Board clashes over O'Neill's retirement

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Amid an ultimatum that he step down or be fired, Wayne-Westland school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill angrily announced his plans to retire Tuesday night in an explosive school board session that raised allegations of law-breaking among four board members.

In a dramatic crossfire, board members Vicki Welty, Laurel Raisanen, Fred Warmbler and Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek came under fiery criticism for accusations they conspired in violation of the Open Meetings Act to oust O'Neill — a charge they categorically denied.

During a brief recess, shouting matches erupted in the frenzied, 350-member audience that included some of O'Neill's strongest supporters and harshest critics.

"Don't run away!" one audience member yelled as Kozorosky-Wiacek, who called the recess, left the room. The high drama and starkly opposing views rivaled — on a local level — the dispute between Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas and Professor Anita Hill.

O'Neill attributed his decision to retire Aug. 31 to threats from Kozorosky-Wiacek, board president, and Welty, the vice president, that his contract would not be renewed. O'Neill said they told him during an Oct. 2 visit to his office that they had the necessary four votes to form a majority, with Raisanen and Warmbler, to oust him.

Board member Kathleen Chorbagian, an O'Neill supporter, said she learned of the maneuver that same morning, a Wednesday, when she received a telephone call from Welty. Though the board members denied they met in secret session, Chorbagian blasted them and accused them of violating the Open Meetings Act for arranging a majority vote in telephone conversations.

Chorbagian, saying that the board members "disenfranchised" her and board members Leonard Posey and Andrew Spisak, vowed to contact the state Attorney General's Office and the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office about possible criminal charges.

"How are we going to continue as a school district?" she asked. "How are we going to pull this together when there is no law left on this school board?"

As expected, the board voted 4-3

School chief takes medical leave

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Wayne-Westland school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill, blaming the school district's upheaval for "serious medical problems," announced Tuesday that he will take a three-month medical leave.

Though he didn't say when the leave would begin, O'Neill called for a meeting this week with board President Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek and board secretary Leonard Posey "to discuss a transition plan."

After the meeting, O'Neill declined to cite specific health problems.

In his speech to the board, O'Neill said that his retirement, amid pressure from a majority of board members, has "triggered a reorganization of my priorities, and living has replaced the Wayne-Westland Community Schools on top of the list."

Under his doctor's orders, he said, "I have a medical report which will keep me off the job for at least three months."

Rapid-fire developments continued to unfold Tuesday night as O'Neill, in an impassioned and often-bitter speech, charged that the "irresponsible actions" of some board members threaten "to tear this district apart."

Saying his forced retirement comes amid rumors that a half-dozen other cabinet members and principals are on a "hit list," O'Neill described morale in his administration as being at "an all time low."

O'Neill's comments came as he read from a prepared, four-page speech that he delivered after officially announcing his plans to retire Aug. 31, amid pressure from board members Kozorosky-Wiacek, Vicki Welty, Laurel Raisanen and Fred Warmbler.

One of O'Neill's harshest critics, former board member David Moranty, confirmed that pressure may be put on other administrators to step down.

"Now that he's out, several other high-ranking school officials should take his lead and either retire or resign," said Moranty, chairman of the Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee. "This is the start of a new beginning for a once-proud school system which has been humiliated by deception, dishonesty and incompetence. This is a new beginning for integrity, openness and credibility. This is a happy day for the citizens and students of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools."

can't get through a typical haunted house.

Vandals wrecked a Halloween display on Ford Road that had offered "haunted hayrides" for disabled children who had marveled at the skeletons, gravestones, spiders, witches' den and space ship, among other attractions.

"They trashed us over the weekend, so we're kind of out of business," organizer Rose Little said. "They literally destroyed everything."

However, Little and her husband, Charles, hoped to rebuild the Halloween displays and resume the hayrides this week — possibly as early as today or Friday.

"We're going to rebuild and make it a little bit scarier," she said Monday.

The Wayne family had planned to offer the hayrides every night through Oct. 31 to provide Halloween fun for children with disabilities. The youngsters could enjoy riding on a trailer that Charles Little drove along a path scattered with skeletons, Dracula, gravestones and other scary surprises.

Although the rides were open to everyone, adults were on hand to ensure a safe ride for children in wheelchairs and others who needed special assistance. Rose Little stresses disabled children usually

VANDALS "TORE down the wires and lights and everything," she said. "I have no idea who did it."

The Littles started the hayrides five years ago in the three-acre backyard of their Wayne home. Back then, the couple, who have two disabled children, held the event for family and friends.

When its popularity soared, the Littles moved it to an empty field across from City Hall on Ford, between Wayne Road and Newburgh, and opened it to the public. The site had formerly been used by the Westland Jaycees for a haunted house that has since been demolished.

Many displays are lifelike — powered by car batteries and windshield-wiper engines. They also include sound effects and lights, such as a Dracula display in which the creepy count climbs in and out of a coffin.

Mrs. Little hopes the nearby police department will keep a closer watch on the display once it's rebuilt and reopened.

The hayrides will be offered weekdays 6-10 p.m. and weekends 6-11 p.m. Each ride is $4 for children and $5 for adults, with discounts for groups of 20 or more.

Proceeds will benefit the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program and the American Cancer Society.

Group steps up drive for recall

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

In the wake of its third setback, a committee trying to recall three Wayne-Westland school board members has stepped up its campaign by hiring an attorney.

In other developments, the committee's chairman indicated Monday that school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill's decision to retire in August, amid a series of board disputes, isn't expected to halt the recall effort.

"At this point we're going forward," recall chairman Steven Lind said Monday. Lind has stated publicly that the recall campaign had been aimed, in part, at ousting O'Neill's supporters in hopes he would be fired. But the 56-year-old superintendent — a district employee for 31 years — has announced plans to retire Aug. 31.

Lind confirmed Monday that the recall committee has hired Livonia attorney Mathew Abel, a recall specialist, to boost the campaign. The move came after the committee suffered another setback last week as the Wayne County Elections Commission rejected a third-proposed recall petition.

'At this point we're going forward.'

Abel himself drafted a fourth petition aimed at recalling school board members Kathleen Chorbagian, Leonard Posey and Andrew Spisak. The petition — submitted this week to county elections officials — contains specific language in an attempt to overcome criticism from the elections commission that the earlier proposals lacked clarity.

Though Lind had indicated last week that recall leaders would go to court to challenge the elections commission's rejection of the petitions, a decision has been made to seek approval of Abel's proposal first.

"He is confident that he can help us," Lind said. Abel could not be reached at his office Tuesday morning.

Ford voc-tech center accused of test fraud

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

State officials have launched a probe into allegations that some teachers at the Wayne-Westland school district's voc-tech center helped students pass their state automotive mechanics tests by giving them the answers beforehand.

Although the investigation is continuing, it appears the claims are unsubstantiated, said Fred Pirochta, a Michigan Bureau of Automotive Regulation representative.

Pirochta compared the disputed claims to the Senate Judiciary Committee hearings on whether Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas sexually harassed law professor Anita Hill.

"Both sides are very believable," he said Monday.

"We haven't completed our investigation, but it looks very doubtful that there were any improprieties," said Pirochta, director of the bureau's repair facility division. "There does not appear to be any substance to the allegations."

Pirochta visited the voc-tech center last week and confronted school officials with the allegations, which were investigated earlier during an internal probe ordered by Superintendent Dennis O'Neill.

"We were convinced that there was no impropriety," O'Neill said Tuesday.

The state probe began after the automotive regulation bureau received a letter from leaders of the Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee, which called for a "full-scale investigation" into allegations that teachers helped students pass their state mechanics licensing tests by providing the answers.

THE SEPT. 20 letter came from the committee's chairman, David Moranty, and its vice chairman, Melvin Straight, a counselor at Wayne Memorial High School. They sought the investigation after a voc-tech teacher, who has not been identified, accused some teachers of improper conduct by giving out test answers.

O'Neill charged that Moranty and Straight "in their usual fashion wouldn't trust us" to conduct a local investigation, and he called the

O'Neill's retirement sparks angry debate

Tuesday night to accept O'Neill's retirement, with Chorbagan, Posey and Spisak opposing it.

Chorbagan, also a member of the county school board, said she's "ashamed" to face her counterparts there. "The whole county is shocked at what has happened and the way it happened."

Posey told the board he felt "offended" and "disenfranchised" by the maneuver and added, "I demand the right to participate in all board activities."

The four board members vehemently denied that they broke any laws.

Ralsanen, saying she was upset that her integrity was being questioned, countered the claims and said: "I would never break the law."

Wetly and Kozorosky-Wlasek agreed and said after the meeting that when they approached O'Neill, they merely told him that they "believed" they had the four votes to oust him. During the meeting, Wetly told the audience that she had "never" discussed the subject privately with Warmbler "until right before this meeting."

New priorities trigger leave for school chief

O'Neill indicated that Thomas Svitkovich, deputy superintendent, and Bill Taylor, associate superintendent for employee services, are among those targeted by anti-administration forces.

O'Neill accused administration critics of trying to thwart Svitkovich's standing as one of two finalists for the position of Gibraltar school superintendent. O'Neill didn't name specific critics.

"When Tom Svitkovich is a finalist for a superintendency in another district and anonymous phone calls to the board members of that district are made to spread lies about his work record in Wayne-Westland in an effort to sabotage Wetly said the attacks on her character are "totally false and added that "In America, you are innocent until proven guilty."

Wetly, who said she did most of the talking in the Oct. 2 meeting with O'Neill, said she wants a new superintendent because, "I believe it is time for a change in this district. I believe that we need strong leadership — leadership that builds unity."

The embattled district has been embroiled in numerous controversies. Among the latest was the disclosure of a $1.4-million school budget surplus, in the wake of earlier predictions by the O'Neill administration that the district would be virtually broke when the fiscal year ended June 30.

"I feel that the community is crying for it (change)," Wetly said. "I've seen it since I've been on the board." Wetly, Ralsanen and Warmbler were elected in June, defeating three incumbents that some critics viewed as O'Neill's "rubber stamps."

Meanwhile, Wetly called on board members Tuesday to plan to meet soon to begin the search for O'Neill's successor — a process that could take months.

his chances, I get furious," O'Neill said.

O'Neill charged that efforts to oust Svitkovich and Taylor "are just a few examples of the unprofessional and undermining behavior which, if allowed to continue, is going to tear this district apart."

"You can put your head in the sand and deny these conditions exist, or as elected leaders of this school district you can begin to work together to address the critical issues honestly, not superficially," O'Neill told the board. "Getting rid of O'Neill may provide a quick fix and be politically pleasing to some of your supporters, but it is not going to treat the cancer which your behavior, attitude and actions continue to spread in the community."

School recall drive stepped up at a Feb. 11 school board meeting "in favor of proposed cuts causing a reduction of school busing, reduction of the senior high academic day by one hour; elimination of elementary art, vocal and instrumental music, and physical education; and reduction in classroom supply and textbook accounts."

Moreover, the petition notes that the board members voted during the same meeting "to approve a pay raise for teachers of 3.5 percent for the 1990-91 school year, 4 percent for the first semester of the 1991-92 school year, and 4 percent for the second semester of the 1991-92 school year, with salaries for the 1992-93 school year to be negotiated later."

The raises in the first two years amounted to 11.9 percent when compounded, teacher representatives and school officials have said.

Board members have defended their actions, saying the teacher contract they approved granted the lowest salary increases in Wayne County. The contract also averted a threatened strike.

Moreover, board members have defended their proposed budget cuts as necessary to avert what they called a severe budget crunch.

IN ANOTHER development, another recall committee member, Kenneth Raupp, submitted a separate recall petition to the elections commission last week. Raupp's move was described by Lind as an attempt to show the elections commission that school board critics will not be deterred — no matter how many proposals must be presented to win approval.

Raupp, who has appeared by Lind's side at earlier petition hearings, could not be reached for comment.

"There's not a split in the group," Lind said.

Raupp's petition, which generally cites poor money management by school officials, is to be heard by the elections commission on Oct. 28. Lind hopes the larger committee's proposal will be heard the same day.

If at least one of the proposals wins approval, he said, recall organizers could begin collecting the 4,420 signatures they need from registered voters to call for a special recall election.

Teachers accused of giving answers state's probe "a waste of time."

If substantiated, the claims could threaten the center's standing among 63 centers in Michigan that are eligible for state certification in mechanics.

Moranty and Straight also sent letters to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the state Attorney General's Office and the U.S. Justice Department.

Greg Baracy, the voc-tech center's principal, refused to comment Tuesday on the investigation.

"I have no comment until I hear from him (Pirochta)," Baracy said. Although Pirochta said the investigation isn't expected to be completed for one to two weeks, he added that there appears to be "no testing improprieties of any major extent."

PIROCHTA STRESSED that he came to the district "to look at this objectively" and said: "I'm not anxious to hide anything."

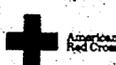

Unless someone comes forward with substantive information, he said, it appears the voc-tech center won't face any state action, and "we will continue to offer the state test at that site."

Pirochta indicated that both sides in the dispute appear to believe their versions. It's possible that some observers believed the teachers were giving out test answers when, in fact, they were using sample questions to help students prepare, he said.

Some sample questions and actual test questions are similar, Pirochta said. "I could see where (the accusers) thought maybe they (the questions) were from the state test," he said.

Teacher trainees swap knowledge with pros

By Kevin Tomaszewski
special writer

This year John Glenn High School hosts the University of Michigan's Masters with Certification Program.

The two-year-old MaC program, under the direction of Elizabeth DeGroot and Fred Goodman, helps students who have obtained a bachelor's degree or an advanced degree in receiving both their master of arts in education degree and a secondary teaching certificate.

The students involved in this 12-month program have majors in English, the natural sciences, the social sciences, math or foreign language.

These students have just completed their bachelor's degrees in fields other than education, have been teaching without a teaching certificate in special schools, or have been working in fields other than education and would like to make a transition into teaching.

This program is designed to be fundamentally different in structure and in content from traditional teacher education programs. It is based on the belief that a teacher education program should be learner-centered, integrated, flexible and based on experience.

Because of this philosophy, the program integrates extensive field experience with university courses. In an intensive year-long format, the students build connections between theory, research and practice while emphasizing the relationships between learning and teaching.

IN THE first semester, student teachers take the majority of their graduate courses and observe in the schools two days a week. The second semester, they will be in the schools every day teaching several classes under the supervision and guidance of their experienced collaborating teacher.

In the school district portion of the program are the collaborating teachers in whose classes student teachers will be learning. The collaborating teachers' responsibilities are to assist in program development, implementation, and evaluation of the student teachers. The collaborating teachers and student teachers work in many ways as a tag team, teaching students together while in many ways teaching each other.

At John Glenn High School, the student teachers are involved in the program are Sharon Cooper with Gary Gaylord (English), Sheryl Netzky with Louise Karmann (English), Laura Kies with Randy Karr (social science), Therese Lemanski with Norm Hoens and Ed Phillips (social science), Karl Myers-Ralph with Sandy Berrington (math), Lynne Rowe with Danielle Durigon (French).

THE MAJOR reason that the Wayne-Westland school district is involved in this program is that it volunteered to be a host. DeGroot and Goodman worked through school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill and James Edwards, executive director of instruction and planning.

Upjohn Corp. helped the program with a grant to help with tuition for the student teachers, who were designated Upjohn Fellows.

Kevin Tomaszewski is a senior, student council president, first year journalism student, news editor of the "Echo," member of the French Club and a second year varsity basketball player. He hopes to attend Purdue or Syracuse University, majoring in political science and journalism.

Teaching hopeful: Work adds up

Kari Myers-Ralph, a student teacher at John Glenn, also is a guinea pig for the master's in arts and teaching certification program (MaC) at University of Michigan.

In the MaC program, persons with bachelor's degrees are given a chance to become teachers with master's degrees in one year instead of the usual two years. Ironically, Ralph at first applied for another master's program but the directors of the MaC program saw her application and accepted her.

Myers-Ralph attended Lakeland High School in Rathdrum, Idaho and later earned her bachelor's of arts degree in applied mathematics at the University of California in San Diego.

Since coming to Glenn, she has been the understudy of Sandy Berrington, a teacher in the school's math department.

JUGGLING HER school life and student teacher life isn't that easy. "Three days I'm a student, two days a teacher. It takes a lot of flexibility."

Ralph, whose major is applied math and minor is social science, was assigned to the Wayne-Westland district and was matched to a teacher based on her major.

Initially, she intended on becoming an elementary math teacher but she said, "I didn't see it as fulfilling as teaching high school math. Plus, I feel there aren't many good high school teachers, and I feel, I'd be an excellent teacher."

Ralph is looking forward to her being able to teach next semester here at Glenn. After completing the MaC program she hopes to "get a teaching job in the Ann Arbor area teaching high school or junior high math. I have always wanted to be a teacher. . . I think I can make a difference."

Jeremi Washington is a senior, in his second year of journalism study and is the commentary editor for the school paper.

Work experience boosts student teacher's skills

By Dusty Chitwood

Laura Kies, a member of the MaC program at the University of Michigan, is currently a student teacher at John Glenn High School. Kies hopes that by joining this program she can fulfill her ambitions of becoming a teacher.

A 1986 graduate of New York's Rye Country Day High School where she was one of the top students in her class, she is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania where she maored in history.

In college she worked in women's health clinics, providing information and counseling. She started teaching after graduation. Kies taught third grade last year at a private Quaker school, Plymouth Meeting Friends, in Philadelphia where she could teach without having a teaching certificate.

This experience helped her to decide to get official certification so she joined MaC, a program that helps students become teachers.

The MaC program sent her to John Glenn to learn from certified teachers. Randy Karr is her collaborating teacher and will help her develop her teaching skills.

Since the MaC program is a difficult program to enter, her grade point average and teaching experience helped her gain admission. Kies plans to later be a history teacher, hopefully offer students a fair and fun class.

Dusty Chitwood, a junior taking her first semester of newspaper production, plans to be a sports journalist after graduation.

Police follow leads in probe of city man's stabbing death

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Westland police Tuesday continued their search for suspects in the murder of a 42-year-old man found stabbed in the upstairs bedroom of his 625 Lansdowne home, which had been set afire.

Though no arrests had been made and no suspects identified Tuesday, Westland police chief Michael Frayer said detectives had "a couple of ideas" that they were pursuing.

Manuel "Joe" Bernal, who had been stabbed in the chest and partially burned, was found dead about 7 a.m. Friday after Westland firefighters were called by a neighbor who saw flames in Bernal's two-story house. The killing stunned family members and neighbors in the upscale neighborhood north of Cherry Hill, between Wayne and Newburgh roads.

More details of Bernal's death emerged this week in a police report indicating that he had been dead for several hours before firefighters arrived to douse the blaze, which damaged the bedroom.

Upon their arrival, firefighters saw Bernal lying face down on his bed and suffering — they believed — from fire-related injuries. When they pulled him from the bed to try to rescue him, they discovered that his body already was stiff — indicating he had been dead for some time.

BERNAL, WHO lived alone, was stabbed in the chest with what police believe may have been an eight-inch knife — found near a window in his bedroom. The wooden-handle knife, which had blood on its blade, appeared to belong to a knife set in Bernal's kitchen, a police report said.

Sheryl Netzky, a University of Michigan MaC participant, was born in Chicago and moved to suburban Northbrook when she was 2.

She attended Glenbrook North High School where the film "Ferris Bueller's Day Off" was made during her senior year. She has always loved to work with kids and she has wanted to become a teacher since her childhood.

After attending Glenbrook, Netzky moved on to the University of Michigan campus. Netzky chose U-M over nearby universities because of the reputation of its literature, science and arts program.

"In college, you can be yourself," she said. "You can be your own person and there are a lot of clubs to help you develop that person."

Netzky had plenty of things to do to keep herself busy in college. She was an intern at Channel 7 News — writing stories, arranging interviews and going out on "shoots." She also was an assistant editor at Scott Foresman Publishing Company

Through high school and college, Netzky has basically been an A student.

"There are three key things to do to be a good student," she said. "You must never miss an assignment, don't miss school, and remember key phrases."

As an undergraduate, she earned a double major in psychology and English. When she starts her career, she wants to teach English, especially creative writing, and hopes to join a school district that shares her commitment to education.

When she walked into Glenn High, she really didn't know what it would be like. She was surprised to see that

Hawthorn closing moves kids to local districts

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Local school districts have made room for 50 severely emotionally disturbed children ousted from a Northville day treatment program Sept. 30.

The Wayne-Westland district will have 20 local students returned to local facilities.

With the closing of Hawthorn Center's day treatment program, districts must now provide both the psychological and educational services formerly given by the state at Hawthorn to troubled youngsters who need intensive help short of hospitalization.

Local educators, who have for 31 years turned to Hawthorn when they had a student with severe emotional problems, fear youngsters cut off from the mental treatment facility won't get in the classroom the kind of in-depth psychological help they got at Hawthorn.

The closing of Hawthorn's day treatment center sent 10 to Livonia Public Schools' special education program.

The children once again will attend the home district they were attending before they exhibited behavioral problems and were admitted to the day program at Hawthorne.

Some now attend special education classes within their district; others attend a special center-based program for emotionally troubled children in the former Rosedale Elementary School in Livonia and run by the Redford Union district.

Local educators opposed the closing of the Hawthorn facility. While they believe they can meet the students' educational needs, they fear they can't meet all of the students' emotional or psychological needs.

"They'll get little psychological treatment," said Robert Dietiker, director of special education for the Livonia school district which includes the northern section of Westland.

"Hawthorne offered a unique strong mix of education and psychological treatment," he said. "There should have been a strengthening of the program, not the closing of it. Losing medical treatment is a significant loss for these kids."

CHILDREN WHO attended the day program at Hawthorn were emotionally troubled, but not to the extent that they required hospitalization. Their problems included depression, aggression, suicidal tendencies and drug abuse.

The day program bridged the gap between the in-patient program at Hawthorne for the most disturbed children and the special education programs run by school districts: Counseling sessions also included parents and other family members.

Teachers taught the youngsters classroom subjects "in a therapeutic setting," said Dr. Harold Lockett, Hawthorn's director. This therapy included sessions with psychiatrists and social workers.

The Sept. 30 closing of the state-run program is part of massive budget cuts made this year by Gov. John Engler.

State officials have said that the educational needs of youngsters attending Hawthorne should be borne by school districts, not the state.

Sam Davis, executive director of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children, believes little learning will take place in a classroom if a child is "depressed, miserable and unhappy."

"WILL THE kid absorb anything when he's like that?" Davis asked. "Some will, some won't."

A few of the more seriously disturbed youngsters will get out-patient counseling at Hawthorne, but most won't, Lockett said.

It's now the job of school districts and community mental health clinics to provide the psychological help once given at Hawthorn, Lockett said.

"Some have nowhere to go; others will get help, but not at the same intensity as that given at Hawthorn," Davis said. "This means that some youngsters will fall apart and require hospitalization."

Davis believes the state has not adequately explained why it closed both Hawthorne and a similar facility in Pontiac.

Lockett, who has been with the program since its inception, decries the closing of the day treatment facility.

"It's sad to see the disintegration of a program we built."

Educators say school districts this year can absorb the costs of teaching the small number of youngsters returned to their classroom.

Monsters haunt old theater

A group raising money to restore the Palace Theater in downtown Wayne is sponsoring a Halloween haunted house now through the end of the month in the 64-year-old building, on westbound Michigan Avenue, west of Wayne Road.

The monsters will be on hand 7:30-10:30 p.m. Sunday-Thursday and 7:30 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday.

Admission for the house, which opened Friday night, is $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

The private, non-profit organization wants to raise money that would restore the building to its original condition.

Chris Cosslemon, palace theater group spokesman, said the building was opened in 1927 and closed in 1957. Its lobby was changed into a music store and later retail businesses and offices.

A fire in 1985 destroyed the stores in the front of the building, but the theater wasn't damaged, he said. The Palace Theater Company was formed in 1987 to restore the building.

The haunted house is just east of the State Theatre and across the street from Metro Mall Place.

Domestic violence: Yes, it happens here

Most battered women eventually leave their attacker, but there hasn't always been a place for them to go.

The shelter movement only began in Michigan in the mid-1970s. At first, shelters were primarily house-to-house operations. By decade's end, shelter programs had sprung up throughout the state.

The problem, experts said, is that too few new shelters are being added.

There are only three shelters in all of Wayne County, Michigan's most populous county, and all are bustling with activity.

First Step, with offices in Westland and Downriver, is the only suburban Wayne County program.

"WE TAKE people from all over — sometimes it's best that women seek shelter far from home," said First Step executive director Judy Ellis. "But we primarily serve western Wayne and Downriver." Some 2,165 families participated in the First Step domestic violence program last year. The agency's sexual assault program served another 219 people.

The agency provides counseling, health care assistance, legal assistance and financial aid through its programs for adults and children.

Although it charges for services, fees are based on a sliding scale. No one is denied service due to inability to pay.

First Step received $50,000 in private contributions and $152,044 in in-kind services last year. While not a government agency, it did receive financial or in-kind support from Livonia, Westland, Canton and Plymouth Township, as well as other communities. It is also a United Way agency.

Sixty-five volunteers donated an average of three hours a week each to the First Step shelter and programs.

County seeks end to the violence

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Every battered woman, experts say, is testimony to a system that doesn't work.

Police, prosecutors, judges and hospital workers could all do more to stop domestic violence, said speakers at a recent Wayne County-sponsored seminar.

County statistics are discouraging. More than 4,700 Wayne County women were victims of domestic violence in 1990, according to the Michigan State Police. Most were beaten by husbands or lovers, some by other family members. Nearly 300 were too terrified to even identify their attacker. More than 150 women suffered permanent physical disability as a result of their wounds.

FORTY-EIGHT died. Statistics alone don't tell the story, former county resident Lucy Diebolt said.

Now a successful businesswoman, and director of anti-abuse programs in Livingston County, Diebolt was once a battered wife.

For nearly a decade — beginning with marriage to "the boy next door," ending after being left, bloody and unconscious in her bedroom — Diebolt said she suffered vicious and repeated beatings.

The beatings didn't stop when she ended her five-year marriage, Diebolt said. They didn't stop when she was pregnant. They didn't stop when she went to police and prosecutors.

"One policeman told me, 'But honey, he's your husband,'" she said, the memory still fresh after nearly two decades.

"Finally, I just left," Diebolt said. "I closed my house and walked away with my children."

The system failed Lucy Diebolt two decades ago and it has failed thousands of women each year since, county Prosecutor John O'Hair said.

"Violence is a terrible disease, a sickness," O'Hair said.

But Wayne County is trying to come up with a cure.

The county will soon appoint a domestic abuse task force whose chief goal will be to patch up the cracks in the system, said county executive's office spokesman David Katz.

The 24-member task force will begin work early next year, Katz said. Its members will be drawn from the county prosecutors office, area shelters, Detroit police, local clergy, county commissioners, 36th District Court staff, other county social service agencies and domestic abuse survivors.

The goal is to create a unified county approach to domestic violence.

Experts generally agree there are five major problems: inadequate response from police, inadequate response from hospitals, inadequate response from courts, lack of adequate shelter space and an absence of programs aimed at those who abuse women.

Police response varies from officer to officer, experts said.

"SOME ARE quite good in dealing with these kinds of cases, others not so good," said Charlene Batchelor, a victims rights advocate with the prosecutor's Westland office.

Part of the problem is the lack of training police receive in handling domestic violence, said Port Huron Police Chief William Corbett, who is instituting a training program in his community, based on one he previously instituted in Ann Arbor.

What Michigan needs is a mandatory arrest statute, Macomb Prosecutor Carl Marlinga said, allowing officers to make on-the-spot arrests without the need for corroborating evidence.

"We don't put victims of any other crimes through these kinds of hoops," Marlinga said. "When someone robs a party store, we don't ask

Westland man involved in fatal crash

By M.S. Dillon
staff writer

Jenevele Szewczul, 63, of Canton was killed late Monday afternoon when the car she was driving collided with an eastbound 1990 gray Dodge pickup truck driven by Kenneth Swindle, 52, of Westland.

Holiday Park subdivision, attempting to go on Joy, when she failed to yield to Swindle.

Szewczul was taken by a Canton Township EMS unit to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where she was pronounced dead.

"It appears she was attempting to make a left turn off of Holly Drive onto westbound Joy and failed to yield, causing a collision," a police spokesperson said. The exact cause of the crash is still under investigation.

It's believed Szewczul was visiting her daughter and grandchildren, who live in Holiday Park.

Szewczul lived alone on Brook Park Drive in Canton.

She was driving a 1985 Dodge and was wearing her seat belt. Neither alcohol nor drugs were a factor in the accident.

It was overcast and drizzling when the crash occurred at 4:53 p.m. on the two-lane road just east of I-275.

Szewczul sustained multiple injuries to her left side and head when the truck hit the left side of her car. The side windows of her car were knocked out. A teddy bear lay in the street behind Szewczul's mangled car. Her purse sat on the hood, and an orange Garfield stuffed animal lay in the driveway where her car came to a stop.

The fatality occurred in front of Richard Wisniewski's house.

"I WAS IN THE house doing dishes, and I didn't hear a sound. There are so many accidents here, we don't even look," said Wisniewski. "I've had cars in my yard knocking trees down. I'm waiting for someone to come through the window."

"You can't get out of or into your own driveway around here so you have to dare to get out," he said.

"That traffic light (one street west of the accident site in front of The Crossings at Canton Apartments) does more harm than good. It's there to give them relief down the road, but the people here have no relief."

Noreen Taylor, 21, who can see Joy Road from her house on Briarwood, rode her bike to the scene after she heard the crash.

"The woman was hit so hard, the seat in her car was turned in. There were no windows left in the front or back of the car," Taylor said.

Funeral and other information was unavailable at press time.

Teacher awarded, then laid off

which includes the northern section of Westland.

Joan Bahl is one of three best teachers in the Livonia school district this year, but you won't find her in any classroom.

EACH YEAR, the Livonia Board of Education honors three teachers by naming them teachers of the year.

Bahl, a seventh grade English/social studies teacher at Emerson Middle School, which serves northeast Westland, is one of 114 teachers laid off in June.

This year, the honorees are: Bahl; Marcianna Baker, art teacher at Grant Elementary; and Michael Abbott, a teacher in the ALPHA program at Dickinson.

All but 16 of the teachers have been recalled, but Bahl, with only four years under her belt in the Livonia school system, is not one of them.

The layoffs of the 114 teachers were part of the belt-tightening school officials undertook in the spring to balance the district's $104.3 million budget for 1991-92.

It does not look real promising for her (that she will be recalled)," said John Rennels, assistant superintendent for personnel for the district

About the same time the district approved its budget and announced the layoffs, district employees were nominating teachers to be held up this year as exemplifying the highest ideals of the teaching profession.

"It's a shame that one of our teachers of the year, an excellent educator, is not with our kids this year," said Steve Naumcheff, president of the Livonia Education Association, which represents teachers in collective bargaining.

Because she teaches at the middle school level, where the number of students isn't increasing, Rennels fears the chances are not good that Bahl will get her job back this year.

Many of the recalled teachers have taught at the elementary level, where enrollment is increasing.

"It will take an increase in enrollment, or someone leaving the district, or a leave of absence, for her to be recalled," Rennels said.

BAHL ALSO must overcome the hurdle of her low seniority.

She was hired by the district four years ago. She had returned to teaching after rearing her four daughters and getting her secondary certification from Madonna College in 1986.

Also, some of the 98 laid-off teachers have been recalled to part-time jobs. Those jobs would be upped to full time before teachers on the recall list are rehired, Rennels said.

"They would get built up to full time first."

Bahl also is hurt by teaching in an area well represented in the district, language arts and social studies.

Having a top teacher on the layoff list shows how painful the layoff process is, Rennels said.

"Some of our brightest stars could be put on layoff."

Suspect jailed, awaits his exam

By Diane Gale

A man walked into the station with his right hand in a paper bag. He said he had a gun and demanded all the money in the cash register.

A 33-year-old Westland man was arrested Saturday for an armed robbery charge at the Hop-In gas station at Michigan Avenue and Canton Center Road, Canton police reported.

When the clerk reportedly said: "I don't have much money" the thief wasn't daunted. He replied: "I don't care, give me all you want. I'm in a hurry."

Burt Lee Wood, 33, was arrested Saturday on one count of armed robbery before Judge Lawrence L. Emmert, of 27th District Court, who was serving last weekend at the out county branch of Wayne County Circuit Court in Westland.

The clerk opened the cash draw and gave the man all the one dollar bills. The man ran out the door and drove west on Michigan in a two-tone brown station wagon.

He set bond at $25,000 or 10 percent. Wood did not post bail and remains in Wayne County Jail.

A Canton officer, who was in the area when the report was broadcast, spotted a car fitting the description and stopped Wood.

A PRELIMINARY examination to determine if there's enough evidence to hold a trial is 9 a.m. Friday in 35th District Court.

THE CAR was spotted on Belleville Road near Van Born Road and Wood was stopped at Sheldon and Van Born. Canton police were assisted by Van Buren Township police in the arrest.

The case began when Canton police received a report about a break-in at 2:47 a.m., said Canton police information officer Pat Nemecek.

Police found a small brown paper bag with 66 one dollar bills, Nemecek said. No one else was in the car and a gun was not seen.

Bernal's body also appeared to be charred on the front thighs of both legs and on his right arm, the report said.

LATER, TWO neighbors had noticed that the garage door of Bernal's house was open at 5:10 a.m. and 6:15 a.m. on the Friday morning that his body was found.

Westland fire marshal Robert Perry confirmed that arson was involved in the fire, and he said he would be prepared to say so in court if police succeed in bringing charges in the case.

When the blaze erupted around 7 a.m. and firefighters arrived, the garage door was closed, the police report said.

In interviews with neighbors, police learned that Bernal — a Ford Motor Co. railroad track maintenance man — had been seen working in his yard about 5 p.m. on the day before his death. He also had gone to dinner with friends that the shop keeper, 'Are you sure there was money in the till?'

Still, area police drew praise for making progress in handling domestic abuse cases.

Gone is the three-day "cooling off" period once standard among many area police departments before they would seek charges.

"It's my experience police officers have come a long way in dealing with domestic violence, certainly a lot further than medical professionals," said Debi Cain, director of the HAVEN shelter, Pontiac.

Emergency room staff too often treat the bruises without taking action to stop the abuse, according to associate Wayne State nursing professor Jacquelyn Campbell.

"Emergency rooms have so far done a lousy job," Campbell said. Change will come once the state adopts an emergency room protocol, said Denise Alexander of the state Domestic Violence and Treatment Board.

For the first time, she said, emergency room doctors and nurses will know exactly what to do in reporting domestic abuse incidents.

The best thing judges could do, Oakland County Circuit Judge Edward Sosnick said, is to treat victims as victims.

"WE SHOULDN'T prescribe change for the victim, it's not her fault," said Sosnick, a member of the state Domestic Violence Prevention Treatment Board. "We shouldn't prescribe marital counseling, this is a crime, not a marital dispute."

Even with greater help from police, doctors and courts, experts said, battered women still need a place to go.

Shelters are currently bursting at the seams.

"There are 45 shelters in Michigan, but more are needed," Sosnick said.

First Step, which primarily serves western Wayne County and downriver, provided service to 2,000 new families last year alone, executive director Judy Ellis said.

"The problem is definitely in the suburbs, Ellis said. "The statistics are one in three (women) and that holds up whether city or suburb."

Counseling for batterers themselves is a new approach, without much information on whether it will be successful.

Right now, there are few facilities in metro Detroit.

"A lot of the people we see are sent to Washtenaw County, where they have a well-developed program," Ellis said. "There really isn't a concentrated effort here."

Progress is slow at best said psychologist Lewis Okun, who has examined treatment programs for violent males.

County officials, however, believe the key to curbing violence at all levels is changing male behavior.

"I remember men who used to say, 'I had to take care of my woman,'" and we all knew what that meant," said Bernard Kilpatrick, county health director. "That kind of behavior has to change."

Shelter officials said county efforts were welcome.

"Really, we've been looking for something like this for 13 years," Ellis said.

"It looks like a good program, I wish we could get something like this going in Oakland County," added Cain.

Success, however, won't be measured by shelter operators, police, doctors, judges or government officials. It will be measured by women themselves.

"A lot of what I'm hearing is good, but the proof is going to come six months from now," Diebolt said. "Talk is good, but what's needed is action."

While domestic abuse is often a 'hidden' problem, it is no secret for prosecutor's office victim's rights advocate Charlene Batchelor and other county officials who, attended a recent summit on violence in the home.

Tax info to come later because of state cuts

Michigan taxpayers will get their 1991 State Income Tax Booklets in the mail on Dec. 13 this year instead of early November.

"This is essentially a cost-cutting move designed to save the state the cost of duplicating mailings and early printing costs," said treasurer Douglas Roberts.

Those who file in late December or early January for their property tax and home heating credits can still expect about a three-week turnaround time on their refunds. But district offices will no longer prepare forms for citizens as they have in the past due to staff shortages, Robert said. Staff will be available to answer general questions and to refer citizens to volunteer groups providing preparation services. Staff will continue to provide training to volunteer groups so they can provide good service to citizens, he said.

Forms can be obtained by calling the FORMS-2-ME toll-free line at 800-367-6263, or at Secretary of State offices, libraries, post offices, and banks throughout the state.

2 area residents appointed to state handicapper board

Two area residents are among five appointed to the Michigan Commission on Handicapper Concerns by Gov. John Engler.

L. Bryn Fortune of Farmington currently works at Family and Neighborhood Services for Wayne County. A member of Project SPIN, a pediatric parent support group, she is also Oakland County coordinator of the Family Support Network of Michigan. Fortune replaces Joanne Verbanic of Farmington.

Nadey Jachim of Troy is executive director for the Oakland-Macomb Center for Independent Living. A member of the Michigan Rehabilitation Association, Jachim is past president of the Michigan Council for Independent Living Programs and Housing Alternative. She replaces Miriam King of West Bloomfield.

Engler said his appointees "will aggressively strive to protect the rights of handicapped individuals. They are strong advocates who will work to promote increased public and private support for the well-being of the handicapped."

Bill lifts local liability for gun permits

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Police in Garden City, Westland and several outstate municipalities would have no excuse to deny all pistol permits under a bill prepared in the state Senate.

"SB 528 mandates issuing permits to qualified persons; it requires normal business hours (for gun permit offices), and it removes local liability," said an aide to the sponsor, Sen. James Barcia, D-Bay City.

The measure was pushed aggressively in the Senate Criminal Justice Committee Tuesday by Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton, and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC).

Lacking a quorum, the senators took no vote.

THE BILL is designed to correct a flaw in a gun-control law which took effect March 28 saying a police chief "may issue licenses to purchase, carry or transport pistols to applicants."

Barcia's bill changes "may" to "shall" and inserts "qualified" before applicants.

Dennis Knapp, a field representative for MUCC, identified Garden City and Westland along with Romulus, Kentwood, Grand Rapids, Ada, Battle Creek and two of its suburbs as local units which were issuing few permits or none.

The bill is designed to correct a flaw in a gun-control law which took effect March 28 saying a police chief "may issue licenses to purchase, carry or transport pistols to applicants."

"There were rumors that anti-gun forces would bankroll suits" against local police if recently licensed persons committed crimes or did damage with pistols, Knapp said.

Knapp said some departments had been opening pistol permit offices only a few hours a week.

Knapp said MUCC and the National Rifle Association are prepared to sue municipalities refusing to issue permits.

No local police departments testified.

DINGELL, A downriver lawmaker and hunting devotee, said bearing arms is "a fundamental right. Police powers have to be rather limited in dealing with fundamental rights."

"I don't see discretionary (police) powers exercised over other fundamental rights -- such as marriage, speech and transportation."

Dingell also said local police should be relieved of liability when theirs is only the "ministerial" duty of issuing permits rather than an exercise of discretionary power.

Lt. Vern Rlesma of the Michigan State Police argued that "it's not in the interest of public safety" to change "may" to "shall."

A permissive law works well, Rlesma said, "until recently when a few municipalities flatly refused" to issue permits.

COMMITTEE CHAIR Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, agreed with Dingell, citing a man whose wife was murdered and whose life was threatened but was unable to get a pistol permit. "I contend there are local governments not issuing permits," Welborn said.

Dingell added another state which refused to issue permits lost a 1983 civil rights suit, was forced to pay attorneys' fees and could have been hit for punitive damages.

"You mean Indiana," said Rlesma. "The recourse there was the proper one -- to sue."

Bill would tell schools of criminal convictions

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State officials would have an easier time weeding out teachers and administrators convicted of crimes under a bill before the House of Representatives.

But Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, would like to broaden the bill — to have the state Department of Education do criminal file checks on job applicants.

"I think we should go with this bill, up or down," House Education chair William Keith, D-Garden City, replied to Kosteva. "At least this bill addresses a portion of the problem."

So Kosteva must either offer floor amendments or draft a separate bill.

THE FULL HOUSE could take up HB 4569 as early as today. It was reported unanimously out of committee Tuesday with support from Keith, Kosteva, Justine Barnes, D-Westland, and Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia.

'At least this bill addresses a portion of the problem.'

— State Rep. William Keith
D-Garden City

Kosteva wants school district checks to be run directly through the Department of Education and State Police, rather than local police, to reduce the number of people who handle the information.

ed or revoked. They could request a state-level hearing.

KOSTEVA OFFERED a broader substitute version but then withdrew it.

"It requires that, prior to a new hire, a school district shall seek a criminal history check by the Michigan State Police using the LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) system," he said.

Even that has shortcomings, Kosteva said: "It only deals with in-state crimes."

Kosteva also wants school district checks to be run directly through the Department of Education and State Police, rather than local police, to reduce the number of people who handle the information.

Eleanor Dillon, speaking for the Michigan Federation of Teachers, preferred London's version. "We would support pre-employment checks if the mechanism were fair and accurate. But the LEIN system is flawed. At best it's 50 percent accurate," she said.

Sponsor Terry London, R-Marysville, said he introduced the bill at the request of the Department of Education to assure it receives information about the conviction of teachers. HB 4569 would:

- Add two drug crimes — delivery to minors near school property and recruiting minors to deal in drugs — to the list of sex and child abuse crimes for which teachers could lose their certificates.

- Require county prosecutors to ask convicted persons if they are certified teachers and to report those convictions to the Department of Education.
- Require superintendents and school board presidents who are aware of such convictions to report them to Lansing.

The bill would apply to non-public as well as public school employees. Their certificates could be suspend-

New scholarship offered

The first Walter Greer Memorial Scholarship will be awarded to a Schoolcraft College culinary arts or electronics student in winter semester.

The scholarship was created in memory of Walter Greer, a Northville resident who believed in lifelong learning. Greer took classes and taught at Schoolcraft after retirement as an airplane pilot.

Scholarship applications are available through the college financial aid office, 462-4433. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

Task force puts portfolios over grades

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Classroom grades were the undisputed measure of student success when Dolores James was a business education teacher 20 years ago.

But since joining a state "employability skills" task force, James said she now believes a student's business education merely begins in the classroom.

The Westland resident and 40 fellow task force members are promoting job skill portfolios as a better way of determining student success.

Portfolios are designed to give employers — and students — an idea of what kind of worker the student will be. And if school districts aren't providing their students with adequate job skills, portfolios are expected to show it.

Portfolios spell aptitude APT, containing information on student's academic, personal management and teamwork skills.

"THE PORTFOLIOS can contain their resume, copies of their work and documentation of their job skills from the people who know them best," James said. Test results from standardized state exams could also be dropped into the portfolio.

Run as a pilot program last year in about two dozen Michigan public school districts, the portfolio program is touted as an effective, low cost, way to help students become more competitive in the workplace.

"It's no secret it's very competitive out there," James said. Portfolios aren't just for vocational education students. By next year, every 10th grader in a Michigan public school is expected to have one.

"There's the idea that this is good only for students who won't be going to college but, really, it's good for any student," James said.

The task force was appointed by the Michigan Board of Education earlier this year to strengthen ties between business people and educators.

"Our state and the nation are facing a critical shortage of workers who possess the skills necessary for our new globally competitive work force," acting state Superintendent of Schools Gary Hawks said at the time. "The days of a student leaving school and getting a good paying job without a high school diploma are over."

A mid-1980s federal study showed a large gap between school curriculum and employer expectations.

"First reactions to awareness of this gap led to 'more of the same,'" said state school board president Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester Hills. "If three years of a certain subject were good, four should be better."

Portfolios, however, grew out of a change in state school board thinking.

"In 1988, I was one of a group of state board members from 18 states who thought that if we could define outcomes which students should achieve from schooling — what they should know and be able to do, and the kind of people they should be — we would be able to define a core curriculum."

Out of that grew last year's Public Act 25, putting that line of thinking into state education policy.

Task force members include representatives from Ford Motor Co., United Auto Workers and the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, as well as education professionals and parents.

James, director of community education for Inkster Schools, serves on the task force as a member of the Michigan Association of State and Federal Program specialists.

No stranger to state committees, James served about 10 years ago on a career education advisory task force.

James isn't just a professional educator, she's also mother of a college-age daughter.

What will she tell her daughter

Dolores James
boosting job skills

about the portfolio process? "I'd tell her to start getting something like this together," she said. Staff writer Tim Richard also contributed to this story.

Bargain hunters

Shoppers found plenty of bargains Saturday, Sept. 28, at the Westland Chamber of Commerce's second community garage sale of the year. The chamber made about $1,000 from the rental of 82 tables. Proceeds will be put in the chamber's general fund operating budget. The chamber has been holding the sales for eight years. The next one will be in the spring.

One-time co-op student leads major credit union

By Leonard Poger
editor

Thelma Wright was an 11th grader at St. Mary High School in Wayne when a teaching nun called her and a classmate out of class to talk to them in the hallway.

"I thought I did something something wrong," Wright recalled.

Actually, the nun asked the girls if they wanted to work as co-op students at the nearby Wayne Westland Federal Credit Union.

That was 22 years ago.

Now Wright is the newly-promoted chief executive of the credit union, which has 18,000 members and assets of $28 million.

Wright, a life-long Wayne resident, worked for the credit union after graduating from high school, working as a teller, head teller and computer operator before being promoted to account supervisor.

She also attended Henry Ford and Wayne County community colleges, taking classes in management, credit unions, accounting, business law and English.

HER CAREER including being a Dearborn Schools Credit Union computer programmer and Parkside Credit Union branch manager. She resigned in 1980 to raise a family.

Wright, now 40, returned to the Wayne Westland credit union in 1989 as acting CEO following the resignation of John Beach.

In being confirmed as the permanent top administrator at the facility, which has its main office in Wayne and a branch in Westland, Wright is only the third CEO in the organization's 37-year history.

Wright admitted she wasn't thinking of a career in a financial institution when the St. Mary's nun asked to work as a credit union co-op.

AFTER THE interview with a credit union supervisor, she went home and quickly received a phone call offering her the part-time job. She started working the next day.

Interviewed in her office, Wright made it clear that "I've always enjoyed every job I've had in the credit union field. The credit union is people helping people and I like helping people."

"I get satisfaction from helping customers. The responsibilities are interesting and challenging," she added.

Despite the federal government's deregulation of financial institutions in the mid-1980s, Wright feels that her top priority is to offer services that members need regardless of what other competitors provide.

As a non-profit credit union, Wright feels her organization can offer lower rates on loans and still be "competitive with dividend rates."

Married and the mother of three, Wright recalled that the credit union was formed in 1954 when several persons proposed taking over the former Maiser-Frazier Credit Union and convert it into a community credit union.

In the current recession, Wright said that the credit union has had its deposits increase $3 million as customers are saving more. Since last fall, the volume of loans is going down although that trend seems to be reversing.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON—A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Researchers in Europe found that an ingredient in the aptly named produce Food Source One actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in intestinal absorption of calories.

While the development of Food Source One, a project of National Dietary Research, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the discovery has been a windfall for overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds, but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 15 days on the product and was never hungry. Food Source One is available through physicians and pharmacies without a prescription because it is not a drug and contains only natural ingredients already known to be safe. Copies of the referenced study are available free from National Dietary Research, Suite 553, 1377 K St., Washington, DC 20005, however, please include $2 Postage & Handling for each request. © 1990 Omnicron International

Vietnamese refugee struggles to overcome his tragic past

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Chinh-Vu, a 27-year-old Vietnamese refugee now living in Oakland County, is philosophical about life.

"I think everyone has a fate," he quietly observes in a shy, studied manner.

Vu's fate has been unduly harsh, robbing him of childhood, family and homeland, making him a citizen of a new country in which, after nearly a decade of living here, "I feel like I am different."

His fate has also imposed upon him a unique disability, an inability to master English well enough to get a better job.

"I get along (speaking English) in everyday living, but for professional use, it's too hard. I'm like handicapped, like a person born with a handicap," he said of his difficulty in perfecting spoken English.

Employed in an east Detroit factory, he earns little more than minimum wage in a job with scant hope of advancement even though he has nearly completed credits enough to earn an associate arts degree from Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills.

His dream: becoming an air traffic controller or a pilot. Vu is currently enrolled in a flight course offered by OCC at the Highland Lakes campus in West Bloomfield.

VU'S BELIEF IN FATE may well account for his unusual ability to survive seemingly in tact a tragic past that others his age can only imagine.

"It's been a terrible life. I've seen a lot of bad situations, but I don't think about it. When I got here I told myself I didn't want to think about it anymore."

In 1975, when Vu was 10 years old, U.S. troops withdrew from South Vietnam, leaving behind terror and death at the hands of North Vietnamese conquerors. Vu recalls being told by his mother to hide. Dead bodies littered the streets of the farming hamlet where the family lived and columns of victorious Communist troops kicked up dust as they marched into Saigon an hour away.

Vu's father, a South Vietnamese army officer facing certain death at the hands of the northern victors, was lucky enough to be airlifted from Saigon to safety in the United States. It would be four long years before Vu's family finally learned he was even alive.

With the withdrawal of U.S. troops, Vu's mother, who worked on a U.S. air base, found herself unemployed and the sole support of seven young children. Vu is the eldest. To feed the family, she bought and sold military uniforms at a flea market. Her youngest child, Vu's baby brother, died of malnutrition.

In 1982, facing military conscription, Vu and three brothers bribed their way out of the country, becoming legendary "boat" refugees seeking sanctuary in bleak relocation camps in Malaysia and the Philippines. Eventually, the four were resettled in Michigan where Vu, then a teen of 17, entered high school. (One brother now attends college in Ohio and the other two work in California.)

'I get along (speaking English) in everyday living, but for professional use, it's too hard. I'm like handicapped, like a person born with a handicap.'

— Chinh Vu

"I STARTED WITH nothing and no one helping me. Being on your own, with no language. It's pretty hard," he said softly. Resettlement services provided Vu a small monthly allowance for 18 months.

In spite of a small Vietnamese community of some 10,000 people scattered in Wayne and Oakland counties, Vu feels socially isolated. "When I go out in the community, I feel different. It's kind of hard to get along when you're different. I thought I was the only one who felt this way, but most of my friends feel the same as me.

"I'm looking forward to a better job but the future is not too bright. The hardest thing is language. When you get an interview you don't get the job because your language is not good enough.

"But it's still better here than over there. If I was there, I'd probably be doing nothing and know nothing."

Vu bases this last observation on what his mother writes. She continues to live in the family hamlet with Vu's youngest living brother and only sister. The brother is unemployed. The sister earns starvation wages as a seamstress. The family depends upon relatives in the west who take turns sending money to Vietnam.

While the Vietnamese economy has stabilized since the end of the war, the country is considered one of the world's poorest, primarily because of U.S. refusal to normalize relations, denying the small nation trade status and eligibility for foreign aid.

FOR THE FIRST time in years, there is now hope Vu's family may ultimately be reunited.

Earlier this summer, Northwest Airlines began charter flights from Saigon to the west, carrying people who for years have been trying to join family members here.

Under relaxed Vietnamese emigration policies, thousands are finally able to leave. Vu's mother, sister and brother are not among those now scheduled to come, but their departure is perhaps possible at a later date.

Vu has mixed feelings about his mother leaving her homeland for good.

"I have faced so many (immigration) problems that my wish for her is she stay in Vietnam and I send her money. It is better for her to live there. A lot of old people come here and end up staying home alone all day long. They have no friends. They can't speak English.

"That is my wish. But I still want her to come."

Vu does not speak of his father, except in the past tense. Although they live near one another, they see each other only occasionally. Their relationship is an unspoken casualty of the Vietnam Conflict.

"When my father was gone (from Vietnam) I always felt that I would never see him again. That it was hopeless."

Now that it is possible, it sadly rarely occurs.

Typically, Vu neither speaks nor dwells on the situation. As with all unpleasant memories from the past, he shrugs, eyes burning bright.

Fate, he mutters, burying deep the pain of what might have been had he been born in another place at another time.

Help us make steps in the fight against SIDS

If you knew a healthy, happy baby had died suddenly without reason, you'd want to help. There are over 7,000 babies who die from a cruel, mysterious killer. It's called SIDS: Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Perhaps you've heard SIDS referred to as "Crib Death." But maybe you didn't hear that SIDS is the number one cause of death in infants from one week to one year.

babies of all races and religions. And it's not hereditary.

Citizen participation is critical to police effectiveness. Do you care about your neighborhood enough to help protect it?

The Case of The Tucson Tip-off.

In a particular neighborhood in Tucson, Arizona, folks were having a real problem with burglaries and break-ins.

They started talking to each other about what they could do. They got fed up. About 400 people went to the police for advice. They learned about surveillance. They got to know their beat officers.

Citizens and police became partners in crime prevention.

In just three weeks, 17 arrests were made and burglaries went down 30%.

And Tucson is only one case where people successfully worked to beat crime.

Cruel winter ahead Homeless could find no shelter

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

It could be a long, cold, bitter winter for Wayne County's poor.

Homeless shelters, already full to capacity, anticipate turning away hundreds of needy people this winter as a result of state budget cuts.

Because of the nagging recession, shelter operators were bracing for a rough winter. And then state general assistance welfare and related programs were cut.

"It's scary," said Linda Makowski, director of the Wayne County Family Center in Westland. "You hear about general assistance cuts but what hurts us more are the emergency needs program cuts."

Cuts mean shelters not only won't be able to add beds, but will also be less able to help homeless people find shelter elsewhere.

"The ENP program was used by people who were able to secure housing but who had problems coming up with things like a security deposit," Makowski said. "Losing it means these people could have nowhere to go."

The COTS shelter in Detroit has already turned away 4,000 more people this year than the previous year.

"NEXT YEAR, it could double," said shelter director Olivia Wilcox, who estimated as many as 800 people a night seek shelter in Wayne County.

The 140-bed COTS shelter "has been full since 1989," Wilcox said.

While there are other shelters in Detroit, the Westland center is the only one in suburban Wayne County.

Unlike COTS, which determines a person's length of stay on a case-by-case basis, the county shelter limits occupancy to 30 days in a calendar year.

"Our primary goal is to get people into permanent housing," Makowski said. "Our goal is to help people help themselves."

That approach is prompted, in part, by requirements of the $1 million federal grant that helped create the shelter. (The shelter also receives community development block grant money from Westland, Livonia, Canton, Redford, Garden City, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, among other communities.)

But the, by-the-bootstraps, approach also represents the direct, no-nonsense philosophy of Makowski, a former college basketball coach, and county Executive Edward McNamara, the driving force behind the center's creation.

Though not alone in doing so, the shelter offers literacy classes and job hunting seminars. Families are also assigned case workers

School disputes Conflicts follow O'Neill

THE WAYNE-Westland school district reached a new milestone Tuesday night with the announced retirement of Superintendent Dennis O'Neill, effective next Aug. 31 when his contract expires.

The retirement isn't a surprise, although the timing was always in doubt.

There was a series of events that dogged O'Neill almost since the day he was promoted to superintendent in April 1984, on a 4-3 vote of the school board.

His promotion came 1½ years after a bitter recall campaign that resulted in the ousting of four school board members. In the aftermath of that recall, Superintendent Timothy Dyer started job-hunting.

When Dyer left, the board split in appointing O'Neill, then the deputy superintendent, as his successor. Fair or not, O'Neill was dubbed as Dyer's protegee by critics who wanted the board to pick an outsider as superintendent. Since then, he carried a lot of political baggage that proved to be too much of a burden to overcome.

SINCE THEN, there has been a steady flow of highly-publicized problems: the adult education enrollment overcount; financial problems that resulted in the board going to the polls three times in the past 1½ years before getting voter approval for a major tax rate increase in June. Just in the past few months voters were clearly upset with the 11.9 percent pay raises given local teachers over a two-year period, the ouster of three O'Neill supporters on the school board at the June 10 election, a second campaign to recall three board members and, more recently, discovery of a surprise $4.4 million surplus.

Since the election of three new board members — including one who openly called for O'Neill's resignation during the spring campaign — things have been rough for the superintendent.

But that's all history now. What the board has to do now is to communicate clearly and effectively with each other and the community on what precisely it wants in a new superintendent.

Besides the typical administrative skills, the board should insist on finding someone who can relate and communicate candidly with all segments of the school community.

The board must decide first what it wants in its next superintendent because the choice will be very much a reflection of the board itself.

Scott-Mehl

'Family tie' is a dumb issue

NO WONDER some voters call local elections the "silly season."

The latest example has surfaced in the current Westland city council campaign.

An issue raised this month concerns the "conflict of interest" and "nepotism" claims by voters who don't want candidate Sharon Scott elected to the council.

The basis of their complaints is that City Councilman Kenneth Mehl is Scott's son-in-law.

Big deal.

Legally, there is certainly no conflict of interest since Mehl has no influence on Scott's election, other than his own individual vote.

With all the other family members working on the city payroll, there's no reason to make a big fuss about a council member having an in-law on the council.

Westland voters have more important things to think about for the Nov. 5 election and should drop the "nepotism" issue.

Hands off!

Prosecutor wrong on obscenity

LET'S MAKE A deal: We won't play cops if the cops won't play with our right as mature adults to make judgments based on our own values.

One man — the Wayne County prosecutor — has no right to rule on what is obscene for the general public.

An Oct. 2 raid on a video warehouse in Livonia is proof. At least four agencies were involved in the raid in which officers converged on General Video for 1½ days.

What the officers found were thousands of adult magazines and videos.

The material was initially ruled obscene and then impounded while awaiting destruction.

DESPITE THE huge amount of material involved and the large number of police officers who participated in the raid, the owners of General Video have been charged only with misdemeanors.

That's a good tip that the scales between what the prosecutor believes is his right to judge obscene and the number of officers involved just don't balance.

If it's true that a few can tell the many what is good for them, the reverse also can be true. The public has a right to ask whether it was good for several community budgets to pay for an apparent excess of officers at the raid.

Don't mistake our criticism for support of pornography. Our residents have a right to be outraged by pornography, especially child pornography, for which there is no defense.

But our residents are the ones to decide what is obscene, what they will watch and what they will read.

For now the Wayne County prosecutor seems to think the privilege lies with him. He's wrong.

AND, YES, there is the issue of free speech and free press guaranteed under the first article of the Bill of Rights in the Constitution.

Defending it can be awkward, as the ACLU found when it recently supported the right of white supremacists to protest in downtown Detroit.

Most people were offended by the white supremacists, their remarks and their stands. The Constitution doesn't guarantee that we may live without being offended.

The ACLU, however, was defending everyone's right to free speech, unfettered by prior censorship. The issue is the same when it comes to the right to publish without censorship, a right that is threatened by raids such as the recent one in Livonia.

So it really isn't "adult material" that we're discussing. We're discussing an ordinary citizen's right to make decisions without the unasked-for guidance.

The Wayne County prosecutor needs to be told that we aren't too feeble-minded to make those decisions.

He staunchly defended state rights and personal liberties

ONE OF THE most outspoken critics of the original Constitution and an eloquent advocate of the Bill of Rights was Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts. In debating the necessity of the Second Amendment giving militia the power to arm themselves, some delegates responded that militia were worthless as military forces. Gerry replied, "What sir, is the use of a militia? It is to prevent the establishment of a standing army, the bane of liberty."

Gerry was very active in the 1787 Constitutional Convention, yet, when the time came for signing the Constitution, Gerry refused — one of only three delegates to do so. Gerry felt the Constitution had two serious deficiencies: It lacked a bill of rights to secure the liberties of the citizens, and the central government possessed too much military power.

Today, Gerry is remembered for backing a congressional redistricting technique to keep his party in power, the "gerrymander." Early Americans remember him, however, as a staunch defender of states' rights and personal liberties. John Adams once wrote of him: "If every man here was a Gerry, the liberties of America would be safe against the Gates of Earth and Hell."

200th ANNIVERSARY Bill of Rights

THINKING

Our arrogant leaders forget public's needs

WE ARE NOT governed by citizen-politicians who take time out of their careers and family responsibilities for a spell of public service.

We are governed by a separate political class, people whose life work is winning and holding elective office.

I have been making this point for years. And so the events of the past week failed to take me by surprise, other than to demonstrate just how crass and arrogant our leaders have become.

We learned that many members of Congress — including Michigan Democrats John Dingell and Dale Kildee and Republican David Camp — used the House of Representatives bank as a free check kiting agency.

We learned that dozens of Washington lawmakers had stiffed the House dining room for more than $300,000. And we learned that a daily function of the House sergeant-at-arms has been to fix local parking tickets.

When a separate political class governs other mere citizens, you can expect this kind of nonsense. A New York Times poll found that the American people regarded members of Congress as "corrupt, pampered by unnecessary perquisites and arrogant about their power."

THE SAME can be said for our leaders closer to home in Lansing: the Michigan House, Senate and members of the office of Gov. John Engler.

As they knocked 83,000 poor and jobless Michiganans off the welfare rolls and into a struggle with survival, our political masters were cooking up a quiet little deal to feather their own nests.

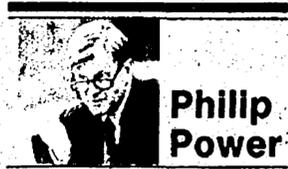

In the final conference committee meeting on the general fund budget (closed to ordinary folks, of course, because we wouldn't understand), the House conferees proposed increasing the budget for both chambers by $8.2 million. The Senate leadership gladly went along.

This increase comes to more than 10 percent, three times Michigan's inflation rate. It includes restoring a 9.2-percent cut, adds about $1 million for each chamber for moving costs, and increases printing (to send you and me those timely and interesting newsletters), Social Security and retirement benefits!

Engler's staff went along for an extra $325,000, plus $58,000 that appears to have come from a simple multiplication error.

When asked about trying to have it both ways, Engler's chief of staff, Dan Pero, replied that the governor's office was "badly overworked." I don't doubt it. I also imagine that most people cut off from General Assistance appreciate how overworked the governor's office is.

WHAT IS scandalous is that the decision to pour money into the already cushy jobs was taken in silent conspiracy. Both Republicans and Democrats went along. Class solidarity among our political masters surpasses partisanship any day.

The only person on the inside of these dealings who beveled was Dick Young, a sensible Democratic House member from Dearborn Heights. "I don't want to look like a flaming hero, but I warned them that increasing their budgets at this time didn't make a heck of a lot of sense," Young said. "When the Wayne County morgue is filled up because of the way we're cutting the budget, we shouldn't try to go back to business as usual."

The deal gave the Department of Management and Budget, run by Engler's chief budget cutter, Patricia Woodworth, an extra $950,000.

I suspect Woodworth got the check just about the same time she signed the letter threatening the Detroit Institute of Arts with complete elimination of state support if they didn't quit beefing about their cuts.

Just like the man says, "Them that has, gets."

2 candidates are criticized

To the editor:

In my opinion and that of many senior friends, now that the smoke has cleared from the primary election and only eight candidates remain for four council seats, it's time for Westland voters to scrutinize the qualifications of those eight.

Six of the remaining candidates have the abilities and qualities I feel are necessary to represent the citizens of Westland.

The other two candidates are former elected officials who only deserve to remain "former" officials.

They promise to be independent candidates who will represent the people, but they have track records that prove otherwise.

First, there's former councilman Bill Ziemia. In his primary election literature, Ziemia pledged to: support the police department, stop strip mall development, stop the closing of fire stations (currently closed at the rate of one per month).

Ziemia was a councilman during the "reign" of Mayor Trav Griffin. During that time police department manpower and morale was at one of its lowest points in its history, strip malls "popped up" all over like tulips in the spring, a fire station was closed almost every day.

Then there's former Wayne-Westland board member Sharon Scott. Voters must ask themselves two questions about Scott:

• Do you want your city council to be a "family affair?" Scott is the mother-in-law of councilman Ken Mehl. When it comes down to a vote between the best interests of the citizens and those of her family, how do you think Scott might vote?

As a school board member, Scott supported higher taxes, high administrative salaries, high salary increases and cutbacks in our children's educational programs. It is no wonder that she was "trounced" in her re-election bid (June 10).

Flora D'Agostino,
Westland

Manipulation is blasted

To the editor:

... the school is the one common institution that touches every American for a long and extremely important period of his life. He is in a controlled environment which can be manipulated for the social good."

These are the opening words of the doctoral dissertation of (Wayne-Westland school superintendent) Dennis J. O'Neill and practiced upon the district during the past four millage elections.

Residents who were manipulated to vote for passage of the unneeded millage ought to be outraged enough to demand his immediate resignation or removal from office.

Students who were victims of pay-for-play and their parents ought to demand and get their money back from the $4.4 million surplus reported by the auditors.

Teachers and other employees who were laid off ought to demand and get a pound of his flesh for the money which was stolen from them and their children during their unemployment year of 1990-91.

What is even more vicious and intentional in this whole fiasco is that this (Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education) committee repeatedly told the community that the superintendent and his financial wizards were trying to hide $6.7 million in the special revenue fund while denying its existence.

Those stunned board members can play dumb all they want, but they were told the same information. They wouldn't believe it, but chose to be blindly led by those who proposed to manipulate them for their own purposes. That's what the (school board) recall is all about.

Hill v. Thomas betters working

THE WORKPLACE MAY never be the same.

Following Hill v. Thomas, C.E.O.'s all over the country are reviewing their sexual harassment policies. A C.E.O. in my own house is doing the same.

And well they should. Because, as you now know, nearly every working woman has a story. And most certainly every working woman journalist. So if you're tired of that — stop reading NOW. My first job fresh out of college in the '60s was as an assistant editor for the employee newsletter for a New York City electronics company. One of my duties was to interview four or five employees each week on an issue of the day, much like the Community Corner which appears in this newspaper. I also had to take their pictures.

Judith Doner Berne

Each Monday, the job required my going out into the factory where the rule of thumb was to whistle and make crude remarks upon the appearance of, I would assume, any female. Amidst that I had to wade into a group of these workers and do my job.

EACH SUNDAY NIGHT, in anticipation, I cried.

My male boss was sympathetic to the situation, but he never went any further than expressing sympathy. There was no thought back then that that was impolite much less illegal. After all, that's what groups of men did — whether at work or play.

Hopefully, no more. Another change in the workplace is coming.

In Texas two lawsuits are in the works against companies, whose employees were involved in auto accidents while driving drunk.

Salespersons, these employees are, for whom conventions and sales meetings are part and parcel of their job, including the drinking which apparently accompanies them.

Although the three martini lunch may not be as prevalent these days, free flowing liquor at sales meetings and conventions is still very much in evidence.

But now companies are being held responsible for the employee who after leaving a convention drunk ruins others' lives.

IN THESE HARD economic times, businesses throughout the land are getting lean and mean, as they say. Many are laying off employees or have instituted hiring freezes.

But for those in personnel and yes, law, neither may apply.

Between reviewing and updating sexual harassment policies and tackling the area of business drinking, they'll be busy.

And the workplace should be better for it.

Tim Richard

MONEY, MONEY, money. Michigan Bell, which used to be the telephone company, has money coming in from every direction these days. And it wants even more.

The state's population has been stagnant for a decade, but Bell hasn't heard the bad news. In four years, its number of customer lines has increased 2, 2.5, 2.6 and 2.2 percent. Has anyone else's customer base grown 9.7 percent in four years?

How? Spot the homes with teenagers and sell them a second phone line (so they can get ripped off by those 900 numbers). Sell more lines to businesses.

Our economic pie may not be growing, but Bell is widening its slice.

IF YOU THINK Bell is a great place to look for a job, think again. In 1989 it cut 600 jobs, in 1990 it whacked 900 more and this year will slice 200 jobs — 1,700 lost jobs, or more than one-tenth of its current 16,000 work force.

How's that for a money-making machine in tough times?

Last week Bell began offering a credit card. The boldface print trumpets interest rates as low as 16.8 percent. The tiny print on the back, however, says the interest rate on the first $999 is 19.8 percent — plus a 50-cent "billing fee."

Already got a credit card? Shucks, says Bell, use our card "to pay off balances on more expensive cards." How's that for attacking the old American virtue of thrift?

NOWADAYS, only 90 percent of Bell's revenue comes from "communications services." The rest comes from "billing and collection services, rents and directory advertising."

Those yellow pages have so much advertising that they're unwieldy. The business is so huge that it's organized as a separate subsidiary, Ameritech Services Inc.

If you want to find the price of anything, however, tough luck, Mr. and Ms. Consumer. Bell's pal doesn't run price advertising.

Michigan Bell is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ameritech, one of seven regional companies created after the 1984 breakup of the AT&T Goliath. But that's not stopping Ameritech, which last year joined Bell Atlantic to acquire New Zealand's state-owned telecommunications company. Money, money, money from the far corners of the globe.

It's all in the Bell's IRS report, a difficult document to obtain if you look in the Ameritech directory.

WITH SO MUCH money coming in and so many workers going out during such bad times, you'd think Bell would lie low in fear of a backlash.

Bell is more aggressive than ever, launching a vehement attack on the state's "nearly 80 years old" telecommunications law. Bell wants to invade even more industries — cable TV, fiber optics, two-way video, services for the hearing impaired, and so on.

Like the beat-beat-beat of a tom-tom, Bell's fleet of lobbyists chants "competition, competition, competition."

Why? Don't we have several giant cable TV companies? Don't we have plenty of competition in all the fields?

The real danger is that Bell, as a near monopoly, might misuse its current protected position. It could use phone workers to install other telecommunications equipment, then hide the latter costs in the telephone end of the business, undercutting the competition.

The bill's sponsor, state Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, assures us the bill would "strictly prohibit cross-subsidization."

And who's going to regulate Bell to make sure it doesn't cook its books to compete unfairly against the little guys? Michigan has record welfare and education spending, but is restricting its regulatory budget.

We shouldn't trust Bell. And we can't trust the state to regulate Bell's cost accountants.

Money, money, money — and more of it for Bell.

School systems harassed women

QUESTION: This past week has been filled with the Clarence Thomas and Anita Hill issue. Who is telling the truth or not, I don't know. How much does sexual discrimination, harassment or sexual misconduct exist in education?

ANSWER: I vowed that I would leave sex, other than sex education, out of my columns. Yet, in this enlightened era, I guess the former shock value of sex is just common talk today.

Sexual discrimination was so common place when I started in education, I didn't even know it existed. It was a way of life.

I personally (not bragging, but more ashamed) didn't recommend a woman for directorship of a federal grant in the mid-'60s because she would be working with dirty, tough kids. As a young, first-time administrator, I believed it was a position for a male.

The woman I turned down told the board of education president — a very bright and beautiful woman, a person I deeply respected — about my rationale for not recommending her for the job.

The board president, an honors graduate of a prestigious university, spent two hours with me. They were probably the best two hours of my life as to understanding sexist attitudes and stereotypes. I knew I was wrong and sex never rose its ugly head with me in appointments for administration during my next 22 years in education. But that hasn't always been the case!

I REMEMBER when women first broke into the central office, usually as reading consultants. That was because reading consultants in the '60s centered around the elementary schools, which was where women belonged, according to conventional wisdom.

By the '80s, some women had made it to an assistant superintendent position — some, not many.

And these women who have made it to a superintendent position were as brave or crazy as the pioneers who traversed the country in covered wagons.

One woman superintendent friend of mine never carries a woman's purse to superintendent meetings. She tells me it immediately categorizes her as a female — not as a peer — as soon as she enters the door where the 27 other superintendents are sitting — all males.

Yes, it has been a tough struggle. But because of the Thomas/Hill fiasco — regardless of your position — women will be even more commonplace in major leadership roles because of their own competencies as opposed to tokenism or quotas.

As discrimination of women in education is defusing, so will harassment. It is not a matter of good taste; it has become a matter of job protection for males so inclined.

YOU SAID you hoped that our teachers and administrators were above sexual discrimination, harassment and sexual misconduct. Probably no more than in any business where females and males work together, but I will give you an example of tabloid type sexual misconduct situations.

An elementary administrator I knew, a great guy but a real ladies man, always recommended very attractive single women and would bypass female job candidates some believed had more talent. His philosophy was: There are plenty of candidates out there, hire the best looking, unmarried candidate.

Many other stories could be told. My purpose, however, is not to try to shock or entertain.

It simply is a fact that we, in education, discriminated against women for years. And, yes, we have the same sex issues found in any work place.

The majority of our teachers and administrators are beautiful, go-to-work, go-home-to-family people. But sexual discrimination, sexual misconduct and some sexual harassment still does exist. If you don't buy this, your view of educators must be that they come from a different planet.

James "Doc" Doyle, a former teacher/school administrator/university instructor, is president of Doyle and Associates, an educational consulting firm.

These days, "crack" babies are lucky to be born even that big.

This year more babies will be born, premature and underweight, to "crack" cocaine-addicted mothers.

Cuts, recession take toll through Wayne Metropolitan Community Services Agency, a private agency that operates the shelter on the county's behalf.

"WE DON'T even like to call ourselves a shelter," Makowski said. "We provide a full program, not just a bed."

Nearly two years in the planning, the 22,000-square-foot center opened in June.

The site formerly housed a county food warehouse, though it now resembles a dormitory.

Rooms are small and spartan. Furniture and bedding was donated, though such sources as the Westland Jaycees, JC Penney Co. and the Salvation Army, Makowski said.

Meals are served in a common dining room. There are also common shower areas for men and women.

Residents are free to come and go as they please, though children are expected to be in the building by 8 p.m. and all residents are expected to be in their rooms by 11:30 p.m.

"Just out of courtesy we have to have some rules," Makowski said. "But we try to provide as much autonomy as possible. This isn't a prison, these people have done nothing for which they should be punished."

Center residents are expected to clean up after themselves and — at the time of one afternoon tour — the place was much tidier than any college dorm.

At present, there are 104 people — or 26 families in the shelter. Not all are happy to be there.

Jamie Carter, a western Wayne County resident who recently spent three weeks at the shelter before finding a job and permanent housing, was critical of her stay.

Residents were given dirty water with which to mop floors and clean tables, while shower areas were messy, Carter said.

"My child picked up a skin disease," she said. "It just wasn't clean."

Makowski said center staff strives to keep all living areas as clean as possible. Still, she said she wasn't surprised a resident would have complaints.

"Often, we encounter hostility," Makowski said. "Homeless people don't want to be homeless."

Most people have no idea of who the homeless are and how they get that way, she said.

"YOU HAVE to get over the perception that the homeless are the homeless people you see portrayed on TV," Makowski said. "I wouldn't say homelessness is a result of education, from what I see it's more about the availability of jobs and housing."

Even in relatively good times, availability of shelter space is also an issue.

Carter also said she saw people being turned away and Makowski said not everyone who shows up is welcome.

"Because we're a family center, we don't take single people," she said. "We're geared toward people 18 and older with dependent children."

People who appear drunken or drugged also aren't accepted — a rule also followed at COTS.

Most of those who are accepted are referred through the Wayne Metro service agency or the state Department of Social Services.

Walk-ups are few, Makowski said. Though designed for homeless families the shelter also occasionally houses battered wives.

"We can handle referrals from First Step (a local shelter for victims of domestic violence)," Makowski said. "We can promise these women confidentiality."

Though the shelter has eight fulltime staff members, its day care center and other programs are also staffed by volunteers.

The Wayne County Family Center provides more than just bed space. Here, an Inkster woman and her daughter make use of the center's nursery. Employment counseling and other services are also provided.

Shamrocks 15-1

Redford Catholic Central ended the regular season with a flurry.

The Shamrocks raised their boys soccer record to 15-1 with a 2-1 triumph over Ann Arbor Huron in a non-league match at Bell Creek Park.

Clayton Campbell's unassisted goal in the second half proved to be the game-winner.

Rieh Walos staked CC to 1-0 lead at the 16-minute mark of the first half from Kerry Zavagnin.

But the River Rats tied it 14 minutes later, setting the stage for Campbell.

On Saturday, Zavagnin scored at the 18-minute mark of the second half, leading CC to a 1-0 triumph at Plymouth Canton. Walos assisted on the goal.

Goalkeeper Jeff Sawicki made four saves to preserve the shutout, the 10th this season for the Shamrocks.

CC returns to action at 4 today against Riverview Gabriel Richard in the semifinals of the Catholic League's A-B Division playoffs.

The Catholic League finals start at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Harper Woods Notre Dame.

HURON VALLEY 6, ROEPER 2: Junior Doug Hartley scored four times Tuesday, raising his season total to 19, as host Westland Huron Valley Lutheran gained the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference win over Bloomfield Hills Roeper.

Freshman Dave Hartley and Kiley Priebe each added a goal and an assist for the Hawks, now 9-5-1 overall and 3-2 in the MIAC. Chris Schoenberg also contributed two assists.

LUTH. WESTLAND 1, FAIRLANE 0: Matt Purdy's second-half goal stood up Tuesday, leading host Lutheran High Westland (2-8-3) to its second straight varsity win over Dearborn Helgits Fairlane Christian.

Bob Woelke assisted on the game-winner.

Goalie John Smolka, who made seven saves, posted his second shutout of the year.

"He (Smolka) played a strong game," Lutheran Westland coach Rich Block said.

"He's a freshman and he's starting to get his confidence."

WLAA crown is divided, 1-1

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia boys soccer rivals Stevenson and Churchill are co-champions of the Western Lakes Activities Association for the second time in three years.

The state's top two ranked teams battled once again to a 1-1 draw Wednesday at Stevenson. It was also the same score when the two teams met back on Sept. 23. The 1989 WLAA final ended in a 1-1 draw as well.

Stevenson enters state district tournament play Monday with a 13-0-2 record, while Churchill stands at 14-1-3.

You could say Stevenson won the first half and Churchill took the second.

Churchill goalie Jeff Cassar, nearly 20 yards outside his net, stopped Carriere, but the ball squirted loose, giving the hosts first blood.

Senior midfielder Tim Lampi, back in the lineup after missing most of the season with a broken jaw, was instrumental in creating many of Stevenson's first-half attacks.

"HE SPARKED US in the midfield the first half," Stevenson coach Walt Barrett said. "He must have served a half-dozen balls through, too."

The Spartans also marked Churchill's dangerous midfield threesome of Michael Gentile, Dominic Vella and Dario Rauker lightly throughout the half, countering with the trio of Scott Wiggins, Jeff Thomas and Adam Pichler.

But in the second half Churchill

coach Mark Mason decided to move the 6-foot-2 Vella up front from his outside halfback spot.

The result was a Vella goal with 33:42 left on a pass set up by Gentile that pulled Stevenson keeper Matt Stable out of position.

"We were not getting much out of our forwards in the first half," Mason said. "We didn't get enough good shots. In fact, we weren't taking many shots. We were moving the ball too slowly. Too many times we would just hold up the play. We needed to find a combination of forwards that could be aggressive and shoot."

Mason's move to start the second half did not come unexpectedly.

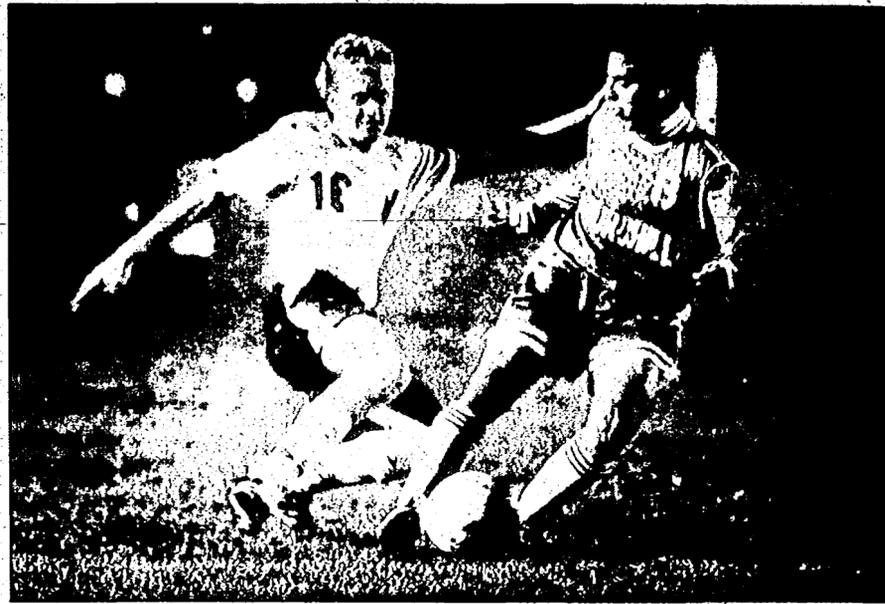

"We anticipated it and I thought we had it (the goal) covered," Barrett said. "That play was Gentile all the way."

"I thought Churchill played a great first 20 minutes of the second half, then both teams kind of marked up, settled down and started protecting their own goal."

CHURCHILL MAY have taken a cautious approach to the WLAA title match.

Mason was concerned about picking up red cards (ejections) going into Monday's important district encounter with Plymouth Canton.

"Stevenson has a cakewalk through its district (at Dearborn) so they could afford to be more aggressive," he said. "Our district matchups, with Canton and (Plymouth) Salem, are not good. We had to be careful not to lose somebody because we knew they might try to an-

Stevenson nets region tourney title at Mott

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Although Livonia Stevenson lost the Western Lakes Activities Association girls tennis title last week by one point, the season was far from over.

Spurred by a strong showing once again in doubles, the Spartans will be headed for Friday and Saturday's state Class A meet at the Midland Community Center after walking through the regional Saturday at Waterford Mott.

Stevenson had the title virtually wrapped up after two rounds, scoring 14 points before finishing with a team-high 23. North Farmington and Novi also qualified after tying for second with 13 points apiece. See regional results on page 5B.

"The key was that all of our girls won their first two rounds," said Stevenson coach George Croll, whose team finished second behind Farmington Harrison in the WLAA meet. "We had 14 points by that time and we were in good shape. We ended up in five of seven finals."

As they did in the league meet, the Spartans swept all three doubles flights.

ERIN PHILLIPS and Debbie Walsh, who was filling in for regular Tanya Karlinger, captured the No. 3 title with 7-6, 6-3 triumph over Novi's duo of Jennifer Crepeau and Jennifer Presson.

Walsh, the No. 11 player on the Spartans' squad, helped keep the No. 3 team unbeaten this season in 18 matches.

The Bailey sisters, Karen and Lori, captured the No. 2 title with a 7-6, 6-2 win over West Bloomfield's tandem of Melanie Hartling and Monica Van Seyoc. The Baileys are 16-1 overall.

At No. 1 doubles, Stevenson's team of Laura Perry and Cortney Richa ran their record to 18-2 with a 7-6, 3-6, 6-1 win over North Farmington's Hadley Thurmon and Jana Dockrath in the championship final.

In singles, Stevenson's Laura Di-

Basio claimed a regional title at the No. 3 spot with a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 victory over Bethany Vanderhoff of Novi.

AT NO. 1 singles, Holly Findling of Stevenson upset Walled Lake Western's Katie Kennedy to reach the finals before losing to Walled Lake Central's Stephanie Geelhood, the WLAA runner-up, 6-3, 6-3.

Stevenson's Sarah Brudi (No. 2) and Joy Crownover (No. 3) also made strong showings, both losing to eventual champs Rachel Clanton of Central and Kristen Patee of Novi, respectively, in the semifinals.

They helped Stevenson win its first regional crown for Croll, now in his 13th season.

Franklin girl headed for state finals berth again

Livonia Franklin's Tanya Berner is making her third straight trip to the state Class A tennis tournament, which begins at 8 a.m. Friday at the Midland Community Tennis Center.

Berner, a senior, ran her season record to 16-1 with a 7-6, 6-2 regional championship triumph over Corey Hadous of Dearborn Fordson in the No. 1 singles final Monday at Fairlane Racquet Club.

The Western Lakes Activities Association champ won three rounds in the rain-delayed Dearborn High regional, which started outdoors on Saturday before finishing indoors on Monday.

The three-time regional champ captured her first two rounds in straight sets, including a 6-2, 6-0 semifinal win over Canton's Jennifer Davis.

Chiefs overcome Spartans, Sarno

By Ray Sellock
staff writer

Plymouth Canton girls basketball coach Bob Blohm stood at the blackboard following Tuesday's game with Livonia Stevenson and diagrammed defensive strategies.

The focus of Blohm's explanation was the Canton defense.

"We made some stops when we needed to, but there were times when we got burned," he said. "I really thought we'd do better on the defensive side of the ball. But, hey, we won the game."

Canton nipped the visiting Spartans 70-67 in a showdown between unbeaten Western Lakes Activities Association teams.

The Chiefs trailed 67-66 with one minute remaining, but sophomore guard Britta Anderson hit a jumper with 43 seconds left to put Canton, 68-67.

Junior guard Amy Westerhold hit a pair of free throws with 22 seconds remaining to seal the win.

"Although we didn't execute well tonight, we made the plays when we had to," Blohm said. "You have to give our girls credit for that."

THE CHIEFS improve to 10-2 overall and 6-0 in the WLAA. The Spartans are 9-2 overall and 5-1 in the WLAA. Canton extended its win streak to eight games while snapping Stevenson's six-game victory streak.

"One of the consolations for us is that we get to play Canton again later in the season," Stevenson coach Chuck Hebestreit said. "Maybe that time the outcome will be different."

Stevenson had the Chiefs on their heels in the opening quarter, taking leads of 12-6 and 18-11. The Spartans led 22-16 after one quarter.

Canton rebounded in the second quarter, taking a 30-28 lead with 3:08 left on a short jumper by junior forward Kelly Holmes. The Chiefs led 36-32 at the intermission.

girls basketball

Canton continued its pace until late in the third quarter when Stevenson junior guard Lori Shingledecker made a layup and was fouled. Her free throw tied the score at 49.

Senior center Teresa Sarno then reeled off back-to-back jumpers, and the Spartans led 53-51 after three quarters.

In the final quarter, the lead changed six times, but Canton managed to come out on top.

JUNIOR CENTER Stephanie Gray, despite being double teamed, paced Canton's scoring attack with 28 points. She connected on six of 10 free throws and also pulled down 10 rebounds.

"Stephanie did a good job of dishing the ball off to-night when she didn't have a shot," Blohm said. "She didn't force anything. The way Stevenson had its defense set up, as soon as Stephanie got the ball, she was surrounded."

Holmes chipped in 13 points for the winners. Westerhold and sophomore guard Alyson Nounie added 11 and 10, respectively.

Sarno tallied 28 points in a losing cause for the Spartans. Shingledecker contributed 14, while junior forward Karen Groulx added 13, including a pair of three-pointers. Sophomore guard Mo Drabicki had 12.

"This is a tough loss," Hebestreit said. "Our kids played hard, but we were not in sync for a lot of the game."

"I was really pleased with how we found the open player on offense. A lot of times we scored by having players cut to the back door, and we just hit them with the pass and they scored."

SC streak ends

It's over. After six-plus seasons and 58 consecutive victories, Schoolcraft College's volleyball team lost an Eastern Conference match — the first since Tom Teeters became coach in 1985.

"It was a valiant try," he said of his team's 15-5, 16-14, 5-15, 16-14 loss to Mott CC. "I feel we did the best we could, but we lacked consistency. There are things we have to work on. We've got to get our outside attack going a bit more."

SC was hampered by the loss of outside hitter-setter Nancy Ehlert, who injured a knee 10 days earlier and will be out another two weeks. Also, setter Kell Haeger severely sprained an ankle in SC's 15-5, 15-10 win over Delta CC Oct. 9. Haeger played against Mott, but her performance was limited.

Renea Bonser led SC with 24 kills. Kari Van Deusen had 20 and Stephanie Jandasek had 14. Haeger finished with 51 assists-to-kills. However, SC's outside hitters combined for just 15 kills.

The loss put the Ocelots in second place at 4-1; Mott is 5-1. SC is 22-8 overall.

LAST WEEKEND, with both setters ailing (Haeger played briefly in one match), SC finished fifth at the eight-team Jefferson College Tournament in Hillsboro, Mo., with a 3-4 record.

The Ocelots did beat the top finishing team in the tournament — host Jefferson, 15-13, 15-11. Van Deusen had 19 kills with a .293 average and four solo blocks, and Bonser had 12 kills (.333) and three solos. Sue Berger filled in admirably at setter, collecting 36 assists-to-kills; Judi Scott had 15 digs and Jandasek got 13 digs and five kills.

Teeters admitted that throughout the tournament, the Ocelots attacked through middle-hitters Van Deusen and Bonser. "If they could stop our two big hitters, they could beat us," he said.

On Friday, SC lost to Southwestern CC 6-15, 15-8, 15-12, and Barton County CC 13-15, 15-12, 15-7, before defeating Jefferson. On Saturday, the Ocelots beat Johnson County CC 15-9, 15-9; lost to Illinois Central CC; lost to Miami-Dade South 15-4, 15-11; and beat Lake Michigan CC 15-5, 15-4.

In the win over Johnson County CC, Bonser had 15 kills (.483), three blocks and two service aces, and Van Deusen collected 14 kills (.294). They each had 20 kills in the loss to Barton, and in the loss to Southwestern Van Deusen got 23 kills and Bonser had 19.

Rematch won

In 1990, Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team enjoyed its finest season in a decade. The Ocelots won the Region 12 championship and — for the first time in 10 years — qualified for the NJCAA Tournament by capturing the Inter-regional Tournament.

Their season ended in disappointment when they were routed twice at the NJCAAs. That supplanted them with a goal for this season: Let's go back.

While the talent level may be equal to last year's, through the first few weeks of the season it was apparent SC lacked the most important element needed to accomplish that goal — defense.

But that was before, according to coach Van Dimitriou. Recent performances tend to verify his belief that the Ocelot defense has jelled. Last Saturday, they traveled to Cleveland and blanked Cuyahoga CC 3-0. It was their second shutout in four games, a stretch in which they've surrendered just two goals.

Considering the result the last time these two teams met — a 5-3 Ocelot win in overtime, Sept. 14 at SC — this performance was a marked improvement. True, Cuyahoga was without John Varro, who has left the team since scoring twice in the first meeting.

BUT DIMITRIOU insisted Cuyahoga was no patsy. "They had a very formidable team," he said. So what was the difference? "Our defense played very well," he answered.

The game's first goal was credited to Dave Hebestreit after his long throw-in skipped off the wet turf, deflected off a Cuyahoga defender and went into the net at the 15-minute mark. Jeff Vandemergel made it 2-0 15 minutes into the second half, converting a pass from Hebestreit.

A sharp passing play resulted in the third goal, with Bobby Hayes sending a pass into Vandemergel, who passed to Sean Ryan for the goal.

There were mistakes by SC. Hebestreit missed a penalty kick in the first half when it was still 1-0. But the defense — which has changed some since that first meeting — made the difference.

Dimitriou has inserted Jack Abate at stopper, with Mike Presley at sweeper, Shane Millner at left defender and Wayne Worosz and Shawn Mac splitting time at right defender. With Scott Hauman, in his second year as a starter, in goal, Dimitriou figures he has the right formula.

His team's 8-2-1 overall record, 5-1 in the region, would indicate he's right.

SC CROSS COUNTRY: The Lady Ocelot cross country team ran in a different kind of race Saturday, and did pretty well, finishing second among four teams at the Lake Erie Invitational, hosted by Kent State.

The race was 3.25 miles and was filled with obstacles, including crossing a creek that was more than knee-deep in places. Lansing CC won with six points; SC had 25, Fingerlakes College scored 31 and Kent State had 53. The top three runners on each team scored.

SC was led by Nicole Kenny, who finished seventh in 24:06. Leah Bennett was 13th in 26:19, and Cathy Lenaghan placed 14th in 27:05.

SC runs at the Grand Valley State Invitational Friday.

Baker leads Madonna

Behind the setting of Penny Baker — who was named to the all-tournament team and also chosen the NAIA District 23 player of the week — Madonna University captured the three-team University of Michigan-Dearborn volleyball tournament Saturday.

It was the Lady Crusaders third tournament title this season. They defeated Aquinas College 15-6, 15-9, 15-2, and the host team 15-11, 15-5, 15-4, to improve their overall record to 28-9. Madonna is 5-0 in the district, tied with Northwood Institute for first. Northwood visits Madonna next Thursday (Oct. 24).

Dana Hicks-Finley, who totalled 27 kills, and Jenny Sladewski, with 21 digs, were also named to the all-tournament team. Tonia Smith had 21 kills in the tourney, Elena Oparka had 17 and Kristy McFadden collected 14; Maureen Paulin got 14 digs.

Ocelots hosting strong field

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

This won't be the last time these four teams will line up opposing each other in a tournament this season. The next time — about a month from now — much more will be at stake.

Like a national championship. Which makes this weekend's Schoolcraft Invitational Tournament so intriguing. The four teams competing are all ranked in the top five in the NJCAA.

Chances are better than good that one of the four will reach the NJCAA final. And odds are even that two of the four will be battling in that NJCAA championship game.

On Saturday, Monroe Community College (of Rochester, N.Y.) faces Meramec CC (St. Louis) at 11 a.m.; SC takes on Florissant Valley CC (St. Louis) at 1 p.m. On Sunday, it's Flo Valley vs. Monroe at 11 a.m. and Meramec against SC at 1 p.m.

MERAMEC IS ranked first in the NJCAA with a 10-2-1 record; Monroe is No. 2 with a 9-0-2 mark. SC (5-4-2) and Flo Valley (5-3-2) are tied for fifth.

Any team — or teams — that emerge from this weekend's tournament with two wins must be considered one of the favorites to capture the NJCAA title.

SC has a shot to do just that. The Lady Ocelots are in better physical condition than they've been all season — which previously hasn't been too good. Since there's only 11 players on the squad, a single injury leaves them short-handed.

It also forces coach Nick O'Shea to tailor his strategy to conserve players. "We're definitely going to go in and try to win the first one," O'Shea

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE
SOCCER TOURNAMENT

Saturday's games: Monroe Community College (9-0-2 record, ranked second in the NJCAA) vs. Meramec CC (10-2-1, ranked first), 11 a.m.; Schoolcraft (5-4-2) vs. Florissant Valley CC (5-3-2, tied for fifth).

Sunday's games: Florissant Valley CC vs. Monroe CC, 11 a.m.; Schoolcraft vs. Meramec, 1 p.m.

Format: Team with the best record wins. If two teams tie for best record, the championship will be decided by goal differential.

said, referring to his team's founery opener against Flo Valley. "I think we can win that one."

"If we get a lead, I may try to rest someone."

WHY? BECAUSE after going against Flo Valley, SC must meet No. 1-ranked Meramec the next day. Not an easy task, even if he had a team with reserves to summon.

Three Ocelots who have been all-in should be close to full strength: Shannon Meath, Sarah Hayes and Amy Krajewski. Meath and Hayes, together with Nikki Johnson, are the team's top offensive threats; Krajewski plays sweeper.

Still, all is not right with SC. Defender Jenny Whitfield strained her back last week and has been unable to practice. She remains questionable.

After this weekend, O'Shea will have accomplished just what he wanted for his SC team: The Ocelots will have played all the top-ranked teams in the NJCAA.

They lost to No. 2 Monroe 3-1 and No. 5 Flo Valley 3-2; third-ranked Farmingdale (N.Y.) CC beat SC 2-0, and the Ocelots defeated fourth-ranked Champlain CC (Burlington, VT) 3-2.

"I want to see where we stand, what we'll have for the nationals," he explained.

This weekend should provide all he needs to know.

HERE'S A brief scouting report on the other three tournament teams:

Monroe CC, unbeaten in 11 games this season, counts on Jennifer Corsey to put the ball in the net. A freshman, Corsey has 10 goals and three assists. Keeper Dawn MacDonald, a sophomore, has also been outstanding, surrendering just three goals.

Top-ranked Meramec is paced offensively by Jamie Casillas, who has eight goals and four assists in 13 games. Keeper Kelley Hearne is solid, having allowed eight goals.

One reason Flo Valley beat SC on Sept. 22 in St. Louis, O'Shea said, was because SC was playing its second game in two days while Flo Valley was resting. That won't be the case this time. Marla Boland is Flo Valley's leading scorer; keeper Julie Corrie has given up 17 goals in 10 games.

Indeed, the second game in a weekend has been SC's albatross all season. Three times the Ocelots have been in that situation; three times they've lost (to Monroe, Flo Valley and Farmingdale).

If they plan on being one of the finalists at the NJCAA Tournament — which are Nov. 21-24 in Trenton, N.J. — they'll have to reverse that. At the NJCAAs, a team must play three games in four days.

Blazers trip Mercy, 53-51

Livonia Ladywood avenged an overtime loss on Sept. 26 to Catholic League Central Division girls basketball rival Farmington Hills Mercy, 53-51, in a game played Tuesday at Redford Catholic Central High.

Ladywood, which trailed 34-32 after three quarters, outscored the Mar- lins 21-17 in the decisive fourth period.

Junior forward Mary Jo Kelly paced the winners with 16 points, hitting four of five free throws in the final quarter. Junior guard Tracy Prybylski contributed 13, making three of four foul shots during crunch time.

Senior center Allison Brenny scored 10 points, including nine in the final eight minutes. Sophomore forward Tara Wasiak added nine, including six in the second quarter.

"We made the free throws to keep us up down the stretch," said Lady- wood coach Ed Kavanaugh, whose team is 8-5 overall and 2-3 in the divi- sion. "It was a whole team effort."

Senior center Laure DeMattia scored 18 for Mercy, now 8-4 overall and 3- 2 in the Central. Senior forward Mary Bieniewicz added 17 points.

Point-guard Kathleen Berrigan, who scored a game-high 19 in Mercy's 51-47 overtime win over the Blazers in the first meeting, was held to five points.

"Tracy Prybylski did a fine job keeping her (Berrigan) from penetrating to the basket," Kavanaugh said. "She also got a lot of help defensively."

FRANKLIN 68, FARMINGTON 32: On Tuesday, Livonia Franklin (11-1) cruised to the Western Lakes Activities Association win against the visiting Falcons (2-10) behind senior guard Dawn Warner's 29 points, eight rebounds, eight steals and five assists.

Warner made 10 of 11 free throws as the Patriots moved to 5-1 in the WLAA. Sophomore forward Lisa Craven came off the bench to score 13 points and grab eight rebounds. Becca Bloch and Laura Rumpz combined for 15 rebounds.

All nine Franklin players scored.

Andrea Salyer, a freshman center, tallied a team-high 14 points and grabbed eight rebounds for Farmington, now 1-5 in the WLAA. Junior forward Tammy Allen contributed 10 points.

JOHN GLENN 50, HARRISON 46: Cathy Mruk's three-pointer in over- time iced it for Westland John Glenn (8-4, 4-2) in a WLAA encounter Tuesday against host Farmington Harrison (3-9, 0-6).

The teams were tied at 44-all at the end of regulation thanks to Heather Hopkins' three-pointer with seven seconds remaining.

Senior guard Carrie Rachwal and senior forward Kristi Zimmer each notched 16 points for the winners.

Freshman Krista Snow poured in a game-high 20 points and grabbed 16 rebounds for the Hawks. Hopkins, a junior forward, had 16 points and 13 rebounds, while teammate Katie McAskin, a senior guard, scored all-eight of her points in the second half.

W.L. CENTRAL 66, CHURCHILL 38: In a WLAA game Tuesday, host Livonia Churchill remained winless in 13 tries as Walled Lake Central (4-7) posted the victory.

Senior center Bridgette Norris pumped in 14 points for the winners, while team- mate Kerri Kobus added 12.

Chrissy Daly, a junior guard, scored all 17 of her points for Churchill in the second half. Senior guard Megan Keller added eight.

"We couldn't get anything going offensively in the first half," said Churchill coach Don Albertson, whose team trailed 28-13 at intermission. "We got it down to 12 in the second half, then fell apart."

"But we never quit and the girls on the floor kept hustling right to the end."

SOUTHGATE 39, WAYNE 27: Lateefa Moore's 14 points were not enough Tuesday as visiting Wayne Memorial (2-7, 2-4) lost a Wolverine A League battle against the host Titans (3-8, 2-4).

The Zebras trailed 23-10 at halftime, but closed the gap to six after three quarters, 29-26.

SHARON LEMIEUX/staff photographer

Lisa Craven (top) of Livonia Franklin puts up a wall against Farmington's Andrea Salyer. Craven scored 13 points in the Patriots' 68-32 win.

Anderson, despite only hitting five of 18 free throws on the night, outscored Wayne 10-4 in the final period.

Wayne made only three of 14 from the line.

LUTHERAN WEST 33, CLARENCEVILLE 24: Crystal Green, a 6- foot-1 center, sparked Detroit Lutheran West (3-8, 2-5) to the Metro Conference victory over visiting Livonia Clarenceville (3-9, 1-8).

The Trojans could not hold leads of 20-15 (halftime) and 21-18 (after three quar- ters).

The Leopards came on strong in the final quarter, outscoring the Trojans, 16-3. "We couldn't get any shots because of turnovers," Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf said. "We made a lot of mental mistakes which led to easy baskets for them."

Leandra Hoffman and Angie Wakefield tallied nine and seven points, respectively, for Clarenceville.

HURON VALLEY 38, INTER-CITY 30: Westland Huron Valley Luther- an posted the non-league victory Tuesday over visiting Allen Park Inter-City Baptist behind senior guard Nancy List's game-high 15 points.

Senior forward Sandi Dengel added 10 points and 12 rebounds for the victorious Hawks, now 3-6 overall.

Hirkey's 1sts lead Patriots to victory

Anne Hirkey won two individual events and was the member of two first place relay teams Tuesday, powering Livonia Franklin to a 62-24 girls swim triumph at Dearborn Fordson.

Hirkey captured the 100- and 200-yard freestyles in 1:06.26 and 2:29.08, respectively.

She also teamed up with sisters Colleen and Kelly Hansen, along with Becky Sampson to win the 400- freestyle relay (4:37.34). The four- some of Hirkey, Kathy Dolg, Renee Scott and Sampson added a first in the 200 freestyle relay (2:06.12).

The Hansen sisters, Jenny Fisher and Kim Rodriguez took the 200 medley relay in 2:10.38.

Other Franklin individual winners: Fisher, 200 individual medley (2:39.64); Rodriguez, 50 freestyle (28.52); Kelly Hansen, 100 butterfly (1:16.13); Nancy Noechel, 500 freestyle (6:20.1); and Christina Scott, 100 breaststroke (1:25.02).

The Patriots are 3-2 overall.

Spartans boost rating

Livonia Stevenson, looking for a little respect among girls cross coun- try teams from across the state, got just that on Saturday, winning the Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invita- tional at Burr Park.

The Spartans scored 59 points, edging No. 3 ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer (67), the defending state cham- pions, and Farmington Hills Mercy (100).

"Pioneer is not as overpowering as in the past, but they're still a good team," Stevenson coach Paul Holm- berg said. "Beating them gives us confidence."

"There are a number of other good teams in the same situation that we're in. Walled Lake Western is not ranked either and they're a very for- midable opponent. So is Sterling Heights Stevenson, and they're not ranked."

Bridget Mann of Pioneer, the state champion as a freshman and runner- up as a sophomore last year, was the overall winner in 19:07.

A.J. Koritnik, a junior, paced Ste- venson in second place (19:32).

Other Stevenson finishers included sophomore Bridget MacKinnon, ninth (20:37); junior Stacy Prais, 15th (21:13); senior Gail Grewe, 16th

(21:13) and freshman Kelly Prais, 17th (21:15).

"It was a nice course (Burr Park) with long gradual hills," Holmberg said. "It's not as steep as Cass Ben- ton (Stevenson's home course), but the times are comparable to Cass."

REDFORD CATHOLIC CENTRAL captured the 10-team Sturgis Invitational for the sixth time since 1982.

CC, third a year ago, tallied 57 points followed by Kalamazoo Central (90) and Holland (92).

Traverse City's Andy Hayes was the overall individual winner in 16:19. CC's Steve Witak finished second in 16:29, his best showing of the year.

Other CC finishers included Damon Harris, 12th (17:05); Mike Mittman, 13th (17:06); Eric McKeon, 14th (17:08); Chris Kuzia, 16th (17:10); Mark Leo, 19th (17:14); and Jason Siewicki, 26th (17:32).

CC returns to action Saturday in the Catholic League meet at Marshbank Park.

Playoff scenario a little clearer

By Brad Emons

WITH THE STATE football playoffs only four weeks away, who are Observerland's best bets to make it to the post-season dance?

You can put your money on at least two area teams, Farmington Harrison (Class BB-Region IV) and Redford Catholic Central (Class AA-Region II).

Both teams are currently 6-0. The area's only unbeaten is Redford St. Agatha, which leads Class C Region IV. The Aggies could take a big step this week with a win over 5-1 Center Line St. Clement.

Of the once-beaten teams, it appears that 5-1 North Farmington (Class A-Region III) is in the driver's seat if it can finish the season at 7-2 or even 6-3. The Raiders, however, have Harrison and unbeaten South Lyon left on their schedule.

Of the twice-beaten teams, Plymouth Salem (Class AA-Region III) could find itself in position to make one of the four spots. The Rocks' schedule appears favorable for the remaining three games.

Meanwhile, twice-beaten Redford Union (Class A-Region II) has three formidable opponents the rest of the way including unbeaten Woodhaven, Waterford Mott (4-2) and Farmington (3-3).

A longshot could be twice-beaten Westland John Glenn (Class AA-Region II), which has reached the playoffs five of the past six years. The Rockets' remaining schedule looks favorable, but bonus points (based on your opponents' victories) may be hard to come by.

THE PREDICTION RACE, meanwhile, appears to be all over with only three weeks left.

Co-hort Dan O'Meara, who went 11-2 last week, widened his lead over yours truly.

O'Meara is now 68-20 for the season, while Emons, who went 10-3 last week, fell to 60-28 overall.

Here is a look at this week's action:

grid predictions

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Northville at Liv. Churchill: Word had it that Northville coach Darrel Schumacher thought Farmington Harrison laid it on a little (kick last week (38-7 margin). The Mustangs (4-2) should be able to give all-state quarterback Ryan Huzjak more time to throw this week against a Churchill team trying to snap a 15-game losing streak. The Chargers nearly got the monkey off their backs last week, losing 20-17 to Plymouth-Canton in triple-overtime. PICKS: The Mustangs keep their left playoff hopes alive.

Farmington at Westland Glenn: The Falcons (3-3) started the season with promise and now face their third tough WLAALakes opponent in a row in Westland John Glenn (4-2). This could be the battle of linebackers, as Matt Siososky leads Farmington, while Jason Hageithorne spearheads Glenn. PICKS: Glenn, despite a less-than-impressive 10-0 win last week over winless Walled Lake Central, does a number on Farmington.

W.L. Western at Ply. Canton: Western (3-3) sneaked by Livonia Franklin last week, 13-12, while Canton (2-4) avoided a setback to winless Churchill. (Maybe the tomahawk chop is in order for the struggling Chiefs.) Both teams lack speed, so the battle in the trenches will be key. PICKS: Both like Western's chances.

Ply. Salem at W.L. Central: Hister for Heisman? Well, Leon sure got Livonia Stevenson's vote last week after rushing for 195 yards in a 28-7 victory over the Spartans. The Rocks (4-2) are hot on a playoff trail, while Central (0-6), which played Glenn tough last week, is on a path to nowhere. PICKS: The Rocks remain solid in their post-season quest.

Woodhaven at Redford Union (Kraft Field): A lot is at stake in this game — playoff spots and the Northwest Suburban League title for starters. RU (4-2) can score points, but can they stop anybody defensively? Unbeaten Woodhaven (6-0) has faced a cupcake schedule — Southgate (2-4), Riverview Gabriel Richard (0-6), Dearborn Edsel Ford (2-4), Garden City (1-5), Dearborn (3-3) and Pinckney (1-5). — is an upset in the making? PICKS: BU believes. Emons says, but O'Meara takes Woodhaven.

Wayne Memorial at Southgate: The injury-riddled Zebras (3-3) have a lot of skill people, but are thin on the defensive and offensive fronts. With quarterback Jason Wetmore banged up, the Titans (2-4) could be licking their chops. PICKS: O'Meara says Wayne shows true grit, but Emons goes with Southgate.

Avondale at Liv. Clarencville: It's homecoming for the Trojans, who broke a five-game losing streak last week, giving interim coach Russ McKenzie his first win, a 6-0 victory over Hamtramck. Clarencville, however, will definitely feel the sting of Brady Vibert and the unbeaten Yellow Jackets. PICKS: Avondale ruins everything but the homecoming dance.

Bishop Borgess at Saginaw Nouvel: The Spartans (3-3) have won two straight, but face an unbeaten Saginaw Nouvel (6-0) team that should win the Tri-Sectional Division of the Catholic League's A-B Division. Last year's meeting was a wild one, with Nouvel coming out on top 36-30. PICKS: Nouvel is headed for the Silverdome.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all at 1 p.m. unless noted)

Liv. Franklin at Farm. Harrison: There's apparently no stopping the state's top-ranked team, even with two valuable Harrison performers — Greg Piscopink and Danny Hight — out with injuries. Franklin (3-3), plagued by series of strange mishaps this season, is only 17 points away from being unbeaten. PICKS: Franklin will find the point spread is much greater this week, as the Hawks roar to their seventh straight triumph.

Liv. Stuyveson at N. Farmington: The Raiders (5-1) of the Lost Ark have returned, headed for a showdown with unbeaten Harrison for the Western Lakes Activities Association crown in week No. 8. North can score points in a hurry and Stevenson (3-3) should be no obstacle to an undisputed Lakes Division crown. PICKS: North's (Mark) Temple of Doom riddles the Spartans' secondary.

Garden City at Dearborn: The Cougars (1-5) put 21 points up on the board against a suspect RU defense last week. Meanwhile, the host Pioneers (3-3) rallied from a 20-14 fourth-quarter deficit to beat rival Edsel Ford last week, 28-20, thanks to the running of Neil Williams. GC relies on the leadership of linebacker Rob Wright. PICKS: The Pioneers have a field day.

Melvindale at Red. Thurston: The offense sputtered again last week for the Thurston Eagles (1-5), who were clipped by Taylor Truman, 14-7. Melvindale (2-4) was also beaten, but made a respectable showing against 6-1 Dearborn Heights Crestwood, losing the Tri-River League battle, 33-22. PICKS: Appears to be an even matchup on paper, but Melvindale has the slight edge.

Muskogon CC at Lutheran Westland (2 p.m.): The state's top-ranked team in Class C toyed with the Warriors last year. The homefield advantage won't help this time, either. It might as well be Redford CC coming to town instead of Muskogon. Lutheran Westland (4-2) will have its hands full once again. PICKS: The Warriors should look ahead to Waldron in week No. 8, both take the Crusaders.

Redford CC at Univ. of Detroit-Jesuit (2 p.m.): The Cubbies (3-3) suffered a disappointing 12-7 loss last week to Madison Heights Bishop Foley, while unbeaten CC, despite five turnovers, made Birmingham Brother Rice their "San Francisco Treat" in a resounding 35-7 win Sunday at the Boys Bowl. PICKS: The Shamrocks will not overlook their seventh straight victory.

St. Agatha vs. Center Line St. Clement (7:30 p.m. at RU's Kraft Field): The Aggies (6-0) found a way to win last week, beating Waterford Our Lady in overtime. St. Clement (5-1), led by quarterback Phil Doherty and tight end Mike Sakalas, was routed last week by Royal Oak Shrine, 32-7. PICKS: The Aggies wrap up the C-Section of the Catholic League's C-D Division.

Point-after clips Franklin, 13-12

Livonia Franklin's second-half rally fell short Saturday as visiting Walled Lake Western escaped with a 13-12 football victory.

Both teams are 3-3 overall and 2-2 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Western enjoyed a 13-0 halftime lead on a 3-yard first-quarter touchdown run by Tige Chambers, followed by a 25-yard second-quarter TD burst by Arnie Gilbert.

Both scores followed interceptions thrown by Franklin quarterback David Little, who was picked off a total of five times in the first half.

The Patriots got on the board with 2:28 left in the third quarter on Jason Facione's 1-yard run.

Franklin recovered the ensuing kick-off, driving down to the Western 4 before turning it over on downs.

The Patriots got the ball back inside the Western 50 and scored on Aaron Shakarian's 1-yard run with five minutes to go. The senior fullback set up the TD with a 25-yard gain.

Trailing by one, Franklin faked the extra point. Little's intended receiver was interfered with, putting the ball on the Western 1 after the penalty.

Franklin then elected to try the extra point, which was blocked. Western was able to run the clock out.

Franklin had 109 yards total offense, 95 passing, as Little, coming back after an shoulder injury, was 11 for 26.

"I don't think we were mentally ready in the first half and David was a little rusty so the interceptions occurred," Franklin coach Armand Vigna said. "We had some mental lapses and found ourselves down 13-0. We woke up in the second half and almost pulled it out."

Western had 137 yards total offense, 108 on the ground. Gilbert led all rushers with 53 yards, while Shakarian had 30.

Franklin lost 38 yards on sacks and netted only 14 yards rushing.

LITCHFIELD 7, LUTH. WESTLAND 6: On Saturday, Dave Shaw picked up a fumble and raced 89 yards in the second quarter TD, giving the host Terriers (3-2) the victory over Lutheran High Westland (4-2).

The successful extra point proved to be the difference. Lutheran Westland scored first on halfback Steve Faith's 2-yard run, capping a 55-yard drive in the opening quarter. The Warriors, however, missed the two-point conversion attempt.

Litchfield had 220 total yards, all on the ground. Trevor Jaspers led the Terriers with 155 yards on 30 carries.

Lutheran Westland had 189 total yards, 171 on the ground.

Senior halfback Matt Grams paced the Warriors with 75 yards in 10 carries. Faith added 62 in 10 attempts.

What you always wanted to know about Credit Unions

Isn't a Credit Union the same as a bank?
 No. A bank is a commercial business established in order to make money from its customers to produce profit for its stockholders. A credit union is a not-for-profit cooperative established to meet the financial needs of its members. All members have one vote each in the cooperative, regardless of how much or little money they have in their accounts. Credit unions are often able to provide financial services in a very cost effective manner.

Do credit unions pay taxes?
 Yes. Credit unions pay a variety of local taxes, service fees and other costs. In addition, credit union members pay personal taxes on the dividends (interest) they receive. In that credit unions do not make profits, they do not have any profits on which to pay taxes.

Are Michigan credit unions federally insured?
 Yes. Every single Michigan credit union, whether state chartered or federally chartered, is insured by the federal government through the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA).

Doesn't a financial institution have to be insured by the FDIC to be safe?

 No. The FDIC was established to insure banks. When the S&L crisis bankrupted the S&L fund (FSLIC), FSLIC was merged into the FDIC. Credit unions are insured through the NCUA's fund (NCUSIF) which is the fiscally healthiest of all federal insurance programs for financial institutions.

Are Michigan credit unions safe?
 Yes. Michigan credit unions are among the most secure financial institutions in the nation. Only one half of one percent of credit union loans are for commercial purposes. The other 99.5% are in home mortgages, car loans and small consumer loans.

Can anyone join a credit union?
 No. One must be part of a "common bond" that makes up the field of membership served by a credit union. However, most people may qualify for credit union membership through their work, church, association or community. 3.6 million people in Michigan belong to credit unions, which means more than one out of every three citizens are members. The largest Michigan credit union has more than 100,000 members while the smallest has fewer than 100.

What are some of the advantages of using a credit union?
 Credit unions exist to serve their members and surveys have repeatedly shown credit union members to be more satisfied with the service they receive than are bank and S&L customers. Members have the power to direct credit union policy and even replace the board of directors if they choose. As a result of seeking to serve their consumer members instead of profiting from them, credit unions usually charge lower rates for loans, credit cards, checking (share draft) and other services and often offer higher interest on savings.

How is a credit union governed?
 Members select a volunteer board of directors, which sets the policies of the credit union. In small credit unions, the elected treasurer often acts as manager while volunteers carry out the various functions of the organization. Larger credit unions hire professional staff to run day-to-day operations for the institution. The credit union holds an annual membership meeting each year and each adult member, regardless of how much money he or she may have in the credit union, has one vote.

Michigan Credit Unions: Successful and strong

Despite turmoil in almost every aspect of the financial world, Michigan's credit unions have met the economic challenges of the last decade and continued their quiet success and stability. "It's the old tale of the tortoise and the hare," remarked Kenyan E. Bixby, President and CEO of the Michigan Credit Union League (MCUL), "while many people's attention was elsewhere, Michigan credit unions have been one of the success stories of our era."

Membership in Michigan credit unions reached an historic high of over 3.6 million people, indicating that more than one out of every three people in Michigan is a credit union member. Credit union assets continued their pattern of steady growth, passing the $11 billion mark last year compared with $4 billion at the end of 1990.

"The hallmark of this growth is that it is accompanied by security," said Bixby, "as credit unions grew, so did their capital." The capital-to-asset ratio for Michigan credit unions at the end of 1990 was a solid 8.7%. "That is without risk-weighting the ratio," added Bixby. "If credit unions' loan and investment portfolios were risk-weighted, that ratio would be even higher."

Credit unions have traditionally maintained very conservative loan portfolios. Year end figures show that only one half of one percent of Michigan credit union loans were in the commercial category. Home mortgages accounted for 23.3%, auto loans 36.2%, and other consumer loans 40.1%.

According to Bixby, "This sort of lending is a direct result of the unique nature of credit unions as not-for-profit financial cooperatives that exist to serve their members instead of to make profits. Our members don't need their credit unions to invest in leveraged buy-outs, corporate takeovers, third world debts or junk bonds. They need homes, cars and personal loans so that's what credit unions do."

That unique nature is reflected in the fact that Michigan credit unions have more active volunteers (7,965) than either full time or part time employees (6,687 and 1,779 respectively). A hefty majority of Michigan credit unions (almost 58%) have membership based on occupation. Of the remainder, nearly 24% are based on associations such as churches or associations while the remaining 18% are based on communities or multiple groups.

Credit Unions grew from crop failures

How did a German crop failure long ago lead to the organizing of your credit union? It's a story of the curious turns of history, but even more, a story of people helping people.

The German crop failure of 1846 was followed by a hard winter. The widespread famine and suffering sparked revolutionary unrest, and it turned the thoughts of two men to social reform.

Birth of an idea—Herman Schulze-Delitzsch, a justice of the peace, was active in reform politics. Aware of the lack of low-cost credit workers and shopkeepers, he devoted much of his life to helping organize credit cooperatives. In a cooperative, people join together to purchase or market goods or provide themselves with some service.

Schulze-Delitzsch called his co-ops people's banks. Members placed their savings in the cooperative and borrowed from it.

Friedrich Raiffeisen, a village mayor, drew on Schulze-Delitzsch's ideas to organize similar cooperatives among farmers and villagers. Like the people's banks, these were forerunners of today's credit unions. Although an eye disease gradually blinded Raiffeisen, with the help of his daughter, he spent the rest of his life in this work.

Members owned and controlled the people's banks and Raiffeisen cooperatives. They organized them not for profit, and not for charity, but for service. A farmer, for example, could get a loan to buy seed in the spring, repaying the loan in the fall when he sold his crops.

Profits to members—Any surplus left after the cooperative paid its expenses was put into reserves to strengthen the organization or used in other ways to benefit the members.

These cooperatives attracted worldwide attention. In those days, commercial banks weren't interested in providing financial services to ordinary working people. A working person needing a loan often turned to a loan shark who charged exorbitant rates of interest. Reformers saw the people's bank, or credit union, as a way for working people and their families to take control of their financial destinies.

Alphonse Desjardins, a French-Canadian parliamentary recorder and translator, planted the credit union seed in the New World. In 1900, he organized a credit union in his home city of Levis, Quebec. He devoted much of the rest of his working life to the credit union cause and was honored by the pope for his work.

Desjardins helped a parish priest organize the first U.S. credit union among the French-speaking workers of Manchester, N.H. This credit union, today called St. Marys Bank, still serves residents of that community.

Growth of the idea—The credit union movement spread to a few other states, spearheaded by public-spirited citizens like banker John Sprunt Hill of North Carolina, who encouraged credit unions among the rural poor. But the growth of the movement was slow. For one thing, most states did not have laws providing for this kind of financial cooperative. Although some bankers like Hill supported the movement, other vigorously opposed passage of laws permitting people to have their own financial institutions.

The two persons who did the most to create the nationwide credit union system you know today were an unlikely pair of reformers from the Boston area—Edward A. Filene, a wealthy merchant, and Roy Bergengren, a lawyer and failed candy manufacturer.

When his father became ill, young Filene abandoned plans to go to Harvard and assumed management of the family's five clothing and dry goods shops. He and his brother built one of the shops into a leading specialty store. Filene's, with its famous bargain basement, still serves Boston.

Filene was a shy man, a lifelong bachelor, whose abrupt manner concealed concern for the welfare of others. His employees became his family. In addition to providing benefits far ahead of the time, he gave his workers a voice in setting work hours, wages and working conditions.

But his vision extended beyond the store. He spent much of his personal fortune promoting consumer education and world understanding.

Answer to loan sharks—Filene became interested in credit unions on a world tour in 1907. He saw them as an alternative to the loan sharks preying upon American workers and as a way to bolster the economy by providing consumer credit. As he put it in a speech in 1927: "The credit union, capable of the widest use by small farmers and wage workers, creates credit at bank rates for the sort of folks who need credit the most and who are the most ready victims of the usurer (loan shark)."

To spread the credit union movement nationwide, Filene hired Bergengren, a lawyer and civic reformer who recently had seen his fledgling candy manufacturing business fail due to rising sugar prices.

The credit union idea seized Bergengren's imagination. He turned it into a lifelong crusade. He crisscrossed the country by train, spreading the credit union idea and lobbying for state credit union laws. Thanks to the dynamic duo of Filene and Bergengren, and the work of countless other individuals, credit unions sprang up in dozens of states. In 1934, with the blessing of credit union supporter President Franklin Roosevelt, Congress passed a law permitting formation of credit unions in every state.

With Bergengren's assistance, credit unions strengthened their position by forming state associations, called leagues, and the Credit Union National Association (CUNA). Bergengren became the first managing director of CUNA in 1934. Filene died in 1937; Bergengren guided the national movement for another eight years.

Pragmatic kinship—These and many other credit union pioneers were people of deep moral convictions. "The real job of the credit union," Bergengren said, "is to prove, in modest measure, the practicality of the brotherhood of man."

The two men admired the free enterprise system. Filene, after all, helped found the chamber of commerce. Filene and Bergengren had nothing against for-profit banks, but saw credit unions as an alternative, democratic way for people to provide themselves with financial services at reasonable cost. Filene called credit unions "a moral supplement to the banking system."

Today, more than 14,000 credit unions serve the financial needs of 62 million Americans in the United States.

Most credit unions serve employees and their families. But there are credit unions serving members of the armed forces, churches, associations, and farm groups. Some serve a community, or neighborhood. Through elected boards of volunteers, members own and govern their credit unions. And they still are dedicated to services, not profit, and not charity. Credit unions exist to serve their members, not to make profits for stockholders.

And the credit union movement has not stopped growing. Your credit union and credit unions across the nation support the work of the World Council of Credit Unions, which encourages formation of credit unions in many countries, including developing nations like Bangladesh and newly free countries like Poland. Credit unions are now, as they always have been, democracy in action.

Credit Unions: Safe and strong

"Because they play it safe with their loans and investments, credit unions are relatively healthy," according to Lou Dobbs, host of Cable News Network's "Monday Line."

Credit unions have avoided the trouble encountered by banks and S&Ls, he reported, because they make safe consumer loans rather than loans to third-world countries or commercial real estate loans. In addition, he said, the fund that insures credit union deposits is "solid."

As in the case of banks and thrifts, deposits are insured up to $100,000. But the credit union insurance fund, administered by the National Credit Union Administration, is better capitalized at $1.26 for every $100 insured as compared with $.20 for every $100 at the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation which insures banks and thrifts.

Credit unions have a "pay as you go" insurance fund. It expands proportionally to their rate of growth. Because credit unions deposit an amount equivalent to 1% of their insured deposits into their insurance fund, they have a vested interest in the health of the fund, and thus, the activities of other credit unions. Strong regulatory agencies require yearly examinations and credit unions are the only federal insured financial institutions that have never received taxpayer dollars.

"Although still a small industry relative to commercial banks, credit unions, with $200 billion in assets, have exhibited strong growth in recent years and are a viable part of the financial services sector," reported Standard & Poor's, the rating service.

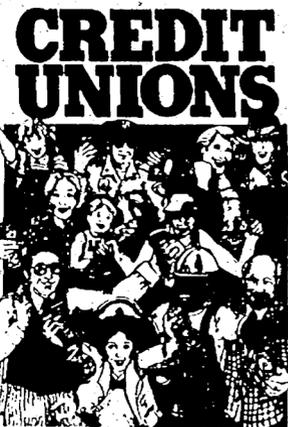

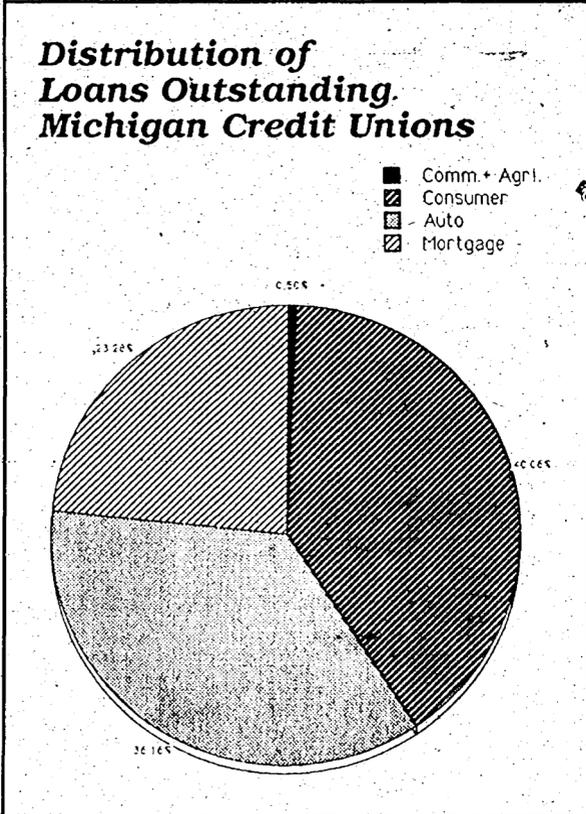

S&P said in a report to business editors that "credit unions are unique providers of financial services, distinct from (banks and savings and loans)." S&P explained that credit unions are cooperative, member-owned, not-for-profit, tax exempt institutions, with "market niches" defined by common bonds.

S&P also said that "despite their growth and expansion, credit unions maintained, overall, a relatively low level of losses in the 1980s and are now in a good state of health."

An average capital to asset ratio of 7.6 percent, the highest ever recorded, was achieved by the nation's 14,544 credit unions in 1990. Some of that increase reflects the apprehension of depositors following thrift failures, but a good part of it also comes from awareness of the strength of the credit union federal insurance fund. The $2.1 billion National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund is backed by the full faith and credit of the federal government.

The credit union fund is sound, with reserves near the maximum required by law. In fact, the fund holds a higher level of reserves than the level proposed by President Bush in his S&L reform plan to congress.

Michigan Credit Union Assets Top $11 Billion

A review of final year-end statistics shows Michigan's credit unions have continued their success and stability despite the economic challenges of the last decade.

"It's the old tale of the tortoise and the hare, said Kenyan E. Bixby, President and CEO of the Michigan Credit Union League. While many people's attention was elsewhere, Michigan credit unions have been one of the success stories of our era."

Membership in Michigan credit unions reached an historic high of more than 3.6 million people, meaning one out of every three people in Michigan is a member.

Credit unions showed continued their pattern of steady growth, passing the $11 billion mark last year compared with $4 billion at the end of 1980.

The capital-to-asset ratio for Michigan credit unions at the end of 1990 was a solid 8.7 percent. Shares hit $9.9 billion, a dramatic climb from 1980's $3.6 billion.

Year-end figures show that only one half of 1 percent of Michigan credit union loans were in the commercial category. Home mortgages accounted for 23.3 percent, and other consumer loans, 40.1 percent.

Michigan credit unions have more active volunteers (7,965) than ever full time or part time employees (6,687 and 1,779, respectively). Year-end figures indicate that Michigan credit unions' fields of membership are 18.5 percent residential or multiple group, 23.7 percent associational, and 57.8 percent occupational.

Credit unions hold 7.7 percent of the total assets in Michigan depository institutions. Commercial banks hold 65.8 percent and savings & loans, 26.5 percent.

The 25-year trend of credit union consolidation continued during 1990, with the number of separate institutions shrinking to 600, down from 630 in 1989. The decline was just slightly less among state-chartered than federally-chartered credit unions. In 1980, there were 571 state-chartered CUs; today there are 385, a slip of 32.6 percent. Federally-chartered CUs saw their numbers dip 35.0 percent, from 250 to 215.

Figures are drawn by the Michigan League from the 1990 Year End Call Reports gathered by the National Credit Union Administration.

Can I join a Credit Union?

After learning the benefits of being a member of a credit union, the first question most non-members ask is, "Can I join a credit union?" The answer is most likely "Yes."

One important aspect of credit unions is that they are not open to the general public. Membership is open to only those who fall into the credit union's field of membership. At one time most credit unions had a very narrowly defined field of membership. For example, if you were an employee of the XYZ Widget Company you could join the XYZ Widget Company Credit Union but no one else could. Credit unions were most often established around work but many were based on churches, professions, communities, trade unions and other clearly identified groups.

Over the years, many smaller credit unions merged to offer their members more services and thereby broadened their field of membership. At the request of their members, credit unions also began opening to the families of members and allowing people who retired or left their jobs to keep their credit union membership.

Other credit unions began to include a geographic area, such as a county or township, in their field of membership. Today, most credit unions are open to many people who may not realize they are eligible.

Over 3.6 million people in Michigan are members of a credit union, more than one out of every three residents of the state. It is likely that a majority of Michigan's people are eligible for membership in one or more of the nearly 600 credit unions in our state.

If you are interested in joining a credit union, ask at work to see if your company has one. If not, go to your local Yellow Pages and look up Credit Unions. Find those most conveniently-located to your work or home and give them a call. Ask them if you qualify. You might be surprised to find that you do. You may have to contact several credit unions to find the right one for you, but keep at it. It's worth the effort. You'll find that it pays to be a member of a Michigan credit union.

Industry's need should make Luken's stock a steel

Q. I have an astute friend who seems to have been very successful in the stock market. Recently he was telling me that one of his favorite stocks is Luken's Inc. I looked it up in the library, and I see that it is mostly a steel company. I guess I have been prejudiced, but I thought steel companies were generally very cyclical and not profitable except once every three or four years. What do you see for this company?

A. Luken's seems to be in a very favorable position. Several security analysts say that it is currently the lowest-cost producer of plate steel, and plate steel is in great demand. It is used in machines and in bridges. With our infrastructure in a sad state of repair, it is believed the demand for plate steel will be substantial for many years. With Luken's being the low-cost producer and with demand being high, it seems likely the company will be more profitable than its competitors.

Luken's earnings turnaround started in 1986 and has been strongly upwards since then. In 1989, the company earned $3.91 per share. It is estimated by Standard and Poor's to earn $4.73 in 1990 and $4.90 in 1991. The company has lifted its profit margin in recent years, and this applied to the sales increase has produced the excellent increase in earnings per share.

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

Luken's has four divisions to its business. The production of steel is the biggest one and accounts for 74 percent of sales and 90 percent of profits. That part of the business has eased, but is expected to resume its expansion. Capital improvements should reduce costs, and this should result in a further increase in the profit margin.

Safety products used in highway construction and maintenance and industrial markets should enjoy growth as that part of our infrastructure is modernized. This division produces glass beads, tape and sheeting, traffic cones, barrels, flashing lights, safety vests and warning flags among other things. This division is expected to show improving profit margins.

The improvement in Luken's earnings and prospects has not yet been fully recognized in the stock market. There is a general reluctance in the market to appraise steel companies at a very high multiple. As its earnings have hit new peaks in the last couple of years, it has only sold at a high price-earnings ratio of 8. If its sales and earnings continue to improve, I would think it would begin to sell at 10 to 12 times earnings, which could move its price to between $50 to $60.

Trust: tie that binds clients, ad agencies

By David F. Stein
special writer

The ad game has its own seven-year itch. As a national average, companies tend to stay that long with an advertising agency. But many suburban Detroit agencies, with client lists that include national heavyweights, are trampling the industry norm.

Area winner is the Ross Roy Group of Bloomfield Hills, Chrysler's agency since 1926. It has also represented Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan for 33 years, Kmart for 23 years and Detroit Edison 21 years.

The key to long-term success is trust combined with a sense of partnership, said Bruce Wagner, Ross Roy executive vice president.

"We go through various economic cycles. There will be difficult times — thus the importance of a strong bond and good, long-term relationships," Wagner said.

Another strong bond between client and advertiser was forged by Ernest Baker, chairman of DDB Needham Worldwide and Standard Federal Bank, both in Troy.

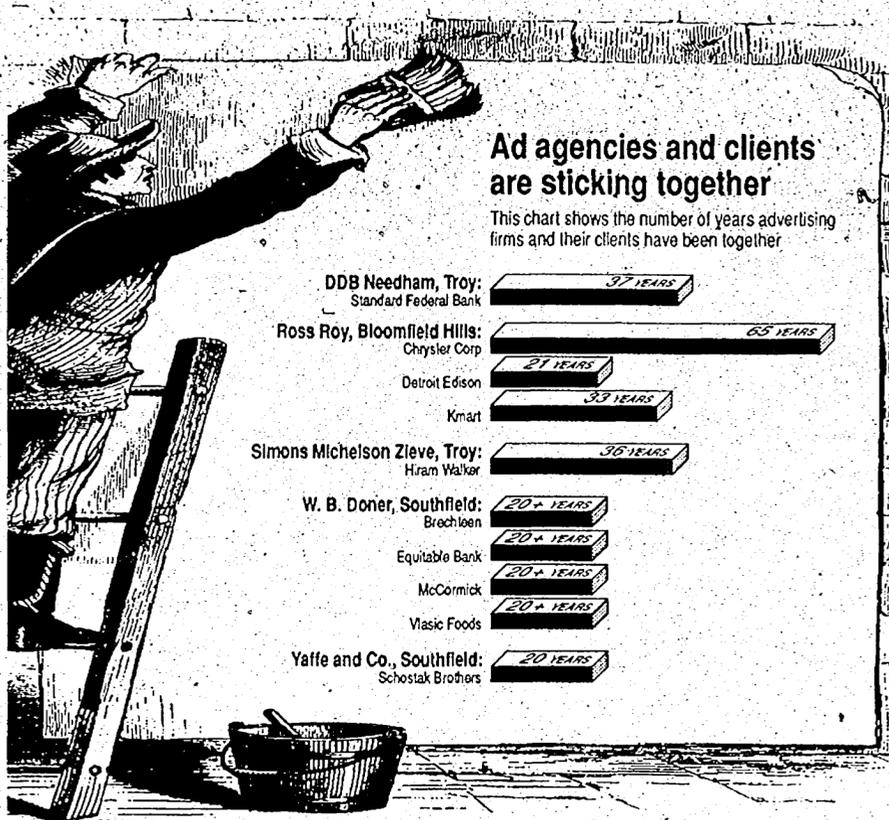

THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS ago, Standard Federal left an agency that was also representing another bank and went with Baker. It has been in the fold ever since, coming along with the merger of E.W. Baker with DDB Needham in 1990.

A longlasting marriage was begun in 1955 when Hiram Walker signed on with Simons Michelson Zieve in Troy.

The key, chairman Morton Zieve said, is working with a client as a marketing partner, helping to make marketing decisions.

Other ad executives offered their formula for success. "The key thing to be with a client is to be indispensable," said Fred Yaffe, chairman and CEO of Yaffe and Co., Southfield. Yaffe's oldest client, Schostak Brothers, has been with him for 20 years.

Southfield's W.B. Doner has been servicing several clients for more than 20 years. These include the spice giant McCormick, Equitable Bank, Vlasic Foods and the outstate food processing firm, Brechteen.

BUT TOUGH ECONOMIC times can test the best of agency-company partnerships.

Zieve said he has had more inquiries from companies looking to possibly switch agencies this past summer than he can remember for quite a while.

"When things get hard, companies look for a magic pill to help their companies," Zieve said.

Other execs aren't so sure, saying that turnover kinetics haven't changed despite the continuing lean economy.

Ross Roy's Wagner said that ad agencies may actually be leading the search and rescue missions.

"I'm not sure they're switching more frequently, but there is increased ferment and competitiveness amongst the agencies," Wagner said. "It's a general recessionary effect; a lot of agencies are knocking on a lot more doors."

WHEN COMPANIES do have switching on their minds, it may be the result of a sound business reason, such as falling sales, or simply caprice.

As a general rule, the less substance to a product, the more often companies switch agencies. So, companies whose business is products like toothpaste or soap tend to be friendly to ad agency switches.

Yaffe suggested that in this area ad agencies aren't always the blame. In fact, they may be doing too good a job.

"There is nothing in the world that will kill a bad product faster than good advertising," Yaffe said.

Local execs agree that companies usually don't decide to switch based solely on cost of services, but as Yaffe explained, "Price is never important unless you don't have the lowest price."

The most frequently given reason for lost business — a change in management. New bosses like to wipe the slate clean and bring a new ad team on board.

Agencies may also lose an account when a company takes a new marketing or product direction — a kind of messenger complex on the part of business.

But changes bring risks as it takes time to bring a new group up to speed, contends Marilyn Barnett, president of Mars Advertising in Southfield.

Thus, ad execs believe that the best companies would rather fight, or fix, than switch agencies.

"If you want to really change agencies, what you are really changing is probably people. Smart companies don't drop agencies; they fix the people part," said John Kolon, president of Kolon Bittker and Desmond, Troy.

"The worse companies jump around a lot; the best companies get the best agencies and keep them for a long time," Kolon added.

But change seems to be a constant in the advertising wars, and agencies face increasingly competitive challenges as marketing communications becomes more complex.

"Twenty to 25 years ago, you could reach 90 percent of life in the United States through TV or advertising in Look, Life or Post (magazines)," DDB Needham's chairman Baker.

Now marketing experts search a maze of methods and media to reach consumers — from direct mail and telemarketing to cable television and special focus groups.

Whether large or small, ad agencies will have to be quicker in the future with clients gauging their mastery of these new marketing modes.

"The agencies that are not as well prepared for the changing marketing communications are going to be more liable for clients changing," said Ross Roy's Wagner.

College expenses nearly paid; Is there a better way?

By Dan Boyce
and Alan Ferrara

This is the third in a series of Financial Profile articles on financing a college education. The first column dealt with the Austins family's general finances. Last week we offered suggestions on how they could manage their assets to reduce their expected family contribution. This week, we concentrate on filing financial aid forms.

There is no question that financial aid will be a major part of the financing needed for the Austin children to attend the colleges of their choice.

Daughter Jill would like to attend a private college that will cost $20,000 per year by the time she graduates in two years. Mike Austin's income is $39,000 per year, so such a financial outlay for his daughter's education is clearly out of the question without depleting the family assets. Son Ted is planning to attend Michigan State University in three years, which will cost $8,500 per year.

IN JILL'S senior year, they will need to fill out financial aid forms that are used by college financial aid officers to determine eligibility for assistance. The forms usually are available to students in November of their senior year.

The two most widely used forms are the Family Financial Statement and the Financial Aid Form. The Austins should find out which form is used by the colleges their children want to attend.

When filling out the forms, the information should be complete and as accurate as possible. The forms ask questions about income and assets. Estimates may be used, but they should be as precise as possible. When using estimates, use specific numbers such as $355, rather than a range such as $300-$500.

THE AMOUNT OF financial aid available is limited, so it is important to send in these forms as soon as possible. Financial aid officers are more likely to be generous when the financial aid coffers are full. But if the forms are returned after Jan. 1, they are usually returned.

Be sure the forms are complete — blanks may hold up the application for weeks. Be sure the application is signed and the Social Security numbers are filled in.

Always check the box requesting review for a Pell Grant. Although these are typically only given to very poor people, frequently this grant must be applied for to be eligible for additional financial aid.

When son Ted applies, he will need to be registered for selective service after age 18. He will not be eligible for financial aid without proof of registration.

IT IS important that all information be true and accurate. Falsifications can result in rejection for current or future financial aid.

Check with the specific institutions to see if they require additional forms. Additional information may be requested, especially for private colleges. The purpose is to find out if the student has additional resources that may not show up on standard forms and to determine if the student may qualify for specific financial aid programs at that institution.

Using the information on the two major forms mentioned, an "expected family contribution" will be determined. This factor is important, because regardless of the cost of attending a university, the expected family contribution will not change.

IN THE EXAMPLE we used previously, if the expected family contribution was $4,000 and the yearly cost was $3,500, no financial aid would be forthcoming. But if the annual cost was $12,000, an $8,000 package could be requested. In other words, any gap between the expected family contribution and the cost of the institution may be covered through a financial aid package. This package may be a combination of grants, loans, and possibly a work-study program.

Grants are outright gifts of dollars to be used for educational costs. Student loans must be repaid. But these payments can be spread over a long period of time and are at reduced interest rates when compared to personal loans. Work-study programs require a commitment of time from the student, and this may curtail other extra-curricular activities.

Assets and — to some extent — income, should be structured so as to provide the lowest possible expected family contribution and therefore qualify for the greatest amount of financial aid.

Dan Boyce, a certified financial planner at the Center for Financial Planning in Southfield, has been recognized by Money Magazine as one of the top financial planners in the nation. Alan Ferrara is a partner in the Farmington Hills law firm of Couzens, Lansky, Fealk, Ellis, Roeder & Lazar. Both serve on the board of directors for the Southeast Michigan Chapter of the International Association for Financial Planning.

Lynn Mills: On the frontline for life

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Three small American flags in front of Lynn Mills' home snap and ripple, reacting to the strong blast of October wind. They are quite a contrast to the woman who lives there.

Both friends and foes of the pro-life activist would agree Mills is unyielding and uncompromising in her attempts to make abortion illegal in this country.

From there, however, opinions differ.

To people in the pro-life movement, Mills embodies the essence of those on the front-lines in the never-ending battle to save unborn lives: committed, impassioned and a tireless worker.

Opponents see her as an attention-seeking, self-righteous extremist who readily distorts the truth in order to further her cause. So who is the real Lynn Mills?

Lynn Mills knows one thing about Lynn Mills — she's not concerned what people think who disagree with her stand on abortion.

"If I get a bad image because I go to an abortionist's home and hold up a sign that says this man kills children, I don't care," said Mills, 36, a 1972 graduate of Livonia Churchill High School and a former postal employee. "We're going to expose the abortionist and make it real personal because that's what they do to the children."

Mills is dressed in a red plaid jumper with a white laced blouse and white tights to match. She resembles Mrs. Mom. She dispatches the family dog to backyard with the lure of a bone. She smiles patiently as her youngest daughter, Lauren, 3½, bounces a volleyball and periodically gropes for her mother's attention.

Mills turns down the TV and the radio where a pro-life activist is being interviewed.

"You want to know my first protest?" she asked. "When they massacred the students at Kent State, I walked out (of high school). And I got a picture of it, too, if you want to see them. I got grounded."

"Even though the kids, the children — they were children — were protesting the war, they were liberal, I don't think they should have been shot for their opinions."

During the course of the interview, Mills also mentions she was sent home one day from junior high for wearing slacks and wrote for the school paper at Livonia Churchill. She's ashamed by one particular article carrying her byline, though.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

The dining room table serves as activist Lynn Mills' office and there to watch her work is her youngest daughter, Lauren, 3½.

THE EMBARRASSING piece was about how couples should be able to hold hands and kiss each other in the hallways between classes.

"Now I would say holding hands should be the extent," she said. "I think you get wisdom with age."

With age has come a deepening — some would say fanatical — involvement in the pro-life cause.

Her activism started 10 years ago. Mills said she's always been pro-life, but a court case preventing a 14-year-old in Kalamazoo from having an abortion led her head first into the quest to make it illegal. She heard about the case where one of the parents of the teen wanted her to have an abortion and pro-life activists fought it in court.

Mills promptly went to the western part of the state to help identify potential voters.

"I was three weeks there before I thought, 'there's got to be more,'" she said.

When Mills returned home, she leafed through the phone book and made note of all the abortion clinics in the area. She decided to picket one.

Since then, Mills has emerged as the spokeswoman and organizer of a coalition of pro-life activists.

THERE are those who take exception to her comments.

Renee Chellan, an administrator with Northland Family Planning Clinic in Southfield, is one. In a recent radio interview on WXYT-AM, Mills said Chellan made the remark, "Lynn Mills is history."

Mills interprets those comments as a possible threat. Chellan denies that and said she was interrupted mid-sentence. Her statement was intended to be, "Your history has shown me over and over again that you distort the truth to better suit your needs."

Mills' contentions, though, don't surprise Chellan.

"It's typical of her attention getting tactics and behavior," Chellan said. "I'm insulted she'd repeat to anyone or tell anyone I had threatened her life."

FAMILY PLANNING clinic administrators are not the only ones with ulterior motives, according to Mills. She said the Livonia Police, in particular Sgt. Donald Vandersloot, has a "vendetta" against her people regarding recent protests at two Livonia clinics where abortions are performed. (Vandersloot didn't want to comment when contacted with her claims.)

Her tactics have gained the most notoriety. Making public the names of women scheduled to have abortions, passing out copies of a death certificate of another who reportedly died from one, and picketing in the neighborhoods where doctors live have been criticized by pro-choice activists.

Organizations such as Right to Life/Lifespan won't condone or condemn such actions as a matter of policy.

Ann Thomas, president of Right to Life/Lifespan, said she "admires" Mills for her motivation and her willingness to take risks other people who are pro-life would not. But does she go too far?

"I think everybody has to live within their own conscience and everybody has to do what they have to do," said Thomas, who is a Livonia resident. "If Lynn thinks she has a right in what she is doing, she has to live with herself and she is the one who is going to have to answer to God."

"I cannot comment on them," added Barbara Listing, president of Right to Life/Lifespan Michigan. "Those are methods and projects they, Operation Rescue and Pro-Action, have decided is their way of educating and raising the issue."

Oh, babies!

Family addition comes in 3's

By Susan Buck

At the Nalezcz family residence in Livonia, three babies require six extra hands — Mom's and two grandmas'.

Extra hands have helped since triplets were born to Norbert, 30, and Vallie (Watts) Nalezcz, 29, June 4 in Providence Hospital in Southfield.

"It takes two hours to feed, rock and put them to sleep," Vallie said.

And, of course, they seldom sleep in unison.

In order of birth, the new cherubs are Kristen Nicole, who tipped the scale at three pounds, four ounces, followed by Ross Norbert Ezra at three pounds, seven ounces, and Marlee Renee at two pounds, 10 ounces. They were born one minute apart beginning at 8:02 a.m.

Their mother took Pergonal, a fertility drug and knew multiple births was a strong likelihood.

'If people could bottle sleep, they would make a mint.'

— Vallie Nalezcz

THE BABIES were only 29 weeks at birth.

Martha Watts and Leona Nalezcz are the two helpful grandmothers who pitch right in with the housework.

"Without them, I would not survive," Nalezcz said.

Visitors buy identical gifts and, at least for right now, Nalezcz dresses the babies identically.

But their personalities are different, she added.

"Kristen is the best baby you can hope to have," she said. "You feed her and she goes right back to sleep."

BY OBSERVING Kristen's development at birth, medical personnel surmised that Kristen may have actually been conceived two weeks before her siblings, Nalezcz said. Ross wants instant service; Marlee wants constant attention.

Nalezcz has returned to her job as a UPS tracing clerk in Livonia, so getting enough sleep is a concern.

"If people could bottle sleep, they would make a mint," the Garden City West High school graduate said.

Husband Norbert, a mechanical engineer with Prime Tube Inc., also helped out. He is a graduate of Livonia Churchill High School and the University of Michigan.

Now the couple, who have been married five years, can scarcely remember the days when they could "pick up and go."

"We look at each other and say, 'Can you imagine how easy it would be with just one baby?'" Nalezcz said. "But it's worth it."

Writer is introspective, doesn't show feelings freely

Dear Ms. Green:

I am a 30-year-old mother of three and a part-time waitress. At work, I carry up to 12 pens at a time. Of them, six to seven of them are highlighters, one is a red pen and the remaining four are black and blue ink, medium and fine points. Generally, I use a blue medium point pen. I use the fine points for writing small or specialized orders, and for different moods I'm in. I use the highlighters so that the cooks don't miss specific customers requests. The pens are "flex-tip grips," however, I will use other pens outside of work, but I prefer the "flex-tips." I am a right hander and can write with my left hand pretty legible. I am intrigued and fascinated with graphology and the knowledge gained from it. I would be much obliged if you would do an analysis of my handwriting. Thank you very much! I wish you continued success!

The handwriting featured in today's column suggests a most special young woman. Seemingly she was raised in a home with a great deal of female influence. And there is almost an immature attachment to the values and ideals of the mother figure.

Often she is introspective and does not show her feelings too freely. Although somewhat introverted, she craves contact with people.

Her fears and anxieties are not acknowledged but are definitely present. I suspect she often experiences "butterflies" in her tummy.

Our writer lives a structured life. She can utilize her time to good advantage and does not fritter it away aimlessly.

A person whose intelligence is above average is reflected in this handwriting. Her thinking is methodical and careful as she assimilates new information. While this is a slower thought process it is also quite accurate. Her memory is good and she retains what she learns. Her mind often works ahead, figuring out better ways of doing a job and/or finding solutions to problems.

This young woman works very hard to get things done correctly. In fact she is somewhat compulsive about all she does. Goals are at a level of challenge. Work is performed in a methodical way and she pays assiduous attention to all details.

She has an artistic awareness of how things look. She also is manually dexterous. I can't help wondering if she uses her creativity for relaxation.

Seemingly our writer has been under the influence of someone with a strong personality. Unfortunately, this has done little to promote feelings of good self-esteem. In fact, it appears to have worked in negative ways, making her cautious about undertaking new things. And frequently, when everything seems to be settled, she starts to reconsider what has already been resolved. Ambivalent feelings often surface.

Within her is a strong need for love and acceptance from others. Seemingly she perceives some lack of love which has caused her to feel insecure in relationships. The lack has also made her possessive of people in her life.

Money and what it represents is extremely important to our writer. And I think she is probably good at handling it.

I am happy to see evidence of an optimistic outlook in this handwriting. She is beginning to expect things in her life to turn out in a more positive manner. My best wishes to you and keep in mind that a positive attitude is a strong criterion for success!

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed, in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are all helpful and objective feedback is always welcome. Green regrets that time does not allow her to mail out personal replies.

Opinions differ on Mills' tactics

SOMETIMES HER methods alienate those who share her pro-life beliefs. One Bloomfield Township resident was upset when Mills and her supporters targeted his neighborhood for a protest because a doctor who she says performs abortions resides there.

"I believe in what they're saying," Arthur Apkarian said the day of the protest on Sept. 21. "That's my personal belief, but I don't believe in this."

Other residents yelled at Mills and told her to go home. The diminutive homemaker stoically carried her sign, tuning out the neighborhood's anger directed at her.

A few weeks later, Mills is asked if such incidents upset her. Suddenly, she leaves her couch only to return with a photo of a disfigured fetus.

"You know what bothers me? This is what bothers me," she said pointing at the graphic photo.

Her daughter, Lauren, 3 1/2, walks over and looks at the picture and tells her mother that it's abortion. "Even my 3-year-old knows better than most adults," Mills said.

LAUREN TELLS her mother she worries about abortion.

"You pray about that?"

"In my bed I do."

"That's a good girl. I never knew that."

Mills said, she's always on the lookout for "abortion mills." On family drives, they occasionally pull over to a shady spot and her 6- and 3-year-olds will ask if they've arrived at an abortion clinic.

"They're somehow picking up what their mom is looking for," Mills said. "I don't put these ideas into their heads."

Mills admits her involvement has taken time away from her family. Although she said he's supportive, she asks that her husband's name not be used, adding "I don't think he'd be upset if I quit."

Her parents, who live in Westland, are upset she's become a Republican along the way, she said. Her friends are limited to only those who share her views.

Her involvement in the pro-life movement has also made her more religious.

"I realized if I was going to do this I needed God," said Mills, who is a member of St. Michael Catholic Church in Livonia. "I was always pro-life and I believed in God, but people get lazy with church."

SOME DAYS can be more difficult than others. Mills said she suffers from migraine headaches, the result of a 33-pound shelf falling on her head when she was pregnant for her youngest daughter three years ago.

When not organizing pro-life activities, Mills makes crafts such as boxes, quilts and pillows. She also listens to conservative radio talk show host Rush Limbaugh.

Holding on to daughter Lauren's hand, Lynn Mills sets out for an afternoon stroll around her Livonia neighborhood.

Benefits highlight mystery, elegance

An evening of mystery and an afternoon of elegance are planned for two local charities this fall.

Famous authors including Linda Lang Bartell, Bill Kiensle, S.K. Wolf, Laura Sparrow, Tom Sullivan, Loren Estleman, Jan Greenberg, Ruth Ryan, Langah, John Stchur, Marianne Willman, Bob Wilson, Linnea Lannon, Marianna Shock and Beaufort Cranford will be part of a "Fifth Avenue Affair" for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation Saturday, Oct. 26, at Saks Fifth Avenue-Fairlane.

The event is an evening of mystery and luck as guests solve clues to win prizes at Saks.

Guests will receive their first clues upon arrival. Clues lead the amateur sleuths through adventure and to different stations where famous authors and local celebrities will be waiting with additional clues and prizes. All of the clues are by the authors themselves.

Tickets are $50 per person ($35 for those age 25 and under) for general admission at 8:30 p.m. The $100 benefactor tickets include a V.I.P. Meet the Writers Party at 7:30 p.m. The actual clue search will start at 9 p.m.

Tickets are available at Saks Fifth Avenue-Fairlane in Dearborn, or by calling Pat Cavitt at 354-6565. Money raised will help fund research to find a cure for cystic fibrosis.

A preview of holiday fashions and gourmet chocolates will be a part of "Puttin' on the Ritz" at The Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, for the benefit of the National Kidney Foundation.

The benefit includes a fashion show, champagne, luncheon and an array of desserts by gourmet chocolatiers plus a silent auction. The fashion show will feature ensembles from Bircker-Tunis/Europa. Leather, Broadway II, Cocktails, Guys 'N' Gals, G.G. Warren, KidzKloz, Koochie Koo, La Tache, The Shirt Box, Silver Steak, The Studio and Tennis Plus. Hair in Vogue will also perform five-minute makeovers on the models.

Following the show, truffles, liquors, mints and fudge will take center stage, showcasing the work of Cecil's Sweet Shoppe, Fannie May Candies, Ferrero USA, Ghirardelli, Heublein Inc., Leah Gold Confectioners LTD., Monchelle Lamoure and Weight Watchers.

Tickets cost $45 per person and are available by calling (800) 482-1455 or at Guys 'N' Gals or Hair in Vogue at The Orchard Mall in West Bloomfield.

Catalyst

U-M researcher studies role of Catholic work ethic

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The Protestant work ethic has always been applied with a fair amount of elbow grease to the fabric of American life.

Hard work, self-discipline and pleasing God are admirable qualities that seem to transcend all religious boundaries. They are considered catalysts spurring a capitalist society to success.

"I grew up in a strict Catholic family and work was extremely important," said the Rev. Robert Schaden, a Catholic priest and pastor at Schoolcraft College's Newman House. "Just because I'm Catholic and I grew up in a strict Catholic family doesn't necessarily mean it wasn't."

But what about, say, a Catholic ethic? As unusual as the concept sounds, a researcher at the University of Michigan believes there is one. In this ethos, an emphasis tends to be placed on "good works rather than work," according to an ongoing study by U-M social work professor John Tropman.

"We all have a little bit of the Protestant ethic and a little bit of the Catholic ethic," Tropman said. "It's all a question of balance."

Tropman points out several differences between the Protestant and Catholic outlooks on life, work, wealth and family. Some of the findings could be described as sweeping generalizations.

DISTINCT FEATURES separate the Catholic ethic from its Protestant variety, according to Tropman's study:

- Wealth is not considered an indicator of character.
- Although work is necessary, it's not a sacred obligation.
- An emphasis is placed on family ties, perhaps due to the importance of the historical holy family.
- A stronger tradition of institutionalized charity and relief programs.
- Historically more accustomed to hierarchical organizations dispensing important goods or services.
- More accepting of a cycle of sin and redemption than is true with the Protestant ethic.

Rather than doing a sectarian depth-chart between Protestant and Catholic traditions, Tropman — who is Catholic — is interested in seeing how both have had an impact on public policy regarding social welfare programs in this country.

He has written several articles on the religious-based ethics affecting social welfare policies. He is also writing a book.

Max Weber's 1904 book "The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism" examines that tradition's influence on a vigorous free-market society.

In the process, Tropman believes the Protestant ethic might have helped stifle the development of social welfare programs in this country.

NOT UNTIL the Social Security Act of 1935 did the United States implement some type of public assistance program. By then, the composition of the country's population had changed — mainly due to immigration of people who were Irish, Italian and Jewish.

He cites two examples where the U.S. government vetoed legislation for social programs in the 1800s.

One was for a bill requesting land from the federal government for mental health facilities for the indigent. President Franklin Pierce overturned the request in 1854. Also, Tropman notes legislation for pensions for Civil War veterans were also canceled as well as plans to provide help for the migration of slaves to the North.

He believes his findings indicate elements of the Catholic tradition have stimulated the welfare state.

Scholarly intentions aside, though, Tropman's study also stimulates debate.

By saying the Catholic tradition is more understanding of people in poverty and has a strong tradition might imply Protestant tradition does not. Not so, says Tropman.

He cites the Quakers, the Social Gospel Movement of the 19th and 20th centuries and the Bull Moose Party as examples of charitable works rooted in Protestant tradition.

CONVERSELY, CATHOLIC tradition may be strong in helping people who are disadvantaged. But history is not necessarily repeating itself, says Carol Savage, director of Christian Service at St. Edith Catholic Church.

"You won't find that (a strong outreach) in every parish," Savage said. "We're all called to do that but we're not all doing it."

"I think we have a lot to learn from all our Christian brothers and sisters. If you look back, it was the Methodists who were more apt to have social programs and addressed the needs of the disadvantaged in the country."

Attitudes toward wealth would seem to be consistent in a capitalist country. However, those exposed to Catholic traditions tend to have a different view, according to Tropman.

"The Protestant ethic places an emphasis on advancement," Tropman said. "Within the tradition, money is a sign of good character. Within the Catholic tradition, money has instrumental not transcendental value. It has a secular not spiritual meaning."

In the Catholic tradition, money is viewed as something like a bowling score. Some of us have a high bowling score, some of us don't have a high score."

Invasion of our privacy: It has ominous overtones

The other day an interviewer called me to the telephone to ask what make of refrigerator I have in the kitchen. I told him it was none of his business. Such queries are usually from people planning a sales pitch, but more impudent questions are those propounded by sociologists, pollsters and opinion-gatherers.

I refer to those who call us to find out what TV programs we are watching, what our views are on matters of topical interest, or what our feelings are about some controversial subject. The motto of all of the above could be characterized as the business card of the Private Detective which reads: "Other people's business promptly attended to."

There isn't much we can do about all of this except to throw questionnaires into the wastebasket. We can also reply to strangers who call us on the telephone "none of your concern" or, in the case of sales pitches, "I never respond to any solicitations made over the telephone."

I DON'T suppose enough of us will do any of these things sufficiently often to have any effect, just as too few of us will write "Refused" on junk mail.

Although these invasions of privacy are annoying, they do represent a serious trend. In society, neither freedom nor privacy can be absolute or all-inclusive. There are only "freedoms" and "privacies."

But the quality of civilization depends, to a considerable degree, upon which freedoms and which privacies its members enjoy, and in a democracy, these are likely to depend, in part at least, upon which people value most.

Free speech, including the free use of obscene language, is obviously much valued in our society. But freedom from annoyances — and worse — in the name of progress and the common good is not similarly valued.

moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

The situation is similar with respect to privacy. If I am called to the telephone seven times in a day only to be told that I have just won free lessons at Arthur Murray's, and that six different solicitors want to sell me everything from health insurance to long-lasting electric light bulbs, I have no recourse.

WHEN A PUBLIC complaint was made, the telephone company replied not only that it did not want to put any restriction upon such use of its facilities, but also that it endeavored to discourage private listings because the whole purpose of the telephone was to put people into communication with one another. It did not seem to recognize the fact that the desire to communicate should not be unilateral and that a considerable part of its business consists in putting people into communication with others who do not want to communicate with them. For those of us not engaged in any criminal activity, this is a more serious invasion of privacy than a microphone behind a mirror.

Please understand that I am not in favor of "bugging." It is just that I wish equal attention would be paid to those other invasions of privacy of which you and I happen to be victims.

Rabbi Irwin Groner is with Congregation Shaarey Zedek in Southfield.

Rhythm & Blues Concert celebrates ethnic, racial diversity

Rhythm & Blues a benefit performance featuring the metro area's top jazz performers, 6:45 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24 at Oakland Community College, Orchard Ridge Campus-Smith Auditorium, 27055 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills. Tickets $13 in advance ($15 at the door) and are tax-deductible. Call 647-0575 or 354-4854 for information.

Next Thursday, October 24, The Oakland County Center for Open Housing will celebrate United Nations Day with an All Star concert titled "An Evening of Rhythm and Blues."

THE PERFORMANCE will honor and extend this Detroit Musical legacy while simultaneously benefiting the Oakland County Center for Open Housing's Community Outreach Program. The lineup is extraordinary: the Ursula Walker/Buddy Budson Trio, George Benson and Friends, Norma Jean Bell, and Alexander Zonjic.

These selected performers represent a wonderful cross section of R&B and jazz performers from the greater Detroit Area.

"We think United Nations Day is the perfect opportunity to recognize the unique cultural similarities and differences among us through the International Language of Music," said OCCOH Co-Director Barbara Talley. "It's an overflow from all of the other activities we do in terms of race relations. They are also well known performers; they represent a common goal."

"The concert is a celebration of Oakland County's ethnic and racial diversity," added co-director Ann Wettlaufer.

The concert is viewed by its organizers as a means of gaining community support and educating Oakland County of the OCCOH's purpose.

"Our purpose," Talley adds, "is to promote integration through housing in Oakland County. We want people to be aware of all of their options regarding housing while at the same time work toward achieving a stable and integrated situation."

The peerless performers include Zonjic, an internationally renowned flutist. He has recently signed a recording contract with Warner Eprise; they will soon release "Neon," his first major label LP.

Zonjic has previously released five records under various labels. Although Zonjic has performed at Carnegie Hall, the Apollo Theater and the Hollywood Bowl, he still plays extensively in the area. Zonjic first emerged as a major national talent

IN THE 60's and early 70's, Detroit was renowned both for its incendiary Rhythm and Blues and the music's message of love, compassion, and tolerance.

When Motown left for Los Angeles, smaller labels — Golden World, Fortune, Rik-Tik — failed to continue developing the monumental talent that remained. Yet an enormously strong R&B scene remains. Detroit may have the best soul bands, white and black, playing live night to night in the world.

after studying under the DSO's Ervin Monroe; he was later "discovered" by the famed jazz pianist and arranger Bob James.

URSULA WALKER and her husband Budson have extensive credits: She is a Clio Award Winner and a frequent performer with the Stan Kenton Band; he has arranged and toured with the likes of Buddy Rich and the Four Tops. They also regularly play area clubs, hotels and concerts.

Norma Jean Bell is a fiery performer; her saxophone and vocal capabilities complement each other expertly. Her alto playing is in the rolling, braying style of King Curtis or Junior Walker while her vocals are more mellifluous, rendering popular dance hits of today with uniquely. She and her band are currently in the middle of a long, sold-out stay at Doug's Body Shop in Ferndale.

Saxophonist Benson suffers from a continual, and erroneous, comparison to the unrelated, albeit more famous, guitarist named George Benson. Yet this Benson's group is one of the most popular pop-style jazz groups in Detroit. When not playing clubs, Benson joins the Austin-Moro big band or the DSO. He also teaches at Wayne State University.

OAKLAND COUNTY can be a daunting place for those seeking social equity; music seems to be one specific area of common ground. This concert, as well as other examples — the great blues queen Juanita McCray packing in an all-white crowd at the Avon Lanes in Avon Township — evidence that Detroit music is truly one language, ignorant of race.

Colorful costumes, wonderful music, cast in 'The King and I'

Performances of the Jewish Community Center and Nancy Gurwin production of "The King and I" continue through Oct. 27 at the Aaron DeRoy Theatre at the JCC, 6600 West Maple Road, West Bloomfield. For ticket information call the JCC at 661-1100 or Gurwin at 354-0545.

"The King and I" may well be the most joyous of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals. The current version by Nancy Gurwin Productions at the Jewish Community Center captures all of the show's zest and charm.

raphy and staging are well-adapted to the confines of the small stage. Colorful costumes adequately compensate for the almost non-existent sets, and every one of the many musical numbers sounds wonderful.

In the 1860's English schoolteacher Anna Leonowens (Jeanne Kolinski DeLong) comes to the court of Siam to teach the royal children, and consequently influences the King (Jerry Sima) as well. It is a time when Siam is trying to find its place as a modern nation, and the monarchy is torn between hanging on to traditional ways and understanding new ones.

AS ANNA, DeLong is outstanding in every respect. Her exceptional voice handles all of her musical numbers with dazzling skill, including the exuberant "I Whistle a Happy Tune," "Getting to Know You," and "Shall We Dance" and the plaintive "Hello Young Lovers." Her acting ability is solid as well. She has a strong stage presence that readily conveys all of Anna's spunk, persistence, and warmth.

While the King's strong persona overshadows Anna in many productions, this time the principals are very well-matched. As the King, Sima's body language is perfect, his posture exuding the haughty disdain one expects yet combining it with a twinkling eye that shows the King's mischievous side. He is always an authoritative presence, both speaking and singing.

Abha Mangrulkar is an engaging Tuptim, the unhappy slave who has been sent to the King as a gift, but pines for the man she really loves. She offers lovely renditions of "My Lord and Master," "We Kiss in a Shadow," and "I Have Dreamed," and captures all of Tuptim's suppressed rage when reciting "The Small House of Uncle Thomas."

As Lady Thiang, the King's numbing one wife, Mary Ann Krygier's powerful voice soars in "Something Wonderful" and the several other numbers in which she leads the chorus of the King's most favored wives.

YOUNG DAVID Lahgam is excellent as Anna's son Louis. He has a confident line delivery and a fine voice that belts out "I Whistle a Happy Tune" and "A Puzzlement."

Patrick Lokey is effective as the Crown Prince and credibly conveys the youngster's confusion between the old ways and the new.

Samuel Perry is competent as Lun Tha, Tuptim's frustrated true love, and Pascal McGaffey is appropriately sinister as the King's disapproving Prime Minister.

Director/choreographer Kathi Bush does a very good job of handling the large chorus of royal wives, children, and slaves, and the "Small House of Uncle Thomas" ballet is especially well-done within the small space.

The royal children are every bit as adorable as one expects, still one more aspect of this production that charms and delights.

'Social Security' fun, fast paced

Performances of "Social Security", presented by SRO Productions, continue through Oct. 27 at Southfield's historic center, The Burgh, on the northeast corner of Civic Center Drive and Berg Road. Tickets at the Southfield Senior Adult Center or call 354-8362.

The SRO Productions' presentation of "Social Security," written by Andrew Bergman, is played with enthusiasm and warmth by all on stage, but different acting styles within the cast create an uneven production as a whole.

Judie Rosatt's direction leads the cast of actors to work against one another. Although the cast is well prepared, acting styles range from quite broad to sedate.

SET IN a trendy apartment on the East Side of Manhattan, Barbara and David Kahn are art dealers whose mother is "dropped off like a package from Spiegle's" by Barbara's sister and brother-in-law. Barbara Kahn, played by Maggie Savage, faces caring for her sometimes eccentric mother. Savage creates a witty and believable character, but sometimes exhausts rubber facial expressions, a comic style that is too broad in contrast to the others on the stage.

Joel Grossman portrays well the outspoken and successful David Kahn, who is caught in the middle. Grossman's style is more accomplished. For the most part, Grossman offers a more relaxed manner as his character confronts relatives, creating a more believable and less caustic personality while remaining very funny.

DOLAN AND Nancy Sievert portray less sophisticated relatives Martin and Trudy Heyman. The Heymans deliver their mother to David and Barbara Kahn, but not without the certain comedy that comes with relatives who clash on every issue. Dolan Sievert's portrayal of Martin is an adorable mix of naivete and prudishness.

Nancy Sievert delivers Trudy's lines with a wonderful sense of serious comedic timing. The Heymans' 18-year-old daughter (an off-stage character) is experiencing new-found freedom at college with relish, and Trudy blames it on her sister, Barbara, saying, "You took her to see that filthy Picasso show," and she means it!

Joyce Moore is Sophie Greengrass, the irksome mother who appreciates nothing and wants everything. The eccentric Sophie is pushed from one daughter to the other, spitting a trail of half-eaten sour balls in her path. Moore plays the odd persona of Sophie with conviction and understanding, and delivers droll lines with bull's-eye accuracy. Sophie finds her own death notices, in the recipe box, under "Casseroles."

THE SHOW is fun and fast paced, with each character adding sparkle. Dick Cole tenders a performance of note with his portrayal of Maurice Koenig, the 98-year-old painter visiting the Kahns. Cole, however, does not look (nor act) 98, and this lessens the comedy value of this character.

The show is produced in the Southfield's historic center, "The Burgh," which is a renovated church. Bill Mandt has created a very modern set quite befitting the trendiness of the Kahn's New York apartment. The atmosphere is quaint, but there is almost no room to produce a show without forethought of space. Problems in the blocking occur which are augmented by a too-large table placed downstage in a premium playing area. This forces the actors to play strictly stage left with no freedom to move.

The SRO presentation of "Social Security" has pieces that work wonderfully in and of themselves, and these pieces can be enjoyed to their fullest extent in this respect.

Cabaret company presents music of Cole Porter

By Stewart Francke special writer

Recalling what is considered an innocent, uncomplicated time, the songs of Cole Porter provide a lively cynosure for a current production called "Cole 2 - the words and music of Cole Porter: The 1940's and 1950's." The cabaret-style presentation is running Friday and Saturday evenings at Puncinello's Restaurant 184 Pierce, Birmingham, through October 26.

CONCEIVED AND directed by Pierre Lamarre, "Cole 2" features 45 Porter compositions from a variety of Broadway shows ("Kiss Me Kate," "Can-Can") and films ("High Society," "You'll Never Get Rich") that the legendary composer scored. Porter wrote nearly 800 songs in his lifetime; roughly half have been published, and many have been diluted, condensed or even censored. Yet he leaves a body of work that is amusing, exhilarating, poignant and romantic.

"I think that it's the kind of music that has lasting quality," said Lamarre. "The composers of that era wrote love songs because people didn't know how to say 'I love you.' It's a wonderful music to express emotion. People think of a better time with Cole Porter than they do with Alice Cooper or Sting."

THE ORIGINAL production of the "Cole Porter Songbook" was staged at the Backstage Restaurant in Detroit; Lamarre, who had recently returned to the area after nearly 25 years working in the New York theater community, recognized a need for the light comedy that cabaret provides.

"I noticed that there was very little cabaret entertainment here, and it was the 100th anniversary of Cole Porter's birthday, so the whole show seemed a natural."

"Cole 2" was preceded by a similar cabaret focusing on Porter's work from the 20s and 30s.

The cabaret company of "Cole 2" features four performers - two women and two men - with varying degrees of theatrical experience.

Joey Johnson appeared in the earlier "Music and Lyrics of Cole Porter: The 20s and 30s" and will be seen in the upcoming "Music of Jerome Kern."

Cindy Pritchard was most recently the voice of Audrey II (a plant) in "The Little Shop of Horrors" at the Baldwin Theater.

Sean Krill is a theater major at Wayne State. In addition to an upcoming lead in "Chicago" at the Bonstelle Theater, Krill acts as assistant to the director for the "Cole 2" show.

Karee Stegeman of Troy is a veteran of numerous productions in the Chicago area.

Cast member Cindy Pritchard enjoys both the music and the people involved in the production.

"Cole Porter's music is timeless," she said. "It's something that will always be there. You can update it, or you can just sing it straight. And we have a ball - we just love each other to death."

"The Music of Jerome Kern" will follow "Cole 2," opening November 1.

Schoolcraft plans entertaining dinners

Food and entertainment are on the menu at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. The college opens its 1991-92 dinner theater season 6:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 25, with Lucille Fletcher's mystery "Night Watch."

On Dec. 12, 13, and 14, the music and culinary arts departments will recreate a 16th century English feast for the 15th annual Christmas Madrigal Dinners.

"NIGHT WATCH" is a suspense thriller about Elaine Wheeler, a woman troubled by unsettling memories and vague fears. Upon seeing (or believing she sees) the dead body of a man in the window of an abandoned tenement across from her townhouse, she calls the police, but they find nothing but an empty chair.

Another incident occurs involving another dead body; this time a woman's; the police turn skeptical. After pleas to her husband and the police that her visions are real, they claim she's suffering a nervous breakdown.

A woman psychiatrist is called, and suggests that Elaine be committed to a Swiss sanitarium for treatment. But the plot moves quickly, and other people become involved. The climax is chilling and unexpected.

DINNER THEATERS are Oct. 25 and 26; Nov. 1, 2 and 9. Dinner is served at 6:30 p.m. in the Waterman Center on the campus of Schoolcraft College at 18600 Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia.

The menu includes: Tossed garden salad, rolls, Breast of Turkey Marsala, new potatoes with parsley, broccoli with lemon butter, and New York style cheese cake.

The show will follow at 8 p.m. in the Liberal Arts Theatre. Dinner theater tickets are $15.50 per person.

Theater only shows will be Nov. 8, 15, and 16. Theater tickets are $6. Tickets are available at the Schoolcraft College Bookstore on campus, or can be ordered by calling 462-4409. If you'd like to pay by personal check, send a note verifying the date wanted for dinner theater or theater only tickets, with a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Schoolcraft College Bookstore, ATTN: Theatre Tickets, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, MI 48152-2696. Your tickets will be mailed.

It's not too early to reserve tickets for the Christmas Madrigal Dinner to be held at Waterman Center Dec. 12, 13, and 14, 7:30-11 p.m. Event proceeds help fund culinary arts and music scholarships.

THE MADRIGAL Singers will enter the hall in full costume to present the Wassail and toast the Christmas season. Each course of the year's Prime Rib Feast will be presented to the court with trumpet fanfare and ceremony, including the presentation of the Boar's Head.

Tickets are $25 per person; tables seat eight. Make your check or money order out to Schoolcraft College and indicate a first and second choice of the night you wish to attend. Visa, Mastercard, and Discover are also accepted.

Mail your check or money order with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Madrigal Dinner, c/o Institutional Advancement, Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, MI 48152-2696. For information, call 462-4417.

Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett, himself a history buff, gave welcoming remarks to a regional meeting of historical groups in Newburg Church at Greenmead Historical Village Oct. 9.

Noting the farmstead at Greenmead dates back to the 1820s, he said: "The city of Livonia is only 41 years of age. But there's much more to its history."

"With time," he said, "we hope to make Greenmead a rather significant benchmark for the history of the state of Michigan."

The result of hard work by a variety of local civic groups, he added, Greenmead strives "to make history come alive."

The city bought the 95-acre Greenmead spread, containing the Simmons/Hill farmstead, in 1976. Fourteen historic buildings have since been moved there from other parts of the city.

Stabilization of nine remaining farm buildings continues. The farm's centerpiece is the main farmhouse, built in 1841. It's now a museum.

It's hot off the presses. Canton Historical Society has just published "Canton Area: The Sweet Corn Capital of Michigan, An Era in Canton's History."

This booklet, by society member Roy Schultz, documents the time during which Canton has been known as the Sweet Corn Capital of Michigan, 1920-1991. It lists 60 growers with a Canton connection.

Copies are available from the society for a donation of $2.50 per copy. Write: Canton Historical Society, P.O. Box 87362, Canton, MI 48187.

Organ music will fill the pews at First United Methodist Church in Plymouth Saturday night.

Church organist Mark Brampton Smith will play the dedicatory recital on the Zimmer pipe organ at 7:30 p.m. The church is at 45201 N. Territorial.

The three-manual, 35-rank organ was installed in May. For recital tickets, call the church, 453-5280. A free-will offering will be taken during the concert.

Three works by Bach, selections from Jean Langlais' Suite Breve, a 1990 composition by William Mathias and an extended virtuoso piece, Fantasy and Fugue on the Chorale by Liszt, will be presented.

Hear ye! Hear ye! Professional photographer Monte Nagler of Farmington Hills will conduct a three-part photography seminar at Cranbrook Educational Community in Bloomfield Hills Monday, Oct. 21, and Saturday, Oct. 26, and Monday, Nov. 11.

It's a good opportunity to sharpen your photographic skills with the Observer & Eccentric's photography columnist.

"People's Park in Midmorning Haze and Sunlight" is an image from Carlos Diaz's Unknown Landmarks Series. It is at once beautiful, eerie and desolate. "This space was designated for everyone but no one's around," he said.

Award winner Photographer documents irony, struggle

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

IN HIS work, Livonia photographer Carlos Diaz documents the life and everyday struggles of the common man, unemployed autoworker, laborer, "the low man on the totem pole."

His sharply focused images speak of irony, inner-city decay and the resultant leveling of Detroit's residences as well as businesses.

Diaz, assistant professor of photography at Center For Creative Studies in Detroit, was honored with the Wayne County Artistic Excellence and Community Commitment Award by the Wayne County Council For The Arts at a reception Oct. 9 in the historic Wayne County building in Detroit.

"These are the first time the awards were given. For them to single me out is a tremendous honor. I was proud and humbled by the award," Diaz said.

Diaz believes it was because of his art installation, "The Unemployed Autoworker," that he won the award.

Diaz began to assemble the installation two years ago upon hearing his brother, Ralph, had been laid off after working 20 years for the automobile industry. The installation has since been exhibited in galleries from Pontiac to Flint.

THE POIGNANT installation does not lean in favor of the worker or against him. It simply states the facts. As in all his work, Diaz's intention was to let viewers draw their own conclusions after seeing a variety of ideas illustrated.

"I do it because I got to do it, but I let the viewer come to their own conclusions," Diaz said.

Diaz uses an 8-by-10-inch view camera built by Kodak during World War II for military photographers. Its large negative size gives Diaz finely detailed images and a crisp, clean focus, heightening the sharp sense of realism.

'I think about what I have. I like living with shots for awhile. I wait till I am able to feel the environment for awhile.'

Maestro aims to involve audience

By Janice Tigar-Kramer
special writer

Karen Nixon of Farmington Hills has come a long way from her years at Livonia Franklin High where she played French horn in the school's marching band, symphonic band and orchestra.

Today, the 40-year-old musician-turned-conductor, who heads her own 60-piece orchestra called Group du jour, is on a mission to "involve" the audience in her concerts. She'd like to bring audiences as close as possible to the musicians, stopping just short of having the audience play the instruments themselves.

"I'd like to get people away from the idea that classical music and musicians are inaccessible. I want to eliminate that feeling of separation that concert-goers experience," said Nixon, this year's recipient of the Distinguished Service to the Arts Award from the Farmington Arts Commission.

HOW DOES the conductor plan to present classical music in layman's terms? For an hour before show time, Group du jour musicians demonstrate their instruments and answer questions from the audience.

Besides informal demonstrations, the orchestra is seated on stage at the audience's level for better viewing. And in place of a program that concert-goers generally flip back and forth when the music begins, an orchestra member describes the music and its composer between each piece.

There's even a video camera focused on the orchestra so the audience can view the conductor and orchestra and examine instruments close-up on an overhead screen.

TO EXPERIENCE Group du jour firsthand, attend "Elan!" a concert of classical music by Tchaikovsky, Mozart and Stravinsky Friday, Oct. 25, at Mercy Concert Center, Gate 4, on 11 Mile east of Middlebelt, Farmington Hills.

Coffee hour and chamber music begins at 7 p.m., followed by the symphony performance at 8 p.m. Admission is $10, or $8 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are available at Beitner's Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, and Fox Formal Wear, 33326 W. 12 Mile, Farmington Hills. To reserve tickets, call 478-2075.

NIXON CALLS her upcoming concert elan (French for enthusiasm) because it best describes her desire to give audiences a lesson in classical music with each concert. By educating audiences and letting them see the musicians and conductor at work, Nixon hopes that first-time concert-goers will return.

The conductor, like others in her field, feels the result of cuts in state spending for the arts. But by recruiting a new audience for classical music and renewing the interest of former concert-goers, Nixon hopes orchestras like hers one day will become self-supporting.

"I want to bring back the classical music audience. I want families to enjoy the concert experience together. And I hope that other orchestras will pick up on what we're doing and do the same."

Blue House, youth ensemble, Nankin Mills earn notice

NOTABLE NOTES:

• Livonia Historical Society's sixth annual progressive dinner, coupled with related fund-raisers, netted $3,000 for the Alexander Blue House restoration project at Greenmead Historical Village.

"We're up from last year's $2,000," said Sue Daniel, who chairs the restoration committee for Livonia's largest preservation effort.

This year's progressive dinner earnings include profits from a floral auction, an advertising book and contributions.

Local history buffs envision the white clapboard house becoming a self-supporting setting for conferences, meetings and parties.

The first five progressive dinners served up $15,000 toward the $250,000 needed to restore the Blue

House. Overall fund-raising has raised $59,000.

Livonia architect David Koskela has done both paid and volunteer work on behalf of the Blue House, Greenmead's only example of Italianate design. He's now preparing plans for phased interior restoration of the 141-year-old house, once home to a Livonia Township civic leader.

The Livonia Historical Society hopes to see the two-story, 11-room house used not only as a conference and meeting center but also a reception hall for Newburg Church at Greenmead. Period furnishings will reflect 1880s Livonia Township.

The former home of Alexander Blue sports fresh paint, a graded lot and repairs to the roof and chimney. A new furnace and basement floor are next, courtesy of Friends of Greenmead.

On tap is a benefit spring craft show at Bentley High School.

Work next year will include exterior improvements to the sliding, trim and porch. "People can't really see what we've done so far," Daniel said. "We want people to feel like something is actually being done."

• If you like orchestral music, set aside 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 26, at Laurel Park Place, Newburgh and Six Mile, Livonia.

That's when the Livonia Youth

Philharmonic of Michigan, under vibrant new music director Andrew Sewell of Ann Arbor, kicks off its four-concert season for 1991-92.

Nearly 100 violin, viola, cello, bass, string, brass, woodwinds and percussion musicians at three orchestra levels range in age from 8 to 22.

The musical quality may not match that of the Livonia or Plymouth symphonies. But make no mistake: a commitment to hard work has translated into upbeat quality.

Sewell, a New Zealand native, is building a name as a spirited young conductor. He also conducts the Lake St. Clair Symphony in St. Clair Shores and directs the Scandinavian Symphony in Southfield.

He previously conducted the LYPM's string orchestra for 2½ years. This summer, he led a string workshop at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

"I think he relates very well to young people," said Plymouth resident Lois Gilmore, LYPM president. "He's not as interested in splashy performances as he is in educating and training orchestra members as musicians."

• About $800 was raised at the Friends of Nankin Mills' third annual wine and cheese reception Oct. 10 at the Westland historic site.

Restoration of the 1863 grist mill, once part of Henry Ford's village industries along the Rouge and other small rivers, is a cooperative effort of the Friends of Nankin Mills and the Wayne County Parks Division. The mill now houses parks offices.

"County plans call for expanding the annex to create office space and a gathering area there to free up the mill for a nature center again, hopefully by early 1993," said Joe Benyo, Westland legislative aide.

Nankin Mills last was used to interpret nature from 1956 to 1979.

Architects peg costs of the restoration and expansion at nearly $1 million. A $750,000 state grant has been sought. The wine and cheese fund-raisers have raised about $2,800.

"Externally, the integrity of the mill has been preserved," Benyo said. "With the restoration work that's been done, it's how it was when Mr. Ford owned it."

Regrets to Westland City Council president Thomas Brown and Mayor Robert Thomas. I inadvertently referred to Brown as mayor in an Oct. 3 column about Nankin Mills.

Bob Sklar is assistant managing editor for special projects.

The cumbersome camera and Diaz's methods for choosing images are laborious and time-consuming.

"Composing the picture is a slow, methodical process taking anywhere from a half hour up to an hour. I think about what I have. I like living with shots for awhile. I wait till I am able to feel the environment for awhile," Diaz said.

An ongoing project of Diaz's, "Unknown Landmarks," was begun in 1984 to illustrate "what this world was, how environment affects us."

"It's a parody on what we have come to call landmarks," Diaz said. "It wasn't until 1984 I realized the importance of these places to find something telling about the city. I thought these landmarks were somewhere. They have a lot more to do with who we are than the Renaissance Center."

Diaz seeks out unknown landmarks for his photo essays early Sunday mornings when the streets of Detroit are deserted.

"At first, I found it was a lot of decay and negative aspects I was focusing on, but in the end, I found that I had shown a lot of positive aspects," Diaz said.

In certain instances, Diaz's images create controversy. "Residential Back yard View With Rubbish Receptacle" disturbs viewers on both sides of the abortion issue.

"It's been censored out of a show because it's pro-abortion and it's been censored out of a show because it's anti-abortion," Diaz said.

The scene features a billboard and adjacent dumpster, situated at the rear of resident's back yard. Superimposed over a fetus are the words, "Stop Abortion - They're Forgetting Someone." Once again, Diaz leaves viewers to draw their own conclusion.

"I try to present the facts then leave it up to them to derive a meaning," Diaz said.

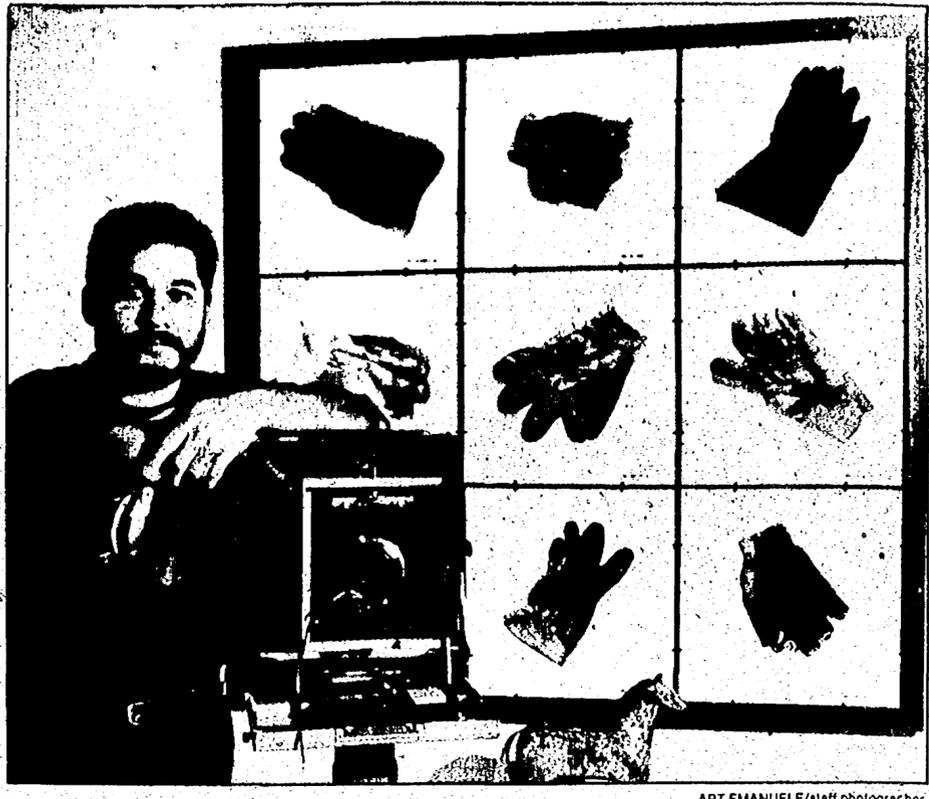

FROM THE Unknown Landmarks Series, the photograph, "At The Extreme Southeast Corner Of The Old Unifroyal Plant Property," features sharp, jagged lines that heavily contrast the curves and flowing lines of the Belle Isle Bridge.

"I try to make a picture that's attractive. I try to attract attention first," Diaz said. "It's a well-designed picture. There's formality, design inherent in the picture, but it's more than shape and form. The important part of the picture, first and foremost, is content."

Diaz, with artist Charles McGee, is currently involved with seeking money from the National Endowment For The Arts to install billboards against drugs. Created by various artists, the messages would be placed throughout the community.

The Wayne County Council For The Arts was formed in 1989. Six awards were given to artists in a variety of fields this year.

Including Diaz, honored artists were painter, Nora Mendoza of West Bloomfield; pianist, Luis Resto; performing artist-ballet, Guillermo A. Resto; composer-guitarist, Mario Enrique Resto; and educator/writer, Dr. Dennis Nodin Valdes.

Photographer Carlos Diaz stands in front of his "Artifacts of the Working Class." The piece was one of eight he exhibited at the Ella Sharp Museum in Jackson last fall.

Cranbrook Artists-in-Residence exhibition rates '10'

An exhibit at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum rates a "10."

The exhibit, "Nine plus One: New Work by Cranbrook's Artists-in-Residence," shows art of nine current faculty members and the president of the academy. It will run to Oct. 27.

"Wall" by Dan Hoffman, Department of Architecture, is made of concrete blocks. On each block is a photo, part of a sequence, of a man building a wall. One side shows the man from the front, the other from the back.

plored in "Walls" by Gerhardt Knodel, Department of Fiber.

The large work, hanging from the ceiling, features birds suspended in flight, held in netting. Another part of the piece shows a frame that is visible only from one side, "entrapping" the spectator.

"TABLE OF Contents" by Katherine Land, Michael McCoy, Department of Design, features a chopped foam tablecloth set with lead text plates.

It is about consumption and reconsumption, specifically the devouring of information and reconsumption of history. The tablecloth is made up of recycled materials, and plates are melled for new texts after printing.

"Desired Effect" by Heather McGill, Department of Sculpture, featuring a mica turtle shell and an Army blanket with porcupine quills, among other pieces, examines exploitation in history.

"Perspective Gate" by Gary Griffin, Department of Metalsmithing, is made of steel painted black. It is from the Weissman residence in Birmingham. The work in the gate shows a pathway leading to an opening in a brick wall. Griffin's "Wheat Table" is a glass tabletop resting on stalks of wheat.

LARGE EARTHENWARE "Vessels" by Graham Marks, Department of Ceramics, look primitive and futuristic at the same time. The large, rough spheres look as if they could be geological finds.

Abstract paintings by president Roy Slade examine the space of Milles House at the academy, showing openness and light.

Also included are works by Steve Murakishi, Department of Printmaking; George Ortman, Department of Painting; and Carl Toth, Department of Photography.

Murakishi's mixed media installation looks at a painting by French artist Theodore Gericault. Ortman's large work is a culmination of many of the motifs and symbols he has used throughout his painting career. Toth's collages explore culture.

Museum hours are 1-5 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday at 500 Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills. Call 645-3323 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday for information.

Oils capture life's everyday travels

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

Artist Kirk McLendon uses oil pastel to capture people traveling through life's everyday experiences.

Whether subjects are viewed in a state of contemplation, enjoying the pleasures of family life or simply resting, McLendon's drawings show insight, warmth and outstanding draftsmanship.

The Dearborn artist's work is on display through Oct. 28 in the Exhibit Gallery at Madonna University, Levan and Schoolcraft, Livonia.

"They are fingertip drawings of family and friends, some with backgrounds that give a three-dimensional effect," said Ralph Glenn, chairman of the university's art department.

Glenn decided to showcase the 12-piece exhibition because of the way McLendon portrays the family.

"I think that his treatment of the family subject matter in heightened realism is wonderful, the technique, composition, to see the different levels as he follows the development of his children," Glenn said.

McLendon's drawings show children sullen and uncomfortable dressed in their Easter best. A wading pool, its interior decorated with blue dolphins, cools a little boy who sits contently. An autumn scene features a tousled hair boy, deep in thought, surrounded by a mound of golden-orange pumpkins.

"I like the photographic look, the everyday slice of life, the subject matter. They're everyday life experiences," McLendon said.

Light pervades McLendon's drawings. A boy's hand, casting shade across his face, deflects powerful, burning rays of sunlight from his eyes.

"The effects of light are very important. It's natural light. Most of them are sunlight," McLendon said.

Although he has used several different media to create his works of art, drawing has always been at the heart.

"It's always been drawing but I've used a variety of media, pencil, colored pencil and oil crayon," McLendon said. "I've been working with oil crayon for five years."

McLendon graduated from the University of Georgia with a Master of Fine Arts. He has worked professionally as an artist for 20 years.

McLendon chairs the art department at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn where he directs the graphic design program. Before moving to his present place of employment, McLendon taught at Madonna University for six years. He has taught design and drawing since 1978.

"Even in computer design, drawing is important," McLendon said.

Reaching for the sky, the boy's arms lead the viewer's eye up two sets of stairs to the family home behind him and eventually to the top of a hip roof.

"Andrew's Portrait, executed in oil crayon, illustrates a typical scene of a family dining in a restaurant. A young boy seated on the knee of an older relative poses for a caricaturist rendering his portrait in marker. The artist's back is to the viewer.

"I like it because it was a double portrait," McLendon said.

"Andrew's Portrait," at 34 by 44 inches, is priced at $1,500.

"Leann," a pencil drawing in the show, graphically illustrates the head of a woman. A graph is superimposed over the portrait. The 25-by-33-inch drawing is $800.

McLendon's work range in price from $800 to $1,500.

The progression of McLendon's art, because of his sensitivity for the subject and his draftsmanship, is always changing. "One of my goals is to keep working and see how it evolves, to see what develops," McLendon said.

The Exhibit Gallery is on the second floor of the Library Building at Madonna University. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

ONE OF THE GREATEST TOOLS FOR SAVING THE ENVIRONMENT

Take a long piece of string. Wrap it around a small stack of newspapers. Then take it to a recycling center or leave it out for collection on recycling day.

You'll be helping U.S. newspapers in their drive to encourage recycling. More than a third of our country's newsprint was recycled last year. But without your help, we won't have the material to make recycling work.

Soapy plot trips up nostalgic novel

"Is This What Other Women Feel Too?" by June Akers Seese (151 pp., Dalkey Archive Press, $19.95).

"Is This What Other Women Feel Too?" is a short, second novel by former Detroit June Akers Seese. It's one obviously not directed at male readers. (The first, "What Waiting Really Means," was published last year.)

In a way, this is a "fun read," I suppose, especially if you're feeling nostalgic for Detroit in the '50s and '60s. Seese has a brisk, lean style and a fine ability for recreating a time and place.

As you read, you'll feel you can almost taste that long-ago Soupy Sales-Jerry Cavanagh-early Motown era, when we all ate at S&C Diners and flocked to hear June Christie sing at Baker's Keyboard Lounge.

Clearly, though, Seese intends her story to be something more than just light reading. But this book would be much easier to take seriously if its plot were less soapy and contrived, and its heroine less tiresome. She's forever seeking affirmation of her worth through her relationships with men, men, men. After awhile, this little propensity gets to be boring, boring, boring.

In journal-like entries, interspersed with personal letters, "Is This What Other Women Feel Too?" tells the story of Detroit's Katie McGhee, who, after an unhappy childhood, is starting her college career at Wayne University, while working part-time as a clerk at the DIA.

PRETTY SOON, we learn that she's involved in a hot affair with a

break
Victoria

married bookseller who looks a lot like Saul Bellow. And no, she didn't know he was married until several months into the relationship (she "never thought to ask").

His name is Francis and it isn't long before Francis dies, leaving his bookstore to Katie. Somewhere in all this, she manages to get her degree in Library Science/moves to LaPeer/gets to know a transvestite/returns to Detroit/begins to see a psychiatrist.

Things begin to look up when Katie meets David, a labor lawyer. This lover resembles Sydney Greenstreet and, after a brief affair, the two decide to get married. But things are not always what they seem, of course, and on the eve of her wedding, David's friend, Harvey, reveals to Katie that David is actually a homosexual (No, she hadn't picked up on this earlier.)

Shortly after the revelation, Harvey and Katie go to bed together and then, shortly after this, David moves away to San Francisco, but not before selling his house on Grand Blvd. to the newly enlightened Katie.

THEN, IT'S 1967, the year of the Detroit riots. Katie begins to work with a group of black, high school dropouts. They read things like "The Fire Next Time" together, go to see "A Raisin in the Sun" at the Studio Theatre and write in their journals.

She starts writing her memoirs and eventually takes up "in earnest" with an Irishman from Hamtramck (a real "meat and potatoes man"). At last, she's sleeping at night. Harvey (remember Harvey?) gets a divorce and wastes no time writing to say hello from Savannah, Ga., where he's been living for years.

"... you'll never be happy being Mrs. Sally Smith!" The wise psychiatrist (male, of course) reveals to Katie, and, in the final scene, she runs out into the rain, dancing with joy.

But wait! Sad to say, the entire story, we must remember, has been told in the form of flashbacks. Which means, of course, that the end of the story is really at the beginning.

It goes something like this: It's 1975 or thereabouts and Katie is still living with that meat-and-potatoes lover from Hamtramck. She's lonely and, after they've made love, he heads for the kitchen, "slamming cupboard doors and throwing leftovers from the refrigerator," and calling her "a hopeless woman." She languishes in bed, "drained from the sex," generally feeling woeful, thinking "I'll never understand men."

Somehow, you'd like to kick her out of that bed and shake this little ninny until her teeth rattle.

Get a life, Katie.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Few dark clouds settle on real estate horizon

By Doug Funke

Favorable mortgage rates have failed to drain the supply of existing housing available to buyers.

Fixed rates of 8 1/4 for 15 years and 8 3/4 for 30 years can work for buyers only if there's a good selection of houses for sale in the marketplace.

And that's exactly what area realty boards report.

The Western Wayne Oakland Association of Realtors had 10,176 active listings of houses and condominiums on its multi-list as of the end of September. That compares with 9,089 at the end of September, 1990, and 9,914 three months ago.

The South Oakland Board of Realtors reported 1,613 houses and condos on its multi-list as September ended, a hair more than the 1,608 available at the same time in 1990.

The Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors had 1,374 active listings of houses and condos as Sept. 30 compared to 1,472 at the end of September, 1990.

JUST AS important, the prices of houses apparently haven't soared out of sight as mortgage rates have tumbled significantly and the supply has remained plentiful.

The median (half below, half above) price of houses and condos that sold through the first nine months of this year in the South Oakland area was $78,000 compared to $75,000 last year.

The median sales price for units sold in Western Wayne Oakland during September was $85,000, compared with $80,000 during September, 1990.

In Birmingham-Bloomfield, the median sales price through the first nine months of this year was $162,000 compared with $166,500 for the similar period last year.

'Perhaps these people who have been thinking about selling homes are saying, 'Maybe this is the time for me to buy, too.' The only damper I see is a lot of people are skittish about the employment thing.

— Allen C. King

"It's our observation that the listings available currently are significantly greater than was available three to four years ago," said Warren Gould, executive director of the Birmingham-Bloomfield board, "The size of our (multi-listing) book is much larger."

The areas with the most listings so far this year are Bloomfield Township, West Bloomfield and Birmingham, Gould said.

LISTINGS WERE up in September compared to September of 1990 in every Observer community served by the Western Wayne Oakland board.

Specific numbers, including houses and condos, with 1990 figures listed in parenthesis, follows:

- Canton — 309 (257).
- Farmington/Farmington Hills — 739 (704).
- Garden City — 154 (133).
- Livonia — 481 (429).
- Plymouth, city and township — 305 (270).
- Redford — 299 (184).
- Westland — 429 (381).

Listings are down this year compared to last in Southfield, Troy, Beverly Hills and Lathrup Village, the South Oakland board reported.

"For a prospective buyer, today's price and terms show an excellent market," said Maurice Richards, executive vice president of the South Oakland board. "Supply is good. Choice is good. I would say all prices are available which is unusual."

"I think you have a very stabilized marketplace," said Allen C. King, president of the Western Wayne Oakland board and an agent with Prudential Great Lakes Realty in Farmington Hills.

"There's a good balance between supply and demand. You're still getting an inflationary increase (in value), still building equity. Again, the supply of money is keeping interest rates low."

Determine useful life of common elements to set reserve

I am a board member and want to establish some sort of reserve so that we don't need to levy additional assessments as has been the case in the past. How do I go about doing this?

It is important for every well run association to establish an adequate replacement reserve for repairs to the common elements so that it will not be necessary to levy additional assessments in the future to meet pressing needs. To do this, a study should be undertaken by the association to ascertain the scope and magnitude of the problems that are likely to occur at the condominium. To do that, you must determine what the useful life of the common elements is going to be and amortize sufficient funds on a yearly basis to meet those needs, considering interest and a certain percentage for depletion of the reserves. That study should be undertaken with the assistance of an architect or engineering firm and the association's accountant. The condominium act requires that each association have a reserve for major repair or replacement of at least 10 percent of the budget, non-cumulative, but that is generally inadequate to meet the realistic needs of the association.

There is a condominium adjacent to a resort area. I am concerned about the leasing agent who is also tied in with the developer. How do I know that I am going to get a fair shake. Apparently there is no competition from this leasing agent.

As with many resort condominiums in areas where there are not a number of real estate entities that are on a competitive bases, you are at the mercy of the developer. The developer is attempting to sell or lease his units. If his leasing agent is involved in leasing your unit, you may be second fiddle, so to speak. I would talk to other members of the association who have purchased units or are leasing them to determine whether this leasing agent is charging a fair price and is willing to do a reasonable job. Obviously, to the extent that his compensation is based upon leasing the unit, he will have an incentive to help. But the fact that the developer is selling or leasing his own units may be a factor. Make sure that there are no other leasing agents in the area who do not have a vested interest and might be available to assist you.

This landscape plan for the Country Club Village Community House in Northville Township, designed by Gibbs Planning Group in Bloomfield Hills and developed by Haggerty Hills Limited Partnership, includes several formal landscaping elements. Large trees, benches and ornamental lighting surround and capture the space in the courtyard. Shrubbery, fencing, lighting and flowers surround the pool deck, separating it from the courtyard lawn area.

Flower beds mark paths to the tennis courts and a formal garden to the side of the clubhouse. Trees line the parking areas, and elaborate flower beds (not depicted) frame the front entrance.

Landscape architecture: just a formality

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Formal gardens and landscaping, once the pride of kings and queens, have fallen by the wayside in recent years.

For the last decade, natural and informal landscaping have been the norm. The goal of the landscape architect was to make the trees, shrubs, flowers and lawns look so natural that people would believe a building sprang up in a clearing overnight, and there was no need to hire someone to keep it that way.

But formal landscaping could be on the verge of making a comeback.

Bob Gibbs, president of Gibbs Planning Associates in Bloomfield Hills, said although he hasn't seen a rush toward formal landscaping requests, when he presents ideas to his clients there has been a keen interest in the concept.

"The new formal landscaping is really a hybrid of the natural landscape and formal gardens," Gibbs explained. From the natural landscapes, site plans borrow the use of indigenous materials; from the formal gardens, site plans borrow design styles.

In formal landscaping, plant materials are not positioned to simulate random growths; they are designed to achieve a variety of effects, he said. In addition to being pleasing to look at, a well-designed formal landscape can direct the vision, capture space and create the illusion of space.

NATURAL LANDSCAPING, Gibbs said, was being driven by several factors, primarily the ease of maintenance and the belief that naturalism is better.

In the past, maintenance of formal landscaping required a great deal of time and labor, Gibbs said. Old formal landscaping sometimes meant weekly lawn mowing, flower cultivating, shrub trimming and leaf raking.

Much formal landscaping also included exotic plantings that required special treatment to survive in the Michigan climate, he said.

Today, botanists have developed slow-growing, hardy varieties of trees, shrubs, turf and other plant materials, Gibbs said. These, he said, need little maintenance — at most one or two trimmings a year.

"A lot of shrubs are being bred as dwarves... new techniques of planting... new varieties of plants and choosing the right kinds of maples, evergreens and shrubs have made a big difference."

As for the other driving force behind the growth in natural landscaping — natural is better than man-made — Gibbs said people have become bored with it and are looking for something different.

Gibbs said he doesn't know exactly what the appeal is in formal gardens, but people recognize and appreciate organization.

The drive to formal landscape is also partially driven by architecture, Gibbs continued. "Architecture is getting much more interesting — nowadays people are buying homes with far more detail."

Since the house's architecture is so well designed — and looks it — it is only natural that the landscape should be as equally well-designed. Architects and landscape architects are frequently working together in designing homes and surrounding sites, Gibbs said.

MIKE LEHMANN, president of the Lehmann Design Group Inc. in Huntington Woods, said he's doing more formal landscaping than he once did. "I'm seeing more people looking for more variety in work."

People in southeastern Michigan, he explained, seem to be fairly conservative and traditional so formal landscaping appeals to them.

"They tell me they don't want to look like the guy next door — they don't know exactly what they want, but they know the guy next door is boring."

That's where the landscape architect comes in, he said. "Part of my

Residential construction spending spurs growth

AP — Construction spending rose 0.3 percent in August, the second straight advance, government said today. But only residential spending increased as non-residential and government outlays fell.

The overall construction sector is far from ready to rebound with continued signs of an overbuilt commercial real estate market and tight credit constraints by banks, said economist Michael P. Niemira of the Mitsubishi Bank in New York.

The Commerce Department said residential, non-residential and government spending totaled a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $60.2 billion, up from $49.4 billion in July.

The revised July figure showed that spending was a bit stronger than first estimated, rising 1.7 percent rather than the 1.4 percent reported earlier. Outlays had dipped 1.2 percent in June. Still, the value of construction put into place was 9.7 percent below that of August 1990.

Residential spending rose 3.5 percent, to $17.3 billion, after gaining 2.1 percent the previous month.

SPENDING ON single-family units jumped 5.3 percent, to $10.2 billion, on top of a 5.0 percent advance a month earlier.

But spending on multi-family units continued to slide, down 0.7 percent to $11.6 billion after falling 7.4 percent in July.

The value of non-residential construction also declined, down 1.9 percent to $30.4 billion following a 0.5 percent drop the previous month.

Government spending, reflecting tight budgets, fell 1.2 percent, to $11.4 billion, after rising 4.0 percent a month earlier.

New plant varieties ease garden upkeep job (as a landscape architect) is education — I have to let them know what the options are."

Function is also a driving force in formal landscaping. "How we use a yard or setting dictates (the need for) a manageable setting."

"People have practical needs — that might mean screening neighbors, giving privacy, providing open spaces, giving vistas, making open areas for children or animals, showing color or adding texture."

"Informal or natural landscaping can't do that," he said. "People can spend thousands and thousands of dollars and get nothing for it."

PEOPLE ARE more knowledgeable about what they want and what they can get, Lehmann said the misconception about high maintenance formal landscaping is no longer accepted without question.

"If it's planned well, designed well and sited well, there are aspects of low maintenance in formal gardens," he said. Planned well means choosing the right materials, designed well means assembling them correctly and sited well — which is perhaps the least understood — means looking at the site as a micro-environment.

"It means taking a very good look at exposure, how much light and wind will it get, on-site water, potential water sources off-site — that all relates directly to what I can do."

Planning what materials should be used in formal landscaping is also critical — not only from the plants' chances for survival, but because of the appearance. "There are a couple of dozen plants that have been heavily used — ashes, junipers, red maples — these are very over-used."

"Landscaping in this area is not anywhere as professional as it should be — I see it slowly turning around, but it is very slowly," he said.

"There are hundreds of thousands of plants available and (a good landscape architect has to) take advantage of that," Lehmann said.

JAMES SCOTT, president of James C. Scott &

Associates in Bloomfield Hills, said a requests for formal gardens are directly related to how much money a client has to spend.

"There's nothing more expensive than a formal English garden," he said. Whether a client wants formal landscaping depends on individual tastes. "Much of what we do in the Grosse Pointes is more formal than what we do in Bloomfield Township."

Residential landscaping — at least on an individual home scale — is more likely to be formal than informal. Offices, light industrial parks, and commercial projects are more likely to opt for natural, informal landscaping.

Formal landscaping may be on the rise, but Scott said it's doubtful it will become as popular as informal landscaping if for no other reason than maintenance.

"It (formal landscaping) looks nice if a tree doesn't die or something, but if something happens, it could ruin the whole effect," Scott said.

Scott said it's the duty of the landscape architect to point out the potential pitfalls and pluses of either style. Maintenance is no longer the problem it once was, but formal landscape still requires more maintenance than informal landscape.

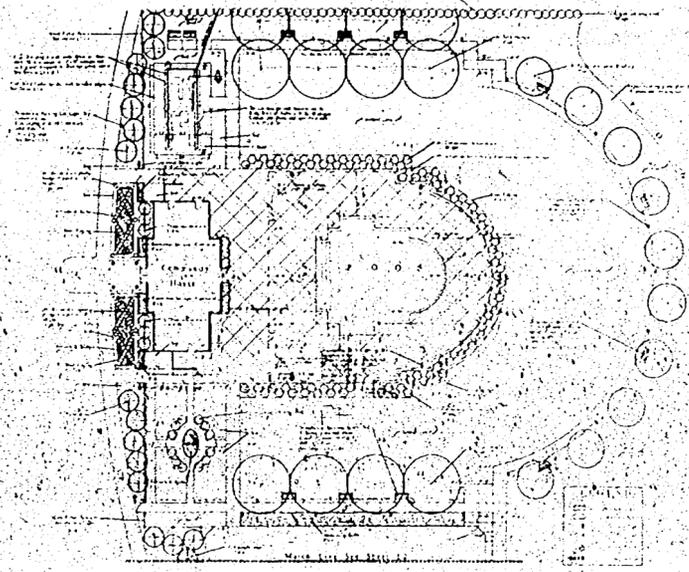

"The more maintenance that is done, the better the formal landscape is going to look," he said. "It's almost like a finely manicured putting green."

"Random, free form, loosey goosey landscape architecture," he said, "can (aesthetically) survive with less work."

Scott said landscaping and styles are always evolving and speculated that many projects will probably be a combination of formal and informal elements — neither will be exclusively used.

"Something like a formal hedge running through an informal, rolling landscape," he said. "The berms and boulders — they're getting a little overdone."

"People will be saying to themselves, 'Why not get into a more orderly landscape plan?'"

This planting plan shows the details of the Country Club Village Community House grounds.

Sales figures contradictory

AP — New home sales jumped 6.7 percent in August to their highest level in a year, after having retreated a month earlier, the government said.

All regions posted gains except the West, where the number of sales was unchanged. Sales soared in the Midwest, up 24.7 percent to a 101,000 annual rate and wiping out a 15.6 percent loss a month earlier.

The report contrasted with a National Association of Realtors' survey last week that found sales of existing homes had fallen 2.1 percent in August, the second straight decline.

The Realtors had attributed the decline to "uncertainty over if and when the economic recovery is coming," despite mortgage rates that have declined nearly one percentage point in the last year.

The Departments of Commerce and of Housing and Urban Development said sales of single-family homes nationally totaled a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 540,000, up from a revised 506,000 in July.

The departments first had estimated July's decline at 8.5 percent rather than the 2.7 percent drop in today's report. But June's initial 4.0 percent advance was revised down to a 2.6 percent gain.

The August increase was the sixth gain in new home sales since they dropped to 414,000 last January, the trough of the housing recession. And the August level was the highest since a 541,000 rate in July 1990.

Builders group presses for incentives

The National Association of Home Builders has a simple solution for a stalled economy: Ease credit for builders and increase incentives for buyers.

The national organization and its local affiliate, the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, believe a revitalized building industry would pump new life into a lethargic economy that has prospective home buyers hesitating.

"I think there is nothing like construction to spark plug the economy," said James Bonadeo, a Plymouth-based builder and BASM president.

The national organization's 1,800-member board supports a series of banking, legislative and regulatory actions: These range from additional tax credits for home owners to revisions of banking laws.

Another BASM official believes that allowing developers access to money is among the most important.

"I think easing credit is vital to the economic recovery," said Irvin H. Yackness, BASM vice president and general counsel. He said he was encouraged by recent statements on the subject by President George Bush.

Bonadeo noted that many developers with long-standing credit ratings are being denied access to cash they need to fund projects.

Strict federal relations are part of the problem, Bonadeo said. "They've got these bankers so scared that developers can't get money."

NATIONALLY, the NAHB is projecting about one million housing starts for 1991, the lowest level since 1945.

The National Association of Home Builders supports a series of banking, legislative and regulatory actions that range from additional tax credits for home owners to revision of banking laws.

- Establish a tax credit for moderate-income, first-time buyers.
- Allow tax- and penalty-free withdrawals from IRAs and other retirement plans for downpayments on homes.
- Extend the low-income housing tax credit and mortgage revenue bond programs.
- Repeal passive loss restrictions for real estate agents.
- Reinstate a capital gains rate differential for real estate and other assets.

The NAHB wants Congress to revise the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act, and to pass legislation to grant a phase-in of capital requirements for banks and savings and loans. The organization is also seeking a strengthening of the Federal Home Loan Bank System.

Yackness and Bonadeo said easing credit would allow builders the loans they need to begin new projects. This has a trickle down effect, Bonadeo said, providing jobs and providing home shoppers with a wider selection of new homes.

"The economy needs a new infusion of capital," Yackness said.

Locally, through August, the number of new residential units is down 36 percent from the previous year in Oakland County, and 33 percent in Wayne County.

Bonadeo says that the flat market doesn't mean buyers aren't interested. They are. They're hesitating, despite favorable mortgage rates, fearing a downturn in the economy.

"They're scared to sign. They just don't know what's going to happen."

REDUCE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING HEART DISEASE, KIDNEY DISEASE OR GOING BLIND.

Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating.

To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight.

Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically.

As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent.

Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise.

So if you're overweight, doesn't it make sense to take off the extra weight? Instead of years off your life?

FIGHT SOME OF THE WORST DISEASES OF OUR TIME.
