Barns to keep fighting for school equity

By Tedd Schnelder
staff writer

Justine Barns is going back to Lansing with a mission — an equitable solution to the state's public school finance quandary.

"We've got to come up with something. There are too many kids getting the short end of the stick," Barns said Tuesday after her easy victory in re-election to the state House of Representatives over Republican challenger Kenneth Raupp.

In unofficial results compiled by the Westland city clerk's office, Barns received 10,712 votes, or nearly 66 percent. Raupp had 5,553 votes, for slightly more than 34 percent.

Democrat Barns said a House proposal on school finance reform has been "stuck in the Senate" since last spring.

The incumbent said it would make little difference to her who occupied the governor's office.

"WE NEED a plan to ease the problems in the Wayne-Westland schools," she said. "I have to try to accomplish that regardless of who is governor."

"We (the legislature) can't forget our responsibilities and our personal goals."

Republican nominee John Engler won a narrow victory in his race with Democratic Gov. James Blanchard, who conceded the election to Engler about 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Barns, who won a fifth, two-year term, said she prides herself on keeping in touch with constituents and she chided her opponent for not running a more active campaign.

"He really didn't do a lot," Barns said. "You don't sit back and then wait to win on election night."

Raupp also ran unsuccessfully against Barns in 1988. In 1986, he lost in the primary to George Erdel.

The Republican challenger, in a brief telephone interview late Tuesday, rebutted the criticism and defended his modest campaign. The challenger said he sent out a 7,000-piece mailing aimed at senior citizens and "beat the pavement" regularly after winning the August Republican primary.

"I AM KIND of disappointed," Raupp said. "I thought the mood of the country had changed and that a lot of incumbents wouldn't be re-elected."

"I'm sure in two years things will be different."

Ford looks forward to 14th term, reapportionment

By Leonard Pogor
editor

U.S. Rep. William Ford, a repeat landslide winner Tuesday, is looking ahead to 1992 when his district is expected to be revised to reflect population shifts.

Ford, a Taylor Democrat who won a 14th two-year term, said it's "too early to speculate" on how the 1992 reapportionment of the state's congressional House districts will affect him.

While Michigan is expected to lose two of its 18 House seats after the 1990 census figures are confirmed, it is unclear whether Ford will be included in a new district with a Republican or Democratic incumbent.

Currently, there are 11 Democrats and seven Republicans in the House. The districts which border Ford's district are represented by Republican Carl Pursell and Democrats John Dingell and Sander Levin.

But Ford did say in an election night interview at the Taylor Democratic Club hall that both the Democratic and Republican parties have agreed to retain Detroit's two House seats.

Ford, who has represented Garden City, Westland, and Canton Township for all of his 26 years in Congress, had the southern part of Livonia added after the 1980 census.

The district now has just over 513,000 residents, less than the 600,000 expected for each House district following the formal confirmation of the 1990 census. After the 1980 census, there were 450,000 in the district.

The veteran representative admitted that he will have some money left from this fall's campaign for the 1992 re-election bid, but didn't know how much because not all of the bills have been received.

FORD was leading his Republican challenger, Burl Adkins of Southgate, by a 2-1 margin, based on unofficial returns from western Wayne County and most of eastern Washtenaw County.

With all the votes counted, Ford had 68,862, far ahead of Adkins' 40,898.

Looking ahead to his 14th term, Ford talked about dealing with unfinished business.

The only thing that is certain is that he will be elevated to House Labor and Education Committee chairmanship, of which he has been a member for his 26 years in the House.

One piece of unfinished business, Ford said, is revising a civil rights bill vetoed last month by President George Bush who felt that it created employment quotas for minorities.

But Ford said the bill had nothing to do with race, but only addressed six U.S. Supreme Court rulings which dealt with job promotion discrimination against women.

As the incoming chairman of the House Labor and Education committee chairman, Ford said the five-year federal student aid plans will expire next year and come up for renewal.

ON THE campaign itself, Ford said one new wrinkle this year was Schweitzer pupils suspended

By Tedd Schnelder

Two sixth graders have been suspended from Schweitzer Elementary School for bringing a loaded gun and a second weapon to school Monday.

The incident is the third time in less than three years that guns been brought to school by students. The previous incidents — which involved unloaded firearms — occurred at junior high schools.

A recommendation on disciplinary action will be made when an internal investigation by the district is completed, said Tom Svitkovich, associate superintendent for administration.

Five of six students involved in the earlier incidents were expelled from the district.

Both boys would face concealed weapon charges in juvenile court, police said.

Police were called to Schweitzer, on Treadwell north of Glenwood, Monday morning. Officers confiscated a loaded .25-caliber Raven automatic pistol and a replica gun, along with seven rounds of shotgun ammunition and 14 pistol bullets.

AN 11-YEAR-OLD student apparently took the guns and ammunition from home. He and a schoolmate were reported playing with them in a lunchroom where other students were present.

Svitkovich said he couldn't confirm the circumstances under which the weapons were discovered.

Schweitzer principal Karen Obslusk sent a letter home with students Tuesday explaining the incident.

"Because this is the first time something like this has happened at the elementary level and we most certainly want to make parents aware of what happened, we felt the letter was a good idea," Svitkovich said.

No letter was sent when similar incidents occurred in 1988 and 1989. In March 1989, three Adams Junior High School students were suspended for bringing an unloaded Smith & Wesson revolver and two bullets to school.

School officials found the gun and bullets in a student's locker after receiving a tip.

Jerry Lee Hare and Shawn Kelly O'Neill, both 15, were expelled from the district and a third, unidentified student, 14, was disciplined with "something less than expulsion," school officials said at the time.

In April 1988, two Franklin Junior High School students were suspended and eventually expelled after one boy brought an unloaded gun to school and stored it in another boy's locker.

Split council OKs shopping center plan for Cooper School site

By Tedd Schnelder
staff writer

A developer's plan to demolish the vacant Cooper School and build a strip shopping center on the southeast corner of Middlebelt and Ann Arbor Trail got a tentative go-ahead Monday.

The Westland City Council voted 4-3 to rezone the property to allow the shopping center with final approval contingent on presentation of a site plan that meets concerns of council members and residents who live behind the proposed project.

The council approved the rezoning despite a unanimous recommendation against it by the city's planning commission, a pending city lawsuit against the property owners and some harsh words from Mayor Robert Thomas toward the developers.

"I think what you're gonna have here is an empty strip mall," Thomas said Monday. "This is not a good project."

"I don't think these people will live up to the site plan," Thomas said.

THE MAYOR was critical of a meeting with developers Robert Asmar and Massoud Yono in which he said the pair asked for support on the rezoning as a condition for razing the building. "I think they have things a little backwards," Thomas said.

Monday's action would rezone the property where the vacant school building sits from low-intensity office/commercial to low-intensity commercial.

The Thomas administration and neighborhood residents concerned about increased traffic and late-night loitering have argued that a single-story office building would be a better use for the property.

Helping is a family tradition for newly named First Citizen

By Leonard Pogor
editor

Sharon Scott's selection as First Citizen of Westland caps a 20-year period of community service work.

Scott, 51, was nominated for her work on the Wayne-Westland board of education, St. John Episcopal Church woman's auxiliary, Friends of the Westland Historical Museum, Westland Cultural Society, Westland Summer Festival, Wayne-Westland Substance Abuse Task Force, Drug Abuse Resistance Committee and Michigan State Fire Board.

The award winner will be publicly honored Tuesday at a Westland Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon, open to the public.

The First Citizen has honed her community service skills in the past 20 years, after observing her parents both involved in volunteer work when she was growing up.

"I come from a long line of community service volunteers," she said of her father, active as a Boy Scout leader, and her mother, member of the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club.

"I became more involved after my husband became a city employee," she said of Ted, a long-time Westland firefighter who now works for the city.

Scott's nominator said that Scott has "shared herself with so many and at a price that some others might not be willing to do to achieve their goals."

The nominator said the winner has lived the motto of "we cannot always build the future for our youth, but we can build our youth for the future," referring to her involvement in school organizations and the school district.

"She has had a major impact on the community, and it is time that she be publicly recognized as having as much as she has by some of the people she has served."

HER BACKGROUND includes serving with the Annapolis Hospital Auxiliary for 10 years, managing the St. John Church vacation Bible school for many years and continuing to serve in the church's altar guild.

During the nation's bicentennial in 1976, Scott and her husband,

Ted, co-chaired the annual Westland Summer Festival and helped build it into a "viable organization with her many innovations and long hard hours to enhance the image of the community," her nominator said.

She served on the city's 20th anniversary committee in 1986 and is now on the 25th anniversary committee planning a yearlong series of activities throughout 1991.

As a school board member, Scott has served as its president, secretary, and treasurer as well as its current vice president. She has also worked on the board's general education, foundation for the improvement of instruction, employee services, finance, operations, and student services committees.

"SHARON IS an extraordinary person, touching the lives of those around her, helping those who need help, volunteering time and time again for others in an outstanding example for others to follow and get involved themselves in serving others," her nominator added.

the chamber office at 326-7222 by the close of the business day Monday. The program will start at noon in Leright's banquet hall, 628 S. Wayne Road near Bayview.

In addition to a framed award to be presented by the Westland Observer and the chamber, Scott will also be cited by state, county, and city officials.

Other First Citizen nominees were Norman Krazel, active in school and PTA groups, gun safety, programs, and Boy Scouting; Rick Foy, a coach in the Westland Junior Varsity Football program; Jacqueline Vincenti, Adolescent Recovery Center director for the program based in Whittier Center, and Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, Westland's director of senior resources and Wayne-Westland school board member.

and get this site cleared so we can get tax dollars out of this," Mehl said.

OPPOSED WERE Thomas Artley, Sandra Cicirelli and Ben DeHart.

Artley said his opposition was based on an agreement that "sounds like an illegal, contract zoning to me."

Michigan law prohibits municipal governments from attaching certain conditions when rezoning property.

Attorney Paul Vincent, representing Asmar and Yono, said the developers already had commitments for leasing 80 percent of the stores in the proposed center.

He said tenants would include Perry Drugs, Blockbuster Video, and hardware and auto supply stores which he declined to identify.

"The building does stand there. Everybody is of the opinion that it is an eyesore and something should be done about it," Vincent said. "That's all we're asking."

The Cooper School building has been scarred by a series of floods, fires and other vandalism incidents since it was vacated in 1972, six years after a new school was built nearby.

The site has also seen at least four unsuccessful redevelopment proposals in the last 15 years. Failed projects have included a Kroger supermarket, condominiums and one calling for senior citizens housing with an adjacent retail center.

VINCENT SAID Monday the developers have taken steps to secure the vacant school building.

The conditions were ordered Oct. 25 by Wayne County Circuit Judge Kathleen MacDonald, who declared the property a nuisance and gave Asmar and Yono 90 days to abate it.

Those conditions included:

- Turn on the electricity
- Connect sump pumps and pump out standing water
- Secure windows and doors
- Replace missing manhole covers
- Activate the alarm
- Hire a security service to watch the building.

The city, which considers the vacant school dangerous and a neighborhood blight, has filed suit against the developers, who purchased the school on a land contract in 1988. Previous owners Russell B. Armstrong and the Livonia Public Schools district are co-defendants.

MacDonald also ruled that the property owners must post a $100,000 bond to assure demolition of the building.

County gets grant to clean up Rouge

A grant of $338,000 to clean up the Rouge River in western Wayne County has been approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The grant will be used to estimate pollution factors in the Rouge, define those factors and identify the sources of the pollution. Possible sources include illegal pipe connections, industrial/commercial discharges and combined sanitary-storm sewer overflows.

Joint announcement of the EPA grant was made Monday by Wayne County commissioners Kevin Kelley, D-Redford, and Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, whose district includes Livonia and Plymouth.

"We had to act by Oct. 26 or Wayne County would have lost the opportunity to qualify for this funding," said Heintz, who approved the grant in her capacity as board vice chairman.

The county health department will implement the program with existing staff. The board approved matching funds in the amount of $19,400 and Kelley said he urged colleagues to accept the proposal.

"Illegal discharges have fouled the river and even drainage areas in my district," said Kelley. "This grant will boost the efforts of the Friends of the Rouge and stop the polluters who are causing problems."

Barns to work on school equity

Raupp said he expected to garner support from Westland residents voting for Engler.

The Republican gubernatorial nominee did far better than most election watchers in the heavily Democratic city had predicted. Engler's 8,663 votes in Westland fell just 1,208 short of Blanchard's total.

But many Engler supporters apparently split their tickets to vote overwhelmingly for incumbent U.S. Sen. Carl Levin and U.S. Rep. William Ford. (See related story).

Overall turnout in Westland of just over 39 percent was "good for us," said Diane Rohraff, city clerk. According to unofficial returns, 19,359 of 49,390 registered voters cast ballots Tuesday.

Rohraff said the typical turnout for gubernatorial elections ranges from 30-35 percent.

Workers at several precincts reported heavy turnouts.

AT PRECINCT 8 (Patchin School), 702 people had voted by 7:30 p.m., up from a total of about 200 in the Aug. 7 primary, said precinct captain N. Jean Nichols.

"We're seeing a lot of new voters.

'We need a plan to ease the problems in the Wayne-Westland schools. I have to try to accomplish that regardless of who is governor.'

— Justine Barns

They want to know if this is the right place," said Joe Hoffman.

At Precinct 17 (P.D. Graham School) more than 600 voters cast ballots.

Precinct Captain Bill Rorick said the biggest rush "started as people began coming home from work."

Veteran Smith beats challenger in judicial race

By Todd Schnoldor
staff writer

Experience won out handily over youth Tuesday as Westland voters returned 18th District Judge Thomas G. Smith for a record fifth term.

Smith, 58, easily defeated his 31-year-old challenger Sam C. Ayyash.

"There was no reason to vote for the other person," the veteran judge said of his 82-18 percent victory in the non-partisan race. In unofficial results reported by the city clerk's office late Tuesday, Smith received 9,796 votes to 2,090 for Ayyash.

"He (Ayyash) didn't mount much of a campaign."

"I think the votes he did get are people who just dislike me or people who were negative to all incumbents. Over the years you tend to make a few enemies," Smith said.

The longtime judge won in all 37 precincts, many of those by 4-1 and 5-1 margins. Absentee voters also favored Smith heavily.

SMITH WAS facing opposition for only the second time since he was first elected municipal judge in 1967. He has been a part of Westland's district court since state revamped the judicial system in 1969.

He has been re-elected four times, last running in 1984.

Smith said Tuesday he favors changes in the way Michigan selects judges. He said district judges should still be elected by voters in traditional races.

But Smith said the governor should appoint qualified district judges to the circuit court and circuit judges to the court of appeals. After an initial term, those judges would run unopposed and be "confirmed (or rejected) by voters," he said.

At a gathering of supporters for Democratic candidates at the Willow Creek Apartments clubhouse Smith took time to thank the court staff, chief Judge Gail McKnight, her husband and Livonia school board member Richard McKnight and workers for state Rep. Justine Barns for their support.

"She (Judge McKnight) put up with a lot, even though this wasn't a real hard election," Smith said.

Thomas G. Smith re-elected district judge

During the campaign Smith said he supported Mayor Robert Thomas' decision to end plea-bargain agreements for ordinance violations, as long as the city was willing to stick by the policy.

THE TOUGHER stand on ordinance enforcement was criticized by McKnight in remarks from the bench last month.

Smith emphasized his accomplishments while on the bench, including the use of volunteers as probation officers, assignment to a work program in lieu of jail time for non-violent offenders and longer court hours.

Ayyash moved to Westland last year after spending 18 months as an assistant district attorney for the 35th District Court (city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, city of Northville, and Northville Township) and working for a Southfield law firm.

Ford to tackle unfinished business the creation of 30-second commercials shown on cable-TV systems in his district.

The commercials were developed at the beginning of the year before he knew who his Republican opponent would be.

Because of that, there were no "attack ads." Instead, the commercials were "warm and fluffy, talking about my record on education, the environment, my sponsorship of the plant closing bill and the fairness of the new federal tax increases."

Ford said he was pleased at that campaign strategy because voters in recent weeks were turned off by negative political TV commercials.

On the other side of that issue, Ford was upset by a TV commercial which claimed that Congress members voted themselves a pay raise and tax cut.

"That's pure bull—," he said. "The tax for my wife and I will go up about $8,000."

Beard wins 7th term

Kay Beard easily won a seventh term on the Wayne County board of commissioners, compiling a 2-1 margin over Republican challenger Gerald Cox.

Beard, an Inkster Democrat, outpolled Garden City's Cox in Garden City, Westland, and Inkster.

The victory was no surprise in the 12th district which has traditionally supported Democrats.

On a district base with virtually all the votes counted, Beard had a 2-1 margin with 18,560 votes to Cox' 8,946.

In Westland, Beard had 10,270 votes with Cox getting 5,696.

Garden City voters backed Beard by a 4,367 to 2,556 margin.

In a telephone interview Wednesday morning, Beard said:

"I will continue to be an independent commissioner. I was elected to serve the people, not the county executive," referring to her political battles with County Executive Edward McNamara.

"I'm not a rubber stamp for McNamara or anyone else."

Beard, on the county board since the spring of 1978, added that she will continue to devote full-time duties to her position.

Her biggest battle of the year was getting through the Democratic primary in which she was challenged by Westland City Councilwoman Terri Reighard-Johnson and Inkster's Willard Hampton. She won the nomination by about 700 votes.

Group holds charter ceremony

The reactivated Westland Business Professional Women's Club was formally launched with a charter presentation and luncheon Saturday, attended by BPW officers from throughout Michigan.

There are 35 charter members in the chapter, which is still open to men and women who support the group's aims. The group meets 6 p.m. on the first Tuesday of each month at the Big Boy Restaurant on Wayne Road, south of Hunter.

Louise Cole of Rockford, Michigan federation BPW president, presided over the installation of the charter members in the ceremony held in Hawthorne Gardens banquet, on Merriman north of Warren Road.

Heading the Westland chapter as charter officers are Joyce Wheeler, president; Margaret Harlow, first vice president; Barbara Barr, second vice president; Carol Skamiera, secretary, and Doris Smith, treasurer.

The group was reactivated earlier this year out of a need to respond to women's issues, its officers said.

Wheeler, executive director of the Westland Chamber of Commerce, said she became aware of the newly-formed Suburban West Business and Professional Women's Club, based in Livonia.

The regional group was created to serve as a network for working women, providing a channel in which to make needed changes and provide a general support for working women.

Wheeler then contacted the Michigan BPW about having a Westland chapter. The local group gained support from state and district officers.

BESIDES THE officers, the other charter members are Diane Abbott,

A charter for the reactivated Westland Business and Professional Women's Club and a framed state resolution from the state legislature are admired by charter officers Margaret Harlow (from left), state president Louise Cole, Joyce Wheeler, Barbara Barr and Doris Smith.

Justine Barns, Catherine Barrett, Kay Beard, Margie Burney, Lisa Carman, Sandra Cicirelli, Dianne Coates, Marlene Dean, Eileen DeHart, Judith Diener, Peggy Ellenwood, Barbara Glasshelm, Karen Gregory, Nora Hardin, Michelle Harlow, Nora Herbert, Sylvia Kozoroski-Wiacek, Wanda Main, Bertie McAvoy, Sharon Mena, Dolores Newell, Carla O'Malley, Alice Priestley, Renee Roberts, Carol Skamiera, Kristie Smith, Roberta Smith, Betty Talmadge, and Gwen Woody.

Also joining after the charter enrollment expired were Ann Adams, Teri Adams, Jill Coleman, and Sally Levay.

Taking part in the charter ceremony were Cole; Cindy Fullerton of Plymouth, District 9 assistant director; Carolyn Kane, Michigan federation first vice president, Carol Ann Payne, Michigan federation treasurer; Joan Rogers, Michigan Business Women editor; Chris Ramshaw, district 9 director; Margie Benner, Michigan federation president-elect; Jean Porter, Michigan federation expansion chairwoman; Margie Bell, Michigan federation second vice president, Maybelle Shon of Garden City; Karen Geisler, former state president; Barr, Wheeler, and Peg Bradford, Michigan federation recording secretary.

Franklin band wins 'excellent' rating

Franklin High School's marching band earned a rating of "excellent" in the Midwest Regionals Saturday at Toledo University.

The Marching Patriots band was entered in the novice classification for the first time and earned a score of 72.05. Division AA rating is classified as excellent with scores ranging from 60 to 80 points and superior from 80 to 100.

The class divisions are not based on band size but on school enrollment size which resulted in Franklin High, one of the smallest bands, competing with larger and more experienced bands.

In the Livonia school district, Franklin serves the northeast section of Westland.

OUT OF THE AA division, Franklin placed eighth out of 10 entries and placed 17th out of the total of 30 participating bands.

Because Franklin scored too high to remain in the novice division it was unable to play in the evening finals in which the top novice band was chosen. This honor went to the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Band with Westerville, Ohio, placing second and Norwin, Pa., third.

"I felt the whole day was extremely exciting and gave us a new perspective of ourselves and our ability even when judged by high caliber, objective and experienced out-of-state judges," said band director Joan Seay.

"We fared better than all season and surpassed our season goal of 70 points. The young people did fantastic, and I'm proud of them.

"We never would have done so well and been so successful if it wasn't for the tremendous support of the Band Booster parents. They're the greatest."

SATURDAY WAS a busy day with the band departing Franklin High at 6 a.m.

The first band at the Midwest Regionals played at 7:45 a.m. and the last played at 4:15 p.m. with a one-hour lunch break and one-half hour breaks in the morning and afternoon.

The Franklin Band Boosters supplied a pizza lunch and for the afternoon break cooked hot dogs on the grill.

"This participation in the regionals was good exposure for us," said Seay, "and the experience was priceless. It is inspiring to see the good fellowship flowing between supporters, parents, and band booster groups toward each other. There always seems to be a good word of encouragement or help offered."

This week's question:
What's wrong with the Detroit Lions?

We asked this question to Westland residents outside the Wayne Road post office on Monday — the day after the Lions blew a three touchdown lead and lost to the Washington Redskins in overtime.

"It's a lack of direction. They don't know how to win."
— Bob Krauss

"I think they got a second-class coach. Also, they should do better in the draft."
— Jim Blair

"I don't watch much football, but it seems to me they aren't playing up to their potential."
— Andy Kosenza

"They need a new quarterback, like Andre Ware. It was a big mistake not having him available (Sunday)."
— Jim Swirple

"Maybe coaching. They have to get together and play more as a team."
— Mary Jo Cosenza

"Everything. (Bad) coaching. No talent. They need to make wholesale changes."
— Robert Chartrand

City's 25th anniversary celebration taking shape

Westland's 25th anniversary plans are taking shape, with the final touches being made by a committee planning a yearlong series of activities for 1991.

The committee of city officials and civic group representatives, meeting since last spring, are finalizing details for the 19 events to take place January through December.

Co-chairing the committee are councilmen Thomas Brown, who served as the city's first mayor after the 1966 incorporation, and Kenneth Mehl.

HERE IS a summary of the 1991 activities:

- Jan. 12: A Saturday morning prayer breakfast will be at the Westland Friendship Center, 1119 N. Newburgh at Marquette. The committee hopes to sell 700 tickets for the event, which will have a prominent clergyman taking part.

- Feb. 17: A family sweetheart social will take place 2-6 p.m. that Sunday in the Friendship Center. A citywide essay contest will be conducted in local schools.

- March 14: A St. Patrick's Day activity will be at the Friendship Center.

- April 20: The annual Arbor Day program, at which free seedlings are given to residents, will run 1-4 p.m. at the Helen C. Brown Historical Museum, 857 N. Wayne Road.

- May 16: On the 25th anniversary of the city's incorporation as a city, a community reunion will take place at a location to be announced.

- May 18: A fishing derby will be sponsored by the Westland Kiwanis Club 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Friendship Lake, in Central City Park.

- June 2: A Friends of the Mill art show and country fair will be noon to 4 p.m. at Nankin Mill, Ann Arbor Trail at Farmington Road.

- June 15: A citywide picnic, sponsored by the Westland Jaycees, will be at the Lion's Club pavilion behind the Bailey Recreation Center.

- July 3-7: The July Summer Festival, sponsored by the Festival Committee, will be on Civic Center grounds behind City Hall.

- July 18: The annual Boblo moonlight cruise will be sponsored by the Community Relations Department.

- In August, a fire apparatus muster will take place, consisting of antique fire engines.

- Sept. 2: The community relations department will sponsor the annual Mackinac Bridge Walk.

- Sept. 8: A combination corn roast, concert in the park, car festival and raffle will be at the Lion's Club pavilion, sponsored by the chamber of commerce and the Westland Cultural Society.

- Oct. 10: A wine and cheese reception will be conducted by the Friends of the Mill.

- Nov. 16: A Thanksgiving dinner dance will be at the Westland Friendship Center.

- Dec. 2: The annual Westland City Hall Christmas tree lighting ceremony will take place.

- Dec. 6: The Friends of the Mill annual Christmas tree decoration ceremony will be at Nankin Mill.

- Dec. 15: A year-end social will be at the Hellenic Cultural Center, on Joy east of Newburgh.

- Dec. 17-19: A Christmas decoration tour will take place at the Helen C. Brown Historical Museum.

Camp Fire boys and girls begin candy sale

Local Camp Fire boys and girls will be hitting the streets and retail centers to sell boxes of candy. Proceeds will support the organization's camping program.

The sale will start Friday, Nov. 9, and continue through Dec. 9.

The four types of candy to be sold in the campaign are almond roca, mint patties, almond caramel clusters, and butter toffee peanuts, all priced at $3 each.

"Boys and girls will be wearing distinctive red, white, and blue colors in selling candies in their neighborhoods and local retail businesses," said Camp Fire spokeswoman Pat Atkinson.

They will also take part in the Downtown Detroit Sale Days on Nov. 30 and Dec. 7.

The 17th annual candy sale is the major fund-raiser for the Detroit Area Council of Camp Fire, she said.

Smooth landing for county's airport bonds

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Development of Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport will proceed after Tuesday's wide election victory for $100 million in airport bonds.

"We were amazed at the size of the victory," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, of the more than 2-1 margin.

Bonds were challenged by an anti-airport noise group.

McNamara, who campaigned hard for the bonds, said victory meant the county got its message across to voters.

"We were talking jobs and no new taxes and the voters understood," he said.

The county has also begun discussing airport noise complaints with the Federal Aviation Administration.

The bond issue passed 290,445 to 140,843 county wide. Communities approving the bond issue included

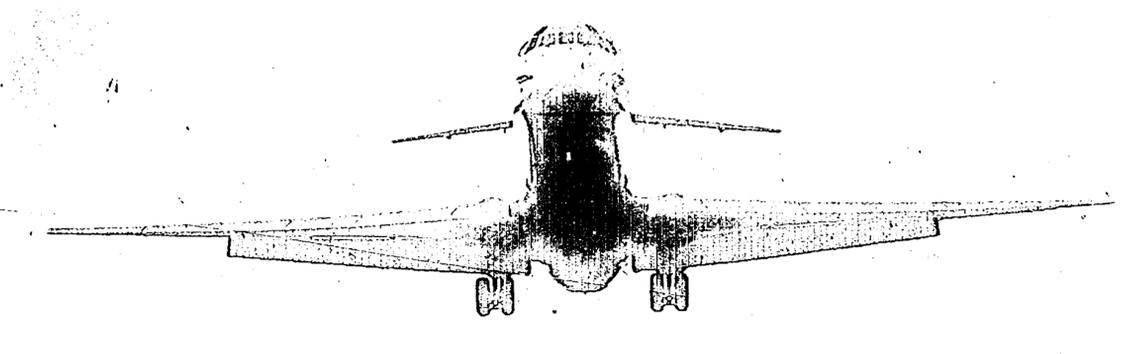

Livonia, Westland, Redford, Canton, Garden City, Plymouth and Plymouth Township. Its local victory margins ranged from just over 60 percent, in Garden City, to more than 72 percent in Plymouth. The vote in most other communities mirrored the 2-1 county margin.

McNamara was a winner twice in Tuesday's election. He received a new four-year term, drawing 369,063 votes in an uncontested race.

Members of Citizens Against Aircraft Noise, the grassroots homeowners group whose petitions placed the issue on the ballot said they felt that had an impact.

"It a strategic victory" said David Esper, the Dearborn attorney who helped found the group. "The county would never be addressing the noise issue without the ballot proposal."

The bond issue will be used for a new airport parking lot, fourth main runway, anti-noise barriers and retention ponds for storm water runoff.

Noise from revised flight patterns prompted Tuesday's bond issue, but complaints weren't enough to scuttle airport expansion.

David Szymanski

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Wayne County Probate Court referee Patricia Campbell and David Szymanski, an attorney with an Oakland County law firm, were elected Tuesday to seats on the Wayne County Probate Court bench.

Campbell, a juvenile division probate referee for nine years, handily beat out opponent William Leo Cahalan to fill a newly created seat. Campbell received 193,621 votes; Cahalan, 139,747.

Campbell will receive an eight-year term. Szymanski's term will be six years.

Campbell's campaign centered on her judicial experience, contrasted with her opponent's lack of experience.

"It indicates the voters were extremely interested in qualifications for the job," said Campbell of a campaign in which her opponent also had better name recognition. She has been an attorney for 15 years.

"My greatest fear was I would be unable to reach enough voters in enough time," she added. Campbell is uncertain if she will be assigned to the new judgeship in Northville or to the juvenile division of the probate court. Assignments are to be made later.

David Szymanski, the son of a former probate judge who practices law in Birmingham, edged out opponent Diane Hathaway, a Macomb County assistant prosecutor who is married to a Wayne County circuit judge. Szymanski received 172,003 votes to Hathaway's 166,525.

"I'm overwhelmed," said Szymanski. "But I don't think of this as my victory. It's the victory of all those who worked so hard."

State board of ed incumbent toppled

Incumbent Democrat Rollie Hopgood of Taylor lost his state board of education seat, adding to Tuesday's GOP upsets.

Fellow incumbent Barbara Roberts Mason of Lansing was the first place finisher in the race, with 1,138,059 votes. Republican Dick DeVos of Grand Rapids is the board newcomer, finishing second with 1,026,536 votes.

The former Amway executive's victory creates a 5-3 GOP edge on the board.

Both will receive four-year terms.

Hopgood fell to fourth in the balloting, with 892,735 votes. Republican Lowell Perry of Southfield finished third with 910,310 votes.

Tax fighter Robert Tisch of the Tisch Independent Citizens Party finished first among third party candidates with 188,044 votes. The Laingsburg resident finished ahead of fellow party candidate Fyanne Kaufman of Huntington Woods, who totaled 113,362 votes. Libertarian Mary Ruwart of Kalamazoo received 79,069 votes. Fellow Libertarian Gwendoline Stillwell of East Lansing finished last with 62,036 votes.

Coattails help GOP in 'U' board races

Governor-elect John Engler's coattails extended to GOP candidates in races for the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University governing boards.

Republicans gained a seat at U-M and Wayne State and picked up two seats at MSU, ousting an incumbent in the process.

Shirley McFee, mayor of Battle Creek, was the first-place finisher in the U-M Board of Regent's race with 1,058,790 votes. Incumbent Democrat Philip Power, D-Ann Arbor, finished second with 1,038,538 votes. Power is chairman of the board of Suburban Communications Corp., parent company of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Those not gaining seats included former GOP Congressman Marvin Esch of Ann Arbor Township, 988,588 votes; Donald Tucker, Democrat, Southfield, 423,196; Libertarians James Hudler, Chelsea, and David Raaflaub, Ann Arbor, 58,257 and 58,213 votes, respectively; and Workers World Party candidate Jerry Goldberg, Detroit, 52,337.

Incumbent Lawrence Owen, D-East Lansing, lost his seat in the MSU race. Former television personality Dee

Cook of Greenville finished first with 1,061,424 votes. Former MSU placement director Jack Shingleton edged Owen, 1,022,608-1,002,652 for the remaining seat.

Other candidates not gaining seats included Lawrence Doss, Democrat, Detroit, 957,574 votes; and Tisch Independent Citizens Party candidate Don Schneider, Laingsburg, 122,774 votes. Incumbent Democrat Malcolm Dade of Detroit, didn't file for re-election.

There were two open seats at WSU as Democrats Michael Einheuser and Mildred Jeffrey, both of Detroit, didn't file for re-election.

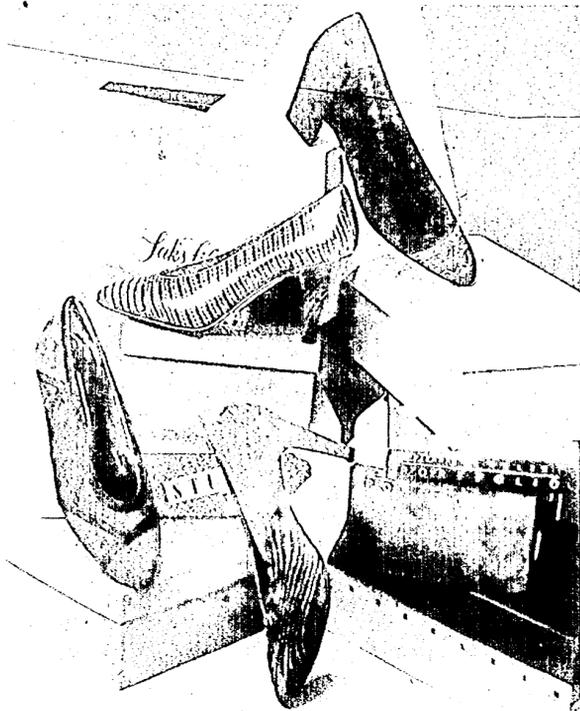

Brenda Scott, a Detroit Democrat and political consultant finished first with 1,013,711 votes. Detroit attorney Elizabeth Hardy gained a seat for the GOP, finishing second with 993,409 votes.

Those not gaining seats included James Robinson, Democrat, Detroit, 966,474 votes; Laura Reyes Kopack, Republican, Livonia, 903,883; Tisch Party candidate James Kaufman, Huntington Woods, 92,255; Libertarians Denise Kline, Stephenson, and Maureen Vermeer, Sterling Heights, 62,791 and 48,714 votes, respectively; and Kevin Carey, Workers World Party, Detroit, 34,708 votes.

Engler backers never doubted upset victory

By Wayne Poal
staff writer

Did he or didn't he? That was the question Michigan voters asked themselves throughout the long election night.

But at John Engler's election party in Lansing, the celebration began as soon as returns started arriving. By 11 p.m., the Mount Pleasant Republican was up on the podium — already declaring victory in the tightest Michigan governor's race in a generation.

While wire service and television networks would wait nearly 12 hours to confirm Engler's upset win over Gov. James Blanchard, there was little doubt among Engler's supporters.

Livonia resident Laura Reyes Kopack said she had a good feeling about Engler's underdog campaign after making election-day telephone calls.

"The people I talked to seemed very receptive, I think a lot of people wanted incumbents out," she said. Engler's coattails didn't extend to Kopack, who lost her bid to become a Wayne State University trustee, but they did extend to GOP candidates in other university board races.

"HE RAN a beautiful campaign," said GOP national committeewoman Ronna Romney of Bloomfield Hills. "I think the negative tone of the governor's campaign definitely hurt him."

Like their Democratic counterparts, GOP leaders were searching for reasons for Engler's surprising showing against pre-election polls that showed him as much as 14 points behind.

While Oakland County's outspoken L. Brooks Patterson plugged Engler as a tax fighter in campaign spots, the former county prosecutor said taxes alone weren't the reason for Engler's victory.

"Taxes are a big issue but it was a combination of factors," Patterson said. "We got out our vote and they didn't."

Low voter turnout in Detroit, traditionally a Democratic stronghold, was seen by many election watchers as a key reason for Blanchard's defeat.

Others could point to apparent GOP gubernatorial wins in Illinois and Ohio as a regional trend.

Still others could point to the rocky parting of the ways between Blanchard and longtime running mate Martha Griffiths.

That, however, mattered little to most celebrants.

"This is fun," said Angela Hazel, a student at Michigan Christian College, Rochester, as she corralled three multi-colored Engler campaign balloons.

WHILE NARROW, Engler's victory appeared clearcut. Engler carried 54 percent of the vote in Oakland County and 36 percent of a smaller-than-expected Wayne County vote.

Engler said he would make property taxes and education the two priorities in what he promised would be a long list of initiatives.

While promising a comprehensive audit, Engler also apparently gave his blessing to the Michigan Education Trust. The college-financing plan was one of Blanchard's key achievements.

"It's a contractual obligation," Engler said. "There's no risk to contract holders, but there's some risk in it's underfunded status."

Engler gave no such assurance for the future of the Michigan Strategic fund, a Blanchard-backed loan program for business owners, saying he would merely "allow that to unfold".

Also in doubt, at least for now, is the future of Michigan abortion law. While widely seen as pro-life, Engler did not make abortion one of his major election issues.

Tim Richard contributed to this story.

GUY WARREN/staff photographer

It was only 11 p.m., but governor-elect John Engler and running mate Connie Binsfeld were already striking a victorious pose during at their Lansing campaign party.

TWO FREE LECTURES ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

It's not uncommon to hear that people have a longing for spirituality in their lives, that they're dissatisfied with materialism, but often don't have a clear idea of how to find God.

Margaret Rogers, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will share ideas on this subject in her two lectures.

Bad move

Screening process is ignored

THE WAYNE-WESTLAND board of education missed an excellent chance last week to solve credibility and financial problems that are plaguing the school district.

It named Michael Reddy, a Westland fire department battalion chief, to fill a vacancy on the board created when trustee Kenneth Barnhill resigned, effective Oct. 23.

We have no quibble with Reddy as an individual or a resident concerned with the quality of education in the district. We have a big problem with the way the board abused a well-thought-out process of interviewing candidates for board vacancies.

We had the distinct impression that some of the other seven candidates for the opening interviewed last week by the school board didn't get a fair or objective hearing. Some who seemed to do well were rated low by the board while others who didn't do well apparently rated higher than we expected.

The board has used the public interview process in filling three vacancies in the past four years. The process is a good one for screening candidates, finding out their views on education and local school issues, as well as for seeing how well the candidates think on their feet and communicate with others.

The process has served the board and community well with the appointments of Terri Reighard Johnson in 1986 and Leonard Posey nearly a year ago.

WHILE THE process gives the community the impression that the candidates will be considered mainly on their merits, some board members obviously injected personal or political biases last week during the public interviews.

A glaring example of that was the grilling of Linda Pratt, a longtime PTA leader and worker in the group's clothing bank, who was unfairly treated. One board member critically questioned Pratt's husband's writing letters to local newspapers last spring following public rejection of a property tax increase.

That type of question is clearly way off base and should not have been considered, let alone asked. Mrs. Pratt is the board candidate, not her husband.

Pratt also took some heat for her independent stand on last June's tax increase proposal. Pratt stated publicly that she felt the single proposal should have been split into one for a renewal and a separate one for an increase, a position not supported by the balance of the board.

Another major problem we have in Reddy's appointment is that the seven-member school board, facing major financial problems and negotiations with eight employees' unions, now has a third civil servant.

The other two are Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, director of the Westland's senior resources department, and Andrew Spisak, recently named a Westland court officer who served before as a Westland police officer and mayoral assistant.

WHILE CIVIL servants perform important public services to the community, we feel that three on a seven-member policy-making board is too many.

The reasons are clear. Municipal or court employees are members of unions which usually get their pay raises and improvements in pensions and health benefits without having to worry about how to raise the money to pay for the added cost.

In many cases in the community, unions receive pay raises which exceed the rate of inflation and not directly tied to the employer's ability to pay.

It seems that unionized civil servants lose touch with reality and the world around them which has neighbors either being laid off or facing a loss of job or pay raise because of a slumping economy.

The bottom line is that the board has an excellent process for filling vacancies. But they should stick to it to maintain what ever credibility it has left.

Devil's Night

Fires not just Detroit concern

MUCH OF SUBURBIA sat back and gloated — privately if not to the neighbors — last week as Detroit again burned on Devil's Night.

Media reports revealed a setback in that city's continuing battle with Halloween arson, as fires for the three-day period increased from 223 in 1989 to 281, according to figures compiled by Mayor Coleman Young's office.

Thank God I live north of Eight Mile or west of Telegraph, many suburbanites undoubtedly thought. Here, harmless Halloween pranks involve soap and eggs, not torches and gasoline.

Besides, many suburbanites no doubt asked, who cares what Detroiters do to their city?

Not only do people live in the suburbs, but as western Wayne and Oakland counties have expanded in the last decade it's increasingly likely that they work and play there as well. The city's viability is irrelevant. It just doesn't matter any more, some would say.

SORRY, BUT we disagree.

Like it or not, suburban life is still tied inextricably to what goes on in Detroit.

And all suburban residents — from Redford Township to Rochester Hills — have a stake in Detroit's survival and the city's reputation. This is true, even for those who boast they haven't ventured south of Eight Mile or east of Telegraph since the 1967 riot.

THE AUTO industry, which still dominates this region's economy, is slowly taking leave of the city.

There are positive aspects of that shift — for instance, Livonia's Ford and GM plants contribute heavily to the tax base that finances the Livonia Public Schools.

But how soon will it be before the positive aspects are outweighed by negatives like unforgiving urban sprawl? We can already see examples of this in Oakland County, where formerly rural roads are overburdened with a constant stream of commuters.

The expanding service economy also depends on a healthy, viable center city. Without Detroit's major conventions, how long would suburban hotels, restaurants and even catering companies survive?

Then there's Detroit's rich cultural history, unmatched in any suburb. It's still a magnetic draw for many suburbanites. Just check the season subscription lists for the Detroit Symphony or newly renovated Fox Theatre.

THE THOUSANDS of volunteers — almost exclusively Detroiters — who mobilized to combat Devil's Night arson in the city deserve a hearty thank you from all residents of metropolitan Detroit.

Next year we'd like to see more active participation and support from suburban residents with the hope that eventually Devil's Night patrolling won't be necessary at all.

Cloudy logic

Bill could limit 'sunshine law'

MICHIGAN'S lame duck Legislature should move slowly and cautiously in reforming the disciplining of health care professionals. Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods, is sponsor of the lead bill in the reform package.

The first draft would have created major clouds over our "sunshine laws" — the Open Meetings Act and Freedom of Information Act. Two bills were aimed at shutting down the public's right to know about charges, deals ("settlement conferences") and hearings. We would have wound up with a Great Lakes version of the 14th Century star chamber proceedings.

The bills today are due to be amended for the better in the House Judiciary Committee. Nevertheless, it is distressing that such potentially crippling bills were even introduced in a state that has prided itself on open government.

Even the amended bills leave something to be desired. The "sunshine laws" were deliberately written so that ordinary citizens and grass roots officials could read them without a lawyer's mumbo-jumbo interpretation.

Now the bills contain references to "section 16231 of the Public Health Code . . . being section 33.16231 of the Michigan Compiled Laws." The ordinary citizen would need a bunch of law books to look up his or her rights to know what government is doing.

This session of the Legislature has been spattered with a multitude of attempts to obscure the "sunshine laws." Enough bad news! Lawmakers need to think about ways to open up government, not slam the doors.

Standard skills test would help students

ALL OUR International competitors — Japan, Britain, Germany, France, the Scandinavian countries — examine all their children for what they have learned at around age 16. We do not.

All our international competitors use this assessment as an important device to help their children decide whether to go on to higher education or enter the world of work. We do not.

All our international competitors treat this assessment as an independent measurement of the skill levels achieved by their children. As anybody who has hired a recent high school graduate knows, our diplomas mean nothing as a measurement of skills.

Is there a relationship between the fact that our international competitors have school systems that regularly out-perform ours and their use of independent examinations for all their kids? I think so.

THAT IS WHY I have been urging our leaders in Michigan to adopt such an assessment for our kids.

We already know what employers want in basic skills from people who enter the work place. The statewide Commission on Employability Skills, chaired by Ford vice president Pete Pestillo, has been working for four years to define the necessary skills — literacy, numeracy, problem solving, social — to enter the work force.

We also know it is possible to construct an assessment of these skills that works less like the Scholastic Aptitude Test (multiple guess; scored by computer) and more like a merit badge (practical demonstration of skills; portfolios built over time).

The Michigan Certificate of Opportunity provides an elegant way to help jump-start the process of school reform by applying pressure to the demand side.

Philip Power

test"? I sure hope so. If teachers were motivated to teach every kid in school the basic skills required to enter the work force, our economy would be a lot better off than it is.

HOW DOES THIS help school reform? Simple. Faced with employers who demand independently validated skills and with parents and children who expect performance to get their certificates, schools will have to improve their performance.

Increasingly, I believe that the process of reforming our K-12 system is the most vital task we face as a nation. There's a lot of work going on in this area, within individual schools, in schools of education and in state departments of education. All of this work is taking place on the supply side of education.

What is needed now is pressure from the demand side — from those who hire school teachers and from parents and children. The Michigan Certificate of Opportunity provides an elegant way to help jump-start the process of school reform by applying pressure to the demand side.

You listening, Governor?

Board action criticized

To the editor:

As a taxpayer in the Wayne-Westland school district, I am becoming less confident in our school board and its decisions.

After attending the meeting in which the board interviewed and made a decision to fill the vacancy previously held by Ken Barnhill, I left having the feeling the decision had been made prior to the public interviews. Why does it appear the school board and the city of Westland ties are so intermingled? I am sure there are many qualified residents and potential board of education members without ties to the city.

Linda Pratt was questioned by a board member about actions of her husband. Mr. Pratt was not seeking the position. This action and its unprofessionalism and lack of respect of Mrs. Pratt was uncalled for. The president's inability to prevent this line of questioning demonstrated to me a lack of leadership.

Since school board members are elected by the taxpayers, they should represent all the citizens of the Wayne-Westland district. The people deserve to have a board that represents the citizens who elected them and not a "team player." The only team that should be represented is a "Wayne-Westland residents' team."

As a concerned parent, taxpayer and voter, I feel as though the only way to resolve the district's problems is to work within the systems and not re-elect those members who do not represent the citizens.

Afghan pups belong to her

To the editor:

This letter is to inform you that a picture of my "unidentified" Afghan hound puppies appeared in your newspaper (Street Scene, Monday, Oct. 1) which was brought to my attention by a buyer of one of my puppies. A remark was made that she will love this picture, knowing she is a happy owner of an Afghan hound. The owner responded that not only did she love this picture of the puppies, but that it was her puppy. Likewise, when I was informed, stated "those are my puppies."

Naturally, I was delighted that they made the paper, however, disappointed that I was not notified because I would have been one of the first people at the newsstand. Unfortunately it was too late to obtain a paper without pursuit. I tracked down the article successfully with the cooperation of your staff, and was able to purchase same.

Upon reading the article, I noticed that other pictures of different breeds with their owners' names noted. The more I thought about these adorable "unidentified" puppies, I just had to proceed to question whether there was a mistake in omitting the owner's name and contacted the phone number listed on the last page. I was informed that it must have been neglect on the part of the newspaper because all names were supplied. I doubted this comment due to the fact that I was never notified that they would be placed in a paper. Further, I notified the editorial section and spoke to a pleasant employee, Sue Mason, which revealed that the picture of these puppies were received unidentified and remained so.

The Afghan hound puppies are not orphans, but belong to the happy and proud owner/breeder: Martina Linton, member of the Greater Detroit Afghan Hound Club.

ZIP code change money issue?

THREE PEOPLE attended a recent judicial candidates night in West Bloomfield.

Fifty showed up in Troy last week to hear National Abortion Rights Action League president Kate Michelman in from Washington D.C. to urge Republicans to vote for Gov. Blanchard because he is pro-choice.

But 200 turned out Monday night to protest what hits them right where they live — a post office plan to change their ZIP code and mailing address from Birmingham where they don't live to Beverly Hills where they do.

Oh no! Abandoning the Birmingham mailing address would result in reduced property values is the argument given by those opposed to adopting a Beverly Hills postal identity. Realtors seconded that.

LET'S SEE. They live in Beverly Hills. They pay taxes in Beverly Hills — actually to Southfield Township. Their children will continue to attend the Birmingham Public Schools. But an artificial mailing address makes their home or business worth more?

Postal representatives were shocked that the residents would not want a separate Beverly Hills identity. They said Beverly Hills is the first municipality to undergo a ZIP code change that opposes its own identity.

Neighboring Bingham Farms, which also will be separated out from under the Birmingham cover-all, is looking forward to living its own life.

And postal authorities have heard no complaints from the parts of Bloomfield Township, which now also will be called what they are — Bloomfield.

"I paid a premium to get a house with a Birmingham address. I don't care what the ZIP is — I do care what the city is," said Beverly resident Bob Simpson.

Way in the minority was Bob Cassey. "Are you willing to get annexed to Birmingham and willing to pay Birmingham taxes? I wouldn't. I'm proud to be a resident of Beverly Hills. It would be a relief to me to tell people what we really are."

IT WOULD BE a relief to the rest of the metro area, as well.

We address an invitation to our friend in Beverly Hills, and it is returned because we logically mailed it to Beverly Hills.

A reporter does a story on an interesting business. He looks up the address in the Yellow Pages. It says Birmingham. It turns out that's inaccurate — it's in Bloomfield Township.

So because of their Birmingham mailing identification, Beverly Hills, Bloomfield Township and Bingham Farms rarely get their due as the distinctive communities they are. And people who live there rarely are correctly linked to where they live.

Bloomfield Township's population is more than twice Birmingham's 23,000 residents and its median house price of $206,000 is more than $50,000 more.

Bingham Farms is a tiny (1,650) village — exclusive we could say — with a median house price of $270,000 compared to Birmingham's $152,000.

Beverly Hills, also a village, has about half Birmingham's population, a median house price of $146,000 — about $6,000 less — and lower taxes. It boasts Groves High School, the main campus of Detroit Country Day, the Beverly Hills Grill which to its credit never pretended to be the Birmingham Grill and has done just fine thank you.

And come to think of it — Realtors take note — out-of-staters, whose associations are not so parochial, might prefer to buy in a Beverly Hills as in California, rather than a Birmingham, as in Alabama.

Big tax hike is on the way

I SMELL A gigantic state tax hike coming in two to 10 years.

It won't be like Gov. Blanchard's 1983 penny ante 38-percent temporary increase in the personal income tax.

It will be a Kentucky-style increase — income tax, sales tax, use tax, single business tax and whatever else moves or breathes.

Tim Richard

THE REASONS are many:

• The out-of-formula school districts have had their categorical aid cut by $72 million annually. They are suing the state, arguing the 1978 Headlee amendment to the constitution says state government must pay local units for state-mandated services. Price: $72 million.

• Many outstate cities and counties are suing for equal treatment in court funding. In the late '70s, the state agreed to pick up the local costs of circuit, probate and district courts, starting with Detroit and Wayne County. The Wayne County suburbs and the other 82 counties never got theirs. Last estimated price tag: $175 million to $225 million.

• Poorer school districts want to sue the state for underfunding the school aid formula. Some districts can spend just $2,500 per pupil while others have $8,000-plus.

Right now, they have little chance because the Michigan Constitution doesn't require equal educational opportunity. But some lawmakers, such as Rep. Bill Keith of Garden City and Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti, want it, and Jim Blanchard endorsed it in the second debate.

If such a bland and fair-sounding amendment were to be passed, Michigan would be inviting a Kentucky-style lawsuit for equal financing. I've written about this before. The "fairness" price tag: $1 billion or more.

• Oakland County already has sued the state for health money under the Headlee amendment, which requires state government to put 41.6 percent of its budget into aid to local units. Lansing accomplished it by taking state programs and labeling them "local." The case is going to the Supreme Court. I'll wager Oakland wins.

• Many other suits are out there — Medicaid payments to hospitals, mental health and goodness-knows-what-else.

• And then we have Headlee II — the proposal heading for the 1992 ballot in which we have an opportunity to vote ourselves a 20-percent property tax cut and tell the state to reimburse all the counties, cities, villages, townships, school districts, community colleges and special authorities. Depending on whom you're listening to, our yes votes will cost the state treasury $1 billion to $1.5 billion.

Maybe Headlee II won't pass — the Michigan Education Association will build up a big war chest to fight it. But let's assume, for the sake of argument, it does.

• Some pessimistic economists say a recession will cut state revenues. Floating around Lansing are predictions of shortfalls of $300 million to $900 million. The 1970-83 recession required hundreds of millions of dollars in spending cuts plus that 38-percent income tax increase.

LET'S PUT IT in perspective. The current state general fund budget is $7.6 billion.

Admittedly, some of the cost numbers I've quoted are hazy, but many are firm. We're looking at revenue shortfalls of several billion, maybe one-third to one-half of the current resources.

Moreover, it will take 10 years to settle some of the lawsuits. That's why I'm using the time frame of two to 10 years.

Only a dreamer will say "cut the fat." And that's why I smell a massive state tax increase. It already has happened in other states. And in Michigan we've already seen the effect of prisoners' suits on state and county budgets.

Footnote: Since the 38-percent tax increase, America's out-of-wedlock birth rate has risen steadily to 25 percent. Nearly all those kids will be raised on welfare.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional news.

Children can't start reading too early

Q: We just had our first baby. We know it is important to read to your child. However, we don't know how soon we should start reading to the baby. What do you suggest?

A: As soon as possible! At birth the baby howls — its first communication. Therefore, prior to reading, you should continually communicate in a gentle voice with your baby at its earliest age.

You see, recent research found that by the 10th week babies can not only recognize their own mother's voice but can literally sense or smell their own mother's presence in the room.

Jim Trelease stated in his "Read-Aloud (To Your Child) Handbook" that children are programmed from birth with an immediate need to communicate.

Studies constantly find that if early language interchanges are not fostered between six months and two years, intellectual curiosity will most likely not be present at age five.

What do I mean? Babies first use one word i.e. "Bottle" for "I want my bottle", or "Up" for "Mom or dad, please pick me up." The parental response should be something like, "Oh, you want you bottle" or "Let me pick you up" . . . a full sentence to nurture language development.

When should you start reading to your child? As soon as the child can sit in your lap. Why?

The emotional bonding that is nurtured between the parent and the child is as critical to the process as teaching the child a love of reading. This belief, although a bit Freudian, is one I personally believe.

As a specific example, have the child bring their favorite teddy bear to you and just happen to have a book on "bears" available. An immediate interest will be generated. Have the child point to the bear in the story. Say, "bear."

Be aware of the child's body language. When the child pushes the book away from you or bangs on it, go to something else. Please don't force the child to be a Shakespearean scholar by age four. The whole concept is to make reading enjoyable, a natural phase of life.

As the child grows, solicit thoughts. Have the child articulate parts of a story they have become familiar with. And remember, some very active children initially can't sit still for long periods of time. They are into motor skill development and it may take this type of child longer to "settle in" to reading.

But all children will settle into reading if the "reading aloud to your child" experience is perceived as a warm, safe and natural part of life. It won't be long before the child will bring the books to you.

Reading aloud to your child is one of the most important gifts you can give the child. Please let it be natural . . . don't be the drill sergeant parent who wants Johnny reading by the second grade in kindergarten.

I can assure you those children who learned to love reading, who can pick out the main character, sequences activities and draw conclusions will catch up and pass robot reader-children trained to regurgitate information.

DONATING BONE MARROW

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The odds of finding a suitable for a bone marrow transplant are one in 20,000. The search and testing process can be expensive — at least $25,000 — and much of the cost isn't covered by insurance.

Yet the David Edwards of the world dearly cling to those numbers like a ticket holder in a lottery draw. Edwards, 25, has Hodgkin's disease — a malady that attacks the lymphatic glands. He's had the disease for seven years.

After chemotherapy and an autologous bone marrow transplant, the Hodgkin's was in remission for two years only to return in May 1988.

With Edwards' own bone marrow depleted because of chemotherapy, finding a donor for a transplant became the only alternative. No family member matches his HLA (Human Leukocyte Antigen) type. Edwards has searched worldwide for someone to be a donor.

His HLA type was placed on the National Marrow Donor Program registry to be crossed checked with 200,000 others. None matched.

Since then, Edwards and his family have been in a race against time to find a donor and to bring awareness to what until the past six months has been a little known program.

"That's one of the problems," said Edwards, who works as a field service engineer at Perkin-Elmer in Livonia. "There is not enough people on the computer. When people hear transplants, they think of a kidney or heart transplant. This is nothing like that."

EDWARDS WILL have a bone marrow drive Sunday and Monday, Nov. 18-19, at St. Mark Catholic Church, 23500 Ryan, one block north of Nine Mile, Warren. Times are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday and noon to 8 p.m. Monday.

Lab tests to check a person's HLA type run $50-$75. Since insurance companies do not cover costs for testing potential donors, Edwards and his family and friends have had to raise the money to do it themselves.

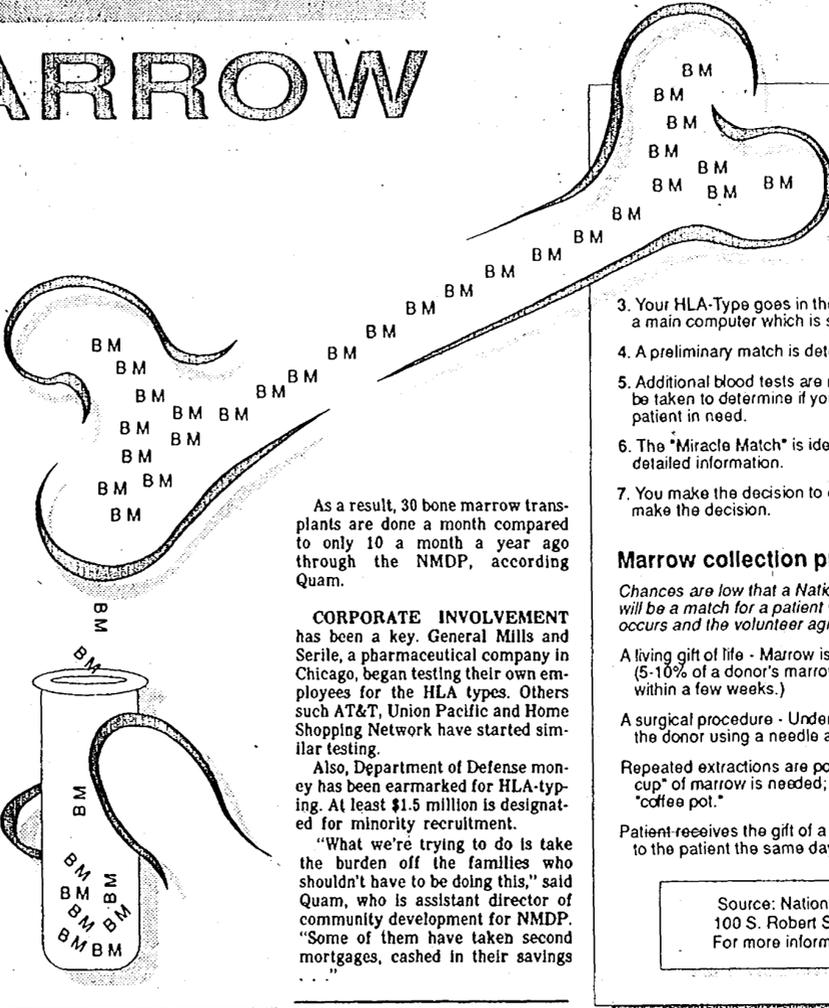

They organized a committee within the C.A.P. (Caring About People) Foundation to come up with $25,000 needed.

Due to some recent money provided by the federal government, the $25,000 will be matched by the National Marrow Donor Program.

In his most dire time, Edwards has had to become a fund-raiser to save his own life. Friends and family have organized a bowling tournament, a putt-putt golf tournament and a Halloween party to raise money.

The National Marrow Donor Program hopes the plight of Edwards and his family has endured will soon be a thing of the past. The St. Paul, Minn.,-based agency has grown considerably in only the past six months, according to Elisabeth Quam.

Some 215,000 people are on the National Registry. To get the first 100,000 took nearly three years. The second group of 100,000 were recruited in the past six months.

As a result, 30 bone marrow transplants are done a month compared to only 10 a month a year ago through the NMDP, according Quam.

CORPORATE INVOLVEMENT has been a key. General Mills and Serile, a pharmaceutical company in Chicago, began testing their own employees for the HLA types. Others such as AT&T, Union Pacific and Home Shopping Network have started similar testing.

Also, Department of Defense money has been earmarked for HLA-typing. At least $1.5 million is designated for minority recruitment.

"What we're trying to do is take the burden off the families who shouldn't have to be doing this," said Quam, who is assistant director of community development for NMDP. "Some of them have taken second mortgages, cashed in their savings

How to become a donor

1. Give 2 tablespoons of blood and consent to be entered on the registry. (Must be 18-55 and in good health.)
2. Your blood is "HLA-Typed."
3. Your HLA-Type goes in the computer. The lab results are stored in a main computer which is searched internationally.
4. A preliminary match is determined.
5. Additional blood tests are requested. Additional blood samples will be taken to determine if you are a precise match for a specific patient in need.
6. The "Miracle Match" is identified. Special counselors will give you detailed information.
7. You make the decision to donate. After being fully informed, you make the decision.

Marrow collection procedure

Chances are low that a National Marrow Donor Program volunteer will be a match for a patient with a fatal blood disease. If a match occurs and the volunteer agrees to be a donor, this is the procedure:

A living gift of life - Marrow is taken from the backside of the hip bone (5-10% of a donor's marrow needed; marrow replenishes itself within a few weeks.)

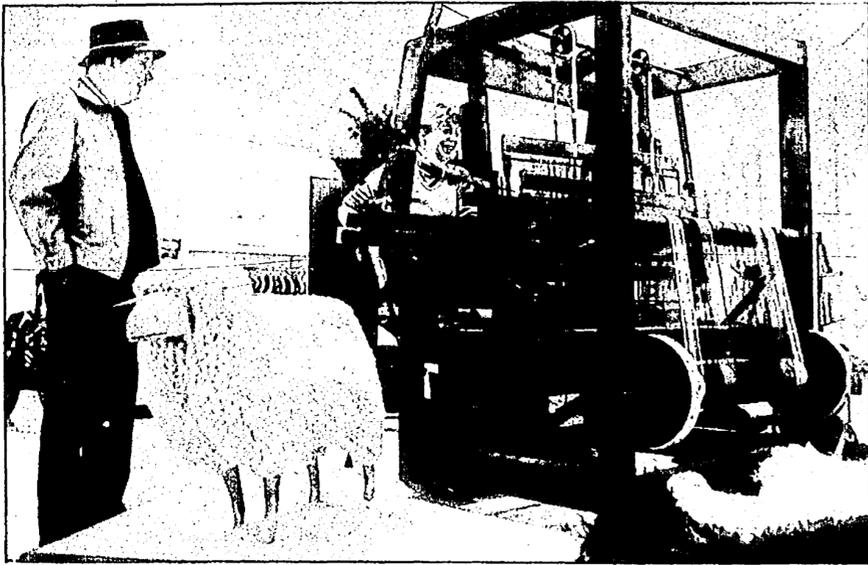

A surgical procedure - Under anesthesia, marrow is extracted from the donor using a needle and syringe.

Repeated extractions are pooled - If the recipient is a baby, a "coffee cup" of marrow is needed; an adult male may need as much as a "coffee pot."

Patient receives the gift of a stranger - The donor's marrow is flown to the patient the same day and given as a blood transfusion.

Robert Owen of Livonia, a hobby weaver and member of the Plymouth Weavers Club, watches Janet Laney of The Three Weavers

Spinning and weaving attracts colorful crowd

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Janet Laney is quick to admit she's no expert when it comes to weaving. Her edges aren't quite right, a fact pointed out to her by Robert Owen of Livonia.

A hobby weaver and member of the Plymouth-based Weavers Club, Owen spotted the imperfections while watching Laney work a 60-year-old floor loom at Jacobson's Laurel Park Place store recently.

You notice two distinct things when talking to Laney — the continual click-click of the loom and her soft Southern accent. A resident of Houston, Texas, Laney hardly misses a beat as she works on the loom, the prototype for floor looms used today by The Three Weavers Shop, a Houston-based textile firm known for its blankets, throws and woven material.

Laney was in town as part of the firm's introduction of its newest throw pattern, Prism, an adaptation of its original throw, Joseph's coat. Like the latter, the Prism throw features 100 colors.

"I'm surprised at the number of people who are fairly knowledgeable about weaving," Laney said. "And I've had three people stop by who are building or just built looms."

The Three Weavers has 25 hand looms and employees more than 50 people. Its weavers are predominantly Vietnamese or Mexican immigrants who practice throwing the shuttle from side to side for three to six months before they're given thread for their looms, Laney said.

the warp and not throwing it out," Laney said. "The second is the spacing."

The Three Weavers Shop was established in 1928 when three textile workers bought a hand loom and some wool and began to experiment. The idea was to come up with better weaving techniques in order to produce the perfect woolen baby blanket.

Two years later, William Spence bought out his two partners, who had moved from the Houston area, and with one loom and one employee, he began marketing products from The Three Weavers Shop. A few months later, a second loom was designed, built and put into use for making throws.

Today, The Three Weavers Shop uses not only wool, but Irish linen, mohair, silk and pure supima cotton for its products.

It is that second loom, a 400-pound version of the actual 800-pound production looms used by The Three Weavers, that Laney, a marketing manager for the firm, uses in her demonstrations. Trained by the firm's weavers Laney spends a portion of her time traveling around the country, putting on demonstrations. The loom takes 14 man-hours to set up.

"IT'S VERY meticulous work," she said. "It takes the weavers about an hour to make a throw and that's just weaving time."

Although her college degree is in textile engineering, Laney admits that she had never seen a hand loom until she joined The Three Weavers. Her specialty was po-

She is precise in thinking; he is a logical person

Dear Lorene,
Both my son, age 15, and I, age 50, would like to know about some of our main traits — which we share in common and which might even clash.

Also, as I have degrees in both law and engineering, I would like to know if you can tell which I am practicing now and which I am best suited for.

Thank you very much.

Livonia

Dear L.D.,

Your handwriting tells me I am working with a cerebral person. Your keen mind is capable of analysis and precision. You consciously process all new information, investigating the reasons, causes and relationships in almost everything.

Although capable of quick thinking when necessary, you usually take time to analyze with your discriminating and decisive manner. You have definite opinions and do not simply accept what you are told nor do you believe all you hear.

Seemingly, you have an ever-present need to prove yourself by high achievement. Self-determination, perseverance and the stimulation of mental challenges are pervasive.

Lorene Green

You are self-sufficient with a direct approach to almost everything. You are time aware and probably live by the old cliché, "Time is money." And you are not inclined to waste either one.

You dislike authority figures and may often find yourself in conflict with them. I think women who are in positions of authority would present the highest degree of resentment for you.

EMOTIONAL EXPERIENCES affect you deeply. And while they may not stay with you forever, it does take time for them to wear off.

You need your time and space. You are not unhappy spending time alone. A good book and relaxing music would add to the enjoyment. Still, I think there are times when you feel lonely.

Although you come on strong with others to make that first good impression, social interaction is handled cautiously. You are inclined to make conscious selections as to how and with whom you choose to spend your time. Those people who share similar interests would probably be the ones selected.

An optimistic outlook is much in evidence in this handwriting. Closer observation, however, tells me your upbeat feelings are often being consciously controlled, for whatever reason.

A brisk walk or a stimulating game of tennis should be a healthy outlet for what you sometimes feel, but keep concealed most of the time.

Incidentally, handwriting does not reveal the type of career in which the writer is working. Intuitively, I feel you are practicing law. Am I correct? With your probing mind and the other assets I mentioned, you could probably be successful wherever your interests take you.

IN REGARDS to your son's handwriting, I want to tell you that teenagers' handwriting can fluctuate rapidly. For accuracy, I prefer to examine samples written at various times. However, I can offer some brief comments.

His thinking process is logical and he assimilates new information methodically and carefully. He appears to have an aptitude for mechanical work and can probably work well with his hands. He also is good at details, but may have some tendency to make mountains out of molehills.

He is conscientious and takes pride in the things he does. He is aware of the proper behavior for his social set and will conform to what is expected of him. This handwriting suggests he is a good student.

Socially, he is somewhat inhibited. This is not too unusual for a young man of 15.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Both my son [redacted], age 15, and I, age 50, would like to know about some of our main traits — which we share in common and which might even clash.

Also, as I have degrees in myself and also what occupations I would be best suited for. Thanks a lot for your time. As my dad already said, I am 15 yrs old. (son)

Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful and objective feedback is always welcome.

Dinner and auction marks Family Week

Family Service of Detroit and Wayne County will be joining with a network of family service agencies in North America to celebrate National Family Week Nov. 18-24.

The theme for the week is "Families Matter," focusing attention on families and their importance to individuals and society.

FS is a non-profit agency with offices in Detroit, Livonia, Dearborn and Trenton. As part of its observance of National Family Week, FS will hold its second annual dinner/auction benefit 6-10 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 28, at Roma's of Livonia. Proceeds will be used for client needs.

On the auction block will be airfare for two to Montreal/Toronto and Chicago, an autographed Pistons team basketball, dinner with Detroit councilman and Mrs. Gil Hill, Detroit Tigers baseball bat and ball autographed by the team, shopping spree at Livonia Mall, Waterford crystal and tickets to the Fox Theatre.

Corporate sponsors for the benefit are British Airways, Livonia Mall and Roma's of Livonia. The honorary chairs are Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett, Cynthia Canty of WKBD-TV, Gil Hill and Wayne County Executive Robert McNamara.

Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling 961-1584 during business hours.

According to FSA statistics, the American family is becoming increasingly diverse. No one type of family can be said to be typical and the traditional nuclear family of a husband, wife and one or more children makes up only one in four U.S. households. And the latter is losing ground to childless couples, single-parent families, step-families, unmarried couples and people living alone.

"We are helping families deal with the problems that come up when both husband and wife are working," said Craig McLean, supervisor of Family Service Livonia District. "We have also had an incredible increase in single parent families, especially those headed by women."

Since 1981, the Livonia FS office has offered affordable family, marital, individual and group counseling to western Wayne County residents. McLean joined that staff in 1973 after earning a master's degree from Wayne State University.

He has seen many changes in family counseling during his 17-year career. "We are treating more people for drug and alcohol abuse, which I think is due to more awareness of that problem," he said.

lymers and she worked for Amoco and Playtex before signing on with The Three Weavers.

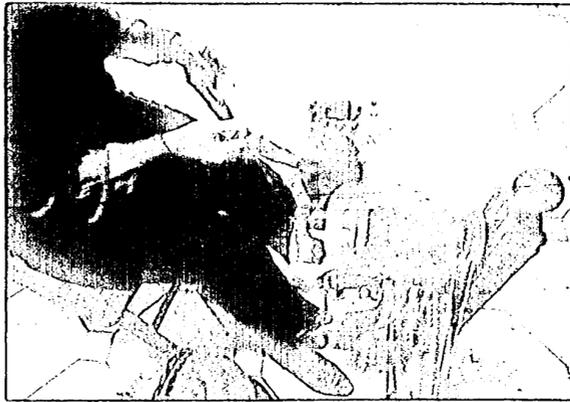

A marketing manager, Laney has been to New York, North Carolina, Michigan and Georgia in the past month. While such travel has its drawbacks, she said she finds it "fun talking to people."

As the shuttle slides effortlessly between the warp, a voice from behind her calls out: "It had to be your great-grandmother who taught you that," Laney smiles.

Across the room, Barbara Cutler shares Laney's enthusiasm for talking to people. But unlike Laney, her machine makes a quiet whirring sound. Cutler is a spinner, a member of the Spinners Flock, a Ann Arbor-based club for spinning enthusiasts.

"It's kind of a tie with the past, I mean what if something happened and we had to do things the old way," she said while spinning mohair into single ply yarn. "The other part is because I love fibers, I love how they feel. I can't describe how it feels to have the thread slide through your hands. It just feels good."

CUTLER GOT into spinning when her children were in 4-H and the family raised rabbits. They saw a demonstration on spinning Angora fur and one thing led to another. Now, she raises Angora rabbits in her garage, collecting their fur to spin into yarn.

She acquired her spinning wheel in 1985. The kit cost her $50 and two rabbits. She's really only been spinning for about two years, since she moved to Plymouth and discovered the Spinners Flock.

Like weaving, there's a knack to spinning — coordinating the hands and feet. The feet press down on the treadle, which turns the wheel and in turn the bobbin that puts the twist in the roving, creating a yarn. It wasn't difficult for Cutler to learn, since the motion is similar to operating a treadle sewing machine which was her introduction to machine sewing.

Like weaving, spinning is labor intensive. After gathering the wool or fur, it must be washed, dyed and carded. The yarn is skeined after spinning and plying, then washed to set the twist, remove excess dye and control shrinking.

THE YEARN then can be used for weaving or needlework. For Cutler, it has meant coming up with the gift that keeps on giving for her husband.

"For Father's Day, I gave him the roving, for his birthday, I gave him the yarn, and for Christmas, I'll give him the sweater," she said. "The roving would cost $70. As spun yarn, it's worth $150 and as a good handknit, about $300."

Barb Ullman of Chelsea, like Cutler, got into spinning because of her children who became interested in weaving through the Ann Arbor YMCA. Ullman grew up in Toronto and didn't know anything about spinning until then. Now, she raises sheep and goats and is involved in the process through to the finished product.

A shearer shears her animals, but she does the washing and dying. Ullman collects about 100 pounds of wool each season, too much to card by hand, so she travels to Frankenthum to have it done. She also spins the wool and uses it for knitted or woven projects.

"I guess I got into it in a sense because it's so relaxing," Ullman said of her spinning. "I really like working with color and I find it interesting trying to produce different colors and see how they combine with each other."

A POUND OF roving produces a pound of spun yarn and, if you're into knitting, it takes about 1 1/2-2 pounds of yarn for a sweater, Ullman said.

For people interested in spinning, the Spinners Flock meets the second Saturday of the month at Chelsea High School. Members also will be selling their handspun yarns and wool products and novelties at a Handspinners' Holiday Fair 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 24, at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens in Ann Arbor. For information about the group, call 475-7119 or 769-1657.

For people interested in the heirloom quality blankets and throws of The Three Weavers Shop, they're available at Jacobson's Laurel Park store.

Fund-raising becomes a necessity of life

For Edwards' family, finding a suitable donor has been, if anything, exhaustive.

Fliers printed up have David Edwards' photo with a plea for people to be tested as potential donors. They have also written to major corporations, asking for help in raising public awareness about the marrow donor program. Few responded.

Rose Doughty, sister of David Edwards, said the most frustrating aspect is convincing people the process is relatively easy — only involving two tablespoons of blood being drawn. Nonetheless, the family continues work and hope.

"I work 12 to 14 hours a day, seven days a week," Doughty said. "People ask me how I've dealt with this. The drive has probably been the best therapy for me. When someone in your family is ill, you feel helpless. By getting involved with the drive, this has been a positive experience for me."

EDWARDS CONTINUES to work at Perkin-Elmer. His employer has been supportive, he said. The drugs he takes for Hodgkin's are sometimes "worse than the disease."

One of the most disheartening aspects was Edwards had the cancer beaten for awhile.

"For the first three months, I felt I had it beaten," Edwards said. "After that, I had a certain feeling it was coming back even though it wasn't showing up in tests."

Perhaps that is the reason he's almost reluctant to mention a recent computer search turned up a potential donor. The individual has matched on six of the six tests.

Edwards will have to wait an additional six to eight weeks while the potential donor is tested for such things as AIDS, hepatitis and other communicable diseases.

Then, of course, the person has to agree to the surgical procedure.

Marrow is taken from the backside of the iliac crest while the person is under anesthesia using a needle and syringe. The marrow is replenished within a few weeks.

Within the same day, the marrow is given to the patient in a blood transfusion. Success rates of the transplant vary between 30 and 80 percent.

"You just don't know," he said. "I have mixed feelings. You're happy you've found a donor. Then there is the transplant itself and you're in the hospital for six weeks and all the worries that go along with it."

WHATEVER THE outcome of the recent developments in his case, Edwards said he'll continue to get people involved in the National Marrow Donor Program.

"The best thing about holding these drives is you're not only helping yourself, you could be helping others," Edwards said.

St. John's choir to perform in National Cathedral

By Julie Brown
Staff writer

THERE'S REASON for rejoicing at St. John's Episcopal Church.

Members of the Parish Choir at the Plymouth church are looking forward to performing Sunday, April 28, at the Washington National Cathedral.

"I think they're really excited," Elaine Grover, director of music, said of choir members. "They're very excited about the prospect of singing there."

"We were overjoyed. I think it will be truly awesome, to participate in that service," said Grover, who is also head of the music department at Marygrove College in Detroit.

Worshippers at St. John's Episcopal are celebrating their church's 30th anniversary, so the 1991 trip to Washington seems particularly appropriate. Choir members requested an invitation to sing in Washington at the national Episcopal cathedral.

THEY SENT a tape, and weren't sure if they'd be packing their choir robes and making the trip east. Choir members got the good news in August.

"We will be singing a chorale prelude to the Sunday morning Holy Eucharist," said Grover, a Plymouth resident. The choir will perform music appropriate for the Easter season and will sing acappella.

Elaine Grover directs St. John's Episcopal choir.

The entire choir, including 30 adults, will make the trip. They plan to fly to Washington that Friday evening next spring and will do some touring and rehearsing Saturday. After their 25-minute performance and the Sunday worship service, choir members will enjoy a guided tour of the Washington National Cathedral.

"Rev. Shank and the entire congregation are very pleased and supportive of the choir in this venture," she said, referring to the Rev. Robert Shank Jr., rector at the church. "We view this as a pilgrimage. The choir is very enthusiastic, working very hard."

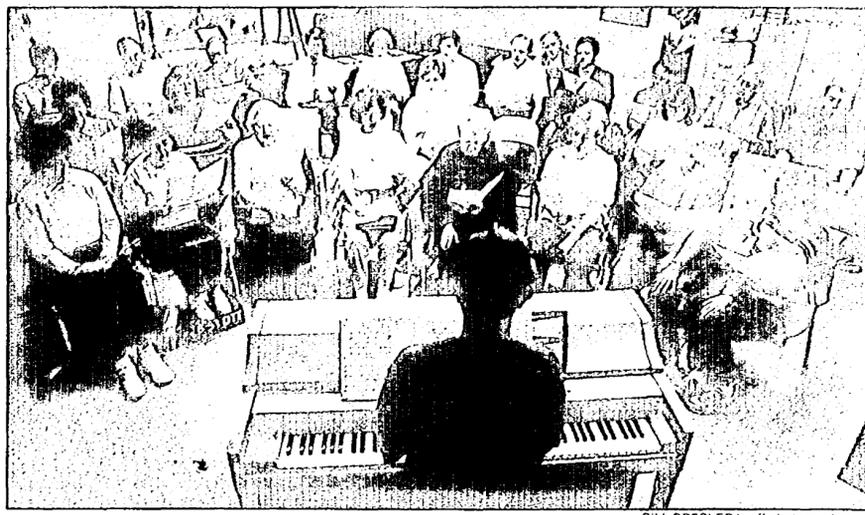

Some familiar faces will be in the audience next spring at the cathedral.

"A number of St. John's parishioners also plan to make a trip to Washington to see the choir." Some of the worshippers have been to the cathedral on earlier vacation or business trips.

CHOIR MEMBERS plan to present their program locally next spring, to help them prepare for their Washington performance, she said. In addition, a fund-raising concert will be held 4 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 20, at the church, 574 S. Sheldon in Plymouth.

The concert will feature Grover, who will play the organ, trumpeter Carolyn Bybee and soprano Caroline Rogers. Proceeds will be used to cover trip expenses for the choir.

Those at the Washington National Cathedral are also celebrating a milestone these days. Construction of the cathedral, chartered by the

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

U.S. Congress in 1893, was recently completed following many years of work.

"People have been going to the cathedral for years," Grover said. The Gothic masterpiece has been used for worship services for some time, and construction work was finished this fall.

Challenge: Rise above election incivility

The 1990 political campaign is over. The votes have been cast and counted. The ads have disappeared from TV and radio. Some of the yard signs have come down.

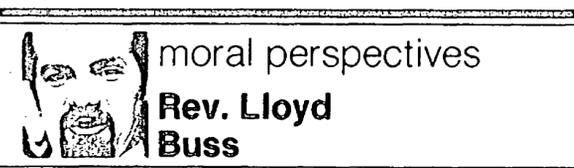

Some races reached new depths of incivility. In 1988 I did not think that any political campaign would ever match the presidential campaign for sheer meanness and ignoble behavior, but evidently the pattern was set and we have seen a goodly number of first-rate imitators.

The challenge to the community is how to rise out of this incivility and fashion an order for public life that affirms the nobility of human life and builds on its sense of justice, dignity and responsibility.

AN EXAMPLE: L. Brooks Patterson's shrill and strident whining about taxes is simply irresponsible leadership. Unless his terms as Oakland County's prosecuting attorney ended with a smaller budget than when he was first elected, he is part of the problem.

His vitriolic, 30-second commercials on radio might not have allowed time for him to discuss these increases in operating that office, but surely integrity would then have directed another form of address. That is the integrity the community will now have to exercise. What L. Brooks Patterson chose to ignore, the community will now have to take up. The community will have to give the exact kind of attention to integrity and responsibility in its assessment of taxes that L. Brooks Patterson so summarily rejected.

THE PUBLIC order can access this integrity and responsibility on its own. The formation of civility is the destruction of community. The very goal sought by political activity was, in 1990, the one thing nearly destroyed.

Now that the campaign is over, the community can return to what it must do to bring health and civility to public life. Honesty, integrity, cooperation, kindness, courtesy, responsibility et al. are fundamental features of a decent and fulfilling community life. The 1990 political campaign was not a good year for community. The community has the opportunity and the resources to correct that.

Carolina country is a Blue Ridge surprise

By Boffo Cannon
special writer

ONCE UPON a time, Cherokee Indians called this place Sahkanaga, the Great Blue Hills of God, or Oconee. Water Eyes of the Hills Today, people call it "Upcountry" in South Carolina, or "Land of the Sky" in North Carolina.

But whatever you call these mountains now they are a place of waterfalls, white water rivers, lakes, parks and scenes of breathtaking mountain scenery.

Tucked into the side of the Blue Ridge Mountains, which rise to more than 6,600 feet at Mount Mitchell in North Carolina, this westernmost part of the Carolinas is famous for its low humidity and moderate climate.

In every corner of natural beauty, you'll also find local arts and crafts; the largest private home in North America; small, unusual museums; historic houses and towns; and bustling cities.

DAY ONE: Begin your visit by flying into the Greenville/Spartanburg Regional Airport. Rent a car. Pick a spot to use as your base of operations. Take day trips out from your hotel or stay in a new place every night.

Pendleton is a good first stop. It's a short drive from the airport through the foothills, north off I-85. Ask locally; it isn't on rent-a-car maps.

This town was where wealthy "lowcountry" South Carolinians summured in the 19th century. It's now one of the nation's largest historic districts.

AT THE top of the green, in the old Hunter's Store, pick up a cassette tour of the historic sites nearby. Shops featuring local arts and crafts and antiques can be found around the square.

Or sit on a bench in front of the former courthouse and pretend you're part of small Southern town life in 1880. (Don't whittle, it's called littering nowadays.)

Make-believe won't be hard, because the Farmer's Society Hall, built in 1826 as the district courthouse, is now a peaceful, cool oasis for lunch. In the small tea room, you'll hear the pleasant sound of soft Carolina voices mixed in with Yankee accents.

To continue the pretense, you might want to stay at the antique-filled 1840 Liberty Hall on South Mechanic Street to sit and rock on its wide verandas. The bed and breakfast inn is just outside of town on Route 28.

DAY TWO: Clemson University, home of the famous Clemson Tigers, is on State Route 123 north of Pendleton. The team's orange tiger paw insignia is painted on the streets, leading you to the 80,000-seat stadium that looms over the campus like a misplaced space ship.

But there are reminders of Clemson's historic beginnings here, too. Stop at the University Visitor's Center for tour information.

Fort Hill, home of John C. Calhoun, vice president, senator and Secretary of War, is open for visitors. It was his son-in-law, Thomas Clemson, who bequeathed the family plantation for the land grant college. (Looks like Mr. Clemson got the girl, the farm and the name, too.)

And there is Hanover House, once used as a frontier fort, built about 1706 and moved to the campus in 1940.

Buy Clemson's famous blue cheese and its even more famous ice cream. Enjoy the ice cream as you stroll through the 70-acre Clemson Botanical Gardens, which contain 2,200 varieties of plants in five gardens and an arboretum.

Drive back to Pendleton or on up toward Salem to Keowee Key Resort for the night.

DAY THREE: The luxurious condominium resort is on the shores of Lake Keowee. You can rent overnight in some seasons or for longer visits all year. Ask for a lake or golf view. There's a country club for dining, an 18-hole golf course, sailing, two swimming pools, tennis and a fitness club.

Cincinnati has chili love affair

By Micky Jones
special writer

IT LOOKED like a typical chrome-plated downtown restaurant with tables, counter stools and a food preparation area in the middle of the large room. But this is Cincinnati and there were only two basic food items on the plastic menu: Chili Spaghetti and Coney Islands.

In some parts of the country, "chili" means "hot." But to the people of Cincinnati, chili means an oval platter of spaghetti covered with a mild, flavorful meat sauce. Then they dress it up and call it three-way, four-way or five-way Cincinnati Chili.

Three-way chili is a basic spaghetti and sauce portion covered with mounds of shredded cheddar cheese. A four-way is just a three-way with the addition of either chopped onions or red beans. A five-way has both onions and beans.

THE OTHER MENU offering is an unusually small hot dog in a roll about four inches long, topped with meaty chili sauce and shredded cheddar cheese.

In some parts of the country, "chili" means "hot." But to the people of Cincinnati, chili means an oval platter of spaghetti covered with a mild, flavorful meat sauce.

You'll find these dishes in hundreds of independent and chain-operated chili parlors in the greater Cincinnati area: Cincinnati airport, Riverfront Stadium, even floating on the Ohio River in recently-opened Covington Landing, an entertainment-dining complex on the south side of the river.

A plate of Cincinnati chili, usually accompanied by oyster crackers, is the right size for lunch or a light supper. Prices range from $2.50 to $4.50 depending on style and portion size.

The sauce is no spicier than average spaghetti sauces, but the flavor

In-flight magazine adds tips to travel

Things I learned while flying American Airlines flight 1553 Detroit to Raleigh-Durham, while waiting for Flight 285 to Miami and while hanging around waiting for delivery of a rental car from Carnival Rent-A-Car...

Take that long-winded thought, double it, convert whenever possible to four-syllable words, eliminate punctuation marks and you will be in good shape to enter the Second Annual American Way Faux Faulkner Contest, for which you must submit 250-500 words of the eloquently rambling variety, words like avatar, epicece, promptitude and ineffable, thereafter to be eligible to win two round-trip tickets on American Airlines anywhere in the continental United States, Bahamas or Hawaii.

Note to the copy desk: I know that was a very long sentence but please don't shorten it. Note to reader: newspaper writers get yelled at by copy editors if a paragraph is more than four or five lines long.

I got that piece of news from the inflight magazine called "American Way," which also includes a review of a novel by Dan Gerber of Fremont, Mich.

Carolinas teem with waterfalls, lakes and rivers

If you stay here, you might want to take the day off from sightseeing and get out on Lake Keowee, which has 300 miles of shoreline. Dress warmly this time of year, the temperature can go as low as 40 degrees. In most seasons, sailboats or the local john boats or pontoon boats can be rented at the Keowee Key Marina on resort grounds.

Gaze into the depths of the water and maybe you'll "see" ghostly farms and old towns, churches and even an old fort or Indian village lost in the watery depths.

The area was flooded in 1971 to develop new lakes for energy production. You are surrounded by thousands of acres of game management land, coves and small bays, and in the distance, three ridges of purple mountain majesties rise up in three pale ridges just for you.

DAY FOUR: This is the day for driving into the high plateaus and mountains, for taking a picnic packed for you at the Keowee Key Country Club, for boots and jeans.

Go to Scenic Highway 11 (also called the Cherokee Foothills Scenic Highway) and drive into the Oconee State Park, which is inside the larger Sumter National Forest. Now a place to camp and picnic, this area was the last stronghold of the Cherokee nation before they left in 1792.

Here the highest falls in eastern America, the Whitewater Falls, cascade from North Carolina down a rocky gorge into South Carolina from a height of 800 feet. There is an easy walk near the entrance of the park into the falls area, but to get closer, you must be a serious hiker.

The lower falls are accessible by boat. For information, contact the Division of State Parks, 1205 Pendleton Street, Columbia, S.C. 29201.

Other sites nearby include the Stumphouse Mountain Tunnel, which was cut 1,600 feet into the mountain before the railroad project failed. You can walk into the cool, dark, damp tunnel and then over to Issaquena Falls. The 200-foot high falls are named for an Indian princess who, according to legend, jumped over them with her baby in her arms.

Also off Scenic Highway 11, you'll find the Keowee-Toxaway State Park. There is a museum here and four outdoor kiosks that portray the history of the Upper Cherokee Indians.

DAY FIVE: Before you leave Lake Keowee, go back north and west on Scenic Highway 11 to Table Rock Mountain. The two major peaks here are said to be the table and stool of a giant Indian chieftain who, Cherokee legend has it, will dine there one day.

Drive into the state park for camping sites, cabins, hiking trails, fishing and boating. Brilliant fall color is burning across the mountainsides and into the valleys at this very moment.

On your way back, take an hour to drive into the little town of Seneca and tour the Lunney Museum. It is a fine example of arts and crafts period architecture on the outside and Victorian furniture on the inside. Local docents take you through on a personal and colorfully informative free tour.

DAY SIX: Now it is time to see a small corner of North Carolina. As you get into the "Sky Country," the mountains seem to be higher, rougher, the road marked by hairpin turns. Via Route 25 north out of Greenville, head for "Connemara," writer Carl Sandburg's 240-acre farm and home at Flat Rock.

During the orientation film shown to visitors here, you will see the poet's image and hear his familiar voice and music. Docents will tell you that the Sandburgs led the simple life of goat farmers. The plain furnishings inside the simple home reinforce that statement.

Look for his "dizzy, crazy corner" office where he kept the shades drawn to keep his mind on his work, not on the lovely views of woods and barns outside.

After touring the house, wander around the farm where Mrs. Sandburg raised purebred goats. For more information, contact the Superintendent, Carl Sandburg Home Historic Site, Flat Rock, N.C. 28731.

CONTINUE YOUR drive east back to Greenville. This up-and-coming city, once an antebellum resort town, is now the textile center of the South.

Be sure to see the collection of Andrew Wyeth paintings exhibited in the Greenville County Museum on College Street. Check out the historic South Main and Broad Street areas and maybe visit the Greenville Zoo.

computer, and National Geography Week Nov. 11-17.

"Why don't you take the whole magazine. It says on the front that you can take it."

"Too heavy," I said as the loose pages fluttered to the floor.

Airports are also full of good information. The last time I was in Newark, for example, I noticed that you can pay your parking lot ticket inside the terminal; they give you half an hour to get out of the lot and that eases the traffic jam of cars lined up at the ticket booth.

In Raleigh-Durham I found a do-it-yourself fax machine. Use your credit card. Pay $4 for the first minute and $2.50 for each additional minute and send up to 30 pages on a fax machine standing unattended at Gate 11 of the American Airlines concourse.

You learn a lot of things this way. For example, here are two things you can get from the government: Call the State Department at (202) 783-3238 and they'll send you "Background Notes" on your next travel destination. Or send 50 cents to the Consumer Information Dept., 455 W., Pueblo, Colo., 81009 and they'll send you a brochure listing foreign-entry requirements for 213 countries, including the addresses of embassies and consulates.

Been to Germany? Going? Save a hotel receipt or a boarding pass and the German National Tourist Office, 747 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017 will send you a free Steffi Graf T-shirt. Just tell them your size.

Got any tips to add to the list? Send them to Iris Jones at 35516 Grand River, Farmington Hills 48335.

Ski show

The Detroit Ski Show will be held Nov. 9-11 at Cobo Hall for all you snow lovers who are waiting for the sky to fall in this winter. The Metropolitan Detroit Ski Council ski equipment sale is always the hit of the show, but there are other things to explore.

The ski show highlights ski areas, ski shops, equipment manufacturers, tour operators, airlines, lodging, ski associations, ski clubs, ski-related products. In other words, everything that applies to those people who strap slats on their feet and slide down icy slopes!

There is a fashion show, a "Revolving Ski Deck Show," lots of expert ski talks, ski movies, and even a Skiers Saloon, which may take us to the heart of the matter.

Hours are 5-10 p.m. Friday, noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission $5 adults, $2 children 6-12, kids under 6 free. You can pick up a $1 discount coupon at your favorite ski shop.

• And please remember: We are featuring skiing on these pages Nov. 29, so if there is anything you want us to know about your ski club or your ski resort or just skiing in Michigan, send that letter very soon to Iris Jones, 35516 Grand River, Farmington Hills, 48335.

Dutch treat

Dutch traditions are customized for the Christmas season as Holland, Mich. prepares to open its 11 performance run of the Christmas pageant, "Hans Brinker," as a major event of the Michigan Christmas Tree Festival.

Hans Brinker is the Christmas legend that so captivated American readers that the Dutch have erected a statue to commemorate their fictitious hero. In the two days before Christmas, Hans finds a great doctor to cure his ailing father, while sister Gretel wins the silver skates. The heart-warming story is enacted with all the pageantry of windmills, frozen canals, Dutch costumes and customs, and traditional Dutch children's holiday songs. Artificial indoor ice allows the cast to ice-skate down a ramp that runs into the middle of the audience.

The musical Christmas pageant opens Thanksgiving weekend for 11 performances between Nov. 23 (Thanksgiving weekend) and Dec. 1. Shows are evenings at 7:30 Tuesday through Saturday, Friday matinees at 4 p.m. and Saturday matinees at 2 p.m. at Evergreen Commons Auditorium in Holland.

Tickets are $5 for the show, with several area restaurants offering special dinner/show packages. For more information, contact the Holland Convention and Visitors Bureau (616) 396-4221.

Chili is city's specialty

is unique. Each chili parlor claims a secret blend of spices, which may include minute quantities of chocolate and cinnamon.

CINCINNATI'S LOVE affair with chili-coated spaghetti developed in the 1920s and is probably of Greek origin. Greek immigrant Nicholas Lambrinides started Skyline Chili in 1949 and now has more than 70 chili parlors in the city, plus a few in Virginia, Florida and Washington, D.C.

You can order it by phone, ship it frozen to your friends or eat while cruising on the Ohio River. B&B Riverboats offered Chili Cruises on five dates last summer and sold out; they plan to do it again in 1991.

When you are on your way down I-75 near Cincinnati, pull off the road and look around. You'll probably see a chili parlor. If not, pull into any gas station and ask for directions. Most shopping centers have at least one.

MICKY JONES

Chili dogs and chili spaghetti would not be the same in Cincinnati without heaps of shredded cheddar cheese added.

TIGHTENING YOUR BELT

TAMMIE GRAVES/Staff artist

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Governments can raise taxes, which they usually do, and cut spending, which they tend to do to a lesser degree, when they run into financial difficulties.

But most of us are limited to working with the expense side of the ledger with personal budgets.

As talk about recession intensifies and war clouds amass in the Middle East, individuals and families might want to think about potential spending cuts and lifestyle changes now.

Just in case economic push comes to shove. "The first thing everyone should do is get involved in debt reduction," said Thomas Hogan, a financial planner in Livonia. "In hard times, what causes business, government and individuals the greatest problems is debt service."

That specifically means whittling the outstanding balance on credit cards, which generally carry the highest rate of interest for consumers, down to zero.

HOW QUICKLY do the finance charges mount? The monthly fee on a $2,500 balance at 1 1/2 percent is $37.50.

Consolidating debts — mortgage, home equity loan and credit cards — into a new mortgage may be advisable for some debtors, Hogan said. It all depends how much is owed, prevailing interest rates, equity in the property and current income of the debtor.

Consolidation spreads the debt over a longer period of time and usually at a lower interest rate. However, there are two corollaries to the plan.

"When the client realizes he has more cash flow, he should pay down the principal on the mortgage," Hogan said. "I also recommend that any future charges made on cards be paid in cash when billed."

This probably is an ideal time to review the family budget given all the attention paid to the federal deficit, said Vanessa Carthron, manager of the Southfield office of Credit Counselor Center.

And if things seem to be deteriorating on the home front?

"Rather than panicking, we just need to sit down and do some hard evaluating, to see where we're spending and where we can save more," Carthron said. "The main thing we need to cut out are frivolous purchases, luxury items, things not needed now."

Take a look at cable TV service and eating habits, she suggested.

"With a lot of our clients, we have to get them to realize that they don't need all the premium channels. Basic cable has a lot of options," Carthron said.

METROVISION provides cable service to Redford, Livonia and Farmington Hills. A subscriber with basic ($15.50 per month), PASS, a premium sports channel ($8.95) or Showtime, a premium movie channel ($8), plus remote control ($3) would save more than $300 annually by dropping cable entirely.

Most subscribers have basic and one premium channel, said Kirk Smith, a Metrovision executive. "For a buck a day, how can you really beat it?" he asked.

Then there's food. Eating out can add up in a hurry. If you spend just $3 for lunch every day, you will pay $780 over the course of a year less days off for vacation and holidays.

"Start packing things for lunch," Carthron advised.

And shop smart, said Ryan Mathews, editor of Grocery Marketing, a trade publication.

"In this country, we throw out a great deal of food," he said. "What that tells you is inefficient shopping is going on."

"Plan meals efficiently and stick with the list. Raw, commodity food generally costs less than processed food. Shop sales, stock up on bargains. Cherry pick — only go to the store and buy specials," Mathews said.

"Where convenience is a real problem, one thing to do is look at meals that can be cooked in bulk and stored, frozen. Stews, soups, chili."

"If they did all of that, the average person would save 20, 30 or even 40 percent of what they're spending," Mathews said.

GETTING FROM here to there also can impact the family budget.

"One of the things you can do is form a carpool," said Nancy Cain, a spokeswoman for AAA Michigan. "Commuting to and from work is the largest single category of auto use. Two people can each save 25 percent by carpooling."

"About half of car trips in America are under five miles," she added. "We suggest that you plan trips in an area and do things at the same time."

Cain offered other advice:

- "Drive at a moderate speed. You can get 15-20 percent more miles per gallon at 55 miles per hour than 65."

- "Maintain your car according to the service manual. You can get up to 10 percent better mileage. Don't idle your car more than one minute. Reduce car weight. If you're carrying around useless things, put them into the garage until you need them."

- "One way to cut the insurance bill is to maintain your driving record. If you get a ticket, in a three-year period you can pay 40 percent more for certain coverages."

- "Every few years you should review the need for collision and comprehensive coverage. Consider deductible coverage. The higher the deductible, the lower the premium."

Then, too, you can always bicycle or walk, especially if the food market, video store and post office are in the neighborhood. No need to confront heavy costs relating to fuel, insurance and maintenance with foot power.

Fuel increases fail to ground business flights

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Rising fuel rates equals rising ticket prices equals less business travel, right?

Not necessarily. U.S. airlines, faced with a $10 billion boost in the cost of jet fuel since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, will incur a $1 billion loss in the final quarter of 1990, but most of those losses will be a result of vacationers not flying or money lost on flight tickets sold at locked in prices.

Business travel — which includes everyone from the highest executive to the traveling salesman, as well as product and materials transportation — is not as frivolous as vacationing and so its frequency is less affected by rising costs.

Pat Bresler, a travel agent with Corporate Destinations in Bloomfield Township, said although business travelers are experiencing some "sticker shock," the cost increases and flight cancellations are not affecting the number of business trips.

Many airlines have raised ticket prices as much as 10 percent to compensate for rising fuel prices with the latest round on Nov. 1, she said.

"(But) people who own businesses (in other areas of the county) have to commute," she said. "It's a necessity; they have no choice."

True, costs have as much as doubled in some instances since this summer, but then again, this summer was an extremely good time for traveling with airlines slashing ticket prices to attract vacationers. "Now it's gone back up again."

airlines are forced to do more than just increase ticket prices. Many airlines have, or are discussing, laying off employees, asking unions for wage concessions, cutting back on flights, cutting internal budgets and instituting hiring freezes.

Planning for flights has been a problem as airlines have cut unprofitable scheduled flights leaving travelers to scramble for other flights to make trips, she said. Other flights have been added, but keeping track of all the changes is keeping travel agents and business travelers busy.

Cutting flights, she said, has the potential for being more damaging to business travelers and businesses than costs, especially if business travelers are unable to reach destinations in a time-effective manner.

Bresler said despite the airlines rising costs, prices will eventually fall again. The nature of competition

"People who own businesses (in other areas of the county) have to commute. It's a necessity, they have no choice."

— Pat Bresler

between airlines — with each trying to capture a larger market share, makes it almost inevitable.

"I think the airlines will hang tough for now, but it will only take one to cut its rates and they'll all follow suit," Bresler said, adding she expects prices to begin falling probably in February.

Cassandra Bosco, spokeswoman for the National Business Aircraft Association (NBAA), said that while the Middle East crisis has driven fuel costs up, fuel should continue to be available unless a war breaks out.

THE NBAA REPRESENTS more than 3,000 companies that own and operate their own aircraft for transportation of executives, employees and materials. More than 70 percent of Fortune 500 companies have aircraft.

Most businesses are curtailing frivolous uses of its aircraft, she said, but many flights continue despite the rising fuel prices. Businesses rarely use aircraft frivolously because the main reason they purchased the aircraft in the first place was to save money, she said.

"When a company executive is flying across the country or a product is shipped across the country (by airplane) it is done because the product is needed," she said.

Companies that own airplanes, she said, bought them to save money and time, provide flexibility, increase security, and add efficiency, she said. True, rising fuel prices are taking a bite out of profits, but the benefits of air travel for these companies still outweighs not traveling, Bosco said.

Bosco said the NBAA, as a U.S. Department of Transportation energy conservation task force member, has suggested cost-saving measures to help preserve fuel, including: allowing departing planes to obtain unrestricted climbs to cruise altitude; allow pilots to fly more direct routes; and reviewing noise abatement plans that have an adverse effect on fuel consumption.

BUSINESSES MAY seek other alternatives to the face-to-face meetings that have been so common in the past, according to Chet Dalzell of

Heine sees niche for brewery

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Some people dream of owning a business, but few would choose to own a brewery especially in an era of declining alcohol consumption.

But not Randall Heine, owner and president of Total Foods Corp. in West Bloomfield, an industrial foods distributor and supplier of food ingredients.

Heine has agreed to buy all stock in the Frankenmuth Brewery in Frankenmuth for an undisclosed amount from the Ann Arbor-based Ervin Industries Inc., saving one of Michigan's last independent breweries.

Heine said that although he is originally from Frankenmuth, there are no hidden motivations behind his decision to buy the brewery.

"It's not anything like (always wanting to be a brewer since he was a young man). Heine said his company is always on the lookout for companies that will fit into its marketing strategy."

"We look at a lot of things that come along, buy some companies and start others — this seemed like it would fit into what we are doing (at Total Foods Corp.)." Heine said, adding that Total Foods already handles some of the ingredients used in brewing beer, so the two companies fit together.

But Heine also said he enjoys the taste of the two beers. "That was a big part of the sale."

Heine said his immediate plans for the brewery includes stepping up promotion for its existing products.

Since the Frankenmuth Brewery is a micro-brewery, its success or failure depends on finding a market niche, Heine said.

THE FRANKENMUTH facility brews both Frankenmuth Old German Style Beer, a private label dark beer brewed for the Bavarian Inn in Frankenmuth, and Old Detroit Amber Ale, which it brews under contract license for the Old Detroit Brewing Co.

Two key selling points are that the beer is brewed in Michigan and that they are premium beers.

Heine said that while the trend away from drinking alcohol does "scare me a little," he is confident a micro-brewer of high-quality beers can succeed. "I think that's a problem for the bigger brewers, not the micro-brewers."

As a micro-brewer, the Frankenmuth Brewery addresses a market that is under served by the larger breweries. The premium beer segment of the market that has done well despite the shrinking alcohol market, he said.

"I think if you can get people to buy it in Michigan, we'll succeed," he said. "We're not going worldwide or even countrywide — that's not the plan."

The Frankenmuth Brewery — formerly the Geyer Bros. Brewery — dates back to 1862 and operated until 1988 when it declared bankruptcy. The brewery reopened as the Frankenmuth Brewery in 1988 after chief operating officer and veteran brewer Fred Schumacher, with the backing of Ervin Industries, renovated the facility.

DESPITE RECORDING increased sales of 90 percent over 1989, Ervin Industries — the majority stockholder in the company — withdrew financial backing a month ago, Schumacher said.

Although the brewery was forced to lay off its employees during the layover, inventories ensured most retailers were able to keep the company's beer in supply.

Schumacher will remain on as chief executive officer, and Fred Scheer will remain on as brewmaster. Although he will no longer be a part owner, Schumacher said his being retained as chief executive officer, and president will ensure consistent quality and productivity.

Businesses still flying

the Direct Marketers Association in Washington D.C.

Businesses have been looking to other alternatives — like business by telephone, mail and video — for nearly two decades, when traveling costs began increasing dramatically. The latest round of increases, he said, will probably add fuel to the trend.

Prior to the 1970s, businesses relied on their sales forces to do much of the selling and buying for corporate America, but skyrocketing business trip costs forced businesses to rely more and more on the phone, Dalzell said.

"In 1987 alone, (the cost of) business visits leaped by $250 — most small businesses can't handle that," Dalzell said. The recent travel increases, although it's still difficult to gauge to impact, could easily add at least that much.

Ida Simmons, director of communications for the D.K. Shifflet & Associates in Washington D.C., a travel research firm, said savvy travelers may not be hurt by the current economic crunch.

Business travelers may have to pay higher prices, but by taking advantage of the current conditions, they may not pay too much more.

In the last recession, airlines bent over backwards to service business customers. "Airlines discovered it was the business travelers who really pay the bills."

"He was going to continue traveling (no matter what happened to the economy) because he had to — to a certain extent," she said.

VACATION TRAVELERS will really make out as airlines add incentives to ensure airline seats don't go unused, she said.

Now our home equity loans are an even sweeter deal.

Get an interest credit of up to $50.

Put the equity you have in your home to work for you with a Comerica home equity loan.

The interest may be fully tax-deductible* — and if you apply between September 17 and November 16, 1990, you'll receive an interest credit of up to $50. And Comerica gives you these four loans to choose from.

• IDEAL CREDIT LINE — A credit line ($5,000 to $20,000) accessed by check or IDEAL VISA® card.

• EQUITY LINE — A credit line ($20,000 to $200,000) you access by check.

• FIXED EQUITY INSTALLMENT LOAN — A fixed payment, fixed-rate loan in amounts from $5,000 to $50,000.

• AUTO EQUITY LOAN — A fixed-rate loan to be used to purchase a car. You may borrow up to the maximum available equity you have in your home.

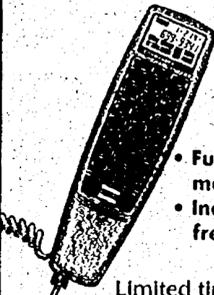

Use the money to consolidate other higher interest rate loans, make home improvements, pay for education expenses, or even buy that dream car. Whatever need you might have, a Comerica home equity loan makes a lot of sense. Because when it comes to borrowing money, there's no place like home.

Saturn launch unfairly gets some mediocre press

I don't know that anybody expected the Saturn launch to be an easy trot around the bases, but then again, we weren't expecting a last-second slide into home plate either, let alone what we seem to be getting, which is a slide of the banana peel variety.

By now, Saturn has knocked off more than a few points, any one of which should have been worth a Forbes cover or two. It's the largest, most-comprehensive industrial startup since World War II, for one thing, the sheer scale of which seems to have been missed by the legions of reporters led astray by Saturn ads, who have been mainly interviewing Spring Hill dogs and school kids.

WHILE I'M not privy to the GM books, there is every evidence that the brand-new tightly organized Saturn plant, running at capacity, is the lowest-cost auto manufacturing plant in a world where U.S. labor is now cheap by virtue of the collapsing dollar. This is reflected in a sticker price that includes a hefty profit of margin for the dealer that is roughly $2,000 less than a comparably equipped four-door sedan.

Lastly, it is arguably the best U.S. small car ever built, an achievement that is muffled only by the dramatic improvement in the Japanese competitors in the last few years. Dollar-for-dollar, it solidly trounces Toyota and Honda's small cars in either price, performance or features, although it's likely to have a tough time with Nissan's new Sentra, the new star of the small-car circus.

ALL OF this should have meant a roaring, standing ovation, instead of what seems to be a smattering of applause, and the sound of a few coughs and rustling feet. Press reports on the car have been lukewarm, projections of GM profits mediocre. Strangest of all, there still auto talk

isn't a Saturn car on display at GM headquarters, where one would have expected a spotlighted pedestal for the effort.

Most members of auto writing Mafia, used to being spoon-fed by lavish overseas launches of important new models, seem to have Pabulum dribbling down their chins in response to a series of early press showings of Saturn, where unfinished engineering prototypes were demonstrated at such unlikely locations as a short track at the GM proving grounds normally used to test the parking brakes on heavy-duty trucks.

MOST OF the early "road tests" now on the magazine stands were based on these shaky cars — arguably all that was available even a few days before the full production began, but nonetheless an unusual way to put your best foot forward into this intense spotlight.

The rush to judgment was also partly due to GM managing to keep only one thing truly secret about the car — its price, which in turn led to bizarre stories including one article that claimed it fell slightly short of a "comparable" car, the Honda Integra, which costs roughly twice as much.

OVERALL, IT now seems obvious that Saturn was suckered into a premature launch of the vehicle, fevered by the urge to put Roger Smith in the driver's seat before he retired. Not that he didn't deserve the honor, since it clearly was his biggest contribution to an often-troubled career at the head of GM, but a couple of months worth of patience would have smoothed things out a lot.

On the other hand, expectations for the car have been so high as to be ridiculous. A Detroit Free Press reporter, for example, after driving a new Saturn across the country and producing a remarkable series on grass roots American, caps it by noting that that Saturn should be expected to make the list of 10 best on J.D. Power's Consumer Satisfaction Index, ignoring the fact that few of today's top-selling cars are on the list, and that the currently best-selling Honda Accord struggled through two years of expensive recalls after its original introduction in the mid-1970s.

NOT THAT the Saturn is without flaws. Despite its well-developed chassis and extraordinary performance, at best it's a mediocre styling exercise, a rolling argument, hot on the heels of GM's spacey APV minivan, that GM's design department is overdue for a shakeup. Not so strangely, help already seems on the way here.

In fact, the real story to Saturn isn't the plant, the car or the launch. The real story is how quickly Saturn responds in the future after the dust settles: making running engineering changes, introducing new products, and fixing the ones they have already sold.

Now that I think about it, maybe the dust really shouldn't settle at all.

Answers to your questions on saving on a home mortgage

The article published on Oct. 4 in this column by guest writer Jay L. Smith, who is a member of the board of the Institute of Certified Financial Planners, has had an enthusiastic response.

To date, almost 200 requests have been received, and these requests are continuing. Everyone who has asked has been mailed the information he requested. In addition, those who indicated that they needed additional help have been referred to a toll-free telephone number published by the institute.

Today I will answer several questions that have been raised by my readers.

Q. Why do I need the ABC Bank. Can't I pay bi-weekly mortgages myself?

A. You certainly can, but there are several problems.

• Most banks and mortgage companies won't allow you to modify the existing terms of your contract, so you may have to refinance it, generating additional costs.

• Making bi-weekly payments on time is a painstaking chore. Besides, it loses most of its value if you are unable to invest the balance satisfactorily.

• If you are unable to keep up with a self-generated program for financial reasons, your long-term interests may be jeopardized.

Q. Why did you ask for the mortgage data?

A. My original intention was to analyze the data and advise you if the program will work for you. Unfortunately, the volume of responses made it impossible for me to keep up with the analysis.

Q. Does the ABC Bank actually exist?

A. Yes, it does. In fact, everyone contacting me has already been provided with that information. However, it is my long-standing practice not to use in my column real names of people, products or organizations.

Q. How safe is this plan?

A. Perfectly safe. Your money is always protected while deposited in the bank accounts and during the electronic transfer of the money between accounts. ABC Bank is a depository bank and, acting as a fiduciary, safeguards the deposited money and permits only those transfers authorized by you. Money in the depository account is protected to the limit set by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Q. Do I save as much money as is indicated by the table published in your column?

A. Yes. However there was a typographical error in the original column. The corrected table is presented here. As you can see, the savings are incredible in the long run.

Q. Why did you collect additional financial data on a separate data sheet?

A. Those who need help in additional planning areas have been urged to call the ICFA at 1-800-589-5200, so they can be referred to qualified financial planners in their area. I offered this as a special service to my readers.

Judging from the number of questions that remain unanswered, you will benefit immensely from attending a seminar on this topic. The speaker will be a specialist in this program. Details of the seminar are given below.

"When you're as active as we are, you need a health plan that helps you stay that way."

"Our family likes to keep busy. We go camping, skiing, canoeing, swimming... you name it and we probably do it. We also do all we can to stay healthy. After all, nothing can spoil a weekend more than if one of us gets sick.

"So when it came to choosing a health benefits plan, we picked one that would fit our lifestyle. One that realizes the importance of staying well, not just getting better once you're sick. We chose Care Choices HMO.

"With Care Choices, our family is covered for many kinds of preventive care, like lab tests, immunizations, x-rays and doctor visits. Everything's so convenient, with a minimum of paperwork.

"Of course, we wouldn't belong to Care Choices if we couldn't get our care from some of the best doctors and hospitals around. And comprehensive coverage for hospitalization and emergency care worldwide are important features, too. But Care Choices even goes beyond that, offering members discounts on various health-related classes and programs. Now, that's a health plan!"

If you have money to invest, NOW is the time

Q. I know this is a wild time in the stock market and most of my friends say put your money in the bank. I guess maybe I am lucky because I have an uncle who has done well in the stock market, and he says the best time to invest is always at a time like the present when most people are scared away. He told me that you periodically put out a starting model portfolio and I should write and get it from you.

today's investor
Thomas E. O'Hara
of the National Association of Investors Corp.

A. We do come up every three months with a portfolio that is designed for people just starting out, and it is shown in the accompanying table. The model portfolio is selected by the securities analysts that supervise the stocks published in Better Investing Magazine and is presented as a group of stocks, which in those analysts' view, have the potential to double in value in the coming five years. As an investor, it is well to spread your money over a number of stocks. If you have $12,000 and can buy $1,000 of each stock, that would be the best procedure. Some of the stocks have dividend reinvestment programs where they will buy more stock with the dividends and pay the commissions for you. That is a great way to compound your earnings while you're waiting for the companies to grow. You will notice three of the company do not pay dividends. They are companies hoping to grow and use their earnings to finance that growth.

Notice also in the list that a projected five-year high price and low price is given. Keep in mind that there is no guarantee that goes with those projections. They are considered projections by experienced people, but experience shows that five years from now the average price off all of those companies will have does as expected, however, two or three are likely to do very poorly. That is why we stress spreading your money over the lot.

Thomas O'Hara of Bloomfield Hills welcomes your questions and comments but will answer them only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad investor interest and whose questions are used will receive a free one-year subscription to the investment magazine Better Investing. For a sample copy of Better Investing Magazine or information about clubs, write Today, Box 220, Royal Oak, Mich. 48067.

Now, it doesn't make any difference what time it is.

You can place an Observer & Eccentric classified ad 24 hours a day!

Here's how it works:
First, you must have a touch-tone telephone.
Then, all you do is call us—remember, it doesn't make any difference if we're not here—to place an ad, cancel one or change something on one you've placed earlier.
Let's say it's eight o'clock at night and you've just realized that the cupid on the clock you're selling plays a tin whistle. It's a good selling point, so you punch up our classified number and wait for the operator to guide you through the steps for changing your ad. Have in mind the exact information you want to give us, speak clearly and a bit slower than you usually do. And that's it.

If it's after 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, your changes will be made for the next Monday paper. Or, if it's after 5:00 p.m. on a Friday or the weekend, your changes will hit the Thursday papers.

Pretty neat, huh?
Of course, our Classified Ad Takers are here every Monday through Thursday from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and until 5:00 p.m. each Friday. But now, if you miss them, you can still do something about your ad—at your convenience.

Computer users don't need to buy every new toy

Over the years I've collected a bunch of homey aphorisms. Some of them aren't particularly appropriate for a column in a public newspaper, but a few of them, in my vanity, I've called Stephenson's Axioms.

This week I want to discuss one of these bits of Franklinian wisdom with you.

If you're a propeller-head who loves the latest and greatest technology, this column is probably not for you. Go on out to the kitchen, get a pop and a sandwich and come back after the commercial.

AXIOM: I KNOW it may seem blasphemous, but you don't have to chase technology to get your work done. Certainly, all of the technocrats want you to run right out and buy the latest release of whatever word processor, database, or personal computer they're peddling, but there's a better than ever chance that you can ignore them.

You see, if you can do your work well with what you have, why change? If it ain't broke, as they say, don't fix it.

Of course there are times when you need a bit more oomph than your current system can provide. The trick is to know when you're seeking a solution to a problem or a problem to fit a solution.

I CAN'T begin to tell you how much software passes through the Cave in a month. I write columns far more techy and serious than this one, I assure you, for several national computer mags. So everybody and his dog wants me to review his latest whizbang.

I gives piles of the stuff away to the local high school every year. And the fact is that there are only about half a dozen of those new products in a year that actually find their way onto my system. And I'm a power user. I just love new toys!

Think what that means to you who just want to get your work done faster, neater and more efficiently with your PC. The fact is that once you the computer insider

Peter Stephenson

outfit your system with what does the job for you, you may not change it significantly once a year.

AND THAT'S OK. It's not written anywhere that I know of that you have to chase technology.

I was giving a seminar to a government contractor out West a month or so back. The seminar was on selecting a local area network.

One of the attendees told me that they weren't going to buy a network, even though she knew they needed one, because it would be obsolete by the time she installed it and got all of her staff trained. Fine. Don't buy a car either, then.

There's a lot of new technology going into automobiles. The one I drive is a year old. I guess it's obsolete, too. Never mind that it serves me just fine.

COMPUTERS ARE a lot like cars. If it gets you where you want to go in the style to which you've become accustomed, love it. Don't replace it just to get the newest technology.

Which brings us, somewhat serendipitously, to another axiom.

If you give someone too many choices, they won't make any at all.

That was my lady at the seminar. She was overwhelmed with the techy stuff, techy magazines and techy people. So she decided to do nothing at all.

THE KEY is to define what you expect from your PC, outfit it correctly and use it to your benefit. If it looks to you like you can actually improve your computing with a new program or piece of hardware, fine. Do it.

But let your computer expansion be driven by real needs, not by glitzy ads, reviews or salesperson's hype. And don't survey everything on the market.

If you don't know what you're looking at, find someone (not a salesperson) who does and take his advice.

THE LAST thing that should drive your decision is the "gotta have the latest upgrade" syndrome. When I stop and realize that most software companies get a significant dose of extra profit from their predictable annual upgrades, it makes me wonder how all those users got their work done before the upgrade appeared. I'm betting 75 percent of them did just fine. And that's the inside scoop!

Area Jewish leaders refused to meet Kahane

By Pat Murphy

The Monday assassination of Rabbi Meir Kahane in New York City was widely denounced as Jews and Arabs reacted to the news of his death.

But there were strong feelings in Oakland County about the message preached by the Brooklyn-born zealot who believed Zionism and Western democracy are incompatible and referred to Arabs as "dogs" and moderate Jewish leaders as "Uncle Jakes."

"It's terrifying to think there are assassins around," said Rabbi Sherwin Wine of The Birmingham Temple, who strongly differed with Kahane and in 1978 debated him at the Farmington Hills temple.

"His message I deplore," said Wine. "The man I didn't like. But I would never condone assassination."

People in Oakland County — and elsewhere — rejected Kahane's message because it included violence, said Rabbi Sherman P. Kirshner of Congregation B'nai Israel in West Bloomfield Township.

KAHANE WAS a "racist," according to Dr. Barbara Aswad, a Birmingham resident and a professor of Middle Eastern studies at Wayne State University.

"Nobody likes assassination," said Aswad. "But Kahane was an extremist who advocated violence . . . in that sense he brought it on himself."

Hani Fakhouri, who teaches Middle Eastern studies at the University of Michigan, said he also considered Kahane to be a "racist and extremist" who was outside mainstream Jewish thought.

"I hate to see anybody die like that," said Fakhouri, a resident of Bloomfield Hills. "But those who live by the sword die by the sword."

Kahane, 57, was born in Brooklyn, where he became an Orthodox rabbi and a lawyer. In 1968 he helped organize the Jewish Defense League to help counter violence against Jews.

"That was when elderly Jews were being beaten and harassed," said Kirshner. "Kahane recruited young Jewish men and trained them in the martial arts. Suddenly there was no problem."

AFTER BEING convicted of plotting to build bombs, Kahane immigrated to Israel in 1971 and became active in the Kach Party, eventually becoming its leader.

He was initially regarded as an "American import and racist lunatic," according to press information circulated by The Jewish Idea, an educational organization that sponsored several Kahane visits to the Detroit area.

Kahane considered himself a "knee-jerk Jew" who advocated a Jewish state run according to Jewish law.

In his 1981 book, "They Must Go," Kahane said Arabs living within Israel were a fifth column. Saying that no state — including Israel — should be required to tolerate a disloyal minority, Kahane suggested Arabs be expelled.

Kahane gained popularity and, after three unsuccessful attempts, was elected to the Israeli parliament in 1984.

His U.S. citizenship was revoked shortly thereafter by a State Department that ruled Kahane relinquished it by becoming part of a foreign government.

Kahane's popularity in Israel may have increased, but his extreme views cost him support in the U.S., Wine said.

"By his move from America to Israel . . . and becoming a religious fanatic, he lost most of his support."

ON A PERSONAL level, Wine said, he found Kahane to be charming, bright and "very dangerous."

When he and Kahane debated, "we had one of our largest audiences," Wine said. "People like to come out for a good fight."

After the debate, Wine said, Kahane turned to the audience and said, "So now why don't you get yourself a real rabbi?"

Wine said he vividly remembers Kahane's zeal, even if he didn't like his message. "I don't regret that his message won't be articulated as well as he did it," Wine said.

"But the danger is some kind of revenge may take place here or in Israel," said Wine. "That's my fear." A similar fear was expressed Tuesday by the Jewish Community Council. Executive Director David Gad-Harf issued a statement saying, "Murder is never an appropriate solution to conflict, regardless of how much we may abhor the ideas of the victim. We hope that the leaders of the region will be successful in guiding the progress of resolution to a peaceful conclusion."

LEADERS OF the Jewish Community Council were among those who at one time refused to meet with Kahane because of what they considered to be his extremist views. Kahane wasn't fond of them either.

During a 1985 press conference in the Detroit area, Kahane expressed scorn for Jewish leaders he considered too moderate.

"If Louis Farrakhan wired them asking for a meeting," Kahane said, "they'd fall all over him."

In 1982, Kahane was initially barred from speaking in Southfield by an Oakland Circuit Court judge after a group identifying itself as the

Rabbi Meir Kahane

SS Action Group of the American Nazi Party threatened violence. Barred from going inside the building, Kahane stood in the rain and blamed his being barred on Nazis and established Jewish leaders.

State reports near-record lottery profits

AP — Michigan lottery players spent nearly $1.2 billion on tickets last year, making it the second best year in the lottery's 18-year history.

Sales were up about 4 percent over last year's figures, and just three-tenths of a percent below the record year of 1988. That year, sales topped $1.2 billion.

About $487 million will go to help finance kindergarten-through-12th grade public schools.

Prize money amounted to $587 million for 32 million winners, an average of $18 each, during the last fiscal year, from Oct. 1, 1989 to Sept. 30, 1990.

Super Lotto sales fell slightly during the period, to $515.2 million from $524.1 million in 1988-89.

SLIGHT INCREASES were reported in all other games, except the Daily 3, and the Keno game brought in $41 million since it started in April.

"When you consider the economy softening like it has been in the last several months, and consider the fact that Indiana and Wisconsin lotteries have started and are running full blast, I'm extremely happy with the final results," said Lottery commissioner Michael Carr.

The Bureau of State Lottery began the fiscal year with flat Super Lotto sales, but business picked up with the switch from a 6-of-44 Lotto to a 6-of-47 Lotto.

The change enormously reduced odds of winning the jackpot, but more rollovers and higher jackpots brought more people to the ticket counters, Carr said.

He said the lottery isn't planning any new games this year but plans to try to better market the tickets through tie-ins with other products.

For example, Kentucky Fried Chicken and Northwest Airlines currently are taking part in promoting the lottery. Any Keno player who fails to match any numbers in that game receives a free instant ticket.

Wealth seminar planned

"Wealth Creation", a free seminar on personal finance, is scheduled 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 17, at Detroit College of Business, 4801 Oakman Blvd., Dearborn.

The workshop, co-sponsored by the Detroit College of Business Alumni Association and the school's continuing education department, emphasizes changing attitudes about personal investments and better understanding of IRA's and other qualified plans.

Mark Pernicano, a Southfield financial planner, will conduct the seminar. For more information, call 581-4400.

Vines leave their mark on trees

Learning about the natural world can occur in a variety of ways. Reading is certainly one way to learn about a subject. It enables us to obtain information that others have spent a great deal of time deciphering.

Direct observation is another way of learning about the natural world. Encountering a new species or event can lead one to speculate about its identity or importance. Checking references to see if others have seen the same thing is a rewarding experience, too. Even if someone has made a similar observation it does not make yours any less gratifying.

Report cites ORV damage

AP — Off-road vehicles are leaving a trail of $1.2 billion in damage to vegetation, soil and wildlife habitat on Michigan land, according to a new report.

At least 642,000 acres of land, water and wildlife habitat in 22 counties have been damaged by ORVs, according to a survey by the Michigan Association of Conservation Districts. The group represents soil conservation officials in all 83 Michigan counties, but only 42 counties responded to the survey.

Restoring land damaged by ORVs would cost between $2,000 and $20,000 per acre, depending upon the extent of harm, said Executive Director Debra Bogar.

"There is a lot of damage out there and it's not just the trails that are being affected; the soil erosion caused by ORVs is affecting bodies of water and a lot of wildlife habitat," Bogar said.

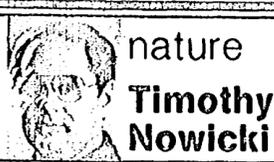

Property owners and government agencies would get stuck with the tab, she said.

Bogar said the 642,000-acre estimate is conservative.

But Mike Burlingham, president of the Cycle Conservation Club, said the study was not a scientific assessment of damage caused by irresponsible ORV riders.

"Even if there was 1 square foot of damage on an acre of land, they called it an area of damage," said Burlingham, who had not seen the report. His group represents 2,800 ORV users in Michigan.

The House Conservation, Recreation and Environment Committee plans to resume hearings Nov. 13 on a bill to restrict ORV use on state forest land, said state Rep. Tom Alley, D-West Branch.

Timothy Nowicki

Continued travels in the natural world on trails, in a canoe, or in a car may result in explanations of natural events without seeking other references. But perceptive observation is necessary. Walking from point "A" to point "B" without noticing what is in between will not result in the added pleasure of investigating the unusual or unknown.

Many trees in our area have a "barber pole" like appearance to them. This is due to growth ridges that spiral up the trunk of the tree.

In many cases there is nothing on the tree to indicate what may have caused such an unusual growth pattern.

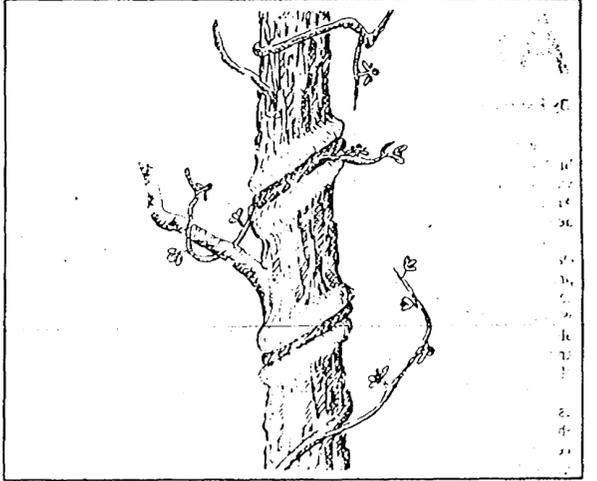

However, careful observation over time will undoubtedly result in a tree that will solve the mystery. Clinging tenaciously to a tree will be a vine twisted around the trunk. A common vine to grow in such a manner is bittersweet.

It started to grow from one of the bright orange-red berries which was probably dropped by a bird. As it started to grow it found support from the nearest tree. While the vine continued to grow and hug the tree, the tree continued to grow and expand in diameter. Eventually the constricting of the growing vine caused the tree to grow around the vine, resulting in the "barber pole" effect.

In many cases the vine dies away, but its scars still remain on the tree. Harvesting of this beautiful plant for its berries may have caused the death of the vine. It is sought after for wreath and other decorations. American bittersweet is not very common and is protected under the Christmas Tree Law. Much of the bittersweet seen today is oriental bittersweet.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Vines are responsible for the often-baffling "Barber pole" appearance of many trees.

We Need Volunteers Who Love Happy Campers!

Sun Deer® campers are happy campers and it's no wonder because most severely asthmatic kids are forced to spend their summers indoors. At Camp Sun Deer® asthmatic kids ages 9-12 participate in a variety of outdoor activities, but they can't do it without your help. The limitations and doubts they face can be diminished by a volunteer who cares. Your participation at Camp Sun Deer® can make all the difference in an asthmatic child's summer.

A card offered by the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeast Michigan.

These cards offer more than season's greetings

Wellness Networks Inc. offers this holiday card.

THEY ARRIVE each December, as expected as the cold weather and snow, but much more welcomed. Greeting card season is almost upon us again.

A greeting card sold by a charitable, non-profit agency has extra meaning because worthwhile causes benefit from the purchase. There are dozens of choices, in organizations and in card styles.

Published here are samples of available cards with pertinent ordering information. These cards are among those that will be on display in scrapbooks to be maintained for browsers at the five O&E offices: 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia; 805 E. Maple, Birmingham; 21898 Farmington Road, Farmington; 410 N. Main, Rochester, and 744 Wing, Plymouth.

Visiting Nurse Association, 7700 Second Avenue, Detroit, 48202, provides at home health care. There are seven card styles to choose from. Call 876-8649.

Wellness Networks Inc., P.O. Box 1046, Royal Oak, 48068, is a volunteer-based service agency responding to the AIDS epidemic. Call 1-800-872-2437 or 547-9040.

Alzheimer's Association, 17251 W. 12 Mile, Suite 109, Southfield, 48076, is a service agency for Alzheimer's patients and their families. There are four different styles to choose from. Call 557-8277.

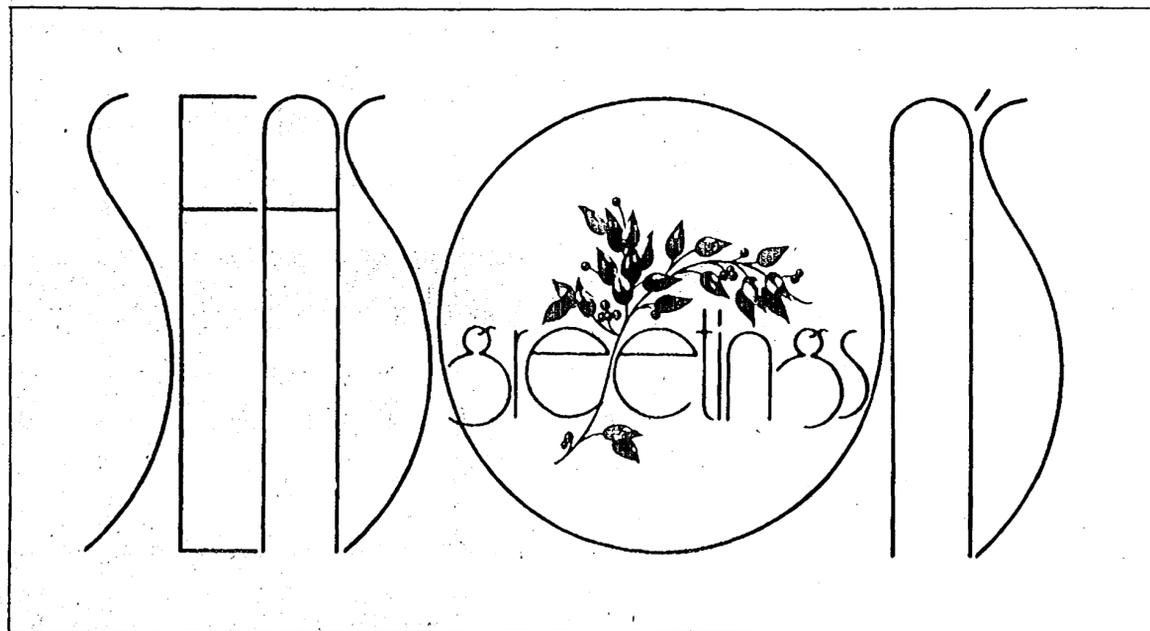

Lutheran Child & Family Service Auxillary of Michigan supports Lutheran Child & Family Services, which provides adoption services and services for foster and needy children. Call Mrs. Pat Slocum, 647-0138.

Leukemia, Research, Life Inc., P.O. Box 32783, Detroit, 48232-2783, is a non-profit organization dedicated to the elimination of all childhood cancers. Money supports research projects at Children's Hospital of Michigan. Several styles are available. Call Children's Hospital, 745-5375; or Ann Miller, Redford, 532-3064; or Melanie Henry, Garden City, 421-7402.

There's been a change in Medicare claims

In one of my October columns I gave a reader information concerning the Michigan Peer Review Organization.

This is a non-profit agency that can review the care Medicare recipients receive at hospitals, out-patient areas, ambulatory surgery centers, skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies, and health maintenance organizations.

Inadvertently the toll free number for the Michigan Peer Review Organization was omitted. The number is 1-800-365-5899.

You can call 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, should you feel there is any question about the caliber of care given by the above medical facilities. I apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

unless the doctor or service provider accepts the Medicare approved charge as the total charge. Starting in September, however, the doctor or service provider had to send in the claim even if they don't accept the Medicare approved charge as the total charge.

It is important to remember that the service provider cannot charge you for preparing and submitting the Medicare claim. If the provider refuses to prepare and submit the Medicare claim or charges a fee for doing so, you should contact your Medicare carrier.

Q. I am a nursing assistant in a very nice nursing home. Nursing assistants have been getting some very bad publicity lately and most of us are very caring, devoted people. If we weren't we wouldn't be going the work we do for the wages we make. Can you tell people that we do a good job and we do care about our patients?

on aging

A. Taking care of nursing home residents can often be one of the most difficult jobs. Working in a nursing facility as I do, I am quite aware that aides or assistants have a multitude of responsibilities to each of their assigned residents.

It can be a backbreaking as well as heartbreaking job, and it is often a thankless job. It requires a great deal of patience and compassion.

We hear of the occasional patient abuse, but few people realize the abuse staff may endure. It is not unusual for staff to be not only verbally abused by residents but physically abused as well, and that includes hitting, biting, kicking, spitting and having things thrown at them. Yet the resident is treated with dignity and respect by the nursing assistant.

I have seen and experienced these abuses myself, and I have also seen the nursing assistant, who is not allowed to defend him or herself, respond with kindness and often humor.

I have great respect for nursing assistants. They are the ones who feed, bathe, clothe, change diapers and provide companionship for nursing home residents on a daily basis.

It is a hard profession and one worthy, in the most part, of our praise and gratitude.

Renee Mahler is a gerontologist and the Director of Communications and Admissions at a Rochester Hills nursing facility. Send your questions to her at Observer & Eccentric, 805 East maple, Birmingham, MI 48009.

Q. I am confused about who is supposed to submit Medicare claims.

A. Anyone who has Medicare medical insurance (Part B) should know about the change in the way claims are to be submitted. Beginning Sept. 1, 1990, the Medicare medical insurance claims must be prepared and submitted by the service provider, which is the doctor, medical supply company, laboratory or any other party giving the service.

In the past, Medicare beneficiaries had to submit form 1490S, which was the Patient's Request for Medicare, Foreign study program set

Applications are now being accepted from Michigan college students interested in a year's study at the Japan Center for Michigan Universities in Hikone, Shiga Prefecture, Japan.

The center, established in 1988 near Lake Biwa in central Japan, is governed by a consortium of Michigan's 15 public universities. Applicants from Michigan public universities here receive priority consideration. Those attending private institutions are eligible on a space available basis.

The program, staffed by U.S. citizens, includes two semesters of study. Students earn 26 total academic hours in course work focusing on Japanese language and culture.

Cost is $18,706 and includes airfare, housing, food and tuition. Thirty-six scholarships of $7,500 each are available and students may also apply for financial aid.

For more information, call World College, 487-2414, or Academic Programs Abroad, 487-2424.

Please Help A Neighbor's Child In Need!

In Third World countries, hundreds of thousands of children are in desperate need of food, clothing, medical care — the basics of life. These girls and boys are even denied the opportunity to attend school. They are our neighbors in a world that grows smaller every day.

Through CCF, you can sponsor a neighbor's child. The cost is $18 a month — just 60¢ a day — to help a poor child in Asia, Africa or Latin America — a child who has virtually nothing.

Please pick up your phone now and dial the toll-free number below. Be a good neighbor by helping an innocent child.

Churchill rolls into soccer final

By Steve Kowalski

SOCCER

Livonia Churchill and Warren DeLaSalle met earlier this year in a scrimmage game.

This time it's for the hardware. Churchill assured itself of a berth in Saturday's Class A boys soccer final with a 2-1 semifinal win Wednesday over Portage Central at Okemos High School.

The Chargers, who have never won a boys soccer championship, will meet No. 1-ranked DeLaSalle for the championship at 3 p.m. Saturday at Bloomfield Hills Andover. DeLaSalle blanked Traverse City, 8-0, in the other semifinal played Wednesday.

This marks the first time Churchill coach Mark Mason has taken any high school team to the final round.

"Three years ago a high school team I had in Nebraska got knocked out in the semifinals, so I'm glad we've made it past the plateau," said Mason, the first-year coach.

PLAYING IN un-seasonably cold weather, the Chargers opened up a 2-0 lead 15 minutes into the second half and held on to improve their overall record to 17-1-2. Portage Central, which beat Okemos 2-1, in a regional final, fell to 15-4-1 overall.

Eric Sharmberger and Mike Gentile scored one goal each for Churchill. Sharmberger gave the Chargers the first lead, when he headed in a corner kick by Tim Riley with about 10 minutes remaining before half-time.

Gentile raised the lead to 2-0 when he stole the ball from Portage Central's Tyler Williams and put it in the net behind goalkeeper Matt Boersma.

"Tyler slipped," Central coach Pat Norman said. "He had been making tackle, after tackle, after tackle. We had him down for 20 tackles in the game. It's a freaky thing."

Gentile (22 goals), Dario Rauker (18) and Dominic Vella (17), have combined to score 77 percent of the team's goals.

BRENDAN NORMAN scored Central's only goal about five minutes after Gentile's tally, deflecting a free kick past Churchill goalkeeper Jeff Cassar. There were a few anxious moments afterward for the Chargers, but they managed to keep Central from capitalizing in front of their net.

Three yellow cards (two to Central) were handed out in the second half when the intensity level seemed to pick up.

Churchill employed a 3-5-2 alignment in the second half instead of a 3-4-3, because of the wider field. It enabled the midfielders to help Scott Lamphear, Riley and Laun Johnson to defend the lead better, Mason said.

"Mason sure is good with the lead," Norman said. "They have good ball control."

As for DeLaSalle, the Pilots are 23-1 overall and led by senior forward Brian Maisonneuve (sometimes called 'Amalsonneuve' by teammates because of his amazing moves). Maisonneuve and teammate Tim Hardy had two goals each in the Pilots' semifinal win.

THE CHARGERS beat DeLaSalle, 1-0, last month, in the scrimmage game, but previous records don't matter.

"They have a lot of seniors and I know their pride level will be high," Mason said. "We only have a couple of seniors (Johnson, Riley, Aaron Sawicky and Sharmberger). Overall, I think we have more skill, but we have to make sure we're up for the game."

Sawicky, who has been hampered by a calf injury the last half of the season, will be assigned to mark Maisonneuve.

"We were on the state team together, and we know each other's moves, so it should be pretty interesting," Sawicky said. "This feels great but we have to be up for that one."

Dream merchant

Rockers owner fulfills fantasy

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

PAUL SCICLUNA was working inside one of his flower shops years ago when he gave chase to a thief who was half his age and twice his size.

An obvious mismatch, but Scicluna — all 5-foot-4, 130 pounds of him — was ready for the challenge.

"I was delivering flowers for Paul and some big high school kid who looked like a football player stole the Lions Club charity jar off the counter," recalls Jim Duggan, a Livonia native. "Paul chased him down the sidewalk, through the parking lot and tackled him."

"Paul picked up the money, and said, 'You can steal from me, but don't ever steal from the Lions Club.' I thought, 'I can work for a guy like that.'"

Most guys would have been better off calling 911. Not Scicluna, a fleshy type who never turns down a

His latest is to build the Detroit Rockers, the newest entry in the National Professional Soccer League. Part owner and president of the Rockers, Scicluna has followed an unusual, almost unbelievable script, in becoming one of Observerland's more successful businessmen and soccer coaches.

A Livonia resident since 1972, Scicluna was born 49 years ago on Malta, an island located south of Italy in the Mediterranean Sea. One of 13 children, Scicluna came to Detroit in 1955 with his father Joseph and older brother Eddie.

Although he never earned a high school diploma, Scicluna taught himself to read and write the English language, spent two years in the service, has owned three flower shops, raised a family, helped start the Livonia YMCA Soccer Program and has coached several state and national youth soccer champion teams.

And now he is president of his own professional soccer team. Long-time business partners Brian Tinnion and Gus Mofat are other Rockers owners.

The three also have owned the four Total Soccer Indoor complexes in Greater Detroit since the early '80s.

"We used to talk about this (someday owning a team) in Paul's living room when I was in high school," says Duggan, who now works for Scicluna as the Rockers Chief Executive Officer. "Paul never does anything with an ulterior motive. He does things because he thinks they're right and he believes in them."

Although he still refers to Malta as "our country," he hasn't returned to the island since he left it 35 years ago. The rest of his family followed a short time later.

"I am Maltese, have Maltese blood and I will die Maltese," says Scicluna. "But yet, who is Paul Scicluna? He is a hard-working American and he's been an American since about the third day he stepped into this country."

SHARON LOMIEUX/staff photographer

Paul Scicluna of Livonia has realized his dream as he is a partner in Detroit's newest sports franchise, the Detroit Rockers pro indoor soccer team.

RU 5th in Class A; Spartans (23rd) lag

Holly snuck up on everyone else, while Redford Union finished about where it expected Saturday in the Class A girls cross country state meet at the University of Michigan Golf Course.

Holly placed first with 146 points, followed by Ann Arbor Pioneer in second place, 152; Millford, 153; Traverse City, 169; and RU, 230. For the rest of the results, please see 6D.

RU coach Bob Ouellette said prior to the meet he expected Traverse City and Pioneer to battle for the top spot, but he wasn't stunned by Holly's title.

The unseasonably warm weather made it tough on all the runners, with about 15 having to drop out of the race because of fatigue.

"Holly coach Duane Raffin is a 30 year coach, so I'm not surprised they won it with him coaching," Ouellette said. "Duane is a good coach so you can't count out Holly. Don't bet against him."

"FIFTH PLACE wasn't what we were shooting for, but that's what we were. We ran the best we could that day. The conditions were strange and I don't remember a state meet being warmer. About the two-mile mark people started going down because the first mile they went out real hard. There were three or four real tough hills and it really took a lot out of them."

Three seniors led the way for RU. Tracey James placed 23rd overall in the team standings finishing the course in 20 minutes, 42.08 seconds. Michelle Daraban was 40th (21:14.34) and Melissa Still took 47th (21:24.20). Junior Jennifer Sturdevant was 52nd (21:29.57) and Kelly Murray took 68th (21:47.71). Senior Lizza Mockeridge, finishing an injury plagued season, took 88th (22:12.35).

Livonia Stevenson, the champion of the Western Lakes Activities Association, finished a disappointing 23rd in the team standings with 472 points. Sophomore Stacy Prais was 29th (21:00.11) and Ann Koritnik, another sophomore, took 43rd (21:15.81), but the next best time came from Junior Becky Adamczyk, in 115th place (22:52.73).

Unfortunately, for the Spartans, No. 3 girl Carrie Creehan had to leave the race without finishing.

"SHE WAS totally dehydrated," coach Paul Holmberg said. "She spent more than an hour on the training table. It was pretty scary. The physicians did a nice job. I haven't been to a state meet where there was such good medical facilities and I've never been to a state meet where there was so much need for medical facilities. Every time I looked around, someone was falling down."

In the individual standings, Livonia Ladywood's Mallia Dixon had the area's best finish, as the Blazers sophomore took 15th (20:27.02).

Another runner, Livonia Franklin's Stacy Hewett, took 32nd (21:10.22).

"She was real competitive and she's been that way the whole season," Franklin coach Sue Tatigian said. "She's real gutsy."

CLASS A BOYS

No area boys teams qualified, but RU's Ken Podina placed 22nd (16:58.9) in the individual race.

Redford Catholic Central's Jon Borke took 31st place (17:08.68).

CLASS C

Lutheran Westland runners Jennifer Gerlach and Lisa Shafer represented the Warriors well, placing 15th (20:21) and 21st (21:00), respectively in the individual race.

CC leery of Canton QB

By Brad Emons

football

Massillon, Ohio is the home of power football — rock'em, knock'em down, sock'em style.

But some of coach Bob Khoenle's former high school teammates might be surprised to see his Plymouth Canton football team noted more for its finesse, hide-and-seek style, run-and-shoot antics.

One might think—Massillon is where Redford Catholic Central coach Tom Mach got his ideas. He's a downriver guy, bent on running the football until somebody stops him.

That's why Saturday's Class AA-Region II matchup — 1:30 p.m. at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium — is so intriguing. (The game will be broadcast on WSDP-88.1 FM.)

Neither coach is going to change his style at this stage of the season.

Khoenle will go with what got him here — a wide-open offensive attack mixed in with a bend, but don't break defensive philosophy.

Mach, on the other hand, will rely on a stingy defense and a conservative offensive attack, predicated on minimizing mistakes and eating up the clock.

"I GOT THE PASSING stuff when I was at Purdue," said Khoenle, whose team is 9-1 overall. "They knew how to throw the football a little bit."

"We don't have the big 230-pound linemen, so you have to go with the abilities of your talent. It's the only way we've gotten to this point. You have to survive to win."

When you think of Canton's team, you think of quarterback Karl Wukie, a dashing and daring sort who does a little bit of everything.

"The first thing you think of is the efficiency of their quarterback," said Mach, whose team is 8-2. "Also the pressure that their passing game puts on the defense. They're pretty wide open. He's a good thrower and he has some good receivers and two good backs."

"He runs the club real well it seems. He's always a danger when he's running because he can throw the ball at any time. He puts pressure on your defense because you don't know what's coming next. This might be the toughest team we've faced up to this point because of the variety of things they do."

Wukie is an innovator, a student of the game and fearless, according to Khoenle.

"I'm going to miss him, he's been my quarterback for three years," Khoenle said. "He's an extrovert, very opinionated. We get in agruments sometimes, but I listen to him. He changes plays at the line of scrimmage, but most of the time it works out. He's quite a character, some people perceive him as a hot-dog, but he's very emotional, a different type of person."

WHILE MACH frets about Wukie having his way, Khoenle worries about CC's defense.

"They're very solid and they have good people on defense, that's what sticks out," said the Canton coach. "What bothers me is their offense against our defense. And if the weather becomes a factor, that concerns me."

"If you face a team that runs a lot, then the pass even become more of a factor. They're basically a running team and they know they can move the ball. They're not going to change much at this stage. We've just got to get tougher this week. You don't care you how big they are, but you just got to be tougher against a bigger and stronger team."

Khoenle also worries about CC's big offensive line running over his 170-pound tackles and 150-pound linebackers.

"Our guys have done a good job," Khoenle said. "We have a stunting defense that is based on quickness, but sometimes it works against you. If you stunt too much, you get caught."

Linebacker Josh Walaskay typifies Canton's defense. He's only 5-10, 165 pounds.

"He's consistent and fits into our mold, he's done a good job," Khoenle said.

CC ALSO has some unsung heroes.

Fullback Jon Barbara, a 6-1, 215-pound bruising fullback came into his own in CC's 32-0 mid-season win over rival Birmingham Brother Rice. He complements tailback Arshon Stewart well in the backfield. The speedy Stewart has filled in effectively for the injured Mike Thomas, who may be available this week.

But Mach points out that Gary Stegall, a blocking back, is a valuable piece to the backfield puzzle.

"He doesn't carry it up, but he does a tremendous job of opening holes," said the CC coach.

One of CC's unsung heroes on defense has been end Dave Dominick, a 6-foot, 200-pound senior.

"He's been a steady player, he's really helped make our defense solid," Mach said. "He didn't make all-league, but he's improved tremendously, and I think he's as good as any defensive end around."

Khoenle calls CC "the best team we've faced up to this point."

"It's going to be quite a challenge," said the Canton coach. "Our offense is the key to having a good defense. We've got to put points on the board and I'd like to think our defense can contribute to this team, and that they can play. My biggest concern is our defense against their offense."

AND CC'S OFFENSE will remain basic and has made strides since losing to Detroit King and Detroit DePorres.

"We're playing our brand of football more, which is running right at you and making you stop us," Mach said. "We have to control the tempo of the game. That's the way we've been successful. Running the ball has been our brand over the years."

Perhaps one ace up CC's sleeve is Saturday's site — Wisner — a stadium where the Shamrocks have enjoyed immense success over the years.

Despite two western Suburban teams playing 25 miles to the north, CC opted for Wisner — possibly as a good luck charm.

"It's a great high school atmosphere, it's a small stadium and you get a great feeling," Mach said. "I like the atmosphere."

Khoenle, meanwhile, suggested another site.

"I was thinking of someplace closer," he said. "I thought maybe Ypsilanti High. I don't know how we came up with that, but it really doesn't matter. We have to play somewhere."

Maybe CC should play someday in Massillon.

STATE CUP SWEEP

The Livonia Y's Michigan Hawks girls soccer teams made it a clean sweep of the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association state cup championships Oct. 27 at Jaycee Park in Livonia.

All members of the Livonia YMCA Premier Soccer Club and affiliated with the Livonia Premier Soccer League, the Hawks swept the under-19, -17 and -16 age-group titles.

The '73 Hawks defeated Kalamazoo TKO, 4-0, while the '74 Hawks unloaded on the Lansing Capitol Area Soccer League Cosmos, 7-0.

The '75 Michigan Hawks clinched their division with a 3-1 triumph over the East Detroit Express.

All three Hawks teams will travel next July to compete in the Midwest Region II Championships in Sioux Falls, S.D. The nationals will be in Omaha, Neb.

SOCCER CHAMPS

The Livonia Jets, an under-11 boys

All the marbles Franklin romps to gain WLAA final

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Election night provided a mild surprise on the hardwood Tuesday in the semifinals of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs.

Livonia Franklin avenged a loss at home earlier in the season to Plymouth Canton, beating the host Chiefs on their own floor by a surprising count, 54-41.

The win puts the Patriots (16-3) into their first-ever WLAA championship (7 p.m. Saturday at Northville) against Plymouth Salem (16-3), which held off Northville in the other semifinal Tuesday, 45-37.

Franklin junior guard Dawn Warner, held without a field goal in a 46-40 defeat against the Chiefs in a key WLAA matchup last month, bounced back with another strong playoff effort, leading all scorers with a game-high 29 points.

Coming off a 40-point showing last week against Walled Lake Central, Warner hit seven of 12 shots from the floor, including a pair of three-pointers. She also made 13 of 16 free throws.

"They (Canton) had some good defensive players on her and the last time they did a nice job of shutting her down," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "The last time Dawn did not work hard without the ball, but this time she moved well without the ball. She played over some heavy contact, she came off the floor one time with blood dripping down her face after catching an elbow. She got banged around, but played over some heavy contact. They had a hand in her face almost every shot."

BUT WARNER was not the only factor in the Franklin win.

Junior point-guard Patty Shea played a strong game, finishing with nine points, while senior forward Julianne Stesiak added eight points.

"People just can't key on Dawn," said the Franklin coach. "Patty can shoot the ball, but she understands her role. And with Julianne, we have three pretty good perimeter players."

Another factor in the Patriots' win was the play of senior center Jenny Mayle, who despite fouling out midway through the fourth quarter and scoring only three points, helped keep Canton's sophomore center Stephanie Gray under wraps.

Gray, who had been on a roll of late, was limited to seven points.

"This game was won by defense," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "Gray hurt us, and we didn't do a good job against her the last time."

Franklin freshman coach Mary Kay McNall-Whalen, the former 6-foot-3 Franklin All-Stater who played at Michigan State and the University of Detroit, assumed Gray's role in practice during the week.

"We had Mary Kay worked against Jenny," Freeman said. "Mary Kay worked her hard. Basically we felt that we wanted Gray to work hard."

WARNER opened the game by scoring a layup and converting a free throw after getting fouled for a three-point play.

The Patriots led 11-6 with 2:32 in the opening quarter after a 16-foot jumper by Shea, but Canton took a 12-11 lead at the end of the period on a shot inside by Julie Nicastro.

"I thought we came back in that first quarter and played some solid basketball," said Canton coach Bob Blohm, whose team slipped to 12-7 overall. "The feeling was that we got some good shots and our intensity was good."

"But the second quarter was tough on us."

The second quarter, where Canton was outscored 13-4, proved painful, as well as the third period when Franklin opened up a 43-19 lead.

Behind eight points from Amy Westerhold, Canton mounted a mild rally in the final period. The Chiefs pulled within nine, 48-39, with 1:16 left on a basket by Mary Barna, but it was simply too little, too late.

(Britta Anderson paced the Chiefs with 10 points.)

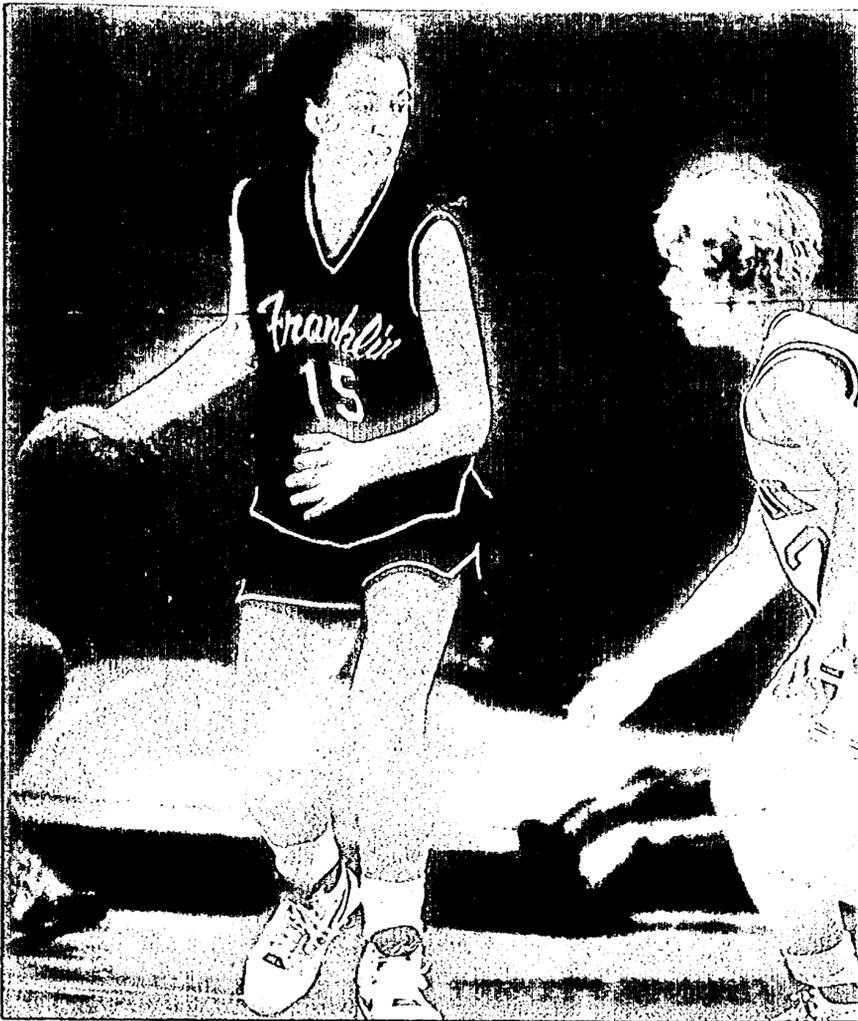

"The game became a thing where we started to play in a big hurry, and then we seemed to be out of sync," said Blohm. "Credit Franklin's defense. Shea did a nice job on Barna."

"They also got the ball to Dawn on time. She sent an early message that she was ready to play, but her teammates also set some great screens for her."

THE YOUNG CHIEFS, who fell to 12-7 overall, will play at 5 p.m. Saturday against host Northville for third place in the WLAA.

"It was a big game (against Franklin) because it was a semifinal, there was some pressure," Blohm said. "Franklin handled the pressure better than our young kids did, but you can't fault the effort. The execution just wasn't there. But they'll hang in and bounce back."

Franklin now has a chance to avenge another (overtime) loss earlier against Salem in Saturday's championships.

Late basket saves Lutheran Westland girls, 51-49

Senior forward Christy Pydyn's steal and free throws with seven seconds left helped push host Lutheran High Westland past Dearborn Heights Annapolis, 51-49, in a non-league girls basketball matchup.

Lutheran Westland, which improved to 14-5 overall, outscored the Cougars 15-11 in the fourth quarter.

Senior guard Stephanie Locke scored 10 of her game-high 29 points in the fourth quarter. She also grabbed 10 rebounds.

Forward Michelle Huczek scored 11 points for Annapolis, which dropped to 8-11.

"We came out and played very flat," Westland Lutheran Coach Kim Melton said. "We took them lightly. They tried a box-and-one on Stephanie, but when she had the ball they were in trouble."

STEVENSON 53, N. FARMINGTON 40: Junior forward Teresa Sarno scored 15 of her team-high 19 points in the second half Tuesday as host Livonia Stevenson defeated North Farmington.

Sophomore guard Lori Shingledecker scored 12 points and senior guard Jenny Audet added eight for the Spartans, who improved to 11-8 overall.

Senior guard Eve Claar connected on three 3-pointers and was 10-for-12 at the free throw line to lead all scorers with 17 points. She tallied 17 of those points in the second half.

North Farmington is 8-11.

"We've played several close games in the past and we've lost," Livonia Stevenson Coach Chuch Hebestreit said. "It was nice to put 53 points on the board and win."

"We had Patty Diamond guarding Eve (Claar) when she didn't have the ball and we doubled her when she did get the ball. The third quarter (when she scored 12 points) took a toll on her."

CHURCHILL 41, JOHN GLENN 39: Sophomore guard Chrissy Daly scored 18 points and senior guard Lori Place added nine points and seven assists Tuesday, powering host Livonia Churchill over Westland John Glenn.

Junior center Cathy Mruk led John Glenn, which is 7-12, with 15 points. Senior forward Karen Olack contributed eight points.

Churchill, which improved to 9-10, hung on despite being outscored 11-4 in the fourth quarter.

HURON VALLEY 50, SCHOOL OF DEAF 43: On Tuesday, host Huron Valley Lutheran of Westland beat the host Michigan School for the Deaf.

Junior guard Nancy List led Huron Valley and all scorers with 26 points. Sandy Dengel added eight points and 11 rebounds.

Kim Springs scored 14 points and Yoniko Boyd scored 13 points for Michigan School for the Deaf.

On Monday, Huron Valley defeated host Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian, 48-31, as Brenda Mayworm and List tallied 12 points apiece. Sandy Dengel added eight points and 14 rebounds.

The Hawks outscored Fairlane 15-6 in the third quarter.

"We were flat," Huron Valley Coach Harvey Kightlinger said. "I expected it (because) we played Friday, Monday and Tuesday."

WAYNE 50, SOUTHGATE 44: Senior guard Lotten Holmgren had 17 points and eight rebounds and sophomore forward Maggie Colligan scored 10 points Tuesday as Wayne Memorial defeated host Southgate Anderson.

Wayne, which improved to 5-13 overall, opened with a 16-3 first quarter and held off a Southgate second half rally.

Southgate dropped to 3-13 overall.

Wayne will host Monroe on Thursday before state tournament play begins on Monday.

LUTHERAN WEST 55, CLARENCEVILLE 21: On Tuesday, host Lutheran West jumped on Livonia Clarenceville 19-2 in the first quarter and rolled to an easy win.

Lutheran West, which is 8-8, led 29-7 at the half.

Clarenceville (2-14) was led by senior guard Rhonda Saunders with nine points.

Yvonne Hall scored 16 points and Trudi Walker added 11 points for Lutheran West.

Scicluna realizes dream

GIVE ME FREEDOM, NOT SHELTER

Scicluna spent the first seven years of his life in a shelter in Malta with his 10 brothers, two sisters and parents Joseph and Josephine. Since only the head of the family worked in Malta, the Sciclunas survived on their father's $18 a week job as a marble sculpturer and polisher.

The Sciclunas didn't have electricity until 1953.

"Anyone who had more than one pair of shoes, one dress of clothes and more than one meal a day was considered well-to-do," recalls Scicluna. "Life was dictated. If you were born poor, you die poor. There was no middle class."

As for his one meal a day? "We started out Monday with boiled spaghetti and margarine," says Scicluna. "On Tuesday we'd have spaghetti with tomato sauce; on Wednesday we'd have spaghetti with butter and vegetable oil."

"Thursday was leftover day. By this time, maybe our chicken would have laid an egg and my mom would mix it with our leftover spaghetti and we'd have a spaghetti omelette."

Meat was so scarce he remembers eating it only about once a month.

"Here you get your bunnies on Easter," Scicluna said. "In our country you eat them."

Raised in a strict Catholic family, Scicluna remembers skipping mass on occasion to play soccer with his brothers and other friends. Come to think of it, Scicluna played soccer in place of almost anything.

If his parents got word of it, punishment was in the form of a beating, or chores around the house. Scicluna doesn't regret the beating since it was the custom in Malta.

"I didn't go a week without a beating," Scicluna said. "I didn't say, 'Go ahead and beat me more.' But since I loved the game so much, it was worth getting beat."

As for the chores, his mother sometimes made him do the cooking and laundry.

"They always had to keep me occupied," recalls Scicluna. "I could cook, do the laundry and write our (Maltese) language. It's the only reason my mother sent me over (to the states) earlier than most of my family."

A NEW BEGINNING

On July 16, 1955, Paul, his brother Eddie and their father got a visa and settled into a Detroit apartment on 910 West Kirby Ave., which is where the Wayne State University football stadium stands today.

"The first day I was too busy being scared to death," he says. "The second day my brother and dad went to work, and the third day I took off for a walk and enjoyed it so much, I got lost."

"It was late at night and a police officer saw me. I didn't know English, but I assume he said 'What are you doing out here this late?' I pulled out a piece of paper in my pocket with my address on it. I wasn't educated, but I wasn't dumb."

Scicluna found his way home and a few days later found a job at the Kay Danzer Flower Shop located in the Book Cadillac Hotel in downtown Detroit. Scicluna made only 50 cents an hour, 70 hours a week as head mopper.

He attended Western High School in Detroit for awhile but dropped out.

"I (basically) was self-taught," he says. "I learned to read and write in six months. I wasn't going to be a poet, but I got by."

His first love was the flower shop. "I saw a different style of life," he says. "Big cars, superstars. I got to pin corsages on Jacquelyn Kennedy, Betty Davis, boutonnières on the Nixons, Kennedys. After five or six years, I loved it."

By 1957, when most of his brothers arrived in Detroit, Scicluna and Gordon Preston formed the first youth soccer league in the country. Scicluna's team was called the Maltese Falcons, which had nine Sciclunas on it.

Soccer players got weird stares in those days.

"Whenever I had a bad day, I'd just grab the old round ball and bounce it on my head and I was happy again," Scicluna said. "People around here thought I was crazy."

PRIVATE SCICLUNA

Scicluna's first major disappointment in the U.S. didn't come until Nov. 19, 1963, when he was drafted.

"My brothers told me, 'Don't worry, they're not going to draft you, you're too small,'" Scicluna said. "Sure enough, the little runt got drafted."

So it was off to Fort Knox, Ky., where he stayed two years. And wouldn't you know it, "It was the best experience of my life," he said.

"For the first time, I knew what a southerner was. I'd talk to people,

'What I like most about him is his desire and determination to win. Maybe that's why he and I hit it off.'

on Paul Scicluna

visit places, and realized every country had poor people. I visited a guy who lived in the Appalachian Mountains. My country was very poor, but very clean. I could not say that about Appalachia."

When Scicluna was discharged, he returned to his job at Kay Danzer and in time was in charge of dispatch. In 1966, he married wife Sandra and by 1969 the two purchased a flower shop in Livonia.

Scicluna opened two more flower shops in the area and with them flourishing, he helped start the Livonia YMCA Youth Soccer League in 1974 along with David Lussler, Louie Zeches and Norene Divens. There were 13 teams in the opening season and by 1979 the league had grown to more than 200.

Scicluna also has had stints coaching both Livonia Bentley and Redford Catholic Central and in the early '80s opened the Total Soccer facilities in Farmington Hills, Royal Oak, St. Clair Shores and Southfield.

One of his club teams, which included his son Eric, won a national championship in 1982.

"He spends all his time on the soccer field," Sandra Scicluna said. "It's almost like we loan him out. He always said he wanted to own his own team so we're excited for him."

The sudden death in 1984 of their 8-year-old son, Brian, devastated the Scicluna family and Paul said he might not have recovered were it not for soccer.

"All I can tell you is it was the roughest time of my life," Paul said, fighting back tears. "That's why this game helps me in more ways than one. I've been blessed at being able to do what I want to do — teaching and coaching kids how to play. I'm for the kids."

DREAM BECOMES REALITY

It is Tuesday, a week prior to the Rockers' season opener in New York and Scicluna is watching the team practice at the Total Soccer West Complex in Farmington Hills. He spots Claire Tuite, one of the maintenance workers, who is sweeping the floor and getting the arena ready for another night of youth indoor games.

Scicluna tells her — to the surprise of a reporter — that he swept the day before.

"Oh yeah," Tuite said. "He gets on his hands and knees and isn't afraid to get dirty."

"The day I feel I can't sweep or pick up cigarette butts — that's the day Scicluna really retires," he says.

Practice ends and Scicluna runs into Drago, one of the Rockers star players, who is coming off a recent hand injury.

The two shake each other's hand.

"I see your hands all right, because you're squeezing again," Scicluna says to Drago.

"The two share a laugh. "Drago is magic," Scicluna says. "What I like most about him is his desire and determination to win. Maybe that's why he and I hit it off great."

"To me, they're all my family. As long as you show sincerity and loyalty."

Drago, the Most Valuable Player of the league's all-star game last year held at Joe Louis Arena, became a free agent and signed during the summer with the Rockers. The two met at the all-star game and became instant friends.

"There's one reason I came to Detroit and that's Paul," said Drago. "He's definitely a different kind of owner. He's a player's owner. Every single second — not day — he's there for you to call him if you need his help. He has all the respect as an owner, but he's also a friend."

The Rockers home opener is at 7:35 p.m. Saturday against the Milwaukee Wave at Cobo Arena. Scicluna compares it to the first time he opened his doors of his first flower shop in Livonia.

"This is unbelievable," Scicluna said. "It's not a dream, it's really happening. It's like running a flower shop. If I give people good service and their money's worth and treat them fair, things will work out."

"When I play, work or want something done, I feel I'm six feet tall."

'I think it shows there's a tremendous soccer fan base in Detroit. This is the ultimate challenge, that's for sure.'

— Jim Duggan
Rockers CEO

Rockers use local flavor

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Jim Duggan, the chief executive officer of the Detroit Rockers professional indoor soccer team, hasn't had dreams about Saturday's home opener against the Milwaukee Wave.

Why not? "I don't sleep," said Duggan, 29, a Livonia native who graduated from Redford Catholic Central.

Duggan's exaggerating, of course. But he's not kidding about spending 12 hours a day at the Rockers office on Eight Mile Road and Newburgh in Livonia.

All the work put in by the Rockers staff seems to be paying off. Duggan said the Rockers have sold about 800 season tickets, which ranks the organization second in the National Professional Soccer League.

He expects about 5,000 fans to attend the season opener, which begins at 7:35 p.m. Saturday at Cobo Arena.

"No team has ever done that in their first year," said Duggan, who graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in psychology. "I think it shows there's a tremendous soccer fan base in Detroit. This is the ultimate challenge, that's for sure. Between (public relations director) Ian Parratt and (financial director) Janet Stecher, they've laid some incredible ground work for a foundation."

FREE ROCKERS posters will be handed out at the season opener to the first 3,000 youngsters under 16, Duggan said. WDFX's morning crew of Savage and Steve will do the announcing, and Wide Angle, a band out of Livonia, will be the halftime entertainment, he said.

Among the attractions on the field are Drago, the Yugoslavian native who set an NPSL record last year with 167 points, and Andy Chapman, a former star player with the Detroit Express outdoor team. Also on the roster is goalkeeper Chris Moore, of Livonia, who starred at Redford Catholic Central and Schoolcraft College.

The team is owned by Livonia resident Paul Scicluna (president), Gus Moffat (general manager) and Brian Tinnion (head coach).

"The management this time is a little more flexible (than the Express)," said Chapman, 31, who played last year with the Wichita Wings of the Major Indoor Soccer League. "It seems years ago, the owners were soccer people who knew nothing about business or business people who know nothing about soccer. Now we've got both knowledges. Paul is the type of person who if he wants something bad enough he'll get it. And he wants to surround himself with people who want the same things."

SC favorite in Region 12

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

Schoolcraft College's volleyball team entered the Region 12 tournament as the underdog a year ago.

The Lady Ocelots emerged with a perfect record, failing to lose even one game in winning the title and advancing to the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament.

SC won't go into this year's 16-team regional tournament, which it hosts this weekend, with anyone seeded ahead of it, and it will be looking for similar results: a victory and a berth in the NJCAA tournament, which starts Nov. 19 at Miami Dade-South.

"I know we're favored," said SC coach Tom Teeters. "But once you get here everything starts over."

"One of the things we let them know is that it doesn't matter how many times you've beaten somebody before. A win now and you go on. And everyone is shooting for you."

OTHERS HAVE been aiming at SC this season, though, and only one junior college team — Jefferson County (Mo.) — has managed to beat the Lady Ocelots. Which can only serve them well.

"They know what they have to do to go on," said Teeters of his team. "And they've been on an upswing, too."

Those who have particularly impressed Teeters lately are Angelle Love and Renea Bonser. "Love is really hitting well," the SC coach said. "And we've had great improvement from Renea Bonser. Those two have established our middle attack, which has helped our outside attack play consistent all year."

Few teams have been able to decipher the Lady Ocelots this season, but Teeters remains cautious. Of his challengers, he ranks "Lansing, definitely. And I think Mott. Also, I don't think Oakland's a bad team."

One nice advantage is the brackets. SC will only have to face either Lansing CC, Lake Michigan or Southwestern Michigan — not all three. "Those three will knock each other off," said Teeters.

And that is definitely an advantage.

SC WARMED UP for the regional by thrashing the University of Windsor 15-5, 15-5, 15-5 Tuesday at SC. The win left the Lady Ocelots with a final regular-season match record of 36-3.

Elena Oparka paced the attack with nine kills. Kari Domanski had six and Love finished with five — with all hers coming in the second game. Setter Jennifer Sproul had 22 assists to kills, three kills, one solo block and one block assist.

Bonser totaled two solo blocks and three block assists, and Lisa Domke and Stephanie Jandasek added three service aces apiece.

The region tournament begins with three matches at 6 p.m. Thursday. Three more will follow at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. SC has a first-round bye, so does Lansing CC.

SC's first match will be at 11 a.m. Friday, against the winner of Thursday's OCC-Henry Ford CC match. Matches will continue throughout Friday; the two bracket winners in the double-elimination tournament will meet at 10 a.m. Saturday, with the loser dropping into the losers' bracket. The final round of play will start at 2 p.m. Saturday.

S'craft men's cagers formidable

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

Everything's looking bright for Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team — at least for now.

The start of the season always brings hope for the Ocelots. It's at the January semester break, after first-semester grades are announced, that everything falls apart.

But SC coach Dave Bogataj remains staunchly optimistic. He has 12 players on his roster, including sophomore Randy Watters, a second-team all-Eastern Conference selection last season. And he's certain they'll make both the playing grade and academic grades necessary to make this season successful.

Improvements on last season's team, which finished 11-20 overall and 4-12 in the conference, are in every phase, said Bogataj. And that includes Watters.

The 6-5 scorer averaged 19 points, 8.8 rebounds and four assists a game as a freshman, making 65 percent of his two-point shots, 55 percent from three-point range and 84 percent from the free-throw line.

"HE'S VERY unselfish," said Bogataj of his star. "He shoots to score, not just to feel the ball roll off his fingers. He's really tough because of that, because he does give it up. He's physically stronger this year and has worked on his quickness."

Unlike last season, however, Watters won't be expected to carry the load himself. Bogataj thinks he has all sorts of weapons to summon.

"We have greater depth," the SC coach said. "And basketball-wise, we have some real good athletes. We're quicker and our bench is much longer."

college sports

"Last year, we lost 10 games by five points or less. I think our bench can turn that around. If we can make half of those wins, suddenly we're 500."

True, he can't be accused of overly high expectations. But reaching the break-even point is something SC hasn't managed in Bogataj's three previous seasons.

One other starter returns from last season's team, and three other sophomores join the squad. The second starter is 6-6 forward Dave Hamilton, who averaged nine points and four rebounds a game last year. Bogataj is hopeful the other sophomores — Marcus Lowe, Barry Quayle and Andy Stevens — will add maturity to his team.

LOWE, A 6-2 Westland John Glenn grad, played one season at Madonna College before the school dropped men's basketball. He'll become eligible at the semester break. Stevens, a 6-5 Plymouth Christian grad, played two years ago for SC. Quayle, a 6-6 Dearborn Fordson grad, just walked into the gym one day last summer and asked if he could play.

Bogataj has an impressive list of freshmen, too: Charles Perkins, a 6-1 point guard from Detroit Northern who plays solid defense, Jeff Wagner, a 6-2 guard from Flat Rock who possesses good quickness and sound fundamentals, Lynell Collins, a 6-3 guard from Southfield who has tremendous speed and jumping ability, Tony Flowers, another 6-3 small forward from Detroit Henry Ford who plays better inside than out.

Mitch Fyke, a 6-6 forward from Plymouth Canton who is a great leaper and scorer; Kwesi McGill, a 6-4 swingman who averaged 30 points a game and is an above average passer and defensive player; and Scott Meredith, a 6-6 forward from Northville who's tough inside.

"Our quickness (is a strength)," said Bogataj. "We're much quicker than last year, top to bottom. And we're better athletes. We have more kids who can score."

THE BIGGEST question mark is rebounding. "The board work is up in the air," the SC coach said. "It's still a question mark. We don't have that one Windex man, a guy you can say, 'Hey, he'll own (the boards).'"

Bogataj is confident his team won't be outclassed by the opposition this season, as it has been in past years. "It seems we'll be able to match up size-wise with most teams in the area," he said optimistically.

Except maybe Mott CC. And Oakland CC. Bogataj called Mott "huge. They're the biggest team in the league, with Derrick Groce." But Bogataj called OCC "the best team in the league."

However, whatever team is in first may not be that much better than the team in last place in the Eastern Conference. "The team that ends up on the bottom won't be a bad team. It's going to be a topsy-turvy league. I can't even see OCC going undefeated."

Just how well SC matches up with the front-runners won't take long to uncover. The Ocelots host OCC in their conference opener Dec. 12, then travel to Mott Dec. 15.

"We'll find out real quick how good we are," said Bogataj. And hopefully, the team will keep its academics in order long enough to make it through the season, at least.

Madonna season ends in NAIA District 23

A bit of revenge was granted Madonna College's volleyball team Saturday, but the final prize escaped the Fighting Crusaders as they lost in the NAIA District 23 finals to host-team Northwood Institute 9-15, 15-10, 15-7, 15-13.

"It was an excellent match," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham, whose team finished the season 33-18. "Actually, we played well all day long."

It showed in the district semifinals against Aquinas, a team that had beaten the Crusaders three times earlier this season. But not this time; Madonna prevailed 16-14, 15-10, 4-15, 15-9.

"Our team played great defense," added Abraham. "And our offense was good all day. (Setter) Penny Baker ran our offense to perfection."

"It's been a great season. For a young team (no seniors), we've come a long way."

Madonna finished third, behind

Northwood and Aquinas, in the district regular-season standings.

Dana Hicks led the Crusader attackers with 27 kills in the two matches. Tonia Smith added 19 kills and 16 digs, Stacey Girard and Kristy McPadden had 17 kills apiece, Melissa Mars got 11 kills and Jenny Sladewski totalled 18 digs.

PAL results lift Diffanbaugh

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Don't accuse Rob Diffanbaugh of being a juggler, but life gets a little complicated when you're balancing three different careers.

There's Rob Diffanbaugh, the Schoolcraft College student. Or how about Rob Diffanbaugh, the baseball card collector who works in a coin shop?

"By the way," Diffanbaugh said. "A Cecil Fielder card goes for about $8."

And finally there's Rob Diffanbaugh, the boxer, who recently returned from the National Police Athletic League Tournament in Jersey City, N.J., reaching the semifinals in the 147-pound open division.

The 19-year-old Livonian, a 1989 Stevenson High grad, returned home to his training base, the Livonia Boxing Club, with encouraging results.

He opened with victories over Jason Davillon of Louisiana and Bob boxing

Johnson from the upper peninsula — both decisions — before losing to 20-year-old Sean Daughtry of New York City (on a decision).

"I was very happy with his performance, considering it was his first national tournament," said LBC director Paul Soucy.

By the time he faced Daughtry, the Livonia boxer was feeling the effects of fighting three times in three days.

"I GOT OUT-POINTED and I think it was because I was worn out from the first couple of fights," Diffanbaugh said. "I couldn't lift my arms up and my shoulders were killing me."

"I went in there not knowing what to expect, but even though I lost, I'm still happy with what I did. It shows that I can go with the best. But it's tough still working and going to school."

Diffanbaugh may take next semester off from Schoolcraft to train seriously in preparation for the National Golden Gloves, which will be held in early March.

"I've got to get through Detroit (area finals) first, and if I do, I know I can compete with anyone," said the Livonian.

Diffanbaugh's next plan of attack is to hit the weights, increasing his upper body strength.

"I need to get stronger fighting and then work on my speed," he said. The Livonia boxer also has trouble finding practice opponents.

"One of my problems is that I don't have competitive sparring," Diffanbaugh said. "That's where the eyes get sharp and you see the punches coming a little better."

Rob Diffanbaugh makes PAL semifinals

RUSTINESS may have played a part in Diffanbaugh's five-round loss on Sept. 29 in Pontiac to hometown hero Gilbert Gonzales of the Azteca Club. (Gonzales has since turned pro.)

Ringmaster still thrills to action of Moscow Circus

The Moscow Circus continues through Sunday at the Palace of Auburn Hills. Tickets are available at the box office (377-8600) and all Ticketmaster outlets.

By Cathleen Collins Loo
special writer

BREATH-taking trapeze and high-wire acts, clever trained bears, horsemen hanging dangerously close to the ground near thundering hooves. Yan Narosov, ringmaster with the Moscow Circus, sees these things every day. But there is a moment in the circus that never fails to move him.

The last act of the circus is a poignant aerial ballet called "Flying Cranes," based on the story of a Soviet soldier who died in World War II — and by extension all soldiers. In the song, the spirits of the soldiers are likened to cranes soaring to the sky.

They are portrayed by 10 performers in simple white leotards who fly to the ceiling on ropes. Once there, they perform some stunning acrobatics on trapeze swings, including the rare quadruple somersault. The graceful movements, the Wagnerian score, the fog and the lighting combine with powerful effect.

"I hear that song every night, three times on Saturday and two times on Sunday," Narosov said. "I still get the goosebumps every time. It's quite a scene."

NAROSOV'S SINCERE admiration for the Moscow Circus makes him a perfect candidate for ringmaster, a job that requires lots of enthusiasm and personality. Narosov, 29, seems to have plenty of both.

"I fit the job perfectly," he said with a good-humored laugh. "I've got that kind of personality. I'm outgoing and I like people. You've got to like people."

Narosov delights in watching the audience respond to the circus. "I love to hear the oohs and ahs and laughs and 'Mommy looks!'" he said. "Last week, there was one woman who kept burying her face in her hands. I finally went up to her and said, 'Don't worry, it's not that scary. They do this every day.'"

The Moscow Circus, well into its third annual tour of the United States, has indeed been performing almost every day since June. Produced by American entertainment entrepreneur Steve Leber, it is one of more entertaining bonuses of the warmer relationship between the two countries. The circus brings to American audiences the best of a rich Soviet tradition that goes back several centuries and has become a national pastime.

Almost 100 Soviets and a dozen or so Americans and Canadians, plus assorted family members, travel with the circus in a grueling schedule that often has them appearing in a city every week. A single ring is the background for everything from bears to acrobats.

AMONG THE MOST noted acts are the endearing clown Alexander Frish, a troupe of 13 Ukrainian acrobats who tumble from teeter boards on 10-foot stilts, and Diana Kiseeva, who twirls up to 24 hula hoops. The Dyusembayev troupe demonstrates Cossack horsemanship while brandishing swords in a furious ride around the ring. And the Abakharov family does everything from the splits to multiple forward and backward flips on the high wire.

The Soviet circus is a tradition that began in the early 18th century when tumblers, dancers and performing bears traveled from town to town to perform at fairs and markets. Today, performers spend eight years training at a select circus school, then join one of 100 troupes throughout the country. Nearly 100 million Soviets attend the circus every year.

Narosov, who was born in the Soviet Union and emigrated here with his family 11 years ago, fondly recalls attending the circus about once a month as a child. "It was such a treat," he remembers. "You would get an ice cream and some roasted almonds served from these cute paper cups they made out of newspaper."

The circus re-entered Narosov's life last year when clown Sasha Frish visited Dallas, where Narosov served as Frish's interpreter, and the two found they worked well together. Narosov worked as Frish's interpreter for a while, then traveled with a couple and their bear Kensha, promoting the circus on radio shows and at shopping malls. All in all, they drove across the country six times.

Narosov was very fond of the bear, who is now taking a break back in the Soviet Union.

"She was very smart. She knew over 25 tricks," he said. "She was doing skateboarding on the beach walk in San Diego with all the rest of the kids. She was not quite as good as the rest of them, but almost."

WHEN THE CIRCUS needed a new ringmaster last month, Narosov got the job. Although he relishes his moments in the spotlight, he enjoys his many behind-the-scenes jobs as well. He helps set up and take down the circus — an enormous job — is the lighting engineer for several acts and helps tend the animals.

"I help set up and break down, and deal with whatever happens in between," Narosov said. "And let me tell you, a lot can happen in between."

"I'm not one to come in and punch the computer all day," he said.

"One minute I'm playing with the Yellow Pages looking for a vet. The next minute I'm worrying about the technical stuff or making sure the bears get their water. I like that," he added later.

For Narosov, it's all worthwhile when he step into the ring and brings the circus to the audiences. For him, American audiences and the Moscow Circus are a great combination.

"Americans are brought up to express their emotions," he said. "They scream, they whistle, they yell, they clap. It's such a difference between Soviet audiences. When I was there, it was disrespectful to whistle. But here we just express what we feel. And there's a lot to whistle and cheer about."

classical nature Saturday night. She is also one of the singers Wednesday night. Strolling musicians perform Thursday night. David Pasalacqua plays the accordion, accompanied by Francesco Cavallini on the mandolin.

◦ EAGLE'S NEST

The Ron Coden Show moves to the Eagle's Nest in Garden City for four weeks starting Friday, Nov. 9. Coden and crew will perform Friday-Saturday, starting at 9 p.m. There is no cover charge. For more information or reservations, call 522-2420.

◦ 'STARLIGHT EXPRESS'

In celebration of its 90th anniversary year, Lionel Trains has planned some extras to coincide with the Detroit premiere of Andrew Lloyd Webber's roller-skating musical extravaganza "Starlight Express" at the New Masonic Temple Theatre. "Lionel Train Day" at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11, will include a 17-foot-long train balloon in the lower lobby of the Masonic Temple and free conductor hats to the first 200 children who attend. A winter wonderland train exhibit in the Blue Room of the Masonic Temple features three Lionel Large Scale Trains traveling on approximately 300 feet of brass track. This exhibit is open to all "Starlight Express" audiences through Sunday, Nov. 25.

Grand re-opening performance of "Starlight Express" at the New Masonic Temple Theatre will be at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 9, as a benefit for the Shriner's Crippled Children's Fund. Benefit tickets are $22.50 and $35 (regular prices for Friday performances). Tickets for all performances are available at all Ticketmaster outlets or the Masonic Temple box office. For more information call 832-2232.

◦ IN COMEDY

Western Michigan University will present its second Studio Series production of the season, "Privates on Parade," at 8 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday, Nov. 14-17, in the Zack L. York Arena Theatre on Western's Campus in Kalamazoo. The comedy with songs has many music hall routines. Performing as Sylvia Morgan is Elyse Mirto of Canton, a senior Music Theatre Performance major. Her credits include Gertrude in "Hamlet," "The Misanthrope," "Balm in Gilead," and on the Kalamazoo Civic Mainstage "The Boyfriend." As Cheng is Jeff Boland of Rochester Hills, a sophomore in his debut production at Western. Tickets are $3 and seating is general admission. For more information and reservations call 387-6222.

"Pinocchio" will be presented by the National Marionette Theatre at 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 12, at Oakland University in Rochester Hills. For ticket information call 370-3013.

◦ 'SHOW BOAT'

Michigan Opera Theatre presents the classic Kern-Hammerstein II musical, "Show Boat," for 12 performances Friday, Nov. 16, to Sunday, Nov. 25, at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit. A cast anchored by veteran screen and stage star Eddie Bracken as Cap'n Andy Hawks will perform in the classic tale by Edna Ferber, with lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II and melodies by Jerome Kern. For subscription and single tickets sales, dial the MOT Hotline, 874-SING, or visit the MOT Ticket Services Office at 6519 Second Ave. in Detroit's New Center Area. Tickets also are available through any Ticketmaster outlet, or call the Ticketmaster charge line at 645-6666.

◦ MUSIC HALL

Don Evans' comedy "One Monkey Don't Stop No Show," starring Kim Fields, Chip Fields and Ted Lange and directed by Ron Milner, opens its national tour Tuesday-Sunday, Nov. 20-25, at Detroit's Music Hall Center. Tickets are on sale at the Music Hall Center box office and all Ticketmaster outlets. To charge tickets by phone call 645-6666. For more information call 963-7600.

◦ JAZZ CONCERT

The Center for Creative Studies-Institute of Music and Dance presents the first jazz concert in its new series, "CCS New World Stage," at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11, at CCS-IMD in Detroit's Cultural Center. Tickets at $7.50 for adults, $5 for student/senior citizens may be obtained by calling 831-2870. The jazz series is headed by saxophonist Donald Walden, newly appointed jazz program director at CCS-IMD. The Nov. 11 concert will feature vibraphonist Rob Pippo, pianist Johnny Griffith, bassist Rodney Whitaker and drummer Randy Gellsple.

◦ ATTIC THEATRE

"Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune" opens Wednesday, Nov. 14, at the Attic Theatre in Detroit's New Center area. David Regal, artistic director of the University of Detroit's Theatre Company, portrays the persistent, sometimes obnoxious but always compelling Johnny, the short-order cook who woos waitress Frankie throughout the night in her one-room apartment. Mary Bremer is Frankie. The production runs through Sunday, Dec. 9. Preview performances are Thursday-Sunday, Nov. 8-11. For tickets call the Attic box office at 875-8284. Box office hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Friday. During weeks when there are no performances, the box office is open through first curtain. On performance weekends, the hours are noon through first curtain.

◦ ICE STARS

Now in its fifth season, the 30-city Discover Card Stars on Ice tour makes a stop in Detroit with an 8 p.m. show Saturday, Jan. 12, at Joe Louis Arena. Olympic Gold Medalist and four-time World Champion Scott Hamilton will headline the cast of Olympic and World Champions. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets and the Joe Louis Arena box office. All seats are reserved and priced at $22.50, $15 and $12.50. To charge tickets, call 645-6666. For general information call 567-6000.

◦ AT CLUBLAND

ClubLand at the State Theater in Detroit continues a 12-week Thursday night concert-dance series featuring national artists with hits in the Top 40 and dance music billboard charts. Ticket price for each dance show is $5. Coming to ClubLand are Stevie B. on Nov. 8, in his first Michigan appearance; Two in a Room on Nov. 15, and Kyper on Nov. 22. Tickets for all shows are available at all Ticketmaster outlets or at the ClubLand box office. Doors open for the concert dance series at 9 p.m. as usual. Performances generally begin at 11 p.m.

Bob Weibel

Plymouth show has its ups and downs

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "You Can't Take It With You" continue through Saturday, Nov. 17, at the Water Tower Theatre on the campus of Northville Region II Hospital. For ticket information, call 420-2161.

By Bob Weibel special writer

Brilliant comedic moments mingled with interludes of prosaic theater characterized the opening night production of the Plymouth Theatre Guild's "You Can't Take It With You."

What drives this popular comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman is the clash of family differences. The play takes place in the home of the Sycamores. Most anything goes here. From fireworks in the basement to printing presses in the living room. It just might be the world's greatest collection of screwballs and loonies.

Then we have the very rich, very proper, stuffed-shirt Kirby. In the middle we have a budding romance between Alice Sycamore and Tony Kirby, both of whom can't apologize fast enough for their families' eccentricities.

Kathleen Lietz (Alice) and Frank Markus (Tony) look good and perform well together as about the only "normal" people on stage.

There is, however, an artificial quality to their embarrassment about their families. It isn't so much their fault as the uneven characterizations and pacing of the show.

COMEDY IN general, and zany comedies in particular, have to be played at a dizzying pace and high-energy level. "You Can't Take It With You" when performed to the max is something like a three ring circus. It's a shame to lose laughs because action only takes place in one or two rings.

One wishes the whole cast would take chances and perform with the gusto of Mark Powell as the ebullient dance instructor, Boris Kolonkhov.

Kelly David prouettes about the stage quite nicely as his aspiring pupil, Essie. Jacquie Rundell has her moments as the mother and would-be author, Penelope. Ford Sutherland is consistent but a bit laid-back as the wily grandfather, Martin Vanderhof, who doesn't believe in paying taxes.

Others who are in the spirit of the evening most of the time include Tim Courtney as the Federal Agent, Russell Dore as Mr. Kirby, Steve Katz as Donald and Bobbie Judd as the Grand Duchess.

The pyrotechnics of Mr. DePinna and Paul Sycamore are very effective. Perhaps flash paper would be a better choice than powder to cut down on the smoky after-effects.

Director Al LaCroix also designed the set, and it is one of PTG's better efforts in recent years.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

New restaurant

Max & Erma's has opened at a new location, this one in the Plaza Building at 210 S. Woodward in downtown Birmingham. Other Max & Erma's restaurants are in Farmington Hills, Rochester Hills and Livonia.

The "Neighborhood Gathering Place" has a decor featuring stained-glass windows, cascading ivy baskets and walls of eclectic pictures and antiques and sports memorabilia.

Dinner to go

Bowman's Catering is gearing up to serve Thanksgiving dinner to some 2,500 people across metropolitan Detroit.

The Berkley-based catering company delivers its home-cooked turkey dinners to customers who love a traditional turkey dinner but don't want to cook it themselves.

For the fourth year in a row, Bowman's offers a complete turkey dinner for 12 to 15 people.

vegetables, and two pumpkin pies with whipped cream.

Dinners are $155 including delivery, or $125 for pickup. A turkey without trimmings is $95 delivered, or $65 for pickup. For more information, call Bowman's at 398-1030.

Wine Dinner

Fred Fisher, native Grosse Pointe, now a premier winery owner in California, will discuss his wine and winemaking at a Fisher Wine Dinner on Monday at ONE23 in Grosse Pointe Farms.

The evening begins with a sparkling wine reception and hors d'oeuvres at 6:30 p.m. A four-course dinner of American Regional Cuisine follows at 7 p.m., with each course accompanied by chardonnay or cabernet sauvignon. Cost is $65 per person.

For more information, call the restaurant at 881-5700.

Family restaurant

Johnny Williams, ex-host of radio's "Pillowtalk," has taken ownership of the Troy Family Restaurant on 16 Mile east of Dequindre in the Golden Gate Shopping Mall. The restaurant offers Greek, Italian and American selections, with specials daily. Williams has been in the radio business for 20 years, most recently at WNIC.

Vegetarian meal

Vegetarian Trays in Troy delivers a vegetarian dinner or lunch to your office. For $6.95, you can have rice pilaf, samosa, Indian bread (poori and chapati), stir-fried vegetables and dessert. Call 689-1541 before noon to place an order. The business also caters parties.

African dinner

The Lark restaurant in West Bloomfield offers an African dinner at 7 p.m. Monday-Tuesday, Nov. 26-27. A standing rib roast of eland antelope is one of the courses. Dinner is $65 per person. For more information, call the Lark at 661-8891.

Consulting chef

January at the London Chop House in Detroit.

One of the Master Chefs of France, Drouelle has worked as executive chef in many segments of the French and American restaurant and hospitality industry. Drouelle's role at the Chop House is in conjunction with Chef de Cuisine Michael Houlihan.

List honored

The Wine Spectator magazine, trade publication for the wine industry, has awarded the wine list of the Golden Mushroom restaurant in Southfield with its "Best of Award of Excellence" designation.

The Golden Mushroom's wine list contains more than 650 selections, from an inventory of some 14,000 bottles.

The Whitney restaurant in Detroit was the only other Michigan restaurant to receive a "Best of Award of Excellence" designation. The Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester, Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth and Grosse Pointe Yacht Club all received "Awards of Excellence."

To remember

and Mr. Limo limousine service have teamed up to offer a memorable evening that includes a private limousine, a $50 gift certificate toward food and beverages, a Moet & Chandon champagne toast and a dozen long-stemmed, silk roses. Cost of the evening is just the limousine (minimum of four hours at $65 per hour). For more information, call Mr. Limo at 477-7370.

VIP status

Chef/proprietor Jimmy Schmidt has introduced the Rattlesnake Club's Diamondback membership at his restaurant in Detroit.

Affording Rattlesnake Club diners VIP status, Diamondback provides a variety of special events and services to members. Among the privileges are special wine winners and monthly wine tasting with Master Sommelier Madeline Triffon as well as some of the world's best wine makers.

Diamondback Club membership is $500. For more information, call Karen Berry at the Rattlesnake Club at 567-4843.

'Hall of Fame'

Restaurateur Keith Famie has inaugurated a "Chicken Hall of Fame" at his Famie's Chicken take-out store in Royal Oak. Charter members of the hall of fame are J. "Peep" McCarthy, Chick Tracy, Dan Quail and Famie himself. Nominations are being accepted from customers, who will win two three-piece rotisserie chicken dinners if their nominees are accepted. Famie plans to open two new Famie Chicken stores, both with sit-down dining, in West Bloomfield this month and in Troy early next year.

Menu expanded

Mitchell's Barbecue and Grill in Royal Oak has expanded its menu to include such items as coconut shrimp appetizer, apple jack chicken and sauteed chicken breast. Mitchell's specialties is its fresh seafood, chicken and pasta dishes, along with a Greek salad and homemade garlic breadsticks.

Buildings reveal much about city's culture, heritage

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

A RCHITECTURE IS the storyteller of civilizations. An entire culture reveals its ethics, government and religious practices through its architectural style.

The fall of a great empire, world war and fire destroy the means by which a culture or society leaves its mark for future generations to study and grow. This was especially true for time periods before the advent of photography and preservation by written documentation came to be practiced arts.

In 1856, fire destroyed the entire block of Main Street, opposite Kellogg Park, in downtown Plymouth, taking with it the history of a period when wood buildings were erected for functional purposes by wild frontier pioneers.

Shortly thereafter, small dry goods and groceries began to rebuild. By 1869, Amity Hall, along with Starkweather's general store, Thomas May's grocery, Root's Drug Store and Steel's Jewelry opened for business.

After Plymouth's Main Street was rebuilt, the business block was given the name "Phoenix," after the bird of Egyptian mythology that lived more than 500 years,

IN 1893, tragedy again struck the block between Ann Arbor Street (now Ann Arbor Trail) and Sutton (named Penniman in 1910). A fire destroyed entire buildings, such as Amity Hall, while gutting others.

"After the fire of 1893, the basic architectural facade remained," said Beth Stewart, Plymouth Historical Museum director.

Stewart earned a master's degree in historic preservation from Eastern Michigan University.

"This could be almost any small city in the Midwest," Stewart said.

Downtown HERITAGE

Downtown series starts

Downtowns are a lot like people. They slowly mature, then slowly age. But unlike people, downtowns don't have to die.

Take older suburban downtowns in Observerland. They've withstood the rugged test of time. Each is a charming showpiece.

Walk along any street in these downtowns. Stop, listen, observe. Savor the diverse architecture.

You'll discover each storefront has its own character. You'll see the worth in letting each building speak for itself. Distinctiveness isn't lacking.

You'll realize that with the right mix of cooperation from merchants, landlords, residents and city officials, older downtowns can thrive as retail hotspots and village squares.

The thought is that rehabilitating original buildings helps establish a downtown as a source of community pride and a symbol of community vigor.

In a three-part series starting today, the Observer examines the downtown heritage in Plymouth, Farmington and Garden City. Watch for future installments.

Main Street structures in Plymouth were built in Italianate style. The rectangular, two-story buildings have tall, narrow windows. Freize and dentil molding decorate the roof line. Italianate came into its own during the Romantic period, 1840-1885. This view is circa 1900.

Left: Today, the basic architectural structure of what was once Conner's Hardware remains nearly exact, except for the absence of the wooden ballustrade, an ornamentation that ran along the roof line, and the fact that the brick has been painted.

Below: Conner's Hardware was built about 10 years before this 1903 photograph. Built in Queen Anne style, the building's half-tower, positioned at a front facade corner, is cantilevered out at the second floor. The tower faces the corner of Penniman and Main in downtown Plymouth.

Plymouth United Savings Bank was built in 1920. The design is Classical Revival, a later stage of the Beaux-Arts movement. Paired ionic columns adorn the facade of the cut-stone structure. Thomas Jefferson founded institution design in America with the classical temple style.

Seventy years later, the major change to this Classical Revival style building is the subtraction of the Plymouth United Savings Bank signs strung across the front and side of the structure and the addition of the NBD sign.

VAAL unveils fall art exhibit winners

By Noreen Flack

The tranquil colors flowing from "Yellow Truck," a landscape painting by Eileen Bibby of Livonia, is a scene from "one of those favorite places," she said.

Bibby, who took first prize in the watercolor category for "Yellow Truck" in the fall art show of the Visual Arts Association of Livonia, has a soft spot for painting in the Leelanau Peninsula.

"It's a real happy place to paint," she said.

"Yellow Truck," and nearly 80 other VAAL award-winning works, will be on display during the VAAL fall art show, on exhibit at Livonia City Hall, Five Mile and Farmington Road, until Nov. 16.

Bibby, VAAL vice-president, heads to Leelanau Peninsula at least twice a year for a peek at her "favorite place." The treasured spot is a scene on a hill with a view of Grand Traverse Bay in the distance.

During one of her settings, a little yellow truck passed by while she painted. Her thought was "Why not?" and she added the yellow truck to her green and red landscape background.

THE SKY is pale with jesters of clouds and leaves float gracefully in the surrounding water. "I introduced many colorful jesters on my own, which leaves the viewer to decide what to think," she said.

"I had been doing oil and acrylics for a long time and then everyone kept saying, 'Why not try watercolor?'" said Bibby, a seven-year VAAL member.

"And now I find watercolor to be much more enjoyable because it's so much more challenging. If you make a mistake with oil and acrylics, you can change it. With watercolor, you have to live with what you do."

The fall show features oil and watercolor paintings and collages that were judged in an October VAAL competition at an art instruction classroom at Jefferson Center, Livonia.

OTHER WINNERS include Agnes Hodge of Northville who won best of show for her painting, "Popies." Irene Kallas of Dearborn Heights won first prize in oil for "Woman in Hat." V. Janus Benda of Farmington Hills won first prize in mixed media for "Pink and Blue."

Livonia

Most of the artwork on display is for sale.

"These people are not amateurs by any rate," said Ruthann Platt, VAAL publicity director for the show. "They have all been in the art area for quite a number of years."

VAAL offers a variety of classes ranging from one-day to six-week sessions at an adult level. Classes include watercolor, oil, monotype, drawing, art critiquing, flower design, collage and others.

Although most members have some art experience, beginners are welcome, Bibby said.

VAAL's open painting session on Wednesday afternoon is a good way to "get away" for the afternoon and paint with other artists (no instructors) in a nice relaxing atmosphere, Bibby added.

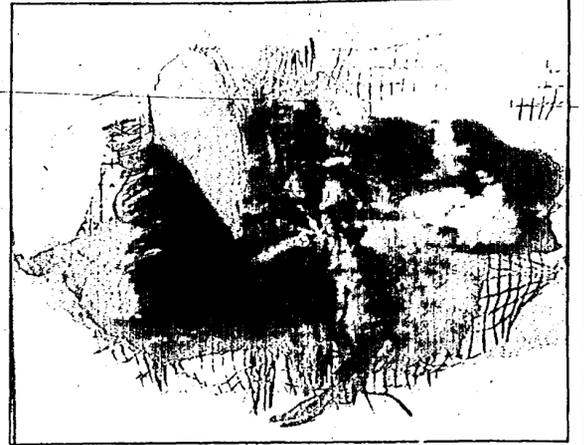

"The show is offered for the community's enjoyment while promoting local artists' work," Platt said. "The show also offers us exposure, letting the community know about our classes."

VAAL is the only non-profit organization in western Wayne County to offer art instruction classes. Classes, held in Jefferson Center, are open to non-members. For more information on VAAL, call Marge Masek at 464-6772.

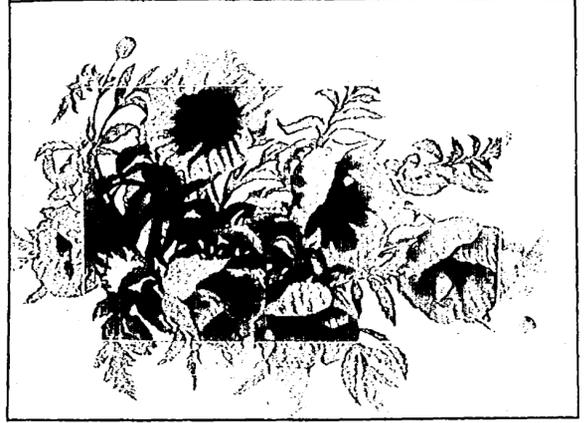

Right: Irene Kallas of Dearborn Heights won first prize in oil painting for "Woman in Hat." Kallas is VAAL president.

V. Janus Benda of Farmington Hills won first prize in mixed media for her collage "Pink and Blue."

Agnes Hodge of Northville won "Best of Show" for her oil painting "Popies."

'Nutcracker' returns

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra's popular holiday production of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker" returns to the Fox Theatre for 15 performances, beginning Friday, Dec. 14, and running through Wednesday, Dec. 26.

This year marks the second season of performances at the Fox Theatre in association with Brass Ring Productions and Olympia Arenas, and the 16th season of the DSO's collaboration with Dance Detroit, Jacob Lascu, director/choreographer.

Joining the DSO and Dance Detroit are guest principal dancers from the New York City Ballet: Merrill Ashley and Jock Soto on the evenings of Dec. 19-23; and Melinda Roy and Peter Boal on the evenings of Dec. 14-16, 18 and 26. Principal dancers for the matinee performances will be announced at a later date.

Detroit Symphony associate conductor Leslie B. Dunner leads the orchestra for all 15 performances. The Women of the Detroit Symphony Chorus will provide the off-stage chorus parts at the close of Act I.

FOLLOWING ON the heels of last year's successful performances at The Fox, all this year's "Nutcracker" performances have been moved to the Fox Theatre, representing an on-going collaborative commitment between three of Detroit's major entertainment institutions to the revitalization of the Woodward Avenue corridor as a major entertainment district.

Tchaikovsky composed the "The Nutcracker," his third and last ballet. In 1891-92 on a commission from the director of St. Petersburg's Imperial Theatre, Prince Vsevolodsky, and the celebrated choreographer Marius Petipa.

Work on the score was interrupted briefly by his highly publicized trip to the United States to participate in the opening concerts dedicating Carnegie Hall. "The Nutcracker" was completed nine months later, in February 1892.

THE DELIGHTFUL story of "The Nutcracker" has enchanted audiences of all ages since its premiere in 1892. A young girl, Clara, is given a nutcracker doll for Christmas. During the night, the doll comes to life to lead the toy soldiers in a battle with the house mice, led by the mouse king.

As the nutcracker is about to be attacked by the king, Clara strikes and kills the mouse with her slipper, and the nutcracker turns into a prince and invites her to accompany him to the Kingdom of Sweets as her reward.

There, she is entertained by the subjects of the court, before she awakens to realize it was all a grand dream.

"Nutcracker" ballet performances at the Fox Theatre are part of the 1990 DSO Christmas Festival, which includes six other family presentations at Orchestra Hall.

Tickets are $24, $21 and $17. Matinees are half price for children 12 and younger and senior citizens 60 and older.

Livonia Symphony

Young Artist competition slated

Laurel Park Place plans benefit

The Livonia Symphony Orchestra will award $3,000 in prize money for its 1991 Young Artist Competition Jan. 12-13 in Kresge Auditorium, Madonna College, Livonia.

Money for the event is provided by the Women's Association of the Livonia Symphony, the Livonia Symphony Society, the Nelda DiBlasi Memorial Vocal Fund and individuals.

The competition is open to all young artists who live in Michigan. It includes instrumental, piano and vocal students.

Contestants must not be generally recognized as seasoned solo performers but qualified to move in that direction. This does not exclude those who have already appeared with a symphony orchestra.

Two first prizes of $1,000 each will be awarded in both instrumental and vocal categories. Second prizes, in the same categories, will be $500 each.

Contestants must not be generally recognized as seasoned solo performers, but qualified to move in that direction. This does not exclude those who have already appeared with a symphony orchestra.

WINNERS WILL appear as soloists with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra during the 1990-91 season. Judges for the 1991 competition, which marks the 13th for the event, are: Janice Fulbright, Wayne State University School of Fine and Performing Arts Vocal Division; Tomoko Mack-Brzozowski, Schoolcraft College piano faculty and a previous first-place winner in the competition; and Francesco DiBlasi, Livonia Symphony Orchestra conductor and music director.

To compete, instrumental and piano students must not have reached 25 before Feb. 12, 1991, with vocal contestants not reaching 30 before the same date.

There is a non-refundable $25 application fee. To obtain further rules of competition and applications, write to: Nancy Richard, 18549 Levan, Livonia, Mich. 48152 or call 471-7049.

Application deadline is Dec. 31, 1990.

Laurel Park Place will host a benefit for the Livonia Symphony at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 14, in the Grand Court of Laurel Park Place, Newburgh and Six Mile.

Titled "Gershwin, Gourmet and Glamour," with Robert Schostak of Southfield-based Schostak Brothers & Co. as general chairman, the event will feature music by the orchestra, a holiday fashion show by Jacobson's and food tasting by a dozen Livonia-area restaurants and Schoolcraft College.

Tickets are $20 each. They may be purchased by calling Betty Jean Awrey, 522-1100.

Guest pianist with the orchestra will be University of Michigan faculty member Howard Watkins, who will play Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

UNDER THE baton of Francesco DiBlasi, LSO conductor and music director, musicians will offer selections from "Camelot," "Cats," "Scheherazade" by Rimsky-Korsakoff, "Overture to Russian and Ludmilla" by Glinka and "Danse Macabre" with concertmaster Victoria Haltom as soloist.

Spokeswoman for Jacobson's, Linda Gundersen, has announced holiday fashions will include those for all ages and special glitzy holiday wear.

Among those providing gift food samples will be Laurie's Confections, Livonia Charlie's, Coffee Beanery, D. Dennison's, Laurel Manor, Max & Erma's, Little Caesar's, Marriott Hotel, Roma's of Livonia, Earnesto's, Embassy Suites and Leather Bottle.

A winner in both the U-M graduate concerto competition and the LSO Young Artists competition, Watkins earned a bachelor of music degree from the University of Dayton in Ohio and a master of music degree from U-M, where he studied with Charles Fisher and Martin Katz.

He has performed in Hong Kong, Japan, Korea and Austria and in master classes with Misha Dichter, Lynn Harrell, Ani Kavafian and George Shirley.

Plymouth Symphony to 'Jazz It Up'

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

On Friday, Nov. 9, the enchanting sounds of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra in fusion with the magical melodies of jazz flutist Alexander Zonjic, will cast a spell upon the audience in the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium, 46181 Joy, Canton.

Zonjic is set to join forces with the Plymouth Symphony, under Russell Reed's direction, to perform music from Mozart to Mangione. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Fresh from a New York recording studio, Zonjic and his ensemble will be featured guest artists for the second concert of the Plymouth Symphony's 45th anniversary season.

The evening's program, "Jazz It Up," includes the music of Mozart's "Flute Concerto No. 2 in D Major" and jazz favorites, Take Five, Bellavia, Spain and Sentimentale.

"Living It Up," an overture written by native Detroit Michael Rucieczynski, leads off the program, followed by Antonin Dvorak's "Symphony No. 8 in G Major."

The evening, divided equally between classical and jazz compositions, brings together Zonjic's two loves.

Zonjic is the solo flutist for the evening's first selection, "Flute Concerto No. 2 in D Major" by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Alexander Zonjic
jazz flutist

ZONJIC SAID he was "looking forward to performing with the Plymouth Symphony because I've heard wonderful things about them."

He said he believes "community symphonies are of great importance because of what they bring to a community and because of what the community brings to it."

Born in Windsor, Zonjic at age 21, picked up a flute for the first time.

In pursuit of proficiency for his newly discovered passion, he returned to school, where he earned a bachelor of music degree at the University of Windsor.

Zonjic estimates he has "been on the Detroit music scene around 10 years." In 1978, he released the first of five albums, "Alexander Zonjic," followed by "Romance With You," "Elegant Evening" and "When Is It Real."

Zonjic's recording with Ervin Monroe, principal flutist of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, is "The Classical Album."

Recently, Zonjic said, he was "in New York, putting some finishing touches on the new album." His sixth album is entitled, "Hi Falutin'."

"The new album was recorded in Los Angeles, New York and Detroit," Zonjic said. "It's a lot different than what I've done because there are vocals on it — some lead vocals, some background."

"Bob James and Hiram Bullock are two of the featured artists on the new album," he said.

Zonjic plans to release it by year's end.

ZONJIC HAS performed at the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival, the Atlanta Jazz Festival, the Orlando Jazz Festival and the Kool Jazz Festivals in Hampton, Va., Los Angeles, Detroit and New York.

His tours with keyboard artists Bob James include performances in Japan, England, the Dominican Republic, the Philippines and Puerto Rico. On Sunday, Zonjic and James leave for a tour of Mexico.

The Alexander Zonjic Quintet consists of Andre Hawkins on drums, Nathan Brown on bass guitar, Pete Martinez on keyboards, Lorenzo Brown on percussion and, of course, Zonjic and his magic flute.

The dynamics of Zonjic's sound range from gentle and romantic to wildfire.

Music in the hands of Zonjic seems intuitively charged with feeling and emotion. He has the ability and artistry to express himself in magical intensity. His music, like love, is easier to experience than to explain.

Zonjic's music, as an art, is based on the sensuous beauty of lyrical sounds.

From Mozart's Flute Concerto No. 2 in D Major to the hauntingly beautiful and mysterious, "Bellavia," the evening's program promises to be filled with the quicksilver sounds of Alexander Zonjic's flute, united with the dynamic Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Russell Reed, to create a romantic evening of pure fantasy.

Tickets are $10 adults, $9 seniors, $5 students K-12. Call the PSO office at 451-2112. The box office opens 30 minutes before the curtain rises.

Farmington club will show fine art

The Farmington Artists Club will host a fall fine art exhibit Wednesday-Saturday, Nov. 14-17, at Nardin Park United Methodist Church, 29887 11 Mile, west of Middlebelt, Farmington Hills.

The annual exhibit introduces the community to high-quality original fine art created by professional and semiprofessional members of the Farmington Artists Club.

Many of the members are prominent professional artists who enjoy statewide and nationwide recognition.

ARTWORK WILL be offered in a variety of techniques, media and prices. The exhibit features three sections:

- Juried gallery — about 100 works.
- Open gallery — about 100 works.
- Budget-priced, unframed section — about 130 works.

"Exhibits of this type by local artists significantly contribute to the community's cultural climate while providing an opportunity for the artists to display their varied talents," said Gloria Gerber, publicity chairwoman.

A DRAWING Saturday, Nov. 17, will feature 10 paintings donated by club members. Tickets may be bought at the show.

Drawing proceeds will go to the Farmington Art Foundation, which sponsors "Picture Lady," an art appreciation program in Farmington elementary schools and the senior citizen art classes, taking place weekly at Mercy Center in Farmington Hills.

The show will include complimentary refreshments. There is no admission charge.

Exhibit hours are 3-8 p.m. Nov. 14, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Nov. 15-16, and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Nov. 17. A reception will be at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 16.

THE JUROR will be Leslie Masters, who earned a B.A. in fine arts from Indiana University and who has done graduate work at IU, Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

She is now a painting, design and color theory instructor at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association. She has exhibited in shows throughout the country. She also has been an art critic for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

"Built in Italianate style, the rectangular, boxy-type of buildings are of uniform height (generally two-story) with tall, narrow windows, decorated with frieze running along the tops and dentil molding below."

Italianate came into its own during the Romantic time period, 1840-1885. Big-city architecture of the East Coast would filter to the small Midwest towns about 20 years later, Stewart said.

The Palladian windows built during the late 1800s can be seen above what is now Wiltse's Community Pharmacy. The Palladian windows are named after the design of 16th-century Italian architect Andrea Palladio. Thomas Jefferson was one of Palladio's admirers.

"Luckily, Palladio recorded many of his designs," Stewart said. "The plans were circulated through catalogs."

USING CATALOG plans and creative ingenuity, Plymouth built its late-19th-century Italianate architecture. Pattern books and catalogs were popular with American families and small businesses that could not afford to hire an architect.

In the 1880s, magazines such as Good Housekeeping and Ladies' Home Journal published pattern books. Through these magazines, a reader could order working drawings and specifications.

Sears Roebuck and Co. not only sold plans for structures, but the materials to build them with as well — lumber, shingles, plumbing, heating and mill work.

The 19th-century Eclecticism movement, of which Italianate was a part, defined the architecture of businesses and homes in Plymouth. Buildings contained design elements of many different styles, not only Italianate, but Queen Anne, and Richardsonian Romanesque.

On the corner of Main and Penniman, Michael Conner opened a hardware store in a wooden structure in 1857. Although it is not known when he constructed the Queen Anne style building with the semi-circular tower, photographs taken between the fire of 1893 and the year 1900 show the unique brick building as existent.

The architecture of "Conner's is one of the most notable features of Plymouth," Stewart said.

THE TOWER, cantilevered out at the second floor, was supported by a brick beam.

"Towers placed at a front facade corner are a common feature of Queen Anne," Stewart said. "The half-tower, blended into the building with a continuous roof line, was popular in the 1870s and 1880s."

"Henry Hobson Richardson of Boston was widely published at that time," Stewart said.

He also could have influenced the style (of Conner's Hardware) because his style of architecture design, Richardsonian Romanesque, was very popular, she added.

In 1990, the basic architectural structure that once housed Conner's Hardware appears with near exactness to the brick business built in the 1890s, except for the noticeable absence of the wooden balustrade, an ornamentation that ran along the roof line.

When considering the style of late-19th-century architecture in Plymouth, or in young America as a whole, the importance of function is considerable.

BESIDES THE influence of the Eclecticism movement during this period, Plymouth's architecture was shaped by vernacular building, or building strictly for utilitarian purposes.

"After the fire, there's no unity," Stewart said. "It's architecture for structure."

In downtown Plymouth on Penniman, there are two-story businesses built alongside three-story structures. If the width of a store was too narrow, the owner simply built up.

In 1896, architect Louis Sullivan was quoted as saying, "form ever follows function."

Early in the 20th century, architect Frank Lloyd Wright, a student of Sullivan's, concurred, stating, "form and function are one."

The architecture of Main Street USA, built in the late 19th century, is designed in Italianate style with uniform rows of two- and three-story structures lining its main thoroughfare.

Italianate design borrowed Northern Italy's rural architecture, coming to America in the late 1830s by way of England. Although miles apart, the Main Street of Plymouth is almost identical to the Main Street that runs through Romeo in northern Macomb County.

A DOMINANT characteristic of main street architecture in small cities and towns is a centrally located bank to serve the retail sector.

In 1920, Plymouth United Savings built a bank on the corner of Main Street and Penniman in Classical Revival style, which was a later stage of the Beaux-Arts tradition. Paired Ionic columns adorn the facade of the bank.

Thomas Jefferson was the founding father of institution design in America. The classical temple style of public and government buildings was rooted deeply in American architecture by Jefferson.

Before the advent of painting and sculpture in a culture, architecture must come first. It must pave the way, to protect, to serve and to house society. Without architecture, man quite possibly could not exist.

Plymouth recently appointed a committee to study the idea of the preservation of a historical district. "The desire and interest is there to preserve," Stewart said.

After the American Revolution in the last quarter of the 18th century, American culture freed itself from the building style of England. It is with hope, that the story of Plymouth's history will survive to inform future generations.

ARTS DISPLAY

Edee Joppich and Gwen Tomkow of Farmington Hills are among the award-winning artists whose work will be exhibited at the Southfield Symphony's "An International Affair," an afternoon of art, music and dance, 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11, at the Southfield Marriott.

Entertainment will include Grupo Espana, under Dame Maria Del Carmen, and the Southfield Symphony Ensemble.

Hors d'oeuvres and champagne will be served. Tickets are $25 per person. Proceeds will benefit the symphony.

ANTIQUÉ SHOW

An antiques and collectibles show featuring antique furniture, Depression glassware and jewelry will run 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11, at the Livonia Holiday Inn, 17123 Laurel Park Drive, 1-275 and Six Mile, near Newburgh.

Admission $2, children free. Tables, $25. Call 562-3841.

AUTHOR ON HAND

Children's book illustrator Jan Brett will sign copies of her newest book, "The Wild Christmas Reindeer," 6:30-7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 9, at Border's Book Shop, Novi Town Center.

Brett wrote and illustrated this book as well as several others: "The First Dog," "Annie and the Wild Animals" and "Fritz and the Beautiful Horses."

AWARD WINNERS

Award winners in the Palette & Brush Club's October show, "Small Paintings" at Bellan Art Center, 5980 Rochester Road, Troy, were announced.

Those receiving honorable mention included: Jeri Fellwoch, Farmington; Judy Gressor, Livonia, and Sharon Steward, Farmington Hills.

Juror was Gary Bellan, gallery owner who holds a master's degree in history of art from Wayne State. He is a lecturer and collector of fine art and antiquities.

Gallery hours are noon to 6 p.m. Monday-Saturday.

GROUP AUDITIONS

On Saturday, Nov. 10, group auditions at the Center for Creative Studies-Institute of Music and Dance, Detroit, will be held for prospective and returning dance students.

To be earned are tuition scholarships. Minimum age is 8. Adults are welcome. Criteria for the awards are based on ability, interest, dedication to the dance world and some degree of financial need.

Auditions will be held in all dance disciplines. Work-study programs also are available.

Auditions will be at the main branch of Center for Creative Studies-Institute of Music and Dance, 200 E. Kirby.

Classes are available at all branches: Detroit, Southfield and Gross Pointe. For details and to reserve a place in the audition class, call the Institute of Music and Dance, 831-2870.

BOOK WEEK

Author William Anderson will appear at the Detroit Main Library Children's Department in celebration of National Children's Book Week and the 50th anniversary of the publication of Laura Ingalls Wilder's book, "The Long Winter."

The library is at 5201 Woodward in the University Cultural Center.

Anderson, an expert on the life of Laura Ingalls Wilder, will appear in a free program at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10, in the Friends Auditorium.

Laura Ingalls Wilder fans may also wish to stop in the main library's Rare Book Room where they can see an exhibit of Wilder materials, including the original pencil tablets on which Wilder wrote two of her "Little House" books, candid snapshots, early editions, character dolls and correspondence between the library and Wilder on the occasion of the naming of Detroit's Wilder branch after the author.

The exhibit opens Nov. 10 and runs through Jan. 12. Rare Book Room hours are Tuesday-Saturday, 1-5 p.m. A special free keepsake, "Laura Ingalls Wilder and the Detroit Public Library," will be available while supplies last.

School groups that may want to visit the exhibit may call the children's library at 833-1490 for an appointment to see the exhibit and hear a recorded interview with Mrs. Wilder.

DSO PROGRAMS

Internationally acclaimed conductor Ivan Fischer leads the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in two performances of Liszt's Tasso: Lament Triumph and Mahler's Symphony No. 1 in D major.

Between these works, cellist Heinrich Schiff will join Fischer and the DSO in Saint-Saen's Cello Concert No. 1 in A minor.

Performances at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 23, and 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 24, at Orchestra Hall.

The DSO presents the first six performances of its 1990-91 educational concert series at 10:15 and 11:30 a.m. Monday-Wednesday, Nov. 12-14, and Thursday, Dec. 13, at Orchestra Hall.

Under the direction of associate conductor Leslie Dunner, the DSO presents a program entitled "Water Music," featuring orchestral selections by Handel, Mendelssohn, Offenbach, Coleridge-Taylor and Smetana.

The series offers free concerts for school children. About 16,000 children will attend these concerts.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall Michigan Artists Recital Series opens with a recital by violinist Michelle Makarski, winner of the 1989 Carnegie Hall American Music Competition, and pianist Brent McMunn at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11.

The series showcases developing state talent.

Overtures, a volunteer group of young Detroit-area professionals, exists to build a younger audience for the DSO. Since early 1989, it has combined concerts with pre- or post-concert parties at the Rattlesnake Club, the London Chophouse, the Fox Theatre and other downtown Detroit locations.

For the 1990-91 season, Overtures has scheduled several parties.

A series of musical chats, in suburban locations, also has been scheduled, featuring DSO members discussing musical topics. The first is 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, at Orchestra Hall.

Paul Ganson, DSO assistant principal bassonist, will talk about saving Orchestra Hall. Tickets for the talk, tour and hors d'oeuvres are $15. Order by Nov. 9.

Overtures hopes to introduce younger audience members to classical music in informal, unintimidating settings that will encourage them to become future DSO supporters and subscribers.

To reach the DSO box office, call 833-3700.

Teleconverter: It helps to extend focal length

Have you ever found yourself taking photos at the zoo or of kids in the back yard, and wishing you could bring things in a little closer?

Well, there's an inexpensive piece of equipment that will convert your normal lens into a telephoto and your telephoto into an even longer lens. It's called a teleconverter.

A 2-X teleconverter . . . or extender, as they are sometimes called, is a device that exactly doubles the focal length of your lens. For example, a normal 50mm lens will effectively become a 100mm lens and a 200mm lens will perform like a 400mm lens.

A converter looks like a miniature lens. In seconds, it can be easily inserted between the camera body and your other lens. So be sure to purchase an extender designed for your particular camera brand.

WHAT ARE the advantages of teleconverters? First, you're getting a compact, inexpensive accessory that doubles the focal length of all your lenses. Converters should cost $40-100 depending on the brand of converter and camera.

Second, converters are designed to be compatible with your camera's metering system. This means automatic cameras will still perform automatically and match/needle cameras will still function in the normal way when the converter is attached.

Third, the focusing distance isn't altered by the addition of a converter. Assume you have a 200mm lens on your camera focused on a subject 20 feet away, but the subject isn't quite filling the frame as you would like.

Adding the converter to get an effective 400mm lens will enable you to fill the frame and still focus at 20 feet. This can be highly advantageous under certain picture-taking situations because most 400mm lenses lack capability of focusing at close distances.

WHAT DRAWBACKS do teleconverters have? You lose two f-stops of exposure speed when using a 2-X converter. A subject that requires an aperture of f-16 normally will need f-8 when an extender is added, assuming shutter speed remains constant.

But while you do lose speed, remember that your camera's meter automatically compensates for the adjustment and proper exposure is always assured.

So far, I've concentrated on the 2-X converter. 3-X extenders that triple the length of your lenses are also available. However, a 3-X may result in loss of picture quality and often a loss of three f-stops is too great.

Monte Nagler

But 2-X converters are fine and can be a valuable addition to your photo equipment. So extend your photographic vision with an extender.

A 2-X teleconverter transferred Monte Nagler's 100mm lens into a 200mm lens, enabling him to move in close on this swan for greater impact.

Words sometimes don't adequately describe the uniqueness of tubs, sinks and toilets. You almost have to see them — or at least pictures — to appreciate their beauty.

And when it comes to spending several hundred thousand dollars on a new house, what's a few grand more to upgrade the bath and powder rooms?

Pedestal sinks, acrylic whirlpool tubs and bidets not only tend to sanitary needs, but their forms can make decorative statements.

Take, for example, the powder room of a condominium model at The Woods of Lone Pine in Bloomfield Township built by Herbert Lawson and Randy M. DePrez Custom Builder.

That package consists of an oval brass sink, an onyx counter, a honey-colored, cherrywood floating cabinet, and polished brass and crystal faucets.

All for about $4,000.

WOODS OF NOVI

A Development of Nossan Cohen Associates & Nossan Building Corporation

Lafontant, Mead promoted at Albert Kahn

George G. Lafontant of Bloomfield Hills has been promoted to senior associate and Michael L. Mead of Birmingham to associate at Albert Kahn Associates.

Lafontant is a project manager at the firm. Mead is an electrical engineer.

Michael D. Bernstein of Troy has been named an associate in the industrial sales division of the Trerice Tosto Co., Birmingham.

Soil and Materials Engineers of Livonia has added two geologists, an environmental scientist and a consultant to its staff.

Eric W. Nelson and Wade J. Spurlin will be responsible for environmental and geological field work. Ann Grimes will be conducting environmental site assessments. Donald

C. Templin will head the company's building programs and will consult in site selection, construction and facilities maintenance and overall construction.

Soil and Materials Engineers is a consulting engineering firm specializing in geosciences, construction materials, environmental and overall construction. The company has begun construction on its new headquarters in Plymouth.

TMP Associates of Bloomfield Hills was selected for the renovation of McKenny Union at Eastern Michigan University.

David M. Wemyss has been named chief electrical engineer for Giffles Consultants, a Southfield architectural engineering firm.

He is responsible for the design of lighting, power and communication systems for commercial, institutional and industrial facilities.

Covington Club Apartments, built and managed by Kafan Enterprises, has begun rental of units ranging from 1,800 to 2,000 square feet. Rents range from $1,475 to $1,525. The complex is in the 14 Mile-Middlebelt-Northwestern Highway section of Farmington Hills.

Jeffrey G. King, creative director of Gavin Design Limited, Orchard Lake, has been selected as the interior space planner and designer Wynecott on Pine Lake condominiums, Westland.

The 18 units are being marketed by Aubrey Tobin and built by K&K Construction Co., Waterford. Priced between $369,000 and $499,000, each includes a private boat slip on Pine Lake.

How to increase sales in a down market will be subject of a seminar 9:30-11:30 a.m. Monday, Nov. 12, presented by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

It will feature Thomas Ervin, real estate author and columnist, who

buyers, build rapport with buyers and use follow-up procedures to close sales.

The seminar is hosted by Standard Federal Bank, 2401 W. Big Beaver in Troy. Registration is free to BASM members and $20 for non-members. Seating is limited. To register, call 737-4477.

The pace of residential construction fell in September compared with last year in both Oakland and Wayne counties, according to the Michigan Association of Home Builders.

dropped 18.4 percent, from 630 to 514.

But in Wayne, year-to-date figures are 12.5 percent of last year's totals - 2,788 in 1989 to 3,137 in 1990. In Oakland, units are down .3 percent for the year, from 5,965 in 1989 to 5,947 in 1990.

Value of the units, though, is down in both counties. In Wayne, values dropped from $258 million in 1989 to $244.5 million this year, a dip of 5.2 percent. In Oakland, values are down 1.6 percent, from $547.6 million in 1989 to $538.6 million in 1990.

PHASE II CLOSE-OUT!

Surround yourself in a home, not a showcase

Personal style has never carried so much weight.

Architectural and interior design trends: The notion suggests following style dictates by smart designers who have a knack for getting their work photographed and published.

But aside from the slick and trendy, what is happening in house design today? If you were planning on decorating your new house, what would make your house look absolutely '90s?

Let's start with the house itself. Warm, real materials are the biggest message coming from designers and homeowners, whose demand is the bottom line.

Wood, for instance, is back. Not dark, walnut-stained paneling, and not pickled and bleached, but just plain, natural wood. The finest finish is a light oil, which lets the beauty of the grain come through. This goes for cabinetry (you'll see a big return to wood in the kitchen), hard wood flooring, post-and-beam structural features and, perhaps soon, the rough wood-shingle exterior look of the '70s.

Stone — it's everywhere. Natural stone (slate, limestone, flagstone, marble and granite) flooring tiles are underfoot and creeping up the walls, covering fireplaces and surrounding doorways. Stone countertops are in huge demand.

Because of this demand, new quarries are opening around the world, expanding the available palette to include gorgeous shades of rose, green, gray and some blues.

INDOORS AND OUT, the look of natural materials on the surfaces we walk on means lots of brick (real brick, not fake "used") and tile, too. Wall-to-wall carpeting has lost out to these natural hard floors, so you'll be seeing more area rugs.

Rush-and-sisal matting is a new/old floor covering option making a return. Natural-looking, tough wearing and inexpensive, it's a great alternative to carpeting in high-traffic rooms and hallways.

Walls are being stripped down to the (hopefully heavily textured) plaster. Any wallpapering that is being done is in romantic, heavy florals and bold stripes: classic and traditional.

Think white. Not as in cold and contemporary, but as in seaside cottage: warm cream muslin-draped windows and slipcovers for the chairs. It's wonderful with wood.

There is the other extreme to this minimalist, craftsman approach, and that is the return to the very baroque — the big floral flourishes, heavy, tasseled draperies, elaborate crown molding and gilt framing.

Think old Europe. But not stiff and fussy, the very essence of all designs in the '90s is about comfortable surroundings. In an Edwardian room, that might mean thick Wilton-style carpets, an inviting ottoman, a big fireplace.

TRENDS IN furnishing the house come back to this, too: Everything invites touch, makes you want to take a snooze. Brown leather is back, brown in all kinds of furnishings. And if you had to put your finger on the single most important statement in furniture, it would have to be tapestry — heavy, elaborate, in rich earthy colors. Tapestry is good if you have children; very little shows in the way of fingerprints.

Look at the things that concern you today: You'll see a close correlation in design. Who doesn't have the environment on their minds? And so you see a return to earthy, natural colors.

The family — we're reminded again of its importance. So follows the great room off the kitchen, the main gathering place of the house.

The living room, although smaller than 20 years ago, isn't off limits to the kids. Rather, furniture accommodates inquisitive hands and dusty sneakers perhaps by being made of leather. The workplace — home offices are a given, but our living spaces have grown softer in reaction to a harder 9-to-5 schedule.

The whole idea is to surround yourself with a house, not a showcase. The houses we build for ourselves for the '90s will be remembered by our grandchildren as warm and comforting — the best place to be.

same time," said Carol Lawson, executive vice president of Herbert Lawson Inc.

"I THINK people who build upwards of $300,000 to $400,000 and up are always looking for something new and different," she said.

But that doesn't mean fancy fixtures will be found in every bathroom of even custom-built homes, Lawson added.

Terrie Koch, project manager for Koch Development of Troy, opted to go back in time when selecting a free-standing tub for the house her family built for Homearama.

She chose a cast iron model lined with enamel, brass faucets, oak railing and oak base on a marble platform. The tub, which drew good reviews from showgoers, costs about $4,500.

"I was trying to make each piece look like furniture like they did in the early days of bathrooms," Koch said. "I think a tub like that is a focal point and accents the curved wall."

BIDETS, a traditional European bathroom fixture, seem to be appearing in more new homes here. Several condo buyers have ordered that extra at Kirkway Pines of Bloomfield Hills built by the Selective Group.

"Maybe some people got used to it living in Europe," said Ellen Whitefield, marketing director for Selective.

But Cheryl Wolff, manager of Classic Baths in Birmingham, suggested that bidet owners could have other uses for the fixture. "Maybe they want to take a mini-bath without getting into the tub, a foot soak, sitz bath."

The white china bidet installed in the Monarch Model at Kirkway Pines wholesales for about $200, but prices can vary according to color, faucets and quality of workmanship.

Both Wolff and Marcie Lipsitt, a buyer for Herald Wholesale in Oak Park, see a market for old-fashioned as well as avant-garde fixtures.

"I SEE a lot of traditional coming back," said Wolff. "People are going for a deeper tub. They want to feel submerged in water. People need to relax. Taking a bath today is not necessarily for cleaning."

"There's so much variety today," Lipsitt said. "Because you're seeing so much advertising... (they) consumers will look around."

Variety? Yes. Inexpensive? No.

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO GO THROUGH YOUR GARBAGE.

Every week, more than 500,000 trees are used to produce the two-thirds of newspapers that are never recycled.

American consumers and industry throw away enough aluminum to rebuild our entire commercial air fleet every three months.

We throw away enough glass bottles and jars to fill the 1,350-foot twin towers of New York's World Trade Center every two weeks.

We throw away enough iron and steel to continuously supply all the nation's automakers.

The ordinary bag of trash you throw away is slowly becoming a serious problem for everybody. Not only are we running out of resources to make the products we need, but we're running out of places to put what's left over.

Write the Environmental Defense Fund at: 257 Park Avenue South, New York, NY 10010, for a free brochure that will tell you virtually everything you need to know about recycling.

The few minutes you take to learn how to recycle will spare us all a lot of garbage later.
