Residents react to rape publicity

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Residents and employees of Hampton Court Apartments in Westland, the scene of three reported rapes in recent months, are reeling from extensive media coverage of incidents this past week.

"It's been very bad publicity. Airing it on TV, they're trying to blackball us, which is not very nice," said Tettie Judzinski, resident manager of the 182-unit complex for five years.

Since late March, three women have been raped while living at Hampton Court, on Wildwood north of Ford, including one woman who had been a resident less than a month when she was raped in late May, and another who was raped March 24 and has since moved away.

Police released information to the media about the first rape. Two subsequent incidents were not reported. Information came to public attention only after a victim raped April 28 contacted a television news station.

Judzinski feels the ensuing news coverage has been alarming, causing undue panic among residents and embarrassment to victims. She also feels critical comments about security and maintenance at the complex have been unfair and one-sided.

"Until now, this used to be a nice place to live. This (Friday morning) is a typical day for us," she said, "quiet and uneventful."

POLICE THEORIZE all three rapes have been committed by the same assailant. They have also linked a fourth incident which occurred during the same period of time at Woodcrest Villas complex, about two miles away, according to Westland police chief Michael Frayer.

Residents of three apartments located directly behind the main office at Hampton Court, weary of continued press coverage, refused comment on the issue.

"I feel fine and don't want to talk about it anymore," said an older woman. Two younger residents refused comment altogether.

Residents of an adjacent building in the complex said they are unnerved by the series of events and have exchanged phone numbers with one another for safety. Until last week, they did not know each other.

"I'm OK until my husband goes to work at 6 a.m. Then I'm nervous," said Susan Kraemer who lives in a ground-floor unit. Following publicity last week, Kraemer said the main entry door to the complex where she lives was repaired and can now be locked for the first time in three months.

The entry is one of 27 in the complex which was built 20 years ago. An adjacent entry was easily entered when the door failed to close and latch securely after a woman entered the hall. The door to her apartment, however, was securely locked. Checks of other entry doors

THE WAYNE-WESTLAND school district will study a problem of locked restrooms in the junior high schools — an issue raised by several parents at last week's school board meeting.

School policy requires students who want to use rest rooms to request a key from a teacher or building administrator.

One mother told the board that the locked doors was a problem as long ago when her daughter was in junior high. The daughter is now a college junior.

The school administration promised to look into the problem.

THE COMMUNITY may attend a meeting of the board of directors for the newly-organized Wayne-Westland Youth Music program, 8 p.m., Tuesday, at the Wayne Community Center, Annapolis and Howe.

Auditions for musicians ages nine to 21 years of age seeking entry into the band, string orchestra, choir and jazz band sponsored by the Music Program are scheduled Sept. 14. For appointments, call Randy Blouse, 789-4334.

TABLES AND space are available for rent in the upcoming craft show and sale of unique gifts hosted by the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA. The event is scheduled 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday, and 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, at the Y activities center, 827 S. Wayne Road.

A rummage and sports card sale to benefit the Y's Invest in Youth program is scheduled Saturday, Aug. 10. Spaces and tables are available for rent and donations of resale items are requested. Sports cards will be available for trade or to buy and sell. For information, call 721-7644.

SOME 500 youngsters who have spent the summer in reading enrichment at the Wayne-Westland Library are expected to be rewarded during special festivities Wednesday, July 31, when prizes will be distributed.

SEVEN WESTLAND students were April graduates of Eastern Michigan University. Receiving master of arts degrees were Gail Anglin, Diane Duncan, Patricia Ebbitt, David Foster, Barbara Roselle and Pamela Smith. Joanne Golles received a master of science degree.

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for Pauline Eldridge and Sheila Lindenberg, both of Westland.

Eldridge made the dean's list at the University of Toledo by maintaining a grade-point average of at least 3.5 during the spring quarter. A senior student, she is enrolled in the college of education and allied professions. Lindenberg, a freshman majoring in geology at Hope College in Holland, was awarded the Ancient Mystic Order of the Trilobites Award during an honors convocation.

Insurance won't pay for cleanup

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Insurance carried by the Livonia school district can't be tapped to help pay the bill to clean up the contaminated school grounds at Cooper Elementary in Westland.

While it's far too early to say what the actual cost to clean up Cooper eventually will be, environmental spokesmen say the cost of cleaning up the 40-acre toxic site could run into millions of dollars.

It's also too early in the investigative process to say whether the district will be able to tap into federal and state funds to help pay clean-up costs, or whether it will be able to track down dumpers at the former municipal dump who, under Michigan's Polluters' Pay law, could help foot the bill.

But one fact is certain — the clean-up money won't come from the district's insurance policy.

"The policy excludes the clean-up of a landfill," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli. "It's also questionable whether the policy covers health liability claims. They may or may not be covered. It depends on the case presented, and on the issues, allegations and on the underwriters."

Board discusses suggestions, John Glenn post still vacant

By Leonard Pogor
editor

The Wayne-Westland school board refused Friday morning to act on an administrative recommendation for a new athletic director at John Glenn High School.

The recommendation, which involved promotion of the Wayne Memorial High athletic director, "isn't in the best interests of the students at the two high schools," said board president Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacok after the board held a 90-minute closed meeting to discuss the proposed administrative changes.

Superintendent Dennis O'Neill wanted to upgrade the duties of Neal Thomas, Wayne Memorial assistant principal, to include those of athletic director and promote William Hawley to assistant principal/athletic director at John Glenn High School.

Hawley has been a 17-year physical education teacher and athletic director at Wayne Memorial.

Hawley's promotion would have required school board approval since he would have gone from one bargaining unit to another. Thomas' proposed appointment as Wayne athletic director could be made by the superintendent and doesn't require board approval.

Val Wolf, a mother, whose three children attended Wayne, appealed to the board before it went into closed meeting that there be no changes.

She praised Thomas' abilities as an assistant principal and felt that the proposed additional duties as athletic director would reduce his effectiveness with his existing responsibilities.

Wolf added that Wayne Memorial has undergone too many changes and urged the board "not to disrupt both schools just to get a new Glenn athletic director."

AFTER THE meeting, the school board president agreed with Wolf, saying that she didn't want to disrupt both high schools when "things should be sold at Wayne Memorial."

"Thomas is one of the key strengths at the school and the (proposed) athletic director's duties would take him away from school."

The lack of action by the board, which includes three new members since the June 10 election at which three incumbents were defeated, marked a rare absence of board support for the superintendent.

'Thomas is one of the key strengths at the school and the (proposed) athletic director's duties would take him away from school.'

— Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacok

After the board approved two new elementary school principals and a transportation director (see related story), it quickly adjourned without taking up the Thomas-Hawley positions.

In most cases, administrative recommendations are confirmed by the board without debate.

The dispute Friday over the Thomas-Hawley recommendations triggered a short discussion among board members over their roles in administrative appointments.

"I'm terribly, terribly concerned on what's happening to the board on

Restrictions restored on lawn sprinkling

Dry weather is forcing Westland homeowners to water their lawns only on alternate days.

The city's public services department announced the lawn sprinkling restrictions Tuesday afternoon, just four days after a three-week limit was lifted.

Under the restrictions, lawn sprinkling is allowed from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. based on homeowners' addresses.

Those with even-numbered addresses can water their lawns on even-numbered days, alternating with residents with odd-numbered addresses.

Residents can water their lawns after 9 p.m. regardless of address.

The restrictions were reinstated Tuesday by the DPS because of low water pressure in the city.

The initial sprinkling restrictions were implemented June 27 and lifted Friday, July 12.

Insurance won't pay for Cooper cleanup

THE DISTRICT is self-insured through pool coverage offered to about 20 districts by the Metropolitan Association of Improved School Legislators (MAISL). The insurance also excludes the cost to remove asbestos from school buildings.

So far, said operations director Art Howell, the district has spent about $16,000 on fencing for Cooper and preliminary test borings.

The district has hired an environmental legal counselor, Eugene Smary of Grand Rapids. One of Smary's jobs will be to scout out ways the district can get help in paying the clean up bill, either from federal and state funds or from dumpers who once dumped trash at the former landfill owned by Wayne County.

Test borings expected to be taken within the next few months at the site on Ann Arbor Trail between Inkster Road and Middlebelt, could cost $1,000 apiece, or up to $76,000.

However, the actual cost to clean up the site won't be known until the 76 test borings are taken, analyzed, and a clean up plan approved by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Eric Olson, a toxic substance expert for the Washington, D.C.-based National Wildlife Federation, said the cost of the clean up will be determined by the type of clean up involved.

"A modest clean up could range up to $20 million while a massive clean up, where they excavate and remove soil, could cost more than $50 million," Olson said. "It all depends on what the investigation shows."

A DNR investigation showed traces of the deadly pesticide DDT, mercury and arsenic — among other contaminants — on the site.

Laboratory tests have identified high levels of lead and cadmium in carpeting in the Cooper basement library. And testing has shown elevated levels of cadmium and silver at Whittier, where the district now plans to send Cooper students.

Andrew Hogarth, assistant chief of the DNR's environmental response division in Lansing, said he doesn't believe Cooper needs a massive clean up.

"It's too early in the process to speculate because the project's not yet scoped out," Hogarth said. "But there are not many sites in the massive range and this is not one of them."

"If it will be substantially less, maybe $10 million. It takes a lot of work and time to investigate a site to make these judgments."

Michigan's Polluter's Pay law, Hogarth said, allows the district to seek payment or reimbursement from persons who once dumped trash in the landfill and from the landfill's operator, in this case, Wayne County.

— Eric Olson
National Wildlife Federation

"If they're unable to come up with names, there's funds they (the district) can tap into at the state and federal level, but that doesn't mean these people are relieved of their responsibility."

"We've had old landfills where we've identified dozens of parties. One person gets tagged and he identifies others."

IN THE MEANTIME, residents in the area, reeling from the temporary closure of their neighborhood school, may also suffer another loss — a temporary drop in the value of their home.

Parents don't yet know for sure whether their child will be sent to Whittier, across Ann Arbor Trail from Cooper, or dispersed throughout the city of Livonia. A final decision is awaiting the outcome of four test borings taken at Whittier. School officials have said students will not be sent to Whittier if the borings show elevated levels of toxic metals.

One Realtor who asked not to be identified said house sales could stall until the clean up is complete.

One of the major attractions of the Cooper area, he said, is that students with a Westland address can attend Livonia schools.

"People are stuck until this is resolved if they want to get top dollar for their homes," he said.

At a recent meeting of CHECK, the grassroots group formed by parents and residents to bird-dog the clean up, homeowners were told to seek a reduction in their property tax through the Westland Board of Review if the value of their property should drop.

Elementaries get new principals

Marian Greer and Chuck Stockwell were named Wayne-Westland school district elementary principals Friday morning.

Greer will be assigned in the fall to Lincoln School, on Grand Traverse between Venoy and Wildwood, Westland. Stockwell will be principal at Monroe School in the city of Wayne.

Both were recommended by Superintendent Dennis O'Neill.

Board treasurer Laurel Ralsanen voted against the Stockwell appointment because the current Tinkham Center special projects director has had little "exposure in the K-12 environment," referring to his experience, which has been mainly in special education and adult education.

But board trustee Kathleen Chorbagan replied that in previous positions, Stockwell "has grown to the task" and that the school deserves a full-time principal.

In the past school year, Monroe School shared a principal with another Wayne elementary school.

Lincoln's new principal has spent all of her 24-year career in the Wayne-Westland district, teaching at Edison, Graham and Roosevelt Schools before becoming a learning consultant at Kettering, Hicks and Jefferson. She was at the latter school for four years.

Greer, 49, of Belleville, succeeds James Jennings, who was recently transferred to Hamilton School.

In recommending Greer, the superintendent said Greer's strength is curriculum and that "she looks forward to the challenge which P.A. 25 (a new state law that requires districts to have a core curriculum and an annual improvement plan with parental input) has generated in our schools."

John Glenn post still to be named administrative appointments," said board secretary Leonard Posey.

He felt that recommendations should be accepted unless board members "have credible information to the contrary."

Board trustee Andrew Spisak agreed.

Echoing similar comments was board trustee Kathleen Chorbagan who asked if the board "is changing the way we do business on administrative appointments?"

BUT LAUREL Ralsanen, one of three new board members elected

Her people skills are excellent, which is another factor in the assignment at Lincoln. She is highly respected by her colleagues and I believe will do an excellent job with students, staff and the Lincoln community."

Greer also took part in the district's administrative intern program and served her principal in-

June 10, commented that the board is "making appointments the schools have to live with" in acting on the superintendent's recommendations.

Spisak replied that the board "cannot and should not make appointments based on personalities." If so, "we are inviting disaster."

After the board session, Kozorsky-Wiacek said that "personalities have nothing to do with this," referring to the lack of action on O'Neill's recommendations.

Referring to Hawley, "he is a strong advocate of Wayne Memorial and knows the ropes of the school's athletics," she said.

ternship at Schweitzer School in Westland for one semester.

STOCKWELL, 42 and a Westland resident, has been in the district for 12 years in various special education posts.

In saying that Stockwell has done as an excellent job at Tinkham Center in the past two years, O'Neill added that Stockwell "has been instrumental in working himself out of a job" in helping negotiate with different agencies in turning over the Tinkham program to Family Neighborhood Services.

Stockwell is anxious to return to working with children and has a wealth of administrative experiences, O'Neill said.

The new principal is also looking forward to taking over an elementary "during the upcoming exciting times of the school improvement transition," said the superintendent, referring to P.A. 25.

IN A related promotion, the board confirmed the appointment of Georgia Leece, 54 and a Westland resident, as the district's director of transportation.

She was a school bus driver for 20 years and promoted to transportation leader in 1984. Two years later, she was named transportation supervisor.

Leece replaces Gloria Leonhardt, who retired.

proved to be secure.

In each of the rape incidents, there were no signs of forced entry, Frayer said. On two occasions, wall doors had been left unlocked.

JIM TOBY, who lives in a second-level apartment, said police seem to have beefed up patrols in the area, based on an experience he had some three weeks ago. Toby was leaving for work at 4:15 a.m. when he was stopped in the parking lot by officers in two patrol cars.

Toby said he was asked to identify himself and to explain why he was out at that time of night. Police also made a routine check of his auto license number, he said.

Kraemer said she observed police patrols in the parking lot when returning from an outing at 11:30 p.m. on July 4th.

Following last week's publicity, Westland police were saying little about the case because "we are at a very sensitive point in the investigation," Frayer said.

Beautification awards open

The Westland city council is looking for entries for its fifth annual beautification program which honors homeowners and businesses.

The program was created "to recognize Westland residents and businesses who have made a significant effort to beautify their property," Council president Thomas Brown said.

Any resident or business person may nominate an entry, including themselves, Brown said.

The council's beautification committee judges the entries and awards separate awards for the residential and business categories. The awards will be made at council meetings beginning in September.

Deadline for the September award is 5 p.m., Friday, Aug. 23. Nominate homes or businesses by calling city clerk Diane Fritsch at 467-3191.

'Speaking strictly from a law enforcement point of view, I sincerely hope the (media) publicity has not handicapped our investigation. It may have jeopardized our position. I hope it doesn't turn this into a real tragedy.'

— Michael Frayer
Westland police chief

Frayer refused to confirm whether or not police have a suspect in mind but did say an imminent arrest is unlikely. Police Sgt. Laura Moore is in charge of the investigation.

Mobile home park defends rent increase

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

A $40 monthly rent increase at Westland Meadows has upset residents of the 782-unit mobile home park, but management defends the measure as necessary to continue providing services at the present level.

Until June, rents ranged from $245 to $310. Beginning July 1, they jumped to a range of $295 to $350. Residents were notified of the increase by letter in late May. The increase is the first in two years.

The increase has posed hardship for at least some residents, according to Bob Bowen, president of the homeowners association. In addition to the monthly rent, most also make monthly mobile home payments. They selected mobile house living because it is more affordable than traditional housing.

The rent increase is the first in two years and reflects rising costs of such amenities as trash removal and road maintenance, according to Meadows manager Rick Duhl.

"I don't feel we're out of range," he said, basing such feelings on the cost of rental rates in adjacent parks, continued brisk sales of new and used homes at Meadows and the fact that few residents have elected to move since the rent increase.

MEADOWS, on Van Born and Merriman, is unique in the number of amenities it provides. In addition to a guard gate at the entrance, the park offers use of a large club house, playground, pool and tennis courts.

Other parks in the immediate area offer far less. They also charge less rent. Metro Mobile Home Community, east of Meadows on Van Born, has a pool and small playground. Rents range from $250 to $275 monthly. Sherwood Village in Canton has a flat rent of $299 monthly. The only extra is use of a laundry room.

Anita Hicks, former president of the Meadows Homeowners Association, questions the need to increase rent to pay for rising costs of maintenance, as indicated in the letter to homeowners. When Hicks moved into the park shortly after it opened in 1985, monthly rents started at $190.

"We maintain our own yards. We mow our own lawns. We pay our own water bills," she said.

Although homeowners maintain their own yards, Duhl said other maintenance costs have increased over and above additional income generated from new homeowners as new sites in the park have been developed in recent years.

The cost of trash removal has increased from $200 monthly in 1985 to $2,000 a month today, according to Duhl. "Last year, I spent $150,000 on road repairs alone."

SHODDY MAINTENANCE and failed promises to perform repairs also have homeowners upset, according to Bowen, who said road repairs, particularly on low spots in individual driveways, have never been made in spite of repeated promises by management to do so.

City's moonlight cruise delights passengers

AN ESTIMATED 900 Westlanders enjoyed occasional cool breezes on the Boblo boat Thursday, the first annual moonlight cruise sponsored by the city's community relations department.

The Ste. Clair boat, one of two operated by the amusement island company, moved from its dock near the Ambassador Bridge up the Detroit River, past Belle Isle and back again for three hours.

Live music was provided by Steve King and the Dittillies on one deck and the Gold-Tones disc jockeys on another.

The fun included Hula Hoop and twist-dance contests.

In past years, the moonlight cruise attracted more than 1,100 people, but it was limited to 1,000 this year, said Diane Abbott, interim head of the community relations department.

District backs Robin Hood plan

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

A 'Robin Hood' style piece of legislation that would take money from richer school districts for redistribution to poorer districts has Livonia school district officials worried.

At the same time, the bill is backed by the Wayne-Westland district which serves most of the community.

The controversial bill that takes some money generated from business growth in the state's richest districts and gives it to their poorer neighbors was approved by the state House, with final Senate approval expected this week.

Livonia school Superintendent Joe Marinelli, whose district tax-rich district includes the northern section of Westland, has a list of concerns he has been sharing with legislators.

"The tax base proposal is still a bandaid approach. It doesn't address the adequacy and equity between districts," said Marinelli.

"The first year, it would provide $30 per pupil to in-formula districts (such as Wayne-Westland). In 10 years, it would increase to $250 per pupil. Those numbers do little to solve the equity problem when you're looking at $3,000 to $8,000 per pupil spending across the state."

While the additional funds wouldn't amount to much for recipients, out-of-formula districts would be dramatically affected, according to Marinelli.

"The first year alone, (the) Livonia (district) would lose $1.4 million."

Even though that may look like a drop in Livonia's $100 million school budget, compounded by other legislation, such as recapture (state withholding reimbursement for state mandated programs) which sucked $4.6 million from Livonia this year, combined with next year's proposed tax assessment freeze (a projected $4.1 million dollar loss), it "amounts to a huge chunk of change," said Marinelli.

SUPPORTERS OF the legislation argue it's fair to share commercial and industrial growth — from a utility, for example — because it serves more than one community yet hikes the taxbase only in one district.

Their goal is to narrow the per pupil spending gap in Michigan schools, which ranges from $2,200 to $9,000 per student in districts across the state.

UNDER THE plan, districts would have to share half of the valuation growth of commercial and industrial property with other districts.

One provision is intended to make it less likely the plan would hurt a district that generates too much money per student locally to get state aid — out of formula — but isn't really rich.

Any district with an adjusted gross income per student less than 75 percent of the state average won't have to share its money. If they have an average that's 125 percent of the state average, they have to share the full 50 percent.

Between 75 percent and 125 percent, the percentage of growth they would have to share goes up 1 percent for each percent.

For example, a district where the income per student is 102 percent of the state's average will have to give up 27 percent of its growth, while a district with income per student that is 78 percent of the state's average will share just 3 percent.

Associated Press contributed to this story.

Local runner competes to beat boats

Westland's Loren Bandt of Westland is on a team of 10 runners from the Redford Road Runners Club which will race against 25 other teams, more than 100 miles a day, in an effort to beat the boats in the Port Huron to Mackinac Yacht race.

The second Race to Mackinaw will start 5 a.m. Friday, at the Running Fit location in Novi. The runners expect to arrive in Mackinaw to wait for the boats sometime on Sunday, July 28, says race director Randy Step.

In 1990, the fleet proved to be little competition to the feet as the top relay team arrived at the finish line almost 12 hours before the first boat floated in.

It took the Lake Shore Striders from Grosse Pointe only 33 hours, 42 minutes and 40 seconds to run the 320-mile race. The fastest time ever recorded during the yacht races was 32 hours, 40 minutes and 40 seconds in 1987.

The goal of the Redford Road Runners is to beat the other relay teams from the Midwest and to leave the yacht race record in its wake.

Besides Bandt, Redford Road Runners relay team members are Darryl Peterson of Livonia, team captain Donna Swanson of Northville, Tom Taylor of Plymouth, Tom Gerbu of Canton, Mike Webster of Northville, Lisa Milczarski of Novi, Jim Bumbul of Woodhaven, John Wehrly of Madison Heights, and Bob Cvengros of Brighton.

En route to Mackinaw City the team will run through Clarkston, Orionville, Davison, Frankenmuth, Bay City, Pinconning, Standish, through the Au Sable Forest, Huron National Forest, Mackinaw State Forest, and through Cheboygan.

The race is divided into 47 stages or legs, ranging from five to eight miles each, with each runner responsible for running at least 25 miles over the three days.

Newburgh section closed for 2 weeks

Westland motorists are being warned that a small section of Newburgh in southwest Livonia will be closed for two weeks to allow for the completion of the road's widening.

Starting Tuesday, and continuing through Friday, Aug. 9, Newburgh Road will be closed between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail.

That stretch is used by local drivers commuting to and from jobs in Livonia.

During the next two weeks, the detour route for traffic southbound on Newburgh will be right on Ann Arbor Road to the traffic light at Ann Arbor Trail and then left on Ann Arbor Trail back to Newburgh to resume a southbound route.

The detour for northbound Newburgh traffic will be left on Ann Arbor Trail to Ann Arbor Road, right on Ann Arbor Road to Newburgh, and then left on Newburgh to resume a northbound route.

Presently traffic is one lane in each direction on Newburgh between Ann Arbor Road to a point just south of Warren because of a widening project.

State debate is study in human nature

A LANSING debate over welfare "vending" brought back two conversations about poor folks:

• An Oakland County politico once took me around a "south end" neighborhood and sketched the locals' biographies. This one couldn't hold on to a job; this one couldn't hold on to a spouse; that one frittered away money. "A neighborhood of losers," the politico said.

• A copy desk colleague told why he moved his family out of the south end to one of Westland's nicer neighborhoods. "Back there, they're all losers," he said. The difference wasn't so much income as it was "luck." Everything turned out badly in the old neighborhood, fairly well in Westland.

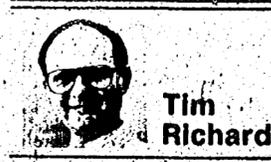

THE POINT, relative to welfare vending, is that there are two groups of clients.

One is temporarily down and out — hubby skips out, and the wife and kids need state help until they build a new life.

The other group has multiple problems — loss of a job, obesity, inability to budget money, drinking, health problems, unsavory appearance, inability to handle money, cranky personality, blotchy skin. In short, they're chronic losers.

"VENDORING" IS the practice in which the state Department of Social Services writes a rent check directly to the landlord for a welfare client.

State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, would like to end vending. As chair of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on social services, Geake said halting vending would require poor folks to be self-reliant and less dependent on government.

Gov. John Engler wanted to end vending, too. It costs the state millions to process those checks and maintain files. Engler would rather pump the money into schools than in DSS administrative help.

At least one welfare rights group agreed with them.

BUT ENGLER'S DSS chief, Gerald Miller, backed down before the July 1 deadline for halting vending.

One reason was welfare careerists, like Rep. Dave Hollister, D-Lansing. He warned of people winding up homeless.

Landlords probably had more influence. I heard them testify in Geake's subcommittee. Without vending, they said, they would have to camp on welfare tenants' doorsteps the day the check arrived, or else the party store would absorb the state's largesse. Groups of landlords vowed that without "vending" their apartments would be unavailable to DSS clients.

In other words, they view a substantial number of welfare recipients as "losers" who can't budget money.

There was another interesting twist in the debate. With DSS vending, landlords could afford to charge substantially lower rents. They were assured their revenue.

But if tenants were trusted to pay on their own, landlords would have to raise rents, and only tenants who could budget would be soaked.

IT WAS A fascinating study in human nature, this whole vending debate.

It put Michigan's most liberal politics and the landlords in one camp, conservatives and welfare recipients in the other.

It forced the liberal camp to concede that some DSS clients aren't so much "victims" of racism, sexism and corporate insensitivity as they are of their own inability to budget their own money and shop wisely.

The two people I cited at the beginning — the Oakland politico and the newsroom colleague — were both liberals, by the way. But their liberalism didn't interfere with their unblinking view of human nature.

The Engler administration could learn much from the debate it lost.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local impact of state and regional events.

Liberals are responsible for our murder rate

THERE'S A LINE from an old country and western song that goes "faster horses, older whiskey and younger women."

The idea behind it is that they're the only three things worth having. I'd add a pickup truck. But then again there are enough country and western songs about pickup trucks to fill a used car lot.

Anyway, I'm glad those things are immortalized in song because if the liberals ever take over, I'm sure they'll be banned.

The reason I say that is liberals tend to be a bunch of overeducated white elitists who basically want to tell everybody how to live. That's why they whine the most when there's a vacancy on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Recently I had a discussion with a liberal lawyer friend who defended liberal judges by saying they educate the public about individual rights. Liberals are big on educating the public. What it really means is "do what I tell you because I'm smarter." And I guess they figure if it comes from a judge, more people will listen.

To me it's pretty high-handed stuff. It's based on the idea that somehow us slobs can't understand the legal system. Somebody has to educate us about it.

LET'S FACE it, the legal system belongs to us, not the judges and professional court watchers. That's why we have the jury system, legislators and election of most judges.

The only judges not elected are federal ones and they tend to be the most arrogant and least responsible to society. And the U.S. Supreme Court is the pinnacle of the triumvirate of arrogance. It's also where the most liberal judges have found a nest.

That hasn't been too bad. Most U.S. Supreme Court decisions don't affect us a lot unless we're career criminals or Democrats. Personally, I'd prefer a life of crime.

But back to the court. Liberals look at the Supreme Court as though it can somehow change human nature, something they'd like to do. They can't. All the liberal Supreme Court rulings in the world won't stop outlaw cops from beating people up.

Usually the Supreme Court is nothing more than judicial masturbation in front of a crowd of overeducated, overly political groups and newspaper people who love to make pronouncements about the fate of the country every time nine old guys in black robes come out and sit on a bench.

THE RULINGS mean a lot of money to lawyers, corporations and a few special interest groups, but usually not much to the rest of us.

The only area their decisions have any effect on us is in criminal cases. If I was a crime victim I'd sure want the reassurance that the scum bag who robbed or assaulted me would be held in jail for 48 hours instead of 24. It would give me a chance to buy a shot gun or get out of town.

Another big deal issue for liberals is gun control. They don't want anybody to have one. Gun control bills really don't bother me, but I've often suspected that one liberal judge who lets crooks off the hook is probably responsible for more murders than a thousand handguns.

Let's face it, State Trooper Kermit Fitzpatrick would probably be alive today if the criminal justice system had kept Steven McGuire in prison.

The 22 used to kill Fitzpatrick didn't go off by itself.

It's time for high-minded liberals to quit whining about not having one of their own on the Supreme Court and realize they've had a hand in many of the murders in our country. And that's why George Bush wants another conservative on the court.

Animal acts to be avoided

To the editor: I attended the Livonia Spree and was dismayed that a racing pig and circus act were part of the scheduled entertainment.

Performing animals must travel long distances in cramped cages and are never able to act out their basic instincts. The whips and electric prods are a constant reminder that these animals are forced to perform for human entertainment. Many of the "tricks" they must learn have been taught through physical punishment.

Animals suffer great stress in these training sessions and the stunts they perform are physically uncomfortable and behaviorally unnatural. Seeing animals performing does not teach us anything about the animals' natural behavior and robs the animal of its dignity. Their true nature is never seen.

When the animals have lived out their "usefulness" with the circus, they are either sold to other circuses, game farms (to be shot for recreation) or even research laboratories. Their lives are miserable from beginning to end.

Many countries, like Sweden and Denmark, have banned animal entertainment. It's time Americans stopped seeing wild animals as playthings and stopped condoning animal performances. When you bring your children to a circus you are teaching them that it's okay to exploit animals for fun and profit. In this age of violence and crime, how much better to teach your children that cruelty is not entertaining.

I would like to see the Livonia Spree Planning Committee schedule human performers for next year's celebration.

Boycott of city is cowardly

To the editor:

Don't boycott Detroit! In response to the letter "Beatings were cowardly act," (July 11), I must wholeheartedly agree that the recent beatings were indeed cowardly. But to never set foot in Detroit (or any other big city) again is also a cowardly act.

There were between 700,000 and one million people downtown for the fireworks. Sad to say, this type of act occurs, especially with so many people in one area. But to allow muggers, thieves and other criminals to dictate where law-abiding citizens may or may not go, is just as cowardly.

Abortion, men don't mix well

To the editor:

In last Thursday's "Livonia Observer" there was an article on "Pro-life," with a picture of a grandmother and her grandson protesting out in front of a clinic where abortions are being done.

I would like to make a comment.

I believe it is wrong to kill an unborn child, but to bring a "cocaine addicted" baby into the world to be raised by a "cocaine addicted" mother is worse. Probably mallicious.

I realize not all abortions are related to drugs, but when they are, it seems to me to be the more humane decision.

When I saw the picture of the boy demonstrating against abortion, I tried to picture myself demonstrating against "whatever" men might choose to do to their bodies.

I doubt very much if I would be taken seriously. If men feel they want some control over the abortion issue, I would suggest that they choose carefully where they intend to plant their garden.

Abortion an issue in race

To the editor:

I was surprised to read in Monday's Observer your interview with state representative candidate Georgina Goss.

She states that she does not have a label on the woman's right to choice issue, and that she will take a look at the issue when it comes before her. This is a mighty weak statement from a person that has been endorsed by the Michigan Abortion Rights Action League.

Her attempt to play the middle ground on this issue is unfair to those of us that look to our elected representatives for leadership.

We need to elect a person that will take a stand and be consistent with their view. For that reason I am now going to vote for Jerry Vorva for state representative.

Kelley proposes rental car tax to fund stadium

Wayne County Commissioner Kevin Kelley, D-Redford, has proposed a rental car surcharge to help finance a new Tiger Stadium. Kelley proposed the surcharge this week in a letter to Deputy Wayne County Executive Michael Duggan.

"The proposed 5 percent increase on hotels may be too great a burden," said Kelley, whose district includes Redford Township and northwest Detroit.

He was referring to the county's proposal to levy a hotel room tax of 5 percent in the county.

"I feel a surcharge on rental cars might be a good way to capture revenue which is being produced by projects like Metro and City airports."

The state of Florida currently levies a surcharge on rental cars to support law enforcement, tourism and international trade.

"The state of Michigan could implement such a surcharge or allow individual counties to levy it themselves," said Kelley. "At 50 cents per day on 1,000 cars, $15,000 per month would be generated which would create a revenue stream for any bond repayment program."

County officials did not return Observer calls regarding Kelley's proposal.

Meanwhile, the Livonia Chamber of Commerce board of directors along with the West Suburban Council of Chambers has passed a resolution opposing the proposal to levy the hotel tax.

The West Suburban Council includes chamber of commerce in Canton Township, Garden City, Plymouth, Westland, Livonia, Farmington/Farmington Hills, Northville, Novi, Wayne, Dearborn Heights and Belleville.

Metro area hotels are already taxed at 12 percent.

"The effects of the current economic slump coupled with the dramatic increases in hotel room supply since 1985 have caused occupancies in metro Detroit, especially Livonia, to be severely depressed. Average metro occupancy is 55 percent. An average break even rate for hotels is 65 percent," said Melissa Maples, spokeswoman for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

Low occupancy and the resulting low rates have combined to create money losing operations and even closings for many local hotels, locally the Plymouth Radisson. At the time, 14 area hotels are currently operating under county commissioner

Chapter 11 status and a dozen can't afford to pay their additional 2 percent tax to the Detroit Metropolitan Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Increased rates will decrease Wayne County hotels ability to compete on a local and national level. Locally, a 5 percent room tax in the county would provide hotels in neighboring counties — Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw — with a substantial price advantage in a region which is already intensely competitive.

The chamber points out that a rate increase would be another blow to Detroit's already troubled convention and trade show business. Present image problems combined with increasing rates would negate any advantage Detroit possesses over competing regional centers and would further escalate the problem.

The addition of a 5 percent room tax on top of existing taxes would place the Detroit hotels among the highest taxed hotel rooms in the nation at 17 percent, second only to New York.

If the proposal is passed by the county commission on Aug. 1, it will then be placed on the fall ballot for a vote by the people.

'Freedom of expression' State board backs student rights bill

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A student "freedom of expression" bill got a minor boost in Lansing with a 5-3 endorsement by the State Board of Education.

The bill would protect student publications, theatrical events, bulletin boards, petitions and buttons. It also would protect a faculty adviser from discharge or transfer by a principal seeking to "suppress or interfere with the free expression rights."

The action was good news in the office of state Rep. Lynn Jondahl, D-Okemos, sponsor of House Bill 4565. The bill is still waiting hearings in the House Judiciary Committee, which could take place in the fall.

Among area lawmakers who are co-sponsors are Democrats Justine Barns of Westland, James Kosteva of Canton, Maxine Berman of Southfield and Republican Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills.

"UNACCEPTABLE," said the two Republican members of the state board who voted no.

"Freedom of speech stops sometimes, and young people need direction," said Marilyn Lundy of Grosse Pointe. "We give too much leeway or license to young people," she said, blaming the trend for 20 years of "violence, promiscuity and drugs."

"It's unacceptable to eliminate (administrative) review," said Dick DeVos, Grand Rapids businessman who was picked for the ticket in 1990 by now-Gov. John Engler.

Democrat Gumeçindo Salas of East Lansing voted no for the opposite reason: Board support was too soft, and constraints on free speech too large, he said.

THE BILL would make supervised students responsible for the content of publications, limited by the laws of obscenity, defamation and disruption of school conduct.

"They must have a faculty adviser," noted member Annetta Miller, D-Huntington Woods. "There's no problem. This bill is very carefully drafted."

"The school district has the opportunity to not sponsor a publication," added Barbara Roberts Mason, D-Lansing.

Also supporting the bill were president Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester Hills, Cherry Jacobus, R-Grand Rapids, and Barbara Dumouchelle, R-Grosse Ile.

criminal and civil liability for student expression — unless those governmental officials have "altered or interfered with the content of the student expression."

An identical Senate bill (201) has had no committee action. It is sponsored by John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe, and co-sponsored by David Hjonigman, R-West Bloomfield.

ON OTHER legislative bills, the State Board of Education took these positions:

• Supported HB 4419 (by Rep. Gordon Sparks, R-Troy) to clarify campaign finance law by exempting board candidates from reporting expenses of less than $1,000 in districts with 2,400 pupils or less.

• Opposed HB 4697 (by Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-West Bloomfield) to restore $72 million in categorical state aid to out-of-formula districts. Some 51 districts are suing to recover the money, which the Legislature first approved and then "recaptured."

The money has already been given to in-formula districts, and a Department of Education staff recommendation said there is no replacement money. Dobb's bill is co-sponsored by suburban Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Michael Bouchard of Birmingham, Tom Middleton of Ortonville and Sparks of Troy.

• Supported HB 4080 (by Bankes of Livonia) to require uniform crime reporting by college police departments.

• Placed "under study" several wide ranging proposals for overhaul of state school financing, including major income tax increases.

WSU board votes to raise tuition, fees

Wayne State University students will pay an average of 6.5 percent more in tuition next fall.

The WSU Board of Governors Friday approved President David Adamany's proposed tuition and fee rates for 1991-92. The effects:

• An average full-time undergraduate Michigan resident will pay $2,759 during the 1992 academic year, plus a registration fee of $50 per semester — up $174.38 over the 1991 academic year.

• An average part-time undergraduate resident taking six credit hours per semester will pay $1,068 for the year, plus a registration fee of $50 per semester — up $67.50 over the current year.

RATES PER credit hour for state residents will be: freshman and sophomores, $82; juniors, seniors and post-bachelor's degree, $96; graduate students (excluding law and medical), $119.25; law, $165.25; and medical, $7,760 per year.

"Wayne State has had the lowest total percentage increase in tuition rates of all Michigan public universities since 1983, and expects that record to continue in the coming year," Adamany said.

WSU has increased tuition 36.2 percent the last seven years, while the average increase of the other 14 public universities in Michigan over the same period was 63.1 percent.

ADAMANY SAID he asked board to raise tuition while state legislators and Gov. John Engler continue work on the budget for the state fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Adamany said he advised students by letter July 5 of the likely tuition increase. He said Wayne will continue to increase financial aid funds.

Adamany said the increase is expected to be the same as the '92 inflation rate of the Higher Education Price Index (HEPI), which typically exceeds the Consumer Price Index by 1.5 percent.

The Legislature's budget bills raise appropriations to universities about 4 percent next year. State appropriations cover about 72 percent of the general fund budget.

TAKING CORTISONE: WHEN TO BEGIN, HOW TO STOP

Taking a steroid daily has a role in arthritis therapy. Prednisone, the cortisone derivative usually prescribed, is distinct from the steroids athlete's use to build up muscles. Prednisone is a powerful drug against inflammation; at times no other medication will substitute in the treatment of arthritis.

Doctors' use of steroids is limited because: (1) the side effects are formidable and include weight gain, hypertension, osteoporosis and decreased resistance to infection; (2) breakthrough of inflammation often occurs and requires using higher doses of prednisone or discontinuing the drug altogether.

Stopping prednisone is not simple. If you are on doses of 10 mg/day for 4 weeks or longer, you need to reduce in a gradual manner since the medication suppresses the adrenal glands' own production of steroids. The body needs a prolonged period of slowly increasing responsibility before adrenal production can take over the requirements of daily life and respond to physical stress such as occurs after an accident or operation.

It is not unusual for your doctor to reduce the drug at the rate of 1 mg/month. This rate of decrease may seem unduly cautious, but such a schedule is safe and will eventually reverse the side effects of past therapy.

Summer is prime time for pickles

I can remember when the Janes Gang owned a cottage just off Point Pelee. As soon as we crossed the Ambassador Bridge, we made the first ritual stop at a now defunct fireworks shop.

The second stop was a bakery in Essex for crusty, hard dinner rolls that tasted equally good with peanut butter for a snack or slathered with margarine with dinner. As I near 40, the mind still recalls the name: The Essex Dairy, which was also the stop for milk.

The third stop was the proverbial Brewers Retail that would slide down a case or two of Old Vienna for dad, Uncle Pete and whomever else decided to venture on over.

WE KNEW the beach was close at hand when we could smell the pickle vats at the Heinz-57 pickle and catsup factory, just south of beautiful downtown Leamington.

I never liked pickles till one day, after the umpteenth free tour, an avant-garde tour guide reached over and grabbed a still warm jar of just-bottled dills from a bustling assembly line. Now I can't get enough.

Jarred pickles have a taste and reputation all their own. Anyone who has ever gone to a Jewish deli and tasted a crispy new dill knows what pickle nirvana is all about.

Jarred pickles have a taste and reputation all their own. Anyone who has ever gone to a Jewish deli and tasted a crispy new dill knows what pickle nirvana is all about.

Speaking of pickle nirvana, try Dorothy's pickles at Getzle's Pub in beautiful downtown Northville! Good news. This is prime pickle season.

Those little pickling cukes planted with love and cared for throughout the blistering days of June and humid days of July are nearing pickling size. You don't want them too big, for they might be mistaken as weapons. This is one instance where smaller really is better.

IF YOU have a cool basement, consider a trek to an old-time hardware store for a classic pickle crock. Available in just about any size, from one quart to about 40 gallons, the speckly-beige crocks will hold enough to delight pickle munchers for months to come.

Sliced and stuck into a Bloody Mary or chopped and slathered on hot grilled brats and dogs, fresh homemade pickle just can't be beat. For those of you pickle aficionados who can't wait the obligatory weeks or months for crocked pickles, there are alternative recipes that produce excellent results in a matter of days, or even in a matter of hours.

Of course, anyone who has ever made pickles knows that if you make one jar, you might as well make 10. Of course, any of the recipes provided will do either. But in this cook's opinion, it pays to work a little more and enjoy a lot later.

The most difficult aspect of making pickles is sterilizing the jars and making sure the lids fit. Yours truly uses his dishwasher for this task, firing up the hot water heater to full blast to glean the hottest of water and then using the hot drying method.

There are many books on the market filled with information on pickling everything from apples to zucchini. The library is a great source, as is your local county extension service.

It's all made from scratch at SWEDISH BAKERY

By Joan Boram
special writer

JOE BREWER, owner of Farmington Bakery, is one of those lucky people who discover their avocation at an early age. Brewer has been baking and cooking since he was 12 years old.

You might think that he started at his mother's knee, but, actually, he discovered his calling at Paul's Hamburgers, a Farmington institution where he cleaned the parking lot and peeled onions and potatoes.

"Then I got a job at the Raleigh House, as apprentice to pastry chef Walter Langlough," says Brewer. "I learned two things from Walter: patience, and, nothing goes out unless it's perfect. No such thing as 'That's good enough.'"

After six years at the Raleigh House, Brewer worked as pastry chef at Oakland Hills and Knollwood country clubs, and at local French and Italian bakeries. In 1987, he bought the 51-year-old Farmington Bakery in downtown Farmington.

"THE ORIGINAL owners were Swedish, and I'm Swedish-German," says Brewer. "Swedish people from the area were accustomed to coming here for cardamon braids and limpa, a Swedish rye bread flavored with orange rind. It was only natural that I continue to specialize in Swedish breads and pastries."

Not only does Brewer do all the baking himself, but he does it all from scratch.

"All of my breads except the ryes are made from a sponge. The ryes are from a sourdough. I don't use buttercream out of a bucket. I make my own with real butter," says Brewer.

As Brewer speaks, Loretta Ball, who works at the counter, is wielding an ice-cream scoop, placing precise mounds of oatmeal-raisin cookie dough on a cookie sheet.

IN THE showcase are "sprinkle cookies" — sugar cookies topped with multi-colored sprinkles. They are not perfectly round "cookie-cutter" cookies. Each cookie is what irregular in shape the edges are curled, and some are thicker than others. Definitely hand-made.

There are a dozen kinds of bread, fresh from the oven: Tokyo bread, dipped in milk before baking, and sprinkled with sesame seed; potato bread; cinnamon raisin; sour rye. All have been baked in a 50-year-old stone brick oven. And Brewer uses the traditional wood peel to remove the bread from the oven.

But it's the pastries — ah, the pastries. The interior of the cozy shop has recently been painted stark, shiny white, and the pastries stand out like gemstones against Brewer's velvet.

There are small tortes, a little larger than a cupcake; lemon; strawberry; ambrosia, topped with a slice of mandarin orange; and even chocolate cream.

"People like them because one is just about enough for two people," says Brewer.

Well, maybe — but it's a safe bet that those two people fight over the last crumbs of the Black Forest torte.

THE SHOP offers three tables for two, where shoppers or moviegoers can stop for a pastry and coffee. For the lunch crowd, homemade sandwiches and salads are waiting, along with the "pizza roll," a Chicago-style pizza, with cheese, sauce, pepperoni or sausage, folded in half.

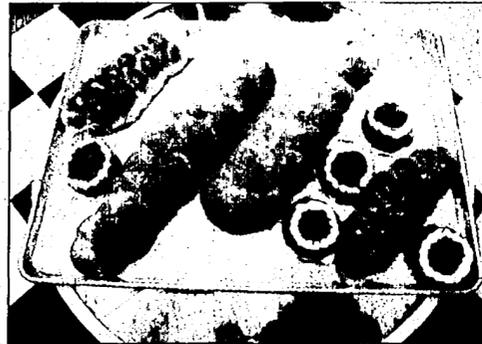

Brewer has just completed six months of study at the American Institute of Baking, in Manhattan, Kansas.

"I took the bakery technology course, because I'm most interested in research and development," says Brewer. "Right now, I'm trying to fit canola oil into a lot of my recipes. I think that's going to be the next trend, following oat bran."

Is a baker constantly tempted to eat his own goodies?

"Not the pastries," says Brewer. "But I love my doughnuts. I make the only doughnuts in the area from a sponge. Others just dump a mix from a bag into a bowl, add water and yeast, and mix. Maybe my customers wouldn't know the difference. But I do. I make those doughnuts for myself."

The Farmington Bakery is at 33250 Grand River, Farmington. 442-2360, hours: Tuesday-Friday, 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Opus One is elegant, eclectic

DISHING IT OUT

All you really need is one rich spoonful of the velvety shrimp bisque, one fork-forced marriage of sun-dried cherries, bibb lettuce and creamy walnut dressing, or one sliver of shrimp stuffing and Dover sole dabbed into champagne sauce.

That one taste is really all you need to know that dining at Opus One in Detroit is a special gastronomic delight.

Of course, while you or your waistline may only need that one bite, this is no place for the meek of calorie or wallet. Be prepared to give up your diet and more than $100 per couple for the experience.

And, what an experience!

Jim Kokas' elegant 4-year-old restaurant features picturesque window views, live piano music and soft-lighted rooms of pleasing pastels with a French country air.

IN KEEPING with the name, the menu features symphony references. On a recent visit our "prelude" was duck pate bursting with pistachios and sun-dried cherries baked in a crust and served with both a raspberry coule and a zesty, fruit salsa (an inspired blend of nectarines, peaches, onion, lime juice and cilantro). It's a true culinary adventure.

Our other appetizer featured two monstrous scallops breaded in almonds, resting on a sliced red onion and served over apple/Roquefort dressing. The scallops absorbed just a slight bit of onion, and they combined nicely with the subtle, sweet sauce.

The next course featured soups: the veal consomme garnished with zucchini slivers starts salty and ends with a rush of pepper. Far more enjoyable was the savory shrimp bisque with each individual flavor — shrimp, sherry and cream — distinctive yet melodious.

For the salads, we sampled the house version, Opus

Peter Loren, executive chef, presents grilled gulf swordfish with stone fruit salsa and red currant coulis. Next to it is vegetable medley nen filo (in filo cup).

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

Romaine, which was a bold, garlic-laced blend of lettuce, croutons and parmesan. For the more venturesome, the Angelic Bibb salad proved to be a stunning mixture of angel-hair vegetables nestled on bibb lettuce with an abundance of dried cherries and a delectable cream-dressing studded with walnuts.

THE ORCHESTRATED accompaniments we sampled included turbans of Dover sole wrapped around a zesty shrimp stuffing and presented over a reduced champagne sauce that enthusiastically complemented the seafood. Presentation — with three tiny, fish-shaped pastries — was lovely.

The special that night featured fork-tender veal medallions garnished with sautéed shrimp and served over a whole-grain mustard/wine sauce. It was a simple, pleasing dish.

For the finale, we sampled the fudge brownie regal and the Bavarian cream puff with raspberry sauce. They were rich and flavorful, but not a highlight.

SERVICE WAS impeccable, with doting waitstaff keeping dishes cleared, glasses filled. The ample wine list features a full 245 selections.

Executive Chef Peter Loren allows the menu to be called an "eclectic blend of classical and contemporary." In English, he says, "We don't screw around with weird, exotic stuff. We stick with recognizable food and do it in the most elegant and best way possible."

Yes, it's expensive, with entrees from $19.50-$32.50. We recommend the prix fixe, which adds $11.95 to your bill for a house salad, choice of soup and dessert.

Champagne's image key

The success of a champagne is tied closely to its image, which can never be taken for granted. Among the Champagne houses, Mumm holds a strong hand in this regard.

The Cordon Rouge bottle upholds an image that bespeaks both tradition and modern lifestyle. The short name Mumm is distinctive, with an attractive ring. Some will even claim that it has given rise to the slogan, "Mumm's the word," known throughout the English-speaking world.

Mumm is the master of slogans that catch the consumer's attention. "Give spirit to the moment" or "To underline the moment" are ageless phrases used by this champagne house.

Cordon Rouge is often used to symbolize champagne and the joie de vivre it represents. The Mumm Cordon Rouge image has been heightened by references in contemporary literature, and Mumm Champagne even appears on stage. Offenbach's operetta La Perichole is frequently performed with a Cordon Rouge ballet!

MUMM WAS founded in Reims in 1827 and launched its spearhead sparkler Cordon Rouge in 1876. The non-vintage bottling is a majority blend of the black-grapes pinot noir and pinot meunier and 25 percent chardonnay. Vintage-dated Cordon Rouge is produced only in the best years and is always a more full-bodied rendition.

Mumm is the leading champagne firm in Reims. Currently, 9.8 million bottles are released annually. About 6.4 million bottles are exported outside France with 2.3 million coming to the U.S. In general, champagne exports account for one-third of all champagne production. Mumm's focus on wine Eleanor and Ray Heald share of export production is two-thirds.

After many years of development, Mumm has once again taken on the best that the champagne world has to offer with introduction of the 1985 vintages of Mumm Grand Cordon Brut and Mumm Grand Cordon Rose, available on a limited basis in major U.S. markets.

"These two prestige cuvees embody the 'best of the best' in all that we represent," explains Champagne Mumm President Hubert Miller. "The wines are produced exclusively from 100-percent-rated vineyards, with extensive selection, nuanced vinification, hand-riddling, hand bottling, hand-ribboning and packing."

Champagne vineyards are classified on a percentage basis known as the "echelle-des-crus." This "ladder" is the mechanism determining grape prices in the region. Vineyards rated between 90 and 99 percent are called premiers crus while those classed at 100 percent are grands crus. Within the Champagne region, there are 17 grands crus and 38 premiers crus.

THE NAME Mumm Grand Cordon and the red-ribbon packaging refer to Champagne Mumm's flagship cuvee Mumm Cordon Rouge.

"It was my life's dream to create such superb champagnes," said Chef de Caves Andre Carre, whose 40 years of expertise stand behind his work.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1985 Mumm Grand Cordon Brut ($80) is one of life's special moment champagnes. Its luxury qualities are exemplified by the steady, small beading and gentle mousse. The aromas of bread dough and toast, linger over apple scents. An elegant, creamy mouthfeel is balanced by solid acidity in the finish to keep the wine refreshing. This is a stellar addition to the line of champagnes from Mumm.

The 1985 Mumm Grand Cordon Brut is produced of approximately 50 percent pinot noir from grand crus vineyards in Ay, Avenay and the Vallee du Marne and 50 percent chardonnay from the grand crus vineyards of Cramant and Avize. A total of 12 grand crus compose the cuvee.

The 1985 Mumm Grand Cordon Rose represents approximately the same assemblage as the Brut, with the addition of still red wine from Bouzy for color.

Chef de Caves Carre will continue to use the same proportions of grape varieties in future vintages, although he may select from different grands crus. "Champagne is an affair of the crus, not of the grape varietal," he explains.

PRINCESS TORTE
Sponge cake: makes 2 8-inch tortes.
4 eggs, separated
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup flour

Whip egg yolks until lemon yellow in color. Add sugar and mix an additional 2 minutes. Fold in the flour by hand. In a separate bowl, whip the egg whites to soft peaks. Fold into egg yolk mixture by hand. Pour batter into 2 greased and floured 8-inch cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 22-30 minutes. Turn upside down on rack to cool. Cover with marzipan.

MARZIPAN
8 ounces almond paste
1 cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon corn syrup
1/4 teaspoon hot water
A touch (drop) of green food coloring
Mix until smooth on low speed, or by hand.

To assemble torte: Split one cake into three layers. Spread raspberry preserves on first layer. Cover second layer with pastry cream 1/2 inch thick. Add enough whipped cream to form a small dome in the center. Cover with third layer. Ice cake with very thin layer of whipped cream. Freeze for two hours.

Roll marzipan out to 1/4 inch thick circle. (Use powdered sugar to prevent sticking.)

Cover entire top and sides of cake with marzipan. Use hands to smooth out the wrinkles. Trim edges with a knife. Garnish with marzipan rose and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

BAKED CHOCOLATE MOUSSE CAKE

1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon granulated sugar
4 ounces melted chocolate (either milk or dark chocolate, to your taste, but not unsweetened)
1/2 cup dark rum
1/2 cup strong coffee
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups heavy cream

Whip eggs and sugar until thick and lemon yellow in color. Add melted chocolate, coffee, rum and vanilla. Mix slowly for one minute.

In separate bowl, whip cream to soft peaks. Fold into chocolate mixture by hand. Grease and flour 10-inch springform pan. Pour batter into pan.

Bake in a water bath in 350 degree oven for one hour. Turn off oven — open door and leave cake in for an additional one hour. Remove from oven. Remove cakes from pans when they have cooled.

CARDAMON BRAID
2 large eggs
1 cup milk
1 oz. compressed yeast
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
4 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon cardamom lemon zest to taste
orange zest to taste

Mix all ingredients until dough is smooth and stretches easily without tearing. Let dough rise 1 1/2-2 hours in a lightly greased bowl covered with a damp cloth. Cut dough into three equal pieces and roll each into a strip approximately 15 inches long. Braid strips together.

Bake at 350 degrees approximately 20 minutes, or until golden brown. While still warm, brush braid with syrup and sprinkle with granulated sugar.

SYRUP
1/4 cup water
1/2 cup sugar

Mix. Boil one minute.

Now's time to pickle cukes

See Larry Jones' Taste Buds column, Page 1B.

HAPPY DILLS
12 medium pickling cucumbers, unpeeled
4 medium onions
2 diced green peppers (optional)
2 diced red peppers (optional)
3 tablespoons salt
5 cups sugar
4 cups vinegar

Slice cukes, onions and peppers. Sprinkle with salt and let stand two hours. Drain and rinse well with cold water. Meanwhile, dissolve sugar in vinegar. Pour over pickle mixture and refrigerate. Will keep several weeks in non-metallic container. Can be canned.

CRISP PICKLES
10 medium pickling cukes boiling water
8 cups sugar
1 quart vinegar
5 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons whole pickling spices
2 teaspoons celery seeds

Cover cucumbers with boiling water. Let stand overnight. Drain. Repeat process for 4 successive days (add fresh boiling water, let stand overnight, drain). On the sixth morning, make a syrup with sugar, vinegar and salt with spices and celery seeds placed in a cheesecloth bag and tied. Heat liquid and spices to boiling. Place pickles in crock or large glass jar (sliced or whole).

Pour hot syrup over pickles. Let stand overnight. Drain syrup. Reheat syrup with spices, pour over pickles and let stand overnight. Drain. Reheat syrup, discard spices. Pour syrup over pickles. Makes five pints. Can be jarred, if desired.

HOMEMADE SWEET PICKLES
1 quart dill pickles 2 1/2 cups sugar 1/2 cup white vinegar 1 1/2 teaspoons celery seed
Drain pickles and place in a large bowl. Combine sugar and vinegar and boil until a syrup is formed. Remove from heat, add celery seeds. Pour syrup over pickles. Allow to stand at room temperature for 4 hours, stirring occasionally. Repack pickles in jar, refrigerate. Makes 1 quart.

Fresh fruits help add zing to summer menu

My summer memories have always been filled with the mouth-watering flavors of sweet, ripe watermelon and cantaloupe, juicy peaches and nectarines, tangy pineapple and plump red cherries that burst in your mouth.

Before summer's end, bring some zing to your usual summer eating by taking advantage of the abundance of delicious and nutritious fruits available.

Creativity is the key when dazling up recipes with summer fruits. They can be used as part of any course at any meal. Fruit is an excellent source of fiber, vitamins and minerals and can add a refreshing new flavor to favorite recipes. Always remember to wash the fruit carefully before using it.

TRY BEGINNING your meal with a different kind of appetizer. Fruit Kabobs With Strawberry Dip make a tasty first course or a perfect snack on a hot August day. Take advantage of those wonderful plums, peaches, strawberries and kiwi.

Fruit is also a terrific way to spice up chicken or fish, and I mean spice up. Citrus Salsa adds an exciting zip with a Mexican flair. For a more subtle tasting chicken using summer fruits, Poached Chicken with Melon is a unique dish with a tasty sauce made from low-sodium chicken broth, fresh ginger, Dijon mustard and balls of honeydew and cantaloupe.

For a beverage try ice-cold Pineapple Lemonade.

Enjoy these easy-to-make, original recipes before the summer passes you by. Although the warm lazy days of summer, will slowly change into the crisp, cool days of autumn, the memories of these delicious fruited menus will last until next summer.

FRUIT KABOBS WITH STRAWBERRY DIP
1 cup whole strawberries
1 large plum, pitted and sliced
1 medium peach or 1 small pear, pitted and sliced
1 medium kiwi fruit, pared and sliced

Strawberry Dip
½ cup plain lowfat yogurt
2 tablespoons whipped topping
1 tablespoon strawberry all-fruit spread ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 ounce toasted sliced almonds

To prepare strawberry dip, combine yogurt, whipped topping, fruit spread, vanilla and almond extract in small bowl. Sprinkle with toasted almonds. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Divide fruit evenly into four portions; thread fruit alternately onto bamboo skewers. Serve with strawberry dip. Each serving provides: ½ Milk, ½ Fat, ¼ Protein, 1 Fruit, 20 Optional Calories. Source: Weight Watchers Magazine Good 'N Quick Low-Calorie Menu Collection, 1991.

CITRUS SALSA
(Makes 2 servings)
½ cup orange and grapefruit sections (no sugar added), diced
2 tablespoons minced red onion
2 tablespoons minced green bell pepper
1 tablespoon chopped fresh cilantro (Chinese parsley) or Italian (flat-leaf) parsley
1 tablespoon lime juice (no sugar added)

Tomatillos firm, tangy

AP — Tomatillos, usually available throughout the year, are most associated with Mexican cooking.

Tomatillos look like cherry tomatoes wrapped in a green, papery husk. The flavor is very tangy, so they are rarely eaten alone. Rather, they are a basic ingredient in salsas, and are often used in tacos, enchiladas, sauces, stews and salads.

Like tomatoes, tomatillos are low in calories and are a good source of vitamin A.

When shopping for tomatillos, look for those that are firm and dry with clean, tight-fitting husks, free from mold and rot. They may be hard, unlike tomatoes, which give a little. Tomatillos can be stored up to one month in a refrigerator.

To prepare: Remove the husks and rinse in cold water to remove any sticky resin found around the stem. Tomatillos may be poached gently, without simmering, for 3 to 10 minutes, depending on their size.

To roast unhusked tomatillos, place them on a baking sheet in a 450-degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Be careful they don't burst. Cool, then remove husks and rinse off.

2 teaspoons olive oil
1 teaspoon seeded and minced jalapeno pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
dash ground red pepper

In small bowl, combine all ingredients and mix well. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate until ready to serve. Just before serving, stir well. Serve over broiled chicken or fish.

Each serving (about ½ cup) provides: ¼ Vegetable, 1 Fat, ¼ Fruit. Source: Weight Watchers Meals In Minutes Cookbook, 1989.

POACHED CHICKEN WITH MELON
(Makes 4 servings)
1½ cups low-sodium chicken broth
Four 3-ounce skinless boneless chicken breasts
3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon firmly packed dark brown sugar
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 teaspoon minced fresh ginger root
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
1 cup honeydew melon balls
1 cup cantaloupe balls
Chives to garnish (optional)

In a medium skillet, bring broth to a boil; reduce heat to low and bring to a simmer. Add chicken; cover and simmer 8-10 minutes. With slotted spatula, remove chicken from skillet; cover and refrigerate 2 hours, until chilled.

Meanwhile, boil broth until reduced to ¼ cup. Stir in remaining ingredients except melon balls; cook, stirring frequently, 5 minutes. Gently stir in melon balls; toss to coat. Refrigerate 2 hours, until chilled.

To serve, spoon melon balls and any liquid evenly over chicken. Garnish with chives.

Each serving provides: 2 Protein, ½ Fruit, 30 Optional Calories. Source: Weight Watchers Magazine, Aug. 1991.

PINEAPPLE LEMONADE
Makes 1 serving
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon thawed frozen pineapple juice concentrate ½ teaspoon honey
¼ teaspoon pineapple extract

In a 2-cup measure, combine 1 cup cold water and all ingredients. Stir well and pour over ice in a 12-ounce ice-filled glass.

Each serving provides: 1 Fruit, 10 Optional Calories. Source: Weight Watchers Magazine, Aug. 1991.

Bring bean salad on a picnic

When you need a break and blue skies and warm sunshine beckon, one of the more pleasurable ways to relax and wile away the hours is to have a picnic.

Instead of packing sandwiches and the like, opt for a change of pace with a nutritious main-dish salad. The salad featured here contains all the necessary ingredients for satisfying summer fare, as well as providing protein, minerals and vitamins. Dessert could be wedges of melon or any other fresh fruit.

TWO-BEAN GARDEN SALAD

Makes 6 Servings
Dressing
½ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon instant minced garlic
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon sugar
Dash freshly ground pepper

Salad
One 16-ounce can kidney beans or small white beans
One 19-ounce can garbanzo (chick-peas) beans
4 green onions with 6-inch tops, sliced
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped red or green pepper
2 tablespoons coarsely chopped parsley
One 6 ½-ounce can tuna, drained
Salad greens

Place dressing ingredients in jar with tight lid; shake well. Allow to stand 30 minutes for flavors to blend. Shake again when ready to use.

Drain beans. Rinse with cold running water; drain well. Combine with onions, celery and pepper. Add dressing and toss thoroughly. Cover and chill. When ready to serve, stir well and spoon into salad bowl lined with greens. Flake tuna and mound in center. If desired, garnish with tomato wedges, onion slices, parsley sprigs or olives.

Bean salads not only contain necessary ingredients for satisfying summer fare, but also provide protein, minerals and vitamins.

This menu offers 'taste of history'

The way to America's heart is through its stomach at the Greenfield Village special weekend event "A Taste of History" this Saturday and Sunday.

During the weekend, two centuries of culinary artistry will be explored with food demonstrations and samples.

"We all love to eat, but food has been taken for granted in history," said Jim Maier, the museum's executive chef. "In fact, food really reflects history by showing how resources were used to put a meal on the table."

Visitors can watch sausages, soups and baked goods cooked throughout the village, then purchase samples from special village food stalls.

Historian Jan Longone will be on hand to discuss the history of American recipes and cookbooks. Visitors will also be invited to speak up about the best cook in their family and to share reminiscences about food-or-ented family gatherings.

AT THE Connecticut Saltbox House, visitors can trace a path from the garden to the dinner table in the 1760s. Costumed interpreters will prepare a typical New England-style summer meal, including rabbit fricassee and queen cakes, with cider to drink.

Visitors can see what's cooking at the Firestone Farm and discover how a Midwestern family in the 1880s brought food to the table from the fields and the farmyard.

Visitors of all ages can lend a hand churning butter or turning the crank to make ice cream. Kids can enjoy an old-fashioned pie-eating contest. And guests can sample "switchel," a sweet gingery drink that helped generations of farm workers keep cool on hot days.

Admission to "A Taste of History" and all special weekend programs is free with Greenfield Village admission. Village hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Queen Cakes

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon mace
1 cup dried currants, plumped in water and drained
3 egg yolks
2 egg whites

Cream the butter and sugar together thoroughly. Sift the flour with the mace and add to the butter/sugar mixture. Beat the egg yolks, then add carefully to the batter. Beat the egg whites until they hold soft peaks, then fold into the mixture. Fill buttered and floured muffin tins two-thirds full and bake in 350 degree oven for 10 minutes, or until light brown. Makes about 36 small cakes.

Switchel

This was taken to workers in the harvest or hay fields in stoneware jugs chilled in the spring or running brook. After quaffing all around, the workers set the jugs in a shady, breezy spot covered with wet sack- ing or canvas so that evaporation would keep them cool.
2 quarts cold water
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup molasses
½ white vinegar, or to taste
1 teaspoon ground ginger pinch of salt

Chill and serve. (Can add rum).

Barley accents this seafood salad

This barley seafood salad features creamy dilled dressing.

Barley Seafood Salad with Creamy Dilled Dressing combines the nutty, earthy taste of barley with vegetables, yogurt, rice, salmon and tuna for a low-cholesterol, highly nutritious salad. The Creamy Dilled Dressing is rich and tangy.

BARLEY SEAFOOD SALAD WITH CREAMY DILLED DRESSING

Pedestrian rice and tuna salads abound but the blessing of barley adds high fiber along with a nutty unique flavor for a make-ahead meal. This is great for warm weather dining and is healthy enough to serve with a decadent dessert.

Dressing

- 1/2 cup plain yogurt
- 1/2 cup kefir or sour half and half
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons minced celery
- 2 tablespoons green onion
- 2 tablespoons minced fresh dill
- 2 tablespoons parsley

Salad:

- 2 cups barley cooked in 4 cups chicken broth
- 1 cup red and green pepper, julienned
- 1 cup crookneck and zucchini, quartered and sliced
- 1 cup broccoli (steamed or microwaved 4 minutes)
- 1 cup cauliflower (steamed or microwaved 4 minutes)
- 1 can (14.75 ounce) red or pink skinless, boneless salmon
- 1 can (12.5 ounce) white or light tuna in water

Bring rinsed barley to boiling point in chicken broth. Reduce heat and simmer. Cover and cook for 20 minutes. Combine dressing ingredients and set aside in refrigerator. Prepare all vegetables and toss in large bowl with seafood. Combine with barley and fold in dressing. Serve main dish salad garnished with lemon wedges and parsley sprigs.

Mix zucchini with artichoke hearts

AP — One secret to cooking a combination of vegetables in your microwave oven is adding them at just the right time, so they all get done just right. The dish below starts with frozen artichoke hearts that need thawing, and finishes with tomatoes that need no cooking at all. Serve this colorful sampler with grilled chicken or fish.

ZUCCHINI-ARTICHOKE CONTINENTAL

- One 9-ounce package frozen artichoke hearts
- 2 tablespoons water
- 3 medium zucchini (1 pound), sliced 1/4-inch thick (4 cups)
- 2 cups fresh mushrooms, halved
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
- 2 medium tomatoes, cut into wedges and seeded
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In a 2-quart microwave-safe casserole, cook artichokes and water, covered, on high (100 percent power) for 3 to 4 minutes or until thawed.

Stir in zucchini, mushrooms and green onion. Cover and cook on high for 9 to 11 minutes (low-wattage oven: 12 to 14 minutes) or just until tender, stirring once. Drain well.

Stir in garlic, salt and pepper. Dot with margarine or butter. Cover, cook on high for 1 minute more. Stir in tomatoes; sprinkle with cheese. Let stand for 2 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

WHAT WE LEARNED FROM THE JULY 7 STORM.

LOOKING BACK.

It was the worst storm in the 88-year history of Detroit Edison. When the 70 mile-an-hour winds, rain and lightning stopped, more than one in three of our customers was without power. And all of us had learned some unforgettable lessons.

Among the most vivid lessons is the most obvious: Nature at its worst is more than a match for man at his best. Quite simply, when a storm can rip trees apart like inconsequential twigs, power lines are going to go down. Lots of them.

Detroit Edison people can tell you first-hand how destructive this weather front was. Over 5,000 of them worked up to 16-hour days repairing the damage and restoring power. Over a thousand employees who usually work in offices were out guarding power lines to warn people away. Dozens of retirees came in to help with the task. Within 12 hours, we were arranging to get help from other utilities. Crews from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Ontario helped with restoration efforts.

During the week, we handled more than 175,000 outage-related phone calls from customers.

When the power went out, many of us learned about how many things electricity does for us. And tragically, we were also reminded of its hazards.

LOOKING AHEAD.

If any good came of this storm, it told us how important it is to continue our aggressive programs to speed restoration, improve communication with customers, minimize the impact of damage and prevent the damage in the first place.

In the third year of a six-year, $1.3-billion program aimed at putting us among the most reliable companies in the nation, we're speeding up our tree-trimming, maintenance and reliability construction cycles.

We're building new substations and adding hundreds of new circuits to improve the reliability of our system.

We're training more people on our computerized storm outage analysis system every day. And while NO electrical network could have handled the massive destruction of the July 7 storm, under anything approaching "normal" storm conditions, our outage analysis system can save precious hours and days in restoring power. Because it allows us to localize trouble spots, even down to specific pieces of equipment, like transformers, instead of going out and searching for them.

We're even working on technology that will allow us to turn off power to downed lines remotely.

By the end of the year, we also will have a whole new computerized phone system. One that will work with more speed, and more lines. So customers can get through to report outages more easily and more quickly.

Like you, we hope we never see another storm like this one. But because we learn a little more every time out, if something like this does come again, maybe it will disrupt your life a little bit less. And things will be back to normal a little bit sooner.

Hawks' '74 team wins regional title

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The Livonia YMCA Premier Soccer Club has a regional champion.

The Michigan Hawks '74, a girls under-17 team coached by Tom Coyne, captured the U.S. Youth Soccer Association's 12-team Region II tournament Wednesday in Sioux Falls, S.D. with a 2-0 victory over Ohio North at Tomar Park.

The Hawks are one of four teams advancing to the USYSA Nationals, which kicks off next Thursday at Tranquillity Park in Omaha, Neb.

The Michigan State Champs open the four-team tourney against Texas. The other matchup pits teams from California and New Jersey.

"This is great because we've worked for it six years," Coyne said. "It's been our goal because it slipped by us the past two years."

Natalie Neaton, who attends Detroit Country Day School in Birmingham, scored what proved to be the game-winning goal on a header in the first half.

Kristen Westveer (Troy) added an insurance goal in the second half.

Goalie Kristi McGough (Troy Athens) recorded her third tournament shutout as the Hawks dominated from start to finish in the 105-degree heat. Their defense allowed just one shot on net.

THE HAWKS opened tourney play with a 3-0 win over a wild card entry from Missouri, followed by a 2-2 tie with Nebraska and a 5-0 triumph over Missouri's state champions.

In the tournament's pivotal matchup, the Hawks defeated longtime nemesis Ohio South (Beechmont Blitz), 2-0, on goals by Ragen Coyne (Livonia Stevenson) and Kara Nance (Rochester Adams).

The Blitz had beaten the Hawks the past two years in regional play, including a 1-0 victory last year.

"The kids were really geared up to play," Coyne said. "Just a great effort by everybody. Technically and tactically they were superb. The kids were surprised."

Coyne called Neaton a "runaway freight train up front."

"She created havoc with their defense," said the Hawks coach, who credits assistant coach Brian Borde with designing an effective game plan.

Borde is an Olympic Development coach and head coach at Ann Arbor Huron High.

"He came on board with us about a month ago and he's done wonders," Coyne said.

Michigan Magic-Wolves '74, an under-17 boys team coached by John Bools, lost its championship final Wednesday to Kansas, 1-0.

The Magic Wolves reached the final with a 1-0 win over Pegasus on a goal by Marcus Cudnik (Warren DeLaSalle).

The Michigan Hawks '79 girls under-12 squad, coached by Mary Kay Hussey, reached the semifinals before being ousted.

The Livonia YMCA's under-16 and under-19 girls teams, along with its under-16 boys squad, were all eliminated in early round play.

The play was about all that went wrong for Walter's, which clinched the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League regular season crown with a 14-4 mercy win at Ford Field.

Plante records honors

By Steve Kowaleki
staff writer

Just because his name is pronounced the same way as a famous rock 'n' roll star doesn't mean Robert Plante has to listen to any of the singer's music.

The 29-year-old Westland native likes the sounds of the former Led Zeppelin lead singer, but he's better off not listening to any of his favorite tunes prior to one of his shooting competitions.

During the recently held U.S. Sports Festival, Plante calmed his nerves by listening to tapes of ocean waves and quiet, synthesized music. Plante was able to concentrate enough to win a silver medal in free pistol and a bronze in air pistol at the competition held in Chino, Calif., about an hour and 10 minutes north of Los Angeles.

"I've tried (listening to) everything from Pink Floyd to anything else, but nothing works," said Plante, a 1980 John Glenn graduate. "Once you put a tune on you really like, you start humming it. In shooting, you're basically trying to blank your mind so that you're focused on what you're doing, not a particular song."

Plante entered the air pistol final in a three-way tie for first place with 570 points out of a possible 600. He nailed the half-inch ten-ring four times out of 10 for a final round score of 98.3, but he couldn't keep pace with eventual gold medalist Jerry Wilder, who scored 100 points out of a possible 109.

PLANTE BLAMED the finish in part on a battle he had with bronchitis, combined with the hot California sun and smog, making conditions less than preferable. Performing under more ideal conditions a year ago at the Sports Festival held in Minneapolis, Minn., Plante came home with the free-pistol gold medal with a record score of 559.

"The people I competed against last year were not of the caliber of people I faced this year," said Plante, reached at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo., where he has trained the last seven months. "And the conditions were much different. I caught bronchitis and a chest cold the week before the Festival and it's been tearing me up. Plus the smog is real though out there, too. If you're out there three days, you're already coughing."

Maybe that's why he's enjoying his stay so much in Colorado Springs, where you "can't beat the weather," Plante said.

Plante was a machinist at Redford Detail up until January when he decided to move west and train on a full-time basis with coach Dan Iuga, a former Olympic silver medalist in free-pistol and gold medalist in rapid fire.

Iuga, born in Romania but currently a U.S. resident, will take Plante and seven other U.S. shooters to his native country next month to train with the Romanian team.

"Coach Iuga is very important, the main vein of the whole shotgun program," Plante said. "He's definitely a good role model in my eyes. I haven't had a coach in his caliber and I'm still climbing this ladder. I never found anybody of his experience and knowledge to get me where I want to go."

PLANTE ALSO has his father, Don, to thank for getting him started in the sport. Also an accomplished

Walter's has way vs. rival Caesars continues slide

Instead of directing his frustration at an umpire, Redford Little Caesars coach John Moraitis spoke out Friday about his players' attitude after losing to Walter's Appliance, 7-3, in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League regular season finale at Ford Field.

The loss was the sixth straight for Caesars, which finished the regular season at 16-11-1, three games behind champion Walter's. Moraitis was ejected from Wednesday's 14-4 loss to Walter's by home plate umpire Chuck Brady, but this time he had no run-ins with Brady, who was on the basepaths.

Despite the loss, Caesars is one of four teams that have qualified for the league playoffs, which begin July 31. Walter's is the No. 1 seed at 20-7-1.

"We ended up in second place, but I'm not bragging or nothing like that," Moraitis said. "I don't see any momentum, and there was no intensity today. When we were losing today, I looked on the bench (from the third base coach's box) and saw players telling jokes, laughing, no one was rooting each other on. I'm not out here for myself. I'm out here for them."

Caesars led 1-0 in the first after lead-off man Earl Johnson doubled and later scored on a passed ball, but Walter's scored two runs in the third and four in the sixth. Jay Gabel, of Livonia Churchill, hit a two-run home run in the third to score Jerry Koester (Westland John Glenn) from second for a 2-1 lead.

Four straight hits during Walter's fifth-inning rally helped send Caesars' starting pitcher Jeff Bates to the bench.

Paul Pirronello (Redford Catholic Central and Henry Ford Community College), Koester, Bob Bullach (Farmington) and Gabel had consecutive hits, and an RBI single by Craig Overalls (Livonia Franklin and Henry Ford) also contributed to the rally.

Anthony Chandler delivered an RBI single in the seventh to finish Walter's scoring.

Chris White, the first of three Walter's pitchers, earned the win in three innings of work.

Walter's coach Mike Keller is cautiously optimistic about the playoffs.

"The only thing about the playoffs is everybody is 0-0; it's a new season," he said.

DELWAL 4, FIEGER 3: Delwal stayed in contention for the league playoffs Wednesday with a narrow win over Fieger and Fieger at Ford Field.

Tim Bruce limited Fieger to one earned run, struck out nine and walked two over seven innings to win his fourth game against one loss. Fieger's Dave Wood suffered the loss in going the distance and scattering only five Delwal hits.

Delwal's Jason Abec broke a 3-3 tie in the fifth with a two-out single that scored Eric Sumpter from third base.

Leading Fieger's attack was Todd Fracassi, who was 3-for-4, and Aaron Mach, who had an RBI on a sacrifice. Matt LeMieux had a fielder's choice RBI for Fieger and teammate Bill Flohr had an RBI double. The two teams met again Friday, but details were unavailable.

HINES PARK 5, CANUCKS 3: Bill Terzki (Madonna University) had a three-run homer in the fifth Wednesday to carry Hines Park to a win over the Canucks at Plymouth Canton. Mike Culver (Canton) had two hits to support the winning pitching of Chad Logan, who moved his record to 2-1.

TOTAL TRAVEL 9, WENDY'S 8: Total Travel won a wild game Wednesday with three runs in the bottom of the seventh at the University of Detroit.

A walk to Gary Devine (Farmington Hills Harrison) forced home Rob MacDonald (Harrison) with the winning run. Total was cruising with a 6-1 lead into the sixth inning, before starting pitcher Darren Clark ran into trouble.

Wendy's scored seven runs in the top of the seventh to take an 8-6 lead, and Scotl Nielson had to come on to end the rally. Gary Devine, Kevin Young (Farmington), MacDonald and Jason Lichtman had two hits each. MacDonald hit a home run.

Bolo takes right approach to U.S. Senior Open

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

It's really no big deal. Others — lots of them — might not share that attitude. After all, this is one of the biggest professional senior golf tournaments of the year.

But Ray Bolo, the golf pro at Western Golf and Country Club in Redford Township, approached this week's U.S. Senior Open at Oakland Hills Country Club in Birmingham the same way he handled the qualifier last Monday at West Bloomfield's Knollwood CC.

Indeed, it was Bolo's approach that proved to be the difference in the scheduled 18-hole qualifier. He and Cass Jawor, the pro at Rochester Hills' Hampton Golf Club, tied for the fourth and final berth, each shooting 72. After both parred the first sudden-death playoff hole, Jawor knocked his drive on the second hole into the woods.

Bolo's approach shot was right down the middle of the fairway. He parred the hole; Jawor bogeyed. That gave the final playoff spot to the 57-year-old Bolo, Western's pro for the last 31 years.

BOLO'S REACTION to his dramatic finish, giving him a spot in this week's Senior Open?

"Well, it's nice to get into something close to home. At least I don't have to drive too far."

Uh, yeah.

Perhaps experience has helped Bolo forge his views. This will be his fourth Senior Open, after all; he estimated he has played in "about two dozen tournaments overall. I average about three a year."

The last big tournament Bolo played in was the Senior Club Pro Championship last November in Florida. How did he fare? "Not too well — I finished 75th or something."

HIS ATTITUDE remains focused, however: "It was fun to get away and play with the fellas I used to play with all the time," he said of the Senior Club Pro Tournament.

Bolo said much the same about this week's Senior Open. "For the amount of time I get to play compettively, I do all right. It's hard to play well against these guys who play all the time (on the tour)."

It's not surprising that Bolo keeps a tight rein on his expectations, tempering them with a healthy dose of reality. His goals for the Senior Open? "I intend to have a good time," he answered.

The Oakland Hills CC course should be to his advantage, Bolo figured. "I enjoy this course," he said. "I always play well there."

New system could alter scoring

ONE OF THE MORE controversial bowling topics in recent times has been labeled "the system of bowling."

It will officially go into effect on Jan. 1, 1992. The "system," as I shall refer to it will have some effect on the manner in which the lanes are to be conditioned or oiled.

Back in 1988 the bowling world decided to use the "short oil" system and that has been in effect since. There has been a lot of controversy over the present system, some saying it makes for too easy a shot for those players that can take full advantage of this condition.

Over the past few years, honor scores have escalated dramatically and some of the averages appear to be artificially high. Nobody objects to high scores, but these games and averages must be attained through the skills and talent of the bowler, rather than the lanes' conditions contributing to the scoring.

The bowling industry — and that includes the ABC, the proprietors and the local associations — all agree that a uniform system would be best. A system that will give undeniable sanction to the honor scores that are bowled on approved lanes. A condition that will be fair to all types and abilities, from the juniors to the seniors, from the duffers to the classics and all types in between.

THE NEW "system" will be more challenging to the better bowlers, yet without any radical changes for the average "Jane and John Doe" bowler. The new "system" has been thoroughly tested and researched, enough so that the entire nation will be able and ready to change on New Year's Day.

Every segment of bowling has agreed on this new "system," so just what is it?

The key element is the "three unit rule." What are three units? And more importantly, what effect will the rule have on the way the lanes will be oiled?

Those are the questions many league bowlers will be asking as they begin the fall season.

With allowance for a phase-in period, and barring any last minute repeal, every ABC certified house will be required to place a minimum of three units of oil across the width of each lane. This means there will no longer be those bone-dry outside lanes, which were very common with the short oil conditions and led to the development of the swing shot, which was largely blamed for the proliferation of high scores.

Three units is really not a lot of oil, but is enough to delay the booking action of the ball, compared to lanes where there is just a trace of oil on the outside boards. This is not to say that bowling will be harder.

ON THE CONTRARY, many bowlers will probably benefit from this condition, particularly some seniors, some of the women and a few of the youth leaguers who do not normally generate a lot of speed on the ball.

Spare-shooting might become more predictable also, since we won't have to deal with wet/dry oil patterns on the lanes. Even for those very high average bowlers, this may have some benefits, as it will offer some new challenges to their ability.

If you're a good bowler, you will still be good and you should not be too concerned if your average goes down somewhat.

In general, most bowlers are going to have to play a more direct shot to the strike target, learn to make the adjustments, whether it be a move on the lanes, a change in ball speed or even a different ball that may react better for you.

Noteworthy, the ball manufacturers are holding back on new products right now. It seems they want to wait and see what will work best with the system, and producing the equipment that will work better on these conditions.

In all, there were more than 12,700 perfect games recorded last year compared to about 6,000 just six years ago.

Is the current generation of bowlers that much better than those of six years ago? Not likely, since most of us are really just six years older.

The new urethane balls have a lot to do with the high scores, and only time will tell how this will work out for bowling. With the "system" there will be some variation from one house to another, as the proprietor may elect to oil as far as down the length of the lane as desired.

THEY MAY OPT to put down more oil than the minimum three units as long as the basic formula is adhered to: At least three units of oil on the first 10 boards from the channel on both sides of the lanes, with twice that amount to be applied to the middle 20 boards.

In other words, a proprietor could put 10 units on the outside, then there must be 20 units on the inside boards. That's not likely but serves as an analogy to help understand how this will work. Most proprietors want to give their customers the best shot they can, so after some early trial and error, most of the bowlers should be able to respond favorably to the new system of bowling coming your way next year.

According to Dave Soutar, a top pro who started his career in the Detroit area, this new "system" will put a premium on being able to hit a target in order to score. He advised to keep an open mind to what might be a new challenge to your game, and if necessary, do some extra practicing to adjust to the conditions and fine-tune your game.

Bill Spigner, an author, writes in "Bowling Clinic" that bowlers are afraid the oil will be applied in great amounts and the ball will not hook, but this couldn't be further from the truth.

Three units of oil is not very much — in fact it would take less than eight ounces of oil to condition 10 lanes. With the "system" of bowling the proprietors can lay down any length of oil and any crosswise pattern of oil they want as long as there is a minimum of three units of oil across the entire width of the lane for whatever length the lane is oiled.

Little Caesars Pizza will strike up camp opportunities with the Striking Ladies All-Pro women bowlers during special all-star bowling camps from July 25-27. The bowling camps, sponsored by Little Caesars, will simultaneously be held at five locations in the metro Detroit area.

All camps will include three days of morning and afternoon instruction sessions, and a complimentary pizza lunch from Little Caesars.

The camps will gather prestigious all-star bowlers like Michigan's top women bowlers Aleta Sill and Cheryl Daniels. Sill is the winner of 18 pro titles, a four-time All-American winner and two-time bowler of the year.

Daniels is the winner of four pro titles and a 1989 All-American.

Other all-pro bowlers attending the camps include Tish Johnson, Dana Miller-Mackie, Lisa Wagner, Carol Norman, Cindy Coburn-Carroll and Wendy MacPherson.

All of the pros will rotate to different sessions and camps throughout the three-day program. Also included as part of the camp is "Hottest Bowling Tips," a video by the Striking Ladies. Camp participants can purchase personalized videotapes of their own bowling techniques for an additional fee.

Bowling enthusiasts may register for the $90 camps by sending a $45 check or money order to: Pro-Bowlers Marketing Corp., P.O. Box 43874, Attention: Cheryl Daniels and Aleta Sill.

The $45 balance is due at camp registration. The camps are being coordinated by Cora Felbig, a bowling Hall of Famer, Little Caesars is also the sponsor of the all-star women's pro tournaments, scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Friday, July 26 at Satellite Bowl in Dearborn Heights and 6:30 p.m. Saturday, July 27 at Thunderbowl in Allen Park.

The bowling camp locations are: West Bloomfield Lanes, 8800 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield (855-9555); Drake's Lanes, 3500 Grand River, Farmington Hills (478-2130); Satellite Bowl, 25451 Michigan Ave., Dearborn Heights (378-7400); Cloverlades, 28900 Schoolcraft, Livonia (427-6410); and Classic Bowl, 2145 Avon Industrial, Rochester (652-9100).

Men's and women's golf tournament sponsors: O&E/Whispering Willows

Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28-29. Entry fee is $50. Handicap maximum is 36.

Plante aiming high shooter, Don said he took his youngest son to the Ford Gun Club 14 years ago after some prodding by his wife, Jan.

"My wife bugged me and said, 'You never take Bobby anywhere,'" recalled Don, a supervisor at the Rouge Steel Plant. "Why don't you take him shooting?"

Three years after firing that first shot, the younger Plante switched from shotguns to the less-expensive pistols. After mastering a .22, his father bought him a .45 and now he's shooting with a .17 caliber air pistol.

Plante placed fifth at the 1988 nationals and in 1989 won the Michigan state outdoor title and earned the honor of "Distinguished" in the use of a service pistol.

Plante will bring his latest medals home and leave them for his father to hang in his office when Plante visits his parents for this weekend.

"My dad definitely taught me everything I knew up to the point of becoming an international shooter," said Plante, who expects to be one of the four men named to the 1992 Olympic team as either a free-pistol or air-pistol shooter. "He was already a classified 'expert' indoors and I was a classified 'nobody.' I bring the medals home because I'd rather see the medals at their home than in my dorm room since they're medals I've already won and they're behind me."

"I look forward to winning as many medals as I can and two more competitions this year (in L.A. and Dallas, Texas). I feel very confident, as long as I continue my trend of shooting, I will be one tough competitor."

● PADRES UNBEATEN

The Padres, a Junior Football League Blue Jay Division baseball team from Livonia, recently completed a perfect 12-0 season.

● FREE YMCA TENNIS

The Livonia Family YMCA will be staging free tennis evaluation for those interested in joining a fall daytime league at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 1.

The YMCA conducts seven levels of women's and two levels of men's doubles leagues. (Women's singles leagues are also open.) To reserve a sport, call 261-2161.

● SOCCER PLAYERS NEEDED

The Detroit College of Business soccer club team is in search of players for the upcoming fall season. Potential players must be high school graduates and preferably be enrolled this fall in the Detroit College of Business. An open tryout will be given at 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 3 on the soccer field south of the college's academic building at 4801 Oakman Blvd., south of Michigan Ave. For more information, call DCB's athletic director Kevin Brazell at 581-4400.

● METRO BEACH BIATHLON

The Metro Beach Biathlon will start at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 3 at the Metro Beach Metro Park in Mount Clemens. Events include a 1 K swim followed by a 5K run. Fee is $11 per participant, $15 on the day of the race. T-shirts and a medal will be handed out to all those who finish the biathlon and the top three in each age group will receive a plaque or olympic-sized medal. Boys and girls, and men and women, ranging from the 13-under division to 60-over are eligible. For further information, call (313) 463-4581 during the day or (313) 792-4563 at night.

● MILLS NAMED

Brian E. Mills, of Livonia, has been elected to a one-year term on the Western Golf Association's Board of Directors. Mills is president of Essex Insurance Co. in Livonia and is a member of Meadowbrook Country Club in Northville and Country Club of Boyne.

ONE REASON: Both Oakland Hills and Western are Donald Ross-designed courses. They are challenging, but not tailored to long-hitters.

And, as Bolo noted, senior golfers (for the pro senior tour, that means over 50) don't hit quite as long as they once did.

"It seems to be that way, the older you get," he said with a chuckle, acknowledging the obvious.

Which is why the senior tour likes playing at places like Oakland Hills, according to Bolo, rather than Jack Nicklaus-designed courses. An informal survey he conducted among senior players 60 and over during a program at Western last month revealed just that.

"They said the Nicklaus courses were too demanding, with their length and narrow landing areas for their type of game," said Bolo. "They said these type courses (Oakland Hills and Western) were a lot more fun."

Which is what Bolo likes to put foremost in golf — namely, the enjoyment.

When they checked the bottom of their plant stand in Oklahoma, the couple discovered the royal seal which was traditionally imprinted on royal belongings. The plant stand was returned to palace officials and is now on display.

Tour time: 45 minutes to an hour. Call (808) 522-0832 for reservations. Admission $4. Open 9 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. Wednesday to Saturday.

Hanalei, the Queen Emma Summer Palace in the Nuana Valley, is maintained by the Daughters of Hawaii in a charming Victorian setting with a dash of Hawaiian show.

Queen Emma was born in 1836 and later became the wife of King Kamehameha IV. Tucked back on a busy highway on a slight hill, the summer getaway home is surprisingly private.

The small palace is filled with priceless and exquisitely handmade furniture, such as the koa wood cradle for Emma's son, his godmother was Queen Victoria. The large feather plumes signifying royalty sway in the cool breeze that travels literally in the front doorway, through the house and out the back door.

Tour time: About a half hour. Open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week. Admission, $4. Located at 2913 Pali Highway, Honolulu; 595-3167.

GOLDEN BEACHES

It's the stuff Midwestern daydreams are made of: pristine, deserted beaches as far as the eye can see. Or, if you like a bit of scenery in a skimpy bathing suit, there are packed beaches where tourists from Germany, Japan, Australia and beyond come to bake under the hot Hawaiian sun.

Hanauma Bay Beach Park, on Kalanianaole Highway (72) past the well-to-do neighborhood of Hawaii Kai, is the place to go for spectacular vistas. Shaped in a splendid half circle, the bay can be photographed from the parking lot above before you follow the steep paved path down to the beach. This is a good place for snorkeling. Get there early on weekends because people are regularly turned away when the parking lot fills. It's located along the coastal highway, so parking is risky.

If you plan to go to Hanauma during the week, keep in mind that there will be major construction on the highway as it heads out of Honolulu for the next several years. Traffic slows to a standstill during morning and afternoon rush hours.

Travel time: East of Waikiki, about 45 minutes plus traffic jams.

Ala Moana Beach Park, on Ala Moana Park Drive off Ala Moana Boulevard (92) west of Waikiki, is easier to reach, especially if you only want to spend an hour or two tanning. It is across the street from Ala Moana Center, a huge outdoor mall with Chanel, Gucci and Cartier shops, as well as more reasonably priced stores.

Ala Moana Beach is nice because there is a grassy picnic area. A local respite from the blazing sun. Coolers camp out all day at Ala Moana next to a barbecue. There is parking on a two-lane road along the beach.

For walking, jogging or even roller-skating Magic Island, a man-made peninsula, is located on one end of the beach.

TROPICAL SCENERY

The Pali Lookout, on the Pali Highway (61) about five miles past Queen Emma's Summer Palace, is the place to stop for breathtaking views. If it's a clear day, bring your camera. You will get an entirely different perspective on the Hawaiian landscape.

From the lookout everything looks lush and green, completely opposite from the volcanic scenery found around Hanauma Bay. Deep ridges are carved into the mountains that stretch on for miles.

Chinaman's Hat, a small peaked island, can be photographed through palm trees from the North Shore. You can get there via the coast road past Hanauma Bay or via the Pali Highway; either way will take you around the volcanoes to Highway 83.

This excursion can take the better part of a day but it is beautiful. The North Shore is famous for attracting surfers from around the world who take on the huge waves such as the Bonzai Pipeline. The lifestyle is very laid back.

I felt like I had gone through a time warp back to the 1960s: long hair, Volkswagen beetles and vans everywhere. After the glitz of Waikiki, the North Shore is refreshing. Be sure to stop in the pretty little harbor town of Haleiwa, near the old sugar plantation town of Waiialua. Art galleries, surf and T-shirt shops line the streets.

Stop at Kua Aina Sandwiches, at 66-214 Kamehameha Highway, for excellent hamburgers and sandwiches. Then, wander down the street and have a shaved ice for dessert at one of the many stores that sell the sweet concoction. To speed the trip back, cut through the middle of the island past the pineapple fields on H-2 and H-1 highways which eventually lead back to Honolulu.

Aloha.

TORONTO

Michiganians love to visit Toronto, and Toronto loves to welcome us there. From now until Sept. 30, 60 of Metro Toronto's best hotels are participating in a discount program called Remarkable Toronto Value Package. They are offering special rates 7 days a week — some as low as $49.95 Canadian (about $45 U.S.). If you register under the program, you also receive a kit filled with coupons for discounts on admissions, dining and shopping, and you'll be eligible for gifts, incentives and bonuses at some of the big shopping areas including Eaton Centre and Queen's Quay. Call 1-800-363-1990 for more information.

HOTELS

If you prefer staying a little closer to home, the Radisson Plaza Hotel in Southfield has special weekend rates from now through Sept. 8. Their Shades of Summer program offers deluxe accommodations, breakfast for two and use of the facilities which include an indoor pool, Jacuzzi, sauna and fitness center at $59 per night. Call (313)827-4000 or 1-800-333-3333 for reservations.

WILLIAMSBURG

Colonial Williamsburg is offering two new attractions this year: The courthouse, built in 1770 has been restored over the last year. It opened in June featuring tours, dramatic presentations and re-enactments.

A new subterranean museum, Winthrop Rockefeller Archaeological Museum at Carter's Grove, explores the history of Woiwostholm Towne, an early settlement destroyed by Indian attack in 1622. Call 1-800-HISTORY for information, schedules, and reservations.

RIVERBOATS

The Delta Queen and the Mississippi Queen are the only overnight passenger paddle wheel steamboats still remaining in America. For the fall, both boats are offering special foliage tours.

The Delta Queen will be sailing on the Ohio, Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers with 3 to 12 night cruises. The Mississippi Queen offers 7 night fall cruises on the upper Mississippi.

Fares range from $150 to $550 per night, per person, depending on cabin type, and include all meals (5 a day). Call 1-800-543-1949 for more information.

ADVENTURE

Clipper Charters will be operating the M/S Society Explorer for adventure cruises in 1992. Cruises include Costa Rica's National Parks, the Darien Jungle and the Panama Canal; British Columbia, the Queen Charlotte Islands and Southeast Alaska; and the Inside Passage and Gulf of Alaska including Kodiak Island. Call 1-800-325-0010 for more information.

CAMPING

If you like camping vacations, planning your trip just got a little bit easier. Go Camping America is offering a vacation planner with information about camping opportunities at thousands of public and commercial campgrounds and RV parks.

When you request the packet, you also receive a "Sunshiner" ID card which entitles you to special hospitality at campgrounds across the country, and a "Festival '91" events calendar. Call 1-800-47-SUNNY.

BOATING

As the summer heat sends many of us to the lake, AAA Michigan has released guidelines for boating and canoeing safety. Staying alert is the key to safety, because several hours in the sun, glare and waves can slow down reaction time.

"The best way to stay alert is to avoid alcohol and take a break every couple of hours," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager.

Other tips: use a life jacket (required by law), don't overload (especially if canoeing), and get off the water when the weather becomes threatening.

FLYING HIGH

The annual Festival of Flight takes off July 19-21 at the Neil Armstrong Air and Space Museum in Wapakoneta, Ohio. They will commemorate the 21st anniversary of that first small step for man with everything from an antique car show to model rocket launches.

On July 20, the Celina Reservoir HAM Radio Club will contact ham radio fans around the world from the museum lobby 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; the Brass Chapter of the Antique Auto Club of America will display its cars on the grounds from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; there will be presentations about air and space topics 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and a model rocket launch and contest at 1:30 p.m.

"Or climb the waterfalls of the Seven Pools and find hidden ledges, quiet pools, waterfalls you can't see from below."

Lori Byrd of Livonia, who lived in Hawaii at one time, thinks most travelers miss the biggest and best bargain shopping area in all of Hawaii.

"Every weekend 'Kamainas' or Islanders and military personnel living on the island of Oahu pack up their families, and any 'Hales' (pronounced howl-ees) or visitors from the main land, and head out to the swap meet," Lori says.

The swap meet is Hawaii's, and possibly the United States', biggest yard-style sale, frequented by everyone who knows about it. The bargains range from the traditional Hawaii T-shirts to rattan furniture and the ever-popular flip-flops. Anything that a tourist could ask for can be found here.

"The swap meet is set up around the stadium in a track-meet style oval. Each proprietor has a booth, tables or truck set in an area along one of four ovals that encircle the stadium. Many vendors sell items that are similar in nature, making bargain shopping an art. Finding the best buy on a T-shirt to take home as a souvenir is more than half of the fun.

"The swap meet is every Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine, at the Aloha Stadium. The stadium, in Honolulu near Pearl Harbor, is very accessible from "H-1," one of the two major highways that stretch through Oahu.

"Anyone staying in Honolulu, neighboring towns or cities, as well as in Waikiki, can make their way to the swap meet by way of the island's public transportation system. The Bus, as it is so affectionately called on the islands, is capable of taking a visitor nearly anywhere he wishes to go.

"Oahu is a very beautiful place to live or visit. It has a lot of great bargains to be discovered. Anyone who ventures to Hawaii for any reason should make a day of the swap meet, if for no other reason than the wonderful exercise achieved from walking around exploring the terrific scenery."

Robert Figurski of Canton was in Hawaii last year, or so I was told. When I called his parents, Judy and Lawrence Figurski, I learned that he is Marine Cpl. Robert Figurski, and he stopped in Honolulu on his way to the Persian Gulf.

Robert graduated from Canton High School, joined the Marines and trained in San Diego, Maine, North Carolina and Virginia before they shipped him out for the Persian Gulf late last year.

"He was in Hawaii two days, and he can't tell you much about it because he's still overseas," Mrs. Figurski told me. "He'll be home in August, and he's already signed up to start at Eastern Michigan University in the fall."

Aloha, corporal.

Pearl Harbor attack survivors are sought

Are you a survivor of Pearl Harbor? Were you there when the Japanese planes dropped their bombs on the fleet of ships based in Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941? Are you a relative of one of the 2,403 service men and women killed in Hawaii on that day, the day that the United States became an official part of World War II?

If you can answer yes to any of those questions, you will want to know about the preparations being made for the 50th anniversary commemoration of Pearl Harbor in December 1991. The commemoration will begin on Wednesday, Dec. 4, and will culminate with special services aboard the USS Arizona Memorial on the morning of Dec. 7.

Pearl Harbor survivors, and the families of those who died there on that day, will be the special guests throughout the week's events. They will be given the first seats on the shuttle boat that runs to the Memorial Dec. 7, even if that means that you and I must stay behind.

The USS Arizona Memorial is operated by the National Park Service in conjunction with the U.S. Navy. The memorial structure spans the sunken battleship U.S.S. Arizona. A shuttle boat runs regularly between the memorial and the shoreside Visitor Center.

The center is off the Kamehameha Highway, State Highway 99. Visitors typically start arriving early in the morning to avoid lineups, because they are allowed into the center in groups, identified by the number of tickets given out over a particular period of time.

A National Park Service Ranger gives a brief talk before leading visitors into the theater for a documentary film on the Pearl Harbor attack. You will see the Japanese planes launch their surprise attack at 7:55 a.m., and the 1,760-pound armor-piercing bomb that hit when the Arizona exploded at 8:10 a.m.

The Oklahoma rolled over after the torpedos hit. The California and the West Virginia sank at their moorings. The Utah capsized. The Maryland, Pennsylvania and Tennessee were damaged. The Nevada was the only battleship that got away intact. Groups then board the shuttle operated by the U.S. Navy for the short run to the memorial.

The white curved sides of the memorial actually form a grave marker for the servicemen who died defending the U.S.S. Arizona on that December Sunday in 1941. The assembly area, open to views of the sea, contains a wall listing the names of the 1,177 sailors and Marines killed aboard the battleship.

As a special tribute to the ship and its lost crew, the navy permits the American flag to fly daily from the flagpole attached to the severed mainmast of the sunken ship.

If you are a survivor of Pearl Harbor, there are people who want to hear from you. Contact Joe Niemi, 3346 Manoa Road, Honolulu, Hawaii, 96822 or telephone (808) 988-2025.

Please contact me as well. We are planning a story about Pearl Harbor in the fall and would like to include survivors and their families. Send a postcard to 22000 Springbrook, Suite 208C, Farmington Hills, Mich. 48336.

An island stop to visit such places as Waikiki Beach can break up what can be as long as 15 hours of flying time from the Midwest to Asia.

Taking a little R&R in Hawaii

By Christina Zarobe
special writer

Hawaii is not just for honeymooners and family vacations anymore. Strategically located between Asia and the U.S. mainland, this island paradise has attracted a new type of tourist — the business traveler.

As U.S. corporations have increased their business trade with Japan, Korea, Taiwan and other Asian countries, Hawaii has become a common stopover between East and West.

The layover may be only for a day or two, but a weary business traveler can still get a taste of the rich Hawaiian and Polynesian culture as well as some much needed rest and relaxation. An island stop breaks up what can be as long as 15 hours of flying time from the Midwest to Asia.

The key to a Hawaiian mini-vacation is knowing in advance what you want to see and how long and how complicated the excursion will be. By applying the same business practices used in the financial world — research and a bit of time management — a stopover can offer nearly as much as a full vacation.

Hawaii's cultural scene is constantly evolving as the stream of both visitors and immigrants from the South Pacific and Asia continues, but visiting a few choice sites can be both informative and enjoyable. It can also help you plan a longer stay another time with your family.

Renting a car is the best way to see Oahu, the most populated of the islands and home of the capital, Honolulu. With a map in hand, getting around Oahu is not difficult — remember, you're on an island so don't panic about getting lost.

Midwesterners find convertibles almost irresistible, but remember that part of the reason Hawaii has such colorful rainbows is because of its frequent, misty rains, known here as "liquid sunshine." They are not storms that will drench your car interior and belongings, but expect things to be dampened.

ROYAL HAWAII

Iolani Palace, built in 1882, is the only palace in the United States. The official residence of King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani, the last monarchs of this island kingdom before its overthrow in 1893, the palace is conveniently located in downtown Honolulu at King and Richards streets.

Pad around the palace with your guide, wearing cloth slippers that protect the soft wood floors, and you'll receive a concise history of a crucial time in Hawaiian history.

Despite the island's isolated position in the Pacific, King Kalakaua was fond of European finery. Notice the Bohemian crystal and the Parisian china in the royal dining room. The Hawaiian Koa wood used on the graceful stairway is as rich as the legacy of royalty in the islands.

While the monarchy ended tragically, the $6 million restoration of the palace gives visitors a sense of the flamboyance of the king's lifestyle. Balls were held in the crimson and gold Throne Room, with guests spilling out onto the lanai that encircles the palace. The king would entertain until dawn along with his guests, who were not allowed to leave before the king.

A couple from Oklahoma City were touring the palace when they recognized a plant stand in the royal bedroom. It was a reproduction, similar to a plant stand they had bought at a flea market back home.

Area residents know off-the-road spots

By Iris Sanderson Jones
social writer

Bill Putnam of Birmingham has been in Hawaii twice on vacation and once on his honeymoon. Bill and Kathryn celebrated their marriage with a week in the islands in July 1990.

"The airlines fly into Honolulu unless you arrange to fly into either Hawaii or Maui," Bill said. "I've stayed in all three islands. If you like nightlife, people and traffic, you like Honolulu. There are interesting off-the-beaten track places on the north shore of Oahu.

"My grandmother has a condo on Hawaii, the Big Island, but there is not a lot to do there for the younger crowd. My personal favorite is Maui. That's where we spent our honeymoon."

Bill and Kathryn stayed in the Maui Islander, $65 or less for a big room with kitchen facilities three blocks from the water. It was in the town of Lahaina, not far from Kaanapali, the historic whaling waters of the island.

"It's great to watch the whales come in to give birth to their young in March," Bill said. "You used to be able to go out and pet the whales, but the government stopped that. You can still look at them."

Bill specializes in little off-the-road spots that the tourists don't usually find. "If you take the road west from the airport and go north up the west coast, you drive through a rock; if you park on the other side, you'll find a long rubber rope that local people use to climb down to a very private beach.

"Or take the long curving road that is cut out of the mountain to Hana on the other end of the island. You find one-lane bridges and waterfalls. You can climb the waterfalls and keep going beyond them.

Reggae's pulse has strong beat

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Steel Pulse's David Hinds gets a kick out of telling the story.

A mother takes her daughter to a reggae show featuring Steel Pulse. Daughter's never heard of the band or reggae music for that matter.

After the show, Hinds meets mother and daughter after the concert.

"She says 'I don't like reggae, but I like you,'" said Hinds in a telephone interview, "That's enough for me."

The anecdote, though, sums up the crossover appeal Steel Pulse has garnered since emerging from working class Birmingham, England in the mid-70s. But at what price?

Like recently, Steel Pulse enlisted the services of Stephen Bray to produce a one cut, "Can't Get You (Out of My System)," on the band's latest MCA release "Victims."

Really now, Stephen Bray? This is the producer who has been known to collaborate in the musical neighborhood of Madonna and Breakfast Club.

Then there is the seemingly endless reign of techno gadgetry on "Victims," which veers away from a traditional reggae aesthetic that embraces a purly of being Caribbean roots music.

Elements of pop, hip-hop, rock and rap even stream their way into the group's eighth release.

While critics might contend this has rendered some of the band's political overtures benign, Steel Pulse has undeniably bridged gaps to the realm of contemporary pop music only few reggae groups have dared tried.

Guest appearances and high-tech tendencies aside, Steel Pulse is not minus heart and soul. The band's musical perspective is just different.

FORMED BY keyboardist and vocalist Selwyn Brown and Hinds, Steel Pulse found an immediate following on the English punk circuit buoyed by the reggae explosion that would also filter its way into the music of The Clash and The Police.

"Other reggae bands would be listening to other reggae tracks and other reggae bands. We were listening to things that other reggae outfits wouldn't even have in their house. I remember coming home from school and listening to people like Jimi Hendrix and the Climax Blues Band."

Steel Pulse released their first album in 1978, "Handsworth Revolution," named after the district the band is from in Birmingham, England. The LP was hybrid of music influences from the '70s, including funk.

The band continued to evolve, releasing a spate of albums while Hinds continually grappled with the political realism in his lyrics. His vision doesn't only skim the periphery, continuing to write songs like "Free the Land" about apartheid in South Africa while addressing senseless violence in the techno-synth rhythms of "Gang Warfare."

Selwyn Brown (left), David Hinds, Phonzo Martin and Steve Nesbitt believe Steel Pulse's latest MCA release, "Victims," will find an audience beyond the traditional listeners of reggae.

In an inner-city rap comes the lyrics, "Cold blooded killings don't make no sense to me/We should be civilized and save humanity/Why don't you wake up from your sleep and from your slumber/We've got to stop this madness from taking over."

"I don't sit down and try to construct a song about an issue just because of an interview I might have heard," Hinds said. "I had to have a theme on something I've witnessed or experienced so I have enough information so I know what I'm talking about."

SUCH POLITICAL commentary helped earn the band's 1986 Elektra release "Babylon The Bandit" a Grammy while "Earth Crises" released in 1984 was nominated for the music award. By then, though, Steel Pulse had already turned high-tech in the studio while maintaining the energy to usher it through.

"You can't deny it's Steel Pulse," Hinds said.

Red C parts toward mass appeal

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Susan Calloway's raspy voice and Tim Diaz's unshaven face disclose more about Red C's past six months of existence than anything. Both look whipped.

The four-member outfit is collectively shaking off the effects of a weekend road trip to Traverse City. Through bleary eyes, though, Red C sees a brighter end to such endeavors.

Out-state excursions are all part of the massive plan to get signed to a record deal and liberate themselves from the drudgery of local bardom.

"Every band wants to get a record contract," Calloway said. "That's become even a stronger goal... Before it was a dream that we couldn't touch and now it's starting to fabricate."

Many groups say this. Many groups believe this. But few actually get major label folks to sign them.

But why let cynicism ruin a good party?

Red C. Remember them? They were that band whose members enthusiastically talked about the incongruent mix of Christianity and rock'n'roll dreams with the same aplomb only a year ago. Stephen Woods, Diaz and Calloway decided then after two years it was time to take their songs public.

A steady slate of shows on the club circuit has changed them. The group has grown more focused, desiring a higher platform for their engaging sound of pop-rock music led by Calloway's resounding vocals.

SINCE JANUARY, Red C picked up a manager and a new bass player. Also, the band's music has turned into a core of roots and folk rock bliss. Guitars have grown spikier and Calloway's vocals more free-form.

In the transformation, Red C has become more confident without degenerating into cockiness. This self-determination reveals itself in declarative statements and unbridled attention to detail in Diaz and Calloway's songwriting.

And though their message was never of the proselytizing variety, Red C members Calloway and Diaz are increasingly more vague about the role their Christianity has in the total mix.

"It's just because there wasn't a whole lot going on out there," Diaz said. "My personal feeling is if you want to reach the masses with a message, just don't direct it to the inner group."

Added Calloway to the fog: "There has been some rethinking of the philosophy."

Adjustments are not limited to philosophy, however. Guido Milligan of Detroit joined Red C as the band's new bass player in January, replacing Jeff Hoffer. Milligan played for a brief period with Norma Jean Bell's band and was the regular bassist for Blue Room along with doing some session work.

MILLIGAN'S STYLE reveals a hint of a jazz influence, but sounds right at home with Red C's pop-rock offerings.

"I saw incredible songwriting," Milligan said. "That's what I felt."

ELECTRONIC — Electronic

This by all intents should be new music's finest hour. The pairing of former Smiths' guitarist Johnny Marr with New Order's Bernard Sumner is perhaps one of the most anticipated collaborations of recent memory.

With Marr there is the breadth of exploding guitar melodies that provided the hallmark of The Smiths' sound. Sumner is the curator of a seemingly endless stream of infectious techno-dance rhythms during the past decade with New Order. What could go wrong?

In this case nothing. Expectations are met and exceeded. Electronic's self-titled debut LP on Warner Bros. is a fresh, buoyant collection of songs that manages to explore the new music's nether regions without degenerating into fragmented bombast.

Quite the contrary, Marr and Sumner's work remains remarkably contained within the boundaries of a pop number.

The sum of this can be heard in "Get the Message," the best cut off of the release. Marr's accelerated acoustical strumming opens the number with the renewed spirit of a rising sun. The synth oozes in eerie cadence with the plaintive vocals, sprightly punctuated with an indelible piano.

Marr and Sumner's pop craftsmanship reveals itself well in songs like "Tighten Up" and "Patience of a Saint" while numbers such as "Soviet" offer technotronic exploratory surgery at its finest.

In "Tighten Up," Smith's fans will be appeased as the guitarist displays his guitar brilliance on this number that bears the closest resemblance to a Morrissey-Marr collaboration.

Traditional naysayers of the heartless, cold techno-dance compositions could be turned off by Electronic only after a cursory listen. It's their Joss. Repeated spins will continually turn up the most peculiar subtleties, be it the ear-catchy whistling on "Idiot Country" and the barely audible guitar echo on "Some Distant Memory."

In the final tally, one gets the feeling Marr and Sumner merely scratch the surface here, which will make Electronic's next effort even more fulfilling.

MELT — Straightjacket Fits

For those of the curious nature, Straightjacket Fits are a hard band not to like. Vocals barely hover above a cascading guitar glaze and there's plenty of quirks and nuances designed to keep one's interest throughout. They even profess their pop intentions up front on "Melt" (Arista).

So, in that sense, Straightjacket Fits are quite in line with their fellow New Zealand countrymen The Chills. Ah, but if that were the only nail to hang this four-piece band's music on.

By their own doing, Straightjacket Fits delightfully hide behind the obscure and revel in their vagueness. The creative tandem of Shayne Carter and Andrew-Brough like to think of themselves as something of a mystery (an image no doubt hammered home by the Arista publicity machine).

But, really, their insular guitar pieces and moody lyrics are quite transparent. Something tells us from the minimalist strumming in the opening cut "Bad Note for a Heart" both Carter and Brough have spun a few Joy Division records. From the same song we get a dose of their pendant for lyrical ambiguity (ala R.E.M.'s Michael Stipe) "He's got a head like an aching upper hemisphere."

Straightjacket Fits succeed in spite of all of this needless pretension. Undeniably, the New Zealand puts forth some rapturous guitar buzz when following their instincts on such numbers as "Such a Daze" and "Down in Splendor."

The layered guitar effect on "Skin to Wear" is hypnotic as much as it is sensual while the murky textures of "Hand in Mine" belies the soft whisper of the vocals. Even the lead guitar break on the last number is palatable, despite being a bit self-indulgent.

Straightjacket Fits finds its niche on "Melt."

STREET SENSE

It's best to leave daughter at camp

Dear readers,

Recently, a young mother of an 8-year-old daughter asked me the question I am going to answer in today's column. The situation she describes is a common one and so I want to share some thoughts about it with you.

Mom relayed the following vignette:

Jane, her daughter is at an overnight camp for two weeks. It is some distance away. As is required of most camps, Jane wrote some letters after she had been there a few days. Two of her letters were to family friends. In those, she reported having a "great time." But in the letter she wrote to her parents, her refrain was less positive. To them, she reported not happiness but loneliness.

Mom and Dad became very worried and called the camp. They were told by the owner that the letter to the friend was the honest one and that Jane was in fact having fun. While Mom felt satisfied with this response, Dad remained concerned and was contemplating rescuing his daughter.

It was at this point that Mom asked for advice.

Before giving any, I investigated the reliability of the counselors and Jane's general mental health. Both were positive. I then told Mom not to worry and to insist on her daughter completing her two-week stay.

There are two questions that need to be answered. First, why would a normal, happy kid report being unhappy when she was not? And what if the situation were not so clear and Jane was lonesome, should her parents then rescue her?

Jane reports being unhappy because, like most children, she doesn't want to be forgotten. She reasons that if her parents think she is "just fine," she will be easily dismissed, so she is not "fine" when communicating with them. While this is immature, Jane is a child and self-centered logic is appropriate.

The next vignette will help explain why Jane's parents shouldn't rescue her, even if she were lonesome.

I am seeing an 8-year-old boy as a psychotherapy patient. Last year, he went to overnight camp for eight days. This year, his parents wanted him to go for 19 days, but left the decision up to him. He refused to go any longer than the eight days he went last year because, one, he doesn't like being away from home and, two, he said his parents just wanted to get rid of him.

Over a few weeks, he and I discussed this issue. I asked him what he would think of his Mom and Dad if they still lived with their parents. He laughed at this silly idea. I asked him if he wanted to "go away" to college when he was 18 and he emphatically said yes. Without explanation, he was getting the idea that practice is essential to independence as it is in other endeavors.

In school, the books get harder and the message to our children is that they are expected to meet greater intellectual demands. In sports, the competition gets stiffer and the message to our children is that they must increase their physical strength.

Emotional development needs to be taught, too, not by protecting our kids from any hurt but by helping them to stretch their capacity to work it through.

So, if the price you must pay for sending your child to camp is a sad letter or two, put up with it. You'll be stronger from the experience.

If you have a question or comment for Barbara Schiff, a trained therapist and experienced counselor, send it to Street Sense at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

"Citizen Kane" (USA — 1941). In what still ranks as the greatest film ever made, Orson Welles charts the rise and fall of a great yellow journalist, based on the life of William Randolph Hearst. Welles, only in his mid-20s at the time, stars, acts, writes, and produces in this 50th anniversary re-release, shown here following a successful run at the Fox.

MICHIGAN THEATRE, 16301 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 963-8690 for information. ($5, $3.50 students and senior citizens)

"Truly, Madly, Deeply" (Britain — 1990), through July 25 (call for show times). A British turn on "Ghost," about a widow about to embark on a new romance who is visited by the vision of her dead husband.

"Superstar: The Life and Times of Andy Warhol" (USA — 1990). July 24-28 (call for show times): The documentary look at Andy Warhol is chock full of unusual clips, including evasive nowhere interviews and even his memorable appearance on TV's "The Love Boat?"

"Vincent and Theo" (USA — 1991). 7 p.m. July 27 and 6:45 p.m. July 28. Another artist's portrait, this time directed by Robert Altman. The film supposedly brings new insight into the relationship between Van Gogh and his patient brother/benefactor Theo, though it's basically the same old tortured artist story with some distinctly modern twists.

REDFORD THEATRE, 17360 Lahser, Detroit. Call 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"Camelot" (USA — 1967). 8 p.m. July 26-27 (organ overture begins at 7:30 p.m.). Richard Harris does his regal best as King Arthur in this clunky film version of Lerner and Loewe's long-running Broadway musical. Popular songs include the title tune and "If Ever I Would Leave You." Presented in 70mm.

'Q&A' has problems

As an adult actor, he just leaves a blank in the center of the film made all the more noticeable by good performances around him. It's telling when what pivotal but in effect supporting characters make a stronger impression than the central characters.

"Q & A" ATTEMPTS to look at police corruption, the problems of the police becoming an occupying force in a community and racism without much success. Just about everyone in the film is blatantly racist and at some level corrupt, even if only from the looking the other way.

One thing you have to give the film credit for is not ending with everything in a neat package. It's more like real life in that regard. Things often end badly and the guilty parties don't always get theirs in the end.

The often socially conscious Lumet has certainly had greater success in examining these issues in earlier films such as "Serpico" and "Prince of the City," both substantially better written and in the central role, acted films.

Red C — Stephen Woods, Susan Calloway, Tim Diaz and Guido Milligan — has done some rethinking in the last year and as a result, the role of Christianity in their music is more vague.

Red C aims for record deal

right away. That and (the band had) a clear cut direction.

Billy Brandt is another new face. Brandt was a member of the since-disbanded outfit Ash Can VanGogh. He saw Red C perform and promptly offered his services to the fledgling outfit. He's been busy shopping the band around.

One of the top priorities was getting Red C into the studio to record a first-rate demo tape. The band entered Pearl Sound in Canton and came out with a five-song offering that is, if anything, a refinement of Red C's initial musical vision.

Label interest is there, including one record executive who reportedly sat in on one of the band's sessions in Diaz's basement. Red C will have a showcase for art and repertoire representatives 10 p.m. Wednesday, July 24, at Alvin's in Detroit. Admission is free.

This is something the band has worked for in the past year, playing an exhaustive schedule of shows in the area.

"ONCE YOU find out what you do best, you should put your heart into it totally," Calloway said.

But in this breakneck determination to score a record deal one wonders how long the band can hold out without being consumed themselves? Calloway and Diaz admit things have grown intense, but add it's still fun.

"Yeah, there's always that chance," Diaz said. "That chance where you wonder at how hot can something get before it explodes. If you can't get to that point, how do you refine? We haven't reached that point yet, though. We're burning along."

Rita Rudner went from dancing on Broadway to the stage for stand-up comedy.

Comedy's best

Rita's laugh meter ticks at No. 1

By Shirlee Rose Iden
staff writer

For Rita Rudner, voted the 1990 Best Female Stand Up Comedienne, performing is like having someone over for dinner — "There's communication and some pleasant talk about things you care about."

Not to mention a few laughs. As for her recent appearance in Las Vegas, Rudner loves Nevada's fun city — "It's very hot, very nice and I like seeing my name up on a big marquee, and feeling the excitement of the audiences."

As for her life with husband Martin Bergman, an English comedy producer, they're "a pretty funny family" — "We know lots of Hollywood types," said Rudner, who admits she wasn't quite prepared for an unexpected visit to her dressing room by Debbie Reynolds recently. "She came backstage and we really clicked. Debbie decided the next night we would have a party in my dressing room and she arranged the whole thing."

A hot talent with a cool, subdued delivery, the comedienne is a native of Miami who left home and family at age 15 to pursue a career on Broadway as a dancer.

"I WAS SUCH a headstrong kid, I just never gave my parents an option," she said. "I had graduated from high school so I just left. And I've been in show business ever since."

Rudner said her parents, knowing her, told her to go try her luck and they'd back her up. "Now they watch on television and are proud. Dancers are different," she said. "We start very young and we're very determined. I was only five when I began dancing."

Rudner worked Broadway for 10 years, loving every experience, such as appearing in the original productions of "Mack and Mabel" with Robert Preston and Bernadette Peters, appearing in Stephen Sondheim's "Follies," and playing a featured role in the musical "Annie."

"I had all kinds of parts, but the longer I worked the more I realized that it's hard to get work on the Broadway stage and it pays very little."

One night in 1980 after completing her "Annie" role, she snuck into a New York comedy club and tried her hand at stand-up. Rudner hasn't looked back since.

"I REALIZED George Burns was still making movies and Gene Kelly hadn't worked in along time," she said and began to develop a style based on finesse and soft talk, but with a kick.

Her well-written material and poised sophistication have succeeded in winning top comedy awards and accolades for her first solo, hour-long special for HBO "Born to Be Mild," voted best comedy special in the Cable Guide's reader's poll, and two hour-long specials that showcased her versatility.

"After I turned to comedy, I kept on working very hard every day," she said. "I write all my own stuff, but from the beginning I studied comedy from books in the library, from comedy albums and watching other comics and people."

Her comedic heroes include Woody Allen and Jack Benny, her personal all-time favorite.

"I admire comedians who take the profession to the next step, such as directing or producing," she said.

Rudner works hard at writing something new every day for her act and she is presently working on a book of comedic essays, titled "I Wrote a Book."

"I TRY THINGS all the time and think about my work most of the time," she said.

She and her husband live on the west coast.

"I met him pretty late, when I was age 30, but it worked out even though he lived in Australia," she said.

She has learned to love Australia where "it's less hectic and there are fewer people," she explained.

Since she left dancing, Rudner said she's not quite in the shape she was when she was on Broadway though she bikes and does stretches.

"Sometimes we play tennis, too," she said. "But I'm not good enough to wear a headband."

Busy every moment, the woman who never came close to registering for college classes works on her book and is close to getting a movie script produced. She also is preparing a one-woman show and contemplates the writing of more scripts.

"I'm never going to stop doing stand-up," she said. "Determination is the great gift, even more than talent."

Rita Rudner will appear Tuesday, July 23, at Main Street Comedy Showcase, 314 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Show times are 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. For information, call 996-9080.

Hairstylist Photi of Salon 313 in Farmington Hills says the '90s man will trade in the pulled-back ponytail look of Steven Seagal and sport the dirty hair look of actor Mickey Rourke. Here he updates Tom Leach's short haircut.

'90s man: Being himself, not someone else

By Debbie Sklar
special writer

The 1960s brought us mod clothing, Bob Dylan and Sean Connery as "Bond . . . James Bond."

The 1970s introduced us to Alan Alda, pastel-colored leisure suits and open-necked polyester shirts, accented with gold chains . . . lots of gold chains.

In the 1980s, it was Richard Gere, the return of the bow tie and punk rockers with stiff spiked hair . . . and safety pins as facial ornaments.

What about the 1990s? After all, we're in the second year of the last decade of the 20th century, aren't we? What can we expect our men to look like as these years go by?

If you've been star watching lately, Dennis Quaid and Mickey Rourke are only a couple of the celebs that are opting for the dirty hair look. According to stylist Photi of Salon 313 in Farmington Hills, dirty hair is the look for the '90s.

"A lot of men are opting for this dirty hair look because it's more masculine," he said.

How does one get that look?
"A lot of it has to do with the cut," Photi said, "and by using a lot of pomade — a perfumed ointment for the hair."

PHOTI SAID men should say goodbye to ponytails and exchange them for more conservative looks — "Men want to look like men in the '90s — they want to be themselves and not someone else."

He added that the styles of the 1950s are making a comeback — "Hair is a lot shorter in the back, just barely touching the collar."

And what about hair coloring?
"The older gentleman is going back to his natural gray and the younger guys are going toward the more conservative direction — they're not coloring their hair," Photi said.

And what about all this environmental stuff that's got Hollywood's brightest and best men and women (mostly women) on a recycling bandwagon? Is the '90s man going to be an avid participant?

According to environmental attorney David Fink, who has offices in Lansing and Farmington Hills, the '90s man will be concerned about the quality of his life.

"As he is becoming increasingly aware of the consequences of living in a throw-away society, issues such as toxic waste, industrial pollution and refuse disposal will continue to loom over the country's future and dominate the public psyche," Fink said. "I think the man of the 1990s will be more concerned about the quality of his life, possibly more than was deemed in the past."

"WHETHER IT'S about family life, quality of recreational activities to the natural environment, men will be more active."

However, Fink "hates to think that the man of the '90s is going to be stereotyped that easily." He hopes that in the '90s, the excess of the "me" generation and the simplicity of the radicalism of the '60s are left behind.

"The man of the '90s is going to be a man who looks for quality of life for himself and his family," he said.

And what would the man of the 1990s be without fashion? Are we going to go back to the days of the John Travolta disco look? White three-piece suits with platform shoes?

"No way," said Chris Cosola, owner of Maxwell's, a men's clothing store in downtown Birmingham. "I sure hope not, that would be frightening."

Cosola said men in the '90s will definitely become more fashion conscious.

"They're really moving toward quality," he said. "What we're seeing in the marketplace is men who are going to be wearing more comfortable clothes. It's not the case of the clothes wearing the man anymore, it's the man wearing the clothes."

Cosola said men will be sporting clothes that are less confining, more stylish and more Euro-traditional — "I guess you could call it a retro look back at the '40s."

SHOULDERS OF coats will be bigger, with cuffs and pleated slacks making a comeback — "the styles of Clark Gable, Gene Kelly and the Prince of Wales, guys that had great style."

Charles Rothstein, a 32-year-old investment banker for Andover Capital in West Bloomfield, is hoping to see a return of "more traditional values" in the 1990s.

"Instead of the 'me' generation, I hope that people, men included, will return to a more traditional way of thinking," he said. "I think we will be more family oriented and people in general will have more concern for what's going on around them."

Through his job, Rothstein sees men being more concerned about health and physical fitness. They also are more concerned about their "fellow man," he said. "The '80s man was more into over-spending and overextending," he said. "The '90s man is more into the savings and investment mode."

Rothstein himself has returned to traditional values and said goodbye to the days of conspicuous consumption.

ARE MEN OF the '90s more concerned about their weight? Are big biceps the issue or is a more lean physique a concern?

Well, according to Dr. Richard Mark, who has a family practice in Ypsilanti, Plymouth, Garden City and Madison Heights, more and more men are coming in for regular health exams.

"Maybe that's a sign of the '90s — men are really more concerned about their health, more so than before," said Mark, who also has ties with Weight Watchers — he's part of the family that serves as one of the board of directors. "It's funny, even though we're supposed to be in the midst of a recession, a lot of people are signing up for Weight Watchers."

Like Rothstein, Mark said he sees an extension of the '80s physical fitness craze spilling over into the '90s. He also sees the big, bulky muscular body on its way out. So what's in?

"A lean, level headed man who has general concerns about the way he looks and about relationships," he said. "There are an awful lot of people out there that once dated numerous people. Now they have become more monogamous because they're worried about sexually transmitted diseases. I've been doing a lot of AIDS testing."

So, according to our experts, the man of the 1990s is going to be a breed apart from Richard Gere, Alan Alda and Sean Connery. He's going to be lean and mean, well-dressed in a '40s get-up, with dirty hair and environmentally active.

Makes you wonder what the year 2000 will bring, doesn't it?

Art fairs to boast potpourri of wares

By Linda Ann Chomlin
special writer

CELEBRATE THE arts at one of the largest fairs in the country — the Ann Arbor Arts Fair, Wednesday-Saturday, July 24-27.

Nearly 1,000 artists will exhibit their work during the dog days of July in a celebration of art, music, theater, fun and food.

During the four-day event, artists will display paintings, drawings, print making, ceramics, sculpture, glass, photography, 2-D mixed media, 3-D mixed media, metal/jewelry, wood and fiber.

Three separate art fairs line the streets of Ann Arbor during the midsummer festival of the arts — the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the State Street Area Art Fair and the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans.

THE ANN Arbor Street Art Fair has delighted fair visitors for 32 years. This year, it features 196 artists from 35 states.

"We like to think of the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair as being on the cutting edge, with emerging as well as established artists. There are 57 new artists, not a part of the fair last year. Glass, fiber and wood categories were rejuried this year," said Susan Froelich, coordinator of the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair.

'We like to think of the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair as being on the cutting edge, with emerging as well as established artists.'

coordinator

"Stephen Zeh from Maine is a traditional basket maker who will be demonstrating during the fair. He's bringing a log, stripping it and making baskets," Froelich said.

Zeh, who works in the tradition of Maine woodsmen, Penobscot Indians and the Shakers, will demonstrate the ancient art of basketmaking at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. each day on East University in Booth 112.

THE 24-YEAR-OLD juried State Street Area Art Fair features 200 artists. Organized in 1968 by a group of State Street merchants, it is located in the heart of the State Street shopping district.

Now in its 21st year, the Summer Art Fair features 540 booths with almost 580 exhibiting artists. Sponsored by the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans, the fair includes an Imagination Booth where families can create works of art for free. The art activity area is at the U. S. Post Office Plaza on Liberty Street.

"The fair has lots of good places to eat, where you can sit and refresh yourself," said Shary Brown, coordinator of the Michigan Guild's Summer Art Fair.

THE ANN Arbor Transportation Authority provides shuttle and trolley service during the fair from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Wednesday-Friday and 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Visitors to the fair are encouraged to park free at Briarwood Mall, off I-94 on State Street, and Pioneer High School, Main at Stadium, and take the shuttle bus to either the Main Street area or the South University area. The fare is $2 for

The Art Fair Trolley operates between the three fairs, charging 50 cents per passenger, free with a shuttle ticket.

The State Street Area Art Fair lines Maynard, Liberty, Thompson, William, and North University.

The Summer Art Fair is on State Street from South University to William, Liberty Street from Ashley to Fifth, and Main Street from William to Huron.

Fair hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday-Friday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 24-27.

Migdal portrays Guatemalan life

By Cathleen Collins Lee
special writer

Artists exhibiting at the State Street Area Art Fair come from all over Michigan and from other states, but Bruce Migdal may be the only one to come from Guatemala.

Migdal, who grew up in Farmington Hills and uses watercolors and pastels to create what he calls "symbolic realistic" works, doesn't come just for the Ann Arbor fair, of course.

He spends nine months in Guatemala, then comes north in the summer to sell his work through art fairs around Detroit and Chicago.

Migdal moved to Guatemala six years ago and lives near Santiago Atitlan, a town of indigenous Mayan people. He says the people, culture and natural beauty of Guatemala have influenced his work considerably, especially in the use of brighter colors.

A slender, intense man with a deep tan, Migdal lives in the highlands of Guatemala near a volcanic lake, along with a small international community of artists.

THE NATIVE people there live much as settlers here might have lived 150 years ago. But Migdal has some basic conveniences such as electricity and refrigeration.

"I'm a gringo," he says with a grin. "I live there, but I'm still who I am."

Although Migdal wants to capture life in Guatemala through his art, he is moving away from a representational approach to a more surrealistic one that he feels expresses his own vision of life there.

Some of his current works combine strangely shaped flowers or flowers and enormous butterflies in vibrant colors and unexpected arrangements.

MIGDAL HAS been passionately interested in art as long as he can remember. He studied fine arts at Wayne State University, but considers himself largely self-taught.

"I don't think art is something that can be taught or learned," he says. "It's something you're born with."

Art is so much a part of his life that Migdal has never seriously considered doing anything else, despite the financial hardships of supporting himself as an artist.

"It's very hard to do, and it gets harder when the economy is bad," he said. "It's a little scary now. But I'm willing to sacrifice and do it. It's who I am. That's my life."

Bruce Migdal will be in the State Street Area Art Fair in Booth 338 on Liberty Street.

Honored lensman to showcase slides

A slide presentation titled "The Earth" will showcase the work of internationally recognized photographer George Chan during the Summer Art Fair in Ann Arbor July 24-27.

During the last 10 years, Chan has traveled extensively for magazines such as Conde Nast Traveler, Signature and Reader's Digest.

In 1990, he was one of 200 photographers selected for the award-winning book project "Day In The Life Series."

A native of China, he has done a vast amount of photojournalistic work for "The Earth Chinese Geographic Monthly, a parallel of National Geographic.

In "The Earth," viewers will have an opportunity to see the many cultural faces inhabiting our world, from eloquent creations of Mother Nature to graphic urban landscapes and the many faces of mankind.

Chan's photographs will be shown at noon and 3 p.m. daily at the Ann Arbor Artist's Co-op, 617 Huron-Harris Hall, lower level (the entrance faces State Street.)

The 40 tickets per show, at $1, will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. Some original photographs will be available for sale after the show.

For information, call George Chan Photography in Ann Arbor, 1-313-998-0736.

Artist Thomas LeGault works on an abstract piece, "Template Relief," priced at $150. A traditional landscape, "Quiet Cove," rests on an easel in the foreground. It's priced at $150.

LeGault refines work efficiency

By Linda Ann Chomlin
special writer

After 21 years of painting full-time, artist Thomas LeGault of Plymouth creates a traditional northern Michigan landscape bathed in a pink mist, in record time — an hour and a half to be exact.

"After all these years of painting, I've become more and more efficient," said LeGault, appearing in the Summer Art Fair in Ann Arbor July 24-27. "I guess I'm loosening up."

LeGault uses acrylics to paint realism landscapes and highly textured floral abstracts.

His palette swings from "a lot of the softer, pastel colors, to deep teal with bright violet blues pushing red in the aggressively strong pieces."

LeGault began painting at 14 after his sister "dragged him to a painting class." At 18, he opened his first studio. At 21, he opened a second studio.

LeGault attended art classes at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit after high school but "quit in frustration after one too many projects of gluing yellow straws together."

PAINTING IS a full-time business for LeGault, one with which he supports a family of four. He does 30 to 40 art shows a year throughout the state.

Until recently, he lived part-time in Florida, where he did shows in Palm Beach and Boca Raton. LeGault tired of the fast track, which he describes as "too many shows and rich people who treat art as just another purchase among many."

"I enjoy these people here in Michigan. Michigan is so much warmer, so much kinder," LeGault said.

In LeGault's "Quiet Cove," a lighthouse lures the eye into the composition where scenery dances off a shimmering lake. From behind a wood house and shed alongside the lighthouse, the masts of harbored sailboats arise into a pale morning sky. Blue, auburn and white dominate the tranquil scene where dashes of brown accentuate papery white birch trees. The painting is priced at $150.

LeGault's landscapes and abstract florals are priced from $150 to $1,000 with most in the range of $125 to $150.

Thomas LeGault will exhibit and demonstrate his acrylic painting at the Summer Art Fair in Booth #16 on Main Street.

Left: Artist Pat Dunn-Bremner displays a mixed media work, "See No Evil" ($500), from her "Speak No Evil" series. On the drawing board is a work in progress, started last summer when she visited her son in Sardinia, Italy, entitled, "In Search of the Prince" ($1,000).

Dunn-Bremner strives to provoke through art

By Linda Ann Chomlin
special writer

Through her representational paintings, a collage of children, dogs, stars, nature and sometimes the written word, artist Pat Dunn-Bremner seeks to relay a tale of life and human nature.

"I like to tell stories with my work," said Pat Dunn-Bremner of Birmingham.

Hers is a story worth telling. Dunn-Bremner began painting in the 1960s using the mediums of oil paint and drawing for expression. In the '70s, she set aside art "to raise four kids as a single working parent." She remarried in 1981; 1982 found her painting again.

At times, her palette is reminiscent of Gauguin, while her use of line is Matisse. The figure dominates much of Dunn-Bremner's work, making a strong statement about her sensitivity and compassion for children and life.

Admiration for the work of Expressionist painter Egon Schiele, as well as modern masters such as Robert Rauschenberg and Gustav Klimt, heavily influence her use of collage and psychological content.

"I change my style a lot. At the fairs, people say, 'What have you got this year,'" Dunn-Bremner said. "I use very strong colors, basically primary colors, very brilliant, very bold looking."

DUNN-BREMNER PRIDES herself on being "basically self-taught except for taking a few classes at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association." She loves painting, but drawing is a means of expending energy and expression.

"I have this energy for drawing," Dunn-Bremner said. "I'm trying to do something different. Most of my work is pretty provoking."

While past work was created using watercolor, Dunn-Bremner's recent work is two-dimensional mixed media, a combination of acrylic, crayon and oil stick.

"I'm trying to push the medium to the max," Dunn-Bremner said. "My latest work looks a lot like printmaking."

Dunn-Bremner's price range is determined by the size of the work, with pieces from $200 to $1,200.

Her work has been exhibited at the Scarab Club and J. Walter Thompson Gallery in Detroit, as well as the National Watercolor Society Exhibition in California.

Illinois, Ohio, Florida, Minnesota and Michigan are some of the states where Dunn-Bremner displays her art in fairs. This is her third year in the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair.

"I enjoy it and there's a lot of feedback," Dunn-Bremner said. "This is the most prestigious art fair in the country."

Pat Dunn-Bremner's 2-D mixed media paintings can be seen at the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair in Booth 179 on E. University.

Strengths help counter faults

Everyone knows people have strengths and weaknesses, but few realize it's actually desirable to have some weaknesses.

If people had strengths in every area, they would become inwardly overwhelmed with talents and pulled in diverse directions. Strengths or talents manifest themselves as an "appetite," a need to be used.

Having too many high aptitudes produces emotional stress because people can't possibly do everything that appeals to them. The result is often the "Jack of all Trades and Master of None" syndrome.

It's a shame most other talents are not as apparent as organizing skills. When a person is well organized, it shows.

Their environment — their person, their time, even their thinking and speaking — shows evidence of their organizational adeptness. That same person may be poor at math, communication, art, science, or an infinite number of other things, yet these weaknesses are easily hidden because they are invisible to the eye, while their neat and tidy surroundings are so obvious.

The old joke, "An empty desk is a sign of an empty mind," is amusing to some (at the expense of perfectionists) but grossly unfair. Assumptions, of course, should never be made so superficially.

THE OPPOSITE is equally true, however. A messy desk isn't a sign of an empty mind, either. People with messy surroundings should never be judged solely on their inability to maintain order.

These people ordinarily have certain other talents far exceeding their organized counterparts yet, because their surfaces are messy, their visible disorder is invisible to the eye. As a result, they are too often the organizing

brunt of criticism and/or "humorous" assaults by others.

Children are the most frequent recipients of such attacks. From wisdom gained through experience, parents and teachers understand the high costs of disorganization, and their concern over their children's skills can develop into anxiety. Then they end up nagging and harassing, bringing their hands and proclaiming, "I've tried everything," with the child who "marches to the beat of a different drummer."

It's difficult to tell whether children are disorganized because they are lazy, rebellious, depressed or feel confused, because they just haven't learned how to be organized or actually lack the necessary aptitudes — or a combination of all of the above.

In every case, however, children need encouragement, not criticism or putdowns; love, not rejection; patient understanding, not nagging; positive motivation, not denial of their capabilities. The less children deserve love, the more they need it.

If your child or adults around you lack organizational skills, realize that maybe that one weakness is leaving room for a different strength, and think twice before you criticize them.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl is a time-management consultant based in Birmingham.

How interested are you in selling your home?

Interested enough to spend a few moments and discover the best place to advertise the fact that your home is for sale?

Good. We knew you were intelligent.

In fact, more than 40% of our readers have college degrees or better.

And if knowledge is power, let's look at a few powerful facts: this newspaper, the one you're reading right now, reaches some of the most affluent households in Wayne and Oakland counties:

That's a median household income of more than $50,000—$10,000 more than the income of the people who don't read our newspapers. So when you advertise in your Observer & Eccentric newspapers, you not only reach thousands of smart people, you reach people with substantial incomes.

Now, that's something to smile about.

Our circulation area has 90% home ownership and look at the value of our reader's homes:

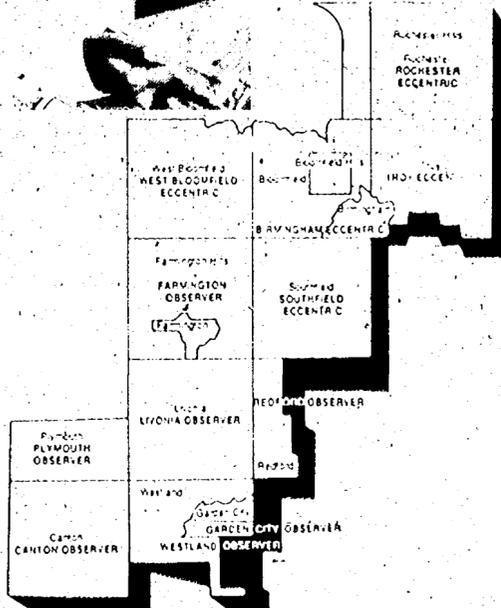

FACT: When you advertise with us you will reach 9 out of 10 adults in the Observer & Eccentric market area who have read weekly classified advertising.

FACT: 91% of the adults in our market area who had read classified advertising in the past seven days had read it in the Observer & Eccentric.

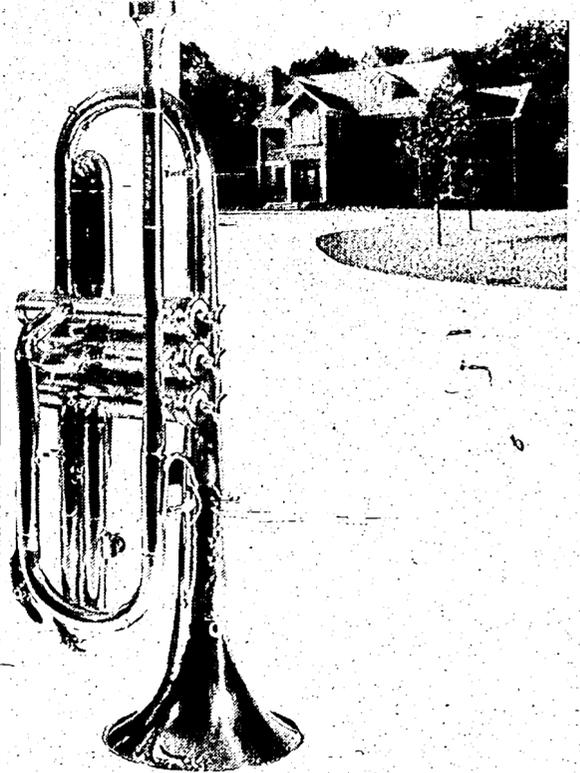

So, we can offer you one quarter of a million adult readers and a very rich market, what else do we have for you? How about an award-winning newspaper— a newspaper that people trust and look forward to reading? One that reaches 25 communities with important local news that's not available anywhere else.

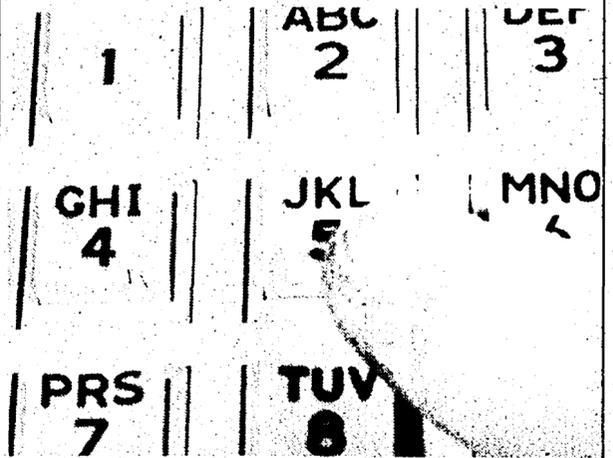

That's us:

By the way, did you know that all those little ads in the back of this newspaper—the ones placed by people like you—are published in all 12 newspapers? Therefore, when you advertise anything from a horn to a home, you will automatically reach this huge, interested reading audience.

What else can we say? We've had years of experience in publishing newspapers and are proud of our record for successfully putting home buyers in touch with home sellers.

In fact, we've just introduced HOMELINE, a great new way to find out about open houses simply by using your touchtone telephone.

Be sure to mention it to your Realtor® so that when it comes time to show your home, it will be described on HOMELINE.

Course sure to play easy for tourney spectators

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Spectators attending the 1991 U.S. Senior Open at Oakland Hills Country Club should have no problem finding a place to park, according to tournament director Bud Erickson.

There has been a 10-percent decrease in the number of available parking spaces on the site because of an expanded driving range, but that shouldn't have any negative effect, he said.

Approximately 9,000 spaces remain, and that should be enough to accommodate everyone. In addition, there will be a number of rental sites off the course grounds but in the vicinity where people can park.

All parking at Oakland Hills is located on the north course. The cost for parking there is included in the ticket price, and ticket holders will be directed to that area when they enter the course gates.

Ticket prices are $15 for practice rounds Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, $25 for the championship rounds Thursday through Sunday.

"I DON'T think anyone will have a problem getting a parking space," Erickson said.

The gates will open at 7 each morning when players are taking practice rounds. They will have informal tee times on those days.

When competition begins, the gates open at 6 a.m. on Thursday and Friday with the first golfers teeing off at 7 a.m.

The gates open at 7 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, and tee times will start at around 9:30 a.m., depending on how

Pro prepares club for play

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Pat Croswell's golf game and sleeping habits haven't been the same lately — all because he's trying to make Oakland Hills Country Club the same friendly host it has always been.

Croswell, the club pro at Oakland Hills, said he has spent about 80 to 90 hours per week in the last month getting the club ready for the U.S. Senior Open. Croswell isn't alone in his endeavor.

He has four assistants and 1,200 members volunteering their services to make sure the seniors will enjoy this stay as much as in 1981, when the last U.S. Senior Open was held here.

Oakland Hills has a proud tradition of hosting majors, including five U.S. Opens, two PGAs, a Western Open, Ladies U.S. Amateur, and two World Carling Opens.

The last major hosted by Oakland Hills was the U.S. Open in 1985. Croswell, an assistant at the time under Al Mengert, had just turned 30 then.

"I'M AN OLD 36 this week," he joked. "The other night I came home and passed out at 8 o'clock in my room with the light on, too weak to turn it off. But it's worth it. I've enjoyed it all and look forward to it. We do a lot of planning and a lot of work trying to build on the great tradition of Oakland Hills.

"The people that make it possible and successful are the members. Sometimes they don't get a pat on the back, but they should. They love the club, love the Detroit area and love the game of golf."

Croswell, who lives in Birmingham with his wife Debbie and 6-year-old son Matthew took over as the club pro in 1987 for the retired Mengert. He has four assistants — Jon Helmker, Mike Erickson, Bruce Cunningham and John Swanson — who come in handy considering the last 2½ years of Croswell's tenure has been spent thinking about and organizing the U.S. Senior Open.

Croswell was an assistant pro at Oakland Hills from 1981-86 so he knows what it took to make the '81 Senior Open and the '85 U.S. Open a success.

Despite having played thousands of rounds on Oakland Hills, Croswell doesn't anticipate giving any advice on how to play any of the holes.

"The thing about the Senior Open is a lot of them are coming back to Oakland Hills for the fourth, fifth time; guys like (Lee) Trevino, (Jack) Nicklaus, (Arnold) Palmer, (Gary) Player," Croswell said.

CROSWELL TAKES pride in Oakland Hills' reputation, saying there are only "15 clubs in the country like it." The golf shop at Oakland Hills, which Croswell helps oversee, is ranked among the top 20 in the country in total merchandising. Croswell said three tents of golf merchandise will be set up on the golf course throughout the tournament.

Croswell, a native of Columbus, Ohio, and one of nine children, began his career as a club pro at Ashtabula Country Club in Ohio, where he holds the course record for 18 holes with a 65. Despite having a fine background in the sport as a player, Croswell has never won any major tournaments as an amateur or pro, he said.

At Oakland Hills he's more concerned with the well-being of his players and the upkeep of the club.

Longest ball may hold the edge

By Bill Parker
staff writer

The famed South Course at Oakland Hills — dubbed "The Monster" by Ben Hogan after the first round of the 1951 U.S. Open — has served up its share of exciting major golf tournaments. With the course in its best condition ever, according to Oakland Hills head pro Pat Crosswell, the 1991 U.S. Senior Open, scheduled for July 25-28, could also become a classic.

"(The course) won't be a lot different than it was in '81 (the first time Oakland Hills hosted a U.S. Senior Open)," Crosswell said. "The fairways are in a little better condition. The ground crews have been working real hard. Overall, I'd have to say the course is in the best condition I've seen it in during the 11 years I've been here. The roughs will be up and the greens will be fast."

"The '81 Senior Open was a great tournament. The roughs were up and the fairways were fast. (Arnold) Palmer won with a 9-over, but I don't think it will take that (to win) this time. With good weather, even-par could be enough. If it gets windy, maybe three or four over and if it rains and the course gets soft, maybe they'll get under par a little."

UNITED STATES Golf Association rules call for the fairways to be cut from 3/8 to 1/2 inch with the intermediate rough at 1 1/4 inches and primary rough at three inches. The undulating greens will also provide a challenge with Stimpmeter readings of 10 or more across the course.

"With 18 new tees constructed in the fall of 1988, plus extensive fairway improvements and new sand in all 118 bunkers, I think the course will be as tough a challenge as it was during the 1985 U.S. Open," said Oakland Hills Golf Course Superintendent Ted Woehrl.

The new tees actually make the course play shorter than it did during the '85 Open of the '81 Senior Open.

"The tee changes were made to improve the condition of the course," Crosswell said. "The tees on eight,

10 and 13 are a little different. The 13th offers a new angle with a better look at the green."

The par 70, 6,718-yard "Monster" features four par-3s, 12 par-4s and two par-5s. The front nine plays 3,329 yards and the back nine plays at 3,389. Both are par 35s. The course was 6,798-yards for the '81 Senior Open and 6,996-yards for the 1985 Open.

CROSWELL FEELS the golfer who can drive the ball well will have an advantage in this year's Senior Open.

"Someone who can drive the ball could do well because of fairway bunkers that are in the 230 to 270-yard range," he said. "The guys that can drive the ball well, hit a good long iron and make the putts will be in there. The greens will also be tough. The greens here at Oakland Hills are full of undulations, contours and crowns."

The 18th hole, a 447-yard, par-4, dogleg right could provide for a thrilling finish if the scores are tight. The 18th was ranked first in the '85 Open with a scoring average of 4.470. It recorded the fewest pars and the most double-bogeyes of the tournament.

Oakland Hills Country Club celebrates its 75th birthday by hosting the 1991 U.S. Senior Open, July 25-28. Competition will be held on the 6,718-yard, par-70 South Course. The shorter front nine is a 3,329-yard, par-35 while the back nine offers a 3,389-yard, par-35. Following is a brief profile of each hole as seen through the eyes of Oakland Hills Golf Professional Pat Crosswell.

Hole 1 — 419 yards, par 4: Starting from an elevated tee, this hole is beautifully framed with bunkers on both sides of the driving area. The bunkers are cut into the fairway, narrowing it to 25 yards, and thus placing a premium on accuracy. The hole normally plays downwind, leaving the pro with a medium iron to a large, undulating green. The right side of the green is bowl-shaped and is an easy hole position. If the hole is positioned on the left-hand terrace or the difficult back right plateau, par will be a good score.

Hole 2 — 499 yards, par 5: This hole is a slight dogleg left with fairway bunkers from 230 to 270 yards from either tee. A good drive will put a player in position to go for the green on his second shot, but if he decides to lay up short of the four bunkers protecting the front of the green, he will be faced with a delicate pitch. The putting surface is two-tiered with the upper tier sloping away from the player. If the pro can avoid fairway bunkers, birdies will be easy to come by. In 1985, T.C. Chen scored the first known double-eagle in a U.S. Open at this hole, which yielded the most eagles (four), most birdies (153), fewest bogeys, and no double bogeys.

Hole 3 — 183 yards, par 3: This hole, the first of four great par-3s, is usually played into a headwind with a long iron. The green is angled at a right-to-left diagonal with two deep bunkers guarding the left side of the green and single bunkers right and long. The putting surface has two small crowns in the front middle and front right, and a small plateau in the back. This classic par-3 was the setting for David Graham's playoff victory over Ben Crenshaw at the 1979 PGA Championship.

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Hole 4 — 423 yards, par 4: The player's key objective on this dogleg left is to avoid the series of deep bunkers and the group of trees on the left side of the fairway, which gradually slopes to the right, toward two more bunkers. The landing area is only 24 yards wide, making this a difficult driving hole. The second shot, which is downhill to a green protected by five bunkers, plays shorter than the yardage indicates. The putting surface runs from back to front with the toughest hole location being the slightly elevated po-

Hole 5 — 426 yards, par 4: This hole, again, demands a very accurate drive, since the trees on the left and two bunkers on the right protect the landing area. The left side of the fairway offers the player the best location to play his second shot to the large green, which is protected by a large bunker on the left and a deep bunker on the right. The putting surface slopes from back to front with severe contours and crowns. Missing the green long or right can be fatal, as T.C. Chen discovered in the final round of the 1985 U.S. Open when he made a quadruple bogey-8.

Hole 6 — 353 yards, par 4: This is the shortest par-4 on the course. The landing area for the tee shot is protected by two bunkers on the left and a group of trees on the right. Most players will use a fairway wood or long iron to play short of the last bunker cut into the fairway. The second shot is uphill to the deepest green on the course. The putting surface is tear-shaped with two distinct levels. The narrow back position is the most difficult, forcing the player to select enough club to carry to the top tier of this deep green.

Hole 7 — 398 yards, par 4: With

Trevino gives flair to tournament field

By Jim Toth
staff writer

The reasons behind the continued growth in the following of the U.S. Senior Tour are plentiful. Many surround the presence of Lee Trevino.

A true fan favorite and one of the most colorful personalities the game has ever known, Trevino has given as much to the game and received more than most in return.

In 25 years of competition on the PGA and Senior Tours, Trevino has cashed in more than $4 million in prize money.

He enters the 1991 U.S. Senior Open as the tournament's defending champion. Last year at Ridgewood Country Club in Paramus, N.J., Trevino edged out Jack Nicklaus by two strokes to earn first place prize money.

Tackling the 6,718-yard layout at Oakland Hills is nothing new to Trevino, who last played here in 1985 in the U.S. Open.

"IT'S A great golf course," Trevino said of Oakland Hills during a recent conference call hookup. "1985 was the last time I played it and I remember it is long and you always have to worry about putting.

"With the course playing shorter, it gives everybody a chance.

"But I'm looking forward to this because Oakland Hills is a great golf course and I always get up for the majors more so than others."

Since joining the PGA Tour in 1967, Trevino has claimed the top spot 27 times, racking up close to $3.5 million in the process.

He hooked up with the Senior Tour in 1990 and has won a total of nine events, cashing in $1.6 million in earnings.

THE INAUGURAL Senior Open Championship was established in 1980, resulting from a steady growth in senior golf at the professional and amateur levels.

That first Open, played at the famed East Course of the Winged Foot Golf Club in New York and won by Roberto DeVicenzo, was conducted for golfers 55 years of age and over with a handicap limit of eight strokes for amateurs.

One year later, the United States Golf Association decided to lower the qualifying age from 55 to 50. Its reasoning was that reducing the minimum age would make for a more competitive championship.

Those changes, along with the presence of Trevino, Nicklaus, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Gary Player, the Senior Tour has grabbed some of the spotlight away from the regular PGA Tour.

Twibell, Allis team as TV hosts

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Like for many Americans, the game of golf continues to grow on ABC Television commentator Roger Twibell.

"When I was a youngster, the closest thing I got to golf was caddying one day at the Kansas City Country Club, the course where Tom Watson learned to play," recalls Twibell. "It was one of those deals where the guy I was caddying for would throw his club up into a tree and say, 'go fetch it kid.' So that was the end of that. At the time I had no interest in the game."

Twibell, 41, and Peter Allis will serve as hosts for the 12th U.S. Senior Open at Oakland Hills, calling the action for ABC's third- and fourth-round coverage, 3:30-6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Dave Marr will provide analysis, while essayist Jack Whitaker will conduct interviews and present an overview of this major Senior USGA Tour event. Ed Sneed, Judy Rankin and Bob Rosburg will serve as on-course reporters, beginning with the seventh hole on Saturday and Sunday. (ESPN will handle live coverage of the first two rounds: noon to 2 p.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday.)

"I was a football, baseball and basketball player originally," Twibell said. "But my knees are shot now so there was only one thing left to do. I guess I'm typical of a lot of people who got into the game after high school or college."

A native of Shawnee Mission, Kan., Twibell was good enough as a pitcher (at age 17) to be drafted by the New York Yankees.

BUT AT THE urging of his father, he went the college route, first to a junior college in California, and then to the University of Arizona where he played football as a center.

When his knees went bad, Twibell ended his football career and journeyed back to the University of Kansas where he earned his degree in 1972.

Twibell is now a 5-handicapper who is just coming off the disabled list.

"I just had my fifth knee operation," said Twibell. "I had the same thing Danny Manning (NBA player) had on my right knee, an anterior cruciate ligament transplant."

Like many of the Senior Tour players, Twibell needs a cart to get around these days.

After the Senior TPC was concluded last month in Dearborn, Twibell was able to sneak in a round at Oakland Hills.

"It was in great shape," he said. "It's the classic sort of course, the course the Senior players grew up on when they were back on the regular tour."

"What comes to my mind about Oakland Hills is that there is never a level lie, it's always side-hill or uphill.

And the bunkering can be different. Some of the faces of those bunkers are very steep, but the guys on the Senior Tour feel really at home on that course."

BECAUSE THE SENIOR Open is a 72-hole event, Twibell said the format may favor a younger player.

"(Lee) Trevino won on the same type of classic course last year at Ridgewood (Country Club in Paramus, N.J.)," Twibell said. "He's a guy who immediately comes to mind, even though he's had a struggling kind of year. You have to hit a lot of different kinds of shots, which Lee can do."

Twibell also believes that upstate New York club pro Jim Albus, the surprise winner at last month's Senior TPC in Dearborn, could strike lightning again.

"He's one of those great club pros who chose to stay in one location and raise a family," Twibell said. "He's what I'm talking about, a young 50, a strong guy who hits the ball long. Ironically, it was Albus who stood up to the pressure at Dearborn and Lee kind of crumbled (during the last round)."

"It's going to be a very different course because everybody who has been driving around in carts will have to walk because it's a USGA event. That's why you have to look at the younger seniors."

Twibell, a 17-year veteran of sports reporting, was named ABC Sports commentator in May 1989.

IN ADDITION to his golf duties, Twibell also hosts the network's college football scoreboard show.

He worked for ESPN from 1981-86 as an anchorman on the all-sports cable network's "Sportscenter." Most recently, he did play-by-play on College Football Association games, and on college basketball and Arena Football telecasts. While at ESPN, Twibell also did play-by-play for USFL football, as well as boxing, skiing, track and field, and golf events.

"It's funny, only a few years ago I was doing 35 to 40 college basketball games a year for ESPN," Twibell said. "I guess if you can find a niche, golf is a good one. The weather is always reasonably nice and you're always at an ideal location."

Twibell is used to traveling. Before coming to Birmingham, Twibell and the ABC crew spent the previous two weeks doing the U.S. Women's Open (in Fort Worth, Texas) and the British Open.

"It will be nice to be out there (in Birmingham)," Twibell said. "It's just a great course. I think they'll get the regular (U.S.) Open again in the very near future. Expect something on that any time now."

Twibell began his broadcasting career in Tucson, Ariz. He also made stops along the way in Portland, Ore., Dallas, Miami and Boston (where he did play-by-play for the Celtics and won a New England Emmy and Syracuse University's Phillips Award).

He now is based in Scotsdale, Ariz. "I'll always know that when I get home, there's always a golf game waiting," he said.

Course caters to crowd

many make the cut, Erickson said. The low 60 golfers and ties play the last two rounds, plus anyone within 10 strokes of the leader.

There will be plenty of sites along the course where spectators can see the action, too. Bleachers will be located on 10 holes — most on the back side — and the driving range, providing a total of 6,000 seats.

"People can walk and follow their favorites or sit and watch all of them," Erickson said.

BLEACHERS WILL be stationed around the greens on Nos. 3, 5, 9 (near the clubhouse), 10, 12, 13, 15, 16, 17 and 18. There will be 1,040 seats at No. 17 and 2,500 at the 18th hole.

No. 16 is the most famous hole on the course and a favorite of many spectators, according to Erickson.

"People like to sit down there, because it's pretty and it's the signature hole of the golf course," he said. "It was made famous by Gary Player's shot in '72 that enabled him to go on and win the PGA Championship. He birdied the hole from an unlikely spot on the course."

Spectators will be able to cross the fairways in designated locations once players are off the tee, but they will have to wait for instructions from the course marshals.

Oakland Hills is expecting an attendance total between 80,000 and 100,000 for the week-long tournament, Erickson said. Oakland Hills has accommodated one-day crowds of close to 40,000 for other major tournaments.

"Oakland Hills has never had a problem with the USGA where they had to limit attendance," Erickson said. "Nobody need fear he'll be shut out or that we won't be able to accommodate him if he wants to come out and see some golf."

IN ADDITION, the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce is providing a shuttle service from downtown Birmingham to Oakland Hills. The shuttle, provided by Kids Kab Children's Charter Transportation Service, will be available from Monday through Sunday.

Customers can pick up the service in front of either the Birmingham Theatre, the Townsend Hotel, the Barclay or the Village Inn. The fare is $2 per passenger.

For further details on the shuttle service, call 644-1700. For further ticket information, call Oakland Hills at 645-1991.

Experienced hosts a major must

By Marty Budner
staff writer

So here it is. Oakland Hills is hosting another major championship.

No big deal you might say. They're experienced at doing such things.

And you're right. Oakland Hills officials have tournament operations and preparations down to a tee. And they should, considering this is the 11th major golf championship the club has hosted since its founding in 1916.

Despite that ability to deliver successful golf majors, however, it is no easy task to play the gracious host.

Oakland Hills officials formally signed to accept the 12th annual U.S. Senior Open Championship of the United States Golf Association way back in October of 1987. They've been working steadfastly ever since preparing for the week-long list of official activities which begin today and end with the final round on Sunday.

But none of that would be possible without the tremendous dedication and sacrifice of the prestigious club's membership.

The tournament committee which is in charge of preparing for this annual event begins with the four-man executive committee of Robert G. Wood (general chairman), Robert S. Gigliotti (executive vice chairman), Alvin H. Maass (executive vice chairman) and E.M. (Bud) Erickson (tournament director).

BUT THAT'S just the start of the organizational chart. From there the list evolves into 44 different committees with more than 1,200 volunteers ranging from office workers to financial assistants to transportation coordinators.

It's an impressive display of service among club members. And, according to Wood, it's something the majority of members sincerely savor.

"The membership really enjoys these tournaments and I'll give you an example of how dedicated they really are," said Wood, who also was general chairman for the second annual U.S. Senior Open which Oakland Hills hosted 10 years ago.

"Back in 1981 a club in Pennsylvania had contracted to host the tournament. But late in the year of 1980 they canceled their contract with the USGA. That left the USGA with a situation where they had a tournament but no one to host it.

"So the USGA came to us, knowing that we had just completed the 1979 PGA and we had all the committee people in place and all the operational experience, and they asked us on short notice to take on the 1981 seniors. They said if you would do that we would also give you the 1985 Open.

"The only way the board of directors decided we would agree to do that is if the membership agreed. So we sent out a ballot to the membership asking them how they felt about it. Eighty-six percent of the membership voted in favor of hosting the '81 (senior) tournament and having the '85 (U.S. Open).

"The point of that being the membership likes golf tournaments and are very good at handling them," he said. "This will be our fifth tournament in 19 years, and we do quite well because we have that experience."

OAKLAND HILLS volunteers for such major projects for a number of reasons.

• The financial benefits are extremely rewarding. Wood said the club not only makes money directly from the tournament, but also indirectly through new memberships. Wood said there is a three-to-four year waiting list to gain an Oakland Hills membership.

• Oakland Hills officials feel committed to golf. The prestigious Bloomfield Township course has an outstanding national reputation for hosting tournaments, and members go all out to uphold that lofty tradition.

• Members believe Oakland Hills is simply a championship caliber course and are anxious to watch the professionals challenge it. They believe the course has the main ingredients of a major test — from difficulty and stature to beauty and style.

• Finally — perhaps the biggest reason of all — by hosting the U.S. Senior Open the club hopes to land another professional golf major. For instance, Wood said the club has all but locked up the 1996 U.S. Open.

"When we decided to host the '91 Senior Open, we talked with the USGA about the possibilities of hosting the U.S. Open in '95 or '96," said Wood. "We never did think we would have a chance to get the '95 Open because it is going to be the centennial year for the Open. Although we still haven't signed a contract for the '96 Open, every indication is that we will get it."

Yes, Oakland Hills indeed is ready for the challenge of hosting another major.

"The Senior Tour has grown in popularity to the point the galleries have grown and there is a great deal of interest," he said. "Particularly in the sense in the last few years you've had people like (Jack) Nicklaus, (Lee) Trevino and (Gary) Player become eligible.

"Hosting a U.S. Senior Open is not something we consider secondary," he said. "It's not. It's a major event for the club."

three bunkers lining the left side of the fairway and a small pond along the right side, players may decide to avoid disaster and lay up short of the hazards. Anyone using a driver will need to aim to the left side of the fairway since the landing area slopes toward the water. The green on this dogleg right is narrow and protected by bunkers both left and right. The putting surface is the flattest at Oakland Hills and deceptively fast from back to front.

Hole 8 — 415 yards, par 4: This is another difficult driving hole — the toughest test on the front nine for the field in the 1985 U.S. Open. The bunkers cut into the fairway in the landing area place a high premium on an accurate drive. It is difficult to make par from any tee shot left of the fairway since the first bunker has a high lip, forcing a short-iron recovery shot. A clump of pine trees left of the bunker usually demands a pitch-out as the only recovery shot. From the fairway, the second shot is a long iron or wood to a large green with bunkers both left and right. Any shot long will leave the player with a difficult pitch from a downhill lie to a green that slopes from back to front. It's no wonder the most bogeys (182) were made here in 1985.

Hills, despite Ben Crenshaw's hole-in-one here during the second round of the 1985 Open. At 213 yards, a long iron or fairway wood will be needed to reach the large, undulating green. The deep bunker protecting the right front and side of the green may be frequented the most of any bunker during the Senior Open. The green has a narrow terrace on the left side, running from front to back, and there is a small crown in the middle right. The green slopes sharply from front to back, which makes pitching and putting very difficult.

Hole 10 — 418 yards, par 4: When Donald Ross designed Oakland Hills, the first hole he created was the magnificent opener to the tortuous back nine. The hole begins from an elevated tee some 20 feet above the landing area and again there are fairway bunkers to narrow the drive zone. Just past the bunkers, the fairway slopes severely to the right and, as a result, the longer hitter may choose to play a fairway wood off the tee to avoid having his ball roll into the long rough. The uphill second shot is played to a green guarded by bunkers both left and right. The green has a ridge running through the center, with the left side difficult to hold since the green slopes away from the player. In 1924, Bobby Jones made two bogeys and two double-bogeys here and eventually finished second, three shots behind Cyril Walker. But in the 1951 Open, Ben Hogan fired a 2-iron to within five feet and made birdie on the way to his classic final round of 67.

Hole 11 — 395 yards, par 4: This hole is a slight dogleg right played from an elevated tee. With deep bunkers on the right side of the fairway, the best position for the second shot is from the left side since it is much wider than it appears from the tee. The second shot is uphill all the way to a narrow, bowl-shaped green flanked by two bunkers left and right. The green is two-tiered with the back of the green four feet higher than the front. Any putt above the front hole location requires an extremely delicate touch.

Hole 12 — 558 yards, par 5: The second and last par-5 starts from an elevated tee some 40 feet above the landing area. The fairway is one of the widest on the course with a cluster of bunkers on the left to catch errant drives. Most players will lay up short of a strategically placed bunker on the left side of the fairway, 70 yards from the green. The putting surface has a steep slope starting at the right front and running to the back left. The higher right plateau is the most difficult pin position when placed to the far right side of the green. This hole will yield its share of birdies.

Hole 13 — 162 yards, par 3: This hole, the shortest par-3 on the course, features a green that sits below the tee and is tightly enclosed by five bunkers. The green contours are classic Donald Ross. A deep bowl in the front places a premium on club selection to any hole position on the back half of the green. The player has to protect from going over the green since it is very difficult to play the bunker shot and still keep the ball on the back terrace.

Hole 14 — 448 yards, par 4: The first of five extremely tough finishing holes, No. 14 is a slight dogleg right. Trees line both sides of the fairway, with the group on the left being the most challenging from which to recover. The difficulties of the approach make this par-4 a true classic. With a good drive, the second shot can be played with a long iron to a green terraced front left and back right. The putting surface is protected with front bunkers both left and right with a swale running from the front of the green to the back left. Any hole position on the right or left terrace makes par a good score.

Hole 15 — 380 yards, par 4: Perhaps the most underrated hole on the course, this is a sharp dogleg left with a single bunker in the middle of the fairway 240 yards off the tee. The safest tee shot is to play short of the bunker, although some players will try to gamble and pinpoint a shot between the bunker and the trees on the left side of the fairway. The second shot will be played with a middle iron to a slightly elevated, inverted saucer green flanked by bunkers left and right. Its surface features numerous contours and crowns, making the putting extremely treacherous.

Hole 16 — 396 yards, par 4: The 16th, the signature hole at Oakland Hills, is remembered as the place where Gary Player's birdie sparked his victory in the 1972 PGA Championship. Although the green is wide on this dogleg right, it is the shallowest on the course and is only 18 yards deep on the right side. The green is guarded by a small pond both front and right, and the bunkering behind the green is severe with four bunkers on guard to catch and long shots. The putting surface has a razorback running front to back, but a key is driving the tee shot in the fairway, which enables the player to control his second shot to the very shallow green.

Hole 17 — 185 yards, par 3: The green is elevated some 30 feet above the tee on this demanding par-3. The green has a ridge running from the front right to the back center and a small crown at the left front. Since the putting surface is surrounded by bunkers, a high shot is necessary to hold the green. The back right pin position might well be the toughest on the course. Andy North clinched the 1985 U.S. Open here when his shot from the deep right-side bunker stopped just inches from the flagstick.

Hole 18 — 447 yards, par 4: One of the finest finishing holes in golf, the 18th at Oakland Hills retained its rugged reputation in the 1985 U.S. Open when it recorded the fewest pars and the most double-bogeys. The dogleg right is protected by three bunkers on the right as well as by bunkers and out-of-bounds on the left. The second shot is played to a slightly elevated green protected by deep bunkers in front. The shallow green requires a high shot to hold the putting surface, which features a large humpback running from the back middle and flattening out toward the front. Any ball on the opposite side of the hole will make two-putting a tough task.

"I've been more of a guy who just takes care of the players here," said Croswell, who also serves on the selection panel to name Golf Digest's top 100 courses. "Most of my job is just trying to be the best club pro I can be."

Croswell predicts he'll be very busy through August with several club events planned. He'll start worrying about his own game in the fall.

"My golfing will come around in September," Croswell said.

No doubt, he and countless others at Oakland Hills will deserve some time out on the links.
