Thomas squeaks past Griffin in close race

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Call it an upset or call it Westland politics as usual, there will be a new face in the mayor's office come January.

Upstart challenger Robert Thomas edged incumbent Charles Griffin Tuesday in a tightly contested election that wasn't decided until the final absentee ballots were totaled by the city clerk's office.

Griffin, elected in 1985, was seeking a second term.

Thomas, whose confidence seemed to increase measurably following his surprising second-place finish in the Sept. 12 primary, said the result wasn't all that shocking.

"It was an upset only in the sense that they (Griffin and his supporters) never expected we were going to win," Thomas said.

Thomas, a longtime public services department employee, attributed the victory to "the mood of the people."

"Voters decided it was time for a change and they showed their feelings at the ballot box," Thomas said.

THOMAS RECEIVED 7,803 votes, or 50.64 percent, compared to 7,603, or 49.35 percent for Griffin.

Thomas, 39, won 21 of the 37 precincts and nearly matched Griffin when it came to absentee votes, polling 950 to the mayor's 965. The absentee balloting had been an expected Griffin stronghold.

The cheering at AmVets post 171 on S. Merriman — where Thomas gathered with about 250 backers Tuesday — began shortly after 8 p.m. as campaign manager Edward "Smokey" Gunther began posting early results on the tote board at the front of the hall. At one point, Gunther turned around and kissed Thomas on the cheek.

The roar reached its crescendo about 9:30 p.m., when it became apparent that Thomas' 200-vote margin was going to hold up.

The atmosphere at Griffin's party at Leright's banquet hall was decidedly more low-key. The early anticipatory buzz from 300 supporters of Griffin and city council incumbents Ken Mehl, Ben DeHart and William Ziembra dissipated into fingers-crossed signals and finally stunned expressions by the time the final precincts were posted.

IN HIS concession speech to supporters, Griffin, 49, said the election was the closest race he had been in since his first city council race in the mid-1970s, which he won by 125 votes.

About an hour later he appeared at Thomas' party and spoke briefly to the mayor-elect and his supporters.

"We were just a little bit short tonight, but I think we can all be proud of our effort," Griffin told the crowd at Leright's.

He attributed the loss to a large turnout and what he said was a "negative campaign."

The 15,942 ballots cast represented a 35.2 percent turnout, substantially higher than the 24.5 percent turnout in the 1985 mayoral election.

In a brief interview following the speech, Griffin declined to say which was the determining factor.

Council race winners vow to end squabbling

□ Council calls for review of election guidelines, Page 3A

Winners in the Westland City Council election Tuesday said they are positive that there will be political peace in City Hall when they take office Jan. 1.

They made it clear that they don't want a return to the squabbling that marked the mayoral-council relations during the Charles Pickering administration from 1982 through 1985.

They commented about the upcoming political atmosphere after learning that challenger Robert Thomas narrowly defeated Mayor Charles Griffin.

During the campaign, Griffin supported councilmen Kenneth Mehl, Ben DeHart, both winners, and William Ziembra.

Councilmen Charles Pickering, Thomas Artley and Kent Herbert supported Thomas. Pickering and Artley are in the middle of four-year terms. Herbert didn't seek a new term this fall.

Finishing a strong one-two in the Tuesday election were two people making their first try for city office. They will join two incumbents who were also winners.

The newcomers are Sandra Cicirelli, with 9,210 votes, followed by Terri Reighard Johnson, with 7,832.

Councilmen Mehl, with 6,717, and DeHart, with 6,375, finished third and fourth respectively.

The top three candidates will start their four-year terms Jan. 1, while DeHart gained a two-year term.

Finishing out of the running were Ethel Bollinger, 6,046, councilman Ziembra, 5,537, Dorothy Smith, 5,162, and Michael Bradley, 4,908.

INTERVIEWED at her victory party, Cicirelli said the election results mean that voters want a change.

She stressed that she would maintain her independence as a council member.

With Mehl saying he would not seek another term as council president, Cicirelli said she was approached to be the next council leader, but replied that she hasn't considered it yet. Under the charter, the council members select their president for a two-year term.

"I want to be the independent council person people expect me to be," she said.

Campaigning on the public safety issue and the rotating closing of one of the city's four fire stations, Cicirelli said she will review an upcoming study of the police and fire departments and the city budget.

She admitted that changes may not be able to be made immediately.

But the councilwoman-elect said she wants to do something about the drug problem, perhaps getting a drug education prevention program started and improving enforcement.

JOHNSON also stressed her independence, noting that she didn't support either mayoral candidate in the election.

"The city suffers" when there is political bickering, she said.

"We're not here for our egos," Johnson added. "We must do the things we said we would do."

Johnson, currently a Wayne-Westland school board member, reiterated a past promise that she would resign from the board before the end of the year.

Her father, Patrick Reighard, was happy to learn about his daughter's victory. He is a patient in St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he recently underwent a quadruple heart bypass.

When told of her victory, Reighard told Terri that he expects her to continue to be an honest person and listen to the people, she said.

The councilwoman-elect also said she was "surprised and amazed" she finished a strong second, ahead of three incumbents.

First Citizen repays kindness, organizes PTA clothing center

By Leonard Poger
editor

Linda Pratt was thankful for help she received from teachers and others while attending high school in suburban Cleveland.

They provided educational opportunities her family couldn't afford, Pratt said.

"My mother told me that what's given to me should be returned to the person (directly involved) or someone else (in a related activity)," she added.

Armed with that philosophy, Pratt later became involved in school groups, working with PTA chapters, the school superintendent's parent advisory committee, and a teen health assessment project in the Wayne-Westland school district.

Because of nearly 20 years of volunteer efforts, Pratt was picked the First Citizen of Westland for 1989, given annually to recognize outstanding community service. Previous winners were Joseph Benyo, Thomas Brown, and Samuel Corrado.

Pratt, 42, will be publicly honored Tuesday at the monthly Westland Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon.

The award, initiated in 1986, is co-sponsored by the Westland Observer and the Chamber of Commerce.

Not only was she surprised by the award, Linda Pratt added that she didn't even know she was nominated.

IT WAS no coincidence that Pratt was working nearly a full day in the Wayne-Westland PTA Council's clothing bank, which provides articles for children in needy families, when notified she was named the First Citizen.

Not only was she surprised by the award, Pratt added that she didn't even know she was nominated.

Community service honors aren't new to Pratt. She was a runner-up for the First Citizen award two years ago and runner-up for the Person of the Year award given the next year by the Associated Newspapers.

Recalling her school years in suburban Cleveland, Pratt said that a lot of educational and other opportunities were provided. Her mother encouraged her to repay the person directly involved or others as a repayment.

In addition, "education was always a big thing with me and I wanted to give something back to the community," she said.

She and her family moved to Westland from Trenton 19 years ago because of the Wayne-Westland school district's excellent reputation and because she was impressed with the district's openness and parent involvement.

HER NOMINATOR said Pratt, as PTA Council president, "has been instrumental in expanding lines of communication between schools, as well as between parents, teachers, and administrators at all levels in the school district."

Covering her work at the clothing bank, Pratt undertook, nearly single-handedly, to clean up and reorganize what can be best described "as a disaster area," said her nominator.

It took many 12- and 14-hour days to finish the job and reopen the clothing center.

Pratt was personally responsible for chosing most of the 100 children who came through the center's doors during the past school year.

POLICE arrested a 17-year-old Clio youth and two juvenile boys from the Genesee County community in Westland early Sunday for possession of a stolen automobile.

Officers spotted the three teens at 2:08 a.m. pushing a 1986 Buick LeSabre on Melton, west of Harvey.

Officers said by the time they approached the car, the teens had disappeared.

Police picked up the three running between houses on an adjacent street.

The 17-year-old told police that the car was stolen in Clio by a man who paid him to get rid of it. He decided to take it to Westland with his companions so that they could visit a woman he knew because his car didn't have headlights, the man told police.

Police confiscated a screwdriver and a knife from the 17-year-old.

The two juveniles were ticketed and released to their parents.

State not told of missing man

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

A state official said an incident involving a 71-year-old man found dead a week after he walked away from a local nursing home would constitute neglect.

"But that could be open to interpretation," said Calvin Wilcox, administrative assistant for the patient's rights section of the Michigan Health Department.

Wilcox said the state won't launch an investigation into the death of Edward Jarembo, 71, unless a written complaint is filed.

On Oct. 27, a Nightingale West Convalescent Center employee told police Jarembo walked away from the center, on Newburgh south of Joy, between 7:30 and 8:30 a.m. A search of the area made shortly after his reported disappearance failed to turn up the man, police said.

Police found Jarembo's body Nov. 3 with the help of a tracking dog in a wooded field adjacent to the partially completed Warris Farms apartment complex, across the street from the center, Wilcox said Tuesday that the health department was not notified of Jarembo's disappearance or death, apparently in violation of the public health code.

According to Section 217771 of Public Act 368 of 1978, also known as the Michigan public health code, a nursing home administrator who becomes aware of any act of physical, mental or emotional abuse or situation of neglect regarding a patient must report the matter to the health department "immediately" by telephone.

If found in violation of that section of the code, the home could be hit with a civil fine of up to $1,500, Wilcox said.

WILCOX SAID a written follow-up report after the telephone notification would be requested in such a case.

The case is then turned over to the state Department of Social Services for possible investigation, Wilcox said.

Norman Berger, Nightingale administrator, said Tuesday he had not notified the state of the disappearance. "We notified the police and the family," he said.

Berger said his understanding was that state notification was required only in cases of physical or mental abuse of a resident.

Jarembo died of atherosclerotic coronary vascular disease, or hardening of the arteries of the heart, according to an autopsy performed Saturday by the Wayne county Medical Examiner's office.

The doctor who performed the autopsy said Tuesday it was difficult to determine an exact time of death, but estimated that Jarembo died about a day before his body was discovered.

"It didn't look as though he had been there (in the field) that long," said Dr. Laning Davidson.

First Citizen repays kindness, organizes PTA clothing bank

The First Citizen has been active in the Elliott School PTA, serving as president and secretary, and won PTA honors, including a life membership received in 1987.

Besides school groups, Pratt was involved in Cub Scouts and served as a Sunday school teacher at Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Livonia.

MARRIED AND the mother of two, Pratt bought the Cake Lady business in Garden City eight years ago and renamed it Baker's Acre, specializing in the creation and making of edible ornaments. She received a bachelor of arts degree in math from Wittenberg (Ohio) University in 1969, later working as a computer programmer for Ford Motor Co.

Pratt and husband, Jim, have a son, Toby, a freshman enrolled in the honors program at Henry Ford Community College, and a daughter, Jodi, nearly 15 and a Wayne Memorial High School student.

THE FIRST Citizen judges also named Marlene Dean the first runner-up in the annual program for her volunteer work with the Westland Civitans and with handicapped children. She will also be publicly honored at the chamber luncheon next Tuesday.

Other nominees given honorable mention recognition were Sharon Scott, Wayne-Westland school board member, and Jackie Vincenti, active in the Adolescent Recovery Center.

People interested in attending the chamber luncheon can make reservations by contacting the chamber office at 326-7222 by Monday

Dr. Cohen prescribes to a holistic approach to medical care, where the patient is viewed as a functioning whole. Even in an urgent care setting, she stresses the necessity of commitment to individual follow-up and total health care. Dr. Cohen further added that it is very important for the physician to establish an on-going relationship with the patient.

The new medical director is also interested in developing MedStop's practice to include women's care and women's screening services as well as the continuance and expansion of those services already available at Livonia's MedStop clinic.

Garden City Hospital is pleased to have Rosalind Cohen, M.D. assume the position of Medical Director and the MedStop staff wishes to extend a very warm welcome.

There are six Dutch islands in the Caribbean: the ABCs (Aruba, Bonaire, Curacao) and the 3 S's (St. Maarten, St. Eustatius, Saba). Dutch is the official language, but English, Spanish and local dialects are heard more frequently.

Martinique, Guadeloupe and St. Barthelmy are still French property and very French in ambience. On Martinique and Guadeloupe—the natives speak a Creole patois.

French is also the official language of Haiti. Five other island countries—Dominica, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Grenada, the Grenadines—changed hands often between England and France in the early days; all inhabitants speak a French patois, although English is the official language on St. Vincent and Grenada.

Many islands were originally English possessions, but you'll find the accents vary. Maalserat, for example, speaks with a brogue, a result of early Irish settlement. Jamaican patois is a mixture of Welsh and African.

What kind of a kid do you suppose Thomas Edison was?

Bet he looked at problems and saw solutions. Like Maurice Scales who invented Baby No-Mash to prevent doors from closing on little fingers.

Bet he saw how things were done, and imagined better ways to do them. Like Lillian Lukas who invented the Puddle Detecting Cane for the blind.

Bet he watched how things work and thought of ways to avoid wasting time or effort. Like Caitilin McCracken who invented the Orphan Kitten Feeder for Three.

Maurice, Lillian and Caitilin were three of the thousands of winners in the Invent America! education program.

And you know that small genius can grow up to become big genius—with the capacity to make America number one again.

To participate, just write Invent America!, 510 King Street, Suite 420, Alexandria, VA 22314, or call 703/684-1836.

If you're wondering if it's all worthwhile, just imagine what Edison would have said.

Changes due? Budget could be revised without veto

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County Commission chairman Arthur Blackwell II said changes may be made to the newly approved county budget — but not because of pressure from county Executive Edward McNamara.

McNamara has threatened to veto the $1.3 billion budget approved last week by commissioners. The county executive said he was upset by changes commissioners made to his original budget proposal, especially in cutting off $37.8 million in funding for the new county jail.

Blackwell, however, minimized the changes.

"Really, except for four items, it is his budget," Blackwell said.

But the newly elected commission chairman said commissioners approved the budget as quickly as they did to provide time for adjustments before the budget goes into effect Dec. 1.

"WE GAVE ourselves 30 days to make changes and I know some commissioners feel they want more information," he said. "So we may review our action, but not because of the executive."

Commissioner Kevin Kelley, D-Redford Township, was among three commissioners who voted against the budget, requesting more explanation of budget projections.

The dispute with McNamara centers, in part, on cuts to his proposed jail construction budget. Commissioners eliminated more than three quarters of the amount McNamara had specified, saying they needed more details on proposed jail bonds.

Blackwell said the executive should have made it clearer that bonds would be necessary during last year's jail millage campaign.

"What if we have 20-year bonds and a 10-year millage (to pay for them)," Blackwell said. "What happens if the millage isn't renewed? We aren't going to shut the jail."

Blackwell said many commissioners favored a greater jail tax, 1.5-mills, during debate over last year's proposal.

Another dispute centers on across-the-board increases for county fees. McNamara calls the increases a tax increase in disguise. Commissioners said increases are necessary to provide computer equipment for the county clerk's office.

An additional $1.3 million added to the county's $272.8 million budget for day-to-day operations is another sore point for the executive.

McNamara has said commissioners were spending money the county didn't have in increasing the operating budget; commissioners said the money was available because McNamara's original revenue projections were too conservative.

The $1.3 million in "new" money would go for drug enforcement activities and personnel.

McNamara would have to gain the support of at least three commissioners to make his veto stick. Commissioners approved the budget 12-3. Ten votes would be necessary to override the veto.

Though the executive has a line-item veto, something even the president lacks, McNamara has said he would veto the entire bud-

Supreme Court finds 'harmless error' in trial

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Edward D. Hall will stay in prison for the armed robbery of a Southfield store following the Michigan Supreme Court's 4-3 decision upholding his conviction.

Tuesday's decision was a victory for Graham Crabtree of the Oakland County prosecutor's staff, who argued the case before the high court a year ago.

"I didn't think there was any error at all," said Crabtree, noting that some justices felt there had been "harmless" error at Hall's trial.

HALL, OF Detroit, is serving twin sentences of 20 to 40 years for armed robbery and for being a ha-

Video Bin owner Thomas Grosman identified Edward Hall as the man who was carrying a sawed-off shotgun in the November 1984 robbery.

A jury in Judge John N. O'Brien's Oakland Circuit Court found Hall guilty of robbing the Video Bin at 20860 W. Eight Mile, Southfield.

Owner Thomas Grosman and daughters Tami and Tawni all identified Hall as the man carrying a sawed-off shotgun in the November 1984 robbery. They also identified his 1972 auto.

The following June, Hall was arrested in Oak Park on another charge. In his possession were the shotgun, the same car and a Video Bin business card.

HALL'S ATTORNEY, Charles T. Burke, argued that O'Brien shouldn't have admitted the shotgun and some testimony because it was "extrinsic" evidence to the Video Bin robbery.

The Court of Appeals agreed with Hall, reversing the conviction in an unpublished 2-1 decision.

Crabtree, of Royal Oak, appealed for the prosecutor's office.

JUSTICE PATRICIA Boyle, writing for the majority, said extrinsic evidence "generally is inadmissible in a criminal prosecution" because it gives the defendant a bad character.

But the rule isn't universal, said Boyle, and the shotgun evidence met four tests for admissibility.

"Evidence of a defendant's possession of a weapon of the kind used in the offense with which he is charged is routinely determined by courts to be direct, relevant evidence of his commission of that offense," said Boyle.

"In this case, the prosecutor presented several witnesses whose testimony served to link the shotgun to the defendant and thus to establish his identity as the armed robber at the Video Bin," she wrote.

Agreeing with her were Chief Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley, Robert Griffin and (in large part) James Brickley.

Disagreeing were Justices Charles Levin, Dennis Archer and Michael Cavanaugh, who wanted to send the case back to the Court of Appeals.

Geake: Budget cuts are wrong

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

An area lawmaker is among those charging Gov. James Blanchard with overstepping his bounds in ordering $46 million in cuts to the state welfare budget.

State Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose district includes Livonia, Redford Township, Plymouth Township, Plymouth and Canton Township, said the governor had no authority to issue cuts to the social service budget in the manner he did.

At issue is a little-used provision of a 1974 state law.

State budget director Shelby Solomon recently announced portions of the $2.2 billion social services budget won't be fully funded. In doing so, Solomon said he was complying with the law's requirement of 15 days' notice to legislators.

GEAKE, HOWEVER, said the law was incorrectly interpreted and that the cuts needed to be preceded by an executive order — subject to ap-approval by the Senate Appropriations Committee which Geake heads.

"The issue is whether the executive branch has the ability to make changes without issuing an executive order," Geake said. If that were the case, he added, legislators would have little or no say over the budget.

Solomon has said he doesn't expect to use the budget-cutting law again this year but would do so if necessary.

The dispute is now before state attorney general Frank Kelley. A spokeswoman for the attorney general's office said an opinion was expected sometime this week.

Proposed cuts include:

- $11.8 million from Medicaid programs, including drug programs.

- $1.6 million taken from the Office of Children and Youth Services, including spending for programs assisting juvenile delinquents and preserving troubled families.

- $32.5 million in administrative reductions, including delaying hiring for replacements for departed staff members.

"These cuts would affect reimbursement for hospitals and pharmacists," Geake said.

Though adopted 15 years ago, the budget-cutting provision cited by Solomon had never been used before.

Regardless of the attorney general's ruling, state Rep. Joseph Young Sr., D-Detroit, has introduced legislation that would repeal the budget-cutting provision.

Unemployment rises in state

Though Michigan's labor force reached an all-time high last month, unemployment is also on the rise. The increase is carrying over to each local community in western Wayne County.

Michigan's labor force grew to a record 4.74 million in October, up from the previous high of 4.68 million in January. The labor force increase, however, was attributed to nearly 490,000 unemployed job hunters seeking work.

Employment was 4.36 million, according to Michigan Employment Security Commission statistics.

Michigan's jobless rate for October, 8.2 percent, was a slight increase over September's figure and the highest posted by any of the nation's 11 largest states. Illinois at 6.8 percent and Texas at 6.4 percent were the states with the next highest unemployment rate.

Unemployment is also on the rise locally.

There were more than 10,600 unemployed western Wayne County residents in September, the last month for which MESC statistics are available for individual communities. Unemployment rose in each local community, compared with figures posted one year ago.

By community, September unemployment was as follows:

- Canton — 1,200, or 4.8 percent. The figure was 4 percent in September 1988.

- Garden City — 1,325, or 7.2 percent. The figure was 5.9 percent in September 1988.

- Livonia — 2,525, or 4.6 percent. The figure was 3.8 percent in September 1988.

- Plymouth — 200, or 3.6 percent. The figure was 2.9 percent in September 1988.

- Plymouth Township — 500, or 4.1 percent. The figure was 3.3 percent in September 1988.

- Redford — 1,675, or 5.4 percent. The figure was 4.5 percent in September 1988.

- Westland — 3,175, or 7.4 percent. The figure was 6.1 percent in September 1988.

Nationally, unemployment held steady at 5.3 percent in October as 233,000 new jobs were added.

Bill would set disposal standards for oil

Pouring used motor oil down the drain would be a crime under a bill before the state Senate.

Designed to promote recycling, the bill would make unauthorized disposal a misdemeanor punishable by a 90-day jail term and $1,000 fine. The same penalties would apply to those caught dumping oil into any body of water or pouring it on the ground.

Burning used motor oil would also be banned in most instances. Exemptions would be given for burners used to protect fruit trees from frost and other specialized operations.

Sponsored by Sen. Vernon Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, the bill was approved last week by the chamber's Natural Resources and Environmental Affairs Committee. It now proceeds to the full Senate.

While environmentalists praised the bill, they noted Michigan lacks a statewide oil recycling program. They also wished the proposed law would take effect before July 1, 1991, the date specified the Ehlers' bill.

The bill would require the Department of Natural Resources to develop a plan to provide for statewide collection facilities and conduct a publicity campaign to alert the public both of the law and of collection site locations.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

State House panel debates advanced degrees in divorce

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A panel of state legislators is cool to a bill to give one spouse a vested right in the other's advanced college degree.

Senate Bill 255, sponsored by Gilbert DiNello, D-East Detroit, is designed to aid (say) a divorcing wife who had worked while her husband studied for a dental degree.

"The chair," said Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, "is inclined to look at anything that increases earnings from day one of the marriage." Nichols thought DiNello's bill too narrow.

SEN. JOHN Kelly, D-Grosse

Pointe Farms, thought the bill unnecessary because courts already can take note of the value of one spouse's advanced degrees.

"There was a woman who got a law degree with help from her family and government loans. They filed for divorce," Kelly said. "The husband asked $250,000 of her earnings," falsely claiming he supported her while she attended law school.

Kelly said, "She had to go back through 11 years of receipts to disprove his claim."

"This (DiNello's) bill puts into the statute what's already in case law. It's cumbersome. It adds to the burden of the woman."

The bill was endorsed, however, by the Michigan Women's Commission. But only DiNello testified during a short hearing of the Judiciary Committee.

NICHOLS HAMMERED at the idea of taking account of all degrees and even real estate licenses a spouse had acquired during the marriage.

Replied DiNello: "I wanted to zero in on advanced degrees, professional degrees, for their potential earnings."

DiNello said his own commercial real estate license shouldn't be placed in the same category because it had taken 40 hours to earn.

The discussion ended without a vote by the five-member committee.

Foundation funds youth program

Troubled western Wayne County youths are among the beneficiaries of a $75,000 grant recently awarded to the Michigan Training and Resource Center.

The grant, provided through the Hudson-Webber Foundation, provides work opportunities and counseling for youths referred through Wayne County Juvenile Court.

The Alternative Intervention Method (AIM) offers intensive family counseling. Working closely with local Youth Assistance Programs, it also provides youths with jobs and classes in life skills, parenting and behavior.

The Hudson-Webber Foundation helped establish Youth Assistance programs in Livonia in 1982. Since then, the program has been expanded to 21 other Wayne County communities.

AIM and the Michigan Training and Resource Center are also financed by the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Schoolcraft pair win culinary honors

Schoolcraft College chef Mary Brady and culinary arts student Shawn Loving were award winners in a recent American Culinary Federation-sponsored competition in Kansas City.

Brady, a Schoolcraft graduate and instructor, received a silver medal in the professional category.

Loving, a Detroit resident attending Schoolcraft on a scholarship sponsored by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, received a gold medal in the student category.

Chefs and students from throughout the nation participated in the event, a preparation for next year's U.S. Culinary Olympic Team tryouts.

Luncheon meals prepared by Schoolcraft culinary students are available weekdays at the college's American Harvest Restaurant. Call 462-4488 to make a reservation.

Free health screening set for seniors

Screenings are sponsored by United Care of Wayne.

Screenings are available for anyone 60 or older who lives in suburban Wayne County.

Tests will be given for blood pressure, hearing, respiratory ailments and certain types of cancer. The program also offers counseling and referral services and suggestions for a health lifestyle. Flu shots are also available.

While some results will be available on the site, most will be mailed to seniors within two weeks.

Wanted: anti-racketeering law to combat 'Outlaws'

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A state police investigator told lawmakers that a motorcycle gang called Outlaws is one reason Michigan needs an anti-racketeering law.

"The Detroit chapter has 15 members, 14 of which are convicted felons," said Chris Hogan of the state police regional investigating unit in Livonia.

"They solicit funds for legal defense against RICO (the federal anti-racketeering law). They're less concerned with criminal prosecutions (of individuals) than RICO.

"If you take away the assets, you're going to seriously hurt the organization," said Hogan, as he urged the Senate Judiciary Committee to approve the anti-racketeering bill sponsored by Chairman Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford.

HOGAN ILLUSTRATED his talk with copies of Outlaws' literature in which they claim to have dropped out of society.

Hogan said two recent raids in southeastern Michigan have yielded stolen vehicles, motorcycles with stolen parts, a street-sweeper, shotguns, marijuana and weapons. Fugitives move from clubhouse to clubhouse, he said.

His chart tied Outlaws to murder, arson, prostitution, white slavery, kidnapping, gun-running, truck hijacking, bank robbery, extortion, blackmail, narcotics manufacture and importation — and other crimes.

Hogan said federal procedures are too cumbersome, and federal prosecutors too few in number, to make the federal RICO law an effective tool. He endorsed Nichols' Senate Bill 124, as has Gov. James Blanchard.

William Wagner, chief counsel to the five-member judiciary committee, said the bill is being rewritten for discussion at Thursday's meeting.

"The policy is to focus on individuals and groups who make crime a profession, a continuous pattern of crimes related to each other," he said.

The state, working through prosecutors, would use RICO in a forfeiture proceeding to seize the assets of a CCE (continuing criminal enterprise). An example, he said, might be an auto dealer who uses his shop to operate a stolen car ring.

TEAMSTERS spokesman Mark Gaffney opposed the bill. That union is being administered by the federal government under RICO.

"We agreed to a settlement," Gaffney explained. "We couldn't afford the defense costs. We were forced to settle."

Gaffney said the law allowed the government to go too far into the past for "old stuff" in proving patterns of crime.

"Some of our good, conscientious officials have had problems in the past — slugging someone on the picket line," he said. He said federal officials were motivated by "politics and anti-union sentiment."

HOWARD SIMON, state executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, called the penalties in SB 124 "draconian. The punishments are more severe than the criminal punishment."

Simon cited a Virginia bookstore that sold $105 in illegal products and had $1 million in assets seized under RICO.

The ACLU spokesman said the bill's purpose is "absolutely laudable," but it can be misused to tie together small offenses to prove a pattern of racketeering.

Replied Nichols: "With all due respect, you're way off base. You've taken it totally out of context."

Humane society to hold pre-holiday dog wash

The holidays are fast approaching and the Michigan Humane Society would like to help your pooch look his best, as well as ask Santa for that special something he'd like to find in his stocking.

The MHS west shelter will hold a pre-holiday dog wash 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 19. The west shelter is at 37255 Marquette in Westland. A bath and blow dry will range from $10 to $50 depending on size and coat condition. Nail trims will be $5 extra. An appointment is necessary and can be secured by calling 721-7300.

A special attraction will be a pet photo session with Santa. Polaroid pictures of your pet and Santa will be $5 with all proceeds going to the homeless animals at MHS.

A bake sale and craft sale featuring pre-related items as well as MHS T-shirts, sweatshirts and Christmas cards will also be held at the dog wash. For more information, call 721-7300.

SC registration continues

Mail-in registration for Schoolcraft College classes will run through Saturday, Nov. 18.

Follow these tips to reduce noise level at home

In addition to causing permanent hearing loss, noise can produce other health problems. Noise leads to stress. The results can cause sleeplessness, depression, irritability and/or aggressive or hostile behavior. High noise levels can also elevate blood pressure, increase heart and breathing rates and cause muscle tension. These changes occur both awake and asleep, and the noise does not have to be loud to produce these changes. Noise can also reduce a child's ability to learn. Concentration is easily interrupted and a young student's ability to read and pronounce words correctly can be hampered by continuous exposure to high noise levels. To reduce noise levels:

- Use appliances one at a time.
- Keep motors and mufflers in good repair.
- Use lined drapes and insulation to reduce outdoor noise.
- When replacing worn-out appliances, select quieter models.
- Keep telephone bells, stereos and TVs at the lowest level at which they can be heard. Headphones should only be used at very low volume. Upholstered furniture and padded carpet help absorb loud noises. Carpeting is particularly effective in upstairs rooms and hallways. Make sure large appliances don't rest against a wall. The wall acts as a sounding board and amplifies the noise.

- Roll up car windows when traveling.
 - Wear ear protectors when working with noisy tools or machinery.
- For more information on noise pollution and its effects, write for noise pamphlets from the EPA, Office of Public Affairs, Washington, D.C. 20460.

IT'S SOLID AND LIQUID AT THE SAME TIME.

Most things are pretty much black and white. Oil and water don't mix. East is East. West is West. Something can't be solid and liquid at the same time. Well, not so with The FirstRate Fund. Because it earns you a great rate, without tying up your principal.

Earn 9 Percent For Up To 60 Days.

From October 2 until November 30, The FirstRate Fund earns interest at an annual rate of 9 percent.

After that, it's tied to the 91-day Treasury Bill, guaranteeing a highly competitive rate. All it takes is a $10,000 deposit to start. And you can add to it, whenever you like. Make a withdrawal and you won't have to pay a penalty.

So, by all means, open your FirstRate Fund now, and earn an annual rate of 9 percent for as long as possible.

Solid. And Liquid, Too.

Unlike some other investments with a high return like the FirstRate Fund, you can get to your money, whenever you need to.

All you have to do is drop us a line. Seven days later, you'll have your money.

We'll even call to tell you when you can pick up your check.

Insurance For Your Money.

Most investments like this require some risk taking. Not so with The FirstRate Fund.

Your bank deposits are FDIC insured for up to $100,000. Meaning your principal's safe to the maximum amount allowed by law.

In short, you have nothing to lose. But an awful lot to gain.

Where's The Fine Print? You Just Read It.

If you're going to name something FirstRate, it ought to be just that.

So there are no funny restrictions or conditions. Just a straightforward investment that, unlike a lot of competitive investments, is unquestionably attractive. Which leaves us with one last question. What are you waiting for? The FirstRate Fund. Only from First of America.

Stop by any one of our First of America offices to invest in one, or call 1-800-544-6155.

Remember, this offer may not last forever, is available to individuals only, and may change without notice.

Court turns down Diamond appeal

By Tim Richard
staff writer

man Lippitt's handling of the case on nearly all points.

The Michigan Supreme Court won't hear the appeal of two men in prison for the A.J. Obie/Diamond Mortgage scam.

"We are not persuaded that the questions presented should be reviewed by this court," the justices said in a one-sentence order.

The Supreme Court also denied the prisoners' motion for reversal of their convictions.

Their order upholds the decision of the state Court of Appeals, which affirmed Oakland Circuit Judge Nor-

BARTON GREENBERG is serving six years and eight months in state prison for larceny under false pretenses in a so-called "Ponzi" scheme that cost 1,600 investors $47 million.

His associate, Gary L. Mitchell, is serving 16 months in the same case. Each pleaded no contest — the legal equivalent of guilty — to one count.

Their appeal challenged the Uniform Securities Act as "unconstitutionally vague."

The appeals court turned down their arguments but modified the sentences Lippitt gave them. It ruled:

• Lippitt lacked authority to enjoin the state Corrections Department from releasing Greenberg to a halfway house until he had made restitution to the extent possible. "A sentencing judge is not empowered to make the full payment of restitution a prerequisite to obtaining parole or early release," although restitution can be ordered.

• Lippitt lacked authority to set three years as Mitchell's maximum sentence. The maximum will be the 10 years set by state law.

Lippitt sentenced the pair a year ago and left the bench early in 1989 to return to private practice.

THE SCAM operated in southeastern Michigan and the Grand Rapids area.

Diamond Mortgage would solicit borrowers, process their papers but not give them the money, saying the loan had been denied.

A.J. Obie solicited investors, giving them the worthless promissory notes.

Many of the investors were retirees who packed the courtroom as Lippitt handed down the sentences.

Anti-freeze is harmful to family pets, wildlife

Winterizing the family vehicle can pose a serious threat to pets, wildlife and children.

A task as routine as changing the anti-freeze in the radiator can be deadly if the waste is not handled properly. The main ingredient in anti-freeze is ethylene glycol, a highly toxic substance with a sweet taste. When the used product is left lying in an open container, its appealing taste can attract animals and children.

Ethylene glycol (anti-freeze) is so highly toxic that even a very small amount can be fatal to an animal.

If you suspect your pet has ingested anti-freeze, contact your veterinarian immediately. Prompt treatment is of the utmost importance.

This type of tragedy can be prevented if you dispose of used anti-freeze in lead-proof containers with child-proof tops and thoroughly flush areas where anti-freeze may have spilled. Be sure to rinse out all containers that may have contained anti-freeze as well.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

EMU to host national AIDS teleconference

Eastern Michigan University will be the local host site for a national teleconference, "AIDS in the College Community: From Crisis to Management" at 1 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 16, in the EMU Corporate Education Center.

The three-hour teleconference, originating from Ohio State University, features a panel of nationally recognized experts.

A recent American College Health Association study involving nearly 17,000 college students indicated approximately two students per 1,000 tested positive for the HIV virus associated with AIDS.

Advance teleconference registration is $30, though there is a $5 discount for those registering in groups. Student registration is $15. On-site registration is $35 for non-students, $20 for students.

Additional information is available by calling EMU Corporate Services, 487-2259, or writing: AIDS Teleconference, EMU Corporate Services, 3075 Washtenaw Ave., Ypsilanti, Mich. 48197.

Sierra Club will sue to overturn ash laws

AP — Two Michigan laws relaxing rules for handling incinerator ash will be challenged in court, an environmental group said.

Anne Wolwode, director of the Mackinac chapter of the Sierra Club, said a suit seeking to overturn the state laws will be filed in U.S. District Court in either Lansing or Grand Rapids within the next week.

"Our goal is not to put incinerators out of business. Our goal is to protect the environment of Michigan," she said.

The suit would potentially affect operations at the Central Wayne Sanitation Authority incinerator in Dearborn Heights, as well as others throughout the state. The local incinerator serves Westland, Garden City and other suburban communities.

ASH FROM incinerators has been found to be hazardous waste but incinerator operators have maintained that disposing of ash in the same manner as hazardous waste would be too costly, Wolwode said.

Pressure from incinerator operators led lawmakers to approve two measures earlier this year that relax the standards for transporting and storing the ash.

But Wolwode said those laws violate the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act which prohibits any state from enacting standards less stringent than those in the federal law. The state laws have 21 provisions that are weaker than the federal law, she said.

"We depend in this country on ensuring that a common bottom line exists in the regulation of pollution, and that bottom line is set by federal law. The state of Michigan has wantonly defied the federal government's bottom line on hazardous waste regulation," she said.

Other states have adopted regulations that are weaker than the federal law, but none except Michigan has passed a law that included weaker provisions, Wolwode said.

THE SUIT is expected to name Gov. James Blanchard, who signed the measures, Attorney General

Frank Kelley and Natural Resources director David Hales as defendants.

Frederick Dilley, a Grand Rapids attorney representing the Sierra Club, said a decision has yet to be made on whether to seek a court order blocking the laws while the suit is in progress.

Kelley spokesman Chris DeWitt and Sue Henry, spokeswoman for the Department of Natural Resources, said they cannot comment on pending litigation.

In addition to the local incinerator, others currently operating in Michigan include those in the Detroit, Grosse Pointe-Clinton, Jackson County and Kent County incinerators.

First Citizen

Volunteers reflect city spirit

NEARLY 20 years ago, Mayor Gene McKinney of Westland said he was trying to make the community different from the myriad of other Detroit suburbs.

One of his strategies was to create a strong sense of identity through the creation of the Westland Spring Festival, later changed to the Summer Festival. Scores of volunteers put in untold hours on the festival.

While the festival is one of the more visible volunteer activities in Westland, hundreds of other people toil in scores of activities without seeing the rewards of their efforts.

An example is Linda Pratt, who was named this week as First Citizen of Westland for 1989. She is the winner of the fourth annual community service award co-sponsored by the Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

PRATT DECIDED years ago to get involved in the local school system. It was her way of repaying people who in her teen years created educational opportunities that her family couldn't afford at the time.

She and her family moved to Westland 19 years ago after hearing of the quality of educational programming in the Wayne-Westland school district and the openness with which the administration welcomed parent involvement.

Since then, she has been actively involved in the Wayne-Westland district through numerous citizen committees and the PTA organization.

IT WASN'T surprising that Pratt was busy most of Monday, working at the PTA Council's clothing bank, when notified she won the First Citizen award.

Besides raising a family and buying her own business eight years ago, the First Citizen of 1989

Volunteers help create a sense of community through their work done for numerous service and civic groups.

places a high priority on community service and support of the school system.

She serves now as interim supervisor of the clothing bank and is treasurer of the Funding Effective Schools Committee.

Over the years, she has been in a leadership role for numerous PTA and school organizations, winning many honors.

BUT WHILE she won the First Citizen award for this year, we should also point out that three other excellent nominees were considered by a committee of judges for the honor.

While Pratt was picked this year, the quality of the services performed by the other nominees, Marlene Dean, Sharon Scott and Jack Vincenti, also reflect that Westland is fortunate in having a large number of volunteer superstars in the community.

While many of the city's adults have many activities and priorities pulling them in different directions, the community should be aware it takes a special type of person to volunteer those few spare moments of time for the balance of the city.

A strong school system, PTA chapter, recreation program or activities for handicapped people just don't happen — people make them happen through planning, dedication and follow-through.

The First Citizen nominees clearly reflect that spirit of community cohesiveness.

Establishment stung by electorate at polls

THE ESTABLISHMENT took it on the chin this week.

Incumbents and their proposals crumbled under the wrath and/or discontent of the electorate which spoke out loud and clear.

The big punch, of course, went to the two statewide proposals A and B which were touted by various establishment groups. State leaders have been struggling with one another for years on how to deal with the school financing discontent.

The Legislature has been particularly impotent in coming up with any kind of solution. So with all the courage of a cornered varmint, they threw the hot potato to the electorate in a "you-figure-it-out" move.

But voters refused to take the bait and threw it right back.

Suburban Detroit voters led the way in rejecting both proposals.

Oakland County residents were particularly adamant. Proposal A, a half cent initiative went down 3-1. Proposal B was knocked out in a 7-1 decision in the state's fastest-growing area.

Maybe now that the people have spoken, state leaders will get serious about dealing with a troubled and inequitable educational system. And maybe they'll learn to listen a little closer to the voters who simply want them to do their jobs.

LOCAL leaders also found out that voters may not be as content as they originally thought. Just ask Westland's incumbent Charles Griffin who is licking his wounds and packing his bags this week.

Seems the voters resented the city-funded buyout of his pension plan from Griffin's former employer, the Michigan Education Association. Nothing illegal, mind you, but Westland residents, many of whom are union members themselves, took exception.

Incumbent William Ziemba also was sent to pasture by the Westland electorate.

On the Oakland County side of the ledger, the one-two punch was delivered to proposals which would have given the library system some breathing room. The $14.5 million bond issue for a new library facility went down as well as the 1.5 mill levy to support library services.

Incumbency for Farmington Hills council members Phil Arnold and Paul Sowerby proved of little help. Both lost. Three new council members now join the ranks of the gang up on the hill at the corner of Eleven Mile and Orchard Lake Road.

Hope they're used to long nights without Monday Night Football to alleviate the pain.

Steve Barnaby

FARMINGTON made history by putting yet another woman on the five-member legislative body. Joanne McShane replaced incumbent Arnold Campbell. She joins Shirley Richardson, the first-ever woman council member, who also won re-election.

Seems Detroit isn't the only city divided by the downtown versus neighborhood issue. Newcomer David Katulic rode to victory in Rochester on a crest of discontent from voters who feel the establishment pays too little attention to neighborhood needs.

Appropriately, Katulic celebrated the victory at home with his supporters, while the incumbents gathered in downtown Rochester at Cooper's Arm restaurant to commiserate with losing incumbent Kenneth Bilodeau.

'No knock' Search law would go too far

"No-knock" is no good. A bill that would allow police officers with search warrants to enter homes without announcing their presence and intent — "no knock" — has already passed the state Senate by a wide margin and is in Perry Bullard's House Judiciary Committee.

The committee should deeply ponder the ramifications of compromising a citizen's constitutional right to privacy, and then it should take note of the design flaws in the bill. Careful scrutiny will support the contention that no-knock should not be reported out of committee.

No-knock came about as a tool to use primarily against drug dealers. It's designed to give police holding search warrants the authority — which, in practice, they already have — to enter homes without knocking, identifying themselves, stating they have a search warrant or waiting for some kind of response from the person inside the home.

The purpose of this proposed law, Senate Bill 23, is twofold: let police recover evidence that might be destroyed if they announce themselves, and make sure police don't get killed once they do identify themselves.

Barging into a home, unannounced, is no guarantee of living through a drug raid. Quite the contrary — barging into anyone's home, without warning, is an invitation for the resident to protect him- or herself. Whether one is pro or con, remember: there is a constitutional right to bear arms, and millions take advantage of it.

Public Act 189 of 1966 and subsequent case decisions already have given officers with warrants the right to immediately enter a home, at their discretion. That fact alone should make consideration of this new no-knock bill a moot point.

Barging into anyone's home, without warning, is an invitation for the resident to protect him- or herself. Whether one is pro or con, remember: there is a constitutional right to bear arms, and millions take advantage of it.

There are many other reasons.

The bill says at the time a search warrant is requested, an officer also must ask a magistrate specifically for a no-knock clause on the warrant and cite reasons why it seems to be necessary. It could be argued that every circumstance warrants no-knock authority, and judicial generosity in empowering law enforcement officials with this opportunity could be abused.

Further, the magistrate will not be along on the raid, so the decision to implement the no-knock clause, if granted, falls to individuals who already have that authority — the officers on the scene. Remote-control justice will not work.

These are all technicalities, and trivial when seen in the same light as our right to privacy. Don't confuse the issues, though — the life of an officer is anything but trivial. But we won't save any more lives by giving them powers they already have.

The concern that evidence will be destroyed — part two of the argument for this bill — is simply not a good enough reason to usurp our constitutional right to privacy. Miranda laws, advising a suspect of his or her rights, already have been weakened by the Supreme Court.

Further dilution, this time on the privacy front, means one conceivably could be sitting in a living room, have the police break down a door and, depending on the circumstances, maybe or maybe not advise that person of his rights. Our Constitution was intended to be amended — not bent out of shape.

It's important to look ahead, past the current drug war crisis, at the way these laws could be applied once the purpose for which they were created has ceased to exist. Many laws get put on the books; comparatively few are removed.

No one today should question an officer's right to kick in a drug dealer's door or return fire if threatened or fired upon. The solution is not to warp the Constitution. It's to get Lansing and Washington to provide more dollars for more resources to fight the drug war.

Let's worry about that, instead of trying to revise and subvert the laws by which the vast majority of individuals in this state and country live.

2 cities share costs

To the editor:

On behalf of the Wayne-Westland Library Board, I'd like to thank you for Judith Doner Berne's fine piece about libraries in the Oct. 11 Observer. Libraries are indeed more active, dynamic and involved in serving their communities than ever before.

I would, however, like to correct one error in the article: Westland does not contract with Wayne for library services. By virtue of an agreement entered into many years ago, the two cities share the same library; in fact, the building that houses the Wayne-Westland Library on Sims near Wayne Road in Wayne is owned on a 50-50 basis by both Wayne and Westland, and operating expenses are shared based on a variable percentage rate determined by use — currently 60 percent Westland, 40 percent Wayne.

While it is true, as Ms. Berne points out, that Westland residents have twice rejected millages for a separate municipal library in their city, the Board (which represents both cities) has placed the highest priority on and is actively engaged in pursuing ways to provide the very best library facilities and services possible to all of the 100,000 residents of the Wayne-Westland community which it serves.

We welcome questions and comments from anyone concerned about the library.

Story missed local hospital

To the editor:

The Sept. 25 Westland Observer carried a very comprehensive article on a disaster drill held in Wayne County on Sept. 20.

I was dismayed to see that the only acute care hospital (Westland Medical Center) operating in the city of Westland was not even mentioned in your article.

Our staff not only participated in the disaster drill but also on a day-to-day basis serves the City of Westland by being available to handle "real" emergencies occurring within the city.

The oversight on your part does not do justice to those who day-to-day serve the Westland community.

Refereeing is criticized

To the editor:

I am writing regarding the Western Lake Activities Association playoff game between John Glenn High School and Farmington Harrison High School (Saturday, Oct. 21). We have never seen such an unfair and poorly refereed game in all the years we have watched organized sports.

We thought that a game of such importance was supposed to be refereed by qualified and fair referees. Instead of making the number one ranked Class B team in the state look like real winners, they in turn placed doubt in all the fans that watched the game. If I did not know better, I would truthfully believe that the game was fixed.

If I were a Harrison coach I would demand to replay the game to prove they in fact are number one, instead of letting inexperienced referees give them the game. As it now stands, John Glenn High is the real winner in the eyes of the fans.

Before the playoff game we had respect for Harrison as winners and a great football team, but now we wonder if the officials have given them Class B No. 1 ranking.

In closing I would like to say if you don't believe this look at the video tapes. Even though this letter is of little satisfaction, my family and I feel better letting our opinions be known.

Short words convey lots of emotion

LOST DOG
Two words in a classified ad in a newspaper.

Two words hand-scrabbled on a sign tacked to a utility pole. Short words. Emotionless words.

Unless you're the one writing them down on the ad form or scrawling them on the sign.

Then they pull at your insides and paw at your psyche and produce waves of emotions you had forgotten you had.

You go from gut-wrenching sighs to angry outbursts muttered at no one in particular.

"Damn-fool dog," you grumble. Why did he take off like that?"

Of course, no one answers. You remember the day you picked him out at the breeders. You wanted a brother, but your wife...

no, she had to have this one — the runt of the litter.

"He's cute," she said. "He's got a nice personality."

IT DIDN'T really matter. They were all discount dogs. "Pet quality," the ad had read. That, the breeder explained when we met her in person, meant that for one reason or another they weren't "show quality."

wanted a Scottie for a pet, not a show dog. The kids... he was 13 at the time, she was 3... just wanted a dog.

So we took him home. The runt. The one that almost croaked right after he was born and had to be hand-fed by the breeder. She even took him to work with her and nursed him through his infancy.

That, I think, was his problem. He never knew he was a dog.

We had a terrible time agreeing on a name until "mother and son" came up with "Wicket." I suggested modifying it to "Sticky Wicket."

And that's who he became. This son of "Braeburn's Main Event" and "Lady Towzie Macbeth." He didn't care about his heritage. He thought he was human.

He had another identity crisis about a year ago when we went to an orchard to pick apples and came home with a kitten — the last of a litter that had been abandoned in a ditch near the orchard.

The cat, who was dubbed "Wookie," thought Wicket was his mother and tried to nurse him and Wicket...

well, he wasn't sure who, or what, he was anymore.

They were both black and furry

and they became great buddies and when another abandoned kitten joined the ranks this summer, the three of them — the purebred Scottie and the two mongrel cats — formed a family of their own.

THERE WERE a few crises along the way. Wookie would dart out the door when he got the chance and start chomping on whatever greenery was in sight, but the family — father, mother, son and daughter — would manage to trap him in a corner somewhere and drag him back inside.

Wicket, damn-fool dog, would sometimes dart out an open gate and cavort around the neighborhood when he was a pup, but he always got caught.

As he grew older he became less inclined to take off when the gate was open and the family figured he had settled in to his comfortable, if not posh, surroundings.

Then, a couple of weeks ago, on a Sunday morning, the Scottie was let out, the gate was left open and no one noticed until... no more Wicket.

Two or three hours of frantic searches on foot, on bikes and in cars produced nothing. Then a phone call to the Canton police got results. A woman from Garden City had seen him, trying to play with the cars along Ford Road, and had rescued him.

A visit to her house and the damn-fool dog was back with his family.

Presumably they, and he, had learned a lesson.

But two weeks later, late in the afternoon, with too many people having to be too many places at the same time, another open gate and this time, he didn't come back.

So there you are. Writing two short words on a piece of poster board and realizing that yes, that was a tear that just smeared the ink on the words "Lost Dog."

School progress reports are vital

I just received my son's report card and find he received three C's two D's and an E this marking period. He is in the 10th grade and has not been a good student. He has had grade problems before. What really bothers me is that I have to wait until the end of the marking period to receive the report card to find out he has two D's and an E. It seems we should have a notice letting us know about his poor grades before going to the mailbox and finding a very discouraging envelope with his grades in it.

Doc Doyle

velope because marked school envelopes sometimes are intercepted by the student and make it to the trash can before the parents see it.

On the other hand, when an improvement in a student's grades or attitude occurred, a letter was also sent home informing the parents of their child's academic or behavioral improvement. Through this dual process, parents receive both positive as well as negative feedback from the school district. Candidly, the positive letter oftentimes did more good than the letter stating the student was not performing. Positive feedback of this nature is something educators need to take a long look at.

Keep in mind that some teacher contracts stipulate whether or not a progress report is a required condition of employment or a voluntary task. Some teachers are not ready to make a grade judgment after two or three weeks and believe a progress report is only timely when grades have formed a pattern. The worst possible scenario (and I've seen this) is when no progress report goes out and the student's report card is handed to parents for the first time at the parent/teacher conference.

Imagine a parent sitting down, not knowing how their child achieved and then receive a report card with say — two E's. What a disastrous circumstance for the parents' first meeting of the year with teachers.

Therefore, in my opinion, teachers should notify parents not only of failing grades or poor attitudes prior to report card time but also should notify parents of any positive improvement in grades or attitude. And parents have a responsibility to develop open communication so they know what level of effort and performance is going on in the classroom during week one, week two and throughout the entire school year.

Many, if not all, districts send progress reports home to parents halfway through the marking period to alert parents to their child's grades.

There is another dimension to this issue. Since you and your husband know that your son has not achieved acceptable grades in the past, communications must be a two-way street. You can get a "reading" on your son's progress simply by calling the school and asking his teachers. If they are in class, ask for your call to be returned. Your son also has a counselor that you can contact for assistance. It really is a bit late to react to this unfortunate situation at the end of an eight-week marking period.

Nevertheless, this issue is always one of who is responsible for monitoring a student's academic or behavioral progress. Is it the parent's responsibility or is it the teacher's responsibility to be the surrogate parent? Should not the parents have a relationship with their son or daughter that is of such a nature that the parents know how their child is performing? Or is it the school district's responsibility to continually keep the parents advised of their child's progress or lack of progress.

In my opinion, it is the responsibility of both parties. Indeed, when I was a young teacher, many moons ago, I developed my own progress report and that report would go out as soon as there was any indication that the student was not performing — sometimes as early as the second or third week. My letters to parents were sent in an unmarked plain en-

Act now to stop liquor sales to minors

LAST WEEK, our new Lakes Area edition ran the story that a Union Lake-party store had its liquor license suspended for two years for selling alcohol to minors.

In the next issue, we reported that a now-closed Walled Lake convenience store will pay $2,400 to that school district's drug-education program for selling beer after hours to "visibly intoxicated persons". Those three people — including one minor — were injured when their car struck a roadside tree.

Ironically, both stores were Hop Ins, owned by Farr View Ltd. of Ann Arbor. That's all we were able to get from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission spokeswoman, who said the commission doesn't give out the names of the company directors.

WHY NOT? Farr View Ltd., which has no telephone listing, but does have a Flint agent, has its president, J. Larry Trull, from Roanoke, Va. All its listed corporate officers are from Roanoke and Mississauga, Ontario. But locally, it is managed by Hop In of Ann Arbor, whose executive vice president is Philip Tomezyk. That information should come as part and parcel of the sentences. But it doesn't.

Why aren't corporation owners immediately held publicly responsible? And why should the press, as the vehicle for the public's right to know, have to jump hurdles to get that kind of information out?

If we really want to make headway in upholding the 21-year-old drinking age, we have to do some things differently.

• One is to refuse to let those ultimately responsible for violations hide behind corporate names.

• Another is to push our state legislators to stiffen and establish minimum penalties for liquor establishments who sell to minors.

• Another is for police departments to conduct regular undercover raids to deter the selling of liquor to minors.

SUBURBAN POLICE should take the lead from the sheriff's department and departments in Farmington Hills and Farmington, which periodically use underage decoys to attempt to purchase liquor.

Eleven of the 33 package liquor and beer and wine dealers in Farmington Hills were cited in a June sweep for selling to minors. It was the fifth sweep since October 1986.

And in early October, more than half of the businesses holding liquor licenses in Farmington were ticketed for selling to minors. That was down from 75 percent several years back.

Through campaigns coupled with enforcement, we've made great strides in reducing drinking and driving. Still, alcohol is responsible for the most deaths among young people, and can, for some, lead to addiction.

There's no reason in the world why all our police departments can't hold periodic undercover raids of liquor stores and bars in their communities. And we as citizens, our city councils and township boards can push the Legislature, as Farmington Hills has done, for more stringent penalties for violations.

Judith Doner Berne

Selling to minors is something we can get a handle on and do something about.

4C workers scramble to fill need for family day care

By Sue Mason
Staff writer

The career of the 1980s was related to computers. But the career of the 1990s probably won't be as high tech. Considering current statistics, the economic growth area of the '90s will be in day care services for working parents.

As of March 1988, 65 percent of all American women with children under 18 years of age worked outside the home. It's estimated that by the year 2000, 80 percent of women in their prime childbearing years (between 25 and 44) will be in the labor force.

Someone will need to care for the children of those women, just as someone is needed now to care for the 60 percent of all American children who have working mothers.

One way of addressing the need is through family or home-based day care, but in several Wayne and Oakland communities, the need far exceeds what is available.

"It's safe to say that the slots available versus the slots needed are in short supply all over Wayne County," said Georgiana Cien, a corporate child care consultant with the Child Care Coordinating Council of Detroit/Wayne County Inc. (4C) and Work/Family Directions Inc.

Cien and Eartha DeYampert, family day care specialist/consultant, are recruiting people interested in providing child care in their homes in Redford, Livonia, Westland, Canton Township, Southfield, Farmington and Farmington-Hills, areas with a critical need for family day care.

THEY AREN'T looking for baby sitters, but rather people interested in being professionals, people interested in becoming licensed day care providers. They're looking for people who want a career and as such will be dependable and make a commitment to their profession.

In return, they'll help with the necessary training and provide on-site technical assistance.

Their isn't an easy task. There's a tremendous turnover in family day care, partly because of the stress and partly because of the way it is viewed by outsiders. Family day care as a profession is plagued by the perception of it as baby-sitting, DeYampert said.

"Family day care is no longer just custodial care," she said. "Parents don't want their kids just fed and cleaned up and sat in front of a TV all day. They want structure, planned activities; they want to see some sort of education going on."

Cien does enhanced child care resource and referrals for 35 companies in the metropolitan area, but she can't provide referrals, if the supply isn't there, so part of her job, with the help of DeYampert, is to recruit and train day care professionals.

There are two types of licensed home-based day care. Family day care is limited to one adult and three to six children, including any children the provider has under age 7. A group home can accommodate seven to 12 youngsters with at least two adults present.

WHEN DEYAMPERT talks about being a professional day care provider she talks from experience. She and her husband John operate a group home. Their living room is used to care for infants and toddlers while the basement has been set aside for older youngsters. Even her children are involved, helping to plan activities for the youngsters.

"If you want to be treated as a professional, you have to be ready for the kids when they arrive at 6 a.m.," she said. "You can't go to the door in a bathrobe and rollers in your hair. You have to be dressed for work."

"You have to have a planned schedule. You have to be organized. If you're consistent, people realize you're serious about what you do."

According to DeYampert, one way to get started is to send for the Department of Social Service's family day care licensing information. The packet contains the different forms that need to be filled out as well as provide information on what to expect as a day care professional.

The licensing process takes two to four months to complete and during that time DeYampert suggests potential providers get some training.

She conducts such training programs, including one being offered at Schoolcraft Community College's Radcliffe Center in Garden City, beginning Saturday, Nov. 11.

The training covers such things as professionalism, the business aspects of family day care, safety, nutrition and health, developmental toys and activities and parent/provider relationships.

"PART OF THE training is to teach these people that they are performing a viable service to the community," DeYampert said. "They have a lot to offer, but they have to get parents to look on them as professionals."

Participants can qualify for continuing education credits that can be used to become an accredited child care provider. In addition, day care providers can also qualify for a child development associate certificate, both of which add to the aura of being a professional, DeYampert said.

But Cien and DeYampert stress that family day care isn't a career for just anyone. The person who opts for it has to be able to deal with children 11-12 hours a day.

"We get calls from parents looking for baby sitters," Cien said. "I tell them we don't deal with people who sit on babies, we deal with licensed day care professionals."

The cost of family day care depends on the geographical area, according to Cien. Downriver, the charge may be $40-50 per week, while in West Bloomfield one provider is asking — "and getting" — $150 a week, she said.

AND PRICES aside, child care is so important to today's economy that if all providers — family, group and center settings — decided to go on strike, there would be a major breakdown in American business and economy, Cien said.

"People are starting to recognize that this is important," she said. "The number one requested child care in the nation is for infants to 3-year-olds. That's requested for 72 percent of all children in child care."

For more information about becoming a licensed family day care provider, call the Child Care Coordinating Council of Detroit/Wayne County Inc. at 422-9211.

Media folks ham it up for RSL

LEAVE IT TO Dwayne X. Riley. That affable Channel 4 reporter has made a name for himself doing wild and crazy things for his "Riley's World" and he continued that tradition Nov. 1 at the Redford Suburban League's annual fashion fund-raiser.

While his television cohorts were strutting their stuff in furs, gold lame and croques, he stole the show in a red terry colour bathrobe and slippers, accented by a pink stuffed toy and fur bowler style jacket.

The crowd loved it as well as a host of other antics, including a "Mutt and Jeff" style stroll down the runway by emcee Doris Blasco of Channel 7 and Tim Klaka of the Detroit News.

"He's shorter than short," commented Blasco, who shared the emcee duties with Channel 2 co-anchor Rick Pihon.

This was the 10th year for the fashion show/raffle and accompanying business. And, in keeping with tradition, it was also quite a success, attracting more than 1,000 people from throughout the metropolitan area to the Egerton Manor in Dearborn.

from television and radio as well as daily newspapers throughout the area.

The Suburban League, with 120 members, was pleased from the fashion show to help programs for children.

Last year, 26 organizations were the receiving end, including the Gerald City Public Schools' Burger Dinner, Redford Union's Oral Program for the Hearing Impaired, Children's Hospital of Michigan, Pontiac's Center for Blind Children, Redford Opportunity House, Dearborn and Dearborn Heights, Northville Public Schools and Redford Union High School special education departments and Michigan Guidance Center.

Redford Suburban League also provided a variety of services for children, including a day camp for children with disabilities.

Heavy writing pressure can show purposefulness

Dear Lorene Green,
I am a left-handed male. My birthdate is Feb. 10, 1963. I always make it a point to read your column, as I enjoy attempting to match other people's handwriting with my own. I have been told by my teachers and friends as I was growing up that I have a tendency to apply extreme pressure to the paper as I write. I am most interested in knowing if this reveals anything about me. Thank you!

D.L. Redford

Dear D.L.,
Yes, indeed. The pressure of your handwriting reveals a great deal about you. Heavy pressure suggests vitality, determination and intensity of purpose. These writers have potential for leadership and are generally busy people. Their emotions usually graphology

run deep also. I just finished reading a translation of French graphologist Herbert Hertz, who compares heavy pressure to a vigorous handshake. In your particular handwriting, the pressure is very heavy and would also suggest an element of tension. You are a young man whose feet are planted on terra firma. Your modus operandi is precise and cautious. You feel that if the job is worth doing, then it is worth doing well. You take the necessary time to produce work of which you can be proud. In fact, your work probably borders on perfection.

THE GOOD spatial arrangement of your legible handwriting tells me your organizational skills are finely honed.

You have a sense for form and design and are not lacking in creative talent. Before starting on a project you envision the total picture in your mind, necessary details and all. You appear to have a good head for math and money and would not be one to spend recklessly. You are tradition-oriented. Security has a high priority in your life. You are not inclined to do anything to jeopardize it.

YOU ARE a rather private person and discreet about what you are willing to share with others. Although emotional by nature, you do tend to keep your emotions and feelings under control.

Still you enjoy people of all types and persuasions. You have a need to be accepted by those people who are most meaningful in your life. Your personal behavior is often monitored to reflect this need.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

I am a left-handed male. My birthdate is February 10, 1963. I always make it a point to read your column, as I enjoy attempting to match other people's handwriting with my own.

Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Full signature, age and handedness are all helpful. And feedback is always welcome.

Serving time

Tim Redmond had a run in with the "law" recently. The Westland resident ended up behind bars at Wonderland Mall in Livonia as part of the March of Dimes' Jail and Bail fund-raiser. For a fee of $25, friends, business associates and even spouses ended up in the lock-up. Their bails were set by "judges" and the prisoners had to call from their jail cells to raise their amount in the form of donations to the March of Dimes. The four-day event raised $140,000.

A child's dream becomes reality for doll designer

By Sue Mason
staff writer

When Robin Woods was a child, one of her dreams was to have a doll factory. She settled for hanging around a doll store in Colorado Springs, Colo., and making doll clothing with her sister.

Today, Carol Kay, a doll she received as a Christmas gift when she was 9 years old, sits in a high-chair by her office door, the entryway to the office of the chief executive officer of Robin Woods Inc., one of the foremost doll manufacturers in the United States today.

"I had just turned 37, and it was like a gong went off in my head (telling me) it was time to do something different," said Woods. "I told my husband—Steve—I wanted to open a doll factory and he just said OK."

It was quite an endeavor for Woods, who is the mother of six children and has a doctoral degree in child psychology. She wanted to create the dolls she treasured as a child, but had no formal design training. What she did know she had learned from her grandmother, who had studied home economics at Texas Women's College. The rest took research, and plenty of it.

Woods wasn't interested in creating porcelain-headed collectibles. The dolls she planned on creating, despite their fancy clothes, were meant to be "primed, cuddled and loved." Her dolls were to be "a playmate today and a treasure tomorrow," she said.

"My dolls are made the way dolls used to be made, like the Madame Alexander dolls," Woods said. "When I was a child, if you received a Madame Alexander doll it was like giving a child a Rolls Royce."

"MADAME Alexander is our main competition and I've heard people say that our dolls remind them of how Alexander dolls used to be made. But I'd like to think these are Robin Woods dolls."

Woods, who was at Jacobson's Laurel Park store Saturday to talk about and autograph her creations, makes two kinds of dolls—one in all vinyl and the other a combination soft body with vinyl head and limbs.

All-vinyl dolls generally tend to be the 14-inch little girl dolls. The plastic parts are "100 percent rotational molded vinyl"—they have no seams, making them durable. The dolls can be posed by turning or tilting the head, arms and legs.

The soft-bodied dolls are special in that the arms and legs are jointed and the head turns so the dolls can, among other things, sit unassisted on the edge of a chair. Those tend to be her 19- and 25-inch toddler dolls.

"We were one of the first ones (doll manufacturers) to have jointed bodies," Woods said. "In fact, the market tends to follow what we do. We're a little company, but we're a trendsetter."

Woods takes great care with her dolls, and the cost reflects that. One of her most popular dolls this year, Scarlet Sweetheart, a takeoff of Scarlet O'Hara of "Gone With the Wind," retails for $125. But consider this: Just the skirt of the 14-inch doll has 133 yards of lace and 20 yards of ruffle.

"One of the doll collector groups bugged me about doing a Scarlet doll and I finally did," Woods said. "And much to my chagrin, it's the best doll we've ever done."

FOURTEEN-inch dolls range in price from $80 to $185, while the toddler dolls go from $150 to $175. Woods also has produced dolls with trunks filled with clothing and accessories. This year's Cinderella play set ($250) is featured in the Nieman-Marcus Christmas catalog and is the winner of the Parents' Choice Gold Award.

Woods draws on literature, poetry and life experiences in coming up with her designs. One popular doll is Plain Jane. The doll is simply dressed and comes with a wardrobe of 25 items.

The popularity of Woods' dolls did cause problems for the fledgling company. The rapid growth left Woods with a need for more capital. Eventually, she raised $1 million in venture capital and hired a management staff, which got the company on even ground.

"I didn't realize how much money it took," she said. "No matter how much money I raised, it wasn't enough."

Woods has gone from one factory with 12 employees to two factories and 125 employees—many are laid off steelworkers. This year the company will deliver 75,000 dolls to the marketplace.

Woods takes pride in her dolls and revels in comments about them. In her travels, she has heard salespeople say "how much they like the dolls, how much they like the detail and how each has a personality of its own," she said.

"One woman told me how she loves it when they get my dolls in because they have 'swing,'" Woods said. "A doll is an inanimate object so you have to build life into it."

CONSIDERING Woods' love affair with dolls, you might expect her to be a doll collector. In fact, she still has the dolls she played with as a child—"They were my friends."—but that's it.

"I'm not a collector, that's a luxury I couldn't afford," she said. "I've always been a dollmaker."

Not being a collector makes it easier to part with her creations, she said. She makes dolls for the pleasure of others. She doesn't even keep samples of her products.

"I've found out that some of the first dolls I made are very valuable on the secondary market," she said. "I heard that one doll from 1983 sells for $1,500 among collectors, and we don't even have one."

Local day care employees are underpaid

Last week's column examined the results of the National Child Care Staffing Study, conducted by the Child Care Employee Project.

Data for this report was based on Detroit and four other cities—Atlanta, Boston, Phoenix and Seattle. This week's column looks at the results of the Study's Detroit Report.

The Detroit Report was based on data collected from 41 child-care centers in the metropolitan area. The sample included 8 for-profit centers, 13 non-profit centers and 14 church-sponsored (all non-profit) centers.

The local research team (Joyce Beacom, Rosalind Gilson, Janet Munson and Susan Wilson-Kamm) conducted 115 classroom observations and interviewed 268 teaching staffers.

Among their major findings were the following:

Detroit's child-care teachers are being poorly compensated.

THE STUDY shows that the average hourly wage for child-care teachers in Detroit was $4.88, compared with $5.35 for the full sample. Turnover rate was only 27 percent (compared with 41 percent for the child care

Marcie Walker

They also received fewer benefits. Despite lower wages, Detroit's full sample. The study suggests that this may be attributed to the area's higher unemployment rate.

On the whole, Detroit received higher marks for the quality of child care provided in its centers than in the full sample.

This does not mean that there is no room for improvement.

For instance, in rating "developmentally appropriate activity" in local child-care centers, the study showed that "one out of three infant classrooms, five out of 10 toddler, and six out of 10 preschool classrooms fell below a scale score of four" (a score of three indicating "minimally adequate," five being "good").

No more than half of the classrooms met or exceeded a score of five. The study rated other center qualities and characteristics, such as "appropriate caregiving" group sizes and ratios.

As with the entire sample, higher quality child-care centers in the metropolitan area employ teachers with more formal education, including early childhood courses.

Better quality care is provided in centers offering higher wages and better benefits. These centers also have lower staff turnover rates.

Parents come out in support of homosexual children

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Harriet Dart, president of Parents FLAG (Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays), and her husband, Bill, are featured in the documentary.

By Noreen Flack
staff writer

WHILE LESBIAN and gay groups continue to rectify a tarnished stereotype, local parents of homosexual children are "coming out" to offer advice and share experiences to the public.

In a 30-minute documentary entitled, "Listening, Learning, Loving: Parents of Lesbians and Gays," parents unite to eliminate discrimination and promote acceptance of their homosexual children.

The program originally aired on MetroVision cable systems in Livonia and Redford Township on Nov. 8. It will be aired a second time at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 13 in Livonia and at 7 p.m. on Channel 12 in Redford, both on Wednesday, Nov. 15.

The documentary includes historical incidents, medical facts and diverse experiences that producer Fred Shaheen of Detroit hopes will "open doors" for understanding and push away the myths and stigma of homosexuality.

The parents interviewed throughout the program are members of Farmington Hills based Parents FLAG (Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays). They reveal their experiences from suspecting their child is gay to overcoming emotions of guilt, anger, denial and shame that blocked acceptance and communication in their relationship.

"EVEN IF YOU do not have a homosexual child, it will not only move you, but make you keenly aware of some of the issues felt by so many in all walks of life," said Harriet Dart, president of PFLAG and a Farmington Hills resident.

PFLAG is an international organization with 90 active chapters where parents help other parents of lesbian and gay children with support and factual information on the subject of homosexuality.

"When you first hear the news, you feel like you are the only person in the world to have this revelation brought to you," said Bill Dart. "To know there are other people out there is reassuring that we aren't freaks."

Every four families (10 percent of the population) has a gay family member, Bill Dart said. Most people will eventually encounter a gay friend or relative and they should be more open about it, he added.

"I'm just sorry. That was three years that I wasted because Jon needed me and I wasn't there to be a father to him when I should have been," said Mickey Arnowitz of Oak Park, who appears in the program with his gay son, Jonathon, and his wife, Harriet.

"There was something wrong and I never really knew what it was. I just couldn't put my finger on it," said Merry, whose daughter is a lesbian. "That's when we were anguished. When she came out, I was freed. And I'm sure she was, too."

Shaheen, who is also gay, designed the program as a public awareness video and hopes the show will reach out to all people not only parents of gay children.

"When I was coming out, I had to confront all of my prejudices, whether it be blacks or Jews or whatever," Shaheen said. "It's an issue of total acceptance of people for who they are."

A copy of the documentary may be purchased for $17. Mail your check to: P.C. Productions Video Tape, 4767 Commonwealth, Detroit 48208.

Churches enter the computer age

Illustration by BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Computers are used by many churches and other religious organizations these days.

By Julie Brown
staff writer

"Software can't save souls, but technological advances have nevertheless had an impact on churches. Computers are increasingly common these days, particularly at larger churches with greater resources.

"The computer is used basically to enhance and to supplement all of the ministries of the church," said Barry McKenna, director of administration at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia. That church has nearly 5,000 members, and many others who aren't members participate in activities at Ward.

Computers have been a tremendous help to the pastors and staff, said McKenna, who has worked at the church since 1980.

"Obviously, the use and the implementation of it is a growing, ongoing process."

Computers are used for bookkeeping, keeping track of membership information and scheduling use of facilities and church vehicles.

WORD PROCESSING — for reports, correspondence, mailing labels and other items — is part of the work at Ward. A central data base provides some information for all departments, while some specialized functions are used by individual departments only.

It's difficult for McKenna to imagine what life would be like at Ward without computers.

"Anything is possible, but no, we would not even consider not having it."

Entering the computer age has been an ongoing process at Newburg United Methodist Church in Livonia.

"We're not into it totally yet, but we're moving in that direction," said the Rev. David Church, the pastor.

That process hasn't been effortless, and deciding how to put the computer to good use has been a challenge.

"And we've learned some of those things by hard knocks," Church said.

His denomination has designed a computer program that works well for most United Methodist congregations.

Giving records are stored on computer at Newburg United Methodist Church. The computer prints out contributions for members quarterly.

THE COMPUTER is used to store membership information, including such basics as names, phone numbers, addresses, and areas of interest.

"It's so much more efficient to do that with a computer," Church said.

If church staffers need the names of people who'd like to serve as ushers, all they have to do is push a button.

Newburg United Methodist Church has about 1,100 members. It's been about three years since the church began to use the United Methodist computer program.

Attendance at Newburg is still kept by use of a card file system. Church officials hope to use the computer for that soon, Church said.

The church's treasurer uses his home computer to keep track of financial records. The staff secretary at Newburg uses a word processor for correspondence and for parts of the church newsletter. Church writes his sermons on a typewriter.

"That's more a matter of personal choice," he said. "I'm still sort of new to the computer myself."

He could start to write sermons on a word processor at some point, as many of his colleagues do.

St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township is also in the computer age.

"We're sold on it," said Tammy Brand, parish administrator. "I don't think in this point of the ministry at St. John's they could function without it."

THE CHURCH includes 378 families.

"A lot of membership information is on the computer," Brand said. She's in the process of adding such things as baptism and confirmation dates, wedding dates and birth dates.

It's been more challenging to get that information from church members than it has been to enter it into the computer.

"We have all of our bookkeeping on the computer too," she said. "That's been fabulous. It just gives you a lot of good reference information. It's so much more efficient, just a better way to keep things."

Computers have been used for several years at St. John's, and two are in the office. The rector and associate rector each have a computer at home.

Brand has worked at St. John's for a little more than 10 years. She remembers the day when that first donated computer arrived.

"I was very resistant to it. I didn't know how to use it, first of all."

Brand took a couple of classes and gradually learned to work on the computer. It's used for correspondence, bulletins, the church newsletter and other items.

"My job relies totally on the computer today. It's just such an integral part of everything."

Staffers at St. John's never bought a church computer package, Brand said.

"Everything we looked at was so expensive."

Instead, they received help from a couple of parishioners in designing their own program.

COMPUTERS DO an increasing amount of work for the Archdiocese of Detroit, according to Jay Berman, archdiocese spokesman.

"They're present in every office." The archdiocese's central services are linked together by computer, allowing use of electronic mail.

"We started about five years ago," Berman said.

Before that, the archdiocese used some individual computers in the areas of finance and administration.

Computers make communication between parishes and between various administrative levels of the church easier. The church hopes at some point to deliver all mail to parishes electronically, he said.

Some 135 parishes out of 300 in the Archdiocese of Detroit use computers at some level. The archdiocese takes in six counties in southeastern Michigan, including Wayne and Oakland counties.

One concern of the Catholic church is privacy, as it relates to computer use, Berman said. Access to information stored in computer files must be limited.

"So we have built-in safeguards all along."

Computers can't do everything, but can help churches operate more effectively, Berman said. A priest who used to write a homily on a yellow legal pad can now write more quickly on a word processor.

"Now he's got a half hour he can devote to people."

The church starts with the assumption that technology is morally neutral, Berman said.

"It just depends on what kind of use you're going to put it to. Presumably, it's a good use."

Our past should be remembered

Eighteen years ago this week, the first Moral Perspectives column was printed in this newspaper. Is it the number of years the column has appeared that makes this week a special moment of recall for us who write it? Would it be less important if the years were fewer in number, or more important if they were greater?

Ten years ago this week, the United States Embassy in Iran was attacked and 55 citizens of the United States were held hostage by Iran for 444 days. The passage of time does not diminish the anguish nor relieve the anger.

This week marks the dedication of the Civil Rights Memorial in Montgomery, Ala. — a black granite table carved with the names and stories of the martyrs and key events from 1954, when the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed school segregation, to 1968, when Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated.

moral perspectives
Rev. Lloyd Buss

WHAT IS the feature that triggers remembrance of events and experiences past? Why do we remember some things and forget others?

Very few people will have remembered this week as the 18th anniversary of this column, and even this reference to it will not increase that number significantly.

The Iranian attack on the U.S. Embassy in Iran and the taking of hostages has been a continuing issue in international affairs. It is used by both sides in differing ways, but remembering the event is important for both nations.

The Civil Rights Memorial in Montgomery, Ala., almost never was. Forty people made the ultimate sacrifice for equality between 1954 and 1968, and it was the officials of Montgomery's Southern Poverty Law Center who conceived and paid for the memorial. The governor of Alabama was invited to the dedication ceremony, but he was unable to attend because he was going to church.

When a student of Pablo Casals, the Spanish cellist, suffered a lapse of memory in playing a piece she knew well, Pablo Casals said "Fine — everything should be new every time you play it."

Newspaper columns on moral perspectives, international relationships and the pursuit of equality for all people in our land are never finished products or events. Even before the first item has been addressed, the next one stands in need of the same attention.

YOU WON'T offend us if you didn't remember the 18th anniversary of this column, but forgetting or ignoring the features of international relationships that unfolded, the attack on our embassy in Iran and the 40 people who died in the struggle for civil rights in our country is to set in motion the very features that created the events we are to remember today.

Forgetting or ignoring our past is to imply that it never happened. There are some things that we would never want to forget or pretend never happened.

The Rev. Lloyd Buss is pastor of the Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester Hills.

church bulletin

The church bulletin is published every Thursday in the Observer. Information must be received in the Livonia office by noon the Monday prior to publication.

John McBrearty, senior vice president of finance for Entertainment Publications, prepares for the company's primary selling season following the issuing of its coupon book.

European partnership

For discount entertainment coupon books

By R.J. King
special writer

Despite the many trade barriers, currency and languages, Entertainment Publications in Troy expanded in Europe five years ago. But the world's leading publisher of leisure discount programs soon ran into problems unrelated to government restrictions and individual cultures.

The Europeans, as the company soon found out, were not as savvy as Americans when it came to savings. Planning to mimic its success in the United States, Entertainment Publications wanted to introduce its discount books in 8-10 cities per year.

But since 1985, just four cities — London, Copenhagen, Glasgow and Stockholm — have booklets circulating, and only on a limited basis.

In a tale of how two can often fare better than one, Entertainment Publications recently signed a joint venture agreement with Rikskuponger AB of Stockholm, the world's second-largest distributor of luncheon vouchers.

RIKSKUPONGER BECAME an equal partner in Entertainment's European subsidiaries — a move the companies hope will solve distribution and cultural differences while putting savings booklets in as many European hands as possible.

"We were really in the pioneering stage of introducing discount programs across Europe, and we never were able to reach our expectations," said Hughes Potiker, president and CEO of Entertainment Publications. Potiker started the company in 1982 from an 8-by-15-foot room in Detroit that doubled as the fledgling entrepreneur's law office.

"So the more we looked at it, the more it made sense to expand and develop leisure discount programs in Europe with a strong European partner. Rikskuponger already had an extensive background with coupons, so it really became a natural."

AN AFFILIATE OF the Wallenberg Group, which owns Saab and accounts for more than 40 percent of Sweden's national income, Rikskuponger developed as a result of the employer's desire to eliminate cafeteria service to employees, which is a typical benefit in Sweden.

The Swedish company distributed luncheon vouchers that workers could use to buy meals at local restaurants, Potiker said.

"With Rikskuponger's background in coupons, we thought it was a good idea to establish a strong link in Europe before the trade barriers come down in '92. We believe that when the Common Market finally comes together, it will allow for much more movement between countries and create more opportunities for us."

POTIKER EXPECTS to open branches in other European cities, but he wouldn't say where or when. The joint venture could provide the American publisher with a solution to its distribution problems, not only in households, but corporations, too, officials of the company said.

In addition to producing discount coupon books for families, the company has sold millions of custom coupon books for corporate clients to use in marketing and sales promotions. The companies include American Express, Procter & Gamble, Sears Roebuck and Troy-based Kelly Services.

In fiscal 1989, which ended in June, Entertainment Publications sold more than 2.5 million books in 87 market areas. Revenues were up 20 percent from the previous year, at $74.4 million. But despite the success, Europe still looms as an uncharted market.

"ANOTHER PROBLEM we ran into was that Europe does not have the non-profit and charity network that the United States has," said John McBrearty, senior vice president of finance. Seventy percent of the books sold by the company last year were through community and service organizations as the American Red Cross, Easter Seals and Girl Scouts of America. Of the 50,000 non-profit organizations in-

Thomas A. Murphy advocates entrepreneurship

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Without entrepreneurs, the U.S. economy cannot prosper.

Former General Motors chairman and chief executive officer Thomas A. Murphy told Madonna College business students Monday that they, the entrepreneurs of the future, are faced with the arduous task of keeping the American economy strong.

"Entrepreneurship is what made this country great," he said, adding that risk-taking, the foundation of entrepreneurship, is essential for growth. Murphy was the first speaker in the Madonna College Michael F. McManus distinguished business lecture series at the Livonia campus.

But a willingness to take risks is not a guarantee of success, he said. Hard work and knowing how long to follow an idea or drop it are also critical. "Don't get so hard-headed that you refuse to acknowledge an idea is not going to work."

"Anytime you try something, you gain from it. The reward may not be success," he added, but no effort is without some benefit — even if it is only experience and knowledge.

Murphy said that while the spirit of entrepreneurship is alive in this country, other countries have taken great steps in establishing similar — and perhaps even greater — entrepreneur-based economies.

Japan and other southeast Asian countries have fostered a growing entrepreneurial society, he said, and the seeds have now been planted in Poland and East Germany. "We should applaud these examples of entrepreneurship, but we should also redouble our own efforts."

Get out the plastic

Charge those movie ducats

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

For months you've been wanting to ask that man or woman at the office for a date and tonight — the day before payday — he or she mentions an interest in the new Woody Allen movie. Unfortunately, you're broke.

Don't sweat it, put it on plastic. Credit card purchases and advanced ticket sales are coming to a theater near you, according to James Merck, American Multi Cinema (AMC) director of marketing and public relations. Other theaters are looking at placing automatic teller machines in their lobbies to help solve their customers' cash flow problems.

'What people really like is when you have a blockbuster movie . . . you can call ahead and get tickets without standing in line.'

— James Merck
AMC

AMC LAUREL Park 10 in Livonia is the first general run cinema in southeast Michigan to use a computerized automatic ticket sales (CATS) system that allows purchase of tickets with credit cards. Movie fans can also buy tickets up to three days in advance at the box office or over the phone.

CATS will also be available at the Wonderland 6 theater in Livonia when it opens Friday. AMC will evaluate the system and is considering installing it in other theaters, Merck said.

AMC, the largest theater operator in southeast Michigan, has 19 theaters in the area.

The AMC Maple 3 Theatres — which generally show limited distribution and art films — began using the CATS system in September, and Merck called it successful. In other areas of the country where the system is in use, approximately 12 percent of movie tickets are bought with credit cards, he said.

PHONE PURCHASES are picked up the night of the show at a designated window, Merck said. Customers can also put a $10 charge on their credit card to use at the concessions stand, he said.

"You get a little slip of paper when you get your tickets and use it like funny money."

Over-the-phone credit card purchases are assessed a 50-cent surcharge per ticket, but tickets bought in house with credit cards are sold at face value, he said.

CREDIT CARD purchases are just as fast as money purchases, Merck said. A window teller takes a card, runs it through a scanner and hands over the tickets and a receipt. Credit card purchases do not require signatures so the line should move as fast as cash lines, he said.

"What people really like is when you have a blockbuster movie like 'Batman,' you can call ahead and get tickets without standing in line. It's also of benefit to us because we know what we need for crowd control."

Merck is not certain how many credit card purchases are made in advance — it varies from movie to movie — but the number seems to be growing, he said.

"There are a lot of advanced sales and we're certain we will sell more."

The system will accept Visa, MasterCard, American Express and Discover.

BUT ROBERT KLEINHANS found using credit cards more trouble than it was worth. He is the local general manager for Star Theatres, which has three theaters in metropolitan Detroit — Star Rochester Hills, Star Taylor and the Winchester Mall Cinema.

Tickets can still be bought in advance, but the cinema requires they be bought with cash.

"We used to (sell tickets with credit cards over the phone), but then people wouldn't show," Kleinhans said.

NO-SHOWS — ESPECIALLY for blockbuster movies — are aggravating to both theater management and the movie customer who can't get in to see a show. No-shows can also cancel credit card purchases, so the theater loses both the pre-purchased ticket sale and money that could have been made if the vacant seat had been filled.

And credit purchases cost theaters more to process, Kleinhans said. With the cost of film rental and operating overhead, Star Theatres decided to stay away from credit cards because of extra costs, he said.

Now through November 26.

involved in selling books, more than $13 million was raised last year to benefit causes.

And even though the thick, hand-sized books are sold on consignment, with promotional materials available free, European organizations were slow to accept the notion of selling discount books to raise money, Potlker said.

"There's just not a great deal of fund-raising done in Europe, as it is here in the United States."

EUROPE WAS perhaps 10 years behind America in acceptance of promotions and discounting, Potlker said. "Even credit cards are just now creeping in. Where we'll probably find success, and we're doing it now in the Scandinavian countries, is developing relationships with small clubs and encourage them to give us a try."

The company is targeting demographic segments to expand its U.S. line of publications and enhance cross-selling opportunities. One such target is Baby Bonanza, a book of discount offers for merchandise and services to new and expectant parents.

THE COMPANY also is testing Bed & Breakfast Plus, a directory of country inns, small hotels and lodgings for vacationers. Another book, published jointly with Troy-based K mart, offers up to 50 percent off on services and accessories at K mart's auto centers in addition to savings on dining travel and vacations.

The company is looking at a computer version of its discount savings book, Potlker said. Entertainment Publications might expand into the Pacific Rim countries, the most promising of which is Japan.

"There's a lot of exciting directions on the drawing board for us, and we're taking them one at a time. But our most pressing goal at the moment is to develop the European market."

"That's where the challenge is."

MURPHY SAID unless a new spirit of entrepreneurship takes hold in this country, "the parade will pass us by."

"It's time we face the reality of the situation. We should be asking ourselves why we're shrinking from risk." Although hardly a crisis now, fear of taking risks is already apparent.

Murphy explained that despite an increasing dependence on foreign oil, this country refuses to pursue other energy sources. "Japan, which is the only country to have had a nuclear bomb dropped on it, is the world leader in use of nuclear energy."

Murphy said that he is not suggesting the United States should abandon the use of oil and begin building nuclear power plants, but that this country has become complacent using oil and has stopped seeking alternatives.

"To me, this is symptomatic of our shrinking from risk."

"There is no freedom, no comfort, no security without risk," he said. "Without risk, this country's future won't be as bright as our past."

MADONNA COLLEGE business student Cathy Broadbent said that many of Murphy's comments are valid. Entrepreneurial spirit — a willingness to take risks — applies to everyone, she said.

From the businessman who takes risks and drives the economy to government officials who must work along with business, entrepreneurship is important. Even for an employee, it is necessary to realize the importance of risk taking and the need for entrepreneurship.

"He also made some good points about working hard and being the very best that you can be," she said.

Student Ivan Love noted that entrepreneurship is critical for the success of this country. Since 92 percent of all businesses fail, it is important that other businesses start, he said.

Love noted that manufacturing industries are probably more prone to failure than service industries, but risk-taking is still an essential part of any business venture.

Business student Gerry Abejuro said Murphy's emphasis on the individual in entrepreneurship "kind of threw me," but he said the facts back up Murphy's assertions.

He noted that in addition to the initial risk of starting a business, entrepreneurs should be mindful of other potential problems. Poor management and poor financing are two other principal reasons for business failures.

VARIABLE RATE*	FIXED RATE
9.75% APR up to 18 years	11.95% APR up to ten years

*This is our October 1989 starting A.P.R. A 14.75% A.P.R. Cap applies. The starting A.P.R. is a special introductory rate for the first six months of your loan, at which time the regular A.P.R. (10.87% in October 1989) goes into effect. For example, based on the current index, the regular monthly payment for each $1,000, borrowed on an 18-year loan would be $9.94 for the first six months (based on a 9.75% A.P.R.), and $10.56 for the remaining 210 payments (based on a 10.87% A.P.R.). The overall A.P.R. for the entire loan term in the example would be 10.84%. Of course, A.P.R. and payment changes after the introductory period may occur if the index varies at the time rate changes are determined.

If you choose a fixed rate ten-year loan, your monthly payment would be $14.32 for each $1,000, borrowed.

Engineer in his basement beats out car companies

Detroit always has been the kind of place where you find a lot of guys doing weird things in their spare time: building boats, making guitars, redecorating their basements, that sort of thing.

Right about now, in fact, a friend of mine ought to be dropping anchor in Tahiti, which is where he went after building a 53-foot ketch in his driveway in Mount Clemens.

So I wasn't surprised to read how Dave Piontek, an engineer at Ford, built a sports car in his Canton garage and then showed it to Csaba Csere, who writes for Car and Driver Magazine. Csaba was impressed to the point of comparing it to the new ZR-1 Corvette recently turned out by GM's Chevrolet Division, a tremendous accolade if you trust the opinion of a guy who can't even spell his own name right. (Piontek, himself, says he's sometimes confused with a misspelled division of General Motors, but I digress.)

Judging by the pictures, Piontek's car, indeed, is a pretty piece of work. The styling is both aggressive and harmonious, and the 1.3-liter motorcycle engine achieves astounding feats of acceleration, performance comparable to the V-8 powered ZR-1. The combination ranks it with some of the better sports cars being produced today.

PIONTEK HAS been contemplating offering duplicates of his two-seater for about $50,000 — not exactly a bargain in rebate land, but about eight thousand bucks less than Chevrolet wants for its ZR-1. That's when I got to thinking.

Ford has been playing around with a mid-engine two-seater project for auto talk

about five years now, off and on, and at last report had scrapped the project. It was originally the responsibility of Special Vehicles Operations, then farmed out to a French engineering company, which built a couple of prototypes that Ford executives decided they couldn't sell.

Likewise, a Ford production two-seater has been in gestation for about four years, while competitors, including Chrysler, have been muddling around with sports car concepts for about the same period of time. Only Mazda took the idea to completion, built the Miata and delivered it to the consumer — a project that took roughly three years.

While all this was going on, this guy Piontek, who works for Ford designing cars, is building this tremendous car in his spare time in his garage in about 2½ years — which is substantially less time than Honda, quickest engineering outfit in the East, takes to develop a car.

All by himself, with a little help from his friends, notably Greg Miller, who also works for Ford, plus a dozen or so craftsmen who did the specialized construction, machining, etc. he produced a top car.

Anyway, these guys end up with a car to drive around, while their employer, after five years or so, still has nothing much to show for its millions, special divisions, prototyping and joint-venturing.

And get this, these mavericks say they can build duplicates of their car, one at a time, for less money than GM wants for a Corvette after tooling it up and building it on an assembly line.

OF COURSE, they wouldn't get rich. I figure they would be paying themselves about $18 an hour for their time — about what skilled trades people get at the auto companies anyway. Still, it's startling that two guys can even consider designing, building, and even going into small-time production at a cost competitive with a major corporation and all its capital investment and economies of scale.

What happened? I bounced the question off a couple of people in the auto business and got several answers.

"It's corporate overhead," said one supplier type. "GM charges itself about $30 in overhead for every $15 of manufacturing costs."

"It's meeting regulations. A car like that doesn't have to be tested, certified, etc.," says a development engineer. "That's where the three goes."

Piontek himself says, "I didn't have to take a lot of time getting people to make decisions. I started it." A cop came by his house to check the car for safety specs, he adds.

In any case, I started to think that it might be a better idea to study the methods of the Pionteks of the world rather than the Japanese, who seem to come to making something like an automobile.

The individual turned loose still has the capacity to do startling things. The corporate world simply has to figure out how to tap just a little of that to do very well indeed.

Reaching financial goals gets tougher

The millennium is almost here. As we embark upon the decade of the 1990s, incredible events unfold, inviting reflection, warning, hope, fear, and both optimistic and ominous predictions.

Observed and analyzed ceaselessly, the current events provide compelling reasons to believe that the new decade will be different from the one before.

Americans are evolving into a different people: older, more diverse, insecure due to foreign domination, and worried about living too long with inadequate financial support.

We are also realizing that, in the 1990s, most baby boomers will approach their 40s.

For the first time in history, three-quarters of all Americans will be of prime working age — 24 to 55. And as the median age rises to 36 for the first time, reassessments and new creations will become the order of the day.

Of all the different types of revolutions we are likely to experience in finances and you

the 1990s, perhaps none is of greater interest to Americans than the financial and economic revolution.

Even more important, economic prospects for the 1990s remain highly controversial at best, and totally confusing at worst.

At one extreme is the view that America is fast becoming a third-rate world power and is doomed to permanently become a mediocre nation.

We owe the world $600 billion — and the amount keeps rising. The rate of growth of productivity is down to 1 percent, which ensures a stagnant gross national product.

Superimpose on this bleak situation a massive budgetary problem, inadequate domestic savings, a decaying infrastructure, a failing educational system, a turbulent financial market, and a strained economic system, and we have a picture of doom and gloom.

AT THE other extreme are the optimists who reject the doomsayer's analysis.

According to this group, by the year 2000, America's debt of $1 trillion will be less than 1 percent of her gross national product of $120 trillion. The budget deficit, accounted for 5.2 percent of the gross national product in 1986.

A global perestroika and technological advancement will boost America's exports, thereby wiping out massive deficits in her balance of trade.

The baby-boom generation, highly educated, sensitive to the global economic challenges, and with two decades of work experience, will reach peak productivity, which will help push the nation's productivity growth to the 3-percent level.

This massive confusion about where America is headed is the backdrop against which all Americanizing and reaching financial goals is an enormous task.

With so much uncertainty, the majority of Americans believe they need help and guidance in achieving their financial goals.

Sid Mittra is a professor of finance, school of business at Oakland University and owner of Coordinated Financial Planning.

To save money, study how you're working

By Mary DiPaolo

All businesses need to continually focus on ways to improve work methods because the results ultimately lead to lower operating costs and higher profits.

A study of work methods or a program to improve them often creates a nervous working environment until employees understand what is going on.

People often resent being questioned about how and why they do specific tasks. Employees often fear that a study of work methods will result in criticism. More important, most workers resist changes they don't understand.

Therefore, it is essential to explain why work methods are being studied, how the process will be implemented, and then solicit suggestions from those responsible for doing the job. The best ideas for improvement almost always come from those who are involved directly in the job or activity on a day-to-day basis.

Before initiating any program for improving work methods, it is important that obvious bottlenecks in the operation are identified. These would be the areas of the business that create continuing problems.

Next, specific operational activities or jobs must be isolated to identify where a lot of time is being spent. Often, time-consuming tasks are the result of improper planning.

Last, the organization must pinpoint where apparent inefficiency exists and where problems constantly surface within a particular job or activity.

Once this has been done, management can then go about the process of improving work methods through a basic four-step program.

First, select the operational activity or job to be improved and establish the exact objectives to be achieved. At this point, it is essential and will produce worthwhile results.

When an objective for improvement has been defined, analyze the area for improvement. Is the job being accomplished in the right place? Is the right person doing the job? Is the job being done at the right time? It is a mistake to make changes before understanding what it is currently taking place. It is at this point where suggestions from staff and employees involved in the activity or task are most helpful.

After a thorough analysis has been made, management can then redesign the job to meet the required standards of performance. Here it is important to know exactly what you expect and what your employees expect from you.

The last phase of the program involves its implementation. Seldom is any plan for change or improvement perfect the first time around. Management must be aware of everything that is taking place and be ready to make adjustments as necessary.

Laughs are her labor of love

By Shirlee Rose Iden
staff writer

For Rosie O'Donnell, it's as much fun making the grocery checker laugh as an audience of thousands.

"Comedy comes from love, and I love tickling people's funny bones," said the stand up (and coming) comedienne.

Originally from Long Island, N.Y., O'Donnell concedes that "I sound like a New Yorker these days only when I lose my cool." Other times, her New York accent dissolves into native Tennesseean, sultry southern belle, Irish brogue, by which she comes naturally, via her father, or others.

O'Donnell, while no one-of-a-kind in show business recalls that "When I started 10 years ago, there were hardly any female comics and that was an important asset."

The dark-haired, hazel-eyed comedienne has headlined major comedy clubs all over the United States and Canada.

"I've been in every single state and I don't like being on the road at all," she said.

O'DONNELL, despite her widespread experience nationally is just 27 years old.

"I give audiences my perception of things," she said.

"I focus on families, relationships, and embarrassing situations, and entertain general audiences," she said. "I portray a very relatable character."

Just 22 years old, she was a finalist on Ed McMahon's "Star Search," appearing six times. Her career really started on "Star Search," she concedes, although she didn't get the $100,000 prize.

"I found the program to be a wonderful opportunity for people with no real camera or performance experience," said O'Donnell.

She came in second. First was John Cassir, who hasn't made it in show business to date.

One of five children in an Irish-Catholic family, she attended parochial school and uses the foibles of students and teachers as a source for anecdotes for her act.

As a student in a Long Island high school, she was encouraged to do stand-up comedy. Later, she was a drama major at Boston University and attended the Lee Strasberg Theatre Institute.

She also worked with the New York Laughter Company, an improvisational group.

COMEDY COMES easy to O'Donnell, who once caught the eye of Brandon Tartikoff, NBC president while performing at a Los Angeles comedy club.

A week after the encounter, the comedienne was asked to read for a part at NBC and was hired for "Gimme A Break." She played Maggie O'Brien an Irish "Rhoda" character for 12 episodes.

"It was an invaluable experience," she said.

O'Donnell still enjoys comedy. She has produced a number of scripts for television and would like to do children's shows and produce Hollywood movies.

"I'd really like to do a musical comedy," she added.

Living in Manhattan for now, she has tried Los Angeles. She admits she doesn't really enjoy either the Big Apple or L.A.

"What I do like is Colorado," she said. "Three years ago, I went to a ski event for Cystic Fibrosis and I fell in love. My dream is to live in Colorado."

"It's easier now for women in comedy than it was 10 years ago, thanks to women like Phyllis Diller and Joan Rivers. But don't get me wrong, fame didn't make me happy."

Rosie O'Donnell loves to make them laugh, whether it's the clerk at the grocery check-out line or before an audience of thousands.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Holiday Greetings

Cards of area charities help children in need

AS A PUBLIC service, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers annually publishes samplers of Christmas cards sold by non-profit organizations.

These cards, which help support the research and programs of the organizations, are greetings that continue to give all year.

The samples shown here are from area charities that in different ways reach out to help children in need.

They may be ordered as follows:

Ronald McDonald House: These cards support the house, which is near the Detroit medical center and a "home away from home" for families of children with serious illnesses receiving lengthy treatment or hospitalization. In the house, families can relax, do laundry, cook and live as close to a normal life as possible during their time of stress, while staying close to their child. Cards sell at $6 for 15. To order, call the house at 745-5909.
Foundation for Mentally Ill Children:

The foundation is a 30-year old organization of volunteers who provide supplemental patient services for Fairlawn Center in Pontiac. It has no paid staff and no office space expense. All proceeds go directly to helping mentally ill children. This card was designed by a student at Fairlawn Center. The cards are $8 for a package of 25. Mail orders should be sent to: FMIC, 6478 Red Oak Lane, Troy 48098. Orders by phone should be directed to the following numbers: 879-2457, 540-6829, or 644-7714.

for a box of 25. Cards can be picked up at the reception desk at the center, 27400 West 12 Mile Road, Farmington Hills 48018, or call the center at 626-7527.

SEASONS GREETINGS

Child & Parent Services

From Our Happy Home to yours!

You can help Alzheimer's patients get over some major obstacles.

In 1988 over 200,000 people in Michigan suffered from Alzheimer's disease. By next year that number is expected to be over 332,000.

Feel fortunate that you're able to remember these statistics, because an Alzheimer's victim would be lucky to remember your name. For them, remembering how to do even the most simple tasks can be next to impossible. And as their mind deteriorates, their family's state of mind does, too.

Your contribution to the United Way Torch Drive supports 153 agencies in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, like the Alzheimer's Association and Caregivers—two organizations which counsel families of Alzheimer's victims and provide in-home care. Plus, you'll be helping agencies which feed the hungry, prevent child abuse and offer services to the mentally disabled.

Please, think about how much your contribution does and how much more there is to be done. And this year give even more to the United Way Torch Drive. And help make the problems of those affected by Alzheimer's a little easier to manage.

Give, for all the good you can do.

Lady Ocelots seek tournament repeat

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

The final result could not have pleased Tom Teeters more — and anyone familiar with this perfectionist who coaches Schoolcraft College's volleyball team knows that's saying a lot.

The Lady Ocelots had just played one of their best matches of the season, beating the University of Windsor 15-12, 11-15, 15-3, 15-11 Tuesday at SC. The match meant nothing; it was a non-conference tune-up for the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 12 Tournament, which starts today at SC.

But this tune-up could not have come at a more opportune time. SC lost last Saturday to NCAA Division II power Oakland University (ranked 17th nationally) 20-18, 4-15, 15-9, 15-4. Teeters felt his team needed a spark if it were to make it to the NJCAA Tournament to defend the title it won last year.

The Lady Ocelots may have gotten it against Windsor. Indeed, Teeters thought this year's team may be in better position than last year's.

"ACTUALLY, WE'RE going in (to the regional) on a better note," he said, as his team improved to 33-9. "Last year, we lost to Windsor in four games (before the regional). This year we beat them in four, and Windsor has basically the same team."

It may seem like Teeters is confident of SC's chances this weekend, but don't believe it. "Lansing is the No. 1 team in the region," he said, even though SC is the tournament's top seed. "They've beaten us in the finals of our tournament. I feel we've got to take it from them."

And, although either SC or Lansing are considered odds-on favorites to capture the regional crown, Teeters said this tournament could be the most competitive in years.

"There're more teams going for (the title)," he said. "There are three volleyball

dominant teams: Lansing, Southwestern CC and ourselves. Then there are three other contenders (Mott, Macomb and Lake Michigan), darkhorses who could win it."

ELEVEN TEAMS will start the double-elimination tourney at 10 a.m. today. Play will continue at SC through Saturday, with the start of the championship round slated for 4 p.m. If two matches are required, the second will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday.

The winner advances to the NJCAA finals in Miami.

As the top seed, SC gets a first-round bye. The Lady Ocelots won't play until 10 a.m. Friday; their opponent will be the winner of the Mott-Kalamazoo Valley match, which will be played at 6 p.m. today.

Other first-round matches today are Vincennes (Ind.) vs. Kellogg CC at 6 p.m. and Muskegon vs. Lake Michigan at 7:30 p.m.

In the second round, Lansing, which also got a first-round bye, meets the Muskegon-Lake Michigan winner, Maconib goes against the Vincennes-Kellogg victor; and Lake Michigan (Ohio) plays Southwestern. All second-round matches in the winner's bracket start at 10 a.m. Friday.

"The key for us," said Teeters, "will be playing consistently as a team and getting a lot out of our serves. We have to serve tough with very few errors."

SC, WHICH lost at home to Lansing 15-4, 15-10, will have to perform even better than it did against Windsor to beat the region's other, top team. "(Lansing's) very tall, a great blocking team," said Teeters. "We'll have to play as well as we did tonight with fewer errors to beat them."

There are several players who could fill important roles for the Lady Ocelots. Alisha Love is one of them. The sophomore co-captain showed how dominating she could be when she rallied SC against Windsor, serving eight straight points — five of which were aces.

"She's going to have to have a really good tournament," said Teeters. "When the game's on the line, I want her back there serving."

Others who could be important factors for SC are sophomore co-captain JoAnn Kohnitys ("She has to have strong blocking games. She has to be a dominant force up there for us"); setter Jenny Sprout ("She's been consistent all year. She's shown me a lot for someone who never played setter in high school"); and Kirsten Stelzer ("She has to stay aggressive. We've been getting good hitting out of her since mid-season").

Teeters does think his team can repeat. "I don't know if we have the consistency we had last year," he said. "But our serving is tougher, and we're not as short. Also we have a much stronger bench than last year."

So the components are there. If they mesh, the Lady Ocelots will be taking aim at a second-straight NJCAA championship.

SC NOTES — In Tuesday's win over Windsor, the Lady Ocelots got nine kills from both Elena Oparika and Stelzer and seven kills and 12 block assists from Kohnitys. Hollie Brachel led the defense with 12 digs.

Love's serving turned the match in SC's favor. The two teams split the first two games, and Windsor led 3-0 in the third until Love stepped to the line. Her eight straight points put SC in command the rest of the way. She finished with six service aces.

In the loss at OU Saturday, Stelzer had 18 kills and Oparika had 17. Kohnitys finished with four solo blocks and 11 block assists, and added 12 digs. Love finished with 12 digs, and Brachel had 10.

there was damage to the rotator cuff. Their advice was surgery, which would have sidelined her for eight-to-10 weeks.

"If they had operated, I would not have been able to come back," said Frynsinger. "I said no way. I'll play with the pain."

I BUT EARLY in the season, that proved impossible. Midway through September, Frynsinger's arm was in a sling and she was on the sidelines. With her went much of the optimism that Northwood — winners of six-straight NAIA District 23 titles — had approached the season with.

"It's always tough to lose a player of Joan's magnitude," said Northwood women coach Kevin Fagan. "We

Glenn's defense meets challenge

By Brad Emons

Even in their only defeat of the season, a 23-15 setback to state power Farmington Harrison, the Westland John Glenn football team made a lasting impression.

Harrison had paid the price for victory. Several of the Hawks admitted afterwards that they had been hit like they've never been hit before.

"The basic idea with our defense is bend, but don't break," said third-year defensive coordinator Mike Henry. "But when things shorten up and they're inside the 20, it's time not to break."

Last week, in the first round of the state Class A playoffs, the Rockets put the hurt on Dearborn Fordson, coming away with a 20-7 victory.

"One of the things we try and establish is the reputation of being a good hitting team," said Henry.

This week Glenn faces another challenge, the top-ranked and unbeaten Warriors from Birmingham Brother Rice. (Game time is 1:30 p.m. at Glenn.)

According to Henry, Rice presents another stiff challenge for his defense.

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

The Glenn defense has been stingy all year as this Dearborn Fordson can attest in last week's state playoff game.

QUARTERBACK BOB UTTER often uses play-action before rolling out of the pocket. And if he's not handing the ball off to fullback Steve Morrison (453 yards) or tailback Sean Johnson (415), he's hitting a slew of receivers led by tight end Pete Mitchell.

Last week, Glenn held Fordson to 51 yards passing, but gave up 121 yards rushing.

"Basically our front-seven must stop the run first and then control the pass," Henry said. "We've worked hard this week at stopping the run first, but we want to control Utter, too. He's a good quarterback. He has good feet and good quickness and can throw on the run."

Morrison's running also concerns Henry.

"He's just outstanding," said the Glenn coach, who spent 13 years as an assistant at Wayne Memorial before coming to Glenn. "He's got good speed and size. We're going to have to stop him."

Glenn's defensive attack is led by inside linebacker Mark Johnston, a 6-foot-2, 230-pound senior, and defensive end Kraig Kuban (6-1, 182).

"Mark's the quarterback, he'll make adjustments based on the formations that are thrown at us," Henry said. "He has a lot of responsibility."

"And Kraig's one of our captains, another one of our leaders out there."

SAM WEDDINGTON, a 5-8, 170-pound senior, is small by nose guard standards, but has been effective because of his quickness.

The tackles are junior Alex Kaye (6-2, 206) and senior John Hodor (6-2, 175), both whom have provided steady interior play this season.

Kuban and Ken Oliver, a 6-1, 178-pound senior, are the defensive ends.

Johnston and senior Todd Horsemann (5-11, 219) will be at inside linebacker.

Horsemann, also a center, has been moved into the defensive starting lineup this week. He is only one of two Glenn players who will go both ways. (The other is Johnston, an offensive tackle.)

Some of Glenn's best defensive play this season has come from the secondary, led by senior free safety Tom Luxton (5-10, 162), whose hit in the end zone last week against Fordson prevented a touchdown.

He is joined in the secondary by senior Tommy Lawrence (5-11, 162), senior Brian Stephenson (6-0, 169) and senior Chris Madish (6-1, 186).

"It (the secondary) is a good group," said Henry, a defensive back himself in high school. "They react well to the ball."

Glenn, which has given up only 8.1 points per game, will be the underdog again this week.

But if the defense continues its elastic approach, another upset could be in the making.

Frynsinger's return puts Northwood back in hunt

It's one thing to be a dominant athlete. It's another remaining dominant as the competition improves.

Joan Frynsinger accomplished both in her first three seasons playing volleyball for Northwood Institute. She was rewarded last year when she was named first-team NAIA All-American and the Northwomen finished fifth in the NAIA championship tournament.

What challenges could remain for the 6-foot-1 middle-blocker from Livonia Stevenson? Plenty, she discovered.

As Frynsinger prepared for her senior season, her right shoulder ached more and more. Doctors in Midland examined it and thought there was damage to the rotator cuff. Their advice was surgery, which would have sidelined her for eight-to-10 weeks.

"If they had operated, I would not have been able to come back," said Frynsinger. "I said no way. I'll play with the pain."

I BUT EARLY in the season, that proved impossible. Midway through September, Frynsinger's arm was in a sling and she was on the sidelines. With her went much of the optimism that Northwood — winners of six-straight NAIA District 23 titles — had approached the season with.

"It's always tough to lose a player of Joan's magnitude," said Northwood women coach Kevin Fagan. "We

Salem bounces Franklin

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem had reason to be motivated for its semifinal game with Livonia Franklin in the Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball tournament Tuesday.

The Rocks were beaten by 35 points when they played Franklin during the regular season, but revenge wasn't what they had in mind.

"We wanted to get to the championship real bad, and that was the motivating factor for us," said Salem junior Sarah Ruete, who scored a career-high 22 points to lead the Rocks (12-7).

Until last year, that was an annual tradition at Salem. After a one-year absence, the Rocks return to the WLAAs championship game for their fourth appearance in five years.

Their opponent for the 8 p.m. final at Salem will be defending champion Plymouth Canton, which advanced with a 61-34 victory over North Farmington in the other semifinal Tuesday. The Chiefs were runners-up to Salem from 1985-87.

The 58-23 loss Franklin (16-3) inflicted in early October was a low point for the Rocks, but Salem, which owns a six-game winning streak, is following in the footsteps of previous teams and making a go of it late in the year.

"WE WERE struggling at that point in the season," Ruete said. "We were winning some and losing some, and now we're starting to make our run."

"(Coach Fred Thomann) is the kind of coach who gets you ready for that. We take care of business during the year and give it our all in the tournament."

A big difference Tuesday as opposed to the first Salem-Franklin meeting was better execution on offense, according to Ruete and Thomann.

"We played the same style of basketball," Thomann said. "We just did a better job of executing, and we made some big shots early that gave us some confidence."

The real key, however, was the Rocks continuing to believe they could win despite being down by eight points, 28-20, at halftime, Thomann said.

girls basketball

The game turned in the third quarter when Salem rallied from a 10-point deficit to lead 37-35 at the end. That made for a close fourth period with the Rocks never losing their edge in momentum.

"This was one we wanted real bad," Franklin coach Dan Freeman said, "but we went cold in the third quarter. Dawn (Warner, who scored a game-high 28 points) had some bounce around the rim and out, and we had some defensive lapses."

"FRED'S TEAM, come tournament time — and I don't care what they're like at the beginning of the season — is always going to be ready."

Freeman and the Patriots had more serious matters on their minds Tuesday. Freeman, who will enter the University of Michigan Hospital today to receive a second opinion regarding treatment for a pancreatic tumor, was coaching his last game for Franklin this year.

Freeman said he didn't know if he'd be able to coach his team this week and told his players of his situation last Thursday.

"It was an emotional time, a tough time," Freeman said. "I held it back from the kids as long as I could, because I wanted them to concentrate on basketball."

"I don't know if it was a distraction tonight or not. We just got outplayed in the third quarter."

"The story should really be the ballgame," he added. "Both teams played hard; we came up a little short."

Juliann Steslak scored the first basket of the third quarter to extend Franklin's lead to 10 points, but the Patriots didn't score another field goal in the period.

SALEM, MEANWHILE, rallied to tie (31-31) on Emily Giuliani's hook shot. Wendy Bailey and Ruete baskets forced two more ties before the Rocks took their first lead, 37-35, since midway in the second quarter on Betsy McAllister's basket with :08 remaining.

Warner, after going scoreless in the first period, scored 15 points, which included three triples, in the second quarter to lift Franklin into a 28-20 halftime lead.

She was 4-of-4 shooting free throws in the third period and had three field goals in the finale, including a triple at the buzzer to account for the final margin.

"We adjusted at halftime to get better pressure on their perimeter players," Thomann said. "Even though we didn't get much off our pressure, it didn't allow them to come down and get into a rhythm."

Ruete hit a triple to break a 39-39 tie early in the fourth quarter, and the Rocks held the lead for the duration.

Warner's baseline layup with 1:27 to play made it 45-43. On the try for a three-point play, she missed the free throw, but there was no Franklin rebound.

SALEM'S KELLY Austin, who scored 11 points, made three free throws, and Ruete and Giuliani, who added nine points, hit two each to give the Rocks a 52-45 lead with 15 seconds left. Shannon Eberly also had nine points for the Patriots.

Thomann admitted to being a little surprised at his team, given the youth and inexperience with which it began the year, having the chance to play for the league title.

"I thought we would get better as the season went on," he said, "but to get to the championship game with the really tough teams in our league I knew would be a tough task."

"It's just a really neat feeling to watch young players grow and step out to make some shots under pressure. Lord knows you have to have defense, but you have to be able to make some shots, too."

Lewis lifts Zebras past Trenton

Wayne Memorial guard Maya Lewis took control of the game in the first quarter Tuesday, and Trenton never recovered.

Lewis scored 15 of her 21 points in the opening period to lead the host Zebras (12-6, 10-3) to a 61-47 Wolverine A League girls basketball triumph over the Trojans (13-5, 12-2).

Lewis hit all six of her field goals attempts during the spurt, including a trio from three-point range.

"Maya exploded in the first quarter," said Wayne coach Jack Furlong.

Lewis' scoring outburst helped the Zebras to a 24-16 lead after one quarter.

Wayne used defensive pressure to help it gain the early advantage.

"We came out pressing in the first quarter, and we forced some turnovers that led to some easy baskets," said Furlong.

The pace of the game slackened in the second period, with Trenton outscoring the hosts 8-4.

"We slowed the game down a bit in the second; we were a little tired," said Furlong.

The Trojans attempted to pick up the pace of the game in the third quarter by pressing, but the strategy backfired as Wayne outscored the visitors 33-25 in the second half.

"They pressed the whole second half, and we handled the ball pretty well," said Furlong. "We worked our press break and got some easy hoops, and that helped."

A balanced scoring attack helped the Zebras to victory. Dorris Bathwell (16 points), Slanta Hardric

(10) and Beth Gelsler (10) also reached double figures for the victors.

Wayne's victory created the possibility of a tie at the top of the league standings between Trenton and Dearborn Fordson (11-2), hinging on Wayne's contest at Fordson tonight.

THURSTON 45, LAKELAND 40: The Eagles rallied from a 16-12 halftime deficit to post the non-league victory on the road Tuesday against Milford Lakeland.

Laura Kress keyed the comeback for Thurston, scoring 18 points to lead the Eagles.

"Kress had a good second half," said Thurston coach Mike Schutte.

Michelle Birchmeier added 12 points for the Eagles.

Amy Anderson led Lakeland with 11 markers.

Thurston is now 11-6 overall.

REDFORD UNION 42, TEMPLE CHRISTIAN 24: On Tuesday, the host Panthers (7-11) held Redford Temple Christian (5-14) scoreless in the second quarter, 13-0, to take control of the game.

Sophomore guard Shannon Morris (12 points) and senior center Ann Kolar (10) were the leading scorers for RU.

Jennifer Moore notched 10 points for Temple.

W.L. WESTERN 46, JOHN GLENN 39: Walled Lake Western (12-7) broke open a close game Tuesday with a 10-0 second-half run and went on to post the victory over host Westland John Glenn (6-13) in a Western Lakes Activities Association consolation game.

The game was tied at 28 before the Warriors' spurt.

April Blanton paced the winners, scoring 17 points and pulling down 20 rebounds.

Jennifer Massey (11 points) and Carrie Rachwal (10) were the leading scorers for the Rockets.

"I thought the girls played well," he said. "They played hard; a lot of shots just weren't falling."

STEVENSON 46, NORTHVILLE 32: Livonia Stevenson (10-9) jumped out to a 11-4 lead after one quarter Tuesday and never looked back, defeating the visiting Mustangs (10-9) in a WLAAs consolation game.

Once Stevenson had the lead, the Spartans hung tough thanks to superior foul shooting. Hitting 18 of 27, Stevenson enjoyed a commanding advantage over Northville (8 of 23) from the charity stripe.

Stevenson's Teresa Sarno led a balanced scoring attack with 11 points, and Kelly Cotter chipped in with 10. Nine players scored for the Spartans.

Kate Holstein led the Mustangs with 10 points.

BORGESS 57, SEAHOLM 39: On Tuesday, improving Redford Bishop Borgess (7-12) thumped visiting Birmingham Seaholm (12-6).

"We are sure playing a lot better than at the beginning of the year," said Borgess coach Dave Mann.

Junior guard Kyra Woodard led the winners with 28 points, and Tanya Tounsel chipped in with 19.

On Monday, Borgess defeated Detroit Mumford, 53-38.

A 15-4 edge in the second quarter keyed the win.

Tounsel (27 points) and Woodard (12) again were the top scorers for the Spartans.

Tamika Broomfield had 22 points for the Mustangs.

Mann was pleased with the defensive effort of his team.

"We did a good job," he said. "Other than Broomfield, no one could score."

AVONDALE 45, CLARENCEVILLE 12: A balanced scoring attack carried Auburn Hills Avondale (5-9, 6-13) to a Metro Conference League win Tuesday over visiting Livonia Clarenceville (1-18, 0-14).

Megan Barnhart (15 points), Kelly McDonald (12) and Holly Vydick (10) all reached double figures for the Yellowjackets.

Danielle Rose scored eight points to lead the Trojans.

FARMINGTON 46, CHURCHILL 44: A gutsy Livonia Churchill (4-15) comeback fell just short Tuesday in a WLAAs consolation encounter played at Farmington (6-13).

Freshman Chrissy Daly hit a three-pointer with 10 seconds to play, bringing the Chargers within two, but Churchill was unable to get the ball back.

The Chargers outscored Farmington 15-9 in the fourth quarter to make it close.

Jenny Willems and Alyssa Belaire each scored 13 to lead Churchill.

Rachel Cannon scored 17 points and added eight rebounds for the Falcons.

Farmington hit 19 of 34 foul shots, while the Chargers were 14 of 25 from the line.

Garden City tuned up for tonight's Northwest Suburban League showdown with Dearborn by crushing non-league foe Dearborn Heights Crestwood on Tuesday, 51-24.

Garden City jumped out to a 29-13 halftime lead and coasted home.

Carolyn Shanks and Lynn Gowen each tallied 13 points for the Cougars, now 12-7 overall. Krystal Matesic added 10 points.

Bridgette Novicka scored 11 for the host Chargers, who fell to 6-13 overall.

GC can clinch a share of the NSL crown tonight with a win at Dearborn (4-3, 7-12). GC won the first meeting between the two teams, 63-37.

Garden City is 6-1 in the league. Dearborn Edsel Ford has already clinched a share of the title and completed its league season.

In other games not reported Tuesday, Dearborn Heights Annappolls turned back Lutheran Westland, 48-45; Hamtramck St. Florian dumped Redford St. Agatha, 45-32; and in the Michigan Independent Athletic Association, Bloomfield Hills Roeper trimmed Huron Valley Lutheran of Westland, 42-36.

Westland's Burt at peace with himself

By Ray Sellock
staff writer

Back where it all began. That's where Hartford Whaler and Westland native Adam Burt was when he stepped on the Joe Louis Arena ice Friday to square off against the Red Wings.

Burt was making his first appearance here since June of 1987, when the Whalers selected him in the second round of the National Hockey League Draft. Ironically, that draft took place on the floor of Joe Louis Arena.

Family and friends showed up to cheer Burt on Friday, some of whom hadn't seen him since draft day.

A chorus of cheers shook portions of the arena when Burt stepped on the ice for warm-ups, with many of them coming from former teammates and coaches who have watched Burt develop over the years.

"I left some tickets at the gate for my parents," Burt said. "But it was nice to see a lot of people who I've come in contact with over the course of my career come out to see me."

Burt gave them their money's worth, playing a regular shift on defense and even getting involved in a little rough activity with Red Wing enforcer Joe Kocur.

"I'M LIVING my dream," Burt said. "But this wouldn't be possible without the strength of The Lord."

Two years ago, Burt decided to become a born-again Christian. This, he says, changed his life.

"It gave me a new perspective on the way I perceive people and life," Burt said. "Let's just say I got my priorities straight."

Burt's new-found relationship with The Lord abstains him from alcohol and some of the team's post-game gatherings, but Burt doesn't mind.

Whalers' assistant coach Brent

'I'm living my dream. It wouldn't be possible without the strength of The Lord.'

— Adam Burt
Hartford Whalers

Peterson, also born again, suggested that Burt still go out with his teammates, but drink orange juice.

But no matter what Burt does after the game, during the game he remains a fixture on the Whalers' defense.

Although he is still considered a rookie, Burt had a brief stint with the Whalers last season, playing in five games. He split the rest of the played in 14 of the first 16 games for the Whalers. He has an assist and 17 minutes in penalties.

"There's definitely a future in Hartford for Adam Burt," said Whalers General Manager Ed Johnstone. "He gets better and better with each game."

Burt said the key to his success is his confidence level, something which comes from plenty of playing time.

"The more I play, the more confident I am," he said. "They realize that I am going to make some rookie mistakes, but they keep sticking me out there."

Off the ice, the former Redford Catholic Central student enjoys weightlifting and spending time with his wife Susan.

Although Burt remains a resident of Westland, he and Susan are looking for a home in the Hartford area since it appears he has a definite career in the works.

"I really like Hartford," Burt said.

"I've met a lot of super people there."

Whether it was "The Lord's doing" or just something Burt did on his own, the Whalers are reaping his talents and hoping his steady play on defense can prevent the puck from getting past goalie Mike Liut.

"HE'S A QUALITY defenseman," Johnstone said. "He excels at so many phases of the game. Once he gets the over the pressures of playing in the NHL, he'll be a hot commodity."

For Burt, much of the pressure extends from the traveling involved with professional sports.

"You can get exhausted from the travel," Burt said. "Especially when you are playing a regular shift."

Tired or not, Burt was back home Friday. Back in Joe Louis Arena, where it all began. Back where he watched games as a youngster and where his dreams were just a stone's throw away.

Schoolcraft's season ends in Illinois, 1-0

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Van Dimitriou looked at the scoreboard moments after the mens soccer team from Lewis and Clark Community College had scored. There was just 2:46 left in the match, as the time started ticking away. Dimitriou could not suppress a feeling of numbness.

"I started thinking, 'Doggone it, when's it going to happen?'" the Schoolcraft College coach said. "I remember thinking on the way to the match, 'We're going to need some breaks to win this thing.'"

When it was over, Lewis and Clark had gotten the breaks and prevailed, 1-0, leaving Dimitriou and the SC players again with hopes for better luck next time.

Saturday's first-round game in the National Junior College Athletic Association Inter-regional Tournament at DuPage College in Glen Ellyn, Ill., was a hopeful one for SC. The Ocelots were not advanced to the NJCAA finals in 10 years; this year, after after second-ranked Triton CC was eliminated for using ineligible players, seemed to be their chance.

BUT LEWIS and Clark (from Godfrey, Ill.), a long-time nemesis of SC's, ruined those hopes. The Ocelots dominated play early, but the breaks favored their opponents.

Soccer

Chris Speen, who returned from a knee injury and started at mid-field, had apparently scored when L&C keeper Brad Schiller dropped the ball in his own goal five minutes into the game. However, none of the officials were in position to make the call, said Dimitriou. The goal was not allowed.

It just got worse after that for SC. Midfielder Rick Menary was given a yellow card midway through the first half and went to the bench. Then stopper Dave Dingle — who was dominating during the first 30 minutes — got kicked in the shin he had injured previously and was lost for rest of the game.

Speen moved to sweeper and Jeff Saylor replaced Dingle at stopper, and the game became more even. "Lewis and Clark was totally defensive out there (in the first half)," said Dimitriou. "All they did was keep kicking the ball deep out of their end."

WITH DOUG SOBOLAK taking control along the defensive back line — "I would have to say he was the best player in the game," said Dimitriou — the Ocelots kept pressuring. But momentum reversed when Menary received his second yellow, which means an automatic red card and ejection, with 18 minutes left.

SC was forced to play the rest of the match short one player. Still, with five minutes to go, Jerry Staszal came close to putting the Ocelots ahead, but his shot was deflected by Schiller just enough; it banged off the crossbar.

L&C got the game's only goal when the ball was centered into the SC box. A defender attempted to clear it, but L&C's John Scorfina got possession and squeezed a shot into the corner of the net with just 2:46 left.

"We played the best we've ever played down there," said Dimitriou, who singled out the defensive efforts of keeper Jeff Shuk and back T.J. Flowers, as well as Sobolak, Saylor and Dingle. "They were a good team, a well-balanced team. But a break here or there and we could have won."

With eight freshmen on this season's squad and a 12-3-2 final record to build on, Dimitriou has high hopes for the future. "If we improve next year as much as we did this year, no question we'll win here," he predicted.

And that's a goal worth seeking.

thought that was it for her for the rest of the season."

NI lost the first three matches it played without Frysinger. But fortune turned. Frysinger went to Ann Arbor seeking a second opinion, and was told arthroscopic surgery could determine how severe her injury was.

"The doctor went into my shoulder not knowing what he would find," she said. "If it was a torn rotator cuff, I could not have come back."

What he found was torn cartilage and a badly weakened rotator cuff. He removed the cartilage and said Frysinger would be sidelined four weeks.

The operation was Tuesday, Sept. 26. The following Sunday, Frysinger started once-a-day rehabilitation sessions with the NI trainer.

Three days later, Frysinger said she was "full of energy" and wanted to increase her rehab sessions. "We figured if we had two sessions a day, I'd recover twice as fast," she said.

SUCH LOGIC may seem silly, but it worked. Frysinger returned to action two weeks after surgery.

"I think it's a credit to Joan and our training staff," said Fegan, whose team rallied behind Frysinger. With her, the Northwomen are 19-4; without her, they are 4-3.

"Not only is she physically gifted, but she's mentally gifted as well," Fegan added. "Her quick return college sports

was a big emotional lift for us. She showed them how much she wanted to be part of the team."

Which is one more element that separates Frysinger from other top-notch athletes. "You see a lot of great athletes who don't reach their potential because they don't have the maturity," said Fegan.

Frysinger does. "Her maturity and mental capabilities on the floor (are her greatest attributes)," the NI coach said. "When Joan leaves the floor after a match, she's left everything she's had to give behind."

Frysinger's abilities have again been recognized. She was named the NAIA District 23 player of the year, was a first-team all-district selection and was one of six NAIA national players of the week. She leads NI with 269 kills, and her .394 kill average is on a pace to better her own team record set last year. She also leads the team with 52 solo blocks.

AND THE BIGGER the match, the better Frysinger performs. In last Saturday's District 23 tournament, she had 17 kills (with a .560 kill average), four solo blocks and two block assists in NI's 15-8, 15-12, 15-7 semifinal win over Spring Arbor.

She added 15 kills (.290), three service aces, two solo blocks and three block assists in the 15-3, 15-12, 4-15, 15-5 triumph over Aquinas in the title match, which gave NI its seventh-straight district title. The Northwomen meet Walsh College Saturday for the Bi-District XV title. The winner advances to the NAIA tournament in Laie, Hawaii Nov. 16-18.

Top players find ways to improve, something Frysinger has done despite her injury. "I'm a lot smarter player on the court than I was last year," she said. "Teams are double-teaming me, forcing me to do different things at the net. Defensively and in serve receiving is where I've improved the most."

One other thing about Frysinger. She doesn't dodge pressure. "My job right now," she said, "is to play my game. When I play my game, everyone else on our team can play their game. The mood of our team swings with my play."

Frysinger's mental toughness is proven, which means NI's chances for a trip to Hawaii for the NAIA championships are solid.

Team of the '80s Shamrocks put it all together in finals

By Brad Emons
staff writer

When it comes to boys cross country, the decade belongs to Redford Catholic Central High. The Shamrocks captured their third state championship of the '80s, winning the Class A title with 124 points in a meet held Saturday at Flint's IMA-Brookwood Golf Course.

Ann Arbor Pioneer was second with 145 and Milford third with 147.

It was only a week earlier when Canton surprised CCC in the regional.

"We could have quit after the regional, but our spirits were up and we had a good week of practice," said CC coach Tony Magni. "In a way it helped us a little because going into the regional we were a little overconfident. All five guys didn't run well. But Saturday we felt going in that if we all ran well, we could take it."

CC's TOP MAN all season, senior Mike Sheridan, stayed close to the leaders before finishing third with a time of 15:48.77 over the 5,000-meter course.

Bill Cowan of Birmingham Brother Rice took the crown in 15:33.4. Bill Stricklen of Sterling Heights Ford finished second in 15:42.15.

"Mike would have loved to have won it, he's lost only once all year," Magni said. "After Gowan took off at the two-mile mark, Mike could have burned himself out trying to keep up, but he wanted to make sure he made a good finish. He said this (the state title) is better than winning the individual."

The Shamrocks needed more than just Sheridan, however, to earn the title.

Jay Schemanske was 16th in 16:11.86; Chris Antczak, 19th, 16:19.27; Dave Galvin, 23rd, 16:24.58; and junior Jon Borke, 63rd, 16:53.6.

Galvin came on strong during the final three weeks of the season, bouncing back when he was

Borke, in his first year of varsity cross country after coming over from the school band, put on a spurt in the last 200 meters, passing 15 to 20 runners, according to Magni.

"I THOUGHT 140 (points) would win it," Magni said. "I knew we'd be in the hunt. As long as we stayed healthy, I knew we'd be there. We won it in '83 and '84, but this is more satisfying than the first two because it was kind of unexpected." Salem, meanwhile, recorded its best state meet finish ever. (The Rocks were 15th in 1987.)

Leading the way for Salem was junior John Thomas, who finished 28th in 16:29.25. Rounding out the Rocks' contingent was senior Brian Uryga, another first-year runner, who took 30th, 16:30.43; senior Brendan Masterson, 40th, 16:39.4; senior Dave Hamway, 62nd, 16:52.97; and Samir Bhavsar, 16:58.74.

"We save our best for last," said coach Geoff Baker. "They (Canton) beat us in every race, but we felt we could beat them. We just didn't prove it on those days that we ran them."

Masterson, Salem's top runner all season, was still feeling the effects from a virus that he been suffering from over the past few weeks.

"After the regional, we felt Brendan would be back to his normal self," Baker said. "He still felt weak, but if he hadn't finished strong for us, we wouldn't have beaten Canton."

"We felt we could have a 25-point swing there, and we would be right in there with Canton and CC. We felt we could beat both after the regional. CC must have been a little off at the regional because they came back and ran a tremendous race Saturday."

CANTON'S Brian Beach turned in a sparkling performance, leading the Chiefs with a 10th-place finish (16:04.71).

He was followed by teammates Mike Ream, 40th (16:39.72); Matt Boland, 51st (16:44.86); Matt Hall, 59th (16:50.97); Jason Napolitano, 82nd (17:04.87).

"We ran our best times of the year, but not competitive times," said Canton coach Jim Hayes. "We got a little excited. We were in fast company."

"But I can't complain about being seventh in the state. If somebody would have told me we won at Schoolcraft (Invitational), RU (Redford Union Invitational), the regional and the league (Western Lakes Activities Association), I'd say that's a heck of a season."

"They did a good job. I'm proud of all of them."

In the state Class A individual race, several area runners earned high marks including Farmington High junior Ben Goba, who was fourth in 15:58.05 (Brian Hyde of East Kentwood won the race in 15:41.51).

Other top area finishers included Junior Jeff Grosso of Walled Lake Western, ninth, 16:17.35; sophomore Bill Crosby of Western, 19th, 16:36.1; senior Mark Kwiatkowski of Walled Lake Central, 20th, 16:36.6; Scott Freeborn of Livonia Stevenson, 23rd, 16:41.96; junior Eric Curnow of Livonia Franklin, 43rd, 17:02.11; junior Rodney Westlake of Stevenson, 48th, 17:08.33; senior Eric Oswald of Stevenson, 68th, 17:33.01; and Scott Westover of Livonia Churchill, 94th, 19:03.54.

IN THE CLASS D state meet Saturday at Frankenmuth, Lutheran High Westland finished sixth with 194 points.

Steve Watkins of Lutheran Westland was seventh overall in 17:42. Rounding out the Warriors' contingent was Kirk Stueber, 38th, 18:33; Steve Quinkert, 40th, 18:34; Doug Johnson, 45th, 18:40; and Todd Gibson, 64th, 19:23.

North's Rives is top individual

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

North Farmington's Lisa Rives won the Class A individual race and Farmington finished fifth in the team race Saturday to highlight Observerland's showing in the girls state cross country championships.

Walled Lake Western, Lutheran Westland and Redford Bishop Borgess runners also turned in fine performances.

The Western duo of Jennifer Ray and Wendy Proos captured second and ninth, respectively, in the Class A individual event, and junior Jennifer Gerlach, runner-up in the Class D team race, led Lutheran Westland to a second-place finish.

Rives had the second-best time among all Class A runners. Her time of 18:45.31 was second only to Ann Arbor Pioneer's Bridget Mann, a freshman who won the team race in 18:12.17.

Senior Jennifer Kiel paced the Farmington girls in the team race, taking third place at 19:03.75 and finishing behind Tera Furst, a teammate of Mann who ran 18:55.99.

"LISA RAN to her potential today," North coach Bill Pinnell said. "I told her at the beginning of the year she could run under 19 minutes."

"This is one meet she had been gunning for all year. I had been talking to her all week about her high school career coming to an end, and this was an excellent way to finish it."

Rives, running on a windy day at Flint Brookwood/IMA Golf Course, stayed behind a pack of runners for the first mile and drafted off them. She made a move at that point and opened up a comfortable lead, according to Pinnell.

"I told her to get a 10- to 12-yard lead, so nobody was drafting off her and to make sure they were working as hard as she was," he said.

"She knew she had to stay focused on the race and open up a lead, because the last 200 yards were uphill and into the wind."

"She had a 20- to 30-yard lead, so it would have been hard for anybody to run her down," Pinnell added.

Farmington had its best finish in the state meet, having been sixth in 1986 and 12th in 1987. West Bloomfield won the girls race and defending champ Pioneer was second.

KIEL TURNED in a school-record time, and all of the Falcons had personal bests. Scoring for Farmington were sophomore Allison Davis (39th), 20:17; junior Cheryl Casaroll (54th), 20:29; junior Jennifer Derwinski (57th), 20:30; and senior Margaret Martin (64th), 20:37.

"Everybody was up for the race," Farmington coach John Barrett said. "They wanted to beat that 1986 record. We went up Friday night, and I think everybody was psychologically up for it."

Barrett added Kiel had hoped to break 19 minutes, too, but was "satisfied with her performance since it was her best time. Everyone ran well. They were elated. The whole team was on Cloud Nine."

Western's Ray, only a freshman, came very close to breaking 19 minutes, finishing second to Rives in 19:00.86.

The Warriors didn't have enough runners to have a team this year, but they had one of the best combinations around, as evidenced by sophomore Proos' ninth-place time of 19:39.82.

Lutheran Westland was runner-up to Fowler in the Class D team race, finishing 10 points behind the (Eagles), 42-52.

Gerlach completed the race at Frankenmuth High School in 20:53. Mary Latinga of Battle Creek St. Philip was first in 19:32. Others placing among the top 15 from the Westland school were Ellen Anderson, fifth, 21:07; Renee Ruth, 11th, 22:43; Lisa Afer, 12th, 22:48.

BORGESS FRESHMAN Erica Shepard, the Catholic League champion, was 14th in the Class B individual race at Tyrone Hills Golf Course in Fenton, running 20:02. Tecumseh's Nicole Randolph won the race in 18:56.

Plymouth Canton, runner-up to Farmington in the Western Lakes Activities Association, was 12th in the Class A team race after finishing ninth last year.

"A lot had to do with the weather, but our team ran a lot faster than it did last year," Canton coach George Przygodski said.

"It's a credit to our team that we came back to the state meet with five new kids (of the seven who ran Saturday) and were able to finish let alone be in the top half."

The Chiefs were led by sophomore Amy Smith, who was 17th in 19:49.62. Sophomore Kim Gudeth was 51st (20:28.10), senior Adrienne Garrow 93rd (20:57.57), senior Missy Jasnowski 153rd (21:08.91) and senior Kim Rice 109th (21:16.95).

"Kim Gudeth started the year as a basketball player and kept getting better all year long," Przygodski said. "Kim Rice was one of the kids who plugged along the last two years, and as a senior she blossomed and had a great year for us."

REDFORD UNION sophomore Tracey James and Farmington Hills Mercy senior Brigitte Dery also fared well in the Class A individual race. James was 36th (20:32.36) and Dery 41st (20:40.14).

Other area runners who placed among the 89 in the individual event were Livonia Stevenson senior Tracy Clark (52nd, 20:54.27) and junior Carrie Creehan (57th, 20:59.74), Plymouth Salem senior Jennifer Harris (53rd, 20:54.60) and RU junior Michelle Daraban (55th, 20:58.14) and sophomore Jennifer Sturdevant (66th, 21:25.50).

Theater is alive and well in suburbia

Musical numbers hilarious in 'Oil City'

Performances of "Oil City" continue through Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Birmingham Theatre. For ticket information call the box office at 644-3533.

"Oil City" at the Birmingham Theatre is a highly entertaining, very funny bit of musical fluff adroitly performed by a quartet of immensely talented actors-musicians.

Actually the plot is non-existent, though the cast manages to deftly create characterizations from the brief dialogue between the musical numbers.

Mike Craver and Mark Hardwick are two of the show's four creators and appeared in the original off-Broadway production, as well. Craver's character, also named Mike, is a former flower child of the '60s, who both looks and sounds like the more dim-witted of the Smothers Brothers. His slow, soft-spoken delivery is an amusing contrast to the strident tones of the female cast members.

EACH MEMBER of the musical quartet specializes in one instrument but changes off to an impressive array of others. Craver's specialty is the synthesizer, which he comically suggests will make the other symphony members obsolete.

Mark, Hardwick's nerdy character, lives with his mother and looks very much at home with his accordion, though he actually spends more time at the piano keyboard. Hardwick has a wonderfully expressive face that speak volumes.

Christine Elliott's Mary specializes in the violin. She is as intensely uptight as her tightly curled hair, and the exaggerated exactness and volume of her voice suggests a cross between an elementary teacher and a marine sergeant.

Mike Craver (left), Christine Elliott, Mark Hardwick and Mary Ehlinger play four former music students who come back to perform at their high school reunion in "Oil City."

Mary Ehlinger's Debbie, a wife, mother and community pillar, takes out all her frustrations through vigorous assaults on her drums. Ehlinger's stage patter allows for many nuances of character, and she makes the most of it.

The show's music is as diverse as the characters. It includes classical, rock, big band, gospel and ragtime. Some of it is familiar, and some of the numbers are very clever original spoofs. For a Michigan audience, surely the funniest is "Ohio Afternoon," reminiscent of "Moonlight in

Director Larry Forde, another veteran of the original production, keeps the pace snappy. There's really no common thread holding the musical numbers together, but most of the time the audience is laughing too hard to notice.

Barbara Michals teaches high school English in Southfield. A theater critic for the last 15 years, she is an inveterate playgoer who regularly catches up on all the New York productions.

Guys upstage gals in 'Odd Couple'

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "The Odd Couple" continue through Saturday, Nov. 18. For ticket information call 420-2161.

"The Odd Couple" featuring that improbable pair Oscar and Felix is perhaps the best of Neil Simon's early work.

It's so good, in fact, that Simon later switched genders around, modified some dialogue and — voila! — he had a female version with almost as much comedic snap, crackle and pop as the original.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild production doesn't explode with hilarity, although its female characters manage their share of laughs. What's really funny (literally and figuratively) is how two men in minor roles upstage the whole cast.

Gregory Lee and Jeff Hammonds have great fun as two Spanish men-about-town who don't understand American women, the language or customs. Like "two wild and crazy guys" from "Saturday Night Live," they take command of the stage with the energy, vivid characterizations and fast pacing required in comedy.

By comparison, the women seem to be coasting. Granted, the two men are more bizarre. But director Janice Anderson has cast an excellent variety of women.

A faster pace would really make them sparkle and bring to life the intrinsic humor of the plot.

WHICH, AS YOU may recall from the male version, centers around the incompatibility of two friends: Oscar, the slob, and Felix, a compulsive cleaning machine. In the female version, we have Olive, and Florence (newly separated from her husband, who moves in with Olive).

Clemie Cyburt is very believable as an unkempt Olive. She gives every impression of a woman who lives on the ragged edge and lets details take care of themselves. Although a little old compared to her companions and with clothes a little too coordinated, her comedic reactions more than make up for these shortcomings.

Linda Bodnar gives us a consistently fastidious Florence. One might wish, however, that she moderate the complaining and whining qualities and accentuate lint-picking and the rearranging of furniture and pictures. It would have been nice to see more of Florence's tastes reflected in the apartment after she moves in with Olive.

Bobbie Judd's character is particularly good among the friends who come over weekly to gossip and play Trivial Pursuit. Other players include Camilla Longley, Nancy Schuster and Amy Armstrong.

(PTG does a first-rate job of directing drivers and their cars to the guild's new playhouse, the Water Tower Theatre at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital. The location provides a really pleasant ambience for theater.

A couple of minor problems are that a dimmer for house lights is needed, as are curtains to acoustically dampen a slight echo.)

Bob Welbel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

In the female version, we have Olive, and Florence (newly separated from her husband, who moves in with Olive).

Tribute to humanity is 'Boys Next Door'

Performances of "The Boys Next Door" continue through Sunday, Nov. 26, at Meadow Brook Theatre. For ticket information call the box office at 377-3300.

By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

Is it nice, civilized and humane to laugh at four fellows with mental inadequacies?

In "The Boys Next Door" you bet it is — because Arnold, Lucien, Norman and Barry differ only in degree from the rest of us.

Author Tom Griffin's play looks with a compassionate eye at the comic quirks of four mentally deficient adult men who share an apartment in a suburban complex. They are not a strange breed of weird beings but people just like us, struggling to make sense of it all.

The superb Meadow Brook cast polishes this little gem of a play until it glows, as a heartening tribute to our shared humanity.

John Ulmer came from the Asolo Center for the Performing Arts in Sarasota, Fla., to direct this fine production, and he brought seven of the nine cast members with him. The five who play retarded people are so believable in their roles that when they step on stage for the final curtain call it's a shock to see the transformation. Acting that convinces so thoroughly and seemingly without intention takes an extra measure of skill.

LEROY MITCHELL, JR., who plays severely retarded Lucien, radiates the ingenious sweetness of a 3-

Including Cyrano, shows his versatility as an actor in this role. He makes Arnold not just funny for his illusive logic and hypochondriac hangups but lovable as well.

Eric Hissom plays Barry, the schizophrenic who uses golf as armor against a dangerous world. The only catastrophe in this otherwise gentle play comes at the hands of Barry's visiting father (Bradford Wallace), a supposedly normal man with a mean, selfish streak unequalled by anyone else in the play.

Fourth in this group of apartment mates is Norman (Perry B. Stewart), a roly-poly glutton with a passion for doughnuts. Norman meets Sheila (Mary Lee Richey) at a dance for mentally impaired people and the two carry on a coy, gee-whiz courtship, sticky as honey.

Thanks to Mary Lee Richey's bubbly eagerness and Parry Stewart's boyish innocence, their scenes together cut through the sweetness in the play. The two characters clumbers falls away at the dance. Fat Norman and giggly Sheila are transformed into the people they should have been, and they waltz with unrivaled grace.

Michael James Laird as Jack refuses to be a goody-goody social-worker type. Instead he makes Jack a regular guy with a talent for ironic humor. Paul Hopper and Kathryn Nash play multiple supporting roles to round out the exemplary cast in this little-known play that deserves wider exposure.

Suspense builds smoothly in Troy Players ' Mousetrap'

Performances of the Troy Players production of "The Mousetrap" continue through Saturday, Nov. 18. For ticket information call 879-1285.

The world's longest continuously running play has come to Troy.

Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" is the Troy Players' opening gambit of the season. Cleanly directed by Stephen Kiersey, the cast of eight who find themselves stranded in Monkswell Manor are a fair match for each other.

It's an even production, all of the actors doing their best to frighten each other — and the audience — and succeeding. The troupe builds to a nice pitch. The suspense mounts with each scene.

Laurie Smith as Mollie Ralston, the young wife who has decided to run Monkswell Manor as a guest house, is a cut above the rest of the cast. Smith has the most demanding role and she seems to be running on raw talent.

She's on-stage during most of the play, and runs the gamut of emotions, from trust in the husband she wed a year ago after knowing him for three weeks, to thinking he is a murderer.

Robert Szatkowski is amusing as the young, spirited, Christopher Wren. Wren likes to sleep in rooms with four-poster beds, winds up cooking the guest meals (Mollie's meals sound dreadful), and seems to be the right age to be the suspect.

Szatkowski manages to bring poignancy to his role as a hip dresser, a lonely boy hiding behind a great architect's name.

Angelo Valeri, dressed in an alarming black raincoat, white scarf and black hat (the clothes of the killer), turns in a fine performance as Giles Ralston. As Mollie's husband, he gets to tote heavy bags, chop wood, worry about his wife's attachment to Wren and run up and down the stairs a lot.

Valeri does all this with panache. He even manages to chew on his pipe and look guilty and irritated at the same time.

JILL SNOWDEN gives us a Mrs. Boyle who deserves what she gets. Mrs. Boyle wears a perpetual frown.

believe a proper guest house should have a proper staff, but has done improper things during her tenure as a judge. It's hard to keep from applauding when Mrs. Boyle frowns her last frown. Joe Urkshus as Major Metcalf is mysteriously perplexed and forever poking in the cellars while he chomps on his pipe. Urkshus does a fine job as the baffled Major.

Philomena Somers, sans makeup, plays Miss Casewell. She skulks around in cords, boots, cardigan, a tie, the uniform of a London literary lesbian. Yet Miss Casewell lives in Majorca, doesn't write and has come to this deserted part of England on "personal business." Somers gives us a thoroughly shady Miss Casewell.

Guy Snyder as Mr. Paravicini, seems to have escaped from an Italian circus. His wild, unstoppable laughter, his ability to pick out the scary theme song "Three Blind Mice" with one finger, and the coincidence of his Rolls-Royce being stuck in a snow ditch coupled with the flimsy excuse that he's in this part of the country on a junket to a friend's house make Paravicini a prime suspect.

Performances of the musical "Carousel," presented by the First Theater Guild of Birmingham, continue through Saturday, Nov. 11, at the First Presbyterian Church in Birmingham. For ticket information call 646-6033.

review

By Richard Marsh special writer

First Theater Guild is undertaking a massive job with its current production, Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel."

For its limited resources, the guild does a respectable job with the show, although much of the grandeur of Rodgers and Hammerstein's style is lost in the small Knox Auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church.

Downsizing big shows like "Carousel" always has inherent problems, such as trying to retain the grand feeling of the show. Musically, the guild provides an excellent show for the resources available. The small orchestra has a good sound to it and balances well with the singers, something many larger groups are unable to achieve.

Lead performers are good overall and have fine voices. Leading the cast is David Sikkelee as Billy Bigelow, Kelli Malisch as Julie Jordan, John Picha as Enoch Snow and Laura Loud as Carrie Pipperidge. Betsy Evans as Nettie Fowler has the most pivotal role as far as the music goes, leading "June Is Bustin' Out All Over" and singing "You'll Never Walk Alone." While this role basically calls for a highly trained low-alto voice, Evans makes the most of her higher-pitched voice to properly sing the part.

THE BARE-BONES set and props hamper the show somewhat, as it is hard to get into the right mood. For example, using just a simple park bench as a setting for a tree-lined path along the shore does not transmit the appropriate feeling. Granted, facilities limit what can be done, but this is what happens when shows like "Carousel" are downsized.

Costumes are well done and add to the show. Some of the performers' makeup is overdone, however. When the makeup stands out from the back of the auditorium, there is way too much on.

"Carousel" does work well for the group in at least one other respect. It gives a large number of people, including lots of children, a chance to be on stage, the main reason for a small group attempting a show like this.

Comical, cock-eyed view of modern life

Performances of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" continue through Sunday, Nov. 19, at the Ridgedale Players playhouse in Troy. For ticket information call 644-8328.

By Helen Zucker special writer

The Ridgedale Players production of "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" is fast-paced and well acted. Under Kent Martini's direction, the cast manages to capture the madness of New York, and by extension, the madness that underlines much of life in America. Neil Simon wrote better than he knew; his black comedy about a couple who lose their jobs because of corporate cutbacks is timely in the late Eighties.

Larry Pellicioni, who looks like Walter Matthau, turns in a strong performance as Mel Edison, the 47-year-old ex-executive who waits four days to tell his wife that he has lost his job. Mel is a totally bewildered, angry husband, and Pellicioni hits all the emotional keys this roller coaster role calls for.

After three burglars, dressed in black, dismantle the apartment (while the theme from "The Pink Panther" hums to their deft movements), Mel finds the courage to tell his wife he's unemployed. Devoted wife Edna has just told Mel that she "ran downstairs for five minutes" to get groceries for dinner and left the door unlocked because she lost the key.

BECAUSE SHE has also screwed up, Mel unleashes a tirade about Edna inviting all the junkies in the city to steal their stuff. This ricocheting movement, Mel and Edna taking turns being nuts, echoes through the play.

review

ney of extended unemployment, psychonalysis, sedation and anger. Finally we experience the return of Mel's sense of humor, his happiness when Edna loses her job when the bank folds (it makes sense), the end of analysis ("the guy just sits there") and the return of the balance.

Edna, beautifully played by lively, intelligent Doris Harmon, rises to the occasion. She gets a job at a bank, even comes home to make lunch and keep Mel company while he reads want ads.

Edna is a good scout until the day she loses her job and comes home to no water. Having coped with late hours, garbage strikes, hospital strikes, bus strikes and Mel's relatives, not being able to take a bath is the turning point for Edna. It acts on her the way the burglary acts on Mel, and Mel, who is growing healthier, soothes Edna.

Jerry Brader, as Harry, the older brother, looks every inch the solid, lonely man who had no time to be a boy. Brader is touching when he turns up with a $25,000 check to help

Mel buy a summer camp, and shakes his head when Mel, having regained his playfulness, offers to kiss him and returns the check.

Selma Cohen, as Jessie, the sister from Lakewood who can't stop crying while she waits to go shopping in New York, is funny. So is Edna as sister Pearl, who keeps insisting Mel had a breakdown before. Big sister Pauline, played by Carol Davis, has a head for facts; Pauline testily sets her sisters right by telling them that Mel has never had a breakdown before, and asking Harry, "How much is this X amount we're supposed to chip in?"

SIMON UNDERSTANDS families. The relatives haven't seen Mel for nine years, but the same old emotions surface inside of five minutes. It's clear that Martini and cast understand Simon.

Jim Rink's painted skyline is terrific. The set could've been a little jazzier, but with actors this good, the set could be bare. Congratulations to everyone involved with this play.

Ocean Grille

The new Ocean Grille restaurant just opened its doors at 280 N. Woodward, Birmingham, under the ownership of Craig Dilworth of Sterling Heights. Dilworth was formerly the director of operations for the Muer Corp.

Dilworth says he always wanted to open a restaurant where a spur-of-the-moment diner was welcome, where attire and formalities were not a concern.

Featured on the menu are 8-10 fresh fish entrees, salads, breads, pastries and desserts made in-house daily.

A graduate of the hotel and restaurant management school at Penn State, Dilworth has 27 years experience in the hospitality industry. Ten of those years he spent as manager of fine dining for Stouffer's rooftop operations, including Detroit's Top of the Flame, where he met Chuck Muer.

Just before the warehouse on Second closed for the last time, Marguerite Hague was out in front talking to customers, setting prices and stirring up enthusiasm for the Campus Treasure Shop.

Treasure sources dry up

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

That whole unorganized community of scroungers who thrive in dust-filled air, dark lofts and dank cellars, are suffering withdrawal symptoms.

Marguerite Hague of Birmingham who runs two Wayne State University projects, the Campus Treasure Shop, on Cass and the Shop's warehouse on Second where the architectural pieces she salvaged were kept, spent her final official day at the warehouse Saturday.

To scroungers, the warehouse was the mine where they occasionally uncovered buried treasures among the hundreds of doors lined up along the walls, in the bins of broken molding, in corners filled with parts of fireplaces, bannisters and newel posts and in the boxes of hardware, casters, knobs, tiles and hunks of marble.

The scroungers experienced the thrill of discovering a choice piece of hand-carved molding, an oak door with beveled glass panes or a black walnut railing in a heap of rubble. Hague, who has devoted more than three decades to making the area around the University beautiful, said, "It was my decision to close the warehouse."

WHEN ARCHITECTURAL artifact picking flourished, she and a crew of helpers could get permission to go into buildings about to be wrecked and salvage marketable pieces to sell at the warehouse.

But pickings have grown thinner, permission to salvage is harder to get and even the brave don't want to go into abandoned houses.

The other problem is financial. When she moved from her former warehouse to the tune of $50,000 in 1980 to the one she just closed on Second, she made an agreement with the building owner, Roxie Yaldeo of Southfield.

He would give her the space rent-free and she would fix it up and make the outside look attractive.

"He has really been a gentleman, but he has other plans for the building now. I agreed to help with repairing the building, but I can't continue," she said. So far, she's put $7,700 of her own money into the project.

From the beginning, proceeds from the Campus Treasure Shop and the warehouse were earmarked for Wayne State beautification projects.

That has amounted to $60,000. Plus, the presence of these two projects has been significant. "We've tried to be involved in every community thing — whenever anything special is going on we're there. We donate to people and organizations, we've carried clothing to many, many places. We're really a community agency. It isn't the money, it's the concept of a presence and a concept of a people-to-people thing."

HAGUE ISN'T SHEDDING tears over the demise of the warehouse. She's already turned her attention to improving the Campus Treasure Shop, 5704 Cass, Detroit. She'll probably open it a second day a week. Currently it's open 2:30 p.m. to midnight on Wednesdays.

But old habits are hard to break. She flashed a quick smile and said, "I still keep files on things people are looking for. I still have contacts. Already, I have a whole house we're getting. Where I'm gonna put it, I have no idea."

She is a careful record keeper. Her children gave her a word processor, which she also uses to record her memories. "I'm writing three books at one time," she said. She wants to share her experiences and write about the many people who were and are so important to her there.

Local novelist takes success in his stride

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

Tom Sullivan, 48, of Lathrup Village is currently enjoying what all writers dream of — success.

He has two hot novels in the bookstores: "The Phases of Harry Moon," which came out last year, and this year's "Born Burning," both published by E.P. Dutton.

He will be the leading figure in "An Evening with Novelist Tom Sullivan" at 8 p.m. Monday at Cranbrook House, 380 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills, sponsored by the Cranbrook Writers Guild. Fee for non-members is $5.

Sullivan came on the national scene like a thunderbolt. But he had previously published what he calls a "paperback potboiler" and sold a lot of short stories.

WHILE "Harry Moon" was nominated for a Pulitzer, and phone calls from movie people are not that unusual anymore, Sullivan is modest and boyishly friendly. Right now he plans to continue teaching school, he said.

"I'm there by choice," he said of his teaching position, ninth grade English at Fordson High in Dearborn.

Sullivan has been a gambler, "Rube Goldberg" innovator, coach, city commissioner and born-again athlete. He and his wife, Pris, have two children, Colleen, 16, and Sean, 13.

THE WRITING gets squeezed in in the darndest places. He's working on "Drummers on Glass," which has already been sold.

"I'm habituated to parked cars, bathrooms and restaurants. I love to write in restaurants."

Yes, he gets interrupted. No, he won't say on whose table he's currently writing.

"I change regularly," he said with a touch of wry humor in his voice. "I always write the first draft in long-hand — I want to see what I've crossed out."

He likes to have the history of the development of the work in front of him, "filled with all kinds of delectations and brackets," he said. But, "I can't edit it until it's in print."

"I WRITE about families," Sullivan said.

He classifies his stories as "mainstream," even though some unsettling elements can raise the hairs on the back of the neck.

In "Born Burning," it's the small son's fear of the historic teak chair, symbolizing the passing of the leadership from one family member to the next, and the strange fates that have befallen those who took on that role before him.

The novels of John Cheever had a major impact on Sullivan's writing career, he said. He didn't realize his own natural style was marketable until he encountered Cheever's.

Cranbrook Writers Guild was organized in 1969 by Ivabell Harlan, Henry Booth and a small group of people interested in aiding and encouraging aspiring writers.

'Clay babies' give birth to new career

By Linda Lee Sparkman
special writer

A LOT of us dream of being able to make a living doing something we love to do. Debbie Garity, a 36-year-old Garden City artist/homemaker, is living that dream.

Ever since she stumbled onto her creative talent of forming bits of dough into appealing little characters 12 years ago, she has progressed from the craft tables of local bazaars to being a supplier to more than 30 specialty shops throughout Michigan.

Formerly known only as Debbie's clay things, Garity recently gave her pieces an official name. She calls them "Debbie's Clay Babies," in memory of her grandmother, who first used that description.

Considering the affection Garity has for her little creations, the name is perfect. Gently holding a 2-inch teddy bear dressed in a ruffled tutu, Garity says "I put a piece of my soul into each one of these."

The 1 1/4-inch to 3-inch characters are completely handmade of a durable colored clay, which is baked to a ceramic-like finish. Popular figures include teddy bears, bunny rabbits, little girls and boys, Amish people and whimsical animal figures, dressed in a wide variety of colorful outfits. In addition to the assortment of original designs, Garity also does custom orders.

CUSTOM ORDERS have included things like pregnant teddy bears, or a bunny in a nursing uniform. She also supplies a number of Michigan high schools with cheerleader teddy bears colored to the school's specifications.

This all started with a trip to Frank's Nursery, almost 13 years ago, where the then newlywed Garity picked up a 25 cent pamphlet containing a recipe for modified bread dough and instructions on how to make little Pennsylvania Dutch teddy bears.

After getting together with a friend and a batch of this dough, the pair set to work. Two hours later, Garity's first was finished. "Then, she took her fist and went like this," said Garity, smashing her fist into the table. "By that time I had about 10 or 11 made — and that was it."

"I sat home on Thursday nights, while my husband went bowling, and I made teddy bears. I didn't know what I WAS going to do with all of them," she said with a laugh.

ABOUT THAT TIME, Garity saw dough art for sale at a craft fair, and remembers her first thought — "Oh, my goodness! People actually buy these things." Needless to say, she soon had her own booth.

When Garity learned the Cambridge Center (an adult education program in Garden City) was looking for crafters to teach in their evening program, she became the center's dough art instructor.

Because of the delicate nature of dough art, and the amount of time it took to make, Garity was delighted to find another compound was available for her craft. When a fellow crafter introduced Garity to the clay she now uses, she became one of the product's best customers.

"The company told me their business has quadrupled in this area," Garity said. "They say it's because of Quaint and Country in Garden City," a reference to a shop she once owned.

Through teaching Garity had gained access to wholesale houses, which led to her desire to open her own shop. "I couldn't even sleep at night — I was a nut case," Garity said about her craving for a shop. "The whole idea was to open up a little clay store," she said. "But that's not a real big market, so I decided to open up a store and sell my clay babies along with country ware, which is what I did," she said referring to the country gift shop, she opened in Garden City in September 1987.

THE NEXT BIG step happened one day while Garity was working at her shop. A sales representative came in to show Garity miniatures made in Taiwan. But when she saw Garity's clay babies, the sales rep offered to try and sell them to other store owners.

About two weeks later, the orders started coming in. "I didn't take it seriously at first," remembers Garity.

"I thought, 'Oh, I'll wait to the last minute to do this.' But I've been trying to catch up ever since."

Garity soon found herself having a hard time finding enough time to satisfy her clay customers and keep the shop going at the same time. "I'd be up till 2 or 3 a.m.," she said. "I even had to close the store periodically for two or three days, just so I could catch up on my clay orders."

So in September of this year, Garity sold the shop and began working full time from her home, filling orders which average 400 characters each week.

"I LIKE THE freedom, and I like being home with my children," she said of her new arrangement. And she loves working with the clay. "I'm just like a little kid who likes to play with playdough," Garity said. The only drawback for the artist now is the pressure of getting her orders out on time.

Garity's husband lends not only his support, but also "his great, big hands," to help mix the clay into colors. The three Garity children, ages 10, 9 and 7 also do their part, collecting cash from mom for each color they mix.

Garity considers herself "really fortunate. There's a lot of people who haven't found what they're good at," she explained. "Or, they have to work at something they hate — I'm pretty spoiled really."

Garity's current plan is to "fill my orders and keep my customer's happy." But one day she hopes to enjoy the status of an artist of collectibles, or possibly put the personalities of her clay babies (currently known only to her) into a children's book.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Garden City resident Debbie Garity sits among members of her "clay babies" family. Newest additions are a limited number of old-fashioned Santas.

THE ARTIST HAS lived in Garden City 13 years and is a graduate of Franklin High School in Livonia. She attended Schoolcraft College for two years.

To fellow artists who would like to earn money from their craft, she says, "You can do it. First, take yourself seriously, and have other people take you seriously." She suggests they "do something that is unique and something there's a market for."

"Be professional about selling your craft," she added.

"Call up shops and make appointments, or use a professional sales rep."

Debbie's Clay Babies are available in several country and gift shops in the area and are priced at $6 ($9 if they are antiqued.) Accessories for the characters are priced from $2.

Garity also makes a limited number of Santa figures each year which are priced slightly higher. This year her "Old Fashioned Santa" sells for $16.50. Five hundred will be available.

Following are a few area shops that carry Debbie's clay babies. Special orders are available through the shops:

Cathy's Quaint and Country, 30118 Ford Road, Garden City.

The Pickett Fence, 11 Forest Place, Plymouth.

The Country Goose, 16140 Middlebelt, Livonia.

Generations, 426 Main, Rochester.

Successful artist thrives on versatility

NOW THAT my boys are older, the morning work of getting them off to school is, pretty much over.

Scott, the oldest, is in college. Kevin is in his senior year of high school. And Adam is in the fifth grade.

David Messing

But just a few years ago, getting them all ready for school was quite an ordeal for my wife. She had to be a psychologist and a minister to get Adam to even think about going to school.

By 9:15 a.m., Sandy had been a cook, laundry maid, counselor, treasure hunter, cheerleader and sometimes chauffeur. So versatility is the key element for the successful wife and mother of this day and age.

VERSATILITY IS, likewise, a key element for the successful artist. Of course "success" is a very relative term.

So let me clarify that by assuming that you wish to earn money doing artwork. If that is what you want, ask yourself, "What do I do that people would be willing to pay for?"

If you cannot come up with a selection of commercial applications of your abilities, then you need to become more versatile.

Without versatility, you are like a store that sells only one item. Artwork is much like a retail store. You are the store front, your abilities are your services and your artwork is your stock in trade.

FOR EXAMPLE, last week I received a last-minute request for a master sculpture of a new toy to come on the market.

My original piece was sent immediately to Tokyo for tooling and I thought I was all done. Two days later, I received an even more frantic call saying, "They were shooting the commercial in three days in California, and I need the full color package design tomorrow."

Of course, I didn't like the last-minute order, but the job was fun and rewarding. Then I painted some signs, started some sketches for an office plaza logo and entered a few pieces in an art show.

On my "board" for next week is a caricature, a rubber mold for a customer's sculpture, promotional cartoons for a hospital and an airbrush retouching of a photograph. My point, of course, is to show you how open the field of art can be if you are versatile.

HERE IS a checklist of some of the stock in trade you should carry in your art "store."

Product illustrations in pen and ink and color. Airbrushing, both paintings and photo retouching. Cartooning and caricatures are always in demand.

Sculpturing is wonderful, and often you are the inventor's first approach to a three-dimensional product. Not to mention the purely aesthetic qualities of sculpture.

Sign painting is a must, and the financial benefits are immediate. Fashion design or the ability to draw people will always bring you plenty of work as in catalogs, manuals and pamphlets.

Without versatility, you are like a store that sells only one item . . . your abilities are your services and your artwork is your stock in trade.

Wall graphics are always fun and usually pay well.

SO DON'T be discouraged if very few of these areas of art seem familiar. You can learn to do anything and even earn as you learn.

Don't hesitate to ask questions. Most artists are happy to share their knowledge. Remember, your worth is not what you are, but what you can become.

David Messing has been an art teacher in the area for many years. He is also the owner of the Art Store & More in Livonia.

The Michigan National Bank headquarters building in Farmington Hills is an example of traditional American architecture, calling to mind colonial Williamsburg.

By Dale Northrop
special writer

Architecture has been viewed as a form of advertising. Just as the style of house we live in confers socio-economic identification, so too does commercial architecture confer business success.

Today's office buildings are conscious of corporate identification, particularly when the corporation builds them. Such is the case with Michigan National Bank's headquarters in Farmington Hills, designed by Luckenbach/Ziegelman of Birmingham, and Standard Federal Bank in Troy by the WBDC Groups of Grand Rapids.

Although both newly opened headquarters were built to house banking operations, the contrast in architectural styles is unmistakable.

Michigan National's complex consists of four, 2 1/2-story buildings comprising 283,000 square feet at a cost of $31 million. Set on 25 acres, it all has the ambience of American architectural vernacular: colonial Williamsburg and Thomas Jefferson's Monticello. The architects, however, were confronted with making traditional architecture satisfy the needs of a contemporary banking operation.

Within one of the buildings is an atrium light well below which is the 9,000-square-foot trading floor, a necessary part of any banking operation. On the wall is a commodities screen that flashes the Dow-Jones news. The screen apprises the bank's brokers of the current market when they're not looking at their computers, contemplating the next transaction on the programmed domestic and international market screens.

The years 1972-82 saw a tremendous growth of Michigan National. The building of a headquarters served to unite the administrative activities that had been scattered in eight suburban locations.

STANDARD FEDERAL rises six stories above Big Beaver Road, each floor set back and suggesting the appearance of a streamline Egyptian step-pyramid clad in polished granite. The horizontal spans are cantilevered out over the ribbons of windows affording an outside view from within the largely unobstructed office areas. The 450,000-square-foot, $80 million structure sits on five acres of the 27-acre site. Some of the additional acreage is given over to the open-air parking, a parking structure and retention ponds.

The interior consists of a six-story atrium space with projecting convex glass parapets reminiscent of New York's Guggenheim Museum. The space greatly facilitates an expansive feeling to employees at their work stations. The overall plan allows for a balance of artificial and natural light and an ease of intra- and inter-office communication.

The office arrangement is based on product distribution; first floor — banking, brokerage and consumer lending; second floor — mortgage lending. A centralized computer facility serves the headquarter's personnel and entire branch system.

Despite the differences in architecture, Michigan National's and Standard Federal's headquarter buildings can be viewed as state-of-the-art structures and prototypes for American business projecting into the 21st century.

Dale Northrop is an architectural historian and college professor who lives in Troy.

Landscaping a 'sound investment'

By Andy Lang
special writer

(AP) — Whenever you do it yourself on the inside of your house, it's usually because it is something that has to be done.

A large part of the work you do on the outside of the house is because you want to do it, mostly to improve the appearance of your property. Included among these projects are such things as patios, decks, pathways, walls, barbecue areas, gardens and the like.

The wonderful effects that can be achieved in the yard with bricks, mortar, concrete, paving blocks and other building materials are detailed in "Backyard Brickwork," edited by Mike Lawrence. The reader is cautioned to think carefully before getting started, as all of the things mentioned are permanent and will not yield easily to later changes.

Questions that must be asked include: Must there be plenty of playing space for children or grandchildren? Do you hope to add a swimming pool at a later stage? Are you an enthusiastic gardener or do you prefer a garden that requires a minimum of upkeep? If you aren't going to work in your garden, can you afford a regular gardener?

THE BOOK POINTS out that the days of huge houses with spacious rooms on cheap and equally spacious plots have gone forever. Building costs, land price and the presence of modern lifestyles demand that you make good use of every square foot of your property. Every dollar spent on well-designed outdoor living space is a sound investment. You will get it back in hard cash when you go to sell your house.

There is some good advice for people who cannot handle the outside improvements by themselves but can afford to pay for them. The book tells about trying to find somebody who has had such work done and can make a recommendation, then adds:

"You must not, under any circumstances, simply ask the first builder you find to begin work of any sort on the basis of a verbal agreement, particularly if the quotation seems unusually low and you do not know much about construction work. Also, under no circumstances should you pay in advance for work that is still to be done. If any problems do arise, you will lose either in terms of money or in a final result that may have to be demolished.

"Once you have a written quotation from two or more reputable builders, go see your local bank. Take your plan and your quotations with you and ask whether they are prepared to lend you the money. Once your loan has been approved, get the builder of your choice to sign a retention money clause (the amount held back until such time as the project is completed to your satisfaction), the time which the project is to be completed and at what stage of the work the first payment will be made.

"IN THIS WAY, you can minimize the risk that faces every homeowner wishing to have alterations done by unfamiliar builders, landscapers or designers. If you have any doubts about the idea of the whole thing, just ask any real estate agent how much an attractive outdoor living area adds to the price of house."

"Backyard Brickwork is published by Garden Way Publishing, Schoolhouse Road, Ponal, Vt. 05261."

If you have doubts about making outdoor landscaping improvements, "just ask any real estate agent how much an attractive outdoor living area adds to the price of a house."

Building a home 'like baking cake'

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

More than ever before, people of average means are acting as contractors to build their own homes, according to Michigan Home Builder School president Fred Arnold.

The prospect of contracting a home can be intimidating, Arnold said, but it is not as difficult as people might think.

"There's a recipe to building a home — like in baking a cake. You add all the ingredients in the right quantities and in the right order until it's done."

Contracting means acting as your own building manager and hiring subcontractors to do various tasks, Arnold said. "It doesn't mean picking up a hammer and going to work."

The Michigan School of Home Builders, based in Ann Arbor, offers intensive one-day seminars to individuals on how to act as a contractor. Seminars resume next spring.

Some of the topics covered at the seminars include buying a lot, affordability, pre-made plans versus hiring an architect, hiring and dealing with trades people and developing an efficient construction schedule.

The Michigan School of Home Builders, Arnold said, is an offshoot of Home Builders Finance Inc., a lender specializing in construction loans for "do-it-yourself" home builders. While working as a construction loan officer, Arnold said he saw many people who wanted to build, but who really had no idea how to start.

The most critical detail, he said, is an efficient construction schedule. Homes are built in phases, so an inefficient schedule results in workers waiting for one phase to be completed before starting on the next — that means additional cost to the final price of the home, Arnold said.

"People interested in self contracting are typically seeking three things — saving money, ensuring a consistent quality of construction and building a home specifically suited for them, he said.

"Being your own contractor can save you as much as 25 percent on the cost of a home," Arnold said. "People are walking through homes and seeing what they get for $175,000 and they're saying, 'Wait, I can do better.'"

Arnold said it is impossible to easily define the average self contractor. Ten years ago, he said, the typical self contractor was 28- to 40 years old and looking for a second home, but today they range from those in the low 20s to empty nesters, and include first-time home buyers and people looking for vacation homes.

In 1988, between 14,000 and 15,000 single-family homes were built in the Detroit metropolitan area, Arnold said. Of those, almost 20 percent were either self contracted or custom built.

"That's almost double the amount of 10 years ago," he said.

Arnold attributed the steady growth to the rising costs associated with home building and also to familiarity with the concept. "It's not unusual to see someone building a home these days — it's like a song on the radio, the more you hear it the more comfortable you get with it."

Ingrid Baker feels comfortable enough with the idea and intends to self-contract a home on a parcel of property near Dryden in Lapeer County. She said she will hire subcontractors for basic foundation and rough carpentry work and then complete much of the interior herself.

An attendee of the most recent contracting seminar on Saturday at the Novi Sheraton Oaks, Baker said she has been thinking about building a home for more than a year, but now she is starting to get more serious.

Saving money is her prime motivation for self contracting, she said, but she also wants to ensure she gets an individual home.

Another seminar attendee, John Stolla, said he isn't certain yet if he will contract his own home, but he is definitely leaning in that direction.

Custom home builders and contractors have quoted him prices ranging from $85 to $95 per square foot — far more than he cares to spend. "They figure that if you have property on a lake you've got a lot of money — well, they're wrong."

Stolla said he was fortunate enough to buy his lot before lakefront property values skyrocketed, but now building prices are driving up the cost of owning a home on a lake.

Brothers Matt, 24, and Rob Sprader, 19, are also considering self-contracting a home, but their motivation is to build a home and then sell it.

Matt Sprader said that under state law, he and his brother can build one a home a year without obtaining a contractor's license. In the past, the two have renovated other homes, he said, and now they've decided to take it one step further.

The brothers originally started out by looking for homes they could fix, Rob Sprader said, but it is becoming more difficult to find them. "There just aren't any handyman specials around anymore."

After buying some property in Walled Lake, the two began investigating several alternatives, including prefabricated homes, but none of the ones they were able to find seemed to suitable.

Insurance agency owner Richard LaFlamme said he has been thinking of building a home for about a year and has recently bought a lot in Michigan's thumb area near Caseville.

LaFlamme said he isn't certain yet whether he will actually contract for the home's construction. "I'm still looking for information right now."

The benefits of acting as a contractor seem obvious, he said, but there is one substantial drawback — time. It may be difficult to manage the project and run his business from the Detroit area, he said.

LaFlamme said he has hired contractors to build two previous homes, and he prefers the distinctiveness of a custom built residence. Saving more money and getting a custom home at the same time, however, is better still.

2nd floor offers 2nd layout

Upon entering the foyer of this two-story house, visitors will observe the open U-shaped stair to their right. Straight ahead to the rear of the first floor, is the great room that includes a fireplace and private terrace access.

The roomy dining room is adjacent to the great room and includes a bay window. The central kitchen has a U-shaped work area and is open to the dining area. The washer and dryer are placed behind bi-fold doors within the kitchen area.

The first-floor bedroom has a separate entrance to the central bath that also serves daytime use. This bedroom can double as a study.

The second floor houses three large bedrooms and two full baths. A hidden stair to the attic leads to an additional storage depth master bedroom suite, complete with bath, one additional bedroom and a central bath.

Front wall changes necessary to accomplish the front shown are included on the working drawings.

This is plan 885 C. It includes 1,898 square feet of heated area. All W.D. Farmer plans include construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. Write to W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta,

Warding off woodpeckers

You've made the move to the "country" — at least to a subdivision where the trees have not all fallen to the bulldozer.

You like the dirt roads that keep the traffic down even as they keep the dust level up. And you congratulate yourself for building a home that blends in with the natural setting.

But one day as you walk around your house, you spot a row of dime-sized holes running horizontally along your wood siding, revealing you have bugs in the siding.

But the holes are not from the insects; they're from woodpeckers. Woodpeckers can do a great deal of damage to houses in the fall, according to Glenn Dudderar, extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University.

When holes follow a discernible pattern, they mean the woodpeckers are pecking for insects they can hear inside or under the siding or trim.

Any of three kinds of woodpeckers may be involved. The downy woodpecker is a black and white, sparrow-sized bird.

The hairy woodpecker looks identical to the downy but is more the size of a robin. The flicker has a brown back, a spotted breast and a white rump and is slightly larger than a robin.

"The houses most often damaged are those that have plywood siding with grooves cut in it to make it look like rough-sawn planks," Dudderar says.

"The grooves intersect the core gaps between the interior plies of the panels and provide entry for insects."

THE INSECTS go into the siding or under the corner trim over traditional clapboard siding. The pecking occurs when warm days following cold nights cause the insects to move around a little. Woodpeckers fly up to vertical surfaces and listen for insect movement. When they hear it, they peck through to where the insects are.

"As long as that vertical surface is a tree or a fence post, the pecking generally causes no problems," Dudderar says. "When it's the side of someone's house, the homeowner sees significant damage occurring and wants a quick solution."

Dudderar recommends spraying insecticide into the spaces where insects are hiding. But don't use a high-pressure sprayer.

"That kind of spraying is futile," he says. "You must spray directly in the openings to kill the insects. Then you need to seal all the openings in and around siding so that more insects don't move in."

If you don't want to use an insecticide, you can just seal the openings, but woodpeckers will continue to feed until the insects you sealed are dead.

Replacing the siding because it has insects is not only expensive, but it won't solve the problem if you replace it with siding that also provides hiding places for insects.

"Spraying the spaces and sealing the openings may be laborious, but it is effective," Dudderar says. "And it's a permanent solution to woodpeckers pecking on houses to find food."

WOODPECKERS PECKING out winter roosting cavities is another problem without a surefire solution.

Winter roosting cavities (or nesting cavities in spring) are considerably larger than the holes made in search of food. Depending on the woodpecker, they may range in size from the diameter of a 50-cent piece to that of a baseball. The bird may make several holes although it uses just one.

"The homeowner's first impulse is to plug the hole but that will just about guarantee the woodpecker will peck new ones," Dudderar says. "Seal the holes only after you've gotten rid of the woodpecker."

Sometimes starlings drive the woodpecker away from the cavity. The woodpecker then starts a new cavity.

Because woodpeckers are a valuable part of the environment, Dudderar urges homeowners to try frightening them away before trying anything else.

Hang strips of crumpled aluminum foil over the hole. Or hang an aluminum pie pan on a string so that it covers the hole. The flash of the foil or pan may repel the woodpecker.

ANOTHER TRICK is to put up a silhouette of an owl or a hawk. Bird repellent tape is also available. Contact your county extension office for information.

Or place masking tape around the hole and smear a thin coating of a sticky repellent on the tape. When the woodpecker is repelled, remove the tape and repair the hole. Be prepared to treat any new holes as soon as they are started.

You must change and vary your scare tactics every couple of days or the bird will get used to them. Be prepared to move your noisemakers to another section of the house if the woodpecker moves to another side.

If woodpeckers are after insects in the siding, frightening or killing the birds would give you only temporary relief — until another woodpecker came along and rediscovered the food source.

But if a woodpecker is making roosting cavities and frightening it doesn't work, the only course of action is to eliminate the problem bird or replace the siding with a non-wood type.

If you discover the only alternative is to kill the woodpecker, you must get a permit for your local conservation officer who will probably make sure you have tried a variety of scare tactics before issuing one.

Traditional furniture returns

(AP) — The nation's attic — The Smithsonian Institution — and antique stores and museums around the world inspired many of the designs at the fall furniture market in High Point, N.C.

At a difficult time for the furniture industry, when business is spotty and several of the country's top department stores are on the sale block, manufacturers chose to emphasize traditional pieces that bear a well-known designer's name or recall another era.

The contemporary styles in wood are warm rather than stark, often embellished with inlays or a painted surface. In place of shiny chrome, softer bronze and pewter finishes characterize metal pieces. Rather than glass, natural and faux unpolished stone materials are used.

Sofas and chairs are clearly made for lounging. Both contemporary and traditional upholstered pieces are overstuffed and oversized with sausage-like arms, and they are slathered with deep cushions and extra throw pillows.

The American love affair with a romanticized representation of our past continues unabated. New American country pieces that borrow from the past but don't reproduce it were among the most popular at the market. Copies of styles from the last three centuries of English and American design are a close second. French themes and neoclassical styles such as Biedermeier are minor themes.

INDICATIVE OF the pragmatic nature of design today, two of the major new furniture groups combine several English periods (Century and Drexel). Another is "contemporary with many references to the past" in designer Charles Pfister's words (Baker). The Lexington group "combines French, English and Italian influences in every piece," according to designer Lynn Hollyn.

Henredon copied about 35 antiques from the plantations for its licensed Historic Natchez (Miss.) Foundation Collection. This group, like Lynn Hollyn's, includes a variety of coordinating fabrics and acces-

The new furniture is designed to go with what most people already own. Manufacturers have finally learned that the majority of consumers buy furniture a piece at a time. So there's less stress on large "suites" meant to furnish an entire room. A new cedar chest by Lane is a good example of this trend. The chest, decorated with a silkscreen version of a mid-19th-century primitive painting, is part of the 200-piece America Collection licensed by the Museum of American Folk Art. But it is interesting enough to stand on its own.

Another example is the Turkish chair introduced by Century. The opulently upholstered overstuffed chair, a close copy of the original owned by the Smithsonian, looks as if it came from a banker's parlor. It's also an example of the trend toward reproducing 19th-century rather than 18th-century antiques.

Those not up to buying even one new piece can update a room with accents in faux leopard skin. Mark Hampton selected leopard for an entire room display of his collection for Hickory Chair Co. to which several new pieces were added. But the fabric showed up as an accent in pillows or chair covers in virtually every stylish showroom from Drexel to Thayer Coggin. An oversize, fully upholstered ottoman was another common accent piece.

Upholstery fabrics moved in two main color directions: Jewel-like emerald, brilliant blue, red and eggplant, and clear bright florals in sunny yellow and blue or other flower-like colors used with white.

The graceful No. 376 spindle chair is consistent with the craftsman doctrine of usefulness, durability and comfort. An original of this chair, made by Gustav Stickley in 1905, sold recently for $20,000. Seat cushions are available in leather or fabric.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.
