take you back 40 or 50 years like a fine aged wine can. Try eating a piece of fish that's been in the freezer for half a century! Wine is a living thing; it accents life."

Both men agree that a fine palate is made, not born. The problem seems to be that, whereas people who don't know much about art know what they like, they are reluctant to have an opinion about wine. Seeing is more democratic than tasting.

"Go to a shop — Cost Plus, Merchant of Vino, Cloverleaf, Gibbs, Battle's — where they have qualified people who have tasted the wines they stock," said McCarthy. "A reputable shop will only buy good vintages, so you can hardly go wrong. The secret is to ask questions."

makes sense when you consider that, typically, Cost Plus carries some 2,000 different wines at any given time. So don't be shy, speak up. Pick a quiet time, probably not a Saturday afternoon, and allow yourself to become educated in one of life's pleasures.

All right, so you're educated. You're educated to the stage where your palate is ahead of your pocketbook. You've begun to snub old friends who still drink wine coolers. Now what do you do?

The first thing you do is develop patience. Buy a few cases of reasonably priced wine every year, put them in the cellar, or a cool closet, and forget about them for a few years. Voila! In a few years that $8 bottle of Cotes de Rhone is a $40 bottle of wine — assuming you can find it at any price!

"I recommend a five-year rotation for wines," said McCarthy. "All red wines are drunk too young in this country. The only way is to allow them to mature gracefully in a cellar. The ideal temperature is 60 degrees-65 degrees, which allows the wines to mature gradually. If it's too cold, the wine will stay as it is. Wine matures from the outside in — the bigger the bottle, the longer it takes to mature."

Just remember, we're not talking mutual funds here. The idea is not to sell them in five years and get rich, but to drink them in five years and feel rich. What McCarthy calls price-quality ratio. "The investment is in the pleasure of drinking fine wines."

TO DEMONSTRATE THE

virtue of patience, McCarthy tells of two bottles of Spanish wine, vintage 1964 and 1974, that he picked up in a close-out bin in Chicago for $1.99 each, put in the basement and completely forgot about for 10 years. "They were fantastic. I don't often rave about wines, but they had matured into $40 wines."

Jonna feels so strongly about allowing wine to mature that he won't even let you buy a $125 bottle of 1986 Chateau Mouton Rothschild unless you promise not to drink it before 2001.

If you want to pamper someone special, like yourself, join the Merchant's Wine of the Month Club. There are two categories: The Enthusiast and The Advocate, and membership can be for six months or one year. A bottle of wine selected by Jonna and his "Board of Selectors" is delivered to the door every month, and members receive the club's monthly newsletter.

"Notes" describes the month's selection, and also explores issues in the world of wine appreciation — articles ranging from how to build a wine cellar to planning a trip to the wine country.

(If you're looking for a fine gift for a wine aficionado, the Birmingham Book Store has two elegant volumes any wine-lover would cherish: "The Sotheby World Wine Encyclopedia," by Tom Stevenson, $40 and Hugh Johnson's "World Atlas of Wine," $45.)

THE NUMBER OF really good wine stores in the area is a tribute to the taste and sophistication of the citizens of Greater Detroit. "Very few cities in the United States have the number of fine food and wine stores that the Detroit area has," said Jonna. "Wine makers all over the world recognize this, and they bring their wines here to sell."

McCarthy concurs. "I don't have to go to France. Everything worth buying comes to Detroit."

McCarthy and Jonna differ over whether 1989 is likely to be a good year or not. McCarthy doubts it: "They had our summer of 1988 — extremely hot and dry. The grapes had to be harvested three weeks early. A good wine requires a balance between fruit acid and tannic acid. Extreme heat cooks the grapes, making such a balance unlikely."

Jonna agrees with the predictions that 1989 will be a good year, but, "You'd better check with your acturalist before buying any. It'll be five years before it gets here, and another 10 or 15 years before it will be drinkable."

How to start wine cellar

TO HELP you get your cellar started, Tim McCarthy has compiled a list of moderately priced ($8-$15) red wines that, properly stored, will greatly enhance 1995. They are generally available, but if you can't find these specific labels, a knowledgeable merchant will help you find comparable vintages.

- Cotes du Rhone — 1985
- Wyndham Estate Cabernet Sauvignon — 1986
- Franciscan Oakville Estate Cabernet Sauvignon — 1986
- Barbi Rosso di Montalcino — 1986

- The Cutter Cellar Cabernet Sauvignon — 1985

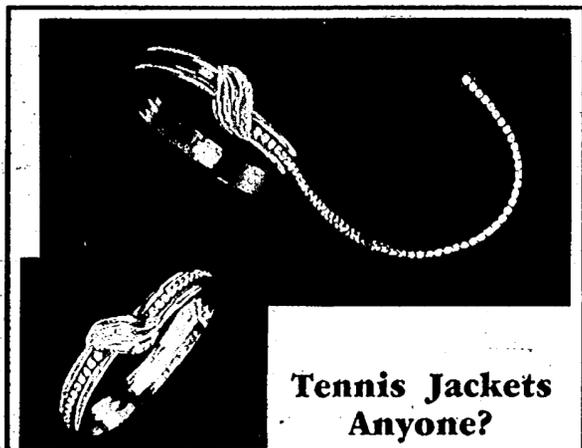

- Rutherford Rancho Merlo — 1986

- Marquis de Caceres Rioja — 1985

- Torres Coronas — 1985

- Montagne St. Emillion: Chateau la Fleur Grandes Landes — 1986 (Note by McCarthy: A great year, could be a 1961 or a 1945. This one will last forever.)

- Chateau les Pradines Medoc — 1986
