Mayor, council pledge peace

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Vowing to overcome their political differences, Mayor Robert Thomas and city council members pledged Monday to work as a team to initiate positive changes for their constituents.

More cooperation was pledged by Mayor Thomas and the new city council Monday night as the winners of the Nov. 2 election were sworn into office. Joining the council were Charles Griffin, a former mayor and council president, and David Cox.

"I want to continue a positive approach for our city, and I want both branches of government to work together as a team," Thomas said, launching into his second four-year term during inaugural ceremonies for the mayor and four council members. Thomas, by a 2-to-1 margin Nov. 2, beat a mayoral challenge by then-council president Charles Pickering in a bitterly fought race.

Monday's inauguration — attended by about 100 people at Bailey Recreation Center — set a conciliatory tone for Thomas and a partially revamped city council.

Thomas was sworn in Monday along with newly elected council members Charles "Trav" Griffin and David Cox and incumbents Sandra Cicirelli and Sharon Scott. Griffin served a term as mayor before he was narrowly defeated by Thomas in 1989.

City clerk Diane Fritz administered the oath of office to Griffin, Cox and Cicirelli. State Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, swore in Scott, while 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos swore in the mayor.

"I feel so glad to be here today," Griffin, 53, told the crowd, saying he and his family had narrowly escaped injury the previous night during a car accident.

Gas station robbed

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland police are investigating reports that two masked men — one wielding a handgun — robbed a Citgo gas station on Wayne Road, between Ford and Cherry Hill.

A 19-year-old female employee told police that she was robbed of $900 during a holdup that she said occurred at 8:05 p.m. on Dec. 28.

No arrests had been made as of Tuesday afternoon, but police were continuing their investigation, Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

The employee told police that she was working when two men walked into the business and demanded money. One man pointed a blue-steel semi-automatic handgun that he held in his right hand, the worker said in her statement.

The woman reported that she placed $900 in a white plastic bag and gave it to the gunman. The second man stood behind the gunman and watched the business entrance, the worker told police.

The employee said the men fled the store after she gave the money to them. She said she lost sight of them as they ran in a northwest direction.

The gunman was described as a thin white male, 5-foot-9, wearing a black mask, a red flannel shirt and blue jeans. The other man was described as a white male, 5-foot-9, medium build, wearing a dark blue mask, a black leather jacket and blue jeans.

According to police reports, officers who arrived on the scene found a red, white and blue mask in the Citgo parking lot. The mask was confiscated as possible evidence.

A Livonia police tracking dog was also brought to the scene, but was unable to pick up a scent, police reports said.

Police questioned four people who were in a car near the scene, using a public telephone. But police released the four, who were believed not to be involved in the alleged incident.

9 candidates compete to replace departing school board member

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Four more candidates have lined up for a Wayne-Westland school board vacancy, widening the field of office-seekers to nine.

The vacancy was created by the Dec. 31 resignation of Leonard Posey, who quit his term six months early because of an out-of-state job promotion.

The board is expected to try to choose an appointee next week.

The latest four candidates, who beat a Dec. 31 filing deadline, are:

■ Gary Green, a former assistant principal at Franklin Junior High School who retired last June. A Westland resident, Green is a 32-year Wayne-Westland educator.

■ David Mytty, a Westland resident who has served on the district's Schools of Choice Committee, the Madison Elementary School PTA, and on millage committees that have fought to improve local funding of schools. He is a hospital administrator in the area of finance.

■ Doug Noel, a Westland resident who was an unsuccessful mayoral candidate in last fall's primary. He is an IRS tax service specialist and Schoolcraft College part-time instructor.

■ Roberta Paquette, who has sought board appointments in the past and who was defeated in a school board election in June 1993. She has also been a member of the Stottlemeyer Elementary PTA and helped to start the John Glenn boys swim team booster club. She is a part-time Mervyn's sales clerk and a part-time teller at First of America.

The latest four candidates sent their board applications by mail, beating a Dec. 31 deadline.

Five other candidates who applied before school offices closed Dec. 17 for the holidays are:

■ Sharon Felan, a former board appointee who served one year before losing her seat in the June 14 election. Felan, a Wayne resident, is a longtime school volunteer, Schweitzer Elementary PTA president and former real estate associate.

Felan is currently awaiting trial for allegedly assaulting current board member Patricia Brown. Brown claims that Felan shoved her Nov. 23 during an argument.

■ Debra Fowlkes, a Westland resident who has served on several school district committees and has been active in the Marshall Junior High PTA.

■ Richard Honaker, a Westland resident who has served in appointed city government posts such as the Local Officers Compensation Commission. He is an assistant vice president at a local branch of National Bank of Detroit.

■ Ronald Lancaster, a Westland resident and retired General Motors Corp. engineer.

■ Mable Pittman-Stroman, an Inkster resident who teaches special education classes in the Van Buren Public Schools. She has served in several volunteer groups helping youngsters.

The board will interview candidates at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. The board is expected to choose an appointee during a special session at 9 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 15.

Westland baby paralyzed after shaking

BY DARRELL CLEM

A 1-year-old Westland infant is paralyzed after being severely shaken by a babysitter, reported Westland police Sgt. Laura Moore.

The little boy, paralyzed on his right side by "shaken child syndrome," remains in Children's Hospital in Detroit and is expected to be severely impaired for the rest of his life, Moore said.

"The prognosis is poor. It looks like the baby will live, but he will be severely handicapped," she said.

More often than not, children die from shaken child syndrome, Moore said. She has asked that the baby's name and address not be published at this time to protect the foster parents, who live in Westland's north end.

A 17-year-old Westland boy who Moore said was babysitting three foster children at the time of the Dec. 15 incident has been charged with first-degree child abuse. The parents also have three adopted children, who were believed to be in school at the time, Moore said.

Brian Spencer Sant, a Franklin High School student, could face up to 15 years in prison if convicted on the child abuse charge. He was arraigned in the out-county court building this week, and a not guilty plea was entered for him.

Sant has been released on a personal bond. He is scheduled for a preliminary hearing Jan. 13 in 18th District Court to determine if he should stand trial. He would be tried as an adult.

The foster father was at work at the time, and the foster mother had been in and out of the house doing Christmas shopping when the incident occurred between noon and 5:30 p.m., Moore said.

Stricken deputy keeps positive attitude

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Michael Oaks admits that he has good and bad days.

But he insists that he has to maintain a positive attitude to lift his spirits since he became ill with a rare disease which has sapped his strength and caused him to lose 70 pounds. He was forced to go on a medical leave from his job as a Wayne County sheriff's deputy.

Oaks, a 26-year-old Westland resident, has been on leave since Sept. 17 although his medical insurance policy will continue for another year. Because the policy doesn't cover all his medical and hospital expenses, friends have held several benefits to raise $14,000 for his family.

Helping him improve his spirits during the holidays was getting Christmas gifts and having several friends pick him up and take him out.

Oaks, a deputy for just over a year, has been diagnosed as having progressive systemic sclerosis, a chronic disease which has no known cause. The disease, also known as scleroderma, causes the internal organs to harden and ultimately stop functioning.

The prognosis is usually fatal, according to a sheriff's department letter sent last fall urging people to support planned benefits for Oaks.

Oaks said the disease sometimes comes on through stress.

At one point this fall, Oaks was hospitalized for five weeks, hardly eating and watching his weight drop from 190 pounds to 120 before going back up to 146.

His wife, Denise, admitted in an interview in their home that life has been hard in the past few months.

"There's been a lot of frustrations and stress," both physical and emotional, she said.

His wife is an X-ray technician at a doctor's office. Her employer pays for the medical insurance coverage for her, but not family members.

The deputy's medical insurance pays for most of the bills and dialysis, but not lab tests or X-rays.

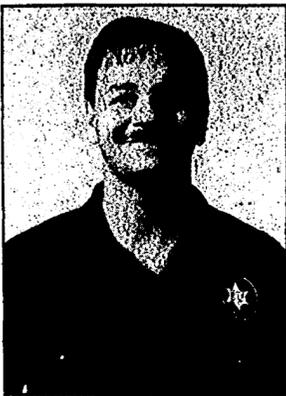

A typical work day for her begins at 8 a.m. when she starts her duties at the doctor's office and then comes home to take care of Mike and her two children, one by her previous marriage. Providing help are Oaks's mother, Denise's stepmother and a baby sitter.

Oaks, a 1985 graduate of John Glenn High School where he played football, later attended college in Missouri where he competed on the baseball team.

He stressed having a positive attitude because "when your feelings start going down, you feel worse."

"I keep a positive attitude — that's all you can do," he added.

But the disease is also hard for his mother, Jan Oaks, who has been collecting information from the United Scleroderma Foundation in Watsonville, Calif. The organization has a Michigan chapter in Southfield.

She said her son is among the 10 percent of scleroderma patients in which the disease progresses rapidly.

Mrs. Oaks, whose husband, Gary, suffered a stroke nearly four years ago, said her son also has Raynaud's Phenomenon in his hands, which restricts the blood flow to his hands and fingers, causing swelling, soreness and discoloration.

"He has to protect his hands from the cold and can't do many things he used to do for himself, such as taking a cap off a pop bottle, opening doors and dressing his baby — things we all take for granted," she said.

When the scleroderma advanced last fall, his kidneys stopped functioning, forcing him to use a dialysis machine in his home to stay alive.

"He is going to be evaluated for being a kidney transplant (patient), however, he may not be a candidate because of the scleroderma disease as it will eventually do the same thing to the potentially transplanted kidney," she said.

"Just recently, Mike was told he has heart involvement" from the disease. "Where is this dreadful disease going to strike soon? It would be comforting to know 'soon there may be a cure,' but first research must be able to find the cause of scleroderma. They can tell you it is not contagious and is not hereditary."

Mrs. Oaks was also upset that national research funding for the disease is only $3.9 million although it struck some 700,000 patients, far more than the 25,000 for another disease which has $53.1 million for research.

"Why doesn't scleroderma get more publicity and monies for research as it has no boundaries on how, where and why it strikes a healthy person?"

She said interested people may obtain information on the disease from Joan Provizer, c/o United Scleroderma Foundation Inc., Southeastern Michigan Chapter, 24655 Southfield Road, Suite 100, Southfield 48075, and by calling (810) 443-0858.

City delays action on contractor's sewer repair offer

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Some say the deal seems too good to pass up: getting repairs done now at 1988 costs.

Others say it's possible to find an even better deal.

That's the dilemma that prompted the Westland City Council to postpone a decision Monday on extending a contract for emergency water and sewer repairs.

A Romulus company, Pritula & Sons Excavating, has offered to continue making the repairs at 1988 costs, if the council approves a two-year extension when the contract expires June 30.

But some council members, particularly Charles Pickering, believe the council should seek bids on the work before automatically awarding the job to Pritula & Sons.

"I think it's time to go back to being competitive," he said.

In a 6-1 vote Monday, the council delayed a decision. Pickering, saying bids should be sought, cast the lone dissenting vote against the measure.

It appeared, however, that Pickering may have some support for seeking bids.

"It's the only way we can be asured that the citizens are getting the right price for the work that's being done," Councilman Glenn Anderson said.

Councilman Charles "Trav" Griffin, saying the Romulus company has done good work for Westland, said he would vote to retain Pritula & Sons "unless I hear some overwhelming evidence" to the contrary.

Council president-elect Thomas Brown said the city needs to find out exactly what services it will be receiving — if, indeed, the contract is extended.

Carl Clark, public services director, cautioned the council that bids aren't likely to bring in lower cost estimates.

"These prices are not going to be lower," he said. "You're going to see that they're going to come in higher than this."

The Romulus company has performed work for Westland "without a bit of trouble" for 13 years, Clark said.

Mayor Robert Thomas added that the company is "here in a pinch" when the city needs its services.

Supporters of Pritula & Sons are hopeful that — if bids are sought — the company will still offer the services at 1988 prices.

Piano in the Park will feature professional pianists performing 5:30-8:30 p.m. each Friday and noon-5 p.m. each Saturday. On Thursdays pianist Gloria McBeth offers a piano concert, 7-9 p.m. Both piano features are in the Parisian Court.

Fashions from Eleganza Boutique and Gantos will be informally modeled during lunch at D. Dennison's and the Livonia Marriott Hotel's Garden Court restaurant from noon-2 p.m. Jan. 7.

The Latin jazz of Corcovado will be performed at the Jazz in the Park concert 1 to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 15, in Parisian Court. During the same time, the newest styles from Talbot's, Ann Taylor and Casual Corner will be modeled.

Casual fashions from Land and Seas and Eddie Bauer will be informally modeled during lunch time at D. Dennison's and Garden Court restaurants from noon-2 p.m. Jan. 21.

Council veteran named president

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Thomas Brown — described as a legend in his own time in Westland political circles — has been named president of the Westland City Council.

Brown, 76, was elected to the seven-member council's top post during a unanimous vote Monday night by his peers.

Brown has been at odds with Mayor Robert Thomas on numerous occasions, but he indicated Monday that the council and the mayor's administration can seek common ground.

"We might disagree on certain issues," Brown said, "but if we all work together, we'll get the job done."

Brown's selection for a two-year presidential term came during the council's first meeting of 1994 — a session partly devoted to organizational matters. Brown succeeds Councilman Charles Pickering in the $11,051-a-year post.

In another unanimous vote, Councilwoman Sandra Cicirelli was chosen president pro tem — the council's second-in-command post. She would assume the presidency in Brown's absence.

Cicirelli, beginning her second consecutive four-year council term, told her colleagues, "I appreciate the support the rest of the city council members have given me. I will work with you and with the mayor."

As president pro tem, Cicirelli will be paid $10,551, according to the city clerk's office. The remaining five city council members receive $10,051 annually.

As president, Brown will be in charge of council meetings. He has already had experience in the post; he served as president before Pickering.

Brown's political involvement spans more than three decades; it began he was an official of Nankin Township, which was incorporated as the city of Westland in May 1966.

His political tenure includes serving as Nankin Township trustee in 1961-63, treasurer in 1963-65, and supervisor in 1965-66. He served as Westland's first mayor from 1966-69, state representative from 1970-83, and city councilman since early 1985.

Four more:
After his inauguration Monday, Mayor Robert Thomas called for his administration and the Westland City Council to work together for the good of city residents.

Scott, 54, called for council members and the mayor's office to put aside their political differences.

"Team work is what will lead our city to a prosperous future," she said.

Cox, 35, pledged to represent his constituents "fairly and honestly."

Cicirelli, 42, the top council vote-getter for a second time, vowed to work to make Westland "a proud place for everyone to live and work."

Cicirelli, Scott and Griffin won four-year terms while Cox, who finished last among the Nov. 2 winners, won a two-year term.

Griffin and Cox replace Councilman Kenneth Mehl, who ended 12 years on the council with a failed mayoral bid, and Terri Reighard-Johnson, whose chose to return to private life after serving a four-year term.

Council members taking the oath of office Monday joined council holdovers Pickering, Glenn Anderson and president-elect Thomas Brown.

Though Thomas, 43, and Pickering, 50, clashed bitterly in the mayoral race, Pickering on Monday commended the mayor for his solid victory. Saying negative statements often emerge in campaigns, Pickering said the two sides now should try to work together.

Thomas agreed. Rather than bickering, Thomas said he would prefer to do his job "and go home with a smile on my face."

Radio's 'Mr. Show Biz' returns as researcher for nostalgia show

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER

Dick Osgood, considered a "dean of Detroit radio" personalities, is returning to the local radio scene.

Osgood, 92, joins the research staff of Somewhere in Time, a locally produced nostalgic radio show.

Dubbed as Detroit's "Mr. Show Biz," Osgood started his Detroit radio career at WXYZ as a copywriter in 1935 at $65 per week. He retired from the station in 1971.

On his former "Show World" program on WXYZ, a comment from Osgood could make or break a movie in the Detroit market.

Osgood was also the Fact Finder on WXYZ and in 1939 donned a cap and gown to serve as the host of the Radio Schoolhouse.

At one time, Osgood had to approve every line of copy aired on WXYZ as the personal representative of George W. Trendle, creator of the Lone Ranger and station owner.

"Having Dick in our family is just like traveling back in time," said Tom Wilson, the host of Somewhere in Time.

"Dick knows everything (good and bad) about early Detroit radio. Imagine being able to check out a bit of nostalgia with someone who joked with the Lone Ranger, swapped stories with the Green Hornet and talked about dogs with Sergeant Preston."

Somewhere in Time is heard in southeastern Michigan on WDTR-FM (90.9) 12:30 p.m. Thursdays and 4 p.m. Saturdays. The program is also carried statewide on the Michigan Educational Radio Network and in Austria on the Blue Danube Network of Austrian National Radio.

Retirement didn't slow Osgood down, he simply switched gears.

He's researched and written behind-the-scenes stories about the Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Those stories became syndicated in 1981.

"I've also written a book about a private, exclusive club called The ? Club," Osgood said.

Some members of the Fisher family and Reynolds families, of Reynolds Aluminum fame, belonged to the club, Osgood said.

Osgood believes he was chosen to write the book because "he wouldn't capitalize on it."

He's flattered that club members took him into their confidence.

Today, investments and gardening occupy Osgood's leisure time.

Osgood recalls with delight the start of the careers of Mike Wallace, Soupy Sales, Douglas Edvard, Johnnie Desmond and others at WXYZ. Along with J. Edgar Hoover, Osgood was a pallbearer at Brace Beemer's funeral in 1965.

Beemer, whose "Hiii-Yo, Silver" enthralled 10-year-olds for several decades, was announcer for the popular program.

When Earle Graser, the original Lone Ranger was killed in an automobile accident in April 1941, Beemer stepped into the role.

Graser lived in a home on Locust Drive that is scheduled to become Farmington's first bed and breakfast.

Osgood joins octogenarian B. Franklin Steiner, an 85-year-old retired diplomat who listens to Somewhere in Time in Arlington, Va., and furnishes the program with the closing quotes heard at the end of each show.

Osgood and wife Anne have two children, Stella Bartlett Kirby and William Estey Osgood.

SAM'S Club moves into Pace's place

A Wal-Mart Stores SAM'S Club will move into the Pace Warehouse Club, on Central City Parkway (formerly Cowan) west of Wayne Road, and be open for business at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The announcement for the move is the latest development in the membership club business.

Pace Warehouse, which opened in the fall of 1987, was bought by Kmart several years ago and then sold last fall.

About the same, Meljer's opened its SourceClub membership club last March and announced last month it will close by Jan. 31.

In an announcement this week, Sam's Club said a proposed purchase of 91 Pace Warehouse Clubs from Kmart was submitted last November, subject to federal anti-trust provisions.

Pace will temporarily halt operations on Monday and Tuesday, said a SAM'S club spokesman, in preparing for the Wednesday opening.

"While continuing to train our associate-employees, we will conduct an inventory of merchandise and make signing and operational changes," the spokesman continued. "It will be the same building, but members will begin to see changes inside as we gradually start stocking the shelves with merchandise that is focused on serving our business members' needs."

Hours will be 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Businessman finds football team full of fumbles

BY LARRY O'CONNOR
STAFF WRITER

HAMILTON, Ontario — Ah, to own a professional football team. Sundays full of first-and-10s, quarterback sneaks and goal-line stands. Or so it would seem.

Bernie Glibberman's Sundays, especially this season, have been filled with firsts and fumbles, reporters trying to sneak off-the-cuff remarks about the fate of a 4-14 coach and stances against city government over sales of hot dogs and Diet Cokes.

No one ever promised Glibberman a rose garden when he bought the Canadian Football League Ottawa Rough Riders in October of 1991.

Instead, he inherited use of an Astro-Turf field to pedal the talents of 40 players. Thorns, there have been plenty.

"There's a competitiveness to it, getting your football team to beat everybody else's football team," said Glibberman after his squad was knocked out of the CFL playoffs by the Hamilton Tiger Cats.

Glibberman, on his son Lonie's urging, bought the Rough Riders. Lonie oversees operation in Ottawa. Bernie gets reports in his West Bloomfield office.

Rough season

This season — the second in Bernie Glibberman's tenure — has been rife with controversy.

Players have been cut by the coach only to be brought back on behalf of the owner. Against the judgment of his coaches, Glibberman signed former NFL veteran defensive end Dexter Manley.

"We got involved in football this year, which is something we really didn't want to do," Bernie said. "We didn't really have a choice because we felt the decisions the coaches were making were absolutely wrong."

Bernie Glibberman didn't make his money in football. His business acumen was acquired as a builder and a developer.

Local ties

His mark is seen in such developments as Greenpointe at Copper Creek in Farmington Hills, Greenpointe Condominiums in West Bloomfield and Millpointe in Westland.

He's was named Builder of the Year Southeast Michigan by the National Home Builders Association.

A Detroit Lions fan since his teens, Bernie set his sights on bringing a CFL franchise to this area. When that didn't pan out, he bought the Rough Riders as an undervalued investment.

With son Lonie as president, he's trying to recapture past glories with a team that has a rich tradition. Ottawa has won nine Grey Cups — the northern equivalent of a Super Bowl.

The Glibermans have sought to market the Rough Riders in a Madison Avenue blitz.

Marketing blitz

Ticket prices have been lowered. The team's logo was made over from a standard white block R to a blazing red-and-orange emblem. The team's colors have been switched as well to all black uniforms at home and silver and black on the road.

Such cosmetic alterations would seemingly be embraced in a city where the home team was in a precarious state.

But in the capital of a country already wary of cultural imperialism from its neighbor, the Glibermans' efforts have been met with skepticism and outright acrimony.

"There's always that feeling, 'Here's some greedy capitalistic American.' At the same time there are people who are very positive," said Lonie, who lives in Ottawa.

"But there's always that hint that we're out here to make money. We are. There's no question."

Some trepidation appears to have been warranted.

Last year, the Glibermans threatened to move the team. The showdown occurred over the lease agreement with the city over use of Lansdowne Park.

The team, which had lost money for 40 years, was paying $400,000 a year in rent. A better concessions deal was needed to keep the team in Ottawa, Lonie said. "Our backs were against the wall."

The city blinked; the Rough Riders stayed.

Decision maker

Controversy has bubbled over into this year, though. Rough Riders director of football operations and head coach Ron Smeltzer was directed by Bernie to reinstate players he had cut during training camp, including linebacker Brian Bonner.

Bernie, also against the judgment of his coaching staff, brought in Manley, whose on-the-field exploits and off-the-field drug-use problems have garnered equal notoriety.

"The problem we had this year was our coaching staff said he can't play football yet everyone we talked to in the NFL said there is no way that man cannot play football," Bernie said. "With the coaches up here, just in my opinion with the NFL players, I don't know if they are intimidated or what."

On game day, Bernie Glibberman is a fan.

Dressed in blue jeans, a black Ottawa Rough Rider sweatshirt, he was sequestered in a private box atop Ivor Wynne Stadium. Others sat while he stood, his arms folded.

With a 4-14 record, the Rough Riders conspicuously made the CFL playoffs. The Hamilton Tiger Cats were the opposition on a dank drizzly day in Ivor Wynne.

Big game

The Rough Riders were closing in as the first half neared completion. The referee threw a flag for a delay of game (time count) violation.

Instead of scoring a touchdown, the team settled for a field goal. The steam coming from Bernie's ears was eclipsed only by that belching from a stack of a nearby Hamilton factory.

"I knew it was coming," Bernie said. "The play was called in late. He didn't get the play in on time. What a critical time for that to happen. . . . There's no excuse for that."

The Riders fared no better in the second half. The team mounted a drive in the waning minutes. A Tom Burgess pass hit a receiver in the numbers, but he dropped it.

Glibberman was stoic as the final whistle blew.

"The defense held them to 14 points. One of those was a blocked kick," said Bernie, groping for a positive on a splintered barrel.

Lonie Glibberman led a one-man entourage to the locker room. A drunken Hamilton fan accosted him, going into a slurred-syllable diatribe on Manley. The younger Glibberman smiles and moves on.

Both Glibermans were besieged by reporters. The topic was the future of coach Ron Smeltzer.

"We're going to assess the season and assess where we think the problems are, and we'll evaluate it," Bernie said, "and we'll make a good business decision."

Coach fired

The Glibermans fired Smeltzer on Nov. 22.

Don Campbell, who covers the Rough Riders for the Ottawa Citizen, said he believes Bernie Glibberman would rather be an absentee owner. But, Campbell added, "He gets real emotional when the team loses."

That has a role in Glibberman's hands-on decisions regarding the return of some players. The Glibermans' impact as owners is inconclusive in terms of team records and attendance. Last season, the team posted its best record (9-9) in 10 years. Attendance is down 10 percent with an average 24,000.

"The team would not be here if he had not come onto the scene," Campbell said.

Theory has it Glibberman would like to sell the Rough Riders and open up shop in Detroit. He has territorial rights to bring a CFL franchise to this area.

Bernie said his intention is to bring CFL football to Tiger Stadium by 1996.

"Windsor would probably give us 5,000 people a game," he said. "Detroit is a very big market. There is a lot of people who want to see sporting events."

He sees the CFL as an undervalued investment. He said he bought the Rough Riders for $3 million.

Kevorkian attorneys claim astounding success

BY MARILYN YAQUINTO
STAFF WRITER

As Muna, the black cat, stalked the living room of Geoffrey Fieger's spacious home, the homeowner — and lawyer for the so-called Doctor Death — was anything but glum or spooked.

Instead, Fieger was beaming, talking of 1993 as a year of astounding success for himself and his famous client, Dr. Jack Kevorkian, who recently graced the cover of Time magazine.

"We've been very, very successful. We've won in the short term and we've laid the groundwork for the long term," said Fieger, referring to his client being out of jail and the issue of assisted suicide, which is sparking debates around the world.

Kevorkian, however, remains tethered at home as a reminder that he faces charges for having helped terminally ill patients end their lives earlier this year.

Kevorkian has been connected with more than a dozen other Michigan suicides, including one in Redford, but only recently charged under a new state law that bans assisted suicide. The law has been declared unconstitutional in one court and awaits review by an appellate court.

Polls continue to show that most Americans do not consider Kevorkian in the wrong, and believe that assisted suicide guidelines should be established to permit some form of personal control.

Famous duo

Fieger, as Kevorkian's chief counsel, and Michael Alan Schwartz, who lives barely a stone's throw from Fieger and is Kevorkian's co-counsel, have become famous in the process of defending their client.

The two work out of their office in Southfield — the scene of dozens of press conferences related to the defense of Kevorkian.

Fieger has been lambasted as a sort of Howard Stern among lawyers: emotional, unrestrained, blunt, and theatrical.

"But I'm just doing what comes naturally to me," said Fieger, who jokes about having once studied acting at the University of Michigan. But he would like credit for successfully mixing "audacity with a little intelligence."

"We won the hearts and minds of the people. It can't be because I'm such a great theatrical attorney. It's more because we're right."

Fieger shrugged off a comment that he was a "lawyer clown."

"If we weren't doing a good job they wouldn't be so vicious in their criticism of us," he said, referring to himself, Kevorkian and Schwartz.

Although most of his neighbors treat him like a regular person, Fieger said his connection to Kevorkian has obliterated his privacy.

Fieger did not solicit what has become a landmark case — it came to him. Fieger had been only one of several lawyers whom Kevorkian interviewed at the start.

"I think his sister liked me at first better than he did," Fieger recalled. "But he relies a lot on his sister, and I think she is the one who said, 'Go with Geoffrey.'"

Despite their somewhat differing styles, Fieger and Schwartz share a common goal: to see the Kevorkian case resolved in 1994.

They're currently pushing for the American Civil Liberties Union and the public to help transform the case into an extensive battle over civil rights.

"It's time we stopped trying to kill the messenger and deal with the message," said Schwartz.

For 1994, Fieger also hopes to apply some hard lessons he's learned from dealing with the media.

No more talk shows

"I won't go on any more daytime talk shows," like Oprah Winfrey, Fieger said. Instead, he'll opt for formats such as the upcoming PBS "Frontline" devoted to his client, as well as other less "sensational" media.

Fieger and Schwartz are more angry at the Detroit media. Schwartz said the two Detroit newspapers are nothing more than "wrapping for Farmer Jack ads."

Mistakes abound elsewhere, too, they say, such as a WWJ radio announcement that said Kevorkian views his hunger strike as a mistake.

"That's not what Jack said. He never regrets the hunger strike," said Fieger. "What he said was that he was surprised that some people felt he was too selfish," and it's now more vital to see the issue through than to continue a misunderstood tactic.

"The media have to start recognizing that this is not some quirky little Doctor Death and his suicide machine . . . and this isn't about the right to commit suicide. This is about a fundamental right not to suffer."

Meet a couple of old war heros.

A couple of old war heros marched into the First Battle of Bull Run in 1861 and lived to tell about it. They carried young Michigan Captain William Withington into a bloody battle. They caught the red dirt as he collapsed from a gunshot wound. And endured six long months imprisoned behind enemy lines. But these boots definitely shined as the Captain received his Congressional Medal of Honor.

An old war hero's story is just one path you'll take by joining the Historical Society of Michigan. Since 1828, this group has been dedicated to preserving Michigan's past for a richer future. # New legislators cast conservative votes

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan's Legislature is likely to turn more conservative after the 1998 election.

That's when term limitation takes effect under a constitutional amendment approved by voters in 1992.

The conclusion that the Legislature will become more conservative is based on this newspaper's study of voting patterns on three key school finance reform measures.

Senators serving three or more terms — who would be ineligible to serve if term limitation were in effect today — cast a total of 33 yes and 11 no votes, or 75 percent in favor.

Senators in their first two terms cast a total of 29 yes and 31 no, just 48 percent in favor.

In the House, all three bills received the bare 56 minimum for passage and either 44 or 45 against.

House members serving four or more terms — who would be ineligible if term limitation were in effect today — voted 38 to 8, 34 to 12 and 36 to 13 in favor. Their favorable percentages were 83, 74 and 73.5, respectively.

Members in their first three terms voted 17 to 37, 22 to 32 and 20 to 31. Their favorable percentages were 31, 41 and 39 respectively.

The bills used for analysis were House Bills 5109, raising the single business tax by 0.4 percent to 2.75; HB 5110, the real estate transfer tax; and HB 5111, establishing a statewide property tax collection authority.

Measures that passed overwhelmingly, that didn't focus on taxes or that required more than a simple majority were not used. Amendments also were discarded.

Party unimportant

Party affiliation appeared to be a less important factor than how long a lawmaker had served in Lansing.

In the Senate, 12 to 13 Republicans and eight to nine Democrats passed the measures.

In the House, each party put up 28 votes to make 56-vote majorities.

Party leaders like Sen. Dick Posthumus (R-fourth term), Sen. Art Miller (D-fifth term), Speaker Paul Hillegonds (R-eight terms) and Curtis Hertel (D-seven terms) voted for every bill.

Also voting for all three was Mat Dunaskis, R-Lake Orion. He's serving his first Senate term but served five terms in the House.

But freshman Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, voted against two of the three measures.

First and second term Republican Reps. Penny Crissman of Rochester, John Jamian of Bloomfield Township, Greg Kaza of Rochester Hills, Jerry Vorva of Plymouth, and Deborah Whyman of Canton all voted no three times, as did Democrats John Freeman of Madison Heights, Karen Willard of Algonac and Tracey Yokich of St. Clair Shores.

Politics at work

Other factors were at work to assure more yes votes from senior lawmakers:

■ Party leaders trade votes. For example, Senate Democratic chiefs promised to "put up" eight vote if Republicans put up 12. Junior members have the privilege of voting no to look good back home and get re-elected.

■ Veteran lawmakers have less reason to fear the wrath of voters because of long service records and name recognition.

■ Junior members frequently vote no to "send a message" to their elders that they are unhappy at not being consulted in deals. Vorva of Plymouth has been vocal over the year on this point, complaining that leaders never even allowed some of Gov. John Engler's pet ideas to come to a vote.

■ Junior members complain they haven't had time to read lengthy bills before voting on them. Crissman of Rochester made that complaint during the mid-year budget process. A freshman member of the House Taxation Committee drew the wrath of a senior member, who said, "I've never seen anyone abstain so often."

Others' votes

Here is how other Observer & Eccentric-area lawmakers voted:

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland (seven terms) — one no, two absent.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills (six terms) — missed all three votes while performing in the "Nutcracker" ballet in Detroit. Faxon's absence is the equivalent of voting no.

Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville (four terms) — no on SBT and real estate transfer, yes on state property tax.

Sen. George Hart, D-Dearborn (three terms) — yes on SBT, no on real estate transfer and property tax.

Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield (first term) — yes on SBT and real estate transfer, missed property tax vote.

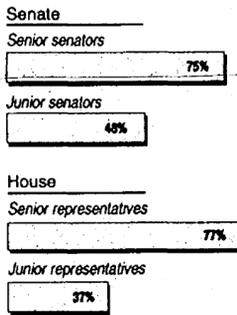

Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford (fifth term) — yes on all three.

Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland (sixth term) — yes on SBT, no on other two.

Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield (fifth term) — no on

Voting patterns

How many terms a person has been in office is a more important determinant of how the legislator voted on school tax bills than political party. This chart shows the percentage of favorable votes cast on three bills: Raising the single business tax, the real estate transfer tax and establishing a statewide tax collection authority.

Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City (11th term) — skipped session.

Good jobs abound in gerontology

Because the trend toward an older society is changing the way business produces and sells a product, it's also changing the job market for students of gerontology, the study of aging.

"The field of aging itself is maturing and developing to the extent that our students are being hired in a wide variety of industries such as insurance, hospice, social work, psychology, criminal justice, advertising and marketing," said Karen Ross, chairwoman of the gerontology department and dean of the college of social sciences at Madonna University of Livonia.

John Fusik is a good example. He decided he wanted to be in business for himself. So a few years after getting his bachelor's degree in gerontology in 1981, he opened what is known as Empa Care Inc. in Plymouth. With almost 80 employees, his company assists families of the elderly by providing general guidance and helping them choose nursing homes and find community resources. He said there are many opportunities in gerontology and, "There is just no limit to its applications."

Janet Furman, a 1985 Madonna graduate with a bachelor's degree in gerontology, worked in the mental health field for more than a year upon graduation. When the funding for her position ran out, she found work as an insurance representative for long-term care insurance. "They were looking for someone with a different background, and gerontology fit what they were looking for," she said. "The specialized degree definitely had an impact in my getting the job. The field of gerontology is expanding. It's becoming a more recognized and accepted field."

In 1991 Lori Colombo got her bachelor's degree in sign language studies. She then continued her education at Madonna and got a bachelor's in gerontology in 1993. Her interest in both the deaf community and gerontology enabled her to develop a proposal for a deaf unit within a nursing home, a project for which she has dedicated the last 15 months.

"The idea first came to me when a classmate mentioned that isolation was occurring among deaf nursing home residents," Colombo said. Deaf residents are being "mainstreamed" with hearing residents, she said, and because of the breakdown in communication, deaf residents are left in isolation.

Her proposal for the deaf unit includes projects like sign language training, deaf activities and the use of close-captioned machines. This will become a reality in six to eight months, she said, at the Orchard Hills Mercy Living Center in Pontiac. It will be the first of its kind in Michigan.

Madonna University is the only institution in Michigan to offer a bachelor's degree in gerontology. For more data, call Karen Ross at 591-5090.

Outdoorama coming to area

The Outdoorama Sport and Travel Show is planned Feb. 25 to March 6 at the Novi Expo Center, Novi Road at I-696.

Outdoorama will comprise more than 300,000 square feet of exhibits displaying the latest in fishing and hunting equipment, recreational vehicles and outfitting destinations throughout North America with expanded space this year devoted to power and fishing boats.

The 1994 lineup of events and seminars brings back such favorites as Bob Jenni, the "Oklahoma Snake Man," along with Jim Clay, turkey hunting and calling expert, while taking on a new look with the addition of Leonard Lee Rue, a wildlife photographer, and Michigan Out-of-Doors wild-game cooking demonstrations.

Da Yoopers, with their unusual variety of musical antics, take the stage daily to sing classics like "Rusty Chevrolet" and "Second Week of Deer Camp."

There are no shortages of hands-on experiences at Outdoorama. Wildlife Encounters programs provide educational moments when visitors take a close look at owls, hawks, falcons and a lot of wetland species under the supervision of Michigan United Conservation Clubs personnel.

A few steps away will be a well-stocked trout pond where patrons can go fishing.

Those looking for competition at Outdoorama can give it their best shot at an archery gallery, while amateur turkey callers are welcome to yelp, cackle and cluck their way to fame as part of the 12th annual Michigan Wild Turkey Calling Classic.

Outdoorama hours will be 4-10 p.m. Friday, Feb. 25, noon to 10 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26, noon to 9 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 27, 4-10 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Feb. 28 to March 6, and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, March 6.

Admission cost depends on your age. Youngsters 5 and under are admitted free. Those ages 6-12, $3; 13-59, $6, with those ages 60 and older $2.50 weekdays before 6 p.m. and $6 any other time.

Vorva takes on campaign for one house legislature

STAFF WRITER

State Rep. Jerry Vorva is pursuing the one house legislature campaign now that an Oakland County committee has given it up.

"I'm gonna continue to push for discussion," said Vorva, R-Plymouth, who is drafting a proposed constitutional amendment "now that this school stuff is out of the way."

Also interested is a House leader — Richard Bandstra of Grand Rapids, the Republican floor leader.

"There's a groundswell going on against the MEA and the government industry," said Vorva, a freshman lawmaker whose district includes Northville and part of Livonia. "It's time to re-examine ourselves."

The school finance debate was largely an argument of the House vs. the Senate more than a partisan argument. During the negotiations, Vorva said, "Three or four members came up to me and said, 'Vorva, where's that unicameral idea?'"

Vorva said his proposal would be timed to go into effect in 1998, when term limits (approved by voters in 1992) take effect. That timing would give incumbent lawmakers an incentive to create a new legislative system.

Vorva had been the only lawmaker to publicly endorse the Oakland group's one house petition drive.

'Lack of funding'

The Oakland group was called the Cut Excess State Government Committee (CESGC). It was headed by Henry Woloson, an attorney from Clarkston who is with a securities firm in Birmingham.

Woloson cited "lack of proper funding" to run a petition drive. Even with 1,200 volunteers across the state to circulate petitions, he said, the costs of printing and mailing were becoming burdensome.

The last successful ballot proposal — in 1992 for term limitation — got $750,000 of its $800,000 budget from a national group, he said.

Instead Woloson's group will support a yes vote for a state Constitutional Convention (Con Con). That issue is on the ballot every 16 years. It's automatically on the November 1994 ballot.

Woloson's group had received Secretary of State approval for the wording of its proposal. Its Upper Peninsula coordinator was former maverick state Rep. Stephen Dresch. Its plan would have:

- Created a unicameral (one chamber) legislature with 75 members (instead of the current 28-member Senate and 100-member House of Representatives).
- Made the Legislature part time by limiting sessions to 90 days. A two-thirds vote of the Legislature and approval of the governor would have been needed for special sessions.

■ Cut the Legislature's current operating budget from $96.7 million to $50 million a year, eliminating staff members who double as campaign workers.

Only voters may amend Michigan's Constitution. There are two methods of placing a proposed constitutional amendment before voters: a two-thirds vote of each chamber of the Legislature or 256,000 petition signatures, collected in a six-month period.

Nebraska in 1937 became the only state with a one-house legislature. "We know of efforts in California, Maine and Iowa," Woloson said.

Tried in 1962

Michigan's current constitution was barely adopted by voters in 1962 on a vote of 811,000 to 803,000. Voters in 1978 rejected calling a new Con Con by a three-to-one margin, 640,000 yes to 2.1 million no.

There was an effort at the 1961-1962 Con Con by Harold Norris, a University of Detroit law professor, to create a one house legislature, Woloson said. Fifty of the 148 delegates supported it.

That, said Woloson, was before the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1974 that state senate districts based on land area violated the U.S. Constitution. Many states, including Michigan, had emulated the U.S. Congress, where one chamber's membership is based on population and the other on statehood.

"We've already achieved ballot access if we use Con Con," Woloson said. "Then we need to get people in there for an intelligent discussion."

Many agendas

Many groups are likely to look at Con Con to institute their pet ideas:

- Fiscal conservatives — for a popular vote on income tax increases.
- Abortion foes and defenders — for restrictions or rights.
- Jack Kevorkian friends and foes — for rights to or prohibition of assisted suicide.
- Religious conservatives — for school prayer, Bible reading, teaching of creationism, vouchers, "parents rights" and abolition of the State Board of Education.

- Law and order zealots — for the death penalty.
- Liberals — against gun ownership.

$24 million cost

A Senate Fiscal Agency study said a Con Con would cost the state about $24 million.

That breaks down to $9.3 million for delegates and staff and $15 million for three statewide elections — a partisan primary, a general election of delegates and an election to approve or disapprove a proposed new constitution.

Michigan has had four constitutions in its history: 1837, 1850, 1908 and 1963. Voters opposed calling conventions in 1926, 1942, 1948, 1958 and 1978.

AROUND WESTLAND

Moss remembered

The Garden City High School Athletic Boosters didn't forget a former president with the printing of the winter sports program, being distributed this week. The boosters dedicated the board program to Chester Moss, a Garden City winner of education member who died last summer. In the dedication page, the boosters pointed out that Moss was active in the group at West High and later Garden City High. A few of his major accomplishments were the purchase and renovation of a trailer used as a concession stand, creating parental crowd control measures to allow the re-establishment of night football games at West, and organizing the funding and parental manpower for the sodding of the football field when the two senior highs consolidated more than 10 years ago.

Open house

An open house will be held by the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA, which serves Garden City, 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. There will be free balloons and popcorn as well as family membership discounts. The Y is at 827 S. Wayne Road. For information, call 721-7044.

Health care speaker

A speaker on national health care will talk to members and guests of the Westland-DeARBORN Heights chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons. The meeting will be held 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 12, in the Berwyn Senior Center, 26155 Richardson, two blocks south of Warren Road and three blocks west of Beech Daly. The chapter is open to people age 50 and older.

Ice fest expected to be best ever

90 Organizers of the 12th annual ice festival in Plymouth promise to deliver the best fest yet - and expect about 500,000 people to view festival ice sculptures from Jan. 12 through Jan. 17

By M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

If you gained a few pounds over the holidays, don't feel bad. Plymouth will be 400,000 pounds heavier by the time the 12th annual Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular begins Wednesday, Jan. 12.

That's the volume of ice to be transformed by sculptors and carvers into designs guaranteed to dazzle the crowd of 500,000 expected to cascade into town Jan. 12-17.

"This Plymouth Ice Spectacular is shaping up to be one of the best ones in recent memory," said Mike Watts, of Watts-Up, inc., organizer of the festival. "This will be a very memorable one, just because of some of the new concepts we've put in."

"We have probably 20 of the top carvers in North America registered for our new team competition, which will be a 20-hour, 10-block competition. The competition will start Friday evening and end Saturday afternoon."

With considerably more time and ice to work with, the frosty creations are expected to be even better than in years past. "It isn't that the other pieces weren't good, but this gives them the chance to do more intricate, detailed beautiful pieces," Watts said.

Area professional carvers to take part include Plymouth's Richard Teeple, executive chef instructor at Henry Ford Community College and president of the school's ice and snow carving club, and Canton's Ted Wakar, executive chef at Ford Motor Co. World Headquarters Penthouse.

Professional carvers coming from Japan and representing the Sapporo Tokyu Hotel include Taitiro Yoshii, Kenji Kobayashi, Hideki Ohta and Toru Matumoto.

With fellow HFCC carvers Roy Calo (an alumnus from Hawaii), J.R. Lorentz of Garden City and Joe Pagel of Eastpointe, Teeple kicked off the fest Tuesday with a demonstration at Plymouth's Smith Elementary School.

Third graders in Mrs. Murray's class voted on which Disney characters they'd like to see carved. Teeple said Bugs Bunny was the top vote-getter, followed by Tweety Bird and Donald Duck. "Surprisingly enough, Porky Pig only got one vote," said Teeple, who's traveled to Japan to compete in its ice carving championships.

Hospital, YMCA team up to support to MS patients

Working with the community to improve the health care of those with special needs has been a part of St. Mary Hospital's mission since 1959.

One recent new project that continues this mission combines the resources of the St. Mary physical medicine and rehabilitation department with the Livonia Family YMCA — an exercise and support program for multiple sclerosis (MS) patients.

The innovative program is a combination of water exercise, education, and socializing.

MS is a chronic, slowly progressive disease of the central nervous system which can result in muscle weakness and loss of coordination and balance. The cause is unknown and there currently is no cure. Patients' treatment includes medication and physical therapy.

Aquatic exercise promotes strength, stamina and flexibility. The resistance and buoyancy of the water improves range of motion and balance, helps increase tolerance for exercise, and reduces pain due to the relaxing effects on the skeletal structure.

Such programs also serve as a form of stress management, help maximize independent functioning, and improve body image.

The St. Mary Hospital physical medicine and rehab staff focused on strengthening, flexibility, and balance exercises in helping the Y develop the program.

The program began in the fall of 1993 when Doris Colling, a former Livonia resident and former employee at the Livonia Chamber of Commerce diagnosed with MS six years ago, approached Y officials and St. Mary Hospital about offering such a program.

Ron Mattei, program director of St. Mary's physical medicine and rehabilitation department, was enthusiastic. "We consider part of our role to be a resource to the community."

Sue Wilson of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, based in Southfield, recently attended a meeting of the Livonia MS group. The national society is writing a training manual for volunteers that will include who to set up an aquatic exercise program for MS patients.

Because people with MS are sensitive to heat and tend to tire more easily, exercising in cool water helps keep body temperature down and lessens fatigue.

"I think the program is wonderful and, hopefully, it can be duplicated throughout the state," said Wilson.

The MS group, which includes about 15 local MS patients, meets from 6-8 p.m. Fridays at the Livonia Y. Water exercise is conducted from 6-7 p.m. by Robin Grace, wellness center coordinator. A support group meeting is then held 7:15 to 8 p.m.

For more information about the MS program call the Y at 261-2161 or the hospital rehab department at 591-2955. For a physician who specializes in the treatment of MS call the hospital's physician referral service, 464-WELL. To learn more about other programs for MS patients call the MS Society, 1-800-243-5767.

Development officials propose go-cart racing for Farmington

BY LARRY O'CONNOR

Brazil, Monaca . . . Farmington?

The last named might not make it on Jackie Stewart's top-10 list of alluring places for motor car racing, but the Farmington Downtown Development Authority is revving up the idea of a "Mini Prix" for its streets.

The proposed event would feature go-carts powered by lawn mower-type engines in three individual races and take place Sunday, May 22, in the Downtown Center parking lot on Grand River and Farmington.

"It's a fun event for people to watch and to get excited about," said DDA director Judy Downey. "It's a very successful event."

Ideally, the promotion would bring visitors to downtown on what is usually a slow shopping day.

The DDA is also looking at a possible profit from the event, which is being organized by Gelman & Grant Management. One DDA in Allentown, Pa., has been running a similar event for seven years and nets a $30,000 take annually, Downey said.

Organizers project the Farmington DDA could make $4,000 in the first year. That money could be used to sponsor other promotions, including a possible concert series during the summer, Downey said.

South Haven is the only other city in the state that has go-cart racing, which is where organizers conceived of the idea.

Though the DDA board approved of the concept at Tuesday's meeting, there are several details to be worked out.

Farmington City Council would have to OK the event, especially if nearby streets need to be closed off. Orchard and Grove streets run adjacent to the parking lot.

Organizers said the track would be designed with the safety of drivers and spectators in mind. Also, they want to make sure there's plenty of parking without interruption for local businesses.

Also, the DDA and Gelman &

Grant have to work out details regarding insurance.

Corporations sponsor the individual go-carts, which are rented from outside suppliers. A corporate sponsorship fee of $2,000 would defray expenses.

They're looking to have at least 12 cars to be sponsored, Downey said.

Some of the races proposed include a VIP Grudge Match where officials from Farmington and Farmington Hills would be pitted against one another.

Another heat would have 14 charities, co-sponsored by corporations, racing for donations.

Drivers would be provided by corporate sponsors and charities involved. A driver's seminar is conducted beforehand, going over the rules and use of safety equipment such as helmet and goggles.

The event would also involve more than weaving in and out of tight spots.

A drivers' reception would precede the race. Also, there's possibility of a car collector's show, entertainment and a sidewalk sale for merchants.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1994

Quality of life Goals needed for improvement

During the past year, the Westland Observer editorially pushed for more effectiveness and civility in the community's public institutions, mainly the city government and Wayne-Westland school district. In addition, there is a growing need to solve the mushrooming problem of irresponsible social behaviors. While many people recently considered resolutions for the new year, the Observer also wants the community and its major institutions to think about special goals for the new year or different ways of doing things that will improve the quality of life for everyone.

For example:

■ The Wayne-Westland Board of Education, expected to fill a vacancy by Jan. 15, should learn to be more civil — toward each other as well as organizations and individuals in the community. Too many times in the past year, some board members seemed to be overly defensive and blame others for the district's problems instead of looking for ways to solve problems. Too many times, others are blamed for blocking the district's progress.

While no one accepts a series of unanimous votes in rubber-stamping administrative recommendations, certainly board members should focus on the problem, not the personalities behind the recommendations. That has happened too many times, and 1994 is a good time to initiate a change.

■ With the school district recently reporting an increase in the Michigan Education Assessment Program test scores, the first in many years after a period of decline, the administration and board of education should continue to concentrate on examining their curriculum and how students are taught. Now that the school financing issue has been resolved by the state Legislature, school officials should devote more time to crucial educational issues instead of worrying about the next millage campaign.

■ On another educational issue which also involves the Livonia Public Schools (serving the northern section of Westland) school officials should take a serious look at consolidating school attendance areas in a move to save money. While there may be a slight increase in busing costs associated with building consolidations, it is minor compared to the overhead related to each building, such as salaries of a principal, secretary and custodians as well as utilities.

■ With the growing reports of guns and fights in schools, more needs to be done to deal with the larger problem of dysfunctional families. The one-year-old Westland Youth Assistance program can be more effectively used in fighting both of those problems. But the increase in people referred to the organization for free counseling exceeds the number of volunteer mentors. Interested people may call 467-7904 to volunteer for an upcoming training session.

■ City officials should also get more involved to help upgrade the business community south of Ford Road. Merchants in that aging business strip should be offered help — either financial or administrative — in upgrading the appearances of their buildings. A dingy looking business section tends to discourage new investments.

The Observer will continue to promote a quality public education, a more effective-working Wayne-Westland school board, an attractive business community, and a more peaceful community.

Legislature does a partial job

The state Legislature's frantic effort to reform public education left the job only half done.

Lawmakers grunted, sweated, strained and gave birth to a camel — you know, a horse designed by a committee.

That's the best way to describe how lawmakers under the gun produced a new school finance system on Dec. 24 which guarantees $4,200 to educate every child. This camel is an odd conglomeration of conservative, liberal and egalitarian ideas that will fully please absolutely no one.

And yet, on balance, we acknowledge the Legislature performed its duty under the state constitution: "The Legislature shall maintain and support a system of free public elementary and secondary schools as defined by law." (Art. VIII Sec. 2)

The constitution says nothing about cutting taxes.

The constitution says nothing about breaking the power of the teachers union.

The constitution says nothing about "parents' rights," contrary to what an ideological hard core imagines.

The constitution says nothing about a myriad of reforms, hopes, dreams and schemes of those with personal agendas to peddle.

So our legislators, for better or worse, fulfilled their constitutional duty. But the system needs more, and residents are demanding more, than simply fulfilling that duty.

On March 15, voters will be left to decide whether to hike the sales tax two cents and the real estate transfer tax another 1 percent. That step, if taken, would enable the state to drop the homestead property tax rate from 12 mills to six, the income tax rate from 6 percent to 4.4 and the single business tax rate from 2.75 percent to 2.35.

At this point we are not ready to support or oppose the March 15 ballot proposal except to note it contains two serious flaws we've criticized in the past. First, the ballot plan almost doubles the real estate transfer tax. Second, it caps assessment increases at 5 percent, assuring that next-door neighbors with identical houses will pay vastly different tax bills depending only on length of residence. Both features hamper the young family trying to buy its first home.

For all the berating of the property tax, the Legislature came around to the position of this newspaper and recognized the property tax is here to stay.

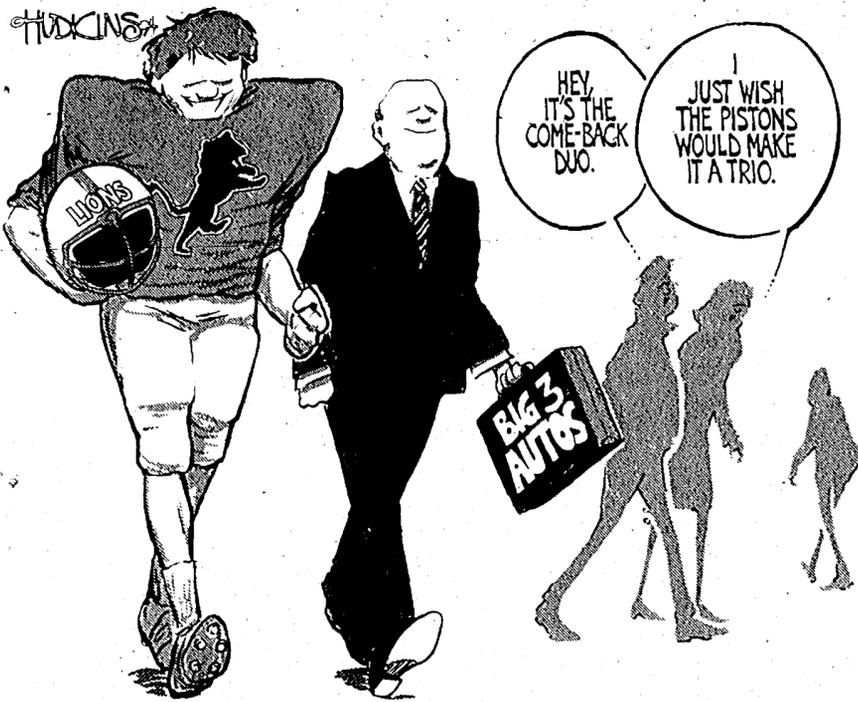

Hopefully, tax reform will serve as a catalyst for better schools — at least in the districts where more money will accompany each student. But the Legislature's job is not yet done.

We strongly suggest the Legislature look at consolidation of school districts with a target of 200 districts with a minimum of 8,000 students each. And that they mandate multiple use of buildings to deliver after-hours social and public health services.

And we suggest that the massive changes in school quality the state has made over the past four years be allowed to take effect, then evaluated for additions and fine-tuning.

We are, perhaps, lucky the Legislature put its emphasis on the financial aspects of improving public schools in 1993. School quality takes continued and persistent effort, and a lot of time. And that time is now, in 1994.

Economy hard to figure

Many new year's resolutions for 1994 is to try to better understand "the economy." Since I don't have a Ph.D., I probably will have trouble understanding esoteric concepts like "bad news is good news" and "good news is bad news." But I am resolved, in my own simple way, to understand the economy of the 1990s.

The stock and bond markets are at all time record highs — this no doubt, is a very good thing. We are told that the reason for the high stock and bond prices is that interest rates are so low. Low interest rates drive money out of savings bank certificates of deposit and into stocks and bonds. Why? People who save money are willing to "risk" their savings in the stock market to avoid having to take those ridiculously low interest rates banks are offering on their savings.

The influx of this "new" money into the stock market, from disgusted saving bank customers, causes demand for stocks to rise and this causes the prices of stocks to also rise. So far so good.

Here's where it gets a little weird. Why are interest rates so low? Interest rates are low because inflation is low. Our Federal Reserve Bank uses its power to set interest rates to control inflation. The Federal Reserve has done such a good job of controlling inflation that they are currently letting us have really, really low interest rates.

Why is inflation so low? Inflation is low because consumer demand for goods and services is weak. If things aren't selling "like hot cakes" businessmen are afraid to raise their prices. If businessmen aren't selling things, they lower their prices until they are selling things. This is called "low inflation."

Why aren't consumers, like you and me, buying things? This is the easy part. We aren't buying things because we don't have any money. Good jobs are "scarcer than hen's teeth" and what money we do have left after buying necessities usually goes to pay taxes.

Furthermore, the big corporations, whose stock prices are at record highs, are laying people off — this is called "down-sizing." Nearly everyday, somewhere, a huge slab of workers is cut from a big corporation. These newly laid off people should now have plenty of time on their hands to go shopping — but they don't! Why? Because they are like you and me — they are afraid they will run out of money.

Now, fasten your seat belt because here's where things get really weird. The big corporations, whose stocks have been driven up to record levels by all the money coming into the stock market, are under pressure from the new investors to justify their higher stock prices by showing "profit growth." Since demand for goods and services is weak — because all of us consumers are either scared to spend money or are outright "broke" — the big corporations are in a bind.

The only way to raise profits in this slow growth, weak demand economy is to further cut costs. The best place to quickly cut costs is to lay off more people. The wages of these newly laid off people go "straight to the bottom line" as profits. So Wall Street is satisfied.

Of course, if people keep losing their good jobs and are forced to work for less money in poorer jobs — demand for goods and services will never really increase in this country. If you're going to spend money, a good income is really, really handy.

Don't worry say the big corporations — we'll just expand our markets into Asia and Latin America. Mexican and Chinese workers will be clamoring to buy our washing machines, computers and cars. They have "pent up demand." This is true! In my neighborhood there is great pent up demand for Mercedes Benz cars, but most of us drive older trucks. (Mine has been driven 153,000 miles).

Now here's where I get really confused. If I will never be able to afford a new Buick or Oldsmobile, how is a Mexican or Chinese worker going to afford one. Economics is hard to understand.

Walter Warren, Westland

School plan knocked

The failure of the governor and legislature to come up with a suitable school reform package is absolute proof that the citizens don't even need them. All we need are petitions and referendums.

This "plan" is sheer backfired political folly. It raises taxes, shifts taxes, and dumps the responsibility for deciding payment method into the laps of the citizens. Worse, the plan does not improve children's education, which was the intent.

The problem and its solution belonged to the politicians, but they dumped it! Now it's time to dump them! At the next election remember that they raised taxes of already overburdened taxpayers.

But if voters neglect to show their opposition, citizens deserve to be at the mercy of the politicians because citizens allow it to happen.

Sometimes there are substitutes for leadership

I recently visited a friend of mine who was recovering from surgery at a local hospital. At infrequent intervals blaring sirens disrupted our conversation and announced the arrival of an emergency ambulance. With each arrival, I glanced out of the hospital window and observed a group of hospital personnel emerge from the emergency entrance. They quickly moved the ambulance occupant into the hospital.

Each time I observed the arrival of an ambulance, I tried to determine who was in charge of the hospital emergency crew. The old rule of thumb that says you can always tell who is in charge by merely looking for the person that is not doing anything did not apply. Each crew member appeared to have a specific task, which they accomplished without any apparent supervisory intervention.

Management literature is replete with different theories and models of leadership. Even with this overabundance of explanations, work situations exist where it is difficult to tell who is really in charge. We could dismiss this proposition as a simple example of the control level that can be achieved through the application of work rules. Or even as an example of an autonomous work group composed of well trained and responsible employees.

Steven Kerr and John Jermier in "Substitutes for Leadership" provide some insight into these situations. This conceptual model was developed in response to the fact that existing leadership models don't account for situations in which leadership isn't needed.

The substitute concept that they developed identifies situations in which leader behaviors are neutralized by the characteristics of the subordinate, task, and organization as follows:

Characteristics of the subordinate that may serve to neutralize leadership behavior include ability and experience, need for independence, professional orientation, and indifference towards organizational rewards. Subordinates with a high level of ability may not need nor want to be told what to do.

Employees are demanding more autonomy in the workplace. They want more control over how the work is performed and their workday.

Employees with this type of orientation give greater credence to peer opinion within their discipline than to the organization's management.

Motivation is linked with perception. The degree to which a specific reward will motivate an individual will depend upon whether it is important to the employee, it is based on performance, or if more effort will result in higher performance.

The basic characteristics of tasks that may serve as substitutes for leadership include routineness, availability of feedback and extrinsic satisfaction. In conclusion, the substitute concept identifies situations in which the leaders' behaviors are neutralized by the characteristics of the subordinate, task, and organization.

Parents, educators need to teach responsibility

Most of us who are raising children in the '90s grew up during "the celebration of the individual" that was so much a part of the '60s and '70s. The personalism that dominated thinking in those decades was engaging. There was intense concentration on ourselves and our potential. It was a period of self-interest when books like "Looking Out for Number One" rose to the top of the best-seller lists.

This focus on individual rights proved fertile ground for the civil rights movement and feminism. There's no arguing that building up the individual is an essential part of developing a strong society. But there has to be a balance. The moral fiber of our country is eroding and will continue to erode until we strike a balance between personalism and responsibility to our families and our communities.

I suggest the '90s are the time when we can — indeed, must — find that balance. Parents and educators who talk about teaching values have begun the movement. For the benefit of our children, we must put the individual into perspective.

Educators and parents are stronger because of the "self-fulfillment" message with which they've grown up. But if society is to move forward, we must couple our message of individual growth with a message of mutual respect and responsibility.

Look around in the malls, read any newspaper or magazine, watch any newscast, listen to the "message" sent through music, movies and television shows targeted at our kids: Untrammelled, in-your face "me-ism" is all the rage.

What began as personal development has wound up creating self-centered, irresponsible children and adults. Personal responsibility seems to have been uncoupled in the ensuing decades and it's going to be tough getting back on track again.

I keep a copy of "Education for Character" on my desk. Subtitle for the book is "How our schools can teach respect and responsibility." Author

THOMAS HERBST

Thomas Lickona suggests respect and responsibility are the fourth and fifth R's. I concur — strongly. Speaking of responsibility, parents and educators have a duty to combine efforts to reinforce daily the importance of these values. These are the core values upon which all other values of a well-ordered society are taught.

Respect and responsibility do not negate personalism; rather, they enhance it. Respect for oneself means being proud of the individuality that makes each person unique.

Further, there ought to be a growing awareness of the talents and gifts we each have to share, coupled with a sense of obligation to share and achieve at our best level. When children learn to be proud of themselves and what they can achieve, they will be ready to understand the special talents their fellow students bring to the classroom.

When parents and teachers successfully celebrate and make children accountable for the potential held within themselves; then, perhaps, when the next generation of youngsters reaches adulthood, they will understand the responsibility they have to create a family, a community and a world where everyone must do his/her part.

Legislature misses mark on real education reform

The more I think about it, the more dismayed I get at the so-called education reform package the Legislature managed to pass in an odd mixture of frenzy and exhaustion on Christmas Eve.

So we get to vote on tax policy on March 15. If we don't pass the ballot plan (hiking the sales tax and cutting the personal income tax), we get the statutory plan (jumping the income tax and the single business tax). Big deal.

Do we get a big property tax cut, as promised? Sort of, depending on which tax plan we get stuck with and where you live, but certainly not the big drop most folks are expecting.

What about school quality — what our kids actually learn — that supposedly was at the core of this whole effort? Virtually nothing.

Whether or not a wholesale choice plan would have brought improving competition into the monopolistic world of K-12 schools is a moot argument; we're not going to have it. Charter schools, which were grudgingly approved, likely will turn out to be small potatoes.

Longer school year? Forget it. Too expensive (although the evidence I have seen indicates conclusively that the longer kids are in class, the more they learn.) The legislation does call for schools to add one more hour of instruction per day. Eventually.

Core curriculum? With no certain way attached to measure what kids actually learn, mandating a core curriculum from Lansing merely centralizes what hitherto has been a hodgepodge of locally selected subjects.

Worse, nobody's accountable for what the students do (not) learn. And with the "foundation grant" paid directly from Lansing to school districts, local voters have now lost the local tax millage vote, the only tool they had to hold schools accountable for performance.

I've been involved in the education reform movement at the national level for a number of years now. I serve on the board of the Center for Education in the Economy, a leading reform group, and have participated in countless meetings and conferences on how to improve our schools. As far as the national school reform community is concerned, Michigan simply isn't a player. Never has been; no reason now to believe it ever will be.

The strategy for getting something concrete done about educational performance in our schools is painfully simple: Define what we expect kids to learn; develop a fair and demanding assessment system to measure what they learn; associate rewards with success and penalties with failure.

This is not rocket science; this is common sense.

That's why it is so disheartening to realize that at every point where the governor and Legislature could have adopted here in Michigan the proven components of the national reform model, they chose not to.

Over the next couple of months, there will be much fire and brimstone about the two tax plans before us. That's fine, but let's never forget during the debate that the subject at hand is tax reform, not education or school improvement.

Sorry, Virginia. There is no Santa Claus.

MU nun studies deaf students

When Sister Jacqueline Anderson began teaching at Madonna University 10 years ago, she noticed recurring patterns of error in the papers of her deaf English composition students.

To analyze this phenomenon, Anderson chose to study and write about the challenges facing deaf mainstream college students and their teachers, for completion of her doctoral degree.

Completed in November 1990 and published by Linstok Press in April 1993, her book, "Deaf Student Mis-Writing, Teacher Mis-Reading: English Education and the Deaf College Student," created an opportunity for Anderson to learn not only about teaching the deaf student, but also about how different languages influence the way a student learns and an educator should teach.

As Anderson explains, the optimal age for anyone to learn a language is from birth to age 6. A child who can't hear will not learn the spoken language of his or her caretakers. It is for this reason that deaf students have a hard time with English. It's not their native language.

Sign language is structurally different from English in many ways. For example, it doesn't use passive voice. Therefore, Anderson says, a deaf person reading text written by a hearing person will have difficulty comprehending messages written in the passive. English metaphors also fall to translate well into sign language. For example, the phrase, "drop a class," when first encountered, makes no sense to a deaf student because a class cannot physically be dropped, she said.

Translation problems also occur when any student whose native language is not English attempts to read and write standard academic prose. "Teachers must be aware of the dialects their students are using. And, in the multicultural classroom, this is becoming more difficult to do," Anderson said.

As outlined in her book, there are methods that teachers can use to assist deaf students: Divide long class periods into smaller segments. Explain the structure of written text. Demonstrate how to handle text. De-emphasize grammatical errors unless the error changes the meaning. And most importantly, respect the deaf student and find out what he or she needs.

Another challenge for deaf students, Anderson said, is having everything filtered through an interpreter. "At no time are their words actually heard in the classroom." And, for the teachers of deaf students, a difficult task is, "trying to comprehend what it's like to have never heard spoken language."

Alien plants, animals nothing new over here

NATURE TRAILS

Aliens have invaded the country! Not space creatures but plants and animals.

Actually this is not new. Ever since the pilgrims landed on North American shores, alien species have been living here.

Some species have been here so long that they appear to be native. Queen Anne's lace, or wild carrot as some people call it, grows in practically every wild field in the Midwest. Yet it is not native to North America. It, like many other plants, was brought from Europe by early settlers because it served as a food spice or medicine.

Many alien species were introduced unintentionally. Rats and house mice came over on the ships of early Europeans and came to shore in crates or bags of food.

Zebra mussels and gypsy moths were introduced accidentally. Despite the fact that female gypsy moths cannot fly, even though they have wings, they have spread throughout the eastern third of North America.

A new species of gypsy moth, whose female can fly, has recently been discovered in the northwest. Biologists are particularly concerned because of their ability to disburse rapidly.

House sparrows and starlings were brought into this country intentionally. They both started on the east coast and have expanded their range to the west coast. Along the way they adapted to man's environment and out-competed native species.

Alien species often survive and proliferate because there are no, or few, natural counter measures to their life cycle. Plants and animals have been living together in the Midwest for eons. During all that time they established balances that maintain stability in their populations.

Introducing new elements into the system causes disruptions that take centuries to balance out. Our natural world is adaptable and flexible, but it takes longer than man can wait. Changes wrought by the disturbance may not be the most acceptable either.

It is best to leave our natural world as undisturbed as possible so the systems in place can work effectively.

Even innocent acts like putting unwanted goldfish in a lake can cause an imbalance of the natural system. People may feel they are doing a good deed by allowing the goldfish to live, but they do not realize the impact those fish have over time. As aliens they proliferate freely and change the water quality so that native fish cannot survive as well. It is far more responsible to give it to a friends or put the unwanted goldfish in the flower beds to grow marigolds.

The only thing as pleasant as buying a Saturn is leasing one.

We hope you've heard how unstressful we try to make it for you when you visit a Saturn showroom. (Because who needs more stress, right?) Anyway, we take the same approach to leasing as we do to everything else. So if leasing a Saturn is better for you than buying one (and we can help you figure that out), then great. The only important thing is to find out how pleasant driving a Saturn can be.

Shamrocks ice Churchill in rematch

Wednesday was a forgettable night for two Livonia hockey teams as Redford Catholic Central rolled to an 8-1 victory over Churchill and Birmingham Unified beat Franklin, 6-3, at Eddie Edgar Arena.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central hockey player Jeff Helner was wearing a friend's baseball cap Wednesday night as he left Eddie Edgar Arena and headed into the cold.

Helner would have been more comfortable wearing a wool hat over his ears but any hat would do after his performance in CC's 8-1 non-league victory over Livonia Churchill.

Helner scored the hat trick to lead the Shamrocks into the New Year with their sixth win without a loss.

Helner, a junior center, scored his first goal at 12:02 of the second period to give the Shamrocks a 4-0 lead and he scored twice in the third period when the game turned into a rout. Helner's linemate, Jason Couture, added two goals and a pair of assists and the other winger, senior Jeff Lachapelle, added an assist.

Churchill freshman goalie Mark Felker, who played well in a 3-2 loss last month to CC, didn't have much of a chance against Helner's line.

Churchill fell to 5-4 overall.

"We've been off the ice for a while (idle since Dec. 18) but we pulled together and came out hard," Helner said. "We've got a lot of talent and if we can come together, we can make it work. We've slowed our game down a bit and it's opened up the passing lanes."

Pete Davis, Dan Hunt and Jon Heady added one goal each for the Shamrocks and senior goalie Mike Brusseau was sharp again in net. Recording single assists were Heady, Greg Vaqueira, Chris Gonzalez and Chris Wagienka.

The Chargers broke the shutout bid late in the third period when center Jim Pollack scored with an assist from Mike Coon.

The lopsided game turned ugly at 14:13 of the second period when 14 penalties were called after a stoppage of play. Two CC players received game misconducts and one player from Churchill received a game misconduct.

The Chargers also lost center Jason Samekko early in the third period because of a knee injury.

"It was just a total bad team effort," Churchill forward Chris Kiehler said. "We're totally embarrassed but we hope to see them in the (Class A) regional."

BIRMINGHAM 6, FRANKLIN 3: Birmingham Unified, a team made up of players from Groves and Lahser high schools, scored three goals in the third period to break a 3-3 tie.

The loss dropped Franklin to 3-5-1 overall.

"Our main problem was ourselves," Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt said. "We were not first to the puck. It could be between two players and we wouldn't get to it or they would be in control and we wouldn't force them into mistakes."

Jim Jackson scored three goals for Birmingham, including two in the decisive third period, and teammate Kevin Moore had two goals.

Jackson broke the 3-3 tie at 7:49 of the third period.

Nathan O'Bryan scored at 9:04 to make it 5-3 and Jackson added an unassisted short-handed goal at 11:44.

Crash landing: Livonia Churchill's Dave Elenich (top) battles Redford Catholic Central's Kevin Peterson to the puck in Wednesday's non-league hockey game at Eddie Edgar Arena. CC won, 8-1, to sweep the two-game series this year.

The Patriots failed to capitalize on the power play for several minutes of the third period.

Franklin goalie Pete Stasevich stopped 15 shots.

Kevin Bernard scored two goals and Dave Proctor had one goal for Franklin, which led 2-1 after one period. Joe O'Connell and Ed Kruschka had two assists each.

"Kevin is an excellent hockey player and he does what he's supposed to do," Jobbitt said. "He works his butt off."

Westland pair blend beautifully

BRAD EMONS

Larry Hartsell never envisioned it turning out this way.

"I always thought my son would be skating at Joe Louis Arena wearing a red jersey playing for the Wings," he said.

Instead, Steven, 16, and his sister Danielle, 13, will be wearing dazzling costumes as they represent their hometown of Westland in the Junior Pairs competition this week at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships.

The technical program begins at 5 today at Cobo Arena with the free style program starting 5 p.m. Saturday at Joe Louis.

Steven, a student at Westland John Glenn High, still admires the artistry of Red Wing Sergei Fedorov, but today he and his sister would like to duplicate the efforts of another famous pair of Soviets, Ekaterina Gordeeva and Sergei Grinkov, gold medalists at the 1988 Olympic Winter Games in Calgary.

Steven juggled two sports for almost three years before making a commitment, along with his sister, to train under current coach Johnny Johns at the Detroit Figure Skating Club in Bloomfield Hills.

"He began taking lessons to become a better skater in hockey," recalls Georgia Hartsell, Steven's mother. "He played baseball and loves all the sports. He still watches hockey, but there came a time when we figured we had to make a decision."

Despite a heavy financial commitment, Larry and Georgia haven't second-guessed themselves.

"Our vacations now are skating events, but the kids love it and we do it as a family," Georgia said. "It's brought us closer as a family."

"I never thought our kids would skate, but they're really dedicated and they work hard. They've decided to put everything into it. I think skating has made them closer. They now rely on each other." The 4-foot-10, 85-pound Danielle, despite being three years younger, isn't afraid to be a spokeswoman for the Hartsell team, but admits "most of our decisions are joint, and either one of us wouldn't have it any other way."

A student at Marshall Junior High, Danielle loves to shop (according to her mother) and plays the flute in her spare time.

But skating has become a full-time, year-round endeavor, something her schoolmates might not understand.

"The sport is hard to explain to a lot of people," said Danielle, who began skating at age 3. "Like yesterday (Monday), we got up at 6 a.m. and didn't get back to the hotel (the Westin) until midnight. Then we had to get up again at 5 this morning (Tuesday) for practice. We were kind of tired."

Johns, as coach, is often demanding, but also retains a good-natured rapport with his students.

"He expects a lot and he's tough," Danielle said. "He'll yell at you, then all the sudden start laughing."

The Hartsells have already shown enormous potential.

They recently won the gold medal at the Eastern Great Lakes Regional and took eighth last year at the Junior Worlds, recording the highest finish among U.S. teams. They are among the favorites this week to win a medal.

"They're still young because we started them when they were young," Johns said. "They've already had four years of solid pair experience."

"By the time they get to the senior level they could contend, because they'll already have nine to 10 years experience."

Johns said that the brother-sister combination are beginning to have minds of their own.

"They're coachable and they're hard workers, but they're at that age where they're becoming experts," he said. "They're more

Bannon leads Lady Crusaders

The Madonna University women's basketball team moved closer to the 500 mark with Thursday's 76-61 victory over host Adrian College.

The Crusaders improved to 5-7 overall, while Adrian fell to 4-6.

Guard Shawn Bannon, who has been playing despite a three-week battle with bronchitis, scored a game-high 23 points on seven-of-16 shooting from the field and nine-of-nine shooting from the free throw line.

"The rest we had (nine days without a game over the holiday) helped Shawn get back on her feet," Madonna coach Bill Potter said. "She was just tired, dragged out by the bronchitis."

The Crusaders, who led 42-

23 at halftime, shot 42 percent from the field (31-74). They made only 2-18 shots from three-point range. Bannon missed all eight of her three-point attempts.

Adrian finished at 41 percent from the field (24-58) despite making only 9-27 shots in the first half.

Meegan Marlatt and Jill Burt scored 11 points each for the Crusaders and Stephanie Crelley contributed 10 points and a team-high nine rebounds.

Madonna made 12-16 free throw attempts in the second half after not attempting one in the first half.

Cherokee Hoaglund led four Adrian players in double figures with 15 points.

Ryan Bell played on winning football teams at Redford Catholic Central and graduated in 1990 with a 3.0 grade point average.

So imagine the kind of adjustment it was for Bell to spend his freshman year in college struggling to keep his grades up while playing on the offensive line for the Vanderbilt University football team, which went 1-10 in 1990 and hasn't had a winning season since 1982.

Bell's demanding freshman schedule included classes in engineering and being introduced on Saturday afternoons to Southeastern Conference football players.

Most players are red-shirted and take a lighter class load to get used to their new surroundings as freshmen.

"(The first year) made me a tougher person and anything I have to deal with in life will be a lot easier because of it," said Bell, a 6-foot-3, 280-pound senior offensive guard who last fall finished his career by being named to the SEC's second-team.

Bell's grade-point average slumped to .7 after his first semester and he decided to face the truth and change his major from engineering to human development.

After the initial fear of being academically ineligible, Bell has come on strong and will finish his degree in four years after taking 11 credit hours in the winter semester.

"I told my parents I did bad (in the classroom) and had to bounce back from it," said Bell, who spent the holidays at his parents' home. "I could have stayed in engineering if it wasn't for football but football is so time consuming. It built a lot of character."

Bell didn't worry anymore about his grades, but he wasn't sure about his future in football after the Commodores fired coach Watson Brown and hired Gerry Dinardo prior to the 1991 season. Some players worry about playing time when a coach brings in a new system and new recruits, but Bell remained a hub of the Commodores' offensive line, starting his last 27 games.

"Ryan did a great job and got better every year — he really deserved post-season honors," Dinardo said. "We brought in a lot of changes and Ryan accepted them and he was great from a morale standpoint, too."

Bell became a full-time starter as a sophomore when the Commodores went 5-6 and just missed a bowl berth after losing the final regular-season game to Tennessee.

Ryan Bell
All-SEC pick

The Commodores have had consecutive 4-7 seasons but beat Kentucky three-straight years and upset nationally ranked Georgia, 27-25, two years ago. They opened the 1993 season with a 30-27 victory at Ole Miss and also gave undefeated Auburn a battle before losing 14-10 in Nashville, Tenn.

Vanderbilt failed to score late in the game after gaining a first down and goal at the Auburn 3-yard line.

"It was a big bummer to lose that game, but we probably gave them their toughest game of the year," Bell said. "They knew they were in for a fight. We're not as talented as most teams, but we play hard-nosed football."

Bell, a two-way lineman at CC, chose Vanderbilt over Northwestern, Boston College and Wyoming BC beat Virginia, 31-13, in the Carquest Bowl on New Year's Day in Miami, Fla. and Wyoming lost to Kansas State, 52-17, in last week's Copper Bowl.

"I never got to go to a bowl game, but I don't think the experience I got at Vanderbilt could be replaced," he said. "I got labeled not a big-time player and I wanted to prove I could play in the SEC."

Bell doesn't expect to get drafted by the National Football League but would like to get a shot as a free agent. Bell figures if he gets a professional shot it will be as a center.

"A lot of people thought I'd play in the Blue-Gray (all-star) game because Vanderbilt's not in a bowl," Bell said. "But I'm just glad I got to come home for Christmas. I don't want to hang my hat on pro football but if I get a shot I'll give it my best. I'll be successful in any endeavor. I have great confidence in myself."

Madonna's losses mount

Madonna University men's basketball coach Bill Sharpe saw some encouraging signs Monday night despite a 127-100 loss at home against St. Francis College of Fort Wayne, Ind.

The loss dropped Madonna to 1-16 overall.

With only eight Crusaders dressed for the game, it was an uphill battle from the get-go. Among the missing players was leading scorer J. Dimes, who could not play because he had not yet registered for a second-semester of classes, and junior guard Shawn Branum, who is out indefinitely for disciplinary reasons.

Donnell Foster and Ken Taylor (Westland John Glenn) are both academically ineligible, Ed Brown had not yet returned from Florida where he went for the holidays and freshman guard Christian Emert will be out until at least Jan. 12 with a broken hand, according to Sharpe.

The Crusaders, who trailed 66-58 at halftime, shot 49 percent from the field (35-for-71). St. Francis, which improved to 8-6 overall, shot 68 percent from the field (57-84).

Sharpe was able to joke after the game.

"I'm trying to make sure the losses don't get to me to the point where I want to have dinner with Dr. Kevorkian," Sharpe said. "It's so frustrating. The kids are good players but they haven't played together. We're groping for upper-class leadership and we haven't had any kind of it."

"The good thing is our freshmen are emerging as leaders. The nicest thing I had said to me was after the game the St. Francis coach said we have a lot of happy years ahead of us."

Sharpe said he hoped to have Dimes return to the lineup Wednesday against Shawnee State (Ohio) and Branum's status "is up to him."

Branum was suspended because of missing two practices and a scrimmage over the holidays.

Six St. Francis players scored in double figures, led by Derek Shafer, who had a game-high 38 points, including 22 in the second half.

Freshman guard Mike Slone came off the bench to score 24 points for the Crusaders, including four shots from three-point range. Freshman center Brandon Slone had 17 points, junior guard Kurt Carlos had 16, freshman guard Dan Dombrow 15 and freshman center Eric Furlotte 14 and six blocked shots.

Sophomore point guard Doug Soper played every minute and led the Crusaders with 12 assists.

No holiday cheer

Madonna finished fourth in the four-team Oakland University Blimpie Basketball Classic last week. Perhaps the best thing that happened to the Crusaders was they avoided playing OU.

OU, which beat Indiana Tech in the championship game, handed Madonna its worst defeat earlier last month, 189-107.

Madonna lost to Indiana Tech, 151-103, in an opening round game played Wednesday at OU. Indiana Tech jumped out to a 75-53 lead at halftime and finished with seven players in double figures.

Soper led the Crusaders with 28 points while playing the entire game.

Mike Slone scored 19 points with a team-high 12 rebounds, Dimes had 18 points and Brandon Slone and Sam Kuens had 11 points each.

The Crusaders were out-rebounded 65-50.

Madonna lost to the University of Michigan-Dearborn, 101-79, in Thursday's consolation game. Forward Ron Stempin led U-M Dearborn with 26 points, Pat Hughes had 23 points off the bench and center Rob Wilson (Plymouth Canton) added 19 points and six rebounds in 24 minutes.

Mike Slone led MU with 22 points. Dimes had 19 points and 15 rebounds and Brandon Slone added 15 points.

Red-hot CC topples Borgess

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Bishop Borgess boys basketball coach Glen Donahue knows there will be a second meeting against Redford Catholic Central, but he's not sure about a third.

The Catholic League playoffs start in mid-February and they are a long way off for Borgess — not just because Tuesday's game at home against CC was the Central Division opener.

CC jumped to a 34-20 half-time lead and held off a late Borgess rally to achieve a 59-53 winner.

The two teams play again at CC on Jan. 28, but there's no chance of a third game unless both make the playoffs. Borgess, a preseason favorite to win the Class C state playoffs, fell to 1-4 overall.

"We lost the battle of Redford, there's one more, and maybe another," Donahue said. "Who knows, if we can sneak into the playoffs... But we have to play a lot better if we're going to make anything. We have to learn what's important. Talent is enough to win a lot of games, but talent never wins out over intelligent play."

The win puts CC coach Bernie Holowicki two wins shy of 600 for his career.

The Shamrocks made 24-of-51 shots from the field (47 percent), including 9-10 during a stretch in the second quarter. CC's defense forced 13 turnovers in the first half and held Borgess to 32 percent shooting for the game (19-59).

Borgess avoided a blowout with a 36-30 rebounding advantage and some excellent play by senior guard Charles Smith, a Ball State signee who scored 20 of his game-high 27 points in the second half.

Borgess scored 11 straight points in the fourth quarter and tied the score at 51 on a turnaround jump shot by senior forward Perry Robinson, but a backdoor layup with 2:20 left by CC senior guard Andy Kummer put the Shamrocks ahead to stay. The Shamrocks made six of seven free throws down the stretch and moved to 3-2 overall.

"They put pressure on us and we knew they'd come back, get the crowd into it, but we weathered it," Holowicki said. "Smith is tough, knows what to do and how to play the angles. I think the Lakeshore loss (60-48 on Dec. 22) was good for us."

Kummer had 18 points on 5-10 shooting and he also held the University of Detroit-Mercy bound Robinson to an unimpressive 17 points on 7-22 shooting. Robinson ended his frustrating night with a show of lack of sportsmanship, rolling on top of CC reserve center Sean Gallagher after the final buzzer sounded.

Robinson and Smith each grabbed 11 rebounds and they combined for 17 of the 19 Borgess field goals.

"We knew who they were going to go to, they have two or three main guys, and we tried to shut them down," Kummer said. "We've been practicing our defense all week. A lot of us have played together since grade school and if we get all 13 going, we're set."

CC sophomore guard Justin Hoener scored 13 points in his first starting assignment and Gallagher scored a season-high 10 points on 4-4 shooting from the floor. Senior guard Andy Slankster added nine points and 10 rebounds and shared the point guard duties in the second half with Hoener.

Senior center Joe Daly had eight points and tied Slankster with 10 rebounds.

CC scored six straight points to take a 12-10 lead after one quarter. The Shamrocks were 11-15 from the field in the second quarter, ending the half with a 10-0 run.

The 6-foot-6 Robinson was 2-10 from the field in the first half, with several attempts coming from beyond 15 feet.

"Perry's got liberty to shoot but sometimes I wish he was in closer so he could follow some of his misses," Donahue said.

Goins' 28 points sparks Rockets past River Rats

Westland John Glenn coach Mike Schuette was simply glad to be back in action Tuesday with his boys basketball team.

The Rockets, who only had one game scheduled before the holiday break, got off to a good start in 1994 with a 57-50 nonleague win at Ann Arbor Huron.

Tony Goins, a 6-foot-4 senior forward, led Glenn with 28 points and 12 rebounds.

Guy Rucker, a 6-10 junior center, contributed nine points, 14 rebounds and three blocks.

Clarence Powell, a senior guard, paced the River Rats with 13 points.

"The hardest part was getting the rust out of our system," said Schuette, whose team is 2-0 overall. "We were rusty making decisions and our passing wasn't crisp, particularly in the first half. But we needed to play this game."

The Rockets, who led 27-23 at intermission, opened up a 19-point lead in the final quarter.

"We stepped up the intensity in the second half," said Schuette, who now turns his attention to a 7:30 p.m. Friday clash at home against Northville in a battle of unbeaten in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

PIONEER 66, STEVENSON 48: On Tuesday, host Livonia Stevenson watched a 33-22 half-time lead disintegrate in the final two quarters as unbeaten Ann Arbor Pioneer (4-0) came away with the nonleague victory.

E.J. Bates, who paced a 44-16 Pioneer second-half assault, led all scorers with 24 points.

Shaun Blackmon and Brent Wall contributed 16 and 13, respectively. Stevenson was down by only six points with 3:30 remaining before running out of gas.

Senior forward Chris Chichila scored 18 points in a losing cause.

Brett Ferris contributed nine for the Spartans, who dropped to 0-4 on the year.

INTER-CITY 45, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 42: A 16-6 fourth-quarter run wasn't enough as host Lutheran High Westland (1-3) fell to Allen Park Inter-City Baptist (4-1).

Down by as many as 18 points, Lutheran Westland battled back to take a 41-40 advantage with just under a minute left.

The Chargers regained the lead for good on a pair of free throws after a Lutheran High turnover.

Lance Cosby paced the victors with 16 points. Ed Horn contributed 12.

Senior center Jeff Lichtner led a balanced Warriors attack with nine.

Junior forward Jon Smolka, junior guard Chris Tierman and senior guard Jim Hoelt each chipped in with eight. Smolka also grabbed 10 rebounds.

"We played tremendous defense to get back into it," Lutheran Westland coach Scott Wiener said.

sensitive about things, but I feel I can still intimidate them and sit on them when I have to."

With the U.S. Championships being in Detroit, the Hartells have added incentive this week to do well.

"Sometimes being at home is good and bad," Johns said. "With all the relatives and friends being around it can become a distraction, but once they're on the ice they'll be concentrating on their performance and thinking about that."

With all the rigorous training leading up to the event, the Hartells are looking forward to performing in front of a hometown audience.

Danielle admits to some pre-competition nervousness, but is focused on the task at hand.

"We want to skate well, have fun and get a medal," she said. "I want to take this as far as I possibly can."

Larry Hartell never thought it would get this far. But then again, who ever envisioned Soviets playing hockey in the NHL?

Titan assistant expands role

STAFF WRITER

It was a magical, once-in-a-lifetime season.

In the fall of 1989, a group of hard-working overachievers, led by a coach who wouldn't let them take a step backward, advanced all the way to the Class A state championship game in girls basketball.

West Bloomfield settled for runner-up honors and a sparkling 24-4 campaign.

Two of the featured performers in the Lakers' storybook season are now at the University of Detroit Mercy, trying to work their magic once again.

Former West Bloomfield coach Ronna Greenberg, who grew up in Livonia, is the Lady Titans' asso-

One of Detroit Mercy's top players is 5-foot-8 junior point guard Amira Danforth, a West Bloomfield graduate who is the Titans' leading scorer this season, averaging 14.3 points-per-game.

She tossed in a career-high 27 points in a 94-82 loss to Duke on Dec. 20 in an opening-round game of the California Tournament. Danforth also tops the team in assists (4.4), steals (4.8) and minutes (36).

"Amira is just awesome," said Greenberg, who compiled a 57-16 record in three seasons at West Bloomfield. "In high school, she was a one-dimensional player because she was so athletic. She got most of her points from layups off steals. Now she's developed a jump shot and she can score from the perimeter. She's a much more complete player."

A high school basketball All-American at Livonia Ladywood, Greenberg played at Michigan State and earned a bachelor's degree in business law.

She later received a law degree from the Detroit College of Law, gained teaching certification from the University of Michigan, and earned a master's degree in athletic administration from Wayne State University.

"For a long time, I wanted to be an attorney," Greenberg said. "But when I started teaching and coaching, I got hooked because I saw I could have an impact on kids."

This is Greenberg's third year with the U-D Mercy program. The Lady Titans went 11-16 last season and 17-12 in Greenberg's first year on the staff.

Items for the Sports Roundup must be submitted by noon Friday (for Monday issue) and noon Tuesday (for Thursday issue). Items run once only.

Travel magazine honors The Lark

Motown is on a roll this week. Dennis Archer was sworn in as mayor, and the North American International Auto Show opens Saturday, Jan. 8, at Cobo Hall. Besides car, Detroit, and the surrounding suburbs, are gaining a reputation for something else — outstanding restaurants.

This month Conde Nast Traveler magazine named The Lark restaurant of West Bloomfield as the 11th best restaurant in the United States. Two other Detroit restaurants made "The Top 50" list of restaurants in the country — Van Dyke Place was 21st, and The Whitney was 27th.

The only other restaurant in mid-America scoring higher than The Lark was Le Francois of Wheeling, Ill., a Chicago suburb, which ranked fourth. Le Bec Fin of Philadelphia took the number one spot.

Chef Macus Haight was the principal chef of Le Bec-Fin before joining The Lark, and was also a chef at Le Francois for several years.

Find out for yourself why The Lark is so wonderful at an Austro-Hungarian dinner the restaurant is hosting 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 24 and 25. The menu will feature the cuisine of the Habsburg Empire. Entree choices include pan-fried venison cutlets with sour cream or beef steak and onions with caraway seeds. Gypsy violinists will entertain you at this dinner which costs $67.50 per person not including beverages, tax or gratuity. The last day for cancellation without charge is Jan. 15.

The Lark is at 6430 Farmington Road, north of Mape Road. Call 661-4466 for reservations.

Schoolcraft College in Livonia has the cure for post-holiday blues — a Winter Getaway on Saturday, Jan. 15, featuring the gourmet cuisine and the Johnny Trudell Orchestra, and a Mardi Gras Celebration, Feb. 12, with New Orleans cuisine, dancing to the Dixieland sound, and entertainment by Peter Madcat Ruth and SCool JAZZ.

The menu for the Winter Get Away dinner which will be served at 7 p.m., includes potato & leek soup, Caesar salad, roast prime rib, potatoes with Asiago cheese and winter vegetable medley. The cost is $35 per person. The Mardi Gras dinner is $30 per person.

Before the rockers: The Ann-Arbor based team of Joan Morris, mezzo-soprano, and William Bolcom, pianist, bring their repertoire of pre-rock American Artist Series on Jan. 9.

'Little Me' is pure fun and laughter

BARBARA MICHALS

Demonstrating that well-executed, unabashed goofiness can indeed be timeless, the Birmingham Theatre's revival of the 1962 musical comedy "Little Me," is a joyous romp unhampered by any pretensions of social significance.

Based on a novel by Patrick Dennis (author of "Auntie Mame"), "Little Me" was adapted for Broadway by Neil Simon, with music by Cy Coleman. In a spoof of the classic rags-to-riches tale, film star Belle Poitrine (Charles Busch) reflects back on her life and the men who influenced her efforts to acquire wealth, culture, and social status.

The young Belle (Courtney Collins) was an impoverished girl from the wrong side of the tracks who fell for the very blue-blooded, all-American hero Eggleston (Jonathan Beck Reed). Categorically rejected by Nobel's haughty mother (Stephen Joseph), Belle sets out to make herself worthy of Nobel, armed only with innate spunk and a knock-out figure.

REVIEW

"Little Me"

★ Theater: Birmingham Theatre, 211 S Woodward.

★ Curtain time: 8 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays; 7 p.m. Sundays; 2 p.m. Wednesdays, Sundays and Thursdays, Jan. 27, through Jan. 30

★ Tickets: Range from $19.50 to $37.50, available at the Birmingham Theatre Box office and all Ticketmaster outlets. Call 644-3353 or Ticketmaster, 645-6666.

The delightfully versatile Reed actually plays seven of the men in Belle's life; the vainglorious Nobel; miserly Mr. Pinchley, Belle's rich "sponsor," the French entertainer Val du Val, who teaches Belle to keep her chin up in adversity; the naive soldier Fred Poitrine, who marries the pregnant Belle; Hollywood director Otto Schnitzler, who furthers her film career; impoverished Prince Cherney, who awards her social status; and finally the smug Noble Junior.

Whether dancing in his wheelchair as the elderly Pinchley or padding around on his knees as the pint-size Prince, Reed manages to make each of his characters uniquely wacky. There's some inspired nonsense with getting his mustache on and off at the right times and even an occasionally ad-lib.

Busch, who has built his career playing female characters, is a divine Belle. Stretching his elegantly-clad figure languidly on the chaise lounge or strutting his curvaceous legs in high heels, Busch is funny and endearing with only a light hint of camp. The gender-bending non-traditional casting gives added dimension to the double-entendres Busch delivers with perfect drollery.

Collins is pleasing as the young Belle, full of spunk and noble of heart, and sounds fine musically. As she matures, young Belle grows to look and sound more and more like Busch's Belle, and they coalesce grandly in the title song duet.

The show's best-known songs are "I've Got Your Number" and "Real Live Girl," but nearly all the musical numbers are upbeat charmers. Particularly fun are the rousing "Deep Down Inside," accompanied by live choreography, and Busch's cheerfully wicked "Don't Ask the Lady What the Lady Did Before."

The principals are supported by eight talented players who each fill multiple roles as well as provide the chorus. The entire cast smoothly accomplishes lightning costume changes.

Director/choreographer Worth Gardner has become the Birmingham Theatre's most reliable asset. In recent seasons he has given Birmingham audiences a stunning "Man of LaMancha," a clever version of "The Wizard of Oz," and a very innovative "Oklahoma!"

With "Little Me" he returns to the Birmingham a level of polish and professionalism that had so far been sorely lacking this season. He'll be back for two more Birmingham productions this year.

Scott Woolley's musical direction, James Morgan's go-for-baroque set, and Michael Bottari and Ronald Case's lush costumes all provide valuable enhancements.

Barbara Michals is an inveterate playgoer who regularly catches up on all the New York productions.

Meadow Brook premieres 'Shirley Valentine'

Willy Russell's Broadway smash "Shirley Valentine" is making its Detroit area premiere at the Oakland University Meadow Brook Theatre beginning Jan. 6.

Winner of several Tony awards, this humorous one-woman show will run Tuesdays through Sundays until Jan. 30.

Ticket information is available through the Meadow Brook box office at 377-3300. Tickets are also available at TicketMaster outlets. Call 645-6666.

Shirley Valentine is a witty yet bored 42-year-old housewife. Her kids have grown, her husband is inattentive, and there seems to be nothing left to do but talk to the walls — literally.

The tables turn in Shirley's life, however, when a feminist girlfriend offers her a free ticket to Greece.

She must then decide whether to continue a life of tedium and responsibility or fly off to one of adventure and romance on the Mediterranean. The decision she makes could change her life forever.

The role of Shirley Valentine is played by Jayne Houdyshell. Houdyshell has acted in 22 Meadow Brook productions, the last of which was "Barefoot in the Park" in 1991.

Houdyshell also received local acclaim for her 1986 performance in the Attic Theatre production of Anne Sullivan in "Monday After the Miracle."

"Shirley Valentine" also marks the 84th and final show to be directed by Meadow Brook's artistic director, Terence Kilburn.

Kilburn will retire at the end of March after 23 years at the theater.

Meadow Brook Theatre is Oakland University's professional theater company, supported by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs. This production is backed by the Chrysler Corp.

Letters lead to love in 'Shadowlands'

The new Richard Attenborough film "Shadowlands" is based on the true story of the forthright, vivacious New York City writer Joy Gresham and the unexpected love she finds with the reserved world-renowned writer C.S. Lewis.

Debra Winger plays Gresham, a woman struggling to survive a failing marriage and raise a son. She eventually begins corresponding with her literary hero, C.S. Lewis, played by Anthony Hopkins.

Lewis, a noted Oxford University professor, has insulated himself from his feelings by creating a world filled with intellectual pursuits.

When the two finally meet face to face in the reserved world of Oxford, their ensuing friendship causes a stir among Lewis' colleagues. Oxford society is taken aback by the New Yorker's engaging yet uninhibited manner.

As Gresham's admiration for Lewis turns to love, she finds him to be cold and sometimes indifferent. After much time, however, Lewis slowly emerges from his emotional isolation, and his growing affection for the divorced woman affects every aspect of his comfortable life.

Based on a factual account, Gresham, with a master's degree from Columbia University, sets out for Oxford looking for a new direction in her life, not necessarily a love affair. During her difficult marriage, she found solace in the pages of Lewis' books and began writing to him.

"Their relationship happened during a time when it was perceived as infinitely more daring than it would be today," said Winger. "Joy did the unconventional in going to a place few other women had gone."

From opposite social and economic walks of life, Lewis and Gresham have very different personalities and yet they each possess a striking intellect and a mutual attraction.

PREVIEW

"Joy was an antithesis of Lewis in that she was feisty, sarcastic and adventurous," Attenborough said. "He was a brilliant intellectual who lived quite apart from public adoration in the cloistered atmosphere of Oxford, socializing with the same group and never letting his guard down. The miraculous thing that happens in his relationship with Joy is that she convinces him to dare, to risk everything for love. He finally accepts that to experience the heights of happiness you must be vulnerable to pain."

It was the dramatic effect Gresham had on Lewis' well-ordered life that intrigued screenwriter William Nicholson, who first conceived their love story as an award-winning British television movie. His stage adaptation opened in London in 1989 and on Broadway a year later, winning Nigel Hawthorne a Best Actor Tony award for his portrayal of Lewis.

"C.S. Lewis became a fascination for me because he was a man who resisted emotional commitment for almost his entire life, yet finally gave way to a remarkably intense love," Nicholson said.

For "Shadowlands," Attenborough is reunited with Anthony Hopkins for their fifth film, "Chaplin," "Magic," "Young Winston" and "A Bridge Too Far."

Hopkins and Winger are joined by Edward Hardwicke as Lewis' brother and roommate and Joey Mazzello as Gresham's son, Douglas.

Mazzello co-starred as the grandson of Attenborough's character in "Jurassic Park."

In the film, Douglas Gresham is 8 when he and his mother arrive in England. A devoted reader of Lewis' children's stories, Douglas eagerly explores the author's attic, searching for clues to the mysterious and enchanting world he encountered in "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe."

Now in his 50s, the real Douglas Gresham remembers being so enthralled as a child with the chivalry of Lewis' books that he expected to find the author "wearing a suit of armor and carrying a sword."

"There was perhaps no one else for them, so they found each other," he said.

Much of the film was shot on location in Oxford with the beautiful backdrop of the lush green English countryside.

"Shadowlands" opens Jan. 7 at area theaters.

This production is based on the screenplay by William Nicholson. Terence Clegg is executive producer, and Diana Hawkins is coproducer. The film, a Savoy Pictures release, is presented by Price Entertainment in association with Spelling Films International and was produced by Attenborough and Brian Eastman.

Unlikely romance: Debra Winger and Anthony Hopkins star in "Shadowlands," an epic romance based on the love affair between the celebrated British author C.S. Lewis and American poet Joy Gresham.

Debra Greca of Redford Township is a big movie-goer and called with these comments about three movies she saw this week — "The Piano," "Grumpy Old Men," and "The Pelican Brief."

"The Piano is an excellent film," she said. "Very sensual, very good performances by everyone. We saw 'Grumpy Old Men,' which we loved, but we could really appreciate it because we're in our early 40s. There were some young people sitting next to us, and it was almost as if they didn't get the humor. You almost have to be a little mature to enjoy that kind of humor. It was an excellent film, very funny."

"I saw 'The Pelican Brief.' I thought that it was very good, a little bit slow in the beginning, but once it started moving it moved very well. I thought the performances were excellent by both of the main characters."

Chris Elliott stars in comedy adventure

Born to wealth — and an aversion to manual labor — Nathaniel Mayweather (Chris Elliott) is an insufferably snide spoiled rich kid who sails through life with a rude attitude, showing nothing but contempt for his teachers and fellow classmates at the exclusive Stephenwood Finishing School for Young Men.

However, Nathaniel finally gets his fancy pants kicked in grand fashion when on the way to a luxury ocean cruise, he mistakenly boards "The Filthy Whore," a dilapidated fishing trawler populated by a crew of scurrilous old salts who turn his life of leisure into misery in "Cabin Boy," a Touchstone Pictures presentation opening at metro Detroit movie theaters on Friday.

Accidentally navigating into the mysterious waters of the Pacific known as Hell's Bucket, this aqualid ship of fools flounders among some of the quirkiest mythical creatures of the briny, including a half-man half-shark; a walking iceberg; a 50-foot shoe salesman in a polyester suit; and a six-armed, blue-skinned siren who constantly paints her many, many nails.

PREVIEW

"Cabin Boy" is directed by Adam Resnick from a screenplay by Adam Resnick and a story by Chris Elliott and Adam Resnick. The producers are Tim Burton and Denise Di Novi.

"The idea for 'Cabin Boy' began its gestation during the last season of the television series 'Get A Life,'" recalls Resnick. "Both Chris (Elliott) and I love those 1930s and '40s sea adventures, especially 'Captains Courageous.'" That was the starting point for this story."

Although that classic Spencer Tracy film in which he and his crew teach a sheltered young boy to become a man was the inspiration, "Cabin Boy" took on a life of its own through the comic minds of Resnick and Elliott.

The two met in the early 1980s during stints as Emmy Award-winning writers on "Late Night with David Letterman." They immediately discovered a mutual comic sensibility.

As their idea for "Cabin Boy" evolved, the story began taking on a wider, almost epic scope.

January didn't always mark new year

SKY WATCH
RAYMOND E. BULLOCK

For most people, January marks the beginning of the new year. However, in primitive Rome the new year started on the first day of spring, and ancient Persians began their year with the first day of autumn. Numerous other skywatchers divided their year into two parts; at the end of summer's heat and the end of winter's cold.

The month of January was named in honor of the god Janus, the keeper of the gates who had two faces; one looking back to the past, the other forward to the future.

It was the Julian calendar that introduced the leap year. Since the earth takes 365 1/4 days to orbit the sun, the calendar was off by one day after every four years. Julius Caesar decreed that every fourth year would have 366 days to keep the calendar in line with the seasons, the extra day being added to February.

While the Julian calendar was a vast improvement over other calendars, it was not perfect. It was off by 11 minutes and four seconds each year, which added up to one day every 128 years.

By the year 1582, the calendar was off by a full 10 days, and Pope Gregory revised the calendar by dropping those 10 days and introducing another correction.

This Gregorian calendar was not adopted by everyone at once. It wasn't until another 170 years had passed that England accepted it in 1752. By then it was necessary to drop 11 days from the calendar, much to the objection of a large number of people. Feeling they had been robbed, a riot ensued as they demanded the return of the 11 days that had been stolen from their lives.

Even the Gregorian calendar is not perfect; it is off by 28 seconds a year. At that rate the discrepancy will add up to another full day — but not for 1,500 years.

If you were out around 7:15 a.m. New Year's Day (as horrifying as the suggestion sounds), you had no trouble finding the moon in the west southwest, located in the constellation of Leo the lion, directly below the bright star Regulus (REG yoo lus).

Regulus lies only one-half of a degree away from the ecliptic (the path of the sun, moon and planets), and 35 years ago, on July 7, 1959, an extremely rare event occurred when Regulus was occulted (covered) by Venus.

The earth was at perihelion (its closest point to the sun) on Jan. 2. We were a mere 147,000,000 kilometers (91.4 million miles) from the sun. Obviously, with some of the coldest weather of the year occurring in January, our distance to the sun has very little to do with our seasons!

Mercury was at superior conjunction Jan. 3, located behind the sun (as seen from the earth) and was not visible. Mercury is the fastest moving planet, and it will become visible in the west southwest by the end of the month.

Jupiter's four largest moons can be seen even with a small telescope. If you received a telescope for the holidays, go out to observe the moons yourself! Be aware that exactly 384 years ago, on Jan. 7, 1610, Galileo first discovered three of the four moons, a discovery that was to have major repercussions for the "earth-centered" universe.

A line drawn from Jupiter to the moon on the morning of the 7th will pass directly through the star Alpha Librae, the brightest star in the constellation of Libra the scales. Libra was originally part of the constellation Scorpius. The Arabic name of Alpha Librae is Zuben El Genubi (ZOO ben el Gen YOU bee), which means "the Southern Claw." "The Northern Claw," Zuben Eschamali (ZOO ben es sha MA lee), also known as Beta Librae, will be seen above and to the left of Alpha. On the morning of the 8th, the moon will be located above orange-red Antares (an TAR ees), the "heart" of the Scorpion.

New moon will occur at 6:10 p.m. on Jan. 11. The moon will be located between the earth and the sun and will not be visible. (On May 10 the moon will be located EXACTLY between the earth and the sun and there will be an eclipse of the sun. Even better news: The eclipse WILL BE visible from the Detroit area!)

The one-day old moon will be visible, albeit with some difficulty, in the west southwest on the evening of the 12th. By the evening of the 13th, the moon will be higher and will be easily visible. On the following night the moon will be located above and to the right of Saturn. Situated in Aquarius, Saturn's beautiful ring system will be visible in a small telescope.

As long as we're at Jan. 13, it's worth noting that on this date in 1920 the illustrious New York Times printed an article ridiculing the idea of using a rocket to reach the moon.

FAMILY LIFE

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

How do you spell success?

Just recently, my older sister, Roselene, and I were engaged in a three-hour telephone conversation about life circumstances that may surround us, hindering, preventing and/or achieving goals - being successful. The phone call initially was supposed to be a quick 10-15 minutes of conversation on what dish to bring to the joint family Christmas dinner.

It was a call that wasn't out of the ordinary. It was an expected call that comes with each holiday. This Christmas, Roselene was the sister to call around to the other sisters to get the scoop on what should be on the Christmas dinner menu.

As tradition has it, whomever took it upon herself to make "the call," you expected a somewhat nonchalant, but loving attitude. Actually, the mild indifference always stemmed from already knowing the menu would be pretty much the same as the Christmas dinner last year - and all the years before. Anyway, we sisters somehow feel the need to continue this little tradition, corny and predictable as it might be.

It was about two hours and 50 minutes into the conversation that we did indeed discuss the menu. Instead we talked about life. I knew beyond a doubt after the first couple of minutes when Rose explained the reason for her call that we would talk - not about food but about something else of substance. Although neither one of us admitted it, it was a conversation that was timely and depicted an awareness of self, our own accomplishments, new directions and goals - an assessment, so to speak. Going into a new year brings about or stirs feelings and a need to evaluate and reflect.

...Rose explained the reason for her call that we would talk - not about food but about something else of substance.

As we discussed our roots, how we were raised and how it has played to who we are, where we are at this point in both our lives, Rose and I agreed that we have much more in common than genes. We recognized that our similarities and interests were many, our way of thinking, especially acknowledging that we prefer, almost demand, organization in our lives down to things being out of place, such as clothes, books, tools, etc., and how it has a way of nipping at our equilibrium.

From there, the conversation continued having a focal point on success - at the center of our aspirations, dreams, motivation and goals. What is success? Success can be defined as Several Unforeseen Challenges/Choices confronting us, Escalating to Significant Strides.

Several - Most people in their lives have more than one option or opportunity to do something in life both gratifying and meaningful. Whether we squander away opportunity or choose not to act upon it, nevertheless, it's usually there.

Unforeseen - Not everyone can read the future, so part of being successful is strategically playing the hand you're dealt - taking control of your life, utilizing all of the strengths within yourself to make the best of situations. It's not always good enough having the ace card in hand, rather knowing what to do with it.

Challenges - There's no spice in life without challenges. How will we know our strengths and weaknesses? It is our ability to endure, persevere and most of all, learn from our experiences.

Choices - Success comes with having choices. Some choices appear risky or uncomfortable at a point. Success normally comes with giving up something to achieve a greater reward for most of us. Although choices sometimes made to get to our successes may drag on, seemingly not having a clear-cut view of the end, they can ultimately work their way around to the initial intent or goal, if we just hang on.

Escalating - Moving upward and onward is a part of being successful. When we make accomplishments and forge through, over obstacles, often we have a feeling of escalation, but good things or opportunities that are in store for us. This feeling of escalation is what drives us to the next higher step.

Significant - What we find meaningful or important in our lives, usually we'll work hard at being successful at, including achieving and moreover maintaining.

Strides - Success is made of small steps, then bigger steps. Bigger steps grow into strides. Recognize and appreciate the small steps. The pride in being successful comes with knowing and being grateful for the process of getting there.

The New Year has arrived and with it plenty of changes - those we know about and those we would like to know about. Astrologer Evelyn Button looks to the planets to see what's in store for 1994.

Well, the new year is here . . . the new year people have been waiting for . . . the new year that spells change for all of us.

Will things be better than 1993? Stay the same? Get worse?

According to astrologer Evelyn Button, there's plenty to look for in 1994. The universe will encounter a rare celestial phenomenon on Jan. 11 - a cluster of seven planets lined up in the sign of Capricorn.

"Interesting to note, their position in the (Washington) D.C. chart places great emphasis on health and labor issues," Button says. "We will make some headway with the health reforms, however, the labor unions whose strength has been diminished over the last 12 years will once more begin to rise."

Button predicts that health-care reform will take six years, at which time we will once again witness the next major planetary cluster, in the sign of Taurus.

As for the president, his chart will be directly affected by a major eclipse this year, suggesting that increased security should be exercised, according to Button. The public at large is confused because of the double messages. His ambitions are sincere but controversial.

Financially, interest rates will creep up, and the economy will grow at a snail's pace. The capital gains tax may be a bargaining chip in the reform bills.

The West and Northwest will be inundated by high winds and above normal precipitation. The Northeast will be subjected to severe blizzards, while Alaska and adjacent areas are ripe for seismic actions.

A scandal may force the resignation of a major political figure. The results of the 1994 election will give a real meaning to "Throw the bums out."

A date that bears watching - March 27, give or take a week on either side, suggests a potential concern in matters having to do with national security.

Now, for a sign-by-sign look at 1994:

★ ARIES March 21 - April 19

The year 1993 proved to be a real ground-breaking adventure for most Aries who indeed are the pioneers of the zodiac. The new days ahead suggest it is time to take stock of these past events and find your bearings.

Planetary indicators point to activities in joint finances, insurance and/or bequests. It's important you have your accounts in order, the IRS may be knocking on your door. Business relationships may present some challenges.

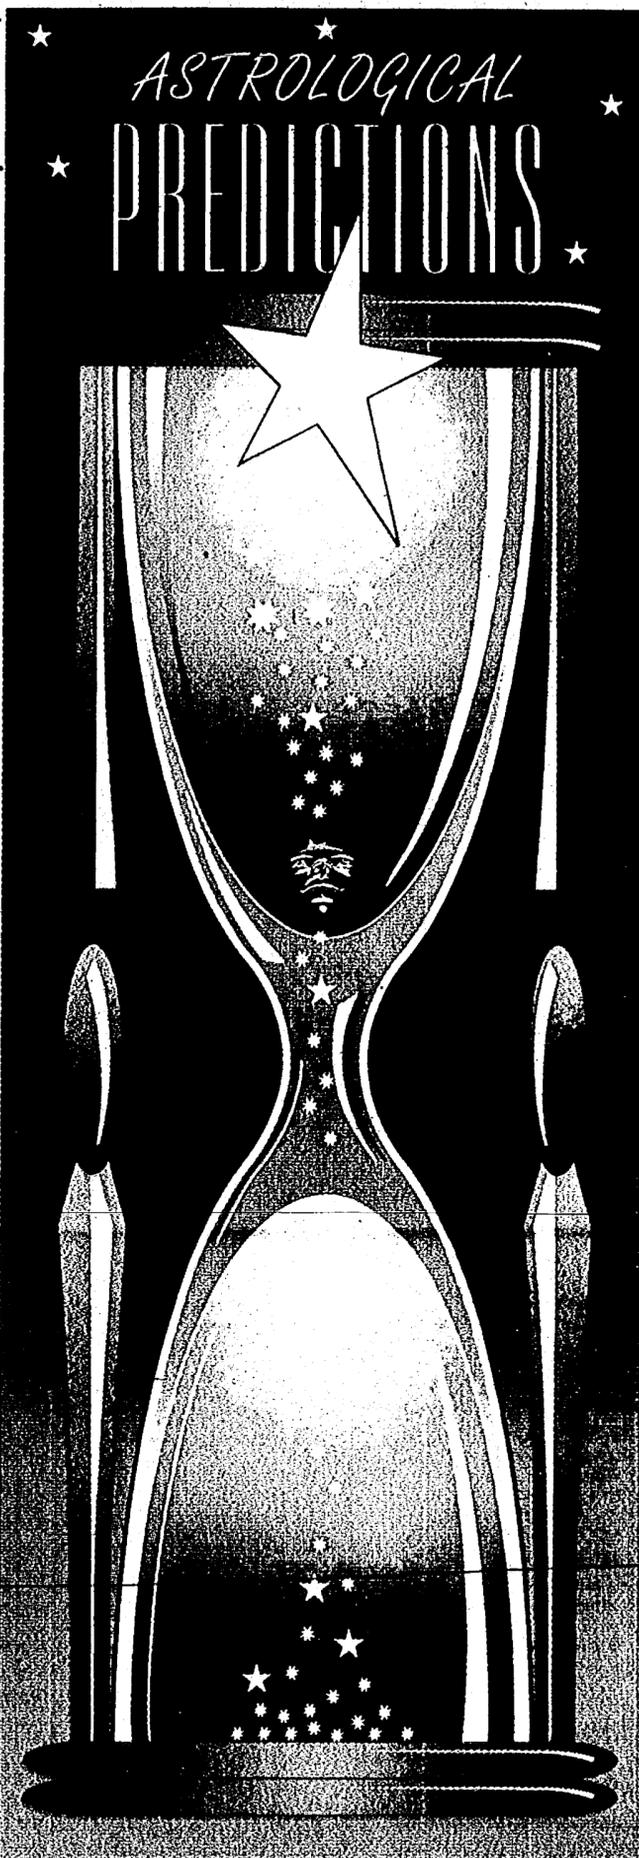

Early spring take a conservative look at new opportunities; more time is needed for best results. The path of least resistance in career matters is advised.

April 10-15 births, be prudent with your energy levels and practice good health habits. A medical check-up should ease your mind, if you have any concerns in this area.

★ TAURUS April 20 - May 20

Taurus, you are one of the most tenacious and determined signs whose motto, "seek and ye shall find," will pay some dividends this year. Many of you are at a turning point in your life as you broaden your horizons.

The eclipse places you in the path of new beginnings, the areas of business and personal relationships are enhanced by Saturn. This is especially true for those born between April 20-30.

ASTROLOGICAL PREDICTIONS

★ LEO July 23 - Aug. 22

The universe has bestowed you with innate creative skills, and this is the year you will dig deep and use this talent to test the measure of your worth.

The July 22 to Aug. 6 births are in for a period of adjustment, dealing with business, taxes or joint finances. Views in these matters will undergo changes and coming to terms with other people's values.

Leos, in general, your focus will be on home and family, house moves or redecorating will keep you on your toes. Some of you may start a new project in research and development.

This is a good year to follow your instincts. Your challenge is to find the middle ground and develop discipline. The structure as you know it undergoes changes as you struggle with decisions that will have a long-term effect. Your strengths lie in original approaches to problem solving.

★ VIRGO Aug. 23 - Sept. 22

The distant drums of the universe are urging you to relax your rigid analytical penchant for details and go with the flow. This is the end of a 29-year cycle, followed by new beginnings.

Jupiter, the benefic, fosters increased opportunities in the field of communications, travel and education. Aug. 23 to Sept. 7 births are urged to evaluate worn-out relationships, as you examine your own personal motivations. Energy levels could frustrate your ambitions. Change your diet!

The later births continue in a positive cycle of change; reach out and encounter the new experiences. The vibrations are stimulating your creative talents and increasing your sensitivity to the needs of others.

The eclipses this year will trigger a desire to travel, get a new car or fine tune your skills with further training. Go for it.

★ LIBRA Sept. 23 - Oct. 23

Your diplomatic skills give credence to your title of "Ambassador of the Zodiac." Jupiter, the planet of expansion, is riding the rails in your house of money and values. Look for positive events in business and finance.

Opportunities surround you, good judgment is mandated! You may be overwhelmed with challenges to prove yourself, view this as a year to build the foundation for the future.

Health issues require front burner attention; change of lifestyle and dietary habits may be required.

Oct. 14-20 births, you just bought a ticket on the roller coaster, unpredictable changes may throw you off balance. It's OK; by adapting, you will dust off your stored talents while freeing yourself for the new adventure.

★ SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23 - Dec. 22

Your powers of concentration and strong determination are your most valuable asset; use them wisely and the world is yours. Jupiter, the planet of plenty, holds your dance card this year.

You are entering into a new 12-year cycle. Your level of confidence rises as doors of opportunity swing open. Job changes and improved relationships are strong potentials for some while others who resist the need to change may have difficulty hanging on to the status quo.

The Nov. 17-22 births are experiencing a once-in-a-lifetime transit with Pluto, the planet of transformation, that equates to a rebirth, altering your resistance, but giving you empowerment. It is your time to go for the burn. The early Scorpio knows all about it, ask them.

See PREDICTIONS, 3C

A word of caution to all Taurus: Avoid over-commitment to expensive endeavors; it may be more than you can handle. Jupiter, the planet of plenty, may exaggerate your expectations. This can be averted by setting reasonable goals.

Relationships in general look promising as some waltz down the aisle, and others start to mend and heal fractures in established relationships.

★ CAPRICORN Jan. 20 - Feb. 18

The great communicator who is never at a loss for words or ability to go with the flow when the situations warrant, 1994 may call on you to accept sudden and unexpected changes. The status quo no longer serves your purposes.

Time to take inventory and set new goals. Your challenge is to find a middle ground. This is not the year to take chances in risky financial ventures. Keep a sharp pencil handy or hire a good accountant as taxes, insurance or legal papers are highlighted.

Young people in your life may zap your energy levels which contributes to reduced confidence. June 16-22 births, heavy work loads or new job responsibilities could prove to be stressful.

Health issues for some requires attention; staying on top of any problems will minimize matters. Maintaining a good dietary plan is also recommended.

★ CANCER June 22 - July 22

Keen sensitivity to your immediate environment and your need to nurture keeps you on your toes. The universe decided to sprinkle you with some good luck as it celebrates your sign. Advantages in financial and professional goals take center stage; your confidence level is at an all-time high. It is important, however, that you keep your balance.

Opportunities to expand your range of expertise through formal training or on-the-job experience will bring recognition for achievement earned and deserved.

Relationships require common sense, be they with children or lovers, keep the larger picture in mind. Some of you may march to the altar, while others mend the fences. Cancer, if you play your cards right this is the year to harvest the fruits of your labor. Good luck!

Writer greatly desires to feel loved and accepted

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene,
I'm fascinated with graphology and would truly appreciate having my handwriting analyzed.

I'm 44 years old and right-handed. I have no idea what type of personal data you need that wouldn't reveal major personality characteristics.

I appreciate your input. Thank you for your time and assistance.

J.H.,
Franklin

Today's writer is either tired or discouraged with her life currently. All lines of her handwriting are running downhill. Without seeing handwriting samples from previous times, I am not able to ascertain whether this is temporary or permanent. Other signs here suggest she is dissatisfied with either her work or social life at this particular time.

As we examine this handwriting further, the overly embellished formations suggest a vain woman. She appears to be bent on attracting attention to herself. She greatly desires to feel loved and accepted. Unfortunately, she does not feel this, so she overcompensates as she searches for love.

The high degree of insecurity in her makeup can stem from either a psychic wound or perceived rejection in the past. Seemingly, she feels some disappointment with the male authority figure from her early life. For the loss in her self-esteem she is trying to make up by concerted efforts in other areas.

There is also a fun-loving, possibly flirtatious manner about our writer to elicit the desired attention. She also appears to conform to the expected behavior of her social set.

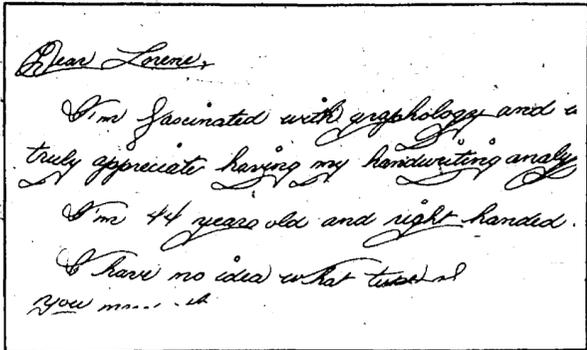

To help her to better understand her behavior pattern, I would like to share some information I received at a recent workshop on vanity. "Ostentatious writers like to be highly visible. They seek to commandeer the limelight to showcase their self-approved style. Those who feel a need to exhibit their strong wish for attention may be reaching for more than they have earned. It is important to realize that people around them often become wary of this person who might be standing on feet of clay."

Our writer can be impulsive. At times she acts first and considers the consequences later.

There is some lack of ease in her personal social relationships, and some frustration within the area of physical or material need. Energy there is not finding release.

Perhaps the new year would be an ideal time to analyze why she feels the need for this amount of attention. I think people would like to know the person behind the fanfare. She needs to realize she is special just because she is a child of God. She might find it rewarding to become more involved with other people and their

Scout Council needs help

The Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council needs your help.

The council, the fourth largest in the country, is growing faster than its traditional resources. Its mainstays — the cookie sale and United Way — have both suffered from a poor regional economy and continually increasing costs have drained away valuable resources that are badly needed to support the expanding programs and growing membership, according to the council's executive director, Penny Bailer.

The council is seeking financial gifts to continue its work. A gift of $100 would provide more than half the cost of supporting one Girl Scout for a full year of programs; $172 would pay for 12 months of program for one girl.

"The costs of addressing the challenges of teen pregnancy, racism, drug abuse and the increasingly high-tech world facing all girls have grown beyond our ability to pay for them," Bailer said. "We need help in order to continue to press forward, relentlessly, to prepare our 31,000 girls to excel in the 21st century."

Even with problems, the council was able to accomplish a lot toward realizing its mission, goals and objectives in 1993, earning praise from Crain's "Detroit Business" which recognized the council as the area's "Best Managed Non-Profit."

In addition to subsidizing 70 percent of the cost of camping for 20,000 campers a year and providing challenging, year-round Girl Scout troop activities for more than 25,000 girls, the council also granted $135,000 in direct financial assistance to girls from low-income families last year.

"The Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council has reached out aggressively with programs addressing some of the most critical issues facing girls today," Bailer said. Those programs include DAPP, a drug abuse prevention program; the Rainbow Program, which enlightens girls about the rich diversity of our community; U.S. Space Camp for almost 100 girls a year; and "A Shared Concern," a teen pregnancy prevention program which, since 1986, has served 20,000 girls.

The council also offers "Diversity Awareness," a pluralism training program for more than 4,000 key scout volunteers; "LITE," tutoring two days a week plus Girl Scout troops for girls at extreme risk of academic failure; and Girl Scout troops for thousands of girls in Latino, Arab and public housing project communities.

"These special programs, plus ongoing programs for all our 31,000 girls, are making a dramatic difference in their lives," Bailer said. "We are seeking to equip girls with knowledge, skills and self-esteem, the most powerful weapons they can possess as they become adults in a complex, changing world. But we simply cannot do it alone."

"It is only through strong support from individuals throughout the community that we are able to maintain the high quality of award-winning services that we provide to our girls," Bailer said.

Contributions can be sent to the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council, 28 W. Adams, Suite 612, Detroit 48226-1651. For more information, call 964-4475.

Pistons seek 4 kids for reporting duties

The Detroit Pistons are giving local children the chance to be television stars.

The team's pre-game, "Pistons Game Night, shown on WKBD Fox TV-50, is looking for four youngsters ages 8-13 to be feature reporters for the program. It airs a half-hour before selected Pistons telecasts, and the winning reporters will ask questions of Pistons players, coaches and the media for the "Kid's Report" segment.

Four winners will be selected from audition videotapes, demonstrating the child's interview skills and ability to deliver monologue while addressing a camera.

Deadline for entries is Jan. 10. The audition tapes should be on VHS format, no longer than five minutes, and mailed to: "Kid's Report," The Palace of Auburn Hills, 2 Championship Drive, Auburn Hills 48326-1752.

The children will have their own producer for their television appearance. The winners and their parents also will be invited to a Pistons game, given a tour of The Palace's television studio and dine in the Pistons press room with the Detroit media.

ANNIVERSARIES

Oesterle

On Oct. 16, the Oesterle family gathered at the Dearborn Inn in Dearborn to celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of their parents, Kenneth and Lillian Oesterle. She is the former Lillian Rennert.

The Oesterles moved to Redford in 1941 with their three daughters — Dolores (Curran), Marlene (Hoag) and Loretta (Keeney) and son Kenneth Jr. Two more sons, Edward and Steven, were added to complete the family.

The family tree then grew from eight to 24 with the addition of 16 grandchildren — John, Timothy, Michael, Maureen and Colleen Curran, Cyndi (Preiss), Douglas, Jeffery and Brian Hoag, Donald, Kevin, Tammy (Kessler) and Jennifer (Uratchko) Keeney, Laura Cesteria and Eric and Bethany Oesterle.

The grandchildren, to date, have enlarged the tree to 37 with the addition of 13 great-grandchildren — Emily, Jennifer and Jessica Curran, David and Kathryn Preiss, Elissa, Megan, Kyle and Laura Keeney, Sandra, James (B.J.) and Jason Kessler and Jacob Uratchko.

The senior Oesterles have been longtime members of Grace Lutheran Church. Kenneth Sr. is retired from the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company in Farmington Hills.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Your freedom-loving spirit rejects the status quo; seeking new adventures and exploring different cultures are what creates your philosophical base. The year 1994 offers an opportunity to start consolidating your footing. As you set new goals, you will and must resolve unfinished business from the past.

Reorganizing your domestic environment and reviewing personal relationships will take priority. Some will be faced with new responsibilities on the domestic front or in career matters.

Your schedule increases, reducing your free time which may take a toll on energy level. That tired feeling may be discouraging, but it's OK.

People seem to be moving in and out of your life. Your key word will be patience, needed to resolve problems. Observe caution in all financial undertakings; it's not a year to take risks.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 - Jan. 19

Ambition and organizational skill bestowed on you from the universe are your greatest assets. Career takes center stage. The eclipse in May will fuel your need to expand your energies in further training, be it formal or on the job, stimulating your creative skills in problem solving.

Recognition from groups or organizations should increase your standing in the community, providing you extend yourself in that direction. New friends will prove to be very helpful down the road.

Jan. 10-15 births will experience a once in a lifetime transit, creating sweeping changes, replacing your rigid structure with a more relaxed and congenial attitude. This will not be easy due to your innate resistance to change.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 - Feb. 18

Your sign is known as the "water bearer" who showers the seeds of friendship and loyalty as you travel through life. Your ability to act as equal among equals is part of your charm.

1994 initiates an interest in new training and development programs, sharpening old skills and exploring new techniques. The last two years urged you to pour a solid foundation. If you did, you have earned the right to march forward to greater responsibilities and rewards.

Caution: Practice moderation as self-confidence may drive you to bite off more than you can chew. The good news is your energy levels start to balance out. Feb. 12-16 births, you are in a transition period which pushes aside the nonessential, engaging you in the "Should I" syndrome.

Look for job changes and/or serious review of relationships in general. This will require discipline and old-fashioned hard work as you adjust to new conditions.

PISCES
Feb. 19 - March 20

Beneath your gentle manner and sensitive nature lies a strong will and inner strength, not easily observed, making you the surprise package of the Zodiac.

Jupiter, the benefic, spreads its rays bringing rewards and self-assurance as the doors of opportunity open. With all the goodies come responsibilities.

Wedding bells ring out for some, the birth of a child for others. Business expansion and long distance travel for many. The busy activities of the year may take its toll, reducing your energy levels, thus moderation is advised.

Maintain a good balance and avoid self-indulgence; too much of a good thing can bring adverse consequences. Know your limits, draw your line in the sand and stay within the boundary. Good luck!

Jan. 10 is the day to clean your desk

If you've been waiting for the right time to clean off your desk and sort through the maze of paperwork, files and junk mail, you don't have to wait any longer. Monday, Jan. 10, is National Clean Off Your Desk Day.

Start the new year with an organized desk, office and home. Instead of shuffling through the stacks on your desk, looking for that all-important file, you can become more efficient and productive by organizing your desk. Although National Clean Off Your Desk Day is celebrated one day each year, you can make it the beginning of an organized lifestyle that will carry through to your everyday professional and personal life.

Ann Savell, president of Savell Inc., a Birmingham firm specializing in time management and organization, offers the following tips for developing a system that will help clean your desk now and keep the top visible after Jan. 10.

- Spend a few minutes at the end of each work day completing the day's activities, completing filing, and putting things away.
- Keep only those items on the desk top that you use continually.
- Keep reference materials nearby but not on the desktop. Keeping them above the desk on a shelf where they are easily accessible or in a bookcase or file nearby will help eliminate desktop clutter.
- Throw junk mail away immediately.
- Maintain an in/out sorter so that others have a place for items needing your attention and you have a place for completed, outgoing items.

Attend this seminar and learn to read the Bible effectively!

If you find reading the Bible difficult or frustrating at times, then this seminar is for you. Six concise and informative sessions are delivered in a friendly, comfortable environment. They are aimed at equipping you with the skills and determination to understand scriptural doctrines for yourself and benefit from a new appreciation of the Bible. Whether you are familiar with the Bible or not, you will walk away with loads of information and new energy to begin reading more effectively.

AN EXCITING 6 WEEK SEMINAR

FREE!

- O's & A's
- O. What if everyone there knows more than I do?
  - A. The classes are paced in such a way to make everyone feel comfortable. No one is ever put "on the spot."
  - O. Why are you doing this?
  - A. The Bible is scarcely read in our fast-paced society. Our faith and belief in God propels us to expound His message and Truth. We believe the Bible and what it teaches is right and good in directing our lives and families.
  - O. Who is paying for these seminars?
  - A. All expenses are being absorbed by the Christadelphians in the area. No financial expectations will be expressed to you now, or in the future.
  - O. Will I be asked to be "saved" or "join" the Christadelphians at the end of the seminars?
  - A. No! Our hope is that the classes will encourage you to draw your own conclusions about God and His plan. Our goal is to equip you with the necessary tools to make your own decisions about what you have learned.
  - O. Who are the Christadelphians?
  - A. The name implies "Brethren in Christ." Christadelphians are found in countries all over the world and are bound together by a common faith in God's plan of salvation as revealed throughout the Bible. We do not believe that any of our members have received any special revelations direct from God and our faith rests squarely and solely on the Bible as the inspired word of God.

Here's what you will learn...

- Who wrote the Bible - where did it come from?
- How to use cross references and a center margin.

- Prove for yourself the Bible is not a work of fiction.
- How science is reconciled with the scriptures.

Kids' work: Students and teachers of Unity of Livonia's youth program pose by a garden dedicated as part of the "Year of the Child" observance.

Unity program geared for kids

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

What's 15 feet by 40 feet, filled with flowers and ferns, an abundance of paper animals and real live children?

A handmade rain forest, of course. It was constructed by the children in the youth program at Unity of Livonia.

"The rain forest was used in a lesson," said Karen Myers, director of youth education at Unity, "just taking care of the gifts of the earth that God has given us."

This is her third year as director of the program and her seventh year as a member of the church.

"What was so wonderful about it, was that 2½-year-olds all the way to Uniteens, which are seventh and eighth grade, all worked together, each grade building a certain part of the rain forest. The beginners did the flowers and the butterflies.

"What it created was all the kids, probably for the first time that I've seen, all ages totally cooperated and helped each other and worked together and were very excited. They actually did something that, I think, they feel is of value, too.

Not only did the children learn by building their own rain forest, they also bought a section of a real one using the children's donations. They recently received the deed to 2,500 square feet of the rain forest in Costa Rica through the National Arbor Day Foundation.

Making a difference

The purpose of the project was to make the children aware of the need to care for the earth "and their ability to do it," said Myers.

"The thing that we're trying to do is show them that they can make a difference by the things that they do and educate them and empower them," she said.

They also made a difference for other children when they collected $87 for UNICEF. By establishing pen pals in Puerto Rico, Jamaica and China, they are learning that they have many similarities with their counterparts overseas.

"We're just teaching them that we're all one people," said Myers. "Just to accept everyone, accept the diversity (of people), the joy of diversity."

According to Myers, it's important to create

'We're just teaching them that we're all one people. Just to accept everyone, accept the diversity (of people), the joy of diversity.'

Karen Myers

a children's program that is fun and interesting. She and her husband, Dan, are the parents of two boys, Chris, 13, and Matt, 5, who are both in the youth program at Unity. She wants the children to realize that they also have a place in the church and they can make a difference.

There are 60-90 children in the youth program from preschool through high school, taught by 37 volunteers. This is the first year the teachers will begin to be licensed by Unity as spiritual educators. The curriculum for licensing requires approximately the same number of hours as an associate's degree.

In 1993, particular emphasis at Unity was placed on the young people and their programs.

"Internationally, our association of Unity churches has declared this as the 'Year of the Child' and every church is focused strongly on that program," said the Rev. Gene Sorensen, minister at Unity of Livonia. "The focus is on curriculum and on activities for families."

Both Sorensen and his wife, Lucille, were raised in Unity Sunday schools as were their three grown sons, "so Sunday school is very important to us."

"We remember our Sunday school programs as a place where we could really have a good time as well as make a lot of friends," he said. "We grew up through the youth of Unity and went right on into the ministry. This is a happy place, a place where they can be excited about life as well as learn some specific things, too."

Special events

For the past three years, Unity of Livonia has had a children's day of celebration with special events. This year, a special day has been established nationally in the Unity churches.

"The Unity movement declared May 22 the 'Day of the Child,'" Myers said. "Now we will have a 'Day of the Child' celebration every year."

In addition to all the special programs for children, Unity also has a special story phone line for children where they can call in to hear a recorded three-minute story, narrated by Grandma Jolly. The stories, focusing on the positive and practical application of God's love, are changed twice a week. According to Sorensen, the Children's Joyline registered some 4,000 calls in 1993. Children can call the Joyline at 421-5555.

The children at Unity also have a special box where they can put in their own prayer requests. There is a Silent Unity adult prayer group that meets on Wednesdays. According to Myers, the group in Silent Unity "takes the adult prayer requests and the children's prayer requests and they write letters to each of them and start praying immediately and then they send all those to Unity Village . . . so I think it is one month that they get continuous prayer. It's powerful."

Unity Village, headquarters for the church, is in Unity Village, Mo. There is a 24-hour Silent Unity group there that can be reached directly by calling (816) 246-5400.

The children find the prayer requests helpful, Myers said. "We try to just encourage them to be peaceful and resolve conflicts."

Sorensen and Myers anticipate growth for the youth program at Unity of Livonia.

"Our vision is always in terms of serving more children," Sorensen said. "We're about at 60-90 on Sunday and we have a capacity for 125-150 children. We really want to focus on bringing forth more families and young people."

"At one point, we had plans for the expansion of the facility which involved a lot more space for youth. We fully expect that is going to return as the congregation grows and the Sunday school grows and our commitment to them enables us to provide more."

Myers also has a vision to enable each child to grow spiritually.

"I would like to see the children know who they are; yes, they're a physical being and, yes, they're an emotional being, but to know they're also a spiritual being," she said.

Looking in before looking out in 1994

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

REV. ROBERT SCHADEN

One thing we know for sure about 1994 is that it will be a year of consequence. Perhaps more precisely, it will be a time in which people do things of consequence. Years do not really make all that much difference, but the things that are done, the decisions that are made, the programs that are inaugurated and the laws that are enacted will make a difference far beyond the 365-day parameter which defines the year.

Our personal lives are no exception. Yesteryear's directions bring about this year's reality. Much of what we have been handed as this year rolls onto the calendar is the direct result of issues that no longer make the front pages, engage talk show debate, or occupy a prominent place in our personal memory.

Issues we voted in last year will have to be lived with this year. Programs that were washed down the drain last year will leave a hole in someone's life this year. Indeed, people whom we befriended years ago may be our support as we strike out on another year.

So what is so new about this? We have always lived with yesterday's decisions. Well, it isn't new. It isn't new at all but it might well give us pause to reflect on what we will lay out for the future in this time called 1994. People who do not do that are doomed to repeat history and we seem rather adept at repeating a good deal of what we could have done without the first time, to say nothing of recurring disaster.

Spiritual teachers of a variety of traditions have suggested that if we want to see out we must first look in.

Spiritual teachers of a variety of traditions have suggested that if we want to see out we must first look in. It would seem that we are forever enamored with what is outside. At the same time, looking in is seen as a luxury at best and nonsense at worst. So failing to look inside, we misinterpret, misjudge and miscalculate what we think we see on the outside. Examples abound.

In other years we have revamped our schools. Prayer is out; condoms are in. We speak of outcome-based education, and we mainly look at outside scores for a measurement of success.

Some would even say that what is inside the student is no business of educators. Is that perhaps painting the shell and ignoring the egg? Some of yesteryear's decisions in this arena of life may look impressive, if only measured from the outside, but what looks impressive does not always translate to good. Might tomorrow's children fare even better if we would look in before attempting to see out?

We have built many a structure to accommodate the elderly. Although we have named many such places homes, they may more accurately be referred to as houses. Many of yesteryear's decisions in this matter are of consequence to the seniors of today. Looking out is indeed easier than looking in but has it gotten us to where we really want to be?

We are much quicker to think of solutions to crime that is deemed inevitable than we are to dismantle the systems and the attitudes that give it birth. So many of yesterday's apparent solutions in this area have done little more than bring on today's problems. Can we afford not to look in if we are to ever really understand what it is out there that we think we see?

Perhaps closer to home we have added a family room or resodded the front yard. We have painted and wallpapered. We may have bought her a new stone or given him a new whatever but experience tells us that looking in and sharing the insight is what gives life to any relationship.

The question is not whether or not 1994 will be a year of consequence. Our only real choice is what kind of consequences for future years we will create in the next 52 weeks. That choice is a momentous option; it is one that truly will make a difference.

Far too many of today's real problems in society at large, in our intimate relationships, and indeed all aspects of our individual lives are little more than the direct and predictable consequence of decisions made or not made in previous years, of apparent solutions for problems that presented themselves in distorted fashion because we neglected to look in before we attempted to see out.

A new year has rolled onto the calendar, and the ball is back in our court. Like every other year 1994 will be a year of consequence.

BOOK BREAK

VICTORIA DIAZ

Jack Kevorkian story an insightful account

"Appointment With Doctor Death," by Michael Betzold (346 pp., $14.95, Momentum Books).

Maybe you regard Jack Kevorkian as an angel of mercy. Maybe you regard him as a kind of gruesome, over-eager assistant to the grim reaper. Maybe you haven't made up your mind. Whatever your views or feelings, read this book by a Detroit Free Press journalist, who has covered the "Kevorkian beat" for three years.

At its center is an individual, both odd and ordinary, whose highly controversial actions may touch each of our lives — and deaths — in the most essential ways possible.

To say that Kevorkian emerges here as an enigma is the vastest of understatements. ("Eventually, I got to know a lot about the man called Doctor Death," says Betzold. "But the deeper I peered into the pit, the more questions I found.")

Here, for instance, is Jack Kevorkian as a young pathology resident at Detroit Receiving Hospital many years ago. He has asked to work nights because more patients die at night. He is taping open a dying woman's eyelids so that he can photograph a human cornea at the exact moment of death. He is 28 years old and already answering to the nickname, "Dr. Death."

Here is an older Kevorkian, playing poker with friends, smoking cigars and sipping his favorite soft drink, warm Squirt. Here is Kevorkian at Pontiac General Hospital during the '60s, transfusing cadaver blood directly into the veins of a personal friend who has volunteered for the experiment. Here is Kevorkian, kindly reassuring someone desperately ill. Here is Kevorkian, sharing a laugh with a dying man. Here is Kevorkian, writing risqué limericks, telling off-color jokes.

Here is Kevorkian, describing himself: "I never really fit in."

"Appointment With Doctor Death" does more than provide a telling look at the "suicide doctor" himself, however. It also offers an up-close view of a number of the stricken individuals he has assisted in dying since 1990, along with some of their families and close friends.

The book sketches brief but revealing pictures of other players in the life-and-death drama being played out in our back yards: Kevorkian's outspoken Southfield attorney, Geoffrey Feiger; Oakland County prosecutor Richard Thompson; Macomb County prosecutor Carl Marlinga; Wayne County prosecutor John O'Hair; Kevorkian assistant, Neal Nicol.

This isn't just a look at "who," however. Journalist Betzold also provides a vivid depiction of numerous, critical scenes behind the sound bites.

Prominent Livonia Right-To-Life activist Lynn Mills makes what she insists is an important discovery as she picks through garbage bag taken from outside Nicol's residence.

At a meeting with the controversial physician, Sue Williams and some of her family attempt to decide the day of Williams' death. "I feel Friday," says Sue's sister, "because we all work . . . and there's going to be . . . flak." Sue says, "I was thinking of Wednesday."

The first suicide — that of Oregon resident Janet Adkins — is postponed for two hours when Kevorkian spills the drug intended to put her to sleep. He must return to his Royal Oak apartment for more of the drug and to pick up "some tools." In the meantime, Adkins waits.

To put together this story, Betzold collected his own eyewitness information, conducted dozens of personal interviews and researched numerous sources, including much of Jack Kevorkian's own writing (e.g., "A Comprehensive Bioethical Code for Medical Exploitation of Humans Facing Imminent and Unavoidable Death," published in Medicine and Law in 1986).

Betzold's story ultimately appears rather sympathetic to Kevorkian's cause, although perhaps less so to the doctor himself. (By a quirk of fate, Betzold's cousin turned out to be one of the suicides.)

Still, the Detroit journalist succeeds in presenting a well-rounded, clearly written and fair account of an infinitely complex situation. Despite the controversy that pervades almost every aspect of this story with no happy endings (and despite the book's rather lurid title), you'll not find here the slightest hint of sensationalism.

Landscape award cites Livonia yard

A local nursery and two Livonia residents whose back yard is an ecosystem filled with ponds, exotic plants ornamental trees and ground covers share a 1993 Michigan Nursery and Landscape Association Landscape Project Award.

Bernie Kaselemaa and Rose Carpenter began their landscaping odyssey in 1990 with a simple trellis and several dozen spruce trees and yews. A year later, the Livonia couple wound up with a grand-sized gazebo, a fish pond, waterfall and a footbridge surrounded by exotic perennials, groundcovers and ornamental grasses.

"I read a newspaper article about trellises and vertical gardening and liked the idea. That's how all of this started," said Kaselemaa, whose previous back yard in Westland had its share of plantings, but lacked any exotic trimmings.

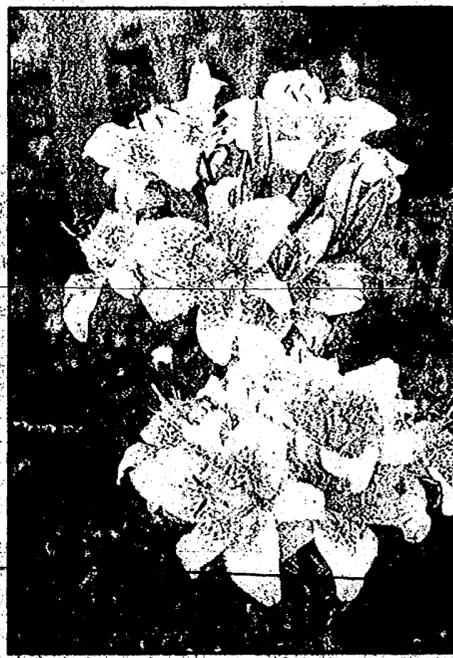

The first winter in their new Tudor-style home, the couple pored through gardening magazines for landscaping inspiration. Carpenter has always had a green thumb and her own gardening ideas, but it took a visit to a local nursery to put a landscaping plan to paper.

"We had lots of ideas, but we'd never taken on a project like this, so it took some planning to decide which way to go," she said.

The two found their trellis, blanketed in summer with colorful clematis, at English Gardens, West

Her basketry designs weave in function

SPECIAL WRITER

Creative use of materials play in baskets made by Rochester Hills weaver Susan Hall. The incorporation of red pine bark, palm seed pods, philodendron sheaves, pine needles and stained glass add texture and interest to the overall structure.

Functional traditional and contemporary baskets by Hall continue on exhibit through Jan. 28 in the show-cases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile, east of Farmington Road.

Sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission, Hall's first one-person show illustrates that basketry can be decorative as well as functional, thus serving a multitude of purposes.

"I like most of my baskets to be utilitarian rather than just decorative. I want people to buy them. I want people to enjoy them. I have this belief, baskets should be used," said Hall. "That's what I like about baskets. They're decoration and can work too."

Hall, who has been weaving for 10 years, crafts biguit baskets, Nantucket-style baskets and baskets from gourds grown in the South, among others. Her current project involves weaving a set of Shaker replicas that nest inside each other.

"There's a wealth of history behind basket making. The wood bottom Nantucket baskets," Hall said, "were woven by the men (whalers) who stayed on the ships off the island of Nantucket. They started making the baskets and became known for their craftsmanship."

Basketry has existed as an ancient craft in lands ranging from Egypt to China and everywhere that people needed containers for storage. The Egyptians stored corn in baskets as early as 5,000 B.C. Techniques used in these baskets can be seen in the African basketry of today.

Native Americans have woven baskets from reeds and grasses to be used as storage jars, sleeping mats and pitch-covered boats for thousands of years but because the materials perish over time, history is difficult to trace.

Hall uses the baskets in her own home to hold newspapers, napkins, tortilla chips and afghans. A large-scale basket, shallow in depth, serves as a centerpiece for displaying a dish of party food.

"People use them to hold fruit, bread, snacks like popcorn, for gifts as housewarming baskets they fill with hand soaps, potpourri, or a pad and paper to be kept near the phone," said Hall. "Step baskets are very popular now for two-story homes holding shoes, clothing items, or whatever needs carrying from one level to another."

Although many of the baskets were woven with commercial reed, Hall prefers to use materials such as oak or black ash.

"Ash and oak materials are more durable than commercial reed but also make the baskets more expensive for customers to buy," said the Rochester Basket Weavers Guild president.

Hall credits her grandmother for passing on a love for arts and crafts of all kind. She has tried cross stitch and etui, a form of leather working but none has captivated her like basketry.

Born and raised in Pittsburgh, Hall took her first weaving class more than a decade ago after husband, Reed, decided to accept a career-enhancing

■ BASKET WORKS

Livonia Arts Commission will present an exhibition of handmade basketry by Rochester Hills artist Susan Hall Jan. 3-28 in the second-floor display cases in the Livonia Civic Center Library, Five Mile and Farmington roads.

A basket maker for about 10 years, she now participates in 20 arts and crafts fairs each year.

Hall teaches the art form in her studio through the Rochester Community House. "Nothing is more satisfying than to pass on to others my love of basketmaking and to see that spark ignite in another basket crafter."

Bloomfield, along with the gazebo and other trimmings — pond, water gardens and bridge.

"We walked through the nursery just to look, and when we saw the gazebo I said, 'That's it, that's what we need,'" said Carpenter, who selected a gazebo with a cedar shake roof and a copper cupola.

The couple's garden was included in this year's Livonia garden walk, sponsored by Friends for the Development of Greenmead, and it earned an Environmental Improvement Award in November from the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association.

The yard also caught the attention of the Michigan Nursery and Landscape Association (MNLA), which awarded a 1993 Landscape Project Award in December. Judges looked at overall design, use of plants and construction.

The couple will pick up their latest award with landscape designer Mark Hanford of English Gardens Tuesday, Jan. 11, at MNLA's industry awards ceremony in Grand Rapids. It's the first MNLA award for English Gardens, whose landscaping division opened six years ago.

"The transformation from what existed to what the designer was able to plan and construct is amazing," said Richard P. Seely, MNLA president and CEO. "Many people have something to work with, but this was flat and empty and even a hill was made.

What's so interesting is what can be envisioned and then be created."

"We were surprised and thrilled to learn about the award. It's nice that others appreciate what we like so much. We work seven days a week, so the yard is our place to relax. It's like having a cottage up north," said Carpenter, who runs Electronic Connection in Westland with Kaselemas.

Hanford, one of three English Gardens designers, said the toughest part of this project was making sure the gazebo, water elements, bridge and brick pavers were well-related design-wise. The gazebo (16 feet across) determined how the water elements would be arranged, he said. Hanford liked working around the existing aggregate patio and brick pavers that lead to the footbridge.

"Basically, we started with a flat back yard. The couple wanted water features and a gazebo that they could use and relax in, so the project evolved from there. We worked hard to coordinate the different elevations for the pond and waterfall," he said.

The nursery planted water canna, grasses, duck weed, water hyacinths and water lilies in the pond and marshy overflow and installed underwater lighting. Kaselemas added Koi and varieties of catfish, lily pads and additional water plants.

The yard is loaded with ornamental boulders, brought in by crane, hostas, variegated dogwoods, sedum, a gem spruce, a princess spirea, a pine tanyosho, weeping cherries, devil's walking sticks, a Japanese lace leaf maple and other ornamental trees.

The pond has attracted numerous frogs, toads and crayfish, as well as a raccoon that eventually was evicted.

"It takes time and some mistakes to find the right water temperature for a pond, but it's worth the small aggravations," Kaselemas said. "After starting something like this, you quickly create an ecosystem. The frogs and fish eat the mosquitos, and we take slugs off the hostas to feed the Koi. They think it's fillet."

Come spring and summer, the couple rarely pass a nursery without picking up another perennial. They've planted more than 400 daylilies, hundreds of tulips, water iris, water poppies, papyrus, bulrush, daffodil, crocus, rose bushes, groundcovers and a small vegetable patch.

The landscaping lasted through summer 1991 and was a costly undertaking, mainly because it was a labor-intensive job. The couple may plant cactus next year, and they're considering installing another pond just for water plants.

"I'm not sure if we'll ever be through because we find so many interesting things to plant. English Gardens made the cake and we're frosting it," Carpenter said.

position in Michigan. Initially, the job included extensive travel. Leaving family and friends behind, Susan put her loneliness and long hours to good use crafting basketry after taking a class with two women friends. The three would soon become known as the Weaverbirds.

Her partners have since moved on to other states and interests but Hall persists in practicing the ancient craft, now thousands of years old. She exhibits her basketry in 20 art and craft fairs a year, including Art on the Pointe, St. Clair Art Fair, Wyandotte Street Fair and Madonna University.

Hall enjoys the ancient craft because it puts her creativity to the test through the conception and inception of diverse styles and color combinations. She says color and style as forms of expression "achieve a life of their own in the creation of a beautifully molded, intricately woven basket. As your imagination generates its complexity, the basket becomes its own regard.

"I enjoy the creativity more than anything. I like to experiment with the colors. Sometimes, I'll make an egg basket and use a rainbow of colors."

As a member of the Association of Michigan Basketmakers, Hall attends annual conventions taking seminars and classes to expand her knowledge and to share the experiences of basketry.

"I'm always learning new techniques and always trying to hone my techniques. Our Rochester Guild teaches a new technique every month," said Hall. "I really enjoy it. It's a lot of fun."

Passing on her love of basket making ranks second only to practicing the art. For the last six years, Hall has taught weaving in her home studio and through the Rochester Community House.

She says "nothing is more satisfying than to pass on to others my love of basket making and to see that spark ignite in another basket crafter."

Hall will once again teach weaving beginning Jan. 24 at the Rochester Community House.

Hours for Hall's library show run 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Functional art: Susan Hall incorporates natural materials into a variety of traditional and contemporary baskets.

Keep photo resolutions

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY
Don't forget your photography as you make up your list of 1994 New Year's resolutions. Here's a list to help you get started.

How about insuring your camera equipment? It is hoped nothing will ever happen to it, but it's sure better to be safe than sorry. And while you're at it, use your still or video camera to record other valuables in your home such as paintings, jewelry and art objects for insurance purposes.

Resolve to change batteries in all your equipment. Most all new camera gear is electronic and requires a fresh battery in order to function. You certainly don't want to be caught short.

Didn't find that new lens under the Christmas tree you were hoping for? Well, resolve to buy it for yourself so you can add more variety to your pictures during 1994. And with any new equipment, resolve to read the instructions thoroughly to familiarize yourself with all functions and operations.

You should consider buying a second camera body to enable you to shoot color and black and white at the same time or to just have a "backup" if something were to happen to your main camera.

Resolve to organize all your prints and negatives. Then, if you want to make an enlargement, the negative is at your fingertips.

And speaking about enlargements, have some of your favorite shots blown up and framed and get them on the wall. Having photographs to see every day will keep you inspired and will encourage you to photograph even more.

Resolve to photograph different subjects and in different conditions. If you've never taken rural country scenes, now is the time to start. Or if you've never taken close-ups of nature, why not begin now? You may awaken interests and hidden talent you never knew were there.

Resolve to be not just a "fair weather" shooter in 1994. Foggy, misty days will give a mood to your pictures that no other weather conditions will.

Resolve to increase your photographic knowledge. There are many ways to do this. Take a photography class or workshop or consider joining a camera club. Your local newspaper or camera shop will assist in informing you of what is available in your area.

Subscribe to a photography magazine or buy a good photography book. The more you read, the more you look, and the more you shoot, the greater will be your interest in photography and the stronger will be the photographs you'll produce.

To all my friends and readers, please accept best wishes for a happy, healthy and photo-filled 1994!

Pedersen's work is directed toward the botanical nature of flowers and plants, depicting the intricate detail and aspects of the growth of plant life. # Meadow Brook exhibit balances sculpture

BY MARY KLEMIC
STAFF WRITER

Balance is the key in the current exhibit at the Meadow Brook Art Gallery at Oakland University in Rochester Hills.

The display presents works of art that strike a graceful balance with their components, while balancing the practical and the esthetic.

Continuing through Jan. 30, "Ted Lee Hadfield and Wendy MacGaw at Mid Career" shows pieces by a husband and wife team who are co-owners of a business enterprise as well as established distinguished artists.

Hadfield's work for the past eight years has been inspired by energy machine inventor Joseph Newman. Newman's theories say that "all matter is made of gyros-copic particles that are spinning and traveling at the speed of light." Hadfield interprets this to mean that the spinning motion is the basis for all balance in nature.

Subtitles of some works feature the letters "equi" (from equilibrium). Pieces contain such balancing or leveling items as plumb bobs and gyroscopes.

Open books are included in other works, suggesting a balance of culture. "Log — Secret Life of the Forest" is an open book with a tube filled with pine cones in the center. "Seed" resembles a book, stacks of wood making up the edges of its pages.

Some of MacGaw's works look like small architectural structures, or models for a project. They are both familiar and strange, in that they look like buildings but they don't have means of entry. As in the "Multiplier" series, pieces feature sections of glass that can't be seen through. The pieces have a modern or futuristic look, but their surfaces with rust or patina make them seem like ruins. Floors of one structure are slanted like window blinds.

Other works by MacGaw are like boxes, or feature screens or shadows that change as the viewer moves around them.

Hadfield, who was trained as a ceramist, studied at Mott Community College and Colorado State University. His graduate studies were at the Cranbrook Academy of Art.

MacGaw, who was born in Detroit, earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from the School of Art at the University of Michigan and a master of fine arts degree in metalsmithing from Cranbrook.

Hours are 1-5 p.m. Wednesday, 2-6:30 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, and evenings of a Meadow Brook Theatre performance (one hour prior to the show and through the first intermission). Call 370-3005.

'Seed': Some of Ted Lee Hadfield's works exhibited at the Meadow Brook Art Gallery at Oakland University resemble open books. The sculpture show, also featuring works by Wendy MacGaw, continues this month.

New how-to video may help in buying new home

BY JANICE TIGAR-KRAMER
SPECIAL WRITER

Whether you're building a new home yourself or buying from a builder, you'll probably hit some snags along the way.

Robert Gerich, a former Realtor and construction supervisor who's sold new construction for area builders, has produced a how-to video that could take the headache out of new home construction.

"A lot of construction delays and misconceptions can be avoided if the buyer understands the building process," said Gerich, a Livonian, whose video is sponsored by local building suppliers, trades people, a land acquisition attorney and mortgage, title and insurance companies that he's worked with for the past eight years.

"Your New House," a 75-minute color video, documents the construction of a 2,750-square-foot house built by Troy-based Caporuscio Development in Heritage Farms, an upscale subdivision at Beck and Warren Road, Canton. Gerich hired a local production company to film the five-month construction of the Cape Cod, which just sold for $240,000.

From start to finish, the info-video covers all phases of construction, including staking and surveying the lot, digging the basement, hooking up water and sewer, digging footings and waterproofing and backfilling the basement. Viewers also see framing, roofing, interior and exterior painting and the installation of plumbing, electrical, heating and drywall.

"I've been the builder's middle man and problem solver for years. If people know what questions to ask during the construction sequence, they'll be more satisfied with the house they'll be living in for the next 10 years or so," said Gerich, whose video lists more than 200 tips for new home buyers.

Here's a sample of what's covered:
■ Popular bricks sometimes take 3-4 months to get. Decide on brick style enough to accommodate two cars side-by-side.

■ The best buyers are people who know what they want in terms of quality. To get what you want, you have to pre-think your building decisions," Gerich said.

Video sponsors include A.R. Kramer Flooring, Livonia; Weather-vane Windows, Brighton; Trans America Title, Livonia; Great Lakes Mortgage, West Bloomfield; Iverson Lumber, Milford; Tarnow Doors, Farmington Hills; Smede & Son Steel, Redford Township; Atlas Fire-place, Troy; Reid Lighting, Novi; and Beaver Tile, Farmington Hills and Troy.

The video comes with a list of building suppliers and trades people. To order, send a check or money order for $49.95 plus $3 shipping and handling, to: "Your New House" P.O. Box 6200, Plymouth, MI 48170. Allow 2-4 weeks for delivery.

■ Let the builder know if you want a marble or ceramic entry before sub-flooring is installed, or you'll wind up with a one-quarter to one-half-inch difference between the foyer and adjoining carpeting.

■ Decide where you want switches and electrical outlets placed before the electrician arrives.

■ Since beams and heating ducts take up basement ceiling height, decide if you want higher basement walls.

■ For privacy in the bath, ask for a quarter-inch sound board and extra wall insulation, have doors fitted to the floor and consider a silent flush toilet.

■ Make sure hallways are 42 inches wide. A roomy hall is more comfortable for daily use and makes furniture moving easier.

■ Learn to recognize quality building materials; know the difference between medium and high-grade lumber, plumbing fixtures, windows, garage doors and fireplaces.

■ Make sure your driveway is wide

OFFICE MARKET UPDATE

Rents in metro Detroit have remained steady from 1988 to 1992, according to "The Commercial Real Estate Compendium: Five Years of Insight and Analysis," published by the Building Owners and Managers Association of Metropolitan Detroit in cooperation with Indiana University Center for Real Estate Studies.

Rents held fairly steady in both the central business district and suburban areas with no significant increases or decreases over the four-year period. Asking rents on new leases in both areas remained very close to existing rents. The suburban office market has higher office rent than the central business district. Rents in the central business district remained close to $15 per square foot while rents in the suburbs stayed at about $18 per square foot.

The Commercial Real Estate Compendium provides an analysis of 29 office markets in the U.S. and Canada. Included in the 140-page report are market forecasts, historical data, city comparisons and demographic profiles, all illustrated with charts and graphs.

The compendium is available at $75 for BOMA members and $155 for nonmembers. Call 313-965-BOMA.

at Robbins Executive Park West in Troy.

Landscaping is important to office owners, managers and tenants.

Renters look for as many amenities they can get for their dollars and conscientious landlords like to provide as many extra services as they possibly can.

Three years ago, Torre & Bruglio Landscape Construction took over maintaining the grounds

The Pontiac-based company has won a national merit award from the Associated Landscape Contractors of America for craftsmanship, contribution to quality of the environment and overall excellence on site there.

The office park consists of 17 buildings constructed between 1972 and 1985 on 80 acres along Stephenson, between 14 and 15 Mile roads.

"Compared to other landscape companies, they're about the most responsive group I've ever worked with," said Jay Bearman, property manager for Damone/Andrews, which oversees the office park.

"They're outstanding. They're a very service organization," he added.

Upwards of $30,000 worth of flowers are planted annually. Lawns are cut on opposite diagonals every week to give a checker-board effect.

Torre & Bruglio transformed the front entrances a couple years back from a crawling ground cover to Juniper trees and splashes of colorful flowers, including begonias, marigolds and purple salvia.

"We've fertilized those annual beds at least monthly with slow release fertilizer, nitrogen as well as phosphorus and potassium," said

Dave Kier, horticulture services manager for Torre & Bruglio. "The salvia gives nice depth to the bed."

"It's nice around here in summer," Bearman said. "People walk on the sidewalks, get their exercise."

Start new car hunt at world-class show

Spectators attend the North American International Auto Show for a lot of different reasons.

Some enjoy viewing the new domestic and foreign models and the concept cars. Others like taking in the glitz of the exhibits and displays. For some, it's a night out.

Then there's the celebrity factor with entertainment and sports personalities making appearances and radio stations broadcasting from the scene.

But the cars and trucks still are the stars.

The 1994 show, sponsored by the Troy-based Detroit Auto Dealers Association Saturday through Jan. 16, showcases more than 700 vehicles within the cavernous Cobo Center in downtown Detroit.

Some 626,000 people, including a one-day record turnout of 134,166, attended last year's extravaganza. A special section detailing the 1994 North American International Auto Show in Detroit appears in today's newspaper.

There's always a segment of the population that needs new wheels or is thinking about getting a new car. The auto show can provide a good starting point to launch a search.

"If a person wants to make it a great shopping exercise, it's a great place to come to," said Ken Meade, the owner of four dealerships and co-chairman of this year's show.

"They can literally look at what's available pretty much in one day," said Tony Wasil, sales manager at Lou LaRiche Chevrolet in Plymouth.

"You can decide what type you want - luxury or sports car," said Ray Nabozny, sales manager at Pat Milliken Ford in Redford. "Then you look at different options by different manufacturers. They're all there."

"Everyone's going to have customized needs," added Kevin Mechigian, sales manager at Bob Saks Oldsmobile in Farmington Hills.

JOE WILSENS/AUTOMOTIVE NEWS

Show stoppers: The vehicles are the star attractions for the throngs that attend the Detroit auto show.

So how can you go about it? Probably the biggest factor - along with price - is how much car you need. If you have several kids, climb into the back seat to see firsthand what kind of room they'll have.

Better yet, bring them along and let them get into the back seat to test for fit. Keep in mind that they'll continue to grow and space will shrink in time.

from a front bucket or split bench seat than in back, especially on long drives.

Open the trunk. Do you pack up a lot and go to the beach? How about jaunts of several hundred miles? If trunk space seems a little tight, is there an option for a luggage rack on the roof or trunk?

Maybe you don't have kids. There's just you and your transportation dreams. If sportiness is important, get into the car and twist the knobs and levers. Feel the carpeting, tap the inside roof. Is there a sense of permanence or cheap functionality?

Are the accessories where you want them?

If you're the kind of person who likes to do your own maintenance, open the hood and locate the oil and air filters and the sparkplugs.

Premier Living to boost circulation

Premier Living, a monthly magazine published by Farmington Hills-based Specialty Communications, will increase its circulation in February by being inserted into a select number of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

January will be the final month the magazine will be directly mailed to non-paid subscribers.

Premier Living is being positioned primarily as a pre-retirement guide for people 60 to 65 years of age. The magazine is not a typical "seniors" publication. It contains insightful information on finance, health, housing and entertainment. It also offers articles on pertinent issues such as estate planning, health management as well as lively features on local people, book reviews and travel.

Initially the magazine will be placed in selected editions of the following Observer & Eccentric Newspapers: Farmington, Livonia, Plymouth and Westland. The total circulation of the magazine in the newspapers will be 44,825. The magazine also will be available on a paid subscription basis: one year for $9.95 and two years at $14.95.

The editorial content for February's issue will contain a special health section - "Managing Your Health: A Lifetime Guide." This pull-out section will focus on preventive medicine and health maintenance for men and women older than 50. Among the features will be an easy-to-use reference chart of the medical check-ups men and women should have and how often they should have them. Other articles will address topics about nutrition over age 50, reducing your risk for cancer and how to prevent heart problems.

The February issue also marks Premier Living's one-year anniversary. Specialty Communications is a subsidiary of the Livonia-based Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Single-pane windows carry an R-value of one, double panes two and so on. Technologies like films, coatings and gas-filled panes are aimed at raising the R-value without adding more pane, Martin said.

How well a unit conducts heat is measured in U-values. The lower the U-value the more energy-efficient the window. While U-value and R-value are both commonly used, experts agree the U-value is preferred because it directly measures the heat-flow rate.

"Air infiltration measures cubic feet of air leakage per minute per lineal foot (cfm/ft)," Martin said. "The industry standard for a Grade 40 window is .25 cfm/ft, but higher quality windows are below .20 cfm t."

Homeowners eager to slice energy bills

According to the Professional Builder & Remodeler's annual consumer survey, more than 82 percent of consumers said they would spend an extra $1,500 for energy-efficient products to save $250 per year on heating and cooling.

Joining other investments like energy-saving appliances and increased insulation are replacement windows, according to Paul Martin, territory sales manager, Pella Window and Door Co., Livonia.

"Homeowners are realizing the significant effect outdated windows have on energy bills," Martin said. "Energy-efficient units now have numerous high-tech components to save energy but three key ratings continue to provide the evaluation basis."

"R-values measure a window's rate of resistance to the flow of energy. Higher R-values are bet-individual workers, industrial psychologists know its value. And investors, also, apparently.

"We had a building here that was purchased about six months ago," Bearman said. "One reason the owner purchased the building was the landscaping. It was important to him."

"Our biggest goal is to pull people off the street and have them say, 'I'd like to be in that office center.'" said Frank Torre, owner of the landscape company. "People today when they go outside and sit by a pond want a nice atmosphere.

"The biggest thing I think at that particular property is we raised level of expectations from C to A plus," Torre said.

"We sit down and have meetings. We're not only aware, we're involved. The partnership theory is the way of the '90s. Quality and service is your whole theory and philosophy," he said.

Can you get to them easily?

Learn about air bags and anti-lock braking systems.

"You can look at styling and comfort features at the auto show by walking around, narrow it down to products you're interested in, then make appointments at dealerships," Michiganian said.

"If they can narrow it down to one or two vehicles to suit their needs, they can eliminate running around to dealerships," Wasil concurred.

"Because they're all there, you don't forget things," Nabozny said. "You see one after another. Salespeople are there to explain the uniqueness of each particular model."

"Every display has salespeople to answer questions like how much car can I afford, what might I get in a trade in and what rebates and specials are going on now," Meade said.

Auto show week has its own dynamics here, Wasil maintains.

"Our business in the showroom during the auto show will be quiet," he said. "Everyone goes to the show. The next week or 10 days after, boom, here they come."

The North American International Auto Show opens Saturday for general public viewing. Hours are 2-10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday except Sunday, Jan. 16, when the show closes at 7 p.m.

EMPLOYEE RECOGNITION

Four employees of Allstate Insurance Co. in Troy have earned the Level III Team Excellence Award, the highest form of employee recognition.

Honorees are Paul Regula of Rochester Hills, claims analyst; and Pam Tyndall of Birmingham, quality development coordinator; Dave Ruba, claims manager, and Mark Rose, program coordinator, both of Sterling Heights.

COMPUTER KNOW-HOW

Oakland University's School of Business Administration has established an instructional program to keep Ameritech computer professionals on the cutting edge of information systems technology.

The program, in cooperation with Ameritech Services, is directed by Tom Lauer and Al Lederer of the School of Business Administration's Decision and Information Sciences Department.

There are 20 Ameritech employees participating in the program at Ameritech facilities in Oak Park. The employees range from 7 to 20 years of service. They're taking courses over three semesters that cover topics in systems analysis, systems design and the programming of an information system.

The OU courses incorporate use of integrated CASE (Computer Aided Systems Engineering) tools and other state-of-the-art technology. Ameritech Services has partnerships with universities in Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana to provide the same kind of educational experience for its employees.

Several factors made the Oakland program appealing to Ameritech. For example, OU has a longstanding program in information systems. And it currently requires more information systems education in its MBA program than any other MBA program in the United States. Lauer and Lederer say.

OU's information systems faculty was ranked first in Michigan and 40th in the nation in information systems research productivity, according to a recently published survey.

WALSH SUCCESS

In a recent report of performance data from the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy on the 1992 CPA Exams, the statistics included a comparison of candidates with advanced degrees from various schools around the country.

Walsh College students with advanced degrees who took the May, 1992 CPA Exam, ranked first in the nation on the business law section. Ohio State University and University of Texas-Austin ranked second and third.

Walsh is based in Troy. On the November 1992 CPA Exam, the advanced degree students ranked second nationally on the Accounting Theory section behind the University of Washington. The University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee was third.

Last May, four Walsh students were awarded the Sells Award for scoring among the top 100 in the nation on the November 1992 Exam.

Walsh College was founded in 1922 as Walsh Institute specializing in accounting education.

Today, the nearly 4,000 students are enrolled in bachelor degree completion programs in accounting, computer information systems, finance, general business, marketing and management and Master of Science degree programs in finance, management, professional accounting and taxation. Walsh has campuses in Troy, Novi, Port Huron and at the University Center in Clinton Township.

The only thing as pleasant as buying a Saturn is leasing one.

We hope you've heard how unstressful we try to make it for you when you visit a Saturn showroom. (Because who needs more stress, right?) Anyway, we take the same approach to leasing as we do to everything else. So if leasing a Saturn is better for you than buying one (and we can help you figure that out), then great. The only important thing is to find out how pleasant driving a Saturn can be.

1994 North American International Auto Show Notes

- Since the Auto Show went international in 1989, 194 automobiles have been introduced at the NAIAS.
- The NAIAS is the longest running auto show in the country, running every year (except 4 war years) since the first show in 1907.
- It takes over 75,000 yards of carpet to do the exhibits and aisles. If the carpet was made into a two foot wide runner, you would have a piece of carpet 66 miles long. With the average home using 125 yards of carpet, the carpet used at the NAIAS would carpet the equivalent of 600 homes.
- In the three weeks it takes to prepare the NAIAS for the media and public, 575 carpenters, 185 teamsters and riggers and 130 electricians will aid in the show set up.
- The total value of the exhibits in the NAIAS is in excess of $50 million dollars excluding the value of the 750 vehicles.
- The first DADA sponsored Detroit Auto Show was held at Beller's Beer Garden at the approach to Belle Isle in 1907.
- The Detroit Auto Dealers Association was formed in 1907 when seventeen area auto dealers formed the association. At that first show sponsored by the DADA, Henry Ford announced that he would build 25,000 of his new model "T" cars in 1908 calling for the first production of automobiles by an assembly line.
- Seventeen automotive companies were represented at the first DADA Auto Show in 1907, showing 33 cars. Over 40 automotive companies will be at the 1994 NAIAS exhibiting more than 750 production cars & trucks.
- In 1957 the Auto Show moved from the State Fairgrounds to the 265,000 square foot Detroit Artillery Army for its 44th annual show. At the 1957 show, foreign car exhibits were displayed for the first time in Detroit. (Volvo, German Isotta, two Mercedes Benzes, two Jaguars and a Porsche were among the foreign displays.)
- In 1958 demand for European models increased as import exhibits were given more floor space at the 1958 auto show. In all, nearly 100 foreign models were on display that year.
- For the Auto Show's 50th anniversary in 1965, the show moved to its present location at Cobo Hall.

Chrysler minivans celebrate 10 years of leadership

One of the most innovative and successful vehicles to be produced by any manufacturer, anywhere in the world in the last decade, celebrated its 10th anniversary of production in early November at Chrysler Corporation's St. Louis, Mo. and Windsor, Ont. assembly plants.

"With plant employees, Chrysler executives and local officials in attendance, Chrysler's trendsetting minivan's original package put it on top, it's not the reason that it has stayed on top," said Robert J. Eaton, Chrysler Chairman and CEO, addressing the audience in Windsor. "I think the key to the minivan's longevity can be summed up in two words: continuous improvement. Over the first ten-year run of the minivan, we've never stopped improving the vehicle, its quality or the process by which we build them."

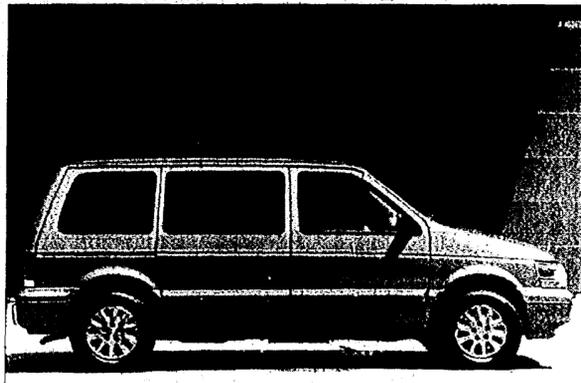

After 10 years, "no other minivan is safer." All 1994 Chrysler minivans come equipped with standard driver and passenger side air bags — an industry first — and other systems and components that enable the vehicles to meet all passenger car safety standards as presently enacted through 1998.

But safety leadership is just one part of the minivan evolution. When first introduced in 1984, the minivan family included the Dodge Caravan, Plymouth Voyager and Dodge Mini Ram Van. Since then, the Chrysler minivan family has grown. In 1987, the Dodge Grand Caravan and Plymouth Grand Voyager were added to the product line with the Chrysler Town & Country following three years later.

Described in literature of the day as a car-like "garageable" van/family wagon, the Caravan and Voyager — as well as a cargo-carrying version termed a mini Ram van — offered only two engines both four-cylinder carbureted, in their introductory year.

A 2.2-liter engine with a five-speed manual transmission was standard. A slightly larger 2.6-liter engine was optional, as was a three-speed automatic transaxle.

In comparison, 1994 Caravan

Today, Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth minivans claim to be among the most comfortable, powerful, fuel efficient and car-like minivans on the market.

or Voyager customers have a choice of four engines, all fuel-injected and ranging from a standard 2.5-liter four-cylinder to a new top-of-the-line 3.8-liter V-6. Transaxles range from five-speed manual through three-speed and four-speed electronic automatics.

Front and rear bumpers of the originals were aluminum face bars versus today's handsome body-matching facias. Side moldings were minimal and lower-body cladding that augment today's high-line models was unknown at the time.

The convert-a-bed option was introduced in 1985 and an eight passenger seating option for the mid-line models bowed in 1986.

Chrysler minivans received their first electronically fuel-injected engines in 1987 when 2.5-liter versions were made standard on the new extended models and a new 3.0-liter EFI V-6 became a new optional powerplant. A redesigned 3.3-liter V-6 was added for 1990.

It was a year later that Chrysler minivans underwent a major redesign — both inside and out — as well as an upgrade in several important functional features.

Front suspension and steering systems were redesigned for improved directional stability and steering response linearity. Four-wheel anti-lock brakes became an option on Town & Country, while an all-wheel drive alternative was introduced on Caravan, Voyager and Caravan CV.

In 1992, Chrysler made a driver's side air bag standard equipment in all its minivans. An integrated child seat was introduced and an all-wheel drive version of the Town & Country was offered for the first time. New quad seats were also introduced.

Use of the ozone-friendly air conditioning refrigerant, R134A, was introduced on all Chrysler minivans for 1993, as was a quieter, higher capacity heater/air conditioning fan. Caravan and Voyager received a new sports suspension package, as well as a quad seating tilt feature, plus a full stainless steel exhaust system.

And for 1994, the pattern of steady, evolutionary product enhancements continues unabated. Today, Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth minivans are among the most comfortable, powerful, fuel efficient and car-like minivans on the market, along with offering the best and most efficient package.

As Chrysler moves its product line into the next decade and the next century, its minivans will remain a symbol of the company's commitment to innovation and dedication, while setting new standards of excellence for the industry.

1994 Geo lineup adds refinements, new colors

Geo freshens its exterior color palette for '94 and introduces R134a refrigerant — a non-ozone depleting CFC substitute — to its air conditioning systems.

Summaries of each of the Geo vehicles follow:

Prizm —

The flagship of the Geo lineup — completely redesigned in 1993 — offers these refinements for 1994:

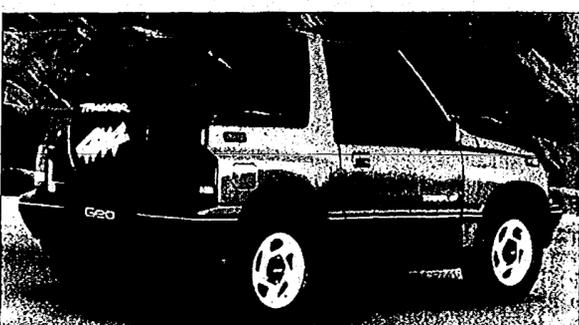

- A passenger-side air bag as standard equipment
- New "dual-mode" safety belts that simplify the proper installation of child safety seats
- R134a refrigerant — a non-ozone depleting CFC substitute for the air conditioning system
- Champagne exterior color
- A 1.6-liter MFI 4-cylinder engine is standard with a 5-speed manual transmission; a 1.8-liter MFI engine is optional. A 3-speed automatic transmission and an electronic 4-speed automatic transmission are optional. Standard equipment includes dual air bags and Scotchgard (TM) fabric protection. The Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price (MSRP) for the Prizm begins at $10,730.

The Prizm, completely redesigned in '93, adds refinements like dual-mode safety belts and air bags for safety.

Geo Metro claims fuel efficiency and affordability as its hallmarks.

The fun and affordable eco-friendly '94 Geo Tracker adds a non-ozone depleting CFC substitute for the air conditioning system.

Metro

Fuel efficiency and affordability continue as Metro's hallmarks for 1994 with these refinements:

- R134a refrigerant — a non-ozone depleting CFC substitute for the air conditioning system.
- New exterior colors: tropical green metallic, sky blue metallic and shadow gray metallic.
- Three-door and five-door hatchback body styles are offered. All Metros have a 1.0-liter, three-cylinder SOHC engine with throttle body fuel injection. A manual 5-speed manual transmission is standard; a 3-speed automatic is optional.

Standard features include Scotchgard (TM) fabric protection, automatic front door locks and child security locks for the sedan's rear doors. The Metro XFi has been the most fuel efficient vehicle sold in the U.S. for the past four consecutive years. The MSRP for Metro begins at $7,195.

Tracker

The fun and affordable '94 Tracker has notable refinements for 1994:

- A new fabric design with an unconventional mix of contrasting colors as an option on base model Tracker convertibles.
- An optional top-of-the-line Delco dual compact disc/cassette system.

NAIAS Highlights

A new minivan, convertibles, a diesel-powered luxury car and innovative concept vehicles are the most recent additions to the long list of vehicles to be introduced at the 1994 North American International Auto Show.

The list of production and concept vehicles to make their worldwide or North American debut at the show, including vehicles still embargoed, is now over 40. The following are highlights of the most recent additions.

Ford

Ford's all-new minivan, the Windstar, will be unveiled to the world at the auto show. The van goes on sale in the spring.

Saab

Saab will use the 1994 NAIAS for the worldwide unveiling of two automobiles: the 900 convertible and three-door hatchback. It marks the first time Saab has made a worldwide introduction anywhere in the United States. The Saab 900 was redesigned for 1994.

"We're holding the worldwide debut of these cars in the U.S. because the U.S. market is so important to Saab," said company spokesman Steve Rossi. "Thirty percent of our worldwide volume is sold in the U.S. The U.S. is Saab's single largest market."

Mitsubishi

Mitsubishi will display for the first time at a North American auto show the HSR-IV concept vehicle. The HSR-IV alters the characteristics of the automobile to match the driving skills and preferences of individual drivers. It does this by using an artificial intelligence system that has a "learning" capability with advanced safety technologies.

Now in its fourth generation, the HSR technology combines a compact, environmentally clean engine with a sophisticated integration of active four-wheel technologies, advanced auto-drive features and aerodynamic style.

Mercedes-Benz

Mercedes will unveil to the world the E300 Diesel, a new high-efficiency full-size car that will be sold in all 50 states beginning in early January.

Powered by the industry's first four-valve-per-cylinder diesel engine, the new model features ultra-clean exhaust and a cruising range of more than 700 miles between fill-ups. Four-valve-per-cylinder technology provides more complete combustion for very low exhaust emissions and efficient power.

It is also equipped with exhaust gas recirculation and a catalytic converter, unusual in a diesel. The net result is that the new Mercedes is the only diesel car which meets California's and New York's stringent emissions standards.

Subaru

The Subaru Sagres is a sporty, new-generation station wagon concept aimed at people with an active lifestyle. Subaru says the safe and environmentally friendly wagon is a departure from previous wagons and represents the wave of the future.

The Sagres has a long wheelbase and a cab-forward design coupled with wide tread, low-profile tires. It is powered by a 2.0-liter 4-cam/16-valve horizontally-opposed engine with variable valve mechanism. It is equipped with an HT (high-torque) CVT four-wheel-drive system to achieve excellent fuel economy and sporty response.

Other technical features include the multi-link rear suspension, plastic windows that facilitate creative designs and newly developed run-flat tires.

It has a fully flush surface, including electrically powered built-in roof rails and a full-flat underfloor for outstanding aerodynamics.

Toyota

Toyota will introduce its new Celica convertible at the 1994 NAIAS. The convertible complements the rest of the new Celica lineback and coupe models, which were introduced in the fall. The sixth-generation Celica borrows key characteristics from the new Toyota Supra. Celica's high- and low-beam headlamp is derived from Supra's design. Also Supra-derived is a reduction in weight combined with increased body rigidity.

North American International Auto Show announces aggressive plans for 1994

The Detroit Auto Dealers Association announced an impressive list of upgrades and new features for the 1994 North American International Auto Show at Detroit's Cobo Center, January 2-16 (Public Days January 8-16, 1994).

Show Co-Chairman Richard Mealey announced significant increases in vehicle introductions of concept and production vehicles and the expansion of hours for the NAIAS' hugely successful Supplier Preview Days (Jan. 6-7).

Mealey also announced a new starting time for the traditional Charity Preview on Friday, January 7 which will now open at 6:00 p.m. The 1993 NAIAS Charity Preview helped raise a record $1,099,750 for ten local children's charities.

Co-Chairman Ken Meade announced that the NAIAS has been selected to host the inaugural North American Car of the Year and Truck of the Year Awards, which are administered and judged by an independent jury of 45 top automotive journalists.

Meade also announced the founding of the AutoWeek/NAIAS Design Forum, which will feature an opportunity for top automotive designers to "cross-pollinate" with leaders in fashions, architecture and mass media.

Unveiling a splashy red show poster by automotive artist Randy Owens, Meade noted that the NAIAS will also offer selected merchandise based upon Owens' work.

For the first time, the NAIAS has offered a limited number of cross-promotional sponsorships. Ameritech, PPG Industries and the Detroit Newspaper Agency have joined Michelin as official sponsors of the NAIAS.

Ameritech will sponsor an innovative Club Intro to provide key auto executives from exhibiting manufacturers with hospitality and the latest electronic communications equipment with which to maintain contact with their headquarters.

In addition, The New Yorker magazine and R.L. Polk & Company have announced special displays during the Press Days and Supplier Preview Days of the show.

The internationally renowned Michelin Media Center, which serves the 2,400 international media who cover the NAIAS, will be increased to 16,000 square feet for 1994. Expanded test drives and new media services, including a special 800-hotline will also be offered.

Also announced were plans for a vastly expanded Van Conversion Show in Cobo Center's Michigan Hall.

"We said earlier this year that the North American International Auto Show would not stand still, and we have kept our promise," Meade said.

"We are committed to continuing the growth and popularity of the NAIAS," Meade continued. "Detroit deserves and wants a world class auto show and we are committed to making sure the North American International Auto Show is just that."

See Them at the Auto Show.

The new Chevy S-Series Pickup. A new Rock Era begins. S-Series is brand-new from the inside out. With new user-friendly controls. A new suspension system designed to forever dispel the "rides like a truck" myth. And a bigger, roomier cab. And, of course, standard anti-lock brakes. But don't think we've gone soft. S-Series is still tough as a rock, with a stiffer, beefier frame and more galvanized steel than ever. And a tough, chip-resistant finish. The new Chevy S-Series. Everything else is history."

The new Chevy Camaro. Yes, we are talking rocket science here. Camaro's state-of-the-art assembly process uses laser scans and robotics for improved quality. But we're also talking fun. And while others promise you the moon and the stars, we deliver. With the brand-new Camaro convertible. What else would you expect from the country that invented Rock and Roll?"

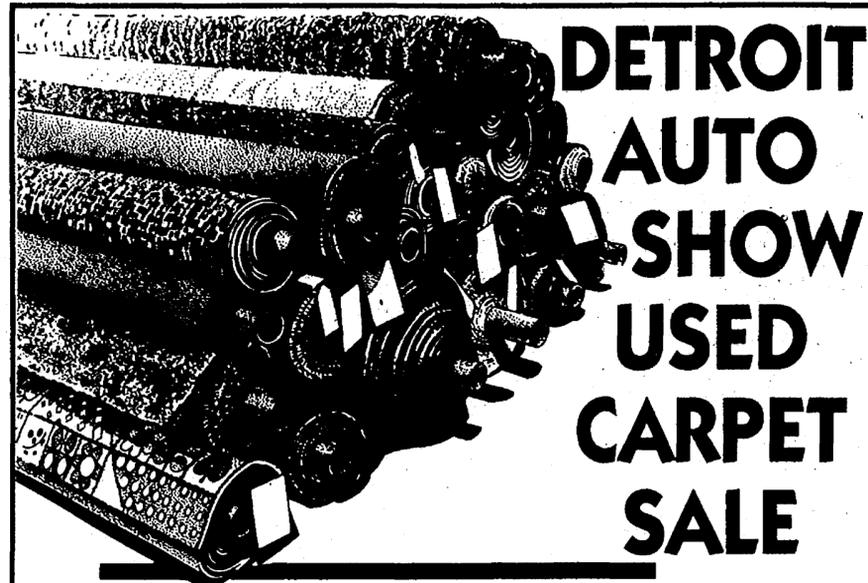

And if you need them, here are more reasons to nix the popcorn and videos this weekend.

Lumina Sedan. You deserve the car you want, not the car you have to settle for.
Cavalier. Buying your first new car shouldn't make you feel used.
Caprice. A full-size car whose luxury doesn't come a la carte.
Corvette. It's always been America's sports car. And will always be.
Chevy Full-size Pickup. The highest resale value of any full-size pickup.
S-Blazer. Before Explorer. Before Cherokee. The vehicle that originated the species.
Lumina Minivan. It looks different because it is different.
Astro. The not-so-mini van. In 2- and full-time 4-wheel drive.

Exciting new products. Cars and trucks you can depend on. See them at the Chevy exhibit at this year's Auto Show. Who said the '90s were going to be dull?

Neon's new design and fun-to-drive nature create a winning personality

The first thing one will notice is Neon's friendly, smiling face. Capitalizing on Chrysler Corporation's award-winning Neon concept car of 1991, and unlike any design in the current small car market, Neon's winning personality is more than just skin-deep. It's an affordable, fun-to-drive driver's car for a new generation of car buyers.

When we looked at the twenty-plus competitors in the small car market several years ago, we realized that in order to stand out from the crowd, Neon would have to be dramatically different in design, performance safety and value, said Robert Lutz, Chrysler Corporation President and Chief Operating Officer.

"Our award-winning Neon concept car gave us the trend-setting design direction, including the new round headlamps, and a new and emerging market of buyers provided our course for fun-to-drive and safety," Lutz said. "With Neon, we think we've created a small car people will want to buy, for reasons other than low price. In fact, we think Neon will be one of the first small cars people will want to buy instead of have to buy."

Introducing Chrysler's successful cab-forward architecture to the small car market, and placing Neon's wheels at the four corners and pushing the windshield forward, provide a dramatic, fresh appearance and increased interior room and visibility. Neon's larger doors also provide easier exit.

Four-door Neons will be introduced first in January, 1994, followed by two-door coupe models in September 1994.

Neon's interior is airy and roomy with lots of storage space and cubby holes for coins, cups and anything else today's busy drivers might require.

Standard driver and passenger air bags, as well as adjustable Seatbelt turning loops, traveling inboard seatbelt buckles, rear door child-proof locks, and available integrated child safety seats and anti-lock brakes reinforce Chrysler's safety leadership while providing passive and active safety.

Market research told Chrysler

Neon's combination of styling, performance and practicality will satisfy the emotional needs of some, and the rational economic conditions of others.

that if customers had the money, they would buy a fun-to-drive sports car instead of an economical small car.

Using a unique in-depth customer study, the team was able to understand, define and translate more customer requirements into measurable engineering terms.

One element of fun-to-drive had to do with steering response and precision. When you turn the wheel, the car should feel like it's turning now. The team realized they could measure responsiveness and precision by measuring how much the car rolls, the linearity of the steering and on-center feel.

The team benchmarked dozens of cars against customers' impressions and identified which qualified as "fun-to-drive." Using those cars' measurements, the team created benchmark targets for Neon.

In addition to steering responsiveness and precision, Neon's fun-to-drive performance is enhanced by an all-new 2.0-liter, 16-valve, single overhead cam (SOHC) engine that produces 132 horsepower (98 kW) at 6,000 rpm, and 129 lb. ft. (175 Nm) of torque at 5,000 rpm. An all-new standard five-speed Manual transaxle and optional three-speed automatic add to Neon's fun-to-drive personality.

A 2.0-liter, 16-Valve, double overhead cam (DOHC) engine will be available in late 1994.

The trend-setting nature of Neon will also apply to how it will be marketed. Historically, manufacturers spent large sums of money on designs, stampings, and componentry to differentiate models that were the same under the skin. In some segments, this still makes good marketing sense, but in the small car market, Chrysler's Small Car Platform Team found it had very little value to buyers who are price/value sensitive. Therefore, Neon will be marketed under one name, Neon, through both Dodge or Plymouth in the United States.

Environmentally, Neon represents Chrysler's most comprehensive, environmentally-sound vehicle, including elimination of chlorofluorocarbon-producing refrigerants (CFC's); use of water-based paints; coded plastic parts for improved recycling; minimized use of pointed plastic parts for increased recyclability; and increased recycling of plant packaging, sheet metal scraps and plastic fascia scraps.

Ultimately, Neon's affordable, fun-to-drive personality, which exhibits thoughtful attention to safety and value, will appeal to a rapidly emerging new generation of buyers. Fundamentally, they all want the same thing in a small car — durability, reliability, value, price, safety. But, their lifestyles may be very different. Some are less inhibited about a need for styling and performance. Others are more rational; cars are basically just transportation.

Whether young, or young-at-heart, Neon's likable personality will make a strong personal statement.

Chevrolet introduces all new S-Series Pickups — complete with more space, added power

Chevrolet's all-new 1994 S-Series Pickup trucks are bigger, roomier, quieter and more powerful than their predecessors, with a higher level of standard equipment.

Official introduction day for the new family of trucks is September 23, with prices starting at $9,655.

The new S-10 models are available in either two-wheel-drive or four-wheel-drive in both regular cab (with a short or long bed) and extended cab versions. The new models are 10 inches longer, three inches wider and nearly two inches taller than the 1993 versions.

More car-like qualities were built into the new trucks, while keeping the most desirable truck attributes — with the knowledge that nearly 90 percent of the buyers in this segment purchase the vehicles for personal use. On the outside, the S-Series aerodynamic sheetmetal bears a decided family resemblance to Chevy's full-size C/K Pickups. Semi-flush door glass and double-sealed doors help reduce wind noise.

But these new trucks were designed from the inside out. The S-Series vehicles feature three inches more shoulder room, with more hip room and head room as well. Complementing the new spacious interior are new trim, new seats and a new instrument panel with businesslike analog gauges, including fuel level, oil pressure, coolant temperature, voltmeter, speedometer and trip odometer.

Rotary controls for the heater/ventilation/AC system are convenient and easy to operate. On 4 X 4 models with the optional electronic transfer case, the switches are ribbed to make fingertip identification easy. With the uplevel trim, two auxiliary 12-volt power outlets are provided for cellular telephones and other accessories.

R134a refrigerant — a non-ozone depleting CFC substitute — is used in the air conditioning system.

Base models come standard with equipment that either was not available or was optional last year, including such extras as 15-inch styled steel wheels and tires (up from 14 inches last year), power steering, a more powerful four cylinder engine with port fuel injection, cupholders, intermittent windshield wipers, 20 gallon fuel tank, heavier base shock absorbers, a rear step bumper and a full-size spare tire.

Seating choices include a more comfortable standard bench seat, a reclining 60/40 split bench (with an improved "easy access" feature on extended cab models), and sporty high-back reclining buckets. As with other Chevrolets, Scotchgard fabric protection is standard on cloth surfaces.

Two-wheel-drive S-Series Pickups equipped with the base engine have a standard rear-wheel anti-lock (RWAL) braking system. A new computer controlled four-wheel anti-lock (4WAL) braking system is standard on trucks with V-6 engines.

Standard powerplant on the S-Series is a new 2.2-liter four-cylinder engine rated at 118 horsepower, a 12 percent increase over the 1993 base engine. Two 4.3-liter V6 engines are offered for 1994 — one developing 165 horsepower, and a high-output version rated at 195 horsepower.

New for 1994 are two new special options: the ZR2 "wide stance" performance package for the 4 X 4 regular cab model, and a Super Sport performance package for the two-wheel-drive regular cab model.

The new ZR2 Performance Package transforms the 4WD S-Series regular cab Pickup into a serious off-road machine. ZR2's front and rear track widths are 100mm (4.0 inches) wider than standard S-Series trucks, and its body stands three inches higher. Special wheel flares cover aggressive 31x10.5R15 on/offroad tires. The ZR2 has a unique frame, special underbody shielding, 46mm gas-pressurized Bilstein shock absorbers, a 28mm front stabilizer bar, a heavy-duty rear axle track bar, and a 3.73:1 axle ratio. The ZR2 package will be available with either 4.3-liter V6 engine (165hp or 195hp), and a 4-speed electronically controlled automatic transmission or 5-speed manual.

The 2WD Super Sport features the 195hp 4.3 liter V6 engine, electronically controlled 4-speed automatic overdrive transmission, sport suspension package, locking differential, 3.42:1 rear axle ratio, and a leather-wrapped steering wheel. Fog lamps, a body-colored grille, aluminum wheels, P215/65R15 tires, and "SS" identification also are standard.

A stiffer frame provides a rock-solid foundation for all 1994 S-Series Pickups. New two-stage rear leaf springs, new front coil springs (or torsion bars with 4WD), and larger diameter shock absorbers improve the S-Series Pickup's ride and handling.

Seven new "chassis packages" of coordinated components — springs, shocks, stabilizer bars, and tires — are available to tailor the S-Series Pickup's suspension for a wide variety of needs, from everyday commuting to hauling heavy loads and serious off-roading.

GM's highly regarded 4L60-E 4-speed automatic overdrive transmission is optional on all 1994 S-Series models. The 4L60-E brings the precision and flexibility of electronic controls to Chevy's new truck, providing a sophisticated "seamless" interface between the engine and transmission.

The S-Series Pickup's new box (available in 6-foot "short box" and 7.5 foot "long-box" sizes) has pockets in its inside panels to allow two-tier loading. Standard cargo tie-down loops in all four corners of the pickup bed make it easy to secure a load in the new S-Series. The tailgate can be removed easily without tools, and it has a new smooth-operating latch.

The S-Series Pickup benefits from a new base-coat/clear-coat robotic painting process in 1994. This five-step procedure includes an eight-stage zinc-phosphate coating, E-coat, powder primer, base coat, and clear coat. Six new exterior colors are available: brilliant blue metallic, teal green metallic, purple metallic, raspberry metallic, dark cherry red metallic, and quicksilver metallic.

The S-Series Pickup's already extensive corrosion protection has been enhanced for 1994. An improved underbody spray provides better anti-corrosion performance and more effective sound deadening. Coatings also have been added to dozens of underbody and hood components.

Even with the base level trim, the new S-Series is loaded with comfort and convenience features. Cupholders, integral armrests, door panel storage pockets, a passenger grab handle, sunvisor map straps, and Solar-Ray™ tinted glass are standard. The uplevel LS trim adds cloth door panels, carpets, a 60/40 split bench seat, map lights with an illuminated entry/exit feature, two auxiliary power outlets, and other creature comforts. The LS exterior trim option includes body side moldings, a bright front bumper accent stripe, and color-keyed bumpers.

In addition to anti-lock brakes, the S-Series Pickup's long list of standard safety features includes new side guard door beams and a center high mounted stop light.

Chevrolet S-Series Pickups are built at GM assembly plants in Linden, N.J., and Shreveport, La.

Change, Excitement will be ever-present at 1994 North American International Auto Show

A new minivan, convertibles, a diesel-powered luxury car and innovative concept vehicles are the most recent additions to the long list of vehicles to be introduced at the 1994 North American International Auto Show.

The list of production and concept vehicles to make their worldwide or North American debut at the show, including vehicles still embargoed, is now over 40.

Aviat

The Aviat combines aerospace technology with dynamic attributes.

Venom

The Venom remains affordable, efficient and back-to-basics in concept and execution.

Expresso

Expresso is about two feet shorter and 15 inches taller than the Neon.

Chrysler's Concepts

New Chrysler concept cars, which make their worldwide debut at the 1994 North American International Auto Show, are a graphic example of the flexibility of the company's new Neon platform and suggest the future direction of the company.

The Venom, Expresso and Aviat showcase the Neon's ability to be the basis for a wide-range of exciting small vehicles. Each concept car not only shares the Neon's platform but also its fun-to-drive performance, innovative design, environmental sensitivity and Chrysler's "dare to be different" attitude. Yet each has its own unique personality. The Neon itself first appeared as a concept at the 1991 NAIAS.

The Aviat combines aerospace technology with world-class dynamic attributes to redefine the sports coupe for the 21st century. The overall footprint of the sleek, all-aluminum Aviat is very close to the Neon, but the rear seat is about the same width as a LeBaron convertible.

The Aviat is powered by the Neon's 2.0-liter engine, but the cooling modules have been repositioned to the back to reduce drag. The final Aviat 3/8-inch scale model tested at the Chrysler Technology Center wind tunnel, measured a coefficient of drag of .20, the best of any Chrysler vehicle.

Cast in the heritage of the visceral, high-performance excitement machines such as the Dodge Charger, Viper and the Plymouth Barracuda, the Venom concept car reinvents the proportions of the muscle car. The traditional long hood/short deck is replaced by a fresh new look. Much of the Neon's sheet metal is replaced with aluminum.

As a result of the reduced weight, the rear-wheel-drive Venom, powered by a 3.5-liter, V-6 engine with 214 horsepower, achieves all the same performance that muscle car aficionados expect. The Venom remains, however, affordable, efficient and back-to-basics in concept and execution.

Taking inspiration from big-city taxis and adapting it to the Neon platform, the Expresso redesigns the "family taxi" in a unique vehicle with lots of personality. It's not a minivan, and it's not a station wagon. It's a travel-friendly, fuel-efficient, roomy vehicle that is about half the size of a full-size New York taxi.

Expresso is about two feet shorter and 15 inches taller than the Neon, powered engine. Some of Expresso's travel-friendly features include: storage under the front seats that matches airline underseat standards; comfortable high-chair seating; sight-seeing windows; and a unique navigation and entertainment center.

efficiency full-size car that will be sold in all 50 states beginning in early January.

Powered by the industry's first four-valve-per-cylinder diesel engine, the new model features ultra-clean exhaust and a cruising range of more than 700 miles between fill-ups. Four-valve-per-cylinder technology provides more complete combustion for very low exhaust emissions and efficient power.

It is also equipped with exhaust-gas recirculation and a catalytic converter, unusual in a diesel. The net result is that the new Mercedes is the only diesel car which meets California's and New York's stringent emissions standards.

"We're holding the worldwide debut of these cars in the U.S. because the U.S. market is so important to Saab," said company spokesman Steve Rossi. "Thirty percent of our worldwide volume is sold in the U.S. The U.S. is Saab's single largest market."

New Chevrolet Camaro convertible brings excitement to the '94

A high-styled Camaro convertible is introduced by Chevrolet for 1994 as a companion to the hot-selling all-new Camaro introduced for 1993.

The new soft top is available in base Camaro and Z28 models. Designed as a convertible from the start, it has a rigid body structure which provides a solid foundation that minimizes flexing, squeaks, and rattles.

The power-operated top folds down flush, and a three-piece hard cover gives a finished appearance during top-down driving. The convertible top also features a full headliner and a heated glass backlight as standard equipment.

The new fourth-generation Camaro has been the talk of the performance world and praised by the press. It received the 1993 Popular Mechanics Design and Engineering Award and was named "Best Domestic Buy" in the Motor Trend Magazine. A Z28 was pace car at the 77th running of the 1993 Indianapolis 500. The new Camaro features a completely redesigned body and significant mechanical improvements. All classic Camaro ingredients were retained — a smooth upper body, a tenacious stance, an aggressive front end, and brawny wheels and tires.

Camaro's standard 3.4-liter V6 engine improves on its predecessor by delivering 20 more horsepower and 20 additional pound-feet of torque — with improved fuel economy.

The Z28's power-packed 5.7 liter LT1 small-block V8 — derived from the Corvette — is even more satisfying to drive in 1994 with the addition of sequential fuel injection and a mass airflow sensor. This sophisticated system provides a smoother idle, better driveability and lower emissions. The ignition system provides outstanding cold-start performance.

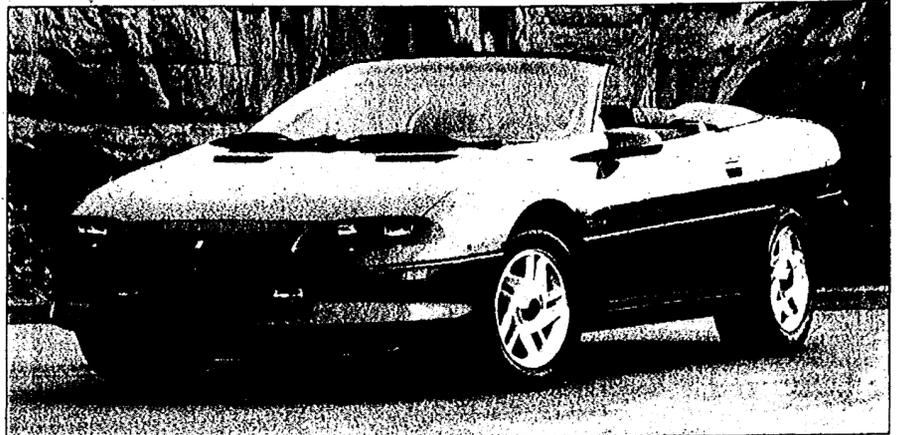

Camaro Z28s in 1994 are equipped with a Borg-Warner Automotive T56 6-speed manual transmission as standard equipment. Computer-Aided Gear Selection — a feature added to the 6-speed — is designed to improve fuel economy during normal driving.

GM's highly-regarded 4L60-E 4-speed automatic overdrive automatic transmission is optional on V6 and V8-powered Camaros in 1994. The Camaro's sophistication Powertrain Control Module acts as an interface between the engine and transmission to provide the feel of a "seamless" powertrain.

Like the coupe, the new Camaro convertible is built at GM's Ste. Therese, Quebec plant, which was completely refitted to produce the fourth-generation Camaro. The highly skilled workforce has a reputation for manufacturing high-quality vehicles.

All Camaros — coupes and convertibles — share a body design that includes steel-reinforced composite body panels, a full-united frame and honeycomb-construction front and rear bumpers. Extensive anti-corro-

Standard features include driver- and passenger-side air bags.

BM's award-winning ABS VI anti-lock braking system and PASS-Key II theft-deterrent system. The 1994 Camaro offers an optional keyless entry system.

An eye-catching flame red fabric is a new interior accent color for 1994. Two new exterior colors are available: dark bright teal and polo green metallic.

CCS students' work displayed

The prize-winning automotive designs of students from the Center for Creative Studies will be displayed at the 1994 North American International Auto Show within the Michelin North America exhibit.

Students were challenged to design a luxury performance sedan and a family minivan-type vehicle, including tires for both, in a competition sponsored by Michelin in cooperation with CCS. The designs focused on safety.

The student drawings were judged by top designers from Chrysler, Ford and General Motors as well as by a Michelin representative on originality, appropriateness and professionalism of execution.

The winning tire designs will be created into real full-size tires displayed in the Michelin exhibit, along with the vehicle sketches. Students receive $12,000 in scholarships from Michelin. The tire company has sponsored the event for the fourth consecutive year along with CCS.

For the fourth consecutive year at the North American International Auto Show, Michelin awards scholarships to exceptional CCS students for original tire designs.

TV spot illustrates durability + luxury = 1994 GMC Sonoma!

Recent GMC Truck advertising has become known for among other things, its "stopping-power": bungee-jumping a GMC Jimmy over a 850-foot bridge to designing our new GMC Sonoma, we took into consideration what our customers wanted," said George Wood, advertising manager for GM Truck. "They told us

McCann/SAS, GMC Truck's agency, came up with the creative solution: By "crushing" a luxury sedan (Cadillac Seville) with a medium-duty (GMC TopKick) truck, the end result would be the new 1994 GMC Sonoma — visually demonstrating to the viewer the strength of a GMC Truck with the comfort of a GM luxury sedan.

The next hurdle was designing the actual mechanism capable of doing the actual vehicle crushing. McCann/SAS hired "Crush" director Gary Johns of Johns + Gorman, Hollywood, who also contracted with Norm Griffin Studio, who created and built the hydraulic vehicle "crusher." The machine was made from two 10-foot stroke (long), 8-inch bore (around) hydraulic cylinders running at 3,000-lb pressure each, powered by a 200-hp hydraulic diesel-powered pump. Each side of the "crusher" generates approximately 150 tons (300,000 pounds!) of power to crush whatever needed to be crushed. The end result? The crusher compacted 30 feet of truck and car into a 10-foot space revealing the '94 Sonoma.

thinking, "They (GMC Truck) aren't going to really crush that truck," said Denis Mohr, McCann/SAS account supervisor. "But then we go ahead and do it anyway."

"We were looking to do a commercial that first communicates the Sonoma is a strong truck," said McCann/SAS creative director L. Keith Stentz. "At the same time, it convinces the consumer the Sonoma has the comfort and smooth ride of a car. 'Crush' does the job."

The '94 GMC Sonoma print campaign is unusual in that it does not put the Sonoma in a "typical" truck environment of mud, work or off-road. Instead, the background is very elegant — suggestive of a luxury sedan.

"I know that when the consumer first sees the spot they're demonstrate the vehicle's frame strength or sending its GMC Safari van down a Lake Louise ski jump to demonstrate anti-lock brakes (ABS) and all-wheel-drive (AWD) capabilities.

"Crush," the new 30-second TV spot for the '94 GMC Sonoma compact pickup, is the latest addition to the family of "high-impact" TV ads aimed at raising awareness among those still unfamiliar with GMC Trucks' products. As with previous GMC Truck TV spots, "Crush" communicates the brand attributes of truck strengths and values.

"Naturally, when we were first they wanted a vehicle with all the ruggedness and durability that they expect out of a truck, but they also wanted the amenities and comforts they could have with a passenger car. We felt we had to capture that concept in our advertising message as well — and drive it home with a dramatic and arresting visual demonstration. We think we did that with our "Crush" TV commercial."

The creative challenge was to capture the new Sonoma's rugged heritage while at the same time touting its all-new levels of luxury and performance.

Design Forum

The North American International Auto Show and AutoWeek magazine will host a Design Forum that brings together top international automotive designers and designers from other fields.

"There's never been a forum for discussion of design in America, particularly automotive design," said Leon Mandel, AutoWeek publisher. "It seems appropriate that such a discussion should take place at the North American International Auto Show."

The growing list of speakers include Gerald Hirschberg, Nissan's top U.S. designer who will discuss American and world influences on American design. John Weitz, well-known fashion designer, race car driver and auto columnist, will offer his views on American style in everything from fashion to automobiles. Noted architect Dan Scully, Hot Rod stylist Boyd Coddington, known for hot rods he built for such celebrities as ZZ Top as well as the Mitsubishi Aluma Coupe he styled, will talk about grass roots American design.

"We're bringing together a variety of stimulating and interesting people to discuss American style in the last decade of the century - what has influenced American style, how it has evolved and how it has influenced others as seen through the lenses of a series of diverse people," said Mandel.

The event, which opens Thursday, Jan. 6 and runs through Friday, Jan. 7, will also include a student challenge. Students from the Art Center in Pasadena, California and the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit will be asked to design a vehicle in a limited space of time. They will be judged and will receive awards.

Land Rover Displays Half-and-Half Vehicle

Land Rover will display an unusual vehicle that is really halves of two different vehicles. On one side, the special "split" Discovery is the adventure-equipped Camel Trophy Vehicle used for racing. The other half is the European version of the seven-passenger, four-wheel-drive Discovery.

Ford technology on exhibition at 1994 international auto show

At first impact, the Ford Division Exhibit for the 1994 North American International Auto Show is big and boldly colored with striking geometric lines and all the bells and whistles that show-goers have come to expect. With the new Mustang as a focal point on one of 10 feature platforms and turntables, the exhibit's carpeted runway pulls visitors in until they arrive at the heart of the exhibit: the technology center.

However, technology does not exist in a vacuum in this one area. Rather, from the design of the physical structure to the prototype vehicles themselves, technological innovations are evident from all perspectives. It begins with Livonia-based Exhibit Works' pioneering design of a 20' tall, 24' wide, 110' long exhibit structure which can be set up or taken down in one fluid motion.

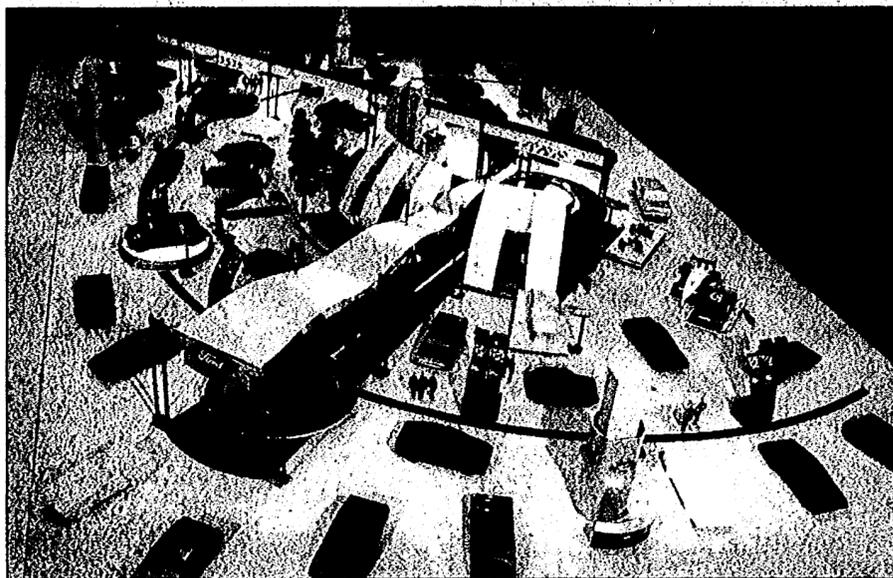

The innovation was Exhibit Works' response to Ford's challenge to contain assembly costs. Using the new design technology, once the exhibit has been assembled at floor level, forklifts can pull it from the ground to a standing position in less than 10 minutes. By eliminating the need and expense associated with sending workers 20' into the air to bolt the dramatic overhead aspects of an exhibit into place, Exhibit Works can save 15 to 20 percent on overall set-up and dismantle costs.

Once it was demonstrated that set up and production costs could be contained, Exhibit Works was free to push their creative capabilities into the future. One result is a dramatic and visually intriguing 96' long wave of perforated metal material which acts as a canopy of color and light luring visitors from the Mustang into the center of the exhibit.

Another Exhibit Works innovation is the addition of internationally-acclaimed industrial designer Syd Mead illustrations reproduced to 50' wide by 10' tall. The mood-setting photo-murals further emphasize Ford's focus on technology by portraying futuristic scenes and the "technology with a purpose" which will be incorporated into new Ford products.

Exhibit Works' design also gives Ford the opportunity to spotlight the technologies the automaker is using to protect the environment. An additional 16' tall by 20' wide wall assembly presents information about subjects including Ford's standard-

The 110' long x 24' wide x 20' tall exhibit, designed and produced by Livonia-based Exhibit Works, will be pulled from ground to standing at Cobo Arena in one fluid motion with the aid of two forklifts. This technology was pioneered by Exhibit Works in response to Ford's challenge to contain set-up costs. Traditionally, the upper reaches of an exhibit are assembled by workers hoisted on lifts.

setting recycling guidelines (followed by Ford as well as their suppliers); alternate fuel vehicles

minimization programs; and initiatives aimed at leading the industry as a good corporate citizen.

Visitors will have an opportunity to become further involved with the exhibit's technology by accessing 10 computer modules with CDI interactive video disc systems to learn about specific topics. Options include current technologies such as air bag and handling systems as well as future technologies such as vision enhancement for driving in low visibility weather and voice activated controls. Visitors can also participate in an interactive safety-based quiz.

According to Exhibit Works Vice President of Design Dave Dekker, "Our goal with this exhibit was to position Ford as a technological leader producing high quality products for an increasingly sophisticated market. The exhibit succeeds because it emphasizes these same points not only with visible marketing messages but also with the integrity of the exhibit design and engineering. This will result in a consistent and credible message to the consumer."

The North American International Auto Show runs from January 8 to January 16 at Cobo Arena. The Ford Exhibit is located in the front center of the hall.

Lexus brings value, customer satisfaction effort to used car buyers

With used cars selling at a faster rate than new cars, the competition to provide high quality previously owned vehicles has spread to include new car manufacturers.

Lexus, which brought new levels of product quality and customer satisfaction to new car buyers, is the latest company to enter the fray and is the first to offer a manufacturer certification program for its used cars.

Under the "Lexus Certified Pre-Owned Vehicle" program, carefully selected Lexus used cars are put through a two-hour check of more than 100 mechanical and appearance standards. If a vehicle passes the test it earns the "Lexus Certified" label and is backed by the Lexus Certified Warranty and the industry's leading customer satisfaction efforts.

"Our goal is to provide the used car buyer with the same level of product value and customer satisfaction as the new Lexus buyer receives," says George Borst, Lexus group vice president and general manager. "This also is an opportunity to introduce pre-owned buyers to the Lexus ownership experience."

Once a vehicle has passed the inspection process it is backed by the Lexus Certified Warranty for up to six years or 70,000 miles (for cars less than five years old and with less than 58,000 miles) from the date it was originally sold. For cars more than five years old, but with less than 85,000 miles, the warranty will be good for one year or 12,000 miles.

Coverage includes the same 24-Hour Roadside Assistance program as the Lexus new car warranty. It covers minor roadside repairs, towing to the nearest Lexus dealership if necessary, a loaner car and money for lodging and meals if the owner is away from home. In addition, there is a free oil change and filter within six months or 7,500 miles from the purchase date.

"We want to eliminate a customer's concern that they may be buying someone else's problem when they buy a previously owned car," Borst says.
