Woman dies in auto crash

By Darrell Clem

A 62-year-old Livonia woman died Wednesday after she drove into the path of an oncoming milk truck that slammed into her car at the Merriman-Ann Arbor Trail intersection in Westland's north

Jo Ann Hartley - Westland's sixth traffic fatality of the year - was pronounced dead at 4:55 p.m. at Garden City Hospital, three hours after her 1992 Chevy Cavalier was hit by a Country Pride milk truck, Westland police Officer Steve Frazer said.

The accident occurred when Hartley, driving southbound on Merriman, tried to turn east onto Ann Arbor Trail and drove into the truck's path,

Frazer said. The truck driver, who was northbound on Merriman, wasn't injured, the officer said. Hartley's death came as a surprise because she didn't appear to have serious injuries at the accident scene, where she talked with police officers, Frazer said.

"She had no visible injuries other than some facial lacerations," he said.

Hartley died three hours later, however, and Frazer said Thursday that internal injuries are believed to be the cause of death.

An autopsy was being performed Thursday, and Frazer was awaiting a report from the Wayne County medical examiner's office.

Hartley was wearing a seat belt during the accident, Frazer said, and alcohol has been ruled out as a contributing factor.

Council mulls offender center

Nonviolent offenders trying to make the transition from prison to society would be housed at a Westland facility under a plan that the Westland City Council is expected to decide during a Dec. 18 meeting.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Federal prisoners re-entering society will be housed at a Westland facility if the Westland City Council approves a plan opposed by some south-end residents.

As many as 35 nonviolent male offenders - convicted of crimes such as tax evasion, fraud and drug charges - would live in a one-story. 7.200-square-foot building south of Michigan Avenue, just west of Henry Ruff.

The facility would be supervised at all times by four to six staff members from Community Treatment Centers Inc., a community-based residential program for nonviolent federal offenders.

Residents would be allowed to leave the facility only to work or to seek jobs.

"They would have to go straight to and from work; there's no frolicking," CTC attorney Timothy Stoep-ker said Thursday. "There's no going home or to the store to shop."

The closest homes to the Westland site are located on the west side of Merriman in the city of Wayne. according to findings from the Westland Planning Commission, which supports the proposal.

City council members are expected to decide the plan during a 7 p.m. Dec. 18 meeting on the second floor of Westland City Hall.

The program is geared toward federal offenders who, while on probation or parole, receive transitional services aimed at helping them to re-establish their lives.

Most offenders are placed in CTC facilities for one year or less.

South-end resident Dorothy Smith, one of three residents who earlier voiced concerns to the plans ning commission, said Thursday that the CTC facility "would be nothing more than a halfway, house.'

"These criminals would be roam-

State senator worried about voting practices

Practices at several Michigan voting precincts on Nov. 5 were not only startling and cause for great dismay but also illegal, according to state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

That was the message he delivered Nov. 20 when speaking to the Livonia League of Women Voters in the Livonia Civic Center Library.

Numerous volunteers exercised their legal rights to attend precinct elections in the capacity of poll challengers in an attempt to police ballot security - ensuring the honesty and integrity of election practices in the polling place.

"I want to stress the word 'attempt,' " said Geake. "Despite repeated warnings and corrections by poll challengers, election officials in every area of the state we visited blatantly ignored, bullied, threatened and sometimes banned challengers from the polling place. Illegal practices continue unabated."

Areas with the highest number of reported abuses included Flint, Saginaw and Lansing. The list of abuses is varied, long and almost unbelievable for anyone who has voted in a well-run precinct, said Geake.

Practices commonly included among the travesties witnessed, said Geake, included:

• Little or no privacy was provided in the voting booth, with too much voter assistance provided to voters who were clearly literate.

Although demonstration ballots were available, election workers seldom used them. In Lansing, poll workers did not provide adequate assistance to voters who could not speak English. • Ballot envelopes, called privacy folders, were not available, providing election workers with a clear view of voter choices. When envelopes did arrive in one precinct, there was not even a sufficient number to be reused in each booth.

 Campaigning took place in the polling place. In Saginaw, one candidate went from precinct to precinct, where election workers actually announced his arrival, made introductions and allowed him to shake hands with people in the polling place.

In many places, campaign buttons and T-shirts were abundant. A higscreen television played in a precinct in Westland, complete with political announcements.

• In several precincts, people were permitted to vote even if they were not registered in that precinct or registered at all, and ballot boxes were left unattended.

 Handicapped facilities were lacking, causing difficulties, embarrassment and indignities to the handicapped.

· Westland's touch-screen computer voting system was new and inefficient, causing many voters to wait a minimum of two hours, 20 minutes and as long as three and a half hours. When paper ballots arrived, voters were instructed to vote anywhere in the polling place, with no privacy or ballot security.

• In some places, including Saginaw and Inkster, poll challengers were not allowed near the activity to be monitored and were eventually banned from the polling place.

• In Flint, election officials made regular announcements to vote straight-ticket or risk spoiling the ballot. Similar instructions were offered in areas where races were close, having a potential impact on the outcome.

· One challenger reported being told by an election official, "We don't follow state law here. We have our own interpretations."

Geake said part of the problem stems from election workers being improperly instructed, whether

Holiday closings

Westland municipal offices will be closed Thursday and Friday for the Thanksgiving holiday weekend. Trash pickup for Thanksgiving Day will be on Friday, and Friday's pickup will be on Saturday. Curbside pickup of compost will end on Saturday, Nov. 30, and will resume in the spring. The chipping season already has ended and will also resume in the spring. Winter hours for the recycling center on Marquette, east of Newburgh, are 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The closings affect the Westland District Court, the Friendship Center and all municipal administrative offices. Not affected are police, fire and EMS emergency services.

First deer hunter

Westland resident Ernie Kuehneman Jr. was the first successful deer hunter to cross the Mackinac Bridge to the Lower Peninsula, according to a press release. Kuehneman shot his buck about 8:30 a.m. on opening day of the firearm deer-hunting season near Newberry in the Upper Peninsula.

When he stopped at the Big Boy restaurant near the bridge for lunch, he was given a complimentary piece of pie by the management for getting his deer. A Mackinac Bridge attendant noted that Kuehneman was the first successful deer hunter to cross the bridge into the Lower Peninsula. He crossed the bridge at 12:20 p.m. on Nov. 15 to return home.

Smith also charged that undesirable projects in Westland always seem to occur in the city's south end.

"Why can't it be in the north end sometime?" she asked.

Westland police Sgt. Michael Terry prepared a report for city leaders after investigating CTC facilities in Detroit, Saginaw and Grand Rapids. He noted that prisoners convicted of murder, arson, rape and other violent crimes, in addition to those with mental disorders, are "rejected" from the program.

Residents are subject to regular drug and alcohol screening, and arrests for any crime, such a shoplifting, fighting and drunken driving, are grounds for "immediate dismissal" from the program, Terry found.

Interviews with business owners, church employees and residents near other CTC facilities revealed that most consider the offenders to be "good neighbors," Terry's report said.

His investigation found minor fights and loud music to be among the few complaints about the centers.

"In conclusion, I found no one, either police or neighbors, who had any objection to the centers," Terry concluded.

"It should be noted that I arrived unannounced at each center and found no loitering outside and an employee stationed at each entrance. I was required to show identification and sign in at each building.

Terry's report noted that "although only low-risk offenders come into the program, it doesn't mean that a client doesn't have a past conviction history of violence, and some clients do have assaultive backgrounds."

However, residents have been sentenced to CTC facilities "for other low-risk crimes."

Aside from requiring residents to seek work, CTC staff members also provide counseling and other services for legal problems, family and employment problems, loss of motivation, substance abuse and physical disability.

CTC programs aren't a free ride, though. Residents are required to pay a fee that amounts to 25 percent of their gross income.

Moreover, monthly progress reports are submitted to the U.S. Probation Service, Parole Commission and Bureau of Prisons.

Plans for prisoner release are reviewed by CTC staff members and forwarded to the U.S. Justice Department.

Tutors boon to middle school students

By Marie Chestney

Stephanie Heichman, seventh-grader at a Livonia school district middle school knows a good deal when she sees one.

"I need help with homework because I'm not quite that smart," Stephanie says as she works on decimals under the watchful eye of Beth Centers, a freshman at Schoolcraft Col-

Both Stephanie and Centers took part Wednesday in a new after school tutoring program launched in September at Riley School, in the district which serves the northern section of Westland.

Every Wednesday, about 30 students and 12 Schoolcraft students meet in small groups in the school's library. The Riley students come to get extra help with their homework. The Schoolcraft students, all would-be teachers, come to give them that extra help, and earn college credits to boot. "We try to match the students with tutors who are good in an area, such as language arts or social studies," said Ann Owen, Riley assistant principal. For example, Schoolcraft sophomores

Chris Donkers and Hunter Hinchcliff plan to one day teach math. So it was only natural that those students who needed extra help with some tough pre-algebra assignments plunked down their math books at their tables Wednesday and started asking ques-

Donkers helped seventh-graders Ryan Vella and Rachel Allison. "This is a lot more complicated than regular math," Allison Hinchcliff spent time with Eric Cone, a seventh-grader who was hard at work studying exponents and variables. "This is new stuff; once I get the hang of it, it should be easier," Eric says.

The idea of an after-hours tutoring session came from the school's education planning

"We talked about how to deal with kids having academic difficulties," Owen says. We felt we needed something after school hours, on an as-needed basis. Students don't have to come every week.'

School administrators hooked up with Schoolcraft administrators, who got students to sign up to teach the sessions.

"The tutors are young, and relate well to the kids," Owen says. "They're forming nice relationships."

Each 1-1/2 hour session kicks off with a treat. Last Wednesday it was pizza and pop. Zach Stone, a seventh-grader, quips that he comes for the snacks. But, tutored by sophomore Brenda Page, he also worked hard on some math and social studies problems.

At her table, Page answers questions from Zach and seventh-graders Tyler Foraker and Jacob Khalil. Tyler struggles with the human circulation system, from a science class. He admits that the work he does in the tutoring session makes a big difference in the job he does when he gets back to the classroom.

Jacob is preoccupied with regions of the world and math. "I get help with what I don't understand," he says.

By coming to the session, Dan Fine, an eighth-grader, says he has no excuse to not do his homework. Both Dan and fellow eighth-grader John Stann, filling in worksheets, are tutored by sophomore Jeanene Ference.

"Parents love this," says Owen, and her words are backed by many of the students. "My mom wants me to come here," says

Dusy Saad.

"My mom doesn't understand math," says Zach Stone.

Seventh-grader Brad Bryant, tutored by sophomore Autumn Cranford, calls the sessions a good way to get correct answers to questions involving exponents. "I get my homework done without a lot of wrong answers."

Eighth grader Erich Simo has come to every session since they started. This Wednesday, he dictates answers to a literature assignment to Sharon Wells, Riley learning specialist.

"He'll turn the paper in tomorrow," Wells

Each week, students sign up for the sessions, and the group changes weekly. The . session is limited to about 30 students.

"If too many students come, no one will get help, so they'll ask, why bother coming,'

"Sadly, many voters do not know election law nor their own rights to privacy. Democracy is the foundation upon which America was built. That foundation is being decayed by those who are more interested in election outcomes than voter rights.

"Most voting precincts operate efficiently and honestly, but abuses can still be found. Precincts with large numbers of illiterate or non-English speaking voters, or where new, unfamiliar voting procedures are being introduced, are particularly vulnerable. Honest elections require constant vigilance."

Business puts soul into serving shoppers

By Leonard Poger

Hershey's Shoes has been an area business landmark for 50 years - thanks to an inventory of 30,000 pairs of shoes and widespread word of mouth communications among shoppers.

An excellent example was observed last week when a former congressman, Carl Pursell, and his wife, Peggy, who live in northwest Plymouth Township dropped in.

They were referred to the business on Ford west of Middlebelt by a friend, Michael Hoben, former Plymouth-Canton school superintendent.

Pursell represented the 2nd Congressional District, which includes western Wayne County, from 1976-1994. Mrs. Pursell was a longtime Livonia school district teacher before retiring six years ago.

Store manager Tom Welch said that Hershey's, on Ford near Middlebelt, is one of the Detroit area's largest remaining independent family shoe stores left.

Proudly pointing out shelves holding some 30,000 pairs of shoes, Welch added that Hershey's caries a wide inventory of children's shoes as well as hard-to-fit sizes that buyers can't get at shop-

Welch, who heads a staff of four full-time and three part-time employees, has been with the store for 27 years, starting when he was a Franklin High School student.

The manager, 43, said the business was first located on the southeast side of the Ford-Middlebelt corner, next to the LaParisien Theater, which closed in early 1986 and a few doors away from the rides the old fashioned merry-go-round existing Orin Jewelry business.

The shoe store, started by Harry Baskin, relocated across the street to its current site in 1958, or four years before the world's first Kmart Store behind it.

"Some families have a third generation coming in to buy shoes," Welch said.

"There are grandmothers who bought their shoes here bringing in their grandchildren."

Adding to the atmosphere is the mechanical carousel which was installed about 30 years ago. In some instances, mothers bring in their children to ride on the carousel and comment that they also rode on the carousel years ago. The mothers even have photos taken of their children on the mechanical horses. The manager reflected a little on how children's carry sizes you can't get at the malls, such as extra shoe styles have changed over the years. "We used to sell hundreds of hard-soled shoes for children," he recalled. "Now it's all soft soles." How does the independent business continue to survive in the wave of franchise shoe stores and similar businesses in regional malls? "We give excellent service," Welch said. "We Another measure of their stability and growth is the "Side Door Outlet" which was opened nearly a year ago on the western side of their business.

The addition offers customers sales on name brand merchandise, Welch said.

Resident recovering from injuries

BY VALERIE OLANDER STAFF WRITER

A 28-year-old Westland man was listed in good condition and recuperating at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor after being hit by two vehicles early Sunday morning, Nov. 17, in the Cherry Hill and Lotz Road area.

Residents were awakened by the sounds of squealing tires and several ran outside to help the victim before police and emergency personnel arrived.

"I heard a squeal when I was just about to go to sleep. I thought I was going to hear an accident. I was waiting for the crash, but instead I heard a thud," said Wayne Parks, 17, a student at Plymouth Canton High School.

When Parks looked out his bedroom window, he saw several cars stopped on the road and people beginning to gather around an object in the road. He didn't know if it was a person or an animal. Then, he saw a 1992 teal Saturn, traveling at the posted speed of 45 mph, run over the object once again.

Canton Detective Leonard Wolons said Westland's Gordon Michael Walstead attempted to cross Cherry Hill Road. He was hit first by a 1995 Ford Ranger, driven by a 19-year-old Canton

The Ranger was heading westbound and knocked Walstead into the eastbound lanes, where he was struck again by the Saturn, driven by a 27-year-old Westland woman.

Wayne Parks said he woke up his parents and his father ran outside to help the victim. Larry Parks retrieved an hydraulic jack from his garage to lift the Saturn from Walstead, who was lodged underneath. Police arrived just as the rescue was being attempted.

"Everyone was just hysterical," said the younger Parks. "I've never seen anything like this before."

Westland police assisted Canton, who had been busy earlier in the evening with a fatal accident at Warren and Lilley. No traffic citations were issued, police said.

Police need help

Suspect wanted: Westland police have released a photo of a suspect involved in last Monday afternoon's robbery of a Comerica bank on Wayne Road, south of Cherry Hill. Canton DDA

S'craft board votes to opt out of project

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft trustee Carol Strom told Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack she appreciated the improvements and development going on in Canton.

But she also believed it wasn't her responsibility as a college trustee to pay for road improvements.

"My biggest disagreement is that the money to educate students should not be put for roads, even if it's $5," Strom said.

With that, the Schoolcraft board of trustees voted 5-2 Wednesday not to participate in the Canton Downtown Development Authority.

The DDA is a form of tax increment financing, which allows local governments to "capture" increases in property value to finance infrastructure improvements:

Strom was joined by board chairwoman Patricia Watson, vice-chairman John Walsh and trustees Mary Breen and Brian Broderick supporting a motion not to participate, while trustees Dick DeVries and Steve Ragan voted against that action.

A resolution exempting the college from the DDA also passed by a 5-2 vote with the same trustees taking the same yes and no positions.

DDA history

The Canton DDA was created in 1984 for an 80-acre area along a strip on Ford Road from Morton Taylor to Sheldon. The DDA would divert assessment growth to the municipality that normally goes to the community college.

Canton had only two access points to I-275, while Livonia Under state law, Schoolcraft's has eight, four on I-275 and four board can opt out of the DDA by on I-96, Yack said.

"We survey our residents constantly, and if they have a comdirector Tony Minghine compiled plaint, it's with the roads," growth and how Schoolcraft ben-Minghine added.

> DeVries asked if the township asked voters for approval of mills for road improvements.

Yack said the township rejected one in March 1995 by 48 votes. In light of that millage rejection and because Canton officials believe they are entitled to more state transportation funds distributed in Wayne County, the township has chosen not to initiate a special assessment district.

Yack said the DDA can fund construction of libraries and fire stations, but projects like that can go over a "long period of time.'

That time frame and the diversion of funds didn't sit well with the board's majority.

"In a sense we're shifting the costs of this (DDA) to the students," Watson said. That money, if collected by Schoolcraft, could defer tuition hikes to students. ly 18 percent) outweighed the Minghine said any growth would benefit all the parties.

Ragan said Canton's revenue and growth aided the college. "In some respects, it is the goose that laid the golden egg," Ragan said. He believed Canton's growth would end if Ford Road's problems were not resolved.

Trustees split

When Canton's report ended and the board acted on it as an agenda item. Walsh said he believed the roads should be developed, but that the state and county should own up to those funding responsibilities. The trustees' job was to put the college and students first, he said.

"The only way to make up a deficit, if one is to occur, is to raise tuition," Walsh said.

Ragan pointed out Schoolcraft was not giving up that much money to the DDA. Ragan and DeVries called the DDA an "investment."

DeVries said the $175,000 over the next five years that would be lost by Schoolcraft represented about $1 in tuition over that time for each student. "That's about 20 cents a student," he said.

"This college is in incredible kind of shape. I don't foresee us having trouble down the road."

But those arguments didn't sway the majority of the board's members. That was summed up at the end of the Canton presentation by a trustee.

"There's no question that Ford Road should be improved." Strom said. "The question is where should that money come

TOOTH BLEACHING

Not only do teeth become stained as a result of drinking coffee and smoking, but they also yellow with age. Other reasons for tooth discoloration include taking mild antibiotics (such as tetracycline and tetramycin) for a long period of time, fluorosis (a brownish stain caused by tap water with a high fluoride content), as well as tooth discoloration due to trauma or root canals. To improve the appearance of their teeth, patients may turn to the most conservative procedure available for this purpose. Presbyterian minister convert to computer age in computer usage.

Clergy are finding out that personal contact isn't the only effective method of communicating with their congregations.

Computers are fast becoming a new technique. A new pastor who wants to lead the way in his new assignment is the Rev. Christopher "Kip" Harris, recently installed as pastor of Garden City Presbyterian Church, on Middlebelt at John Hauk.

"Computers will have a positive effect on the church," he said in an interview in his office.

"Fortunately, people here were aware of communications with other churches in the area and nationally. "We are blessed with having a staff that believes

"I think people are becoming more aware of the capabilities and benefits of computer communication," said the 38-year-old pastor who started his duties at the church Sept. 22 and was formally installed Nov. 10.

Harris credited his predecessor, the Rev. Gareth (Gary) Baker, for moving the congregation into the

The new pastor, who heads a congregation which has only two clergy since 1938, realizes the importance of computers from a purely personal level. That's because he met his future wife, Kristen, through their PCs. In a two-and-a-half page memo, Kristen described the electronic online connection which a church Internet employee and he was in Mon-She recalled that on Oct. 19, 1993, "some guy named Kip Harris joined 'here I am' on the Ecunet (the church network).

"I, being the truly helpful person I am, sent a greeting note.

"Over the following weeks, I noticed this Kip guy everywhere and his notes were interesting and made sense."

A few weeks after the first electronic contacts, she asked Harris about a problem she was having with her computer.

He replied that he was experienced the same problem before he fixed it.

Harris then gave her his 800 work phone number which he said he "never" provided to anyone. The first phone conservation was only two minutes and "nothing exciting at all," she recalled. The next personal note was several months later when Harris asked a few PC users to send electronic notes to a friend of his having a "rough go of it at the time."

Later, there was occasional online contact. Kristen admitted that they "conversed casually" on the Internet but there was "nothing profound, nothing special, just friendly notes about a variety of topics - me trying to buy a house, him going on vacation to Ohio, me doing summer camp, him dealing with his 14-pound cat, etc."

Soon they exchanged home phone numbers. Kristen figured that since he was in Montana, took place while she was working in Wisconsin as she would be safe in giving him her home number. A day later, Kip phoned her at home - and hung > up three and a half hours later. The following day, Kristen called. They didn't hang up for four hours.

A day later, Kip phoned her to say: "We can't do this anymore. We'll go broke. We should just send notes." She agreed.

But the next day, Kip phone her and talked for only 90 minutes. "In those phone calls," she said, "we covered everything. I know more about Kip Harris than anyone else on this planet, probably, and he the same with me." They finally met in person on Sept. 24 that year in Chicago when Harris was there on church busi-

"It was as if we were coming home to someone we had known for years," she recalled of that first face-to-face contact. "One of my friends equates Kip and my relationship to that of two pen pals who have corresponded for many months, meet each other and fall instantly in love. Our correspondence was electronic - that's all!"

They met for two days at the meeting Kip was attending and then again the next month in Caliwith Kristen currently working as an executive assistant for a church group's Ecunet service.

On other topics, Harris admitted that it was "scary at first" when he assumed his new duties at Garden City Presbyterian Sept. 22.

"There was pressure in succeeding a pastor who had been there more than 20 years," he said. "It also gave me a feeling of comfort knowing that's that much stability in the congregation."

He added that things are going well in his first two months on the job and that he has an "open management style" in that he's not a clockwatcher or a nail driver toward his staff of six, of which five are part-timers. He feels the congregation has responded positively to his worship style, which he described as a "standard Presbyterian flair, with standard Presbyterian liturgy but more upbeat." "I always try to keep a sense of happiness in the worship service," he said.

At his installation service on Nov. 10, the key speaker was the Rev. Kurt Kremlick Jr. of the Cherry Hill Presbyterian Church.

Others taking part were the Rev. Erik Alsgaard and Jackie Zopff, who headed the church's pastor search committee and is currently serving as the church's office secretary.

By the way, the pastor's hobbies extend well beyond spending a lot of time at his personal com-

S'craft trustees OK new signs for Livonia campus, satellite craft College will see new marquee signs in about six to 10

That was the estimate given by Butch Raby, vice president of business services of Schoolcraft College, to the college's board of trustees.

Trustees unanimously approved Wednesday the purchase of three signs with message centers from ASI Sign Systems in Clarkston for $226,317.

Two signs will be displayed at the main campus, one on the north side of campus, the other on the south side. The third sign will be installed at the Radcliff Center in Garden City, just south of Ford Road, between Merriman and Wayne roads.

The current signs are 13 years old and "out of date in style and ability to display up-to-date messages in a cost-effective manner," according to the administrative request presented to the board.

The current signs take about 18 hours a month for the physical plant staff to change the messages and, in inclement weather conditions, "changes can be difficult."

Marquee sign technology now allows for messages that can be programmed from an employee's desk. The signs also will be back-lighted to improve night time readability, have Windowsbased software for creating and scheduling messages, and have a two-year full service warranty.

"You can program it for a year in advance, or change it at any moment, Raby said.

Raby said he didn't anticipate the sign operation to disturb neighbors of the Radcliff Center. "We certainly wouldn't operate it which the buildings sit from Trustees unanimously approved two contracts Wednesday with office personnel and physical plant employees, which will pay those workers 2.5 percent annually over two years.

The agreements expire June 30, 1998. Workers will receive pay retroactive July 1, 1996.

The two unions were the 60member Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel and the 44-member Schoolcraft College Personnel Association (Physical Plant Employees).

No other changes were made to the new contract.

Raby reported there was "no real progress" in talks with Duke Realty Investments about Duke purchasing all or part of 16 acres of the 7 Mile Crossing property from Schoolcraft.

The property is currently zoned for office, high rise and hotels. It has about 1,000 feet of frontage on Seven Mile and 400 to 500 feet along I-275. The site has no deed restrictions.

BEAUTY AND THE BEST

Holiday shine takes polishing

With the major holidays soon upon us, you will have a thousand details to take care of and presumable enjoyable times ahead. However, here are a few things that you may want to keep in mind and perhaps make these special occasions a little more memorable.

At this time of year, the camera is probably used more than any other to record people and events. Most often it will be at night-time and not under the best of lighting. Rather than looking back on those photos and thinking "What was I thinking?" make sure that you carry extra powder to fight "the shine."

Wear a little more blusher to help frame the face. Don't use too much lip gloss - unless you want your lips to be the biggest feature in the shot.

If you are one of those women who do not wear any make-up at all (and you are probably not reading this column anyway), remember that the eyes always draw the most attention, and if you only put on one thing, use mascara. It will make the most difference, I promise!

You will be bringing out your finery - outfits that are seasonal and geared toward the Christmas and New Year's occasions. Just keep repeating the mantra, "Classic is classic for a very good reason." There is a lot of evidence why a simple black dress (or a Rolls Royce) have stood the test

Wear too many accessories and you will be confused with the Christmas tree. Make your hairstyle too elaborate and you may have a prolonged encounter with the mistletoe. Wear red mascara or mustard fingernail polish and you will be looking at the photos for a very long time

- or maybe you'll just cut them up. Trends either in clothing or make-up belong with the young. Trends are natural for them, and a way for them to rebel or make their mark. I'm sure you remember pointy-toes shoes and pedal pushers.

Your skin tone and your shape don't change that much from year to year that you have to rush out and get the latest black raspberry or puce anything! New is not for everyone. There is a happy medium between being current and being stuck in a time warp. Make your mirror your best advisor, not the fashion pages.

A lot of you will be traveling to a different climate for the season. The two main ones are the cold - for skiing or snow-bunnying, or to the warmer climates to catch some well-earned rays. Don't forget your skin-care lessons.

Plenty of moisturizer and sunblock is welladvised for both places. Don't forget to put sunblock on the back of your hands, an area that most forget. If somebody wants to guess your real age, a quick look at the hands is easier to read than the rings around your neck.

Eating is a great part of the holidays - why else spend the rest of the year depriving yourself? Most people have a sweet tooth, and to anticipate the onslaught of calories, you should throw in a couple of facials before the party circuit begins. This will give your skin a head start, open the pores, clean out the problem areas, and, I hope, cut down on the surprises that may appear in the mirror afterward.

No matter how much you drink, no matter how much you have had a wonderful time, no matter whether you hang up your clothes or not, please take time to clean your skin before going to bed. Your face and your sheets will thank you.

(In December I'll be rehearsing for my starring role in Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite" at the Croswell Opera House in Adrian. In January, I'll be back on the salon circuit appearing in Rochester Hills and Romeo. Call to Region 'comes of age' - says analyst

Is Detroit becoming a world class town? Will the Motor City one-day join the ranks of San Francisco, Paris, Hong Kong? It's heading in the right direction, according to one analyst who insists the evolving retail scene is leading the way.

By Marilyn Barnett SPECIAL WRITER

It's fascinating — despite the information revolution and commerce by electron — to consider the power held by a sense of place.

The left bank of Paris for artists and lovers and intellectuals. Bourbon Street and jazz. London's 10. Downing St. as a seat of power. In New York, we have Wall Street for finance and Fifth Avenue for fashion. Chicago has always had its lakefront Miracle Mile.

Now, Detroit and Michigan retail have Somerset. And the real amazement is how quickly the name Somerset has come to stand not just for a physical center in Troy, as grand as it is, but our region's retail coming of age in both consumer taste and standards of service.

The accolades, the Somerset Effect cocktail talk, are all on target. There's probably three or four master's theses already in the works! The retail ante has been raised and the competition has responded, from nearby malls and downtown areas to stand-alone stores.

Never has the standard been higher for retailers and never have Michigan retailers achieved such a high level of excellence. Everyone is shaping up.

°Getting There

But actually this hasn't happened overnight. Retail's intrinsic reliance impacted other industries as our service economy has grown. Some have come willingly; others have been forced into action by competitors or declining sales.

In our hometown auto industry, it took the competitive inroads made by foreign car makers to make us more consumer and service-oriented. Today, auto companies are delivering new and unique products and unparalleled levels of service in their dealerships.

My own first-time Nordstrom experience at Somerset far exceeded my expectations. I was greeted at the door and accompanied through the store by a single, genuinely. attentive salesperson. I made one visit and paid one bill. I didn't collect register receipts; I shopped.

What Nordstrom does so well is translate "knowing your customer" into "pleasing your customer." This is the Nordstrom lesson. Image may get them to the store. Merchandise and price will make the sale. Service and consistency keeps them coming

In all this, quick fixes or knee jerk reactions won't bring home the bacon. A corporate image must be more than neon flash; it must be understood, believed and practiced by each person in the organization, day after day.

Today's consumer is more informed and has more ways and outlets than ever by which to shop. They understand the competitive factors - from supermarket to designer fashions; they can pick out the genuine article from the and substance have grabbed nationimposters.

'Say it is so'

Retailers and other businesses must not rest on their laurels. They must consistently communicate their distinct business and marketing message to consumers, not just at traditional promotion times like the holidays. They must reward frequent customers. They must find ways to invite and hold on to new

Knit shop grabs national acclaim

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE SPECIAL WRITER

It's not by coincidence that Birmingham knitwear designer Lisa Parks is the last of 38 profiles in the new book "Knitting in America."

"I wasn't originally in the book," says Parks, who owns Lisa Parks Knits from which she has designed and sold her one-of-a-kind handknit sweaters since 1982. "She (author Melanie Falick) didn't know me. But she stayed with a mutual friend who said, 'You've got to meet Lisa."

Falick, a knitter and writer, saw that including Parks would add dimension to the book. "Lisa's the only one in the book who has her own store on a large scale," Falick says. "I'd call her work 'urban chie' very fashion-forward compared to the other people in the book."

"The sweaters these people do are different," Parks agrees. "They are absolutely wonderful artisans. This is an art book. These are the best people, period. I approach it from a completely different angle. I need to create sweaters and designs that are easy to make and produce. I make a very functional sweater - very reasonably priced though I realize that is debatable."

Both women were interviewed at an after-hours reception Nov. 14 where Falick autographed copies of the book for Parks' friends and customers. It's published by Artisan, a division of Workman Publishing, and is out in time for the holidays.

In "Knitting in America," Parks explains that she learned to knit because it was a way of getting attention from her mother as the middle child in a family of seven. Her story was verified on this evening by her sisters, Connie and Molly, who live only a few blocks away from their sister's downtown Birmingham shop.

"My mother taught it to her, but Mom never had the style," says Molly, who is wearing a Parks sweater and skirt she says are 15 years old. "My sister's stuff holds up."

Falick reports that Parks no longer does the bulk of her own knitting. She hands her designs over to a small platoon of knitters, reserving her own needles for finishing work and repairs. So her designs must be easy to follow, keep the knitters interested and appeal to a somewhat broad audience.

The book, divided by geographic areas, includes a three-page profile and photographs of Parks modeling her sweaters while fishing on the Clinton River near Ann Arbor. It also shows a close-up of one of her patterns, written from the bottom of the page to the top just the way she has her knitters make them.

Interestingly enough, another knitter with Birmingham roots is also featured - Yvonne Uhlianuk whom many may remember as Yvonne Gill. A trained chef, Gill ran several highly acclaimed restaurants including the former Tweeney's in Birmingham. She now raises sheep for yarn and designs knitwear in Romeo, Michigan.

The book also highlights the Waldorf School in Detroit where "children learn to knit before they learn to read."

"It seems like the right time for this book," says Falick. "Knitting is in the swing of the move back to basics," but those basics are about slowing life down and not about money. "Yarn is not cheap - so if you're knitting to save money, don't knit."

It takes about 100 hours to knit a sweater, Falick says. But, "It's so beneficial to your mental health. Knitting is a chance for you to slow down your day, relax and let your mind wander. There's the rhythm of the needles in your hands."

Old fragrance new at Nelman's

When Cary Grant romanced Audrey Hepburn in "Charade," most likely they were both wearfavorite cologne. The classic Italian unisex scent, first introduced in the 1930's, was the rage among Europe's fashionable and wealthy set as well as Hollywood's glamorous taste makers.

Sixty years later, Acqua di Parma is still being produced in limited amounts and will be newly available at all Neiman Marcus stores, including Somerset Collection in Troy. It still comes packaged in the same distinctive Parma yellow cylinder.

Sicilian citrus, essence of lavender, rosemary, verbena and a Bulgar rose combine to create a scent that compliments both men and women. It will be available in soaps, bath gels, cream, powder and cologne ranging from $35 to $90.

Hudson's alds United Way

Dayton Hudson's family of stores, Hudson's, Mervyn's and Target, has raised more than ing Acqua di Parma, their $730,000 to help support local United Way agencies.

> The contribution includes donations both from the corporation and its local stores through pledges and special fund-raising events.

> The contribution enhances Hudson's Circle of Giving, in which the company donates 5percent of its federally taxable income to non-profit organizations in the communities in which its stores are located.

Outlet mail opens in Howell

Kensington Valley Factory Shops, a $25 million manufacturer's outlet mall, officially opened last week at I-96 and Highway M-59 in Livingston County.

A joint venture of Fru-Con Development Corp. and Howard & Rice, the 65 factory outlets planned for phase one are owned and operated by nationally recognized manufacturers.

Tenants include: Mikasa, The GAP, Adidas, Detroit Pistons, Kasper, Peter Nygard and Olga Warner.

The Country Victorian architectural center was designed to be in keeping with the rural spirit of Howell Township.

Covered walkways shield shoppers from inclement weather and link the shops. The Kensington Valley Food Pavilion, in its own building, is the focal point of the center.

Since Dad has Alzheimer's, I can't leave him alone for a minute.

Now, I can't get a minute alone.

You know the feeling if someone you love has Alzheimer's. Even the simple things become worrisome. Did Dad remember to lock the door? Did he turn off the stove?

People with Alzheimer's disease require a safe, secure and uncomplicated place to live. That's why Arden Courts has pioneered a new living alternative for them. It is an Assisted Living facility designed for people in the early to middle stages of Alzheimer's -- people who need assistance, but not full-time nursing care.

Arden Courts maximizes residents' safety while maintaining the comfort and accessibility of home. And since we have a limited number of residents at Arden Courts, we are able to give each one just the right amount of attention and care.

Arden Courts is now open in Sterling Heights, Michigan. Since space is limited, it's not too early to reserve a room now. To find out more about Arden Courts or to receive our free guide "At The Heart Of Alzheimer's" call us or send in the coupon.

Commission OKs PUD district for Northville site

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAPP WRITER

The Wayne County Commission has not yet transferred a 926-acre site in Northville Township to the County's Economic Development Corporation.

But commissioners may act on that property at a commission meeting on Dec. 5 for the EDC to supervise a Planned Unit Development (PUD).

On Thursday, the commission took another step toward the transfer by approving a resolution establishing the project district's area. The county commission's resolution also allows the appointment of two Northville Township representatives to the eight-member EDC.

The EDC will be responsible for the overall supervision of the PUD, but Northville has estab- eficial" for township and county lished conditions with its approval. Thursday's commission action came a week after the township's board of trustees approved the PUD.

A PUD is a zoning classification that gives land owners/developers greater flexibility in terms of land use while providing the township a detailed role in the planning process. The land was zoned singlefamily residential.

Northville's resolution states the PUD must be consistent with the conceptual plan submitted by Wayne County, a PUD subcommittee report and a memo regarding sewage capacity. The proposal must be consistent with what the township board considers what is "mutually benresidents.

Wayne County will transfer ownership to the county's EDC except for property currently occupied by Optical Imaging Systems. Northville Township's attorney and corporation counsel must be satisfied with the transfer to EDC, according to Northville's resolution. If the transfer is unsatisfactory, the township can abandon it.

The county also will return property tax revenue currently received by the township for property transferred to the EDC.

The land is bounded by Five Mile Road, Six Mile Road, Beck Road and Hines Park. The site once housed the Wayne County Child Development Center and the Plymouth State Training School.

Nearly 60 buildings sit empty. . The plans call for 308 acres of single-family detached residential development; 26 acres devoted to an adult-lifestyle community; 110 acres for Optical Imaging Systems, Inc., including the

Readers in a rush for easier holidays can tell it's getting close to the holidays! From your calls it's becoming very evident that you're heating up those stoves, and looking for ways to make things a little healthier, and definitely easier during the holidays.

■ Marni Balog, a home economics teacher at Riley Middle School in Livonia, is teaching her class how to make homemade pretzels. Balog wanted a fat-free pretzel recipe.

Like bagels, pretzels should be parboiled before baking. Here's my recipe:

BREAD PRETZELS

- 1 cup water (105-115 degrees F.)
- 1 package active dry yeast (1 tablespoon) 2 3/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour (divided)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 4 cups water
- 5 teaspoons baking soda
- Coarse salt

In a mixer bowl, combine water and yeast. Beat in 1 1/2 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and sugar. When combined, slowly mix in remaining 1 1/4 cups flour, 1/4 cup at a time and knead until dough loses its stickiness.

Allow to rise in a covered greased bowl until doubled in bulk. Punch down and divide into 12 pieces. Roll the 12 pieces into 18 inch lengths and loop into a twisted oval. Place on a greased baking sheet, cover and allow to rise until doubled, about 40 min-Preheat oven to 475 degrees F. In a large nonaluminum pan, bring 4 cups of water to a boil. Stir in baking soda. With a slotted spoon, carefully lower the pretzels into the water for about 1 minute or until they float. Remove and return them to the greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with coarse salt and bake for about 12 minutes. Makes 12 pretzels.

Mrs. Roy of Troy called, and wanted to know if there was anything than can be done to recover a custard that was scorched or burnt. If I could, I would but unfortunately, you can't.

She also wanted to know the proper technique for freezing cookie dough. For optimum freezing, I recommend that the dough be placed in an airtight (burpable) container or placed in a freezer bag with all the air pushed out. The dough can be frozen whole or shaped into individual servings before freezing. If shaped, freeze dough on parchment paper lined baking pans individually and then combine when frozen in a container or freezer bag.

Joyce Creager of Novi called with a great idea for health conscious, busy, stressed holiday shoppers. We have both discovered the fat-free pizzas at Picasso Pizza, 24545 West 12 Mile Road, Southfield (810) 350-3131. If you're looking for a fat-free way to enjoy a great meal you won't be disappointed. Mrs. Wilson of Canton called and wanted to know more about juniper berries. She has a recipe, and wanted to know where to get them. Jumper berries are best known for their flavor in gin and other spirits and cordials. The berries come from prickly evergreen shrubs. In France, the berries are crushed with salt and garlic and milibed onto poultry. Combined with allapice, juniper bernies can be used for apicing up beef. The are available via mail order or over the counter at Rafal Spice, 2521 Rusself in Detroit's Runtern Market, (313) 259-6373. Here's un inter-

FAMILIES FUEL HANUKKAH CELEBRATION -WITH LESS OIL-

In addition to cooking food in oil, this particular Jewish holiday, often called "the Festival of Lights," is marked by the custom of lighting candles for eight lighting the other candles).

Bloomfield Hills has lots of menorahs. Each of the three Paulisin children, Michael, 14, Joey, 11, and Kelly, 7, take joy in lighting their own menorah during this nights in a menorah that holds festive season, that begins this nine candles (one is used for year at sundown Dec. 5. each night of Hanukkah ("although this year the children are receiving one large gift," said their mother Karen Blum-Paulisin). Like her friend Sue, Karen also marks the holiday, and every day, with nutritious low-fat and healthful foods.

"I like to cut the fat in my cooking," she said. "That's why I use fat-free Italian dressing when I make the beef brisket, and lowfat chicken broth for my mushroom barley soup for the family's Hanukkah celebration. Just because it's a holiday doesn't mean that you have to discard good eating habits. You can celebrate with healthy foods and still enjoy the occasion."

Rhoda Kutzen of Beverly Hills also believes that a healthy lifestyle can be part of the holidays. She and her husband, Robert, who are parents of two grown children, enjoy filling their home with guests during the holidays, especially children.

"I'm a retired elementary school teacher, and I love being around children. Luckily, we have loads of nieces and nephews who have small children. So we're always

One of Rhoda's favorite activities during the Hanukkah season is to make sugar cookies cut out in the shapes of menorahs and dreidels (four-cornered tops with Hebrew letters that children use to play a game of chance) and decorated with blue (to represent-Israel) and yellow icing (to represent gelt - money or gold covered chocolate coins given as prizes for the dreidel game).

"I make the cookies with my niece. Eve Avadenka, and her three small children. We usually make the traditional recipe that calls for butter. However, we have made a lower fat variety (using light margarine, sugar substitute and egg whites) for those, like myself, who are concerned about fat content."

She also makes sure that there are some healthful choices on her Hanukkah table, such as fruit compote. She uses cans of fruit packed in light syrup, drains the fruit, rinses it in water, drains it again, and adds a sugar substitute.

According to Rhoda, one way to eat healthy during the holidays is to make better selections and to keep portions reasonable.

"One sugar cookie is a much better choice than a jelly doughnut. And half a jelly doughnut is better than a whole one."

> In the first part of the movie, Streisand plays the ugly duckling. She is a bright, sensitive, highly popular professor of romantic literature at Columbia University. Never married, she lives with her acerbic mother (Lauren Bacall) and resists

All her life, she has considered herself unattractive. She has a beautiful sister (Mimi Rogers) who is about to marry her handsome third husband (Pierce Brosnan).

Enter Jeff Bridges, a klutzy, boring math professor, also at Columbia. He is maladroit with women and thinks sex is overrat-Desperately seeking companionship, he takes the advice of would like to meet a Ph.D., over 35, "physical appearance not important." Rogers sends her sister's specifications and photo to Bridges. He seeks out Streisand, and they meet and click _ intellectually. He proposes marriage, with the proviso that they enjoy companionship but eschew sex. Her intellect allows her to accept such a basis for marriage. But eventually, her libido objects. That's the "boy loses girl" element of the plot. It's hard to imagine anyone but Streisand with the chutzpah to pull off such an outrageous situation. But she does, beautifully.

Streisand as actress remains fascinating to watch, especially when she makes her now-familiar transition from frump to beauty. As director, she stays in total control, granting her actors the same opportunity to shine. Bridges conveys the intellectual confusion of the earnest professor. At first, Bacall seems saddled with the cliche of the nag-

This is the season to enjoy winter squash

Although refrigeration and improved transportation have blurred the traditional seasons of many types of produce, winter squash still reigns in the cold months of fall and winter.

Whether lumpy and bumpy, striped or plain, these delightfully shaped and colored vegetables are packed with valuable nutrients, including beta-carotene. vitamin C and dietary fiber. The most popular winter squash are acorn, butternut and Hubbard varieties. All three are hardshelled, mature squash, but acorn and butternut are smaller and are typically sold whole. Due to its large dimensions (12 to 15 pound average), Hubbard squash is often sold cut in pieces weighing only a few pounds.

When choosing squash, look for a hard, thick rind with no softness, cuts, punctures or sunken spots. One pound of unpeeled, uncooked squash equals about 2 cups of cooked pulp, or enough for 4 servings.

Store uncut squash in a cool, dry place for up to two months; cut squash can be refrigerated and should be used within four days. Smaller winter squash are often baked.

When the seeds are removed, the halves form natural cups for stuffing, as in this seasonal favorite: Bake squash halves for 30 minutes at 375 degrees F.

While they bake, saute 1 to 1-1/2 cups each of diced onion and minced celery in a bit of olive oil. Add 1/2 teaspoon marjoram, the juice of one orange plus 1 tablespoon orange rind, and 2 cups chopped raw cranberries and saute briefly.

Add 4 cups of cubed, cooked turkey (or chicken) and 1/4 cup maple syrup and remove the mixture from the heat. Stir in 1 cup bread crumbs and season to taste with salt and pepper. Divide the stuffing between the squash halves and bake for 1 hour.

 Hubbard squash and banana squash (another large variety) are usually boiled or baked and then mashed or pureed; since they are closely related, they can be used in any recipe calling for pumpkin. Try them pureed in a winter squash soup or mashed and baked in a quick bread.

Cubes of cooked winter squash make a great compote when teamed with diced apples and dressed with a sauce of cider with curry powder and fresh gin-

Boost nutrition, flavor and variety in your favorite dishes by adding squash cubes to savory stews or grated squash to a stirfry dish.

Turkey trivia fun to share

Here are a few forgettable feathered facts about turkey compiled by faculty at the University of Detroit Mercy.

Rumor has it that when Christopher Columbus found the land he discovered, he thought it was connected to India where peacocks were in considerable number. he also believed turkeys were a type of peacock (they're really a kind of pheasant) so he named them "tuka," which is peacock in the Tamil language of India."

In the last 20 years, Ameria's love of turkey has soared with per capita consumption up from 8.3 pounds in 1975 to 18.5 pounds in 1995.

■Forty-four percent of all urkey consumption comes from urkey sandwiches.

Turkeys can be frozen for a year before they lose their flavor. The heaviest turkey ever raised was 75 pounds by a turkey farm in 1967. ■ America's national bird was almost the turkey. Benjamin Franklin lobbied for the turkey but the bald eagle was chosen instead. Franklin complained that "the turkey is a much more respectable bird and a true native of America.'

2 acorn squash, about 1 1/4 pounds each

2 tablespoons pure maple

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees F. Halve the acorn squash lengthwise and scoop out seed and pulp.

Cut the squash into two-inch chunks and peel off the dark green skin. Place in a tightly covered steamer basket over gently boiling water and cook until fork-tender, about 10 minutes.

Transfer to a shallow baking dish, drizzle with the maple syrup and stir to coat evenly (recipe can be prepared a day in advance to this point - just cover and refrigerate). Bake the squash until it is hot and bubbly, 15 to 20 minutes.

Sharpshooter: Wayne senior forward Rica Barge had it going for the Zebras.

Wayne wins district title

GIRLS BASKETBALL

BY BRAD EMONS STAPP WRITER

Rica Barge, battling a cough and cold, was feeling a little under the weather.

But apparently Friday's Class A district girls basketball championship game at Garden City provided the right prescription for getting well.

The 5-foot-8 senior forward scored a team-high 16 points as Wayne Memorial rolled to an impressive 58-23 victory over Livonia Franklin.

Wayne, now 17-5 overall and winners of seven straight, head into today's regional semifinal at Southgate Anderson brimming with confidence.

The Zebras meet Trenton at 5:30. It was Wayne's first district crown since 1992.

"I've been here for four years and this was our chance to take it," said Barge. "We decided we were going to play all out. I wasn't supposed to play, but I was going to be here anyway, even if I

"In the back of my mind was our game last year when we lost to Garden City (in the finals). Now it was time to take care of business,"

Senior guard Yalanda Holt, who has signed with Bowling Green, sparked a 14-2 first-quarter run by scoring eight points.

Barge then took over in the second quarter, lighting up the Patriots for 12 points, including three shots from beyond the 3-point arc as the Zebras led 34-10.

"We shot around before the game and my confidence was up," said Barge, a four-year varsity starter. "Yalanda did a great job penetrating and getting the ball back out to the shooters."

Franklin, which turned the hall over at a rapid rate during the first half, plugged a few holes in the third quarter, but the outcome had already been determined.

Wayne led 47-20 after three quarters.

"They could be a contending team in the regional if they play like that," said Franklin coach Gary Warner, whose team bowed out at 6-16 overall. "They played more up-tempo than the other night against Glenn. Their defense was uptempo. And with those taller players, with the long arm-reach, slowed us down. We started hesitating and they took advantage."

Ten different Wayne players scored.

Holt contributed 14, while senior guard Jessica Timmer came off the bench to added nine. Tonya Crawford added six.

For the game, Wayne made 24 of 59 shots from the floor (40 percent), while Franklin was nine of "The girls seemed to have everything going for them tonight," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "Mentally they were razor-sharp, and physically they played razor-sharp."

Winning their final five regular season games, Wayne gained a share of the Mega Conference-Red Division championship with Dearborn Ford-

"We really pushed ourselves because we knew we had to win the last five games to have a chance at the division," Henry said. "Each of our girls pushed themselves, but once the regular season was over, our energy level was a little low and we were very lethargic Wednesday night against (Westland) John Glenn (45-30 win).

"But tonight we were very emotional." Randi Wolfe, playing her last game for Franklin, scored a team-high eight points.

Junior Julie Warner added five. "It was a plus for us to be here," Warner said. The Garden City game Wednesday night (a 45-39) win took a lot out of us. I think we were a littie tired, but you can't take anything away from Wayne, They came to play."

Rockets shot down, 17-7

Top-ranked Stevenson is Sterling

BY BRAD EMONS

There will be no trip to the Pontiac Silverdome this year for Westland John Glenn's football team.

Sterling Heights Stevenson threw up a huge road block Saturday in a state Class AA playoff game as the Titans scored a convincing 17-7 victory before 4,000 fans at Rochester High School.

It was Stevenson's 12th straight win without a loss, while Glenn suffered its first setback.

Ironically, Stevenson will play Walled Lake Western (10-2), a team Glenn defeated twice this season (28-17 and 24-0), for the coveted Class AA crown, beginning 1 p.m. this Saturday at the Dome.

Despite turning the ball over five times. Stevenson did little to disprove its season-long No. 1 ranking, piling up 434 yards in total offense to No. 2-ranked Glenn's 208.

"That's a tremendous football team," said a gracious Glenn coach Chuck Gordon, who was making his fourth state semifinal appearance. "Our defense played as hard and played well for as long as we could, but offensively we just couldn't get anything going.

"They (Stevenson) are huge up front and they just kind of wear you down."

Glenn not only encountered a massive barrier in the trenches, but also a hazardous construction zone loaded with Stevenson dump trucks.

Rockets' junior quarterback, 6foot-6 Justin Berent, who had been completing over 60 percent of his passes this season, found himself stuck in cement. He didn't complete a pass until late in the third quarter. (His first connection was actually a 5-yard forward lateral to Antonio Gibson.)

For the day, Berent, forced into throwing deep routes, was five of 13 for 62 yards and two interceptions.

"We can't blame it all on Justin," Gordon said. "We just didn't protect him as well as we needed. He was pressured quite a bit.

"We were barely hanging on offensively and hoping something good was going to happen."

Stevenson got it going early, stopping Glenn on its first possession, three plays and out.

And the Titans wasted little time in scoring as All-State receiver Tim Steele, running a drag pattern, took a pass over the middle and raced down the sideline 47 yards for a touchdown.

But after Erik Gibala's extra point with 10:50 in the period made it 7-0, the Titans couldn't take advantage of solid field position despite being inside the Glenn 50 on four separate score, cutting the deficit to 14-7 (after Paling's PAT) with only 7:42 to go. On the ensuing kickoff, Glenn had Stevenson pinned on its own 16, but the Titans, thanks to a clutch 10yard hookup from Collins to Steele, followed by a Frank 63-yard run, got out of the hole quickly. That set up Gibala's 22-yard field to give Stevenson a 10-point cushion with 4:12 to Glenn then stalled out at the 50yard line and Stevenson got a clutch 45-yard run by Joe Alls (17 carries for 142 yards) down Glenn 1 to put the game away.

"We've had different players make big plays for us all year," Bye said "Joe (Alls) has been the focus the last couple of weeks, and I think they (Glenn) were really trying to stop him. But that opens things up for a guy like Andy."

Although Glenn, the Western Lakes champions, ended its season in disappointment, it was a year full of cheer and satisfaction.

"This is one of the guttiest groups I've ever been associated with," Gordon said. "I enjoyed this team, not only for their great record, but they're also great people."

Ladywood girls advance to regional

Going winless in league play has its advantages _ if you play in the Catholic League.

That's what Livonia Ladywood discovered Friday as it beat Redford Union 41-31 to claim the Class A district title at Southfield.

The Blazers (5-15) struggled this season winning only three games and finishing in the basement of the Catholic League's Central Division without a victory. But Ladywood won its first district title in four years by playing the same type of basketball it was forced to play in league action.

More evidence on the toughness of the Central Division came from the Bloomfield Hills Lahser district where Farmington Hills Mercy won the title beating Farmington Hills Harrison in the final. The Marlins finished just ahead of Ladywood in the standings.

"Playing in our conference prepared us for these past two games," Ladywood coach Andrea McAllister-Gorski said. "We didn't win a game all year in the league and got beat up. Our conference is tough and we've learned to play very aggressive defense."

The Blazers will have their work cut out for them when they open region play tonight at Ladywood against state-ranked Detroit King (16-2). Tipoff is at 6.

Instead of thinking about the tough task ahead, the first-year coach wanted to soak up the district win.

"We knew coming in that the conference would be tough so the goal was to improve and believe in your self and my job was to keep the team's spirits up," McAllister-Gorski said.

"We were confident coming into the district," aid senior forward Mary Dankert/ "We knew our league was tough, and knew we could win the district if we played together."

The tone of Friday's game was set early as the Ladywood defense held the Panthers scoreless for the first 6:48, as RU committed 10 turnovers in its first 13 pos essions.

"I didn't think we would have that much trouble scoring but you have to give Ladywood's defense credit," RU coach Marty Lowney said. "I thought we came out a little nervous and we played tight."

Ladywood also had trouble scoring, hitting only two baskets in the first seven minutes Sophomore guard Kristen Switalski came off the bench to spark the Panthers with a pair of steals and layups, but the Blazers led 8-4 after the first quarter.

RU closed to within three two minutes into the second quarter after a three-point play by Shannan Bjerke. But a key three-pointer by Sheryl Wrobleski made it 15-9 and the Panthers never got any closer.

The Blazers led 24-16 at halftime after a triple by Erin Hayden and extended their lead to 33-22 entering the fourth quarter.

Play became very physical in the fourth quarter as Ladywood began to assert itself on the offensive glass. The play that put RU away was when the Blazers had six offensive rebounds on one possession before Dankert was fouled and hit two free throws.

Dankert led the balanced Ladywood attack with eight points and 10 rebounds (eight offensive). Junior Sara Poglite came off to bench to Switalski paced RU with 11 points. Bjerke and Jenny Szaal chipped in with 10 and eight points, respectively.

The Panthers failed to take advantage of Ladywood foul trouble in both halves. RU con-

Inter-City stops Huron Valley bid

BY RICHARD I., SHOOK STAFF WRITER

Westland Huron Valley Lutheran knew what it wanted to do. It just wasn't allowed to do it.

The plot was to get the ball inside where junior Sara Tacia and senior Melissa Gumbis could do some damage. Good defense by Allen Park Inter-City Baptist never let it come off.

Inter-City Baptist started out hitting two zone-busting. shots Friday night and never trailed in defeating Huron Valley, 38-24, in the Class D girls basketball championship game of the Taylor Light & Life district.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association tournament defeat finished the Hawks at 15-8. The Chargers advanced to the regionals with a 14.9 record. "We didn't handle their man-to-man well," Hawks' toach Tod Bartholomew said. I felt if we could get it inside epnsistently, we could do some damage.

"When we did, Tacia was Sable to do some things. But they did a better job of Refending in the post than I Adefending in the had anticipated."

Tacia ended founds, Amy Mo Tacia ended with seven points, Amy Mohacsi scored six, Angele Pelligrino four, Gumbis had three and Lori Conger and sophomore Kimperely Nielson two apiece.

 Jennifer Apple and Susan Pressel combined to defend Tacia well _ with help _ as the Chargers packed the middle to keep the Hawks at bay.

Allison Brown led all scorers with 17 for Inter-City Baptist, 10 in the first quarter when the Chargers took a 12-4 lead.

"We were not patient enough," Bartholomew said. We were ready to play, though, and we played hard. I was proud of the girls' effort and the season they had.

"We had two goals _ to win

the Red Division and to win the district. So we accomplished some of what we wanted."

Inter-City Baptist's pressure bothered Huron Valley some and it moved the ball well on offense, forcing the Hawks out of their zone into a man-to-man in the second half.

"We didn't want to get down like that," Bartholomew said. Brown can handle the ball, she can shoot and she is able to dish it off."

Huron Valley was much more aggressive after the intermission, but some shots didn't fall. A good part of that was due to defense.

Huron Valley got off just five shots in the first quarter and three in the second, making three, and finished 8-for-27, Inter-City Baptist made half its 32 shots.

The Hawks did cut the deficit to eight, 24-16, on a Pelligrino layup early in the third quarter but didn't score again the rest of the quarter and was scoreless the first 4:54 of the final period as Huron Valley played good defense. But so did Allen Park.

• CWA 64, CLARENCEVILLE 18: Livonia Clarenceville couldn't recover from a 35-13 halftime deficit Thursday in the semifinals of the Class C district at Detroit St. Alphonsus.

Rachel Sundberg scored seven points as the Trojans finished 4-18 overall.

Regina Coleman and Ernesta Johnson tallied 16 and 15 points, respectively, as Detroit Communication & Media Arts improved to 14-4.

.HURON VALLEY 45, ECORSE 20: Sara Tacia poured in 16 points Thursday as Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (15-7) advanced in the Class C district at Taylor Light & Life.

Rebecca Nichols tallied 17 of the Red Raiders' 20 points.

Lady Crusaders earn San Diego trip

BY C.J. RISAK SPORTS WRITER

Madonna University refused to make the same mistake twice. In pool play in the NAIA Great Lakes Regional Volleyball Tournament at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, Madonna faced Aquinas College _ and experienced something quite unfamiliar.

A loss. It'd been nearly a month since the Lady Crusaders' previous "When we lost to Aquinas, I thought, 'Oh, no, what's going to happen?' " said Madonna's Kelly McCausland, a Redford Union grad. "Then I thought, this was meant to be. When they beat us, they just outworked us."

With their four seniors providing the guidance, Madonna found its way through _ fittingly beating Aquinas in Saturday's final 15-11, 15-9, 15-6.

The win raised the Crusaders' record to 50-4, establishing a new school record for wins in a season. But more importantly, it gave 11th-ranked Madonna a berth in the NAIA Tournament Dec. 5-7 in San Diego, the third time in four years the Crusaders will make that trip.

"I think our senior leadership was the key," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham, who was named regional coach of the year. "We struggled, It wasn't easy. They were all tough matches, back-to-back."

They lost on Thursday to Aquinas, 15-10, 6-15, 13-15, 17-15, 16-14. That meant no automatic berth in the regional semifinals for Madonna. But they bounced back Friday by a 15-6, 12-15, 15-4, 11-15, 15-10 margin over Bethel (Ind.).

Then came a semifinal match vs. Grace (Ind.), another of the top five seeds, on Saturday. When the Lancers staged a marvelous comeback in the second game, rallying from 12-5 down to beat Madonna 16-14, tying the match at one game. apiece, a turning point was at hand.

The Crusaders grabbed it and claimed it for their own.

They did not lose another game after that, beating Grace 15-7, 15-10 (they won the first game of the match 15-12) before the three-game sweep of Aquinas.

Once past Grace, Abraham knew what to do with Aquinas. Changes were made, and they worked perfect-

"They killed us with their soft kill shots (in the first match)," Abraham said. "We changed our defense around, and we wanted to really attack the ball and make them play defense."

McCausland, who was named regional player of the year for the second-straight season, added: "We put our strengths against their weaknesses. No team has beaten us twice this season."

The Saints were never really in a position to. The first game was tied at 11-all, but with McCausland serving, Madonna scored four-straight points to put Aquinas away:

The second game was similar: Madonna scored four-straight to go from a one-point lead to 10-5.

Aquinas rallied to within 10-9, but the Crusaders scored the game's final five points.

Madonna followed the same pattern in the third game, converting an 8-6 advantage into a 15-6 regional title-clinching victory with sevenstraight points.

Joining McCausland on the Allregion first team was senior Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson). Meg Paris and Heather Steinhelper, both seniors, were named to the all-region second team.

"It's all bonus now," said a relieved Abraham of the upcoming trip to San Diego. "This is the fun time."

McCausland and Martin, however, have said that this trip west, the third in their four-year careers, won't be good enough unless they make a strong run at the NAIA championship which they firmly believe they can do.

"This tournament was a reality check for us," said McCausland. "Now it's back out there (in San Diego). And it'll be (tough) competition after competition."

Hyundai's sporty Tiburon coupe minds its manners

By Anne Fracassa Avanti NewsFeatures

SAN FRANCISCO — There's actually a city that carries the same name as the 1997 Hyundai Tiburon. It's even spelled the same way.

Located on the fringes of this majestic community, Tiburon is a small suburb that's neat, cozy, well-mannered and modern. Just like the car that replaces the Scoupe coupe.

The $15,000ish Tiburon is the newest member of Hyundai's young family. The carmaker has only been doing business here a little more than a decade and has gone from being a single product company to an automaker that offers a full line of quality- and technologically driven cars.

Anybody remember Hyundai's neat HCD-II concept vehicle, first shown at the 1993 North American International Auto Show in Detroit? Well. that car and the Tiburon are strikingly similar with their innovative and aggressive styling. In fact, Hyundai officials crow that many of the HCD-II's key design elements - things consumers really liked about the concept car were used in the Tiburon.

So what you've got here is a new and dynamic sporty compact coupe. There are two trim levels to choose from, Tiburon and Tiburon FX.

The base model has a 1.8-liter DOHC in-line 4-cylinder engine, while the Tiburon FX has a 2.0-liter 140-horsepower powerplant. Both engines are designed by Hyundai and are part of the Beta engine family. The 1.8-liter engine is the same one that was introduced on last year's Elantra.

Although the Tiburon sits low to the ground, it really isn't that hard to get into and out of. It's got a wide, aggressive stance, lending a mysterious air about it. There isn't a grille in the front, which make the elliptical-shaped headlamps even more noticeable.

The front hood sweeps downward, disappearing from view when you're inside. The front air dam, complete with integrated fog lamps (on the FX models), is barely noticeable, yet functions well to allow enough air in to cool the engine efficiently.

The Tiburon is rounded all around, yet it's got distinctive lines in front and rear and even on the sides to give it a real sporty look. The rear deck shows off an understated spoiler that contains the center brake light. A rear washer/wiper is standard on the FX model.

busy freeways around San Francisco or the quiet back roads around Simi Valley, the Tiburon proved to be unusually quiet. This car's got a coefficient of drag of 0.33 — very aerodynamic. What that gives the car owner is wonderful fuel efficiency (22 mpg city, 29 mpg highway) and a very little wind noise.

Now for the inside. Slip behind the wheel, close the door and the entire interior - at least what matters most to the driver — envelops around you. Yet, there's no feeling of claustrophobia. Every control ... every switch ... is pointed toward the driver.

This is just a little thing, but sometimes it's the little things in a car that impress me most. The ignition switch is pointed toward the rear and facing the driver. That means I didn't have to poke my head around the steering wheel to find the Whether traveling on the • ignition A little thing, but helpful. Instrumentation is simple and includes the tachometer. speedometer, odometer and trip odo, temperature gauge and the fuel gauge. That's it, just three oval circles. No confusion. Simple.

The center console features a digital clock and climate controls on the top — with big buttons and large symbols. The sound system is right under that with much smaller buttons and knobs.

Standard is an AM/FM stereo cassette. The FX models have an optional premium AM/FM stereo cassette and compact disc player with six speakers.

The shift is floor-mounted and between the driver and passenger is a center armrest with storage box. Remote mirror and window controls are left of the driver, mounted on the door.

There's also enough head, leg and shoulder room for anyone under 6 feet tall. Even with my long legs, I was comfortable in the Tiburon. And speaking of comfort, the seats have a nice amount of support. I didn't fatigue during a 4-hour drive. Full cloth seat trim is standard.

On the FX models you get a coordinated seat fabric inset or you can opt for leather seats. With that option, you'll also get a leather steering wheel and gear shift knob.

Power windows are standard. With the FX, power door locks and mirrors are added.

The Tiburon provides a fine level of ride, and the handling is responsive. It's outfitted with MacPherson front struts and a dual link rear setup. Nitrogen gas-filled shock absorbers are located inside both front and rear coil springs, providing a nice ride even on the roughest of roads. Power-assisted rackand-pinion steering is standard on all models.

Buyers have two transmission choices: A 5-speed manual or a 4-speed automatic. The 5speed has a pull-type clutch that requires little pedal effort. I drove both and liked the 5speed best because there's better response and control.

Safety features on the Tiburon include front and rear crumple zones, front and rear 5 energy-absorbing mph bumpers, high-strength steel side impact beams, dual air bags and four-channel anti-lock brakes.

With its bold design, spirited performance and multi-functional interior, the Tiburon could be the ticket to ride for smart sporty coupe buyers.

Writing a classified ad that gets results-whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise-is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Cive the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifleds. What would you like to know about the Item, service or Job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

make a potential customer work too hard! Although you. may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call, Surveys show that even If a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate vou will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore; It is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
