Teen sentenced for murder role

A former John Glenn High student was sentenced to a juvenile facility for his role in the death of a man involved in a drug deal last November. Trials for two other defendants have yet to be scheduled.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A 16-year-old Westland boy accused in a murder conspiracy has been ordered to juvenile incarceration until age 21, becoming the first of four teens sentenced in a killing behind Adams Junior High School.

Gregory Hister, a former John Glenn High School student who will turn 17 in October, could be released as early as his 19th birthday, if he stays out of trouble and completes his schooling while imprisoned, a judge ruled Thursday.

The decision by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Denise Page Hood came 37 days after she found him guilty of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder and conspiracy to assault.

Hood had reduced first-degree murder charges that stemmed from the Nov. 15 shooting death of crack cocaine dealer Everett Earl Bowen Jr., 19, of Westland. Defense attorney Otis Culpepper had argued that Hister didn't conspire with three other teens to kill Bowen.

Hood could have sentenced Hister as an adult, but she chose Thursday to sentence him as a juvenile.

"I'm happy that it's over, and I'm happy that he was sentenced as a juvenile," Hister's mother, Tonya, said outside Hood's courtroom Thursday.

Prosecutors had accused Hister and three other Westland teens — Ian Bruce Cowen, Jermaine Stevenson and Jerome Omar Ingram — of plotting to kill Bowen in revenge for an earlier fight in which Bowen stabbed Cowen's legs with a screwdriver.

Prosecutors accused the teens of arranging a supposed drug deal with Bowen behind Adams school so they could kill him. A companion of Bowen, 20-year-old David Wayne Adkins, accompanied him and was shot in the head, but survived the 10:30 p.m. incident.

On Thursday, Hister's mother said she sympathizes with the families of Bowen and Adkins.

Law to prevent future Cooper crises

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Under a law signed last week by Gov. John Engler, an environmental catastrophe that took place at Westland's Cooper School shouldn't happen to other Michigan schools.

The new law, pushed by state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, and a Cooper parent grassroots group formed after news of the contaminated school site surfaced last year, makes sure no future school buildings will be built on toxic sites.

SCHOOLS

The school, on Ann Arbor Trail between Middlebelt and Ann Arbor Trail in the Livonia school district's northeast corner, was built in the 1960s on top of a former landfill.

"Passage of this bill is the first step towards achieving the goal of toxic-free schools in Michigan," said Faust, whose district all of Westland. "I am glad to see that the environmental safety of our children is a high priority in this state."

The law requires districts to take certain steps before constructing a school building or renovating an existing one. It applies to all renovations or additions costing more than $10,000.

In the past, districts could construct any type of building or outdoor recreation area without an environmental site investigation.

The school district closed Cooper School in June 1991 after soil tests done by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources showed soil on the school grounds to be contaminated with PCBs, lead, cadmium, mercury, arsenic and DDT and cyanide.

A fence now surrounds the entire school grounds.

The law requires a school board to do the following before building a facility, expanding one, or building an outdoor playground area to be used by youngsters:

- Conduct a visual inspection of the land on which the school will be built.

2 workers put on leave after abuse complaint

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Two employees of the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA have been placed on leave with pay after a complaint that a 3-year-old boy was physically abused by them.

The workers were put on leave after Y officials received a written report from another staff member about the alleged abuse, said program director Mary Rose Cartwright.

The YMCA's service area includes Garden City.

YMCA

Westland police are investigating, but details remained sketchy Friday afternoon, Sgt. Laura Moore said.

Sexual abuse was not involved, and the complaint indicated that the boy may have been "slapped around," Moore said.

A preliminary police investigation has found no clear signs that the boy had been abused, but YMCA officials said they learned of the allegation Friday — 11 days after it was supposed to have occurred.

"It appears it's just a simple assault," Moore said. "There was no injury — at least not that we saw."

Friday afternoon, Y officials were still searching for answers.

"At this point, we do not know exactly when this happened," Cartwright said. "We assume it happened here (at the YMCA), but I don't really know."

"We just learned about it this morning," she said Friday.

Both Cartwright and Moore questioned why it took 11 days for the complaint to surface.

"That's the odd thing about it," Cartwright said.

She said she could not identify the names of any employees involved in the alleged incident.

Moore indicated she would have more information about the alleged incident later this week. She wasn't yet sure whether the complaint could be substantiated.

Local Y officials would have no additional comment on the complaint.

Longer hours

Want to take care of Westland City Hall business but can't get there before it closes at 5 p.m.? Starting this week, the building will be open from 6-7 p.m. Wednesdays through Aug. 26. The longer hours will be available on a trial basis to better serve residents, Mayor Robert Thomas said. Departments to be open for the public on those afternoons are assessor, finance, city clerk, personnel as well as the mayor's office. People will be able to conduct business as well as receive answers to questions, Thomas said.

Holiday time

City offices and the district court will be closed Tuesday, Aug. 4, for the primary election. City and court workers have a paid holiday on election days.

Former employees of Wayne County General Hospital will hold their annual reunion Saturday afternoon, Aug. 15, on Hines Drive just west of Outer Drive. The building is now owned and operated by Oakwood Health Services as a part of Annapolis Hospital. The reunion will be from noon to 6 p.m. with a potluck luncheon at 1 p.m. The event is also open to relatives and friends of former employees.

GOP hopefuls in 18th District discuss issues

Delonis says voters are weary of taxes

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Election

Republican Richard Delonis supports efforts to overturn the landmark U.S. Supreme Court decision in Roe vs. Wade that protected abortion rights.

"It all comes back to my Catholic upbringing," said Delonis, a pro-life proponent who views the controversial court decision as "judicial activism."

Delonis, a 25-year-old law clerk, doesn't shy away from controversial issues in his quest to unseat long-time state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, in the newly formed 18th District which includes most of Westland and three precincts in the northeast corner of Canton Township.

Unopposed in the Aug. 4 primary, Barns is guaranteed a spot on the Nov. 3 ballot. To challenge her, however, Delonis must beat opponent Steven Cabrera in the contested GOP primary.

In separate interviews with the Observer, the Republican candidates last week responded to questions about abortion, school funding, property taxes, the economy and their chances of unseating Barns in the fiercely Democratic district.

Delonis believes he can defeat Barns because he's campaigning diligently to get his GOP platform across in a district that he says is incumbent-weary.

Unlike his GOP opponent, Delonis hasn't called for an end to the so-called "Robin Hood" method of correcting school funding inequities among districts. But, in shifting money from richer to poorer districts, Delonis stressed that it's important to minimize the negative impact on districts.

"I think we really need to listen to the citizens of all the districts," he said.

Delonis also supports the tax-base sharing plan that shifts money among districts, though he said legislators need to make it clear the money comes from industry — not from homeowner property taxes.

Delonis also favors Gov. John Engler's "cut-and-cap" plan to slash the school portion of property taxes by 30 percent and limit annual assessment increases to 3 percent or the rate of inflation.

In addition, Delonis suggested that property assessments could be based on the value of homes at the time they are resold.

As he has campaigned, Delonis has found taxes to be the top concern among voters. But he coupled that concern with the need to spur the economy and create more jobs in Michigan.

To that end, Delonis favors rolling back some governmental regulations and creating more incentives to lure business and industry to Delonis criticized Lansing incumbents who've failed in their efforts to stabilize the economy, and he predicted that an anti-incumbent fever at the state and national levels could boost his campaign.

Cabrera endorsed by Right to Life

BY DARRELL CLEM

Election

Republican legislative candidate Steven Cabrera's stance against abortion has won him the endorsement of the Michigan Right to Life organization.

"I believe the rights of the Constitution extend to the unborn," he said. "Those who have the most to lose in abortion don't have a voice."

Cabrera, 33, has been outspoken about his views in his campaign to unseat state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, in the newly formed 18th District that includes most of Westland and three precincts in Canton Township.

His first mission, however, is to defeat rival Richard Delonis in the Aug. 4 GOP primary, in hope of winning Barns' House seat in the November general election. Barns is unchallenged in the primary.

Cabrera, an employee of Michigan National Bank's sales and real estate finance division, talked with the Observer last week about such issues as abortion, school funding, property taxes, the economy and his chances of unseating Barns.

Cabrera has made education his top priority. Although he supports increased spending, he has demanded more accountability for both students and teachers.

"Anybody who wants to do a good job in their heart has no problem with accountability," he said.

Unlike his GOP opponent, Cabrera doesn't favor the "Robin Hood" method of taking money from wealthier school districts and giving it to poorer ones. He believes schools of choice would create an incentive to improve school funding.

Schools that perform better would draw the attention of parents and students. "Dollars will follow the students," he said.

Noting that "money doesn't solve everything," Cabrera also suggested more school-business partnerships and parental involvement.

For taxpayers, Cabrera favors the governor's plan to cut the portion of taxes for schools by 30 percent and limit annual increases to 3 percent or the rate of inflation. He has adopted that stance "not just because I'm a Republican, but because it makes sense."

Wayne-Westland, among other districts, has a high tax rate but has declined in performance, Cabrera said, and that has made it difficult for citizens to support higher taxes.

"We're so spoiled by saying the only way to solve a problem is to throw more money at it," he said. While spending on education is important, it, alone, won't rescue schools, he said.

Like his opponent, Cabrera also supports efforts to create more incentives for business and industry in order to improve Michigan's economy. By creating more jobs, the state would have more workers who would be paying more taxes, he said.

Steve Cabrera

Education: Business degree, University of Michigan-Dearborn; John Glenn High School.

Activities: Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education; Wayne County Young Republicans; Hispanic Business Alliance; state convention delegate; Westland Republican Committee 1989; precinct delegate 1990.

Cabrera believes he can win the GOP primary and defeat Barns in November.

"I'm not tied to politics," he said. "I'm a newcomer. I offer something fresh."

And he leaves voters with a question about solving problems: "What will the incumbent do in the next two years that she hasn't already done in the last 10 years?"

"I'm sorry that anybody was hurt or deceased. I'm sorry for their families, and I'm keeping them in my prayers," she said.

In sentencing Hister, Judge Hood also ordered him to have no contact with the Bowen and Adkins families.

Hood didn't choose the juvenile facility where Hister will be incarcerated, saying she will let the Department of Social Services decide. Culpepper hopes Hister won't be placed in a maximum-security facility.

Before Hood announced the sentence, Culpepper had portrayed Hister as one of "too many young black men" who are raised without a father figure.

"It does make a difference," Culpepper said, because young blacks sometimes "lose their direction, and they turn to their peers for direction. I think that's what happened to Mr. Hister."

Robert Hood, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, didn't argue against Culpepper's motion to have Hister sentenced as a juvenile. Reports from the DSS and the Recorder's Court clinic had recommended juvenile sentencing.

In another development, Judge Hood has scheduled another of the three teens for sentencing July 29. A jury last month gave Cowen, 17, a harsher conviction, finding him guilty of second-degree murder and conspiracy to assault. The former John Glenn student could face a maximum sentence of life in prison.

The judge hasn't announced whether she will sentence Cowen as an adult or juvenile. He was 16 when Bowen was killed.

The other two teens, Stevenson and Ingram, both 18, were adults when the killing occurred.

Stevenson, who attended John Glenn, and Ingram, a Cherry Hill alternative center student, haven't yet been scheduled for trial. Their attorneys have filed a yet-to-be-decided motion to suppress statements the teens made to police about Bowen's death.

Court proceedings have implicated Stevenson in firing the two shots that struck Bowen in the face and back. He also has been blamed for firing the bullet that remains lodged in Adkins' head.

Defense attorneys have argued that Hister and Cowen merely wanted to fight Bowen and didn't know that Stevenson and Ingram had a "private agenda" to bring a gun and rob him.

Stevenson and Ingram could be sentenced to life in prison if convicted.

Mayor walks to hear concerns

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

When Mayor Robert Thomas campaigned for his job, he promised to make government more accessible to Westland citizens.

Now, 2½ years into his four-year term, the 41-year-old mayor says he has kept his word.

Last Tuesday, Thomas walked through a neighborhood near Marshall Junior High School, stopping at residences and on the street to talk to Westland citizens about their problems and concerns.

It marked the second of four neighborhood walks the mayor has planned for this year, continuing a meet-the-people program he launched in 1990. He visited about 25 homes Tuesday in an area southeast of Wayne and Cherry Hill roads.

"One of the promises I made to people is that we would open up government, be more accessible to the people and talk to them," Thomas said. "I promised myself that, and I promised the people that."

The neighborhood walks are part of a three-pronged effort to make it easier for people to air their concerns. Each month, Thomas also conducts town hall meetings and appears on local cable television for a live call-in program.

On the walks, Thomas has usually been accompanied by some of his directors, such as the police chief, the public services director and the finance director. He also brings along his two secretaries so they can take notes on people's concerns.

"It's been really worthwhile," Thomas said. "We've found some problems that we wouldn't have known about. Each neighborhood is individual, and they have their own little set of problems."

Among the more common concerns:

- Speeding drivers. Many residents worry that children could be hurt because some drivers ignore speed limits in residential areas, particularly on busy roads like Wildwood, Avondale and Bayview.

- Tree trimming. Some people say the city hasn't kept its trees trimmed. In some neighborhoods, residents complain that Detroit Edison has "butchered" trees.

- Crime. Citizens consistently voice worries about vandalism, break-ins and other crimes.

- Road and sidewalk repairs. Some people point out potholes, or areas where sidewalks may have buckled.

- High taxes. Residents sometimes tell the mayor they're tired of paying high taxes — a concern that was more widespread when the Wayne-Westland school board last year sought — and finally won — a tax increase.

Thomas tries to talk with residents of all ages. "Sometimes we'll stop and talk to kids on the street," he said.

Thomas has found that some people are too busy to talk — even to the mayor — but he said he's never been treated rudely. He's a little surprised that no one has been rude, because with each decision he makes, he pleases some people and angers others.

Some of Thomas' critics have, on occasion, questioned some of his efforts to be visible to the public. He has appeared on cable to denounce city council members when they opposed him on certain issues.

Some council members have viewed such actions as unnecessarily political. At one point, council members Kenneth Mehl, Thomas Brown and former member Thomas Artley responded to the mayor's stinging on-air criticism by appearing on cable themselves to rebut his charges.

Still, Thomas hopes that, overall, his efforts to be accessible to the public will be viewed as progressive, positive — because it's a promise he said he plans to keep.

In a more recent move, city officials have begun keeping city hall open from 5-7 p.m. on Wednesdays, starting this week, to make it more accessible to people. City Hall will remain open Wednesday evenings on a trial basis through August.

Council, mayor fued brews

over role of service bureau

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

The Westland City Council and Mayor Robert Thomas are gearing for a collision on the role of the Municipal Service Bureau, organized nearly 15 years ago as a way for the city to provide municipal services at a lower cost.

But the MSB represents a potential legal problem and could ultimately cost the city money when bureau employees and the city are sued.

The mayor wants to cancel all MSB contracts and have the city take over the bureau's operating the municipal golf course and sports arena as well as the crossing guard service.

Council president Charles Pickering told the Observer last week that the council feels the MSB should be retained. If there is an insurance liability or legal problem, those can be handled without getting rid of the bureau.

The council has scheduled a public study session for 7 tonight in City Hall to discuss the issue.

The dispute surfaced last week when the mayor wrote the council of the legal problem, cited by Eric Smith, attorney for the firm of Cummins and McClorey which represents the city on liability matters.

There is currently a civil suit pending against the city and the bureau based on the actions of Sports Arne employees.

The basic problem, Smith said in a letter to city finance director Michael Gorman is that the bureau, organized as a private, non-profit organization, doesn't have the same governmental immunity protection in liability suits as city employees and officials.

"The end result is greater expense to the city in having to defend these cases and greater exposure for liability as well," said Smith in his letter.

Gorman wrote the mayor earlier this month that the director "had been expressing my concerns on the government immunity issue to you and to council for some time."

In his letter to the council, Mayor Thomas recommended:

- The city cancel all contracts with the bureau for the operating of the golf course, arena and crossing guards.

- The city "immediately take over the operation of the golf course and area under the direction of the parks and recreation director." Thomas said he reviewed that possibility with George Gillies, his newly appointed mayoral assistant who was previously the recreation director for seven years.

The administration "is confident that additional monies (needed to operate the course and arena) would be minimal," said Thomas.

"We will be able to hire part-time employees and would not have to give these jobs to the city unions."

- Put the crossing guards service under the police department.

In emphasizing the need for a change, Thomas reminded the council that the golf course, on Merriman south of Cherry Hill, and the arena, on Wildwood south of Hunter, are owned by the city.

If users have problems with either facility, "they expect us to provide them with the answers. It can only be labeled as 'poor business practice' for the city to have no real control over these facilities," said the mayor.

Thomas feels his reasons are "evident for us to finally live up to our responsibility and take control of 'our' facilities and serve the public directly. We do not need to hide behind a cloak called the MSB."

"Besides, with the possibility of legal problems coming soon, we will have no choice."

The mayor wrote the council that the legal problems facing the bureau will continually get worse.

"In the past years, the MSB has served its intended purpose successfully, allowing the city to operate the arena, golf course and crossing guards at a reasonable cost," Thomas said.

"However, with the possible threat of losing governmental immunity (in pending civil suits), those costs would skyrocket."

The bureau was created in the late 1970s as a method of providing public services with non-union employees who would be paid less than city workers. The bureau has a five-member board of directors which administers the budget; part of which requires a city subsidy, and its employees.

During the summer of 1987, he served as a special assistant to state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland.

His background also includes serving as an athletic supervisor and assistant program supervisor in the recreation department.

His confirmation is for a maximum of 90 days.

Interim parks director named

Michael Brewis will be the temporary Westland parks and recreation director for the next few months.

Nominated by Mayor Robert Thomas last week and confirmed by the city council, Brewis will succeed George Gillies who was promoted July 1 to the position of executive assistant to the mayor.

Brewis, who was on vacation last week, has been a recreation department supervisor, assistant supervisor or athletic program supervisor during the past 7½

Prostitution rap gets couple probation

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland husband and wife who admitted using prostitutes in an escort service have been placed on probation for two years and fined $500 each.

The sentencing of David and Mary Sue Powell, both 29, was announced Thursday by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Michael Sapala.

The sentencing came one month after the Powells pleaded guilty to attempting to accept earnings from prostitutes. The couple could have been sentenced to a maximum of five years in prison.

Prosecutors and Westland police accused the Powells of arranging for female and male prostitutes to meet clients through Desiree's escort service. Police said the couple ran the service out of their residence in the 5700 block of Kayle Street.

The Powells accepted telephone calls from clients on a phone line at their residence, northwest of the Wayne-Ford intersection, Westland police Sgt. Timothy Abramski said.

The couple attracted clients by advertising their escort service in various metro Detroit publications, he said.

The prostitutes earned about $150 from each client and turned over about a third of their profits to the Powells, Abramski said.

The couple had initially been charged with a 20-year felony for taking money from prostitutes. But, as part of a plea agreement, the charge was reduced to attempting to accept money from prostitutes.

Assistant Wayne County prosecutor Larry Roberts, who handled the case, couldn't be reached for comment Friday. But he had earlier told the Observer that he expected the Powells wouldn't receive jail time, but would be placed on probation.

Westland police arrested the couple on May 13 after executing search warrants at their home. Police found card files, along with descriptions of the prostitutes and what their sexual preferences were, Abramski has said.

An anonymous telephone caller told police about the escort service. An investigation followed in which a male police officer arranged to meet a prostitute at a motel, and the woman then provided information used against the Powells.

Police also have said that a female police officer interviewed for a position with the escort service to obtain more information about the Powells, Abramski has said.

Industry has neighbor worked up

BY DARRELL CLEM

If he decided to sell it, Westland resident Fred Croft doesn't believe he could get the $90,000 that his Dowling Street house is supposedly worth.

He blames his declining property value on the noise and ugly view of trucks at Exide Corp., a company on Manufacturers Drive in an industrial park southeast of Cherry Hill and Newburgh. Exide borders his property.

"I have a trucking terminal behind my house," Croft told the Westland City Council during last week's meeting. "I don't want to see Exide. I don't want to hear Exide."

Croft raised new concerns that Mayor Robert Thomas' administration has failed to address neighbor complaints about Exide.

Another Dowling resident, Jerry McGue, has repeatedly pleaded for relief from Exide's noise and outdoor lights, which he said shine directly toward his house. Last week, McGue took his concerns to the council for a third time.

The renewed complaints about Exide prompted concern among city council members, who have suggested seizing power from the administration for approving industrial site plans.

The council relinquished that power several years ago, but Councilman Kenneth Mehl has suggested the council return to its past practice of approving site plans for industrial projects adjacent to residential neighborhoods.

After looking at photographs of the view from Croft's house, Mehl indicated he wouldn't pay $90,000 to live there.

"I certainly wouldn't want it, and I don't think anybody else would either," he said.

Mehl's suggestion for seizing power from the Thomas administration drew a sharp response from the mayor, who said a single incident shouldn't result in policy changes.

"To put this back into the council's lap for approval is wrong," he said.

Moreover, Thomas accused previous mayoral administrations and councils of also allowing poorly planned industrial projects. He suggested that a clampdown on industry could stunt the city's growth.

Mehl, considering Thomas' comments a personal attack, denied he wants to block development and told the mayor, "Your problem is that you don't want to relinquish any power whatsoever."

Council President Charles Pickering also indicated support for giving the council more power for approving industrial site plans. However, it wasn't immediately known when the council would consider an official proposal.

• Review the ownership and history of the land before starting any construction that requires grading, foundation or footing work.

Both reviews would show whether a hazardous substance may have been released, deposited, stored or disposed of on the land.

"Recent environmental tests have proven that some schools have been located in dangerous areas, where hazardous substances may be present," Faust said. "The purpose of this legislation is to prevent this from occurring in the future and provide for the environmental safety of our children. The concerns generated by the Cooper School site in Westland have brought this issue to the forefront."

The law requires districts to submit a land use report and environmental study to the DNR for approval before construction could begin.

Cooper parents who formed a grassroots group called CHECK (Concerned for the Health and Environment of our Community's Kids) had urged passage of the legislation.

CHECK spokeswoman Katherine Pare called the bill the "first small step" in helping districts deal with environmental problems.

"It will help to find the toxic sites that are out there. Many schools may not have any idea there's a problem. Now we'd like to see the Legislature seek funds so that school money is not used to clean up these sites."

"Educational funds should not be used for the cleanup. (The) Livonia (district) has no money to do this."

Operations director Art Howell has said that the new law will cost the district an extra $60,000 when the district undertakes massive renovations financed by a recently approved $62.1 million bond issue.

Readers question advice to Michelle

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear readers:

I have never received such a barrage of high quality responses to a letter that was printed in this column. I am including two of them because they are so well-written and their message is loud and clear.

The issue involved is one of teenagers making insensitive to obnoxious phone calls at any time of the day or night. In my reply I had indicated that the girl who was making unwanted phone calls to a boy was in keeping with the norms of her peer group. Indeed, one of the letters you will read gives proof of this through her own experiences.

However, that is part of our cultural scene for this age group does not make it acceptable behavior for all other people. Unfortunately, at the adolescent age, being in favor in one's peer group is more important than the opinion of the best of parents.

A leading expert in the field defined adolescence as a time of psychosis (craziness) which fortunately most individuals outgrow (the problem for their parents is whether they are capable of enduring the behavior until it is outgrown).

I would like to close this response with thanks to the letter writers who have filled in the dimension of the problem which I left out. I am not pretending that I am humble, just stating that I have been humbled.

Many thanks.

Barbara

Dear Barbara:

In response to your July 6 Street Sense article about teenage girls obsessed with calling boys, I had to write to give my opinion. You headline your column with "What daughter did it be acceptable today?" I'd like to know, acceptable to whom? Certainly not to the family of the boy Michelle's daughter is calling constantly at all hours of the day and night. What about the rights of the family of the boy not to be harassed?

I'd like to tell you the other side of the story. As the mother of a 15-year-old boy, I am bothered by not one, but at least a half dozen girls calling here all the time.

I have to unplug my phone after 11 p.m. so as not to be awakened at all hours. Because of a modern invention "call waiting," I can't even carry on a decent conversation with anyone without being interrupted. I've had obscene messages left on my machine that would make a sailor blush. My son can't eat a meal, take a shower, or do his homework or paper route without multitudes of interruptions.

I'm not against a girl calling maybe once a day, but why 20 or 30 times? Why be a pest? When someone asks you to stop calling, you should honor their request.

Your advice to Michelle should have been a firm "stop calling this boy, period." Parents' role should be to guide their children and teach them right from wrong, and Michelle's daughter should be told it is wrong to harass anyone. And if she does not comply, her phone privileges should be taken away.

A phone is a marvelous thing, but good phone manners in something that should go along with the privilege of using it.

Being independent and aggressive in the workplace has nothing to do with making a complete pest out of yourself. Michelle should make her daughter call this boy's mom and apologize for her behavior and promise not to bother them again.

B.L.

Dear Barbara:

I CANNOT BELIEVE your response to Michelle — the mother who is distressed about her seventh grade daughter's calling a boy "at all hours of the day and night." (The boy has asked her to stop many times.)

Regardless of the fact that her daughter's behavior is within the normal limits of current teenage mores, this is UNACCEPTABLE behavior in ANY CASE.

A male relentlessly pursuing an uninterested female, of any age;

A woman visiting a neighbor several times a day and keeping her from her duties or other interests;

A mother calling her adult son repeatedly for no reason but to talk about nothing;

A wife bothering her husband at his office for every little question that comes to mind.

ANY PERSON who makes a pest of him- or herself is obnoxious, and a mother certainly should teach her children to avoid such actions, just as she should help her children in many ways to become likable persons, and to respect other people's privacy and preferences.

You DO tell Michelle to talk it out with her daughter, but with no mention of the purpose of guidance, only acceptance.

PLEASE make it clear that consideration for other people's feeling is never out of date.

Neophyte Nation: Chris Thornburg (from left), Derek Spiewak and Eric Schmidt hope people enjoy the mood the band's in musically instead of trying to analyze what they're trying to do.

A Nation to believe in musically

If Neophyte Nation had a constitution, one of the words that would appear in it most would be believe. This three-man band's philosophy of music is that you perform songs that "you believe in." And they hold to that philosophy. This group has finally honed its musical blend, offering up some songs worth listening to. After all, they say, you can't perform unless you believe in your music.

Here's a Neophyte Nation nutshell: Musical dexterity, a vision of clarity and songs of disparity.

Why say more? Well, under closer examination, there's some blips on the radar screen when honing in on Neophyte Nation. All of which is by design, according to band members Chris Thornburg, Derek Spiewak and Eric Schmidt.

"We have this bad habit, tendency... whatever you want to call it," said Spiewak, the group's nimble fingered bassist. "We put a lot of space between ourselves and the people we're trying to reach."

Call it a lack of interpersonal communication, perhaps, but not a musical one. Neophyte Nation put forth a rain storm of thundering bass guitar, a cascade of acoustic strumming and an outpouring of gut emotion.

In "We Hate You," off the band's self-titled demo tape, there's a discernible Smiths-inspired angst. Other numbers hint at the experimental pop yields this collection of jazz-influenced musicians seek to attain.

Band interplay is intricate, a delicate balance is found between the exploratory and the obtuse. The feelings Thornburg expresses in his lyrics, though, come across as real and direct, keeping in line with his heroes Pete Townshend and Neil Young.

"(It emotional validity) definitely comes from songs you believe in," said Thornburg, the band's guitarist and vocalist. "You can't perform them unless you believe in them."

Even the bile splattered indiscriminately in "We Hate You."

"As a kid growing up I was treated very mean by the kids in my subdivision," Thornburg said. "I got over it, I guess."

"I'm way beyond that now. I'm going onto deeper things, things that are going on inside you."

At the present, the majority of Neophyte Nation's songs focus on relationships gone sour. The 1988

Livonia Churchill graduate talks how he eventually wants to write about the radio inside us all, the one in which little voices tell us what we should and should not do.

All of a sudden, the signal on the screen begins to dissipate.

Band members then mention how "Elastic Girl," a cosmic swirl of voice, bass and guitar, actually has the rhythmic pulse to the number of pie.

A mere mention perhaps it's these transgressions that deem Neophyte Nation somewhat esoteric draws a quick response from the members.

"We're not too taxing on the brain," said Spiewak, adding that the little feature was purely for the band's own entertainment.

Added the band's drummer Eric Schmidt: "I'm not sure we're trying to associate with people through the music... Hopefully, people will enjoy the mood we're in instead of trying to analyze what we're trying to do."

In the band's bio, there is mention how they "keep a distant social profile" and how they say "they play intelligent rock when actually they just play what sounds good." The word ambiguity comes into focus.

Neophyte Nation formed in February 1991, bringing together musical collaborators through mutual friends. Initially, the band was a four-piece and included keyboard player Mike Swanson. When he left, the Nation stayed with three members.

Neophyte Nation has recorded a four-song demo and hopes to have an LP out next year sometime. In the meantime, the group is playing a small number of shows. They're in it for the long haul, members say.

"If nothing else comes out of this, I've had so much fun playing this music," Spiewak said.

POINTS OF VIEW

Misgivings cloak actions of his 'daddyhood'

He watched her swim the length of the pool with porpoise-like grace and quickness. As she butterflyed through the chlorine blue of the pool's shimmer, her brown hair slick and plastered around her oval olive-colored face, he thought again of the special way he loved this young lady; unconditionally, unequivocally with every fiber of the fatherhood that encompassed his being.

Much had been written about the special joys of motherhood, he knew. Though he had skimmed more articles than read, he was aware of the unique bond that is mother and daughter. The nurturance, the intuition, the silent communication and open joy felt by both mother and daughter alike. This knowledge, though, was scant balm to the deep cut inflicted on his psyche, and while he watched his beautiful young offspring, propelling herself with effortless ease through the cold deep of the complex pool, he was struck anew by the sense of completeness she brought to his life and filled with the foreboding of immense loss as her words of earlier that morning reverberated over and over in his brain, "I want to go home, I hate it here."

Divorce — that odious, tedious, anathema of the vow two people swore to live and love forever, united.

Divorce — that unholy alliance of quit and move on that has thrown the lives of untold millions into disarray and despair.

Divorce — the seemingly easy solution to life's problems shared by a man and a woman who no longer care to share the problems; who believe the dissolution of their vows is the natural course to follow.

Divorce, the man thought, as he fought the blink that would force the moisture from his tear-filled eyes, should be outlawed. Divorce had ripped his daughter from his life with the force of a Schwarzenegger, had clouded his future and his reason with all the effectiveness of a Michigan thunderstorm in July.

Divorce, he figured, with all the cynicism of a man who had grappled with long distance daddyhood for more than eight years, is different things to different people. For the fortunate few, permanent separation from a spouse is as pain-filled as an uneventful car ride home, south on I-75 after a rained-out weekend. For most, however, the cataclysmic forces set into motion after His Honor decrees the judgment final have far reaching consequences. Some are felt right away with searing agony, other consequences are felt years later, resulting in deep, throbbing feelings of loss, thoughts of what if, actions cloaked in misgivings.

Perhaps the most debilitating consequence of divorce, this father's musings continued, is the unalterable shift in affection, concern and comfort a child feels for a Dad after divorce.

His daughter's words played on in his head with the impact of cymbals crashing. "Every time I come here I miss my mom, I miss my friends. I don't really know you, I don't even know my way around here. I have to go to a new camp every year and I'm all by myself. I want to go home. I don't like it here. I'm scared here."

The man's mind cleared as he watched his long-legged daughter climb from the pool and begin toweling off. He marveled at the quickness of time passing, and remembered that he had been performing the ritual of summertime parenthood since his daughter was two years old. Now she stood there coltish, a young girl on the verge of the teen years.

She was changing like quicksilver and suddenly he was afraid. Afraid that six to 10 weeks per year together could not possibly be enough to cement the bond of family. Afraid that they would never really know each other. Afraid that she would never know how much his time spent with her meant. Afraid that although he sacrificed much to be with his daughter, she would never really be close as they both needed. Time was passing too fast, distance was too great.

The father watched his daughter approach as he stood to gather the swimming gear from the pool lounge area. As they turned to leave for his condo, he reached for her hand. "What's the matter Dad?" she asked, taking his hand for a second. "You look sad."

"Nothing honey." He smiled down at her small upturned face. "I love you."

"I love you too Daddy," she replied. "Can we have Tacos for lunch?"

LETTERS

Beggars have rights, too

Initially I was not going to respond to Judith Doner Berne's July 13 Observer & Eccentric column, but the longer I mull over her comments, the more obvious it is that there is something terribly wrong in what she said, and it needs a reply.

First of all, she has implied that all the help street people need may be found in "soup kitchens, homeless shelters, and social service programs."

That's incorrect: Even if there were enough such programs and facilities, they are not necessarily located where the homeless population can easily get to them, they are not adequately and consistently funded to be efficient over a period of time, and they are of varying quality.

I am associated with the South Oakland Community Lunch Program, the only hot meals program for residents of southern Oakland County; our program is not easily accessible to persons coming from the west side of Oakland County, and obviously the one hot meal we serve each Saturday cannot serve all of a guest's nutritional needs.

Secondly, the column has once again presented the stereotyped drunken or drug-addicted bum to represent the street population. Such images drive us further and further apart as a society of individuals who must respect and love each other.

She has suggested that most street people are disreputable; would you so strongly identify a resident of Bloomfield or Birmingham with his addiction? Or would you explain that he/she had job or family problems, a lot of stress, etc. and was trying to work things out? The middle class is allowed to retain its human qualities and sense of dignity in such a situation; the poor are not.

Lastly, there is a very strong First Amendment problem in your suggestions that panhandling is improper and appropriately handled through official government action. Admittedly, you have not said that begging ought to be prohibited, merely that we shouldn't give a beggar money.

Prohibition through legislation, however, is the logical next step, and I do not agree that it is clear we should get the panhandlers off the streets. Begging may be unappealing to visitors to the city — any city — but panhandlers have free speech rights, just like the middle class folks who buy and read your newspaper.

Dem candidates for sheriff address election issues

Millage rebate sought

Local governments want jail tax money back

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

Local cities and townships are lining up demanding a rebate from the county jail tax.

But county officials say it's all a misunderstanding.

A resolution demanding the county return the .1-mill collected annually for an as-yet-unbuilt juvenile detention facility has been spreading like wildfire among local governments.

Canton passed it May 26. Since then, it's been passed by Redford, Garden City and Westland.

"This is money that should go back to local government," said Redford Trustee Garth Christie, a leader in the movement to have the money returned.

The resolution was also approved

■ 'You'd think this would be a big issue. But a lot of the voters I've talked to aren't really aware of it.'

Garth Christie
Redford trustee

by municipal officials in Dearborn, Inkster, Romulus, as well as Sumpter and Van Buren townships.

County voters approved a 1-mill jail tax four years ago. Since then the bulk of the money has gone to construction of the new county jail in Hamtramck, though local officials claim one-tenth of the levy was to have been set aside for youth.

Assistant county executive Dale Jurcisin, however, is urging municipalities to be patient.

The new state program drew strong encouragement from the executive's office.

Return of money to the locals was expected to be an issue in several county commission races — Christie, who is running for a commission seat in Redford and eastern Livonia, said his involvement grew out of his candidacy.

But whether the issue will ever reach the commission or just go quietly away isn't certain.

"We're really waiting to see what other communities do," said Redford Clerk Marilyn Heidenbrand, who also supports the resolution.

"You'd think this would be a big issue," Christie said. "But a lot of the voters I've talked to aren't really aware of it."

RESENTING ARTHRITIS

If you have arthritis and need fluid removed from your knee or other joint, you may undergo an unusual experience. When you undertake the procedure, you become tense and may feel light-headed or nauseated. Yet other times, when you are donating blood, or having laboratory tests drawn, you feel no such reaction.

Physicians are used to seeing these responses which represent more than the pain of the procedure itself. Often what you are expressing is resentment. In the case of joint aspiration you are revealing anger over your arthritis: that the condition isn't going away, that you can't control it without help, and that you have to spend time and money in a doctor's office. Worst still, you must take medicine daily and therefore are continuously reminded of your limits and impairment. Don't be distressed by your reaction. Such feelings of frustration are natural. Moreover, your doctor can accept your outburst if that is the single way you rebel against your condition. Expressing resentment in the doctor's office is a far better airing of your feelings than if you stopped taking your medication or canceled your office appointment.

Physicians realize you are revealing feelings not attitudes when you express bitter complaints over minor procedures.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Be brave: Experiment with exotic fresh fruit

Momma was never one to try something a little different. In all honesty though, 30 years ago Cinnamon's Produce Market in Wyandotte never really offered the more trendy upscale fruits and vegetables that are commonplace in many of today's markets.

Mangoes, carambolas and Crenshaw melons were just beginning to be imported on the west coast. Their prices, as well as availability, were out of reach, especially to a family whose dad worked two jobs just to keep it afloat.

This is the season for fresh fruits, jams and jellies. To many, fresh fruit can be as simple as strawberries, blueberries and cantaloupe. But when it comes to enjoying a wide assortment, local produce markets are brimming with a multitude of selections.

In her book "Uncommon Fruits and Vegetables," Elizabeth Schneider offers a compendium of information on more exotic alternatives. From Atemoyas to Ugli fruit, unusual fruit selections abound and they taste equally as good sliced and eaten straight or made into delectable jams, jellies and sauces that could easily win an entry into an gourmet's cookbook.

Blood oranges

Blood oranges are gaining in popularity in the United States. Having long been a popular favorite in Europe, this huge, sweet orange with a scarlet interior makes for an inventive marmalade and can be interchanged with regular oranges with minor effort.

The membrane is a little tougher than a normal orange, but the blood orange is sure to enliven any fruit salad with shards of colorful beauty.

Another personal favorite is the gooseberry. Uncle Earl relished sister Rosie's homemade gooseberry pie. Resembling a small cherry tomato in size, its flesh is the same color and tastes somewhat like a cross between a tomato, strawberry and a grape. Gooseberries are sweet with a slightly bitter aftertaste and, in addition to making a great pie, also make for an outstanding jam or jelly.

Aromatic guava

The guava is gaining in popularity, probably because of its juice, which frequently ends up in a blend of health food juice selections. The guava is very aromatic and its smell has been said to rival either the aroma of a sports locker or something from the Garden of Eden. The secret to choosing a good guava is to smell it.

The unripe versions will smell downright zesty, while the riper ones accumulate almost a floral aroma. The flavor is that of tutti-fruity, with the texture being pleasantly gritty.

Kumquats have been around for a while, but still, most of us have yet to acquire a liking for their taste. Serve kumquats like you would grapes. The rind is deliciously sweet while the pulp is puckery sour. Tossed in a simple fruit salad, or made into jam, kumquats are very versatile and absolutely delicious when pureed and rubbed over a crown roast or served with roast duck.

One of the most revered Chinese fruits is the simple lychee. Having been enjoyed for over 2,000 years, the fruit is about the size of a ping-pong ball wrapped in a shell that resembles a bur without prickles.

The consistency and taste is similar to peeled grapes, but if there's one thing the lychee has in its favor, it's the aroma that makes for fine eating, whether tossed in a salad, made into jam, or smoothed into a velvety reduction sauce.

Magnificent mangoes

Mangoes are considerably better known than apples in more places around the globe, second only to the banana and coconut. There are many different varieties with the little Asian ones being tops in flavor and Keitt, and Palmers being more readily available. Their skins are smooth and the meat tastes like a silky custard when perfectly ripe.

The ripe mango will have the feel of a ripe avocado with the stem end emitting a mild, sweet aroma. Hearty enough to stand up to smoked or grilled foods, chunks of mango are wonderful additions to chicken salads.

I would be remiss in my duties if I failed to mention the papaya. Probably the most readily available of all the fruits listed above, the papaya can be green, orange, rose or yellow skinned and encompasses a smooth meat similar to a melon. But in all honesty, it's the black caviar like seeds that add the true flavor, crossing between nasturtium blossoms and peppers. Papaya can be eaten raw, pan-fried, pureed into a velvety sauce or cubed and tossed into a salad. It makes a great salad dressing. In addition to an aromatic chilled soup.

These are just a few of the exotic fruits to be found markets today. It's just the tip of the iceberg, so to speak, and there are many other fruits available. Ask your grocer for more information and start experimenting!

JAMMIN'

Homemade preserves make peachy gifts

Fire up the canning kettle to preserve fresh, juicy Michigan fruits. Making preserves is rewarding, and doesn't take a lot of time.

BY JOAN BORAM
SPECIAL WRITER

Fess up! How many of us are closet jar savers, hoarding against the day when we're going to make jam, jelly or preserves? Who doesn't have a box of jars tucked under the sink, or boxes of jars in the garage, behind the bikes waiting to be filled with plum conserve or strawberry jam?

There's no time like the present. Stores and farmer's markets are loaded with Michigan fruits, fresh and juicy. Peaches and plums are ripening as we speak. Sugar is selling for half price at many area supermarkets. This is the Christmas to amaze and delight your friends with gifts of your very own preserves.

"Jam making really isn't a lot of work, and it doesn't take a lot of time," said Jean Noth of Redford. "I really enjoy the process of preserve-making. It's relaxing, and there's such a great feeling of accomplishment when you have six or eight jars of sparkling strawberry jam or currant jelly."

Noth also likes that she controls the ingredients when she makes the jam, and knows everything is natural and pure.

Strawberries have no natural pectin so preserves made without added pectin are likely to be thin. "But, if you add pectin, you need a lot more sugar. A thinner jam is versatile," said Noth. "It can be used over ice cream, as well as on toast or buttermilk scones."

A neighbor gave her some red currants a few years ago, and Noth made currant jelly out of necessity. "Taking all the little green things off the ends is rather time consuming. But the good thing is you can save the juice and make the jelly whenever you feel like it. I like to make it in the wintertime. It's such a cozy thing to do then.

For Jan Winship, making her famous plum conserve and peach marmalade means Christmas in July. She's not even deterred by an imminent move from Novi to Farmington Hills. "Everything's packed but my jars, my canning kettle, and my wooden spoon," she said.

"Preserving keeps me out of the malls in December. While other people are fighting the crowds and making decisions, I'm putting together festive little ribbon-trimmed baskets of 'Jan's Jams.'"

"If I feel like it, I might add a few homemade cookies. For one friend, I buy a special British 'shelter' magazine and box of salt-free crackers."

Winship always tries to buy Michigan fruit to make jam. "Maybe it's just my imagination, but it seems to have more flavor and juice, possibly because it's closer to home than California fruit."

When it's jam making time, Winship buys two or three kinds of plums — Italian plums, red plums, and a round chartreuse tart Japanese plum. Unlike peaches, plums don't have to be mashed. Just cut them off of the pits into pieces about the size of a nickel.

"An interesting side of recycling jars donated by your friends is that you find out a lot about their eating habits," said Winship. "Turns out I have one friend who devours jars of olives while she watches TV. I never would have known that if she hadn't given me a big box of empty olive jars."

Winship's philosophy of cooking is never read a recipe that begins with the word "mince," but, for her peach marmalade, she'll go through the trouble of peeling peaches.

When I open one of those jars in January, and the fresh peach aroma fills the kitchen, the little bit of effort is all worthwhile.

WINNER DINNER

BETSY BRETHEN

As summer continues to sail by, this week's Winner Dinner menu offers you a make-ahead meal that is perfect for those special occasions when the ubiquitous hamburger and hot dog dinner just doesn't cut the mustard.

Thanks to Gloria Bills of Plymouth for sharing her recipes for hot chicken salad, easy rice pilaf and raspberry pie. She loves this tasty menu and first served it when she hosted a baby shower.

Bills and her husband, Jim, are the proud parents of two young Korean children whom they adopted when each of the children was four months old. Delighted and thrilled, Bills exclaimed that adopting them was the best thing they have ever done.

Because she has worked as an executive secretary for 14 years at AAA Michigan, Bills considers herself fortunate indeed to have her mother, Catherine Vella, come to their home and take care of their children. A tremendous help to her daughter and son-in-law, Vella is much loved by her grandchildren.

Although Bills enjoys cooking, she makes an effort to plan and prepare her family's meals for the coming week on the weekend so that when she comes home from work she can spend time with her family. After all, she considers taking care of the three very special people in her life — her husband and two children her most important and rewarding job.

Thank you Gloria Bills, for sharing your recipes with us and congratulations on being selected this week's Winner dinner Winner. All the best to you, and until next time, I encourage all of you to please jot down your family's favorite slimmer Winner Dinner and send it my way.

Submit recipes to be considered for publication to Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham, 48012.

All submissions become the property of the Observer and Eccentric newspapers. Each winner receives an apron with the words "Winner Dinner" on it.

JEAN NORTH'S BUTTERMILK SCONES

3 cups sifted flour

3 Tablespoons sugar
2 Tablespoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
½ cup currants or raisins
1 cup buttermilk
Mix dry ingredients, add ½ cup butter and blend in with pastry cutter. Add ½ cup currants or raisins. (Hint: if you bring raisins or currants to a boil and cool before adding to scones or cookies, they won't get hard.)
Add 1 cup buttermilk, mix lightly with fork, and knead gently for about 1 minute. Dough should be crumbly. Roll out ¼-inch thick on a floured surface. Cut into diamond, triangles or rounds. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 15-20 minutes, until tops are golden. Makes 24-36 depending on size.

STRAWBERRY JAM

1 quart strawberries
4 cups sugar
juice of ½ lemon
Put stemmed berries in a 10-inch heavy cooking pot (not aluminum). Cut a few of the berries to release a little juice. Add four cups sugar (Note: uses ¼ cup sugar to 1 cup strawberries).

Stir the mixture very gently with a wooden spoon over low heat until it has "juiced up." When it is bubbling, cook for another 15 to 20 minutes over low heat. Stir occasionally to make sure the mixture isn't sticking to the bottom of the pan. Remove from heat, and sprinkle surface with juice of ½ lemon. Let set for a few minutes, spoon into jars and seal.

JAN WINSHIP'S PEACH MARMALADE

1 dozen medium peaches, 4

cups sliced
2 or 3 thin-skinned oranges
6 cups sugar
Boiling water
Dash of cinnamon
Pour boiling water over about a dozen medium peaches. Peaches should be a little firm, and not too ripe. (You want to end up with 4 cups of sliced peaches). After a few minutes, the skins will loosen and will slip right off the fruit with the help of a small paring knife.
While the peaches are soaking, quarter two or three thin-skinned oranges and remove the seeds. Grind the oranges, including the rinds, in a food processor. Put the ground oranges and 6 cups of sugar into a very heavy cooking pot (not aluminum), and bring to a boil. Turn the heat down, and simmer for about 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, skin the peaches and slice them. After the orange has cooked for 15 minutes, add the peaches, bring to a boil, and simmer for another 20 minutes.
Remove from the heat. At this point, you may add a tiny amount of ground cinnamon, if you prefer. Spoon into sterilized jars, add paraffin, or seal.

Try something different, experiment with exotic fruit

See Larry Jones' story on Taste front.

BLOOD ORANGE JELLY

Peel from 3 blood oranges, coarsely cut
3 cups water
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ cup blood orange juice
1 ¼ cups sugar

Combine peel and water in heavy, non-reactive pot. Boil gently until peel is tender, about 40 minutes. Drain liquid and measure; there should be a little less than 1 cup. If there is more, boil to reduce. Discard solid rinds.

Return the liquid to the pot with lemon juice, blood orange juice and sugar. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Boil until mixture reaches a jelly stage, (large heavy bubbles that roll and pop).
Test as follows: Dip a clean metal spoon into the syrup. Move away from the steam, then tilt so jelly runs off. If it forms a steam or drops in two distinctive drops, continue boiling. If two drops travel slowly along the rim and edge, remove from heat, pour into sterilized jars, cool, cover and refrigerate.

GOOSEBERRY AND APPLE PIE

2 prepared 9-inch pie crusts

1 ½ pounds, tart, firm apples, like Granny Smiths
1 pint gooseberries, cleaned
½-¾ cups sugar
1 Tablespoon cornstarch pinch salt
Topping:
1 egg white
1 Tablespoon rum or brandy (optional)
1 Tablespoon butter or margarine

2 teaspoons sugar
Quarter and peel the apples. Cut into slices and place in a bowl with gooseberries. Stir together sugar and cornstarch and toss with fruit. Allow to stand while preparing the pastry.
Place roasting pan or baking sheet in bottom of a preheated 450 degree oven. Place one prepared pie crust in the bottom of a 9-inch pie plate. Beat egg white with rum until foamy. Brush bottom crust with mixture.

Heap fruit into pastry. Top with butter bits and brush the rim with remaining egg white mixture. Lay top crust on, press lightly and seal ends with fork tines. Cut small vents on top. Set pie on baking sheet in the preheated oven. Lower heat to 375 degrees and bake for 35 minutes. Cool on a rack.

Quench your thirst for beer knowledge

AP — Burgers and beer make a tasty team, but with the myriad of brews on the market, which beer wins the toss?

Beer has been brewed as far back as 6,000 B.C. So, before you pop the tab or flip the cap on your next beer, get to know a little bit more about this ancient thirst quencher.

Lager Beer: Most beers brewed in the United States today are lagers. Lager beers characteristically are pale colored, mellow tasting and light bodied. They range between 3.2 percent and 4 percent alcohol and average about 150 calories per 12 ounces. Lagers are bottom-fermented, which means the yeast sinks to the bottom of the vat during fermentation.

Light Beer: American brand "light" beers have fewer calories (70 to 130 per 12 ounces) than lager beers because they're made with a reduced amount of malt and grain. They usually have less alcohol, too. In Europe, the term "light" has a different meaning. It distinguishes pale lagers from dark lagers.

Ales: Unlike lagers, ales are fermented at high temperatures by yeasts that float. They're more full-bodied and hoppy tasting than lagers (hops is the grain used to make beer). They range in color from pale to deep amber.

Porters and Stouts: These beers are variations of ales. Porters are dark brown, full-bodied and less hoppy tasting than ales. Well-roasted barley gives these brews a bittersweet flavor.

Stout: Stout is also flavored and colored by roasted barley. It has a darker color and more intense, bitter hop taste than porter with a dense, almost syrupy body.

Bock: German-made bock beer was originally made during the winter months for drinking in the spring, though it's now produced year-round. Dark brown in color, bock beer generally tastes sweeter than lager, and is full-bodied, with a sharp, strong aroma. The alcohol content may be more than double that of lager beers.

Malt Liquor: Malt liquor is another lager-type beer, usually with a higher alcohol content. A malt liquor is marked by a darker color, more bitter flavor and more robust aroma than lager.

soft drink storage area, where the temperature is between 40 degrees F and 50 degrees F.

Most bottled beer comes in protective green or brown bottles plus cardboard packaging to help screen out light, which damages beer's taste. But it's still wise to keep your beer out of the bright indoor light or sunlight.

Unlike wines, beer doesn't improve with age. Brewers maintain strict quality control and stock rotation procedures to ensure the freshest product possible. At home, store beer no longer than a year for the best flavor.

How to Serve Beer

Although many people enjoy their beer ice cold, low temperatures numb the taste buds. To better appreciate the true aroma and taste of beer, serve it at 45 degrees F for lagers and lighter beers, or 50 degrees F to 60 degrees F for ales, porters and stouts. That means storing your lager and lighter beers in the refrigerator or a cooler and your ales in a cool, dark place, such as a basement.

Step around the heart of it

NYC doesn't sleep during summer

BY TERRY TRUCCO
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

For some New Yorkers it's almost a reflex action to leave the city in the summer. But for those who stay — and those who visit — summer in Manhattan has a distinctive set of charms.

Even with big events such as the Democratic National Convention, summertime Manhattan has a little less bustle, a little less hassle. And this summer, in particular, New York City has lots to offer, including a dazzling lineup of plays on Broadway.

Manhattan is looking good at the moment. The frenzied building of the late '80s has slowed considerably.

Instead, the city is upgrading what it's got. Familiar museums, notably the Guggenheim and the Morgan Library, have enlarged their premises and restored old buildings with splendid results.

And in the past two years more than a dozen old hotels, including the Beekman Towers, the Drake and the Plaza, have been renovated top to toe, often with stunning results. A number of pleasant, modestly priced hotels have sprouted up as well.

Manhattan is also trying hard to please its guests. Times Square recently unveiled two portable information kiosks. Each is an outside steamer trunk on wheels with a multilingual concierge inside who hands out maps, brochures and advice.

Manhattan can be intimidating, of course. One way to make it manageable is to concentrate on what's new. This guide, while hardly comprehensive, will give a hint of the intriguing sights, shops and entertainments that may not have existed on your last visit.

Sightseeing

A happy addition to Central Park last month was the 90-minute guided trolley tour. Air-conditioned and painted a jaunty red, the trolley holds 32 passengers, costs $12.50 and departs weekdays at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. from Grand Army Plaza at Fifth Avenue and 59th Street. Information: (212) 360-2727.

Bryant Park, the elegantly landscaped square behind the New York Public Library at 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue, isn't exactly new. But it was officially rededicated in May after an $8.9 million restoration and looks terrific, with cleaned statues, mended wrought-iron fences and 2,000 perennials in the garden.

The stately new Garden Court at the Morgan Library, 29 East 36th St., (212) 685-0008, is a glass-enclosed conservatory where visitors can admire the ginkgo tree and ficus — and bougainvillea-covered wall year round.

Opened in October, the conservatory is a pleasing bridge between the neoclassical library and Morgan House, the adjoining 45-room Victorian brownstone. Open Tuesday to Saturday, 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. There is a suggested contribution of $5.

The Guggenheim Museum, Fifth Avenue at 88th Street, (212) 423-3500, reopened last week after two years of renovations, with new galleries, a smart cafe and an expanded shop. An architectural highlight is Frank Lloyd Wright's sky lit small rotunda, previously closed to the public. "Masterpieces From the Guggenheim Collection" is on view to Aug. 27. Open daily except Thursday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Admission: $7.

Opening on the same day was the Guggenheim's new SoHo branch, 575 Broadway, near Prince Street, currently showing "From Brancusi to Bourgeois," modern and contemporary works from the collection, to Aug. 27. Open Sunday, Monday and Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday to Saturday 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Admission $5.

A new Broadway theater season is under way with a full house of recent hits, including "Falsettos" at the John Golden Theater, 252 West 45th St., "Jelly's Last Jam," at the Virginia Theater, 245 West 52nd St., and the megahit revival of "Guys and Dolls" at the Martin Beck Theater, 302 West 45th St. Tickets, $45 to $65, can be bought by phone at (212) 239-6200.

For movie buffs Lincoln Center's Walter Reade Theater, 165 West 65th St., at plaza level, (212) 875-5626, opened in December, offering vintage and international films. Screenings start at 2 p.m. Admission is $7.

Shopping

The past two years have been rough ones for many Manhattan merchants as an alarming number of vacant stores, large and small, attest. But SoHo, now a hip shopper's haven, is thriving.

All fixed up: The Guggenheim Museum reopened recently after two years of renovations, displaying new galleries, a smart cafe and an expanded gift shop.

The right binoculars can bring a vacation into focus

Good view: A good pair of binoculars is a much-underrated travel accessory

BY EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

A good pair of binoculars is a highly underrated travel accessory.

Some weigh less than 8 ounces and can be carried in a shirt pocket or tucked into a knapsack.

Binoculars can add to the pleasure of a cruise — for observing sea birds, whales and dolphins, watching port activities or identifying ships on the horizon.

Vacationers can take binoculars hiking, cycling, cross-country skiing, to the racetrack or the opera.

They can make an avid bird-watcher out of travelers who don't know a heron from a bluejay.

And costs vary to suit a range of budgets that is nearly as great as the available ranges of magnification.

An inexpensive pair of binoculars may cost as little as $85; a pair with more sophisticated optics can easily reach $500 and up.

But price is not everything. An inexpensive pair of binoculars may cause undue eyestrain or "eye fatigue." An expensive pair may be more state-of-the-art than the casual buyer ever will need.

Before buying any pair of binoculars, it's important to understand how they differ.

First of all, binocular models are identified by two numbers, such as "7 x 35" or "8 x 20." The first number indicates the degree of magnification. For example, "7 x" means the image is magnified seven times its normal size; "8 x" means eight times.

As with camera lenses, the larger the magnification, the more important it is to hold the binoculars steady. Otherwise, the image will blur and shake. Usually, any lens greater than "10 x" calls for a tripod to keep the image steady.

The second number refers to the millimeter size on the front, or objective, lens. The larger that lens is, the more light it can gather — and the larger and heavier the binoculars will be.

Binoculars come with various fields of view: the width of the image area. The wider the field of view, the easier it is to track moving objects, such as birds or racehorses.

The binoculars should be comfortable. Those who wear eyeglasses and find binoculars difficult to use may need to look for models with rubber eyecups that can reduce the distance between the eyes and the lenses.

Finally, binoculars should be easy to focus. The distance between eyepieces should be adjustable for maximum comfort.

Most of today's models offer central focusing, usually by turning a wheel between the eyepieces. Many also come with "diopter correction" on the right eyepiece. This allows the right eyepiece to focus separately to accommodate eyesight variations.

In terms of models on the market, probably the most significant and sophisticated new binoculars have been introduced by Carl Zeiss Optical Inc., the famed German manufacturer.

For the first time, the company has applied its advanced optics technology to compact travel binoculars in a line called the Zeiss Design Selection, with "8 x 20" and "10 x 25" binoculars, each weighing a mere 6.5 ounces.

Zeiss also uses "phase-shift multicoating" to cut down on glare. The glasses can be used for long periods of time without causing eye fatigue.

They fit comfortably into the palm of one's hand and fold into a lightweight, hard-shell case for protection. But the quality has a healthy price tag: the "8 x 20" lists at $530, the "10 x 25" is $575.

Many dealers will discount these prices, but it's best to think of Zeiss as the BMW of binoculars. For information contact Carl Zeiss Optical Inc., 1015 Commerce St., Petersburg, Va. 23803 or call (800) 33-2984.

Minolta Autofocusing Binoculars use the same technology that's found in Minolta Maxxum SLR cameras.

The "8 x 22" model, which retails for $302, automatically focuses on images at distances from 6.6 feet away infinity. The sleekly designed "10 x 25," at $342, is good for images at a distance of 9.2 feet to infinity.

For information contact Minolta Corp., 101 Williams Drive Ramsey, N.J. 07446.

Nikon offers a wide range of binoculars for travel. Their new Sportstar series is affordably priced. The all-purpose binoculars fit into a pocket or purse.

Out of work: Donahue still hopes to coach

I suppose this is a fear harbored by all, which is why it's usually confined to the deepest recesses of our minds. And there it remains for most of us, a fear that fortunately is never realized.

Losing your job — for whatever reason — is horrifying.

But imagine losing it after enjoying what could only be termed as an unqualified successful year? How would you feel if, after breaking all company sales records, and doing it without violating any company rules, you came in one day and found out you were sacked?

Obviously, your first question would be Why? The answer given: Financial problems.

How do you argue with that? You can try, insisting that what you did generated more revenue than it cost. You could provide all sorts of supporting data, but if the decision by the people in charge has already been made, it won't do any good.

It's too late. You're through.

Glen Donahue has faced all this in the last three months. Last winter he coached St. Mary's College's men's basketball team to a single-season school-record for victories, guiding them to their second-straight NAIA District 23 championship and the ensuing NAIA National Tournament.

In five years, he took a program on the brink of collapse (former coach Rick Zalenski left just a few weeks before school opened in 1987, leaving an opening which Donahue filled) to one of the best in the nation.

Success isn't enough

And, unlike others (Zalenski, who left to coach Bristol College in Tennessee, put that program on probation a year later), Donahue did it while following the rules. Of the 15 players he coached and were eligible to graduate, 11 got their degrees; two others are expected to in December.

St. Mary's had never been so successful in basketball. And with the possible return of Joachim Jerichow, a native of the Netherlands who was a standout as a freshman at St. Mary's in 1989-90, combined with six returning seniors (including All-American Jimmy Bolden, from Detroit Country Day), it seemed the team would be even better.

Then came that fateful April announcement, one that shocked everyone and completely upended Donahue's world: Due to financial restrictions, St. Mary's basketball program was canceled. Immediately.

Now what? Here he was, a 57-year-old retired school teacher, without a job in a market with precious few openings. "I've looked at everything," Donahue said Tuesday in the office at St. Mary's he still works out of, running summer basketball camps.

"I'll consider a high school job, but I don't want to do it unfairly. I don't want to take a high school job for a year and then leave for a college job. And I've been coaching college for so long, I'd be like a duck out of water (in high school)."

Always a coach

But, Donahue added: "I want to coach. Always, in my life, I planned on coaching until I was 70-plus."

Considering he has nearly 600 career wins in his 31 years, including more than 600 college wins in 24 seasons, one might think he could find a job easily. But the late date in which he started searching combined with such a small market has left him still looking, still hoping.

It's the mark of the man that his first concern was for his players and coaches. Amazingly, nearly everyone on the roster has a place lined up to play and finish their schooling. Bolden, easily the district's best talent, has committed to NCAA Division I Wichita State.

It will be Bolden's third college. He played a year at NCAA I South Florida, didn't like it and transferred to St. Mary's. It's a credit to both Bolden and Donahue's program that his final choice was based more on academics than basketball: More of his credits transferred, so Bolden could complete his degree faster.

Finding a place for a senior to play for only a year is not easy, but Donahue managed. Terrance Hughes is bound for Georgia Southwestern; Jeff Szczepanski, Spring Arbor; Fred Russell is considering Biola College in La Mirada, Calif.; and Kevin Karafa, a redshirt senior (junior eligibility), Northwood Institute.

Only Marvin Morrison, a senior bothered by knee problems last season, is considering coming back to finish his education at St. Mary's (all scholarships will be honored, according to the administration).

Safe at home: Craig Overaitis (Livonia Franklin) eludes Little Caesars' catcher Jim Solah's tag and scores Walter's second run on a suicide squeeze bunt Wednesday night at Livonia's Ford Field. Little Caesars won 3-2.

Walter's clinches 3rd in LCBL

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

All the running Dave Wood has done this summer to keep in shape has helped Walter's Appliance stay in the race for a Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoff berth.

Wood, who has shed 15 pounds since last year and now weighs 205, improved to 5-0 as a pitcher with a complete-game 7-1 victory over Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury at Livonia's Ford Field.

The win gave Walter's third place in the final standings with an 18-10-2 record and 38 points. Hines Park was in fourth place at 16-13 (32 points) with one game remaining. Each team earned a berth in the four-team playoffs that begin Tuesday at Ford Field.

Wood, a right-hander from Berkley and Henry Ford Community College, allowed four hits, struck out six and walked two. Hines Park's only run came in the sixth inning after Scott Rodgers (Plymouth Salem) and Jason Riggs (Plymouth Canton) had consecutive singles and Rodgers came home from second on a throwing error.

"Last year, I liked to work out (with weights) so much I put on weight," Wood said. "I started running a lot more and not lifting as much and I like it."

Walter's will likely play second-place Delwal in Tuesday's first playoff game at 8 p.m. Hines Park, which finished the regular season Sunday against Tecumseh, will likely meet Livonia Little Caesars (the first place team prior to Friday) at 5:30 p.m.

Hines Park lost four of its last six games and in that stretch scored only 12 runs. Jeff Paluk (Plymouth Salem) suffered the loss after allowing four runs in the first and two more in the fourth before leaving.

Paluk, 4-4 overall, allowed only three hits but walked five and hit a batter.

"Right now, Rodgers is our only guy stepping out in the middle of the diamond and taking charge," Hines Park coach Dave Carroll said. "We've quit scoring runs and that puts pressure on the pitchers and defense."

Walter's scored four runs in the first on four walks, a Hines Park error and a double by Craig Overaitis (Livonia Franklin). Joe Brusseau (Borgess), Jeff Pendell (Churchill), Overaitis and Paul Pirronello (Catholic Central) scored.

Lou McKaig was safe on a fielder's choice in the fourth and later came home on a single by Overaitis. Kevin Young (Farmington) made the score 6-0 with a sacrifice fly scoring Brusseau, who was hit by a pitch. Brusseau walked to lead off the sixth and scored the final run on another sacrifice fly by Young.

"We're in the playoffs and that was one of our goals," Walter's coach Mike Keller said. "We'll be here Tuesday, ready to play ball."

Caesars rallies

Little Caesars used its final at-bat well, staging a seventh-inning rally to edge Walter's Appliance 3-2 Wednesday at Ford Field.

Caesars prior to Friday was 19-9 (38 points) with two games against Tecumseh remaining.

Jerry Shippe's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the seventh won it for Caesars, breaking a 2-all tie.

Walter's pitcher Bryan Pfeifer loaded the bases with one out in the seventh and Keller summoned former Redford Catholic Central righthander Steve Ross from the bullpen.

Ross immediately yielded the base hit to Shippe, which scored pinch-runner Larry Gagne.

Dave Roman went the distance and earned the win for Caesars. Walter's had five hits, including two from Jeff Pendell.

Wirebaugh goes 6-1

Derek Wirebaugh won his sixth game Wednesday, pitching Delwal to a 5-4 win over Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury at Ford Field.

Wirebaugh went six innings, striking out six, walking one and allowing 10 hits.

Delwal had eight hits, including three from Chad Chapman. Jason Valente chipped in two hits, one RBI and four stolen bases.

Concealed Security advances to final

■ Concealed Security kept alive its hopes of a Connie Mack regional berth with its performance over the weekend in the Macomb district.

The Concealed Security Connie Mack baseball team reached the championship game of the Macomb district over the weekend at Kite Monroe Field in St. Clair Shores.

Concealed (25-13-1 overall) won two of its first three games in the double elimination tournament and played the Macomb Riggers in Saturday's title game.

Some of the most anxious moments came Friday afternoon when Concealed beat Tecumseh (Canada) 2-1 in eight innings. Concealed received a third-round bye before playing Tecumseh.

■ Concealed won for the first time, 13-1, over Rochester in a game played Thursday afternoon. Chad Zann was the winning pitcher in the five-inning mercy game, allowing only two hits.

Concealed got excellent pitching from starter Dan Gusoff and reliever Dan Scutchfield. Gusoff allowed three hits, one run and walked four before leaving with a 1-1 tie after 6½ innings. Scutchfield earned the win, pitching hitless relief over the last 1½ innings.

Tecumseh scored the first run in the fourth before Concealed tied the score in the bottom of the sixth with two outs. Matt Green walked with two outs, stole second base and came home on Craig Petersen's single. Concealed broke the tie in the eighth.

Paul Kuhn singled and went to second on a bunt by Todd Piniewski. Cuba Gregory was safe on a bunt to put runners on first and third and after an intentional walk to Mark D'Antonio, Green singled to bring Kuhn home.

Concealed started the tourney with a 6-3 loss on Thursday afternoon against Riggers. D'Antonio was the losing pitcher, 11 hits and three walks.

D'Antonio had two hits and an RBI and Gusoff had a two-run single in the third that gave Concealed a 3-2 lead. Riggers took the lead for good in the fifth with two runs.

Concealed won for the first time, 13-1, over Rochester in a game played Thursday afternoon. Chad Zann was the winning pitcher in the five-inning mercy game, allowing only two hits.

Concealed scored nine runs in the first inning on six hits, two walks and a hit batter. D'Antonio was 3-for-4 with five RBI. Lee Gardner and Green each had two hits and an RBI.

Livonia Boxing Club interests local hockey star

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Within a couple of weeks, Dave Burke should have a better idea where his hockey future lies.

The Redford Union HS graduate has spent the last four years playing for Cornell University, in Ithaca, N.Y. He was drafted in the sixth round in 1989 by the Toronto Maple Leafs, and there's a good chance Burke will go to their training camp in September.

But it isn't a certainty. "If things don't work out, I'll look for an independent team in the IHL (International Hockey League) or perhaps European hockey," he said.

In an effort to help himself, Burke has inquired about enlisting the help of Paul Soucy, director of the Livonia Boxing Club. His reasons are self-evident: Hockey is a rough sport, and he wants to be able to defend himself.

Burke appears quite able to do so. He's 6-foot-1 and weighs between 205 and 210 pounds. As a defenseman at Cornell, he served as team tri-captain, scoring five goals and assisting on nine others last season. Cornell finished second in the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference playoffs and went 14-11-4 overall.

But Burke had just 30 penalty minutes, so while his size might indicate an enforcer-type, his other attributes don't. He graduated in May with a 4.0 grade-point average.

Ask him about boxing and how it fits into the National Hockey League's style of play, and Burke becomes quite eloquent. He wrote a paper for one of his classes on hockey marketing, and fighting was a big part of it.

"I really don't want to make a big deal out of it because I'm not a fighter," said Burke. "But as long as fighting is a part of hockey, I want to be able to defend myself."

"If the situation arises in training camp, I don't want to have to back down. I want to be able to take care of myself."

It is not something he relishes. Unlike many hockey fans, he disdains fighting. "As a player, I certainly enjoy the physical aspect of the game," he said. "But I'm not real happy that fistcuffs are a part of it."

He believes hockey must pursue a different image if it is to flourish as a professional sport. "It has begun to suffer as it competes for entertainment dollars," he said.

There are proposals currently being considered by NHL executives to curb, even outlaw, fighting. Burke, however, is pessimistic. "I know there will be a lot of resistance. They would have to do a lot of convincing to get it done."

But there's always hope. "If it does happen, it bodes well for the future," he said. "This is a rare opportunity to present to the public a different type of game."

Still, as Burke noted: "It won't be determined by altruism, but by dollars and cents."

Something similar could be said of Burke's own future. If he does go to the Maple Leafs' camp, his odds of making the team won't be high. He has no contract; management apparently wants him to earn one in camp.

"It makes some sense, but so many players have contracts before they go into camp," he said. "You have to be so much better than they are to make it."

Burke won't surrender, however. "Somewhere along the line, I'll find a place to play," he said.

Even if he has to fight his way into the league — an option he doesn't savor, but accepts.

Bowling to play a role in Olympics

10-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

OK sports fans, now that you're nestled on the couch enjoying the Olympics, let's see if any bowling flashes on the screen.

During the last Olympic games, bowling was run as a demonstration sport. This time around, golf and women's softball will replace bowling.

I want you to know there has been a major effort put forth to make bowling a medal sport.

More than 110 million people in 80 countries bowl at least one game per year. Around the globe, approximately 12 million people compete in organized leagues.

Bowling rules are universal and so is the equipment used. Now, could someone please tell me why bowling is not part of the Olympics?

It's one of the oldest sports in the world, dating back to 5,200 B.C. Worldwide, 7 million games are bowled each day — and still no Olympics. Why?

Well, sports fans (bowling fans in particular), I have great news. Bowling will be present in Barcelona. We just came in through the side door, that's all.

Thanks to the resourcefulness of the American Bowling Congress, the Bowling Proprietors Association of America, the Women's International Bowling Congress and the Brunswick Corp., bowling will be in full bloom in Olympic Village.

Brunswick is an official supplier in Spain and has installed a state-of-the-art bowling and billiards facility there. The facility will give the sport of bowling an opportunity to support the Olympic movement by providing an important form of recreation for athletes from around the world.

In addition, there will be clinics and daily bowling exhibitions, demonstrating to people from all over the world the merits of the game.

This bowling center will include 16 Bowlvision lanes for the free use of some 15,000 athletes from 170 nations.

The center will close for two weeks right after the Olympics and then reopen for the Paralympic Games, which run from Aug. 29 to Sept. 17 for handicapped athletes.

The total cost of this facility will be in excess of 1 million dollars.

The expense and effort were deemed worthwhile by Don Hillman, chairman of the BPAA's Olympic Committee.

"We really need a presence in Barcelona," Hillman said.

Together with Brunswick, the BPAA, ABC and WIBC all felt it was vital to include bowling somehow during these Olympics to keep its momentum going for the future and hopefully making it a medal sport.

Actually, bowling would be great for the Olympics. The sport is scored objectively, much of the world bowls, and men and women compete according to identical rules and with similar ability.

Then there's the historical angle: Bowling, in its present form, began in 1895 — within a few months of the first modern Olympics.

A place for all — but one

Other squad members and their new schools: junior Brian Koscielski (Wayne State); redshirt sophomore Jason Shafer (St. Clair Community College); sophomore Chris Delaney (Brock University in St. Catherine's, Ontario); and redshirt junior Marc Eversley (considering Georgia Southwestern and Cumberland College, Ky.). Junior Brian Smith is undecided.

Even Jerichow has found somewhere else to go. He will attend NCAA II Hawaii-Chaminade. Donahue's assistant coaches are taken care of, too — son Kevin will coach St. Clair Shores South Lake, and Denny Butcher will coach the Milford-Lakeland girls team.

But what about the head man? "I've applied throughout the U.S.," he said. He's also in consideration for a couple of coaching jobs at Canadian colleges.

But time is running out. He knows it; Donahue is facing a winter without coaching for the first time in 31 years.

He is left to sit in his office, wondering how this happened. "I don't know how they can justify it," he says when pondering the decision made by St. Mary's Board of Trustees. "I'm still in shock. In no way do I know of any reason why they dropped it."

What about a lack of finances?

"That's easily used as a reason," he answers in disbelief. "The more I think of it, the more confused I get. This was an ideal situation. They were all achieving academically."

He used to love his job at St. Mary's. He was up early and in the office by 8 a.m., often staying until the evening hours. Unless it was a game day, of course — then he might not get home until nearly midnight.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Items for the Sports Roundup should be submitted by noon Tuesday (for Thursday issue) and noon Friday (for Monday issue). Items run one issue only.

HOCKEY TRYOUTS

• The Garden City Over-30 Hockey League will have tryouts Sept. 1 and 3 at the Garden City Ice Arena, in Garden City Park on Cherry Hill east of Merriman.

For more information, call Gary at 278-0743 or Dave at 453-0033.

• The Michigan Nationals, a Mite AA hockey team, have four tryout sessions scheduled: Aug. 14, from 6-7 p.m.; Aug. 16, from 1-2 p.m.; Aug. 22, from 1-2 p.m.; and Aug. 26, from 7-8 p.m. All tryouts will be at Canfield Ice Arena, on Ford and Beech Daly, in Dearborn Heights.

For more information, call Reggie Regulski at 421-5379 or Mike Kesler at 464-4397.

HOLE-IN-ONE

It wasn't his first, but it certainly will be memorable.

Larry LaVoie of Garden City recorded the second ace of his life at Glenhurst Golf Course in Redford Township on July 20. He did it on the 95-yard 13th hole, and he used a nine iron. His score for the 18 holes: 67.

What makes LaVoie's ace surprising is that he had triple-bypass heart surgery seven months ago, after suffering a heart attack Nov. 24. It quite obviously didn't keep him off the links — he's been playing at Glenhurst for 40 years.

SOCCER TRYOUT

Tryouts for the Northville Sting, a 1977 boys Mite Division Little Caesars premier soccer team, will be at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at Northville Soccer Field, off Sheldon between Five and Six Mile roads. The tryouts are open to boys 15½ and younger, from all areas.

For information, call Bob Pizzuti at 476-1883.

ROLLER HOCKEY TRYOUTS

If you enjoy roller hockey, here's your chance to show your stuff and perhaps make some money at it. Roller Hockey International will sponsor a tryout camp Aug. 7-9 at Cobo Arena.

Players attending the camp can be selected by one of 16 professional teams in the 1993 draft, and will have a chance to make either the U.S. or Canadian all-star teams this year.

The all-star teams will tour both countries starting Aug. 13, visiting five cities: Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Phoenix, Vancouver and Las Vegas.

The camp will be directed by former Montreal Canadiens hockey star Ralph Backstrom and former St. Louis Blues general manager Chuck Catto. Together with a staff of coaches, they will evaluate all camp players.

The league will open play next summer, with its schedule running from June through August. Team USA all-stars will battle Team Canada all-stars on Sept. 11 at Cobo; tickets go on sale Aug. 7 at both Cobo and Joe Louis Arena, and all Ticketmaster outlets.

For information call (310) 795-6460.

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN

Maybe the weather has confused you, and you think summer hasn't yet arrived. Sorry, but the first sign of fall is already upon us. The East vs. West all-star game, featuring the best just-graduated football players from the state, will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at Michigan State's Spartan Stadium.

The East team will be coached by Plymouth Salem's Tom Moshimer, and will include Cardell Davis, a tailback from Redford St. Agatha; Justin Gugal, a defensive tackle from Redford Bishop Borgess; Jason Hagelthorne, a tackle from Westland John Glenn and Leon Hister, a tailback from Salem.

Incidentally, practice for fall sports in high school can start Aug. 10.

MISSING THE CUT

Well, it wasn't what Brad Kamin-ski would have hoped for.

The Garden City native finished well out of the running at the Michigan Insurance Youth Golf Classic, July 20 at Katke Golf Course in Big Rapids. Kaminski shot 86-93 for a 179 total to finish tied for 71st among the 82 junior golfers who played. The winner was Brian Donahoe of Rochester Hills, who shot 137.
