Probe of patient's death launched

By Tedd Schnelder
staff writer

The Michigan Department of Public Health has begun an investigation into the death of a 71-year-old man after he walked away from a Westland nursing home last month.

The body of Edward Jarembo, a former resident of the Nightingale West Convalescent Center, was found Nov. 3 — a week after his disappearance — in a field near the home on Newburgh south of Joy.

The investigation into Jarembo's disappearance and death was launched following a written complaint made by Citizens for Better Care, a Detroit-based consumer advocacy organization which monitors long-term care facilities and services.

The complaint was made in a Nov. 14 letter from Michael Connors, CBC project director, to James Buchanan, chief of the health department's complaint investigative unit.

A REPORT will be issued by the state within 30 days, said Calvin Wilcox, administrative assistant for the patients' rights section of the health department.

"If the determination is that there has been any violation of the state health code, the department will notify the (Michigan) attorney general's office and recommend a civil penalty," Wilcox said.

"If the determination is that there has been a violation of rules and regulations, but no health code violation, the department will issue a written citation for its file, to which the home may respond," he said.

If found in violation of the health code, the home could be hit with a civil fine of up to $1,500, according to Wilcox.

The complaint asks the state to determine:

- Whether Jarembo displayed a "previous tendency" to wander from the facility and if so, whether he was properly supervised by Nightingale staff.

- Are the exits at the home properly supervised?

- Could Jarembo's death have been avoided with an earlier search?
- Have other residents wandered from the home and are "confused"?

MAYOR CHARLES

Griffin lost his re-election bid, but not his sense of humor.

Introducing himself to the crowd at Tuesday's Westland Chamber of Commerce luncheon, Griffin paused slightly after giving his title and said "soon to be on the road again."

The remark drew warm chuckles, applause and a few shouts of "We still love you."

THE WAYNE-

WESTLAND Teen Development Committee is no more.

The committee, an offshoot of the school district's Teen Health Committee, was funded by a grant from the Michigan Department of Public Health which has run out.

In a final newsletter summarizing the two-year project, director Lisa Johnson said the group's work was "invaluable."

"As a result of this planning grant, seeds have been planted and further actions can take place for a healthier tomorrow," Johnson said.

The committee surveyed Wayne-Westland secondary students, teachers and parents about health needs and concerns, endorsed several substance abuse programs and held a series of joint programs for students and families aimed at improving physical, mental and emotional health.

The possibility of establishing a district-operated teen health center was looked at early in the project, then dropped.

THE HOLIDAY spirit, if not the actual holidays themselves, has descended upon Westland.

The Westland Chamber of Commerce last week presented a check for $200 to Gene "Santa" Reaves. Reaves will use the money to buy Christmas presents for retarded children or kids from disadvantaged families in the Westland area.

Meanwhile, volunteers for the Westland Breakfast Lions Club will take to the streets beginning Friday, Nov. 24 for the annual Christmas Candy Cane Sale.

They will be stationed at the Ford-Wayne and Warren-Wayne intersections.

Proceeds from the sale go to eye research and the Lions' leader dog program.

WESTLAND CITY

Council President Ken Mehl has been honored by the state of Michigan as part of its Capitol Salutes program.

Mehl was one of 13 community leaders from throughout the state honored at a recent reception in Lansing.

Westland, the city's newest senior citizens apartment complex, is now open.

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies for the project were held Sunday, with Mayor Charles Griffin and other local dignitaries attending.

The complex, developed by the First Centrum Corp. of East Lansing, features a variety of one- and two-bedroom floorplans. Residents also have the use of furnished lounges, a library, community rooms and a solarium.

THE RED CROSS will

The event is being co-sponsored by health occupation students at the center.

Senior, disabled shoppers to get aid

By C. L. Rugenstein
staff writer

Battling crowds, chasing down bargains or finding that just-right present may set the adrenalin flowing in many holiday shop-till-you-drop veterans.

For disabled people and senior citizens, however, the holiday shopping season is fraught with hazards.

Huge crowds in the stores and shopping centers is one. So are aisles stacked with bulky displays of toys and appliances. And if you're disabled, don't even think about getting one of those handicapped parking slots — usually parked full with cars of able-bodied shoppers.

Westland's Target store has taken aim at the problem, finding an unusual solution for Westland and Garden City residents.

On Tuesday, Dec. 5, from 8:30-11 a.m. the store will open exclusively for senior citizens and disabled shoppers. The event is for those who find it difficult to shop when everyone else does.

"We've found out in the past that when seniors and disabled people go shopping during regular hours, they

Classmates, faculty share grief over double tragedy

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

The legal details of a double tragedy that began six months ago on a Florida road ended Friday in an Orlando, Fla., courtroom.

The no-contest plea and subsequent conviction of the man accused of killing two Livonia Franklin High School seniors while driving drunk means the worst fear of Franklin students didn't come true.

"They have a lot of 'what ifs,'" said Crystal Noftz, Franklin's student assistance director and one of the many who have comforted and counseled students since the deaths of Craig Allard, 18, and John Shea, 17. Allard and Shea were from Westland.

"What if he's not found guilty? What if he's not taken off the road? What if he can drive again?"

FOR THE last six months, the road for many at Franklin has been very rocky.

Friday's conviction of 31-year-old Francisco Canales is crucial to the two Franklin teens who crossed the road with Allard and Shea, who witnessed the incident, who gave statements to the Orange County prosecutor's office and who were scheduled to testify when Canales' trial began today.

The conviction is crucial to the families of the two seniors, who were expected to attend the trial.

The conviction is crucial to the Franklin students themselves, who needed a symbolic end to the needless deaths of two popular athletes and to six months of continually asking why.

When the news of the two deaths first hit on a Saturday morning at a school already dealing with the death of a favorite teacher, there was a lot of comfort in collective

Man pleads 'no contest' in deaths

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Three days before his trial was set to begin, a Florida man pleaded no contest Friday to two counts of manslaughter while drinking in the April deaths of two Livonia Franklin High seniors.

Both felony charges carry a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison.

Francisco Canales, 31, also pleaded no contest to two other charges, leaving the scene of a fatality and driving while his license was suspended and causing a death.

Both of these felony charges carry a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison.

THE PLEAS, made before Orange County Judge Jeffords Miller, carries an automatic conviction on each of the charges.

Wilson Green, assistant state prosecutor for Orange County, said the prosecution gave up nothing to get the pleas.

"He got nothing at all from us," Green said. "We got him as charged, with everything we could get him on, and we made no concessions."

Because Canales was on parole for a manslaughter conviction in New York, Green is now asking that Canales be sentenced as a habitual violent offender. A hearing on this petition will be held in mid-January before Judge Miller.

If the judge rules that Canales is

"During that Easter vacation week, the whole school mourned," Noftz said. "The school was closed for the week, but teachers and students still came."

But the finality of the loss really

Senior services gets new chief

By C. L. Rugenstein
staff writer

Nancy Kuzma has a lot to be thankful for this month. Last Monday marked her first week as new supervisor of senior services for the Wayne-Westland Community Schools district.

She succeeds Polly Mulaney, who retired Nov. 1. The new position also marks a return to the field in which Kuzma got her bachelor of science degree from Madonna College in 1965 — gerontology, or working with older adults.

But Kuzma took a roundabout route, through teaching, volunteer work with nursing homes and adult day care centers and raising a family before returning to the field.

A GARDEN CITY woman told police her car caught fire and burned last week while she was driving through Westland.

The woman had stopped for a light at Henry Ruff and Warren, when she noticed smoke coming from under the car's hood, Westland police said. By the time she got out to check it there were flames as well as smoke.

The Westland Fire Department arrived and put out the fire before police arrived. The woman told police she'd only had the car, a white 1986 Ford, for six months, and had just had a tune-up a few days earlier.

A KNIFE fight at the Hudson's store in Westland Center went into extra innings last week.

Westland police broke up the fight, in which a 17-year-old man threatened another man with a black, "butterfly" knife, according to the police report.

Before the knife wielder and his two companions, ages 19, and 16 were taken into custody one of them attacked the police officer who was attempting to search him, police said.

All three teenagers were handcuffed and taken to the mall security office.

residents adequately supervised? Did center staff report Jarembo's disappearance and death to the health department, as required by the state health code? What actions have been taken to prevent similar incidents?

NORMAN BERGER, Nightingale administrator, said Wednesday he was unaware of the investigation. He declined to discuss specifics of the case, but said the home "will comply with whatever (the health department) requests from us." Police found Jarembo's body with the help of a tracking dog in a wooded field adjacent to the partially completed Warris Farms apartment complex. The complex is across the street and several hundred yards south of the home.

According to a report by the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office, Jarembo died of arterial sclerotic coronary vascular disease, or hardening of the arteries of the heart.

Dr. Laning Davidson, who performed the autopsy, said it was difficult to determine an exact time of death, but estimated that Jarembo died about a day before his body was discovered.

Jarembo had been a resident of the nursing home since March and did have family members living in the area, Berger said.

Jarembo's disappearance was reported to Westland police on Oct. 27 by a Nightingale employee. The employee told police Jarembo walked away from the home between 7:30 and 8:30 a.m. that day.

A SEARCH OF the area made shortly after his reported disappearance failed to turn up the man, police said.

Berger previously said although police and Jarembo's family were notified, he didn't notify the health department of Jarembo's disappearance or death.

Nancy Kuzma returns to her field, takes senior services' helm

Her interest in senior citizens began with her father-in-law, who was ill and lived in a home for the elderly, Kuzma said.

She worked as a volunteer in the home and got interested. "At first I thought I would be adding to and being a part of their life — giving to them," she said.

BUT IT'S BEEN the other way around. Kuzma gained by knowing the seniors.

"Seniors have a lot of expertise in history, really," she said. "I once met a woman whose father was (President) Theodore Roosevelt's ## people

barber." Most of her work with older adults has been during the last five years, however.

Prior to her degree from Madonna, Kuzma earned a bachelor's degree in English and speech from Wayne State University and taught third grade for a few years.

Among her other experiences she lists a stint in the district as a project coordinator for a nursing home enrichment program.

Her staff of six teachers and aides provided leisure activities for six nursing homes in the area. The project was funded by the state office of services to the aging.

Kuzma also developed a respite day care program for Our Lady of Sorrows Church in Farmington.

"We provided a break for caregivers in the home as church members volunteered" to take their places for a while, she said.

For the past two years she worked in the district as the high school coordinator for the school photography company, Focal Point.

ALTHOUGH SHE'S working with senior programs already in place, she sees more educational projects in the Dyer Senior Center's future.

"This is a (part of the) school district," she said, "education is our primary goal."

Kuzma's taking her time getting into the swing of her new position. She said she's still "looking, assessing, seeing what things would be a good idea" to introduce to the center's activities.

"Working in this center you're working with people able to get around," she said of the difference in her past experience with seniors.

"They're—certainly retired, but they're not retired from life."

She's already noticed that there's a child care center next door to Dyer Center.

"Somewhere down the road I'd like to see the two programs come together," she said, in a kind of surrogate-grandparent situation.

She feels students in the district can learn a lot from the experiences of the seniors.

"I'd like to encourage some of the seniors who come here to consider teaching their skills — crocheting, carving, whatever they do best," Kuzma said.

SHE SAW the idea in operation in Farmington schools, where a lot of retired seniors worked as paraprofessionals in the metal and auto shops and home economics department.

A resident of Farmington, Kuzma spent several years teaching in Farmington schools.

Gradually, over time, grief descended heaviest on the shoulders of those closest to Shea and Allard.

"They have been doing some painful mourning," Nofzt said.

And the horror of the incident itself now sits heaviest on the two teens in the Class of '90 who saw a car come out of nowhere and strike down their two best friends.

"It's a horrible visual image that will never be erased," Nofzt said. "But it's an image that will come back less and less over time."

IF GOOD can come from bad, then there are pockets of good that have come from the double tragedy.

The Franklin students learned that teachers cared enough to even give them their home phone numbers in case they needed to talk to someone.

"School staff are more important to kids than we realize," Nofzt said. "We can play a bigger role in their lives."

The students learned that burdens don't have to be carried alone, that there are adults and friends who will help.

"The kids reached out to other kids," Nofzt said.

The students learned the hard way that drinking and driving don't mix. "They know it's far more dangera habitual violent offender, he could toss out sentencing guidelines and double the maximum penalty for manslaughter to 60 years in prison, Green said.

Canales will be sentenced Jan. 23 before Judge Miller.

Green said that Canales may have pleaded no contest to reduce his sentence.

"It would show a first step toward rehabilitation but the judge did not promise this," Green said.

WITH A no contest plea, Canales neither admitted nor denied his guilt but agreed to accept the penalty. He is now in the Orange County Jail.

Canales has been convicted of killing Craig Allard, 18, a Franklin football quarterback, and John Shea, 17, a Franklin basketball captain.

But on the topic of death itself, the students refuse to dwell. Nofzt hears little talk from them about death.

Smoke-free day fires up high school

By C.L. Rugenstein
staff writer

The Great American Smokeout, celebrated nationally Thursday, was a big hit at John Glenn High School.

Students spent the entire week getting ready to spend Thursday smoke-free.

A poster contest, urging student and teachers who smoke to quit for one day at least, began the event Nov. 6.

"Life, it's not worth smoking away" by Toni Talmadge and "Stop nicotine addiction" by Sallina Washington were the winners. Their work was posted in the main hall showcase as a reminder for the week.

Announcements went out over the public address system Monday, then other incentives were passed out to help the students get into the spirit — and out of the smoke.

One was a small T-shirt iron-on that said "Kiss me, I don't smoke."

THAT AND "Adopt-A-Smoker" forms were the most popular items, said Nancy Davis, head of the life skills (formerly home economics) department handling the event.

On the smoker adoption papers, the non-smoker promises to take it upon themselves to help the smoker "on the path to smokelessness" by providing constant encouragement, fruit and peanuts if needed. They also promise a shoulder to cry on in case of nicotine attack.

This is the second year Glenn students have participated in the event, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, and it's back by popular request.

"A lot of students asked when we were going to do it again," after last year's smoke-out, Davis said.

The event ended noon Thursday, with 180 students launching balloons that carried the "Great American Smokeout" motto.

get pushed and knocked around," said Target accounting clerk Grace White, who's chairwoman for the event.

PEOPLE IN wheelchairs especially have a tough time getting around stores at peak shopping time because "people aren't considerate," White said. "No one takes the time to say 'Can I help you?'"

Target employee-volunteers will not only take the time to help, they're also clearing the aisles of on-floor displays and baking goodies for the event.

Coffee, tea and juices will be offered as well as home-baked cakes and cookies.

"We're trying to do it ourselves," White said. "We want to make it very personal."

This year they're even going to make dietetic baked goods for shoppers who can't have regular sweets.

"One (employee-volunteer) is going to make two cakes and cookies for diabetics," because White found out last year the cakes can't be bought from a bakery, she said.

Other employees are putting together gift-bags with Avon and Mary Kay cosmetics free samples, and coupons. A mystery shopper will circulate passing out slips of paper, redeemable at the customer service desk for a surprise gift.

AND WHEN shoppers are ready to drop, there'll be a number of rest areas with chairs throughout the store.

White said the store will stock extra wheel chairs and volunteers to push them so the seniors and disabled can finish their shopping.

"And by the end of two hours, they're ready to call it quits," White said.

This is the third shopping event for the Westland Target, which opened in fall 1987. But it's a companywide tradition for the Minneapolis-based chain, White said.

Although employees regularly scheduled to work will also take time to help, about 100 of the Westland store's 300 employees have volunteered their services — without pay, White said.

Last year about 500 people turned out for the special shopping event.

"We gave 300 carnations within 45 minutes last year and ran out of carnations," White said, "and we only gave them to the women."

She estimated that about 250 men also participated.

"I expect it might double this year," White said, as word of the event spreads.

The store is even arranging transportation through the Nankin Transit Commission and Garden City center for those who need it.

Seniors and disabled shoppers can call Grace White or Tom Bass at 728-4444, 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays before the Nov. 24 deadline to schedule a ride for the event.

HUNDREDS OF train lovers trekked to Laurel Park Place Mall in Livonia for a four-day exhibit of "The Magical World of Lionel Trains" display. The exhibit opened to the public from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday and then was left open Wednesday evening for a black-tie crowd attending a benefit for the Livonia Symphony. The Lionel display remained open Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The exhibit included elaborate scenery featuring the four seasons of the year and various sections of the United States — the Northeast, Midwest and Southwest. Taking an imaginary ride on the Lionel involved a tour of America's farmlands, small towns, national parks, and flatlands.

Enclosed by glass, the electric toy trains could not be touched but spectators were able to push buttons to control the actions of some of the accessories.

Besides the trains, viewers enjoyed miniature construction workers building houses, children playing, ski slopes, and bubbling oil wells, a meteor shower, and comet. And all this was made real by a sound system surrounding visitors with stereo railroad music and sound effects.

The Lionel electric trains were created in 1900 by Joshua Lionel Cowen and still are produced today in the Detroit area in a Lionel factory in Mount Clemens.

Fine, upstanding individual. Tired of single's scene. Wants long-term relationship.

Single, independent male. Likes seafood, birdwatching. Desperately needs someone to share it all with.

They're handsome, faithful, and fun to be with. But right now, they're lonely. These are just eight of the hundreds of perfectly healthy animals waiting at the Michigan Humane Society (MHS) for that certain special someone to go home with. Someone, we hope, just like you.

Because you can provide what we can't: a permanent home. One that will be filled with all the love and attention they deserve.

But if you're already spoken for, there is another way you can help. Your donation to the MHS, no matter how big or small, will help us give these animals the best care possible and the chance for us to find them a proper home.

So, share your love with those who need it most: the bachelors and bachelorettes at the Michigan Humane Society.

MADD kicks off holiday ribbon program

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Local chapters of Mothers Against Drunk Driving are distributing millions of red ribbons, beginning today, to promote responsible drinking this holiday season.

MADD chapters in Wayne and Oakland counties are helping release an estimated 20 miles worth of ribbons as part of the organization's nationwide "Tie One On For Safety" campaign.

The campaign is designed to discourage people from drinking and driving this holiday season. It also promotes responsible drinking, including use of designated, non-drinking, drivers at holiday events where alcohol is served.

Three years into the campaign, and nearly a decade after MADD's formation, drunk driving remains a major social issue.

Tying a ribbon onto a car's door handle, antenna, or side view mirror is a reminder not to drink and drive this holiday season. The campaign runs through Jan. 1.

"IT'S NOT a fad," said Wayne County MADD administrator Sandi Wolf. "Interest in the issue and in the campaign has grown tremendously."

One million ribbons were distributed when the program began in 1986, MADD reported. Last year, that figure increased to 25 million. More than 30 million ribbons are expected to be distributed this year.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said his department has arrested more than 1,000 drunk drivers so far this year and is on a pace to approach the 1,300 drivers arrested last year.

"What we're telling people is to use common sense," Ficano said. Department vehicles will sport red ribbons through the campaign.

Volunteers from GM/UAW Jobs Bank 483 in Romulus are assisting with the ribbons' distribution.

For the past two weeks, volunteers have been cutting ribbons into 9-inch strips.

General Motors has a commitment "from the top down" to combat drunken driving, Slone said.

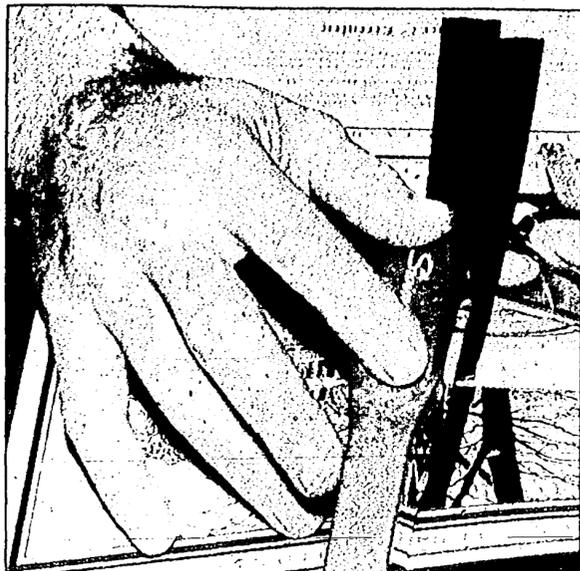

The Observer & Eccentric is also assisting in the program. Ribbons are being distributed with today's issue of the paper.

Ribbons are also available at numerous metro area locations, including 7-11 stores and AAA offices.

They can also be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope

Instant gourmet cooking

Sometimes, there just aren't enough hours in the day.

Between newspaper stories, speaking engagements and taking care of two bustling kids, even I have trouble making sure lunches are packed, school notes are answered and dinner is on the table when my hard-working wife arrives home after a grueling day at school.

I guess I'm lucky that my schedule allows me to work out of my home. Ditto for the fact that our evening dinner always consists of at least one of the recipes that is printed here every week for your enjoyment.

BELIEVE IT or not, there are some days when we all walk in the door right around the same time, and my wife and I throw $5 each into the pot and send out for pizza — forget the sauteed green beans in a balsamic vinaigrette.

On those nights, canned mushrooms and a sprinkling of green pepper and onion on our favorite double-cheese pizza are all the thoughts of cooking we could muster. You have to realize that my wife's idea of cooking is to throw a Lean Cuisine in the microwave.

There's no doubt that she is the best kindergarten teacher in town, but when the Lord passed out culinary abilities, she must have been standing in line at Wendy's.

SO WHAT DOES the Janes Gang do when the dinner bell rings between Scout meetings and after-school roller-skating parties?

In addition to home-delivered pizza and a six-pack, an occasional Chinese take-out, and turkey franks wrapped in Pillsbury crescent rolls, we usually make it a family affair and share the few minutes we have with each other, in the kitchen.

My wife Diane usually searches the vegetable crisper for lonely strands of green onion and an occasional left-over baked potato that fortunately has yet to show fuzzy spots of old age.

I, IN TURN, get out the old omelet pan and search for tiny, foil-wrapped bits and pieces of margarine or butter that have fallen behind the ketchup and mustard jars.

The kids gingerly remove the carton of eggs, trying desperately not to crack the ones that stick to the inside of the carton.

Even Kibbles the cat gets into the swing of things by reminding us of milk still sitting in the dinosaur cup in the fridge, left over from breakfast.

Granted, it's not chateaubriand and Potatoes Anna but, then again, neither is it a crescent-wrapped hot dog nuked into oblivion.

EGGS USUALLY are reserved for Sunday breakfast in our house, but occasionally it's nice to know a hearty farmer's omelet can be whipped up in no time and still allow us to make ballet or piano lessons.

Sound familiar? I still remember fried-egg sandwiches on those forgotten Fridays when we couldn't eat meat. How about you?

Speaking of not eating meat, I remember simple dinners of French toast (folks in Wyandotte used to call it "egg toast"). When Momma wanted to be a real gourmet, she would open a can of chicken broth and bring it to a boil and whisk in a few beaten eggs for an egg drop soup that could bring an emperor to his knees.

WHEN MOMMA felt Italian, she would throw in a couple of handfuls of instant rice while the broth was boiling and a squirt of lemon juice from a plastic bottle made to look like a lemon.

She would serve it up in these big bowls that were emblazoned with the Currier and Ives logo that you could get for free by saving your grocery receipts.

Occasionally, take-out dinners can be a boon to harried households, but never underestimate what lurks in the vegetable crispers and doors of the old Frigidaire.

Giving Thanks

Acorn squash puree soup with curry is served in a hollowed-out pumpkin at a traditional Thanksgiving dinner, with innovative touches created by Chef Matthew Prentice for cooking class he taught at Sebastian's in Troy.

Culinary surprise in store

By Geri Rinechler
special writer

THANKSGIVING IS JUST not Thanksgiving for some of us unless the very same recipes appear on the menu year after year. Uncle Jim looks forward to pureed rutabaga made with a dash of nutmeg. Cousin Bill insists the cranberry sauce is simple, pureed and strained. And Grandma Norma will only stuff the bird with fluffy, white sandwich bread, butter and sage.

If you ask your friends and neighbors how they prepare Thanksgiving dinner, you will soon come to the conclusion that no two family dinners are alike. Variety and virtuosity are indeed part of the Thanksgiving tradition.

A friend from West Virginia mixes up a flavorful cornbread stuffing in a separate pan and cooks the turkey unstuffed, a common practice throughout the South. Cookbook author Bert Greene once wrote of his favorite turkey dressing, jambalaya. This New Orleans specialty of rice, sausage, diced peppers, herbs, ham and shrimp is one of the most unusual dishes I have ever sampled. Needless to say, this annual feasting day has melted into the pot of the American experience.

Now, if you recall, only some of us expect a repeat performance of the same menu every year. There are a number of us who anticipate a traditional meal but welcome some culinary surprises. One family in particular is that of Matthew Prentice, chef-proprietor of Sebastian's at Somerset Mall in Troy.

"THANKSGIVING IS perhaps my favorite holiday of the year," Prentice announced, as he began a private cooking class for his students in the restaurant kitchen. "It's wonderful because the whole family gets together for a festive meal to celebrate the fall harvest and to thank God for the bounty he's bestowed upon us."

"When I first planned this cooking class, I considered making a traditional turkey stuffed with exotic ingredients such as blue cornbread, but after some consideration, I decided not to because no one would make it for their Thanksgiving dinner."

In order to make the traditional feast appetizing as well as interesting, Prentice wrote a traditional menu with a few twists. The menu opened with two appetizers, smoked Green River trout pate served on baguette toasts and tempura shrimps garnished with fall mustard.

Cookies traveled road to success

By Katie Maple McBride
special writer

Evie Madison recently returned to the Detroit area to start up Evie Madison, Cuisinier, a company that sells her homemade mandelbread and shortbread cookies to local retailers.

A former gourmet cooking instructor in West Bloomfield, she is back in the kitchen after a successful 16-year career as a manufacturer's representative in Chicago.

"This business just happened," Madison said. "If I'd had to plan this, I never would have had the guts to do it."

Her cookie career unofficially began two years ago, when she started serving her special shortbreads and mandelbreads to buyers who visited her Chicago showroom.

"MY CUSTOMERS would talk about my cookies, and I started getting calls from other reps in the building, asking if they could buy them from me, to serve, too," Madison said. "Pretty soon I started getting calls from Dallas, Atlanta and other major markets where the buyers traveled. I couldn't believe it."

Her baking expertise takes on many flavors, including plain, chocolate chip and chocolate mandelbread (nut slices) and apricot or raspberry-filled, brown-sugar pecan-chocolate chip and peanut butter-chocolate chip shortbread.

"Mandelbread is a traditional Jewish cookie that a lot of people are baking and selling in other areas," she said. "In this area, many people bake them at home, but I don't know of anyone else doing it commercially."

Evie Madison, Cuisinier cookies are sold for about $6 a pound in several shops locally, such as Shopping Center Market in West Bloomfield, Strawberry Hills in Farmington Hills, Market Basket in Franklin, Quarton Market in Birmingham and Vic's Produce in Southfield. The cookies also are sold at Marshall Field in Chicago.

MADISON WORKS with her assistant, Sue Helck, to bake and package their wares in the kitchen at the Armenian Congregational Church in Southfield. The company's business manager, Phyllis Canvasser, handles all purchasing, bookkeeping and promotions.

"I was operating out of my home in Chicago, and I didn't sell to stores because I couldn't handle the business," Madison said. "I was shipping 200-300 pounds of cookies a month."

Sales have increased "tremendously" since starting her full-time business here in late July. Madison said she attributes the success of her cookies "to taste — people like them because they're good."

Her shortbreads are made with pure butter, sugar, flour and the added ingredients to make each special flavor.

"THEY'RE A conglomeration of recipes I've tried. I started playing with the flavors," Madison said. "For example, I saw apricot-filled shortbread in a catalog and adapted a recipe to make those. Then I tried peanut butter."

Mandelbread, or nut slices, are formed by hand, partially baked in long, skinny loaves and then sliced. Similar to Italian biscotti, the cookies are baked a second time, cut-side down.

Madison adapted her grandmother's recipe to perfect her nut slices, using pecans instead of the traditional almonds.

"Most mandelbread are hard, and mine aren't, which sets them apart," Madison said. "They're firm, and great for dunking."

Culinary surprise in store for Thanksgiving

fruits. The trout pate is easily made in a food processor and can be made a day in advance. The tempura shrimps only can be fried just before serving.

After the class sampled the wonderful flavors of the appetizers, Prentice went on to prepare an acorn squash seasoned with curry. The squash was roughly diced with a French chef's knife, with the green skin left on, lending a unique green color to the soup. Please note that this recipe should only be made with squash which has been carefully scrubbed to remove the wax coating, or made with fresh, uncoated squash from the farmer's market.

The next procedure is quite simple. The squash is placed in a large saucepan with diced onions, carrot and celery and covered with chicken stock. It is seasoned and simmered until the vegetables are very soft. The soup doesn't need to be thickened which is a big advantage because the soup can be finished one or two days in advance and reheated just before serving.

THE SOUP WAS served in a hollowed-out pumpkin, and each individual serving was garnished with baked pumpkin seeds, which had been sprinkled with a cajun seasoning just before they went into the oven. Most often cajun seasoning can be found with the spices in the grocery store. A typical blend is made with paprika, garlic powder and onion powder.

Next, a 20-pound turkey was stuffed with an apple-giblet bread stuffing. Prentice strongly recommended to the students that the leftover, baked stuffing should be discarded after dinner, unless the stuffing was baked in a separate pan instead of the cavity of the turkey. To give the turkey and gravy added flavor, he placed the stuffed, uncooked turkey on a bed of chopped mirepoix — a mixture of diced carrots, onions and celery — and baked it for 30 minutes. Prentice then added ½-gallon of water to the pan, reduced the baking temperature to 325 degrees and continued to bake the turkey until done. "I do this because the gravy is the best part, and the bird will self baste while it's baking," he said.

One of the students asked, "How do I know when the turkey is done?" The chef responded, "Cook the turkey until the thigh easily separates from the joint and the juices in the breast run clear when punctured with a fork."

As the demonstration continued, Prentice prepared an orange-cranberry relish, which was served chilled.

AFTER A SHORT intermission, the executive pastry chef, Andrew

McGrath, and his assistant, wife Susan, presented a pumpkin cheesecake for a Thanksgiving dinner finale. As his demonstration began, McGrath cautioned the class that "although the filling is very simple to prepare, you must be careful not to overmix it."

The ingredients for this pumpkin cheesecake are very typical. Pumpkin, egg yolks, cream cheese, sugar and spices are in the filling, which is surrounded with a graham-cracker crust. After the cake was baked and unmolded, Susan McGrath explained how to make marzipan mini-pumpkins, to garnish the top of the chilled cheesecake. The ingredients — almond paste, powdered sugar, water and orange food coloring — were blended, and the mixture was refrigerated for a day or two.

Marzipan pumpkins can be shaped days in advance and stored, covered, in the refrigerator until the day they are to be served.

The menu which follows is the complete Thanksgiving dinner menu Matthew Prentice planned and prepared in class.

Chef Matthew Prentice makes Fall Mustard Fruits, a sauce to go atop tempura shrimp, served as an hors d'oeuvre.

ORANGE CRANBERRY RELISH

1 pound fresh cranberries
2 whole oranges
1 teaspoon orange zest — the orange outer covering of an orange, grated
2 ounces Grand Marnier
2 ounces fresh orange juice
sugar added to taste

Place orange juice, zest, Grand Marnier and rinsed cranberries in a shallow saucepan and simmer until the cranberries plump. Meanwhile, peel and remove orange sections, then cut each piece in half. Add the oranges to the pan, stirring until the sauce is syrupy. Add sugar stirring until dissolved and desired sweetness is attained. Can be served at room temperature or chilled.

ACORN SQUASH PUREE SOUP

6 acorn squash, peeled, seeded and diced (Chef Prentice served this soup with the skin left on for color)
2 quarts chicken stock
1 large onion, diced
1 large carrot, diced
2 stalks celery diced salt, pepper, curry powder to taste
pinch nutmeg

Combine all the ingredients except spices in a large soup pot and bring to a boil. Reduce to simmer and cook until the vegetables are very soft. Puree in a food processor and put back on stove. Adjust seasonings. Serve hot in a medium-sized, hollowed-out pumpkin shell.

ROAST TURKEY WITH APPLE-SAGE GIBLET DRESSING

one 20-pound turkey
3 pounds mirepoix (equal amounts of diced carrots, onions, celery)
2 quarts water
1 pound soft butter roux — 2 tablespoons butter mixed with 2 tablespoons flour for every cup of hot stock. Rinse turkey well. Pat dry reserving the neck, giblets. Trim any fat from the cavity and refrigerate until stuffing is ready.

Stuffing
2 loaves white "stuffing" bread
1 large onion, peeled and diced
2 ribs celery diced
4 MacIntosh apples, diced
½ pound melted butter
2 tablespoons poultry seasoning turkey giblets, liver, kidney, gizzard
½ cup giblet stock

Take the liver, kidney, neck, gizzard and heart and wash well. Place in a pan with ½ pound of the mirepoix and cover with water. Bring to a simmer and cook until giblets are well done. Remove giblets and chill. Discard remaining innards and strain stock, then reduce to ½ cup and adjust seasonings.

Dice bread to ½-inch cubes, add onion, apples, melted butter and stock. Toss. Dice giblets and add to stuffing with poultry seasoning.

Stuff the bird, rub exterior with butter and place in a roasting pan with remaining mirepoix. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes, reduce to 325 and add water to pan. Cook until internal temperature of 160 is reached. Generally, allow 15 minutes per pound to roast turkey. Baste bird frequently with pan juices.

When done, allow turkey to rest 30 minutes before carving. To make gravy, strain pan drippings and thicken with a roux. Place over heat, stirring constantly, then strain.

PUMPKIN CHEESECAKE

Graham-Cracker Crust
For each cake mix together:
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
2 ounces sugar
2 ounces unsalted butter

After mixture is blended, pat into an 8-inch springform pan until bottom and sides are covered. Refrigerate until filling is ready.

To make marzipan pumpkins:
(about 16-20 mini-pumpkins)

Mix together 1 pound almond paste and 12 ounces powdered sugar in food processor. In a separate bowl mix together 6 ounces powdered sugar, enough hot water to make a paste and 3 drops of orange food coloring. Mix with almond paste mixture and knead until the dough is even and uniform in color. Shape into logs, wrap with cellophane and refrigerate for a few hours. To shape pumpkins, break off a piece of marzipan to resemble the size of a walnut. Shape into pumpkin and score the top of each with a small paring knife. Decorate with a tiny piece of parsley just before serving. Set about 8-10 small pumpkins along the edge of the cheesecake.

Pumpkin Cheesecake
2 cups sugar
1½ cup canned plain pumpkin
6 egg yolks
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon ground mace
1 teaspoon salt
Mix together above ingredients and set aside.

3 pounds cream cheese
½ cup sugar
4 egg yolks
3 whole eggs
¼ cup whipping cream
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon orange juice
½ ounce Kahlua

Soften cream cheese and mix all ingredients together, except eggs, in an electric mixer. Add eggs and blend well. Fold in pumpkin mixture, stirring well. Gently pour into prepared springform pans and bake in a preheated oven for 1 hour at 300 degrees, then for 30 minutes longer at 350 degrees. When done, remove to a rack to cool. Refrigerate 6-8 hours before serving. Decorate with piped whipped cream flowers and/or marzipan pumpkins.

Cookies traveled road to success

While none of the cookies have preservatives, she said, "The longer they sit, the better they are."

Mandelbread is best when it's seven to 10 days old, and shortbread will keep for weeks in an airtight container. Madison's brother has been testing the cookies' luscious lifespan to see how long he can savor the flavor.

"He has a package that's eight months old, and says they're just as good, if not better, than the day I gave them to him," she said.

GIVING PEOPLE pleasure through baking is the most satisfying part of Madison's new career.

"People will say, 'Oh, mandelbread — my mom used to make it, or, 'I make it myself,'" she said. "Their recipe is always the best. Then they taste mine, and they buy a package. Now, that makes me feel good."

Madison hesitates to share her recipes because customers tell her their cookies don't taste as good as the ones she sells. At the same time, she wants others to get as much joy out of baking as she does. Here is her recipe for mandelbread with chocolate chips, as well as a shortbread recipe from "The Culinary Arts Institute Cookbook."

EVIE MADISON'S MANDELBREAD WITH CHOCOLATE CHIPS

3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup plus 1 tablespoon oil
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup chopped pecans
4 ounces chocolate chips cinnamon and sugar for top

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease 2 baking sheets. Mix flour, baking powder and salt in medium bowl. Beat oil, sugar and eggs in large bowl. Gradually add 2 cups flour mixture, beating constantly. Fold in pecans and chocolate chips. Add the rest of the flour and mix well.

Lightly flour hands. Divide dough into four parts and shape each piece into flat loaves about 2 inches wide and ¼-inch high. Sprinkle generously with cinnamon and sugar. Bake 20 minutes.

Cut each loaf diagonally in ½-inch slices. Turn slices cut side up and bake until toasted, about 15 minutes more.

BUTTER PECAN SHORTBREAD

The Culinary Arts Institute Cookbook

1 cup butter
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2¼ cups all-purpose flour
½ cup finely chopped pecans

To prepare shortbread, beat butter until softened; add brown sugar gradually, beating until fluffy. Add flour gradually, beating until well blended. Mix in pecans. Chill dough until easy to handle. On a lightly floured surface, pat and roll dough into a 14-by-10-inch rectangle about ¼-inch thick. Cut dough into 24 squares. Divide each square into 4 triangles. Transfer triangles to ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 300 degrees 18-20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Remove to wire racks to cool.

California inspiration for Chicken Cilantro

Take a moment and picture this: the Pacific Ocean in all its deep blue, sparkling beauty on a sunny day in southern California.

Now, picture this: a lovely California contemporary-styled house situated on a little rise, just 100 feet from a sandy beach.

Take a moment and breathe in the smell of the fresh, ocean air. Feel the warm sand between your toes. Listen to the seagulls' plaintive cries as they wheel through the air.

Now, picture a husband coming home from work, loosening his tie as he walks in the door of the above-mentioned house and saying, "Guess what, honey. We're moving to Detroit!"

This imaginary scenario was played out for real by this week's Winner Dinner Winner, MarkAnn Long. She recently moved with her husband to Birmingham from Redondo Beach, Calif.

Long's winning recipe for Chicken Cilantro is a flavorful dish that was an oft-requested favorite of her four children when they were growing up.

Cilantro, for those of you who are not familiar with it, is a type of parsley that has a refreshing taste. It is an herb that is often used in Mexican cooking, which is such an integral part of West Coast cuisine.

Chicken Cilantro is good for family or company. Long likes to serve the chicken over fresh hot fettucine.

A tossed salad of mixed greens accented with a sprinkling of chopped cilantro and a crisp loaf of French bread to sop up the extra sauce fill out this delicious dinner.

Chocolate chip meringue cookies, whipped up in five minutes and "forgotten" in the oven for an hour or so, offer a sweet ending to a terrific, low-fat dinner.

DESPITE SOME initial trepidation, Long and her husband have fallen in love with Birmingham and the Midwest. The lushness of the trees, the many lakes and the uncrowded open land offer a welcome relief from the miles of jammed freeways and the exorbitant cost of living in California.

Markann Long of Birmingham makes Chicken Cilantro for family dinner. Herb cilantro also is used in the salad.

They have enjoyed the quaintness of Birmingham and the friendly, more relaxed pace of the Midwest.

Welcome to Michigan, MarkAnn Long, and congratulations on being our winner of the week. Readers, here's hoping that this dinner will shake up your taste buds — California-style. Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. All submissions become the property of the publisher.

Recipes

CHICKEN CILANTRO

This dish takes about 20 minutes to put together and can be made in advance and reheated. The recipe calls for cilantro, also known as Mexican parsley, or Chinese parsley, which can be found at the larger grocery stores. This recipe amply feeds 6 people.

- 1 pound of boneless, skinned chicken breast, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 3 tablespoons minced garlic
- 1/2 large white onion, chopped
- 1 large or two small bunches of fresh cilantro, finely chopped (this amount can be adjusted, depending on your family's taste)
- 2 small zucchini squash, sliced diagonally into 1/4-inch pieces
- 2 small yellow squash, sliced diagonally into 1/4-inch pieces
- 2 16 ounce cans of tomato sauce
- 1 can water
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- garnish with grated Parmesan cheese

In a large high-sided heavy skillet, add the olive oil. Once heated, add the garlic and onion and saute until lightly browned. Add the chopped cilantro (tops only) and saute for 3-4 minutes. Add the chicken and brown on all sides, about 10 minutes, and then add the remaining ingredients, except for the zucchini and squash. Add salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a hard cook and then simmer for 30 minutes. Add zucchini and squash and cook 10 minutes more. Serve over fresh, hot fettucine.

MIXED GREEN SALAD CILANTRO

- 1 head red leaf lettuce
- 1/2 head iceberg lettuce
- 1 red onion, thinly sliced
- 2-3 Italian tomatoes, sliced
- 1 cucumber, chopped into bite-sized chunks
- 2 tablespoons cilantro, finely chopped (set aside when making the chicken)

Toss with a light Italian salad dressing

FORGOTTEN COOKIES

Busy moms will love this recipe as it literally takes 5 minutes to whip these cookies up. A few drops of red or green food coloring will turn these cookies into festive favorites for the holidays.

- 1 12-ounce package of chocolate chips
- 4 large egg whites
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Beat the egg whites until they are firm. Gradually add the sugar and continue beating until the mixture is firm and forms peaks. Fold in the chocolate chips. Drop by teaspoons onto a greased cookie sheet. Place all the trays into the oven at the same time. Turn off the oven and "forget" about them for an hour or two. Remove when cool. This recipe makes about 3 dozen cookies.

Shopping List

- 1 pound boneless, skinned chicken breast
- 1 pound fettucine
- two 16-ounce cans tomato sauce
- 2 small zucchini squash
- 2 small yellow squash
- 1 large or two small bunches cilantro

Notes

Take care with Thanksgiving turkey, other foods

By Lois Thieleke
special writer

Holiday time is a great time to entertain family and friends, eat lots of special food and just relax. All too often, however, the holiday is interrupted by an unwelcome case of food-borne illness. Preventing food-borne illness is no trick. You just need to follow a few food safety tips to ensure that your holiday is a safe one.

Whether you buy a frozen bird or a fresh one, proper storage temperature is a must. Buy fresh birds one to two days before the holiday and store in the refrigerator. Store frozen birds in the freezer and thaw in the refrigerator. Do not thaw your turkey on the kitchen counter or at room temperature. Remember, it can take up to four or five days to thaw a 20-24 pound bird.

Before you begin cooking, remember to wash your hands, and keep your work area clean throughout the cooking process.

Never use utensils to prepare both raw and cooked foods or foods that will not be cooked (such as salad items) unless you wash utensils between uses.

Microorganisms from raw food can be transferred to cooked food from an unwashed knife or cutting board. Bacteria will multiply quickly on warm cooked food.

If you plan to stuff your turkey, prepare ingredients the night before. Store dry ingredients together at room temperature. Perishable ingredients such as butter, celery and oysters, need to be stored in the refrigerator. Safer yet is to put the dressing in a separate bowl to bake. In the morning, stuff the turkey immediately before cooking. Do not stuff the turkey the night before; you create a warm, incubator-like condition deep in the cavity of the turkey where microorganisms can multiply quickly.

COOK YOUR turkey at 325 degrees. Some recipes may suggest cooking the bird at 200-250 degrees or will start cooking at 450-500 degrees, then reduce the temperature to 200-250 degrees. These methods are unsafe. Turkey should be cooked at 325-350 degrees to ensure that the meat (and stuffing) are cooked quickly enough to an internal temperature high enough to stop multiplication of microorganisms that can cause food-borne illness. A whole turkey is done when the temperature in the inner thigh reaches 180-185 degrees. The stuffing temperature should reach 165 degrees.

Hot foods — including the turkey, dressing, gravy and other dinner items — should be held at 140 degrees or higher before serving. After the meal is completed, quickly refrigerate or freeze leftovers. Never leave perishable foods such as turkey and dressing at room temperature for more than two hours. Use the refrigerated turkey in two-four days, stuffing in one-two days. Eggnog is a very popular holiday drink, but homemade eggnog made with raw eggs is a potential source of Salmonella. Salmonella is the bacteria often found in raw or undercooked foods, such as poultry, eggs, meat or unpasteurized milk.

SALMONELLA CAN only be destroyed by heat. We do not recommend the consumption of any raw egg product because of possible Salmonella food poisoning. Eliminate runny fried eggs, Caesar salad dressing made with raw egg or uncooked hollandaise sauce, plus any other product or recipe where the egg is served raw.

Instead of making your own eggnog, it is safer to buy a commercial eggnog sold in a grocery store. This product has been pasteurized and is safe to consume without concern of Salmonella as long as the product is handled properly. Store at 40 degrees or colder prior to serving. If you insist on making your own, use a pasteurized egg substitute. These products are made of egg white and a large number of additives, but the key is pasteurized.

After dinner, remember the importance of refrigeration for everything, even the pumpkin pies. Egg-rich foods offer a good place for bacteria to grow. Take extra food handling precautions. Prevention is as easy as following the rules: Keep hot foods hot (over 140 degrees), keep cold foods cold (under 40 degrees) and keep foods clean. No matter how busy you are, practice good food safety. If you have further questions on food or food safety, call the Oakland County Food and Nutrition Hotline, 858-0904.

Open space: A suburban 'oasis' for wild animals

NATURAL areas in suburban and urban areas are oases for wildlife as development continues. These areas provide food, shelter and space needed for animals to survive. They also provide suitable places for various plants — which are often scorned by homeowners — to grow.

Walking the trails is one way of getting some exercise, breathing fresh air, and traversing an area to see wildlife and various habitats. But if you really want to see wildlife, one of the most effective ways is to remain still.

Pick a comfortable place along the border between a field and the forest, or along a stream running through the woods or a meadow. By remaining still, movements made by birds and other animals become much more noticeable. When walking, everything is moving, which makes it difficult to observe motion of animals.

Motion is one of the main ways that predators detect their prey.

nature

Timothy Nowicki

Frogs that remain motionless can often go undetected by a snake. Well-camouflaged moths can avoid the scanning eye of a bird.

WILDLIFE watchers can use this same technique to see more creatures when they take the time to visit these natural areas. But people who walk the trails at their local city parks or the metro parks know that there is more to these natural areas. Observing wildlife is one of the reasons people go to these places, but the change of scenery, so to speak, is just as important.

Visiting a natural area can be very therapeutic after a busy week. Looking at trees that are not all in a row, or flowers that are not perfectly spaced, helps remove the vision that everything is controlled by man. The very lack of manmade objects keeps one from thinking about things they should be doing, could be doing, or should have done.

Sitting in one place and watching the branches sway, clouds drift by, or a woodpecker search for food, allows one to think about the simple things in life. Those times when you are alone with yourself and the natural world provide moments of deep reflection.

It does not take long to enjoy the peace of the natural world, but there has to be a place where you can enjoy it.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence-Oaks Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Commissioners approve jail bonds

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County's budget-drafting process continued last week, with apparent agreement in one area but with commissioners and county Executive Edward McNamara and apparently nearing agreement over other issues.

At Thursday's meeting, commissioners approved issuing bonds to pay for the new county jail being built in Hamtramck.

The bonds will be issued by the Wayne County Building Authority through the Michigan Municipal Bond Bank.

The building authority, in turn, will lease the jail to the county. The county will obtain the jail from the building authority when the 20-year bond issue expires.

Commissioners had held up money for jail construction pending more information from the county executive's office.

TALKS BETWEEN both parties had yet to produce an agreement on fee increases for the county clerk's office, and new financing for the prosecutor's office and probate court as the weekend approached.

While McNamara vetoed the budget for a second time, the executive and commission are apparently close on many issues.

"You could see a budget adopted next week," Deputy County Executive Michael Duggan said.

McNamara vetoed a commission-revised county budget Nov. 9, saying some commission revisions violated the county charter, while others would plunge the county back into debt.

Commissioners have since made further revisions and both sides are treating the revised $1.3 billion document as a new budget, not invalidated by his earlier veto.

THE COUNTY budget is supposed to be in place by Dec. 1, when the county's new fiscal year begins. What would happen if there wasn't a budget by that time is anyone's guess, though. It is believed McNamara would issue an executive order to keep county government functioning.

On other issues:

County clerk James Killeen said, because he was an independently elected official, McNamara lacked authority to veto fee increases for his office.

"County Executive's authority is limited to those functions under his control, and we are not in that position," Killeen wrote in a Nov. 15 letter to Blackwell.

Deputy county executive Michael Duggan said the executive had authority to veto the fee increases.

Fees would increase between $2 and $8 depending upon the service, to finance computerization of clerk's office functions.

Book is guide to bus travel

Dear Jo: I would appreciate any information you could give me on bus travel. I prefer traveling this way, as I enjoy seeing the many small towns and out-of-the-way places in this great country of ours.

Mr. H. C. Senior
— "On the Go" gerontology

A. Jolayne Farrell

(motorcoach) travel has become one of the fastest growing and most popular forms of North American tourism. More than 90 percent of the cities and towns on this continent cannot be reached by plane or train; buses can go almost everywhere.

The author, a seasoned traveler herself, has included sections on the mature traveler, the single traveler and the handicapped traveler. Economy and safety are also covered, along with checklists to facilitate packing and tips on preparing the home before departure. Lists of motorcoach carriers with addresses and telephone numbers and an appendix of available resource materials are included.

The book costs U.S. $10.95. You can order it through your local bookstore or write directly to the publisher — Little, Brown and Company, 203 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY 10016. Its ISBN number is 0-673-24927-1.

Dear Jo:

Beside a depressed mood, what are the other symptoms of depression?

Mrs. T. Y.
Older Woman

Dear Mrs. Y.:

I appreciate your letter because most people think that a depressed mood is the only symptom of depression. Other symptoms are a lack of interest, sleep disturbance, inappropriate guilt or feelings of worthlessness, continuous fatigue or loss of energy, lack of concentration and indecision, appetite alteration, weight change, physical slowing or lethargy, agitation, decreased sexual drive, recurrent thoughts of death and suicide attempts.

Mrs. Y., if you suspect you are depressed, a trip to the doctor is warranted. One nice thing about having a diagnosis of depression — it is treatable.

Readers can write to Jolayne Farrell at 11 Cynthia Crescent, Richmond Hill, Ontario L4 #2P8.

Social Security reports scam

Someone falsely representing himself as a Social Security representative could be trying to sell area seniors unnecessary insurance.

The Social Security Administration reports someone claiming to be an agency representative approached a Livonia woman Nov. 14 at the woman's Livonia home.

The man allegedly told the woman she lacked Medicare Part A (hospital insurance) and that he would sell her hospital coverage for $800.

The man, who reportedly gave his name as Donald Wright, said he had been instructed by the government to contact people whose last names began with "K". He reportedly gave the woman an 800 telephone number.

The woman described Wright as a white male, about 200 pounds and between 30-40 years old. He reportedly drove a brown Ford Bronco or Jeep.

Social Security employees carry identification when calling on seniors at home. They never attempt to sell anything to the public.

Exchange program seeks help

International Student Exchange seeks area families to host students from Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Japan, Mexico, Spain, Sweden, Thailand and West Germany.

The program is open to families, retirees, singles and parents without partners.

Students are covered by medical insurance and provide their own spending money.

HANDLING BACK PAIN

The commonest cause of back pain is muscle strain. The muscles involved start at the tailbone and like overlapping ribbons move up the back from the coccyx to the base of the skull.

After a strain, back pain can arise from any of these muscles; the low back is the usual site because this location is the focal point for body weight and pivotal motion of the lumbar spines.

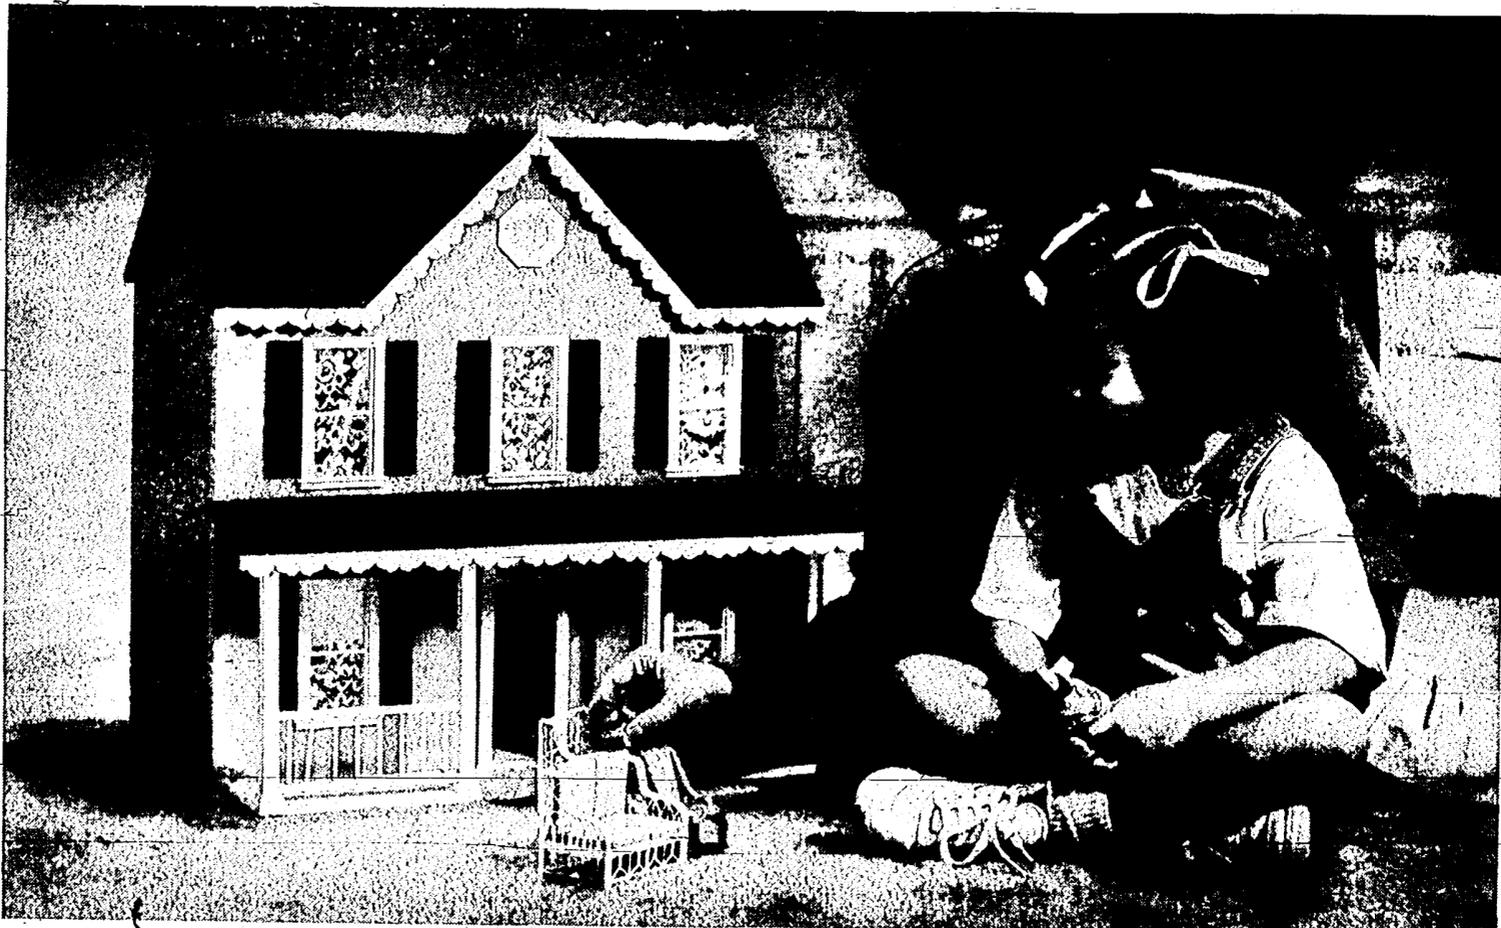

You can distinguish back strain from other causes of back pain because back discomfort starts as a dull ache, then gradually builds up to reach a nearly intolerable level. The pain will suddenly subside and begin again without a discernible cause. In contrast, osteoporosis comes on suddenly and sharply, subsiding only after days or weeks. The pain from cancer or a tumor starts as an ache, never ebbs, and becomes ever increasingly painful over time.

Treatment of back strain consists of daily exercise, heat, and use of proper lifting techniques. You should also try 1-2 times a day, for a period of 10-20 minutes, to lie down on your back while on a hard surface.

The reward for this persistent effort and attention to detail is that you, not your pain, are in control.

It's Time You Owned

A lot of people think owning a home is simply out of their reach. Standard Federal is out to change that perception.

We offer a variety of fixed and adjustable rate mortgages to suit your needs in amounts as low as $5,000. We also have a number of special programs designed for low and moderate income families.

Tounsel spurs Borgess district win

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Like the kid at the candy counter, Redford Bishop Borgess couldn't quite make up its mind in the first half Friday.

At the end, Dearborn was still left holding the wrapper. The host Spartans binged heavily on pieces of a sweet inside game, capturing a 57-37 victory to claim their third-straight Class B district girls basketball title.

Bishop Borgess (10-11) will play Detroit Benedictine at 6:30 tonight at Warren Woods Tower High School in a first-round regional game. Benedictine won its district Friday, beating Oak Park 71-50.

After a first half of indecision, missed shots and a pedestrian effort on defense, the Spartans put all together. Forward Tanya Tounsel collected 15 of her game-high 23 points in the second half, leading the Spartans to their seventh straight win after a 2-11 start.

The Pioneers (9-13) had a nice start, but a poor finish. Dearborn led 17-15 in the first quarter, partly due to several uncontested layups by Jill Wojewuczki.

The Pioneers' fortunes went right out the door along with their center Cheryl Kuschnerus, who left at half-time to attend a jazz concert.

Dearborn coach Debbie Albrecht sighed afterward about the matter.

That propped open the door for the Spartans' inside game, which suffered a bit in the first half. Coach Dave Mann wasn't worried despite his team's 10-of-36 performance from the floor in the opening 16 minutes.

"I WASN'T concerned about the missed shots," said Mann, winning a district crown in his first year as Spartans coach. "We weren't getting back defensively and we let their guard (Wojewuczki) have about three breakaway layups because we weren't rotating back."

No problem in the second half, though. Borgess didn't let Dearborn near the basket for the first five minutes of the third quarter, holding the Pioneers scoreless.

In the meantime, guard Kyra Woodard and Tounsel went to work. Woodard sent a flurry of short jump shots for six of her 15 points, while Tounsel muscled her way inside for another six points in the quarter.

Then it was merely a matter of ### girls basketball sinking them from the line. Borgess did, hitting 11 of 12 free throws.

Dearborn developed a scoring touch from the outside in the final quarter. But, by then, the governor should have been there to survey the damage.

The Spartans connected for 12 of 25 from the floor in the second half. Guard Chlenneta Austin had a steady hand from the outside with 10 points to round out the scoring attack for Borgess.

"We (Dearborn) carried out and our shooting was dead in the second half," Albrecht said. "We lost some height inside with our starting center leaving."

Kuschnerus had only three points in the first half, but was a force under the boards.

"TO TELL you the truth, I didn't pay any attention to it," Mann said. "I heard through the JV coach that they might have some starters missing and then somebody said they had seen her (Kuschnerus) in the hallway leaving. I checked the book at the half and noticed that she wasn't starting."

Mann wanted to bask in the team's district win and winning streak, which included a 54-45 win over Detroit Renaissance Thursday in the district semifinals. Tounsel led all scorers with 23 points while Woodard had 16.

Against the Phoenix (10-4), the Spartans erased a four-point deficit with six minutes left in the game to earn a visit to the district finals. Patience has been a key in the team's late-season surge, according to Mann.

"They have more confidence in themselves and what they're doing," he said. "They had a tendency earlier in the year if they would get behind they would get frustrated and try to do too much individually. Now they're staying with what we do well offensively."

Carolyn Shanks (right) of Garden City forces a five-second call on Franklin guard Patty Shea during Friday's Class A district final at Wayne.

Stiff challenge

Pats hold off stingy Garden City, 38-35

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia Franklin learned Friday that a woman's work is never done.

The Patriots mounted what appeared to be a comfortable 27-14 halftime advantage, but held on for dear life in the final quarter before edging stubborn Garden City in the Class A district girls basketball final at Wayne Memorial, 38-35.

Franklin (18-3) now advances to regional at 6 tonight at Dearborn Edsel Ford. The Patriots will face fellow Western Lakes Activities Association member Farmington (9-13). The second game of the double-header features Taylor Center and Detroit Northwestern.

"We got a little sloppy and when the score got tight, we got tight," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "But when it came down to the wire, we seemed to dig down and we held in there."

The Patriots, coming off a big win Wednesday (68-40) over host Wayne, may have been guilty of planning ahead for the regional.

The upset-minded Cougars, co-champions of the Northwest Suburban League, gave Franklin fits, controlling the tempo for much of the second half.

GARDEN CITY, in fact, had a chance to tie it on three different shots in the final 25 seconds. Lynn Gowen, Carolyn Shanks and Tracy Thompson (at the buzzer) each missed three-pointers.

"Franklin is probably 15 points better when both teams are at their norm," said Garden City coach Marshall Henry. "But in practice yesterday (Thursday) my sole purpose was to convince them to give it their all.

"A girl like Michele Tyree (six points) was white as a sheet before the game and wasn't feeling well, but she laid it on the line.

"I'm disappointed with the result, but proud of my team. They played their hearts out."

Paced by sophomore guard Dawn Warner, Franklin jumped out to a 15-6 first-quarter lead. Warner, the Patriots' scoring leader, had nine of her game-high 13 during the surge.

The Patriots, capitalizing off their half-court trap, extended their margin to 13 at the half, 27-14, on six points each by Cheryl Hintz and Juliann Steslak.

But whatever momentum Franklin carried into the locker room at halftime quickly evaporated in the third quarter.

GC came out and scored seven straight points before Franklin's Patty Shea answered with a short jumper to make it 29-21.

BUT THE LEAD had been sliced in half by the end of three quarters, 31-25, as junior center Krystal Matesic, one of four Garden City players 5-foot-10 or taller, scored seven of her team-high 11 points to spark the comeback.

"We played decently in the first half, but in the second half we went to sleep," Freeman said. "We weren't taking advantage of what they were giving us."

"But Garden City did a nice job defensively. They took some things away from us and they did a nice job on Dawn. She didn't get the shots she normally likes to take."

The Cougars, smelling an upset, continued to pressure Franklin in the final quarter.

Led by the ball-hawking of Shanks, a junior guard, GC put itself in position to cut the lead to two in the final two minutes, but came up empty.

Franklin went up five, 38-33, with 38 seconds to go on a free throw by Jenny Rettig, but Gowen answered with two free throws at the 18-second mark.

Down by only three, 38-35, the Cougars forced a Franklin turnover only four seconds later, giving themselves another opportunity to tie.

"IF WE HAD hit one of those three-pointers in the last 25 seconds it could have been something," said Henry, whose team bowed out at 14-8 overall.

Franklin was bothered not only by Garden City's defense, but by the Cougars' ability to control the boards.

"Garden City played very well," said the Franklin coach. "The trouble we had tonight was the trouble we've had all year, and that's trouble defending in the post. We just don't have the size, especially when we defend against a double low-post team like Garden City."

The Cougars held Franklin to 11 second-half points.

"We felt the game had to be in the 40s if we were going to have a shot," Henry said. "In the first half we just weren't shooting well and they were. When they had open shots, they hit them, but when we had a hand in their face, they didn't hit."

"I thought our defense gave them fits. We also did an outstanding job on Warner. We wanted to have a hand in her face every time. Carolyn Juliann Steslak of Franklin goes up over GC's Tracy Thompson for the layup.

Shanks didn't score a lot for us tonight (four points), but she played a heck of a defensive game. She was able to knock a few balls away and get some steals out on the top."

BUT FRANKLIN survived the test and can now point to tonight's game with Farmington. (In an earlier meeting, with Warner out sick, Franklin prevailed, 38-23.)

"Maybe this game will wake us up," Freeman said. "You can't take anything lightly at this stage of the season."

Lady Ocelot spikers set

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

OK, so Schoolcraft College won't be able to sneak up and surprise people at this year's National Junior College Athletic Association volleyball finals, like it did last year when it came away with the title — despite being the smallest team in the tournament.

But don't think the Lady Ocelots won't have a few surprises in store for the 15 other teams that will gather Monday at Miami Dade-South College for a three-day tournament that will decide just who is best.

SC enters the tournament as the sixth seed — not much respect for a defending national champ, is it? But four of the players who were in great part responsible for that title — Nikki Stubbs, Chris Paclero, Marla Evans and Sarah Hedde — have departed for four-year schools.

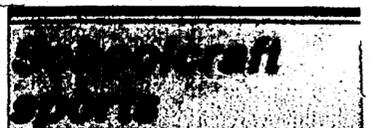

(Editor's note: Paciero, Evans and Hedde — all juniors — have helped transform Florida Southern into an NCAA Division II powerhouse. The team was expected to receive an NCAA II tournament bid Sunday.)

Still, coach Tom Teeters thinks this team has a solid shot at repeating. After all, despite a major rebuilding job, the Lady Ocelots did win 43 of 52 matches.

BUT TWO of their losses came at the Jefferson College (Mo.) Tournament, probably the most prestigious pre-NJCAA event. SC finished third, losing to Dade 15-11, 15-9 and to No. 1-ranked Barton (Kan.) CC 15-12, 4-15, 15-13.

Those results were disappointing, but Teeters plans to turn them to the Lady Ocelots' advantage.

"We think we can surprise Miami," he said. "We missed quite a few serves against them." SC will get a chance to surprise Miami the first day. Dade, seeded third, is in the same four-team pool as the Lady Ocelots, together with Hagerstown (Md.) and Chowan (S.C.).

SC opens against Hagerstown at 9 a.m. today, which worries Teeters. Hagerstown has a 44-0 overall record, 38-0 against junior college teams. "I don't know anything about them," admitted Teeters.

After Hagerstown, SC will play Chowan at 1 p.m. and Dade at 7 p.m. today. The top two teams in the four pools are then put into two four-team groups for Tuesday's matches, which will have the top four teams playing the bottom four. The semifinals and finals in the double-elimination tournament are Wednesday.

There are two good reasons for Teeters' optimism. Both are changes.

FIRST, THE Lady Ocelots have adjusted their lineup since the Jefferson College Tournament. "We're a much better team than we were at Jefferson," claimed Teeters.

The new lineup has altered players' roles. Angelle Love is counted on for more blocking up front; Alisha Love and JoAnne Kolnits fill the middle back defensively; and setter Jenny Sprouls is on the right side blocking. Instead of sliding into the middle, as she did occasionally. "That allows her to be a much more offensive player," said Teeters.

Also, Holly Brachel and Kirsten Stelzer have worked their way into the lineup. Brachel, who was injured in a car accident in August — her elbow needed surgery — has returned to become one of the team's top passers and defensive stalwarts in the back row.

Stelzer got off to a slow start at the beginning of the season, but has since come on strong.

"She's probably our top outside hitter right now," said Teeters.

Subbing for Brachel on the front row is Elena Oparka, another fine outside hitter. Cathy Coak goes in for Stelzer on the back row.

Teeters has a lot of faith in his lineup.

"The first time we used it was at Oakland University," he said. "We lost, but I knew it was the lineup I wanted. The second time we used it was against (University of) Windsor, and we won."

TEETERS ALSO used it at the NJCAA Region 12 Tournament, and its effectiveness was all too apparent: SC won 10-straight games and four consecutive matches en route to the title.

The other reason for SC's success is serving. "This team is probably the toughest serving team we've ever had at Schoolcraft," Teeters said. "And at the beginning of the year, it was probably the worst."

Since that shaky start, Teeters has reworked the serving styles of Angelle Love, Coak and Brachel. All three have become far more effective. With Alisha Love's very difficult spin serve, the Lady Ocelots have become perhaps the best serving team in the NJCAA — a weapon that allows them to control the tempo of a match.

Even if their opponents return the serve, it often results in a free ball, since, as Teeters said, "they can't get anything on the return."

SC is better, in some respects, than last year's championship team. The top-level talent is missing, but this team is better balanced and deeper. And Teeters — who has also guided Livonia Ladywood to a pair of Class A state high school championships the last two years — just might have the formula to do it again.

S'craft women ousted in JC soccer tourney

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Vengeance, it's been said, is sweet. Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team may never know.

Last year, some dubious decisions orchestrated by Monroe (N.Y.) CC coach Chuck Salamone resulted in SC — then the defending National Junior College Athletic Association champion — not securing an NJCAA tournament berth. Salamone's Monroe team went instead.

That provided this year's team with all the incentive it needed. Unfortunately, it didn't provide the Lady Ocelots with any satisfaction: They lost 3-1 Friday to Monroe in the NJCAA semifinals at Mercer CC in Trenton, N.J.

The loss was SC's second to Monroe this season, dropping it to 11-4-2 for the season. On Saturday, the Lady Ocelots played for third place in the tournament. Monroe advanced to play NJCAA defending champion Florissant Valley (St. Louis) CC Sunday.

SC WAS in a hole from the start against Monroe. Tammy Page, an All-American candidate at forward, drilled a 30-yard shot past keeper Tisha Guido that put Monroe in front 1-0.

By halftime it was 2-0, thanks to a score off a corner kick that was headed toward the far post, then deflected in off the foot of SC defender Gina Carozzo.

"We had some good chances when it was 2-0," said SC coach Nick O'Shea. "But we missed, then we gave up a garbage goal."

A 30-yard floater got past Guido in the second half to give Monroe a commanding 3-0 advantage. The Lady Ocelots finally got on the board with 15 minutes left when Chidy Bowman knocked in a shot, with Shannon Meath assisting.

"The girls kept going," said O'Shea. "They played real hard right to the end."

HOWEVER, JOAN ARNDT — who pulled a hamstring muscle late in the season — didn't play at all after reinjuring her leg in Thursday's 5-2 victory over Lees McRae (N.C.).

SC's first-round win had a bit of everything, including a strong wind that reversed midway through the second half so that it favored Lees McRae most of the game.

The North Carolina team got on the board quickly, scoring after just 27 seconds when a wind-blown shot skipped past Guido. The Lady Ocelots battled back, with Bowman scoring to tie the game (Rose Hally assisting) and Meath putting them ahead 2-1 at halftime (Bowman assisting).

With the wind at their backs, the Lady Ocelots assumed control quickly in the second half. Dawn Gabriel and Arndt both scored in the first 10 minutes to make it 4-1, but then the weather changed. A hailstorm forced a 15-minute delay with 25 minutes left; when play resumed, the wind had reversed.

Still, SC battled Lees McRae evenly, each team scoring a goal down the stretch.

No-Tap doubles offers unique opportunities

WHAT ARE YOU DOING Saturday night? Quite often this question can produce an answer like "not much" or "I don't know."

Many of the area's bowling establishments offer Saturday night "No-Tap" or "Moonlight" bowling for any couple with established league averages. This can be a real fun night out and also profitable if the contestant hits a lucky streak. You don't have to be great to win, and whether you win or lose, it can be an enjoyable time.

The cost to enter varies from house to house, with the fee usually between $12 and $20 per couple. This entrance fee includes some mystery game prizes and perhaps the "lucky strike" jackpot.

Additionally, there are cash prizes for the winning couple based on the number of entries that night. Usually 50 or so entries will generate a first prize of about $200. Winning that prize would be a good way to top off a nice night out bowling.

The following bowling centers in the Observer community offer Saturday night "No-Tap": Merri-Bowl in Livonia (11:30 p.m. starting time), Super Bowl in Canton (11:30), Country Lanes in Farmington Hills (10:30), Oak Lanes in Westland (11:30), Mayflower Lanes in Redford (11:45 and Fridays at 9:45), Woodland Lanes in Livonia (11:15), Westland Bowl (10:00), Plaza Lanes in Plymouth (11:30), Town & Country in Westland (10:30 every other Saturday night), Beech Lanes in Redford (10:00) and Redford Lanes (10:30).

With 9-pin "No-Tap" doubles bowling, you can fill up those winter Saturday nights with a fun evening of bowling. Note the starting time; the check-in is usually about a hour earlier. I suggest you call ahead for reservations.

In the Tuesday Night Senior House League at Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington, Joe Camilleri took high game honors with a 259, while his brother Angelo hit a 238 in the same game. Other top scores were rolled by John Starichna (257) and Dave Lewiston (252).

At Country Lanes, the Greenfield Mixed League featured Chuck O'Rourke with a 736 series, Bill Pietrzyk with a 700 and Tom Gow with a 289/682. Top ladies included Gloria Mertz (592), Barbara Turner (589) and Pat Smith (244).

Stars of the Noon Classic League were Lori Craig (224/602), Betty Harris (221, 220/599), Jo Scorof (221, 212/598) and Denise Juras (225).

In the University Men's League, left-hander Tim Smith fired a 300 game and a 805 series.

In the West Side Lutheran League at Redford Lanes, Mark Krohn led the way with a 257 game and a 640 series. The best of the rest included Gordon Engel (253 game), Jarv Wohelke (638 series), Will Grulke (629), Mark Raltz (612), Kevin Chambers (606), Tim Collins (606) and Pat Libka (600).

Mark Ulrich just missed a perfect game (299) in the Friday T.G.I.F. Men's, and in the Wednesday Ladies Classic, Anne Jodway had a 657 series. Kurt Swick (257) and Dan Fitts (253) led the Tuesday 6:30 Men's, while 16-year-old David Capaldi (731) and Lona Palise (266/691) boasted the top scores in the Saturday Youth Junior Majors.

In the Ford Motor Men's, Jim Griffith (274/676), Ted Bester (267, 289/766) and James Maygar (289/693) were the top rollers. The Westland Ladies Classic League was led by Gloria Mertz (644).

Drop the puck Stevenson, CC open prep ice schedule

High school hockey fans can get a sneak preview of the 1989-90 season Wednesday when two of the area's top teams, Redford Catholic Central and Livonia Stevenson, collide at 6 p.m. Wednesday at Livonia's Edgar Arena.

Stevenson, under first-year coach Paul Ferguson, figures to be strong contender.

Ferguson, who coached previously at Livonia Franklin (1973-79) and the University of Michigan-Dearborn for six seasons, inherits an experienced club which captured the Suburban Prep Hockey League crown last year.

"Stevenson will take it (the SPHL) again hands down," predicted Livonia Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt. "They've got to be one of the top five teams in the state."

Stevenson lost goaltenders Paul Strauch (first-team All-Area) and Paul Rice to graduation, along with defenseman Paul Tustian (first-team All-Area) and forward Mike Morrison.

But the Spartans return 12 playars, led by center John Labadie, a second-team All-Area pick who tallied 47 points a year ago.

FERGUSON HAS a solid defense, led by B.J. Eglinton and Nick Mariani.

The new Stevenson coach believes newcomers Kevin Brady and Dave Labadie can fill the void in goal.

But the Spartans, who could not beat Redford Catholic Central last season in two meetings, have to play second fiddle again this season in Observerland.

CC, led by veteran coach John Gumbleton, lost first-team All-Area forward Scott Lock (55 points); along with goalie Jim Dietrich (second-team All-Area) and defenseman Jerry Kocis (second-team All-Area).

But the Shamrocks return 11 players, led by second-team All-Area forward Paul Pirronello (51 points), a right winger who will be joined on a potent line by senior left winger Keith Bozyk and newcomer Jesse Hubenschmidt, a junior center.

Gumbleton, however, is worried about the team's overall scoring punch, but the defense is solid, led by senior Joe Cyrek.

PREP HOCKEY SCHEDULE
Tuesday, Nov. 21	Stevenson at Grosse Pointe North, 7:30 p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 22	Livonia Stevenson vs. Redford CC, Livonia's Edgar Arena, 6 and 8 p.m.
Livonia Church at Wyandotte (Pack), 8 p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 25	Livonia Church at Midland (Lakeview), 6 p.m.

Churchill coach Rudy Varvari will rely on defense this season after losing most of his scoring punch from a year ago.

The Chargers graduated first-team All-Area forward Joe Ahmet (44 points), Jeff Pendell (44) and Mike Kneiding. Also lost were defensemen Chris Frayer (second-team All-Area) and Denny Elenich.

However, fourth-year goalie Jason Devlin returns along with senior forward Bob Somerville and senior defenseman Troy Henderson.

Franklin, which posted the best record in the area last season (18-3-2), lost first-team All-Area forward Charlie Olschanski (77 points), first-team All-Area defenseman Mike Zajdel, and goalie Dan Murray.

But Patriots have a pair of high-scoring snipers returning, paced by right winger Brian Stover (73 points) and center Matt Sharkey (57), both of whom are seniors.

The SPHL, with the elimination of Southfield High, now consists of seven teams — Churchill, Franklin, Stevenson, Wyandotte, Southfield-Lathrup, Bloomfield Hills Andover and Bloomfield Hill Lahser.

Hawks forge 3-2 triumph

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Farmington Hills Harrison played its Class B semifinal football game on a sheet of ice, so it was no surprise a hockey score resulted.

The Hawks, their potent offense stymied by a slick and slippery artificial surface in Flint Atwood Stadium, got a 30-yard field from senior Steve Hill to edge East Grand Rapids 3-2.

The teams arrived for the crucial playoff game Friday night to find the field covered with ice, which turned the site into something resembling a skating rink instead of a gridiron and made traction near impossible.

"I'm glad we won and get to go to the Dome," Harrison coach John Herrington said, "but we'll never know how good East Grand Rapids is or how they might have done against us — and vice versa."

Conditions were so bad referee Joe Kavulich halted play between the first and second quarters and asked for an opinion from Michigan High School Athletic Association officials on whether or not to continue the game.

That resulted in a 20-minute delay, and the teams were sent to their locker rooms while state, game and school officials debated the issue. Jack Roberts, executive director of the MHSAA, decided the game would continue since a better alternative site was not available.

Neither Herrington nor East coach George Barcheski wanted to play the game under such circumstances Friday.

"They won and let's leave it at that," Barcheski said. "We missed out on seeing a great quarterback (Mill Coleman of Harrison) and one helluva fullback (Brian Davis) on our team."

The Hawks, who are 12-0 and have won 25 consecutive games, will make their third straight appearance in the Pontiac Silverdome for the Class B championship game at 8 p.m. Saturday. Defending champ Harrison can win back-to-back titles for the second time in this decade, having won Class B honors in 1981 and Class A the next year.

"We had a goal to get to the Dome," Harrison senior Joe George said, "and we'd like to win it for Steve."

The victory that sent the Hawks to the Dome for the fifth time in nine years might have been a costly one, however. Hill, who also plays swingback and inside linebacker, suffered what was believed to be a broken leg after booting the winning field goal and being hit by East linebacker Jamie Billo.

"Fortunately, Steve put it through the uprights," Herrington said, "and unfortunately it was his last high school kick."

"That could have happened in any game. I can't say the field caused the injury, I can't go that far."

On the slick surface, Harrison was forced to alter its approach and play a more conservative game than it normally does.

The Hawks passed only from the shotgun formation and ran out of the power-I most of the night, ramming the ball at East as George and Hill blocked for tailback Matt Conley, who carried 21 times for 73 yards. He also had a 7-yard scoring run nullified by a holding penalty late in the first half.

"(Conley) was slipping before he could get to the line," Coleman said, "but our line was doing a good job for the conditions, blowing them away and opening holes."

"It's a horrifying feeling to know you might as well throw out the offense you worked on all year," Herrington said. "We ran no sprintout, no bootleg, none of the things Mill does best."

Coleman attempted only 10 passes, completing two for 24 yards and having one intercepted. Ironically, Sam Middleton, quarterback for the run-oriented Pioneers, was more successful passing. He was 6-of-20 for 94 yards, most of it going to tight end Joe Treacy in the second half.

Middleton, however, had three intercepted — two by Scott Ratsos and one by George, who had daylight in front of him but was tackled by Middleton.

Ratsos made potential TD-saving stops with his pickoffs. After the first-half interruption, East controlled the ball for most of the second quarter and, with the help of a favorable spot and an offside the officials didn't call, drove for a first down at the Hawk 7-yard line with 1:36 remaining.

On fourth down at the 5 and with 26 seconds left, the Pioneers opted for a possible TD instead of a field goal, and Ratsos intercepted Middleton in the end zone.

After George's pass theft, Conley took the Hawks 29 yards to the East 13 where Hill put Harrison on top at 11:56 in the final quarter. But the Hawks weren't out of danger yet.

Ratsos intercepted again at the Harrison 5, but the Hawks couldn't move the ball. Punting from his end zone, Coleman chose to give up a safety and make the score 3-2 instead of allowing East to have good field position.

But the Pioneers (10-2) kept up the pressure. With a heavy snow falling in the second half and the field completely covered by this time, East drove to the Hawk 20 and gave Jon Hatfield a shot at a 37-yard field goal with 3:01 to play. He booted the ball into the back of his linemen, and the Harrison crowd breathed a sigh of relief.

The Hawks, however, couldn't get the first down needed to run out the clock, and the Pioneers got one last shot with 1:35 remaining. After two failed passes and a 1-yard run by East, tackle Mondel Hightower sacked Middleton on the final play.

"They were coming down the field in the last quarter, and they had momentum," Harrison defensive coordinator Bob Sutter said. "We took a timeout and I said 'Look, we lost a kid, and we have to rise to the occasion. We've played great defense all year; let's get the job done.' And they got it done."

Local talent sparks CMU

By Mike De Villing
staff writer

Central Michigan assistant soccer coach Rick Trainor is working toward obtaining his pilot's license. The reason — he's tired of driving all over the state to scout potential talent.

But there's one place Trainor won't stop visiting, whether it's by plane, train or automobile. The Observer & Eccentric coverage area.

Central Michigan's soccer roster is, and has been throughout this decade, dominated by area players. Of the 26 players on the 1989 roster, 14 hail from the O&E coverage area, including six from Livonia alone.

"WE'VE BEEN very successful in this area," Trainor said. "High school coaches like Pete Scerri of Livonia Stevenson and Tim Storch of Troy Athens give us the straight scoop on kids. There is a wealth of talent here."

One look at Central's leaders, and it's easy to see why Trainor keeps making the trek from Mount Pleasant. Senior tricapitans Stewart Whitney (Troy Athens), Tom Fisher (West Bloomfield) and Jim Kimble (Livonia Stevenson) led Central to an 11-9-2 record and a school-record 48 goals this season.

Whitney had six goals and eight assists, and

soccer

Kimble had two goals and five assists while Fisher, a sweeper, led the defense, along with goalkeeper Mike Turko, a Birmingham Brother Rice graduate.

John Rehm, a senior from Livonia who scored a career-high five goals this season, feels right at home playing with so many local players at Central, and feels its the biggest reason for the team's success.

"I played against Jim Kimble in high school, but we also played together on the same travel team for eight years," Rehm said. "We all grew up playing together. It helps out a lot. We really know each other's moves."

REHM AND KIMBLE grew up watching a host of other Livonia players move on to star at Central. Joe Moreau and Marty Caves, two Livonia natives, appear on the all-time leading scorer's list, while fellow Livonia native Ken McDonald owns all the Central Michigan goal-keeping records.

"Joe Moreau, Marty Caves, Ken McDonald — those were all big names around Livonia when we were in junior high," Kimble said. "Ken McDonald was probably the best goalie in the state. When they went to Central, it made us want to play there, too."

Kimble, Rehm and company are just the latest link in the Livonia/Central Michigan chain. The Chippewas have plenty of young area talent who have already made an impact.

Freshmen Pete Galea and Kurt Will, a pair of Livonia Stevenson graduates, finished the season with four and five goals, respectively. Galea also dished out a team-high nine assists.

"Galea is a different kind of player than we've had here before," Trainor said. "He has outstanding speed going to the goal. He was probably our most valuable player over the entire season. Kurt Will is just a solid player who doesn't make mistakes."

Trainor prides himself on recruiting good people as well as good soccer players. While 11-9-2 might not garner Central national recognition, Trainor would rather have the program judged on other merits, such as graduation.

"I'll stack up our graduates and what they're doing now against any other program in the state," Trainor said. "We recruit kids who want to graduate and go on to get good jobs. Our players from this area do that."

Sandra Broad of the Performance Workshops offers suggestions to Michaella Dionne of Redford and Robert Papineau of Detroit about their film acting techniques.

A 'Broad-way' to make it in films

'For television commercials, about anyone can do it; it's a 30- or 60-second spot.'

— Sandra Broad
president, Performance Workshops

Detroit resident Robert Papineau and Michealla Dionne work on their video acting technique while Performance Workshop founder Sandra Broad operates the camera.

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

You are sitting at home being a couch potato when a commercial comes on and you start thinking, "Hey, I could do that."

Well, you might be right, according to Sandra Broad, president of the Performance Workshops, which trains actors to work in commercials and industrial films.

"For television commercials, about anyone can do it; it's a 30- or 60-second spot," she said. "A good director can get a good performance from anyone. What most people need is to move naturally on camera."

Broad's students range in age from children to senior citizens and in experience from newcomers to acting veterans.

Her workshops focus on helping actors break into television, film and radio as opposed to techniques used in theater.

"Our main beginning class is on essential audition techniques," she said. "It's on how an actor gets work and marketing themselves."

"I prepare them for working on a set. I've worked with my students on sets and they say it was like I told them it would be, no surprises."

Students perform mock auditions and commercials as part of their class work. They also receive instructions about being camera ready, Broad said.

"That means showing up on time, memorizing your lines and not bumping into the furniture," she said. "I say I'm not a teacher, I'm just their guide."

MOST ACTORS don't work in commercials or industrial films as their ultimate goal, Broad said, but it provides income, experience and opportunities to break into the business.

"Detroit is one of the largest markets for industrial films in the country and it's one of the best kept secrets," she said. "There aren't a lot of people who come to Detroit trying to become a star, but you can get film credits to get your union cards."

The Detroit market includes many industrial films being produced for companies with national headquarters in the Detroit area, including the auto companies, K mart and Unisys.

The headquarters or major offices for top advertising agencies in the area also provide a great deal of work for actors, according to Broad.

"The bulk of the market here is industrial and that is a tremendously good training ground," she said. "People have god given talent and I have to draw that out and motivate them."

An actress with 300 industrial films and too many commercials to count to her credit, Broad began the Performance Workshops five years ago.

Starting out with a few students in her Mount Clemens home, Broad had her own space in Berkley until May. She now teaches out of Paladin Productions on Ten Mile Road in Southfield.

Paladin Productions started out basically as an audio production house, said owner John Paladin. A former disc jockey, he teaches audio techniques for the Performance Workshops.

"TALENT HELPS talent," he said. "You're in a catch-22 situation. You can't get work without the tools, and you can't get the tools without money. Here is where people can break that."

Non-union work and smaller production companies regularly use student performers, according to Broad and Paladin, which helps them get audio and visual tapes needed for auditions.

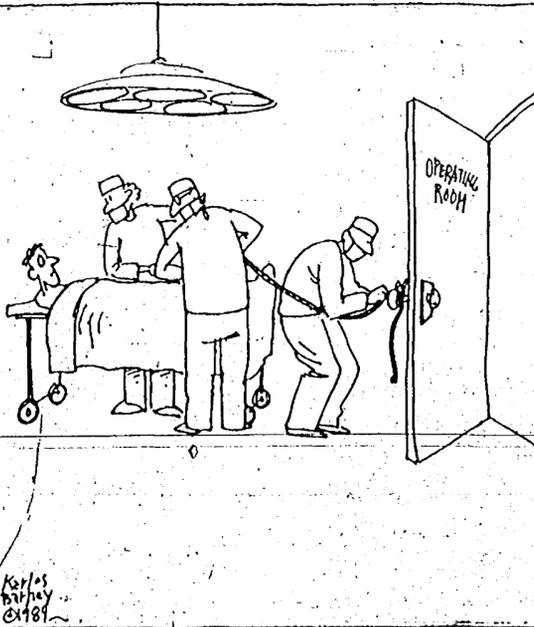

Students also can work in Paladin's own audio production, including information on hold tapes, a hot part of the market which produces information tapes that telephone callers hear while being left on hold.

In addition to Broad and Paladin, Performance Workshops often brings in working professional actors, casting directors and other industry as instructors.

Classes are scheduled in 10-week sessions three times annually along with six-week follow-up classes.

Buying airline tickets for faraway

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

I am hearing from a lot of readers who want to arrange air travel during the next three months. A college graduate flying to interviews. A couple trying to buy plane tickets for the holidays. A few people who are already looking beyond the exhaustion of Christmas to some early January getaways in the sun.

Q: I'm flying to a job interview in Columbus, Ohio, and another interview the next day in Chicago. How do you find out who flies from one city to another. I work all day and I don't have time or money to call all the airlines in Columbus.

A: Travel agents have an airline guide that lists all flights in and out of a city. If you don't have a travel agent, call the Automobile Club of Michigan or make a few selected calls at night. Most airlines are open until midnight, many are open all night, and some have toll-free numbers. You don't need to make a long distance call. Northwest flies more planes out of Detroit than anyone else, so start there. Call toll-free (800) 225-2525. Southwest at 562-1221 and Midway at toll-free (800) 621-5700 have great fares to Chicago. Southwest doesn't fly to Columbus, Midway does.

I collect airline schedules, and the Midway map shows that all their planes fly through Chicago before going anywhere else, so your Detroit to Columbus ticket will bring you back through Chicago. But there is a catch — you must catch your Chicago to Detroit flight within four hours or pay extra. It is probably still worth it.

And remember, Midway flies into Midway Airport and not O'Hare.

MOVING PICTURES

'Steel Magnolias' doesn't measure up as a movie

MacLaine's acting is outstanding

"Steel Magnolias" (B-, PG, 110 minutes) is a major albeit unsatisfying motion picture which never quite measures up — nor does it ever fully utilize the potential of its talented cast.

One reason for its inadequacy stems from Robert Harling's scenario based on his play. There, the action took place in Truvy Jones' (Dolly Parton) beauty parlor.

Those sequences remain the best of "Steel Magnolias" as six gals gather to gossip about goings-on in their small, Louisiana town all-the-while Truvy and her assistant, Annelle Dupuy Desoto (Daryl Hannah), work their cosmetic magic.

That tight, interior focus sharply presents these women and their personal, psychological and familial problems.

In Truvy's, we learn about her predicament, Annelle's and the joys and sorrows in the lives of their four best customers — M'Lynn Eatenton (Sally Field), her daughter Shelby (Julia), Ouiser Bourdreux (Shirley MacLaine) and Clairee Belcher (Olympia Dukakis).

Once the film leaves Truvy's and tries to visualize the girls' gossip, things get troublesome. Abrupt cutting may be intended to mirror abrupt emotional transitions but it turns out choppy, confusing or strange, most notably when Sally Fields flips from tragic hysteria to silly-laughter-in-the-cemetery. That may be the way the real world works but this is the movies, folks. Films have to "seem" rather than "be" real.

ANOTHER PROBLEM is how their men are presented. It's one thing to talk about them, another to have them characterized by actors. As it turns out, all the men are one-dimensional figures who detract rather than add to the film.

It's never clear why Truvy's husband, Spud (Sam Shephard), is such a languid, unmotivated lay-about nor why M'Lynn's Drum (Tom Skerritt) is such a grinning fool. Jackson (Dylan McDermott), Shelby's husband, is a mere shadow of a human being.

While this is a woman's movie that properly minimizes male roles, it is so overdone that when these male characters are called upon to do something, their actions are ineffectual.

All six actresses are excellent in their southern accents although it's difficult to hear Olympia Dukakis as anything but an eastern-accented speaker of English. That's how strong her previous performances have been.

Shirley MacLaine, however, is terrific and well worth the trip to your local Bijou but the screenplay doesn't do justice to the talent of the other five actresses.

Clearly, this is a woman's movie where six gals sit around a beauty parlor and gab. Ultimately, that gossip quality undermines the impact of the great courage and human spirit the film intends to celebrate.

The holiday season is just around the corner and three new films for children of all ages have just opened — United Artists' "All Dogs Go To Heaven," Disney's "The Little Mermaid" and Orion's "Prancer."

The first two are animated while "Prancer" (G) has real live actors and actresses telling the delightful tale of Jessica Rigg (Rebecca Harrell), a 9-year-old who finds an injured reindeer just before Christmas.

JESSICA REALIZES it is Prancer whom she intends to nurse back to health in time to return him to Santa on Christmas Eve. Sam Elliott is her widowed father while Cloris Leachman and Abe Vigoda also are featured.

"All Dogs Go To Heaven" (B+, G, 90 minutes) features the voices of Lonnie Anderson, Dom De Luise, Charles Nelson Reilly and Burt Reynolds, among others.

In animation, Charlie the German Shephard and Itchy the Dachshund break out of the city dog pound and trek back to their old haunts in the Louisiana Bayou. Too late they discover that their friend, Carface the Bulldog, framed them and sent them to the pound in the first place.

This time Carface sends Charlie to dog heaven but Charlie returns for revenge and discovers a unique little girl, Anne-Marie, who can talk to animals. The chase is on and it's sweet, exciting fun which all the kids will love. (Reviewed by Kathy Guyor)

Walt Disney's "The Little Mermaid" (A, G, 80 minutes) is taken from a Hans Christian Anderson tale, the story of a lovely mermaid, Ariel, who falls in love with a human prince, Eric.

But King Triton, her father, is against such a love affair so the wicked seawitch, Ursula, administers a magic potion which turns Ariel into a human for three days so she can win Prince Eric's love.

ALTHOUGH IT'S not that simple,

Disney Studios does it again in its very best style with glorious colors, seven new songs and the voices of a host of Hollywood veterans. A charming and terrific entertainment choice for all the family during the holiday season. (Reviewed by Kathy Guyor)

"Harlem Nights" (D, R, 110 minutes) has comics — Richard Pryor, Eddie Murphy, Redd Foxx, Arsenio Hall and Della Reese — in a very funny portrait of the madame in the 1938 Harlem after-hours club, run by Pryor and Murphy.

"Harlem Nights" has lots of nifty tuxedos for Pryor and Murphy to wear. "Harlem Nights" has lots of neat old cars for them to drive. But that's about all this slow-paced gangster film has going for it.

It continually switches from silly comedy to serious gangster stuff and that just doesn't work. Too bad all that talent is wasted in a weak script marred by soft directing.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

Charlotte Gainsbourg is Janine Castang in "The Little Thief," directed by Claude Miller.

'Little Thief' reflects Truffaut

By John Monaghan
special writer

Last weekend, the Detroit Film Theatre screened "The 400 Blows" (1959), Francois Truffaut's first feature about a boy on the run in Paris. The director — hoping to bring his career full circle — was working on a companion piece to that film before his untimely death in 1984.

"The Little Thief," playing this weekend at the DFT, is based on that final screenplay and directed by longtime Truffaut collaborator Claude Miller. It's the closest thing to a new Truffaut film that we're ever likely to see.

"The Little Thief" is Janino, a 16-year-old petty thief and shoplifter living in Paris in the 1960s. She swipes objects that fuel her romantic fantasies — silk stockings, mink stoles, perfume, high heels.

She can't actually wear these things out, but does don the heels for constant trips to the movies.

When Janine is caught with her hand in the church collection box, she flees town, has a short engagement as a housekeeper, then becomes the mistress of a 43-year-old man. However, she grows much more attracted to a swarthy boy who shares her thieving ways.

"The Little Thief" reflects the sensibilities of Truffaut's work, especially in its non-moralizing tone and ability to get into a young person's head. Yet, Miller has his own unique qualities, making this more than just a tribute.

As Janine, Charlotte Gainsbourg (daughter of actress Jane Birkin) continues in the fashion of young, precocious starlets so popular in French films. The success of "The Little Thief" in France, especially among teenage audiences, speaks more of Gainsbourg than the late director.

Janine still stands after her own mistakes and the blows society has dealt her. Her fate, as in "The 400 Blows," is more or less ambiguous. But, as written, Truffaut has given Janine a little more hope than her spiritual brother.

'Reports' has polished look of MTV

By Jill Hamilton
special writer

When you tune in public access cable television, you pretty much know what to expect — a local cinema verité of town meetings and high school sports.

But, wait, what's this on the Bloomfield Hills cable channel? Tone Loc discussing his new album? Debbie Gibson talking about her upcoming tour? Surely, there must be some mistake. This can't be community access television.

It's no mistake, it's "VTV-Special Report, Rock Interviews," a music video show airing every Wednesday at 7 p.m. on local cable-TV.

"Special Report" doesn't look like local television. It's a professional, flashy show with MTV-style graphics and loads of famous guests, including Was (Not Was), The Information Society and Cinderella.

"Special Report" was created two years ago by Neil Mandt, a Birmingham Lahser High School graduate. If ever something could be called a one-man show, this is it.

Mandt writes, directs, produces, edits and hosts every show. Because he does so much for the show, Mandt used the name Neil Charles on some of the credits.

We caught up with Mandt in his Bloomfield Hills home, sitting in an office which is decorated primarily with rock'n'roll posters and empty cigarette packages.

"This is my desk," said Mandt, gesturing to an open briefcase on the floor with papers heaped on top of it. Mandt realized the power of bluffing in 1987, when he decided he wanted to have U2 on the show.

"I CALLED up the record company and said I wanted to interview U2," Mandt said. "I said I was with this big show called VTV, which was really nothing at the time."

The record company didn't grant Mandt the interview, but they did give him photo passes for the concert.

Neil Mandt writes, directs, produces, edits and hosts every "Special Report" show he does for local cable television.

"I didn't even have any film in the camera, but I was back stage and bumped into the guys," Mandt said. "I wasn't legitimate at all; I didn't have anything for a show. It was a total joke, but I thought 'I can do something with this.'"

Mandt began to establish credibility with the record companies and so Virgin Records offered him an interview with the decidedly non-famous group Balom and the Angel. The interview became the first edition of "Special Reports."

After the show aired, Mandt had to return to college, but he knew that by the following summer, he wanted to do more with "Special Reports."

He met Debbie Gibson at a New Year's party in New York and asked her to be a guest on his show. She agreed, and Bloomfield Hills Cable allowed Mandt to borrow video equipment to take to her concert.

"I taped the show on Sunday, edited it on Monday, and it was shown on Tuesday," Mandt said. The show was so popular that Bloomfield Hills Cable aired it practically every day for six months.

But this year has been the best one for "Special Reports." Mandt has secured interviews with some of the hottest performers passing through Detroit and the show now airs on United Cable, Booth Cable and Continental Cable. He hopes to syndicate the show on National College Television and would like to win the College Emmy award to fund more episodes of "Special Reports."

MANDT SHOWED a tape of an early version of "Special Reports" and a tape of one of the more recent shows. The difference is remarkable.

The early show featured the usual local cable fare. The camera was stationary, the sound quality poor, and a roadie for Balom and the Angel walked right in front of the camera. The recent show was as good as any music show on MTV. A flashy new opening sequence had been added, Mandt spoke in front of a backdrop with a montage of projected graphics of some of "Special Reports" finer moments, and rap artist Tone Loc was featured in an interview.

Though Mandt has been able to secure interviews with top groups, he is also interested in showcasing smaller, less famous bands.

"As a video show, we want to present the gamut and this includes new acts as well as the better know, bigger bands," he said.

BEING IN front of the camera is not new to Mandt. At the age of 10, he walked onto the set of "Word of Honor," which was being filmed nearby, and asked producer Alex Karras how to get into show business. Within six weeks, Mandt had landed an acting job in a commercial.

Mandt said his experience in front of the camera has helped him behind the camera. "I think you have to spend time in front of the camera before you can know how to direct and produce," he said.

1980s 'best band' waits to be found

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The Call is either the 1980s' best kept secret or the band hasn't taken the hint to call it quits.

Since 1982, the group has been an entity on college/alternative radio but has never reached a megastar status despite some high-profile admirers, including Peter Gabriel and actor Harry Dean Stanton, and a deluge of favorable press clippings.

Those items along with six solid albums have never been enough to vault the group from relative obscurity.

"Our songs are much more well-known than we are," said Michael Been, bass player and songwriter who Rolling Stone magazine called the "most literate lyricists in rock'n'roll today."

"We've had a hard time with publicity in this business," he said. "Publicists are expensive. Their fee is $30,000 a month and that doesn't include the costs of the ads they take out in trade publications."

Perhaps the Call's lack of recognition goes deeper than that. This is a band that has always been regarded as a literate, driving rock'n'roll outfit. Yet it never hopped the right bandwagon.

So here it is nearly the 1990s, and rock'n'roll's touted best new band is still waiting.

IF THE Call was banking on this album, things didn't get off to a good start. Elektra Records refused to release "Let the Day Begin" saying it wasn't commercial enough.

Undaunted, the band shopped the record around. MCA picked up the option and put out the LP, one of the group's most accessible to date.

"They (Elektra) just didn't like it," said Been, revealing a bit of honesty that gives the band's music a stamp of sincerity. "I think if it would have appealed to them on an aesthetic level, they would've gone with it. In fact, a vast majority of the people there liked it. There was only a few who didn't."

The Call kept busy. The group

The Call, since 1982, has been an entity on college/alternative radio but has never reached a megastar status.

toured with actor Harry Dean Stanton as The Repo Men ("Harry sings, he has a beautiful voice," Been said). Prior to that, Been tried on acting. He was cast as the apostle John by Martin Scorsese in the controversial film "Last Temptation of Christ."

Their own work has continued to evolve through the years. Gone are the days of frustration and anger at the world's problems, Been said.

The Call goes back to 1980 when Been and drummer Scott Musick joined with guitarist Tom Ferrier and bass player Greg Freeman. The group's self-titled LP, "The Call," was released in 1982.

The group's follow-up LP, "Modern Romans," featured the college radio hit "The Walls Came Down," perhaps an apt song with the current situation in East Berlin.

The Call will perform Monday, Nov. 20, at Nectarine Ballroom, 510 Liberty, Ann Arbor. For information, call 99-MUSIC. The group will also have an in-store appearance at 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 20, at Schoolkid's Records in Ann Arbor.

REVIEWS

PUMP — Aerosmith

"Pump" (Geffen) shouldn't even be a good record, much less a great record. It is the product of an aging dinosaur rock outfit which broke up rather appropriately, as the '70s drew to a close, only to reform when the members' splinter groups and solo projects were shown to have limited earning potential.

Aerosmith's main drawing cards, lead singer Steven Tyler, and guitarist Joe Perry both allowed various excesses to get so far out of hand that they almost managed to wrest the "walking death" crown from the shambling shell of a man known as Keith Richards.

And their last record, while entertaining, was the result of the band's reluctant collaboration with ghostwriters Desmond Child and Jim Vallance, who were called in when Perry and Tyler couldn't come up with enough songs for an LP.

On "Pump," Child and Vallance are credited with help on three songs (as opposed to the seven they racked up on "Permanent Vacation"), and these songs are the weakest on a very strong record. Perhaps years of detox have finally shaken the cobwebs from the Tyler/Perry songwriting team.

Ultimately, "Pump's" success must be attributed to Aerosmith's refusal to content themselves with being just a hard rock band. Sure, they still pack a wallop, and Tyler still tosses off lyrics like, "I've got a girlfriend with the hootchie-cootchie eyes... She's got the crackerjack, but all I want's the prize," but the songs are much more than adolescent hormone percolators.

Aerosmith has a remarkable talent for incorporating elements of other rock genres into their hard rock approach. "Don't Get Mad, Get Even" nods in the direction of Delta Blues before Joe Perry's Les Paul gets ornery. Throughout the album, the band lays down harmonies so clean and so pretty, they are at times reminiscent of Brian Wilson.

"Permanent Vacation's" cover of "I'm Down" revealed Aerosmith as a group of unrepentant Beatle fans. "Pump" continues this acknowledgment, with piccolo trumpet flourishes that recall "Penny Lane," a snippet of raga that sounds like a Harrison/Shankar effort, and an audacious mix which sends vocals and instruments rocketing back and forth between the left and right channels.

FRANK — Squeeze

Meet the new Squeeze, same as the old Squeeze.

"Frank," the latest release from the veteran British pop outfit, won't win over any new fans, but it will keep old Squeeze fans happy. That's called playing it safe.

Aside from the an excursion or two into rockabilly ("Melody Motel," "Is It Too Late?"), the tunes on "Frank" could have appeared on any of the group's blockbuster LPs that put them on the pop map 10 years ago. Like their earlier work, "Frank" is full of well-crafted melodies that are shamelessly pop and proud of it. But hearing this 50 times a day would beat the usual force-feeding of Top 40 fare that hit radio dishes out.

The first single trying to crack the charts is "If It's Love," a traditional Squeeze tune with repetitive guitar swirls and chirping keyboards bolstered by great rhythm from drummer Gilson Lavis. Glenn Tilbrook's syrupy vocal chords are as rich as ever.

Thanks to their knack for creating fine pop songs, Tilbrook and Chris Difford were once hailed as a potential Lennon and McCarthy of the '80s. The pair exhibits their Beatlesque side on "Frank," especially on the gem "Slaughtered, Gutted and Heartbroken," which Difford croons as if performing in a cheap cocktail lounge.

Difford and Tilbrook display their storytelling talent on "Rose I Said," a musical carbon copy of "Hourglass" from the band's last album. They also prove that they can write dull, sappy songs, too, as "Can of Worms" and "Peyton Place" exemplify. For good measure, they include a perfectly awful song about the joys of menstruation — "She Doesn't Have to Shave."

A final note to highlight is keyboardist Jools Holland's sole songwriting contribution to "Frank," the piano-laden ditty, "Dr. Jazz." The jazzy tune is but a brief departure from the safe, traditional pop that prevades "Frank." Why fix something that isn't broken?

THE SENSUAL WORLD

— Kate Bush

From the tender age of 16, when Kate Bush was discovered by Pink Floyd guitarist Dave Gilmour, she has never ceased to amaze and astound. She introduced herself on the unsuspecting world with her shrieking dramatics on "Wuthering Heights."

Being the daughter of a highly placed record company executive, she was immediately thrown under suspicion by the wary, street wise musicians. But her unique style, her dedication to her craft and the fact that she almost completely ignored the "normal" music business rigmarole — LP, interviews, tour, interviews — had gained her a reputation as one of those people at the vanguard of modern music.

The absence of Kate Bush live shows, particularly those outside her native England, due in most part to her fear of flying, has done little to stem the growth of a dedicated army of followers.

Her latest LP, "The Sensual World" (Columbia), will not impede this. From the opening track, "The Sensual World," where Kate's breathless vocals on the chorus of "Ohhh Yahhhness" will leave any healthy, red-blooded American breathless, to the complex melodies of "Rocket Tail," Bush continues to show the vocal maturity developing from her last few albums, particularly "Hounds of Love."

Her use of unusual musical inspirations continues also. As with aforementioned "Hounds of Love" album, she combines some traditional Irish instruments.

Literally, she is always challenging. Revealing her loneliness on "Deeper Understanding," her sensuality on "The Sensual World," maturity and self-confidence on "The Fog," insecurity in "Reaching Out" and lost loves in "Never Be Mine." That fascinating voice, her intriguing and challenging lyrics, the powerful musical backing tracks and the high quality recording makes the LP well worth dedicating whatever length of time it takes to fall in love with it.

FEAR & LOAFING

How dry
I am . . .

To stay on the cutting edge of suburban culture, I personally sample as many entertainment trends as possible. This weekend, I tried out the hot new concept in dinner theater — a restaurant on Telegraph where the food on your plate puts on the show.

My wife ordered oriental stir-fry and heard a few numbers from "Madame Butterfly" before eating the soprano bean sprout. My spaghetti performed two acts of "Carmen," led by a surprisingly versatile pair of meatballs. For a grand finale, a tray of French pastries staged the barricade scene from "Les Misérables."

As tuneful as the entrees were, a trip to the men's room struck a sour note — apparently local gourmets have been maiming themselves left and right in the washroom!

How do I know this? Because I saw the proof with my own eyes. While waiting for the check to arrive, I excused myself and went to the lavatory. After washing my hands, I turned and reached for the towel dispenser. It was then I saw what would turn my carefree night of musical food into a somber reflection on the brevity and uncertainty of life.

Badly shaken, I slumped against the sink, knowing I had narrowly escaped a brush with death.

On the wall, in front of me was the familiar white metal box with a loop of white cloth hanging below it. Each tug on the towel was designed to pull down about 10 inches of unused fabric to dry your hands. At least, that's the use it was intended for. How naive I was . . .

THERE, ON the outside of the harmless-looking box was a label I'd never seen before, a label I am not making up: "WARNING: Do not attempt to hang from towel, or insert your head into the towel loop. Failure to follow these simple instructions can be harmful or injurious."

Thank goodness I read the warning in time! Imagine the tragedy if I'd been in a playful mood: As minutes turned into hours, my distraught wife would send a waiter to investigate my absence — "Ma'am, can you identify these shoes sticking out of the towel machine? Apparently, your husband couldn't follow directions and got himself rolled up in the dispenser somehow."

As I wiped my hands on my pants, memories of reckless, crazy days before the warning was posted filled my head. How often I had felt the urge to hang from the towel but for some unknown reason decided not to. How many times had I longed to insert my head in the towel loop and buff my ears, but was interrupted in the nick of time!

Sure, I had been lucky. But what about the countless injuries that must have prompted this new warning label? Were they accidents or were they just the latest way suburbanites cheated death to get their kicks?

Perhaps this scene has even happened to you: You're waiting to enjoy a delicious meal at your favorite cafe and decided to wash up. Carefully, following instructions, you "pull down gently with both hands," when suddenly out comes a careless diner! Before you can dry your hands on his tie, his paper-thin body spoils out, knocking you to the floor beneath coils of corpus delicti.

THROUGH NO fault of your own, a perfect evening is ruined by someone who tried to dry their hands after having too much to drink! And that's the real danger, folks. Even though you may obey the restroom rules, you can still be victimized by some joker who plays it fast and loose with the towel machine.

Can I get very serious for a moment? Everything you do affects every other passenger on this small spaceship we call the earth. Although it might seem like harmless fun for a consenting adult to insert his head into the towel loop, it can scare the gaspacho out of innocent customers.

Like members of a giant ant farm, we have a solemn responsibility to each other. Always remember, "no man is an island" (although Jackie Gleason once registered at a hotel as a peninsula).

People, it's time we looked at the long-range consequences of our actions. When Scientists invent a deadly new disease, they must stop and consider the inconvenience it may cause for doctors who tee off twice a week. When a couple engages in premarital "dwarf" tossing, they must stop and think of the embarrassment it may cause their family and friends.

Hopefully, the day will eventually come when every object in a public restroom will have its own warning label.

Stop fighting with hubby

Dear Barbara,

I separated from my husband six months ago, and now I am involved in a messy, hostile divorce.

We have two children ages 6 and 8 who are living with him in our family home. I left the house because he wouldn't. The children are with me in my parents' home (this is temporary) every other week.

My husband wants joint custody. I am vehemently opposed to such arrangements for two reasons. Number one, I think it is confusing to live in two places, and number two, my husband and I are fighting vociferously all the time. Joint custody would mean constant interaction between us and a need for cooperation that we cannot fulfill even minimally.

What do you think?

"Mom"

Dear "Mom,"

I "think" that under the present circumstances, there is no good reason for this dilemma.

For your children, the only satisfactory solution would be for you and your husband to stop fighting and be mature enough to think about their psychological welfare. Since you have not offered that as a possible scenario, I assume it cannot be considered.

The question of custody is a hotly debated one. There are many women who believe as you do and would like the least amount of interference from their ex-husbands for both them and their children. There is even research to support this position.

THE CENTER for the Family in Transition in Corte Madera, Calif., has reported that joint custody is indeed harmful when parents fight because the children must constantly witness anger and hostility.

However, I have seen families in my practice in which the children end up feeling neglected when the amount of time they spend with their father (or mother, if that is the non-custodial parent) is shortened.

Fathers' rights groups have stated clearly that they believe the single custody position is an infringement on their rights. There is a highly supportable position.

SO EVEN though you make good points — one, it is confusing to live in two places and two, it is harmful for your children to see you fighting — your conclusion is best for you but not necessarily the best for your children, and certainly not for their father.

I doubt that what I "think" will make a difference, but in the hope that it will, I will give it again. Stop fighting with your children's father and allow them to have whatever of

Post-Yule travel avoids the crunch

A Pan American and TWA both fly from Detroit to JFK and on to Europe, so many people take their Detroit-New York flights even if they are catching another airline flight from New York. Fares are usually reasonable.

To find any toll-free number call information by dialing (800) 555-1212. They'll tell you that Pan Am is (800) 221-1111 and TWA is (800) 221-2000.

My husband recently flew Detroit to JFK en route to India and chose not to fly TWA or Pan Am because their afternoon flights got in around 5 p.m. and he didn't want to take a chance on being late for his 6 p.m. check-in. Airlines that fly primarily overseas are also sometime late or overbooked.

He chose USAir, even though he had to change planes in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, because he wanted to arrive at JFK early in the afternoon.

USAir, which absorbed Piedmont Airlines this year, flies to hundreds of large and small towns, primarily in the eastern United States. Call toll-free (800) 428-4322.

I personally think JFK is a zoo, and I avoid it whenever possible. Northwest airlines has non-stop flights from Detroit to Paris on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday and from Detroit to Frankfurt on Monday, Thursday and Saturday. They fly Detroit to London daily with a change at Boston, which is Northwest's main hub to Europe. I guess they got tired of JFK, too.

Call Northwest toll-free at (800) 225-2525.

Here is another alternative: Fly British Airways Detroit to London, with a stop at Montreal. Those of you who don't want to go that far might like to know that BA will also fly Detroit to Toronto daily through March 31. They leave Detroit at 5:45 p.m., arrive in Toronto at 6:55 p.m. daily; leave Toronto at 2:20 p.m., arrive in Detroit at 3:45 p.m.

Roundtrip mid-week fares are $98. Call toll free (800) AIRWAYS.

Q: Is it too late to bring my son and daughter home for Christmas on one of those cheap flights? We've also considered meeting them somewhere else, preferably where it's warm!

Hindsight always gives us 20-20 vision, so join the club of people who wish they had bought their vacation tickets during the great August sale, or their holiday tickets, before the magic window closed Oct. 31.

Airlines are, of course, heavily booked for just before and after Christmas and New Year's, but never assume you can't get a good seat at a decent price. Start calling airlines and start considering a holiday gathering just before or after Christmas.

We're meeting some of our family in the Hilton Head-Charlotte-Savannah area early in December. Flights are not rock bottom but they are still good.

You can still get some flights south, but you may have trouble getting accommodations during Christmas week.

Call American (965-1000), Eastern (965-8200) or Delta (800-872-7786) for warm-weather destinations and consider meeting your family in early January, when the rest of the world hasn't started traveling yet!

For those of you who might like to do all this closer to home, Northwest Airlines and the Grand Traverse Resort offer this package before Dec. 15 and from Jan. 8 through May 24 1990. Fly from Detroit to Traverse City, and enjoy two nights deluxe accommodations at Grand Traverse Resort for from $225 to $275 per person, depending on the accommodations you choose.

Like most package rates, they are based on two people in a room, four in two-bedroom condos, six in three-bedroom condos. You can enjoy the indoor health club and racquet facilities, or the skating rinks and cross-country ski trails outdoors in season. Of course, you can drive and get all this for less. Call toll-free (800) 678-1754.

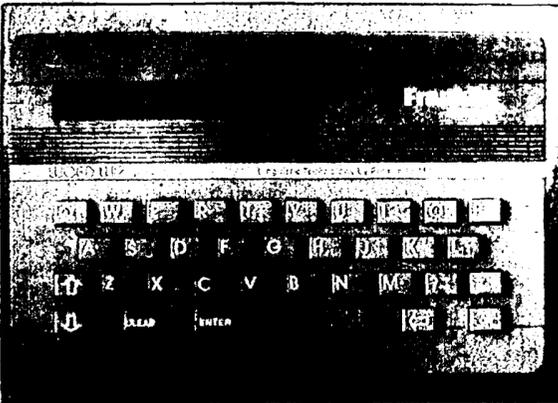

If you're lucky, Mickey Mouse and his friends Minnie, Donald, and Goofy may be there to meet you when your plane lands in Orlando, Fla.

'Uncle Joey' savors his 'roots' COMEDY CLUBS

Coulier is coming to town

By Susan Steinmueller
staff writer

Dave Coulier is looking forward to doing his stand-up comedy act at the Mainstreet Comedy Showcase in Ann Arbor — not that he doesn't like his regular job as a co-star of ABC's top-rated "Full House" on Friday evenings.

In fact, he loves playing "Full House" funnyman Uncle Joey Gladstone, one of three men exploring the joys of "motherhood" as they bring up three young girls.

But performing stand-up comedy keeps him fresh. Coulier, whose roots are in stand-up comedy, says doing it is as much fun as ever for him.

"It's a lot of fun. I've been a comic for 12 years, and so I really enjoy it. That's the bottom line: I continue to enjoy it."

THE ENGAGEMENT also brings Coulier home for Thanksgiving. He is a St. Clair Shores native. The middle-child of five, Coulier visits his family and girlfriend in Michigan at least once a month.

"Needless to say, I have a lot of bonus mileage."

Coulier talked last week in a morning telephone interview from his North Hollywood home. "Full House" scripts had been delivered to his house at 4:30 a.m. that morning. At 8 a.m. he was busy going over them. The scripts are changed daily before the final taping on Thursday and Friday, he said.

HIS HOUSE, complete with hot tub, pool and leather furniture, reflects the success that Coulier, 30, enjoys. But he has paid dues.

Coulier may have discovered his talent for comedy at Detroit's Notre Dame High School. There he gained a comic reputation from impromptu shows in the school cafeteria — he would sometimes find himself sitting around telling jokes for up to 30 classmates, he said. He also once put on a show in a local auditorium for 900 people.

Dave Coulier loves playing "Full House" funnyman Uncle Joey Gladstone, but performing stand up comedy keeps him fresh and is as much fun as ever for him.

When it came time to graduate, he decided not to go to college but to try and make a living using his comic talents.

HE WENT to Detroit rock station WABX-FM for six months of doing commercial voice-overs and writing advertising copy. Coulier then started doing gigs at local comedy clubs and became a regular at Comedy Castle and a now-defunct club called the Delta Lady.

"I kicked around Detroit. Anywhere there was a stage, I used to jump up."

In addition, he held a day time job at a drafting company to earn money to go to Los Angeles.

"My thinking was, if I'm going to starve, I'm going to starve where it's warm."

WHEN COULIER moved to LA in 1979, he started working as a door man and then a regular at the Comedy Store. Working the Comedy Store regularly was a "huge thing," he said, for a comedian who was the new kid on the block. Talents to cross the stage at the Comedy Store include Robin Williams and Richard Pryor.

"That was one of the minutes that really stick out in my mind."

'People say 'oh, well, you made it in a relatively short time.' I say, 12 years isn't that short...'

— Dave Coulier

Coulier wanted to appear on a prime time television show. To do so, he went to acting school for four years.

He kept his stand-up comedy honed while performing regularly on the Tonight Show and on such specials as HBO's Detroit Comedy Jam, Showtime's Laugh-A-Thon and the Arts and Entertainment network's Evening at the Improv.

IN ADDITION, Coulier did extensive voice work — something he still does. His is the voice behind several successful animated television series, and he incorporates his character voices into his stand-up comedy routine.

That all led to his "making it" on the "Full House" series — but it wasn't overnight success.

"People say 'oh, well, you made it in a relatively short time.' I say, 12 years isn't that short. There were a lot of failures along the way."

"I THINK THAT you work towards a goal and you do it every day of your life. I think the harder you work, the better your chances are of receiving luck."

Coulier, who is under contract for three more seasons of "Full House," intends to stay with the show.

"I'm going to ride this one out, have as much fun with it as I can and really enjoy it."

He will also continue working on his other projects, which include helping to write an HBO special.

And, of course, Coulier will continue to do stand-up comedy for which he hits the road more than 40 weeks a year performing at comedy clubs nationwide.

Coulier hopes for a "full house" for his performance next week.

Dave Coulier will perform three shows at the Mainstreet Comedy Showcase — 7:30 Tuesday, Nov. 21, and 7:30 and 9:30 Wednesday, Nov. 22. Tickets are $15. The Mainstreet is at 314 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Reservations are recommended. Call 996-9080.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Mickey Rourke is a pretty good actor but seems to be specializing in unpleasant roles about characters you'd just as soon not meet. "9½ Weeks" and "Angel Heart" are two grim, unsavory Rourke films that have garnered major attention recently.

"Homeboy" (R, 1988, color, 108 minutes), an International Video Entertainment release due Nov. 22, is another example, but not what you want to grace your Thanksgiving feast.

The package is mis-marked at 158 minutes running time. Fortunately "Homeboy" is 50 minutes less than that — which is enough grime, grit and gore for any holiday palate.

Johnny Walker (Rourke) is a broken-down club fighter who has a tremendous inner rage — why is never explained — and the film opens as he comes to town looking more like a cowboy than a fighter.

There's a pretty interesting scene in a bar by the bus station while he waits for his manager. Soon Johnny is deeply involved in the seamy world of club fighting. One of the hangers-on, Wesley Pendergast (Christopher Walken), tries to get Johnny involved in a life of crime. Wesley is about as rotten as they come and Walken's portrait is well done.

On the brighter side, Johnny meets Ruby (Debra Feuer), a gal who runs a seaside amusement park. She's the stereotypical sweetheart who stands as a symbol of good amidst all the sleaze. This phase of the film is not as drippy as it could be, but pretty close.

ON THE WHOLE, despite a good performance by Rourke, this unpleasant film with increasingly brutal fight scenes, culminating in Johnny's last fight, is something to pass up during the joyous holiday season.

LOOKING FOR DELICIOUS DISHES?

in TASTE

Almost three months ago CBS/Fox Video released the first of their quarterly offerings of "classic 'A' titles" never before released on video. In September it was "Sword and Sandals," "The Egyptian," "Demetrius and the Gladiators," "David and Bathsheba" and "Sodom and Gomorrah."

For Nov. 22, the package is the old west at its best, four films from Twentieth Century Fox — "The Bravados" (1958, 99 minutes), "Broken Lance" (1954, 96 minutes), "Buffalo Bill" (1944, 90 minutes) and "Western Union" (1941, 95 minutes). None are rated, but all are acceptable by today's standards.

"The Bravados" features Gregory Peck as a grim stranger seeking vengeance for the rape and murder of his wife. Joan Collins, Stephen Boyd, Albert Salmi and Henry Silva also are featured.

"Broken Lance" is set in late 19th century Arizona with Matthew Devereaux (Spencer Tracey) as the cattle baron in conflict with his sons, played by Richard Widmark and Hugh O'Brian. There's another son in this all-star cast, Joe (Robert Wagner) whose mother (Kathy Jurado) is Indian.

Jurado was nominated for best supporting actress in 1954 for this role. Jean Peters and E.G. Marshall also appear in this film which won the 1954 Oscar for best original story.

"Buffalo Bill" stars Joel McCrea in the title role with Maureen O'Hara as his wife, Louisa. Thomas Mitchell is journalist/press agent Ned Buntline who encouraged Bill to form his famous Wild West Show after years as Indian fighter and scout.

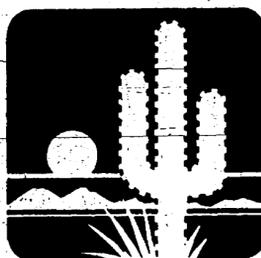

Linda Darnell, Edgar Buchanan and Anthony Quinn complement the cast.

FINALLY, RANDOLPH Scott, one of the most famous stars of classic Hollywood westerns, appears in "Western Union," a story of Vance Shaw (Scott), the guide hired to protect the men stringing telegraph wires from Omaha to Salt Lake City.

Like so many of these westerns, it sums up the nostalgia for the Old West and the interest in that formative period in American culture, the settling of the frontier from the Mississippi to the Pacific from 1840 to 1890.

Shaw and Richard Blake (Robert Young) are entangled romantically with the chief engineer's sister. "Western Union" was directed by noted German director Fritz Lang ("Metropolis," "M," "You Only Live Once") and features Dean Jagger, Virginia Gilmore and Chill Wills.

Getting hit by a car can be dangerous, but stuntman Kevin Briand knows how to take such a hit.

Eric Bryson winces with "pain" after being hit in the head with a bottle, swung by Mark Lefebvre, one of Silver Screen Stunts "dirty dozen."

'And if they say "I'm crazy enough to be a stuntman," I say "Bye."'

— Eric Bryson

'It's just another day . . .'

By Pat Schutte
special writer

Tell someone to "go jump off a bridge." You'll probably hear, "Yeah, same to you, pal" in return.

Now, if Ed Lamb tells someone to jump off a bridge he's most likely to hear "Sure, Ed, how much?"

"How much?" What kind of answer is that? "No way" or "Yeah, right, Ed" seem to be more appropriate answers.

But for Lamb, "how much" is the answer he always hears. Lamb is co-founder of Silver Screen Stunts, the only production company in the metropolitan area that offers the service of professional stuntmen. Lamb is producer/director of Silver Screen Stunts.

The other half of Silver Screen Stunts is Eric Bryson, a former martial arts instructor and award-winning black belt fighter. Bryson, who founded the Action Stunt Academy in Windsor, a school for potential stuntmen, is the "action" that goes with Lamb's "lights . . . camera."

Silver Screen Stunts came about when Lamb noticed a picture in a local newspaper of a guy setting another guy on fire. The Detroit skyline was the backdrop. The two guys in the photograph were Bryson and his stunt partner Kevin Briand, both Windsor residents.

Lamb convinced Bryson to take him on as a student/director and Silver Screen Stunts was born.

LAMB, WHO HAS been working professionally behind the camera in the Detroit area for some 20 years, believes the key to Silver Screen Stunts at present is to raise the awareness of the importance of stunts to non-broadcasting advertising.

"Our goal is to show that stunts can add action and hold the attention of people viewing marketing and training films . . . industrial type films," said Lamb, who served in the U.S. Army infantry airborne and has an extensive background in theater. "I share what I've learned about stunts with potential customers."

One of Silver Screen's recent customers was the League of Women Voters and a piece on quality drinking water. Lamb directed the re-enactment of environmental-related accidents that can occur with the help of his stuntmen.

The application of stunts to industrial-type films is unlimited, Lamb said.

"Like in a safety film, a guy involved in a graphic accident involves the audience to a point where they're asking themselves 'How would I feel in this situation?'" he said. "Stunts grasp people's attention and get them to participate."

ANOTHER FIRM, Roxy Teleproductions Inc. in Dearborn, is using Silver Screen to liven up a Conrail training program.

Roxane Firmin of Roxy Teleproductions said Silver Screen is "going to incorporate stunts with fantasy to show the consequences of improper procedure." The stunts include some spectacular falls and a dummy (dressed like an actor) getting his foot smashed between two trains.

"People say 'Yeah, another training tape,'" Firmin said. "For a little extra money, you can maximize your effort and the interest of the viewer by using some sort of stunt. This adds an element of suspense to an otherwise boring film."

Stuntmen, or stuntwomen, can make some pretty good money these days. The average daily pay for a stuntman is around $500. Fees go from a minimum of $100 to tens of thousands of dollars, depending on the stunt. And if the stuntman yells, "I drink Coke," before he gets nailed by a car, "he gets a pay bump," Lamb said with a laugh.

One of the most dangerous stunts for a stunt man is being on fire, but Eric Bryson makes it look easy.

In spite of the jokes, becoming a stuntman is serious business, according to Lamb and Bryson.

"When I put ads in some local newspapers, I got more than 1,000 phone calls, interviewed 500 plus people who wanted to get into the school and accepted only 40 people," said Bryson. "Through a half hour interview, I find out about everything from their athletic background to medical problems. And if they say 'I'm crazy enough to be a stuntman,' I say 'Bye.'"

BRYSON'S EXPERIENCE in stunts has landed him jobs on the "Super Dave Osborne Show," the CBC series "Street Legal" and the mini series "Amerika."

It's easy to take a drink of beer and tell friends you can do that stunt, but when it comes down to jumping out of a five-story high window, only a few can produce, he said.

One of those few, and perhaps the most successful student to graduate from the Action Stunt Academy, is Kevin Briand, a former Canadian semi-pro football player and Silver Screen employee. Briand's specialty is falls.

"After my (football) career came to an end, I was stuck in a factory," he said. "I got a new lease on life as a stuntman, this is the closest thing to football I could find."

All stuntmen have one main thing in common. And it's not a couple of crossed brain wires. A strong athletic background provides the foundation for all stuntmen.

"Like any sport, stunts require agility and good conditioning," said Bryson. "The biggest part of the stunt is the athletics involved in it. So stuntman really isn't a word, athlete is."

ONE SILVER student, a self-confessed "adrenaline junkie," is 35-year-old Roberta Urbani of Huntington Woods. Urbani, who works as a technical writer for Detroit Edison, was impressed with Bryson and his school.

"The realistic action of the school was challenging and a lot of fun," Urbani said. "I wish I had found this 10-15 years ago."

While Urbani hasn't had any professional work involving stunts, she is working on a play for Detroit Edison, called "Changing Channels." She plans on using some kind of stunt in the play.

Silver Screen Stunts offers a promotional tape that they call "A Dirty Dozen Stunts," 12 stunts ranging from falls and fights to car stunts and a human inferno.

Exciting? Yes. A useful tool for local advertisers and filmmakers? Sure. Dangerous? You bet.

Lamb and Bryson are the first to admit that what they do is dangerous.

"People can get hurt and it's due to stupidity," Lamb said. "Another reason is because of the massive desire to please the director. That leads to people exceeding their limits."

Bryson agreed with Lamb, but downplayed the injury aspect of being a stuntman.

"THE INJURIES that occur are usually minor cuts, bruises and bruises," he said. "We work as a team with everybody involved looking out for and making sure everything's safe for the person performing the stunt."

Bryson has never had a broken bone in his career as a stuntman.

Good money, thrills, team camaraderie, your name on the big screen and work that you'd do for fun anyway. But what do stuntmen do for excitement after a shoot?

"When we're through, we talk stunt, stunt, good looking girls, stunt, stunt," Bryson said. "I guess the most exciting thing involved with stunts is the creativity that goes into pulling one off."

Persons interested in Silver Screen Stunts and its promotional tape, "A Dirty Dozen Stunts," can call Ed Lamb at 656-9689.

Q: What's the difference between procrastination and delaying work for good reason?

A: I think you answered your own question, but let me elaborate. The reasons we procrastinate often blend into a gray area, and sorting it out may not be easy.

I recently wrote about a man in my seminar series who had placed a set of incomplete forms into a low priority action file. Those forms were less important than other work on his desk and now he felt in control — that he would get his higher priority work done without forgetting the forms.

On the last night he said he had, indeed, been focusing on and accomplishing more of his important work, but confessed those forms were still not done. After discussing why he was delaying them, he vowed to complete the forms and to "report back" the following Monday. In that call he said:

organizing

"In the beginning I really didn't have time because I was moving. Then I wasn't sure what my boss wanted so I began delaying them. As time passed, I began to blow the job up in my mind, thinking it was a bigger project than it was. Finally I blew the whole thing out of proportion, and developed a real fear of doing them. It wasn't until I began talking about it that I realized what a big deal I had made out of it in my mind. At that point it wasn't so hard to get started, I found it wasn't that difficult and didn't take as much time as I had thought. Now I finally have that gorilla off my back. Not only that, but once that was done I got ambitious and cleared off a lot of other things that needed doing, too."

A woman in my class once confessed she had never written thank you notes for her wedding gifts, received two years earlier. As time passed she suffered more and more intensely from guilt for not having acknowledged those presents. As we talked she explained, almost in tears, that she had married into a well-to-do family with equally affluent friends. She felt those people were "above" her and she was embarrassed or uncomfortable writing to them, perhaps feeling her message might be inadequate. She had actually written about half the notes, but had never mailed them. She, too, vowed to finish them. Unfortunately she never retruned to class.

I have always felt bad for her. I suspect she was a perfectionist who had difficulty believing it's better to write a thank you note, regardless of how short, late or inadequate, than delaying or not doing it at all.

Making mountains out of mole hills will muddle your mind, create guilt, lower your self esteem and prevent clear thinking. By analyzing why you delay work, you can evaluate if you are making good use of your time or if you are using avoidance behavior.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl is owner of Organizing Techniques in Birmingham. She does In-House seminars, speaking and consulting on any aspect of time management and organizing.

Redecorate to signal start of new life

Q: It's been one year since my wife died, and I've finally come around to the idea that I should redecorate the interior of our house. It had fallen into disrepair during my wife's long illness. Previously she had always taken care of these matters, and the children are of no help because they want everything left the way it was when she died. Although the furniture is of good quality, even I can recognize the color scheme is out of date. The carpets are in seafoam green, the furniture upholstery is in a rose beige and gold. What do you suggest?

A: I encourage you to redecorate to signal the end of your mourning and the beginning of a new life for you. Your children should be made to understand that you will always retain a loving memory of their mother but now you are taking full control of all decisions, including redecorating.

However, since changes such as these are always stressful, I would recommend proceeding slowly, phasing out the old while adding the new.

The first step is to decide on the overall look you would like without anyone else's influence. Part of this

all about color

is recognizing what colors you prefer and genuinely dislike. Without quite realizing it, you may have been living in a female environment and that your natural preferences may be unexpectedly different.

If you really prefer to live in soft, greyed colors, then you could build on some of the existing colors, such as the seafoam carpeting. Because the most recent trends are coming full circle to the point where you and your wife had originally decorated, you will soon find variations on your color scheme in the stores, such as golds and the newer rose beiges.

However, if you feel a need for a more substantial change, the best place to start the phase out is with the bedroom, then move on into the living room, leaving the dining room last.

You might want to experiment with the dark, Victorian study look that is very masculine for the bedroom because I'm sure it's in marked contrast to what you've had. Once you've adjusted to the deep reds, blues and greens, you can move on as you hopefully will be doing with your life.

Q: We want to transform a dark and gloomy basement into a livable area suitable for entertaining. Could you give us some guidelines on the best color and design approach to use?

A: You have a number of options that will transform your basement space effectively if you adhere to certain overall principles:

Make sure most of the materials and colors you use have a high reflectancy value to compensate for the lack of natural daylight and the closed-in look of most basements. Pure white, of course, has the highest reflectancy as a color. It reflects 85 percent of light; while black reflects only 3 1/2 percent. But too much white isn't recommended except for ceilings, because it usually results in a sterile look.

Try to use beiges and light pastels which usually fall into the 50 percent to 70 percent range. Make your darkest color light oak paneling that has a 38 percent reflectancy. If you go down into the typical or cherry finish, you will be in the 17 percent range — and much too dark for your project.

You can select almost any color within a light range, but try to avoid bright yellows and oranges if you think they will convey the impression of a sunny and cheerful day. Unless these colors are particular favorites of yours, they will soon look very contrived and become a source of agitation. This is, in fact why some food chains use these types of colors to keep their customers on the move.

Make sure you have ambient, or overall lighting throughout the basement, but reserve dramatic downlight accents for the bar and perhaps a special gaming table.

Your furniture should be light and open in scale, such as upholstered rattan. Keep the flooring light, but add a bright rug to relieve the monotony.

And finally remember that it will be the contrast of texture as much as the color that will help to enliven and lighten the area. Be bold in the use of contrasting smooth brass, mirror, and glass with the texture of rugs, textiles and graining in the paneling.

Growing tropical plants from seeds

weeder's guide

Earl Aronson

Watch the fruit counter of your supermarket during the holiday season for the makings of new tropical plants for your home. During the holidays, pomegranates, kumquats, dates and mangoes are displayed, along with the more common avocados, coconuts, tangerines, oranges and other citrus.

Occasionally, there will be something really new, such as the tangerine-like Clementine, introduced from Europe, but this one will be troublesome since it is seedless. In any event, growing plants from seeds of tropical fruits can be challenging and fascinating.

One plant that may be grown from seed is the date palm. Drying the dates does not destroy the seeds, but you should plant them promptly after removal of the pulp. Not every seed will grow, so plant a dozen or so to assure getting one or two plants.

The seeds have a hard coating, reports Ray Rothenberger, a horticulturist with the Missouri Cooperative Extension Service. He advises filing off a small area on the side of the seed to permit faster water absorption and germination, which could take six months.

KEEP SEEDS IN A warm — near 80 degrees F — moist place. Put the pot into a plastic bag and tie it shut after the seeds are planted. This will help keep them moist. Use a mix of half each peat moss and sand to start tropical fruit seeds.

Kumquat, a citrus, can make an attractive foliage plant. Citrus seeds do not need a dormancy period before planting and should germinate in a few weeks. Seeds may be injured if allowed to dry, so plant promptly after removal from ripe fruit. Use a sand-peat mixture, covering seeds lightly, and keep at normal room temperature for germination.

Grapefruit, orange, lemon, lime and other citrus may be grown from seeds in the same way. They may produce fruit under home conditions. If you want fruit, Rothenberger says, some of the smaller growing ornamental citrus will actually make better house plants. These include the Calamondin orange, mandarin orange, Ponderosa lemon and Meyer lemon. If these citrus do bloom indoors, they will require hand-pollination to get fruits to set.

Pomegranate seeds should be planted directly after removal from the fruit. Sow seeds in the sand-peat mix and keep them moist and warm.

As plants mature, they produce attractive orange-red flowers. Plants grow rather thin and leggy, and will need to be trimmed to develop a good shape indoors. They also produce basal shoots, most of which should be removed.

Growing a coconut is more difficult — you have to plant the entire nut. Nuts available in the husk are best for planting, but there is no guarantee they will grow, Rothenberger says.

Plant the coconut in a large container of sand-peat moss and keep it constantly moist and warm. Lay the nut on its side; keep the stem end, where the "eyes" appear, slightly raised. The nut need only be half-covered. A sprout will emerge through the eye at the longest side of the triangular hull. This may take a month or two.

Earl Aronson is the Associated Press gardening writer.

Woodridge Apartments

"It's the best kept secret in Livonia."

It's called Woodridge Apartments. It's the most perfect combination of luxury and comfort I've found. And I love being just a couple of minutes from the great malls in Livonia, and I-696. (Of course I love to shop-who doesn't?) I also love the tennis and pool right here, and the fact that I have covered parking for my car. The rent makes sense to me too. Since I have so many other things I want to spend my vast (?) resources on. Call 477-6448...and see for yourself today!

Superlatives dot builder's advertising

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The ultimate condominium. Extraordinary homes. Luxury condominium community. Those phrases, culled from recent advertisements, almost roll from the tongue. They sound good and look good. But what do they mean?

"Advertising people ran out of lyrics so they have to come up with new words," said James S. Bonadeo, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and himself a builder.

"It's like newspaper people. You need a leaping headline or people don't buy newspapers."

THE MEANING of words like luxury depend on a perspective, said Bonadeo and others in the industry.

"Luxury for everybody is different," said Lou Sabatini, director of sales and marketing for the John Richards Development Co. of Birmingham. "What one person considers luxurious another would consider ordinary."

So why use a word like "extraordinary" in an ad to describe a prospective condominium development in West Bloomfield?

"Every builder, I believe, thinks they're trying to do something distinct and special," Sabatini said.

The South Shores Estates on Pine Lake is "extraordinary" because it's one of the last available parcels on the lake, he said.

Lakefront living combined with the custom builder's quality construction including walnut floors and European-style cabinets makes the word an appropriate selection, Sabatini said.

RAY KARR, an owner of Estate Builders, said he doesn't have a problem billing his Hillpointe on Mirror Lake development as "the ultimate condominium in prestigious West Bloomfield."

"I live there myself," Karr said. "The reason I choose to live there is natural beauty."

"You have thousands of trees, you have a lake. All condos are set high on a hill and look down on the lake. We've constructed a gazebo, dock, swimming area. I don't know of any place that offers this much beauty at your fingertips," he said.

Richard Komer, president of Wineman & Komer Building of Southfield, said Regency Park in Rochester Hills merits designation as "dramatic new ranch condominiums" due to high-peaked ceilings in living rooms and bedrooms.

A personal belief in the product apparently provides justification for using words like luxury. Sophisticated buyers provide the checks and balances.

"EVERYONE who walks into your models and leaves becomes a walking billboard," said Sheldon Rott, national marketing and sales manager for Lifestyle Homes of Farmington Hills.

A house can be classified as luxurious by its amenities or design, Rott said.

Price isn't the only criteria. A condominium listed for $95,990 in Merriwood Park of Livonia is advertised by Lifestyle as luxury due to a two-story entry foyer, cathedral ceiling and bay windows, Rott said.

"Normally you wouldn't see that in that price range," he said.

Not only do you have luxury condos, but now you have "luxury homesites" as advertised by Colonial Acres Realty for the Greenock Hill development in South Lyon.

THAT PURPORTS to give prospective buyers the idea that "this is not a 900-square-foot home subdivision," said Diane Boelger, an agent for Colonial Acres.

Minimum house size is 2,000 square feet for ranches, 2,600 feet for colonials.

No one interviewed for this story said they had ever been confronted by a buyer who felt misled by an ad.

"When people spend that kind of money on a house, you don't sell them," Rott said. "It (house) will either sell itself or not. Advertising is just trying to get them to come down and evaluate for themselves."

"I don't think seller's puffery is taken seriously by buyers," Komer said. "People are much more sophisticated than a lot of other people are willing to admit."

Bonadeo expressed similar sentiments.

"I think the public likes a dog-and-pony show," he said. "We are the greatest promotional country in the world."

"Today, it's got so everything is luxurious," Bonadeo said. "It will just become a word that doesn't mean anything."

Builders dismiss auto slump

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Local builders are confident the recent automobile sales and manufacturing slump, with the Big Three auto makers reporting plummeting sales, will not affect new home sales.

James Bonadeo, Builders Association of Southeast Michigan (BASM) president, said the slowdown hasn't altered association members' plans for next year. In fact, builders are confident.

"I'm optimistic," said Bonadeo, who owns his own construction firm in Plymouth Township. "I've just started two subdivisions myself, and I wouldn't do that if I thought the economy was heading for a crash. We expect even production with last year across the board."

EDWARD KLIM, regional manager for Lautrec Limited, the operations arm of Lautrec Acquisitions Co. in West Bloomfield that develops manufactured housing communities, said his firm is confident that metropolitan Detroit has diversified enough to absorb an automobile manufacturing slump.

There is "a ripple effect" when the automobile market slows down, Klim said, but the increase in sales and service jobs should minimize the impact of sluggish auto sales.

"We're moving ahead on the developments that we have planned," Klim said. "All the economic indicators we've seen say there won't be a big slowdown."

Occupancy levels in Lautrec's communities and apartments continue to be high, and the company is even considering expansion projects, he said. "The rules are different today than they were 20 years ago — there's no real rule that says you have to have a recession."

According to Terrie Koch, of Koch Development, a custom home builder in Bloomfield Township, the upper end markets aren't affected by automobile market slowdowns as much as lower end housing markets.

"It certainly affects building, but it's not affecting upper level, executive homes," she said. "The first people to get laid off are not the ones who buy our homes."

IN GENERAL, manufacturing slowdowns do make people cautious. "If you've grown up in this area, it's going to have a mental impact on you."

"But we're far more diversified now than we were in the past," Koch continued. "People may step back and take a closer look, but we don't think the slowdown is going to hurt us."

Koch said builders she has talked to seem unconcerned about the slowdown. "To tell you the truth, I hadn't even given it any thought until now."

Lautrec's Klim said affordable housing developers are in as good a shape as the upper end markets.

"Most of our buyers aren't auto workers — many are two-income families in which (either income) could afford a home on their own."

Instead, any type of economic downturn will affect all of the housing market, Klim said. "But I think folks in metropolitan Detroit have learned from the late 1970s — they learned the rough way, but they did learn. No one is overextending themselves."

BASM president Bonadeo agreed, saying if the automobile industry is in more than just a temporary slowdown, home builders are in much better shape than in the late 1970s. "Many builders are remodeling homes, or building commercial or office — if housing slows, they'll do something else," he said.

OFFICE, COMMERCIAL and home remodeling are not always impacted as quickly as residential construction, so if builders find other things to do they can insulate themselves, he said.

Michigan Association of Home Builders executive vice president Steve DeHaan said the automobile manufacturing slowdown isn't having an effect on home building. "If anything, we're slightly ahead of last year."

But DeHaan added that the builders association tracks residential development by building permit application. "We don't track the automobile industry closely, although our members probably do."

"From what I've heard, no one seems to be concerned about it yet. Nothing I've seen makes me correlate the two."

Koch of Koch Development said one reason builders got hurt in the late 1970s is because they had enormous land holdings and when the economy soured, they had to make payments even though no homes were being sold.

"I don't think anyone is looking to shelter themselves, but you don't see a lot of speculative buying right now," Koch said.

MAHB executive vice president DeHaan said declining interest rates during the past two months are also beneficial to the housing market.

"Typically if interest rates fall, that's good for us; if they increase, it's bad for us," DeHaan said. "But so far I can't tell if it's having an effect or not," DeHaan said.

BASM president Bonadeo said he believes the auto makers are panicking because of a drop in sales, but he doesn't see a prolonged slowdown. "Every few years, you're going to get a slowdown."

The automotive industry is always trying to improve sales over the previous year and when they succeed, they exhaust the market, Bonadeo said.

Costly California dreamin'

Perhaps you can help settle a dispute which I have with my husband concerning California property. My husband suggests that the property values in Beverly Hills for a comparable house as opposed to Birmingham would be in a ratio of approximately four to one in terms of increased value. Can you also explain how community property there is different from divorce laws in Michigan in case we move out and things don't work out?

You'd better have a bushel full of dollars available to you if you wish to buy a house comparable to the one you presently live in in Birmingham if you want to live in Beverly Hills or its surroundings. California property as a whole has continued to soar. A recent survey which I conducted, while on a business trip there, indicates that you can expect property values in Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, Westwood and the like to be between four and five times that of what would be the cost of a similar home in a typical Detroit suburb. As it relates to Birmingham, I would say that the price of a home in Beverly Hills is probably three times as much. As to community property, it simply means, with certain exceptions, that upon the dissolution of a marriage, all property acquired during the course of the marriage is jointly owned by both parties. In effect, that is not too dissimilar from the results of a divorce here in Michigan, except that it is not automatically as a matter of law determined that the respective spouses have a 50 percent equal ownership in all property. You had better also be prepared to deal with the smog which is scary.

I am thinking about moving to San Diego. I hear there is a real estate explosion there unparalleled and that condominiums, by way of example, are being priced out of sight. Do you have any information which you can share with me objectively as I really am not terribly trusting of California Realtors.

My examination of the San Diego area tells me that there is a real estate explosion both in terms of development and escalating prices. In the last three years, real estate has literally doubled in price in most good areas. People are literally camping out to be placed on a list in the first phase of condominium projects. The goal, of course, is to get property close enough to the water to take advantage of the beaches and temperatures as opposed to being in the desert. While the smog problem is beginning to surface, San Diego is much more laid back than other parts of southern California and it is anticipated that within the next 12-24 months, the spiraling costs of real estate will continue; in fact, prime locations will no longer be available. There is almost a hysterical mentality with respect to the purchase of property and people are not, obviously, dotting their 'i's and crossing their 't's because of what they perceive to be a shortage of property, as well as the fact that if it doesn't work out, they will just sell it and make a profit and move elsewhere.

Our association board enacted a "move-in" fee to cover expenses associated with a change in occupancy. The bylaws provide that common element expenses are the responsibility of the Association, but the bylaws also provide that the board can assess against each unit in accordance with its percentage of value for these common expenses. The only exception in the bylaws is if the expense was necessitated by the negligence, misuse or neglect of a co-owner. Do you think that this "move-in" fee is enforceable?

Not according to a recent case which was decided in Washington, D.C., and which would probably be applicable here in Michigan. The court in that case held that the board's claim of power to enact a fee based upon the fact that it had broad authority to regulate the internal affairs of the development could not supersede the bylaws that specified that the owner would be individually responsible for the costs of maintaining the common elements. The court also found that even though the bylaws allowed a co-owner to be individually responsible for certain costs of maintaining the common elements, the move-in fee was not one of these categories. It would appear, therefore, that such "move-in" fees would not be reasonable and therefore not enforceable.

WRITE IT AND REAP!

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise—is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
