Flower fund-raiser: Musicians and track teams from John Glenn and Wayne Memorial high schools combined to raise money for their programs. They performed in informal concerts and planted flowers around Westland Center as part of the third annual "Banding Together for Education" program. Funds came from the sale of T-shirts and discount cards honored at mall businesses. Parent Booster Clubs helped out as well.

Two face charges in killing

Two suspects are charged with first-degree murder for the shooting death of a Redford Township man whose body was found in Westland.

Antonio Jacob Peay, 20, of Detroit and Thomas Lamar Walker, 22, of Inkster are charged in the May 1 slaying of Christopher Rugg, 30.

Westland police believe that Rugg had gone to avenge an earlier robbery when he was shot in the head and chest.

The 3:15 p.m. shooting occurred as Rugg tried to escape a confrontation on Klink Street in Inkster by run-

Adult students back program

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Westland's Kelly Wagner told a state legislative hearing Monday night that she has a second chance for a college education and career, thanks to the Wayne-Westland school district's adult education program.

The 27-year-old wife and mother said that "my family has been blessed with a second chance" for an education after her husband was injured and unable to work.

"I have gone through hunger and homelessness" before she enrolled at the William D. Ford Career Technical Center to study health care. She eventually plans to attend Schoolcraft College and then transfer to a four-year university to receive a degree to become a surgical nurse.

Wagner was one of several dozen people who spoke at a special hearing held by three Democratic legislators to garner support for more state dollars for adult education.

Gov. John Engler had proposed in his 1996-97 budget that the current $185 million in state aid for adult education be eliminated and that the funds be redirected to the Michigan Jobs Commission.

A recent compromise has $65 million of state dollars placed in an "at-risk" fund for public school K-12 districts.

Rep. Thomas Kelly

The House Education Committee is expected to act on the compromise today.

Leading the hearing were state Rep. Eileen DeHart of Westland, Rep. Thomas Kelly of Wayne, whose district includes Garden City and a section of Westland, and state Sen. Jim Berryman of Adrian, a potential Democratic candidate for governor in 1998.

DeHart said Republican legislators were invited to the hearing, held at the Ford Center in Westland, but didn't attend.

In the audience of about 200, other speakers urged the legislators to fight for more state funds for adult education, telling personal stories of how they dropped out of school for financial or family illness reasons and returned with

Madison kids 'go to the tape' for racial equality

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Although Jonathan Steele is only 11 years old, he speaks eloquently about the need for racial equality.

"I think that people should be treated equally, and it doesn't matter if they're black or white or Indian," he said. "We should all be free."

Steele, a Madison Elementary fifth-grader, expressed his thoughts on racial harmony Monday as his art class took a break in filming a video about racial prejudice, hunger and homelessness.

It's called "We Shall Be Free," inspired by a song from country singer Garth Brooks.

Under the direction of art teacher Toni Bailey-Lay, students wrote their own lines and scenes for the video that will be shown on Wayne-Westland school district educational channels. A schedule isn't yet known.

In one scene, several racially diverse children are enjoying themselves on playground equipment when they are attacked by a group of troublemakers.

Another racially diverse group sees the attack and breaks up the fight, which ends in handshakes.

"Can't we all just get along?" one student could be heard saying.

At times the scene seemed chaotic; Bailey-Lay has learned that getting 35 young actors to play their parts simultaneously can be, well, challenging.

But the students did seem to be learning from their film debut.

"I learned that people should be equal," 10-year-old Leah Enright said. "They shouldn't all be fighting because of what other people look like."

In a scene about homelessness, several students placed a cardboard box in front of the school Dumpster and pretended to be living on the Ford to Glenwood.

Scott Veldhuis, Westland economic development director, said Monday that officials will try to use dollars from state government and private sources to close the funding gap.

He elaborated during a telephone interview Tuesday, saying that no plans have been made to impose a local tax hike to spur DDA projects.

"The decision was made not to do that at this time," he said.

In another section of the plan, officials note that the maximum bond-related debt, if any, would be $3 million.

The DDA plan will use taxes generated from new development to pay for improvements in the 565-acre DDA district.

The plan allows for sprucing up properties or demolishing them for redevelopment. Specific proposals will be studied by a DDA board that will issue recommendations to city leaders.

The plan also may include new street lights, bike paths, sidewalks, landscaping and other proposals to make the city more attractive.

Most improvements are targeted for commercial corridors along Ford and Wayne roads, although changes may be in store for some of the 103 houses, 45 apartments and 31 mobile homes in the DDA district.

Some housing may be demolished, and some residents may be relocated, Veldhuis said.

"It's a possibility," he said. "But it's expensive, and it can be time-consuming. That's not really the emphasis of the plan."

Only 265 people actually reside within DDA district boundaries, according to the DDA report.

The DDA plan already designates two areas of land to remain as open space, namely the Central City Park area and property adjacent to Marshall Middle School on Bayview, according to the 36-page document.

Some commercial and residential areas may be rezoned to accommodate new development.

City council members Monday approved the development and financing plans following a public hearing that drew heavy criticism from council watcher Dorothy Smith.

Smith said citizens' comments made during the hearing were meaningless because they came on the same night that the plan was approved.

She also accused the council of violating the city charter by introducing a DDA ordinance and approving it on the same night. She threatened a lawsuit against the council.

City Attorney Angelo Plakas responded that council members acted within their authority.

ning across Henry Ruff into Westland, police Sgt. Scott Fetner said.

Westland police arrested Peay on Monday night following a stakeout at his supposed girlfriend's house on Detroit's east side, Fetner said.

The suspect fled in a car and, following a short chase by police officers, tried to escape on foot before being caught, Fetner said.

His arrest came five days after Walker was charged in Rugg's death.

Confidential informants helped lead police to the suspects, Fetner said.

"Both suspects (allegedly) fired rounds off" during Rugg's killing, he said.

Peay was arraigned Tuesday afternoon before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos on first-degree murder and felony firearms charges.

Walker was arraigned on identical charges May 15 in front of 18th District Judge Gail McKnight.

Both suspects would face life in prison without parole if convicted as charged.

District judges have entered not-guilty pleas for the defendants. Both suspects remain jailed, and bond has been denied for them.

Walker is scheduled for a preliminary examination today (Thursday) in 18th District Court. The hearing will determine whether he should stand trial on the charges.

Peay's preliminary hearing has been scheduled for May 30.

Inkster police arrived on the scene first and found the victim's body on the outside of fenced-in, county-owned property on the west side of Henry Ruff between Michigan Avenue and Annapolis.

Westland's special investigative unit has helped with the investigation, along with the Metro Street Enforcement Team, Fetner said.

Wagner told the officials and audience that she is a 4.0 student in the adult ed program and will graduate in ceremonies scheduled for June 7.

When she first dropped out of high school, her husband supported the family, but an accident disabled him and prevented him from working.

"Others (like me) are also determined to succeed," Wagner said. "Society will reap the rewards of an educational investment."

Nancy Hurley, a 19-year teacher at the Livonia school district's Bentley Center, told the audience of the many success stories in her adult basic education reading and writing skills classes.

Her students were "first readers" who slipped through the cracks of the K-12 school districts they attended years earlier.

One of her students, Connie Hinson, 47, of Livonia, said she quit school in the 12th grade but returned to resume her education six years ago.

Another speaker stressed that restoring state dollars to the adult ed program wasn't just a matter of educational policy but a matter of "the quality of people's lives."

One woman said that she registered for a computer class at the Ford Center and obtained an office job using those skills just 45 days later.

"College isn't for everyone," said another woman who said she returned to the Ford Center 12 years after dropping out of high school.

Greg Baracy, Wayne-Westland school district's assistant superintendent and former Ford Center principal, presented the legislators with an 11-page statement supporting more state support of adult education.

He noted that while the governor is proposing slashing adult ed dollars, some $40 million was budgeted for stress management, team building and other corporate training for employees at Ford Motor Co., Amway, General Motors Corp. and other businesses.

Two people who completed a recent study as part of their college doctoral program research questioned if the private sector can handle the educational and training needs of their employees.

Charles Smith and Chris Koenig, who did the study, quoted survey results as showing that 70 percent of employers surveyed weren't aware of their employees' educational needs and few offered to pay for the training or provide time off for the training.

Near the end of the hearing, Rep. Kelly admitted that he was about to make a "political pitch."

Noting that Engler was elected with 62 percent of the vote two years ago, he said he felt the governor is "misguided" on the adult ed funding issue and "the only way to change him is to get him out."

Kelly, a former Wayne-Westland district teacher, said that the governor's aim is to "destroy public education and put vouchers and schools of choice in place."

"We have to put a brake on this and bring the governor to the negotiating table" in a move to "rectify this stupidity."

Airport expansion expected to land jobs

STORY BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN • STAFF WRITER

A proposal to build a new terminal at Metro Airport in Romulus has been up in the air for years — now it has landed.

Wayne County and Northwest Airlines have agreed to the construction of a midfield terminal as part of a $1.6 billion expansion at the airport.

"This project is going to make things a whole lot easier for the folks who visit Metro," Edward H. McNamara, Wayne County executive, said to a crowd gathered at the Airport Marriott Monday.

The commitment of federal funds clinched the deal, McNamara said.

With the expansion, the airport will better serve the public and spawn jobs and economic development, McNamara said. Passengers will see more parking, a new south access road to the airport and a tram connecting passengers to their gates.

As for economic development, Metro Airport has an annual economic impact of $2.7 billion, with 62,000 regional jobs tied to the airport, according to information supplied by the county.

The airport also attracts foreign investment and global trade, with 678 foreign-owned companies operating in the Detroit area, many connected to their home countries by non-stop flights from Metro.

And the cost to expand the airport won't be paid by taxpayers, he said. "If you don't use the airport, you don't pay for the airport," Robert Braun, airport director, said.

Funding for the project includes: $276 million in federal funding, $700 million in passenger facility charges ($3 charge per airplane passenger), $350 million in airport rates and charges paid by the airlines, $225 million in concessions, parking and other sources.

Scheduled to open to passengers by December 2000, the new terminal will feature 64 domestic gates and 10 international gates. An overhead tram will move passengers from gate to gate.

The airport currently has three terminals with 87 domestic gates and six international gates.

The project also includes an expansion plan, of nine more domestic gates and two international gates, slated for 10 years after the project is completed, Braun said.

A new 5,000-car parking deck, a new south access road to the airport, a fourth parallel runway and improvements to the airport's three existing terminals are also planned.

Project costs include: midfield ramps and taxiways, $109 million; arrival-departure roadways, $34 million; terminal, $512 million; parking garage, $80 million; and power and utilities relocation, $51 million.

The airport development program includes:

fourth parallel runway, $116 million; noise mitigation, $133 million; apron replacement, $36 million; completion of south access road, $77 million and other projects, $218 million.

Other projects include interim terminal improvement project, $60 million; renovation of existing terminals, $35 million and phase two of the midfield project, $90 million. The interim project includes adding gates, increasing the capacity of the federal inspection services in the International Terminal and extension of a passenger shuttle from Concourse G to Concourse C.

The design will be approved by Northwest and Wayne County. Northwest will manage the terminal's construction and be responsible for any terminal cost overruns.

The new midfield terminal project recognizes the importance of Wayne County and Michigan, Don Washburn, Northwest Airlines' Executive Vice President for Customer Service and Operations, said.

Northwest is very pleased with the condition of the airline industry, Washburn said. That includes skyrocketing numbers of flights, including an added 70 daily departures from Metro since 1992.

American Airlines' hub at O'Hare Airport in Chicago operates fewer flights than Northwest currently does in Detroit, Washburn said.

About 9,000 employees of Northwest are based in the Detroit metro area, and 150 employees were added last summer in response to growth, he said.

Also: Metro airport handled more than 28 million passengers in 1995 and is ninth in North America and 13th in the world in passengers.

Nearly 1,400 flights arrive and depart Metro Airport daily.

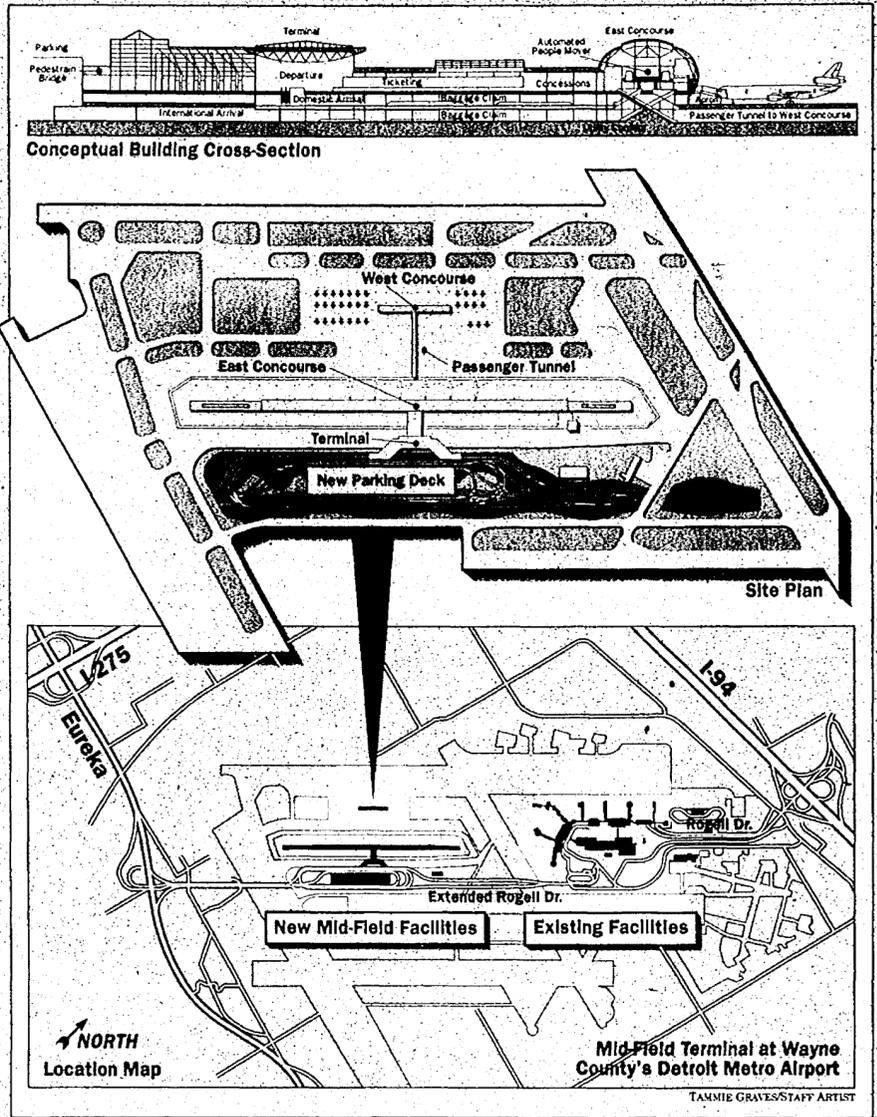

Metro has had a 353 percent increase in international passengers, to 2.7 million, in the past 10 years.

The total number of passengers using Metro Airport has increased 81.4 percent to 28.3 million in the past 10 years.

Work on interim improvements and site preparation for the new terminal is scheduled to begin in early fall. Work on the new south access road has already begun, Braun said.

Several approvals still are needed including Federal Aviation Administration approval of the $3 passenger facilities charge, approval by the Northwest Airlines board of directors and the Wayne County Commission's approval.

The commission's approval will "be completed in the most timely fashion possible," Commission Chairman Ricardo Solomon said.

Parents upset about split classrooms

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Children in split-level classes in the Livonia school district's elementary schools are being cheated.

That's the view of parents who came to Monday's board of education meeting armed with a solution to what they called the "inadequate education" students in a fourth/fifth-grade split at Hoover Elementary are getting.

The district includes the northern section of Westland and operates Nankin Mills, Hayes and Cooper-at-Whittier elementary schools for local students.

Kim Madeleine, spokesman for the parents, said the district should hire a paraprofessional to help teachers "put at the disadvantage" of having to teach two classes.

"Parents of these students believe students do not get the same quality education as kids in regular classrooms," Madeleine said.

"Teachers teach two grade levels and two curriculums. It's unfair to both the teacher and to the children. It's difficult for students to learn properly in a split-level class."

The Hoover parents formed a committee to explore ways to resolve the issue. Throughout this school year, they have met with Karen Milton, Hoover principal; Kent Gage, assistant superintendent for elementary instruction; Marlene Bihlmeyer, director of curriculum; and Ken Watson, superintendent.

Gage said he does not believe Hoover students are being cheated, or that the education they receive is inadequate.

"We've had combination classes in the district for more than a decade," Gage said. "We've done followup studies, and there's no difference in achievement. It's more difficult for the teachers, but there's no evidence students have lower achievement levels."

Nearly every elementary has at least one split-level class. Gage pegged the number overall at 30. They tend to appear "in pockets," with some schools having multiple split-levels while others don't have any. Washington and Webster elementaries also have fourth/fifth-grade splits, he said.

Hoover got its first split a year ago, and criticism tends to surface when the classes are new, he said.

Madeleine, who lives on Sunnydale, spoke at Monday's board meeting. He also outlined the parents' concerns in a memo to the board, which the trustees have 10 days to answer.

The teacher's extra workload, Madeleine said, means students get fewer science and social studies lessons and more lessons in art, music and library materials center. A paraprofessional, he said, could help a teacher with science and social studies classes.

Hiring a paraprofessional, Gage said, is just one solution the district could turn to to ease the burden on teachers with a split-level class.

The district could also assign program enrichment teachers now allocated to specific schools to these combination classes.

It could also seek a contractual change to convert teaching positions to paraprofessional positions, he said.

Candidates: Money key concern

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Money worries and parents who don't take part in their child's education are two of the biggest problems facing K-12 education today, according to most candidates seeking a seat on the Livonia Board of Education, which serves the northern section of Westland.

Not far behind on the stress list are violence in schools, the voucher system, large class size and dysfunctional families.

"It's always money," said school board hopeful Steve King.

"I'm afraid of the voucher system. It's the worst thing that could happen to public education," he said.

The Observer recently interviewed 12 of the 14 candidates seeking a seat on the board in the Monday, June 10, school election. Eleven challengers face incumbents Dianne Nay, Dan Lessard and Kenneth Timmons. Two candidates, Mike Webster of Brookview and Joseph Aristeo of Vargo, did not attend the interview.

Passage of Proposal A in 1994 changed the face of school financing in Michigan. In approving the proposal, voters shifted the bulk of school financing from local property owners to the state.

For most of the candidates, the change has become a nightmare for Livonia schools.

"There's been no real benefit to education," said Jerry Murray, who lives on Scone. "Superintendents are biting their nails, waiting to hear if they'll get the money due them."

Alicia D'Orazio, who lives on Camborne Lane, called Proposal A scary. Three candidates, challengers Jane Teska of Poch, William Switzer and incumbent Nay, said the district hasn't yet seen the worse fallout from Proposal A. The worse will come, they said, when voters vote on millages where the money is shared countywide.

■ 14 candidates are seeking a seat on the board in the Monday, June 10, school election. Eleven challengers face incumbents Dianne Nay, Dan Lessard and Kenneth Timmons.

"It will be impossible to get people to vote for this," Switzer said.

Pat Nalley called Proposal A the "worst thing that happened to Livonia Public Schools ever. Historically, our residents taxed themselves for good schools. We don't have the opportunity to do that any more."

Two incumbents, Timmons and Lessard, decried the loss of local control the district now has over its finances.

"No longer can we control the kind of program we want," Timmons said. "We can't enrich our programs. It's very difficult to plan ahead."

While Proposal A has negatives, it also was the voice of the people, and the people wanted lower taxes, said challengers Jim Stephanoff and King.

"We have to live within our means," Stephanoff said.

Residents favored Proposal A, because taxes were outrageous and people opposed any more tax increases, King said. Residents now vote on millages for specific purposes. "People don't mind paying when they see the benefits."

If income is a problem, challenger Kirsten

Galka came up with a novel way to raise money. Following a trend out west, school buses can sport advertising to bring in extra revenue, she said.

The candidates generally believe the district should make cutting class size in grades one through three the district's top priority.

But the road to doing so, they said, is filled with many other potholes.

"Some other instructional programs might suffer," Timmons said.

Lessard said he would not back cuts in other programs if the district can only get class size down to 26 students.

"No one wants larger classes, but we don't have control over our money and the problem is money," Lessard said. "I don't know if we can manage this to any degree that it would be worthwhile doing. A couple less students will not make that much of a difference."

If cutting class size is easy, Morgan said the district would have already done it. "I'll not give up successful programs that help kids to cut class size. Should we cut by two or three and lose SAFE in the process? No."

Both Murray and Nalley suggested cutting class size incrementally. That means phasing in a class-cutting program over a five-year period.

"Criticism comes when we take all 13 grades and give an estimate for that," Murray said.

Special millages won't raise the money needed to cut class size, Nalley said. "That only raises pocket change. We're talking big money when we talk about class size reduction."

St. Mary observes National Hospital Week

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia was one of thousands of hospitals throughout the nation which celebrated the 75th anniversary of National Hospital Week May 12-19.

Over the last 75 years, millions of people have been introduced to the true wonders of medicine — the dedicated men and women who put their skills to work 365 days a year.

For this commemorative anniversary, the slogan "Dedicated to Caring, Community, Commitment" was selected as the theme for the week-long event.

"With all the changes being discussed in health care, we want our community to see our spirit of dedication to the important aspects of the professions that have not changed and will not change," said Sr. Mary Modesta, president and chief executive officer of the hospital. "It's a reinforcement of those values people find most assuring about our health care system."

National Hospital Week was started in 1921 by a magazine editor who wanted to educate the public about the work of hospitals. Since then the health care industry has used the event to heighten public awareness about hospitals and their role in the community.

St. Mary Hospital had a number of activities for hospital employees and volunteers, including a Fun Walk and Scavenger Hunt on May 13, an appreciation luncheon on May 15, and an employee prize drawing on May 17.

St. Mary is a 304-bed, acute care, community hospital at Five Mile and Levan. Sponsored by the Felician Sisters and affiliated with Beaumont Hospital, St. Mary serves the community with the same spirit of Christian dedication since its inception in 1959, said Modesta.

Through continued expansions and technology, the hospital provides vital, high quality health care, said Modesta, as highly-trained medical, nursing and support staff provide medical/surgical care, intensive/cardiac care, oncology/radiation therapy, maternity, women's services, physical medicine and rehabilitation, behavioral medicine, chemical dependency, child care center, and 24-hour emergency care.

The hospital also has an active community outreach program that includes classes on pediatric and adult CPR, diabetes education, cholesterol education, basic and advanced cardiac life support, and more.

Free blood pressure screenings and periodic free or low-cost health screenings also are offered on an ongoing basis.

Area man has close call on plane

Livonia native Jim Hensch experienced a potential crash landing at the Cleveland airport on Friday, May 17.

Hensch, who is president of Master Computer Group, Inc., is a 1981 graduate of Livonia Bentley High.

Hensch was flying first class on Continental Flight 1105, Newark to Cleveland, Friday night. He had just finished reading some very graphic details about the search taking place at the crash site of the ValuJet in the Florida Everglades.

As the plane approached the Cleveland runway, the pilot announced that the instruments indicated the landing gear was not down and locked.

"We flew by the tower so that they could visually inspect the landing gear," said Hensch. "One of the pilots left the cockpit and moved down the aisle way, apparently to do some more visual inspections."

The pilot then announced that the landing gear probably was down but in case it wasn't an emergency landing would be initiated.

"During the next minute, some of the pilot's communications with the tower spattered through the cabin P.A. Most of it was broken up and sounded gibberish. One flight attendant was knocking on the cockpit door, but they were not answering."

Passengers were told to review the emergency procedures on the card in the seat back pocket. "I hadn't reviewed that cards in years, since I fly every week. Everybody examined the card. The flight attendants pulled out these thick manuals and began to instruct the passengers on getting into position in preparation for a crash landing.

"I heard one flight attendant whisper to another about the possibility of a belly landing, and to remember to pick up her feet."

The flight attendants walked quickly to every row on the plane to make sure each person knew the crash position.

"All kinds of things were running through my mind. I was certain there was a good chance I was about to die. Were my affairs in order? Why did I have to be on the one flight in many that crashes? Was my life fulfilling? I silently said a confession to God and prepared to die. I was scared."

In the pitch dark, illuminated only by the fasten seat belts light, the pilot announced "one minute until impact." One flight attendant began yelling "Prepare for impact. Prepare for impact" and kept yelling for the entire minute. "I was now sure I was going to die, and hoped it wouldn't hurt too much.

"After what seemed longer than a minute, I wondered why we hadn't impacted with the ground. I poked up my head, and at that very moment, we touched ground. A nice landing onto a runway surrounded by ambulances and fire trucks, lights flashing.

"I resolved to fill out my will today, which I had been putting off. I resolved to always have my affairs in order, and to remember that life can end any time, unexpectedly.

"As far as I'm concerned, I just experienced a plane crash, without the explosion on impact. I remember all the things that went through my mind, and what it was like to think we were going down and were about to die. My warmest thanks to the brave crew on that Continental flight, that spent what could have been their last moments alive, doing their job. My thanks to God that I didn't die."

Volunteers needed for Rouge River cleanup, fix-up

The Friends of the Rouge will add "fix-up" to Rouge Rescue '96, the environmental group's 11th annual cleanup of the Rouge River on Saturday, June 1.

In addition to removing fallen trees and other debris from the river as they have since 1986, volunteers will also begin projects to restore and enhance eroding riverbanks.

Friends of the Rouge are working with local governments in the Rouge River Watershed, the U.S. Natural Resources Conservation Service, and environmental engineers who are volunteering their service, to identify sites where eroding riverbanks can be repaired using "bio-engineering" methods.

Bio-engineering is a natural alternative to more traditional engineered solutions for stabilizing riverbanks. Rather than using steel and concrete, bio-engineering relies primarily on plant materials and volunteer labor to repair and enhance banks and in-stream fish and wildlife habitat.

"These projects are a natural step forward in our stewardship of the Rouge River," said Friends of the Rouge President Heidi Jo Wayco.

More than 2,500 volunteers participate in the annual Rouge Rescue, at cleanup sites throughout Wayne, Oakland and eastern Washtenaw counties. In addition to cleaning up the river, volunteers plant trees, build and groom wood-chip walking paths, stencil storm drain inlets with a warning against dumping toxic materials like used motor oil, and build nesting boxes for wood ducks, bluebirds, and brown bats.

For the second consecutive year, Rouge Rescue will also include the collection of returnable bottles and cans, which will be redeemed to support the Friends of the Rouge Education Project.

Local cleanup sites are listed below. For more information, call the Friends of the Rouge at 961-4050.

New Senate reform proposal calls for family court

Capitol capsules:
The court reform movement thickens.
Sen. William VanRegenmorter, R-Hudsonville, is proposing a substitute for House Bill 5158, the court reform measure passed by the House of Representatives.

VanRegenmorter, chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee, provides for a "Family Court" that will handle divorce, child custody, support, paternity, juvenile delinquency, child protective proceedings, adoption and mental health guardianships.

Currently, some of the cases are handled by circuit courts, others by probate court. Under the VanRegenmorter substitute, Family Court would be a division of circuit court. He said his proposal would also provide more equitable statewide funding of courts.

HB 5158, drafted by House Judiciary chair Michael Nye, R-Litchfield, provides for spreading the duties of courts between the three levels of trial courts — circuit, probate and district, blurring the distinctions between them. A companion measure would abolish the constitutional requirement that every county maintain a probate court.

Bottom line in both proposals: Spread judicial resources more evenly, provide more flexibility in assigning judges, reduce the need to establish more judge-ships.

Vote on suicide

Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, says voters should be allowed to decide the question of legalizing assisted suicide.

He is pushing an amendment to the so-called "Death with Dignity" package of bills requiring certain treatment options be made available to terminally ill patients. If his amendment is adopted, Senate Bill 980 would make assisted suicide an option if voters approve it. It's in the Senate Committee on Families, Mental Health and Human Services.

Same-sex fallout

"Same-sex marriages" aren't just a Hawaiian issue. Every state — including Michigan — could be affected if the Hawaiian Supreme Court rules that a state law prohibiting homosexual and lesbian marriages violates the state constitution, says Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

"If Hawaii permits same sex marriages, every state would then be forced to recognize these unions under the 'full faith and credit' clause of the U.S. Constitution," Whyman told a House Judiciary subcommittee in Lansing last week.

The second-term lawmaker is author of House Bills 5561, to prohibit same-sex marriages in Michigan, and HB 5562, to nullify a same-sex marriage that may be legal in another state.

Law lauded

State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, was honored as "legislator of the year" by the Michigan Society for Human Resource Management for sponsoring a law to limit civil liability of employers that provide good-faith job references.

"We are grateful that the House, Senate and Gov. Engler unanimously support House Bill 5137 and recognize the inherent problems faced by employers and employees with reference checking," said Arlie C. Skory, state director of the HRM group. HRM has 2,000 professional and student members.

Law faces a primary challenge from Gerald Vorva, the man he ousted in the 1994 primary.

Role for Ryan

Rep. James Ryan, R-Redford, has been tapped to sponsor a bill banning partial-birth abortions.

A first-term member whose 1994 victory gave Republicans control of the House, Ryan was invited to Gov. John Engler's May 16 news conference at which Engler, Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus, Sen. Joe Gougeon, R-Bay City, and House Speaker Paul Hillegonds launched the effort.

Tree planting ceremony will honor one of Wayne County's first foresters

Joseph R. Witwer, one of Wayne County's first foresters, will be remembered at a dedication of the Joseph R. Witwer Memorial at 11 a.m. Friday, May 24, at the Bennett Arboretum on Edward Hines Drive, south of Seven Mile Road.

The dedication will include a tree-planting ceremony.

Witwer was one of the first professional foresters in the field of roadside development. He came to Wayne County in 1922 after his graduation from Michigan State College (now Michigan State University) to assist J. Merle Bennett, the first county Parks and Forestry director, in developing a forestry and park program for the board of the Wayne County Road Commission.

For more than 40 years, Witwer planted trees along the byways of Wayne County. County records indicate that more than 100,000 trees were planted during Witwer's time with Wayne County's Parks and Forestry Division.

The collection of specimen trees in the Bennett Arboretum gives illustrates his work.

"Joe Witwer made a profound difference in the aesthetic beauty of our area. Generations to come will enjoy the majestic trees he planted," said Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

Witwer also organized and served as president of the Michigan Forestry Association.

Witwer retired from Wayne County in 1964. He died Feb. 22, 1995. A fund has been set up to be used for tree planing and maintenance of the Bennett Arboretum in the Wayne County Park System.

Donations can be sent to: Friends of Wayne County Parks, Attn.: Witwer Fund, 33175 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, Mich. 48185.

McNamara wins praise for airport expansion

BY BETH SUNDRIA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

There was plenty of praise Monday at Metro Airport and much of it was heaped on Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

Elected officials from near and far gathered or called at Monday's press conference at the Marriott in Metro Airport.

President Bill Clinton and Secretary of Transportation Federico Pena offered congratulations in a phone conversation with McNamara, which was broadcast to the room by microphone.

The project is a great example of the partnership needed between county, state and national government and private business, Clinton said.

The improvements are needed not only for the public, but for business, Pena said.

Calling it a "national investment," Pena said the project will reduce thousands of hours of delays.

The expansion is a blend of vision and competence, U.S. Sen. Carl Levin said.

"Very few projects of a lifetime have the economic spinoff of this airport," Levin said, calling it not just a national hub but a global hub.

"This is, if anything, your airport," Congressman John Dingell, said to McNamara.

The expansion will also be done quietly, Dingell said, referring to airport noise.

As a twice-weekly commuter from the airport, Democratic Congresswoman Lynn Rivers said she welcomes the expansion.

"This is a wonderful project and I'm proud to have been part of it," she also called it a truly bipartisan effort as Republican Congressman Joe Knollenberg also played a role.

Calling it the most significant development project in the state, Gov. John Engler offered his congratulations by phone.

"Michigan is preparing to meet its transit needs of the future," Engler said.

The expansion will also mean expanded commuter air service to areas of Michigan where none or little exists today, Engler said.

The importance of the impressive Metro Airport makes on visitors is also being discussed, Engler said.

Wayne County Commission Chairman Ricardo Solomon offered his praise. "My colleagues and I congratulate you - and your entire team - for all the work you put into delivering this wonderful project to Wayne County," Solomon said.

"It means we're now going to have a world class facility," Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, said.

Not only will it create jobs in the county, but there will be jobs in construction, she said.

"I think the Wayne County executive deserves a great deal of credit," Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, said. Patterson made his comments on Tuesday.

Patterson's district includes Metro Airport, and he has criticized the noise mitigation project, which is buying up homes adversely affected by airport noise and sound insulating other buildings located near the airport. "It hasn't been as effective as it should have been," he said.

But he supports the expansion. Since the expansion project will use passenger facility charges, not county tax, Patterson said he supports it.

The airport needs the improvements and it will be an economic boost for the area, he said.

Northwest Airlines' Executive Vice President for Customer Service and Operations Don Washburn also praised McNamara.

"We appreciate the efforts of Ed McNamara," he said.

McNamara joked that he had been considering retiring, but now would consider a run for governor.

Spotlight: County Exec Ed McNamara's efforts drew praise from President Bill Clinton.

Beard: "It means we're now going to have a world class facility."

Levin: "Very few projects of a lifetime have the economic spinoff of this airport."

Patterson: "I think the Wayne County executive deserves a great deal of credit."

School choices Turner, Cox deserve terms

The Wayne-Westland school district has settled into a period of tranquility, after several years of turmoil, high-profile disputes between the board of education and the superintendent, and money problems.

Most of those issues have dissipated with a change in the makeup of the school board and the hiring last year of Duane Moore as superintendent.

While the money and other problems remain, the school board and administration have made progress in many areas.

When voters select two members of the school board at the June 10 election, they should be aware that there will be at least one new member picked. The new board member will succeed Francis "Bud" Winter, who announced several months ago that he will not run for a second term. Winter is a former Wayne Memorial High School principal and current board president who helped the district progress in his four years of board service.

Fortunately, the school community has two excellent candidates seeking two four-year terms.

They are Ed Turner, appointed in December to a vacancy, and David Cox, who served on the Westland City Council for two years before losing a re-election bid last November.

Based on their backgrounds and Westland Observer interviews, they are clearly the best choices on the June 10 ballot.

Turner has clearly demonstrated a commitment to the school district and its primary goal of educating students. Based on his five months in office, he certainly has a sense of doing the right thing for the right reasons.

Before being named to the board last winter, he attended board meetings for several years and gained valuable insights on how the board and administration operate and work together.

Turner is a positive, problem-solving person who should be elected to a full term.

Cox, who comes to the campaign with a different background, has excellent skills in analyzing budgets and financial reports.

Cox has a high energy level and excellent communication skills.

With children in public school, Cox would also bring a needed balance to the board. Currently, only two other board members have children in the public schools.

Turner and Cox should be elected June 10 to assure the school district's continuing progress for the next four years.

How to fix Michigan roads

We've been telling you so.

For the last five or six years, this newspaper has insisted now was the time to address Michigan and Wayne County road problems - potholes, two-lane paths, lack of turn lanes, freeway ramps, insufficient "smart" traffic lights, aging bridges - with a fuel tax hike.

In that time, state government - the only entity capable of addressing the problem - has been in a stalemate. The governor and Department of Transportation say state roads should get the lion's share of new revenue; counties and municipalities say they need a share.

In that time, fuel prices were low and stable. Drivers would hardly have noticed it if the 15-cents fuel tax had been raised a couple cents a gallon each year.

In 1996, we've watched a battle of the planners: MDOT's people saying they should get more than their traditional 75 percent cut of federal aid; the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments insisting local planners cannot, under federal law, be ignored. SEMCOG, with the spurring of deputy Wayne County Executive Mike Duggan and the votes of local officials, fought the good fight and won an honorable compromise.

But SEMCOG continues to insist a fuel tax hike is needed.

Meanwhile, potholes got deeper, traffic arteries got clogged, gridlock at red lights worsened.

Since early this year, fuel prices have inched up a couple of cents a week to the $1.20s. That raises the difficulty of Michigan's increasing its fuel tax.

There are several reasons fuel prices are going up:

- A bad winter has increased the demand for home heating oil. That reduces the supply of oil available for gasoline, and the price is forced up. There's little we can do about that.
- The Middle East, source of much of the world's oil, is politically unstable. Again, we can do little about that.

- Oil companies are allegedly greedy, hiking the price two cents for every penny that market forces justify. We don't know how true that allegation is and leave it to the Clinton Justice Department's election year zeal to prosecute any collusion and gouging.

- Consumers, particularly in southeastern Michigan, are buying more pickup trucks and sport-utility vehicles that burn 15-22 miles per gallon rather than compacts that get 35 mpg. We can do something about that. No way can we blame Shell, Amoco and Mobil for that phenomenon. It's fashionable to say "the customer is always right," but not this year. The customers made a collective mistake.

- Drivers are going faster than ever on I-96, I-75 and other urban freeways. In 55 mph zones, they used to go 65. Now if you go 70, you'll see drivers zipping by at 80 or 85, with rarely a blue patrol car in sight. A vehicle loses fuel efficiency drastically over 60 mph. Not only are the speedsters boorish, dangerous and unpatriotic, but they're costing the rest of us more money.

- Michigan still has the nation's heaviest trucks on its roads, which are naturally weakened by our freeze-thaw cycles. Tighter weight limits won't ease congestion, but they will reduce the damage these behemoths do to the pavement. The current governor and Legislature have brought the teachers' unions and trial lawyers to their knees. Let's see if they have the nerve to tackle the truckers' lobby.

Drivers need to take their feet off the gas pedal and rethink their need for four-wheeled tanks. Lawmakers need to go to lower truck weight limits and make at least a token hike in the fuel tax, which pays for state, county and local roads.

We'll keep telling you so.

Ballot issue knocked

The latest tax-wasting boondoggle to come out of Westland City Hall is this idea of "community policing."

Like most political boondoggles it comes with a price tag for Westland residents - in this case higher taxes.

Under the theory of community policing, the police become sort of quasi-social workers in the neighborhoods.

They become "part of the community," providing positive "role models" for residents who might otherwise be inclined to enter upon a life of crime.

My question is does Westland really need this? Are the residents of the Tonquish subdivisions prone to drug dealing?

Do drive-by shootings and car jackings dominate Surrey Heights? Are our apartment complexes ruled by armed drug lords?

Community policing is really an idea that was developed for our urban and inner city police forces.

In some inner city neighborhoods, "good is bad and bad is good" - a culture of crime prevails. Sociologists call this an "inverted norm structure."

In these neighborhoods, the drug pusher and the car thief are highly respected persons. And, doing jail time is frequently considered to be a badge of honor.

The police are often seen as an hostile occupying army to be resisted.

Does this situation apply to Westland? I think not. In Westland, 99.99 percent of the population are law-abiding, and welcome the police presence in their neighborhoods. Unlike inner city neighborhoods - in Westland there is no inverted norm structure - no culture of crime is to be overcome. Westland residents do not fear that someone is going to accuse them of "selling out" if they support the police.

So let's scrap this community policing nonsense before it starts. It's really nothing more than a thinly veiled attempt to boost the city payrolls and increase taxes.

Call city hall and tell the politicians to spend our existing public safety tax dollars to catch real criminals who are committing real crimes.

We don't need any more expensive fads and social boondoggles.

A "back-to-basics" police force is what Westland really needs.

Walkers are thanked

On behalf of the over 200 participants in the recent Wayne-Westland CROP Hunger Walk, we would like to thank those who supported the effort through their pledges and donations.

Donors gave in excess of $12,000 to help fight hunger both worldwide and locally.

In addition to these financial gifts, the Rotary Club of Wayne provided refreshments for the walkers during the walk and Toarmina's Pizza welcomed the returning walkers with hot pizza!

We are very grateful for their support.

Wayne residents have a great deal to be proud of in their city leaders who were so cooperative in every phase of the CROP Walk as well as in their police department who provided the walkers with assistance crossing major intersections and a protective presence throughout the day.

Thank you, Wayne, for your courtesy and support.

I would be remiss if I did not note the wonderful leadership which made the walk possible. Thank you to Salvation Army Capt. Mark Welsh for seeing to the publicity for the event; to Pat Rice, Carol Winkler and the rest of the arrangements committee for their tireless and excellent work; to Hazel Eminger for her wonderful recruiting efforts; to Alan Clark, our treasurer for the event, and, to the ladies of both St. Mary's and First Congregational churches for their service above and beyond anyone's expectations.

You all make this initial walk a great success. May this be the beginning of great walks in the future!

Local teachers' attorney explains case

BY LEO JANUSZEWSKI
GUEST COLUMNIST

(Copy of a letter to Wayne-Westland school district attorney Russell Slatkin regarding a dispute involving several teachers suing over a retirement incentive program.)

I have received a copy of the April 1 Westland Observer and your comments. I had initially declined to speak with that publication for the reason that I wanted to preserve the element of confidentiality as a possible inducement towards settlement. That is now no longer an option given that you evidently have opted to try the case in the media. You have refused past compromise settlement proposals on the grounds that the district was concerned about the settlement publicity leading to other teachers likewise filing lawsuits. So as to facilitate a compromise settlement of the current suits, I have not contacted any other teachers. However, it appears that you yourself have acted contrary to your professed concern in choosing to publicize this matter.

I will respond to your misleading newspaper argument. You attempt to cast the plaintiffs' position as being that the school district was forever barred from offering an early retirement incentive plan because of the promises that it made in 1992.

As you are aware, the above is not the teachers' position. You will recall the court hearing held on Oct. 20, 1995, wherein the teachers specifically disavowed that position. This disavowal was undertaken in open court in your presence.

As you know, the bulk of the nine teachers seeking redress through the courts would only have worked another year or two had they not been told by the school district that retirement plans would not be offered in the future.

As you further know, a litigant must suffer damages in order to bring a case. Thus, for example, if a teacher would have only worked another year but for the school district's promises and the school district offers a retirement plan two years later, that teacher has sustained no damages, and, hence, there is no lawsuit.

In the current case, the teachers seek compensation for only the additional time that they would have worked had the school district not enticed them into the 1992 ERIP (early retirement incentive program) in part with promises that no others would be offered in the future. In short, we agree with your position that "it's a little bit farfetched to say that an employer would never offer another early retirement incentive in the future."

To date, neither the judge nor the three appointed mediators who have reviewed this matter have agreed with your position that there exists no valid claim. You have nonetheless opted for a time-and-money-consuming "winner take all" stance. You justify this by attributing to the teachers a position that they do not take in the hopes of soliciting additional funding to litigate "all the way to the Michigan Court of Appeals."

Throughout the pendency of this case, I have offered to arbitrate rather than proceed to a public trial. Arbitration removes the matter from the glare of the public courts and consumes much less time and money.

I have further offered to bind my firm and the current plaintiffs to an agreement that the arbitration award would not be disclosed to anybody and that if it was, the school district would be entitled to reimbursement of the award if it were shown that either my firm or one of the plaintiffs breached that agreement.

These offers were all proffered in the hopes of effectuating a reasonable compromise of the immediate litigation and to address your purported concerns regarding a "flurry of lawsuits" being filed as a result of settlement publicity. Inexplicably, you have declined these offers. The school district should know that those offers remain open to date.

In conclusion, I do regret that I was forced to respond in this manner. However, my duty to my clients compels me to respond to public distortions of their position.

Indian-run casino issues raise many questions and answers

Getting up to date on the Indian casino gambling issue:

Q. What was the state Senate voting on last week and this?

A. Gov. John Engler has negotiated pacts with three federally recognized Indian tribes. They are:

- The Pokagon band of the Potawatomi tribe, with a site in New Buffalo Township on I-94.

- The Little River band of the Ottawa tribe, with a site in Manistee.

- The Little Traverse Bay bands of Odawa, with a site in Mackinaw City.

Q. If senators dislike gambling casinos, can't they just vote "no"?

A. Many don't dare. Sen. Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, one of the craftiest legislators and a non-gambler, calls a casino in his bailiwick "a foregone conclusion. This leaves us in the position of trying to get the best deal we can for the state and community."

Supporters say that if the state won't deal with them, the tribes will run to Washington for permits, and the state will lose all chance to regulate them. That's how it works under the 1988 federal Indian Gaming Regulatory Act. Currently 24 states have compacts with tribes for gaming.

Q. What kind of state regulation are we talking about?

A. The compacts call for 10 percent of Class III gaming net winnings to go to our governments — 8 percent to the Michigan Strategic Fund, 2 percent to local units.

Q. What's that worth?

A. Seven tribes operate 13 casinos. In 1995-6, they are estimated to take in a net of $384 million, pay the state $34 million and local units $8.5 million, up 58 percent from the prior year. That's from the state racing commissioner.

The big casino is the Chippewas' in Mt. Pleasant. It takes in almost as much as the other 12 combined.

Q. What do you mean by Class III gaming?

A. Class I is social games for prizes of minor value. Class II is bingo and other non-banking games.

Class III includes slot machines, blackjack, parimutuel racing, jai alai, and video poker. Patrons play against the "bank" rather than each other.

Q. Don't the tribes have a better way to make a living?

A. Apparently not. According to the pro-gaming propaganda, the Hydraburg tribe of Alaska has no gambling and a 50-55 percent unemployment rate. Nationally 32 percent of Indians live in poverty.

That's strange because in Michigan, people with only a fraction of Indian "blood" are entitled to tuition-free college, but barely 3 percent of Indians take advantage of it.

Q. What else is the Senate voting on?

A. There's a resolution asking the federal government to let the states and locals have more regulatory control — zoning, building codes, liquor law enforcement, liability insurance requirements, and the like.

Q. Are the feds likely to give in?

A. Hard to say. It depends on whether the state-local controls are used to regulate or just to block.

Q. Lots of folks see casinos as Mafia-controlled dens of iniquity and prostitution. You too?

A. Maybe. I'm more concerned that Americans increasingly think they can strike it rich at gambling. My econ profs said you should work, budget, save part of what you earn, and invest it in productive enterprise.

Their way took years, but you produced something of value to other humans, and you relied on yourself, not luck.

In the last two centuries, white traders degraded Indians by selling them firewater. Maybe gambling is the Indians' way of getting even.

Gov. Engler makes good sense on reform of adult education system

For years and years, Michigan has been spending big bucks — 185 million last year, 10 times the national per capita average — on adult education, programs that help high school dropouts go back to the classroom.

Everybody admits the results are meager. Of the 185,000 students enrolled in adult ed, only 14,000 graduate, more than one-third drop out, and less than one in 10 find jobs or improve their earnings.

Worse, for years adult ed has been, in practice, the slush fund that lots of school districts used to balance their budgets.

Salaries for adult ed teachers have been traditionally less than for regular K-12 classroom teachers, so districts have been taking the "profit" from the per capita state grant for adult ed and using it to bolster their books. Newspapers used to be filled with advertisements touting adult ed class openings just after the autumn fourth Friday head count determined state funding levels for school districts.

Gov. John Engler wants to change all this. Predictably, he's getting a lot of flak for it. But in this instance, I think he's right on target.

First, he wants to put $50 million into community and workplace literacy grants to meet the reading, math and work-readiness of adults. These grants will be awarded to Michigan's 27 local workplace development boards, which will seek competitive proposals from school districts, charter schools, community colleges, nonprofit organizations and other institutions that provide training.

Wonderful! One of the fundamental reasons government works so badly is its habit of designating monopoly — "presumptive provider" is the bureaucratic language — agencies to carry out certain tasks. Engler wants to bust up the monopoly on adult education that K-12 school districts have had for so many years and use links between job training providers and employers to introduce competitive incentives into the system.

Engler argues that costs in the present system are high (up to $16,000 per participant) and results low. He compares this with Michigan's Economic Development Job Training program which "prepared" (whatever that means) 70,000 workers for jobs at an average cost of $800.

Equally important, Engler argues, "Adult education is now a one-size-fits-all program; the wrong students are locked in, the right students are locked out, and no one gets ahead."

This is so. Kids who finish school and get a job threatened by changing technology can't get help from the current adult ed system because they already have a high school diploma. On the other hand, high school dropouts over 20 are unlikely to be interested in high school classes; they want job training to get a better job, not 10th-grade civics. School districts are good at basic education; expecting them to be good at job training is asking too much.

The part of the Engler program that is drawing the most criticism is the proposal to provide a free public education to any Michigan resident only through age 20. After 20, though, only adults who are recommended by their employers would be eligible for tax-paid tuition. School districts could offer adult ed to anyone over 20, but students would have to pay tuition.

Educators and others are screaming this is unfair. They cite statistics showing that 40 percent of beginning adult education students have skills below eighth-grade level. Of that group, 70 percent have less skills than fourth-graders. With low skills, they have low wages; with low wages, they're unlikely to see much point in paying to improve their skills.

They may have a point. I suspect issues of tuition will be debated hard when the reform legislation starts working through the Legislature.

But the main points of Engler's proposals are sound: Distinguishing between K-12 basic education and job training, and making providers compete for state funding, are both worthy objectives. The Legislature should do that.

Important Questions and Answers About Our Recall.

T. J. Wagner
Vice President
Customer Communication

Ford Motor Company
Dearborn, MI 48121

To Our Ford, Lincoln and Mercury Owners:

As a responsible company we feel an obligation to our customers to address their concerns, which is why Ford Motor Company recently announced a program to voluntarily recall 8.7 million vehicles to replace ignition switches. While the actual number of complaints was less than two hundredths of one percent of that total, it is important to us that these concerns be properly addressed.

Q: What happened?

A: Following an intensive investigation in cooperation with the U.S. National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and Transport Canada, we determined that the ignition switch in a very small percentage of certain models could develop a short circuit—creating the potential for overheating, smoke, and possibly fire in the steering column of the vehicle. The factors that contribute to this are a manufacturing process change to the ignition switch in combination with the electrical load through the switch.

Q: What vehicles are affected by this voluntary recall?

A: The following model year vehicles are affected:

- 1988 Ford EXP.
- 1988-1990 Ford Escort.
- 1988-1992 Ford Mustang, Thunderbird, Tempo, and Mercury Cougar and Topaz.
- 1993 Ford Mustang, Thunderbird, Tempo, and Mercury Cougar and Topaz models built prior to October 1992.
- 1988-1989 Ford Crown Victoria, Mercury Grand Marquis and Lincoln Town Car.
- 1988-1991 Ford Aerostar, Ford Bronco full-size sport utility and Ford F-Series light truck.

Q: What should I do?

A: If you own one of these vehicles, you will receive a letter from us instructing you to take your vehicle to the Ford or Lincoln/Mercury dealer of your choice and have the switch replaced free of charge. However, you do not have to wait for our letter. You may contact your dealer and arrange to have the switch replaced immediately if you choose, free of charge.

Q: How long will it take?

A: The repair procedure should take a little less than an hour. But please contact your dealer in advance to schedule a time that is convenient for you; they are making appointments daily. We have already completed about 300,000 appointments.

Q: What if I need additional help?

A: You may contact your dealer anytime, or call our Ford Ignition Switch Recall Customer Information Line at:

1-800-323-8400

With nearly 5 million ignition switch repair parts already available, we are ready to address your concerns immediately. We'll take a major step like this to make sure that people who buy a Ford, Lincoln, or Mercury vehicle know that they bought more than a vehicle, they bought a company and a dealer organization that stands behind the cars and trucks they build and sell. That is our Quality is Job 1 promise to you. Thank you for your patience and support.

I'm sitting in a waiting room right now - waiting. For child No. 2. I was told to do this, sit right here and wait. So I will. I'm waiting and I'm alone; child No. 1, child No. 3, child No. 4 and child No. 5 aren't here. And I must say I feel weird, incomplete; I feel as if something is missing, like limbs or eyes, something important like that.

The receptionist is at her desk a few feet away, shuffling papers. A few other waiting adults are here, too. But no one is saying anything, it's all so sedate. And quiet. I can hear magazine pages being turned, and I can hear birds singing outside the windows, and the squeaking hinge of a door being opened and closed just down the hall. Oh, and just now a janitor walked past, keys clinking in rhythm to his soft footsteps. He was absentmindedly humming a tune as he went.

These sounds normally get right past me. That's because life with young children is a lot noisier than these noises. These noises don't stand a chance around us.

My four other children are at home with my husband while I wait here. And those four children at home right now happen to be my boys. Noisy boys, I might add. Which means, of course, the child I'm waiting for in this room is my little girl. She's the quietest of the bunch. And the one with the longest hair.

Fraternity member set for 3,600-mile benefit

■ When Michael Monnette lands in San Francisco on June 5, it will be the start of an adventure of a lifetime, an adventure that will take him cross country in 63 days while helping people with disabilities.

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

When it comes to inspiration, Michael Monnette looks to his 2-year-old nephew, Aaron Chwiek, who as the result of a blood clot had his arm amputated above the elbow when he was just nine days old, and his girlfriend's 7-year-old cousin, who is mildly retarded.

He will need that inspiration when he sets off with 60 other Pi Kappa Phi fraternity brothers on a bicycle trek June 9 that starts at the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco and ends at the steps of the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., 63 days later.

A junior majoring in finance at the University of Toledo, Monnette is riding across the country to help raise money for PUSH America, a national outreach program of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity that benefits people with disabilities.

"I'm the only one from my chapter, the rest are from around the country," said Monnette, a 1993 graduate of Detroit Catholic Central High School. "One of my fraternity brothers rode in it last year, so I knew about it, but when he got back and said it was awesome experience, it made me want to do it."

Monnette started planning for the ride, billed as the Journey of Hope, in January. Participants need to raise a minimum of $4,000 in donations or per mile pledges, a goal he was $279 short of when he found out he had made the team. Now he's zeroing in on the $5,000 mark and hoping to raise another $1,500 for personal expenses.

While PUSH America provides team members lodging and three meals a day, riders must provide their own airfare, bicycle and gear and money for personal and extra food expenses. As an incentive, PUSH America provides airfare for those who raise $5,000.

Getting support

The Redford resident used a letter writing campaign among family members, friends and employers to raise the money as well as staging a bikeathon at his high school alma mater.

"I sold stars for $1 a piece, which every home room bought," he said. "The won that bought the most won a pizza party. One teacher bought $75 worth of stars."

He also was able to buy his Schwinn Passage bicycle, equipped with 21 gears, at cost from Dale's Bike Shop in Oberlin, Ohio, after talking to the owner about his ride. The bike includes a third gear for climbing in the mountains.

Last year, PUSH America raised $432,000 with its Journey of Hope bicycle ride, including some $264,000 raised by the riders. Corporate sponsors, such as Saturn and maybe today. Just when Carmen and I left the house a little while ago, all the boys were lined up to receive haircuts by Dad. From youngest to oldest, they were lined up and waiting. And the scene was a noisy one. Steven, 3 months old, was the only one who escaped this periodic ritual, this time. In his three months, he hasn't grown enough hair to be trimmed. But his turn is coming, of that I'm sure.

Now nearly every time this haircutting business comes around I am not home, I'm usually at the grocery store buying the week's groceries, and that takes about an hour and a half on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon, so Ron, a.k.a. Vidal Meier, is free to perform his hair magic without the likes of me hanging about, putting my two cents worth in and fussing over each snip.

I am never quite sure when this haircutting event will take place. I am typically not privy to that information. It seems to be carefully orchestrated that way.

What I find when I get home after one of these haircutting sessions is always a surprise. I just never know.

If the boys have a new style, a new look, I just hope it's right in line with the current style, and if it's not - I hope it's so far off the mark that it'll be considered cool because it's so weird. But if it's just a little off, just misses the mark by a little bit, then there'll be heck to pay. This I've learned over the 12 years Ron has cut our boys' hair. (Carmen's hair we just leave alone. This is a non-negotiable item.)

Now, Ron - the haircutter - is very much like Ron - the home improvement guy. He's all business, no goofing around. Small talk, chitchat, beauty parlor/barber shop banter is strictly forbidden.

As a matter of fact, when he himself goes in for a haircut at a bone fide hair cutting place, he comes home with tales of gabby cutters. The gabber they are, the more exasperated he becomes. He thinks things would go much faster if there were less talk and more snipping. Getting to the business at hand is the best way, the only way, to do business.

In addition to that, Ron firmly believes in this: tools of the business are just that, tools of the business. Just as a screwdriver was made for driving screws into boards and not for reaching under the refrigerator to retrieve the broken off side of the yo-yo, the haircutting scissors are just that, haircutting scissors, not construction paper scissors, not collage making scissors, not kite string scissors. One tool, one purpose.

In all fairness, I must say that they boys have received in the past unsolicited favorable comments from friends and strangers alike regarding their hair. And that's good; it makes them happy and that makes their hair cutter happy and that makes everybody happy. And we have hair harmony.

Oh, I see Carmen coming down the hall now. She's done. Quickly and quietly she's approaching. Her long ponytail is swinging from side to side.

We'll be going home now. Where the hair is short and the noise is big. Hopefully, that big noise will be harmonious now. Make that "hair-monious."

Oh, good grief! Gotta go!

If you have a question or comment for Karen Meier, a Plymouth resident, call her at 953-2047, mailbox number 1883, on a Touch-Tone phone.

GMC Trucks, which provided support vehicles, accounted for $80,000.

PUSH America uses the money to provide grants ranging from $5,000 to $20,000 to organizations serving people with disabilities which is used to build playgrounds, boardwalks, fishing piers and outdoor facilities and do general upkeep. Manpower is provided by fraternity members who come together for Give-A-PUSH Weekends.

The organization also sponsors PUSH Camps, three weeks in March when the fraternity brothers use their spring breaks to make renovations and additions to summer camps for children and adults with disabilities.

Monnette, who spent his spring break in Empire, Colo., building storage sheds and lodging, will fly to San Francisco on June 5. Once there, he will spend three days learning how to ride in a group and to work with people with disabilities.

When not riding, participants will do advocacy presentations like PUSH's puppet show, "Kids on the Block," and friendship visits to homes and institutions for people with disabilities.

The 60 riders actually will be divided into two teams. They will ride together as a group for one week, before splitting up in Fallon, Nev.

One will take a southern route through Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana and the like on its way to Washington. The other team, including Monnette, will head north through Colorado, Utah, Nebraska, Iowa and into Michigan on its way to the East Coast.

Monnette is excited about the route, because the route takes him through Ann Arbor en route to Troy and then south through his hometown of Redford to his school town, Toledo.

"That's downhill, right?" he jokingly asked his father, Richard. "That's after 2,800 miles so I'll be used to it by then."

The two teams will reunite outside of Washington for the finish on Aug. 10.

The teams will ride an average of 75 miles a day, with a few topping 100 miles. Lodging will be in people's homes, high school gymnasiums and in hotels in the larger cities. Among the equipment he will take is his sleeping bag and a mattress.

Monnette has gotten "a lot of support financially and emotionally" from his parents, Richard and Betty, and his entire family, although his decision to sign on for the Journey of Hope caught his parents by surprise.

"We were a little surprised," Richard said. "We really hadn't heard that much about it. But you're only young once and to be able to do that ... it's something that will be with him the rest of his life."

People interested in helping Michael Monnette with his ride can write him at 8949 Brady, Redford 48239.

Writer has need to be in limelight

Hi, My name is ... and this is my basic handwriting. I am a right-handed writer, 50 years old.

Due to a job I once had, I am more use to printing. I sometimes now find it hard to write. It hurts my hand.

Basically, most of my letters are done in printing, although sometimes the writing comes out.

I have been told I look to be a left-handed person but I am not. Let's see if I get lucky, and you can figure me out.

Thanks, J.B., Detroit

Today's writer switches between writing and printing and both are done in large size. From this, we know she is a woman who behaves in ways that demand attention. She has a need to be in the limelight and enjoys an audience. She also appears to have been strongly influenced by her mother's values.

She is aware of everything that is going on around her. She enjoys being out and about and probably dislikes being confined to a small area.

While she wants to play a high profile and enjoy the benefits of attention, at the same time she also needs her privacy. I am cognizant this sounds like a contradiction. It is and it makes her ambivalent at times.

Originally, this woman was outgoing but became more reserved and introspective due to circumstances in her early life.

In the formative years, she was the object of considerable criticism and/or ridicule. Often it came from those she most wanted to please. As a result she became very sensitive and vulnerable to being ridiculed or laughed at by others and now fears disapproval from people. She may find it difficult to place her trust in others because she fears being hurt again.

She needs love and acceptance more than criticism and censure. She would probably blossom like a lovely spring flower if sincere praise was given to her, especially by the opposite sex.

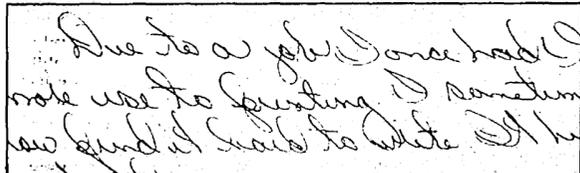

Our writer feels her experiences deeply. "To forgive and forget" does not come easily.

Emotions are usually kept under control and rarely allowed to show. She often stands back and assesses a situation before involving herself, questioning how it will affect her personally.

There is a strong tendency toward materialism here. She enjoys challenges and accomplishment. In her work, she is usually a self-starter and can get right down to work on a project or goal. Her efficiency, determination and persistence help her stay the course to completion.

A lively imagination often entices her down the garden path of new adventures. She wants to experience as much of life as she can. Doing things on a grand scale appeals to her.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. However, objective feedback is welcome.

Women are the stronger sex. Right?

You shouldn't take it for granted. Especially in the 90's.

Today's culture is taking its toll. You are more at risk for heart problems than ever before. Last year, over one-half million women suffered heart attacks. And each year, 245,000 die of coronary heart disease. Things are cumulative! Add stress to a poor diet and less relaxation—it all adds up to risk.

Are you accumulating risk factors?

Body Fat Distribution: Are you "pear" or "apple" shaped? Women who carry their extra weight around the waist, rather than hips, may have a higher risk of heart disease.

Stress: Do you feel like your life is out of control? Some common ways of coping with stress, such as overeating and heavy drinking, are bad for your heart.

Age: The older you get, the higher your risk of heart attack. Especially past age 65.

Smoking: Have you stopped? A smoker's risk of heart attack is twice that of a non-smoker.

Oakwood Healthcare System can help you learn more. Call us at 1-800-543-WELL for a complimentary Heart Risk Appraisal. Return it and we'll send you your personal heart risk evaluation and recommendations for a healthier lifestyle.

We also offer health education classes near you. And if you don't have a personal physician, we'll provide you with information so you can make the choice that's right for you. Call 1-800-543-WELL.

Dinner benefits
Habitat's work

When it comes to providing homes, Habitat for Humanity is helping to fill a void, building and rehabilitating houses across the country.

Its work is now closer to home with the start up of Habitat for Humanity for Western Wayne County.

Churches and local business have always been the big support for Habitat for Humanity, but organizers are looking to local residents for the financial help needed to build two homes in Inkster this year.

Habitat for Western Wayne County will celebrate its success and raise some funds, through an "elegant gourmet dinner" planned for 6:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday at St. Edith's Church, 15089 Newburgh Road, Livonia.

Cocktails will be at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m. The dinner will feature carved beef, stuffed pork chops and seafood fettuccine, vegetable, wine and dessert, provided by Sensible Catering of St. Edith's.

There also will be entertainment provided by the musicians, singers and cabaret acts of area churches.

Individual tickets cost $35 per person.

"Our time is short and we hope to raise $10,000 to help raise the roof on those new homes in Inkster," said Rick Sheffield, Habitat for Western Wayne County chairperson.

For more information, call (810) 464-1222.

Lions Foundation grant helps DRIS

The Lions of Michigan Service Foundation has made a $4,000 grant to the Detroit Radio Information Service.

The donation will be used to buy at least 50 pretuned radio receivers so that more blind and print-impaired metro Detroiters can access DRIS, specialized closed-circuit broadcasts.

DRIS, a subchannel service of Public Radio Station WDET-FM, Wayne State University, is southeastern Michigan's only radio reading service. The nonprofit's mission is to make the printed word accessible to people who cannot see, hold or comprehend normal print.

A staff of only two full-time and two part-time employees and 150 community volunteers provide the weekly reading of more than 100 local and national newspapers and magazines over the airwaves. They also read grocery and department store ads and information on health, nutrition, employment, the arts and more.

In the past few years DRIS has increased its role as a conduit of information for a number of other organizations. Through specially produced programs, DRIS has been able to offer air time to several agencies while distributing radios to their clients.

DRIS is a critical information resource that promotes well being and independent living. For information about using DRIS, sponsorship or volunteering, call Kim Walsh at (313) 577-7684.

Women ignore risk of stroke

Women have a tendency to ignore their risk of stroke, which Dr. Fredric D. Frigoletto Jr. president of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists is promoting a new awareness during May, National Stroke Awareness Month.

Stroke is the third leading cause of death among U.S. women, after heart attacks and cancer, and the leading cause of disability. Despite that, women tend to underestimate their risks. The risk factors for stroke are the same as for heart attack: high blood pressure, elevated blood cholesterol, obesity, physical inactivity and diabetes.

A stroke is caused when the blood supply to the brain is cut off. The culprit may be a blood clot or a ruptured blood vessel. Brain tissue, once deprived of oxygen in this manner, begins to die rapidly, within minutes.

Most strokes occur in people's later years and affect their independence. Warning signs of a stroke are sudden weakness or numbness of the face, arm or leg on one side of the body, dimness or loss of vision (particularly in one eye), difficulty talking or understanding speech, sudden severe headaches with no apparent cause, and unexplained dizziness, unsteadiness or falls.

"If you experience any of these symptoms, seek medical attention promptly," Frigoletto said. "Call an ambulance or have someone take you to an emergency room. Your chances of survival and recovery may rest on how quickly you are treated."

'Your chances of survival and recovery may rest on how quickly you are treated.'

Depending on where in the brain the stroke occurs, there may be paralysis on the opposite side of the body. Speech and language, memory, vision, emotional stability or bladder control also may be affected.

Sometimes one or more of the symptoms of stroke may occur for just a few minutes or up to an hour with no lasting effects. It is known as a transient ischemic attack or "mini stroke."

"If this happens to you, see your doctor right away since it is an early warning that a major stroke could follow in a matter of months or years," Frigoletto said.

While you may be predisposed to some of the risk factors for stroke due to heredity or disease, there are prevention steps you can take:

- Stop smoking,
- Exercise regularly,
- Reduce your fat, cholesterol and sodium intake,
- Get regular checkups and have your blood pressure monitored. Some people may need to be treated for irregular heartbeat or a buildup of plaque in the artery of the neck.

If you have a stroke, or know someone who has, keep in mind that many victims do regain much of their former functioning. Your lifestyle may require some adjustments, and recovery is hard work.

The American Heart Association's Stroke Connection, a national network of stroke survivors and their families, can help. Call (800) 553-6321.

The family physician offers a single place at which approximately ninety percent of the family's health care needs can be met. This includes: comprehensive health maintenance, immunizations, urgent care, minor surgery, as well as management of long-standing chronic diseases. When the need arises, the family doctor will also suggest the appropriate specialist.

Your family doctor will try to get to know you and your entire family and is aware of how changes which occur in the family can affect your physical and mental well being. FOOT & ANKLE CARE Podiatrists generally agree, a person's feet must not be neglected. Proper foot care is just as necessary to good health as care of the eyes and teeth.

Podiatrists, the specialists that treat foot and ankle ailments, are aware that many painful foot afflictions which people suffer from are often easily treated once they are properly diagnosed. Perhaps that is the reason that Joseph E. Silver, D.P.M. is recognized as our area's leading podiatric physician and surgeon.

The doctors will take a thorough medical history and a podiatric exam in order to determine any foot disorders. Improper foot alignment can cause knee, hip or back pain which may be alleviated or helped by a simple office procedure. He specializes in diagnosing and treating all types of foot disorders, from corns, ingrown nails and plantar warts, to bunions and heel spurs. Also a special concern, is the care and treatment of the foot of each individual, whether it is the abnormal alignment in a child's foot, the nagging pain from day-to-day activities, or the arthritic or special problems of the elderly or diabetic patient.

CHIROPRACTOR

Chiropractic is not a new concept. In 1995 it turned 100 years old. Today, Chiropractic has become the largest drugless healing profession in the Western World. This science explains that some of the causes of pain or disease in the body are the vertebral subluxations which create pressure upon nerves and interfere with the normal transmission of vital nerve energy.

The Chiropractor's objective is to locate the place in the spine where the nerve pressure exists and by specific adjustments restore vertebrae to their normal function. These corrective adjustments release pressure on nerves, and thereby allows the body to heal itself. In addition to traditional "back pain" other conditions which may respond to Chiropractic care include treatment of headaches, whiplash, work accidents, sports injuries, pinched nerves, and numbness, to name just a few.

The results from recent studies have just come out. Chiropractic spinal adjustments is now one of the most studied methods of treating back pain. All of the studies have proven that it is nearly twice as effective as traditional medical treatment for back related problems. It has been found that patients recover twice as fast, recovery is for a longer period of time and it is much less expensive.

Human Resource Experts at Work for 50 Years

The staffing services industry has changed dramatically since William Russell Kelly began Kelly Services in Detroit 50 years ago. No longer does it simply provide a secretary or receptionist to fill in for a vacationing employee. As downsizing has thinned management ranks, today's employers use staffing services to manage special projects, smooth out cyclical business peaks and evaluate employees prior to making a full-time hiring decision.

"In Wayne County, business managers must balance workload and workforce during peaks and valleys of demand," says Diane Felts, branch operations manager, Livonia Kelly Services. "Kelly meets this challenge by offering employment opportunities for people with a variety of skills and experience." Those skills and experiences have also changed since the Company was founded in 1946. Temporary workers today may be college students seeking experience, victims of corporate downsizing, or retirees supplementing their income. In addition to support staff, employers can round out their full-time staffs with professionals experienced in information systems, marketing, science, law, sales, accounting and other fields. "We offer employment opportunities to qualified, skilled individuals," says Felts. "Our state-of-the-art testing and training programs assure employers of high-quality employees with necessary job skills. Our newest system, PinPoint, uses a unique combination of features to allow trainees to target skills they specifically require. "PinPoint is just one of the tools we use to provide employers with trained, experienced workers who can hit the ground running in any new assignment," she says. "As Kelly celebrates its 50th anniversary," says Felts, "temporary employment continues to offer benefits to both employers and jobs seekers in Wayne County." The Livonia office is located at 29125 Buckingham, Suite 4, phone (313)522-4020. The recruiting office is located at 896 South Wayne Road, phone (313)326-5590.

FOLK AND OUTSIDER ART: AN ANN ARBOR COLLECTION
What: An exhibition of paintings, sculptures and constructions by some of America's best known "outsider" artists.
When: Through June 16. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday; until 9 p.m. Thursday; and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.
Where: The University of Michigan Museum of Art, 525 South State Street in Ann Arbor. Call (313) 764-0395.

The folk and outsider art on exhibit at the University of Michigan Museum of Art is a great way to introduce children to art. The paintings, wood carvings, sculptures and constructions created by some of America's best known and most inventive artists are brightly colored and rendered primitively, almost child-like. Viewers will find the artworks uninhibiting and easy to understand as well as fun. An orange sky with white clouds, a big yellow cat, a life-size porcupine made from what looks like toothpicks speak of vivid imaginations with no thought of conforming to prevailing artistic standards.

Primarily self-taught and living on the economically-deprived and social margins of society, the artists use whatever materials are available to them. Making folk art objects in the Appalachian tradition, Kentucky carver Ronald E. Cooper (1931-) uses old wood and house paint in the whitened figures in "You and Me Brother in His Hands."

Born into slavery, Bill Traylor (1854-1947) painted on whatever he could find in the streets including cardboard shirt boxes. His drawings depict facets of plantation life, street life, and other black experiences in the south. Traylor lost his leg to gangrene while living with his children in Detroit. His self-portrait of a standing figure with one leg in 1940 more than likely was painted in his favorite spot sitting curbside on a wooden crate in Montgomery, Alabama.

Jimmy Lee Sudduth (1910-), a black artist who's achieved recognition for his colorful paintings, uses mud to create works on plywood. After the mud dries, he gathers various weeds and rubs them over the painting's surface to obtain his gold, green and brown colors. His red comes from pokeweed berries.

"What I like about the work is it's so immediate, so inventive and clever," said Kirsten Neelands, who along with other staff members assisted U-M Museum of Art director William J. Hennessey in choosing the pieces for the show from an extensive collection owned by an Ann Arbor couple who wish to remain anonymous.

"These are untrained artists with a personal vision that never went to art school. They were driven to create by an inside source."

Many of the artists produced the works during emotionally unstable periods. They did not set out to be artists but began creating as way to express themselves after suffering a personal tragedy or loss. Mose Tolliver (1919-), a sharecropper's son and one of 12 siblings, may never have become an artist if a load of marble hadn't crushed his legs in a work-related accident in the late 1960s. He once hung his paintings in a tree outside his home in Alabama, pricing them at one or two dollars. Sales of his art took off after his work was included in the "Black Folk Art: 1930-1980" exhibition held at the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, DC in 1982.

Many of the artists have spent time in prisons, hospitals, or mental institutions, according to Hennessey. All are in some way outsiders, able to stand back and view the rest of the world with a curious detachment.

The term outsider was coined in 1972 by Roger Cardinal who intended it as an exact equivalent of Art Brut. Dubuffet, who invented the concept of Art Brut, meant for the term to refer not to someone who is working outside cultural norms but to an individual functioning socially, and often psychiatrically, outside of society's norms.

The most important Kentucky carver of this century, Edgar Tolson (1904-1984), was a preacher troubled by what he saw in the world. One Sunday in the mid-1930s he put a stick of dynamite under his church and blew it off the foundation. Sister Gertrude Morgan (1900-1980), one of the most important black visionary painters of this century, was a street preacher who believed she was married to the lamb of God, Jesus Christ. Her work conveys strong spiritual messages. After a religious encounter during which she was told to convey spiritual messages solely in paintings, white dominated her palette.

Each of the works have a story behind them. Fred Alter (1871-1945), a one-time foreman at Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn, carved animals of all kinds in the garage behind his home in Wyandotte. No one knew of his imaginative and skilled craftsmanship until after his death when the carvings, including a black fox in the exhibit, were discovered. One of the best known self-taught artists of his time, Howard Finster (1916-) gave up preaching when the Lord directed him to get the message out by painting pictures. In an untitled work, a mythological cat-like creature is surrounded by snakes, dead tree trunks and messages.

"I really like this show," said Michael Loncar, the museum's public relations representative. "It's the best one we've done in a long time. I especially like the text panels. There's something going on in a lot of these."

Uptown Birmingham makes mission possible

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Had it been a theater production, the new Uptown Birmingham Theatre would have gotten a standing ovation from those attending an opening reception on Monday.

"I think it's going to be a hot ticket!" said D. Larry Sherman, past chairman of the Birmingham Principal Shopping District. "People love to be in Birmingham. The uniqueness of the theater will be the first-time attraction, but the luxury, and the way they're treated will bring people back. If a movie is sold-out you can walk to a restaurant, and then come back for a later show."

"This is really classy," added his wife Jane. "We've lived in Birmingham for 35 years, and remember when it used to be a movie theater."

Opened on Nov. 23, 1927, the Birmingham Theatre continued to play first-run films through the early 1960s when it closed its doors for 18 years. In 1976, renovations began and the Nederlander Organization signed a lease in 1978 to produce and present professional stage plays and musicals.

On Nov. 20, 1979 the theater opened with "The Gin Game," and continued presenting shows until the last production, "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," on June 12, 1994. A July 30, 1994, Birmingham Jazzfest concert was the last performance at the theater, which remained vacant until August 1995 when it was acquired by the Uptown Theatre Group, LLC.

"It was down to the last minute. I was cleaning floors about an hour before we opened, and ran home to take a shower," said Carole Hitch Trepeck one of the three venture partners, and the daughter of Mike Ilitch who restored the Fox Theatre.

She and her "partner" (and husband) David Trepeck live a couple a blocks away from the theater. Bill Herting, whom David met when the couple lived in Dallas, is the third partner. Herting is president of Cineco Cinema Corp. of Dallas, Texas, an independent theater development company. He is also a partner of Cinema Services Co., an independent film buying and consulting firm for small circuit theater owners throughout the U.S.

Ruth Daniels, formerly of the AMC Maple Theatres, will bring 10 years experience to her new role as the General Manager of the theater. A resident of Farmington Hills, she's planning to start a film discussion group in a month or two, and is also considering an evening program featuring a local celebrity.

Uptown Birmingham Theatre offers all the comforts moviegoers have come to expect, without making them feel cramped in a small space. Architect Victor Saroki & Associates restructured the theater to house eight screens on two levels varying in size from 430 to 65 seats, without sacrificing the original 1920s look and feel. The lighting fixtures are classic Art Deco, and there are vintage movie posters on the walls.

"It's an urban theater with all the modern technology, with the intimacy and feeling of a hometown theater," said David Trepeck. "A lot of hard work went into it."

Love seats are ordered, and will soon be installed in the theaters, offering stadium-style seating in comfortable chairs, and state-of-the-art Dolby Digital and DTS Stereo sound. There's a balcony in the largest auditorium, and changing tables in the men's and women's restrooms. Concession stands offer real buttered popcorn, "Twist and

VIPs give thumbs up to Birmingham Theatre

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

Just a year or so ago, the Birmingham Theatre seemed destined to make way for a parking lot. On Monday, the Detroit area hoi-polloi gathered to christen the theater on its maiden voyage as a swanky eight-screen movie theater.

A far cry from your suburban multiplex, the Birmingham received rave reviews from a hand-picked group of VIPs who one-upped each other with superlatives.

The theater opened to the public Wednesday with the premiere of "Mission: Impossible."

"It's the most comfortable theater we've ever been in," said Tom McGraw of Birmingham who tested the seats with wife Marla. And he may be right, even in the '90s, which have been a renaissance of sorts for user-friendly movie viewing.

The Star Theatres paved the way with comfortable seating and a sunny atrium lobby, followed by the classy bookings and gourmet concessions at Royal Oak's Main.

Squint real hard and the spacious Birmingham lobby looks something like downtown's Fox, with a center staircase and escalators separating the second floor from the first. Both levels are lined with auditoriums ranging in size from 65 to 430 seats. Some even offer love seats.

The opening night gala attracted celebrities like Elmore Leonard, "sexy specs promoter" Dr. Richard Gold, various Red Wings, and, of course, the Ilitchs, who are financial partners in the enterprise. Also spotted in the crowd were faux versions of Marilyn Monroe, Jack Nicholson, and Sharon Stone.

The mix of old and new extends to the decor, including a replica of the theater's original 1927 marquis and framed movie posters for coming attractions and vintage favorites. The opening-night gala included screenings of both the 1954 and 1995 versions of "Sabrina" along with "An Affair to Remember" (1957) and its recent remake "Love Affair."

Though this weekend's big ticket will undoubtedly be "Mission: Impossible," the theater will try to devote at least one screen to art films. Last year's Oscar-nominated "Il Postino" ("The Postman") and the new Henry Jaglom film, "Last Summer in the Hamptons," are currently on screen.

According to Dallas-based partner and booker Bill Herting, the Birmingham will be watching the art market closely. They have an advantage. Where the Main and Detroit Film Theatre have to fill comparatively large houses, the Birmingham can afford to show smaller films longer in some of its intimate auditoriums.

"Family films will also be at home here," says Herting, hinting at upcoming screenings of Disney's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" in late June.

Perhaps the best move the Birmingham made was snagging general manager Ruth Daniels from her longtime stint at Bloomfield's Maple. Her professional devotion to the movies is refreshing in an era where today's general managers were literally yesterday's popcorn makers.

The entire feel of the theater was perhaps best summed up by one opening-night guest: "If the Ritz-Carlton was a movie theater, then this would be that theater."

Shout" gourmet pretzels, Gayle's Chocolates, gourmet coffees, pizza and candy. Over 1,700 parking spaces are available between the Peabody Street structure, connected to the theater by a courtyard entrance, and the Pierce Street structure.

In addition to new releases, the partners hope to show classic films, art films and children's films. "We'll see how people respond," said Carole.

"We've been waiting a long time for the reopening," said Gail Gotthelf, director of the Birmingham Principal Shopping District. "The theater brings back entertainment to downtown and encourages merchants to stay open later, and create fabulous window displays. It will create more walking traffic."

Outside, it was like Oscar Night as a small crowd gathered to watch the ribbon-cutting ceremony. "We're excited, we live in town and it's nice to be able to walk to the show," said Chris and Gaines Carter who were out walking their collies, Courtney and Casey. "We brought Lassie to the opening," joked Gaines.

On Monday the balcony of a main theater were still under construction, but the partners said they would be ready for Wednesday's opening. The courtyard entrance off Peabody is nearly complete. "We want to landscape it, and have jazz concerts out there," said David.

As the sun set, it grew darker, and anticipation built as the partners got ready to flick the switch to light the new marquee.

"It's fitting that the first movie we'll be showing is 'Mission: Impossible,'" said David just before the projectionist got ready to roll the first reels.

To many their mission did seem impossible. "Theater demolition sought," was the headline in the Eccentric on Dec. 8, 1994. "I'm afraid it's got to go," said owner Edward "Ted" Fuller. "I've done everything I can, but no one wants to rent it."

Plymouth kite festival rescheduled

Artbeat features various happenings in the suburban arts world. Send news leads to Linda Chomin in care of Keely Wygonik, Arts & Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

KITE EVENT RESCHEDULED

Due to rain on May 11, the Plymouth Community Arts Council had to cancel its first kite painting and flying festival. "Art in the Air" is now scheduled to take place 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, May 26 at McClumpha Park in Plymouth Township.

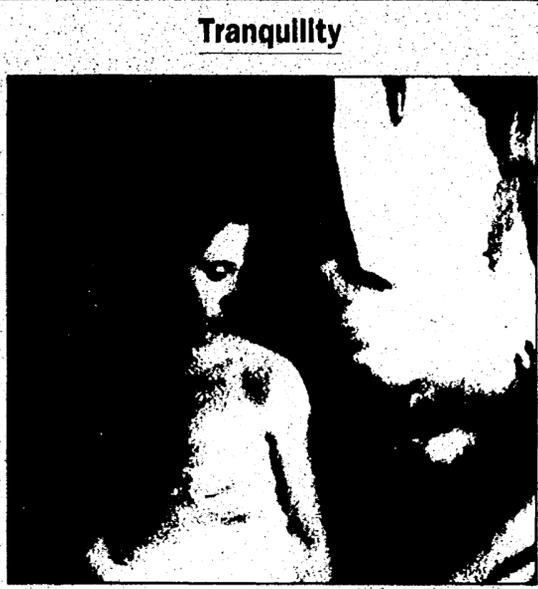

Kids of all ages are invited to join in the fun by designing and painting a kite. All you need to create a kite "work of art" is in the kit. Kits cost $15 and include a nylon kite, paints, brush, and string. Prizes will be awarded for the most creative kites so bring yours already decorated. Proceeds from sales of the kits go toward Phase Two of renovations to the new arts council building. Kits are available in Plymouth at the PCAC, 774 N. Sheldon; Penniman Showcase, 827 Penniman, and Frances Jewelry Gallery, 470 Forest. For more information call the arts council at (313) 416-4ART.

Food and refreshments by Uncle Franks Chicago Coney will be available.

NEW BOARD ELECTED

Livonia artist Jack Olds was recently elected to serve a two year term on the Board of Directors for the Scarab Club in Detroit. John Tabb of Birmingham was elected president. The Scarab Club was established in the first quarter of this century and built its present club house in 1927. Art exhibitions and social events are the main activities at 217 Farnsworth, across the street from the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Olds' woodcut prints, paintings and drawings are on exhibit

Tranquility

From darkness: Pamela Aldred-Schofield's photography is featured in an exhibit, "Tranquility (Photographs of the Spirit)," through June 1 at the Clique Gallery, 200 W. Fifth, Royal Oak. Aldred-Schofield photographs in darkness, with a pen light as the only light source. Usually a glow appears, seeming to come from the body of the individual photographed, but if Aldred-Schofield moves slower, streaks and waves appear. Her color pictures retain an ephemeral quality, probably from her use of a special textured printing process that makes each photograph a one-of-a-kind print. She refers to it as painting with light. Call (810) 545-2200.

through May 31 in the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery. Director of project grants for the Michigan Council for the Arts until retiring in 1990, Olds earned an MFA in printmaking and painting from the University of Iowa where he eventually taught art. He served as director of the Iowa Arts Council, on the advisory panel of the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington DC and on the board of directors for Alliance for Arts Education at the JF Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. He is a former Livonia Arts Commission and board member of Very Special Arts Michigan. He still works on behalf of the disabled children and adults helped by VSAMI programs.

Summer art festivals popular with families

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Memorial Day is the unofficial start of the summer season; time to get out and enjoy the warm weather. Arts and crafts festivals are fun for the whole family: The best part - admission is free.

Here's a guide to the arts fairs going on this summer:

Plan to make a day of it when attending the eighth annual Crafts Show sponsored by the Friends of Nankin Mills in cooperation with Wayne County Parks noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 2 near the baseball diamonds across the park from the historic mill at 33175 Ann Arbor Trail and Edward Hines Drive in Westland.

More than 20 crafters will display wares ranging from hand-colored glass Christmas ornaments to wood shelves, quilt racks, wreaths, and three dimensional paper art. Proceeds from the show will help furnish an interpretive center focusing on the history of the mill.

A country and western concert, co-sponsored by the Westland Cultural Society, will follow the craft show at 6 p.m.

Built in 1863, Nankin Mills was one of 20 village industries established in the early 1900s by Henry Ford on the Rouge, Raisin and Huron Rivers. Once a Civil War era grist mill, Ford provided farmers with mass production jobs in winter by operating water-driven village plants. Workers at the mills made car parts.

According to show co-chair Kathy Myers, the Friends of Nankin Mills are still taking applications for crafters by phone. The only criteria for exhibitors is that the crafts must be hand-made. For information call Kathy Myers (313) 421-7213.

Greenmead Historical Village is the setting for the 20th annual Livonia Arts and Crafts Festival, presented by the Livonia Arts Commission, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 8-9. This is a juried show with cash prizes awarded in 11 arts and crafts categories. Free admission, parking and shuttle service. A variety of food, drink and ice cream available for purchase. Sand art and a clown for the kids, live musical entertainment for the adults.

Take a break from browsing the 242 booths of pottery, jewelry, glass, wood, photography, metal, basketry, folk art and country, wood, textiles and fine arts to tour the Hill House Museum.

Greenmead is the former 19th century farmstead of Joshua Simmons. The farm's centerpiece is the Simmons/Hill House Museum built in 1841. The village consists of 22 other historic buildings including a recreation of the Ann Arbor Trail/Newburgh intersection circa 1910-25 as well as a church, parsonage, one room schoolhouse and general store.

Greenmead is at Newburgh Road south of Eight Mile in Livonia.

"We have a lot of new people this year. There are artists coming from all over including Indiana, Florida, Maryland, Missouri, Ohio and the entire state of Michigan from Petoskey to Ann Arbor," said Suzanne Montambeau, who serves as a liaison between the arts commission and the City of Livonia (in the community resources department at city hall).

This is the arts commission's sole fund raiser. From designer clothes for cement geese to metal sculpture and ceramics for the garden, there's something for everyone.

Fine Arts and face painting for the kids are two of the fun activities you'll find at the Liberty Fest in Heritage Park behind the Canton Township Hall, 1150 Canton Center Road, south of Cherry Hill.

Although this a four day festival running June 20-23, the fine arts show is Saturday and Sunday, June 22-23. More than 70 exhibitors will be on hand offering painting, pottery, jewelry, photography and fiber art.

Art in the Park in Plymouth is one of the largest arts and crafts shows in this area next to the Ann Arbor Art Fairs. From 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, July 13 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 14 nearly 400 artists and craftsmen will sell their wares in the streets of historic Plymouth. A Dixieland band and a barefoot violinist are among the entertainers scheduled to appear.

"We're really excited. We've been restructuring the layout of the booths since the Streetscape was completed it's going to be the best Art in the Park in our 14 years," said Diane Quinn, show producer and founder.

Quinn already is working on plans for the first ever Craft Fair to be held in Plymouth's Old Village district Oct. 5-6.

"It's a fun new event, more craft than fine art with lots of demonstrations by artists," Quinn said. "We're still accepting applications for exhibitors."

To apply for the Old Village Craft Fair call Diane Quinn at (313) 454-1314.

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Dishwalla's return visit to St. Andrew's Hall/The Shelter in Detroit on Saturday, May 25, is bound to bring up some sad memories. The last time the quartet played there, Sunday, Sept.

24, 1995, it was opening for Blind Melon, about a month before lead singer Shannon Hoon died of a drug overdose.

"We were with him until two or three days before his death," bassist Scot Alexander said.

"He did seem pretty OK. He was really trying to keep it clean, it seemed like. The tour manager and everybody on the road made sure there were no drugs or alcohol backstage. They wanted to keep it away from him as much as possible. I guess he got back into it when they got back to New Orleans, where they did their record."

On a happier note, Dishwalla is enjoying success with the single "Counting Blue Cars" off its nine-month-old album "Pet Your Friends" (A&M). The lush, infectious pop song looks at authority from a child's point of view with the lyrics: "Tell me all your thoughts on God/cause I'd really like to meet her/Ask her who we really are/Tell me all your thoughts on God/cause I'm on my way to see Her."

"I wouldn't even say that the song is particularly about religion... it's just a song about questioning authority," Alexander said.

The Santa Barbara, Calif., quartet - which also includes vocalist/keyboardist J.R. Richards, guitarist Rodney Browning, and drummer George Pendergast - came into the public eye when it recorded a track for the Carpenters tribute album.

"That was no gimmick," Richards said recently. "I'm a big Carpenters fan. We read in the LA Times that they were doing it, so we got a tape to the executive producer Matt Wallace, and he liked what we did. People might think it's weird that we would do a Carpenters song, but that's the cool thing about this band. We can do whatever we want."

Opening for Dishwalla at The Shelter on Saturday, May 25, is Thermadore, featuring former members of Mary's Danish, and Super Drag. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

• Misc: Rhino Records is releasing "Beverly Hills 90210: Songs From The Peach Pit" Aug. 20 at retail stores and through RhinoDirect at (800) 432-0020. The soundtrack includes classic '60s and '70s R&B, pop, and rock oldies like "The Beat Goes On," "Mony Mony," "Pick Up The Pieces," and "What You Won't Do For Love."

If you have any questions or comments for Christina Fuoco, you can write to her care of The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150.

Steve Vai plays State Theatre and cyberspace

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Guitarist/vocalist Steve Vai admits he gets nervous about his performances. This Friday's show at the State Theatre in Detroit has him especially wound up. The concert, in celebration of radio station WDZR's (Z-Rock, 102.7 FM) fourth anniversary, will be cybercast live on the World Wide Web.

"I'm thrilled about it and I'm nervous about it. When I perform live sometimes I get so excited that my fingers have a tendency to spaz out in certain moments. As a result of that, my live mechanical performance has a tendency to be very manic. It can sound really on or it can sound really off," said Vai via telephone from his California rehearsal space.

'It's a way to get a backstage pass to the concert and be up close without actually being there.'

Joe Bevilacqua.

"I usually take great care in the quality control of my live material, but I don't have that opportunity when it's being broadcast live over the internet."

The audio portion will be broadcast in real time while the photo images will have a 2-3 minute delay on Vai's home page, <http://www.vai.com>. It is the first concert in Michigan to be cybercast on the web, according to WDZR's operations manager Joe Bevilacqua.

"As far as I know this is the first concert broadcast through the web from Detroit... It's really in touch with the future and 'DZR's listeners, which are 18-34-year-old men. It's young men who are into the computer scene and into the internet."

"It's a way to get a backstage pass to the concert and be up close without actually being there."

Net surfers accessing the page will have a backstage pass to the anniversary concert. WDZR midday personality Steve Black will host live interactive pre-concert interviews with Vai.

"Basically what we're planning on doing is bringing the necessary equipment (to the show) and plugging up directly to the soundboard," said Mark Weinstein, president of Elastic Imagnations in Atlanta, Ga., which is producing the event.

"We're doing a pre-show interview with Steve from backstage and we've let users on the World Wide Web submit the questions we're going to ask. We've had so many of them, that we've had to narrow things down a bit. Unfortunately we can't get to everybody. The page gets about 10,000 hits a day. We've literally had thousands of questions."

Weinstein said he expects at least 2,000 people worldwide to listen in.

Vai is making a special trip to Detroit for the show. The Grammy Award-winner is in the studio recording his follow-up to "Alien Love Secrets" tentatively called "Ultra Zone."

In between his own projects, he has worked as a guitarist with Frank Zappa, Alcatrazz, Public Image Limited, David Lee Roth, Alice Cooper, Bad 4 Good, White Snake and Ozzy Osbourne among others.

"This is gonna be a blast," Weinstein said. "Unfortunately Steve doesn't perform a lot of shows. This is a treat."

Steve Vai, Clutch and Kicking Harold perform at 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 24, at the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Tickets are available at Ticketmaster. For more information, call (313) 961-5451 or (810) 645-6666.

On-line concert: Steve Vai will be cybercast on Vai's home page from Detroit's State Theatre.

"Mission: Impossible" offers booms, bangs, and brains

JOHN MONAGHAN

Your mission, should you choose to accept it: try to figure what the heck is going on during the opening scenes of "Mission: Impossible." The much-anticipated entry in the summer movie sweepstakes has such a thrilling climax that you may forget how confusing and stupid the rest of it really is.

That much is true of the original "Mission: Impossible" television series. My memories of the show involved skinny agents in suits, guys like Martin Landau and Peter Graves pulling off complex missions with lots of little gadgets and an emphasis on brain over brawn.

The movie "Mission: Impossible" plays it both ways. It wants that geekiness, with an emphasis on computer searches and suspenseful downloads. It also wants summer movie thrills, with monster explosions and impossible stunts backed by that now-famous theme song.

Tom Cruise, who also co-produced, plays Ethan Hunt, a super-secret agent who finds himself sole survivor of a mission gone wrong. His higher-ups think that because Ethan is alive he must be the one who has been leaking information. He spends the rest of the movie in search of the computer disc that will clear his name.

Jon Voigt, head of the operation, appears to die during that aborted mission. If you've seen even one episode of "Mission: Impossible," you know that the dead don't stay that way for long.

The movie is directed by Brian

DePalma, who made his name by ripping off Hitchcock in movies like "Obsession" and "Dressed to Kill." To his credit he delivers some exciting suspense sequences, including one where Ethan hangs upside down in a booby-trapped computer vault. A drop of sweat or a raised degree of body temperature will trip the alarm.

And while he keeps the movie slightly off-kilter with crazy camera angles, much of it is dull and overly confusing, especially for a brain-dead summer audience. Blame this on screenwriters David Koepp and Robert Towne, the latter who has never been able to capture the magic that was "Chinatown." Cruise, meanwhile, never convinces you that he's that smart, so much so that you think he must have had a stunt double to type on the computers that fast. A hunky leading man is the biggest departure from the show, whose characters (especially when Leonard Nimoy joined the cast) were so smart they were almost automatons.

The straight-faced reverence to the old show is both refreshing and a bit of a drag. Usually exercises like this include cameos by old cast members and little in-jokes for fans, but the only person who seems to be having a good time is composer Danny Elfman, who delivers a funky-up version of the theme song for the closing credits.

Then there's that climax, which, without giving too much away, involves a bullet train, a helicopter and a long tunnel. It's probably the most heart-pumping ten minutes you'll spend at the movies this year, so deliciously over-the-top it makes the latest James Bond movie look almost plausible.

Though it will obviously do well in its opening weekend,

"Mission: Impossible" may ultimately fail in its prime directive. It doesn't stand a chance of stealing the thunder away from that already out-of-control summer blockbuster called "Twister."

Touching 'Eleemosynary' is lyrical and spirit-lifting

VICTORIA DIAZ

Apollo Theater Productions presents "Eleemosynary," 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 24-25, Roper Theatre, Birmingham Campus (Adams Road, between Maple and Big Beaver Road). Tickets $9 adults, $6 students, available at the door or by reservation, (810) 489-8445.

Early on in this contemporary, one-act drama, its central character explains the unusual title word. "Eleemosynary" means "charitable," she says. And then, because she is an individual who enjoys a kind of love affair with words, she strings all of its luscious syllables together again and adds, "It's like a small song."

Rarely does a playwright write a review of his or her play, of course. But with this line, you could almost say that Lee Blessing has managed to do exactly that. Brief, lyrical and with its own engaging riffs and rhythms, "Eleemosynary" will sometimes lift your spirits, sometimes touch your heart, and sometimes even tickle your ribs a little bit. More than that, you'll find that its melody soft - as it is - lingers on.

Here is the girlish, slightly hare-brained Dorothea, so full of life that she has plans for herself after she's dead. Here is Artie, the troubled, middle-aged scientist who is her daughter. And here is Artie's almost-grown daughter, Echo, fresh-faced and ambitious, and considering her heritage and way with words, very aptly named.

As the play opens, Dorothea, has just suffered a massive stroke that has left her unable to communicate, and much of the story is told in flashbacks. Soon, we begin to see that the mothers and the daughters in this little group have been hard-pressed to communicate for most of their lives. Sometimes, words can't be found. Sometimes, words have been inadequate. Sometimes, words have simply gotten in the way of these highly complex relationships.

Veteran actress Laurie V. Logan is a fine, animated Dorothea, seemingly warm and caring, then subtly exasperating, but always practically giddy with life.

She adds just the right touch of off-handed humor, too, especially as she's telling of her "visits" with James Monroe and King Solomon or trying to teach her daughter to fly with some wings she's created.

Miriam Yezbick turns in a sensitive performance of Artie, who more than once turns her back on the so-human dependencies of her mother and daughter in order to salvage her own piece of life. Despite these choices, Yezbick puts her close to our hearts, somehow. Looking always like someone who is trying to look relaxed when they are feeling sick-to-death tense, and also seemingly so close-to-bone familiar, Yezbick is almost painful to watch and to listen to at times. Although her Artie is shy about physical touch, she is perhaps the most emotionally touching of the three women.

Finally, Jaime Newman (who also produced this play) brings it all together with her enchanting portrayal of the youngest member of the trio, Echo.

With her singular stage presence and a kind of luminescent appearance, she just nails the role of this glowing-with-hope, confident girl.

In flashback scenes, the 18-year-old also gives a convincing performance as Echo in infancy and as a thumbsucking toddler, too.

Award-winning director Mary Bremer sees to it that "Eleemosynary" is crisply-paced from first line to last, and peripherals such as lighting, make-up, set, and costuming are all first-rate stuff.

'Social Security' deft, funny

HELEN ZUCKER

Jewish Ensemble Theatre presents "Social Security" through June 9, Aaron DeRoy Theatre (inside the Jewish Community Center), 6600 West Maple Road, West Bloomfield. Call JET (810) 788-2900 or Ticketmaster (810) 645-6666 for ticket information.

The Jewish Ensemble Theatre production of Andrew Bergman's "Social Security" is deft and funny. Directed by Robert Grossman the troupe turns in a clean, tony performance.

Cheryl Williams is superb as Barbara, the blond art dealer who serves cold mousse of pike (gefille fish to Sophie, her mother). Williams exudes energy as she deals with her husband, the art world, a sister and brother-in-law she has little in common with, and a mother who is sent to live with her. Williams turns from near hysteria to plangent sexuality without missing a beat.

John-Michael Manfredi is wonderfully clever as David, Barbara's husband. David gets a lot of funny lines and Manfredi delivers them with aplomb. Manfredi looks as if he was born to play a suave art dealer; he looks sleek, satisfied, and smart. "I've been looking for a woman like that all my life!" David cries, upon hearing his niece has said, "I live for sex."

Rochelle Rosenthal as sister Trudy, comes on like a Long Island storm. Concern for her daughter who is living with two men causes Trudy to pull up stakes to go off to Sarah's college. Trudy has parked mother and her walker in the hall and the first act ends with mother grinning wickedly as the lights dim. Trudy, the martyr from Mineola, is not treated well when it's time to hand out happy endings. The logic of the play dictates that anyone who isn't obsessed with sex deserves a bad end. Rosenthal carries it off with pluck.

Joseph Hayes as Martin, the accountant Trudy is married to, is a solid, stolid citizen. He has no sense of art nor does he appear to have any gift for happiness. Martin's turning out to be more like his daughter than like Trudy is a surprise and Hayes handles this turn in the plot easily.

Karen Sheridan is wonderful as Sophie. Sheridan conveys a sense of exasperation at being so old that her rejuvenation feels real. When she takes off her bathrobe (while Barbara screams, "Get dressed! We have a guest!") and stands there grinning in tee shirt and large bloomers, we know that Sophie is a woman whose senses are still very much alive. Sophie finds the man of her dreams, throws away her walker, looks chic, and is on her way to France and a condo in mid-Manhattan.

Robert Grossman as Maurice, the superstar painter who's still painting at age 98 (did I hear right?) is marvelous. Grossman gives us a purring lion, a wine-drinking, life-loving, Chagall-like painter. Maurice and Sophie take to each other immediately, and having no time to waste, go off immediately.

Artistic director Evelyn Orbach and the tech crew deserve kudos. The stunning set was designed by Tom Aston and built by West End Construction. Music from "Snow White" slides right into this fantasy-comedy.

'Kicker' opens All-American Grill at former Stoyan's site

STAFF WRITER

Miami Dolphins kicker Pete Stoyanovich has brought a taste of Miami to his hometown area.

The Dearborn Heights native and his brother Billy purchased the family business, Stoyan's Seafood Bar and Grill, stripped down the 34-year-old building and rebuilt it as Kickers All-American Grill and Joey's Comedy Club.

General Manager John Setzke described their mission as "bringing the South Floridian concept to Livonia based on favorite food items of Pete Stoyanovich."

Executive Chef Keith Matherly, a Livonia Churchill High School and Schoolcraft College graduate, said that the "South Floridian concept" is represented in the design of the building and the food.

"The concept is not only in looks from the white wood and bricks to the openness to the windows. We're trying to hit with Florida flair (on the menu) with ocean fish," Matherly said.

grill are among the tropical meals on the menu. The diverse selection also includes prime rib, Jamaican jerk ribs, pasta, pizza, and oven-baked grinders.

"If there's a party of four and you want steak and someone else wants something light like a salad, everybody will be happy and leave full. They don't have to feel obligated to gorge," he explained.

Matherly, a former chef de cuisine at The Golden Mushroom in Southfield and executive chef at the Little Club in Grosse Pointe, said his specialties are Bousin Chicken, made with herb garlic cheese, lemon garlic sauce over chicken; potato encrusted cod; and tira misou.

Diners are offered generous servings of the dishes which range in price from $7.95-$15.95.

Kickers All-American Grill and the comedy club opened to the public Sunday, March 17, after a nine-month, $1.3 million renovation.

"It needed a facelift and we provided a facelift," Stoyanovich said. "It will be good for the entire area."

The building's exterior is a reflection of Stoyanovich's team colors. The bright teal roof and soft coral paint continues inside to a light pickled wood look and mahogany trim.

At the foot of the stars leading from Kickers to Joey's is a waterfall with a mirrored background that opens into the mezzanine.

Glass etched with underwater scenes act as bookends to the rows of booths which peak into the exposed kitchen.

jerseys marking the careers of Pete and Billy Stoyanovich, a former arena football player. The ten televisions will track the Miami Dolphins during football season. "We're trying to produce a casual atmosphere," Matherly said. "As the weather gets warmer, shorts are very appropriate. It's not out of line to see someone in a three-piece suit. We also want to generate a child-friendly place."

Churchill falls 1-0 in title test

It was a well-played Western Lakes Activities Association championship softball game Wednesday as Walled Lake Central prevailed in a 1-0 victory over Livonia Churchill.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

The Western Lakes girls softball championship boiled down to a single run Wednesday with Walled Lake Central emerging the victor with a 1-0 triumph against host Livonia Churchill.

The Vikings (25-6 overall) rode the three-hit pitching of senior right-hander Lindsay Tapp to claim their second consecutive WLAA playoff crown in a battle of divisional champions.

Churchill (19-5 overall) had the tying run on third in the bottom of the seventh, but the cool, clam and collected Tapp got Shannon Misiak to line out to second to end the ballgame.

"She (Tapp) has excellent composure," said Central coach Gordon Glennie, who has guided the Vikings to seven straight Lakes Division crowns. "She pitched 41 innings for us last year, but she was erratic."

"This year she has better control and a better mix of pitches. In the off-season she took private lessons and she came to me and wanted to throw in the gym. It was just a matter of work ethic."

Both Tapp and Churchill hurler Alicia December were always around the plate.

Only one walk was issued in the game when Central's Katie Horton led off the top of the seventh with a free pass.

Central collected seven hits, stringing three together in the fourth for the game's only run.

With two-out, Kristie Pawlowski and Shannon Hartman each singled and sophomore shortstop Kelly Hale, batting eighth in the order, followed with the game-winning single to right, scoring Pawlowski.

"We have a lot of depth on this team, it's just not one or two people carrying the load," Glennie said. "Everyone is capable of getting a key hit."

Churchill, meanwhile, couldn't get a runner past second base for the first six innings against Tapp.

Catcher Jenny Chulow collected two of the Chargers' three hits, while Megan McGinty had the other to lead off the bottom of the seventh.

"We probably hit the ball better than the last time we played them," said Churchill coach Dana Hardwidge, whose team fell 2-0 to Central only seven days earlier. "She (Tapp) is a tough pitcher, a little faster than we're used to seeing. We hit the ball a lot to the right side, the same as last time. But we struck out only four times."

Central left 12 runners stranded and couldn't take advantage of three Churchill errors.

"They (Central) had people on base, but we were able to play good defense," Hardwidge said. "We came into the game wanting to play good defense and get the bat on the ball. But they've got a good team and a lot of good athletes."

The loss is only a temporary setback, however, for the Western Division champs.

"This doesn't ruin our season," Hardwidge said. "It was an honor to be here. We took our cuts and we came here to beat them. We played tough and these girls stayed in the game."

It was the third WLAA crown for Glennie, who is now in his seventh season.

The Vikings, ranked No. 7 in the latest Class A statewide coaches poll, will now set their sights on the district tournament. Last year Central reached the regional finals before falling to Ann Arbor Pioneer.

"This is a veteran team," Glennie said. "Today we met one of our goals. This is just a good, solid team that works hard and has a lot of fun while doing it. We want to make it fun and not be uptight."

Churchill opens tournament action at 4 p.m. Tuesday against nemesis Livonia Franklin in a pre-district game at Plymouth Salem. The Chargers have beaten the Patriots three straight games this season, all by one run decisions. The winner plays Ladywood.

Rocks place solid 1st at WLAA meet

The stalemate that occurred nearly three weeks ago in boys track at the Observerland Relays was decided Tuesday.

Plymouth Salem, after sharing first place with Westland John Glenn in the earlier meet, came from behind in the late going to dethrone the Rockets as Western Lakes Activities Association champions at Farmington High.

The Rocks overcame a 50-point deficit midway in the meet to finish with 162. Glenn had 149, Walled Lake Western 77, Livonia Franklin 71, Northville 67 and Farmington Harrison 56.

"We knew we would be down coming out of the field events, and our sprints had to come up big," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "With our strength being distance, we knew we were going to get our due."

The Salem strategy involved breaking up its regional champion 3,200-meter relay and getting more mileage out of star athletes Jason Barylski, Scott Pengelly and Jared Biniecki.

"If we had run our No. 1 team in the relay, that would have given them tired legs, and they wouldn't have been able to run as hard as they did in other events."

"We let them run open events where we could get 12 points from one guy instead of 12 with four. Why do with four what you can do with one?"

Biniecki won the 1,600 run for the third consecutive year, with Pengelly finishing second.

Barylski won the 400 dash in which the Rocks began their comeback. Salem outscored Glenn 18-0 in that event, 24-6 in the 800, 18-2 in the 300 hurdles, 13-10 in the 200, 14-0 in the 3,200 and concluded the meet by winning the 1,600 relay.

"We knew we would have the lead early, and we knew what their strength was," Glenn coach Jess Shough said. "We just hoped we had enough of a lead to hold on."

"They have strength in the distance middle distance; we had to run strong in the sprints, and they beat us there. The turning point was when they beat us at our strength in the 200."

That's where Barylski's fresher legs paid off. He placed second and Scott Kingslien seventh while the Rockets got fourth and fifth.

"We took Jason out of the open 800 and 3,200 relay, and that allowed him to run open 200 and 800 relay, which was the key to the meet," Baker said. "If we don't counter Glenn right there (200), we're down more points than I think we can come back from."

"Jason had two firsts and one second; that's 44 points by one athlete."

BOYS TRACK

Pengelly won the 800 and also was sixth in the 3,200, and Salem's Rob Hawley won the 300 hurdles. Teammates Ian Searcy and Dan Johnson were second, respectively. Biniecki also placed second in the 3,200, and Barylski anchored the winning 1,600 relay.

"We were ready to take second in the 3,200 relay to score points more across the board," Baker said. "The league meet was our No. 1 goal all year, and (distance coach) Dave Hamway had the distance crew clicking on all cylinders today."

Glenn had firsts from David Jarrett in the long jump and the 800 relay. The Rockets had hoped to do better than third in the 400 relay, but a bad exchange was costly.

"Other than that, I thought our kids ran strong as they could," Shough said. "Salem just ran a little stronger."

"I'm proud of my team. With this being a rebuilding year, the kids stepped it up and ran well all year."

Livonia Franklin junior Paul Terek set a meet record by winning the pole vault at 14 feet, breaking his own record (13-8) from a year ago. The Patriots also had a double winner in Matt Lawson, who won the shot put and discus.

Farmington Harrison competed without senior Jason Granger, who suffered a pulled groin muscle in the regional, but still did well in the sprints with Jerrard Johnson winning the 100 and Keith Battle the 200.

The other conference champs are Farmington's Keith Sudheimer (high jump), Livonia Churchill's Ryan Kearney (110 hurdles) and Walled Lake Western's Jason Aspinall (3,200 run).

Churchill-Canton tilt in doubt; Stevenson reaches district final Wednesday's Livonia Churchill vs. Plymouth Canton Class A district semifinal girls soccer outcome appears to be a ball of confusion.

The two teams were tied 1-1 after 80 minutes regulation play, but officials let a major blunder occur by not going to a sudden death format.

Instead, the two teams played a pair of 10-minute extra sessions. Churchill's Marie Spaccarotella made it 2-1 in the first period and Canton's Jennell Cobar answered with two minutes left.

In the second OT, Melissa Marzolf notched her second goal of the night on a penalty kick in what proved to be the game-winner for Canton, but lead official Saba Kayj was notified afterwards that Spaccarotella's goal should have stood under the correct OT rules. Kirsten Conklin had Churchill's first goal.

District tournament manager Brian Wolcott said he would have to wait until today to get a ruling from the Michigan High School Athletic Association. It could be a 3-2 Canton win, a 2-1 Churchill victory, or be replayed.

The winner will face Plymouth Salem (15-3) for the Class A title, 1 p.m. Saturday at Livonia Ladywood.

Churchill played without key defender Lizz Szkrzybala, who was lost for the season Tuesday in practice to a broken foot.

Meanwhile, Livonia Stevenson passed a stiff test in another district semifinal clash, scoring a 2-1 win Wednesday over host Novi.

At Novi, Nicole Tobin's goal from Allison Campbell with 19 minutes left in the second half ousted the host Wildcats, who finished 13-3-1 overall.

Mamie Vanderburgh had the Spartans' first goal at the 38-minute mark of the opening half, but Novi's Julie DiPonio tied it with 28:31 to play off a free kick.

The Spartans (14-2-1 overall) will play Farmington Hills Mercy (9-6-1) for the district crown, 7 p.m. Friday at Walled Lake Central.

STEVENSON 6, W.L. CENTRAL 0: Stevenson won its district girls soccer opener Monday, as Lanette Moss scored two goals and assisted on another while sophomore goalkeeper Jenni Barker notched her 12th shutout of the year, 26th of her career. She ranks second in Stevenson's all-time list for shutouts.

Allison Campbell, Jenny Schmitt, Sarah Waddock and Melissa Pankov also scored for the Spartans, who played in the Northville district semifinals and took a 2-0 lead in the first 10 minutes of the game.

CHURCHILL 8, FRANKLIN 0: Churchill edged Plymouth Hills Mercy in a 1-1 tie in the district semifinals Monday, with a 2-0 lead in the second half. The Spartans' goalkeepers were Lizz Szkrzybala and Lizz Szkrzybala.

was, while Andrea Will and Kirsten Conklin added solo tallies.

Franklin freshman goalkeeper Tiffany Heim brought speed out despite the loss. She had to leave after being accidentally kicked in the head by a Churchill player with about 24 minutes remaining and the Patriots trailing 6-0.

Junior Lindsay Rowe, who normally plays forward, played the remaining minutes in net. "Tiffany played outstanding, she's been consistent all year," Franklin coach Dave Hebestreit said.

Hebestreit also praised the play of senior defender Anne Hockett, senior sweeper, forward Lisa DeShazo and sophomore midfielder Emily Krauth.

The Patriots finished the season with a 4-11-1 record.

SALEM 2, LADYWOOD 0: Kristina Senich made her debut in the high school soccer field on Monday.

The Plymouth Salem freshman scored twice in Monday's first round match against Salem's host Livonia Ladywood, 4-0, 3-0.

Senich's first goal came midway through the first half, an assist by Missy Simons. The goal was scored within striking distance of the 10-minute mark, when Senich found a pass from 12 Polter into an unmarked goal.

Ladywood's Billie R. Priddy praised the play of junior Michelle Roy, along with goalkeeper Katie Danekert, who balanced back from the defender's side.

CANTON 9, JOHN GLENN 0: Plymouth Canton's 1-4 record refused to look ahead when it opened its state district tournament run Monday against visiting Westland John Glenn.

Jenni Pankov and Melissa Marzolf each scored three goals in the Canton victory. Pankov scored in the assists.

Canton finished the season with a 4-16-1 record.

DEARBORN 6, WAYNE 0: On Monday, the Bulldogs, the Michigan Division champions, defeated host Wayne Memorial as Nichole Ruff scored three times and Lisa Reiter added four.

The Tigers finished a 11-1 overall and 5-5 in the Michigan Division. Head coach

CC team 2nd

It wasn't easy for Warren DeLaSalle as Redford Catholic Central put up a good fight in Tuesday's Catholic League boys track meet.

The Pilots finished with 115 points, followed by CC's 101.

CC coach Tony Magni knew his chance of winning his sixth title as CC's coach was a longshot.

"I knew DeLaSalle was the team to beat and that we would have to run a perfect meet to have a shot," Magni said. "I'm very proud of this team. They faced a lot of adversity throughout the season and knew it would be tough without (graduated All-State runner Joe) Leo. But those are no excuses."

CC's duo of Dan Dominguez (51-4) and Brian Douglas (50-10) went one-two in the shot put.

Senior David Venning then turned in what Magni called the Shamrocks' biggest surprise of the day - a win in the 300 hurdles (41.1).

"I knew we were down on points at the time and tried to get the team back into it," Venning said. "It does feel good to end my Catholic League career with a personal best time."

Starting his first game for the USA Bulldogs, David Groth pitched a no-hitter in a Sandy Koufax travel league (13-and-under) baseball game in an 11-2 victory May 17 over the host Ann Arbor Vipers.

Groth struck out five and did not allow a ball to leave the infield. He also helped his own cause by delivering a two-run triple in the opening inning.

The Bulldogs collected 14 hits, led by Adam Rorabacher and Billy Marsack, who each went 3-for-4 and combined for seven RBI. Mark Willoughby and Sean Mahoney each added two hits.

Defensively, shortstop Billy Marsack and second baseman Eddie Conz combined for 10 putouts.

STYERS' RING RETURN

Jeff Styers, a 1984 Wayne Memorial graduate, is returning to the professional boxing ring where he hopes to keep his undefeated record intact.

Styers, who has a 10-0 professional record, hasn't fought since March 3, 1992.

He will meet Scott Solka in a super middleweight (162) fight in the co-Main Event on a fight card that starts at 8 tonight at Dearborn's Adray Arena.

Styers, who goes by the nickname "Sweet Ice" and turns 31 on June 17, said he missed boxing too much to remain out. He is an executive recruiter for Ciber, a major consulting firm for Ford Motor Co.

Tickets cost $15 for general admission, $25 at ringside.

JUZIUKS RIFLE CHAMPS

It was shootout between brother and sisters Karl and Karyn Juziuk of Livonia at the Michigan Outdoor Junior Rifle Championships held last weekend at the Oakland County Sportsman's Club.

In a tiebreaker, Karl, a junior at Churchill High School, won the four-position title on Saturday by edging Karyn, who is an All-American at Xavier (Ohio) University.

Shari Jedinak, a junior at Westland John Glenn, was a close third as the Livonia Junior Rifle squad took the team title. Ann Proctor, another junior from Glenn, completed the Livonia Junior Rifle team.

On Sunday in the prone competition, Karyn turned the tables on Karl, squeaking out a 989-988 victory. Earlier this spring, Karyn finished 11th in the U.S. Olympic Trials.

Livonia also won the prone team title with Proctor and Jedinak rounding out the squad. The other prone team competing from Livonia included Scott Teahan (Churchill), Derek Willis (Farmington), Clay Jenovai (Farmington) and Kurt Williams (Northville).

COLLEGIATE NOTE

Western Michigan University freshman Colleen Lesondak (Livonia Stevenson) placed sixth in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 5 3/4 inches last weekend at the Mid-American Conference women's track championships in Oxford, Ohio.

Earlier this season, Livonia Ladywood embarrassed Farmington Hills Mercy 90-39 in the Catholic League's season-opening dual meet.

There was no way the Marlins would allow their rivals to repeat that performance at their home track Tuesday. But would they be able to knock off the defending division champions?

In a meet dominated by the two teams, the Blazers were able to edge Mercy by a mere six points to repeat as the A-B Division champs.

Ladywood finished with 126 points to Mercy's 120. Dearborn Divine Child (90) and Harper Woods Regina (88) rounded out the top four.

"It's never easy," said a relieved Bob O'Brien. The Ladywood coach won his second title in four years at the school.

"It was a rough season with all the rain and bad weather but this feels just as good as last year."

The weather was perfect Tuesday and the times proved it. Many personal bests were recorded, including the 3200-meter relay team from Mercy in the meet's first event.

The team of Jackie Segue, Christina Andriola, Erin Thomas and Rhashida Rudolph won in a time of 10:14.2 - more than 10 seconds better than their previous best time.

Shawntika Farr made it two first in a row for Mercy in the shot put, with a throw of 36-feet, 5 1/2 inches. The Blazers stayed close with a second in the 3200 relay and a second by Beth Kummer in the shot put (33-11 1/2).

Stacie Johnson picked up Ladywood's only first place of the day with a jump of 5-2 in the high jump. But after firsts by Jennifer Brazeal in the discus (107-3) and by Amy Buhl in the 100 hurdles (15.4), the Marlins held a 48-42 lead.

"I wasn't concerned early because I knew things would go that way," O'Brien said.

Lindsay Soter's second in the 100 dash (13.2) helped the Blazers take a 52-48 lead after six events.

Mercy came back to take a second in the 800 relay (1:50.6) and once again overtook the Blazers when Segue (5:34.8) and Andriola (5:47.5) went two-three in the 1600 run.

The Marlins continued to remain on top after Angka Morris, Rudolph, Buhl and Lynn Troskey combined to win the 400 relay in 51.6.

The Blazers, who only picked up one first compared to Mercy's six, were able to collect points in every event, including a two-three finish by Soter (62.2) and Stephanie Mussat (64.1) in the 400 run.

"I knew it would be close but there were some events we didn't do as well in as we could have," O'Brien said. "But we had some good efforts from others we didn't expect. I think our depth really came to the front today."

Freshman Suzanne Peplinski's second place in the 300 hurdles (49.6) gave the lead back to Ladywood. The Blazers also picked up seconds in the Jackie Urbanczyk in the 800 run (2:29.2) and by Soter in the 200 dash (27.1).

"Peplinski's second in the 300 hurdles and Kummer's success in the throwing events really helped us win this title," O'Brien said.

The Blazers led by 10 heading in the final event, the 1600 relay. All Ladywood needed was a sixth place finish and the Blazers did better than that by finishing third. The Marlins won the event as Rudolph, Morris, Lisa Nobles and Jamila Jackson finished in 4:17.5.

Soter, who recorded personal bests in the 400 and 200 runs, was one of the Ladywood runners who didn't expect such a close battle.

"I thought we were the favorite but I didn't think it would be this close," Soter said. "This title means more to me than last year's title because the seniors really wanted this one."

Chargers earn state berth

Time to book reservations for Midland as the Livonia Churchill boys tennis squad, by virtue of their second-place finish at the Dearborn regional, have qualified for the state Class A tournament (May 31-June 1).

Redford Catholic Central, winning four of seven flights, captured the regional team title with 22 points. Churchill finished second with 16, one point ahead of the host Pioneers. See statistical summary.

Denise Berg, now in her eighth season as varsity coach, was elated with the runner-up finish.

"We are very pleased with our performance at the regionals and happy to be going," said Berg, who had never taken a team to the state meet. "The team has worked very hard."

The Chargers had one regional champion - the No. 2 doubles team of Ryan Green and Bryan Stramecki.

Seeded third, Green and Stramecki ousted Livonia Franklin's Victor Felbaum and Wade Johnston (6-1, 6-4); No. 2 seeds Mike Lombardi and Phil

BOYS TENNIS

Muldowney of Redford CC (4-6, 6-3, 7-5); and top seeds Mike Sasena and Mike Edick of Dearborn (7-5, 6-4).

Churchill's No. 1 singles player Matt Eszes, the top seed, lost to Dearborn's multi-talented Kevin Kreger in the finals, 6-3, 6-2. Kreger is an All-State quarterback in football and All-State guard in basketball.

Eszes, the Western Lakes Activities Association runner-up, scored consecutive 6-0, 6-0 wins over Ian Raicu of Westland John Glenn and Redford CC's Steve Haincock.

At No. 2 singles, Churchill's Rob Aloe lost in the semifinals to eventual champion Dante Ceroni of CC, 6-4, 6-0. Ceroni went on to beat Garden City's Neal Kalkun in the finals, 6-2, 6-1.

At No. 3 singles, Livonia Franklin's James Metsger was a surprise winner.

Seeded fourth, Metsger downed CC's Brian Foley in the championship, 6-1, 6-3, after eliminating Churchill's John Webster in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-1.

At No. 4 singles, CC's Marc Siciliano, the top seed, came away with a first-place finish after defeating Don Patton of Garden City (6-2, 6-4) and Neel Chokshi of Churchill, 6-4, 6-0.

CC's Francis Ko and Mark Khoury took the No. 1 doubles title with a straight-set win over a Dearborn pair. Churchill's Matt McBride and Nader Salah, the third seeds, fell to the CC duo, 6-1, 6-1, after winning their first-round match against Redford Union.

At No. 3 doubles, Greg Thurston and Rich Ratke of CC came away with the crown.

Dearborn Edsel Ford took fourth in the team standings with 11 points, while Franklin and Livonia Stevenson were right behind with 10 and nine, respectively.

The regional also marks the final appearance of Stevenson coach George Croll, who is retiring from teaching and coaching. Croll coached the Stevenson boys for the last 17 years. He will be replaced by Franklin's Frank Dotson, who moves over to Stevenson to coach both the boys and the girls teams.

Churchill surprises in city tournament

By BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Gomer Pyle may have said it best about the Livonia City Baseball Tournament held Saturday at Ford Field.

"Surprise, surprise" was the cry as 3-15 Churchill came away with the first-place trophy after stunning Franklin in the first round, 8-7, and Stevenson in the championship, 13-11.

"When you have a tourney, you have to set goals, no matter what your record," Churchill coach Herb Osterland said. "But we've been getting better offensively. We were a very light hitting team at the beginning of the year, but we're approaching the .260 mark now."

The Chargers nearly blew a 12-2 lead against Stevenson, but held on for the victory.

Pitcher Mark Felker, who has figured in all three winning decisions on the mound this season for the Chargers, led the offensive attack with three hits.

Jason Fleissner, Matt Hughes and Scott Felker each added two hits.

Mark Dietrich led Stevenson with three hits, while Anthony Dattilio, Eric Yuhasz and Eric Curl each added two hits.

Scott Craver was the losing pitcher as the Spartans dropped to 9-11 on the year.

BASEBALL

"It was not a pitcher's duel or a defensive game," Osterland said. "We just scored more runs. It was a slugfest."

In the first round, Franklin appeared to have the game all but wrapped up, but a wind-blown fly ball off the bat of Chris Hille gave Churchill the tying and winning runs in the top of the seventh.

Freshman Eric Lightle had a two-run homer, his second in two days, and a double to pace the winners. Hughes contributed three hits and Fleissner added two.

David Wampler paced Franklin with three hits, while John Holt added two.

Matt Holt suffered the loss.

In the other first-round game, Stevenson hammered Clarenceville in five innings, 13-2, as Dattilio, Kevin Raycraft, Dietrich, Yuhasz and Curl each had two hits.

Dietrich had a two-run triple, while Dattilio added a two-run double, both coming in a six-run fifth inning.

Mike Allison pitched all five innings to pick up the win, while Clarenceville starter Scott Hatch took the loss.

Bryan DeCaire had two of the Trojans' six hits.

In the consolation final, Ron Maleyko went 4-for-5 with three RBI and Jason Schnob added three hits as the Patriots beat the Trojans, 18-3. Wampler contributed two hits.

Brandon Bell was the winning pitcher, while Hatch took the loss.

John Shiffman led Clarenceville with two hits.

WAYNE 4, BELLEVILLE 3: Brian Falahee's sixth-inning single Monday provided Wayne Memorial with the Mega Red Division victory over Belleville.

Sophomore right-hander Charlie Leverenz pitched a three-hitter and struck out six in helping the Zebras raise their Mega Red record to 5-8 and their overall mark to 10-11.

Brant Tajiri beat out an infield single to start the game-winning rally, went to second on a passed ball and scored on Falahee's hit.

Tajiri had two hits and scored twice. Jeff Temple scored a run and had two hits while John Clendenning went 3-for-3 and drove in a run.

FRANKLIN 10, PINCKNEY 0: Winning pitcher Brandon Bell went the distance Tuesday, tossing a three-hitter as Livonia Franklin (13-14 overall) won a non-leaguer against the Pirates.

Bell struck out four and walked five.

Ron Maleyko led the Patriots with three hits, while Jason Schnob doubled twice and knocked in two runs. Eric Bowman tripled and hit an inside-the-park homer in the seventh inning.

FRANKLIN 12-7, HARRISON 9-10: On Monday, host Livonia Franklin and Farmington Hills Harrison split a double-header.

Harrison finished 5-5 in the WLA's Western Division, while the Patriots were 3-7.

Brian Goodell (5-4) pitched the first four innings to gain the victory in the opener, while Harrison starter C.J. Ghanam took the loss.

Schnob doubled three times and knocked in four runs, while John Holt and Tim Miller added two hits apiece.

Aaron Lawson went 4-for-5 with a pair of doubles. Ghanam added two hits, including a solo homer.

In the nightcap, Harrison improved to 13-8 with the victory as Matt Fisher cracked a three-run homer and Chris Ghanam contributed two hits.

Tim Miller, the losing pitcher, and Holt each had two hits for the Patriots. Miller had a solo homer.

Aaron Iaconelli was the winning pitcher.

REDFORD CC 7, DIVINE CHILD 3: Chris Karney went 3-for-4, including two hits and an RBI during a seven-run, third-inning uprising Tuesday, giving visiting Redford Catholic Central (14-10) the win at Dearborn Divine Child (17-9).

Mike Daguanno tripled in two runs and Dave Viane contributed a two-run double in the third.

Garet Burch added two hits and one RBI. Winning pitcher James O'Connor (6-2) allowed six hits, one walk and one earned run over six innings.

N. FARMINGTON 4-8, STEVENSON 0-4: In a WLA-Lakes Division twin bill on May 17, visiting North Farmington came away with the sweep against Livonia Stevenson.

Sophomore lefty Jeff Trzos fanned 17 and allowed only one hit, a lead-off single to junior second baseman Anthony Dattilio, to pick up the victory for North in the opener.

Trzos and Eric Pierce each went 3-for-3. Freshman Roy Rabe, who pitched all seven innings and allowed 10 hits, took the loss. He struck out seven.

In the nightcap, North prevailed as Ryan Weisman pitched 4 1/2 innings to gain the victory.

Todd Smith, Mark Dietrich, Kevin Raycraft and Jason Greenwald each collected two hits in a losing cause.

SOFTBALL

Livonia Churchill won a pair of one-run ballgames Saturday at Ford Field to claim the city softball championship.

The Chargers (19-4 overall) defeated Stevenson in the finals, 2-1, as Jenelle Mazaris knocked in Tina Naif with a single for the game-winner in the sixth inning.

Winning pitcher Alicia December, who scattered five hits and fanned six in seven innings, helped her own cause with a first-inning triple. She scored the game's first run on a groundout by Jessie Jenkins.

Stevenson (6-16 overall) came back with a run in the bottom of the first when Juli Courtright single, stole second and scored on Andrea Jarczak's single.

The Spartans threatened to tie it in the seventh.

With a runner on third and two-out, Mazaris caught a line drive in center field to end the game.

Losing pitcher Laura Krol allowed eight hits over seven innings.

In the opening round, Churchill built a 9-0 lead before Franklin made a game of it in a 10-9 defeat.

The Patriots out-hit Churchill, 10-4, as Randi Wolfe tripled twice and losing pitcher Lori Jendrusik homered. Jenelle Pushies also collected two hits.

But Jendrusik walked 11 and hit four batters.

Franklin had the tying run on base in the seventh, but December got the final out to preserve the win.

It was Churchill's third one-run victory over the Patriots this season.

In the other first-round game, Stevenson pounded Clarenceville, 21-5, as Jarczak homered and knocked in three runs. Golfo Tzilos added two hits and two RBI, while Carolyn Courtright also had two hits. Jackie McClowry also homered.

Freshman LeAnne Schraufnagle, who struck out six and allowed four hits over five innings (mercy rule), earned the victory. Clarenceville's Nicole Riedi suffered the loss.

In the consolation final, Franklin whipped the Trojans, 19-1, as Pushies went 4-for-4. Wolfe, Jessica Sabbadin and Jackie Ziem contributed three hits apiece.

Jendrusik, the winning pitcher, combined with Wolfe (final three innings) on a two-hitter.

The loss drops Clarenceville to 5-13 overall.

FRANKLIN 4-4, HARRISON 2-10: Host Farmington Hills Harrison (7-10, 4-6) and Livonia Franklin (10-16, 4-6) wrapped up Western Division play Tuesday in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

In the opener Monday, Franklin downed the Hawks, as Wolfe came on in relief to pitch the final 4 2/3 innings to gain the victory. She also helped her own cause by going 2-for-2, including an RBI triple in the fourth inning.

The game was halted after five innings because of rain.

On Tuesday, Kristen Kozlarski tossed a five-hitter as Harrison won the nightcap.

Kelly Derocher went 2-for-4 with three RBI for the winners, while Wolfe, the losing pitcher, had two hits for Franklin.

On May 17, Franklin lost to host Northville, 5-1, in a WLA-Western Division encounter.

Melissa Thompson tripled and Margaret Schultz hit a sacrifice fly to score Franklin's lone run in the fourth inning. Jendrusik, who gave up six hits and seven walks while fanning nine, took the loss.

HARPER WOODS 9, LUTH. WESTLAND 8: A rain delay didn't wash away home plate Monday for Lutheran Westland, but it appeared to have hidden it.

Kristy Guilfoyle walked in the winning run in the seventh inning to hand Harper Woods a 9-8 victory over Lutheran Westland.

The defeat left the Warriors 8-5 overall, 8-4 in the Metro Conference while Harper Woods is 7-9, 5-6 in the conference.

A lightning-rain storm halted play late in the game and afterwards Guilfoyle had trouble finding the plate. She walked just four batters before the delay and 10 after, including five in the seventh.

Lindsay Allor had three hits for Lutheran West and drove in four runs, three with a double in the third. The Warriors hurt themselves with 12 strikeouts in the game.

Lang becomes third Livonia boys cage coach to resign

By BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Livonia Churchill's Tom Lang became the third varsity basketball coach from the Livonia Public School to turn in his resignation this spring.

He informed outgoing Churchill athletic director Don Albertson and principal Rod Hosman of his decision last week.

Lang, who is retiring as a teacher next month from Frost Middle School after 32 years, compiled a 35-72 record with the Chargers in five seasons.

Last season the Chargers finished 9-12.

Two other LPS coaches resigned including Jim McIntyre (Stevenson) and Larry Jackson (Franklin).

Stevenson has yet to name a replacement, while Jackson's successor is varsity assistant Dan Robinson.

"Tom submitted his resignation last week and he's going to give up both JV baseball and varsity (boys) basketball," said incoming Churchill A.D. Marc Hage, who served as the Chargers' freshman coach this year. "I'm going to miss him. I had the pleasure of working with him and he did a strong job with the program and the kids."

Chuck Uhlinger, who coached the JV squad the past five years, is expected to apply for the vacant position, which first must be posted for LPS employees.

"All three of us had a good working relationship, we were very compatible with each other and I'm going to miss that," Lang said.

Lang, who coached several outstanding girls basketball teams in eight seasons at Livonia Bentley (before the school closed its doors in 1985), contemplated returning for another season.

"I debated with myself because my wife (Sharon) has two more years left before she retires (at Plymouth Salem High School)," Lang said. "I'm going to be the house father. I'll do my daily workouts, take at least a year to relax, and play some golf."

Lang said the Chargers' best basketball days are ahead of them.

"They had an outstanding freshman team with some kids who could possibly bypass the JV level and be ready for varsity next year," he said. "And with the varsity kids coming back they could have a good mixture. I could see them being .500 or better next year and be a definite force in the league the following year."

"I regret stepping down with the talent coming back, but maybe it's best the new coach can start in with the young kids and build the program along with them."

"Lang, however, will not miss one aspect about the job."

"There were always two, three or four sets of parents who felt I couldn't do anything right, even when their kids were starters," Lang said. "I'll miss the good parents, the ones who came up to you and congratulated you for playing well or playing hard."

Offering relief

Group formed to deal with patient pain

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

There have been times when Katherine Alberts didn't want to go on. Now, she is forging ahead, working to offer people an alternative to suicide - especially in light of recent publicity and the debate over assisted suicide.

The chronic pain suffered due to headaches has left the Plymouth Township resident often bedridden in a dark room unable to sleep, eat or interact with people. Her headaches began 17 years ago, going from weekly to daily in 1991; her longest headache lasted 90 days. She is allergic to many medications, and there is no specific diagnosis for her illness.

Alberts said the strength of her family and friends has bolstered her, held her up and encouraged her to do something to help others. So, she and a dozen other people have come together to start "Pain Relief Now," a non-profit foundation which will collect money and pay for pain medication, doctor testing and other needed health costs for those suffering.

Volunteers sought

The group is seeking volunteers to help those in pain, and donations to help fund pain medication and other items not covered by traditional insurance. Alberts said she would also, eventually, like to set up a hotline manned by volunteers who could counsel those in pain and offer support and help.

Founders include people from Plymouth, Farmington, Northville, Milford, and even a woman from Columbus, Ohio.

Alberts said she encounters people whose lives have been ruined by chronic pain - financially, physically and socially. Some must file for bankruptcy. Others get divorced when spouses can no longer stay and support them emotionally or financially. She stressed that no money from the foundation would be used for her own health costs.

"My heart goes out to these people," Alberts said. "These people need mountains moved every day. These are the heroes - the people who just do the daily, common things and they do it in pain."

"I, frankly, go through hell. And I don't like to think about others going through that."

Friends like Joan Kisabeth, who is a trustee in the foundation, believe they can do something to help. "She's (Alberts) been going through this for years. I keep thinking, I'm a baby when I've had a headache. Imagining having that pain all the time."

'We are going to go nose-to-nose with Dr. Kevorkian, but we are not going to judge him legally or morally . . . I want to make him obsolete - and I would hope in a few years, we could be obsolete too. If that happens, that won't mean we fail, but that it worked.'

Katherine Alberts

The PRN group is working with State Rep. John Jamian, of the 40th District who chairs the House Health Policy Committee and who is looking into health issues like pain management. Jamian is working with advocacy groups such as Alberts' in sponsoring public hearings this summer to take testimony from patients bill of rights and pain management issues.

Each founding member of the PRN has a family member suffering chronic pain or someone who has been taken away by suicide.

Concerned with suicide trend

They are concerned with the apparent societal movement towards suicide as a solution, and the efforts of Oakland County's Dr. Jack Kevorkian, who has received much press in recent months for being present at several suicides.

"We are going to go nose-to-nose with Dr. Kevorkian, but we are not going to judge him legally or morally," she said. "I want to make him obsolete - and I would hope in a few years, we could be obsolete too.

"If that happens, that won't mean we fail, but that it worked."

Part of the reason chronic pain sufferers need help, Alberts said, is that they receive little treatment through traditional medical means, because pain sufferers are hard to diagnose. "This chronic pain is not cancer, it's not AIDS or heart disease," she said. "We're not an 'in' disease. We're not a disease at all - we're a symptom."

Dr. Maher Fakhouri, a neurologist at the Gertrude Levin Pain Center at Harper Hospital, treats Alberts for her chronic pain. He said the clinic takes a multi-disciplinary approach to treating pain, looking a medication, physical therapy, neurology issues and any doing necessary tests to treat the pain. They have a number of specialists on staff.

How they help

"The number one thing we do is make a diagnosis," he said. "I would say that, always, something can be done about it. We're able to return some people back to work."

Alberts said that it is a "myth that stress causes chronic pain," although stress will worsen it. She said an estimated 25 million in this country have cluster or migraine headaches. Just as many have chronic back pain, she said.

She said part of the role of PRN will be education of the public, the medical community and the insurance industry.

"The least it will do is raise consciousness, awareness," she said. "It's well worth it, if we only help one."

HAP offers plan for seniors

In response to the changing health care environment, Health Alliance Plan is offering a new HMO alternative to Medicare for seniors age 65 and over, which offers more health coverage.

Called HAP Senior Plus, the program for seniors in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties is a new approach to Medicare and supplemental insurance plans. James Walworth, HAP president, calls the new program an "attractive health alternative."

"While Medicare reform hasn't been finalized yet," he said, "it's clear the federal government is increasingly turning to HMOs as a solution, because we can provide comprehensive care at a reasonable cost."

The plan offers a zero-premium option or a low-cost RX option that includes prescriptions for a $50-per-month premium. Seniors must qualify for Medicare Part A and continue to pay their Medicare Part B premium to qualify for this program. The two options include:

■ Under the Zero-Monthly Premium Option, seniors will receive comprehensive coverage within the HAP Senior Plus network. There is a $10 copay for office visits and a $25 emergency copay that's waived if the visit results in admission.

■ The RX option offers the same coverage, but adds prescription drug coverage up to a $1,000 annual limit, with a $5 copay and reduces office-visit copays to $5.

Both options provide: unlimited hospitalization, 100 days of skilled nursing care, unlimited part-time visits for home health care, worldwide emergency care with a $25 co-pay for out-patient services, inpatient and outpatient surgical services including lab tests and X-rays, physician/specialist office visits with co-pay, and preventive care coverage including: physical exams, vision and hearing exams and vaccinations with co-pay.

HAP Senior Plus is made possible through a special agreement between HAP and the Health Care Financing Administration, the federal agency that administers Medicare. The program will, initially, be provided through the Henry Ford Health System and later expanded to other HAP locations.

For more information about the program, call HAP at (313) 872-8100.

2 local hospitals link forces to fight Parkinson's disease

Henry Ford Hospital and Sinai Hospital have jointly launched a Parkinson's Disease Surgery Program.

The program will be directed by Dr. Fred Junn who recently joined the staff of both hospitals from the University of Toronto.

"Dr. Junn comes from one of the top centers in North America, and brings to Michigan a tremendous expertise in Parkinson's surgery, using the least risky and most effective approach," said Dr. Mark Rosenblum, chairman of the Department of Neurosurgery at Henry Ford.

Parkinson's disease is a common movement disorder that afflicts an estimated 500,000 Americans. Although there is no known cure, symptoms can often be relieved with medical therapy. A surgical procedure will be offered to patients whose symptoms can no longer be managed with medication or who suffer severe side effects.

Sinai's Dr. Robert Reed, executive vice president of medical affairs, said "by combining our experiences, we hope to learn more about the long-term results of surgery and the patients who have had the procedure."

The collaboration between the two hospitals involves establishing clinical and basic science research programs based at Henry Ford, to study the surgical treatment of Parkinson's and related movement disorders.

Troy schools, pricing sell infill project

No doubt about it.

A big attraction of Golden Gate Commons - probably the major draw - is a new house in the Troy School District for less than $200,000.

Much less.

Three floor plans are available ranging from $159,800 for a 1,500-square-foot ranch to $169,900 for a 1,740-square-foot two-story to $176,900 for a 1,700-square-foot story-and-a-half.

The small infill site, only 15 lots, is off Big Beaver Road just west of Dequindre in Troy.

"It's a secluded subdivision," said Don Pratt, the builder who's been very active in the metro area over the years.

"There's not going to be any through traffic to Big Beaver. You have privacy. There's a commercial piece (Golden Gate shopping plaza) on one side so there will be no houses behind them," he said.

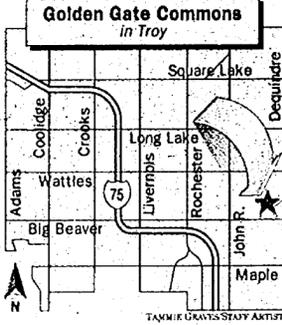

A fenced-off storm water retention basin is north of Golden Gate Commons, houses to the west.

"It's almost like a private street," Pratt said. "Shopping is very convenient. You have all kinds of churches and synagogues in the area. Troy schools is a big factor. You have all the conveniences of city sewers and water, a paved street."

A piece of good fortune enabled Pratt to keep prices manageable.

"We were able to find one of the last pieces in Troy that would allow 60-foot lots. We capitalized on that," he said.

The site will improve in appearance over time, Pratt said, because the developer from whom he bought the lots intends to plant trees along the property line between the houses and shopping center.

"Once it gets grown up three, four, five years from now, it will be a beautiful site," Pratt said.

All three floor plans include fireplace, first floor laundry, two-car garage, basement and dishwasher in the base price.

Air conditioning ($2,900) is an option.

The model, Frisco Bay, is a traditional two-story with living room, dining room, kitchen with island and nook, and family room with cathedral ceiling on the main floor.

All three bedrooms are upstairs.

The master has a separate tub and shower and a walk-in closet. The other two bedrooms each have a walk-in closet and a ceiling light. A second full bath also is upstairs.

"The idea was to downsize it where people could afford it," Pratt said of the model. "It's got all the parts. It's just not huge."

Base price of the Frisco Bay is $169,900. The model with upgrades including leaded glass front door, an energy package, air conditioning and cathedral ceiling in the master, costs $189,800.

An optional fourth bedroom is available in the Frisco Bay and the story-and-a-half plan for Frisco Bay: This model, with living room, dining room and family room on the main floor and three bedrooms upstairs, carries a base price of $169,900.

$10,000 and $15,000, respectively.

Exteriors on all plans are brick and vinyl siding with wood accents.

The property tax rate for a house in Golden Gate Commons is $36.87 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $170,000 house there would pay about $3,130 the first year.

"A lot of people who work in this area want to be close by due to heavy traffic," said Paul Sanderson, sales representative. "They like the formal colonial (plan). We still have the traditional living room/dining room concept with a family room."

Buyers also like the schools, he added. "It's very difficult to find new houses in the Troy School District for under $200,000."

Ben and Julie Sadik intend to buy a four-bedroom Frisco Bay in Golden Gate Commons because they need more space with five children.

"It fit our size," Ben Sadik said. "There's a family room, living room, dining room, breakfast area, basement. I needed a bigger house."

The location fit the bill, too. "It's close to main streets, shopping centers," he said. "If you want to go to Detroit, it's not far. You are like in the middle."

The sales office at Golden Gate Commons, (810) 619-9249, is open 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays.

30-year mortgage rates dip to 8.08%

WASHINGTON (AP) - Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages averaged 8.08 percent this week, down from 8.24 percent last week, according to a national survey released Thursday by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

Last week's average was the highest since May 4, 1995, when rates averaged 8.27 percent. After dipping to 6.94 percent last February, rates had risen gradually until locking into a range around 8 percent in recent weeks.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 5.78 percent, down from 5.80 percent last week.

Fifteen-year mortgages, a popular option for those refinancing mortgages, averaged 7.59 percent this week, down from 7.75 percent a week earlier.

The rates do not include add-on fees known as points.

EMMETT VALLEY

Small but roomy: This compact house is designed to be an informal house but with a spacious feeling, especially the expansive great room. Please see plan below.

Compact house feels spacious

The Emmett Valley is a compact, informal home with an open spacious feeling. Designed to meet the needs of a single person, or a couple with no children, this single level plan could also be adapted to accommodate a wheelchair.

Most of the exterior is lap siding with stucco relief trim. A small porch bounded by a wooden railing adds curb appeal. Inside, these slender windows, along with the oval window in the door, brighten the entry. A double-wide closet is around the corner to the right.

Straight ahead is the comfortable great room - a large bright kitchen. Three wide windows fill most of the back wall and more light spills down from above through four rectangular skylights. A sliding glass door opens onto the large railed deck that is also accessible from the master suite.

In the great room, a hearth of brick and tile transects one corner, creating a warm focal point. The large, open kitchen fills the other corner. A raised eating bar is all that separates the dining area from the kitchen.

Friends and neighbors will enjoy lingering here to chat while the owners deal with food preparation and cleanup. The dishwasher is raised to minimize bending. Counter space is ample, and a large walk-in pantry augments the available storage capacity.

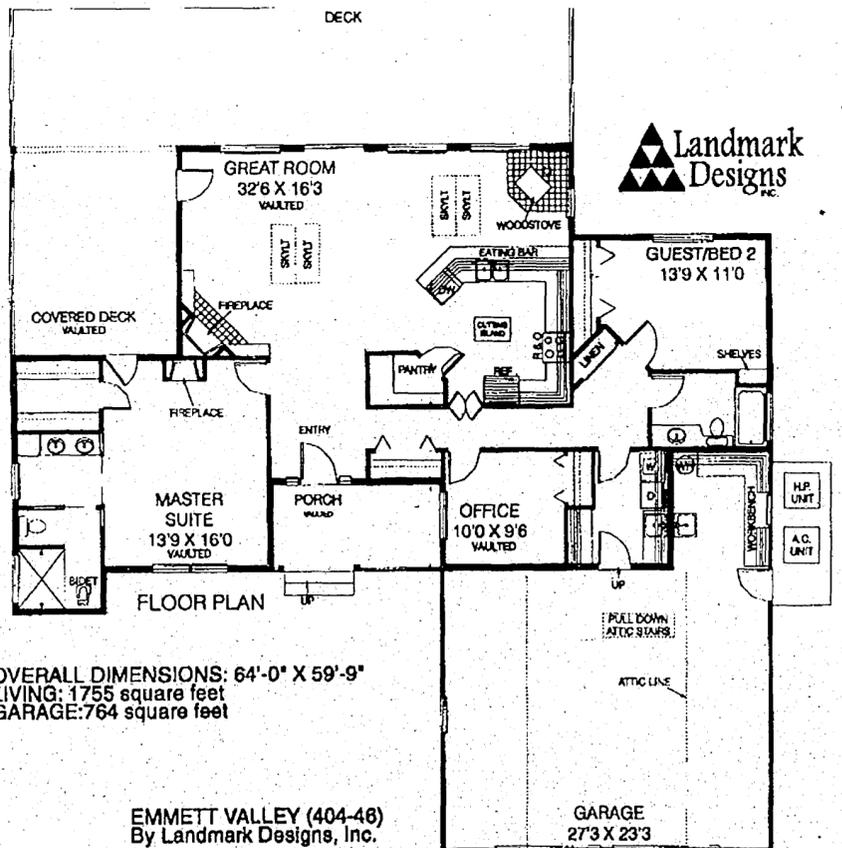

Utilities are just a few steps away in a pass through utility room, complete with cabinets and a counter for

The isolated master suite provides complete privacy in an attractive atmosphere. Amenities include a walk-in closet, twin basins, separately enclosed shower and toilet.

The guest room and office are at the other end of the house. The guest bedroom has a set of built-in bookshelves. The office can also be used for guests.

BUILDING DREAMS MORE AFFORDABLY

Model Hours: Daily & Weekends 1-6

Michigan housing market off to good start in '96

By Doug Funke
STAFF WRITER

Last year was a good one for residential builders in southeastern Michigan. This year is shaping up to be even better.

Building permits for houses and condominiums here during the first three months of 1996 increased by 16 percent over the same period last year, a Canton-based tracking service reported.

The actual numbers were 3,888 units compared to 3,340, according to U.S. Housing Markets.

Nationally, permits were up 14 percent.

In terms of volume, it was the second best January-March period for the country as a whole since 1977, U.S. Housing markets reported.

Just over 234,325 single-family units were permitted during the first quarter this year compared to the record 235,028 in

Ten counties including Oakland and Wayne defined southeastern Michigan.

"The job market around here is very strong," said Brian H. Bragg, editor for U.S. Housing Markets.

"The home buying public around here is pretty sensitive to interest rates. When interest rates bottomed out in late February and started to jack up - they're about a percentage point higher now - that pushed a lot of people off the fence.

"They were scared they would go up again. There was a rush to homebuying," Bragg said.

Every metropolitan area examined in the Midwest showed a jump in units permitted. The increase ranged from 5.6 percent in Chicago (5,110-5,396) and Milwaukee (791-835) to 56.4 percent in Kansas City (1,746-2,731).

Active builders: The number of single family residential building permits issued during this year's first quarter was on the upswing after a reversal in 1995.

The Northeast, including Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York/Long Island, Providence and Boston, was especially hard hit, experiencing an overall 5.4 percent decrease in permit activity.

The West, including Salt Lake City, Phoenix, Orange County, Calif., and San Francisco Bay, did especially well, showing an overall 18.6 percent increase.

The figures for those two regions may be skewed by an unusually snowy winter this year in the Northeast and an unusually wet winter in '95 out West, Bragg said.

"Builders aren't bothered so much by cold weather," he said. "When you get muddy ground, you can't get trucks in and out. When you have rain and snow, you can't get framing up. We haven't had a bad building season at all."

Southeastern Michigan was one of the few areas in the country to show an increase in single family permits issued for 1995. Activity here was up 3.4 percent compared to a decline nationally of 6.5 percent.

"I think we're going to have a decent year, probably about the same as last year," Bragg said. "Maybe even a little better, unless something unforeseen happens to interest rates. People keep looking for inflation. So far, we don't have any."

Handymen are still a fixture in high-tech world

CHICAGO (AP) - In an increasingly high-tech world, it's comforting to know that handymen can still fix much of it.

In fact, while other professions are downsizing, handwork is a burgeoning trade. In 1994, Americans spent an estimated $115 billion on home improvements - $43 billion on maintenance alone, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

Hardware store managers, contractors and homeowner groups think they know why much of that work is going to handymen: Most people aren't that handy anymore. And college-educated, upper-income wage earners now have more money to hire a handyman with than they have time to repair household glitches.

The handyman himself isn't what he used to be. In fact, quite often he's a she. Increasing numbers are women entering the field through painting and decorating jobs. The job itself is more sophisticated, too. They carry cellular phones and pagers and deal with temperature-regulating valves and washerless faucets.

Ron Kehr is a college-educated man, who at 40, dumped his high-stress job as a successful music industry executive to take up the tool belt. He learned to repair leaks, refinish cabinets and retille floors from books and observation.

Remodeling experts warn that consumers beware of unqualified workers and scam artists. They advise checking references, refusing to pay money up front and drawing up detailed contracts on the job.

Shingles come in different materials, the choice is yours

(AP) - Q: The shingles on our roof are worn and we want to have the roof reshingled. We don't know whether to use asphalt or fiberglass shingles. What is your opinion?

A: Either type of shingle will work for you. Your choice depends on aesthetics, availability and your budget. Generally, the more expensive shingles come with a longer warranty, some of which can reach 20-25 years.

Many people, even roofers, confuse fiberglass and asphalt shingles. Fiberglass shingles are made with asphalt and should be referred to as fiberglass-asphalt shingles.

An asphalt shingle consists of felt base mat made from rags, paper and wood pulp. The mat is saturated and coated with asphalt then surfaced with mineral aggregates. Fiberglass-asphalt shingles have a glass fiber mat coated with asphalt and surfaced with mineral aggregates.

The difference between organic and fiberglass-based shingles is more of a concern to the roofer than the homeowner. Fiberglass-based shingles were developed because roofers found that asphalt shingles softened during hot weather installations, and were easily damaged. Fiberglass shingles are coated, not saturated, with asphalt and are not easily damaged during hot weather.

However, in the northern United States, organic mat shingles are often used. Fiberglass shingles are difficult to work in very cold weather because they become brittle and can crack if flexed.

Fiberglass shingles have a better fire rating than organic shingles. Nevertheless, the latter is considered acceptable.

Q: I've noticed small holes and insects in some of the beams in my 150-year-old frame house. How can I tell if these are carpenter ants or termites, and how can I get rid of them?

A: Damage from carpenter ants is often mistaken for termite infestation. However, ants tunnel only to construct nesting places. They remove excavated wood to the outside of their nests and keep the passageways clear. Termite galleries, on the other hand, are packed with sawdust-like material which is actually a woody excretion.

This difference in the appearance of infested areas is a positive means of identifying which pest is at work.

Carpenter ants may be seen entering and leaving wood. They vary widely in size but a common variety is approximately one-half-inch long, and either all black or mixed with brown. All members of the colony are fully formed except the larvae, which are white and resemble grubs. Small, isolated colonies can be eradicated by injecting pesticide dust into the galleries or into holes drilled at intervals along infested timber. For best results, hire a licensed professional exterminator.

Q: I'm replacing some bad sections of copper water pipe. Can I use PVC pipe for the repairs?

A: Plastic water pipe can be joined to steel and copper pipe by means of plastic threaded adapters. Both male and female plastic adapters are available. One end of the plastic adapter is glued to the plastic pipe and the other threaded into a fitting or onto a pipe. When joining plastic water pipe to existing metal piping, wrap the male threads with plastic pipe joint sealant tape. Because plastic female adapters can expand when threaded onto male threads, a better choice is to use a plastic male adapter threaded into an iron or copper female adapter or fitting.

sider what primary purposes you want the deck to serve - entertainment, seating, storage or a play area - then incorporate these purposes into the design. You can design the deck yourself, use a precut deck kit or a pattern from a book or you can hire a designer.

When choosing the location of your deck, attached to your house or freestanding, consider the weather. Note the track of the sun and make sure that your location isn't too sunny or shady during the times you'll be using the deck.

Choose wood that can withstand the effects of the weather such as pressure-treated lumber, redwood or cedar. To maintain the color and quality of your deck, pressure wash it with special deck cleaners annually and stain or seal it at least every other year.

When building your deck, always nail the boards bark side up to reduce cupping.

Because installing decking can be very labor-intensive, consider purchasing a nail gun, which can speed up the process and give your arms a rest.

To help prevent splitting when nailing the decking in place, use blunt-nosed nails.

Fit the decking boards together tightly. This will prevent gaps from forming between the boards when they dry out and shrink.

New decks should be coated with stain as soon as the wood will absorb it.

"Failing to stain your deck is like going outside in a rainstorm without an umbrella - you'll definitely get wet and perhaps ill," said Guy Bowman, a paint department manager at Home

Depot. "While your deck won't catch cold, it will certainly warp and swell if moisture penetrates the wood."

Before staining, make sure the surface of the deck is free of water, oil, dirt and other foreign substances. Apply stain when the weather is between 50 and 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Avoid staining in direct sunlight or if rain is forecast within the next 24 hours.

"Maintaining your deck is as important as building it," says Bowman. "Damaged decking is both unsightly and dangerous. Wood rot, if unattended, can spread and affect good wood nearby."

How do you know if your deck is in healthy shape. Watch for signs of damage to the underlying structure. Examine support posts and joists for signs of rotting or infestation.

Commemorative cut: Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey cuts the ribbon to commemorate the opening of Dearborn Federal Credit Union's Livonia Financial Center at 37373 Seven Mile Road at Newburgh. Credit union opens local office

Local officials and business leaders welcomed the Dearborn Federal Credit Union to Livonia at a recent reception celebrating the opening of the new Livonia Financial Center at 37373 Seven Mile Road at Newburgh.

Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey cut the ribbon.

Dearborn Federal Credit Union Board of Directors Chairperson Linda Malec, Livonia Branch Manager Karen Downton and guest Eileen O'Neill, executive vice president of the Michigan Credit Union League, assisted Kirksey with cutting the ribbon.

"As Michigan's largest credit union, Dearborn Federal Credit Union has enjoyed significant growth in membership and assets, which has enabled this credit union to expand its facilities and services to meet the needs of our member-owners," Malec said.

"This beautiful 12,000-square-foot building was designed to serve the 30,000 members we already have in the northwest suburban areas, while anticipating growth in membership from area residents and local businesses. We are pleased to offer our members a wide array of financial services including home equity and mortgage loans in addition to traditional checking and savings products," Thomas Moylan, Dearborn Federal Credit Union vice president of marketing, said.

"Dearborn Federal Credit Union is known throughout the nation as a leader. The board of directors, the committees, the management and staff have had a vision for their credit union and a clear understanding of the credit union philosophy. I especially congratulate the members of Dearborn Federal Credit Union that they have a credit union like yours from which they are able to receive financial services," O'Neill said.

Livonia Financial Center branch hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays. Four drive-up teller lanes are open until 7 p.m. on Fridays.

In addition, members have 24-hour access to a drive-up ATM and night depository along with two 24-hour ATMs in the branch vestibule.

The new facility also features VideoBranch, an interactive computer kiosk that provides members with their own account information, details about branch locations and other financial services, and offers a "Trading Center" where members can advertise their used vehicles and boats for sale.

Membership in Dearborn Federal Credit Union is open to members of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and many employee groups that are not served by another credit union. Employees and families of any Ford Motor Company or subsidiary unit in the United States that is not served by another Ford employee credit union, members of Greenfield Village and employees of Henry Ford Health System are also eligible to join.

Dearborn Federal Credit Union is Michigan's largest and has assets of more than $900 million and serves 160,000 members worldwide.

For more information about Dearborn Federal Credit Union membership, stop by the new Livonia Financial Center or call (313) 336-JOIN or (800) 838-2770.

UAW launches 2 colorful World Wide Web sites

The United Auto Workers union now has a presence on the Internet.

UAW President Stephen P. Yokich announced in his opening address to the UAW National Bargaining Convention that the UAW is launching two colorful new World Wide Web sites. They are UAW On-Line at <http://www.uaw.org>, and Breaktime at <http://www.uaw.org/breaktime>.

The sites will be used to communicate directly with the public about the UAW and the rights of workers, explained Yokich. "We intend to use every tool we can to open the doors and reach out to both members and to a whole new generation of people who may not know much about us. The Internet offers an exciting way for people to more actively pursue their interests, and we want to be there with them."

O&E ONLINE

UAW On-Line is updated several times a week with information about the UAW, its programs, and key issues for workers. Included at the site is the UAW's award-winning Solidarity magazine and its AMMO magazine. The site also features Action Alerts on pressing issues, a listing of consumer products UAW members make, statistics from the union's research department, and up-to-date worker-related news, including news releases.

Six pages of links offer a Workers' Guide to the Internet, including a Trip to Washington, work-related sites, and articles on a "Hot Issue of the Week."

A Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) section answers the question "Why UAW?" and shows how the union functions. An interactive map gives basic information on all UAW regions, from coast to coast.

The "Breaktime" site is designed to be an interesting, fun site for people to take a break after work. "It's a place where workers browsing the web can share and enjoy what they have in common," explains Yokich. "On this site they can also benefit from the UAW's expertise in fields like health and safety and legal rights."

Breaktime has interactive features like workplace "survival tips" contributed by browsers, and ideas and ratings for a humorous "Top Ten" list. This site also gives consumer and workplace news and answers questions on workplace law and health and safety. It has a family area the UAW intends to expand.

When the sites were beta-tested with UAW members through the Union's Solidarity magazine earlier this year, the response was overwhelming. The UAW sites received hundreds of E-mail messages from members over the first two weeks, most of them thanking the union for taking its place on the Internet. (Many of those messages can be found on the "E-mailbox" page of the site.)

Internet Providers

Boardwatch Magazine has released its new quarterly Directory of Internet Service Providers (ISPs).

The 180-page publication lists more than 1,500 Internet Service Providers across the United States, with detailed instructions on how to select a provider and configure your personal computer to make the connection. This is the first comprehensive directory of Internet Service Providers ever published.

All entries are arranged by area code and telephone exchange to quickly locate ALL Internet Service Providers offering connections in any local dialing area - over 5,400 entries in all.

Each entry provides information such as company name, contact including E-mail and World Wide Web address, and telephone, specific dial-up and leased line connections along with pricing for easy comparison shopping.

The spring issue is available at leading computer and book stores for $6.95 or direct from the publisher at $6.95 plus shipping and handling by calling 1-800-933-6038.

O&E Onliners can access the Boardwatch Directory of Internet Service Providers at <http://www.boardwatch.com>. The most popular feature of the Website is the fully-interactive color area code map of the United States representing home office locations of Internet Service Providers with links to every ISP in the country. Providers can also use the Website to update their listings.

Boardwatch Magazine is also hosting the Online Networking Exposition and Internet Service Provider Convention (ONE ISPCON) August 7-10, 1996 in San Francisco. ONE ISPCON is the largest convention of Internet Service Providers in the world. More than 100 educational sessions are planned.

It's the people who ask questions or walk right by and then don't buy the book who cause the pain. I don't care about the money, what I care about is knowing that every person needs the information in the book. Homeowners being ripped off or wanting to know what products to buy and where to buy them and yet the book is right there on the counter. The book costs less than $15, yet these very people will waste hundreds of dollars because they don't have the information they need before making a decision.

I did a radio show on the biggie WABC in New York City a few weeks ago where I offered at no charge to the radio listeners my two little booklets (dryer and refrigerator). That two hours of radio show resulted in 5,000 requests for the FREE little booklets. A few days ago I received this very prestigious award from the Toastmasters International for being able to serve and communicate with the community. I don't think I'm doing such a great job because the consumer is still walking. Right now, I can't afford to.

The result of doing a radio show on the great voice of the Great Lakes and writing this column for the O&E has created over 10,000 requests for the free booklets and thousands of phone calls to my store. These people aren't calling to chat about the weather, they're all calling to seek information which is written in the book. I will not be around forever and the information in the book is good for a long time to come. I am not writing another book, so please buy this one so you can be a more aware consumer and I don't have to worry about your anymore. That way, no more pain in my heart.

PS - To this date, the author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," Joe Gagnon has not taken one cent in profits from the many thousands of his. The book is available at all Damman Hardware stores and major book stores across the country. The ISBN number is 1-880615-50-9 published by Master Handyman Press Inc.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Class wades into wetland information

"Wetlands for Lay Folks," one of the adult education courses of the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens, will look at what a wetland is and why we care about it.

The class will meet 7-9 p.m. Thursdays, May 30 and June 6, and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays, June 1 and 8. Cost is

The course will examine how scientists and government regulators define wetlands and how these definitions differ from the public's concept of wetlands. It will look at how wetlands differ from one another with respect to their water regimes and consequent plant communities, and what qualities or functions of wetlands lend to their importance.

Field trips will be made to a number of local wetlands, so be prepared to get wet.

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

In September 1988 I wrote about the Christmas Rose Hellebore niger, and received several nice comments about that column. Now it is time to revisit the subject and catch up on the progress and experiences I have had with the Hellebore family.

Although September is a good time to plant this flower, you will probably be able to find it more readily this time of year.

I did plant a Christmas Rose after carefully considering where in my garden it would best survive, and I guess I did the correct thing, because it has been blooming for several years in its allotted spot. I chose a south-facing area in front of evergreen shrubs, and set some patterned bricks behind it to hold the warmth of the sun and to give it a backdrop when it bloomed.

Bloom time

Speaking of blooming, sometimes it blooms in the wintertime - generally in January or February - and this year it didn't bloom until Easter time! But bloom it did in splendid glory with large "flattish" creamy white flowers that turned chartreuse when they matured. The foliage is evergreen on this plant.

Three years ago I was given some tiny seedlings of the Lenten Rose, H. orientalis, and planted them on the north side of the house - a completely opposite site from the Christmas Rose. They were so tiny, only about two inches high (I had brought them from a garden in Mobile - by permission), that I did baby them and watched over them most carefully.

This year they, too, bloomed around the first part of May. The flowers are more bell-shaped than the other one and they have maroon stripes running through them. They are also smaller than the lovely Christmas Rose but have a special charm. Blooms of Helle-

COVER STORY

Eclectic combinations: This dining table combines granite, wood and glass in a classically simple but original design.

DESIGNER DRAWS ON 'INFINITE CREATIVITY'

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

Birmingham furniture designer Bruce Campbell believes there is an infinite supply of creativity.

From his workshop in Clawson, Campbell has been turning out striking, unusual furniture that seems to support his philosophy that once you're done with one idea, another good idea will surely come along.

"I had a mentor, J. Oliver Black, a wealthy industrial designer," Campbell said. "He started a retreat center in the woods in the Pigeon River Forest, a spiritual retreat.

"He taught me to conceive of something and to see it in three dimensional reality. It's all mind stuff. That's where I get my kicks. That's where the payoff is here. Very few people see that. People just don't see the results of what they do."

Campbell, 42, has been working in and thinking about creation for most of his life. Born in Jamaica to Scottish parents, his family moved to Canada when he was 13. He studied industrial design at the Ontario College of Art.

Campbell married a woman from Bloomfield Hills, studied at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and set up his first shop in Birmingham in 1988.

The Clawson location, 932 14 Mile Road, is the company's third.

"I love the concept of product development," Campbell said. "That's what sets us apart from the run-of-the-mill cabinet shops. We emphasize product development."

Campbell has been moving his small five person company toward product development, developing a line of furniture in addition to the individual pieces the shop now turns out for architects, interior designers and individual customers.

"We are serious furniture makers, functional furniture, functional elegance. We are into furniture, not art," Campbell said.

Doug MacInnes is the general manager and technical coordinator of the shop, who with his craftsmen turn out Campbell's designs. Campbell also continues to work in the production process. He is firm about promoting the talents of his employees.

"Every individual is in the portfolio building process," Campbell said. "I buy them a portfolio and acetate covers. When they leave, they have a portfolio. These small job shops are considered grunt places. I emphasize you don't work for me, you work for yourself."

Campbell's furniture shows a wide range of modern influences and also a love for material.

"At an early age, I had a wood connection," he said. "One of my uncles was a high level craftsman in Toronto and I worked with him over the summers. I also have a strong relationship with nature, I do a lot of backpacking and am planning a trip to Washington's Olympic Forest with my son this summer."

Campbell's pure line comes from his love of Japanese design and the Arts and Crafts and Frank Lloyd Wright influences of the early 20th Century.

"I enjoy the purist approach you find in Shaker and Japanese aesthetic, which is very similar though worlds apart. Japanese and Shaker aesthetic emerges out of stoicism, pure form emerges."

Campbell said he adds to this his own sense of Western decoration which creates a tension in the work.

"It's an evocative process. What do we evoke in humans. We're at such a primitive level in the arts. To shock, cause a reaction, but what are we evoking," Campbell said.

In addition to evoking his own aesthetic tastes, Campbell works closely with his clients to give them what they want.

"They'll say, for instance, they want a dining room table. We talk, I show them examples of different wood, we get to talking about who these people are, not me imposing what I want to see," Campbell said. "I come up with sketches. We'll get together again. Ultimately what we've done is shape their inner vision and brought to reality their vision."

This collaborative approach worked well for Steven and Roddie Harris of Bloomfield Hills. When they moved into the new Cranbrook Chase condominiums they noticed a table that Campbell had designed for the model and sought Campbell to make a dining set, buffet and living room wall unit.

"We sat down with him and he asked what our lifestyle was like," said Roddie Harris. "We said we wanted something different, unique, durable. Something that would last and reflect the two of us together."

Harris said the experience of working with Campbell was "wonderful." She designed the dining chairs and he fine tuned them and he brought original ideas for materials.

"He combined metals with woods, something he hadn't done before. He used granite and metal on the buffet. But the wood is cherry, so it's a contemporary look with a traditional feel," Harris said.

About 60 percent of Campbell's work is done for architects and designers. He has worked with Deloitte Touche, Perlmutter-Frywalt, Brian Kilian and Co., Cranbrook Chase Model Homes and Des Rossier among others.

Campbell has an ambitious set of goals. He would like to develop his own line of furniture to offer through public showrooms and he would also like to work with a major manufacturer to develop a mass produced line.

bores range in color - deep maroon, pinks, rose, green and white. Some are variegated.

I was at Fernwood Gardens in Niles in mid-April and both of these flowers were performing beautifully at the same time.

A year ago I bought H. argutifolius, another member of this large family. I was told that it probably wouldn't bloom, but the foliage is quite distinct and looks well alongside the Christmas Rose. But that's why we garden, isn't it? To discover and learn about the plants.

It's interesting that when the plants bloom, the foliage has become quite unsightly and needs to be cut away. Soon new foliage will appear and the plants will stay green all summer and can tolerate some drought as that is their natural dormancy period.

These plants like a lot of organic matter when they are planted and although in the wild H. orientalis often grows in acid conditions, it does very well in a more alkaline soil.

These fascinating plants do need excellent drainage and if you don't have it in your garden, consider a raised bed for them. One nice thing about Helle-bores is that they really don't require a lot of care except for specific times during the year, such as cutting off some of the "ratty" foliage in early winter so the flowers will emerge in a pretty pattern. Frankly, I don't remove the foliage until the flower starts to bloom and then do it for the esthetics, although removing some of it at the proper time may help deter blackspot.

After the leaves have all been removed to allow the beautiful flowers their due, a good mulch will be appreciated. Just before applying the mulch, thin out the seedlings. Perhaps you will have as much luck as I have had with the Lenten Rose.

There are many species of this plant. H. niger reportedly is the most difficult to grow, but I found it a care-free plant.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Come on folks, buy the doctor's book

JOE GAGNON

In the year 1990, during lunch with radio's Master Handyman Glenn Haege, I was asked "Joe, why don't you write a book about the appliance industry." No one had to ask me twice because I jumped at the opportunity to become an author. I figured that if I could put in writing much of the knowledge needed by consumers and every home in the country had appliances I might be able to sell several million books.

Let me tell you, it doesn't work that way. I haven't even come close to the first million.

I spent every spare moment of my days and nights sitting with my Macintosh pounding away at 80 words per minute. This 22 months of my life resulted in the first and only book published which took an in depth look at the complete major home appliance industry. Fear of a lawsuit is probably the only thing that prevented others from doing so in the past. I remember two and a half years ago when the first 1,000 copies arrived from the printers and the work involved in removing them from the truck. I also remember having to autograph many hundreds to consumers who had pre-ordered the book at different home shows. My right hand was raw and hurt for days. For 22 months, the book was a pain in the butt and not the book is a pain in my heart.

Every year I make appearances at home shows in the area which draw many thousands of homeowners. I sit there in the booth with my white doctor smock on and a stethoscope around my neck and answer thousands of questions from consumers. Along side me sits my publisher and helpers who sell the book and pass it to me for autographing. It is the greatest feeling in the world to be in this fortunate position and let me tell you that I never forget where I came from. Now, you're asking; "OK big guy, how come you've got a pain in your heart over this book?"

It's the people who ask questions or walk right by and then don't buy the book who cause the pain. I don't care about the money, what I care about is knowing that every person needs the information in the book. Homeowners come into my store by the thousands and tell me their tale of woe about being ripped off or wanting to know what products to buy and where to buy them and yet the book is right there on the counter. The book costs less than $15, yet these very people will waste hundreds of dollars because they don't have the information they need before making a decision.

I did a radio show on the biggie WABC in New York City a few weeks ago where I offered at no charge to the radio listeners my two little booklets (dryer and refrigerator). That two hours of radio show resulted in 5,000 requests for the FREE little booklets. A few days ago I received this very prestigious award from the Toastmasters International for being able to serve and communicate with the community. I don't think I'm doing such a great job because the consumer is still walking by the book without buying it. If I ever win the lottery, I will give it away free. Right now, I can't afford to.

The result of doing a radio show on the great voice of the Great Lakes and writing this column for the O&E has created over 10,000 requests for the free booklets and thousands of phone calls to my store. These people aren't calling to chat about the weather, they're all calling to seek information which is written in the book. I will not be around forever and the information in the book is good for a long time to come. I am not writing another book, so please buy this one so you can be a more aware consumer and I don't have to worry about your anymore. That way, no more pain in my heart.

PS - To this date, the author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," Joe Gagnon has not taken one cent in profits from the many thousands of his books already sold.

The book is available at all Damman Hardware stores and major book stores across the country. The ISBN number is 1-880615-50-9 published by Master Handyman Press Inc.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Class wades into wetland information

"Wetlands for Lay Folks," one of the adult education courses of the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens, will look at what a wetland is and why we care about it.

The class will meet 7-9 p.m. Thursdays, May 30 and June 6, and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays, June 1 and 8. Cost is $65. Call (313) 998-7061 for information.

The course will examine how scientists and government regulators define wetlands and how these definitions differ from the public's concept of wetlands. It will look at how wetlands differ from one another with respect to their water regimes and consequent plant communities, and what qualities or functions of wetlands lend to their importance.

Field trips will be made to a number of local wetlands, so be prepared to get wet.

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

In September 1988 I wrote about the Christmas Rose Hellebore niger, and received several nice comments about that column. Now it is time to revisit the subject and catch up on the progress and experiences I have had with the Hellebore family.

Although September is a good time to plant this flower, you will probably be able to find it more readily this time of year.

I did plant a Christmas Rose after carefully considering where in my garden it would best survive, and I guess I did the correct thing, because it has been blooming for several years in its allotted spot. I chose a south-facing area in front of evergreen shrubs, and set some patterned bricks behind it to hold the warmth of the sun and to give it a backdrop when it bloomed.

Bloom time

Speaking of blooming, sometimes it blooms in the wintertime - generally in January or February - and this year it didn't bloom until Easter time! But bloom it did in splendid glory with large "flattish" creamy white flowers that turned chartreuse when they matured. The foliage is evergreen on this plant.

Three years ago I was given some tiny seedlings of the Lenten Rose, H. orientalis, and planted them on the north side of the house - a completely opposite site from the Christmas Rose. They were so tiny, only about two inches high (I had brought them from a garden in Mobile - by permission), that I did baby them and watched over them most carefully.

This year they, too, bloomed around the first part of May. The flowers are more bell-shaped than the other one and they have maroon stripes running through them. They are also smaller than the lovely Christmas Rose but have a special charm. Blooms of Helle-

COVER STORY

Eclectic combinations: This dining table combines granite, wood and glass in a classically simple but original design.

STAFF WRITER

Birmingham furniture designer Bruce Campbell believes there is an infinite supply of creativity. From his workshop in Clawson, Campbell has been turning out striking, unusual furniture that seems to support his philosophy that once you're done with one idea, another good idea will surely come along.

"I had a mentor, J. Oliver Black, a wealthy industrial designer," Campbell said. "He started a retreat center in the woods in the Pigeon River Forest, a spiritual retreat.

"He taught me to conceive of something and to see it in three dimensional reality. It's all mind stuff. That's where I get my kicks. That's where the payoff is here. Very few people see that. People just don't see the results of what they do."

Campbell, 42, has been working in and thinking about creation for most of his life. Born in Jamaica to Scottish parents, his family moved to Canada when he was 13. He studied industrial design at the Ontario College of Art.

Campbell married a woman from Bloomfield Hills, studied at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and set up his first shop in Birmingham in 1988.

The Clawson location, 932 14 Mile Road, is the company's third.

"I love the concept of product development," Campbell said. "That's what sets us apart from the run-of-the-mill cabinet shops. We emphasize product development."

Campbell has been moving his small five-person company toward product development, developing a line of furniture in addition to the individual pieces the shop now turns out for architects, interior designers and individual customers.

"We are serious furniture makers, functional furniture, functional elegance. We are into furniture, not art," Campbell said.

Doug MacInnes is the general manager and technical coordinator of the shop, who with his craftsmen turn out Campbell's designs. Campbell also continues to work in the production process. He is firm about promoting the talents of his employees.

"Every individual is in the portfolio building process," Campbell said. "I buy them a portfolio and acetate covers. When they leave, they have a portfolio. These small job shops are considered grunt places. I emphasize you don't work for me, you work for yourself."

Campbell's furniture shows a wide range of modern influences and also a love for material.

"At an early age, I had a wood connection," he said. "One of my uncles was a high level craftsman in Toronto and I worked with him over the summers. I also have a strong relationship with nature. I do a lot of backpacking and am planning a trip to Washington's Olympic Forest with my son this summer."

Campbell's pure line comes from his love of Japanese design and the Arts and Crafts and Frank Lloyd Wright influences of the early 20th Century.

"I enjoy the purist approach you find in Shaker and Japanese aesthetic, which is very similar though worlds apart. Japanese and Shaker aesthetic emerges out of stoicism, pure form emerges."

Campbell said he adds to this his own sense of Western decoration which creates a tension in the work.

"It's an evocative process. What do we evoke in humans. We're at such a primitive level in the arts. To shock, cause a reaction, but what are we evoking," Campbell said.

In addition to evoking his own aesthetic tastes, Campbell works closely with his clients to give them what they want.

"They'll say, for instance, they want a dining room table. We talk, I show them examples of different wood, we get to talking about who these people are, not me imposing what I want to see," Campbell said. "I come up with sketches. We'll get together again. Ultimately what we've done is shape their inner vision and brought to reality their vision."

This collaborative approach worked well for Steven and Roddie Harris of Bloomfield Hills. When they moved into the new Cranbrook Chase condominiums they noticed a table that Campbell had designed for the model and sought Campbell to make a dining set, buffet and living room wall unit.

"We sat down with him and he asked what our lifestyle was like," said Roddie Harris. "We said we wanted something different, unique, durable. Something that would last and reflect the two of us together."

Harris said the experience of working with Campbell was "wonderful." She designed the dining chairs and he fine tuned them and he brought original ideas for materials.

"He combined metals with woods, something he hadn't done before. He used granite and metal on the buffet. But the wood is cherry, so it's a contemporary look with a traditional feel," Harris said.

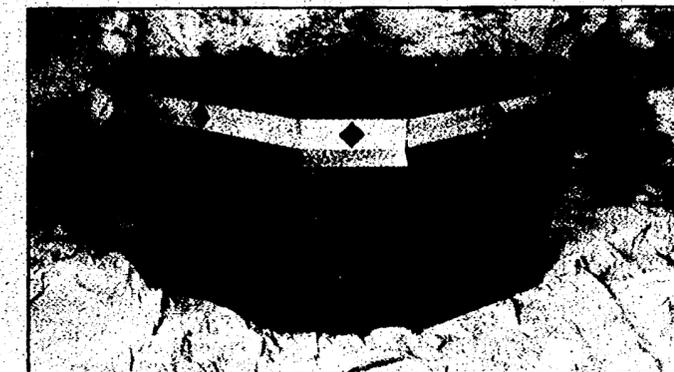

About 60 percent of Campbell's work is done for architects and designers. He has worked with Deloitte Touche, Perlmutter-Frywalt, Brian Killian and Co., Cranbrook Chase Model Homes and Des Rossier among others.

Campbell has an ambitious set of goals. He would like to develop his own line of furniture to offer through public showrooms and he would also like to work with a major manufacturer to develop a mass produced line.

Simple design: This table, which uses a variety of materials to achieve its effect, is typical of Campbell's aesthetic taste for simple design, borrowing from Japanese and American Shaker influences.

bores range in color - deep maroon, pinks, rose, green and white. Some are variegated.

I was at Fernwood Gardens in Niles in mid-April and both of these flowers were performing beautifully at the same time.

-A year ago I bought H. argutifolius, another member of this large family. I was told that it probably wouldn't bloom, but the foliage is quite distinct and looks well alongside the Christmas Rose. But that's why we garden, isn't it? To discover and learn about the plants.

It's interesting that when the plants bloom, the foliage has become quite unsightly and needs to be cut away. Soon new foliage will appear and the plants will stay green all summer and can tolerate some drought as that is their natural dormancy period.

These plants like a lot of organic matter when they are planted and although in the wild H. orientalis often grows in acid conditions, it does very well in a more alkaline soil.

These fascinating plants do need excellent drainage and if you don't have it in your garden, consider a raised bed for them. One nice thing about Helle-bores is that they really don't require a lot of care except for specific times during the year, such as cutting off some of the "ratty" foliage in early winter so the flowers will emerge in a pretty pattern. Frankly, I don't remove the foliage until the flower starts to bloom and then do it for the esthetics, although removing some of it at the proper time may help deter blackspot.

After the leaves have all been removed to allow the beautiful flowers their due, a good mulch will be appreciated. Just before applying the mulch, thin out the seedlings. Perhaps you will have as much luck as I have had with the Lenten Rose.

There are many species of this plant. H. niger reportedly is the most difficult to grow, but I found it a care-free plant.

INVITING IDEAS

Root out ingredients at ethnic markets

My pantry and storage unit are always filled with multi-ethnic ingredients, herbs, and spices – and with good reason, I spend a multitude of hours finding and poking around ethnic markets and shops. These unusual ingredients fascinate me. I love the challenge of developing new recipes utilizing these great finds – some remain true to their ethnic roots, and some become pure fusion cooking.

Chef Rudy (Radwan) Ramal, of Talal's in Dearborn, is the perfect tour guide for Middle Eastern markets. This former Chef of New York's upscale Middle Eastern eatery Al Amir on Second Avenue, has been trained in Lebanon and Paris. Chef Rudy is a talented chef who willingly shares information – and can he cook!

Recently, we went to several markets and bakeries on Warren and Schaefer Road in East Dearborn and did some shopping. As we walked from aisle to aisle, Chef Rudy found numerous ingredients I didn't have a clue about (even a koosa corer – koosa is a delicious squash, typically stuffed) and that's unusual for me with my highly developed interest in Middle Eastern cookery.

East Dearborn is a culinary "melting pot." There are a variety of ethnic markets and bakeries on Schaefer Road including Italia Bakery, Alcamo's, an Italian market, Kowalski Sausage Company, Oaza Bakery (Polish), and Irish Imports Inc. which also offers specialty food items.

On the east side, specifically Dequindre (between 14 and 16 Mile Roads) are all kinds of Asian markets. Don't forget about Eastern Market, Greek Town, and Mexican Village – and while you're downtown, don't forget to visit Canada.

Windsor has an Italian section on Erie Street and an Asian section on Wyandotte Street.

If you don't know what mougrabia, fish maw, mole (pronounced mo-lay), kasseri cheese, hundred year old eggs, sumac, orzo, green curry paste, bean thread, tahini, lotus leaves, sipa, scioppo di tamarindo, or molukhia leaves are – it's time to get out and do some serious shopping.

The following recipe is from Chef Rudy – this very special dish is 500 to 600 years old, and served on special occasions. Moughrabyah (mougrabia) is some work, but worth it!

- ¼ teaspoon ground caraway
- Pinch ground cumin
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ pound (1½ cups) shallots, chopped

1 pound lamb, cut into inch dice
 ½ cup corn oil (for frying shallots and lamb)

1 roasting chicken roasted until done, and cut into 8 pieces

Ingredients for the pasta:

1 pound of mougrabia pasta (small round balls)

1 cup boiling water

½ cup of boiling chickpeas (soaked the night before – retain water)

1½ teaspoons salt

1 teaspoon black pepper

½ teaspoon cinnamon

1 teaspoon ground caraway

Pinch of cumin

Pinch of ground nutmeg

Roast chicken in 350 degree F oven until done. Add 1 cup water to pan drippings, reserve.

Fry the shallots in 2 tablespoons of oil until brown – add 1½ cup of water and boil for 10 minutes.

Boil the chickpeas (from the sauce) in the water they were soaking in. Save the water.

In the remaining oil, fry the lamb until browned, and add 2 cups of hot water and boil for 30 minutes.

Boil the chickpeas (from the pasta) in Face-to-face: Michael R. Hillman of Flagstar Bank and Sally A. Gibson of SOC Credit Union demonstrate one end of an interactive video exchange mortgage application system.

Interactive video speeds loans

STAFF WRITER

Timing increasingly drives residential real estate transactions. Buyers must be willing to move quickly. Mortgage approval can enhance or bog down the process, make or break a sale.

Speed is especially crucial when housing demand exceeds supply. Flagstar Bank in Bloomfield Hills recognizes the scenario.

Flagstar also recognizes that most mortgages are sold to other financial institutions like itself so originators can replenish their money supply.

Flagstar's response - to provide Lenders Interactive Video Exchange (LIVE) and establish a working relationship with SOC Credit Union in Troy plus other lenders and brokers to expedite the application process.

"It substantially improves the service we all offer customers," said Michael R. Hillman, vice president of business development for Flagstar. "The end is better service to our customers. Technology is a means to the end."

"The (approval) process typically takes two to four weeks," said John Collins, senior loan underwriter with Flagstar. "Basically, everyone stays in limbo. When you bring the borrower face-to-face with the decision maker (LIVE), you typically decide within an hour."

"We're always looking for something better for our membership," said Sally A. Gibson, vice president for loans and member services at SOC. "The technology is there. We're using technology. We feel there's value to quick approval for members."

Here's how LIVE works: An SOC Credit Union member looking for a mortgage shows up at the Troy office with basic application materials. Those materials are faxed to Flagstar's office in Bloomfield.

The applicant then talks to a Flagstar representative via video camera mounted on a computer for a more personal information cleaning interaction.

Flagstar inputs the information to a computer program operated by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. for credit analysis.

The link with Freddie Mac, an ultimate guarantor of secondary market mortgages, enables Flagstar, which will buy the mortgage from SOC, to give an immediate answer, Hillman said.

"There are lenders who are using video conferencing, but no one is combining video conference with access to automated underwriting to provide loan approval at the time and place of application," he said.

"You want to talk to people making decisions," Hillman said. "You don't want a run-around. Buying a house is an important decision, a huge investment. People aren't as unhappy about being denied as being strung along." There isn't any additional cost other than traditional application fees for consumers who go LIVE, Hillman said.

Flagstar and SOC Credit Union have been linked by LIVE for about six weeks. Only a handful of mortgages have gone through the pipeline, but the marketing effort is just gearing up.

"The reaction of our members - they're ecstatic," Gibson said. "They think it's pretty neat. The ability to talk with the decision maker, the man with the checkbook, gives them peace of mind, comfort."

Laura Stevens, senior account executive with Cambridge Mortgage, a subsidiary of Century 21 Town & Country, also deals with Flagstar through an interactive video computer.

"Very often, I'll be doing a mortgage approval line while the agent is typing an offer," she said.

The big draw for consumers?

"You have some dialogue with the underwriter," Stevens said. "Borrowers love being able to talk to the person making the ultimate decision." Cambridge/Century 21 Town & Country has eight video conference sites set up in the metro area for the convenience of customers.

SOC is the first credit union to hook up with Flagstar's LIVE. Some 450 mortgage brokers also have access through a similar network.

Joyce and Robert Puckett experienced interactive video conferencing through Town & Country, Cambridge and Flagstar.

The couple changed mortgage companies in midstream within a week of their closing date.

"I was really, really impressed this happened so quickly without glitches," Joyce said. "I felt like I was in a Jetsons movie. I would do it again in a minute."

Debra and David Freeman utilized LIVE through SOC and Flagstar.

"We got an answer rather quickly. It was only a matter of a couple hours," Debra said. "We expected to go in and fill out papers and wait."

The ability to explain things face-to-face and interact directly with another person is much less intimidating than writing out an application, she added.

There isn't much question that computers and interactive video will do for the mortgage process what computers have done to replace multi listing service books.

"Everyone's thinking about it," said Steve Lukas, vice president and mortgage sales manager for National Bank of Royal Oak. "We have to. It's the nature of the beast now. Everyone wants to be faster and faster."

"It's our belief everyone will be using this capability eventually," Hillman said.

New freeway may be grounds for legal action

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q: They just built an expressway near my house and I believe that I have now experienced an unreasonable diminution in value of my residence following the construction of that expressway and service drive next to the residence. Do I have any basis for relief in an action against what I would understand to be the Department of Transportation.

A: I believe that you have a strong argument for compensation. It has long been recognized that a diminution in value of property where there is no direct invasion of property does not result in the "taking" under the Constitution that requires compensation. However, this principle is founded upon necessity and is limited accordingly, but compensation can be obtained where the burden to the property goes beyond the incidental injuries that would normally be attendant and shared generally by the property owners whose land lie within the range of inconveniences. You will have to establish that your use and enjoyment of the property has been detrimentally affected to a degree greater than that of the citizenry at large in conjunction with the normal use of a highway. You should obviously consult with an attorney to assist you in that matter, particularly since in a condemnation matter, you may also be entitled to recoup your attorney fees.

Q: I am a newly elected member to the board and discovered an alarming situation, that is, our management company representative apparently looks at all of the bids from the contractors before submitting the bid from an affiliate of the management company who I find nearly always get the job and is the lowest bidder. Is this fair and reasonable?

A: The management agent is a fiduciary of the association. The contractors which are bidding on the project presumably are doing so in good faith, believing that their bids are being reviewed by the board of directors in a fair and equitable fashion. Obviously, to the extent that the managing agent is using its position to gain benefit for its own management company or its subsidiary or affiliate, this is an unfair and abusive advantage and, ultimately, will be a detriment to the association. The fact that the bid that ultimately comes in from your managing agent's affiliate is the lowest and best does not necessarily mean that they are the most capable to do the work or that the circumstances allowing such a condition are proper. It would appear to me that actions of that type on the part of the management company are grounds for termination and the board should seriously consider doing so since that may well be the tip of the iceberg.

Choose the mortgage that's right for your needs

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

There is a wide selection of mortgages available in today's market, and you should narrow the field by considering your particular situation. Your choice of mortgage will be influenced by questions such as:

- How many years do you expect to live in your new home?
- How important is it to be free of mortgage debt before facing your children's college bills or planning for your own retirement?
- How comfortable are you with the certainty of a fixed mortgage payment versus a payment that can change over time?

Advantages of fixed-rate mortgages

If you expect to live in your home for many years, the interest rate of your loan may be your primary consideration. You may want a fixed-rate mortgage that will ensure that your interest rate will remain the same for as long as you have your loan. If you decide that you like the stable, predictable payments of a fixed-rate loan, then you must choose from a variety of repayment terms — 15, 20 and 30 years are most common. Here are some points to compare about various fixed-rate loans:

■ A 30-year fixed-rate mortgage is the easiest fixed-rate loan to qualify for. Its longer term gives you the best chance to keep monthly payments low and use the extra cash for other purposes.

■ A 20-year fixed-rate mortgage amortizes principal and interest over a 20-year period, 10 years sooner than the traditional 30-year mortgage. It offers you the opportunity to own your home debt-free much more quickly. Yet, the monthly payment is only somewhat higher than for the 30-year mortgage loan.

■ A 15-year fixed-rate mortgage offers a lower interest rate than a 30-year or 20-year mortgage and will save you a significant amount of interest over the life of the loan. You will build up equity in your home quickly, which can allow you to move to a more expensive home sooner. If you're nearing retirement, this shorter-term mortgage allows you to own your home sooner. The benefits of a 15-year mortgage come with a price — your monthly mortgage payment will be considerably higher than for the 30-year mortgage.

Advantages of adjustable-rate mortgages

If you're confident that your income will increase steadily over the years, or if you plan to move in a few years and aren't concerned with potential rate increases, then you may want to consider an ARM. ARMs feature an interest rate that moves up and down as market conditions change. Although an ARM usually offers a lower initial interest rate, your mortgage payments change periodically (usually once or twice a year). Interest rate changes typically are subject to two caps, one for each adjustment period and one for the life of your loan. For example, a typical ARM that adjusts annually may have a per adjustment cap of 2 percent and a lifetime cap of 6 percent.

Because ARMs offer lower initial interest rates, initial monthly payments will be lower, so you may be able to qualify for a larger mortgage amount. However, you will likely be required to come up with more than 5 percent down payment (usually at least 10 percent). Of course, if interest rates go down, your payment will decrease as well. Some ARMs offer you the chance to convert to a fixed-rate loan (for a fee) within a certain period of time.

The interest charges on an adjustable-rate mortgage are always tied to a financial index. A financial index is a readily publishable rate — for example, the financial index for many credit cards is the prime rate. The three most popular types of ARMs are:

■ Treasury-Indexed ARMs, indexed to six-month, one-year or three-year Treasury bills or securities. Depending on which of these three indexes you choose, your interest rate will adjust once every six months, once each year or once every three years.

■ CD-Indexed ARMs, which adjust to a Certificate of Deposit (CD) index. Rate adjustments typically occur every six months, with a per year adjustment of 1 percent and a lifetime cap of 6 percent.

■ Cost of Funds-Indexed ARMs, indexed to the actual costs of a particular group of lending institutions pays to borrow money. Lenders using this index can adjust mortgage rates every six months or annually. The most popular index of this type is the Cost of Funds Index for the 11th Federal Home Loan Bank District of San Francisco.

When comparing ARMs that have different indexes, you should look at how the index has performed. Some indexes are widely published in newspapers, making them easy to track. Mortgage lenders are required to provide you with information on how to track the index and to provide a 15-year history of the index they use. Remember, though, that past performance cannot predict future performance of the index or the direction your interest rate may go.

Next week we'll discuss other options.

Tree man

Brian Granader, a sales associate at Century 21 Associates Northwood, figures he will have delivered about 1,500 pine seedlings to front porches in Royal Oak this spring by the end of the week.

The main purpose is to beautify the city, Granader said, but he concedes that it doesn't hurt to get his name out, either.

"It's especially rewarding to give back something to the community," he said. "I live here. I do a lot of business here. I strongly believe in showing appreciation to the people with whom Century 21 Northwood services."

Granader estimates that the goodwill gesture/promotion cost about $2,000.

Eviction seminar

The Real Estate Investors Association presents a program, "Tenant Evictions and Who You Can Hire to Do It for You," 7 p.m., Tuesday, June 4, at the Ramada in Southgate on Northline Road one block east of I-75.
