Man threatens, leads officers on car chase

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A 20-year-old rifle-wielding Plymouth man despondent over losing a girlfriend — barricaded himself in a Westland apartment Wednesday afternoon before leading police on an erratic car chase that ended in an accident at Ford and Central City Parkway, police said. No one was injured.

After being subdued by police, Michael Gustafson was admitted to a Westland psychiatric facility. He was already wanted on an earlier fleeing and eluding charge, and he could face additional charges, Sgt. Scott Fetner said.

Wednesday's incident began about 3:10 p.m. when a suicidal suspect barricaded himself inside a friend's Yalewood Apartment on Yale south of Warren, Fetner said. The man was alone.

He made death threats against his ex-girlfriend, her friend and police, Fetner said, and a police negotiator tried by phone to end the incident.

Officers headed to the scene, but the suspect got into his late-model Mustang and drove west on Hunter to Central City Parkway, Fetner said. It was believed that he intended to go to the police station.

Instead, the suspect led police north on Central City Parkway and east on Warren, where he made a U-turn as he approached Wayne Road. He returned to the parkway and drove south to Ford, where he crashed into two other cars, Fetner said.

Police surrounded his car as he fired one round, apparently at himself. He missed, and police captured him without further incident.

The suspect had escaped police Tuesday night after fleeing from a Cherry Hill/Newburgh gas station where police received reports of a suicidal man. He was wanted on a fleeing and eluding charge punishable by one year in jail. He could face additional charges for Wednesday's incident.

Help sought for treatment an Mathes is traveling to Houston this week in the hopes that an alternative treatment for a brain tumor will offer him the help he needs.

The 27-year-old Westland resident and Garden City native will spend 18 hours a day during his visit hooked up to intravenous tubes receiving the protein-based treatment by Dr. S.R. Burzynski in Texas, who is using a controversial alternative treatment with antineoplaston, said Mathes' aunt and Westland resident Mary Donahee Rader.

This is the second time Dan and his family have made the trip, she said; he had the initial treatment in March, and the family is doing a number of fund-raising activities, including a silent auction in Wayne this Sunday, to assist with treatment costs. He also continues to treat with physicians at the University of Michigan, where he has received traditional surgery and treatment for the tumor.

The alternative treatment costs begin at $14,000, with subsequent months costing $5,000 each, none of which is covered by health insurance, according to information given by the family. The family is also incurring travel expenses and so is reaching out to the community for help.

"He's had some swelling and has had some neurological effects," said Rader, discussing the alternative treatment. "But he's keeping up a positive

Although Mathes' local physicians are concerned with the swelling, she said recent tests have shown that the tumor is not growing following the first treatment. She said the family has been told that some of the swelling is due to dead tissue and other cells being broken down by the treatment. He is now using a wheelchair and has a difficult time walking, she said.

When he was originally diagnosed in 1994, they don't diagnose the brain tumor as malignant

After his original diagnosis and surgery in 1994; when 70 percent of the tumor was removed, doctors didn't expect him to need any additional treatment for 10 to 15 years, Rader said. "Unfortunately in December 1995, they found the tumor had grown and did another surgery" and removed 90 percent of the tumor. Because the grade of the tumor had changed. doctors then suggested radiation and chemotherapy treatments.

She said the family turned to the alternative treatment because traditional methods have run out.

Residents received their ratehike information in mid-April, just two weeks before the price increases are supposed to become effective.

The 76-cent rate hike for basic, satellite and mini-service follows a $1.74 increase that Continental imposed Feb. 1, resulting in a $2.50 jump in just three months. A slight dip in basic service is more than offset by increases for satellite and mini-service. The latest changes for basic, satellite and mini-service apply only to households connected to Continental's rebuilt system, the company indicated in a new rate

Abbott, Westland's cable subscribers in Westland. An estimated 54 percent of households will be linked to the rebuilt system by the end of April, joining a new channel line-up, Westland Cable Commission Chairman Ed Turner said.

> Continental is gradually shifting all subscribers to the new system, meaning all customers would eventually face the rate hikes.

All customers already would face increases for hourly services charges ($28.52 to $37), new unwired installation ($30.50 to $37) and prewired reconnect installation ($17.75 to $25), among other services.

When subscribers began receiving their notices last Thursday, they flooded Westland municipal cable offices with 80 calls in about four hours, Abbott

"It has tapered off some since then," she said.

City officials have repeatedly noted that they have little control over cable rates and that complaints should be directed to Continental. The company phone number is (313) 277-8750.

However, efforts could be made to block the price increases if Plante & Moran's study finds that Continental's rates exceed the FCC formula.

A Continental representative wasn't available for comment Tuesday.

Westland residents have previously voiced frustration about rates that they view as too high. Many cable subscribers are hopeful of increased cable competition in Westland. Some residents have written the FCC and other agencies about what they consider unfair rates. Westland subscriber Patricia Hass noted in a recent letter that her cable rates have climbed from $12 to $30 in "a few short years." Hass noted that residents were led to believe that cable reform would bring lower rates. Instead, prices "have done nothing but climb," she said.

Hass wrote that her family is on a fixed income and has to watch expenses carefully. She called the increases "outrageous" and said the average family cannot afford them.

Hass said she recalls a time when cable rates were low and service standards were high.

"What happened to that?" she asked, adding later that she objects to price "gouging" that could eventually make cable a service affordable only by the wealthy.

Following are some of the other rate increases that could take effect May 1:

M An additional outlet installation or relocation would increase from $12.50 to $15 if completed along with other service. The rate would increase from $19.75 to $24 if Continental employees made a special trip.

A VCR, amplifier or converter installation would jump from $7 to $9 if completed with orner services. A separate trip for the service would see a price increase from $14.25 to $18.

A John Glenn High student accused of bringing two knives to school has become the third Wayne-Westland pupil expelled for weapons offenses since

Wayne-Westland school board members expelled 11th-grader Michelle Sanders on April 14, denying a parental appeal that sought to keep the girl in

The expulsion stemmed from a March 7 incident in which the student allegedly was caught carrying two knives at school, including one with a blade longer than 3 inches, said Greg Baracy, assistant superintendent of general administration.

Sanders didn't threaten anyone with the knives,

She also was accused of carrying other items, such as a pager and cigarettes, that marked additional violations of district policy, Baracy said.

Sanders became the third student expelled in little more than a month for weapons offenses. On March 10, school board members expelled two other students.

In one incident, Glenn ninth-grader Allen Johnson was accused of bringing a loaded revolver to school on Jan. 24. No known threats were made.

The student was accused of making verbal threats but didn't fire the weapon, which was brought to the bus stop following an earlier exchange of words, Baracy said.

Mayor Robert Thomas strongly urged approval. "These bills have to be paid," he said, "and we need to pay them now.'

Opponents fear that the payment could anger more than 400 homeowners who already are upset that money hasn't been released to pay for damages to their basements.

City officials have estimated that home repairs will amount to $6 million to $7 million. A sewer chamber blocked by a concrete wall caused the sewer backup.

Insurance companies for Peter Basile & Sons Construction of Livonia and Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment Engineering Consultants, also of Livonia, have agreed to release more than $5 million to begin settling homeowner claims, Thomas has said.

However, an insurance carrier for Lanzo Construction Inc. of Birmingham has refused to provide any money, he said. City officials are hoping for a break- May 5. through this week.

A pot of money to settle claims needs an additional $1 million to $2 million before home repairs can begin, Thomas has said.

Some upset homeowners have already joined two class action lawsuits that name the city and the three contractors hired for a federally mandated, $10 million sewer-separation project.

On Monday, the mayor said he is growing increasingly impatient for an agreement among the insurance companies. He said he may talk with City Attorney Angelo Plakas about possible actions if talks don't show results this week:

The city can't keep "waiting forever," he said.

Meanwhile, council members are planning a 6 p.m. study session on Monday to discuss the latest budget measure aimed at paying the $644,737 in bills submitted to the city. The introduced amendment will be discussed amid hopes that the council will vote to approve it on City officials have denied any responsibility for the sewer backup. They have blamed contractors and engineers hired to oversee the project.

In another development, resident Vickie Maple voiced concerns about seeing Lanzo Construction performing recent work near Wildwood and Glenwood. She said Lanzo shouldn't do city work if the company's insurance carrier isn't willing to negotiate to pay for sewer backup damages.

County taxes

Plan seeks 60 percent vote for new millage

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

There's a movement afoot to make it harder to raise property taxes in Wayne County,

Wayne County commissioners may act this spring or summer on resolutions to place before voters two proposed charter amendments to require a twothirds vote of the county commission to place any new countywide millages on the ballot, and a 60 percent vote of the public to pass that same millage.

The Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of community leaders from 18 cities and townships from western Wayne County, adopted a resolution Friday supporting the two proposals.

The CWW includes the cities of Belleville, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Romulus, Wayne and Westland, and the townships of Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Westland Mayor Robert Thomas hopes it will bring some tax relief to the suburbs. Western Wayne communities voted against certain millages, yet they were still passed on a countywide basis. About 80 percent of those taxes were collected from the suburbs.

Van Buren.

The CWW members met at Dearborn Heights City Hall with Mike Duggan, assistant county executive, who said he hoped voters could be asked, possibly as early as this fall but probably not until 1998, to approve a proposal requiring 60 percent voter support for new millages. He acknowledged it will take "some work" and lobbying for support from the 15 commissioners to place it before voters.

"If this is something you want to do. I think it will take a significant lobbying effort," Duggan

Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, told CWW members he would support the CWW's proposal, even though he and Commissioners William O'Neil, D-Allen Park and Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, had submitted to the commission in February a proposal to require a 12-vote backing of county commissioners to place a countywide tax issue on the ballot, and a 60 percent support from voters before the tax is considered approved.

That resolution has remained under committee study.

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas, who chairs the CWW, preferred the 10-vote minimum and 60 percent figure because he and Duggan believed that had a better chance at success with the full commission.

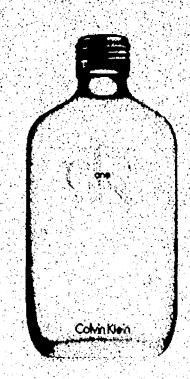

Duggan said he hoped within 60 or 90 days the commission could act on the resolution.

Thomas hopes it will bring some tax relief to the suburbs. Western Wayne communities voted against certain millages, yet they were still passed on a countywide basis. About 80 percont of those taxes were collected from the suburbs, Thomas said.

"We will have some tax relief for the suburbs," Thomas said.

McCotter suggested to the community leaders that they contact their county commissionor for support.

Duggan said if the proposal passed, it would be harder to raise taxes in Wayne County than in Michigan's 82 other counties.

Commission wants PCBs arrival at area landfill postponed

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Wayne County commissioners want to postpone the arrival of polychlorinated biphenyls at a landfill in Van Buren Township until a court decides on the legality of a Environmental Protection Agency approval of the landfill's license to accept PCBs.

The landfill issue is significant because it would make the Arborn, whose district includes Wayne Disposal landfill in western Wayne County the only site in the Midwest and one of only in Congress that would change six in the United States that how and where PCBs are disaccepts PCBs.

Research have shown that

PCBs are carcinogens and can cause problems in development of children. Van Buren Township has filed a request for an injunction in federal court for a temporary restraining order on the PCB deliveries.

The issue has drawn reactions from all levels of government.

U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann most of western Wayne County, said there is legislation proposed

State board split on adopting new mission statement

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Clark Durant and Gary Wolfram will filibuster to keep the State Board of Education from adopting a new mission statement that focuses on students and the Michigan Constitution rather than God and parents.

And with the support of Sharon Wise, the three dissident Republicans could do it. A twothirds majority - six of the eight members - would have to support ending debate in order to bring a proposed new mission statement to a vote May 15.

"It removes the role of the parents. It removes the creator. It focuses on power and the board," said Durant, R-Grosse Pointe, who was board president until voters last November defeated two Republican incumbents.

"I resent your comments," replied Barbara Roberts Mason, D-Lansing, during the April 17 meeting. "I consider myself a very strong Christian with a belief in God," she said. "You believe this (new mission) will be making a mockery of America.' No.

"The old one (written by Durant) was not clear, not concise and equates to a sermon. Our mission was clearly spelled out in the Michigan Constitution," Mason said.

The proposed new mission statement quotes Art. VIII Sec. 3 providing that "leadership and general supervision over all public education. . . is vested in a State Board of Education. It shall serve as the general planning and coordinating body for all public education, including higher education, and shall advise the Legislature" on finances.

It contains four references to students, one to parents and one

Why a mission?

"I didn't see why we needed a vision, philosophy and mission statement," said Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester, "Our mission was clearly spelled out in the Michigan Constitution."

Beardmore recalled that the draft of Durant's 1995 mission statement didn't acknowledge the existence of public schools until she asked that it be insert-

Durant admitted publicly that he had drafted his 1995 mission statement - with four references to God and four others to parents and family - at non-public meetings with individual board members. He introduced it during a "board business" section of the January 1995 meeting where there was no chance of public comment.

Durant's statement used a modified version of the Continental Congress' Northwest Ordinance of 1787, passed 50 years before Michigan became a state, on the need for "religion, morality and knowledge." It contained no other reference to the board's duties as spelled out in the Michigan Constitution of Durant said he would propose a series of 10 amendments adding three references to God, one to families and one to "parents' rights," a buzz word for a multi-state religious movement to curb school officials' control over school curriculum.

Wolfram, a professor at the private Hillsdale College who has removed his two children from public schools, quoted a series of 18th and 19th Century British essayists on the need for religion. "Religion is an important, fundamental piece of education," he said. "Literature and science are not the solution."

'Pontificating'

New board member Herb Moyer, D-Temperance, who replaced one of Durant's supporters in the 1996 election, found both rival mission state-posed but efforts so far to get it moving have been "very frustrating, very disheartening."

"The TOSCA (Toxic Waste Disposal Law) is written in a way that prohibits local input on this kind of thing," Rivers said. "It's ridiculous. You can have a local Browner postpone the date that PCBs be imported and landfilled at a landfill owned by Wayne Disposal until there has been judicial review. It also requests the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality to reconsider the approval of the Wayne Disposal landfill.

Patterson's resolution was similar to one introduced by state Sen. Loren Bennett. R-Canton, but Bennett's resolution was defeated on Wednesday by state senators.

Commissioners Patterson, Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, joined Democratic Detroit Commissioners Kenneth Cockrel Jr., Jewel Ware and Chairman Ricardo Solomon, along with Ed Boike, D-Taylor; Christopher Cavanagh, D-Grosse Pointe; Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn, and William O'Neil. D-Allen Park, in supporting the resolution. Commissioner Bernard Parker, D-Detroit, opposed it, Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, and Detroit Commissioners Democrats Robert Blackwell and Edna Bell were excused from the meeting. Commissioner George Cushingberry, D-Detroit, was absent.

Earlier the commissioners actually fell one vote short to suspend the rules to consider the item with nine supporting and two opposing the suspension. The commission acts to suspend procedural rules when items are considered emergencies. The EPA approved the permit on April 14 and Patterson wanted quick commission action.

Since commissioners also can act on items at the request of chairman Solomon, Patterson then asked Solomon to place the item on the agenda, and he agreed.

Patterson's resolution then was approved.

David Rutledge, director of public relations for Environmental Quality Company, a firm that would use the landfill, said the approval process had two public hearings over a two-year pro-

The approval allows construction projects in Wayne County access to a landfill without the added expense of shipping PCBs to California or New York.

"This facility offers the only place in Michigan (where PCBs) can be safely stored," Rutledge said. "To do so otherwise is to say, 'out of sight, out of mind.' "

Rutledge said all the issues have been investigated and commented on by the DEQ.

"I think this is an issue that no one wants in their backyard," said Parker. But Parker believed it ought to be discussed at a committee hearing where representatives from all sides could talk about the landfill.

"What happens when people don't want to develop? It stays in the ground," he said.

Rutledge said the landfill could accept PCBs from anywhere in the United States.

Patterson called the landfill issue a "serious and critically important issue."

"They (PCBs) are dangerous materials," Patterson said. "My. resolution seeks a postponement, not a denial. My request is to allow the third branch to decide that the MDEQ has made the right decision."

"We're talking about a site that is within 800 yards of Belleville Lake, and a part of the lower Huron River watershed and the Great Lakes." Patterson's resolution also stated that high temperature incineration would eliminate the PCBs altogether, rather than storing them in a landfill.

Rutledge said there was "no evidence of a negative impact of residential values in Van Buren Township.

Cavanagh asked commissioners if they wondered why only six landfills in the country were accepting PCBs. Many other communities were bioremediating PCBs.

"It's almost an embarrass, ment, because everyone else ia,, bioremediating it," Cavanagh said. "You should look at the rest,, of the country. We're not clean. ing it up, we're just taking our trash and putting it someplace else."

Patterson's resolution actually was a similar one introduced by state Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, which was rejected by senators Wednesday. Bennett was pleased that Patterson had better success than he did the day before.

"A resolution would not have the force of law, but one can never know what is going on through the collective minds of the EPA," Bennett said.

Bennett had lobbied senators for support, particularly since many of them supported a Senate bill prohibiting the delivery of trash from Canada at these landfills. Bennett said he did not know why the Senate rejected his bill.

State Rep. Thomas Kelly, D-Wayne, was critical of Bennett.

"The Republican-controlled Senate solidly defeated the resolution through a voice vote therefore denying the public of seeing a recorded vote of where each Senator stands on this major environmental issue," said Kelly. "As a member of the majority party, Senator Bennett proved totally ineffective on this

My Emergency. My Health. My Hospital.

"St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center now provides the convenience of Prompt Care."

My daughter fell off the jungle gym a couple of weeks ago and broke ber arm. I'm so glad we chose St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center, where she was treated in the new Prompt Care area. We didn't know it, but Carly also bit her head. The doctors - board certified in emergency medicine - were able to detect ber minor concussion in time to prevent further damage.

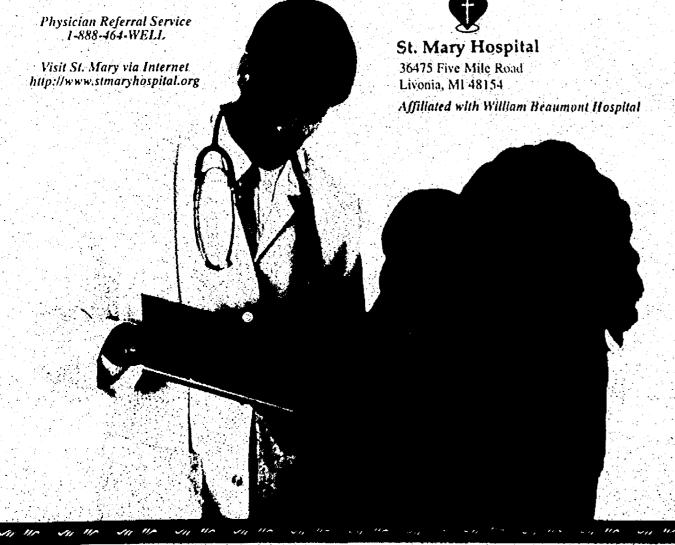

St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center has dedicated x-ray equipment and a casting room where Carly's arm was taken care of quickly. While waiting, we appreciated the private Prompt Care area which shielded us from other people's emergencies. And, the staff was professional, kind and compassionate.

It was also comforting to know that if Carly's injury was more serious, or she needed to be admitted, we were already at our hospital of choice. Close to home.

Convenience in an emergency. That's urby St. Mary Hospital is our hospital.

St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center is open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Prompt Care bours are 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. every day.

Dollars for trees

Local governments and groups are in line for a series of $200 state grants totaling $36,040. the state Department of Natural Resources has announced.

The grants will be used for Arbor Day activities under DNR's urban and community forestry program.

"Arbor Day, April 25, is a time to celebrate trees and the importance in our lives," said state forester Gerald Thiede, "This year marks the 125th anniversary of National Arbor Day. These grants provide incentive and a little support to local schools and communities."

Among the recipients: Commerce Township. Glarkston - Independence Township Library.

Lake Orion School District -Webber Nature Center.

Oxford Public Library. Davison Area Parks and Recreation.

South Redford School District - Jane Addams Elementary, Cub Pack 435.

Redford Township District Library.

Plymouth Township.

Big DNR cuts

Early retirements could cut the Department of Natural Resources payroll as much as 22 percent.

"It shouldn't be a question of cutting back," objected John Rebers, a member of Sierra Club's state executive committee. "We need to look toward better forestry management, protecting rivers during logging, stopping off-road vehicle damage and poaching. You need people to do that."

But Gov. John Engler's spokesman, John Truscott, said only employees not directly serving the public will be lost. "The DNR has traditionally been plagued by unresponsiveness to the public. This plan is going to cut middle management and free up the DNR for young people,' said Truscott.

The early retirement program was pushed through the Legislature on nearly party-line votes late in December, Outgoing Rep. Lloyd (Pete) Weeks of Warren was the only Democrat to favor the bills. He has been appointed by Engler to the Natural Resources Commission.

New bills.

Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville - SB 411 restricting welfare benefits to new residents of Michigan. "New residents would only receive assistance at the same benefit level they previously received in another state for the first six months," Geake said. Benefits in Wayne County are $459; in Illinois, $377; Indiana, $288; and Ohio, $341.

Sen. Bill Bullard, R-Milford - limiting special assessments in townships and villages to the "taxable value" of property instead of the "state equalized value." The taxable value, under the voter-approved Proposal A of 1994, limits assessment growth to 5 percent a year or the rate of consumer price inflation. An attorney general's opinion allowed use of the SEV.

He'd Be Proud Of U.S. Foreign Policy in Azerbaijan.

"After all, who remembers today the extermination of the Armenians?" - Adolph Hitler, 22 August 1939

On this day in 1915, the massacre of over 1.5 million Armenians began in Turkey. After 82 years, even after witnessing and condemning Hitler's atrocities, the U.S. still doesn't publicly refer to this Armenian tragedy as genocide. Why? Simply because of misguided commitments to Turkey.

Today, In 1997, The Armenian Genocide Continues.

In a landlocked country called Nagorno-Karabakh, surrounded by Azerbaijan, Armenians are suffering and slowly dying due to an illegal blockade of critical food and medical supplies... a passive form of warfare intended to eradicate the population.

Karabakh has never, legally or otherwise, belonged to a sovereign, independent Azerbaijan. After 1000 years as Armenian territory – even after a formal declaration of independence in 1992 and victory in war – the U.S. only recognizes Azerbaijan and still doesn't officially recognize Nagorno-Karabakh as an independent country. All because of misguided commitments to Turkey.

Are You?

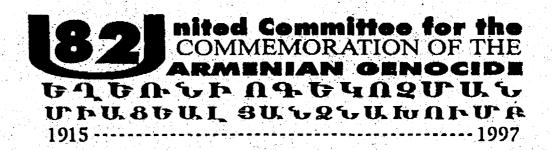

Politics Over People.

As a result, U.S. humanitarian aid earmarked for the Armenian population of Nagorno-Karabakh has absurdly been given directly to their enemy, Azerbaijan – Turkey's longtime ally

Consequently, little aid – if any – actually reaches the Armenian people. Turkey continues its tradition of Armenian persecution with the help of Azerbaijan, and President Clinton still refuses to impose sanctions against Turkey enacted by Congress.

Any way you look at it, it's genocide.

The methodical ethnic cleansing of an unwanted minority. Any way you look at it, it's wrong. And by its lack of decisive leadership, the United States condones it. Hitler knew a thing or two about genocide. Sadly, the world's leading expert would be proud.

Thursday, April 24, 1997

Dear Elected Representative:

We write to you today because your actions will prevent yet another genocide in this century. We have grave concerns about current U.S. efforts to mediate a settlement in the conflict between Nagorno-Karabakh and Azerbaijan.

Imposing Azerbaijani rule on Nagorno-Karabakh is unacceptable to the Armenians of Nagorno-Karabakh. It is unacceptable because it is the Armenian experience that such rule brings with it the very real possibility of genocide. It is particularly unacceptable to those Armenians now living in Nagorno-Karabakh who are witnesses of, and refugees from, the massacres in Sumgait (1988) and Baku (1990), as well as the many who have fled as their homes fell to Azeri occupation.

A lasting peace in the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict cannot be realized without active American leadership. But that U.S. leadership must include a balanced policy and equitable treatment of both parties.

It is for these reasons that we ask all Members of Congress:

- To support legislation which provides humanitarian aid directly to all people in the Caucasus region on the basis of need.
- To support Nagorno-Karabakh's presence in all negotiations, and Nagorno-Karabakh's legal right of self-determination.

We urge you to voice our concerns and take action to bring a lasting peace before any further lives are lost.

Sincerely,

Student achievement

Board dissidents fear state intrusion

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Raising student achievement is the top goal of the State Board of Education, but a dissident group fears the state is intruding too far into local and family matters.

The board voted 8-0 April 17 in support of 45 goals but split 5-3 on five others.

"We are of the same mindset in focusing on student achievement," said Barbara Roberts Mason, D-Lansing, part of the new majority.

"All fit under our constitutional mandate," added board president Kathleen Straus, D-Detroit.

Dissenting at length on five goals were Clark Durant, R-Grosse Pointe, Gary Wolfram, R-Hillsdale, and Sharon Wise, R-Owosso - all critics of public schools and advocates of charter schools.

What stuck in the minority's throats the hardest was goal 19: "Promote and seek funding for full-day, full-service schools,' particularly because it smacked of expanded social programs that Straus advocates.

"You're sending the wrong message. It's not the board of education's responsibility to feed children," said Wolfram. "The next thing will be serving dinner; then tucking them in bed."

"It will dissipate our focus," added Durant. "The core things aren't being done very well. It could be interpreted as an enormous explosion of governmental programs and money." Durant cited a program for pregnant teens in Detroit, taught by Eleanor Blum of Farmington Hills, as an example of what could be done during regular school hours.

as driving more parents into the work force to pay taxes for these programs."

Replied Straus: "It's not necessary to have new funding or even public funding.

New member Herb Moyer, D-Temperance, agreed that more state funding isn't required, citing United Fund programs in Monroe County to benefit children in the 3-5 p.m. after-school

Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester, who voted with four Democrats in the board's new pro-public school majority, said, "We know there are children who suffer from malnutrition and are fearful of their safety."

The dissidents also objected

Goal 34 - "Link state assessment tests with proposed national assessments." Said Wolfram, who once served as a congressional aide: "I've spent 14 months in the belly of the beast. If there's a national assessment, someone's going to write it," he said, implying it would be bureaucrats unfriendly to state standards.

■Goal 42 - "Develop an administrator certification and recertification." There was no "Added funding will be discussion. In general, the dissi-required," said Wise. "I see this dents have supported loosening teacher and administrator certi-

■ Goal 47 - Support of the King-Chavez-Parks program "to achieve a greater diversity of students and faculty" by bringing minority high school students to university campuses for a day. Said Wolfram: "We don't need to segregate people into groups. All laws ought to apply to everyone."

■ Goal 48 - "Direct the reorganization of the Department of Education with a primary focus on student achievement." Wise objected that "it conflicts with the governor's executive order" trimming the State Board's pow-

The 45 goals adopted unanimously without discussion said the State Board shall identify and promote successful teaching practices, remove barriers to student achievement, monitor public school academies (socalled "charter schools"), and request every school to adopt an improvement plan and a family involvement plan."

The board also agreed on advocating a 15:1 pupil-teacher ratio for kindergarten through third grade, math and science programs, research on effective classroom practices, and standards for measuring career preparation programs.

At Durant's suggestion, the board spelled out a desire to work with corporations foundations and individuals that want "to provide tutoring and mentoring of students" in reading and basic math.

In other business, the board routinely approved two new university programs:

■ University of Michigan-Dearborn - a new K-12 reading program for as an additional endorsement for elementary and secondary teachers. It would require 22 credit hours.

■ University of Detroit-Mercy - a new social studies program for elementary and secondary teachers. A major would comprise 36 credit hors; a minor, 24.

Madonna offers class on Japanese culture

Madonna University will offer a course in Japanese culture during the spring/summer

Survey of Japan will be held on Mondays from 4 to 7 p.m., beginning May 5 through July 21. Students will be introduced to Japanese history, religion, culture, geography and social institutions.

The arts in particular will be examined, since they offer a record of Japanese culture and reflect how the Japanese have defined themselves and their vision of life.

The non-credit fee is $285. Students earn 3.3 continuing education units.

Madonna University is located at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia. Mail, fax and in-person registration for the course are being accepted now. The course is also available for undergraduate degree credit. even if you are not an admitted student at Madonna Universi-

"I believe in democracy, not theocracy," said Moyer, referring to Durant's and Wolfram's speeches as "convoluted pontificating." Moyer faulted Durant for failing to consult the Michigan Constitution in drafting his 1995 mission statement.

After the meeting, both Straus and Beardmore referred to Durant's threats to block a cutoff to debate as a "filibuster," a tac-

Madonna's 'golden class' grads set high goals

brates this year's 50th commencement with the highest, graduating class of the institu-

Of the more than 770 graduates, 607 will receive a bachelor's degree, 131 will receive a master's degree and the remainder an associate degree or certificate.

The golden anniversary commencement will be held on Saturday, May 3 at 10:30 a.m. in Caliban Hall at the University of Detroit Mercy, Detroit.

Here are profiles of some local May graduates from Madonna University:

Rodney Keener

Rodney Keener of Livonia plans to continue at Madonna University to pursue a sociology degree. On May 3, he will be graduating with a bachelor of arts in history. He hopes to attend law school and eventually pursue a doctorate in history.

"I have always been proactive and by studying history, I feel I learn about humanity," Keener said.

Keener has participated in several leadership conferences including the 1996 Governor's College Student Leadership Forum and the Michigan Consortium on Substance Abuse Education. He was president of the student government association and is planning to continue as president for the 1997-98 academic year.

Keener also is a member of Project Earth. "I get involved because the skills I am gaining today will make me more effec-getting involved, I have learned more about myself and doors to opportunities have opened," said Keener,

A strong believer in child advocacy, he was responsible for organizing Madonna University's first participation in the Right to Life March in Washington D.C.

Through fund-raisors, Keener was able to reduce the cost of attending the ovent and increase student participation from three, who attended the first march; to 17, who participated in the last march. He served as chairperson for the planning and logistics committee of the 1997 Livonia Parent Fair and holds a job at arts degree in Spanish. the MACAW lab on campus.

Angela Moloney

Angela Moloney of Livonia has definite aspirations, having just returned from a retreat in the Great Smoky Mountains of Tennessee.

"I want to open my own wilderness retreat center. I think many of God's revelations occur through His creations," said Moloney.

An active member of Madonna University, she has participated in numerous retreats and volunteered her time to several organizations including Project Earth, Campus Ministry, Kappa Gamma Pi, a National Catholic Honor Society, and Student Government.

"My time at Madonna University has been a strong combination of learning along with experience. It has been excellent preparation for my future but I Madonna University cele. tive in the future. I feel just by know there is still so much more to learn," said Moloney.

Graduating with high honors, she will receive a bachelor of arts in pastoral ministry. He pursuing a master's degree in theology at Washington Theological Union in Washington D.C.

Sandra Newsome

After six years of schooling, Sandra Newsome's children are "excited to have mon back." "This will be my first free summer in five years," she said. A mother of three children, Newsome is a Livonia resident who will graduate with highest honors and will receive a bachelor of

Prior to attending Madonna University, she served as a medical analyst for 12 years, but teaching was always in the back of her mind.

"I had always wanted to be a toachor but I didn't have the opportunity earlier in life. In 1991 I decided it was now or never.'

Newsome plans to start substitute teaching in the fall after sponding the summer with her children. Her goal is to teach Spanish at the elementary level.

"I boliove the sooner the language is taught, the easier it is to learn. In Europe children are bilingual and I do not see why children in the U.S. can't be too," Newsome said.

At Madonna University, she participated in Kappa Delta Pi, the teaching honor society, and volunteered after school during her student teaching, with atplans after graduation include risk students in technology at Garden City.

"During my student teaching at Garden City I was working 60 hours a week," said Newsome.

Newsome credits her husband and parents for their strong support in helping her accomplish her goal. Through one of her classes, she learned about Miguel De Unamuno, a famous writer and philosopher, who said: "It is in the quest of searching for knowledge that gives life meaning."

"I want to focus on that quest," said Newsome.

Sheryl Zajechowski Sheryl Zajechowski of Livonia will graduate with highest honors and receive a bachelor of arts in journalism and public relations.

"Ever since high school I have wanted to work in book publishing," Zajechowski said.

A graduate of St. Agatha High School in Redford Township, Zajechowski began as a full-time student at Madonua University in 1993. She received several lour-year scholarships including the presidential scholarship, the Catholic Student Award and the Byrd Scholarship.

Besides excelling in acathe Student Ambassador Club. the International Association of Business Communicators and Campus Ministry.

"I don't now if I would have got as involved if I had attended a large school. I think it was easier to find a niche here at Madonna," said Zajechowski.

In addition to her activities, she is a co-op student at Ford Motor Co. For her future, she plans to attend the Publishing Institute at the University of Denver in July 1997, a fourweek program on book publishing.

Molly Malpass

Molly Malpass of Plymouth will graduate with high honors and receive a bachelor's degree in social work.

"I had heard about Madonna University from a friend who went here," Malpass said. "When I came to visit the school, the financial aid office was very supportive and helpful. I think Madonna is good for the working individual with children." she Malpass is a divorced mother of two sons.

"My kids have been very supportive and are excited to see me graduate. My oldest son brags to his friends."

While at Madonna University, she was the president of Phi Beta Gamma, the National demics, she was very active in Honor Society for Social Work. and an active member of the Social Work Club.

She plans to attend Wayne. State for a master's degree in social work. Her goal is to open a therapeutic day care center for children. "I really feel I got a solid education at Madonna and am confident about going on."

Joe Kelley

Joe Kelley of Westland will graduate with honors and receive a bachelor of science in criminal justice.

"When reading stories about graduates and all they accomplished, I always thought they can do it but I can't. Now I am graduating and with a good GPA. I want those who think they cannot do it, to know they

Kelley plans to continuo working at the Plymouth Police Department as a public safety dispatcher and is applying to the University of Detroit Mercy for a master's degree in criminal justice. His goal is to work in the

Besides working approximately 32 hours a week at the Plymouth Police Department and attending school full-time, Kelley also was a volunteer for student life.

"I think it is very important to get involved with the school. I am sad to leave, but I can always come back and visit."

36251 SCHOOLCRAFT, LIVONIA, MICHIGAN 48150

Eye on finance

Meeting keeps issue in focus oncerned residents, school administrators and trustees should write letters to the state Legislature and Gov. John Engler to make sure both are aware of the problems caused in the implementation of Proposal A, a state school reform package approved by Michigan voters three years ago.

This is an effort that is already under way in Westland, with some residents saying they want to help and trustees who continue to heavily lobby for the Wayne-Westland district at the state level. A meeting of western Wayne County school officials to explore Proposal A's impact in detail was canceled last month and has been rescheduled for April 30 in Westland. The Westland Observer is looking forward to it because districts need to keep focused on a solution to this problem.

This financial shell game is not only harming school districts like Wayne-Westland but also denting the state's credibility in carrying out campaign promises.

The problems are not mere financial inconveniences for school officials trying to stretch every dollar as much as they can. The problems are part of a flawed financial reform plan which is also affecting Engler's overall plan to improve the quality of education throughout the state.

While some leaders will argue that money isn't everything, it certainly helps – especially in those districts which were allowed to keep most of their per-pupil spending levels from the pre-Proposal A years.

Engler and his supporters promised in the Proposal A campaign that approval would mean the narrowing of the spending gap between low-valuation and high-valuation districts. That clearly didn't happen.

Shortly after Proposal A was approved by voters who were more concerned with slashing their school property taxes than improving education, the state administration said that local schools will receive more state dollars.

That's true, but very misleading.
What the state didn't say was that it was pushing more high-ticket expenditures from Lansing to the local districts.

One major cost shift is that local districts now must pay their employer's share of Social Security payments as well as payments to the state school employees' retirement fund. In the retirement program, local districts are now covering 15.5 percent of the costs – more than triple the previous 5 percent figure.

Even worse, in comparison, is the school employees' retirement system payments, at least double the levels of three years ago.

The districts are also required to pay all of the "students at risk" program. Before Proposal A, the state paid for the program costs.

In addition to Proposal A problems, districts are also facing a proposed school aid package which is lower than the consumer price index – less than the cost of living.

So far, there has been no major hue and cry from the public about the problem, but people are starting to take an interest. In Westland, residents have said they are looking for some guidance about what they can do.

We hope that our local school districts join with other districts and convince the governor and Legislature to make changes.

The students will be the major winners if the problem is recognized by state leaders and corrected.

Keep actions Earth-friendly t's spring and it may not be your fancy, but many people's thoughts turn to cleaning and yard work.

If you do get ambitious enough to clean up your house and work in your yard, keep in mind your efforts should also be Earth-friendly.

Earth Day is in April and that's a good time to remember that our actions can affect the environment, including the Rouge River.

We live in the Rouge River watershed, an area of land that is drained by the Rouge River system.

It is one of the most publicly accessible rivers in the state, and the Rouge River also affects the water quality of the lower 20 miles of the Detroit River and Lake Erie.

Many past sources of pollution have been brought under control, but the Rouge River remains polluted because of storm water runoff, the excess water that flows over land during and after a rainfall or snow melt.

We contribute to pollution in the Rouge in many ways including by overfertilizing our lawns, washing and performing maintenance on cars in our driveways and improperly disposing of leftover paint and chemicals.

A goal of the federally funded Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Project is to educate the public on how to be Rouge Friendly.

Here are some things the experts say to keep in mind when cleaning and working in and outside your home:

- Keep fertilizers, pesticides and herbicides off paved surfaces and out of drainage paths.
- Direct polluted wash water away from streets and storm drains. Wash your car on your lawn, or better go to a car wash.

- Only repair your vehicle in an area where leaks and spills cannot flow toward storm drains, or better take it to a mechanic.
- Clean up animal waste before it rains.

 Throw it in the trash or flush it down your toilet.
- Do not use your hose as a broom. Do not wash or sweep debris, spilled or leaked materials into storm drains.
- Properly dispose of household hazardous waste and use nontoxic alternatives when possible.
- Compost rather than bag grass clippings and other yard debris.
- Find out about hazardous waste drop off centers and special hazardous waste collection days. If your community doesn't have one call and request one.

Keep in mind that household hazardous wastes include oven cleaner, toilet-bowl cleaner, old medicines, batteries, floor-care products, nail polish and remover, oil-based paint, paint thinner, primer and varnish, wood preservatives and stains and some adhesives and glues.

Other ways to help the environment are to become involved in cleanup activities in your community, including the Rouge Rescue in June.

On Saturday morning, June 7, volunteers will work to clear debris from the Rouge. It will be held at many local sites including in Livonia, at the Holliday Nature Preserve in Westland and Lola Valley Park in Redford.

For more information on how you can help the Rouge, call the Rouge Hotline at (313) 961-0730. For information on the Rouge Rescue, call the Friends of the Rouge at (313) 961-4050.

Let's do what's best

A fter the countywide parks millage of 1996 passed, I began talking about county secession as a last resort to correct what I deemed an unfair countywide taxation issue. Western Wayne County communities were voting these millages down and yet they still passed on a countywide basis, even though about 80 percent of the taxes were collected from the suburbs.

Last November, I spoke with Assistant Wayne County Executive Mike Duggan about what could be done to help make the millage process a little more equal to the people who were paying the largest percent of the tax. We discussed requiring a two-thirds vote of Wayne County commissioners to place any millage on the ballot and requiring a vote of at least 66 percent of the residents in Wayne County to pass any new millage.

Mike Duggan agreed that it was an issue of fairness and agreed that this was a problem for the suburbs and shortly thereafter contacted me to say he would like to work with me to resolve this issue. During my discussions with Mr. Duggan, he was upfront about the fact that he would support a ballot proposal with respect to new millage only, not renewals.

He also stated that he would support requiring 60 percent of the voters to pass a new millage, not 66 percent. I have recommended to the members of the Conference of Western Wayne that we take Mike Duggan up on his offer of support.

I believe with Mr. Duggan's support, we probably have the best chance of accomplishing that goal.

Of course, we would love to be able to get a better proposal, such as the one Wayne County Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, has discussed, requiring a three-quarters vote to put it on the ballot. I would also like the ballot language to require a two-thirds majority of county residents to pass any new or renewal millage.

However, the votes are not there on the commission to accomplish that. If they were, Mr. Patterson would have already succeeded, but has not. If he can get the votes for a better deal, I will applaud and thank him personally and publicly. I think it is extremely unfair for him to criticize my attempt to get at least the next best deal that I believe we can get the support and votes for.

I am simply working to secure a more equal taxation process for the residents of Westland. If Mr. Patterson can show me that a proposal that requires at least 60 percent of the voters in Wayne County to pass any new millage isn't a much better deal for our taxpayers than they have now, let him do so.

In closing, I want the best tax relief I can get out of the county and will work with anyone who will help me achieve that goal. As for Mr. Patterson, if he is willing to help, I would welcome it. I just hope he is sincere about it.

Support the symphony

Plymouth has an outstanding symphony orchestra. Each year it provides well-rounded programming, including music of all types for children and adults.

The orchestra grew from a dedicated nucleus of about a dozen members in 1947 to 90 members in 1997. These talented and dedicated musicians under the direction of conductor Russell Reed truly enjoy playing a wide spectrum of orchestral selections. This year included the music of Wagner, Tchaikovsky and Haydn in the beginning of the season to a program of Spanish classical guitar, The Nutcracker Ballet and a children's Family Fantasia in the middle season.

The orchestra will end the season in April with a Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band performance at the pops concert.

A symphony orchestra is a real asset to a community. It sparks civic pride, increases the value of commercial and residential property, to say nothing of the cultural advantages it offers the citizens of the community and their children.

Attend concerts, discuss the music with your children, and most importantly, enjoy with them good music with your children, and most importantly, enjoy with them good musical programming. Support the orchestra with your attendance and contributions. You will not regret the rewards.

Help appreciated

would like to express my sincere gratitude

As I was walking, I slipped on a patch of ice and when I fell the back of my head struck the cement. Instantly, the mail carrier was there to assist me, and a gentleman driving south stopped at the curb.

The mail carrier helped me to my feet and into the front seat of the man's vehicle. This gentleman then drove me home. Because of my confused state of mind, I failed to get the names of those Good Samaritans.

However, I wanted them to know I'll never forget what they did for me. In a society that often displays indifference, it's gratifying to know there are people who care.

POINTS OF VIEW

AARP should take national approach

he American Association of Retired Persons provides a variety of important services for its members, including me.

I joined the week I marked my 50th birthday and was eligible to join for $5 a year. (The dues are now $8.)

Since I received my membership card, I have enjoyed numerous discounts at restaurants, motels and other retail businesses. In addition, I pay half of my Schoolcraft College tuition because of its policy allowing discounts for seniors 60 and older.

But in recent years, I am questioning AARP's policies and politics on two issues.

One is the Social Security sacred cow. The other was a proposed change in the way the national Consumer Price Index is computed, which affects Social Security benefits for retirees.

I want to make it clear that I have nothing against seniors or retirees, since I am now 61 and looking forward to retirement in four years.

But a group specializing in helping the gray-haired generation doesn't mean that everything it says and does is "right" and everyone else is wrong.

As an example, let's take the recent foud in Washington, D.C., on changing the Consumer Price Index and how it is put together.

The CPI has long been used by governmental agencies, labor unions and other organizations for determining how much it should raise governmental benefits to recipients or give employees in the form of pay raises.

The supporters of the change said the current system of determining the "cost of living" is seriously flawed and overstates inflation.

LEONARD POGER

In reality, the overstated CPI means that recipients are paid more in governmental benefits than is needed,

For example, if the index goes up 4 percent in one year, a Social Security recipient who normally gets $1,000 a month would get a $40 per month increase.

But if the index really reflects a 3 percent raise, the retirees would then get an extra $30 a month.

While some recipients certainly need all the money they can get, studies of the Social Security payments reflect that most recipients have other sources of income and aren't waiting in food stamp lines.

On a national level, a savings of $10 a month would result in tens of millions of dollars a year in Social Security benefits and billions in the long-range planning of federal spending

A change in the CPI to eliminate the overpayments would help reduce the rate of increase of the federal deficit, something most voters support.

But to AARP, the CPI and inflated Social Security payments are sacred and must not be changed.

The organization mounted a massive campaign to put pressure on members of Congress and the administration. A recent news wire service report out of Washington concluded that President Bill Clinton, never one to ignore public feelings, caved in.

The change in the way the CPI is formulated is now a low priority with the administration.

I enjoy the AARP's magazines and retail discounts, but I wish it would take a more national approach to the problems of society and the federal budget than the narrower views of its members who already benefit financially, sometimes at the expense of the younger generation.

Give banks credit for role in development

he news coverage was almost laughable. Pictures and sound bites of politicians Dennis Archer, Al Gore, Andrew Cuomo. Fawning over the White House Community Empowerment Conference.

A bare mention of what made new jobs and housing possible: The bankers from seven banks that bankrolled some $600 million for Detroit's economic rebirth.

Twas ever thus, in the media and history books. What we learned in high school and even college was less history than government history. Kids probably would get bored if history focused on banks and credit. As adults, we use the history we learned as kids.

One of the University of Michigan's great professors, the late J. Philip Wernette of the Business School, used to compare the economy's money supply to a human's blood supply. Too little, and you had anomia and depression. Too much, and you had high blood pressure and inflation. The right amount, and you had good health and a "sanguine" economy. Ho was colorfully correct.

John Steele Gordon has written a new book called "Hamilton's Blessing" (Walker, 1997) about the role of the national debt and banks. Gordon starts with Treasury Secretary Alexander Hamilton's commercial career and knowledge of money, rarities among the landed Founding Fathers.

"(S)ince its creation in the early 1790s, the national debt has been one of this country's greatest boons, just as a credit card can be in a family emergency. Almost overnight, it transformed the U.S. from a financial basket case into the best credit risk in the world," Gordon writes. "The number of U.S. banks multiplied to 29 in 1800 from only three in 1790."

Historians, perhaps politically

TIM RICHARD

motivated, praise President Thomas Jefferson for buying the Louisiana Territory from France and doubling the size of our nation. The economic facts are that Louisiana cost $15 million; the federal government in 1803 spent less than $8 million; and Hamilton's healthy banking system loaned Jefferson the money.

Jefferson ranted against Hamilton's baby, the Bank of the United States. Foolishly, the Jeffersonian Republicans and his successor, James Madison, killed off the central bank in 1811. They almost caused our nation to lose the War of 1812.

Fortunately, Stephen Girard, a Philadelphian and the richest man in the country, bailed out the government. "A chastened Congress quickly chartered the Second Bank of the United States," says Gordon.

Andrew Jackson, our most ignorant president, threw the national and Michigan economy into a tailspin by vetoing the charter renewal of the Second Bank in the 1830s. Disreputable "wildcat" banks, like Auburn and Singapore, sprang up under state charters. Michigan, to its shame, defaulted on its railroad and canal bonds.

Arthur M. Woodford charted this region's economic history nicely in "Detroit and Its Banks" (Savoyard, 1974). In part because of its reputation for swampiness, in part for lack of banks, Michigan remained an economic backwater in the 1820s as settlers filled in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Woodford's book was written for the old Detroit Bank and Trust, a forerunner of today's Comerica.

Banks have had their detractors, like Franklin D. Roosevelt and your great-aunt Minnie, and with some reason. But just as good dog breeders transformed the Doberman pinscher from a vicious guard to a lovable pet, bankers (with help from government regulators) transformed their industry to one of progressiveness and integrity.

Modern suburbia, with its homes, malls and clean factories, wouldn't be what it is without a healthy blood supply of bank credit.

Now you know where to find "the rest of the story."

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Sharpshooting won't help school reform goal nce an important policy initiative is launched, there always comes an uneasy period when sharpshooters come out of the woodwork. So it is just now with school reform – so vitally important, so long delayed, so slowly gaining momentum.

A consensus has been building over the past year or so that the best way to improve K-12 education in Michigan is to develop a set of tests that objectively assesses what students actually learn

Made public district by district and building by building, the tests results can tell students and parents how their schools stack up. Results also will suggest to teachers and school officials what changes in teaching methods, textbooks and emphasis will best serve students in mastering the curriculum. Employers, too, will be interested in how prospective workers scored on the tests.

All this sounded perfectly reasonable up to last fall, when masses of students in Birmingham, Troy and a few other communities skipped the High School Proficiency Tests (HSI^{*}I'). Some parents feared that scoring poorly would hurt their children in getting admitted to choice colleges, while some school officials supposedly told poor students to stay away so as not to pull down district averages.

Compounding the problem was the nomenclature adopted by the Logislature to characterize test accres on high school transcripts: "proficient," "novice" and "not yet novice," in descending order. Parents and students who had been getting good grades were particularly angered by the use of "novice" — "new, inexperienced," according to my dictionary — to characterize performance on the HSPT.

Then a major statewide daily newspaper, avid in search of readership, gave prominent play to a story on HSPT results under the screaming headline; "Half the Juniors in Michigan Fail Standardized Tests," thereby distorting both the results and the purposes of the tests.

Always alert to sharpshooting opportunities, various legislators got into the act.

Rep. Kirk Profit; a Democrat who represents communities in eastern Washtenaw County and usually knows better, introduced a bill to delay the next round of HSPTs. "It has become abundantly clear that the testing instruments being used in an effort to determine high school proficiency are failing as proper measurements of who is actually proficient," grumped Profit's process release.

PHILIP POWER

Republican state senators representing communities in Oakland County held a set of hearings, making sure along the way not to include Democratic lawingkers. Democratic Sens. Gary Peters and Ken DeBeaussacrt promptly held their own hearings.

So backers of serious school reform were plenty concerned when the State Board of Education held its monthly meeting last week. We should not have been concerned. The board and Art Ellis, superintendent of public instruction, acted with steadfast prudence.

Addressing concerns about nomenclature, the board voted to ask the Legislature to remove the School Code requirement that test results "novice" and "proficient" be placed on student transcripts. Instead, transcripts will show subjects in which students have carned state diploma endorsement.

The board also cautioned schools and parents not to skip the HSPT by exploiting the loophole of limited English and other disabilities. "Tell them to take the test," said Clark Durant, R-Grosse Pointe, summing up board opinion. "There should be no waivers at all," said Sharon Wise, R-Owesse.

And most importantly, everybody held firm on the main point of using tests as the instrument of school reform. Dr. Anne Hansen, a deputy superintendent, quoted a representative comment from a western Michigan district superintendent: "We cannot afford to lose this test. It's the most important single item in educational instruction reform."

Steady as she goes, Superintendent Ellis.
Stay the course, State Board. Quit sharpshooting, legislators.

FAMILY ROOM

KAREN MEIER

Neighborhoods and big things going on there rite what you know." "Find the good in things." Those are the foundation on which this "Family Room" column has been built. Granted, that foundation is neither fancy nor complex, but then again, this "Room" isn't all that fancy or complex either.

As for this "Write what you know" part of the foundation, I've always done that. Letters, notes, reports, resumes, greeting cards, grocery lists, "Parent Comments" on my children's report cards, tax forms, the "Family Room." I write what I know.

And along the way, teachers, mentors and colleagues have advised doing just that - writing what I know. By doing that, the experts say, you'll bring honesty and integrity to your work. And vitality - there'll be a person behind those

Now, "finding the good in things" - that's advice given to me by my elders along the way: parents, preachers, priests, grandparents. It's the easier-said-than-done kind of advice, but it's good advice nevertheless.

Sometimes, though, writing what you know and finding good at the same time is very hard. This time it's impossible - because what I know of is so sad, so unfair and so utterly meaningless.

Someone close by, in the neighborhood, has just been diagnosed with a very serious illness. The news sent shock waves and anger storms down these tree-lined, quiet streets of ours. There is nothing good in this. There is no lesson here. What there is is helpless disbelief, especially considering the impeccably healthy lifestyle and young age of this neighbor, this friend who's been stricken.

Neighbors shocked

My neighborhood has been shocked and angered. But little by little, we're moving away from these very normal, very human, yet useless reactions, and we're reaching out in tangible ways, bringing food and offering help. Yet we, in the neighborhood, can't help but rail at our powerlessness in the face of this.

Is there anything else we can do? Anything at all? We're only people, quite ordinary people, living side by side in a neighborhood. What else can

In this neighborhood, as in most neighborhoods, we started out as strangers, but then evolved and became neighbors. Time passed, and neighbors, formerly "strangers," became friends. And that's a wonderful and common thing in a neighborhood. One thing though, once you get to "neighbor" status, you can never go back to "stranger" status. Maybo "former neighbor," but never again stranger. Once a neighbor, always a neighbor. There's no going back on that. And there's no going back on being part of a neighborhood.

That word, "neighborhood." It's just a word.
According to the dictionary, it's this: "A district considered in regard to its inhabitants or distinctive characteristics." That seems so cold, so detached, so unneighborly. There's so much more to it than that. It's bigger than that,

Remember the neighborhood you grow up in? Everything in our long-ago neighborhoods seemed big. The houses there and the yards are all remembered as big, gigantic, huge. But, of course, when you go back now, somehow things seem to have shrunk.

I see my children now noticing things here in our neighborhood they consider big and huge. Not just houses and yards; but things like the everyday comings and goings of the people up and down the street. Someone's new car, Someone else's rose trellis. The new puppy with the big paws. The baby in the stroller, Haircute. Fire trucks, Grill smells, Garage sales, Roof repairs, Old bicycles. Red wagons. Christmas lights. Luminaries, Flags on front porches, Huge maple trees. UPS truck deliveries. Newly painted garage doors, Snowmen, Lemonade stands,

The big things

These are the big things of the neighborhood as my children see it. But what are those things to us adults? Maybe a long time ago, when we were little, these things were huge and significant, but like those grand homes of our childhood, they've shrunk in size and importance.

But I've been wondering. The significance children put to little things, does that preclude understanding or seeing the "big things?" Yes, children see those little things and talk endlessly about them to best friends and Mom and Dad and brothers and sisters. But children, I've dis-

You could call Charlie Cauchi and Tony Farrugia bird-lovers. But before you think of back yards filled with birdhouses, think again. These two men spend their free time breeding and raising canaries, and April is one of the busiest times for them.

Furthermore, little junior requires just the right room temperature and lighting. If it's too cold, too light, too dark or whatever, the bundle of joy is sure to launch into a half-hour cry fest.

Charlie Cauchi can relate. Up and down the stairs he goes, on an aimost continual feeding and pain pering mission.

But you'll never hear any of his contented offspring babbling. Nor will their little expressions break into a satisfied smile. You see, Cauchi's loved ones are birds.

The 42-year-old Redford resident owns 50 canaries and this month he and dozens of other local breeders are deep into the breeding season, which runs from about January through April.

When Cauchi isn't working on the engine production line at Ford Motor Company's Flat Rock plant or chatting with other bird breeders, he raises a canary species called Borders.

"They're called Borders because they come from an area right between Scotland and England," explains Cauchi following an 8 p.m. feeding.

The cheerful songsters range in color from yellow to white. You probably won't find any Borders at any of the local pet shops, says Cauchi, who estimates a bird's value ranges from about $75 to about $600-700 depending on quality and how it looks.

Ken Overall, owner of one of the area's largest bird and fish shops, Royal Tropical Fish & Bird Haven in Royal Oak and White Lake, says that's because there's no longer a big demand for Borders.

"American singers are popular these days and they are the most reasonably priced," said Overall, who breeds canaries on his farms in Florida and California. Males go for anything from about $50 to $150 and females run from about $10 to $40.

"Often times we'll get them in on a Monday and by Wednesday we're out," he added.

The 42-year-old president of the Livonia-based Society of Canary and Finch Breeders knows all about a canary's value. Tony Farrugia lives with about 200 red canaries in his Livonia home. But Farrugia doesn't really care about his red canaries' $230 price tag. He breeds and trades for fun.

Six bird fans started the Society of Canary and Finch Breeders in 1991. Today, the 40 or so members meet regularly to discuss breeding, bird shows, training and more.

Every October, the society hosts a local bird show in Livenia and proudly hosted the 48th Annual National Cage Bird Show last November at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn, More than 3,000 birds, ranging from finches and lovebirds to canaries and budgles - were

What Home Breeders Worry About: "Are the eggs going to hatch? Are the hens going to feed their chicks?" says Redford breeder Charlie Cauchi.

Quickest to breed: The smaller canaries get into condition (to mate) much quicker than the larger ones," says Cauchi.

"We simulate apringtime. As the days get longer, we add more lights," says Cauchi.

Lifespan: "Canaries live for about 8 to 10 years on the average and, for the most part, the larger the bird, the longer it lives," says Ken Overall of Royal Tropical Fish & Bird Haven in Royal Oak.

Christian band rocks without preaching

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

The Christian rock band All Star United is all about a rock 'n' roll show.

"We're not a traveling preaching show; we want anyone to come who wants to rock," said drummer Christian Crowe of his Nashville-based band's show Saturday, April 26, at Clarenceville

United Methodist Church in Livonia. That is reflected on All Star United's self-titled debut album released by Reunion Records in February. The Christian lifestyle is deeply embedded in a swirl of Brit pop influences. Vocal styles meshed with staccato keyboards similar to the

To top off that Brit pop theme, "All Star United" was mixed in London, England, by Mark Freegard who has worked with Manic Street Preachers and

"It was done at a studio where all these Brit bands record; he's totally tied in with all of them," Crowe said. "As it was being mixed, Ian (Eskelin, singer/songwriter/producer) went over there and at the studio on the first floor Boy George was working on a project."

"It bothers me when you listen to something and you can tell it's Christian rock 'n' roll in the first two measures because of the production and music quality," ho said. "For so many years, Christian music was behind the mainstream for three or five years. We just want to be able to play to our peers regardless if they're Christian or not."

Crowe explained that Christian bands like his can share their beliefs without saying "Jesus in every other song."

"The songs are written about our lives and the way we get through life; a large percentage band members wanted a well- of it is about our faith," he

"It's kind of limiting if that's all you can write about. All these Christian bands are doing that. We thought that it wouldn't hurt if we didn't. We'd rather be a U2 or any number of bands that covered, see so much more. And they absorb it. Yes, the exciting, the good things of a neighborhood bubble to the surface with children.

But the sad, the unexplainable, the "real world" parts of the neighborhood, although not talked about much, sink in.

It's a curious thing how children make a big deal out of the simplest stuff. The noisy street sweeper machine that comes by in the afternoon and scares a squirrel up a tree gets top billing during dinner time conversation.

But the big things, for children, are different. The big things get absorbed, quietly absorbed.

And the big things don't bubble up, in a soda pop sort of way. Instead, they whisper their way out, in a bedtime prayer sort of way in the dark, quiet part of the night.

So instead of railing at our powerlessness and wondering what else we can do as a neighborhood, for our friend and neighbor, we can follow the children. We, too, can pray.

God can't help but hear us.

Green: People need a good laugh and more smileage

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Lila Green was appalled when she read in the "Book of Averages" that the typical American adult laughs 15 times a day, with the average 3- to 5-year-old child giggling about 250 times a

- As a result, Green has yowed to add more "smileage" to the lives of her family and the people she meets. Her goal was to make Livonia Town Hall patrons do just that.

"We all need a good laugh, not only today, but every day of our lives; I believe so strongly in the value of humor and the benefits of humor," Green said. "What I ber jokes. I think that's fine. "I believe you can be cheerful, positive, light-hearted, optimistic, and funny without ever telling a joke."

She proved her point by asking audience members to raise their hands if they can remember and tell jokes very well. Five people raised their hands.

"That is a skill and a gift and you're blessed and very fortunate," Green told the audience.

Then she asked those who think they have a reasonably good sense of humor to raise their hands. The majority of the audience complied.

During her 45-minute talk, Green showed on an overhead 'Class' assignments

She conducted her lecture the same way she runs her humor. classes at the University of Michigan. There was going to be a pop quiz and a paper due. Everyone was going to carn an A Green, an Ann Arbor resident. began her talk by explaining her qualifications for teaching such a-

"My main qualification for speaking about humor is the fact that I have been a mother for 183 years," she said. "That's the combined ages of my five children. I had five children in eight years and I never would have survived without a healthy sense of humor."

The audience's second assignment was to ask someone sitting nearby what makes them laugh. During the allotted two minutes. the group laughed and smiled as they talked about friends, family members, entertainers and pets.

"It's almost impossible to talk about someone who makes you laugh or makes you smile without smiling yourself," said Green, the author of "Making Sense of Humor: How To Add Joy to Your Life." "Instantly, you all improved your face value. You look so much better when you smile.

"I assigned you the task of looking for humor. I believe you need to look for humor. Comedians don't necessarily live funnier lives than we do. They see the humor in everyday life."

For the final pop quiz, Green asked the group "What do you think of when you think of someone with a good sense of humor?"

Patrons replied that people who make them laugh, are happy, have positive qualities and appreciate and initiate humor. They are those with a good sense of humor.

'To me," Green said, "the most desirable quality is someone who has the ability to laugh at them-

Green - a national seminar leader for the American College of Health Care Administrators, and a founding member of the American Association of Therapeutic Humor - travels the country speaking about humor.

Value of humor

She fully understood the value of humor after she joined the staff at the University of Michigan Institute of Gerontology in the early 1970s.

"As part of my work I visited many nursing homes," she said. "Do you think there were opportunities for laughter 15 times a day in nursing homes in the early 1970s? Not really. I promised myself I was going to do something to change the pattern from grin and bear it to grin and share it."

Then, she said, "something really exciting happened." In 1979 and 1980, she was involved with a special research demonstration project that involved elderly people with Alzheimer's disease who were housed at Chelsea Methodist Retirement Home.

"What intrigued me was that they (the patients) couldn't remember. family members' names, but very often they could remember jokes, funny stories and songs," she explained. "It seems to me that the emotional memory of shared laughter is one of the last things to go with people with Alzheimer's dis-

Green ended her lecture giving the audience tips on how to be funnier.

"In medicine you do a medical history; in psychology, you take a psycho-social history. I encourage you to take a funny bone history," she said. "Think to yourself, Who makes me laugh or smile? When do I enjoy laughing? Where do I laugh the most? Where do I laugh the least? How do I feel after laughing?' Think about looking and examining your own funny bone you hope to add more humor and a light touch in your life.'

Ontko

Thomas and Irene Ontko celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a family dinner and a special trip to be taken later this year.

The couple exchanged vows on April 19, 1947, at Holy Ghost Byzantine Catholic Church in Cleveland, Ohio. She is the former Irene Strauch.

The Ontkos have known each other since childhood. They met as the result of a friendship between their mothers. They encouraged their children to write to each other, when he entered the U.S. Army during World War II. They did so throughout the war and romance soon followed.

The Ontkos have resided in Garden City for 40 years. They have four children - Tom of Garden City, Gary of Livonia, Cindy of Westland and Renee McCall and husband Tom of Garden City. They have five grandchildren - Karri, Holly and Ryan Ontko and Tommy and Danny McCall.

He retired from the U.S.

Szumski

Joseph and Theresa Szumski of Garden City will renew their wedding vows at Mass and then enjoy an evening of dinner and dancing with family members and friends to mark their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple exchanged vows on June 7, 1947, at St. Francis Church in Detroit. She is the former Theresa Holewinski,

Door knocking breathes life into New Life Lutheran

By Susan Robiek Stay Writer

It's been a busy three years for the Rev. Ken Roberts of New Life Lutheran Church, Since coming to the Plymouth. and Canton area in April 1994. he has been knocking on doors - more than 4,500 in Plymouth. Plymouth Township and Canton Township — "fishing" for mem-bers for New Life, a mission church affiliated with the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America (ELCA).

But it hasn't been easy. Shortly after he arrived and settled temporarily in an apartment in Northville Township, there was a fire. Smoke and water damaged most of his belongings. He was homeless and went to stay with friends in Farmington Hills until he could retrieve records. and regroup.

Moving is typical for most clergy, but for Roberts and his wife, Marilyn, it became the norm. They moved 10 times in 2 1/2 years before finally moving into a new church parsonage in Plymouth Township last Decem-

Things have settled down, however, and New Life is putting down some strong roots.

The Redgling mission church has come a long way since 12 people started meeting and holding services in homes in fall of 1994. The mission church held its first formal worship on Jan. 22, 1995 in the Masonic Temple in downtown Plymouth.

"We had 61 people and 7 inches of snow," said Roberts.

On Sunday, Roberts will be installed as pastor of the nearly 100-member congregation which draws most of its members from

Church receives charter

New Life will be charted as an official congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America (ELCA) at 4 p.m. Sunday, April 27, and the Rev. Ken Roberts will be installed as its first pastor.

A special ceremony of recognition and celebration is planned in Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 39020 Five Mile, between Newburgh and the I-275, Livonia. The service is open to the public.

Bishop J. Philip Wahl, of the ELCA Southeast Michigan Synod will officiate and the Rev. Rev. Jim Kocher, mission director, will deliver a greeting.

In addition, the first congregation council of New Life will be installed.

Liturgical music will highlight the service. Featured will be harpist/vocalist D.L. Turner. He will be joined by others on the organ, piano, keyboard, guitars and trumpet.

A reception will follow the 90-minute service.

Cardinals Dinner benefits Catholic University

The president of Comerica Bank, Michael Monohan, and Msgr. Ricardo Bass, pastor of St Joan of Arc Parish in St. Clair Shores, have been named cochairs of The Catholic University of America's Cardinals Dinner, slated for Friday, June 6, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Dearborn.

The annual fund-raising gala traditionally brings together and honors the U.S. cardinals for their support of CUA in Washington, D.C.

In addition to Cardinal Adam Maida of Detroit, six other cardinals who currently lead archdioceses in the U.S. are expected in Detroit for the dinner: Anthony Bevilacqua of Philadelphia, John O'Connor of New York, James Hickey of Washington, D.C., William Keeler of Baltimore, Bernard Law of Boston and Roger Mahoney of Los Angeles.

The Catholic University of America is the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States. Funds raised by the black-tie dinner will provide financial assistance for CUA students.

For more information about the dinner, call (313) 237-5929 or (800) 616-9772.

"The dinner is an excellent opportunity for people from the Archdiocese of Detroit and throughout the Midwest to participate in an event that is of national importance to the Church," said Maida, this year's host cardinal. "I'm certain that Michael Monohan's prominence as a community leader will help bring together a wide range of individuals and organizations for this special occasion."

"In addition to helping talented young people, this prestigious gathering offers Catholics and, indeed, all members of the community, an opportunity to recognize the Catholic Church's contributions to the Detroit area and to celebrate their friendship with members of the Catholic faith," said Monohan, who is active in inter-religious affairs.

President and chief operating officer of Comerica Bank since 1992 and president of Comerica, Inc. since 1993, Monohan is a recognized leader in business, civic and religious activities.

Bass received a licentiate in canon law from The Catholic University in 1983 and is a past president of the Canon Law Society of America. Prior to being appointed pastor of St Joan of Arc Parish, he served as judicial vicar for the Archdiocese of Detroit. He also served as assistant professor of canon law at St. John's Provincial Seminary in Plymouth, Michigan.

"It is a privilege to be asked to co-chair the eighth American Cardinals Dinner which supports educational opportunities for deserving women and men – lay, religious and clergy – at the Catholic University of America," said Bass. "The education provided me by the university continues to assist me in my service to the Church in the Archdiocese of Detroit."

The Catholic University of America educates more than 6,000 students annually in more than 60 fields, including architecture, arts and sciences, religious studies, music, social service, law, engineering, nursing philosophy and library and information science,

It plays a unique role in the Catholic Church in the United States as the only American university with ecclesiastical faculties granting canonical degrees in theology, philosophy and

This year, Jacobson's stores have taken a heightened role in promoting awareness of breast

In conjunction with the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancor Institute, Jacobson's is offering screening for breast cancer at its stores.

As part of a one-year program, the institute's mobile detection center is visiting Jacobson's stores on a rotating monthly

Customers will receive a free mammogram, clinical breast exam and instruction in breast self-examination from trained professionals.

Upcoming visits include the Grosse Pointe store Friday, June 20, the Ann Arbor store on Friday, July 25, at the Rochester store on Friday Aug. 15, and the Birmingham store on Friday, Sept. 19.

After the screening, women will be offered a complimentary makeover at the cosmotics participating in the screening.

Jacobson's also is offering several prosthesis products and complimentary alterations on bathing suits for mastectomy survivors. The service will allow customers a choice of any suit sold at the store.

Among the products available are Amoena prosthesis pockets, which are designed to fit perfectly in any bathing suit and create a natural curved look. The pockets, available in the lingerie department, are $6 per pair...

The pockets also allow women the option of using their own prosthesis or purchasing a new product available at Jacobson's, including the Amoena lightweight prosthesis shell that can be used in the water.

The "swim form" contains Velero tabs that can be sewn into the bra of the swimsuit and attached to the permanent Velcro tab on the swim form. The shell is $78.

Free alterations are available counter to congratulate them for on all styles of bathing suits as a Amazing run: Livonia Stevenson grad Doug Kurtis was the third American finisher in the Boston Marathon.

Kurtis finds right stride in Beantown

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Just when you think Doug Kurtis has topped himself, he comes up with another big perfor-

The 45-year-old Kurtis, a 1970 Livenia Stevenson High graduate, was the third American finisher in Monday's 101st running of the Boston

Kurtis was clocked in 2 hours, 23 minutes and 10 seconds in the prestigious 26.2-mile race, good enough for 28th overall.

He also collected a check for $1,000 by finishing fifth in the Master's (over-40) division.

"Considering the tougher course conditions and the field, I'd say this was probably one of my better finishes in three or four years," said Kurtis, who holds the distinction of running more sub-2:20 marathons (76) than anyone in the world. "Temperature-wise it was great - the upper 50s. It wasn't too hot or too cold. But there was a pretty strong headwind, and I was lucky I had a pack to run with for the first 18 to 19 Kurtis has run at least a dozen Bostons this first was 1974), including his personal-best 2:15:48 at ago 41 in 1997, but this year's race was something special in his eyes.

"I'vo run probably 180 marathons (and won 39), but I've never seen cheering and screaming like this Boston," he said. "During last two or three miles, the streets were just jam-packed: They were standing four and five deep. The noise was just unbelievable."

At the famed 18 mile mark, known as Heartbroak Hill," Kurtis was informed by somebody in the crowd that he was running fifth in the Mas-

"I thought I'd be the guy who was falling off, but once I heard that, I thought I could hold it if I worked through a steady pace into the downhills whore I usually run pretty well," Kurtis

So far, 1997 has rejuvenated Kurtis, who is contemplating retiring from racing next year.

After going 2:22 last December in Huntsville, Ala. Marathon, Kurtis hit the Masters circuit this season where he clocked an impressive 1:06 half-marathen in Las Vegas followed by his best 10 kilometer showing in four years, a 31:10 in Ho attributes his success to a pair of factors.

"I was married a couple of years ago and things have settled down. I feel more comfortable in my marriage," Kurtis said. "And I've been doing track workouts on Tuesday nights with a good group of guya out of the Running Fit Store-

I'm able to work with a good core group. Usually there are 13 to 14 who show up regularly. We start at the store and go out to the (Northville High School) track. And there's always somebody there to work with and push you during a workout.

You just can't do it alone. I've tried training like that and it's tough. It's hard to do it on your own when you're logging 90 to 100 miles per week. Those guys have really pulled me along.

Kurtle, who has spent the last 21 years as a systems analyst for Ford Motor Company (Powertrain Operations), still has a busy running schedule shead of him.

He plans to run the Mini-Marathon in early May in Indianapolis, Ind., then head for Durbin, South Africa for a Comrade's Ultra-Marathon, a mind-boggling 55-mile event in June.

"That's the big one on the horizon," Kurtis said. "I've never done one. It's the biggest sporting event in South Africa. It draws millions of people. They have 13,000 registered runners coming from all over the world.

Kurtis, who now resides in Northville, also plans to do a "couple of fall marathons," includng the Twin Cities.

So is retirement really in the offing?

"It seems like I'm getting my second wind, you could say," Kurtis said. "But this year is probably it. I'll still go to races, but it will be with the idea of having fun and not worry about where I'll finish. It's hard to train 90 to 100 miles a week because it takes away from so many other things in your life. Plus, I've been doing it for 30

Spartans move into 1st with 3-0 win vs. Salem

BY C.J. RISAR

When it comes to deciding who will reign as the Western Lakes Activities Association girls soccer champ. only a handful of games usually matter.

The rest, history tells us, are icing. Because in the history of the WLAA, only five teams have truly contended for the title - three from the Western, two from the Lakes.

Two of those teams met Wednesday night. At stake: the Lakes Division berth in the WLAA title game.

As it turned out, only one team on the Lakes side can truly be counted among the elite — and that is Livonia Stevenson, which put on the pressure early and kept it up the entire game in thumping Plymouth Salem 3-0 at

The outcome provided a striking contrast in two programs that possess some similarities: Both teams are young and both are talented.

It's just that, at present, Stevenson has more youth and more talent.

"We're a better team now than we were against Novi, even than we were against Northville," said Salem coach Doug Landefeld, identifying the two other teams that have beaten Salem this season (the Rocks are 3-3-1 overall, all three losses by 3-0 scores).

And yet, Landefeld admits Stevenson is currently a superior side. "All over the field, they're good," he said of the Spartans. "They have total team speed and commitment. It's hard to figure them out."

The Rocks had all kinds of trouble sorting Stevenson out. But the Spartans didn't have a similar problem with Salem.

"All we did was basically match up Leah McGrath on Mia (Sarkesian) and Anne Fedrigo on Missy (Simons)," Stevenson coach Jim Kimble explained. "We knew if we stopped those two, we had a very good chance."

The Spartans responded as well to a game plan as any coach could hope for. Salem's Sarkesian and Simons, whom Landefeld had wanted to ignite the offense, swallowed up by the Stevenson defense.

The result: very few chances against a defense that has yet to surrender a goal this season (Stevenson is 7-0-1, its tie a scoreless draw against Plymouth Canton).

A large portion of the first half was played in Salem's end of the field, and nearly the entire second half was. Although Stevenson controlled the play, the best chance of the first half went to Salem, when Simons stole possession and sent a shot just wide of the Spartan net with 18:43 left before intermission.

At least it was the best chance until, with 4:10 remaining. Becky Peterson lofted a soft shot from the left side of the field that handcuffed Salem keeper Merritt Walker. The ball slid underneath the diving Walker and rolled into the net, giving Stevenson a 1-0 lead.

Not much changed through most of the second half, except the Spartans surrendered even fewer opportunities, thanks to the play of defenders Melissa Jacobs, Stacey Nastase and Andrea Sied, and keeper Jenny

Also, as Kimble noted, "Our midfield came to play tonight, it really did." The Stevenson offense was getting plenty of chances, but Salem's Walker was equal to the But again, as Kimble said, "You're not going to keep an Allison Campbell off the board all night." Campbell had missed on two good scoring chances already; she didn't on her third - or her fourth, for that matter. With 6:50 left in the match, the junior forward got control of the ball to the right of the Salem net and pounded a shot past Walker into the far corner.

Down two goals, the Rocks tried to apply even more offensive pressure, but all that accomplished was to give Campbell another open chance — on a breakaway down the left side of the field, which she cashed in with 2:05 to

It was the final bit of icing on what was the only obstacle between Stevenson and the WLAA title game. Please see more girls soccer results on page C2.

Each Chiefe track crown to Spartans

Five first-piace fraishes enabled Livenia Stevenson to come away with the Lady Chief Relays track title Saturday hosted by Plymouth Canten High School.

The Spartage led the 16-echeni Beld with 77 points Russer-up Brighten was second with 65.8.

Other area schools scoring included Canton, third (56); Westland John Glenn, fourth (55): Parmington Hills Mercy, sixth (84); Livonia Churchill, 10th (nine); Plymouth Salem, 11th (sight); Farmington, 12th (seven); Wayne Mamorial, 14th (two); and Livonia Ladywood, 15th (one)

Stevenson once again relied on its distance runners to carry the

In the 4 x 8,200-meter relay, the foursome of Kelly Travis (11:86.1). Kelly McNeilance (11:58.4). Kim. McNeilance (12:13.9) and Danielle Harris (12:19.2) took first.

Travis, Herris, Andres Parker and Kelly McNellance combined for a victory in the 3,200 relay (10:05.0), a meet record, and the distance medley (12:23.2).

The shuttle hurdle relay quartet of Cassie Ehlendt, Christie Tzilos, Katie Sherron and Angela Alfonsi took the shuttle hurdle relay (1:10.5), while Sherron, Kelly McNeilance, Ehlendt and Tzilos wrapped up the meet with a first in the 1,800 relay (4:16.0).

Meanwhile, John Glenn came away with four firsts.

LaToya Chandler broke Kelly Graham's school record in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 5 inches. Jamie Arble and Adriane Ellis joined Chandler on the winning team (15-3).

Chandler also teamed up with Kania Adams, Nicole Herring and LaToi Messer for a first in the 400 relay (52.7), while Adams, Herring, Chandler and Nicolette Jarrett won the 800 relay (1:49.0).

Glenn's other first came in the long jump relay as Jarrett, Deanna McCargo and Messer teamed up (45-2).

Westland John Glenn wins Elks Relays title

Westland John Glenn won its second consecutive championship in the 12-team Dearborn Elks Boys Track Relays Saturday with a team-high Dearborn was second with 40% points, followed by Temperance Bedford (39), Redford Catholic Central (27) and Wyandotte (26).

The Rockets took firsts in six

David Jarrett's individual best leap of 22 feet, inches led Glenn to a first in the long jump relay along with Tim Moore and Devin White combined for a best of 60-6%

In the discus relay, Mike Samples, with an individual best throw of 151-8, lifted Glenn to a first place along with Kurt Boardman and Doug Barnett (380-6 total).

Glenn also captured both hurdle relays — the high hurdle (1:05.22) and the intermediate (1:23.72).

Samples, Moore, Tyronne Beeman and Jim Koch comprised the high hurdle team, while Koch, Joe Wojtowicz, Randy Glenn and Moore made up the intermediate foursome.

Glenn's 400- and 800-meter relay teams - consisting of Reggie Spearmon, Steve Hester, Aaron Stephens and Harden James - also placed first in 44.24 and 1:32.72, respec-

The Rockets also scored points in the high jump relay (second), pole vault relay (third), distance medley (fifth) and 1,600 relay (fifth).

CC's shot put relay team of Dan Dominguez, Chris Koss and Chris Dueweke alkso took a first.

Terek 1st at Mansfield

In one of the most prestigious high school meets in the midwest, Livo nia Franklin pole vaulter Paul Terek emerged the victor by clearing 15-4 at the 56th annual Mehock Relays Friday in Mansfield, Ohio.

Terek, a senior, outlasted 27 other vaulters from several other states in a wicked crosswind, including the defending Ohio state champion, to take the title.

On Saturday, Franklin won the pole vault event at the Novi Relays as Terek (14-6), Anthony Grech (10-6) and Ryan Shiplett combined for the title.

Franklin added a third in the long jump relay (Terek, Ryan Supplee and Brandon Kuznar); shot put relay (Matt Lawson; Bryan Moore, Rob Polesky); and 3,200 relay (Kavin Bigs, Brad Smith, Tom Taylor and Chris Jaskot).

Please see more track on page C4.

Glenn's namesake: Westland John Glenn's Randy Glenn clears 12 feet in pole vault in Tuesday's dual meet against rival Wayne Memorial. See more track on page C4.

Franklin blanks Western; Trojans prevail

Livonia Franklin is proving that a one-person pitching staff may be all you need to be successful.

The Patriots have opened the softball season 9-2 overall and 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association thanks to the pitching of Lori Jendrusik, who has been the pitcher of record in every Franklin game this season.

On Monday, she struck out eight as the Patriots shut out visiting Walled Lake Western 7-0, Jendrusik walked two and scattered five hits.

Andrea Kmet supplied all the offense Jendrusik would need, going 3-for-4 with one RBI. Melissa Thompson added two doubles and also knocked in a run.

Randi Wolfe and Jessica Sabbadin collected two hits apiece, while Kelly Young and Jendrusik recorded run-scoring singles.

Jondrusik (9.2) also led the Patriots to the championship game of Saturday's Taylor Tournament: The Patriots lost the title game, however, dropping a 4-3 decision to Southgate.

In the championship game, Jendrusik, struck out seven without allowing a walk. Kelly Young and Jendrusik had two hits apiece.

Franklin had won three games leading up to the final. Young's two-run single in the sixth inning lifted Franklin by Taylor Center, 4.0, in the day's opener.

The Patriots then beat Westland John Glenn 7-2; as Jendrusik fanned 12 without a walk. Wolfe was 3-for-4 with one RBI, while Jendrusik and Jackie Ziem had two hits each.

The Patriots made it three straight with a 5.0 shutout of Riverview. Jendrusik struck out nine without a walk in her two-hit performance. Ziem, Sabbadin and Thompson each had a runscoring single.

For the day, Jendrusik struck out 36 batters in 27 innings and walked only FARMINGTON 4. JOHN GLENN 3: Katle Foran pitched her best game of the season Monday, but the visiting Rockets still slipped to 28 overall and 04 in the WLAA.

Foran allowed only three hits and walked only one, but a pair of two-run innings doomed Glenn.

The Rockets scored all their runs in the sixth inning. The big blows were an RBI single by Melissa Rayburn and a two-run single by Nikki Reisinger. Angle Haas added a pair of hits.

Glenn won two out of three games at Saturday's Taylor Tournament.

In the first game, Haas had three hits and Jill. Murphy had two as the Rockets beat Wood-Glenn lost 7-2 to Franklin in the next game

Shannon Coultas did not allow a hit in seven innings as host Plymouth Salem (4-6, 1-2) gained the WLAA-Lakes Division triumph over Livonia Stevenson (3-5, 1-2).

Stephanie Volpe led the winners three hits and two RBI, while Maureen Buchanan added two hits and three RBI.

Leanne Schraufnagle suffered the loss. ·LIGGETT 17, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 1: Visiting Grosse Pointe University Liggett took advantage of 10 first-inning walks Monday by Katle Heider to jump out to a 16-0 lead.

The Warriors, who had one hit (a single by Helder) and made five errors, were forced to play without starting shortstop Sharon Green, who broke a finger last week.

Westland fell to 3.4 overall and 2.2 in the Metro.

On Saturday, the Warriors dropped a pair of games to visiting Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Annapolls won the first game 10-2 as Jennifer Hanna struck out 15 batters. Lindsay Allor had two of the Westland hits, while Jenny Schulz added a run-scoring single.

Annapolls beat Westland 12-2 in a five inning mercy to sweep the doubleheader, Schulz ripped a run-scoring triple, and Joy Tiernan collected two hits and one RBI.

.CLARENCEVILLE 18, LUTH EAST 14: Livonia Clarenceville scored in every inning Monday to outslug visiting Harper Woods Lutheran East.

Nicole Riedl led the onslaught, going 2 for 3. with three RBI, two walks and three runs: scored. Kelly Ackroyd added two hits, three RBI, two walks and one run scored. Stacey Kaminski chipped in with a two run double.

Mishelle Ufford allowed 13 hits but hung on for the victory. She struck out four and walked •LADYWOOD 8-6, VILLANOVA 0-5: Tuesday in Windsor, Ontario, Cathy Hermann pitched a twohit shutout to lead Livonia Ladywood (8-3) to a victory in the opener.

She struck out 10 and walked just two. The Blazers broke open a close game with three runs in the fifth as Annie Bolognino had an RBI single

In the nightcap, Bolognino went 3 for 4 with a homer, triple and four RBI and three runs scored. Anne Kijek added two hits:

Melanie Grewe was the winning pitcher, scattering 11 hits and four walks.

On Monday, Jessica Roman's double in the sixth inning scored Kilek with the only run in the nightcap as the host blazers swept a pair from host Ann Arbor Pioneer, 7-1 and 1-0.

The run was all Hermann needed as she scattered four hits, struck out seven and walked

The Blazers won the opener behind the fivehit pitching of Hermann and the outstanding defense by sophomore shortstop Sara Theismey-

Rockets drop Farmington, 5-2

Sean Heard and Tim Reeves each registered key hits Monday as host Westland John Glenn prevailed over Farmington High in a Lakes Division baseball game, 5-2.

The win gives Glenn a 6-3 overall record, 2-1 on the Lakes side of the Western Lakes Activities Association.,

Farmington drops to 4-2 and 2-1.

Glenn scored all of its runs in the first inning. Heard, a junior catcher, had two hits on the day, including a two-run homor off losing pitcher Charlie Jaeger in the first inning. Reeves, a junior third baseman, added a two-out, two-run single in the second inning. Winning pitcher Paul Morandi (2-1) scattered seven hits to earn the victory. "He's coming around and has pitched well all year," Glenn coach Todd Duffield said. "He had great control today." After Farmington scored two runs on three hits and a fielders choice in the top of the seventh, Merandi picked off a runner at second base to end the game. Paul Mitchell and Charlie Avery each had two hits for the winners.

• SALEM 7/ STEVENSON 5: Livonia Stevenson may have thought it was getting an easy out Monday when they opted to intentionally walk Plymouth Salem's Ryan Rumberger to face Alec Ras.

Ras folled Stevenson's strategy as he ripped a three-run home run, which was key to the Rocks' 7.5 victory over the visiting Trailing 30 in the third, Ras sparked the Rocks offense which went on to give Tom DeMetsenare all the runs he would need. DeMetsenaro Improved to 4.0 with his second straight complete game performance. He struck out six and walked two while scattering nine hits.

The Spartans jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the third inning, thanks to a two run homer by Justin Kerr. The Rocks were able to rally and take the lead for good with a hits and five walks, while hitting two batters. • CANTON 7, CHURCHILL 2: Jason Mortiere pitched seven strong innings, leading Plymouth Canton (4-5, 1-2) to a WLAA-Western Division victory Monday over host Livonia Churchill (1-5, 0-3) at Bicentennial Park.

Mortiere struck out 11 and walked four. Churchill got its only two funs in the in the fifth inning when Corey Cook and Rob Szybisty singled and came home on Eric Lightle's double, but Mortiere got out of a bases loaded jam when he picked off a Charger runner.

leff Opalinski led Canton with three hits, including a pair of doubles and three RBI. Churchill starter John Ross, who went 5.3 innings, gave up three runs. •WAYNE 7, LINCOLN PARK 1: On Monday, host Wayne Memorial improved to 3.0 in the Red Division of the Mega Conference Monday behind the two-hit pitching of senior right-hander John Clendenning, who struck out nine and walked five against the Rail-Clendenning (3-0) also helped his own cause with two hits and two RBI.

Clark Boston, Kevin Wetmore and Jeff Temple also had two hits apiece. Boston scored three times, while Wetmore drove in a run. On Saturday, Wayne (83 overall) lost a pair of one run games to host Redford Thurston, 3-2 and 6-5.

• LUTH. WESTLAND 13, LIGGETT 3: Senior right-hander Ben Meyer did it on the mound and at the plate Monday, leading Lutheran High Westland (6-2, 3-1) to a Metro Conference win at Grosse Pointe Woods University Liggett.

Meyer went all seven innings, striking out 10 while allowing three hits and five walks. He also went 3-for-4 with three RBI. Chris O'Brien added two doubles in three trips and three RBI. On Saturday, the Warriors swept a double-header at Flat Rock, 138 and 18-16. Meyer went 4 for 4 with two RBI in the opener, Ryan Moser added two hits, including a triple and three RBI. Winning pitcher Mike Baltz, who worked six innings, allowed seven runs and six walks. He struck out six. In the nightcap, Lutheran Westland held on in eight innings after squandering an eight-run lead. Meyer went 4-for-5, including a pair of doubles, and five RBI. Kevin Wade went 3-for-3 with a double and four stolen bases. Wade also knocked in two runs.

Lady Crusaders play .500

The Madonna University's women's softball team now stands at 21-15-1 overall after splitting a double-header Tuesday at Hillsdale College.

Hillsdale pitcher Monique LeGris two-hit Madonna in the opener, 5-0, as Melissa McGue and Stephanie Dick had the only hits for the Lady Crusaders.

LeGris struck out six and walked three, while losing pitcher Shanna Price (11-6) gave up five earned runs on nine hits in six innings.

In the five-inning nightcap, Madonna dumped the Chargers, 9-1, as winning pitcher Angie VanDoorn (6.5) tossed a five-hitter. She also went 3-for-3 along with third baseman Dawn Shaffer.

Shawn Greene, Christy Riopelle and Vicki Malkowski each collected two hits for the winner. The loss dropped Hillsdale to 13-20 overall.

In a tournament last weekend hosted by the College of St. Francis in Joliet, Ill., Madonna won its first three games, but dropped the next three.

On Saturday, Madonna beat St. Xavier (Chicago, Ill.) 7-5; Mount Mercy (Cedar Rapids, Iowa) 11-10; and St. Francis (Ft. Wayne, Ind.) 2-1.

On Sunday, the Crusaders lost to College of St. Francis, the host team, 9-1; Indiana-Purdue at Indianapolis 3-1; and St. Xavier 9-6.

The Crusaders opened the tournament with an impressive win over St. Xavier. A five-run first inning, highlighted by a grand slam home run by Jeanie Baxter (from Redford St. Agatha), put them into position to win, but Xavier tied it at 5-5 with a three-run fifth. Madonna got a run in the sixth to recapture the lead and added an insurance run in the seventh. Jamie Vickers and Malkowski each had two hits and a run batted in, and Shaffer had one hit and an RBI.

Price was the winning pitcher, allowing four earned runs on eight hits and three walks, with three strikeouts. In their 11-10 win over Mount Mercy, the Crusaders blew a 9-0 lead, then rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh to get the victory. VanDoorn was the winning pitcher, giving up four earned runs on seven hits and three walks, wiht six strikeouts. Madonna's five errors led to six Mount Morris runs.

COLLEGE SOFTBALL

Baxter again paced the Crusader offense with three hits, including a double and a triple, and five RBI. Malkowski had two hits and two RBI, Greene got two hits and an RBI, Stephanie Dye collected a hit and two RBI, and Jamie Heins socked a solo Price's pitching led to tournament win No. 3 for Madonna, which was decided by the international tie-breaker rule in eight innings (a runner placed at second base at the start of the inning for each team). The senior stopped St. Francis (Ind.) with one run on six hits and no walks, striking out one.

The Crusaders had just four hits, two by McGue and another by Malkowski, who had one RBI. But they took advantage of six St. Francis errors.

On Sunday against host St. Francis, Madonna was slow to start and never did get on track, giving up six runs in the first three innings. Price lasted just two innings, taking the loss after allowing three runs on four hits.

The lone bright spot for the Crusaders: Riopelle's solo home run in the fifth.

The offense was missing again in Sunday's second game, a 3-1 loss to Indiana-Purdue in which Madonna managed just two hits. VanDoorn gave up two earned runs on nine hits and two walks, striking out three, to take the loss (she's 5-5).

The Crusaders finished the tournament against the same team it started it against, only this time St. Xavier was the winner. Madonna fell behind 9-2 before a four-run, seventh-inning rally fell short.

Shaffer sparked the Crusader offense with two hits, including a home run, and three RBI. Marissa Mittleman contributed two hits, and Vickers, Greene and Malkowski each got a hit and an RBI.

Price allowed six earned runs on nine hits and five walks, with one strikeout.

Madonna's defense was not an attribute throughout the tournament. The Crusaders committed 18 errors in the six games, bringing their season total to 75 (2.5 per game).

Ohio Dominican continues hex over Madonna

This Madonna University baseball team is certainly capable of anything.

In a three-day span beginning last Friday, the Fighting Crusaders: beat and tied a good NCAA Division II team in Wayne State, 3-1 and 13-13 (the latter suspended by darkness); beat Indiana Tech two out of three times, 7-3 and 1-0 (losing 8-4); and got ripped by a very good Ohio Dominican team.

That gave them a 3-2-1 record for the three days, the last two as hosts of the Madonna University Baseball Tournament. They have a 13-20-1 mark overall.

It all seems typical. As stated earlier, there's just no telling.

Start at the beginning: last Friday against Wayne State at Madonna Park. The Crusaders got a superb pitching performance from Tim Holland in the opener; he stopped the Tartars with one run on five hits and one walk through 6 3 innings, striking out five.

Jason Carter came in in the seventh to get the final two outs (both on strikeouts) and earn a save.

Madonna had just eight hits in the game, but one was a two-run home run by Daryl Rocho in the third. Dan Taylor had a hit and the third run batted in.

The second game, a 13-13 tie, was everything the first game wasn't: all offense, not much pitching. Madonna used a parade of six pitchers, but only the last (Dan Pydyn, from Plymouth, who tossed two scoreless, hitless innings) and starter Mitch Jabczenski (four innings, one run on four hits and

On Saturday, the Crusaders played Indiana Tech twice at Madonna Park, splitting the pair. In the 8-4 first-game loss, starter Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton) was hit hard, surrendering seven runs (five earned) on 11 hits and three walks in 5 3 innings.

Aaron Shrewsbury knocked in two of Madonna's runs with his seventh home run of the season. Kevin Foley, Pete Quinn and Rocho each had two hits:

The Crusaders generated even less offense in the second game, but thanks to Bob Mason's exceptional pitching they came away with a 1-0 win. Mason tossed a two-hitter, walking four and striking out

Decorative tiles can fit any room

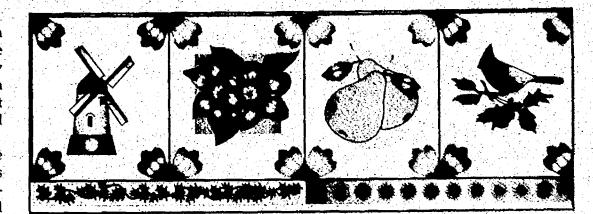

NAOMI STONE

Tiles are often neglected in the design world. They are available in such diverse ways that, we must explore all of the possibilities.

I have favorite ways to use tiles that are fun, interesting, practical and decorative. They are wonderful counter tops, back-splashes, table tops, trivets and fireplace surrounds and hearths, to name only a

I leave it to the reader to visit such places as Beaver Industries, or Virginia Tile on Grand River and Drake to gain knowledge of what is out there. I also recommend Pewabic Industries on East Jefferson for mesmerizing handmade examples. You can even commission an artisan at Pewabic to make your own special version.

There will be a one-day Antique and Contemporary Tile Fair Sunday, Aug. 17, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Building. Place that on your list of things to do. A visit to the Allen House in Birmingham when it has its House and Garden Show will be another exposure.

Tiles come in floral designs, many multicolored. They are also available with scenes, animals or ships. The tinglazed Delft coloring is blue on the ground color (usually a grayish white) or sepia. (See illustration.)

A special way to use tiles is as a fireplace surround. There are countless styles, both antique and new, all with charm and charisma. Sometimes the antique tiles are slightly chipped or cracked, which doesn't detract from their beauty.

If used as the fireproof (necessary) surround of the fireplace opening, the hearth also has to be considered. To keep the illusion of antiquity I suggest further tiles. If you can secure some with a crackled look, so much the better. Dixi't use a marble hearth.

I have often used decorative tiles as the backsplash of the kitchen sink with great success; much more effective than wallpaper. Take tate that the grout coloris neutral. Tites are also significant as table tone. You can edge the table with a handsome wood molding, or even a stainless steel banding.

I haven't mentioned some large scale fruit patterns that are festive in coleration. They add fun to a kitchen or dining area. Vegetables are also available. Tikes in relief are useful; there are many forms of these to be explored. Don't forget glazed and unglazed clay tiks, in many shapes.

Garden books are very informative

MARTY FIGLEY

A variety of subjects in the following books will help gardeners as the growing season unfolds.

"Tantalizing
Tomatoes: Smart
Tips & Tasty Picks
for Gardeners Everywhere" (Brooklyn Botanic

Garden, $9.95) answers all the questions you could possibly have about growing tomatoes.

Karen Cutler Davis, guest editor, begins with the history (they are native to South Africa) and clearly explains how to read a seed packet and what all the information means.

Other writers give excellent information about growing (from seeds and seedlings) in various ways and how to combat pests and diseases. Garden writers (all tomato growers) throughout the country list their favorites.

Included is a long list of cultivars and sources. The book takes on a special flavor with yuminy-sounding recipes.

"A Year of Roses," Stephen Scanniello (Henry Holt, $25), is a must for true rosarians and wannabes.

Scanniello is the internationally renowned rosarian of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden's Cranford Rose Garden and shares his expertise in a straightforward, no-nonsense style. There are no color photos, just good, practical advice arranged monthly. Scanniello explains how to execute the not-so-glamorous as well as pleasant chores and the necessity of them, with a schedule that can be easily followed and adapted to any section of the country.

Along the way he relates personal experiences (he seems to enjoy it when visitors ask questions). It is apparent he loves his work and the beauty of the rose

In the first sentence he writes, "It was in January that I learned the truth about roses. Their beauty is unsurpassed, even in deepest winter." Read the book to find out why.

Guides

If you are a first-time gardener, run, don't walk, to your nearest bookseller and buy "The Book of Outdoor Gardening" (Workman, $19.95 paper, the Smith & Hawken Publishing Program). It will help you, as well as seasoned gardeners, grow plants the American way.

Stressing organic gardening practices, 15 very knowledgeable horticulturists share their gardening expertise. This isn't a book to "sit down and read," but one to be studied and digested to learn the hows and whys.

Vignettes about several successful gardeners such as Thomas Jefferson, Claude Monet, Alan Chadwick and others are included - pioneers in new ideas and practices that help us to be good stewards of the earth.

Amply illustrated, all subjects of gardening are covered. About half of the book is devoted to an encyclopedia of garden plants.

"The Gardener's Guide to Growing Ivies," Peter Rose (Timber Press, $29.95), is the definitive guide. Rose details the history of ivies and describes the many leaf shapes, colors, growth habits and other characteristics of the many species available. He advises to learn the species of a particular plant and then the variety or clone.

Although there are no native species of Ivy, Hedera, to America, it soon found its way to our shores from Britain and Europe and, although out of fashion for some time, it is now being used more often here.

let's remodel

Proper care keeps marble beautiful

Q: Our home is 17 years old and the marble on the floor needs to be cleaned. What can be done to refurbish them?

A: First, it is important to understand the marble product and why your countertops and floors look the way they do. Marble is a natural stone created by high temperature and great pressure, with colors decided by the minerals present at the time of formation. Most true marbles are composed primarily of calcium carbonate. Calcium is violently affected by anything acidic (cleaning products, juices, perfumes, wines, alcohol etc.). Acids actually melt the surface of the marble making it dull and rough feeling. Dirt is the second leading culprit. Dirt picked up and ground into the marble surface where there is foot traffic equals sanding your floor with No. 400 grit sandpaper, actually sanding the finish off.

The shine on your marble is brought out by sanding with increasingly finer grit up to No. 8000 grit in some cases.

Most problems with marble can be traced to three categories: traffic, cleaning products and/or cleaning methods. Traffic problems can be solved by the use of rugs at entrances, removal of footwear before coming in from the outside, or changing entrances into the home. Cleaning products that are neutral-based, especially those formulated for marble, will help protect and restore marble that has not had its finish damaged. Cleaning methods and procedures can also create a problem. This includes cleaning too much, using waxes and cleaning agents that leave residues and water with high mineral contents. Since marble varies somewhat, you should check with a professional marble care representative for the right product and maintenance program for your floor. Marble maintenance problems are usually easy to rectity.

What can you do to restore the marble's luster? First, a marble surface that has been ground and repolished has a richer look than most new marble. This holds especially true on floors. (Floors that are ground after installation are flatter and more uniform, and the shine seems deeper and richer). One point to remember is that no matter how bad your marble looks, it is still far less expensive to refinish than to tear out the existing marble and replace it with a new floor. The appearance of all stone and terrazzo floors can be improved with refinishing. In some cases, when the tiles are set, lippage (unevenness) can occur and the refinishing process actually grinds the tiles flat with one another.

Although most stains can be removed, it is a time-consuming process, often taking days or weeks. Prevention is the key here. See a spill - wipe it up. The longer it sits the more damage it can do. A 10-cent coaster under your glass or a foot pad under the metal table. leg can save you an expensive repair. Preventive maintenance is essentially the key to a bright, beautiful and longlasting marble floor or counter top. The use of a proactive care system that incorporates an impregnator (for maximum stain protection and dirt repulsion), a conditioner (for protection agains wear), a cleaner (to keep the luster) and periodic professional care can keep your stone floor looking beautiful always.

Gleaming garage: California Closets in West Bloomfield and Troy offers storage units for the garage as well as for inside the home.

Clutter control: Cleaning around the home shouldn't be restricted to spring. "De-cluttering," as consultant Ann Savell says, should be done on a regular basis. Cleaning expert Don Aslett, who was at the Home Improvement Show in Novi recently; has tips to make housework go faster and better.

Tips, techniques help with spring cleaning chores

BY MARY KLEMIC At Home Editor

If spring cleaning or regular housework are dirty words for you in more ways than one, take heart.

A few tips can help make it easier for you to clean the inside of your residence any time. And spring cleaning should include a look around the outside of the house as well, to spot damage problems early and fix them before they get bigger.

If your papers and other materials seem to be piling up and out of control, don't be discouraged. Getting organized is possible for every-

"I would say no one is hopeless," said Dorothy Lehmkuhl of Organizing Techniques in Bloomfield Township. "The problem is that traditional organizing techniques do not work for a great number of people, so they need to learn different organizing methods."

For example, many people like to have papers spread out before

"They (think) and of sight, out of mind... They want to reach out and touch something."

Literature sorten can help, providing a cubbyhole system for having things in front of you, Lehmkuhl suggested.

Lehmkuhl got inspiration for her business in 1981. She does one-on-one consulting; helping clients set up filing systems for businesses, homes or home offices. Lehmkuhl is companied for which she recently sold the rights for a Chinese edition.

The book is in a British edition.

"Simplifying and organizing activities require a lot of decision making and my clients have usually found that limiting the time spent means that they are sharp and able to make good decisions as to what to keep, mend, repair, donate or toss."

Being organized is beneficial in many ways, including helping your lifestyle. "Who wants to spend a bunch of time looking for that one

Storage space is always among the top five considerations of home buyers, Gregart said. So a house featuring 12 feet of closet space has an advantage over an identical house with six feet of

A current trend in storage is to turn whole rooms into dressing rooms, Gregart said.

"It's not just the six feet of closet any more."

California Closets, a member of the National Association of Professional Organizers, also has a showroom at Somerset North at Big Beaver Road and Coolidge in Troy. Besides closets, the business offers such storage aids as shelf dividers, hangers, racks, shoe cubbies and hutch units with drawers. It works around the house, including closets and the pantry, garage and home office.

Customers may choose closet units in maple, cherry, white, almond or pickled oak. It takes about one week to 10 days from first consultation to design and installation - installation takes four hours at most.

Coming clean

A terry cloth towel makes a great cleaning cloth. Askett said. Cut the towel into 18 by 18 inch squares. Hem the edges of each square and fold it over once, then sew down the long side to form a tube. Fold this rwice to fit your hand. It can be refolded and furned inside out as you clean with it, giving you 16 fresh sides with which to Aslett demonstrated how to clean the bathroom in 3-1/2 minutes, the best way to vacuum, and how to clean a window quickly (using a squeegee and adding "a snort of Joy" to water that is at room temperature).

Vineyar and bleach aren't cleaners, Aslett said. Vinegar rinses, and bleach strips color. "You know why people like vinegar?" he said. "It squeaks."

Aslett recommends attacking stains while they're fresh. Among other tips, his spot removal chart says to keep these items on hand to tackle fresh spills on a carpet: neutral detergent such as Joy or VDawn, clear household ammonia, white vinegar, dry spotter or dry cleaning sol-

Springtime is time to take inventory of what needs repair after the winter.

"There's a lot of painting, sweeping; a lot of people are fixing their bricks and chimney," said Keith Paul, president of the Home Advantage Referral Service of Livonia, which offers free referral of screened and monitored contractors for remodeling and home services.

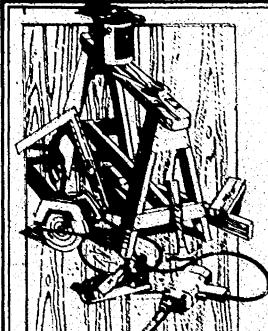

Ice building up inside chimneys and between bricks damages the mortar as it expands. Winter weather can also damage decks and porches, and loosen and crack steps. Waterproofing should be on the checklist too.

"Take out the time to check all areas of the house," Paul said. "Check for ice damage, check the gutters."

Baby-sitting help is now in the bag

LISA LUCKOW-HEALY

It's Saturday night. You and your spouse have theater tickets and dinner reservations at the hot new restaurant in town. You have a new outfit, a new 'do and a new baby sitter you hired on referral from a neighbor. Your idea of a relaxing, stress-free evening is slowly going down the

It's Saturday night. You're an outgoing 15-year-old who just received a call from your social director – your best friend – who clues you in to the party of the century. But you can't go. You promised to baby-sit the new neighbors' 4- and 8-year-old children whom you have never met. Help! You fictitiously dream about sneaking the youngsters into the party. Then you think to yourself, "This job better pay well."

As a parent or baby sitter, what can you do to put each other's mind at ease? Have no fear. The baby sitter's bag is here

Whether you are the parent creating it or the baby sitter providing it, the bag serves the same purpose: to hold the prized necessities a caregiver will need to supervise and entertain his or her charges.

A good time for parents to create a Baby Sitter's Bag is just prior to the day a new sitter is scheduled to come over. The idea behind the bag is to fill it with the essentials your baby sitter will need to build a pleasant relationship with the children in his or her care, whether it be in the family's home, outside or on the

"My boys like to play house," said Kathy Sommers of Canton, the mother of 2-year-old Ryan and 3-year-old Jordan. "I would definitely throw sheets in the bag so they could make a house.

"I wouldn't forget first aid items, including syrup of ipecac. Neighbors' telephone numbers are important in the event of an emergency.

"If my baby sitter takes the boys outside, it would be a good idea to include a blanket in the bag for picnics or snacking."

As the caregiver, anytime is a good time to create a Baby Sitter's Bag. Pack items you can carry with you, especially if the bag is something you have to take along while transporting youngsters.

"I'd pack some of my favorite storybooks and videotapes in the bag, especially for those bad-weather days that

Inspiring

Although the following book isn't about gardening, it is a beautiful pictorial accounting of Detroit. "Greater Detroit, Renewing the Dream," Mort Crim and Susan VanDeryt (Towery Publishing, $44.95), will inspire the reader to take another good look at this city and see the beauty of it.

It is an inspiring book, full of statistics and what makes the city "tick" and "keep on ticking." Detroit was founded by Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac in 1701. Crim relates the ever-changing history of Detroit and reports its renaissance.

The social fabric of the city is detailed, and you will recognize areas of the metropolitan area such as buildings, the river, Eastern Market (there you will find flowers), all the various groups of people living in neighborhoods and their ethnic diversity. Interesting information about the corporations, businesses, professional groups and community service organizations that made the book possible adds depth.

Many of the photographers are native Detroiters or have ties to the city and its suburbs. Local artists include Roger Bickel of Bingham Farms, Balthazar Korab of Troy, Beth Singer of Franklin and Jim Frenak of Rochester Hills.

Center adds interior design major

The Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design in Detroit announces the addition of interior design to the list of majors at the college.

Interior design joins crafts, fine arts, graphic communication, industrial design and photography as a department within the college.

The goal of the department is to train students to become professional interior designers by providing a quality education that is based largely on emphasizing industry accepted professional stan-

The interior design department will have four concentrations: residential design, contract design, furniture design and exhibit and museum design.

Residential design will focus on teaching students how to plan and design esthetically pleasing interior spaces in homes and living areas. Contract design will concentrate on the design of interior spaces for institutions such as factories, offices, hospitals, retail stores and hotels.

Furniture design will concentrate on how to design production and one-of-akind furniture for all living and working

Exhibit and museum design will focus on space planning, taking into consideration traffic patterns, lighting and information design as they apply to cultural, artistic, product, craft, historic and anthropological exhibits.

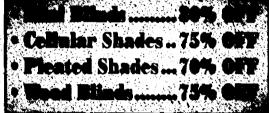

Each individual discipline within the department will stress the teaching of human factors, color, lighting and mate-

The establishment of an interior design department is intended to strengthen the offerings in the various design fields at CCS.

keep us inside," said Jen Shorland of Oxford, "I'd also pack pictures of myself and my family so the kids could see what my family looks like.

"When I cared for a fourth grade boy, I brought my baseball mitt along. It broke the ice... and the typically silence barrier kids that age tend to give their baby sitter.

"I think my general rule of thumb is to ask myself how I can win a child over to want to hang out with me, particularly the older kids. It's real important to pack the right age-appropriate items to help build a rapport."

On hand

A Baby Sitter's Bag is something you can store in your entry closet or laundry room. Each time your baby sitter comes over, you can pull it out and place it in an convenient location or leave it as is so it is easily accessible when it is needed.

To create your own Baby Sitter's Bag for your caregiver, start with an extra duffel bag or backpack you might have stored away in your closet or buy one at a local mall or sporting goods store.

Consider packing the following: a secure first aid kit (remember to keep topical ointments out of reach of small hands), a flashlight, a Baby Sitter's Book (filled with numbers where you can typically be reached, emergency numbers, locations of fire extinguishers and the fuse box, a daily breakdown of the child's mealtimes and bedtime, special instructions and, if appropriate, a signed medical treatment release letter giving your caregiver or family member permission to have your child treated in the event of a medical emergency if you cannot be reached), your child's favorite prepackaged snacks, playing cards, flashcards, books, a family-oriented movie or a home video (if the child feels more secure seeing Mom and Dad while they are away), favorite recipes (make sure you have the ingredients in stock), a music or story cassette, a miniature family photo album and portable arts and crafts.

Make assembling a Baby Sitter's Bag a family activity if your children are old enough to understand its purpose. In addition to participating in a fun activity with you, your child will have something to look forward to doing when the baby sitter comes again.

Know this about 'point-and-shoot'

MONTE NAGLER

Most of my photography columns deal with cameras where the photographer has control over aperture, shutter speed, depth-offield, etc. With interchangeable lenses and a full range of accessories, you might call these "photographer-take-charge" cameras.

Well, for those of you who may not want to take charge and who want a simpler, easier to operate camera, consider the "point and shoot."

Point-and-shoot cameras can give you excellent results if you follow some simple guidelines and put a little thought into your shots.

To begin with, always hold your camera steady, tuck in your elbows and gently squeeze the shutter. Point-and-shoot cameras don't have a very fast shutter speed so it's important to get it steady.

Remember with point-and-shoot cameras, you're not looking through the picture-taking lens, so make sure your fingers are out of the way! This goes for camera straps too, and if your camera has a lens cap, make sure it has been removed.

All metering is done automatically on point-and-shoot cameras. So, for proper exposure, place more ground in the viewfinder so you won't underexpose.

If you want to darken the sky and clouds for a more dramatic effect, then place more sky in the viewfinder. The brighter sky will "call" for less exposure and a darker picture will result.

Many point-and-shoots have flash that function when needed so it's easy to get proper exposure.

Another nice feature of point-andshoot cameras is auto-load, auto-wind and auto-rewind after your last shot. You really can't go wrong.

Using good compositional rules applies to point-and-shoot cameras just as much as to larger, more professional cameras.

For example, use framing techniques such as overhanging tree branches and lead-in lines such as a winding river or weathered fence. Use the "thirds" rule of subject placement so that the subject isn't smack in the middle of the viewfinder.

Remember that point-and-shoot cameras use small apertures so your pictures will almost always be sharp from front to back.

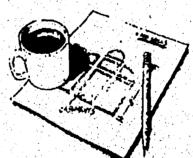

And, of course, like any camera, use vertical or horizontal formats depending on which best fits the subject.

Be creative with point-and-shoot cameras. With some thought, planning and an understanding of your camera's features, you can add many memorable shots to your photo album.

industrial design department. The new major will better prepare graduates to enter careers in inferior design.

At CCS, interior design majors will find a spacious wood shop and welding shop for building full-scale furniture; ceramics, glassblowing, metalsmithing and textile studios; a foundry for casting aluminum, bronze and iron; and highend computers and software

Here are some general guidelines when preparing a portfolio:

Include observational drawings from actual things or scenes around you. Include finished drawings with a full range of light, dark and gray values. Quality is more important than quantity—a portfolio with 10 exceptional works of art is better than one with 20 inconsistent or incomplete ones. Submit slides or photographs of large or three-dimensional pieces instead of actual art.

Birthday treats are not always cake

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

My birthday is just around the corner, it's a tough corner for me this year, I'm headed over the hump of that midnumber 5 and now that I'm going to be _6 ... it's closer to the next BIG number. My very cryptic message will make sense to many of my female readership,

Some birthdays have been real milestones for all sorts of reasons, either age or celebration. Two of my favorites birthdays (having nothing to do with milestones) included a very elaborate mystery surprise party hatched by one of my dearest friends (and two others that jumped on the band wagon), and a lobster dinner that I wound up preparing myself, planned by my husband, and executed by my son who put on a very heavy phony French accent and formal 'waiters' attire.

My mystery rurprise party began with Betty meeting me in a parking lot, I assumed we were having dinner (just the two of us) at a restaurant that uses that parking lot. There in the lot was parked a huge stretch limo - jokingly, I said to her "now that's how we should be traveling." She laughed, looked at me, and said "we are, go get in." At that point I was totally clueless as to what she was up to. I thought this was just a birthday dinner for two girlfriends. Wrong - she handed me a gift wrapped box and told me to open up envelope No. 1. In poetry prose was a riddle that I had to make some sense of - we were off to Somerset Mall. That's where all the real fun began. In the large box were many small boxes, each with a clue - each clue pertained to a specific location in the mall and a hint as to who would be waiting for me, if I could find them.

My reason for sharing this with you, is to get you thinking of how differently, you can plan or celebrate a birthday. Certainly it doesn't have to be this elaborate, but creativity is the key here.

Sometimes a wonderful dessert is the perfect birthday treat, other times, it needn't be a sweet at all. Not everyone likes thick rich butter-cream frosting over chocolate or vanilla batter. I personally have a passion for Crème Brûlèe, other people are nutty about nuts, some are pie-crazed, and others go for a real bready desserts like European Bobka.

Here are some fabulous desserts perfect for that special birthday treat, or served anytime.

Yield: 16 pieces

Dough Ingredients:

- 4 ounces butter
- 4 ounces cream cheese or Neufchâtel
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/4 cups flour

Filling Ingredients:

1/2 cup lemon curd or jam of your choice

1/4 cup sugar

1 tablespoon cinnamon

1/2 cup finely chopped nuts (any type)

1/3 cup dried fruit (of your choice), chopped small or currants left wholePowdered confectioners' sugar for dusting Preheat the oven to 350 degrees E.

Butter or grease one baking sheet (the kind used for making cookies)

Using a mixer, beat the butter and cream cheese together until they are well mixed and creamy. Add the sugar and vanilla beat until well blended with the cream cheese mixture.

As the mixer is running, slowly add the flour to the mixing bowl, just until it's blended. Remove the dough from the mixer bowl, place on a flat floured surface and knead briefly (only a matter of seconds). Divide the dough into two equal portions—refrigerate for one half hour to chill the dough.

Remove one section of dough from the refrigerator, roll out the dough into a circle approximately 1/8 inch thickness. Remove second dough section from the refrigerator and repeat the process of making another circle.

Spread jam or lemon curd on both circles. Mix together the 1/4 cup of sugar and the cinnamon, sprinkle over the dough circles. Sprinkle the chopped nuts on top.

Cut the dough circles into 4 equal quarters. Cut each quarter into 2 wedge sections. Roll up each wedge, starting at the wide edge, to make crescent shapes. Place each crescent on the greased baking sheet. Bake in the oven until the rugelach is lightly browned, approximately 20 minutes.

Remove baked rugelach from the baking sheets and let cool on wire racks. Sift with confectioners' sugar.

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES

Rich and delicious, these brownies are always a hit - a nice departure for a Birthday treat. Top one with a candle, and you've done it.

- 1 cup plus 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup unsalted butter
- 3 ounces unsweetened chocolate, finely chopped

3 eggs

1 1/3 cups firmly packed dark brown sugar

1 1/2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract

3/4 cup chunky peanut butter (you can you smooth if you prefer)

1/4 cup sugar

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

6 tablespoons heavy cream, or half & half

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.

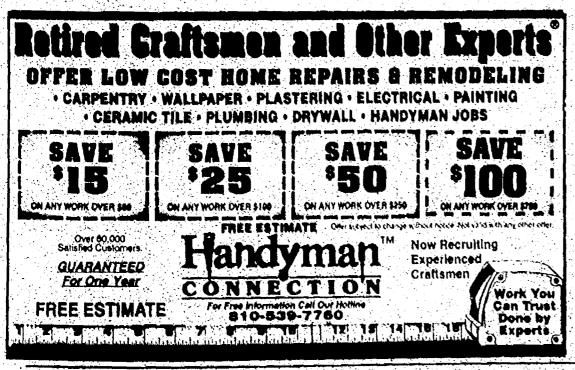

Grease a 9x13x2-inch oven-proof pan. In small bowl, sift the 1 cup of flour, baking powder and salt. Set aside the dry ingredients.

In a saucepan, melt the butter and chocolate over low heat, carefully stirring, so it doesn't burn - continue to stir until the mixture is smooth. Remove the chocolate mixture from the heat source - set aside.

In a large mixing bowl, whish or beat eggs, dark brown sugar and vanilla. Stir in melted chocolate mixture. Gradually add flour mixture, stirring between additions, until all mixed and well combined.

In a mixer bowl, combine peanut butter, sugar, cinnamon, cream (or half Shalf), and the one remaining tablespoon of flour. This mixture will be stiff in texture. Drop spoonfuls of peanut butter mixture over the brownie mixture. With a metal spatula, or knife, drag the spatula or knife through the peanut butter mixture - marbleizing the 2 mixtures. Bake in a preheated oven for approximately 25 minutes or until top is firm to the touch. Remove the completed brownies from the heat - let cool completely before attempting to cut into squares or rectangles.

By Christina Fuoco STAFF WRITER

Local entertainers will get their chance in the spotlight 7-9:30 p.m. Friday when close to 20 awards are handed out during the Detroit Music Awards at the State Theatre in Detroit.

The funk/blues outfit Howling Diablos and the rock band Red September lead the pack with five nominations. They are followed by roots rock singer Jill Jack, country band The Forbes Brothers, and blues player Gary Rasmussen, all of whom earned four nominations.

Twenty awards will be given during the award coremony with the remaining 40 awards presented at a private event pre-party at the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward Ave.

The Howling Diablos and The Forbes Brothers will perform during the 2 1/2-hour event along with Sponge, the Howling Diablos. Martha Reoves, Straight Ahead, Kid Rock, Mudpuppy, Sister Seed, Jan Krist and Jill Jack, and Peter's Rock Mass Choir.

Mike Watts, executive director of the Plymouth-based Motor City Music Awards Foundation Inc., is excited about Reeves's perfor-

"She's not performing much these days because she's been touring with 'Ain't Misbehavin'. We put her together with the Chisel Bros., one of the top bands in town. She said she's going to do one of the great Motown songs probably Dancing in the Street.' We asked (horn players) Bugs Beddow and Steve Trudell to fill out the horn section," he explained.

The duo recruited baritone sax player Beans Bowles, trumpeters Rayse Biggs and Maurice Davis, and alto sax players Ernie Rodgers and George Benson to round out the all-star horn section.

The event will be emceed by Michael Moore, author of "Downsize This," producer of "Roger and Me," and host of "TV Nation."

Distinguished Achievement awards will be given to Glenn Frey, Iggy Pop and The Stooges, the Ann

"Glenn Frey will absolutely be there," Watts said. "He's very excited and honored that the people here in Detroit remember him being from here."

Iggy Pop is not expected to attend the award ceremony.

Immediately following the event, radio station CIMX-FM (88.7) and the Metro Times will host an after party from 9:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. featuring performances by Hoarse, Speedball, Robert Bradley's Blackwater Surprise, Dodge Main (Wayne Kramer, Scott Morgan, Thompson, Dennis Rasmussen), Getaway Cruiser and the Motor Dolls.

Tickets are still available at all Ticketmaster outlets for the event. They cost $7 in advance or $10 at the door for general admission. Special seating is available for $15 or $25. All proceeds will benefit the Midwest AIDS Prevention Project (MAPP), a non-profit agency providing HIV/AIDS prevention education programs.

The 1997 Detroit Music Awards marks the first collaboration between the Metro Times Detroit Music Awards and the Motor City who have held separate events in the past.

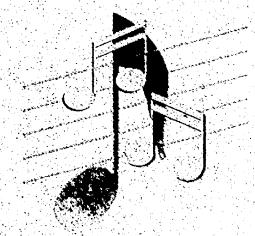

"Most of the people on both sides thought it would be in the best interest to have one award show even though each had its own personality," Watts explained. "That was the natural progression in realizing it would be best to have one big show."

A showcase and a series of seminars will be held in conjunction with the event. The Rev. Wright Time, Daddy Stitch, The Schugars, InDrama, Pantookas, and the Parka Kings will perform at 9 tonight at the Magic Bag, 22920 Woodward Ave., Ferndale, as part of the Detroit Music Awards showcase. Tickets are $6. For more information, call (810) 544-3030.

A panel of music industry folks -Ted Nugent's manager Doug Banker, WDRQ DJ Lisa Lisa, The Romantics and MOG producer and manager Joel Martin, Vanguard Studios owner Mike Powell, and Martha Reeves will discuss their experiences during a "Music Matters" seminar at 1 p.m. Saturday at the University of Detroit Mercy School of Law, 651 E. Jefferson, Detroit. The registration fee is $10. For more information, call (313) 730-SONG or (313) 832-0483. Topics include "Taking it to the Streets," "What's the Deal," "Strategies for Success," and "War Stories" at the event hosted by the Detroit Musicians Alliance.

"Tradition!" Tovyo domands in "Fiddler on the Roof," but his daughters have ideas of their own. Is there room in the new world for "Part of our mission is to celebrate our heritage," said Evelyn Orbach about "The World of Sholom Aleichem" by Arnold Perl opening for previews April 30 at the Aaron DeRoy Theatre in the Jewish Community Center.

"This is the first work we've done about that time and place," said Orbach who is JET's artistic director, and co-directing the show with Rivi Yaron who has directed shows in Israel. This play, based on stories by Sholom Aleichem and I.L. Peretz, is a piece of Eastern European culture we've never done, but general audiences are very familiar with the stories," said

Anyone who has watched and loved "Fiddler on the Roof," will recognize the setting - a "shtetl" - little village in Eastern Europe where Jews lived happily, but in poverty. "Fiddler" is based on Aleichem's stories about Tevye the dairyman.

"I am Jewish and come from Israel, but these are stories we would like to forget," said Yaron.

"Bontche Schweig," by Peretz, one of the stories in the show, is about a man - the poorest of poor, who has almost no education, never complained, or spoke bitterly against god or man even though he never had enough of life's necessities. He arrives in heaven, and is offered anything he desires. "Could I have a piece of bread and butter he asks?

"She saw it as noble," said Yaron commenting on Orbach's interpretation. "I was irritated by this guy's stupidity. It's not something to

But soon, she came to see things from Orbach's perspective - "there are more things in life than achieving and being the first."

Translated from Yiddish Sholom Aleichem's name means - "peace be with you,"

"It's an authentic greeting," said Orbach - "there should be peace. Aleichem was a humorist who wrote about poverty and deprivation, but affectionately. Peretz was very concerned about the plight of the Jews who lived in abject poverty and suffered from anti-Semitism. The Russian Revolution was brewing, both writers believed in the underdog."

"I like coming here," said Frieder who lives in New York, and has appeared on Broadway, TV and in movies. This is his sixth show at JET since 1990.

"There's less and less Yiddish theater, which is pitiful because the stories are beautiful," he said. "The Tale of Chelm is about" an imaginary town, but it's fun.

His favorite was King Lear. He was also in three Woody Allen movies - "Love and Death," "Crimes and Misdemeanors," and "Midsummer Sex Comedy." "I played Diane Keaton's hus-

Frieder admired the way Allen works. "He would set up the shot, and then went into the scene, I was very impressed."

He also enjoys working with Orbach. "She's a dynamo," he said. "She pushes me, and we work well together, and exchange ideas. I think it will be a good show, the material is good."

Rehearsals begin with a Yiddish lesson, most of the people in the cast aren't Jewish.

"For Jewish people the play will be nostalgic, I'm interested in what non-Jewish people think about it," said Yaron. "It's an opportunity to relax, take time out, and look at your life in a different way. These people have different ways of dealing with life and conflict. In the shtetl everyone lived closed together, they were involved in each others lives and had compassion for each other. The stories arc about human values, it's not something we invented."

Like the fiddler in "Fiddler in the Roof," music will play a part in this production, Matt Pitt, lead clarinetist for Artie Shaw and Glenn Miller, who has had his own band for many years, will create a score of Klezmer music for the production.

"He'll be a character in the shtetl on stage, and set the want to create the shietl for the audience, we want them to feel like they've been there.

football on TV or going to a live game where you know some of the players personally. It's easier to become involved," said Horowitz.

As most students of classical music history know, the promiscuous Schubert could never be accused of being dispassionate or to hear your music performed in uninvolved. Before his untimely death at 31, Schubert had become the undisputed master of German art song. He composed more than 700 pieces, including piano sonatas and chamber music. During his life, Schubert appeared self-effacing and in awe of the age's musical genius Ludwig Beethoven, who died less than two years before him. Of course, that was long before virtual reality and The Lyric Chamber Ensemble's summons

This week, Nahan/Schubert spent a few moments with the O&E to discuss the upcoming appearance and concert.

O&E: You haven't been around years. Are you nervous about The Lyric Chamber Ensemble concert this Sunday?

Schubert: As long as they feed the patrons good strudel, it'll be fine. We know the music is good, isn't it?

O&E: You admired Beethoven, but you never met him. What was his influence?

Schubert: His total commitment. He had a vision to create in sound what he felt in his heart. A gift from the Gods they told me so themselves.

Couple struggles to keep vows in 'I Do! I Do!'

First Theater Guild of Birmingham presents "I Do! I Do!" 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 25.26, Knox Auditorium, First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, 1669 W. Maple Road, Birmingham. Tickets: $8, adults; $5, students and senior citizens; (810) 557-6183, By Jon Katz SPECIAL WRITER

In 1960, composer Tom Jones and lyricist Harvey Schmidt presented a small, off-Broadway show about a young couple in love. When the millennium comes around, their little show -"The Fantasticks" - will likely still be around, continuing as the world's longest-running musical. In 1966, Jones and Schmidt presented another musical, with another young couple in love. This one was even smaller - one man, one woman - and opened on Broadway. Had it starred anyone but the legendary Mary Martin and Robert Preston, "I Do! I Do!" may have closed on opening night.

First Theater Guild's Diane Schachterle and John F. Spears, as Agnes and Michael, navigate through 50 years of marriage's calm and troubled waters, beginning at the turn of the century. Unfortunately, no attempts are made to costume the actors for the period. Schacterle and Spears never convey in style or appearance that they're almost a quarter-century older by the end of Act 1.

The "mini-vaudeville turns" in that first act include the nervous wedding night; the birth of their first child, prior to which his labor pains outdo hers; Michael's brief extra-marital fling; a dueling musical list of pet peeves; and Michael's proclamation that "It's a well-known fact. Men over 40 go to town. Women go to pot." It's no surprise, then, that the act ends with the couple agreeing in song that "The Honeymoon's Over."

Act 2 takes us through the 1920's, 30's and 40's. How do we know? During intermission, Spears has sprinkled a smattering of gray on the temples, while Schachterle has donned a wig that makes her look more like a go-go girl than a flapper.

But grow older they do, as Agnes settles in with the realization that this is her life, and all of its obstacles are best met with "a cup of nice, hot tea." In Schachterle's best moment, she rises up at last: "My whole life long, I've been somebody's mother, somebody's wife. I have no idea of who I am or what I need." Spares has his highlight as "The Father of the Bride" ("My daughter is marrying an idiot!")

Director Barbara Anne Gowans at the keyboard, backed by Eleanor Struble on stand-up bass, and a spirited Carl Stewart on percussion, do a fine job.

Despite the best efforts of this cast, perhaps "I Do! I Do!" is better left to has-been 70's sitcom stars in dinner theater.

The hauntingly beautiful music of "The Secret Garden" filled the Water Tower Theatre last Friday night as the Plymouth Theatre Guild closed out its 50th anniversary season. Director James Morisi. a professional singer, actor and vocal coach, cast the show's leads with a strong array of vocal talent.

"The Secret Garden" is the story of Mary Lennox, a young girl at the turn of the century who is the sole survivor of a cholera epidemic in a British compound in colonial India. She is sent to England to live with her mother's brother-in-law, a brooding man who has never come to terms with the death of

The lighting was dreadful; many actors were left in the dark or the shadows, while a bright, floor-level light was obnoxiously blinding when Mary opened the door to the secret garden at the end of the first act. The lighting did not do the wonderful set justice.

'Eight Heads in a Duffel Bag' is better left unopened

'Pulp Fiction" firmly divided the planet into two types of moviegoers: those who laugh at something so gruesome. The former is definitely the intended audience for "Eight Heads in a Duffel Bag," a dismal new black comedy starring Joe Pesci. I can imagine that some people will actually find it charming, but I wouldn't want them to be

Joe Pesci fares worst of all. Though a clever character actor, he suffers from the same typecasting that plagued Peter Lorre through much of his career. He can't shake those earlier psychotic roles, specifically in Scorsese's "Goodfellas" and "Casino," which branded him as a hot-headed Mafioso.

He could play the part in his sleep and ironically it's a dream sequence that's the most interesting part of the movie. Dismembered heads perform Tommy Spinelli (Pesci), who Cannon's hysterical screams and "Mr. Sandman" a capella as

It's a pretty sad state of affairs when the best performance comes from David Spade, as one of two college roommates that Tommy tortures for information. They make a late-night trip to the university's cryogenics lab to replace some missing heads as if they're shopping in a convonience store.

"Eight Heads in a Duffel Bag" is a one-joke movie that even the most perverse fans of the genre should find tiring. The only upside to this moss is the thought that it may finally signal an end to dark-suited hitmen in the murkiest of black come-

Now is the time for hot comedian Chris Rock

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

As the first comedian to release an album on DreamWorks Records, Chris Rock would have seemingly met co owner Steven Spielberg, Rock is quick to point out otherwise.

"It's an honor to be on Dream Works and to work with (co-owner) Michael Ostin and that whole crew. But everyone says You're on Dream Works, you've met Spielberg.' I haven't. I (co-owner) Jeffrey Katzenberg but I don't think he knew who I was. He did it well though. He did it like a pro," said a sleepy-sounding Rock via telephone from his New Jersey hotel

On April 8, Rock released his second comedy CD "Roll With The New," which touches on a variety of subjects - "Purple Rain: The Musical" starring 2 Live Grow's Luther Campbell. and Steven Urkel; a record store clerk who confuses O.J. with the O'Jays: the trend of R&B/rap artists to sing about their record labels; the worst phone sex call; and Rock's favorite joke. "Roll With The New" mixes rap and R&B parodies with highlights from his HBO special "Bring the Pain."

The album, produced by De La Soul's Paul "Prince Paul" Houston, took two months to fin-

"We were working around the clock. It was ridiculous," Rock said.

His favorite sketches on the CD change every day. He likes the "Cheap Pete" skit about a guy trying to bargain with a used car salesman for a $5,000 Audi; and the "Press Conference" skit where O.J. and Ike Turner the use of excerpts from rap songs by Def Jam artists, NWA, and Too Short.

"Bring the Pain" was recorded in part in May 1996 before a live audience at the Tukoma Theater in Washington, D.C., which brings on jokes about Mayor Marion Barry.

"Washington, D.C. Home of the Million Man March, Had all the positive black leaders there -(Louis) Farrakhan, Jesse (Jackson), Marion Barry, Marion Barry at the Million Man March.

... You know what that means? Even at our finest hour we had a crack head on stage. How the hell did Marion Barry get his job back? He smoked crack and got his job back. If you get caught smoking crack at McDonald's you can't get your job back. They're not going to trust you around the Happy Meals," Rock says on his CD.

Rock brings his comedy act to the Fox Theatre in Detroit on Friday, April 25, with special guest Mario Joyner. He said that very little of his show is based on his CD.

"Stand up has got to be new stuff. No one wants a sing-along stand-up show. You start at O.J., and work your way to the bottom," he said.

The Brooklyn-born comedian worked in New York comedy clubs until landing a spot on HBO's "Uptown Comedy Express" in 1987. His career skyrocketed when he joined the cast of "Saturday Night Live," on which he appeared from 1990-1992, and created the militant black activist Nat X.

Rock - who starred in "Beverly Hills Cop II," "New Jack City," "Boomerang," and "Panther" - discuss apouse abuse through hooked up with "In Living Color" for one season. In 1993 he released the rap spoof "CB4: The Movie" which featured him as actor and writer. His 1994 HBO special "Chris Rock Big - Jokes" carned him a CableACE Award for Best Comedy Special:

Now is the time for Rock, howover. He appears in commercials for AT&T's 1-800-GOLLEC'I, and as the voice of the marionette Little Ponny Hardaway for Nike. He's also working on a book based on his stand-up routines.

"When it rains it pours. I got better. That had a lot to do with it," Rock said with a laugh about his comedic skills.

"Once I did my HBO special. people just started calling. It was vory shocking. I really like the album. I'm proud of that, But the most gratifying thing was hosting 'Saturday Night Live.' It was: like going back to your school and you get to be principal."

Once his tour is over, Rock is going to return to his HBO series "The Chris Rock Show" which features musical guests and comedy bits. Upcoming guests include Johnny Cochran, soul singer D'Angelo, and R&B singer Erykah Badu.

Of all the projects he's shuffling, Rock is most comfortable with his stand-up career.

"Stand-up is the most gratifying and the most immediate. Plus you just don't have to deal with that many people."

Chris Rock with special guest Mario Joyner perform at 8 p.m. Friday, April 25, at the Fox Theatre, 2211 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Tickets are $25 in advance for the all-ages show. For more information, call (313) 983-6611 or (810) 433-1515.

"We had a reputation as a really good musical band, and on a real immediate level they were satisfied," said bassist Robert Sledge via telephone from a club called Sneakers in San Antonio.

"It was all about moving the piano at first. I thought the songs were great and I never played that hard in my life. All of a sudden it was whether we could move the piano into the club. I said, 'Of course we can. We're professional piano movers. Not only do we not want any help, we don't need any help."

"Whatever and Ever Amen" was recorded in a 16-track studio in lead singer/pianist Ben Folds's Chapel Hill, N.C., home. His father was overseeing the construction of the studio as the band recorded.

"We would just set up in the living room and play, with workers coming and going," Folds has said. "That really took any 'professional edge off and left us free to just make music."

Sledge said the reason for recording at home was more of a maturity issue.

machine," Sledge explained. "There's two to three months in your year when you feel creative and then you spend the rest of the year selling yourself. We didn't want to deal with anybody else."

Ben Folds Five used producer Caleb Southern with whom the band worked on its self-titled 1995 debut album. The first video for "Battle of Who Could Care Less" is directed by Norwood Cheek, a friend from Chapel Hill.

"Whatever and Ever Amen" opens with the effervescent "One Angry Dwarf and 200 Solemn Faces," a "revenge anthem" aimed at bullies. Lyrically acerbic "Song for the Dumped" is based one of drummer Darren Jessee's relationships. Folds compares the first single "Battle of Who Could Care Less" to the notion that the more you care about something the less it cares about you.

"Battle of Who Could Care Less" is Ben Folds Five's first major success. The band's debut album was critically acclaimed but heard by few.

"We did get some airplay. It was a little bit of a sympathy airplay On this tour. I've met with a whole host of programmers. A lot of them have told me. We really wanted to play your band but you guys got voted out."

Sledge explained that he's kind of happy that success has come with the band's second. album.

"If you have a really good thing on your freshman outing, you're going to think it's a fluke. (But) when your next thing starts going Ok, you feel better about yourself. You're actually legitimate."

In some ways Sledge predicted his band's success. Five years ago Sledge was getting fired of catering to self-indulgent guitar players. He was watching a Jon Spencer Blues Explosion video and thinking to himself that there's no way he could compete with all these bands.

"I really wished that key-

Colangelo's offers traditional fare at reasonable prices

BY ELEANOR & RAY HEALD SPECIAL WRITERS

Words such as fusion, retro and collision describing newer restaurant food trends don't cross the lips of Ernie Colangelo. As owner of Colangelo's in Pontiac and the recently-opened Colangelo's Italian Chop House in Livonia, he speaks about authentic Italian food with traditional recipes, deeply-rooted in his family's rostaurant tradition, at reasonable prices. "Buon Appetitto," he says.

Colongolo's mother was a Larco (this family restaurant is in Troy) and his father was part-owner and chef at Lelli's. which stands as an Italian eating tradition in Detroit to this day. Ernic's restaurant career began at age 12 as busboy at Larco's (then located on Six Mile Road in Detroit); From his father, he learned every aspect of the restaurant businoss. Pontiac Colangolo's opened in Spring 1996 and it was the plan to open another restaurant, "but not as soon as we did," he noted.

"Wo'd discussed a second location opening in late summer or autumn 1997. When the owner of America Inn in Livonia, the former eatery at the location of the new Colangelo's Italian Chop House, wanted to sell, I couldn't pass up the opportunity. The area is supportive of the trattoria-style ambiance we've created in the Livonia restaurant and in the second week after we opened in March, we doubled the business that we normally do in Pontiac."

Ernie's son Mark Allen Colangelo, informally called "Mac," is the director of operations at the Livenia location.

And thus we have the next generation carrying on familyowned Italian restaurant traditions at Larco's, Lelli's and Colangelo's.

Corporate chef, 29-year-old Sam Sharkas, in charge of dayto-day cooking in Pontiac, credits yet another of southeast Michigan's Italian restaurants, Andiamo's, for helping him learn each place. I've woven these the art of preparing authentic Italian cuisine.

Diners can taste the Sharkas style by choosing any one of the following chicken (pollo) recipes created by Sam. Pollo alla Paglia Efieno $13 is chicken tenders, green and white housechokes, tomatoes and pine nuts in a basil sauce, Pollo da Vinci di Fettueine $13 showcases sautéed chicken tenders with garlic, artichokes and onions in a cream sauce. Rollatini di Petto di Pollo alla Spiedini $14 is chicken breast stuffed with mozzarella cheese and tomatoes with Sicilian bread crumbs.

Sharkas trained executive chef Melvin Harris, who heads the kitchen in Livonia. "Other people started with me when Melvin did," Sharkas said. "They didn't last, but Melvin wanted to learn and he's great because he knows not to take shortcuts with madeto-order dishes, the only way we do things at Colangelo's." The extensive menu is the same at both locations.

Bloomfield Hills resident Chuck Uzelac, owner of Uzelac Art Gallery in Pontiac, likes to eat at the bar when he's alone. He chooses a table when he's

"I have this menu memorized because I eat here so often," he said. "Vitello Lombata (16-ounce marinated prime loin yeal chop $24) is my favorite. For homemade pasta it's Fettucine Alfredo ($11). In appetizers, I prefer Gamberi de Colangelo (breaded shrimp with garlic in a white wine lemon sauce $7) and Crespelle de Florentine (thin crepes filled with ricotta cheese, spinach and prosciutto, served with a mornay sauce $7). I don't like spinach, but I love this dish."

There are more connections than may immediately meet the eye in talking about Colangelo's. The family name Sharkas may ring a bell.

Brother must go to court if he doesn't want to pay

Q. There is an issue between me and my regarding cousin whether or not my cousin was made a joint owner of a property with me when I recorded a quit claim deed giving him an interest. He says that he never agreed to it and now does not want to have to be responsible for the taxes. Can you help me as to what the law might be on this issue?

A. The issue in this case is whether your execution and presumable recording of the quit claim deed amounted to a valid conveyance giving your cousin a joint interest in the property.

The recording of a deed, assuming that you recorded with the register of deeds, raises a presumption of delivery. However, if you record a deed without your cousin's (the grantee's) knowledge or assent, there is no delivery because the grantee's assent is an essential element of delivery.

In this case, your cousin would be required by the court to offer rebuttal evidence to counter the presumption. Obviously, you should try to work this out with your cousin as soon as is possible. Otherwise, you may have a cloud on your title of your property, which would be unfortunate for both parties.

Comparable home sales ordain prices of houses

BY DOUG FUNKE

What's a house worth?

A seller may list a house at a specific price, said Chuck D. Apligian, a Realtor with RE/MAX West in Livonia, but buyers ultimately rule the roost and drive sales.

Not every seller understands that, but professionals like Apligian and Latif Muhaimeen, a Realtor with Hannett, Wilson & Whitehouse in Bloomfield Hills, know the score.

"Look at sales rather than listings," Muhaimeen said. "People can ask what they want. What the market will bear is what they get."

"The buyer sets the market by paying what they feel is a reasonable dollar for the house," Apligian said. "The market can change the first, second, third or fourth quarter by demand and (mortgage) interest rates. The other variable would be the employment situ-

"High employment, low interest rates and strong demand from the buying public will create up demand for sellers," he said.

Sellers arrive at an asking price through comparable sales studies, said Virginia Tipton, a Realtor and office manager at Red Carpet Keim Will Tipton in Garden City.

"We run the computer in the square mile where the occupant's home is," she said. "We look at like sales. We, compare square footage. You try to comp ... to style and architecture, year of construc-

Tipton generally checks back for the past year, sometimes 18 months if there aren't many sales for a particular

But the like-sales study is just the beginning. Not all houses of similar style in the same subdivision constructed by the same builder in the same year are worth the same amount of "Things that enter in are maintenance and updates," Tipton said. "How new are components - roof, furnace, air conditioning, water heater?"

Sellers can upgrade - or reduce - the asking price, again, depending on what comparables reveal. Sharp buyers who do their homework on comparables will

"I always tell the seller what they should list at," Tipton said. "You like to keep it at the average, but many times, if you keep it at the average, you don't get the listing.

You sometimes take the high listing, tell them what you hope it will sell for and hope they'll be realistic when offers come in," Tipton said.

"Sometimes, owners are a little unrealistic," she added. Everyone seems to be pricing high nowadays because listings are at a premium." Apligian doesn't have a problem nudging the asking price up a bit - "as much as 5 percent to test the waters"by averaging the last four or five comparable sales in the sub.

But if there's no action within two weeks, adjust downward, he said. "Be fair. Be reasonable," Apligian advised,

And trust your Realton "I recommended a seller to take an offer (less than listing), they didn't and ended up selling for $2,000 less than a previous offer 45 days later," Apligian recalled. "They talked to some other swing a deal."

people ... were given some advice.

"Many people have opinions about real estate. Not all are accurate. Either you sold too low or paid too much. It makes it difficult," he said.

Apligian believes that assessment figures on file at city and town halls are a bit lower than actual market values.

"I have rarely come across houses in Oakland and Wayne counties whose assessed value is what market value is," he said. "I think SEVs are closer to 80-85 percent. Assessments are going to be a year behind. The market can move 10 percent in a year.

"Look at facts. Facts speak for themselves. You have proof in front of you with comparables," Apligian said.

Sellers sometimes want to be compensated for all the physical labor they put in a house when they set a price.

"The fact you broke your back doing this or that doesn't matter when you compare to a house down the street," Tipton said.

Several elements - buyer contingencies, what purchasers may want included as part of the sale, closing date - figure into the decision to accept a purchase offer that's a little below asking price, said Mary M. Arlinghaus, a Realtor with Cranbrook Associates in Bloomfield Hills.

"Generally, if you price a house correctly at the beginning, the final offer will be close, within a couple percentage points," Arlinghaus said.

"I think sellers have made a determination ahead of time where they want to be and what they will consider," she said. "Emotion plays a role, too, Sometimes, if they meet the buyer and establish some rapport, it may help

One top-quality mortgage bank, Republic Bancorp Inc., is a Michiganbased bank holding company that has made residential mortgage lending its primary business. It is one of the top 35 mortgage lenders in the United States and is one I would gladly refer both to consumers and Realters because of the caring attitude, which shows in every transaction.

Republic's success in the field of mortgage banking can be summed up in one work, "Realtor," as they have always focused on the Realtor. The company believes that the Realter has the most influence on this client's mortgage lending options. By providing outstanding service to the real estate community, Ropublic has thrived. Its business philosophy is simple: Deliver sorvices over and above the expectations of customers and Realtors with topnotch service.

The company was founded by George B. Smith, a licensed real estate broker for the past 40 years and now chairman of the company. Smith has a high regard for real estate salespeople and the tremendous pressure they experience in the real estate transaction. He has always believed that a Realtor's best friend is a highly trained, wellcapitalized mortgage lender.

Each April, the company hosts Realtor Appreciation Month. It provides sales collateral material to its Realtors and holds appreciation luncheons and receptions honoring the real estate industry and its sales professionals. This program has been in place for 12

Over the years, many mortgage lenders have given up on seeking business directly from Realtors. They have chosen to circumvent the Realton by going directly to the consumor. And many consumers are directly shopping for mortgages, which is one of the reasons this column got started. Republic, however, has never forgotten the benefits of working with professional real estate sales people, both for themselves and for home buyers.

When you have no credit history: Use records of your utility payments or rental payments to show that you have consistently paid your obligations on time. Or you can open up a low-interest credit card for gasoline or other small purchases and pay the balance off each month. Another possibility is opening a charge account at a store you frequent, using that account, and keeping that account up to date.

Enjoy The Savings!

Buying a home? Will this be the final move to your "forever Home"; or just a stop along the way? The answer to this question could point the way to dramatic savings on mortgage investment over many years. Here's why.

One decision you will make when buying a home is whether to secure a "fixed-rate" or "adjustable rate" mortgage. Each has its own rewards and obligations.

A "fixed rate" mortgage carries a set rate of Interest. If the interest rate is 7.5%, it will not change despite the fact that Interest rates in general will go up and down over the 30 year term of the loan.

Interest on an "adjustable rate" mortgage will change periodically, based on predetermined criteria. If the interest on a fixed rate loan is 7.5%, the initial interest on an adjustable rate loan might be as low as 5% - 5.5%, an attractive savings at first glance.

Be aware of other important considerations when looking at adjustable mortgages: First, how often can the rate change? It might be every 1, 2 or 5 years. When it changes, how much can it change? Most often, the rate can change no more than 2% up or down. Finally, what is the maximum rate change allowed over the life of the loan? This is most often 5-6%.

If you will be staying in your new home only a few years, there may be a substantial interest savings with an adjustable rate mortgage. If you plan to stay forever, and rates are low (as they are right now), a fixed-rate loan could provide the long-term security of lower home's curb appeal BY ELIZABETH LANE SPECIAL WRITER As a friend of mine in real estate once told me, "First impressions are important, and the appearance of a home's front entrance creates something known as curb appeal." Good advice. And while fixing cracked driveways and weedinfested lawns is a step in the right direction, installing solid forged brass decorative hardware on your home's front entrance is an even better way of enhancing a home's curb appeal and increasing its resale value.

For some suggestions, I've turned to the experts at Baldwin Hardware Corporation, the leading manufacturer of solid brass decorative hardware.

Since solid forged brass is considerably stronger than conventional casting, it is excellent for exterior hardware, and the hot forging process also allows for a jewel-like finish and greater depth of color. The Lifetime Finish from Baldwin helps keep brass hardware beautiful, ensuring against tarnishing flaking, pitting or discoloration for the life of the product.

"These grants are typical of the innovative ways in which MSHDA is supporting local initiatives," said Gov. John Engler. "Rather than being based on state-designed grant models, the Launch program provides greater flexibility and responsiveness to local housing needs."

Instead of awarding grants on a program-by-program basis as MSHDA traditionally has done, the Launch program finances projects that are most responsive to local housing needs as proposed by organizations and communities capable of effectively administering the resources, according to the Authority. "The funds are allocated regionally and MSHDA works in partnership with local organizations to help them identify the best ways to address housing needs," said Kathleen M. Wilbur, Department of Consumer and Industry Services director and MSHDA board member.

"This program provides statewide basis," Wilbur said. According to MSHDA executive director James L. Logue III, the Launch program was the outcome of a reorganization of MSHDA's Com-of scarce government resources on a munity Development division. The division went from being organized by program to being organized geographically, with the state being served by three-regional teams of MSHDA specialists.

"We feel Launch is a significant step in helping more people become self- sufficient," Logue said. "This new grant process will allow us to better serve nonprofits and communities in their revitalization efforts."

Funding for the Launch program is from a variety of sources, including the federal HOME Investment Partnership program, federal Community Development Block Grants, and MSHDA.

Seiko Instrumenta USA Inc. has introduced its Home Contractor line of electronic measuring devices - the ProMeasure+ (HC-1000), ProMeasure (HC-800N), ProTape 16' (HC-500) and ProLevel (HC-200).

Selling in most major hardware stores for under $50, the products are designed for Realtora, interior designers, home contractors, do it yourselfers, appraisers and others who rely on precise measurements to provide estimates and specifications for ordering materials, remodeling or new construction jobs.

The top-of-the-line ProMeasure+ (HC-1000) is a tapeless device that ultrasonically measures room dimensions, including heights, at the push of a button. The large digital read out displays the measurement in both feet and inches, feet and tenths of feet, and metric units. It also features a conversion and couts of materials needed for 4508 to locate the nearest dealer.
