Man, 29, charged in murder

A 29-year-old Westland man was arraigned Sunday on a charge of open murder in the strangulation of a Stelber Street woman Feb. 24.

Miracle Ewayne Crawford was arrested by police late Friday night in the death of Shirley Ann Harris, 28.

A plea of not guilty was entered for Crawford by Judge Leo Foran in out county district court. He was remanded to the Wayne County Jail without bond. A preliminary examination is scheduled for 9 a.m. Monday, March 12, in 18th District Court.

Westland police Detective Sgt. Jerry Wright said the investigation focused on Crawford "shortly after we began to look at the case." He said police received information that showed "a discrepancy in his (Crawford's) stated whereabouts shortly before the time of discovery" of Harris' body.

Crawford had called police after returning to the home which he shared with the victim.

Crawford was given a polygraph examination by Michigan State Police.

Wright said other physical evidence "points to Crawford" but he declined to give specifics.

Harris died of strangulation according to the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office.

Harris death was the second homicide in Westland this year.

LEARNING the ins and outs of the city's zoning map now costs a few more bucks.

The Westland City Council last month approved a $5 increase for Zoning ordinance books, to $25.

The increase covers higher printing costs and the cost of placing a cover on the books, according to Diane Rohrhaft, city clerk.

BOWLERS (AND FANS) get ready! The Westland Host Lions Club will host the Lions International's annual Michigan State Bowling Tournament this weekend at the Westland Bowl, on Wayne Road north of Ford.

The tournament will feature Lions Club bowlers from across the state, said Bill Acton, Host Lions Club president.

The action gets underway 9 a.m. Saturday with opening ceremonies co-hosted by state Rep. Justine Barnes, D-Westland. Mayor Robert Thomas has also been invited to participate.

A Saturday night buffet dinner will be at the Friendship Center, on Newburgh north of Marquette, with more bowling to follow on Sunday.

Cost of the dinner, open to the public, is $10 per person. Deadline for reservations is today.

For reservations or more information call Acton, 481-5584 or Gerald Longuski, 695-4799.

JUSTINE BARNES has a new local office.

Westland constituents can now meet with their state representative or her staff in her office behind the second floor council chambers at city hall.

Office hours are 1-7 p.m. Mondays and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays. The phone number is 721-0810.

Staffing the office will be Eileen DeHart, administrative assistant, and Russ Tuttle, legislative assistant.

Union fights mayor's fire station plan

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

The Westland Firefighters Association has filed a grievance over the manning plan implemented Thursday by Mayor Robert Thomas as part of an effort to eliminate periodic station closings.

"It's in the mail and should be on the mayor's desk by Monday," Kevin Riley, union president, said Friday.

Riley expected to go to arbitration eventually over the matter, he said.

The union protest was based on the belief that the plan, which was implemented in the form of a directive from fire Chief Larry Lane, demands changes that instead should be negotiated between the city and the union as part of the collective bargaining process, Riley said.

The mayor was "misleading the public" by issuing weighted statistics on station closings in an effort to gain approval for his plan, Riley said.

"He's come up with a plan that doesn't go against the contract specifically because the contract doesn't address that exact situation," Riley said.

"But if you put everything in a contract that you can't do, you'd have to haul it around in a wagon."

THOMAS WASN'T aware of the grievance yet and couldn't comment on it specifically, the mayor said Friday.

But he said he hoped the union would reconsider the challenge and repeated his statement from last week that the plan "will create better public safety for the people of Westland."

Until Thursday, periodic closing of one or two fire stations for up to 24 hours at a time was allowed under an April 1988 minimum manning agreement worked out between the city and the firefighters' union.

The agreement, which stipulated a minimum of two firefighters on each vehicle answering a fire or rescue call, was necessary to ensure firefighters' safety, the union said.

The city's four fire stations are at Ford and Carlson (the main station), Newburgh and Palmer, Merriman and Ann Arbor Trail, and Preventive medical care for children is the goal of Dr. Verna Turkish, a pediatrician who recently opened a practice in the Garden City-Westland area after working eight years in Africa.

"You can do so much with children, educating the parents on how to keep the children healthy," she said. "I am very prevention oriented. Children have their whole lives ahead of them."

Turkish, mother of six children, treats children from newborns to 18 years old through Garden City Hospital and her recently opened Pediatric Clinic in Westland.

She plans to expand the evening

hours of her practice to accommodate the schedules of working mothers.

"I am very happy when patients can leave the office without a prescription," she said. "Basically, you can raise kids in physical and emotional health, with immunization and periodic care."

A graduate of the Chicago College of Osteopathy Medicine, Turkish had a practice in Ypsilanti from 1975 to 1982. During that time she completed work on a master's degree in public health and epidemiology, later teaching in those fields.

"I also did research on diarrhea in children on a three-year grant looking at how it is spread and prevention," she said. "My patients were very helpful. I was very interested in diarrheal disease and nutrition."

THOSE INTERESTS, along with a wish to provide pediatric services in a developing country, led Turkish and her family to Africa.

Beginning in 1982, Turkish spent four years teaching at the University of Nairobi in Kenya and ran a diarrheal clinic at the national hospital.

"I did a similar diarrheal study. I am a strong proponent of breast feeding, it is so protective," she said.

"In Kenya, we were able to get formula off the store shelves. Giving a mother a bottle in a developing country is like giving her a bomb."

In addition to antibodies in mother's milk, it is often difficult for mothers to provide proper disinfection of bottles, Turkish said.

Pizzeria robbers get cash to go

By Tedd Schneider

A pair of armed robbers ate their pizza at a table before demanding cash "to go" from the Pizza Hut restaurant on Wayne Road, south of Cowan, Monday night.

The couple munched on a leisurely dinner of pizza, tea and pop for nearly an hour before approaching the cash register and announcing the robbery, according to police reports.

Nobody was injured and about $100 was stolen, police said.

Police confiscated silverware used by the pair to check for fingerprints.

Franklin officials assaulted

A Dearborn man is charged with assaulting a Franklin High School assistant principal and teacher by spraying them with chemical Mace in the school parking lot.

Livonia Police arrested Hussien Shamseddine, 18, Thursday after he said he sprayed the two Tuesday afternoon.

Shamseddine was arraigned Friday before 16th District Court Judge Robert Brzezinski and charged with two counts of aggravated assault.

He remains free on a $5,000 bond pending a March 13 preliminary examination.

Shamseddine is charged with assaulting the pair as they escorted another teen out of the school after an altercation.

Neither Franklin staffer was injured in the attack.

District officials plan for retirement

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Some familiar faces will be missing when Wayne-Westland students return to school next fall.

A handful of retirements have been announced in recent weeks. And Wednesday the school board approved a proposal from Superintendent Dennis O'Neill to lay off 14 administrators in June to help ease a projected $5 million to $7 million budget deficit.

The cost-cutting measures were made necessary by the failure of three tax proposals in a Feb. 8 special election, according to school officials.

Announcement of teacher and program cuts is expected by mid-March.

Among the more visible people retiring at the end of the year are William Harvey, associate superintendent for instruction and planning, and two elementary principals, Timothy Baxter from Hamilton and Lawrence Williams at Walker.

Harvey said Thursday his decision to step down was made for personal reasons.

School district administrators plan to retire

"THE ELECTION (and subsequent cutbacks) really had no big effect on my decision," Harvey said. "I've been contemplating it for some time for health and personal reasons."

But Harvey said that had he stayed on next year he almost certainly would have had to take on additional job duties because of the cuts. That played a part in his decision, he said.

Harvey, 52, has spent more than three decades in education, rising through the ranks from social studies teacher to superintendent of the now-defunct Cherry Hills school district in Inkster.

When that district was consolidated into the Wayne-Westland Community Schools in 1984, Harvey assumed his current job.

Shortly after he made the transition Harvey told the Observer he had "mixed feelings" about his new job and said he sometimes missed his close relationship with students, parents and staff in the small (2,200 students at the time of the merger) Cherry Hill district.

But looking back on his mid-career switch Harvey said Thursday it couldn't have gone better. "I feel comfortable, welcome here and really I always have felt that way," he said.

OF HIS accomplishments since coming to Wayne-Westland, Harvey said he is takes particular pride in placing computers in district classrooms. He credited a $12.9 million bond issue passed by voters in January 1988 with helping get the computer program off the ground.

"That's the education technology for the next century and it feels good to have played a part in that," he said.

Although he's glad to be leaving the long hours behind, Harvey said he would try to find a way to be involved in education on a part-time basis. Retirement will also give him more time for volunteer work, participation on the board of his condominium complex, and golf, he said.

"I'll have some more time to travel and be with my family," he said.

Williams, like Harvey a former Cherry Hill administrator, said he would miss his elementary students the most. He also said leaving his staff at Walker would be difficult.

"I won't miss all the paperwork and all the other stuff," Williams said. "This job is all about the kids and that's what I'll miss."

Williams, 52, has been Walker principal for four years. He began his teaching career in Ohio before moving to the Cherry Hill district in 1982.

Prior to taking over at Walker he was principal at Hix School for 15 years.

BAXTER SAID said his retirement from the Hamilton Elementary School principalship had "nothing to do" with districtwide cutbacks. "It's just time to go out and do something different," said Baxter, who has been an educator for 35 1/2 years. He said he was considering moving into sales.

Baxter spent the last nine years at Hamilton. He began his career in Rochester Public Schools and then moved to McKee School in the former Nankin Mills district.

Pizzeria robbers eat meal, get cash to go

In the case at this point," Detective Sgt. Jerry Wright said Friday.

THE COUPLE, described as a black man and woman in their mid-20s, came into the pizzeria about 10:15 p.m. as other diners were still eating, restaurant employees told police. The two were seated at a center booth, an employee said.

At 11:15 p.m., when all the other diners had left, the couple walked up to the cash register and the man asked a waitress if she had received his tip.

The man then pulled a large, chrome-plated revolver from under his coat and demanded money from the cash register, the employee told police. The woman pulled out a black automatic pistol from under her jacket at the same time, the employee said.

The employee was instructed to place the money in a plastic bag that had been taken from the restaurant bathroom, she said. The man then placed the plastic bag inside a tan money bag with a Comerica Bank label, the employee told police.

The bandits herded the employees into a janitor's closet before leaving the restaurant, police said.

EMPLOYEES DESCRIBED the robbers as "calm and collected" and said the man did all the talking.

Both the man and the woman were about 5 feet 7 with stocky builds and short, dark hair, employees said.

The man, who may have had a mustache, was wearing a full-length trench coat, either brown or gray, they said.

The woman was dressed in a brown, nylon baseball-style jacket with an emblem on the left side and slacks, they said.

Anyone with information is asked to call Westland Police at 722-9600.

"Before women dressed like nurses would come to the hospitals and give the mothers samples of formula, just in case they needed it," she said. "They would give the mothers transistor radios to hear their jingles."

Educated women in Kenya began using formula to imitate their Western counterparts, Turkish said, with poorer women following suit.

AS PART of her work in Africa, Turkish studied ways children could be rehydrated using traditional foods rather than pre-packaged formulas, she said.

"Every mother makes a thin porridge called uji. We found that it was better than an oral rehydration food," she said. "The babies didn't lose as much weight and there was no problem over the instructions."

During her last three years in Kenya, Turkish worked for the United Nations Children's Fund through Crescent Medical Aid-Kenya, a Muslim relief organization.

"They provide medical care to the absolutely destitute. We worked with Mother Teresa's nuns and the Salvation Army," she said.

WORKING AS the director of a national child health program, Turkish taught non-medical personnel, such as teachers, to do immunizations.

"We also worked to provide family planning. Kenya has the highest birthrate in the world," she said. "Mothers would ask us if they really are able to plan families."

A survey that was conducted showed a large misunderstanding between Kenyan husbands and wives over family planning.

"About 73 percent of the mothers said fathers would be opposed to family planning. The old idea was to have a lot of children to care for them when they got old," Turkish said. "But 82 percent of the fathers said they supported family planning."

WHILE LIVING in Nairobi, Turkish and her family lived in a developed residential area. The last three years in Kenya were spent living on a farm within a tea plantation.

"We were surrounded by four acres of trees. We raised pears, cherries and avocados," she said. "We had a fruit juice and bakery business. Salaries were so low up there."

Turkish plans to return to Africa for visits and possibly to live after she retires.

Her oldest children, of whom one wants to be an architect and another a wildlife biologist, also plan to return to Africa after completing their studies.

"I'm very happy that they want to go back. Working on the farm was hard but it gave them an appreciation of growing food, building houses and repairing their shoes," she said.

"My youngest asked what kids here meant when they say they are bored. They never had time to be bored in Africa."

Pack marks 25 years

CUB PACK 860, one of Westland's oldest Scouting units, marked its 25th anniversary Feb. 28, with 175 people attending the annual Blue and Gold Dinner.

Held in Westland's Stevenson Junior High School, the Scout leaders opened the event to alumni of the pack's Webelos unit, which provides a transition for boys moving from Cub Scouting to Boy Scouting.

There were five former Webelos members who returned for the dinner, although many others contacted dinner planners and Scout leaders, said Shawn Steketee, assistant den leader.

She said parents and former Scouts at the dinner wrote their favorite Scouting experiences in a log distributed at the event.

"The most frequently mentioned activities were the organized Scout baseball league; the pinewood derbys and the campouts," she said.

She had contacted the Webelos unit's charter cubmaster, Harvey Balon, and others who couldn't make the dinner.

At the dinner, many parents shared memories of their experiences in Scouting, including one whose daughter enjoyed helping out in the pack's skits and later became a drama teacher.

Steketee also thanked the numerous businesses that donated gifts for the annual Scouting birthday dinner.

Pack 860, based at Madison Elementary School, on Carlson at Avondale, died out several times and was later revived, Steketee said.

Currently, the pack is growing so fast it has outgrown its home at the Madison School, she said.

Union objects to plan to keep fire halls open

Palmer west of Merriman.

CONCERN ABOUT increased response times when stations were closed was an issue during last fall's mayoral election campaign. Thomas made a new staffing plan one of his top priorities after taking office Jan. 1.

Thomas met twice with union leaders to discuss the plan and delayed implementing it when the union voiced concerns.

But the arrangement that went into effect Thursday was "virtually the same plan he showed us in January," Riley said Friday.

"THE ONLY difference is that he dropped his proposal for the lowest staffing level of 13 (firefighters on duty per shift), which he knew we would never have agreed to anyway," Riley said.

Statistics compiled by the fire department and released by Thomas last week showed that at least one station was closed on 352 of the first 394 days of the 1988 agreement. Two stations were closed on 56 of those days, according to the agreement.

Since his administration took office, Thomas said, at least one station has been closed 70 percent of the time.

THE NEW plan would eliminate the closing of two stations and reduce by 90 percent the number of days that one station is closed, Thomas said last week.

But Thomas' statistics don't cover the period from summer 1989 to the present where all four stations have been up and running "far more often," Riley said Friday.

"If fact, since the beginning of the year there's only been one day when both stations were closed," he said.

The hiring of nine new firefighters in 1989 and 1990 (some to replace retiring firefighters) has helped reduce the number of station closings, Riley said.

WILLIAM STOTTLEMYER

Services for Mr. Stottlemeyer, retired Westland postmaster, were held March 1 from the Uhl Funeral Home, Westland, with the Rev. Robert Millar officiating.

Mr. Stottlemeyer, a long-time Wayne and Westland resident, was a former Wayne city council member for many years when he was named post master of the Wayne post office in early 1969. At that time, the Wayne facility handled all the mail for the city of Westland.

In the mid-1970s, Stottlemeyer moved to the just-opened Westland Post Office on Wayne Road near Hunter. He retired in the fall of 1988 for health reasons.

Mr. Stottlemeyer died Sunday after a short illness.

He was in a pioneer Nankin Township-Westland family, living in the community for most of his 65 years.

He was active in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Shriners and Masonic Lodge.

Survivors are his wife, Edith; daughter, Judy Holdridge; and son, Brad.

A HOMEOWNER on the 29700 block of Paul told police a silver-blue fox fur coat valued at $1,800 was among the items stolen in a Wednesday break-in at her home.

The break-in occurred between 8:30 and 10 p.m. while nobody was home, the woman reported.

Police said the burglar apparently forced open a side door to enter the home.

The burglar may have passed items through the bedroom window to an accomplice standing outside, police believe. A hole was cut in the window screen, they said.

A RESIDENT on the 33800 block of Blackfoot reported that someone stole a sewer snake from his garage last month.

The snake, valued at $400 by the resident, was stolen between Feb. 9 and 26.

Mayor, staff to hear from residents

The first in a series of town hall meetings, in which Westland officials will talk with the public, is set for 7 p.m. Thursday at the Bailey

Recreation Center, 36651 Ford, behind city hall.

Mayor Robert Thomas will host the meetings and city department heads will attend. Admission is free and the meetings are open to all Westland residents.

Thomas, who took office Jan. 1, said the monthly meetings are designed to help residents who have problems with city services or just want to meet with city officials. Finding ways to allow residents easier access to city government was one of the points he stressed during his mayoral campaign last fall.

The meetings will be taped for cable broadcast over the city's Channel 8 and refreshments will be served, Thomas said.

'Cominghome' king crowned

Winning the "best legs" contest, part of the school tradition, was Brian Henson.

Both are seniors while Barnes is also senior class president.

The "Cominghome" events of the week of Feb. 12 represented a spoof of the traditional homecoming activities held in the fall.

The king and best legs winners were initially scheduled to be announced at halftime of the Feb. 16 basketball game, postponed because of inclement weather.

The winners were named at halftime of the Feb. 27 home basketball game against Dearborn Fordson.

Insurance cap sparks debate

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Two attorneys sharply disagreed last week on how far state law should go in capping auto insurer payouts for personal injury accidents.

"We'd like to get a handle on costs," said James Borin of Troy, whose Detroit firm defends auto insurers in catastrophic cases such as brain injuries.

Borin told the Senate Commerce Committee that a Republican-sponsored bill allowing insurers to offer caps of $250,000 to $2 million would limit expenses.

But a plaintiffs' lawyer, George Sinas of Lansing, said capping expenses would destroy the promise made to Michigan drivers under the no-fault insurance law.

"The current no-fault law says insurers must pay all medical and rehabilitation expenses. That was the main selling point in 1973. This bill suggests change," Sinas charged.

THE BILL before the Senate panel is SB 712, offered by chairman Richard Posthumus, R-Alto. It aims to order auto liability rates cut by 25 percent in return for tighter definitions of bodily injury and optional limits on payouts.

In contrast, a House Democratic bill was drafted to order a 20 percent rate cut with no word on costs. House Republicans made a mockery of it by raising the cut to 30 percent and gleefully helped pass it 105-0 last December.

Posthumus is ignoring the House bill. He is taking his time in the commerce panel, stretching out Tuesday afternoon hearings over a month and scheduling expert witnesses.

BORIN AND Sinas appeared side by side, like Lincoln and Douglas, veterans at debating each other and highly respectful of the other's skills.

They agreed the state shouldn't try to cap doctors' fees.

"When government pegs prices," said Sinas, "doctors at the cutting edge may relegate these cases to second-class status."

"Surgeons will select patients who can pay their regular fees. Accident victims will be pushed down the line."

Added Borin: "I can't see artificial limits on fees."

The bill before the Senate panel is SB 712, offered by chairman Richard Posthumus, R-Alto. It aims to order auto liability rates cut by 25 percent in return for tighter definitions of bodily injury and optional limits on payouts.

SINAS SAID a 1983 court decision called "Cassidy" required that an injury, to be compensated, must impair a body function and be "objective" — that is, verifiable by a medical doctor.

But a later decision, called "DiFranco," overruled Cassidy because too few plaintiffs were recovering damages, the plaintiffs' lawyer said.

"This bill (Posthumus) returns us to the darkest days of Michigan no-fault law — to the Cassidy days," Sinas said.

Replied Borin: "I'm not saying go back to the common law days (when a person 1 percent at fault could collect nothing)." But he said the Cassidy case at least set standards for recovery, while DiFranco had none.

A SPOKESMAN for the the NAACP said rates for Detroiters are so high that an estimated 30 percent of drivers don't even buy insurance, and others have to travel to the suburbs to find a company to insure them.

"The issue is affordability," said Melvin Hollowell, pointing to the difference in costs in two city-suburban corridors:

• Plymouth Road — Detroiters, mainly blacks, pay $1,410; Livonians, mainly white and only 2 1/2 miles away, pay an average of $894.

• Michigan Avenue — Detroit average, $1,734; Dearborn, $980; Inkster, $1,400; and Wayne, $928.

"There is not a great difference in the auto theft rate," said Hollowell, calling the Detroit rates "excessive and discriminatory."

As Detroit's auto theft rate fell 30 percent recently, premiums rose 50 to 150 percent, he charged. "That is no way to reward Detroit."

HOLLOWELL, who was particularly critical of AAA's rates, was asked by senators why other companies didn't compete for Detroiters' business and undercut AAA's rates.

House says no to school choice

AP — Allowing parents to choose their children's schools may hurt some students and schools, say lawmakers who voted down an open-enrollment bill.

The House on Tuesday voted 61-36 against the proposal, which its backers said would have encouraged administrators to improve their schools for fear of losing top-notch teachers and students to other facilities within the district.

Currently, public-school students generally must attend a school designated for their neighborhood.

The bill would require that all districts decide whether to convert to a system where students could attend any school within district boundaries. If the district decided to implement the new setup, it would form a committee of parents, educators and administrators to further study the transition, said its sponsor, Rep. Claude Trim, R-Waterford.

"The status quo, the way things are right now, is not working," said Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City and chairman of the House Education Committee.

"This bill does not mandate choice, it mandates that districts look at choice," Keith said. "It gives choice a chance in Michigan."

Those voting against the bill included: Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia; Justine Barnes, D-Westland; John Bennett, D-Redford and Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

Keith said President Bush, Democratic Gov. James Blanchard and Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, all support schools of choice, but said influential education lobbyists were holding the bill back.

Opponents, however, said the plan would hurt students who have uninformed parents and may have families picking schools for the wrong reasons — such as the winning record of sports teams.

Education groups say the bill isn't needed because individual districts can vote for schools of choice now and some already have implemented the concept.

"I have not seen any research that shows that schools of choice will help any student. In fact just the opposite is true," said Rep. Nate Jonker, D-Cllo.

WRAPPING & STRAPPING

Treatment of arthritic joints can include more than medication, injection or heat. When the damage involves ligament strain, wrapping becomes appropriate therapy. The joint that responds best to this approach is the ankle.

To wrap the ankle properly, you should use a 2 inch wide ace wrap. Anklelettes or a narrower wrap will not suffice. You should start wrapping at the foot, just above the toes. Cover all the foot and ankle with overlapping loops, and end the wrap at the lower third of the leg. Be sure to cover the heel. The wrap should be pressing firmly over the areas covered, almost to the point of feeling tight.

Undertake this treatment for 4-5 days; then begin to use the wrap for only half a day. If the ankle remains sound, discontinue the wrap completely.

Wrapping the knee is rarely successful because the constant bending motion of walking inevitably loosens the wrap. Wrapping the wrists without concomitant splinting usually fails because repetitive motion prevents maintenance of even compression over the wrapped area.

How today's women survive midlife crisis

(This is part of a series on marriage passages from Karyn Pasquel's planned book. All rights reserved.)

Well, women, it's our turn. In previous columns, I talked about men's midlife crises. But women have similar crises. Their crises are similar to those of men, but carry some interesting twists.

Keep in mind that I base and modify my hypotheses on a combination of experiences shared by my clients, data from other researchers, and my own experiences.

Even I found myself overly self-conscious of much more "worn" I looked than my two daughters, ages 20 and 18. I felt compelled to explain continually that we used to look more alike, apologizing for my flaws.

The wonderful reality is that male friends don't want the young, immature women — even though they are the "perfect" women. Sometimes, men prefer someone with more intellect and maturity.

While I made silly, but normal, comparisons with my daughters, I have learned to be happy with myself as I am. The potential insecurity, understood and put into its proper perspective, was not allowed to develop into a damaging experience.

WHAT IS the woman's identity crisis? It occurs right around the time the husband's does, so she can't get adequate support from him. And it comes when the children are in the throes of adolescence.

Each family member is dealing with a difference crisis that demands attention from another family member who is not capable, because of his/her own individual crisis, of providing support.

This creates a vulnerable family unit made up of several shaky members. At a time when each needs the most support from a loved one, that same loved one is at a point of breaking himself/herself.

It is vital that marriage partners understand this "midlife" crisis and work through it together so the period accomplishes an enhancement to the person as well as the family unit.

UNDERSTANDING THE problem and open communication are the key factors. In the midlife crisis, it is hard to communicate as it is difficult to define what it going on. It is also hard for one partner, going through his/her own crisis, to emphasize with the other since the focus is on self at the time.

When talking things out is attempted, it often ends in an emotional, angry exchange.

Women in this stage are experiencing strong feelings of neglect by their husbands. If they have adolescent daughters, the daughters are aware of the attention they receive from their father and other males on "how pretty or youthful" they are.

The mother may start to imagine how it would be to share an apartment with the daughters, and may even start talking or dressing in a manner resembling the daughters. The glamour of being a single woman is enticing. Why?

In midlife crisis, a woman has fulfilled and almost completed her role of raising children and keeping house and husband happy. Now the older children are leaving with others closely behind. The wife turns inward to see her purpose and youthfulness slipping away.

FOR YEARS, this woman has been able to feel fulfilled, even if the marriage relationship wasn't the best. This is because the requirements of motherhood distracted her from attending to her own personal needs.

Many think that if the wife went to work outside the home, she was fulfilling her personal needs. The woman may not understand what her true needs are until she finds herself having to let children leave the house, her husband non-attentive, her work being the "same old thing," her energy decreasing, and her age beginning to contrast with her daughter's in appearance.

It is normal for anyone, male and female, to get tired of being an adult with responsibilities, requirements, expectations and roles.

At that point of the midlife crisis, we tend to feel that life is controlling us. In rebelling, we fight back to regain control, failing to realize that it was always our choice to do that at any time.

THEN THE "selfish" stage begins. We now find ourselves hypersensitive, suspicious and defensive in an effort to hang on to self-control. We see ourselves getting hard but are unwilling to be softened. We don't like the person we are becoming but are afraid to let go.

These feelings are normal, as frightening and intense as they are. Be patient with yourself.

How can a woman be patient, loving and respectful to a husband and children when she is feeling unneeded, unappreciated, unattractive and lacking purpose? We must learn to fulfill our own internal needs without someone else — alone — first.

But first, the needs must be identified. Next week, I will discuss how to identify internal needs.

Pasquel, a counselor, is founder and director of Foundational Living Inc. Contact her at 326-0354 for information on her upcoming workshops.

Value rising And suburbanites are restless

THE SUBURBAN natives are restless.

The reason is the soaring increases in property taxes.

Some retirees in northern Oakland County are complaining about $9,000 tax bills.

On a smaller level, increases are running about 10 percent a year, which is the general rate of inflation in the real estate market, but far above the more overall inflation rate of 4.8 percent in the past year.

The furor over assessment increases has resulted in many school millages or bond issues being defeated because homeowners can't afford higher tax bills along with their high mortgage payments.

But, frankly, I can't get excited about the furor.

The reason is a comment made by a labor relations attorney summing up the way contract grievances are handled.

He said that when supervisors are faced with a grievance, they should remember that "it's not what's fair, it's what's in the contract."

In other words, if a union employee doesn't like the way a problem was handled under the negotiated contract, the union should change the contract's provisions at the next negotiations.

In dealing with property taxes, the "contract" is the Michigan Constitution, approved in the spring of 1963 when property values were falling. When they were increasing, it was a more moderate rate of only 1 or 2 percent a year.

The convention delegates who wrote the Constitution in 1961-62 knew what they were doing in tying property assessments to market values.

AT THE time, the convention delegates wanted local officials to be able to have local tax revenues increase with the rate of inflation to have money to operate their programs.

In those days, a typical used single-family home prices were $10,000-$12,000 with property taxes about $300-400 a year.

With housing prices generally five times the 1963 level, property taxes should be running $1,200 to $1,400.

Leonard Poger

But in the real world, property taxes are much higher, due in part to higher millage rates.

What is perceived as the culprit by frustrated homeowners is the constitutional provision which sets a ceiling of 50 percent on assessments compared to market value.

A few years after the constitution was adopted by Michigan voters, the Legislature considered a specific percentage of market value to set assessments. Ultimately, legislators set the level at 50 percent.

So if your home is valued at $60,000, the local assessment should be $30,000.

If your home increases in value by 10 percent next year, the assessment will move to $33,000.

IN THE past 11 years, assessment increases have become academic because of the 1978 Headlee Amendment to the state Constitution controls the annual property taxes through reducing local millage rates to the rate of inflation, which has been 3 to 4.8 percent in recent years.

That means that if you have a $2,000 tax bill this year, it may go up to $2,096 next year, reflecting a 4.8 percent increase in the inflation rate.

The increase in your tax bill is only $96 a year, or $8 a month, hardly enough to get excited about.

That amount may even be lower because the property tax can be used as a deduction on your federal income tax return. The state also provides a "circuit breaker" tax refund for persons whose property taxes are high in relation to their income.

The perception among homeowners is that assessment increases of 10 percent will automatically result in a tax bill increase of 10 percent.

Not true. The reality is that the net increase will be far less.

But most homeowners will hang on to their perceptions, not the reality of the matter.

On another basis, most homeowners get excited about assessment increases because they are individually notified through the mails by their hometown assessor.

But I don't recall any personal notification from my president or congressman when my federal Social Security taxes were raised. The increase was merely reflected in my paycheck.

IF A person gets a job promotion and a 10 percent pay raise, he/she automatically pays 10 percent more in state, federal and Social Security income taxes, but no one complains.

It's the property tax that upsets people more than any other tax.

If homeowners want to change assessment policies, they must force a change in the state Constitution or convince the legislature to reduce the level of assessments from the current 50 percent.

But a side effect of that solution would be to also lower tax revenues used by local schools to pay for teachers and books and city governments to pay for police, fire, and rubbish collection services.

NO ONE wants to reduce the level of public services.

But the same people also demand a cap, if not a reduction, in local property taxes which pay for those services.

As the labor relations attorney said:

"It's not what's fair, it's what's in the contract."

If you don't like assessment increases, then contact your state legislator to change the rules.

But don't blame legislators and local assessors for following the rules on the books.

They didn't create a runaway inflation in suburban real estate markets. The assessment increases merely mirror the real estate market and don't precede it.

Controversy over exec's successor sent to panel

By Wayne Peal
Staff writer

Wayne County's latest controversy — a proposed change in the county executive's line of succession — is in the hands of a three-member panel.

A panel of three county commissioners is expected to schedule a public hearing, perhaps as early as this week, to determine whether voters will be asked to change the county charter. The proposed change would make the county commission chairman next in line for the executive's job, rather than the deputy county executive as is now spelled out in the charter.

At the same time, one local commissioner said he was considering submitting an alternative proposal that would make the deputy commissioner's job an elected, rather than an appointed post.

THE ISSUE is heavy with political ramifications.

County Executive Edward McNamara raised eyebrows with a recent announcement he was considering running for governor in 1994. In some commissioners' minds that apparently meant McNamara — considered a near-certainty in this year's executive's race — would leave office early, allowing deputy Michael Duggan to advance to the executive's post. Such a move would enable Duggan to run as an incumbent in the 1994 executive's race.

But if the proposed change in succession were made at this time, commission chairman Arthur Blackwell, D-Detroit, or another commission member chosen by commissioners would become the executive for 120 days until a special election is held.

Blackwell, who proposed the change, is one of the three commissioners on the panel. He is joined by Kay Beard, D-Inkster, whose district includes Westland and Garden City and Bernard Kilpatrick, D-Detroit.

It was Blackwell who also proposed the panel at Thursday's commission meeting, rather than calling for a direct commission vote on putting the issue before voters.

"There was some uncertainty on the commission's part," Blackwell said afterward. "This will provide more of an opportunity for discussion."

Despite the overtones, Blackwell said the proposal wasn't politically motivated. Instead, he said, the change would assure that the first successor would be an elected official, rather than an appointed one.

"We don't want anyone to think this is something that's being done for personal reasons," he said. "But it is something I feel strongly about."

If there weren't sufficient commission votes to put the issue on the ballot, Blackwell said, he would consider starting a petition drive.

Duggan could not be reached for comment.

Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, said he was considering proposing an alternative resolution that would make the deputy executive's post an elective office and allow voters to choose both officials at the same election.

"If we held a special election (on the Blackwell proposal) that would cost the county an estimated $2 million," Mack said. "That's money we don't have."

Support growing for mobile home tax

Mobile homes in licensed mobile home parks would be taxed just like houses under three legislative bills that are getting increasing local government support.

Since 1959, mobile homes in parks have been taxed $36 a year, although local officials say some are worth as much as $60,000.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments last week joined the Michigan Municipal League and Michigan Townships Association in supporting three bills in the House of Representatives to tax mobile homes the same as site houses.

"THE CURRENT form of taxation of mobile homes within licensed mobile home parks is discriminatory and antiquated," said the SEMCOG resolution, offered by Romulus Mayor Beverly McNally.

"Taxpayers in the community are paying higher taxes to offset cost of schools, police and fire protection and recreation services provided to residents of mobile home parks."

It passed without opposition. Mobile homes on private property — as distinct from those in mobile home parks — pay property taxes just like site houses.

MOBILE HOME owners do pay the state 4 percent sales tax when they buy their units. Their rent also covers the park owner's share of property tax and single business tax, along with special assessments for water and sewer.

And mobile park owners say they provide many municipal services at no cost to the city or township — internal street maintenance, lighting, sidewalks, trash collection and snow removal.

But local government officials say mobile home parks fail to pay for their share of schools and other costly services.

SEMCOG's executive committee endorsed the concept of House Bills 4943-45. They would repeal the current $3 a month tax, provide for the taxation of mobile homes in parks as personal property and exempt used mobile homes from the 4 percent use tax.

Cast iron is worth its weight

How could I resist?

With the onslaught of winter "home" sales, just about every color glossy stuffed into my Sunday paper proclaimed a sale on heavy, cast-iron cookware.

Most of the sales mentioned only cast-iron frypans but one sale in particular caught my eye with a four-piece cookware set including two frypans and a covered dutch oven. I toted the 20-pound-plus equipment throughout the store after becoming the proud owner of a brand-new set of cast iron cookware.

Momma frequently cooked in cast iron, and to this day still hauls out a frypan and cauldron from the fruit cellar for impromptu Sunday morning egg fests and tummy-warming pots of chili.

Those of you who remember a story that ran last year in Taste called for preparing the "ultimate brownie," in a large cast-iron frypan. I'll admit that when I tested the recipe for that brownie, I had to venture on down to Wyandotte to borrow Momma's frypan. Unfortunately, the diet I'm now on will forbid me making the brownie recipe in my new-found cookware but, nevertheless, I look forward to testing new recipes in these toys.

WHY ALL THE hoopla on cast-iron cookware? Cast-iron cookware is heavy. It absorbs heat slowly and evenly, retains it like no other and is a good conductor of heat as well — all excellent qualities for a cooking vessel to possess.

Unfortunately, there is a negative side, too. Cast iron is rather brittle. It rusts, stains and becomes pitted on exposure to air, dampness and some foods, and it tends to become distorted when heat is applied.

Food purists will either applaud cast iron for its ability to impart certain minerals into the food while cooking or crucify it for its inability to withstand the pitting that occurs from cooking foods high in acidity.

From a professional standpoint, you just can't beat cast iron's ability to slowly cook a stew or chili, seldom burning it. Sunny-side eggs take on a distinctive crust that I still remember from the days when Momma cooked up a pound of bacon and then plopped in a half-dozen or so eggs into the molten, bacon grease.

She would use the special steel spatula, that doubled as a dreaded disciplinary tool, to splash the grease onto the tops of the eggs to just barely cook the tops. It wouldn't take an expert to see and taste the difference from an egg made in a plastic-handled non-stick frypan compared to one made in a cast-iron frypan.

THERE ARE, of course, a few pointers that all owners of cast-iron cookware should heed. First off, cast-iron cookware is particularly likely to become warped if subjected to high heat or sudden extremes in temperature. Therefore, never place cast-iron cookware directly on a high-heated burner or in a hot oven. Place the cookware on a cold burner or in a cold oven and allow the heat to raise gradually.

Common sense should prevail when cooking with cast iron because of its hearty, heat conduction. You can cook and get the same results over a medium-low heat compared to high heat.

After using the cookware, it should be washed, dried and seasoned immediately. Never place the cookware filled with food in the refrigerator, freezer or dishwasher. If the food has burned or stuck on the bottom or sides, scouring will remove some of the seasoned coating but a light scrubbing with table salt and dry paper towel will remove any leftover food residue with minimal efforts.

If you have a gas or an electric stove, you will notice a difference when cooking with cast iron. If nothing else, you will benefit from the lifting. Bon Appetit!

Southfield nutritionist Gail Posner conducts group tours, pointing out healthy food choices to make in the supermarket. Here she escorts the Birmingham-Bloomfield Newcomers Club around the Shopping Center Market in Farmington Hills.

Getting smart about groceries

THESE DAYS, it seems like you need to be a registered dietician to make intelligent choices at the grocery store.

But if you can't become a dietician, maybe you can at least bring one along. That's what a group of women from the Birmingham-Bloomfield Newcomers Club did on a recent weekday morning.

The 10 women took a guided tour of the Shopping Center Market at Orchard Mall in Farmington Hills. They were accompanied by nutrition counselor Gail Posner, who has a master's degree in nutrition and 10 years experience in the field. Posner offers the tours as part of her private nutrition counseling practice.

Providing free samples along the way, she walked the group past the butters, the chips, the breads, the cheeses and the yogurts, pointing out what were really healthy choices and what merely seemed to be.

Posner started out with a basic primer on fats in food, since that is the main concern when it comes to lowering cholesterol and reducing the chance of cancer and other diseases. She explained there are three types of fats: saturated fats, polyunsaturated fats and monosaturated fats. The saturated fats, found in animal fat, lard, whole milk and tropical oils such as coconut oil, are high in cholesterol and should be minimized.

POLYUNSATURATES — In corn oil, sunflower oil, mayonnaise and walnuts — have been considered a good choice until recently. But it has been discovered, Posner said, that polyunsaturated not only lower the unwanted low-density lipoproteins (LDLs) in the blood but also lower the high-density lipoproteins (HDLs), thought to help combat cholesterol. So the best choice when it comes to fats, she said, are the monosaturates: canola oil, rapeseed oil, peanut oil, olive oil and hi-oleic safflower oil.

"When we compare the monosaturates with saturated fats, we're not talking about moderately worse," Posner said. "We're talking a major dietary disaster."

First stop on Posner's tour were the dairy products. Pointing out that regular cheddar cheese has 110 calories an ounce, she offered several cheeses that are very low in fat and calories — two to three grams per slice and 35 calories. She also had them try some reduced-calorie cheeses — such as Kraft Lite Line — which have five to six grams of fat, but which the group seemed to agree taste better.

Next stop on the tour was the snack foods. Here the issue is not cholesterol but fat.

"Don't go and find some bag of potato chips labeled 'no cholesterol' and then say, 'Aren't you proud of me?'" Posner said with a laugh. "All potato chips are made with vegetable oil and are cholesterol-free. But you need to look at what kind of oil is used. And no matter what you buy, it's still a lot of fat."

FOR LOW-FAT snacks, Posner recommends pretzels (you can have 30 or so small stick pretzels for a serving), popcorn popped without oil and sprayed with a vegetable spray, and rice or popcorn cakes. Watch out for microwave popcorns though. Many are loaded with fat. Posner particularly recommends the flavored rice cakes and the popcorn cakes, which have more flavor than plain rice cakes.

Next, Posner stopped in front of the breads. The key to choosing breads, she said, is making sure whole wheat flour is listed as the first — and therefore the major — ingredient. If it says wheat flour, that means it's just white flour and doesn't offer enough fiber.

The group also sampled a new line of Entenmann's baked goods, which have no fat and fewer calories than the company's other products. They tried cakes, coffeecakes and cookies, and seemed universally pleased. Posner approves of

Improve health with these tips

10 TIPS FOR EATING BETTER AND EATING LESS

- Have fresh vegetables washed and cut in your refrigerator at all times for snacking.
- Get rid of high-calorie leftovers right away. Give them away or throw them out.
- Try frozen fruits — grapes, banana slices, pineapple chunks — for snacks.
- Use butter substitutes on vegetables.
- Buy one doughnut from the bakery rather than a package of 12 from the store.
- Eat slowly and drink water between bites.
- Substitute ground turkey for ground beef in recipes.
- Shop quickly to avoid triggering eating cues.
- Store problem foods in a hard-to-reach spot, or eliminate them altogether.

Italian restaurant has homey quality

On the edge of the Rosedale Garden section of Livonia, there's a neighborhood Italian restaurant that embodies all the warmth and homeyness you might expect to find in a village restaurant in Italy.

At DePalma's, strangers greet you as if you are old friends. The hostess seats you in a cozy booth in a dim, unpretentious room. A woman with a lovely soprano voice plays the baby grand and sings "Santa Lucia" as you read through the extensive menu. Then a young waiter wearing a white shirt and black vest chats a moment before taking your order for wine and hors d'oeuvres.

Even Scrooge would have to enjoy an evening that starts like that.

DePalma's is about to mark its second anniversary, but its chef and owner, Vito N. DePalma, has been cooking around Detroit for several years.

The restaurant is clearly more than a business to DePalma. One of his two managers is Syd Harris, a former restaurateur himself, who works the room like a politician and makes sure the service is "perfecto." And on Wednesday nights, the restaurant becomes a theater of sorts as the members of the Verdi Opera Society pay homage to Enrico Caruso.

Guests are coddled and entertained — and served hearty, Italian cooking. The meals range from pastas and fresh fish to a wide range of veal dishes. A surefire winner is the veal zingara, a delicious and salty combination of black olives, prosciutto, sun-dried tomatoes and thin slices of veal sauteed in butter and sherry. It is excellent.

A DISH OF fettucini with fresh mussels was good, though a tremendous portion. The mussels, served in their shells and cooked exactly, were tossed with the fresh noodles and tomato sauce. Though we found the sauce a little oily, it was seasoned gently and deliciously. The pasta was freshly made.

With most entrees comes a choice of soup or salad, a side dish of pasta or a potato and a fresh vegetable. Few guests ever get to the desserts — and many leave carrying the portions they couldn't finish and couldn't part with.

The restaurant serves a very good minestrone, which almost resembles a bean soup. It doesn't have a heavy tomato taste to it. The breads are wonderful, from the Italian bread with a very heavy crust to the La-Vache, a sweet matzo-like bread.

Even the fresh green beans served with our dinners were crisp and good. Alas, we were disappointed in the lemon shrimp appetizer, in which the shrimp and artichoke hearts were overcooked.

The wine list is as comfortable and unpretentious as the restaurant. It provides ample selections but isn't outrageously expensive or exclusive.

Overall, DePalma's is a special place where you will find good meals, friendly and attentive service and reasonable prices. The lunch menu features your expected selection of pastas, sandwiches and salads — with several interesting variations — like a meatball submarine or a chicken parmesan sandwich or the pineapple royale in which a pineapple is stuffed with chicken salad, topped with toasted almonds and served with fresh fruit.

All dinner and lunch entrees are available for take out, and the restaurant offers a fax service where you can gather lunch (or even dinner party) orders and be assured they will be ready when you are. It is a business after all.

the new products, but also issued a warning.

"Don't think that just because something like this is lower calorie, you can eat all you want," she said. "You still need to watch the portion size. Sometimes it's better to divide it into portions as soon as you buy it so you don't get carried away."

A FEW MEMBERS of the group were getting carried away, and had to be called on to the margarine. "Pick a diet margarine," was Posner's advice. "Even if your weight is okay, you'll be getting half the fat."

For salad dressings, another potential source of fat and calories, Posner offered samples of several reduced-calorie dressings, including a Richard Simmons line that you squirt on rather than pour. For restaurant meals, she recommended some reduced-calorie dressings that come in individual servings and can be brought along.

When the tour ended, all the women seemed to think that their morning had been well spent.

"I learn so much from her," said Linda Hernandez, a client of Posner's and the one who organized the tour for her friends. "There's so much information and so many misconceptions out there about different products. Gail cuts through it all and tells you what you need to know."

Although Posner offered many tips on how to eat more nutritiously, she does not recommend people try to change their eating habits overnight. Instead she encourages people to make gradual changes they can stick with.

Posner has two tours coming up which cost $15 and are open to anyone who is interested. Tours will take place at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 14, and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 21. For reservations, call 354-4450.

CHICKEN PICCATA

1 1/4 pounds chicken or turkey breasts (boneless and skinless)
2 tablespoons flour
pepper to taste, or Mrs. Dash
2 tablespoons low-calorie margarine
1/2 cup chicken bouillon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 paper-thin lemon slices

Pound chicken into thin cutlets between sheets of wax paper with a mallet. Mix together flour and pepper and dredge chicken lightly in seasoned flour, shaking off excess. Melt margarine in a skillet and saute chicken 2-3 minutes on each side, or until golden. Remove chicken and set aside. Add chicken bouillon and lemon juice to skillet, bring to a boil, and boil 1-2 minutes. Return chicken to skillet and place a lemon slice on each cutlet. Cover and simmer 5 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken with slotted spoon and place on a heated serving platter; reserve pan liquid. Surround chicken with cooked lemon slices. Cook liquid over medium-high heat until reduced to a thin syrupy glaze. Pour sauce over chicken. Makes 4 servings.

Each serving contains about: 222 calories, 8 gm fat, 33 gm protein, 402 mg sodium (use salt-free chicken stock to reduce sodium), 89 mg cholesterol and 4 gm carbohydrates.

POTATO KEBABS

2 small potatoes — each cut into 8 wedges
4 large mushrooms

1/2 large tomato, cut into quarters
1/2 green pepper, cut into quarters
4 pieces onion paprika
2 teaspoons soy sauce
Molly McButter.
4 bamboo skewers

Place potato wedges in a saucepan with 1 inch cold water. Bring to a boil, add potato wedges, cover and cook 10 minutes. Place partially cooked potato wedges on bamboo skewer, alternating with mushroom, tomato, green pepper and onion pieces. Brush with soy sauce, sprinkle with paprika and Molly McButter. Spray cookie sheet with vegetable cooking spray. Place skewers on cookie sheet. Bake 20 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serves 2.

Each serving (2 skewers) contains about: 100 calories, 42 mg sodium, 4 gm protein, 0 mg cholesterol, 0 gm fat and 23 carbohydrates.

SKINNY DIP

1/2 cups low-calorie mayonnaise

1 1/2 cups low-fat (or non-fat) plain yogurt
4 green onions, chopped
1 (10-ounce) package frozen chopped spinach, thawed, drained and squeezed dry
1 package Knorr's vegetable soup mix

Combine mayonnaise, yogurt and onions: Fold in spinach. Serve with cut raw vegetables. Makes 2 1/2 cups. Each 1 tablespoon serving contains about: 26 calories, 15 mg sodium, 3 gm fat and 3 mg cholesterol.

RICE CAKES PLUS

Try popcorn cakes or corn cakes. Much better tasting than rice. Try some new toppings: top with low-fat cottage cheese, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar, and broil.

Spread with unsweetened applesauce or apple butter, and top with a few apple slices. Top with a little salsa. Top with Cheese Smart, a no-fat, no-cholesterol product.

Chef Larry gives beef stew recipe

MOMMA'S BEEF STEW WITH RED WINE

4-5 pounds top round of beef
4 tablespoons oil
3 carrots, pared and cut into chunks
2 medium onions, cut into chunks
2 cloves garlic, smashed
2 cups dry red wine bouquet garni (peppercorns, bay leaf, thyme and parsley wrapped and tied in cheesecloth)
1 pound salt pork

Have the beef rolled and tied by the butcher. Heat the oil and add the salt pork, beef roast, carrots, onions and garlic. Cook over low heat for 15 minutes, and when the fat begins to run from the salt pork and the onions begin to caramelize, pour in the red wine. Toss in the bouquet garni and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Place in a cold oven and turn the heat to 250 degrees. Allow to slow-roast for 8 hours.

BAKED, CARAMELIZED BROWN ONIONS

6 medium onions, peeled
3 tablespoons oil
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
salt and fresh ground pepper to taste

Peel onions, set aside. In the bottom of a heavy, cast-iron frypan, heat the oil and the butter over low heat. Add the whole onions. Sprinkle with sugar, salt and pepper and cook onions over medium-low heat until lightly browned and beginning to caramelize. Cover and place cast-iron skillet in a cold oven. Set oven temperature to 350 degrees and bake onions, covered for 45 minutes, turning once to ensure caramelization on all parts of the onion.

Dressing mixes up in bottle

Call this elegant salad amazing. The dressing is amazingly easy. It mixes right in the bottle, and it tastes amazingly like homemade. The simple arrangement of fruit and greens look amazingly impressive.

To choose a prime papaya for this salad, look for one with smooth, undamaged skin. Allow a firm papaya to ripen at room temperature for 3 to 5 days or until it yields to gentle hand pressure. Once ripe it will keep for several days in the refrigerator.

GREENS AND PAPAYA SALAD

1/4 teaspoon poppy seed
one 8-ounce bottle coleslaw salad dressing
1 papaya
2 heads bibb or Boston lettuce
1 head Belgian endive
one 8-ounce can grapefruit sections (water pack), drained
1/2 cup sliced almonds

Add poppy seed to salad dressing bottle. Cover, shake well. Chill until serving.

Peel, seed and slice papaya. Line a large platter with lettuce leaves. Fan papaya to one side, endive to the other. Spoon grapefruit in the center. Sprinkle with nuts. Cover and chill until serving time.

Before serving, shake dressing; drizzle over salad. Makes 8 servings.

Nutritious meals help active family stay trim

I could have jumped for joy when I read in the paper that researchers have finally come up with a pill that reduces fat in a person's body without special exercise or diet.

It's about time, don't you agree? Having played "Lost and Found" with my weight the last few weeks, I'm hoping that the FDA will step on it and get that pill into production fast! After all, summer and swimsuit weather is only four months away!

Until this appetite-reducing pill becomes commercially available, we need to continue to eat sensibly and exercise regularly in order to keep our bodies fit and trim. This week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Adriane De Windt of Bloomfield Hills, will help us to work toward that end, in that it is a tasty and well-balanced meal.

De Windt's life revolves around her two active children and husband. Nary a couch potato among them, her husband, Del, has qualified three times for the National Amateur Golf Tournament, and they ski, golf and play tennis together as a family. Her children are involved in organized team sports as well. She jokingly admits that her eyes are in great shape, thanks to watching her children participate in soccer, hockey, volleyball, baseball, tennis and golf.

BECAUSE THE dinner hour is one time of the day when they are together as a family, De Windt makes a special effort to put together meals that are visually appealing and nutritious but aren't too time-consuming to make. Always a family favorite, her recipe for veal served with Parmesan potatoes, a tossed salad and blueberry dessert will surely be a hit with your family as well.

Thank you, Adriane De Windt, for sending in your recipes and congratulations on being our Winner Dinner Winner of the week. As March is National Nutrition Month, your menu will launch us off to a tasty and healthy start. And, until that wonder pill hits the stores, back to sit-ups we go.

Observer & Eccentric Winner Dinner

VEAL WITH TOMATOES AND MUSHROOMS

This quick and easy dish takes only 20 minutes to prepare. It can be made just before serving or it can easily be made in the morning, covered and refrigerated and then reheated. Turkey scaloppine or boneless chicken breasts can be used in place of the veal, if desired.

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons olive oil
Italian bread crumbs thin veal scaloppine (because they are so small, allow two pieces of meat for each adult, one for each child)
1 can chicken broth, 14 1/2-ounce size
1 or 2 tomatoes, sliced
1 box of fresh mushrooms, 8-ounce size
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Italian herb seasoning, to taste

Melt butter in large frying pan. Add the olive oil and stir to mix the two. Coat the veal with Italian bread crumbs and cook until lightly browned on both sides. While the meat is cooking, slice the mushrooms and the tomatoes. Add the can of chicken broth, the tomatoes and the mushrooms. Simmer until the mushrooms are tender, about 5 minutes. Sprinkle the flour over the pan and gently mix it into the sauce. Add the chopped parsley and the Italian herb seasoning to taste. Cook for a few more minutes and then serve with buttered noodles or Parmesan potatoes.

POTATOES PARMESAN

A tasty variation, these potatoes are easy to make.

4-6 Idaho or redskin potatoes
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

1/2 cup Parmesan cheese
Lawry's Seasoning Salt, to taste

Quarter washed, scrubbed potatoes. Roll in melted butter or margarine, Parmesan cheese and Lawry's Seasoning Salt. Bake on a baking sheet for 40 minutes at 400 degrees.

TOSSED SALAD

BLUEBERRY DESSERT

Although especially good with blueberries, this recipe works with fresh peaches and apples as well. Because it is winter, berries are still expensive. However, this recipe can be cut in half, using fewer berries, and it still makes enough for 6 servings. It is especially good served with vanilla ice cream or vanilla yogurt.

1 quart of fresh blueberries cinnamon, to taste nutmeg, to taste — use less than cinnamon, though 2 cups flour
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 stick butter

Wash fresh berries and place in a deep over-proof dish. Sprinkle with cinnamon and nutmeg.

The topping is made as follows: Mix the flour, sugar and butter until the butter is completely cut in with the flour and sugar. Place on top of the berries. (Because this recipe makes a lot of topping, you may not want to use all of it.) Sprinkle more cinnamon on top and bake at 350 degrees until very lightly browned and bubbly, about 30 minutes.

Spartans bring title back to Livonia

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

The despairing look on the faces of his Livonia Stevenson basketball players Saturday night concerned coach Jim McIntyre.

The Spartans were trailing Plymouth Salem by nine points following a strong finish by the Rocks at the end of the third quarter.

After a quick lecture by McIntyre, his Stevenson charges did an about-face in the last period, survived some tense moments late and upset the No. 8-rated Rocks 61-60 in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game at Salem.

"I told 'em 'You come in as winners; don't come over to the bench looking like losers,'" McIntyre said. "I think the kids picked up on that."

"I wasn't chewing on them, just reminding them they're not quitters. 'Don't come over here acting like you're going to lose.'"

SALEM, WHICH beat the Spartans twice in the regular season and slips to 18-2, turned a 36-33 lead into a 44-35 bulge at the end of the third quarter.

Stevenson, 14-6 overall, was quick to reverse that trend, scoring the first 10 of the fourth period to lead 45-44 and creating a nail-biting situation that carried through to the final seconds.

The comeback included triples by shooting specialists Rick Laven, who scored a career-high 26 points, and Ron Baran, who finished with 19 after an excellent second half.

Laven's total included five three-pointers, three coming in the first half when his nine points helped keep the Spartans in the game and offset a cold-shooting half by Baran.

"Before the game, I could tell everybody was loose," he said. "We were ready to play, because we didn't want to get blown out again. We wanted to show we're still a good team, that we're still good enough to beat teams that are ranked."

basketball

Laven was being modest, however, about his major contribution, saying he can help if he plays within himself and directing credit to the team's defensive effort.

McINTYRE DIDN'T feel as inhibited in his praise of Laven.

"He has a natural, quick-draw McGraw release," McIntyre said. "He gets the shot off before people know where the ball is. There's probably not a better outside shooter around from certain spots."

Glenn Szeman, Stevenson's 6-foot-9 center, tossed in 11 points and made an equally important contribution by essentially staying out of foul trouble, though he did foul out in the last minute.

Salem's big men, juniors Jake Baker and K.C. Kirkpatrick, paced the Rocks, scoring 20 and 17 points, respectively. Tom Noonan added nine.

"If they're going to shoot as well as they did from that (three-point) spot, they can expect to win the game," said Salem coach Bob Brodie of the Spartans. "They're shooting threes and also getting it to their big guys. That's tough to defense."

"They played hard. They were getting a lot of loose balls, and they made free throws in critical situations. They deserve to be conference champs."

FOLLOWING THE Spartans' recovery at the beginning of the fourth quarter, the lead changed hands a couple times and was tied twice until Baran's basket with 1:36 remaining gave Stevenson a 58-54 lead.

The Rocks missed several crucial free-throw opportunities while Szeman (2), Laven (2) and Phil Woods (1) put Stevenson up 61-57 with 21 seconds left.

Mike Mulder kept Salem's hopes alive when he sank a triple with :07 on the clock. Steve Leonard of Stevenson missed a one-and-one with four seconds left, and Baker grabbed the rebound. Kirkpatrick lofted a shot from just inside the half-court line that fell short as time expired.

"We worked on our press and defensive intensity," Laven said. "In the second game, it wasn't there. This time we backed up our press, so they wouldn't get so many open-court points."

A first-quarter spurt helped Stevenson to a 14-9 lead as the Rocks shot four of 16 in the period. That turned around in the second with Salem shooting the better percentage and the Spartans two of 16. The Rocks started going baseline to Baker (13 points) and Kirkpatrick (nine points) and took a 25-20 lead into halftime.

Not only did the Spartans win the school's first WLAA basketball championship but the first by a Livonia school.

"IT'S BEEN A while since we've taken something back to the other three schools," McIntyre said. "More than that, I feel good for the kids."

Salem and Stevenson could meet Friday for the district championship at Northville. That also would be a rematch of last year's tournament final won by the Spartans.

"I told the kids 'We've been sitting on a bubble so long with the win streak (16 games), undefeated conference record and state ranking,'" Brodie said. "There was no release."

Wayne cages Tigers for league crown

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Wayne Memorial won the Wolverine A League basketball crown the hard way Friday, walking out of Belleville's gym with a hard-fought 64-62 victory.

Wayne, which has won five of the past seven league crowns, wrapped up its regular season with a 19-1 record. The Zebras also duplicated their feat from the 1984-85 season by going 14-0 in the Wolverine A.

A key block by Kevin Hankerson with nine seconds left followed by a free throw — with six seconds remaining — by the 6-foot-4 senior, helped preserve the victory over the host Tigers (15-5, 12-2), who could have clinched a tie for the title with a victory.

"I expected this to be a tough game because they (Belleville) were in position to win the title," said Wayne coach Chuck Henry. "I knew it would be an emotional crowd and we'd be facing a Belleville team that would play very hard."

The near-capacity crowd was on its collective feet for the final six seconds as Belleville failed to convert the game-tying basket.

AFTER EACH TEAM called a timeout, guard Rod Hill took the inbounds pass in his own backcourt and fired the ball past the timeline to teammate Ron Hunter, who let fly a 35-foot bank shot that missed the mark as time expired.

"With six seconds left and a good ball-handler like (Paul) Gardette (17 points), I thought it was more than enough time to take the ball the length of the court and get off a good shot," said Henry. "They set screens to get him (Gardette) the ball, but we kept it out his hands. I thought they'd do that or they'd go inside to Hunter."

But Hunter couldn't get the ball in his favorite spot, and it was a good thing for the Zebras, who failed miserably in trying to stop the burly 6-4 junior, who had his way in-and-around the basket much of the night en route to a game-high 29 points.

"He (Hunter) was a horse in there," Henry said. "At halftime he had 18 points and we had to switch 'Hank' on him to try to slow him down. The last time out, Derrick Boles (a 6-4 junior) got 21 points on us, but tonight Hunter was the man."

Hankerson, who scored 14 points for the Zebras, came up with big stop, blocking Hunter's inside attempt with only nine seconds left.

BUT THERE were many other heroes for the Zebras, starting with 6-1 senior guard Larry Johnson, who poured in 17 of his team-high 22 points in the first half. He also hit key basket on a drive with 1:28 remaining to give Wayne a 63-62 advantage.

Johnson canned three of his four 3-pointers in the opening half as Wayne led 40-34.

And yet another stalwart was 5-7 point-guard Reggie Brandon, "The Little Big Man," who chipped in with 14 points.

His four-point play as the buzzer sounded to end the third quarter (set up after Wayne pulled the ball out on a delay) helped erase a 52-51 deficit.

"That was one of the huge plays,"

Henry said. "I could not believe it when it went in and he was knocked on his fanny... just a great shot."

Belleville coach Mike Garland also said Brandon's four-point swing was pivotal.

"When you look back at that, the points they eventually win by," said Garland, whose team shot 37 percent from the floor (20 of 54). "And I'm second-guessing myself on that last play, but I'm proud of my kids because they played hard."

"They're tough kids mentally. They came back four, five and six

Sata's goal topples CC

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The puck came to Nick Sata's stick like a dog to its master Thursday.

Except Sata didn't pet the piece of rubber. He unleashed a wicked slap shot from top of the circle past Redford Catholic Central netminder Matt Fennelly.

And because of it, Livonia Stevenson finally had its day, taming CC, 4-3, in double overtime in a Class A regional semifinal hockey game at Oak Park Compuware Arena.

Sata's goal, on an assist from Nick Mariani with 3:28 left in the second sudden-death, eight-minute overtime session, capped off an entertaining game. After each period, both teams were deadlocked.

Stevenson's Chris Rennie sent the game into OT, knocking in a pass from linemate John Fenech with 2:29 left in regulation. Sata drew the other assist on the crucial goal.

MATT CICHY and Brian Eglinton accounted for Stevenson's other two goals.

"It was our turn," said Stevenson coach Paul Ferguson. "Catholic Central won the first (regular season) game and we tied the second. The kids had confidence they could do it and they stuck to the game plan real well."

That strategy included an attempt to shut down the Shamrocks' "Value

hockey

Line" of Paul Pirronello, Jesse Hubenschmidt and Keith Bozyk.

Nice try. Pirronello scored two goals while Hubenschmidt added another. Of those three goals, though, only Hubenschmidt's — a minute into the third period — came when both teams were at full strength.

Pirronello's first tally with 5:04 left in the second period came on a power play. His second, with 46 seconds left in the period, was a short-handed effort.

IN THE OVERTIME session, Stevenson (16-5-3) played like a team in a perpetual man-advantage situation. The Spartans outshot the Shamrocks, 9-5, in extra time.

Only the stand-up netminding of Fennelly kept Stevenson from revving up the team bus earlier. He made several key saves, facing a total of 25 shots.

The Spartans' John Labadie had a goal called back just seconds into the first overtime session. The referee ruled the puck was kicked into the net. Undaunted, Stevenson continued to run the show.

"Once they started dominating we lost control of it," said Catholic Central coach John Gumbleton. "We were outworked. They (Stevenson) deserved it. They worked hard. Both teams played well, really."

Though it was of little solace to the CC coach, who's not used to such early exits from state playoff festivities. The Shamrocks (12-7-3) sagged toward the end of the regular season, closing out with losses to Southgate Anderson (4-0) and Trenton (6-1).

CC appeared to have shaken out of its doldrums. The team bounced back from a one-goal deficit twice in the second period. Pirronello did the honors.

HIS FIRST goal on a quick wrist shot tied the score, 1-1. Joe Cyrek and Hubenschmidt drew assists. Cichy opened the scoring for Stevenson, wristling a shot past Fennelly with 8:23 left in the period. Fenech assisted.

Eglinton slap shot from the point was redirected, giving the Spartans a 2-1 lead with 2:54 left in the period. John Brodhun and Cichy were credited with assists.

Pirronello, along with Bozyk, helped set up Hubenschmidt's goal 58 seconds into the third period.

Rice swarms over Stevenson

By Marty Budner
staff writer

No one could have guessed the outcome of Saturday evening's Class A regional championship ice hockey game between Birmingham Brother Rice and Livonia Stevenson at Compuware Arena in Oak Park.

Not only did the Warriors rout the Spartans, they merced them. The final score was 11-1, and that count seems unimaginable considering that both teams are ranked among the top 10 Class A schools, both were league powerhouses and both won at least 16 games this season.

Four-time regional champ Brother Rice now advances to the state quarterfinals 7 p.m. Wednesday at Yack Arena against Trenton, which won a double-overtime thriller over Southgate Anderson on Saturday.

As for Stevenson, first-year coach Paul Ferguson did not force such a lopsided season-ending defeat. And he refused to totally blame his team's emotional double-overtime victory in Thursday's regional semifinal game against Catholic Central for the lethargic effort against Rice.

"What can you say? We were a little bit off of our game tonight," said Ferguson.

"You can tell the kids not to be satisfied (with a victory over Catholic Central)... that there's more to the state tournament than that. We just didn't have the jump tonight that we did against Catholic Central."

"But you have to give Rice credit. They were flying," he said.

FLYING? It was more like a nuclear assault that left the Spartans reeling at every corner of the arena.

Rice forwards Joe Vancik and Chris Freeman each scored goals before the game was four minutes old. Then, late in the first period, Bob Bowen and Freeman scored consecutive short-handed goals one minute apart to give Rice a 4-0 lead after the first 15 minutes of play.

The Warriors were more overpowering in the second period. Rice outshot Stevenson 15-3, and outscored them 5-1. Tom Ricketts, Vancik, Freeman, Bowen and Pat Grohar accounted for the Warrior tallies. Stevenson's lone goal was scored by John Fenech halfway through the period on assists by Chris Rennie and Nick Sata.

Brother Rice needed only a little over five minutes to invoke the 10-goal mercy rule and senior captain Steve Brown inflicted the honors. Brown tallied at the 14:27 mark and again at the 9:43 mark.

Freeman, a junior who leads Rice in season scoring, finished with three goals and three assists. Bowen added two goals and three assists. Vancik had two goals and an assist.

"I didn't expect this kind of score," said Rice coach Bruce Antloch, whose team takes an overall 17-5-2 mark in Wednesday's action. "We worked very hard in our own end tonight and that's where it all started."

"I thought the turning point was when we scored those two short-handed goals," he said. "It's tough for anybody to come back after something like that."

Reed shoots Temple to title

Redford Temple Christian's basketball team ended all the suspense Friday night.

Temple, playing its final regular-season game, clinched first place in the Greater Metro Independent Conference with a 76-70 win over visiting Taylor Baptist Park.

The win moved Temple to 13-7 overall. Baptist Park fell to 9-10.

Marlon Reed led three Temple players in double figures with 27 points. Dave Schalte scored 11 and John Millard contributed 10 for Temple, which hosts Redford St. Mary at 6 tonight in the first round of the Class C district.

Temple led 11-9 after one quarter and enjoyed a 30-19 halftime lead after outscoring Baptist Park 19-10 in the second quarter. Temple opened up a commanding 51-36 lead after three quarters.

"We had two goals," Temple coach Dave Gilliam said. "One was to win our homecoming game (over Allen Park Inter-City Baptist) and the other was the league title — we've accomplished both. We've progressively gotten better. We were 1-3 in December, 5-3 in January and 7-1 in February. We've had a good year, but have a tough draw in the district (tonight against St. Mary).

BORGESS 81, LAKES 49: All 15 players scored Thursday, as Redford Bishop Borgess — playing without injured star Shawn Respert — routed visiting Waterford Our Lady of Lakes, 81-49.

Respert is out indefinitely with a twisted knee. It didn't matter Thursday as the Spartans, 17-3 overall, raced to a 23-4 lead after one quarter and led 41-19 at halftime.

Senior guard Artie Brown and sophomore Darwin Cegers, playing in his first varsity game, led Borgess with 10 points each. Junior guard Kevin Riser and sophomore guard Jermaine Parker contributed nine points apiece.

The game was a learning experience for Borgess, which was able to use three players recently called up from the junior varsity, along with a pair of freshmen.

Junior center Pete Ugolini led Lakes, 13-5 overall, with eight points.

CLARENCEVILLE 58, HARPER WOODS 54 (OT): After suffering through a nightmarish fourth quarter, Livonia Clarenceville outscored Harper Woods 7-3 in overtime Thursday to win the Metro Conference game.

Clarenceville, 7-12 overall, led 48-32 after three quarters but Harper Woods outscored the Trojans 19-13 in the fourth quarter to send the game into overtime tied at 51.

Derrick Herr led host Clarenceville with 17 points and Chris Foss added 10. Kendrick Herrington had nine points, including three in overtime, and seven assists for the Trojans.

Mike VanBrien led Harper Woods with 11 points.

OSBORN 64, REDFORD CC 62 (OT): Steve Whitlow led Redford Catholic Central Wednesday with 25 points, but Detroit Osborn came away victorious in overtime.

CC, which fell to 4-16 overall, sent the game into overtime tied at 60 when Whitlow sank an 18-foot jump shot at the end of regulation.

CC led 29-26 at halftime.

ST. CLEMENT 79, ST. AGATHA 50: Redford St. Agatha struggled from the free throw line Wednesday and St. Clement outscored the Aggies 42-29 in the second half.

It all added up to another loss for St. Agatha, which fell to 6-14 overall.

The Aggies were only 14 of 33 from the free throw line.

Senior center Pat Wagner led Agatha with 14 points.

Guard John Cronin led three St. Clement players in double figures with 17 points.

St. Clement led 19-12 after one quarter and outscored St. Agatha 18-9 in the second quarter to open up a commanding 37-21 halftime lead.

TRUMAN 64, THURSTON 56: Redford Thurston showed balanced scoring Thursday, but it wasn't enough as host Taylor Truman won the Tri-River League game, 64-56.

Donnell Williams, who made all of his six free throws in the final quarter, led Truman with 24 points.

The win improved Truman to 16-4 overall and 12-2 in the Tri-River. Thurston slumped to 14-6 overall and 10-4 in Tri-River play.

Four players scored in double figures for Thurston, led by Jason Muller's 14 points. Dan Peritula, Collin Shanahan and D.J. Kellogg added 11 points apiece.

Thurston trailed by one, 29-28, at halftime, but Truman outscored the Eagles 18-10 in the third quarter to open up a 45-38 lead.

OAKLAND CHRIST. 76, LUTH. WESTLAND 70: Craig Martin, one of Oakland County's most explosive players, scored 39 points Thursday to lead host Oakland Christian to a narrow win over Lutheran Westland.

Tom Knibbs, who scored 14 points after halftime, contributed 17 points for Oakland, 10-9 overall. Oakland is 5-3 in the National Division of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

Lutheran led 34-28 at halftime but was outscored 30-21 in the third quarter to trail 58-55. Martin, a junior guard, made 11 of 13 free throws to ice the win.

Westland, which slipped to 7-12 overall, got 18 points from junior forward Chris Habitz and 17 from senior forward Mike Hardies.

Habitz also had three three-point field goals, five assists and four steals. Doub Nelson and Steve Aumann were Lutheran's other scorers in double figures, finishing with 11 points apiece.

Nelson grabbed a team-high 12 rebounds and Hardies hauled down eight.

GARDEN CITY 78, DEARBORN 70: Garden City recovered from a slow start Friday and won the Northwest Suburban League game behind the 18-point effort of senior forward Rich Morton.

Four players scored in double figures for Garden City, which improved to 8-12 overall and 3-5 in the Northwest Suburban League. The Cougars trailed 22-8 after the first quarter and 40-27 at halftime.

Dearborn led 57-49 after three quarters but Garden City outscored the home team 29-13 in the decisive fourth quarter. Garden City was 26-35 at the free throw line and Dearborn converted 28 of its 38 tries.

Senior guard Dan Emerson had 17 points for Garden City and senior teammates Jim Marszalek and Paul Donaldson contributed 14 points apiece.

WOODHAVEN 65, REDFORD UNION 58: Woodhaven, the regular-season Northwest Suburban League champion, had to rally Friday at home to beat a pesky Redford Union team, 65-58.

Woodhaven, 19-1 overall and 8-0 in the NSL, outscored RU 19-7 in the fourth quarter. RU, which fell to 7-11 overall and 2-6 in the NSL, still led with about 2½ minutes left before Woodhaven made a final comeback.

"We were halfway decent on defense but we didn't get into our offense," RU coach Tip Smathers said. "We tried to do it individually instead of running our offense. We didn't execute well down the stretch."

Steve Nowak led RU with 17 points and Bill Malecki and Dan Lezotte contributed 13 and 12, respectively.

Jason Gagnon had only four points but grabbed eight rebounds for RU, which was outscored 46-31.

Vernon Crump's 13 points and 10 rebounds led Woodhaven.

HURON VALLEY 94, PLYMOUTH CHRIST. 78: Manish Nandan's game-high 27 points was wasted Friday for Plymouth Christian as Westland Huron Valley Lutheran rolled to a 94-78 win at home.

Matt Henz led four Huron Valley players in double figures with 25 points and five steals. Senior forward Paul Knichelbein had 19 points, Melton Stoudemire scored 18 and Bill Kowske 11 for Huron Valley, now 10-7 overall.

Huron Valley led 45-44 at halftime before outscoring Plymouth 25-14 in the third quarter.

Harrison, Patriots grab consolations

By Brad Emons
Staff writer

Farmington Harrison picked up some steam heading tonight's state tournament with a 72-54 victory Saturday over rival North Farmington in the third-place game of the Western Lakes Activities Association basketball playoffs at Plymouth Salem.

The Hawks (15-5), who bounced back from Tuesday's 82-71 WLAA semifinal loss to Livonia Stevenson, will take on Redford Thurston (14-6) in first-round district action tonight at Redford Bishop Borgess High. (See tournament pairings.)

Andy Smith once again led Harrison, which beat North (10-10) for the second time this season, with a game-high 21 points. Sophomore Paul Gilydis came off the bench to score 14, while senior point guard Mill Coleman contributed 10.

"Smith is a very smart player, always in the right place at the right time," said North coach Tom Negoshian. "And for his size, he shoots the ball very well."

The Hawks simply had too much inside strength for North.

"We had a real nice ballgame with all sorts of quality minutes from our people off the bench," said Harrison coach Mike Teachman. "We accomplished many of our goals this year. We got 15 wins and won our (Western) Division. And along the way there have been a lot of different heroes."

HARRISON TRAILED during the early stages, but went ahead for keeps, 12-10, on a basket by Brian Ellison with 2:15 remaining in the opening quarter.

Gilydis, a 6-6 sophomore, then scored 10 of his 14 in the second period as the Hawks opened up a 37-26 lead at intermission.

The Hawks took a 48-32 advantage with 4:08 left in the third quarter on a breakaway dunk by Rob Karbowski, but North fought back to within seven after three quarters, 50-43, on a pair of free throws by Matt Hoffman with 11 seconds remaining.

Harrison then pulled away in the final quarter, outscoring North 24-11. The Hawks hit 13 of 16 free throws to keep North at bay.

Poor shooting plagued the Raiders, who made only 19 of 53 from the floor (35 percent) and 12 of 28 from the free throw line (42 percent).

"We're 15-0 when we hold our opponent to 62 points or less," Teachman said.

It was a frustrating night for North, which seemed to have a lid on the basket.

while Hoffman, the senior point guard, added 14.

"They (Harrison) played a triangle-and-two defense," said Negoshian. "We had open shots and didn't make them. We just haven't been scoring lately."

FRANKLIN 65, GLENN 61: In the battle for fifth place Saturday in the WLAA playoffs, senior guard Craig Ovgallis pumped in 26 points to lead Livonia Franklin (10-10) past Westland John Glenn (10-10).

Franklin overcame a 12-2 deficit at the outset by outscoring the Rockets 21-16, 15-13 and 19-16 over the final three periods.

Dave Barina chipped in with 17 points for the Patriots. Dave Roman added nine.

Bobby Lawrence led Glenn, minus two starters because of disciplinary reasons, with 15 points. Tony Dobbins and Gamal Ahmed added 11 each, while Carl Lowe had 10.

NORTHVILLE 65, CHURCHILL 59: The Western Division co-champion Mustangs (14-6), behind Joe Kaley's 21 points, took seventh place with a win over Livonia Churchill (10-9).

Three other Northville players scored in double figures: Scott Meredith (15), Paul Grant (12) and Bill Kelly (10).

Mike Thomas paced the Chargers with 16 points, while Kevin Hannigan and Raddy Calcaterra added 14 and 13, respectively.

W.L. WESTERN 67, CANTON 55: Five players scored in double figures Saturday as Walled Lake Western (5-15) pulled off a mild surprise in the WLAA loser's bracket, snapping Plymouth Canton's three-game winning streak.

Five Warriors netted double figures, led by Chris Johnson's game-high 20 points.

Others scoring in double figures for Western included Jeremy Farkas (12), Jeff Kubik (11), Chris Sobieck (10) and Todd Biron (10).

Western connected on 22 of 39 free throws, while Canton (9-11) hit just seven of 11.

Western trailed 31-23 at the half, but roared back in the third quarter, outscoring the Chiefs 24-10.

Three Canton players scored in double figures: Karl Wukie (14), Mike Stafford (10) and Brett Howell (10).

FARMINGTON 61, W.L. CENTRAL 51: Chris Schmid led a balanced Falcons attack in a loser's bracket victory over Walled Lake Central (1-19).

Farmington, 6-14 entering state district play, also got eight points apiece from Brian Browne and Eric Miller.

Joe Sharpe led Central with 20 points; teammate Jason Olson contributed 10.

Farmington went 23 of 32 from the free throw line, while Central was 19 of 31.

times. And I think they'll bounce back (for the districts)."

WITH ONE BIG accomplishment in hand, Henry was in the mood for celebrating a little bit before his team returns to action Wednesday for the state tournament. Last year Wayne reached the Class A regional finals before losing to Detroit Cooley.

"The league is the most important thing," he said. "That's what you set your sights on. But it wasn't easy. Belleville is a very worthy opponent. We have all the respect and admiration for coach Garland and his program."

Despite the heartbreaking setback, Garland sees his team following Wayne's lead next year.

"We are Wayne Memorial last year, predominantly a junior team," he said. "They have seven seniors on their team this year and that's where we'll be next year."

Thurston, GC spikers high on lists

Observerland's varsity volleyball teams Redford Thurston and Garden City recently capped successful 1989-90 regular-season campaigns.

Thurston took the Tri-River League championship with a 13-1 league record. The Eagles finished with a 25-8 overall record, losing only 19 of their 70 games on the season.

Third-year coach Robert Burns singled out the play of Daune Koester, Laura Kress and Lorianne Kujawa as a key to the Eagles' success this year.

Koester, a middle hitter, had 190 kills and recorded a .310 hitting percentage. Kress, a defensive specialist, collected 80 digs and a .660 service reception percentage. Kujawa, a setter, hit 95 percent of her serves, including 60 aces, and led the team with 701 assists.

GARDEN CITY fell to Dearborn Wednesday, 12-15, 8-15, 15-1 and 5-15, in the Northwest Suburban League championship match. The Cougars, 24-5-9, managed to take second place in the NSL.

Garden City was paced by Tina Emery, who had nine kills and seven blocks. Diane Allison added five aces and five kills, while Colleen Owsley contributed six aces and excellent defensive play.

On Thursday, Allison and Emery, along with teammate Lona Palise, all seniors from Garden City, were named to the All-NSL first team. Others named to the first team included Dawn Woods of Edsel Ford, along with Suzy O'Donnel, Krysten Palco and Shawn Fitzgerald, all of Dearborn. (Allison was voted the league's most valuable player.)

Second team members include Michele Reba and Nicole Dapprich of Edsel Ford; Michelle Small of Woodhaven; and Kristi Pernicano and Amy Mullen of Redford Union.

Solid Rocks

Salem glides by Spartans in WLAA

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

What happened to Plymouth Salem's swim team last week was one of the best reasons a coach becomes a coach.

It wasn't because the Rocks won. It was because they won when they weren't expected to.

The Rocks surprised a lot of people, including their coach, by capturing a third-consecutive Western Lakes Activities Association championship Friday. Salem scored 467.5 points to outdistance Livonia Stevenson, which edged favored Northville by a point for second, 411-410.

North Farmington was fourth (368.5), followed by Plymouth Canton (297), Farmington (182), Farmington Harrison (173), Westland John Glenn (144), Walled Lake Western (46), Livonia Churchill (45), Livonia Franklin (40) and Walled Lake Central (33).

Asked what he expected of his swimmers going into the meet, Salem coach Chuck Olson answered, "Us finishing fourth or fifth. That's where we ended up in the dual-meet season."

THE ROCKS were 6-4 overall and 2-2 in Lakes Division duals. Northville was unbeaten in WLAA meets and captured the league's preseason relays meet.

"We didn't go into the season thinking we were going to lose (four) dual meets," said Olson. "But we had one thing in mind: get ready for Wednesday (the preliminaries) and then do as well as we could tonight."

Simple formula, or so it seems, and successful, too.

The key to victory for Salem was not a multitude of overpowering performances, although they got a pair from senior Ron Orris, an easy double-winner in the 100-yard butterfly (51.70) and 200 freestyle (1:42.38).

Both were new WLAA records; the nearest competition was 2.3 seconds behind in the fly and 5.15 seconds behind in the 200.

Depth, though, turned the tide in the Rocks' favor. Salem had four swimmers score in all but one event, the 50 free; they had three in the 50, including two in the final six.

"EVERYBODY DID their job," said Olson, who guided the team to its fifth WLAA title in eight years. "You get four guys scoring in each event, with a certain number in the finals, and you'll be real tough to beat."

"We've had some real nice wins, but to have to pass three teams like Northville, Stevenson and North Farmington makes this special."

At least one coach wasn't surprised by Salem's finish. "Not me," said Doug Buckler, the Stevenson coach. "I knew it a month-and-a-half ago."

How? "Depth," Buckler answered. "(Olson) had four kids (score) in every event except one, and he had three in that one."

"And he's a great coach, the best in the area. Salem deserved it, they're a good team."

Stevenson may have been providing a glimpse of the future with its strong showing. The Spartans were another surprise, placing second in spite of their youth. They had just two seniors who scored points.

"It was the best we ever swam," said Buckler. "We wanted it real bad. This is the best young team I've ever had. I can't wait to get on the bus to congratulate them."

STEVENSON HAD four first-place finishes, with junior Aaron Reider leading the way with two individual wins and a first on the 200 medley relay.

Reider's titles came in the 200 individual medley (1:58.98) and 100 backstroke (57.05). He combined with Scott DeWolf, Taki Caranickas and Alex Goecke in winning the medley relay (1:40.62).

Goecke, only a freshman, also had a fine meet for Stevenson, winning the 100 breaststroke in a WLAA-record 1:01.18.

North boasted a triple-winner in senior sprinter Chuck Chuba. Chuba's individual firsts came in the 50 free (22.75) and 100 free (49.89), and he teamed with Dan Knipper, Jerry Jehle and Chris Knoche for a win in the 400 free relay (3:19.55).

Northville had the other two champions. Eric Newton edged Stevenson's DeWolf in the 500 free (4:58.48 to 4:58.52) and Larry Osiecki captured the diving (447.00 points). Salem's surprising win and Stevenson's strong showing made it seem as if Northville choked. Olson disputed that, however.

"They swam well," he said of the Mustangs, "just not as well."

After Wednesday's preliminaries, Olson knew what it would take to collect another championship: good, not necessarily spectacular, swimming and an elimination of mistakes. He got both.

And Salem got its title.

Help wanted

Junior tournament needs volunteers

THE NATIONAL championships are coming to town.

The finest youth bowlers in the United States and Canada, in addition to Europe and Asia will shoot for $45,000 in scholarship money. It is the "National Junior Bowling Championship," held Aug. 16-20 at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park.

Coca-Cola, a long-time youth bowling supporter, sponsors the event.

The local organizers and officials are in need of volunteers now to help make this a successful and memorable event for competitors and everyone else involved. Volunteers are needed to chaperone both during the day and night.

They all will stay at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn. If interested in chaperoning, call Betty Helder at 542-5690. This will be the first time the Youth National Championship will be held in Michigan.

Four bowlers from each state and four from each of the six Canadian provinces, in addition to the U.S. military commands in Europe, the Far East, Caribbean and Puerto Rico will be there.

THE FOUR bowlers are the top scorers and winners of overall competition in local and state competition in four divisions — the boys handicap, girls handicap, boys scratch and girls scratch. The finalists from Michigan will be in competition in Grand Rapids, May 5 and 6 to determine the Final Four out of a field of approximately 500 youth bowlers who have qualified in their youth leagues.

The scholarship prize money is set aside for college, and each division will have equal awards of $5,000 (first prize), $3,000 (second), $2,000 (third) and $1,000 (fourth). There also is a need for volunteers to act as "greeters."

Interested parties should call Ed Wright at 477-5047.

Anyone who would like to be "score monitors," should contact Bob Simon, the tournament director, at 582-7330. This is a great opportunity to give these kids a wonderful memory of their visit to the Detroit area.

Good people are needed to help make this national championship the best ever.

• Randy Pierce, director of the NABI Tournament, announced a change in locale for the March 10 and 11 meet. It originally was set for Taylor Lanes, but has been re-set for Oak Lanes in Westland.

Saturday qualifying times are at 1 p.m., 2:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. with qualifying rounds on Sunday at 10 and 11:30 a.m., followed by the semifinals at 1:30 p.m. and finals at 3 p.m.

Oak Lanes is the recently remodeled and expanded house with 16 new lanes and lowered ceilings. Pierce also announced that the March 31 and April 1 tourney will have a guaranteed first prize of $1,000.

That event will take place at Century Bowl near Pontiac. For information on the NABI Bowling Tournament series, call Randy Pierce at 459-4811 in Canton.

• LIVONIA BOXER WINS

Welterweight Rob Diffanbaugh (147 pounds) of the Livonia Boxing Club bounced back after taking standing eighth-count in the second round Wednesday to beat Gilbert Gonzales of Pontiac-Azteca Club in an amateur bout at the Gourmet House in St. Clair Shores.

"Rob took a hard shot to the mid-section, but he bounced back nicely," said LBC director Paul Soucy. "It was a tough fight."

Diffanbaugh, a student at Schoolcraft College, will take a 28-6 record into the Detroit-area Golden Gloves Tournament later this month.

The Livonian plans to attend the Olympic Training Camp next year in Marquette while attending Northern Michigan University.

• SOCCER CHAMPS

Livonia Y's Blue Thunder, an under-10 girls soccer team, recently finished their indoor (second session) season unbeaten at Total Soccer in Southfield.

• C'VILLE GYMNASTS FALL

Fraser took league honors Wednesday with a season-high 140.0 to 122.8 girls gymnastics win over visiting Livonia Clarenceville.

Dana Komlenovich paced the victorious Ramblers (6-0) with individual firsts in vault (8.85) and uneven bars (9.2). Fraser's Alyssa Berant won the balance beam (9.10) and teammate Brandy Placido took floor exercise (9.2).

Clarenceville's top finishers included Roberta Wiggle, fourth on vault (8.35) and fifth on beam (7.75); Jennifer Kaiplo, fifth on both vault (7.95) and floor (8.25); Tricia Dunkle, fifth on bars (7.75); and Sherry Hochstadt, sixth on floor

• BASEBALL SIGNUP

• The Westland Youth Athletic Association will hold baseball (boys ages 8-16), softball (girls 8-16) and T-Ball (boys ages 5-7) signups 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays, March 10, 17, 24 and 31; also, 8-10 p.m. Wednesdays, March 7, 14, 21 and 28, at the WYAA Compound, 6050 Farmington Road, two blocks north of Ford Road.

The registration fee is $20 (8-year-olds girls may play softball or T-Ball; $25 for baseball players ages 14 and younger (Colt players $45); and $25 for softball players ages 13 and younger (Pinto players $45).

Each child, with the exception of Colt baseball, will be required to participate in a WYAA fund-raiser. (There is a three-sport plan for children ages 9-14 who participate in baseball, basketball and football for $60. There is also a family plan for all children of an immediate family of $50.)

For more information, call 421-0640.

• The North Redford National Little League will hold its final registration 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, at Stuckey School, 2600 Fargo.

A birth certificate and fee are required upon registering. (Boundaries have changed this season.)

For more information, call Marsha (537-2583) or Cheryl (592-4935).

• The Redford Township Junior Athletic Association will hold softball and baseball registration 6:30-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, at Hilbert Junior High (26440 Puritan west of Beech Daly); and Thursday, March 8, at the Redford Ice Arena (Beech at Capitol).

Baseball registration is for boys ages 6-14 (Colt travel 15-16). Softball registration is for girls 6-14 (Seniors 15-17). A birth certificate is required upon registration.

For more information, call Ed (535-2608) or George (532-1432).

• UMPIRES WANTED

The Westland Youth Athletic Association is seeking baseball and softball umpires (16 and older) for the 1990 in the Mustang, Bronco, Pony, Colt and Girls Softball leagues.

The season runs from mid-May until mid-July. A training session will be held for all umpires prior to the season.

For more information, call Fred Hagelthorn at 721-7513 (after 6 p.m.).

• SOCCER SIGNUP

• The Westland Youth Soccer League is accepting registrations for girls born 1978-81 (no experience is necessary). Registrations are also being accepted for girls born 1972-75.

The WYSL is also looking to fill existing recreational teams (players born 1971-84) for the spring season.

For more information, call Pat between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. at 721-6229.

• Registration forms for the Livonia Youth Soccer Club's spring '90 season are available 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday-Friday, at the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department.

Mail-in registration — on a first-come basis and where room permits — is open to boys and girls ages 5-19. The fee is $50.

For more information, call after 6 p.m. at 421-6773 or 464-6572.

• GIRLS AAU VOLLEYBALL

Hostility a threat to long life

Did you know that...

• Scientists now believe that of the various qualities that characterize the Type A person, being angry or hostile is the most significant when it comes to heart disease risk. According to one widely quoted study, almost 20 percent of 25-year-old doctors and lawyers who scored high on hostility tests were dead by age 50. The message is simply this: If you want to live to a ripe old age -- cool it.

• This month, the American Heart Association rolls out its widely publicized, yet much debated, Heart Guide program. Heart Guide is an unprecedented effort in consumer education aimed at helping you to choose foods that meet the AHA's guidelines for total fat, saturated fat, cholesterol and sodium. In the supermarket, you'll begin seeing products that contain a heart-and-check seal (Figure) that identifies them as having been tested and approved. Food companies can apply for their products to be tested; however, considerable costs may be involved. For more information on Heart Guide simply call 1-800-223-2323.

• There is no good scientific evidence that eating chocolate or any other foods can promote the development of acne.

• To estimate how many calories you can eat and still lose an average of one pound per week, simply multiply your current weight in pounds by 10. You can use this calorie level as your daily target. (Note: The 10-calorie rule is accurate only if you want to lose 25 pounds or less).

• Parents and kids can now check out a 22-minute videotape about the hazards of drug and alcohol abuse. The free tape, called "Time to Think," is available at any one of the Blockbuster video stores.

• A recent review from the Mayo Clinic concluded that drinking alcohol is not an effective method to prevent heart disease. Alcohol seems to raise the HDL-3 form of cholesterol, which has no proven role in safeguarding your heart. It is the HDL-2 form (which is increased by regular exercise) that has been shown to be protective.

Barry A. Franklin, Ph.D., is director of Cardiac Rehabilitation and Exercise Laboratories, William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, and associate professor of physiology, Wayne State University.

Armenian Genocide issue blocked

WASHINGTON — Here's how area Senators voted in the week ending Feb. 23. The House had no contested roll calls during the recess-shortened week.

"ARMENIAN GENOCIDE" IS-SUE: By a tie vote of 49-49, the Senate failed to end a filibuster against a resolution dealing with events in the Ottoman Empire, the forerunner of the Republic of Turkey. Sponsors of SJ Res 212 needed a three-fifths majority to clear the procedural hurdle.

The measure sets April 24, 1990, for remembering "the Armenian Genocide of 1915-23."

By passing it, Congress would acknowledge the disputed historical point that genocide by the Ottoman Empire government was behind the deaths of up to 1.5 million Armenians during the period.

The State Department and many senators expressed concern that passage of the resolution would disrupt relations with Turkey, an ally and NATO member.

Roll Call Report

"I cannot believe the Senate would paper over the Armenian genocide because of the flimsy excuse that it insults Turkey," said Larry Pressler, R-S.D., who voted to end the filibuster.

"I am deeply sympathetic to the suffering endured by the Armenians during this time period," said Robert Byrd, D-W.Va. "But I do not know whether what happened to the Armenians constitutes a genocide."

Senators voting yes wanted to move toward approval of the resolution.

Both Michigan Sens. Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D, voted yes.

SC offers finance class

Finance and accounting principles for non-financial managers will be taught by Schoolcraft College's continuing education services division beginning Wednesday, March 14.

The class is designed to provide an understanding of finance, including reading and interpreting financial statements, understanding how they affect departments, using financial reports and analyses, developing a management plan and making financial decisions.

It is offered in cooperation with the American Management Association. Those who complete six AMA classes are issued a certificate of management by the organization.

Additional information is available by calling 462-4448. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Janet Zabik got off to a good start in the first day of dog sled races at Kalkaska, but ended up being disqualified when she needed help from a track marshal.

There's no mistaking the enthusiasm sled dogs have for their sport. Hook them to a harness and they're howling, yelping and barking to get started.

'Paw power' keeps 'em mushing along

By Bill Parker
staff writer

The howwwwwl of the huskies shattered the crisp morning air as the sun crept over the horizon with welcomed warmth.

Despite the frigid early morning temperatures, the mood was electric as the huskies warmed up in anticipation of events to come.

This was Kalkaska in mid-February, home of the Kalkaska Sled Dog Races.

Better than 125 sled dog teams from as far away as New York, Missouri and West Virginia had entered the race, an annual event for the past 16 years in this northern Michigan community.

Hundreds of eager dogs — Siberian, Alaskan and American huskies and every cross-breed in between — were howling, yelping, yipping and barking in frenzied anticipation of the start of the races.

Southfield's Jane Zabik was one of the mushers (sled drivers) tending her dogs prior to the start of competition.

Races are held in several classes including 10-, six-, four- and three-dog teams and unlimited (up to 25 dogs). Anyone over 14 can participate in the races that are sponsored by the Great Lakes Sled Dog Association and sanctioned by the International Sled Dog Racing Association.

Competition is held over groomed, marked trails in distances from four to 36 miles. There is also a weight-pull competition.

ZABIK WAS competing in the four-mile sprint race with her three-dog team of Josie, Rambo and Tiger.

Leonberger: The 'Whopper' of mountain dogs

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Bismark von Weinstock can trace his roots back to the small town of Leonberg in the southern part of what is now West Germany near the city of Stuttgart. Nearby is the famous Black Forest and the even more famous Swiss Alps.

In fact, Bismark can trace his roots back to the 1840s. Hmmmm ... pretty good for a guy who really isn't into genealogy.

Bismark's forte is snow-capped mountains and he has a penchant for a brisk three-mile walk in the morning and some good workouts in the backyard. As for weather, a cool crisp winter morning with a dash of snowfall is preferable.

An eligible Bloomfield Hills bachelor, Bismark could melt a snow cap with just one look from his soulful brown eyes. And when he kisses you, you know you've been kissed.

"He's a baby ... a spoiled baby," said Annaleise Tippet, giving him a playful pat on the back.

"Sometimes, he's so responsive, I think he's human."

Oops, did we forget to mention that this dashing young "man" about town is a dog? Yes, he is. You see, young Bismark — he's a mere two years old — is a Leonberger, a rare German mountain dog. (There are only 53 Leonbergers in the United States, with a large contingent based in the Southwest around Phoenix, Ariz.)

Bismark will be among 20 rare breeds of dogs being showcased at the 72nd annual Detroit Kennel Club Dog Show at Cobo Center Sunday, March 11.

The Leonberger has many of the features of its ancestors — the small floppy ears of the St. Bernard and the broad face and thick coat of the Great Pyrenees and Newfoundland. But, according to Tippet, when it comes to mountain work, the Leonberger has it all over its famous distant relative, the St. Bernard.

"ABOUT THE best you can expect of the St. Bernard is for it to sit there and look pretty with a barrel around its neck," said Tippet. "The true mountain dog is the Leonberger."

The Leonberger is a very guarded breed in Europe, prized for its high intelligence and powerful build. It was bred to work the mountains and during wartime, was used to ferry supplies and medicine to soldiers fighting in the mountains.

Tippet, born in Cologne, Germany, discovered the breed three years ago, when a friend introduced her to a breeder during a visit to her homeland. Tippet was looking for a dog after losing her 13½-year-old bearded collie. She had thought about getting a small dog, but her children convinced that she should stick with a large one.

Dogs strut stuff at DKC show

If you love dogs, then the 1990 Detroit Kennel Club dog show is the place to be Sunday, March 11, at Cobo Center in Detroit.

From 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., 3,200 pedigree dogs of all shapes and sizes will be vying for honors in best of breed and best of show as well as obedience trials.

The show is the largest one-day, all-breed bench dog show in North America. Under the show format, dogs entered in the competition are stationed on benches except while being judged and groomed, providing plenty of viewing by spectators.

Dogs of each breed will be judged in six different classifications — puppies, novice, American breed, bred-by-exhibitor, open class and best of breed.

Best of breed competitors will be determined in the categories of sporting, hound, working, terrier, non-sporting, toy and herding, with the seven group winners competing for the coveted best of show prize.

In addition to the competition, there will be 20 rare breeds of dogs on display at the show.

The show again will have the Grand Prix-style steeplechase event, in which dogs of all sizes will race against the clock in individual time trials. The scissor-shaped course has seven barriers, including a wall and 10-foot long tunnel.

Officers from the Detroit and other area police departments will be on hand to explain how police dogs are trained to sniff out bombs and drugs and to locate missing persons.

Tickets for the show cost $6 for adults and $4 for children under 12 and senior citizens. A $15 family ticket will admit two adults and three children. Tickets are available at all Hudson and TicketMaster outlets.

MOVING PICTURES

'Red October' misses mark as a 'thriller'

Films set against the backdrop of international politics and conflict lose their impact when those tensions are defused. Then they become historical dramas — but they still need to discover excitement and drama in the material.

None of which exists in "The Hunt for Red October" (C, PG, 135 minutes). There's just endless, confusing underwater shots, control panel shots and storm-at-sea shots. Seldom are those shots immediately or clearly identified.

Soviet Naval Officer Marko Ramius (Sean Connery) captains the "Red October," the Soviet's latest and most threatening submarine. Together with a few of his trusted officers he plans to defect to the United States.

Naturally, Jack is quiet but heroic. Is Captain Ramius defecting? Is he going to bomb the East Coast? Who knows? National Security Advisor Jeffrey Pelt (Richard Jordan) doesn't and he isn't getting much help from Soviet Ambassador Andrei Lysenko (Joss Ackland). Let Jack figure it out.

SEAN CONNERY, James Earl Jones and the rest of the cast are far too accomplished for this clichéd screenplay by Larry Ferguson and Donald Stewart and the murky direction by John McTiernan ("Die Hard" and "Predator"). The cast walks through their lines, looking faintly embarrassed, but striving as professionals to do the job they were paid for. But now that the movies

Dan Greenberg

Comrade Glasnost has come to roost in the Soviet Embassy, there's just no story here — and it's told very poorly.

Can you believe Sonorman Jones aboard the U.S. Submarine Dallas? He wears Petty Officer Second Class insignia but he's listed as a plain seaman. He sits there with his sonar, earphones and $40 million computer figuring out major technical secrets.

Does he have trouble convincing the Chief Boatwain (Larry Ferguson) or his Captain (Scott Glenn)? Of course not, they are eager to make major decisions based on an enlisted man's theory. That's not the Navy I remember.

By the way, did Ramius defect? In the end, he discusses the issue at length with Jack Ryan but never explains his position. It may have been because both Ramius and Ryan were taught to fish by their grandfathers. That makes as much sense as the rest of "The Hunt for Red October."

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Speaking Parts:' Video rules

By John Monaghan
special writer

Atom Egoyan's "Speaking Parts" is about the lack of communication in a world of muted emotions. Intentionally slow and often maddening, it proves somewhat why respected directors like Wim Wenders take the young Canadian so seriously.

Screening this weekend at the Tele-Arts Theatre, "Speaking Parts" spends its first 10 minutes without a single word of dialogue. Dissonant electronic music fills the soundtrack while the film focuses on a pair of women obsessed with video-taped images.

Alone in her apartment, Lisa (Armineh Khanjian) zooms in slowly on a man in the background of a scene — a handsome extra named Lance (Michael McManus). The second woman, Clara (Gabrielle Rose), seated in a new age mausoleum, watches her deceased brother walk toward her across a field.

In Egoyan's world of the very near future, people thrive on empty compliments and never really get to the heart of a conversation. Lisa, who works with Lance in the housekeeping department of a small hotel, tries to confront Lance with real feelings, but he literally runs from her.

THE FILM brings home Lance's vacuousness when he finally lands an audition for a speaking part. He talks in monotone during an emotional hospital scene.

"Do you think he's real enough?" asks the God-like movie producer, presiding over script meetings on an imposing video screen. Of course, he is, because everyone acts in a similarly detached way.

Clara, the screenwriter, also falls in love with Lance, mostly because he so resembles her dead brother. But all emotions with them — even lovmaking — are prompted by the video image. The scary part is how readily they accept it.

Bleakness, sterility and claustrophobia permeate the film, from the gray laundry and hotel rooms where Lance and Lisa work to the artificially lit mausoleum. None of the scenes take place outside, except in Clara's dead brother's video image.

"Speaking Parts" is hard to watch because Egoyan gives us no one to relate to. Lisa, the apparent heroine of the film, longs for an emotional breakthrough, but also relies heavily on video to accomplish it. We can't tell what's going on behind actress Khahijian's intentionally lifeless performance.

In many ways, "Speaking Parts" is a more intense, though less mature, companion piece to "sex, lies and videotape." It's the ambition and obvious thought behind the project that allow us to see beyond Egoyan's student art-film pretensions.

"Finally Got the News" and "The Black Eye," a pair of Detroit-made documentaries, screen at 7:30 p.m. March 5. "News" recounts the growth of new labor politics in the '60s and early '70s. "Black Eye" is the first documentary film made by black Detroit filmmakers from a black perspective. (A CityWide Cinema presentation.)

"Speaking Parts" (Canada — 1989), 5:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. March 9-10 and 1, 3, 5 and 7 p.m. March 11. In a world of muted emotion, a young woman grows hopelessly infatuated with Lance, a handsome movie extra. Lance, meanwhile, continues his manipulative rise to stardom. Directed by Atom Egoyan, perhaps Canada's hottest young director. (CityWide Cinema.)

"No Such Thing as Gravity" (USA — 1989), midnight March 9-10. Directed by Alyce Wittenstein, this black comedy stars sleazy underground filmmaker Nick Zedd as a lawyer who defends citizens accused of "uselessness." Their sentence — exiled to a planet far away from earth. With "Betaville" (USA — 1987), a spoof of the '60s French New Wave cinema.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN-DEARBORN, Room 138 Classroom Administration Building, Evergreen at US-12, Dearborn. Call 593-5000 for information. (Free.)

"The Adventures of Baron Munchausen" (USA — 1989), 7:30 p.m. March 8-9. In Terry Gilliam's epic adventure, the Baron, a teller of tall tales, embarks on a journey that finds him wallowing with Venus, flying across enemy lines while clutching a cannon ball, and trapped in the belly of a monster fish. Great fun.

Soul Station plays a guitar-driven rock that sounds like the unlikely combination of "classic rock" and Stan Ridgeway that works.

Station: Not so soulful sounds

By Jill Hamilton
special writer

First, let's get this out of the way. Soul Station doesn't play soul music. What they do play is an unusual sort of guitar-driven rock that sounds like an unlikely combination of "classic rock" and Stan Ridgeway. This mixture actually works. Honest.

Soul Station is a band you could bring home to mother. During an early afternoon interview at the glamorous setting of a Denny's Restaurant, Joe Angotti (lead guitar), John Linardos (vocals, rhythm guitar) and Scott Burks (drums) proved themselves to be articulate, personable, nice guys.

Nice guys? Yes, nice. Although we don't know for sure since bassist Steve Rousee couldn't come to the Denny's summit, he's probably a nice guy, too.

Some bands seem more enamored with the trappings of success and the idea of being in a band than in the music itself. The four guys in Soul Station play in a band just because they really like playing music.

"We're always going to play," Linardos said. "Of course, it would be nice to be able to make a living at it."

Sure, but is it probable? Actually, the answer is yes.

Soul Station got off to quite a good start. For their first gig, they played at St. Andrew's Hall, opening for the Orange Roughies.

"It happened kind of fast," said Burks. Linardos was a friend of the Orange Roughies and asked if his band could open for them at the St. Andrew's gig. What Linardos neglected to mention was that he didn't exactly have a band together yet. He quickly recruited Angotti, a neighbor from his building and his friends Rousee and Burks.

THE SHOW was a success. They had to use a practice amp since they didn't have any equipment but, as Burks puts it, "We jammed."

After that fateful first gig, Soul Station decided that maybe it was time to buy some equipment. It was a good investment. After only 1½ years of playing together, Soul Station racked up an impressive array of successful performances.

In January, they headlined with several of Detroit's most popular bands at the FUN magazine party at St. Andrew's Hall. They also played at the popular Tremor Records show at Paycheck's.

In February, they performed at the Majestic Theatre with such illustrious local talent as Crossed Wire, Phineas Gage, the Sun Messengers and Ash Can VanGogh at a benefit for WDET and the American Heart Association.

Their new five-song cassette, simply titled "Soul Station" has been getting air play on WDET's "Dimensions" show and on WDTR's "Detroit Music Scene."

The band has started playing the out-of-state club circuit.

"We've played in Toledo and Milwaukee . . . the Midwestern tour," said Angotti.

The band hopes to eventually expand their next Midwestern tour to include more than two cities, but for the present, they are happy with what they are doing.

"When we first started out, half the shows were good and half were not good," said Angotti. "Later, we've been playing well and getting good responses."

"WE'RE GETTING more consistent," Linardos said.

Linardos handles writing the songs for the group because, as Angotti puts it, "We're lazy, so we let him do it."

"I try to write all the time. Every night I write something — songs, poetry or something on the guitar," said Linardos.

When asked about musical influences, Linardos named songwriters "like James Taylor, Paul Simon, Lou Reed."

Listening to Soul Station's rough-edged songs, it's hard to imagine that they were somehow inspired by mellow rockers like James Taylor and Paul Simon. But, take a look at the lyric sheet and the influence is obvious. Linardos has quite a talent for writing honest, emotional songs.

WHEN ASKED about other local bands, Soul Station is quick to compliment the competition. Some favorites include Anti-Fashion, Inside Out, Viv Akauldren, Static Alphabet and Crossed Wire. They repeat the familiar refrain that Detroit has a lot of great local bands but that there is little radio support. However, Soul Station has a solution to the dilemma.

"Everybody has to get together," Linardos said. "Local bands need to work with each other instead of competing with each other," added Jim Stone, who manages the band.

"More like a collective," echoed Burks. "I would be great if there were more local compilation albums." He cites Tremor Records and commends them for their support of local music.

Their review was really fun and it was packed," he said. "We could use a lot more things like that."

MUSIC NOTES

alive signs with 4AD

Livonia-based musician Warren Defever and his group his name is alive recently was signed to a one-record deal by British major independent 4AD/Elektra Entertainment Group, according to New York-based label publicist Vicky Wheeler.

The yet-to-be titled LP will be released in August.

The record deal is a remarkable feat considering Defever performed only a couple of times live with the group.

"I have a theory," said Defever, who is currently touring with Elvis Hitler. "It seems to me . . . (bands) try to be really popular local bands. That's great for your social life, but it doesn't work."

Defever sent in a tape recorded on a four-track in his basement to 4AD representative Ivo Watts-Russell. He was "impressed" and told Defever to keep in contact.

After a few visits to Garageland Studios in New Boston, Defever resubmitted the tape and Watts-Russell approved.

The Livonia Stevenson graduate has performed with a number of local groups, most notably Snake Out and Elvis Hitler. Several musicians helped out on the project, including vocalists Karen Oliver, and Angie Carozzo along with Damien Lang and Jim Auge.

Defever describes his music as "basically rock music" blended with folk and classical stylings. He's putting together a band to tour in the fall. Members include Melissa Elliot and his younger brother Matthew Defever.

We have a new idea for a compilation album. Title it "Bass Player Blues" and ask Frank Allison & the Odd Sox, Orange Roughies and Jugglers and Thieves to appear. All three have, or will be, waving goodbye to their bassists.

John Boyle recently performed his last show with Frank Allison & the Odd Sox at the Blind Pig. Tim Doss of the Orange Roughies served notice he wouldn't be able to tour in support of the long-awaited release of "Knuckle Sandwich."

Jill Zimba of Jugglers and Thieves will be leaving the band to marry Daryl Dybka, who is keyboardist and co-producer of the Chet Atkins Band, later this year.

The band also announced it has signed a management/representation contract with Star-Direction agency of Los Angeles, Calif., and has such clients as the O'Jays and the Temptations. The agency will present Jugglers and Thieves to mafor record labels.

Orange Roughies found a solution to their bass player shortage, enlisting the services of Idiots' drummer Glynn Scanlon. The group is set to shove off on a massive tour of the Midwest, Southwest and southern California. The tour kicks off March 31 in St. Louis, Mo. Also Dave Katz looks to be the likely replacement for Frank Allison & the Odd Sox, who will play Friday and Saturday at Lili's.

Of course, no romp through the local music is complete without a note from the Sensitive Big Guys. Apparently, the Livonia group has a tape ready to go, "our (sic) Flaws Make Us Perfect." Price tag for the 20-minute tape? A mere $149.95.

But, wait. Act now, according to the Big Guys, and receive a 97 percent mark down. That's right, folks. A tape that normally retails for $149.95 is available for $4. The offer only lasts until Dec. 1, 1999 (Sorry, no mention of any Ginsu knives).

Shheesh! And we thought the only bargains were at K mart.

REVIEWS

INSHA-ALLAH!

— Nasa

Nasa's debut, Insha-Allah!, is the latest entry in the recent spate of Middle Eastern recordings hitting U.S. shores. With Insha-Allah!, Momo (guitar) and Cash (vocals) have no less lofty a goal than "to bring together East and West into a startling new synthesis of sound."

They succeed. The group, named after the American space program and Gamal Abdel Nasser (the Egyptian president who spearheaded the movement for Arab unity), spices up Western guitar-based rock with mysterious Eastern melodies, chants and sounds. The mixture makes for quite an odd concoction.

Although Western musicians, most notably George Harrison, have incorporated elements of Middle-Eastern music into their music for years, Nasa is the first band to go beyond the occasional use of a sitar and give Eastern and Western sounds equal time.

The result is an odd hybrid that is powerful, majestic and sensual, but it also rocks. Nasa moves easily between screeching guitar feedback and oases of gentle, atmospheric Eastern sounds. Cash's echoed vocals can be anthemic and sweeping, as on "Woman" or harsh and metallic, as in "Magic Jeweled Limousine." He has that same sort of passionate wall as U2's Bono or INXS' Michael Hutchence.

Two songs — "Shah Shah" and "Serophia" were previously released on a four-song EP, "Boy King and the Lizard Girl." "Shah Shah" is savage and exotic layering of sounds. "Serophia" is a dizzying dance tune, complete with a new age philosophy in lyrics like, "A love mission, children given sight/a psychic vision, beauty born of decay/a new religion, pary for your love to stay."

Nasa brought out the big guns for this major-label debut on Sire Records, including legendary Indian tabla player Pandit Dinesh and Israeli vocalist and label mate Ofra Haza. Not making a musical appearance on the album but thanked, nonetheless, in the liner notes are other "big guns" — Shiva, Buddha, Krishna and Allah.

Insha-Allah, by the way, can be loosely translated as "God willing." No use taking any chances.

BLOOD BROTHERS

— Rob Tyner

In 1969, three bands released major-label debuts that forever redefined "the Detroit sound." The Stooges, Alice Cooper and the MC5 played raspy, industrial strength rock-and-roll. Of the three, the MC5 was the most political, inventive and eclectic.

Twenty years later, the raw power, muscle and sonic boom of these bands is still being imitated. And while the bands themselves have all disintegrated, the lead singers, Iggy Pop, Alice Cooper and Rob Tyner, remain the most active and recognized alumni of their respective bands. Unfortunately, none of the three has retained the distinctiveness or originality that characterized their early work.

Rather, they are all imitating their imitators. Iggy Pop's songs crop up on soundtracks, where they blend depressingly with the current wave of L.A. metal. Alice Cooper has copied more than his fair share of Bon Jovi harmonies of late. And Rob Tyner, well, his is the saddest story of all.

"Blood Brothers" is a startlingly bad record. Tyner claims to have penned most of the MC5's lyrics, and has been the band's key songwriter member. If this is true, Tyner's skills have evaporated over the past two decades.

The record has traces of the MC5's politicalism, but the ideas are even more fuzzy and muddled. On several tracks, Tyner strives for anthemic pop-metal. The results end up sounding like bargain-basement KISS.

Tyner's vocals are a pale, wobbly echo of his former full-tilt assault, and his band is not able to prop him up. Joey Gaydos has a stableful of Van Halen-inspired snorts and whines, but his efforts are shoehorned into the songs. And the drumming is simply inept, with beats stumbling about like soured deckhands.

The opening cut, a cover of the Stone's "It's Only Rock'n'Roll," is so tepid that the title becomes a lie.

Because the record contains blatant attempts to cop the Los Angeles pop-metal sound, it might be possible to write this record off as a desperate and ill-advised stab at Top 40. If, however, this record represents Tyner's idea of "Detroit hard rock," he would do well to head for the palm trees and leave "Motor City Music" to people who can still smell something burning in the Motor City.

SHAKE YOUR

MONEYMAKER

— Black Crowes

Ah yes, sometimes life is surprising.

The Black Crowes are a new band from Atlanta, Ga., who recently received quite a career boost when they were signed by Def American, a division of Geffen Records. With "Shake Your Moneymaker," the Crowes are making their first stab at the big time.

Unfortunately, the Crowes also became acquainted with publicists. Here, verbatim, is what one eager young PR type at Geffen had to say about the Crowes:

"If rock'n'roll is down'n'dirty, boozin', bloozin', and floozin' if rock'n'roll is letting loose all your emotions, if rock'n'roll is reacting to signing a record deal with the word 'cool,' if rock'n'roll is crushing a car, so you can put the real thing instead of a sound effect in a song, then the Black Crowes is rock'n'roll."

Maybe this description would thrill and excite some eager, young listeners, but others of us might be prompted to think, "Gosh, those Black Crowe guys sound like a bunch of jerks."

So, it was with great trepidation that we placed this particular disc on the old turntable. Guess what? The album is pretty good.

Brothers Chris (vocals) and Rich

Robinson (guitar) might be jerks, but they are not talentless jerks. They are adept at writing powerful tunes that rock hard and actually have some semblance of a melody. Drummer Steve Gorman bangs the skins with originality and finesse.

And, perhaps the biggest bonus, on "Shake Your Moneymaker," the songs don't all sound alike. These Crowe fellows have written some mighty fine tunes incorporating roots rock, head bangers and sweet, sorrowful blues. Their "power ballads" are actually powerful and their rockers rock.

Songs range from a funky cover of Otis Redding's "Hard to Handle" to the bluesy "Sneaking Things" to the melancholic "She Talks to Angels," a song about addiction.

"Shake Your Moneymaker" is a fine debut and should garner the band some acclaim. That is, if their PR person stays out of it.

FEAR & LOAFING

Getting a job

By Karl Nilsson
special writer

People change careers for a variety of reasons. Some desire personal growth. Others seek greater opportunity.

Occasionally the move is not voluntary. Sometimes a slight personality quirk like hiding tripe around the office can rub the boss the wrong way. Sometimes the minor incident like impaling the owner's Mercedes on a forklight can signal a departure.

But whatever the reason for being in the job market, everyone agrees the worst part of looking for work is the job interview. And no wonder! Patterned after the Spanish Inquisition, it's designed to turn your most innocent remarks into evidence that can be used against you.

For instance, suppose you're applying for head chef at a posh restaurant. Asked to describe your recent job experience you reply, "Fewer people died of food poisoning than at my first two jobs."

Excellent answer, except for one tiny mistake — you inadvertently revealed you worked at three establishments. That could be bad as a "job-hopper."

Or let's say you're applying for chief mechanic at a new car dealership. Asked about your specialty you reply, "I installed brakes for 10 years and never had a single customer come back and complain. I guess the accidents were always fatal. Eventually I got depressed with all the lawsuits and decided the place down."

Not a bad answer, but don't use the word "depressed." Car dealers want people who can smile and project confidence.

Whatever your situation, you can breeze through your next interview with helpful tips compiled by personnel directors across the country:

1.) Never phone your analyst during a job interview. It's far better etiquette to bring him along in person. If you feel more comfortable answering questions lying down, remember to ask the interviewer to clear off his desk before you spread out on it.

2.) Companies value loyalty from their prospective employees. Before your interview, have the company logo tattooed across your chest. During the dialogue, look for an excuse to casually open your shirt to the waist.

3.) Personal appearance is critical. Trouble is, you can't anticipate the interviewer's taste. If you're lucky enough to wear a hairpiece, bring a spare. If things seem to be going badly for you as a young brunette, switch to your gray toupee.

4.) Gone are the days of sheep mentality. Today, companies want employees who are bold and assertive. Even if you're a non-smoker, light up a 10-inch cigar. If the interviewer points to a no-smoking sign, rip it down and laugh contemptuously. When the air is completely fouled, grind your stogie out on the mahogany desk top. Having proved your rugged individualism, put the cigar back in your purse and reapply your lipstick.

5.) By state law, licensed interviewers must be able to pass for comatose, so breaking the ice isn't easy. To liven things up start off with a hand-buzzer, juggle a rubber chicken, and squirt him with silly-string. Next, fill out your application with disappearing ink, toss a smoke bomb into the wastebasket, and make a Xerox copy of your bare butt. That's the kind of spunk that can't be ignored!

Occasionally, a second interview is conducted in a most relaxed atmosphere, usually over lunch. Special rules of business courtesy apply here:

1.) Except for minestrone, it's best not to eat soup with your fingers. It could be hot enough to cause a nasty burn.

2.) If dexterity and coordination are called for in your new position, a demonstration could be helpful: Place a toothpick between your front teeth and spear your meatballs.

3.) When the check comes, make a grand gesture and grab it from the waiter. Then try to pay it with food stamps. This will subtly underscore how badly you need the job.

Finally, with employee pilferage at an all time high, questions will inevitably turn to your personal integrity. To convey your feelings about white collar crime, pull out a giant chrome revolver and shove it up the interviewer's nose. In your best Dirty Harry snarl, say you'll personally terminate any co-worker that swipes so much as a pencil.

STREET SENSE

Where to meet people

Dear Barbara:

A few months ago, someone wrote to you inquiring about why there are not any groups forming for individuals to meet new people. With all of the self-help and other support groups in the metro area, it does not seem right that women and men who need to meet new people don't have a place to congregate.

I am a 23-year-old female recently moved back to this area. After being away for school, coming back has proven difficult, especially in the acquiring of new friends. I would like to know if any such group has since been formed, and if not, how to contact anyone interested in forming some kind of new one.

In Search of New Acquaintances

A few months ago there was a lot of correspondence in this column from singles. Many bemoaned the lack of situations for single people.

Others wrote to say that they had found many possibilities for meeting new people in the Observer & Eccentric, the News and the Free Press. They cited church and temple groups, community gatherings, dating services and even bars as possible sites for meeting other singles.

However, even the singles who find others who are unattached seem to have trouble finding the "right" ones. That is, cohorts with similar values and interests.

When singles were high school and college age, there was a school environment that allowed for a lot of discourse and familiarity before romantic attachments were decided. Without that environment and the possibility for familiarity that it imparts, many singles find that they are in a crashout, as one of my readers called it.

The suggestions that successful singles give are the following: They say to be open to new people and experiences, wherever you are. Friendships with married people can add dimension to your life and may lead to an eventual fix-up as well.

Singles who have been successful in meeting others say that being fixed up by friends has the best chances for success. Friends know you and thus can screen the possibilities. Friends often have values and interests similar to yours — and so will their choices.

Of course, if you have interests — political, athletic, intellectual or artistic, you will have more chances for finding friends who are compatible: Don't expect others to come after you. You have to be aggressive.

My readers and I always love to hear more on this subject, so let us know what happens to you.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Three more Oscar-nominated films have been added to the video list. There are now 15 motion pictures in contention for Academy Awards which are or shortly will be available on video cassette for home viewing.

Leading the latest list is "Dead Poets Society" with four nods from the academy — best picture, best actor, best director and best original screenplay.

Apparently, producers and distributors now feel there's more money to be made from video than from milking Oscar nominations, at the box office. Touchstone has just announced that "Dead Poets Society" will "be available on video cassette just two days after the Academy Awards telecast in March."

Earlier CBS co-announced March 29 as the street date for "The Abyss" which received Oscar nominations for art direction, cinematography, sound and visual effects. Finally, Orion has announced Woody Allen's "Crimes and Misdemeanors" will be on the video racks May 24.

Not in contention for an Oscar, but still playing at the local theaters, "Look Who's Talking" will be released on cassette April 11. As with other top-grossing films from 1989 — "Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade," "Dead Poets Society" and "Batman" — this may be a case where not too much more is expected at the box-office, so it's time to milk the video market.

Another film still in theatrical release which is now (March 1) available on video is "Apartment Zero" (color, 1989, R, 114 minutes). It's been playing around the country at 15 to 20 theaters for the past five months, but for the life of me, I can't understand why.

"APARTMENT ZERO" won best picture at the Fort Lauderdale Film Festival and that honor plus best director at the Seattle Film Festival, neither of which are the big leagues, so there may be a clue there.

The story and production values are appropriate to the title. Set in Buenos Aires, a repressed manager of an art film house, Adrian Leduc (Colin Firth), takes in a border, Jack Carney (Hart Bochner).

Their relationship develops against the background of Argentine society cleansing itself from the legacy of death squads, a serial killer on the loose, homosexual overtones and a touch of neorealist for good measure.

That may sound like a lot going on, but actually, the film is extremely slow and boring and an excellent demonstration of the difference between artistic and pretentious filmmaking techniques. "Apartment Zero," of course, is the latter.

With such offerings, it's no wonder that distributors are releasing Oscar winners of former years. Twenty-five MGM titles are now available on cassette. Add to those five Columbia classics which will be available just prior to this year's Oscar ceremonies.

"Picnic," "The More the Merrier," "On the Waterfront," "From Here to Eternity" and "All the King's Men" will be out March 21. The first two are making their debut on the video racks, while the last three have been around for some time. All are listed at $19.95, which means that eager collectors will find some real bargains.

"All the King's Men" (1949, black and white, 109 minutes, not rated) is of particular interest featuring Broderick Crawford in the portrayal of Louisiana Gov. Huey Long, a performance which won best actor in 1949. Screen this video just before trekking out to the theater to see Paul Newman's current hit, "Blaze," the story of Huey's younger brother, Earl, also a governor of Louisiana.

BESIDES BEST actor, "All the King's Men" won best supporting actress and best picture. Based on Robert Penn Warren's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, it also was nominated for directing, writing and film editing.

"On the Waterfront" (1954, black and white, not rated) and "From Here to Eternity" (1953, black and white, 118 minutes, not rated) are in a similar class.

"From Here to Eternity," featuring Burt Lancaster, Frank Sinatra, Montgomery Clift, Ernest Borgnine, Donna Reed and Deborah Kerr, won seven Oscars for its compelling tale of army life in Hawaii just prior to Pearl Harbor.

The two new video releases, "Picnic" (1956, color, 113 minutes, not rated) and "The More the Merrier" (1943, black and white, 104 minutes, not rated) are both well worth your viewing time.

"Picnic" stars William Holden, Kim Novak, Rosalind Russell and Susan Strasburg in a drama about an egotistical drifter and the effect he has on the lives of five women in a small, Midwestern town. It won Oscars for art direction-set direction and film editing while being nominated for best picture, supporting actor, direction and music scoring.

"The More the Merrier" is a comedy set during World War II in Washington. Jean Arthur, Joel McCrea and Charles Coburn star, with the last winning best supporting actor. Arthur was nominated for best actress. The film also was nominated for best picture, director and screenplay.

"My friend introduced me to a woman she said had a dog I was going to love," Tippery said. "I met her and the dog and fell in love with Topas (Bismark's father)."

One thing led to another and a year later, Tippery and her husband became the proud owners of Bismark. As dogs go, Bismark is a well-traveled pooch. He was 12 weeks old when he was shipped via Luftansa Freight to New York, with a connecting flight on United Freight to Detroit.

He came with a letter, explaining his care. According to the letter, Leonbergers dine on tripe and rice. They should never be placed in a cage (it will break their spirit, Tippery said). And the long fur on their paws should never be trimmed. The fur attracts ice crystals, protecting their pads from frostbite, Tippery explained.

Being a German dog, it's to be expected that the animal would be named after a famous German. In this case, Prince Otto Von Bismark. But Bismark got his name more for a painting of the Prussian chancellor of the German Empire than the man himself.

"There's a painting of Bismark in a museum in Munich," Tippery said. "He's posing with two Leonbergers. I saw it as a young girl and someday I'm going to go back and take a picture of it."

Bismark has a good temperament and is "wonderful" with children. "He knows his limitations," Tippery said.

He also is protective of the family cat, Bubbles, although the feeling isn't mutual. Bubbles tolerates Bismark, Tippery said.

For now, Bismark is brushing up on his rink etiquette at the Birmingham Dog Obedience School in preparation for the dog show — his and Tippery's first. There will also be a visit to the groomer's for some primping.

And, of course, there will still be the morning walks and playtime. "You really have to work with them," Tippery said.

Sheila Kay is finding fame on West Coast

By Bob Sadler
special writer

Sheila Kay is yet another transplanted Detroit comic seeking limelight in La-La land — not to mention maybe a part in a decent sitcom or even a husband.

"God knows I'm waiting for the perfect marriage," Kay said. "I just want to take care of somebody and be a domestic goddess like Roseanne."

Maybe the former Southfield resident is pulling our legs a bit. She'd probably like the weekly television show and notoriety that a certain Ms. Barr now enjoys, but that domestic goddess stuff may not exactly be her cup of tea.

"I've been married so many times I don't remember," Kay said.

In actuality, it's only been twice, but she's certainly not that far removed from the realities of domestic life. She was washing dishes at the beginning of the interview.

She only uses her first and middle names for her stage moniker, because the wry comic doesn't "want people to find her." Standing about five-feet tall, Sheila describes herself not as another Roseanne, but as Carla from "Cheers" plus another 20 pounds.

The majority of her humor is of the self-deprecating variety — the kind of "how do I look to you" stuff that has spelled stardom for people like Gary Shandling.

SHE FOCUSES on her appearance (particularly on her ongoing diet and exercise battles), her history of relationships (or "dating and the lack thereof" as she put it) and the family that provided both material and support through the years.

"I hate watching me perform," Kay says in her typical self-deprecating way. "I've got all these tapes of myself, and I never see them. I never like me as much as I hope everybody else will."

It's been a long road to full-time comedy and Los Angeles for Sheila Kay. Born in Detroit, she spent the first six years of her life in the old Dexter-Davison neighborhood. Later, her family moved to Oak Park, where she grew up playing the clarinet and taking dancing and singing lessons.

"I always had that show biz thing around me; my uncle used to be on the 'Soupy Sales Show,' doing skits and other stuff," she said. "I had a lot of background in the family, but I never really thought about show business as a career."

"I got married right after high school (she graduated from Ferndale High School), and it threw a monkey wrench in my entire life!"

In March 1979, she joined the nucleus of Detroit comics who all earned their wings during the early days at the Comedy Castle. This illustrious group includes people like Bill Thomas, Van Gunter and Tony Hayes — people who have been able to stay alive on the comedy circuit ever since. Kay remembers those days well.

"WE HAD A real camaraderie. It was really tight," Kay said. "All the comics helped each other, critiqued each other."

Kay worked at various day jobs while learning the comedic ropes and actually ran a club in Bloomfield Hills for a short time. The experience gained booking a club and emceeing shows gave Kay the confidence to take her act on the road. Finally, the move to Los Angeles was made three years ago.

Now, she has made it as a national headliner, with some television credits to boot — "Comic Strip Live," HBO's "Not Necessarily the News," "Evening at the Improv," and a soon-to-air appearance on the Showtime Comedy Club Network. However, the humble comic still sees room for improvement and more stars to reach for.

"I feel I'm doing my job well, but I'm not really where I want to be yet," she said. "I'd like to get better. In fact, I'd like to be a director someday — because I'm really good at telling people what to do."

Sheila Kay will perform March 2-3 at the Mainstreet Comedy Showcase in Ann Arbor and March 21-25 at the Holly Hotel.

'I hate watching me perform. I've got all these tapes of myself, and I never see them. I never like me as much as I hope everybody else will.'

Ten lovely ladies in nine movies are vying for two of the most prestigious Oscars — best actress and best supporting actress — to say nothing of those who weren't nominated although many think they ought to have been.

It's unusual, but not unheard of, for two nominations to be made in the same category for a given film. Anjelica Huston and Leno Olin — wife and mistress to Ron Silver's Holocaust survivor in "Enemies, a Love Story" — are in that category and among the brightest performances nominated this year.

Julia Roberts nominated for her role as the tragically fated daughter in "Steel Magnolias" is in a film that some think ought to have had a few more nominations for best supporting actress. Shirley MacLaine and Olympia Dukakis were magnificent in that film.

Of course, what constitutes a supporting role is open to debate. Who was the feminine lead in "Steel Magnolias" that Roberts supported?

The same question might be raised regarding Huston and Olin in "Enemies, a Love Story." In terms of lines, screen time or any other measure, both were featured more than Sophie Stein who supported them in the role of the Polish servant that saved Silver from the Nazis and later married him. Her fine performance also deserved a nomination.

Well, who will win?

LET'S ELIMINATE Brenda Fricker as Christy Brown's mother in "My Left Foot." It's hard to credit a performance that presents the same visage over a 20-year period. The incredible strain of bearing and raising seven children in poverty, particularly when one of them has cerebral palsy and one's husband is less than a perfect gentleman, ought to show more on the features and the bearing but Fricker carries on brightly and bravely throughout. Far too much so for credibility, much less for accolades.

Dianne Wiest in "Parenthood" was effective as a distraught, single mother with difficult children to raise, but her performance wasn't all that noteworthy. Competent, yes, award-winning, no. In fact, given some of the possible choices this year, this was a puzzling nomination.

Julia Roberts' nomination also strikes a strange note. Despite a sympathetic role, she was overshadowed by an extremely fine cast, some of whom had to be in "support." So, eliminate her and that brings us back to Olin and Huston in "Enemies."

Both were excellent and both have a lot of political sympathy working for them, attitudes which mean so much in the academy's selection process. Olin was well-regarded for her role in "The Unbearable Lightness of Being" despite the fact the film didn't do

HERB RITTS

Michelle Pfeiffer won her best actress nomination for her performance with Jeff and Beau Bridges in "The Fabulous Baker Boys."

TAKASHI SEIDA

Lena Olin's performance as Masha, the passionate and troubled mistress of Herman Broder (Ron Silver) in "Enemies: A Love Story," won her a best supporting actress nomination.

ZADE ROSENTHAL

well. Huston, of course, because of her talent, her father, John, and her friend, Jack Nicholson, is a popular figure.

Both performances were excellent, but it seems to me that Huston has the political edge and, as a matter of fact, her role was much more "supporting" in scope than Olin's. The latter, in my book, had the lead feminine role so the envelope for best supporting actress will say "Anjelica Huston."

THE BEST ACTRESS nominations are equally intriguing. The lovely and talented Isabelle Adjani — probably best known for her role in Truffaut's "The Story of Adele H" — has been out of sight for some time.

The bizarre rumors about her death from AIDS and the fact that she appears in a largely unknown film, "Camille Claudel" as the French sculptor Rodin's mistress probably will work against her chances.

Jessica Lange in "The Music Box" performed extremely well but despite a politically hot topic, the Holocaust, the film generally was not well-received for its writing and direction. That probably works against Lange's chances.

Michele Pfeiffer's role in "The Fabulous Baker Boys" was very popular and well-done but must be eliminated in face of the two top choices, Jessica Tandy in "Driving Miss Daisy" and Pauline Collins in "Shirley Valentine." Both these films and both performances were far superior to most films in this or any year.

These two performances and these two films ought to be on everybody's all-time top 40.

Both are very different. The 81-year old Jessica Tandy portrays a strong-willed, independent Jewish widow in the south from 1948 through 1973, a period of great cultural change and a period in which Miss Daisy slowly ages and decays from a strong, independent character in her late 60s to a weak, dependent old woman in her 90s.

"SHIRLEY VALENTINE" is a much lighter film, dealing with a short period in the life of an intelligent Manchester (England) housewife who takes charge of her drab life and infuses it with life, excitement and good spirits. makes the important choice to live.

Not only is Collins' rendition superb, but the film recreates her Broadway, Tony Award-winning performance in an unusual way, direct communication between performer and camera lens, a theatrical style and very difficult to maintain throughout a feature film. Nonetheless Collins does so with the very best style and technique.

In my book both Tandy and Collins deserve best actress but since the Academy rules don't allow for that, I'm picking Tandy who, at 81, has never won despite a long and glorious career on Broadway and in films.

The trail at the Kalkaska County Fairgrounds was hard and icy on this weekend and Zabik, in just her second season of competition, had trouble on the first day of the two-day event. She tipped her sled a couple times and banged her elbow pretty hard, forcing her to ask for help from one of the trail marshals.

Because of the assistance she received, she was disqualified from the competition and ran her dogs the second day strictly for recreation. The elbow, though stiff and visibly bruised, felt "much better" by Sunday morning.

Sled dog racing is not a sport for frail, wimpy individuals. Bumps and bruises to mushers are like chapped lips and rosy cheeks to an Eskimo.

Zabik has suffered broken ribs and a broken nose and received stitches in her lip from sled accidents during training.

Call of the wild

Mushers enjoy a doggone way to travel

"The danger is if you fall off your sled," said Zabik. "If you fall, you don't let go of the sled. 'Lose your sled and you're dead,' is a slogan of the mushers. You have to hold on until the dogs stop, otherwise you'll have a team that's out of control."

Zabik bounced back from the Kalkaska disaster to finish second the following weekend at the Michigan/Wisconsin Curtis Cup Challenge in Curtis.

"I came in second on Saturday and had to pass a couple people," Zabik said. "On Sunday I didn't see a soul. It wasn't icy at all; the trail was great. I fell once on the trail, but overall it was a great race."

ZABIK WAS introduced to the sled dog scene several years ago while visiting a friend in Alaska, home of the Iditarod Trail Race, the most famous dog sled race in North America which covers more than 1,000 miles. She was bitten by the sled dog bug several years later while vacationing in Montana.

"I first became interested 11 years ago while visiting friends in Alaska," Zabik said. "Then, two years ago, I was visiting another friend in Montana and I went on a free dog sled ride with Mary Mohon (a well-known musher). That was it. You do it once and you're hooked for life."

Zabik has been harnessing and unharnessing her dogs ever since.

After that first meeting, Zabik and Mahon became good friends. Mahon gave Zabik her first two sled dogs — a pair of registered Siberian huskies.

"She gave me one great dog and one good dog," Zabik said. "It's really not unusual for some other racer to give you a dog because everyone is really friendly. But it is kind of unusual for someone to give you a good dog, especially two of them."

Experience with the dog team means a lot on the trail. The secret, according to Zabik, is having a good relationship with all your dogs, especially the leader of the team.

"IF YOU HAVE a good relationship with your dogs, they'll do anything for you," she said.

Although Zabik obviously enjoys the sport, after one glance at a team in action one realizes it's really the dogs that are having the most fun. Sled dogs are born to run.

Once harnessed and in place, the team of dogs must be physically restrained by several adults. That's when the yelping, barking, jumping and pulling begins. But as soon as the team is released and allowed to run, all becomes quiet on the snow covered trail as the dogs do what they enjoy and do best.

If you don't believe dogs can smile, you've never seen a sled dog team in action.

Custom doodlin' Mom/artist dotting her pieces and cubes

By Cathleen Collins Lee
special writer

When Birmingham artist Carol Jacobson comes across some limitation or problem in her work, she is frustrated but she's also, well, pleased.

"It's a challenge to me to see what I can do with a limited resource," she said. "The creative process is simply like that in that there are problems that don't have obvious solutions. It pushes you into learning to do new kinds of things yourself. You can try a lot of different things."

Jacobson had just that kind of experience a few years ago when she wanted to buy baby furniture for her daughter Lacey, now 3½.

A graphic artist and a graduate of University of Michigan's fine arts program, Jacobson has an intense visual awareness and her own definite sense of style.

When she found that the traditional nursery furniture did not appeal to her, she decided to create what she wanted herself. She bought unfinished furniture and garage sale castoffs, then painted them in bright, colorful patterns; checkerboards, splatter paint, small scattered flowers, polka dots, and combinations of scattered doodles, crosses and dots. Friends asked her to paint furniture for their children, and soon her basement painting projects were becoming a business.

JACOBSON NOW sells a variety of hand-painted furniture for children, including chair and table sets, rocking chairs, toy high chairs and toy chests.

She also works with a furniture maker to design custom-made furniture for adults such as console tables, coffee tables and armoires. Jacobson sells her furniture under the name Doodles and Dots from her house and through three Birmingham stores — Kiddiewinks, Ariana Gallery and Expression. But she's hoping that soon she'll be able to open her own place.

"It's a hard thing to sell through other stores," she said, "because people don't always understand that what they see there is not all that's available. I can custom-design my furniture to fit any decorating scheme."

Indeed she can. Jacobson has matched the color of a design on a toy chest to the blue in a particular shopping bag that matched someone's decor. She has replicated a particular wallpaper on a rocking chair. And one time, when a customer was trying to plan a surprise gift for someone, Jacobson had a housekeeper sneak in the house and describe the color scheme.

For Jacobson, much of the pleasure of her work comes from working with people to create pieces that will fit particular situations.

"Often the people who order the furniture are really excited about it because they're buying something special for somebody," she said. "That kind of thing is part of the fun. People feel like they've had a hand in designing it, and they also give me a lot of leeway to do what I want."

On a recent weekday, several examples of Jacobson's work were scattered around her house. Down in the workroom awaiting a few finishing touches were a white doll's high chair with small scattered pink and green flowers and a white toy chest with bright blue dots and the name Jason on the front. A child's roll-top desk and small antique table were stripped and ready for painting.

And up in the kitchen was a striking chair and table set that Jacobson painted for her daughter: the arches on the chairs and the edge of the table are painted in a black and white checkerboard design, while different sections of the chair legs and the table are painted in bright purple, pink and turquoise and orange.

JACOBSON USES a high-quality enamel oil-based paint that gives her many color options and which she feels is very durable. Her prices range from $70 for a child's stool to $100 for a small rocking chair and $250 for a high chair. If someone asks her to paint a piece of furniture they already own, Jacobson charges $40 to $200.

"Many people don't realize how time-consuming and skilled this is," she said. "I spend at least 10 hours on every piece of furniture. You can't paint two different colors that are touching at the same time, and each coat takes 12 to 24 hours to dry. It also takes a great deal of concentration."

One of the things that Jacobson enjoys about her furniture is twisting together two different styles in an unexpected way.

"Most of the furniture I do is early American and that's usually staid. But when I paint it I handle it in an unexpected way, and there's a contrast there. My approach is eclectic, and I think it gives it an eclectic feeling. I like traditional and I like contemporary, but I'd go crazy if I could just have one or the other."

Jacobson brings the eclectic approach to her own house, a 60-year-old fieldstone house. The living room's pink walls, white trim, bleached oak floors and white mini blinds give it a light, contemporary feeling. A black leather sofa, a shiny black dining room set and several large oil paintings are major focal points.

Carol Jacobson holds a foot stool she painted. Also shown are other pieces in the Doodles and Dots furniture line, including a toy high chair and bedside table. Below, 3-year-old Lacey Jacobson and her "friend" have tea at a hand-painted table and chair her mom did. A toy box is in the background.

But a few traditional pieces turn up in unexpected places: a small marble-topped chest near the door, a china cabinet in the dining room and a small stand in her daughter's room.

THOSE PIECES, rescued from relatives and friends' basements, represent Jacobson's creative and personal approach to decorating.

"I rarely go out and just buy something," she said. "I like taking these old one-of-a-kind pieces and deciding myself how I want them re-finished. You're not dealing with a middle-person."

Another theme in Jacobson's approach to art is a black and white checkerboard design. Jacobson's 10 years in graphic design accustomed her to working with black and white, and although she uses color liberally, she finds her emerging trademark seems to be in the checkerboard. You can see it in the kitchen floor, in several of her own paintings, which hang in the dining room, and in the narrow checkerboard wallpaper border she was delighted to find for a bathroom. Even her dog, a Dalmatian named Chloe, fits in with the color scheme.

"The dog came first," she laughs. "Not the other way around."

Handbook a guide in records retention

Q. The filing cabinets in our offices are bulging and we don't know what to keep or throw away. Can you give us some guidelines?

A. The answer to how long to keep which records is elusive, and it's difficult to give a definitive answer. You will even get different answers from the IRS, depending upon who answers your telephone call. One thing is for sure: Most people don't relish purging files but when it is delayed the result is overcrowded drawers, difficult filing and wasted clerical time and effort searching for information.

Records retention involves not only active files, but also semi-active storage, permanent storage and destruction schedules. Active files should, of course, be kept in a place convenient to its users and, bottom line, you need to dispose of all documents which you no longer need.

Inactive papers which must be kept should not take up expensive prime space. Instead, they should be transferred to less expensive remote storage which still allows for easy retrieval. Specially designed cardboard boxes serve well for this type of storage.

Many companies transfer their files after the end of each fiscal year. One easy approach is to cycle files from the top drawers of filing cabinets to bottom drawers as periods are completed, then to low-cost storage space and finally to disposal.

As to how long to keep specific documents, times vary from one to three, seven, or 30 years, to permanently. My best suggestion is to write to Fellows Manufacturing Co. (makers of what used to be known as Bankers Boxes) and ask for their Records Management Handbook with Retention Schedules. This booklet gives a thorough discussion of records retention not only of paper documents but also of micrographic, magnetic media storage and vital records protection. It also discusses lists, inventories, computerized records management and various methods of records destruction. They are available as long as supplies last.

Its Suggested Retention Schedule for business records was determined by a nationwide survey of leading authorities and daily time reports and invoices received. When Fellows receives conflicting answers from various sources, it opts for the longer, "safer" time. You may receive a free copy of this booklet by writing Fellows Manufacturing Co., 1789 Norwood Avenue, Itasca, Ill. 60143.

With or without the booklet, your company should establish its own record retention schedule. Some companies which generate massive amounts of paper require managers to justify the retention of their documents.

Home security alarms a matter of preference

By Doug Funke
staff writer

It may seem strange that buyers would spend a couple of hundred thousand dollars on a new house or condominium, then not install security systems to protect against burglary.

After all, a relatively simple alarm system containing several perimeter door/window contact points, an interior motion detector, a touch pad activation unit, control box, audio alarm and back-up battery can be purchased and installed for less than $1,000.

Or a customer can lease a system for the duration of home ownership for a one-time installation fee of about $200.

Not a lot of money, it appears, even figuring $20 per month under either option to tie into a central telephone emergency notification center.

But consider the flip side. If you're going to spend a small fortune on a condo or house, you probably figure it's in a nice, safe neighborhood, right?

Some builders include security systems as part of their standard construction package. Others, like James Bonadeo, a Plymouth builder and president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, don't.

"WE DON'T get much of a call for it," he said.

"Most people use plastic money, so they don't have cash in the house. If you have jewelry, it's usually in a safe or deposit box. Outside of furniture, TV and a few electronics, people don't keep much expensive stuff in the house," Bonadeo said.

Dennis Park, president of Blue Heron Construction, intends to put security systems in all 140 condos under construction at the Blue Heron Pointe Subdivision in Northville.

"It's something that added value," he said. "By standardizing, you can offer a better product with nice amenities for less money."

A security system doesn't top the wish list of the average home buyer, Park conceded.

Park said he doesn't know now whether security systems will be included as a standard feature on future projects, but where Blue Heron Pointe is concerned, "We've been well received."

MORE BUILDERS are making home security systems available to consumers early in the construction planning process.

That's good news for buyers because systems can be installed easier, neater and cheaper while the house is going up rather than as an add-on.

"Stuff on the market today has changed significantly, but it hasn't changed. It does the same thing," said Timothy Sass, manager for Brinks Home Security in Farmington Hills.

Master control units formerly turned on and off with a key now can be programmed with the touch of a finger to a small microprocessing unit.

Some of the more sophisticated control units have a digital readout indicating where a door or window has been left open if the system won't activate.

Infrared motion detectors are sensitive to temperature changes of people entering a room. Contact switches built into doors and windows detect movement or breakage.

AN INTRUSION will activate an ance for a system as a standard feature on new houses or condominiums.

audio alarm in the house and send a signal over telephone lines to a central processing center which, in turn, notifies local police or fire departments of emergencies.

Panic buttons on touch pads also will summon help.

Simple systems — alarming every door plus one motion detector — provide the most protection for the money, security advisors said.

"About 90 percent of all break-ins come through the door," Sass said. "A guy breaks into a house, the first place he's going to go is the master bedroom."

If a burglar were somehow to defeat a door alarm, he'd likely be tripped by a strategically placed motion detector.

Homeowners can alarm other potential entry points like windows and add touch pads, motion detectors and exterior cameras at a cost of several thousand dollars.

BUT KEEP in mind that most residential burglaries aren't pulled by master criminals, said George O'Malley, a security consultant for Vitex Inc. of Commerce Township and a former police officer.

"It's not the crackhead from Detroit, but probably a neighborhood punk most of the time, a youngster looking for guns, money or drugs," O'Malley said.

So super-sophisticated systems, unless they're installed in luxurious, isolated houses or by wealthy people who fear kidnapping, can be security overkill.

evolved beyond the point of just protecting property and people from violence.

"The same (master control) panel is fire protection. We can tie in electronic smoke detectors," O'Malley said. "Then you have a 24-hour monitored fire system." The cost — about $200 for two detectors.

Sensors can be connected to sump pumps to warn of inoperative pumps and rising water before flooding occurs. That connection would cost about $110, O'Malley said.

Keeping indoor air healthy takes care

(AP) — Since people generally spend a lot more time at home during the winter, an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) report that indoor air is five times as polluted as outdoor air is particularly alarming.

Linda Hunter, a freelance journalist, wife and mother in Des Moines, Iowa, became so concerned about the report that she decided to make her home a safer place to live. She published her experience in a book, "The Healthy Home."

Ladies' Home Journal interviewed Linda and picked up some first-aid tips for making a house its healthiest and most comfortable.

• Track down all pressed wood. This popular building material — including plywood and particleboard — is often used for cabinets and countertops although it contains formaldehyde and emits toxic fumes. Look up under the sink to check (tip: pressed wood gives off a sweet-smelling odor). Seal the exposed surfaces using a sealant without solvents.

• Increase humidity with an ultrasonic humidifier. Homes with forced-air heating systems are especially dry. The humidifier should be cleaned and replenished with fresh water daily.

• Make sure the house has good ventilation, which is the most important condition for clean air.

• Check for asbestos. The government's EPA Asbestos Hotline (202-554-1404) gives information on where to look for asbestos and what to do if it is found.

• Test the water supply, which could be loaded with contaminants, including bacteria, pesticides, industrial runoff and lead.

• Get rid of radon. This naturally occurring gas found in soil is a known carcinogen that gets into a house via the basement. Determine the level of radon by calling the EPA (800-SOS-RADON) for testing.
