Incumbent raises big bucks

Reports show incumbent Mayor Robert Thomas has received many more campaign contributions than his rival, City Councilman Charles Pickering. Pickering's camp says Thomas "strong-arms" people for donations; Thomas says they just like the job he's doing.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas has raised $228,077 in the last four years, sparking criticism that he has been campaigning for re-election since he won his first term in 1989.

"He has been strong-arming the business community for money ever since," charged Dennis LeMaitre, campaign manager for mayoral challenger and Westland City Council president Charles Pickering.

Thomas denied the accusation and said much of the money that he raised and spent has not been campaign-related. He also said donations to his committee prove that he has done an effective job - and that contributors recognize it.

Candidate expense reports filed at the county clerk's office show that Thomas has raised $228,077 since Nov. 28, 1989, shortly after he emerged as an hourly worker in the city's public services department to defeat former Mayor Charles Griffin.

Thomas has spent $216,983 during the same period.

It was the first group meeting of the seven, who are seeking four seats in the Nov. 2 election. Two council members will end their terms Dec. 31, meaning that at least two new faces will join the council Jan. 1.

The seven candidates are scheduled to convene again Wednesday morning at a legislative breakfast sponsored by the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

Griffin, who was a 10-year councilman before being elected mayor eight years ago, said that of the 10 additional officers, six are in command positions with only four being

Griffin also challenged Sharon Scott's claim that the 12-hour shifts in the police department, initiated to increase efficiency and patrols, is working. He wants a return to the previous eight-hour shifts.

Eadeh, criticized by council nominee David Cox for being supported by Mayor Thomas, said he missed the planning commission's meeting on the Sam's Club rezoning proposal for a site opposite City Hall because of the death of his father that week. But he fater voted against the Kroger rezoning.

Eadeh felt there was a doublestandard raised in relation to mayoral candidates backing specific council hopefuls.

He pointed out that there are many signs on the same lawns for mayoral nominee Charles Pickering and City Councilwoman Sandra Cicirelli, seeking a second term. At the same time, Eadeh said, Cox and Griffin are campaigning together.

He also noted that Griffin, when earlier running for mayor, supported Councilmen Kenneth Mehl, Ben DeHart and William Ziemba. During the 90-minute long candi-

Mayoral candidates rip into first debate

By LEONARD POGER EDITOR

Mayor Robert Thomas and challenger Charles Pickering urged each other to just "tell the truth" while talking about their records and how they plan to improve public services.

During the first face-to-face candidates' forum, the two also jousted about the four-year-old issue of some fire halls being sometimes closed, their community service records, public safety, budget surpluses, and leadership skills.

The forum was taped at the city's cable-TV studio Tuesday and was first shown the next night. It will repeated this week.

The only new issue — city control of the cable-TV system — was raised by council president Pickering near the end of the 90-minute program.

With the Contintental Cablevision contract to expire in 1999, Pickering proposed that the city "take control" of the system to control cable rates and use the system's $10 million in revenues to provide city services.

Pickering added that the local cable rates were "reasonable" until this year when they were revised under new federal government guide-

On the issue of who had the best record of mayor, Thomas, seeking a second term, emphasized the problems that Pickering had with the city council when Pickering was the city's chief executive from 1982-85.

Thomas said that while Pickering is stressing his leadership in the current campaign, "there was poor leadership and the worst term as mayor' when his opponent was in office. "Why didn't he get the job done if he had community involvement?' Thomas said, citing Pickering's frequent references to his active community service record.

"You need a problem-solver, not a problem-creator," the mayor concluded.
Thomas had earlier criticized his foe for the numerous civil suits Pickering was involved in as mayor.

Pickering, on the city council since 1988, shot back that Thomas is also involved in civil suits, although not with the council.

The challenger added that he prevailed in the suits involving himself and the council in the early 1980s.

On a related council-mayoral relationship issue, Thomas said he has has issued only three vetoes, far less than Pickering's 22.

On the fire hall closings, Pickering urged his opponent to "tell the truth," saying that the Merriman-Ann Arbor Trail station was closed the week of Sept. 20.

But the "closing" depends on how the word is defined, said Thomas. He responded that the firefighters were in a training session and were still able to respond to emergencies.

If elected, Pickering said he would keep all four stations open all the

The challenger also stressed that he is better able to work with community leaders, including local school officials and the business community than Thomas, who opposed a proposed Wayne-Westland millage increase several years ago and had several run-ins with the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

On campaign literature, Thomas said that "gutter tactics are insulting to the intelligence of voters," adding that the type of campaign a candidate mounts reflects the type of elected official he will

The two also sparred on the size of the budget deficit Pickering inherited when he started his mayoral term in 1982.

ess people, LeMaitre said. "He (Thomas) has been putting the hit on them, and he has been squeezing them for four years, said LeMaitre, president of the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

LeMaitre criticized large donations to Thomas from contractors developers and others, such as city attorney Angelo Plakas. Much of the money has come from contributors who stand to benefit from backing Thomas, LeMaitre said.

Plakas gave $2,450 to Thomas this year. City police and firefighters also have donated thousands of dollars through their unions. Thomas also has received money from contractors such as Pritula & Sons, a company that gave $2,575 and that was brought in by Thomas during a storm last winter to clear city streets.

Pattern of donations

Pickering's campaign reports show that Plakas' is among the contributors who have given to both candidates. Pickering's records show a $100 donation from Plakas.

Thomas said attorneys, contractors, developers and others are "the same ones" who have been donating to mayoral campaigns in Westland and other cities for decades.

But Councilman Kenneth Mehlaeliminated from the mayoral race in the Sept. 14 primary, also voiced concerns about the large donations.

These people don't do this for nothing. What are they going to get out of this?" he asked during a telephone interview.

But Thomas downplayed the significance of the donations.

Money can't buy an election," he said. "If you're doing a bad job, cause you're going to lose it. Thomas stressed that much of his spending, especially earlier in his term, went for such items as mayoral balls, birthday greeting letters for his supporters and dinner meetings with his staff. He also said he has used some of his money to pay for certain conferences, instead of letting taxpayers pick up the tab.

Candidates' debate shown on cable-TV through Thursday

Westland cable-TV subscribers can watch the mayoral and city council candidates in group interviews this week on Channel 8.

The debates between Mayor Robert Thomas and challenger Charles Pickering will be shown at noon and 8 p.m. daily through Thursday.

The two addressed six issues announced in advance. The council candidates fielded questions from representatives of two local newspapers.

The seven council candidates seeking four seats can be seen at 2 and 10 p.m. daily through Thursday. The seven are Sandra Cicirelli, David Cox, Bhagwan Dashairya, Joseph Eadeh, Charles Griffin, Sharon Scott and Dorothy

The winner of the Nov. 2 mayor's race will get a four year term. In the council election, the top three vote-getters will win four-year terms while the fourth-place finisher will get a two-year term.

No TV money for challenger

Pickering's campaign planned to go door to door over the weekend to distribute about 23,000. new campaign fliers attacking Thomas' spending. Pickering's elforts to get his message out has been difficult because he has not had the money that Thomas has had for expenses such as cable. TV commercials, LeMaitre said....

Pickering is expected to be in debt when his campaign ends bedollars in printing costs, LeMaitre said.

Thomas questioned whether candidates such as Pickering belong in the mayor's office if they can't mount an effective campaign. Thomas made no apologies for his ability to raise money

Thomas did note, however, that despite his big-spending caurpaign, he has striven in his tour years to save money for taxpayers That's why he froze his mayoral salary at $68,310 and his expense account at $5,000 for his entireterm - the same amounts that he said his predecessor was earning.

Thomas, labeled an "Ayatollah, big-spending arm-twister" by LeMaitre, not only has an edge over Pickering in money, but he also outpaced Pickering by a nearly 3-to-1 margin in the Sept. 14 primary.

But LeMaitre said Pickering's supporters will continue to try to sway voters until Nov. 2. hoping to turn the tide.

What would you do to try to reduce crime in Westland, keeping in mind that there may be little or no money to hire more police officers?

He said he can work cooperatively with either candidate. When asked which candidate he supports. Dashairya declined. "It's the people's choice," he said

Dashairya said he would collect data on the problem and then try to address it. But he suggested that neighborhood protection programs could be started in every precinct. "We have plenty of people who can volunteer time," he said.

He is supporting Mayor Robert Thomas, saying the mayor "has done a fine job

"I feel that there are a lot of good citizens out there who would be willing to start neighborhood watches." Eadeh said. He also supports the use of "dummy" police cars, or unstaffed cars, that are parked in some areas to deter crime and slow down traffic. That lets more police officers work the streets instead of sitting idle. Eadeh said.

Griffin stressed that the council is responsible for setting the budget and passing ordinances, but he added that "we have to be able to respect the office of mayor" and work with the chief administrator. He also said the two must cooperate to maintain a balanced budget. He declined to name his choice for mayor.

Griffin suggested saving money by reducing the number of cityowned vehicles, and using the money to put more police officers. on the streets. He also said the police department's current 12hour shifts should be examined to see if officers are still productive during the final four hours. Griffin also said the department could cut back on management and bureau positions to beef up street patrols.

As a council member, she said, "I have remained independent." Scott declined to say which mayoral candidate she supports, "I'll work with anybody," she said.

Scott said she supports putting more police personnel on the streets and having fewer personnel confined to the police station. She said she supports the 12-hour shifts that the department started because she believes "they are working." Judge orders trial for man accused of beating friend

An Inkster man accused of trying to kill his Westland girlfriend has been ordered to stand trial amid allegations he choked her and threatened to throw her from a second-story window of her

Darryl Denard Jackson, 32, has been charged with breaking into the woman's house near Venoy and Palmer and attacking her as she-feared for her life and the safety of her three children, ages 20 months to 7 years.

The woman has testified that Jackson was in a drug-induced rage when he attacked her in her Ottawa Street home during the early morning hours of Oct. 5. The woman said Jackson continued to beat her even after she tried to defend herself by stabbing his right hand with a kitchen knife.

On Thursday, 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos ordered Jackson to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court on charges of assault with intent to murder and breaking and entering:

The judge's ruling came after Jackson voluntarily gave up his right to a preliminary hearing, during which his public defender nted testimony in an attempt to get the charges reduced or dropped.

Jackson could face life in prison if convicted. He remains jailed in lieu of posting $30,000 in bonds. He stood mute when arraigned Oct. 15 on the charges, and pleas of not guilty were entered for him.

Jackson also faces a second count of breaking and entering amid allegations he broke into his girlfriend's house on another occasion. The woman testified that she had ordered Jackson to stay away from her because he had a drug problem.

In tears, the victim testified Oct. 15 that Jackson broke into her house and tried to steal money from her son's second-story bedroom. The woman said Jackson attacked her after she caught him and told him to leave.

"I tried to stop Darryl, an ryl put his hands around my neck," she said in court,

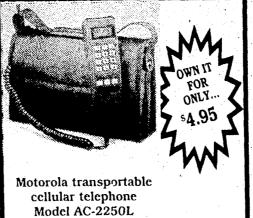

With his hands around her throat, Jackson dragged her down the stairs and to the kitchen, where she stabbed his hand in self-defense. At another point, Jackson broke out a second-story window and threatened to throw her through it, she said.

The woman told one of her sons to run next door for help, and Westland police were called. Police arrived moments later and arrested Jackson.

the Westland branch of Annapolis Hospital on June 19, 1991. But the case just came before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos on Thursday because Williams was recently released from a Northville psychiatric ward.

Williams is accused of stabbing a part-time hospital counselor who was walking from the building. Williams was sitting on a bench when the man passed by, and she is charged with coming up behind him and stabbing him in the shoulder area, Westland Sgt. Russell Nowaczek said.

Williams stabbed the man with a knife she was carrying in a bowling bag, Nowaczek said. The man survived the wound.

She appeared in 18th District Court for a preliminary hearing Thursday to determine if she should stand trial for the stabhing. A recent psychiatric evaluation indicated that she is competent, attorneys said.

The woman voluntarily waived, her right to a preliminary hearing a decision that automatically sent her case to Detroit Recorder's Court for trial. She could face four years in prison and a $2,000 fine if convicted.

Williams was expected to be released from custody last week and was to stay with her sister, who lives in Inkster. She has been ordered to take medication that has been prescribed for her and to receive outpatient counseling.

Stephen Remski, an attorney who represented Williams, said in court that he strongly believes Williams will be found not guilty. Remski said he believes a judge or jury will find that Williams was insane at the time of the stabbing.

McNamara endorses Archer

ward McNamara told Canton and Plymouth residents he is supporting Dennis Archer in the race for mayor in Detroit.

Although McNamara hasn't endorsed a candidate, as has Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson, he let it out of the bag when he spoke to the Canton Economic Club on Wednesday at St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Canton.

'I hope nebody from the press is listening, but I hope it's Archer (who wins)," he said. One of McNamara's assistant county executives, Freeman Hendricks, is Archer's campaign manager.

McNamara went on to talk about the multi-million-dollar expansion of Metro Airport, calling Metro "extremely important" to the economy of Wayne County. 'We know exactly how that airport should ultimately appear, he said. "It will be the greatest job generator southeast Michigan has ever had.' McNamara said that the condition of the city should concern ev eryone around it because "the image of Detroit is the image of the city you live in, and you aren't going to escape it.'

Does Halloween promote via-

Well, the folks at Fiegel Elementary School on Joy in Plymouth Township think so. So, this year the school is planning a politically correct Harvest Festival instead of celebrating Halloween.

That means the kids won't be able to dress up as spooks and goblins and ask for candy.

"There are so many destructive and violent aspects of Halloween," principal Barbara Young said: "I thought we could do better for the children.'

In a newsletter sent to the school's staff, Young wrote:

"Costumes promoting violence and sometimes vulgarity, Devil's Night, the rising popularity of Beavis and Butthead with their glorification of underachievement, fire starting, torture of animals and paint thinner sniffing all call for a response from educators and the school community about the values and standards we hold for our children."

She added that the harvest festival "reflects our mission to promote quality behavior and attitudes through a peacekeeping

The festival will feature each classroom displaying a PTO-provided cornstalk scarecrow they have planned and decorated. Two all-school assemblies will be held in the afternoon featuring "Dr. Zeemo and the Science of Spinning" where he will demonstrate the physics of revolution using tops, Frisbees and hoops.

So far, she said, only two people have called to "challenge what we're trying to do," Young said.

Century Novelty in Livonia, which supplies most of the area schools with Halloween decorations, finds nothing wrong with the holiday.

"It's a booming business for us," said assistant manager Kathy Swan. She has two children and encourages them to celebrate Young said getting mixed messages at school and at home won't confuse the children.

The activities that we are trying to promote are those that do not promote violence," she

'We're really working with the focus of the school, which is to promote less violence and peacekeeping.

Try being a grilled-cheese sandwich, expert says

When Bob Haven thinks of how many purple dinosaurs he'll see Oct. 31, he shudders: As a costume shop supervisor for University Productions at the University of Michigan School of Music, Haven views store bought costumes based on licensed characters with disdain.

You can have a lot more fun by exercising some imagination in creating a costume," said Haven, who taught junior high school and operated a children's theater before joining U-M, where he lectures in theater and drame in addition to his costume shop duties.

To Haven, the best part of Halloween is the chance to put together one of a kind costumes in ways that aren't immediately apparent to nonprofessionals.

'Sometimes it helps to think of a thing or a concept, not a specific person you want to be," said Haven. "You could be a grilled cheese sandwich by painting two foam pieces to look like bread and dressing entirely in yellow-orange clothes. Or you could dress in white sweats, then pin on a bar code to become a generic per-

Here, from Haven and associate draper Vicky Sadler, are some additional Halloween tips:

Don't use lipstick on your cheeks or other parts of your skin. Lipstick stains and you'll go around with red blotches showing for days.

Never use glitter makeup around your eyes. It's made of ground glass.

For a makeup base that's tasty as well as safe and inexpensive, slather corn syrup on your face, let it dry enough to be sticky to the touch, then pull apart twoply, plain white facial tissues and apply

"It looks quite disgusting," said Ha-"And makes wonderfully textured ven. skin for monsters. You can also pat cornmeal on the syrup, or pull cotton balls on and off to get a nice, moldy look.

Don't restrict vision or mobility, particularly with small children. Use makeup instead of masks whenever possible and make sure dresses, skirts and trousers aren't long enough to trip on.

To create bruises, black eyes, scars or 5 o'clock shadow, dapple on, then lightly blend cream based makeup using a stiff paint brush and cotton tipped swabs.

Extend makeup beyond your jaw line, or you'll look like your head is separate from your body. And be sure to blend makeup into your hairline, especially, near your ears. Above all, don't put it on' too thick.

And as thoughts turn to Halloween, Sinai Hospital has compiled a safety precaution list for children, parents, drivers and homeowners.

As far as costumes go, wear flame rewardant materials, avoid billowy costunies, wear white or light colored costumes, avoid wigs (they can burst into flames), avoid over size shoes, props such as magic wands and swords should be cardboard, not metal or wood, carry a flashlight and avoid dogs - even your own, who might be frightened by a cos-

Walkers should stay on the sidewalk or grass. If you must walk on the street, walk on the left side facing traffic. Cross the street only from corners and crosswalks. Never dart between parked vehicles. Observe all traffic signals. Look both ways before crossing the street. Watch for cars turning at intersections or into driveways

Parents should set rules such as boundaries and curfews and enforce them. Young children should be accompanied by a parent or responsible adult. Older children not accompanied by an adult should be with friends. Stay in your own neighborhood and go only to homes of family or friends. Go only to homes that are well lit. Do not go inside a home or building to accept treats. Have, parents check treats before eating. Don't eat anything before it's examined Some hospitals will X-ray treats. Have an adult cut all fruit and candy into sections beore eating.

For drivers and homeowners, clean your windshield and headlights before driving. Be alert for children darting into the street. Be prepared to give trick or treaters right of way. Park your car in the driveway or in the garage to prevent vandalism. Keep pets indoors. Keep your home illuminated. Be sure walkways are free of obstructions. Don't leave lighted pumpkins where a child's costume could be ignited. Greet trick or treaters at the door. Wrap treats that are loose or homemade. Put your name and phone number on treats so parents will know where they came from.

And finally, when trick or treaters come home with more candy than they know what to do with, there's the candy lady of Oak Park. Joy Landau, along with husband, Lou, have for many years collected left over Halloween candy at their home, checked each piece, then sent it to the Maxey Boys Training Center in Whitmore Lake.

About 750 boys who otherwise wouldn't have candy are the happy beneficiaries of the sweets.

This would also be a good project for your, PTA, scouts, schools, clubs or neighborhoods.

The Landaus live at 24231 Gardner, between Coolidge and Greenfield, south of 10 Mile Road. Please bring the goods by Nov. 18.

'FATS' helps cops know when to fire

BY LEANNE ROGERS STAFF WRITER

Two uniformed police officers are on foot patrol in a park when a young boy runs up and says that a man has grabbed his friend. As the officers confront the man, his hold on the boy loosens and the child slips away.

In the few seconds that follow, the officers are asking the man for identification when he reaches into his back pocket. The officers' lives may depend on how quickly they can determine whether the man is reaching for a wallet or a gun.

In real life, either situation might occur and the laser disc. Firearms Training System, FATS for short, helps officers hone their skills on when to shoot at suspects.

"We have over 100 different scenarios and we are getting one for shotguns. We can control the endings," said Wayne County Sheriff's Department Lt. John Monge, who runs the FATS training at Schoolcraft College-

Radcliff.
Officers from departments in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties have participated in the training session.

The system, used by police academy cadets and for in-service training by police officers, is set up like a mini movie theater with a screen at the end of a darkened room. The officers respond to on-screen scenarios that force them to quickly decide whether to shoot or not shoot.

"In the 1970s the training was not to shoot. The officers are just as liable for not shooting as they are for shooting," Monge said. "We try to give general rules so they can make an appropriate instant decision. The courts will argue for years but an officer may have a fraction of second to decide."

Real handguns are used in the FATS training. The barrels have been blocked so ammunition can't be fired. A laser has been built into the barrel of the weapon with a micro switch just before the trigger that sets off the laser.

"The screen picks up the hit (gunshot) and the time of the hit," said Monge. "We don't use it too much for accuracy. There is another program that has a silhouette that we can use to track accuracy. This is for decision making."

After an officer has gone through a scenario, Monge and another instructor Garden City police Sgt. Larry Jackson critique the performance, repeating the scenario noting lethal head and body hits, non-lethal hits and misses, then offering suggestions or tips.

"Usually you can tell if someone is going for weapon. If they are pulling a weapon out of a holster or their waistband, they will shift their weight forward," said Jackson. "When you take out your wellet, you stand flat footed. To pull out a weapon the shoulder comes up more than with a wallet."

In one scenario, officers approach an apparently intoxicated for sleeping man laying on a bench. The man leaps up and attacks the on-screen officer with a knife.

Even though the officer training on FATS reacted quickly and shot the knife-wielding man, there was still enough time for him to stab an officer.

"Even if you blow someone's heart out, they still have four seconds," said Jackson. "You may have shot him but if he stabs you, did you win?"

Time is especially important when officers confront armed suspects, Monge said since the suspects, having already decided

"The officer could move to the side (of the assailant) that brings a second or two," said Monge, who heads the sheriff department SWAT team. "We had a drunk at the airport and checked him out before we woke him up. He had a Glock in his belt."

Glock is a powerful semiautomatic handgun.

The FATS training, offered through Schoolcraft College Continuing Education, is underwritten by a state grant and cost area police departments $10 per officer.

"We've had nothing but positive responses to the training. Most of the officers do real well," Monge said. "We had a couple we suggested have some additional training. If they don't do well at first we'll work with them."

Set magic moods with candlelights lluminate the season with the romance of candlelight. The flickering glow of a candle adds to the ambience of the fireplace hearth. the dining room table, the nightstand, even the .

Turn-of-the-century lyricist Rupert Brooke, in his poem "The Great Lover," pondered life's everyday delights and deemed many of them worthy of "love's magnificence." Among those comforts to which he paid tribute, were gleaming white china, fresh flowers, cool sheets, shining stars and mesmerizing candles. "All these have been my loves," he mused.

If "love is a flame;" then perhaps during this season of family appreciation and thankfulness you'll want to savor the soft glow of candlelight or give the gift of light to someone you love.

The following examples typify some of the most magnificent or unique tapers and candlesticks from our mall and mainstreet shops. Though Santa's image may not spark romance, it does bring a smile, and these whimsical candles from Nature Nook Florist at Fairlane and Lakeside Malls are sure to enliven your holiday decor. Each collectible sculpture is a one-of-a-kind, hand-made and signed by the artists at Northern Lights Candles ($15.99-$24.99). Candleman in the Sum mit Place Mall is your one-stop candle destination. Owner Lynnette Zigo carries all manner of tapers, including Treasure Candles, Yankee country kitchen candles, handcrafted animal figures. and ever-popular dragons. You'll also find gorgeous wedding candles here for your centerpiece or ceremony. The new Bath & Body Elements shop at Laurel Park Place in Livonia offers over 175 fragrances, including scented candle cakes and Aroma Glo candles in terracotta pots. Among the unusual essences are tequila sunrise, pumpkin. powder puff and bubble bath. Also, check out their hand-dipped incense. "This shop smells heavenly," said browser Mary Davidson of Farmington.

Warm glows

The Store for the Home in Jacobson's at Laurel Park Place features a delightful mix of harvest-hued table settings and festive Christmas decor. I was captivated by the original etched candles from Bullfrog Light Company in Charlevoix. These ball-shaped candles glow from within, illuminating the silhouettes of deer in the snow ($15).

The innovative candlestick collection at Ilona and Gallery, 6385 Orchard Lake Road in the Orchard Mall, includes art glass bear claw candle holders by Berni in pie or triangular shapes ($84-$88) and RPM's votive candle dish, colored in green, red or purple. We picture one of the unusual glass sculptures ($138). Also pictured are colorful ceramic candlesticks by Fiasco ($56 $60). Another of my favorites is the goldtrimmed cut glass votive holder by Isis. The free-form dish is both striking and ethereal ($36-$50).

The Sandra Collins Gallery, 470 North Wood ward in Birmingham, features candelabra by artists from around the world. Some standouts Kerry Rippon's art deco etched green glass designs ($120-$175) and Gary Magakis' contemporary brass and bronze candlesticks ($215). Hermann Holstein crafts a series of eight forged steel floor torches. The smallest is 10 inches and the largest, six feet. Collins describes them as "architectonic. The piece de resistance is artist Elaine Kozar of Birmingham's hand-finished copper candelabra sculpture called "Tailspin," part of her oceanogra phy series of lifelike fish designs ($10,000). Tax increase worries retailers Buyers and sellers are split over a proposed 50-percent increase in Michigan's sales tax, from 4 to 6 percent of every dollar spent. Money from the tax increase would help pay for schooling. Shoppers were more blase than retailers about a sales tax increase.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

Retailers are nervous about a proposed 2-cent sales tax increase to help pay the education bill, but shoppers said they would take the increase in stride, especially since their property taxes were cut recently.

Interviews with people on each side of the cash register last week revealed a hesitancy to approve a sales tax increase but "going from 4 cents to 6 cents won't break me," according to one shopper.

The phrase was repeated many times

If the Michigan legislature accepts Gov. John Engler's new plan to pay for education, residents will be asked to up the sales tax rate in February. Voters turned a sales tax increase down last June when it surfaced as Proposal A, but this time around, in light of the legislature's July vote to eliminate property taxes that pay foreducation, a sales tax increase to pay for schools could pass

According to Engler, the 50-percent increase in the retail sales would generate. $1.8 billion for schools. Seven billion dollars was eliminated from the education budget when the legislature voted to cut property taxes. Engler has a mixed bag of other tax proposals to come up with the remaining $5 billion deficit.

"I won't mind a 2-cent sales tax increase," said Elena Dvorin of Oakland Township. "I've been paying very high property taxes, and these will hopefully be less. I can deal with two additional cents on my shopping dollars.

Thomas Hirth of Bloomfield Hills

If I have to pay $106 instead of $104 for a radio, it wouldn't make much difference to me;" he said. "I wouldn't change my mind about the purchase. Since my property taxes will be cut, I'll pay out less and I can transfer that savings over to my spending. I'll control my taxes because I'll control my spending.'

John Benson of Livonia said he didn't like the idea of approving new taxes, but he couldn't think of a better way to pay for schools.

"Theoretically, voting for more taxes is absurd," he said "But since the state is eliminating some property see it as a tax shift not a tax

Shopper sentiment supports the beliefs of several important retailers who say a 50-percent sales tax increase won't hurt sales.

"My suspicion is that a small sales tax increase is not likely to affect sales figures," said Charles Coleman, vice president of Tiffany & Co. "Peo-ple know it's coming. They'll take it as a matter of course.

Dennis Toffolo, president of Hudson's, said while a 50-percent sales tax increase may cause shoppers to hesitate over purchases at first, as time goes by it won't affect business. He likened it to the gasoline tax. People still buy gas because they need it,

'People want and need the merchandise, so they'll pay the price," he

Stephen Epstein of the Detroit accounting firm Coopers & Lybrand is a member of their national retail team. He suggested that the effects of a sales tax increase could be subjective, based on whether or not a consumer feels he is paying more or saving some because his property taxes were de-

"How it will all shake out, well frankly, I just don't know," he said. "The governor insists his plan is actually a tax decrease when all the features of the proposal are factored in.

What other states pay...

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

If Michigan residents approve a 2-percent increase in their sales tax they would join the ranks of 15 other states with a 6-percent tax rate. Some of these states have cities and counties that compound the 6-percent rate with additional local sales taxes to increase the sales tax as high as 10 percent.

For example, in Illinois, residents pay 6% percent, but Chicago shoppers end up paying a 10percent sales tax when local duies are added.

According to Thomas Hoatlin,

Michigan's revenue commissioner, these states pay a 6-percent sales tax: Connecticut, West Virginia, New Jersey, Maine and Kentucky. Those with plus locals include: California, Washington, Florida, Illinois, Minnesota, Texas, Tennessee, Pennsylvannia, Nevada and Washington D.C.

The states with the highest sales taxes are Rhode Island at 7 percent, and Mississippi at 7 percent plus locals.

Residents of Alaska, Delaware, Montana, New Hampshire and Oregon have no sales taxes.

But anytime the cost of an article goes up, there will be some reluctance and pressure on the part of the consumer. It has a negative effect on purchasing. But if a shopper can translate the increase into the savings on his property tax, it becomes subjective. How does he feel about the deal?"

B. L. Davis, vice-president of operations at Shifrin Jewelers. based in Oak Park, blasted any sales tax increase.

An increase in sales tax will absolutely affect sales. No question about it," he said. "Anytime you impose a larger cost to the consumer especially in the jewelry industry where we are not selling bread-and-butter items, you are going to hurt sales. The bottom line will be affected because the retailer will have to give deeper discounts to off-set new charges.

Larry Meyers, CEO of the Michigan Retailers Association said a survey of members taken last summer revealed that 57 percent were in favor of the sales tax

"We believe the sales tax to be fairer and more equitable than other taxes that might be used to fund education, specifically the property tax," he said. "With an increase there may be some small, ever-so-slight declines in net sales of high ticket retail items but just for a very short period of time - one to two months at the

Westland Mall marketing director Claudia Frederick said the bottom line will definitely be affected at her shopping center if the sales tax goes up.

"Consumers are already cautious," she pointed out. "They're looking for sales and discounts in the marketplace. They keep an eye on their pocketbook. I think a tax increase will affect their spending habits." Phil Morosco, manager of Twelve Oaks Mall was more optimistic.

"My guess is that a two-cent sales tax increase won't have a dramatic effect on business," he said. "People realize it's part of a larger tax package. If nothing else was happening it would have a greater impact. But property tax cuts help.'

High school teams play real brand of football

he Michigan-Michigan State game was nice to watch if you so like to see a bunch of freaks of nature who can't even run on real grass. As for the pros, these guys don't even play outdoors.

When it comes to football, give mehigh school games played on grass and mud, in the rain and snow. You know you've been someplace when you've sat in the stands in November.

The action on the field can't be matched in the pros or in college. There are the flubbed passes, missed blocks and the coach's dream, the screen pass. It rarely works in high school football, but it sure looks good when the coach is pulling the stringson the Xs and Os on the blackboard in front of the players.

The linemen weigh all of about 175 pounds, about half that of their counterparts in the Big Ten.

But that's what makes it interesting. Even the punts and and kickoffs are intense.

In the pros and in college, unless you're a Lions or Northwestern fan, a punt looks looks almost mechanical. The receiver holds his hand up for a fair catch and everybody stands around watching.

At a recent Livonia Franklin High School game, the crowd watched in horror as the ball bounced off the receiver's chest and into the arms of a stunned would-be tackler.

· But the joy of the incident came later. The kid, Aaron Smith of Livonia, wasn't embarrassed. He was smiling after the game. There were no comments like you hear from the pros or college players about "rededicating themselves to the game." Aaron went on to the other part of his life, training his bird dog, Casey. Aaron has football in perspective. Part of that comes from his coaches. My own kid, John, plays on the same team and when I ask him questions, he tells me I played football in the Dark

'No, the coaches don't yell at us and call us stupid if we mess up," he said. Also, he was horrified when I told him my high school football coach put us in a cage to practice. It was about two feet high. The idea was to keep us blocking and tackling low, not high.

John has given me as many anxious moments as has Aaron. There was that first pass he caught. He hesitated. My fear was that he would run the wrong way. He didn't. And that meant I had bragging rights in the stands.

Chances are most of these kids won't play in college, much less the pros. But they remember, like my oldest son, Chris. I noticed the other day he was wearing the T-shirt sent to him by. now-Michigan State player Mill Cole-

Coleman was a top quarterback at Farmington Harrison a couple of years back, and he's now a wide receiver at Michigan State.

My kid's hoping that Coleman makes it to the pros. It'll give that Tshirt a lot more value.

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer newspapers and was a slower-than-slow tackle when he played high school football, He can be reached at 459-2700.

Quality districts don't need charter schools

QUESTION: Charter Schools are being touted as one answer for the problems of education. How are they structured and how successful have they been? What advantage do they have over our present system?

ANSWER: The first charter school opened in St. Paul, Minnesota in September 1992 (called the City Academy) for 35 inner-city high school "dropouts." The program was very successful. Some politicians around the country are using this very successful model as the trumpet to demonstrate how well charter schools do and how poor public education is.

Oh, by the way ... there were four full-time teachers, one teacher aide, volunteer parents, a full-time clerical aide and a part-time psychologist for 35 students in the St. Paul, Minn. Charter School. Lets see now that's a class size of about 8.5 students per teacher with a psychologist, clerical and volunteer support. Not bad!

We've got class sizes of over 35 kids in many of this newspaper's readership area. Give me a school district with a class size of 8-1 and I'll come out of

'At risk' kids

Most of the charter schools, to this point, have focused on "at risk" kids, often inner-city children who desper ately need a highly intensified program with support services. All charter schools seem to have a specific focus. In Minnesota, the birth place of the concept, there are, to name a few, the Metro Deaf School, the New Heights "at risk student" program, in which teachers are paid on a merit system (no contract).

The first question I have is do quality, high performing school districts really need to break off into a charter system? Many are doing fine, thank you. The focus in regard to charter schools, with its built-in accountability factor (perform or we take the money away from you), seems to have initially been on those districts which have a multitude of racial, violent, social, emotional and learning problems.

Wayne State University has a charter school which, I must say, is a plus for Michigan. Operating through a nationally known quality university with a fine education department is a plus.

DC DOYLE

But if a local school district goes for a charter school and their classrooms are filled to capacity, who is going to pay the rent for an ancillary building

. for bringing it up to code . . . for refurbishing. Districts can't offer much, if money has to be used for buildings, money local school districts get from bond issues. Does the local district have to go back to the voters?

Wayne State University or a local school district running a program is fine, but opening up charter schools to the private sector for entrepreneurs to run could take some watching.

Charter school scams

Back in the Kennedy/Johnson era, huge federal grants were given to private sector "people" who guaranteed they would raise children's test scores. It was called Performance Contracting. They came into the school, and supposedly would train teachers into performing miracles with children, i.e. raising test scores by up to 40 percentile points within a school year. The scams that came out of that private. sector fiasco in money that went direct ly into their pockets and not into educational programming were legend.

There are many questions!

■ In some states, charter schools can reject and send back those students. who do not behave. We are now talking about a private school funded by the state. And guess which school, in this case, will have the higher test scores?

Certification

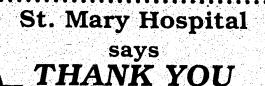

■ Will non-certified teachers, such as an auto engineer (out of work because he couldn't take the pay cut), turn a high school math program around? Possibly. But because some engineer can design a headlight doesn't make

Will the private sector run schools more business-like? Sometimes business decisions are not the best decisions for children. Schools aren't driven by a profit motive by the very fact some children require more, such as special education, etc.

Every choice option, every gimmick I've seen over the years that tries to repair education without addressing the core problems, which are societal, has failed. Adding a few charter schools is not going to do it.

But let's give it a try, recognizing that 20 plus or minus charter schools in Michigan are not going to save education. And let's be honest. All these latter day salvation-of-education concepts have, besides hoping to improve education, one major purpose neutralize, right or wrong, the power base of the Michigan Education Association and the National Education Associa-

PRINCESS CRUISES PE. THE LOVE BOAT

Vultures

Visiting Michigan on way south

BY TIMOTHY NOWICK

A couple weeks ago I was driving north on 1-75 pear, the Palace and spotted something that was reminiscent of 1-75 in Florida. Several turkey vultures were perched on the large branches of a dead tree. This is a fairly common sight in Florida, but not here in Michigan.

Mid October is when most turkey vultures migrateouth on their way to southern states. They migratof north in March, nested throughout the state and now are heading south where carrion is easier to feed

The vultures I saw in the tree were still grounded after their nighttime rest. Large birds like the vulture rely on rising air currents in order to take to the air. Those cold mornings we had a couple weeks ago did not result in warm rising air before I spotted the birds.

In preparation for flight, birds often expose themselves to the warming sun to dry their feathers from the morning dew. As the sun rises and warms the ground, air currents begin to rise. When conditions are right, the birds take flight. They flap fly to gain their initial altitude, but then rely on the rising air currents to lift them high into the sky.

Vultures are masters of the air currents. Once they are air borne they seldom flap, that is one way to identify them. They also hold their wings in a flattened V shape. Most other large birds of prey hold their wings out flat as they soar. Turkey vultures are also very black when viewed from below. Hawks are not that black, unless it happens to be an unusual dark phase bird.

Riding the rising air currents conserves a great deal of energy. Flapping large wings constantly can drain the energy reserves of a bird that size very quickly. Broad, long wings are designed to use those air currents as efficiently as possible.

Other large migrating birds must also rest on land during the night because there are no air currents to ride. On Sept. 18, 1993, over 60,000 broad-winged hawks passed by the southeastern part of Michigan. These birds rely on those rising air currents also and must rest during the night in forests along the way. They do not all go to one area, but during their migration more people find dead or injured ones on their property.

During mid October, keep an eye to the sky during the day and see how many vultures you can spot.

Area commissioners have small staffs

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

An Oct. 21 Observer article about the staffs of the Wayne County commissioners failed to mention the staffs of commissioners Bryan/Amann, D-Wayne; Thaddeus/McCotter, R-Livonia; and Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights.

Amann had five people on his payroll in 1992, paying them $52,000. By May 23 this year he had three people on his 1993 payroll, all of whom also appeared on his 1992 payroll.

McCotter and Plawecki didn't join the commission until January 1993, so there are no 1992 office-budget figures for them. According to the 1993 figures McCotter is on track to spend; $39,000 on three staff members.

Plawecki proves to be the most frugal county commissioner in 1993 when it comes to staff. She gets by with one staffer, a secretary who is on track to earn about $27,000 this year.

Also, commission Vice Chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, wants it known that only one of her two staff members is paid entirely out of her office budget ($26,000 in 1992). The other staff member is paid about $34,000 a year, but only $10,000 of that is paid with Beard's office budget.

County pols to lose cars, eventually

The next Wayne County executive will have to drive his own car on county business thanks to a new ordinance passed Thursday, Oct. 21, by the county commission.

Written by commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, the ordinance forbids county elected officials and their staffs from using county cars. But current officials who drive county cars may keep the vehicles as long as they stay in their current jobs. (McCotter also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Town-

Other provisions of the ordinance are:

■ The elimination of flat rate mileage reimbursements, some totaling $350 per month, to county officials.

The prohibition of the personal use of county vehicles. ■ The requirement that the county purchase the most economical vehicles. (Example:

Don't buy a big Cadillac when a small Chevy will do.)

The establishment of annual record keeping and purchase requests, with reports going to the county commission.

The ordinance was co-sponsored by several other commissioners and passed by unanimous vote. "This ordinance will promote accountability and economy within the county's vehicle fleet," said McCotter in a press release. "While short-term savings will be realized, its true benefit to taxpayers will be the realization of long-term savings. Finally, Wayne County will know what vehicles it has and, most importantly, what vehicles it needs.

Commission vice chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, praised McCotter. "I think we're all much better off driving our own cars," she said. "McCotter is very good. He has a lot of good ideas and really works hard at being a good commissioner.'

D-Wayne, who also represents Canton, said McCotter "really deserves a lot of credit for having done it. He has seasoned tremendously.

Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford, issued a written statement: "Most. people drive to work each day at their own expense. Therefore, I do not think that it is unreasonable to expect the same from your elected officials.

The car ordinance is the result of an audit released June 14 by the county's auditor general, Ramona Henderson. McCotter was assigned to write the ordinance by audit committee chairwoman Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn.

The audit said that management of the county fleet of 447 vehicles is decentralized and sloppy, which opens the door for abuse of county vehicle privi-

criticized the audit report initially, claiming the auditor general's office is "a political arm of the county commission," but McNamara ultimately worked with McCotter in drafting the

In his press release, McCotter lauded the cooperation between branches of county government. For help in drafting the ordinance, McCotter credited Hubbard, McNamara's man Dave Katz, Department of Public Services director of administration Bob Biga, Kathleen Micallef from the sheriff's department and the auditor general Ramona

"This ordinance is proof that all branches of county government can cooperate and put aside personal politics to constructively change public poli-cy," McCotter wrote. "It isn't easy; but it's necessary. And everyone involved deserves credit for this accomplishment.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Bake great cookies with love in your heart

his column will certainly appeal to you if-you have children in school; you are a room parent; you have grand children; you plan on sending a goody box for the holidays; or you love cookies. Anyone who enjoys cookies will certainly appre ciate the following information on cookie baking. If you have ever experienced the thrill of having to send three dozen cookies with your child to school for the class party, this information will probably save you from having to experience the all-night check-out at Meijer's

For the best tasting cookies, I offer the following

The amount of a rincorporated into the creaming process is directly related to the volume of the finished baked goods. In basic terms, when the recipe says cream the fat with the sugar, cream it and cream it again. The mixture should be light and fluffy. How long is till "light and fluffy?

I made three batches of cookies and creamed for 1, 2 and 4 minutes respectively. There was a difference, and the cookies creamed for almost 4 minutes were noticeably lighter...

Avoid whipped butters and spreads, and for the best tasting cookies, combine equal parts of shortening with butter.

Dry cookies

Dry cookies can be traced to two factors, either you added too much flour or baked them too long. Use dry measuring cups when measuring. Never pat or thump the flour into the cup, simply level with the straight edge of a knife or spatula.

Always set the timer for 1-2 minutes shorter than the time called for in the recipe. Oven temperatures vary. You can always cook for another minute, but you can never take it away

For optimum results, use baking powder and baking soda within one year of purchase. If you need a new box of soda, freshen the drain with the old box and get a new one. Baking powder should be stored in an air-tight container and generally loosesit's strength to leaven after 12 months.

In order to get the leaveners working properly, and to avoid thin cookies, always preheat the oven at least 10 minutes before baking cookies.

Proper equipment

Contrary to popular belief, cookie sheets do make a difference. The best cookies are made on shiny aluminum pans and cookie sheets. Shiny pans brown lightly and evenly. Dark sheets may absorb heat and cause over browning on the bottom.

Chef's secret: if you're using those new insulated cookie sheets remember that cookies may not brown as much on the bottom, and they may take slightly longer to bake. For professional results, I recommend covering the sheet with parchment paper; cookies slide off, it's reusable, and the pans are a breeze to clean.

If you grease the pans before baking, always use shortening as butter tends to brown quickly and spray-on coatings sometimes cause sticking.

When you have a recipe that makes 4 dozen cookies, it's difficult to bake cookies one sheet at a time. For optimum results, one sheet in the center rack works best, however, you can place racks on the top and bottom thirds of the your oven.

Halfway between baking times, rotate the pans, and you'll still achieve good results. Another secret, use only cool cookie sheets. Dough dropped onto hot cookie sheets will melt and spread before .

We never had this problem when baking cookies with momma because we ate them as fast as they came out of the oven. The best cookies are allowed to rest for at least one minute on the sheet after baking, and then transferred to a wire rack for complete cooling. Steam from cooling cookies needs to evaporate, this prevents them from becoming soggy.

Cookies are done when they are firmly set and browned according to the recipe directions. When you touch them lightly with your finger, almost no imprint should remain.

It would be a cruel joke to send a copy of this article to Aunt Mabel in Tallahassee knowing darn well her cookies double as snowman eyes and buttons, but baking cookies is an art in itself, and whenever you bake, always do it with love in your heart. Trust me, it does make a difference.

By JOAN BORAM SPECIAL WRITER

In his search for a new route to the spice-laden Indies, Christopher olumbus had a different pepper in mind than what he found in the New World. When he returned to Spain, he described his find as "pepper more pungent than that of the Caucasus. Spice-hungry Europeans quickly adopted the new vegetable, which quickly spread to Asia and Africa. The world's cuisines were never the same!

Americans have developed an enthusiasm for spicy foods in the past few years-just witness the proliferation of Thairestaurants-and spicy means hot

It's inevitable that cooks would want to serve spicy dishes at home, and produce departments, which only a year or so ago were stocking a few jalapenos, are now offering a representative choice of chiles, ranging from mild to masochistic.

According to Fabritio Cassini, produce buyer and merchandiser for Shopping Center Markets, "Sales are growing steadily, but gradually. We carry about 15 kinds of chilles, fresh and dried, and customers are beginning to experiment with the hotter

FIRE UP THE FLAVOR

FIRE-EATER'S TIPS

Fabrito Cassini of Shopping Center Markets, offers the following tips for using chilles:

The heat in chilles is not contained in the seeds, although they may have some heat. Some 89 percent of the capsaicin, responsible for the heat, is located in the interior ribs of the pepper. There are uneven spots throughout pepper, but this is the main hot spot.

Every single chile has a different bite, even those that come from the same plant. Add peppers to a dish a little at a time, to control heat Sample hot peppers before deciding how to use them. Halve the pepper (don't forget rubber gloves!) and taste a sample from the section that doesn't have ribs. You can control the heat in a dish by discarding the seeds and cutting off the ribs. If you ever overestimate your (or your guests') capacity for spiciness, don't try to put out the fire with soda or water or beer. Offer dairy products, starchy foods, such as bread, market. A few years ago, they weren't generally available, except in certain ethnic markets. But now that they're on the market, we're seeing new varieties. Recently, we got two kinds of habaneras, yellow and red, from California. They're very hot. We also got a new mild chile, called Tequila, from Mexico. All Shopping Center Markets' chilies are prewrapped and labeled as to degree of heat.

Ken Horgan's fellow Livonia firefighters are also fire eaters, if Horgan's prize-winning chili is any indication of their tolerance for heat. Most recently, Horgan took first prize at the Michigan State Fair, but he's entered his fiery concoction in 12 other chili cook-offs and walked off with several awards. Horgan makes his firehouse chili with fresh jalapeno, habanero and cayennechilies, because "The guyslike to break out in a sweat when they eat it.

"But it's not really that hot," said Horgan, "I cut the chilies in small pieces, and they cook down, so you could never identify the peppers, or take a bite of one

Horgan said he started by adding small amounts, but the amount increased as the guys became accustomed to heat.

Switch to low-fat one product at a time

JoAnn Jones of West Bloomfield is in a very common predicament. She knows that she and her husband Doug would benefit healthwise if she decreases their daily fat intake. But, like most of us, JoAnn has had a few bad experiences with fat-free and low-fat products.

When "fat-free" products first became available, many companies rushed to have their products on the shelves first. Unfortunately, tasta sametimes was sacrificad

But, once food companies noticed that consumers were not continuing to buy their products, they realized that the benefits of low-fat did not compensate for a decrease in flavor.

JoAnn has decided to give low-fat products another try. She wants to learn how to shop wisely, and overhaul their eating habits. Like many of us, she feels she tends to be sporadic in her low-fat choices.

Instead of trying new low-fat substitutes, JoAnn tends not to try new products. This probably is due to the few bad experiences she has had in the past. It can be frustrating and expensive to try a new product; and be disappointed with the flavor or texture.

But remember, food companies are competing for the "fat-free market." They must make their products taste as close to the real thing as possible to remain competitive. The days of fat-free cheeses that never melted, and tasted like plastic are over!

JoAnn's recipe for Brunch Quiche was a challenge. I knew that it had to be close to the original in taste if I was going to make a believer out of her. So, instead of using all fat-free cheese I mixed low-fat and fat-free cheese in equal proportions.

Hot peppers, however, should be allowed to achieve full growth and flavor before harvesting. They will keep well if you string a thread through them and hang them indoors.

They hold the macaroni together nicely, yet it is not mushy or runny. I recommend ing the salsa on top of the quiche. It gives it a little extra noisture and lots of flavor.

The simplest suggestion for reducing fat is to use a non-stick pan. Aside from being an easy way to lower the fat content, it will reduce cleanup time. If you are new to eating beans, start with a small amount and increase gradually or you may have problems with gas. Eating cabbage or brussel sprouts with beans can also add to your stomach discomfort. Lentils, black-eyed peas, lima beans, chickpeas and white beans are thought to be less gassy. Don't cook the beans in the same water in which you have soaked them. That water contains the sugar from the beans. Cook the beans thoroughly, that will make the starches more digestible.

Dry edible beans have been a staple in man's diet since the Bronze Age. In the 17th century it was thought that beans possessed magical powers and were used to cure everything from colds to baldness. Michigan is the largest bean producing state, growing about 40 percent of the total United States bean crop. How does this new research translate into a daily diet? While vitamin C and beta carotene are more easily obtained from the foods we eat, vitamin E is present only in relatively small amounts. Furthermore, national food consymption data show that most * adults do not get the recommended amounts of vitamin E, especially as they grow older.

Good food sources of vitamin E include wheat germ, fortified breakfast cereals, shellfish, sunflower seeds and leafy green vegetables. According to the latest FDA regulations, in order for a serving to be considered a good source it must provide 10 to 19. percent of the Daily Value (V.S.

Lisa Rudy takes a gastronomical journey through metropolitan Detroit, looking for good food, good atmosphere and a meal for two for under

BY LISA RUDY

Whether it's 2 a.m. or 5 p.m., Piper's Restaurant guarantees they'll satisfy your every desire, as long as it's in the kitchen. Open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, this versatile eatery has been serving up everything from pot pies to primavera for more Piper's is famous for being comfortable, with its homey-type atmosphere, complete with several oversized puffy booths and diner-like dinner counter. No unnecessary frills here — the walls reflect cotor schemes familiar to the average chain restau rant and even the curtains and blinds tend to blend into the nondescript background. No occasion to fret, however, because Piper's saves all its energies and decorating dollars to ensure that when their patrons leave, they leave with full stomachs and sporting hefty carryout bags.

Appetizers offered are pretty much the norm battered and deep fried veggies and the like make up most of the list. Breakfast is served night and day, with the cajun omelette and raisin french. toast scoring high as all time favorites.

Piper's entrees are versatile enough to cater to just about anyone's taste. Pasta, seafood, sandwiches, steaks, ribs and chicken are all prepared with familiar ingredients in familiar ways, minus a few Mexican dishes that are pumped with a little

Daily specials are featured that patrons have gone wild over every Monday night for years. Huge homemade chicken and turkey pot pies are also a big hit and Piper's veteran diners admit that they haven't seen anyone finish one yet

Dessert is the main event at this place. Most every confection is made from scratch and done up in a big way, The All-American Chocolate Cake is Piper's pride and joy, layered about 12 inches high and covering an entire dinner plate (and then some). No one should leave without at least sharing a piece of this unbelievable fudge monster. Cheesecakes, fruit pies and sandaes are also offered and Piper's outdoes itself with a delicious orange nut bread accompanied by raisin orange

One of the most refreshing things about Piper's is that its philosophy about comfort and comfort food is totally unpretentious. Like one old-time diner told me, "It's just a comfortable, warm place to have coffee and cake, or breakfast, or dinner anytime you feel like going, it's always there. Can't say that about too many things.

782-3300 Hours: Open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

If you're looking to make a gastronomic pilgrimage and are tired of the same old same old. Union Street on Woodward in Detroit is a great destination to head for.

Impervious to trends, yet always in style, Union Street carries on a fine culinary tradition while making a whole new one by throwing a curve ball at conventional cooking wisdom, boldly blending old favorites with a bite of spice.

A dimly lit generous sized dining room, heavily accented with beautifully crafted dark woodwork about covers it as far as decorum goes. However, Union Street pulls off this attempt at understated elegance quite well, and the booming business adds just about the right noise level to make you feel like you could really be at home.

A full daily-rotated menu is available, with items offered according to the chef's whim, and an old stand by menu is always on hand, featuring items both unique and adventurous. It's a good idea to keep the menu at your table all through dinner, if possible, because this place is fearless in its presentation of unusual combinations and you might tend to forget just what's in this, anyway.

By John Monaghan Special Writer

I thought I was over it. The Detroit Film Theatre's revival of 1975's "Nashville" and the recent release of "The Player" finally had me convinced that maverick director Robert Altmann is indeed a genius.

'Short Cuts," Altman's latest, reminds me all over again why I disliked his films in the first place. Pretentious long-winded and relentlessly complex, the movie nevertheless remains one of the year's most fascinating ef-

The credit sequence uses brief vignettes to introduce all of the main characters, mostly couples. And there are plenty of them, including waitress Lily Tomlin and alcoholic limo driver Tom Waits; philandering L.A. cop Tim Robbins and suspicious wife Madeleine Stowe; Yuppie newscaster Bruce Davidson and catalog-loving Andie McDowell; fishing fanatic Fred Ward and professional clown Anne Archer.

The movie is a tour de force of editing and acting (who else aside from Woody Allen can assemble casts like these), serving up more three-dimensional characters than in a whole season of Holly wood movies. But when you get right down to it, only a few of these people are all that interesting in the first place.

You could easily excise the boozy nightclub singer Annie Ross and her cello-playing daughter Lori Singer. Other bits go absolutely nowhere, like Lili Taylorand Robert Downey Jr. apartment-sitting for neighbors they know very little about. Peter Gal-lagher makes in appropriately sli-my helicopter pilot, but why is he taking a chainsaw to his ex-wife's furniture?

Any duliness in the three hours of "Short Cuts" can be attributed to Altman's love of realism. Many of the female characters speak with private parts exposed, which would probably be called sexist, if we didn't have a shot of Huey Lewis unzipping his fly and urinating into his favorite trout

"Short Cuts," playing exclusively the Main Art Theatre, will be hailed as an Altman master-For me this is for from Nashville" and more akin to ambitious Altman misfires like "H.E.A.L.T.H." and "A Wedding.

When I interviewed the young director of "Slacker" last year, he cited Robert Altman as a primary influence. So it's not surprising that Richard Linklater's new film 'Dazed and Confused" uses such a meandering style for its affectionate and often cynical look back at teenagers circa 1976.

It's the last day of school as students put finishing touches on projects in wood shop, including pot-smoking paraphernalia and thick paddles they'll use to whack incoming freshmen. The last bell rings and the kids, backed by the Alice Cooper anthem "School's Out," throw papers and folders down stairwells on their way out for summer.

Randy "Pink" Floyd (Jason London), ready to enter his senior year, looks forward to playing king of the school He's handsome, clever and, as starting quarterback on the football team, babe magnet. But wh coach asks him to sign a pledge to abstain from drinking and drugs he's not sure he wants to play ball.

This slim plet is the springboard for the no name cast of aimless football players, nerds and stoners who drive around in search of beer busts and house

Instead of simply lampooning the tacky styles and fads of the 1970s, the young writer/director uses the bell bottoms and platform shoes as a realistic backdrop for these kids. Whi he paints an often appealing picture of the carefree past, Linklater also shows these kids biding time in their small Texas town, looking forward to, pathetically enough, the '80s.

"If I ever start calling these the best years of my life," says Ran-dy, "remind me to kill myself."

The soundtrack plays a major role here, recalling the familiar sounds of Frampton and Nazareth (who have never really left Detroit radio) and trashy, littleheard gems like "I Wanna Rock and Roll all Night" and "Fox on the Run.'

"Dazed and Confused" is required viewing for anyone be-tween 25 and 35, but may leave others just as the title suggests. Conservative groups have already protested the movie's casual drug use. There hasn't been this much pot on screen since the days of Cheech and Chong.

More importantly, the sophomore jinx has kindly skipped Linklater Like Altman, and Linklater's own teenage protagonist, he's well on the way to working solely on his own terms.

The nine-piece band and eightmember dance troupe performed house music versions of 16 of Madonna's hits from "Holiday" to "Rain" on a two-story stage that took 17 hours to build.

Mid-show, Madonna performed 1930s-style rendition of "Like A Virgin" dressed in top hat and tails

At one point, Madonna, clad in military garb, scolded a dancer who appeared topless during the show. Embarrassed(!) for her father who was in the audience, she made the dancer do push-ups.

Madonna, more personable and funny than she appears, acknowledged her Michigan roots several times during the show. She questioned the audience, "Not bad for a girl from Michigan, huh?"

Seeing the multi-million dollar 'Girlie Show," that's an understatement.

Appetizers are creative, colorful and absolutely delicious. "Dragon's Eggs" are a good way to start off and Union Street has a warning on the menu that they'renot for the sqeamish. Boneless chicken breast is stuffed with bleu cheese, rolled in tempura batter and tossed in Jamacain Hellfire sauce, and a very tasty mushroom medley, featuring sauteed portabello, oysters and shitake mushrooms in marsala vine sauce, are a few of the offerings on this very diverse and visually appealing list of appetizer.

- this place layers, Entrees contrasts and juxtaposees colors, textures and tastes in a truly unforgettable way. Italian, cajun, Mexican, French, Mom's kitchen - Union Street does it all, and it's all unbelievably authentic.

Main courses are stylish enough to intrigue sophisticates, yet sprinkled with enough local ingredients to appeal to less-traveled palates. Apricot chicken strudel, consisting of chicken breast, spinach and portabello mushrooms, is wrapped in phyllo and topped with a chardonay apricot sauce. Barbecued pork sandwiches are covered with "Inner Beauty" enhanced barbecue sauce, and even lasagna takes a turn toward mecca as it's infused with ratatouille and topped off with marinara and mornay.

Beers from around the world, an extensive wine list and an impressive array of desserts are also available. There's virtually nothing here that's not tempting.

Union Street is a truly unforgettable dining hot spot. It's menu reads like a gastronomic love story, the atmosphere is elegant, yet comfortable, and the patrons are as creative and colorful as the food.

Cartoonist shares illustrating tips

By Marie Chestney Staff Writer

Pigs, snakes, eagles and owls all took shape last week under the watchful eye of the world-renowned writer-illustrator Jose Aruego.

Aruego left his apartment in Manhattan to spend the day teaching drawing techniques to students at Botsford and Grandview elementaries in the Clarenceville School District which includes portions of Livonia, Redford and Farmington Hills. His visit was paid for by the parent-teacher organizations of both schools.

Aruego brought the artistic world closer to the students by having them draw various cartoon-type animals along with him as he was drawing on giant paper.

"The kids had paper on the floor and looked up and down as he drew," said Pat Brown, media specialist for Botsford.

Aruego divided his program into two parts, one geared for youngsters, in kindergarten through third grade and the other for students in the higher grades.

The artist began his presentation with slides showing his apartment in New York and the room where he works. The slides showed parts of his apartment that he had used in his books, including plants growing up along a four poster bed and a grandfather clock. He also showed slides of some of the animals he had drawn, and slides of some of the same animals drawn by youngsters in other programs he had held.

"That way, the children could see how other youngsters had drawn the same things," Brown said.

Aruego has illustrated more than 60 children's books, including "Leo the Late Bloomer," "Rockaby Crocodile" and "Whose Mouse Are You?"

"His goal is to make children laugh," Brown said, "He is a very humble man."

Aruego told the students how he started his career as an attorney, and drew cartoons on the side. After many rejections, he learned the tricks of the trade and became successful in both writing and illustrating.

Instead of just drawing for the youngsters, Arubgo in his class-room visits insists that children draw along with him.

"It makes it more exciting for them," Aruego said:

Aruggo autographed and made special drawings in the books that he brought along to sell to the children.

The man is so dedicated to what he does, he drew a picture in every single child's book," Brown said. "He stayed from 3-8 p.m. signing the books. He wanted every child to have something to remember him by."

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE GARDEN CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT

Michigan law requires that each school district publish a financial statement which is a composite of their annual audit. In compliance with the law, Garden City Public Schools offers this information to residents, so that they might keep fully informed of the fiscal operations of Garden City Public Schools and the use of our public's resources.

During the past year, we have been able to continue providing our students with a wide range of curriculum offerings, and programs. We have continued to stress basic skills at all levels. We feel that mastery of these skills is an essential "building block" for our students as they prepare for their respective futures.

Math and reading are taught daily to students through junior high school. Our high school students may take 6 hours of class work per day and they must satisfy the requirements of our more demanding high school graduation requirements. All of this is possible because of your interest and support.

A lthough this report focuses on the financial activities of the district, please keep in mind that these dollars translate into educational opportunities for our students.

This report covers the fiscal operations of the Garden City School District for the 1992-93 school year. If you have any questions about this report, please contact us at 425-4900.

SC wins for Dimitriou

hey came up a bit short (about 41 goals, to be precise), but it was still quite a birthday salute to their coach: a 9-0 victory for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team Wednesday at Delta College.

It pleased Van Dimitriou, their half-century coach, who wouldn't have allowed a goal-a-year tribute. Indeed, he played the final 20 minutes of the match with just 10 players, trying to even things up.

Dimitriou wasn't nearly so happy in SC's 4-0 win over Columbus State the previous Saturday.

'I think there was a bit of a letdown there after our Macomb match," he said, referring to the win that assured the Region 12 title. "I told them (after Columbus State) if that's the kind of soccer they're going to play, they can expect to leave early from Chicago.'

At the Inter-regional, which will be played Nov. 6-7 at McHenry County College in Crystal Lake, Ill., north of Chicago, SC will face the Minnesota region representative in the semifinals - probably Bethany Lutheran of Minneapolis. That match will be at 1 p.m. (CST) Nov. 6.

A win against Delta was never in doubt, and SC made certain of it by scoring five goals in the first 24 minutes. Fadi Bazzi and Matt Lividini each scored two in that streak; Bazzi completed his hat trick before the half was over, getting another at the 40-minute mark. Adam Carriere, who scored the game's second goal, assisted on all three of Lividini completed his three-goal day 10 minutes into the second half, with Joe Perron drawing the first of his two assists. Those three scores gave Lividini 17 for the season; Bazzi has 23 and Vince Troiani 14 after getting a goal to give SC an 8-0 lead. Armando Andoni capped the scoring in the he six-match winless streak that had plagued SC's women's soccer team came to an abrupt halt Wednesday with a 3-0 victory at Eastern Michigan.

The last time the Lady Ocelots had won was Sept. 22 — against EMU.

Kara Kramer put SC ahead with a goal in the 35th minute, assisted by Tara Shook. Danielle Priebe made it 2-0 10 minutes into the second half out of a scramble in front of the EMU net.

The final goal was scored by Kelly Greaves off a corner kick by Jodi Grabowski.

Stephanie Sutton was in goal for the shutout. SC, now 3-6-3 with one regular-season match remaining, still has hope for a trip to the NJCAA Tournament. If the Lady Ocelots beat the Kansas region representative in a playoff Nov. 6 at SC,

Rockets shot down in 2 OTs Farmington Harrison denied Westland John Glenn the Western Lakes football title Friday in a defensive battle, 7-6. Coach John Herrington recorded his 200th for the Hawks with the double-OT win.

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

Farmington Hills Harrison achieved its season-long goal and a career milestone for veteran football coach John Herrington Friday night.

The Hawks reclaimed the Western Lakes Activities Association title and gave Herrington his 200th victory with a 7-6 upset of host Westland John Glenn in two overtimes.

Harrison, which won its ninth WLAA championship in 12 years, began the season with a mission to regain the title it-held from 1988 to 1991. Glenn had beaten the Hawks 24-19 in the regular season. Both teams are 7-1 overall.

"I'm so happy for coach," Harrison senior quarterback Joe Pesci said. "We didn't talk a lot about getting the 200th win, just getting the championship back. But it's nice to have that to go with it. I think he's one of the greatest ever in Michigan.'

Herrington, who has a 200-48-1 record in 24 seasons as the only varsity coach at Harrison, downplayed the significance of the 200th win.

"It didn't mean a whole lot particularly," he said. "We never said anything about winning 200, because we wanted to focus on the championship and getting it back after last year. "It shows a lot of character for our kids. We're still not a very big team, but we're a tough team. They were tough tonight." The defenses dominated the game, with each taking turns rising to stop the other offense, and the teams went to overtime tied at 0-0. Harrison won the toss, chose defense first and stopped Glenn on four downs. The Hawks fumbled the ball away on second down, however.

In the second overtime, Pesci rolled left and threw a 9-yard pass against the flow to upback Nick Williams for a touchdown. Brock Gove kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Glenn responded with Brian Morrison tossing a TD pass to tight end Mike Bint on first down. But the Rockets chose to go for the two points, and tailback Derek Besco was run out of bounds by Kevin Bryant and Brendan Cotter a half-yard shy of the goal line.

The last kick had been blocked, so that was certainly on my mind," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon of his decision. "We came here to win a championship, so we decided to go for it right then and there."

"I wasn't surprised because they needed it to win, but we came up and made the big play," said Bryant, who also had an interception and caught three passes for 77 yards.

"We were keying on (Besco) the whole time. It was either going to be a pass or a pitch. I was kind worried but we came through.

Harrison outgained Glenn 173-94, controlling the clock and moving the ball most effectively in the first half. The Hawks had a 110-40 advantage and six first downs to Glenn's one in the first half.

The Hawks had the ball for the first 5½ minutes after Glenn lost a: fumble on the first punt of the game. But the Rockets intercepted two Pesci passes in the end zone, and Gove just missed on a 27-yard field goal in the first half.

Spartans fall

Northville damages post-season dreams, 14-6

As confusing as the state high school playoff system is, one thing is clear — Livonia Stevenson needs a minor miracle to advance to postsea-

The Spartans wanted a victory at home Friday to all but clinch the final playoff spot in Class AA Region 2, but Northville spoiled Stevenson's hopes with an impressive 14-6 victory.

The Mustangs, meanwhile, reassured home field advantage. Northville (7-1), which is the top team in the Class A Region 3, finishes its season Friday against Novi.

· Stevenson, 6-2 overall, ends its season Friday at Livonia Churchill, but needs Belleville to lose its final game to keep playoff hopes alive.

'I'm not sure of our position but I know it doesn't look good," Stevenson coach Jack Reardon said.

The Mustangs shut down the potent Stevenson offense for 31/2 quarters. The Spartans scored their only points with 4:57 left in the game when Chris Mullett hauled in a 25-yard pass from quarterback Kevin Szczem-

We work on the two-minute offense all the time but we never work on the two-minute defense," Northville coach Darrel Schumacher said. It would be nice to save some hair while I'm young.'

The Spartans, who have won two The Mustangs, meanwhile, regames on its last play, recovered the served their spot in the playoffs and ensuing on-side kick, but Szczembara was intercepted on fourth down by Brian Jackson to end the game.

The play typified how the game went for Stevenson. The swarming Northville defense, led by linebacker John Gatti, made nothing easy for Stevenson. Entering the fourth quarter, the Spartans had three first downs and only 75 yards of total of-

"I think we needed more time," Reardon said. "You can't just come back that easily against a good team.

'We've never been shut down like that," Szczembara said. "(Westland John) Glenn didn't even do that to us. Our defense held them and played one of its best games of the year but their defense did a real good job and we couldn't move the ball.

Northville took Szczembara out of the game by forcing incompletions on the senior quarterback's first 10 passes. Szczembara finished with six completions in 21 attempts for 94 yards (all in the fourth quarter).

"Not many teams can run against us," Gatti said. "We knew they had a good passing game but they were air. We've been making teams do that all year.'

"We knew they had a good passing attack so we tried to counter it by putting a lot of pressure on, Schumacher said. "Szczembara has a great arm and (Brad) Morgan catches anything. Gatti may not have made the sacks but he was making Szczembara hurry his passes.'

The game turned out to be one of field position as the Spartans started possessions on their own 3, 6, 14, 17 and 20 in the first half alone. Northville's first-half field position average was at its own 49.

The Mustangs scored on the third play of the second quarter when senior Marc Golden scampered un-touched 36 yards down the sideline on a quarterback draw. The first of two extra points by Mike Hirvela made it 7-0.

The score stayed that way until mid-way through the third quarter. The Stevenson defense stuffed Northville fullback Bryan Kelley in the backfield on a fourth-and-two. But the Spartans were caught with too many men on the field.

The mistake kept Northville's drive alive. After a 17-yard pass from Golden to Kelley put the ball on the two. Kelley ran over left tackle to give the Mustangs a 14-0 lead.

The Spartans finally discovered what the Northville side of the field looked like after they tackled punter Mark Scholz who fumbled a snap at the Mustangs 37. Stevenson couldn't capitalize as Szczembara was picked off by Jason Holman.

III N. FARMINGTON 28, FRANKLIN 21: North Farmington became the only Lakes Division team out of six to win a West ern Lakes crossover game Saturday, beating visiting Livonia Franklin as quarterback David Zietz hurled a pair of touchdown passes.

The Raiders (2-6) opened a 14-0 first-quarter lead on a 6vard TD run by Jason Kong, followed by a 53-yard pass from Zietz to Richard Beal.

Franklin (1-7) countered in the second period on Ron Troia's 3-yard TD run. North came back in the third quarter when Zietz hit tight Dennis Madden on a 16-yard TD pass. (Madden had six catches for 77 yards on the day.) Maple, who was 11 of 26 for 149 yards, was picked off by Brian Gross in the final quarter. Gross returned North's fourth interception on the day for a 42-yard score.

Franklin came back with a 14-yard TD pass from Maple to Madden. The two-point pass from Maple to fullback Jesse Shakarian (11 carries for 53 yards) cut the margin to

Boroditsch's victory paces Canton to title

Lana Boroditsch was all smiles

In fact, the whole Plymouth Canton girls cross country team beamed radiantly following their conquest of the 12-school Western Lakes Activities Association meet held at Cass Benton Park.

Boroditsch, a senior, pulled off a mild upset by winning the 5,000-meter girls race in 18 minutes, 54.56 seconds. She overhauled runner-up Bridget MacKinnon, who had won the previous two meetings between the two. MacKinnon's time was 19:05.82.

"Bridget likes to go out fast and I wasn't used to that," Boroditsch said, "But this is my favorite course and I felt if I could just last, I could get her at the end.

This is my senior year and the last time on this course. I worked a long time for this. It's really hard, but when you're done, you get such a rush. There are so many hills. I just love the way it rolls. It's the best."

Canton, the state's top-ranked team in Class A, also proved it was the best team by placing four runners in the top 10 — Boroditsch, Laura McWilliams, fourth (19:38.72); Kathleen Landelius, fifth (19:53.51); and Becky Wolfrom, seventh (20:06.86). The team's fifth runner, Beth Knight,

Chiefs hold off upstart Falcons

It was a team effort that carried Plymouth Canton to the Western Lakes Activities Association boys cross country championship Friday at Cass Benton Park.

Just ask coach Mike Spitz, whose team survived a strong challenge from Farmington to win the 12-school meet. Canton scored 55 points, 11 ahead of the Falcons, who finished with 66. See statistical summary.

"I'm real proud," said the sec-ond-year coach. "I really am because we were second to Walled Lake Western last year by four points, but we trained hard throughout the year, and it was something they had set in their minds that it was something they would like to accomplish, and

North Farmington's Brian Rajdl was the individual winner in 16 minutes, 41.35 seconds, but Canton seniors Casey Moothart and Matt Demey, a first-year runner and refugee from the football team, took second and third, respectively, in 16:50.68 and

"When expectations are high the pressure is on you a little more and each guy has to carry a little more weight," said Spitz, whose team was rated 10th in Class A. "I was proud that we were able to step up and meet the challenge."

Spitz and his team, faced with the possibility of not having a season because of a school budget crisis, were glad to see the fruits of their labor pay off...

"Winning this was a lot of work, but we got a lot of help from not only the kids, but the parents, teachers and folks at the school," he said. "It helps when the administration backs you, too. It was a group effort to make this happen, and I just hope it's important to the community as well because they played a big part in Spitz also thanked former Canton boys coach Jim Hayes, who has since retired to Florida.

"I sent him a letter recently; we keep in touch," Spitz said. "He's the one who laid a strong foundation. He got the-kids interested and they thoroughly enjoyed it. I can't thank him enough.

North's Rajdl, only a sophomore, also put it together at the right moment.

"I'm very surprised; it's hard to believe," said Rajdl, a longtime age-group swimmer who is only in his second year of cross country. "I felt good coming in, but it hurt" sity Men's League at Farmington's Country Lanes.

lt was a couple weeks ago that Butch Lucas rolled up an incredible se ries of 812 with games of 269-300-243. This is certainly a feat that any bowler would be happy with. Now for the rest of the story.

Butch Lucas has only been bowling, for about three years. There are a lot of eat bowlers in the area who have spent lifetime on the lanes and have not hit 300, or enjoyed a 300 game. It's truly amazing for someone to have complished both honor scores in so short of a timespan. My question is, What to do for an encore?"

The pro bowlers are in town now for the "Greater Detroit Open" at Taylor Lanes. Anyone who would like to watch the greatest bowlers in the world competing for the $140,000 in prize money can run down to Taylor and take in all of the action.

Qualifying rounds are held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday. There will be eight games of match play 6:15-9:45 p.m. Monday and eight games of match play from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday. The held will be cut to five after eight games of match play 6:45-9:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The finals, which will be televiside live by ESPN; are held 7:30-9 p.m. Wednesday.

Tickets are available for all of sessions. Admission is $6 on Monday morning and $8 Monday night. Tuesday morning session costs $8 and the night session is $10. The finals also cost $10.

ROUNDUP

MAC'S BEST

Western Michigan's football team entered Saturday's game at Eastern Michigan as a contender for the Mid-American Conference title. The Broncos have reached that level with defense, which ranked first in the MAC.

Pierre Hixon, a cornerback from Wayne Memorial, has been a key factor in that defense. Hixon is. fourth on the team in tackles with 44, including two for losses, and he is tied for the team lead in interceptions with two. He also has one fumble recovery and nine pass break-ups, best among the Broncos.

M ANOTHER BRONCO STAR

WMU's volleyball team may be struggling right now - the Broncos were 5-12 overall, 3-6 in the MAC entering play last week hut the future looks bright. One reason: Liz Gunn, a freshman outside hitter from Livonia (Ladywood).

Gunn had 15 kills with a .323 kill percentage in a five-game loss to Akron Oct. 16, and contributed 11 kills in a three-game sweep of Kent State Oct. 15. For the season, Gunn ranks second on the team in kills (181, 2.78 per game) and digs (2.11 per game); she's hitting .227,

E KEEPERS

University of Detroit-Mercy' soccer teams have been rolling, thanks in part to a pair of exceptional freshman keepers. For the men, Kal Kaliszewski (Livonia Churchill) has been exceptional in a 8-0-2 streak entering the weekend. The Titans' 1-0 win over Western Michigan was his seventh shutout, a season and career best for UDM.

For the women, the entire season has been a surprise. Picked to finish last in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference's pre-season poll, the Lady Titans are vying for a top-three finish. Jori Welchans (Plymouth Canton) stepped in for injured starter Nikki Thomas and recorded three-straight wins, including a 1-0 shutout of Northern Illinois and a 2-1 win over Evans-

Of course, there's plenty of local talent on the field as well as in the nets. Freshmen Jeff Thomas (Livonia Stevenson) and John Truskowski (Plymouth Salem)

each scored a goal in UDM's 6-1 win over Eastern Michigan Wednesday, which raised the Titans' overall record to 12-2-2.

COLEMAN A CLASSIC

Michigan State's football team got off to its best start in years (3-2 entering Saturday's game against Iowa), with junior flanker Mill Coleman (Farmington Hills Harrison) a major contributor. Coleman ranked third in the Big Ten in receptions with 25, good for 292 yards (11.7 per catch) and a touchdown. He also caught the two-point conversion pass that tied Ohio State at 21-21.

He had a streak of at least one catch in 17 consecutive games entering Saturday's contest.

against the Leopards.

Holy Cross has taken its lumps on the football field this season, Saturday's game against Bucknell. That's the bad news

The good news is the development of sophomore quarterback Andy Fitzpatrick (Farmington Harrison). In a 41-25 loss to Harvard. Fitzpatrick hit 15-of-24 passes for 189 yards and two. touchdowns; in a 31-27 defeat against Yale, he was 17-of-20 for 251 yards and two TDs. He did not throw an interception in ei-

CLASSIFIED ADS GET RESULTS

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

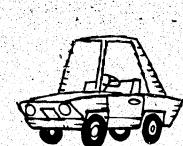

information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

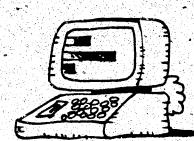

waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the Item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
