'At least they didn't get off'

Father relieved jury finds three men guilty in the 2003 beating death of his son

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

More than three years after his son was beaten to death on a Detroit street, Charles McClain of Westland is relieved that a jury has convicted the three killers. A Wayne County Circuit Court jury on Wednesday found three defendants guilty of voluntary manslaughter rather than murder, but McClain is comforted that they won't walk free.

"It's still quite a significant charge," McClain, 77, said. "The jury has the final say, and they deliberated all day. I think they did a conscientious job. In their eyes, I could see how it would have been a big decision to send some young men to jail for the rest of their lives, so I have to accept the verdict.

"At least they didn't get off." Defendants Marcus Strong, David Dunbar and Murray Warren — all in their 20s — still could face lengthy sentences. They have criminal histories that give Judge Daniel Ryan the option of imposing more than the 15-year maximum penalty for voluntary manslaughter, authorities said.

The jury also convicted Strong and Dunbar of a 15-year felony of threatening a female witness, who went into hiding after she was told that her mother's house could be burned while her children were inside. Strong also was accused of beating the woman.

The three defendants face sentencing Jan. 25. Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Christine Kowal confirmed that Dunbar already is serving 11-20 years for an unrelated case of home invasion that involved a gun and assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Wayne Memorial High School senior Bethany Hamlet's poster walked away with the top honor in the 2007 Detroit Auto Dealers Association poster contest.

Students' designs 'star' at Auto Show

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

There's the Nike swoosh, worth billions of dollars, and then there's Bethany Hamlet's swoosh, a flash of white on a sea of blue, worth much less than the famous logo.

But Hamlet's swoosh is one hundreds of thousands of people will see when they visit the North American International Auto Show next week. It's the swoosh that graces the Chairman's Award winner of the event's poster contest.

"It's beginner's luck," said Hamlet, a Wayne Memorial High School senior and second-year student in Steve Paulsen's graphic design class at the William D. Ford Career Technical Center. "I'm use to winning smaller awards in kindergarten and first grade, but nothing like this."

"The judges saw something in it they really liked," said Paulsen. "It's very simple has minimal color. It's the whole concept of having to look at it a second to see what's there." Paulsen had five of his students win awards in the contest sponsored by the Detroit Auto Dealers Association.

This is the 19th year for the contest, "established to engage the creative minds of Michigan's future artists and recognize students from local art communities for their talents."

There were 621 entries from 101 high schools around the state. The poster entries encompassed an automotive-related theme and acknowledged this year's anniversary auto show with the words "Celebrating 100 Years."

The co-chairmen of this year's auto show, Bob Thibodeau Jr. of Bob Thibodeau Ford and Carl Galeana of Galeana's Van Dyke Dodge, selected Hamlet's poster as the winning entry.

FIVE WINNERS

In addition to Hamlet receiving the top honor and a $1,000 prize, Brian Heinrich won the $500 prize for best of show in the digital category. Also placing in the contest was Heather Schrader and Michelle Perez who placed second and third respectively in the 12th-grade competition, and Chris Miller, second in the 10th-grade contest. Schrader and Miller each received $250; Miller won $100.

Hamlet describes her poster as simplistic — just three colors and other than the auto show wording which has been cropped and stacked down the side of the poster, all that's there is the swoosh to create a feeling of speed, she said.

"I think of it as going real fast, with a bull's eye marking the spot in the swoosh," said Hamlet. "I took the picture from an overhead view and outlined it in Illustrator."

You have to look closely for the picture. It's the outline of the United States with the bright red bull's eye, less than the size of a penny positioned over Michigan.

She admits she cried when told she won and that her initial thought when called in was that she was "being suspended for something I did."

Test shows lower lead level in child

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Garden City boy's family learned Friday that he doesn't have elevated levels of lead in his body, despite an earlier blood test that indicated he did.

Twelve-year-old Matthew Waterkamp, who played in the contaminated Central City Park in Westland, has lead levels of 3 micrograms per deciliter — below the level of 10 that officials say could pose a potential health threat.

"He's fine," his grandmother, Georgia Becker of Westland, said Friday. "I'm just thrilled about it."

Matthew's pediatrician gave his family the good news Friday. An earlier blood test by county health workers had indicated that the boy had lead levels of 16 micrograms per deciliter.

Of 132 people screened for lead by county workers, Matthew was the only person whose results had indicated a potentially high level of lead.

The county sent Matthew's family a letter recommending he be taken to his doctor for a more thorough analysis, which showed the lower levels.

"I'm happy for that family," Assistant Wayne County Executive Alan Helmkamp said Friday. "I'm sure the family is relieved, and we're thankful for that."

Even so, Becker said that she and others still are angry that city and county officials kept quiet for years about elevated levels of lead in some areas of Central City Park.

"This is not going away, because these people put a lot of kids' lives in danger," Becker said. "The people who knew about this should be held accountable."

Westland Mayor William Wild has ordered the park fenced off until further environmental testing can be done at the park. City, county and state environmental officials ultimately will work toward finding a solution to cleaning up the park.

Child pornography lands Westland man in prison

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland man who downloaded hundreds of images of child pornography on his home computer will spend two to eight years in prison.

Danny Rudolph Schultz, 37, learned his fate in Wayne County Circuit Court after he recently admitted to having child sexually abusive material.

Westland police in July seized hundreds of CDs containing child porn that Schultz downloaded at his home on Barchester, on the city's southwest side.

Police arrested Schultz after his former girlfriend, who lived with him, notified authorities that she found child pornographic materials that belonged to him, police Sgt. Jeff Trzybinski said.

Police also seized computers from the home.

Schultz's decision to plead guilty and face a sentence of two to eight years in prison could have averted a lengthier prison stay. The charges against him carry penalties ranging up to 20 years behind bars.

Schultz had earlier spent time in prison in Ohio for felony charges unrelated to the Michigan case, authorities confirmed. He had been ordered to stand trial in Michigan after he waived a preliminary hearing in early August in Westland 18th District Court.

Pending the outcome of the case, Westland District Judge C. Charles Bokos had ordered Schultz jailed in lieu of a $100,000 cash bond.

According to state authorities, Schultz will spend two to eight years in prison, and the earliest he will be potentially eligible for parole will be in July 2008.

Chamber pledges to continue collaboration with city, schools

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

In hopes of spurring growth in the city's business community, Westland Chamber of Commerce leaders have pledged to work with new Mayor William Wild and his administration.

"We are looking forward to a collaborative relationship with the city administration to create a healthy and attractive business environment in Westland," chamber President Lori Brist said.

Westland and the rest of Michigan have suffered from an economic slump, but chamber leaders hope to do what they can to help local businesses not only survive - but thrive.

Kelly

During the chamber's annual meeting on Tuesday at Marvaso's Italian Grille, chamber board Chairwoman Rebecca Kelly outlined goals for 2007.

"Filling vacant buildings, creating new jobs and assisting existing businesses (to) succeed are at the top of our priority list," Kelly said, addressing chamber members. "We look forward to collaborating with city leaders in an attempt to improve Westland's overall business climate."

Wild, the city's newly appointed mayor, welcomed the gesture from chamber leaders. "I think it's very important for local government to work with local businesses," he said. "We have to work together. A thriving business community is part of a thriving community."

Wild confirmed that he will give a State of the City address in April to the chamber - a speech that will be geared toward the business community. Wild also plans to have a State of the City program for residents at large, with details to come later.

Kelly, sales manager for Sharon's Heating & Air Conditioning, also said the chamber will partner with Wayne-Westland Community Schools to provide programs for youngsters.

"Through our community and educational development committee, we will continue to strive towards educating tomorrow's workforce," Kelly said. "Our partnership with the Wayne-Westland school district and the Westland Youth Assistance Program will allow us to do just that."

Kelly also pledged that chamber leaders will keep members informed of local and state legislation that will have an impact on Westland businesses. Kelly announced some of the people who will be helping to steer the chamber this year. They are chiropractor Amanda Apfelblat, vice president of business and economic development; Westland Shopping Center marketing manager Denise Mills, vice president of community and educational development; and Men on the Move moving company owner Gary Bulson, vice president of government affairs.

INFORMATION CENTRAL

Do you need a fresh New Year's resolution? Why not make the most of the January dol-drum by fixing up your house or apartment?

No excuses! You can't work in the yard or take the kids to the beach. Golf is definitely out. This is the perfect time for undertaking a home improvement project. Be it large or small, it will give you tremendous and lasting satisfaction.

Where do you begin? Do you want to start small? You can put a fresh coat of paint on the living room walls, or wallpaper the front hallway. The library has a variety of books to help you get started, such as Decorative Painting for the Home and 1001 Ideas for Color and Paint. You might choose to spruce up some old furniture. Books like Easy Upholstery: Step by Step, What Color Is Your Slipcover or Complete Guide to Chair Caning will get you started.

If you would like to attempt a larger project, browse Family Handyman Interior Improvements or Home Remodeling for Dummies for ideas. For more specific titles try Reinvent Your Bathroom: Simple Steps for Bathroom Makeovers, Kitchen Decorating Ideas and Projects or Creative Bedroom Decorating.

Winter is also a great time to start a project with a child.

Has your daughter been asking for a bookcase for her room? Why not make a simple bookcase together. She will treasure, not only the bookcase that she helped make, but also the time you spend together. Books like Woodworking for Kids or Easy to Build Bookcases will get you off on the right foot.

Maybe your son would enjoy making a bird house or bird feeder. With your help and one of these books, Making Backyard Birdhouses or Big Book of Bird Houses and Bird Feeders, he will be on his way.

Our DVD collection includes an extensive series called Today's Homeowner Series. It includes decorating titles such as Quick Kitchen Update, Bathroom Rehab, Flooring, Interior Enhancement and Lighting.

We also own videos on remodeling, painting, wallpapering, tiling, flooring, woodworking and more.

The money will come in handy. Hamlet plans to go on to college, probably at the Center for Creative Studies, and take up graphic design.

Heinrich also is a Wayne Memorial senior, describes his best of show poster as "a little bit of idealism of the future." It features the front end of an older car with the Detroit skyline on the hood. "My original design didn't work out," he said. "I wanted to do a comic book cover, but I couldn't find one good enough and I didn't have time to draw one," he said. "I took hours to put together and there's a lot of digital work for such a simple design."

ORCHESTRAL ILLUSION

Schrader took a different track for her poster which creates the illusion of an orchestra made up of car parts - grills, head lights, steering wheels and tires.

"I had his picture of an orchestra of parts that led up to the 100-year logo of the auto show," she said. "My first design was very simple, I didn't have the pencil lines and there was less detail."

Like Hamlet, she was surprised to win. She had entered the contest last year, but came away empty handed. "Last year's poster was more simplistic, this has more detail," the Wayne Memorial senior said.

Perez also uses the word simple in describing her auto show poster. She used shapes and with the help of Paulsen, placed a car in the mix. She found the font for the wording on a Web site.

"Mr. Paulsen thought I had a chance to win," said Perez, a John Glenn High School senior. "I've never won anything. This is the first time I entered the contest and the first time I've won."

While she's not into auto shows and most likely will give her free tickets to her parents, Perez admits there's something about having her poster viewed by hundreds of thousands of people.

"I get the chills thinking about it being on display," she said. "I wonder what people will think of it."

Paulsen is always on the hunt for competition for his students to enter. Most that he finds tend to be poster contests. He has his students go through and look at design history and designers. He also encourages them to look at other styles in preparing for contests.

Baracy sees a lot of positives for Wayne-Westland in 2007

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

As New Year's resolutions go, the hope is usually for a good one, and that's just what Wayne-Westland School Superintendent Greg Baracy foresees in 2007.

"I'm looking forward to a very good and prosperous 2007," he said. "I hope it will be good and healthy for our children and that our student achievement keeps improving."

Even a threatened cut in state school aid can't cast a pall on the start of the New Year in the district. On Jan. 30, the addition to Alumni Arena at Wayne Memorial High School will be dedicated, and in February ground will be broken for a similar addition at John Glenn High School.

The additions are being financed through the district's sinking fund, and according to Baracy, it is the "students who are reaping the benefits."

School officials also are deeply immersed in the restructuring to meet the new state requirements. The requirements affect this year's freshman class, and the district is looking at such things as a trimester system and offering Algebra I with high school credit in the eighth grade.

"We're really deep into research and evaluation of trimesters," Baracy said. "Trimesters would provide more opportunity for students to meet the requirements and still take extracurricular classes."

Baracy also is pleased to see more parent participation in the schools and is hoping to "grow" that in 2007.

"It's not just more parents in the PTA or PTO, it's more volunteers in the classrooms and schools," he said. "And it's not just in the elementaries. We're seeing an upswing in the middle school and high school and that's a good sign."

Also on the positive list is the expansion of two media centers at two elementaries — Schweitzer and Edison — and the adoption of new mathematics and English language arts text books for the high schools and new social studies books that would cost between $600,000 and $800,000.

But offsetting the good news in 2007 is the gloom and doom out of Lansing. Word has been swirling around for months that the amount the state pays per pupil to districts could be cut because of a shortfall in the School Aid Fund.

Rumored cuts have run from none to as high as $200 per student. If it happens, the lost revenue would erase gains made with the district's switch to intraschools of choice and a pilot all-day kindergarten at four schools at the elementary level.

Wayne-Westland has been able to deal with revenue loss by boosting attendance cutting expenses and tapping its budget surplus, but a possible proration could be the "block of coal in our stocking," Baracy said.

"Education funding has to stay at the rate of inflation, or it's a loss," he said. "If we don't get an increase, it's a loss. If it's status quo, it's a cut."

The superintendent also hopes the New Year has brought a new round of getting along in the State Legislature.

"I hope Santa brought a renewed sense of cooperation of all parties, so they can put aside their petty bickering and focus on the economy and jobs and the education of our youth," he said.

But the news out of Lansing isn't enough to dampen his excitement about the start of 2007. "Despite that, we have a lot of good things going on," he said. "We have a lot of good people working with our children to help them achieve their potential."

LPS to amend budget

BY REBECCA JONES
STAFF WRITER

A state revenue conference this week will help determine how much money Livonia Public Schools has to work with this year.

But in the meantime, the budget needs to be amended to cover a bigger-than-expected shortfall, reflect actual expenses and set aside money for future costs.

Finance director Lisa Levesque outlined budget amendments with the school board during three study sessions, which wrapped up last week. The board may vote on the changes at Monday's regular meeting.

The district lost $2.4 million due to lower enrollment. The budget amendment also reserves money for textbooks and curriculum associated with new graduation requirements. After the changes, the district will have 5 percent of its budget, or $8 million, in its fund equity. It currently has $10.9 million in savings.

The budget will probably have to be amended again this spring.

The state could reduce the amount of money the district gets per pupil for the current school year. The Senate fiscal agency reported last month that the school aid budget appears to be $300 million short.

Last week, it was reported that $10 million in state grants may be put on hold as well, but Levesque said she doesn't know if that affects grants LPS was due to receive, such as an $89,000 for districts with declining enrollment.

Shift lets old friends mingle

BY REBECCA JONES
STAFF WRITER

Fifth- and sixth-graders at Riley Upper Elementary will get a chance to make some of their old friends laugh until milk comes out of their noses.

Lunches will be reorganized next semester. The change will give students more chances to see others in their same grade.

Currently at Riley, lunches are grouped so that fifth- and sixth-graders from the same "team" eat together. But lunch assignments will be changed later this month so that more students from the same grade level will be able to eat and spend recess together, said Riley co-principal Colette Ivey.

"Students have not had as much of an opportunity to see and socialize with classmates from their former school," Ivey said.

Students didn't bring up the issue to staff, but parents expressed their concerns, she said.

Since Livonia Public Schools created upper elementary schools this year, administrators are trying to figure out which scheduling option works best.

Each school does it differently.

Cooper Upper Elementary has students eat lunch with others in their mixed-grade "house."

"They want the fifth- and sixth-grade teams to be together," said Jay Young, LPS communications director. "They can get to know each other even though they are in different grades."

Johnson Upper Elementary sends all fifth-grade teams from the same house to lunch at the same time. Sixth-grade teams eat together after that.

Michigan Avenue can pick up their food the third Monday of the month at St. James United Methodist Church, 30055 Annapolis, between Henry Ruff and Middlebelt.

And senior citizens living in Taylor Towers should call their building manager for the day of their distribution at the apartment complex.

For more information, call the Dorsey Center surplus food hotline at (734) 595-0366.

Competition

Boys and girls of all faiths and ages 9-14 are invited to participate in the local level of competition for the 2007 Knights of Columbus Free Throw Championship.

The local competition will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan 21, at St. Thomas a Becket Church, 555 S. Lilley Road, Canton.

The Knights of Columbus Free Throw Championship is sponsored annually with winners progressing through local, district and state competition.

International champions are announced by the K of C international headquarters based on scores from the state-level competitions. Local contestants will compete in respective age divisions and will be recognized for their participation in the event.

Participants are required to furnish proof of age and written parental consent.

For entry forms or additional information, call Lou Brochner at (734) 453-7684.

Preregistration will be available at St. Thomas a Becket after all weekend masses between Jan. 13 and Jan. 21.

Registration also can be completed at time of the event.

Charges against one-time fourth defendant Richard Montgomery were dropped after authorities learned that he apparently had been in jail when Ronald Wayne McClain was killed in July 2003.

The victim — a 48-year-old union pipefitter and plumber — was the youngest of Charles McClain's three sons.

Kowal had hoped that Strong, Dunbar and Warren would be convicted of second-degree murder, but, she said, "I accept the jury's verdict."

The younger McClain was killed in a residential neighborhood near Fenkel and Lahser when the vehicle he was riding in accidentally struck a utility pole that snapped and injured a man in the street.

After the accident, Kowal said that "an angry mob ensued" and Ronald McClain was beaten while the driver was able to escape.

The accident happened while the driver and McClain had been fleeing from an unrelated road rage incident in which shots were being fired at them from another vehicle.

The case didn't go to trial for 42 months, partly because the female witness who had been beaten and threatened had gone into hiding, authorities have said.

Six days of trial testimony and jury deliberations ended Wednesday with the guilty verdicts against Strong, Dunbar and Warren. The decisions came two months too late for the victim's mother, Joyce Bratten, to find solace. She died in November.

Charles McClain endured stress and health problems of his own during the last 42 months. He lost about 30 pounds, putting him at a mere 115 pounds.

Even though he described himself as a calm man, Charles McClain said, "I didn't have much of an appetite. I guess it was partly stress."

He commended Kowal for working hard to get a conviction against his son's killers. "I was absolutely 100 percent satisfied with the job she did," he said.

Finding a good adviser key to successful investing

Q: How can I find a good financial adviser?

A: I gave a talk at the Southfield Public Library regarding investing last week and received this question in an e-mail from an individual who had accepted a buyout from one of the automotive companies.

Finding a good financial adviser is no different than finding a good doctor or a good lawyer. One of the keys, whenever you deal with a professional, is whether you can communicate with that individual. You want to make sure they deal with you as an individual and that you are not intimidated by them. That being said, in the financial world, not all financial advisers are professional and it is important to distinguish between the different types of advisers.

Unlike doctors and lawyers, who are required to meet a minimum amount of standards in order to get licensed and who have to obey certain ethical rules, financial advisers are not bound by those same rules. Unfortunately, there are very few regulations with regards to financial advisers and virtually anyone and everyone can call themselves a financial adviser. It is important when you do decide to hire a financial adviser you hire a professional, not a mere salesperson.

When you consider hiring a financial adviser, you will notice that many advisers have numerous initials after their name, but you must be careful in order to understand these credentials. Unlike other professional credentials, in the financial world, some of the designations are issued by private organizations that have no educational or ethical standards. These organizations issue designations to confuse investors. In many cases, too many of the so-called financial advisers are nothing but financial salespeople and the designations after their names merely serve as a marketing gimmick rather than having a meaningful impact on your chances of financial success.

Money Matters

When it comes to your money, if you are seeking professional assistance, the key is to get someone who puts your best interest as their No. 1 objective and does not put their own interest ahead of yours.

It is important to understand any conflicts of interest in a professional relationship. In the financial world, one way to determine potential conflicts of interest is to look at how a financial adviser is compensated. Basically, there are two ways to distinguish between advisers: those who are paid through commissions vs. those who are compensated by fees.

The majority of financial advisers are paid by commissions or a combination of commissions and fees. What this means is that they receive compensation for selling you products. Obviously, whenever you deal with a commissioned salesperson, there is a conflict of interest. After all, they only get paid if they sell you a product.

Another potential conflict of interest with commissioned salespeople is with regards to ongoing fees. Many financial products such as variable annuities pay advisers fees on an ongoing basis. Therefore, you may have purchased a product such as a variable annuity where there are heavy ongoing fees and you find that you're also paying the salesperson year-by-year even though that salesperson is not providing you any ongoing service.

The other way financial advisers can be compensated, and the way I believe is best, is through a fee-only arrangement. A fee-only adviser charges you for their service and is not compensated by the buying or selling of products. For these types of advisers, since their sole compensation comes directly from their clients and not from the product, the traditional conflicts that exist with commissioned salespeople do not enter into the equation.

The decision of choosing a financial adviser in today's world is as important as any financial decision you will make.

I believe strongly in the importance of independent advice, free of conflicts of interest, and that is why I recommend you steer clear of commissioned salespeople.

For many people in south-east Michigan, buyouts offered by the auto industry represent a great opportunity to better one's financial future. If you intend on dealing with a commissioned salesperson, which I recommend against, you must do everything you can to protect your future and the nest-egg you've accumulated over many years of hard work. Therefore, don't be intimidated, ask questions and always make sure you understand all costs of an investment, including buying, selling and holding.

Good luck!

Mustangs submarine Spartans in state-ranked duel

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

This wasn't any ordinary Thursday night dual boys swim meet.

It featured two highly regarded state-ranked teams - Livonia Stevenson and Northville - two programs that have been the class of the Western Lakes Activities Association the past few years.

The start of the meet was held up 15 minutes because of a malfunction with the computerized electronic scoreboard system, but when things got going, it became clear early in the meet that it was Northville's night as the No. 2-ranked team in Division I posted a 105-81 triumph over the No. 6 Spartans.

Stevenson had won the previous two encounters dating back to last March, including the WLAA Relays in December and the Division I state meet in March when the Spartans edged Northville for third place, 201.5-200.

The Spartans started well enough, finishing first and third in the first event, the 200-yard medley relay.

But by the 50 freestyle, the Mustangs had taken a 33-29 advantage and never looked back.

Senior Chris Keady, a state runner-up last year in both the 200 individual medley and 500 freestyle, paced the Glenn's Kija Colts nails a spike past Wayne's Chelsey Odom during Wednesday's clash.

Rockets hit on all cylinders
Glenn spikers score impressive win vs. WayneBY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

After a slight delay to attach the antennas on each side of the net, the Westland John Glenn girls volleyball came out of the oven like a $5 Little Caesars pizza.

And before you could say "Cheese only," the Rockets were hot and ready, taking less than an hour Wednesday night to dispose of rival Wayne Memorial in three games, 25-15, 25-12, 25-17, in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover match.

Ironically, Glenn and Wayne split two games last month in the Madonna University Tournament held at Plymouth High School.

But on this night, it was all Glenn, as the Rockets' hitting attack was sparked by a pair of 6-foot middle hitters, senior co-captain Virginia Butler and sophomore Brittany Holbrook, each finishing with 12 kills.

Butler also served six of Glenn's 13 aces on the night, while Holbrook finished with three blocks and three aces.

"Give credit to Wayne, they came up with a good defensive effort and dug everything we threw at them," said Glenn first-year coach Julian Wargo, whose team is 7-6-3 overall. "We were able to step it up with our ball control and we were able to run the attack we wanted. We took advantage of a smaller Wayne frontline and our outside and middle hitters were able to swing away."

Other Glenn contributions came from senior co-captain Kija Colts, who had five kills and one ace; junior Kirstin Kirk, 17 digs, four kills and one block; and senior setter Katie Tratar, 26 assists, three kills and three aces.

"It's good to see some of our underclassmen like Holbrook, and Kirk, who played well defensively, step it up and take the pressure off both Virginia (Butler) and Kija (Colts), especially when teams are geared to stop them," Wargo said. "And I thought Katie Tratar did a good job of distributing the ball. I felt she set a smart match."

The visiting Zebras, meanwhile, could muster only nine kills on the night (led by Stacy Stone's three) and had only a meager total of five assists.

The Zebras, however, did take a 10-6 lead in the second game when senior Kellie Newsted served three of her four aces.

But the advantage was short-lived as Wayne made 17 passing errors on the evening and gave up another six points on service errors.

"We can't keep giving up free balls," said Wayne first-year coach Kevin Miller, whose team fell to 1-2-12 overall. "We have to work covering the court when we're behind the ball and moving to the ball. We're not getting to the place where we're supposed to be."

"We're just not adjusting and reading quickly enough. We have to try and force the issue. We've been trying to do a lot of that in practice."

Wargo, who is animated and active on the coaching sidelines, felt relieved to beat his first WLAA opponent. But he knows there is much to work to do before the divisional schedule heats up this week.

"Our communication could be better at times," he said. "And we have to learn to not let down going from game-to-game, and play with our heads up. Tonight when you're playing before a lot of family and friends, it's easier to stay up."

"We just hope to keep improving day to day. I felt both Northville (a three-game loss Monday) and Wayne were good tuneups. Now the hard stuff starts. We're in a tough division (Lakes) and we'll see what happens."

Churchill staves off Plymouth in thriller

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

After a thorny start, Livonia Churchill's basketball team came out smelling like a "Rose" nick Friday night in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game against visiting Plymouth.

Led by the blue-collar effort of junior forward Ryan Rosenick, the Chargers outlasted the Wildcats, 48-46, in a tension-packed contest that wasn't decided until the final minute.

Rosenick, who finished with 24 points and 16 rebounds, notched a double-double - 14 points and 10 boards - in the first half alone.

Churchill senior Brad Evans came up big in the clutch for the winners, converting a driving layup with 1:30 to play to break a 44-all tie. The 6-foot-3 senior then iced the victory with a pair of free throws with 27.2 seconds left to make it 48-44.

Plymouth's Mike Hanchett deposited a layup with 11.4 seconds remaining to cut the Wildcats' deficit to 48-46, however, Plymouth was unable to get off a shot after regaining possession of the ball with 1.8 seconds to go.

The victory improved the Chargers to 4-3 overall and doubled their win total from a year ago. Plymouth slipped to 3-4.

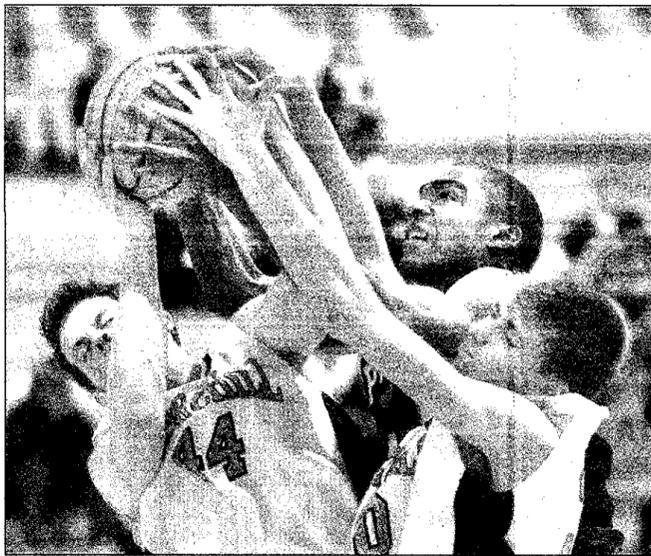

"I was disappointed in the way we played in the first quarter - their guards were playing well and we just weren't getting it done," Churchill coach Jim Solak said. "But we locked them down in the second half and our perimeter defense was much better."

"The bottom line is we hung around and hung around and took every punch they threw at us. When it came to push and shove in the fourth quarter, we got it done, whether it was knocking down big free throws or getting a guard penetration. I'm proud of how the guys finished it out tonight."

The Chargers attacked the basket more than the Wildcats, which was reflected in their lopsided victory - 25-4 - in the "free throws attempted" category.

"Churchill going to the line that much made a big difference tonight," Plymouth coach Tom Van Wagoner said. "But give them credit - they took advantage of what was

Stevenson whips Salem; Patriots triumph

Livonia Stevenson continued sailing along Friday with a 7-1 Western Lakes Activities Association-Lakes Division boys hockey victory over visiting Salem at Edgar Arena. The Spartans, ranked 10th in Division I in the latest statewide coaches poll, improved to 11-1-1 overall and 3-0 in the Lakes. Salem falls to 5-5-1 and 0-2. Marcus Voran had a pair of goals and one assist to lead Stevenson, which led 1-0 after one period and 4-1 after two periods. Mike Jahn chipped in with two goals as well, while senior T.J. Gosseline finished with one goal and two assists. Joe Byrne collected his first career goal with an assist. Mike Gibbons also scored for Stevenson, which outshot Salem, 29-18. Other assists went to Dan Darrow and Mark Bekkala, two each; Steve Soave, Sean Lerg and John Vella. Salem's Nick Gennetty scored at 6:40 of the second period from Adam Hammell to make it 3-1. Mike Zynda, who made 16 saves, was in goal for the Spartans. Ralph Aspinwall made 22 stops for Salem. FRANKLIN 4, CANTON 1: On Friday, Dave Muller tallied a goal and two assists to lift Livonia Franklin (3-9, 1-1) past the host Chiefs (3-9-1, 0-1) in a WLLA-Western Division game at the Arctic Edge. Franklin's Jordan Short scored less than five minutes into the first period on a goal off assists from Muller and Tyler Barnes. Muller then took a pass from Barnes and beat Canton goalie Kevan Swanburg late in the first period to extend the visitors' lead to 2-0. Derrick Cripe put the win on ice early in the third stanza when his shot from Franklin's blueline eluded Swanburg to make it 3-0. A few minutes later Jordan Chisholm tacked on an insurance goal to make it 4-0. Canton's lone goal came with five minutes left when Justin Ward scored off assists from Clark Albers and J.P. LaFontaine. Franklin netminder Austin Mesler made 21 saves, while Swanburg had 20 saves for the Chiefs. "Austin played a great game," Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt said. "The first period was the best hockey we've played all season. We had excellent positioning, we back-checked and even scored a power-play goal. "But in the second period we lost it. We took eight penalties. 12 for the game, which is unacceptable." STEVENSON 6, W.L. NORTHERN 2: Marcus Voran notched his third hat trick of the season as Livonia Stevenson (10-1-1, 2-0) downed Walled Lake Northern (7-4-1, 0-2) in a WLLA-Lakes Division game at Edgar Arena. It was 2-0 after one period as R.J. Kierdorf scored from Voran and John Vella at 3:23. Sean Lerg added a goal at 7:52 from Steve Soave. Rick Mitchell (from Al Harvey and Jeff Walters) and Walters (from Harvey and Mitchell) scored for Northern at 4:01 and 6:44, respectively. Voran scored the game-winner from Zach Roberts at 10:28 of the second period followed by Chris Rapp from Lerg and Mike Jahn at 11:42. Voran tallied Stevenson's lone power-play with 40 seconds left in the second from Vella and Kierdorf. He added another goal at 6:53 of the final period from Kierdorf and Marc Villaire, who notched his first career point. Stevenson netminder Drew MacEachern made 21 saves, while Northern's Ed Hojnacki stopped 24 shots. Stevenson killed off all five penalties. "This was a big win for our team," Stevenson coach Mike Humitz said. "Northern is a team that has had a good start, so it was important that we played well. We're also getting contributions from different players, so that is a good sign." NORTHVILLE 8, FRANKLIN 0: In a WLLA-Western Division opener Wednesday, seven different players scored the host Mustangs (6-5-1, 1-0) blanked Livonia Franklin (2-9, 0-1) at Novi Ice Arena. T.J. Hohl led Northville with two goals and one assist, while Steve Dawson added a goal and two assists. The Patriots were outshot, 36-13. "We continue to take too many penalties and run around chasing the puck instead of playing our system," Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt said.

Aquinas deals MU men 1st WHAC loss

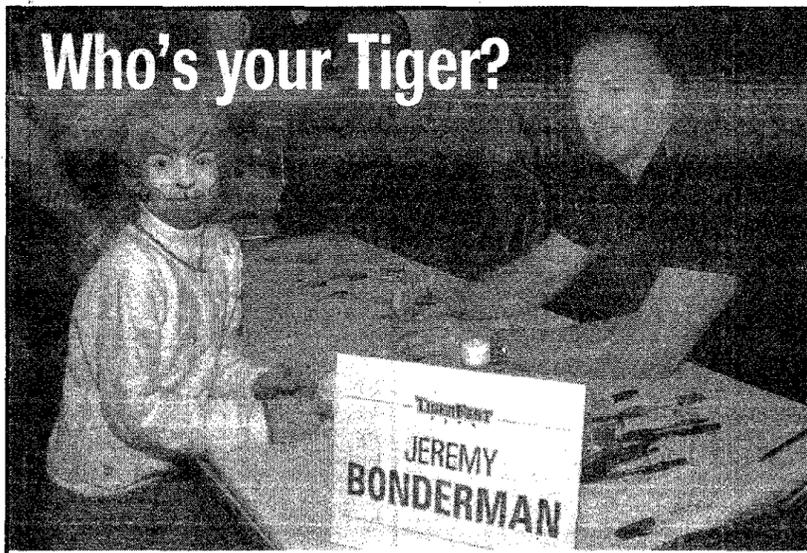

A slow start offensively Wednesday night ultimately cost Madonna University's men's basketball team, as the Crusaders dropped a 75-60 Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference decision to host Aquinas. Madonna (6-13, 2-1 in the WHAC) made just 8-of-22 field-goal tries in the first half, which ended with the Saints nursing a 31-21 advantage. Although the Crusaders picked it up in the second half (13-24, 54 percent), so did Aquinas (17-27, 63 percent). Junior forward D. J. Bridges (Canton) led MU with 17 points with senior forward Derrick Mudri and junior guard Keith Hearn (Livonia Stevenson) tallying 15 and 11 points, respectively. The top rebounder for the Crusaders was junior forward and Wayne Memorial alum Mike Rashad with five. Aquinas (11-8, 3-0) benefited from a 21-point night by guard Jeff Wierzbicki. Also strong on offense for the Saints were guards Jeff Jayson (17 points) and Jordan Torres (15 points). SCHOOLCRAFT 101, DELTA CC 76: In an MCCA Eastern Conference game Wednesday, visiting Schoolcraft College (9-6, 4-2) rolled to a victory over Delta Community College (1-15, 1-6). It was the Ocelots' third straight victory. St. Clair (14-3, 7-0) and Flint Mott CC (14-2, 6-0) sit atop the conference.

Lady Ocelots trim Delta

Five players scored in double figures Wednesday as Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team continued to roll, winning 74-63 at Delta Community College. With the MCCA-Eastern Conference victory, the Lady Ocelots (13-2 overall) remained undefeated in the conference with a 6-0 mark. Freshman guard Adrena Walker-Price paced the Lady Ocelots with 14 points, followed by sophomore forward Ashley Sibby (13 points) and sophomore forward-center Maricka Seay (12 points, 13 rebounds). Others chipping in for Schoolcraft were freshman guard Brittney Ivey (11 points) and freshman forward Janelle Harris (10 points, 14 rebounds). Alexis Rankin tallied a game-high 19 for Delta (8-7, 6-2). AQUINAS 75, MADONNA 63: The good news Wednesday for Madonna University was the return of junior forward

COLLEGE HOOPS
 Martina Franklin (Redford Union). But there was bad news, too, as the host Crusaders (6-12, 1-2) lost to Aquinas College (11-6, 3-0) in a Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference encounter. Franklin, who missed nearly seven weeks after sustaining a concussion, played well, scoring 14 points and grabbing eight rebounds in nearly 23 minutes of action. Unfortunately for MU, the Saints rode the hot hand of forward Joslyn Narber, who scored 27 points to spark Aquinas. Guard Claire Hogan added 13. Senior guard Lindsay Klemmer (Salem) scored 16 points to lead MU. Sophomore forward Christie Carrioco added 13, while sophomore guard Alyssa Guerin (Salem) grabbed 12 rebounds to go along with six points.

Mustangs.
The Cornell University-bound Keady captured the 200 IM (1:56.07) and 100 breaststroke (1:03.13), while anchoring the Mustangs to a first in the 400 freestyle relay (3:18.64).
Brothers Will and Brody Blicke also captured two events apiece.
Brody, a sophomore, won the 200 freestyle (1:45.37) and 100 backstroke (54.45), while Will, a junior, took the 100 butterfly (54.92) and 500 freestyle (4:47.85).
The foursome of Brody Blicke, Kyle Adams, Jim Mammano and Keady also won the 200 freestyle relay (1:31.76).
Other than Robert Luke, Joey Wingett, Travis Hatt and Jeff Pauza combining for a win in the 200 medley relay (1:41.12), Stevenson's only other first came from Pauza in the 100 freestyle (49.37).
Pauza was also close second in the 100 backstroke, losing by only 13-100th seconds to Brody Blicke.
"We got touched out in a lot of races and you can't win meets when you get touched out," Stevenson coach Jeff Shoemaker said. "Our guys did not finish hard enough and technically our swims were not very good. Our underclassmen had some good swims. We hope our upperclassmen can draw from this and continue on up for a successful season."

Shoemaker conceded, however, that Northville, the defending WLAA champion, is the measuring stick.
"We also got beat by the No. 2 team in the state in our pool and our house," the Stevenson coach said. "They're just a better swim team right now and they showed us today. We did not lose, we got beat."
Northville coach Richie Bennetts, a 1992 Stevenson grad who has transformed the Mustangs' program into a state contender, guided his squad to an impressive dual-meet win only days earlier against No. 1-ranked Birmingham Brother Rice.
"This has been the gauntlet week for us, and so far so good," said Bennetts, who swam at Stevenson under Doug Buckler, now a Spartan assistant. "We didn't swim as well as Saturday. It was a little bit of a letdown, but we knew coming in that Stevenson is a tough team and a tough place to swim. When you swim them, they mean business, and we were fortunate to get a win."

Northville, meanwhile, capped off a demanding week by swimming four of the state's top six ranked teams in Saturday's Salem Invitational.
"Last year we had a lot of talent, but we were disappointed at the state meet," Bennetts said. "We don't have the depth just yet. It's a work in progress. We've shown so far that we can swim with anybody in the state, but only time will tell. You can't forget about Stevenson because we still have the league meet."
The tide turned for Northville during the third event when Keady and Greg Sheppard went one-two in the 200 IM. Teammate Joe Kargula added a fourth as the Mustangs outscored Stevenson, 12-4.
"In the 200 IM we did real well," Bennetts said. "That really started the ball rolling. (Keady) has been a great kid and I'll miss him when he graduates, but I'm going to really enjoy him for the next two months."

given to them. We have to play better positional defense."
Solak couldn't think of enough positive things to say about the play of Rosenick, whose all-out effort rubs off on his teammates.
"Ryan is a throwback kid who does all the little things it takes to win," said Solak. "Everything he does, he does with a purpose - from rebounding to putting his jersey on before the game. He doesn't have any fancy basketball moves, but he does everything hard and with maximum effort."
Evans finished with nine points and five rebounds for the winners, who also received an inspired, 32-minute effort from junior guard Ryan Whittum (four points and three steals).

Only five players - all juniors - scored for Plymouth, which was led by Myron Puryear's 20 and Brandon Roberts' 16.
Led by the potent backcourt duo of Puryear and Roberts, the Wildcats bolted to a 17-13 lead after one quarter and 29-25 half-time advantage.
Plymouth upped its lead to 42-36 on an inside bucket from Hager 10 seconds into the fourth quarter.
However, Churchill responded with an 8-0 run that was capped by Rosenick's back-door layup with 3:35 left.
A steal and layup from Roberts at the 2-minute mark knotted the score at 44-all, but Evans scored the eventual game-winner when he penetrated through the heart of the Wildcats' defense with 90 seconds to play.

Both team shot 75 percent from the free throw line: Plymouth was 3-for-4; the Chargers 18-for-25. Churchill made 15-of-39 field goals (38.4 percent) while the Wildcats connected on 20-of-48 (41.6).

Zebra grapplers earn divisional win

Wayne Memorial won nine of 14 matches, including five pins, to gain a 42-30 Western Lakes Activities Association-Western Division wrestling victory Thursday over visiting Northville.

The Zebras, now 3-8 overall and 1-1 in the division, got pins from Mike Hicks (103 pounds), Ryan Nesbitt (160), Jeff Elswick (171), Anthony Baskins (189), and Robert Coffey (285).

Chad Dunn (112) earned a major decision, while Jamie Preiss (119), Jack Muncie (135) and Robert Walsh (152) all won by decisions for Wayne.

Preiss edged Northville's Jonny D'Anna, 8-7, in one of the feature matches.
"It was a huge win for us," said Wayne second-year coach Steve Vasiloff, who earned his first home victory on the same floor where his father won during his tenure as Wayne basketball coach. "Last year we won only two matches against Northville. It shows how much we have improved as a team."

"We wrestled great, and surprised some people. In the end, my wrestlers proved something tonight."

Wayne Memorial sinks Vikings on 3-pointer Warriors fall on tip-in at horn Martez Abney has a flair for the dramatic.

The Wayne Memorial junior guard dribbled the length of the floor and drilled a three-point shot at the buzzer to give the Zebras a heartstopping 65-63 boys basketball win Friday night at Walled Lake Central.

Wayne is now 4-3 overall with the Western Lakes Activities Association crossover victory, while the Vikings fall to 3-4.

Senior forward Matt Guldan, who scored a game-high 20 points, gave Central a 63-62 lead with a back-door layup with only five seconds left.

Abney then took the inbound pass and dribbled down the left side before pulling up just beyond the three-point arc for the game-winner.

"Everybody kind of froze, it was nothing but net, it was something," Wayne coach Wayne Woodard said.

Junior guard Mike Lee led the Zebras, who squandered a 10-point fourth-quarter advantage, with 18 points. Abney finished with 15, while junior forward John Hill and sophomore guard Robert Woodson added 11 and 10, respectively.

Senior guard Cody Rzezniak and junior guard John Sheard added 16 and 12, respectively. JOHN GLENN 68, W.L. WESTERN 61: Four players scored in double figures Friday as host Westland John Glenn evened its at 3-3 with a 68-61 with a WLLA crossover win.

Junior Stefan Marken led the victorious Rockets, who led 35-28 at halftime, with a game-high 21 points, including four 3-pointers.

Sophomore Austin Anderson and junior Earl Hardison added 12 each, while senior Jackie Wilson chipped in with 10.

Ricky Arlen led the Warriors (1-6) with 14 points. Quinton Cooper and Edison Bajraj added 12 apiece. All of Cooper's points came during the first half, all on triples.

Glenn made only 11-of-26 free throws (42.3 percent), but hit 8-of-14 in the decisive final period. Western was 3-of-4 from the line.

CANTON 51, STEVENSON 29: In a Western Lakes crossover Friday, the visiting Chiefs (3-4) pulled away in the final quarter to win their third straight against Livonia Stevenson (1-6).

Ryan Waidmann, a 6-foot-7 senior center, led Canton with 11 points. Senior Steve Paye and junior Neil Sharma added 10 apiece.

Stevenson's top scorer, Luke Knochel, was held to seven points. He fouled out with six minutes to go in the game.

The Spartans trailed 23-11 at halftime before cutting it to six in the second half before the Chiefs pulled away with a 20-8 fourth-quarter run.

Canton made 20-of-27 free throws on the night compared with Stevenson's 2-of-7.

"We got muscled around a little bit," Stevenson first-year coach Brad Miller said. "They (Canton) have two very good post players (Waidmann and Paye) and they know what to do inside. We struggled guarding people in the post."

W.L. NORTHERN 68, FRANKLIN 58: Livonia Franklin (2-5) couldn't overcome a 42-23 halftime deficit in a WLLA crossover setback Friday at Walled Lake Northern (3-4).

Ryan Bahnmiller led the victorious Knights, who took advantage of 25 Franklin turnovers, with 17 points. Chris Boggs added 13.

Tyler Canyock had 16 points and five assists to lead the Patriots, who cut the deficit to seven in the second half. Alex Reid chipped in with 15 points and eight rebounds.

"We came out panicky, made unforced errors and I had to burn three timeouts in the first quarter," said Franklin coach Russ Keberly, whose team trailed 23-7. "We'd break their (full-court) press, but then we'd turn it over. We did not go strong to the hoop and missed a ton of shots. We put ourselves in a bad position."

Franklin made 19-of-25 free throws, while Northern was 11-of-18.

Lutheran High Westland lost a buzzer-beater Friday night in its Metro Conference boys basketball opener.

Following a basket by Sam Ahlersmeyer with a minute left, the Warriors held a one-point lead until the waning seconds of regulation when 6-foot-8 senior center Jeremy Simmons scored on a putback to give visiting Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest a 61-60 victory.

Officials huddled following the play and ruled Simmons' shot had been released before the horn sounded.

Senior guard Jeff Beauregard led Northwest (3-3, 0-1) with 22 points. Simmons and sophomore guard Matt Rolf added 13 and 10, respectively.

Senior guards Sean Vandenbrink and Kyle Ramthun led the Warriors (3-3, 0-1) with 18 and 13 points, respectively.

"It was a great high school game, we had a great crowd," Lutheran Westland coach Dan Ramthun said. "We played great defense. I thought we had it."

Northwest was 11-of-20 from the foul line, while the Warriors were 5-of-8.

HAMTRAC 73, CLARENCEVILLE 70: Byron LeFlore, a 5-10 senior guard, scored a game-high 27 points Friday to lead the visiting Cosmos (3-4, 1-0) past host Livonia Clarenceville (0-5, 0-1) in the Metro Conference opener for both teams.

"We executed pretty well offensively," said Clarenceville first-year coach Corey McKendry said. "Hamtramck played scrappy basketball. We played hard, but they made a couple of more plays."

Four Trojan players scored in double figures led by senior guard Brian Davis, who scored 19.

Sophomore center Jeremy Gainer added 17, while junior point-guard Lonnie Fairfax added 14 points and 11 assists. Junior forward DeCarlos McDonald scored 10 before going down with a leg injury with six minutes to play.

The Trojans had two shot attempts in the waning seconds, including a three-point try at the buzzer. Clarenceville was 11-of-18 from the foul line, while Hamtramck was 11-of-13.

FRANKLIN ROAD 55, HURON VALLEY 23: David Mansfield tallied a game-high 20 points Friday as Novi Franklin Road Christian (2-4, 1-0) downed host Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (0-6, 0-1) in a Michigan Independent Athletic Conference-Red Division opener.

Josh Mansfield and Mark Knudsen contributed 11 points apiece for the Warriors, who led 27-14 at intermission before putting it away with a 14-5 third-quarter run.

The cold-shooting Hawks got eight points from sophomore center Kyle Tacca.

Huron Valley shot 14 percent from the floor and 28 percent from the foul line (4-of-14).

Stevenson overcomes Patriots in 4 games

Livonia Stevenson rallied in the fourth game Wednesday to beat visiting Livonia Franklin in a girls volleyball match, 25-21, 20-25, 25-8, 25-22.

"We started a little sluggish, but the girls never gave up," said Stevenson coach Kelly Graham, whose team improved to 4-2-1 overall. "But Franklin played very, very well. They hustled."

Laura Khalil and Hannah Diebel each recorded eight kills for the victorious Spartans.

Amber Sharp chipped in with 25 digs and four ace serves, while Stephanie Labby had 14 digs. Setter Jill Flaughter had 17 assist-to-kills, while Jamie Pounders contributed three blocks.

Senior Liz Dempsey paced the Patriots (3-10-3) with 11 kills, 14 digs and five blocks.

Other Franklin leaders included Jenna Boettcher, nine kills and 13 digs; Brianna Taylor, four kills; and Ashley Price, six blocks.

Setters Cassie LaPrairie and Kelly Powers showed improvement with 14 and 11 assists, respectively.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

"Offensively, we played smart making a conscious effort to do something 'with the ball,'" Franklin coach Linda Jimenez said. "However, as a team, we had too many service errors (15 for 83 percent) and 13 blocking errors. Our outside blockers need to be more aggressive at closing the block."

But despite the loss, the first-year Patriot coach remains upbeat.

"Our transition and team chemistry were very good. I was proud of our competitive attitude, and despite our record, we came to play. I can see us gaining confidence with each match we play."

Chargers falter

In a WLLA crossover Wednesday, visiting Northville, now 13-2 overall, came away with a 25-19, 25-22, 25-9 triumph over state-ranked Livonia Churchill, which slipped to 17-2-1 overall.

Kelly Archer had five kills and 19 digs for the Chargers, while Shari Zakalowski contributed nine kills and seven digs.

Other Churchill leaders included Sarah Suppelsa, two kills, two aces and four digs; Shannon Warner, 15 digs; Jackie Gribeck, two kills and two blocks; and Jordan Kerr, 11 digs.

"The WLLA has gone to a double round-robin in the division and the conference tournament is decided on a Saturday in February," said Churchill coach Mark Grenier, who emptied his bench. "This was a crossover match that afforded us the opportunity to get kids some extensive playing time."

Trojans earn 1st win

First-year coach Wendy Roy gained her first victory Thursday as host Livonia Clarenceville turned back Romulus Summit Academy in three games, 25-5, 25-8, 25-21.

Junior Amanda Moody had seven kills and seven aces for Clarenceville, now 1-6-1 overall.

Amber Mills added four kills and eight aces for the victorious

Trojans. Chelsea Gregg chipped in with six kills.

Warriors triumph

Sophomore Becca Refenes had 12 kills and five solo blocks as Lutheran High Westland opened Metro Conference action Thursday with a 25-18, 27-25, 25-19 win at Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett.

Kayla Gieschen and Julie Jongsma each served eight points for the Warriors, now 8-2-4 overall. Gieschen had two aces and Jongsma contributed six assists.

The Warriors trailed 21-17 in the second game before rallying thanks to a Refenes kill to knot the score at 25-all followed by two service points from junior Mryian Storck, including the game-winning ace.

"I was pleased that we didn't give up and basically stole the game back from them," Lutheran Westland coach Kevin Wade said. "It was nice to see that we were able to play under some pressure and not fold, which will only help us as the season goes along."

Dealing with family 'legacies'

I had written about this a long time ago and realized that it would be worth sharing again. So I offer you an update of something I wrote a few years back.

In the New Year everyone talks about resolutions; people seem to want to change things for the better. Sometimes people focus on what they would like to change about themselves, either behaviors, or attitudes or beliefs. To look at what we want to change about ourselves one of the places which we must look at is our family; we are already recipients of a legacy which we pass on to our children.

Families have a way of passing down over the generations themes, roles, rules, and beliefs. One family therapist notes that we continue these patterns because we remain loyal to them. But, what the family has given to us is not always positive. There may be patterns of physical or sexual abuse, of alcoholism, or of such rules as "Children should be seen and not heard." Inquiry into families demonstrates that often these patterns can be traced over three generations. If you are serious about making changes in yourself, and as a byproduct, developing a positive legacy to pass on to your children, there are three things, which you can do.

Dr. David Olsen, at our sister Samaritan Counseling Center of the Capital Region, Albany, New York, suggests three ideas that I would like to share with you. To make changes in yourself and in the legacy you will leave you must examine the patterns, which you have been given. In contrast to the attitude of "I want it fixed now," this examination not only takes time, to discover what these patterns are, but because they took several generations to evolve, they will take several generations to modify.

You, however, through this examination and changes you implement for yourself, will make a wonderful start. First, Dr. Olsen suggests, construct a family tree that will illustrate, over three generations, who the people were, how they related to others, and what events impacted their lives. Talking to older relatives will help this exploration. In this way you will uncover family patterns, such as "the good child," or the "little man," the overly responsible one.

Learn the rules, which developed about conflict, intimacy, success and what it means, and how adults parent. These rules from the family seep into our marriages. Explore what key triangles you are involved in. As Dr. Olsen says when things get tense in any relationship a third party is brought in. This takes the wind out of the potential conflict; it also suggests that a problem does not get resolved. Such things as talking to children about adult problems, staying late at the office, or drinking too much can be triangles. Try to disengage yourself from them.

Secondly as you gain insight through the above research and exploration start to notice and practice changing those behaviors which are destructive, which cut into the potential of possibilities and relationships. This practice helps everyone to relate more honestly and to realize greater opportunities in terms of what life has to offer.

The third step is to practice these new behaviors around the family from which they came. When you can become nonreactive to comments, stresses, and behaviors which evoke destructive thoughts, feelings or behaviors in you then you are becoming a differentiated person, one who can calmly be him/herself regardless of what is going on; you are able to withstand the subtle pressure to engage in old behaviors.

This change is hard to do; it is hard to be disloyal to these old behaviors. If you do not confront these behaviors in the ways described above then you continue the old patterns. Dr. Olsen says that change comes from exposing yourself to greater levels of anxiety, learning to hold on to who you are and nonreactively forming individual relationships with family members. A coach, or therapist, may be necessary if the going gets really rough. The hopeful legacy, as well as the new year's resolution about change which you can give yourself, is to learn where you came from and gain insight into what is helpful and unhelpful; when you learn this you can go home again.

For the New Year, Dr. Olsen suggests, do three things: 1. Focus on changing yourself, rather than your partners. For example if you normally withdraw emotionally in the relationship, try to state your feelings more often. 2. If you need some assistance look for classes or courses, which are occasionally taught at the Samaritan Counseling Center of SE Michigan, that will help. Maybe engaging a therapist will be useful. 3. Look for a parenting workshop to attend, to enable you to become the best possible parent you can be for your kids. Whatever gift you give yourself in these areas will also be a gift for those whom you love.

Dogs strut their stuff

Visitors to the UKC Midwinter Classic Dog Show are in for a real treat Jan. 19-21, at Rock Financial Showplace in Novi. From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Sunday, more than 800 dogs will be strutting their stuff in the ring, competing in agility trials, terrier racing and flyball, and dancing with their owners during a benched show presented by the United Kennel Club (UKC).

Unlike the American Kennel Club shows at Cobo Hall which require professionals to handle dogs, UKC encourages owners to develop a relationship with their furry family member through training then compete in a variety of categories and events. Established in 1898, the UKC is the largest all-breed performance-dog registry in the world with dogs registered in 50 states and 25 countries.

Tickets are $25 per family, $10 adults, $7 seniors over age 64 and children age 11 and under. For a discount coupon, visit www.ukcdogs.com and click on midwinter show. For

Handbag auction raises money for St. Mary Mercy

Can a woman ever have too many handbags? The organizers of Purse Power hope not.

"Purse Power: Handbags with Heart" aims to bring together a collection of more than 75 purses for a creative charity auction event. The purses, from formal evening bags to hand-crafted totes, will be put up for bid 6-10 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 8, at Laurel Manor in Livonia, to benefit St. Mary Mercy Hospital.

Style icon Stacy London, host of "What Not To Wear" and a fashion correspondent for "Oprah," "Access Hollywood" and "Today," has donated a bag by Noir, with a metal panther detail and a double chain strap.

"It's VERY '70s," the fashion expert said.

Lisa Marie, host and creator of MetroChick radio which airs 8-9 a.m. Wednesdays on 690 AM, has donated a navy alligator Judith Leiber purse with gold accents. She said she was excited to be asked to participate in the auction.

PURSE POWER

When: 6-10 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 8
Where: Laurel Manor Events Center, Livonia
What: An ultra-stylish auction of fabulous handbags donated by local celebrities and retailers
Why: To benefit St. Mary Mercy Cardiovascular and Cancer Services
Tickets: $50 per person; $450 for a table of 10
Call: (734) 655-2759

"I'm all about supporting non-profit organizations and raising money for great causes," Lisa Marie said. "It's a very fun, neat concept and I think it's going to be very successful. I've heard about these handbag auctions in other places, but never around here."

All Purse Power sponsorships, tickets sales and auction proceeds will benefit cancer and cardiovascular services at St. Mary Mercy.

The Livonia hospital is currently constructing a new Heart and Vascular Center, and a new Cancer Center to serve the community with state-of-the-art technology.

"St. Mary Mercy is pleased to present 'Purse Power' in support of advancements in cardiovascular and cancer services for our community," said Richard DeLoof, vice president, St. Mary Mercy Hospital Foundation. "Thanks to those who are supporting this program."

According to DeLoof, heart disease and stroke are the leading causes of death in Michigan, and St. Mary Mercy's expansion will provide leading-edge medical equipment and allow doctors to collaborate for comprehensive patient care. The new facilities are set to open in phases this year.

Purses are currently being sought from local retailers and dignitaries, along with national celebrities. Purse donors receive signage at the charity event, as well as a spot for business cards or brochures. The deadline for purse donations is Jan. 17.

Sponsorship packages, including tickets, signage, promotion on Magic 105.1 and advertising in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, range from $500-$2,500.

Tickets to Purse Power are $50 or $450 for tables of 10. Admission includes hors d'oeuvres, a coffee and dessert bar, and a goodie bag.

A cash bar will feature special martinis created for the Purse Power auction.

Presented by St. Mary Mercy Hospital, Purse Power's presenting sponsors include the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Street Marketing, Magic 105.1, Laurel Manor and Sara Lee.

To donate a purse, contact Wendy Von Buskirk, (734) 953-2019, or Cathy Young, (734) 953-2155, at the Observer & Eccentric Newspaper. For tickets, call the Purse Power Hotline at (734) 655-2759.

For more information on the event, visit www.hometownlife.com and click on "Purse Power," and read more about the event online and in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

For information about the hospital's new facilities, or to make a direct donation, contact the St. Mary Mercy Hospital Foundation, (734) 655-2980 or visit www.stmarymercy.org.

Charity dance to benefit First Step

Brian Duggan presents the 17th annual charity dance and casino night to benefit First Step 7:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Friday, Feb. 9, at Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft, west of Inkster road, Livonia. The nonprofit organization provides services for victims of domestic violence including a shelter that offers a safe haven to women and their children.

The evening begins with hot and cold hor d'oeuvres followed by dessert then pizza later in the evening.

The casino portion of the dance runs from 7:30 p.m. to midnight. Steve King & The Dittilies play music for dancing.

Tickets are $40 and sold only in advance. For more information, call (734) 422-4333.

LOTS TO SEE

"UKC registers close to 400 breeds. You're going to see breeds you won't see at the AKC - Alaskan Klee Kai, Irish red and white setters, Thai Ridgeback, white shepherd," said Michelle Morgan, director of performance events. "There will be dancing with dogs where the owner and dog perform to music, the Michigan-based Rock-N-Roll K-9's with owners and dogs doing juggling and their high energy relay and obstacle competitions (www.rocknrollk9s.com) - and mixed breed. The UKC has always recognized that all dogs should be trained and the more owners can do with their dogs the stronger the bond they'll develop. Since 1994, we've included mixed breed who are neutered or spayed to compete in agility, obedience, weight pull, dog sports, and in some cases terrier racing."

This is the first time Lord Parker of Parkman is competing so Philippa Sahiner is unsure of how he'll perform in the Family Obedience category. Generally, Parker is a little nervous about everything but then his Farmington Hills owner found the boxer-mix frozen to the ground under a bush at Parkman Elementary in Detroit where she teaches. Parker was only nine weeks old. Until finding the puppy, Sahiner had always owned purebred dogs and used to train Dobermans.

"The dog has to lie down and be still while another dog passes by, then they switch over," said Sahiner. "He has to be able to walk on a leash, make about turns, go fast, go slow, left turns, and halt."

"He's 4 years old and this is his first foray into competition. I think it's wonderful they include mixed breeds. Dogs are dogs. I think it's fabulous that people have shows that they can enter and compete. It encourages people to rescue dogs and also get them spayed or neutered."

TIME TO TEACH

Joyce Finney is trying to teach Jofins Takit U, her 8-month-old black and white Shih Tzu, to walk on a leash for the puppy confirmation event. The Plymouth woman has been showing dogs 32 years.

"We've been practicing. He's also going to the AKC show in March," said Finney, president of the Southeastern Michigan Shih Tzu Club. "I'm trying to keep his coat as beautiful as possible. It takes passion not to put him in a puppy cut, to have long flowing hair. It takes about one and one-half hours to wash, blow dry. As he matures, it's two to three hours."

Finney says an UKC show is a great starting place for those serious about showing dogs.

"UKC is kind of laid-back," said Finney. "The whole point system is different, not as formal. A lot of times an AKC show can be a little bit political if the handler is aware of the judges. With the UKC there's not the favoritism for the people. It's just the dog."

Politics aside, Brianna Cook says the UKC benched show is a good place to learn about different breeds of dogs if someone is thinking about purchasing a four-footed friend. Cook is more than happy to talk about the qualities of her golden retriever or the bull terrier she co-owns with breeder Cleo Parker. Cook, a Livonia resident, and her mother Ilene, have bred and shown golden retrievers for 15 years. Asoro's Little Orphan Annie, a golden, will be 2 years old July 24. Nuance Nonchalance, the bull terrier (think Target dog) turns 1 year old on Jan. 18. Both will also compete at Cobo Hall in March.

MANY BREEDS

"If you're thinking about buying a puppy and want to talk the breeders, this is a great place to come as well as Cobo Hall," said Cook, a 24-year-old student at Schoolcraft College. "We have a lot of breeds that AKC doesn't have, some weird breeds you don't even know exist until you go to this show. The UKC show we get to educate the public."

Diana Updike doesn't understand why the AKC fails to recognize her white shepherds. The Livonia woman has been showing the dogs since 1981. She's preparing to bring Royal Von Tazs Pi Swirl (Kyla), age 2, and Royal Spaz Von Tazs (Pebbles), a 3-year-old Grand Champion to the midwinter show.

"I've always loved the look of shepherd," said Updike. "They're always so regal-looking and have that glistening white coat and dark eyes. They're so stunning and versatile from obedience to agility and sheep herding."

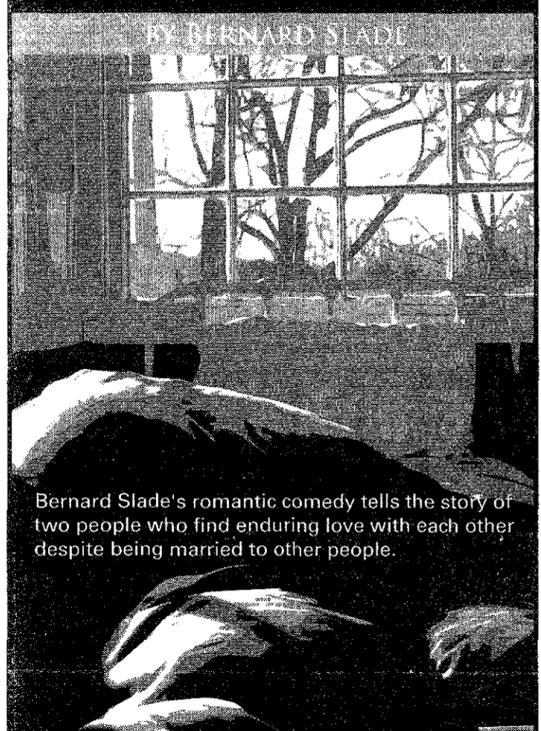

Updike begins training her puppies at about four weeks of age.

"Training is critical for any dog," said Updike. "It gives a dog a chance to enjoy a bond with you and the focus alleviates some of the energy. White German shepherds are highly intelligent with a medium to high drive."

The children and a donkey at St. Timothy Presbyterian Church in Livonia played a very important role in raising money for the Heifer Project.

Church raises money to buy ark

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Pastor Janet Noble Richardson probably would have liked the fact that her life-size donkey stood in the entrance of St. Timothy Presbyterian Church the entire time the congregation was trying to raise money for the Heifer Project. Richardson crafted the beast of burden for the Livonia church's Vacation Bible School before she was killed in an automobile accident on July 11. The Heifer Project was one of her favorite charities because the organization helps poor families around the world care for themselves. The money collected by the nonprofit is used to purchase live animals such as a hive of honey-producing bees or a goat to milk and feed their children. Before her death Richardson had started collecting money to buy an ark — no easy feat since the two cows, camels, oxen, water buffalo, sheep, llamas, goats, donkeys, guinea pigs, pigs, two hives of bees, two trios each of ducks and rabbits, and two flocks each of chicks and geese cost $5,000.

"We raised the money through Sunday School, let it be known through the congregation we were doing this to honor the memory of Pastor Janet," said Linda Houghtby, chairperson of the church's Christian Education Committee for the last six years. "People started donating. On the donkey we hung a sign that read, give me your loose change so I can get on the ark. We had a soup/salad fundraiser luncheon in early December that was very highly successful too."

"It was a combined effort by kids and adults," added Elizabeth Kordt of Plymouth. "The kids helped set tables on the day of the luncheon to raise money."

The fundraising was so successful, the 240-member congregation is half way to purchasing a second ark. The donkey's nose may first have to be repainted. Houghtby said the sniffer is almost white from the children petting him. And it's not like he's going to get a rest any time soon. In addition to lighting up the eyes of children at Vacation Bible School in 2006, the donkey visited four other local churches during their summer programs. In December, the creature was part of the Christmas pageant at St. Timothy and will participate in Palm Sunday services in April as well as this year's Vacation Bible School — Avalanche Ranch, the third week in June.

The pastor of 17 years definitely made an impact on the church, but not just because of her creative talent. Houghtby said Richardson especially related to the smaller members of the church. And they loved her. "One little girl said she had $7 and was going to give to Heifer instead of buying something for herself," said Houghtby.

Restaurant to host Angela Hospice benefit

College Park's newest fine dining establishment, Fleming's Prime Steakhouse & Wine Bar, is hosting a dinner to benefit Angela Hospice of Livonia on Friday, Jan. 26.

Fleming's will present an evening of tastes to entice the senses with a reception beginning at 6 p.m., followed by a seated dinner and wine pairing at 6:30 p.m. Reservations for the event are available for a minimum donation of $50 per person, with 100-percent of the proceeds benefiting Angela Hospice, a local non-profit healthcare organization. "We're thrilled that Fleming's Prime Steakhouse has chosen Angela Hospice as one of its first community partners," said Alice Barringer, development manager at Angela Hospice.

"We're very grateful for their commitment to support local organizations and are happy to welcome them to the area."

The new 200-seat Livonia restaurant, located at 17400 Haggerty, between Six and Seven mile roads, is the first Fleming's to open in Michigan. The nationally acclaimed restaurant offers the best in steakhouse dining including prime meats and chops, fresh fish and poultry, and generous salads and side orders with a sophisticated and unique wine list that features 100 wines served by the glass.

Tickets are limited for the benefit. Reservations may be made by calling (734) 464-7810, ext. 2218 or sending e-mail to abarringer@angela-hospice.net.

Established in 1985, Angela Hospice serves terminally ill patients and their families in Southeast Michigan through its home and inpatient hospice programs for children and adults, and bereavement services provided free-of-charge to the community.

More information about Angela Hospice is available at www.angelahospice.org or by calling (734) 953-6018.

Blood conservation

Measures help prevent infections caused by transfusion

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Long before the University of Michigan Health System and the University of Rochester (N.Y.) released the latest study to link transfusions and an increased risk for infections, area hospitals instituted conservation measures to counter blood loss before, during and after open heart surgery.

While transfusions do save lives, women especially need to take note of the study which may explain why female bypass patients are more likely to die after surgery than men. Published in December's American Heart Journal, the research looked at the entire population of Medicare coronary artery bypass patients (9,218) in Michigan during a period of one year. After taking into account factors such as urgency of surgery, patients who received donor blood transfusions were five times more likely to die within 100 days of surgery. Of those, 9 percent were women, 6 percent men.

"Women were more likely to get a transfusion because of (naturally) lower hemoglobin levels," said Mary Rogers, Ph.D., research director of the Patient Safety Enhancement Program of the U-M Health System. "If you just look at people who used their own blood, they had about the same risk as those who didn't have transfusions."

Research has shown for years that transfusions suppress the immune system. The knowledge has led heart surgeons to initiate a search for alternatives to donor blood transfusions in particular. Pre-donating is just one of the measures a bypass patient can take to avoid donor transfusions. Even though a brief survey of hospitals revealed 70 percent of bypass patients do not require transfusions during surgery, some experts recommend asking questions about the heart surgeon's blood conservation policies beforehand.

Crittenton Hospital Medical Center in Rochester is one of only two Michigan hospitals offering an adult Blood Conservation and Bloodless Medicine and Surgery Program, but many area hospitals have implemented the same strategies.

Mary Rogers, Ph.D.

Even though Crittenton established its program in 2003 to meet the needs of Jehovah's Witness patients (who refuse all types of transfusions), other patients have benefited as well. From the time of registration to post-surgery, blood conservation procedures involve staff throughout the hospital.

Cindy Kinker, a registered nurse and coordinator for the program, evaluates patients, reviewing their history including medications, aspirin or herbs which could cause bleeding. She can suggest options like utilizing a Cell Saver to salvage blood shed during surgery. Prior to surgery, it is possible to draw smaller amounts of blood for lab tests and for physicians to prescribe medications that encourage red blood cell production. During surgery, chief perfusionist Jeralyn Baker uses the latest technology to decrease blood loss during the period when the heart-lung machine takes over a patient's circulation.

"Every patient needs to be viewed as a blood conservation patient," said Sharon Matkosky, a critical care nurse practitioner for cardiovascular patients at Crittenton. "Blood donations are at a minimum and there's always an increased chance for complications."

Dr. Frank Fazzalari says blood conservation is just good practice in most cases. He stresses, however, that "some patients wouldn't survive without blood transfusion. In fact, sometimes blood transfusions help patients recover quicker."

As chief of cardio-thoracic surgery, Crittenton Hospital, and assistant professor of surgery at the University of Michigan Medical School, Fazzalari regularly attends Michigan Society of Thoracic Surgeons meetings to share knowledge about patient outcomes. Fazzalari has never had a patient acquire an infection from a blood transfusion.

The program at Crittenton is a U-M heart surgery program.

"In heart surgery, we try to not waste blood," Fazzalari said. "The thinking on blood conservation has changed. We're doing a lot more things to decrease the need for transfusion. Equipment has changed to improve blood conservation efforts. It's a whole new era, the last 10 years in heart surgery."

Dr. Wei Lau isn't worried about receiving a blood transfusion if he ever needed one.

"We have point of care machines to help us make decisions for transfusion," said Lau, an anesthesiologist and director of adult cardiac anesthesia for the U-M Health System. "In cardiac surgery, there are lots of ways of recycling or recirculating blood."

Dr. Joseph Bassett has observed many advances in technology and surgical techniques over the last 30 years. Chairman of cardiovascular surgery at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Bassett has taken steps such as using the Cell Saver on every case and stopping anti-coagulants that may cause bleeding such as Plavix, aspirin or heparin.

"We have miniaturized pumps that minimize blood loss. On the heart lung machines, tubing is a lot smaller and doesn't break down blood elements," Bassett said. "It's one of the biggest improvements we made. We're doing a study right now that may be published by the end of year."

Dr. Marwan Abouljoud performs liver transplants at Henry Ford Hospital, but has taken an interest in the latest study involving heart bypass patients. A blood conservation protocol is presently being put together for the hospital's surgeons to follow, according to Abouljoud, director of the Henry Ford Transplant Institute in Detroit.

"If we think a patient is healthy enough to donate blood, we have them donate blood before surgery," Abouljoud said. "Before surgery, we put them on iron pills and during surgery use the Cell Saver."

At Oakwood Hospital, a Transfusion Committee used guidelines from the Society of Cardiovascular Anesthesiologists and Society of Thoracic Surgeons to establish a program to decrease transfusions and conserve blood.

"To prevent blood counts from dropping during surgery, we try to prevent hemodilution or giving too much saline or non-blood products that dilute blood and we use a smaller circuit on the bypass machine to decrease hemodilution," said Hoffberger, a D.O. who specializes in cardiovascular-thoracic surgery at Oakwood Hospital. "There are medications to prevent blood loss after surgery. The last step is collecting data. I'm very happy studies keep coming out. Blood conservation is very important. People should know when they go to hospitals their doctors and surgeons are on par with the latest studies. They should inquire about blood transfusion and why they're getting them. Blood conservation is not just for Jehovah's Witnesses anymore. You don't have to be a Jehovah's Witness to benefit from what we've learned from not transfusing. You just can't treat by numbers. Everybody is different."

Green tea cuts risk of disease

Peter's Principles

Peter Nielsen

A new study shows just how powerful the drink could be! Researchers found people who drank five or more cups of green tea daily cut their risk of death from cardiovascular disease by 26 percent! They also found the tea could cut your risk of dying from any disease by up to 16 percent. Experts believe it's the natural antioxidants in the tea that give it such a powerful punch. Antioxidants help your body fight disease and can keep you healthy.

Tracy from Ferndale e-mails saying she is trying to get pregnant. She knows not to drink alcohol when she is pregnant, but she wants to know about while you are trying to get pregnant.

Great question, Tracy! You should avoid alcohol when you are trying to get pregnant. The potential father should also be avoiding alcohol during this period of time as well.

A new study found that women were three times more likely to have a miscarriage if they drank 10 or more alcoholic drinks during the week of conception. When men drank that much alcohol, their partner's risk of miscarriage increased by five times! Experts believe the alcohol makes its way into the semen and may affect conception. It can also cause chromosomal abnormalities in sperm cells.

Why take the risk! If you are hoping to have a baby, act like you are pregnant already, don't drink alcohol and make sure you eat properly and exercise.

If you have a health or fitness question you would like answered in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, e-mail Peter Nielsen through his Web site www.peternielsen.com.

Workshop helps set weight loss goals

If you started January with a bang, but now find your New Year's Resolutions waning, or nowhere in sight, The Community House in Birmingham has a class for you. Lorraine Stefano, a social worker and college instructor, presents, Think Trim - Be Trim - Stay Trim, 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17.

"Most of us get off on the wrong foot. We step on the scale, look at our weight and resolve to go to the gym every day and eat nothing but broccoli and chicken breasts. It isn't real," Stefano says. "Studies show Americans spend $30 billion a year on exercise equipment but the population isn't getting slimmer."

Stefano suggests we set goals based on our current behavior and lifestyle. A new diet, a new piece of exercise equipment, a personal coach - they all work for a little while but not in the long run. Stefano had to look at her current lifestyle, change her thinking and start gradually. She lost 50 pounds and has kept it off for 25 years. Here are some of her tips:

■ Focus on your behavior. It is the only thing you can measure. Setting a goal of losing five pounds a week is laudable, but close to impossible for most people. Set an activity goal, such as walking for 30 minutes, three times a week or plan to cook a low calorie dinner twice a week.

■ Moderation is the key. Studies show people who undertake liquid diets or cabbage diets gain their weight back when they eat regular food. Healthy eating plans can include your favorite foods in smaller portions.

■ Make exercise a priority. If you wait for a magic time to exercise, a magic space to appear on the calendar it won't happen. Instead start gradually with 15 minute walks around the block or exercising with a DVD before work. Check with your doctor before starting. Remember any activity is better than no activity.

■ Set short term goals. Make a goal for a week, not a month or a year. Then set the same goal next week or revise it. You are much more likely to work toward a goal when you can see a target.

■ Resolve to live a healthy lifestyle. Add more fruits, vegetables and whole grains to your diet. Sign up for a new exercise class or create a home gym with a mini trampoline, yoga mat and free weights.

To find out more about healthy New Year's solutions, call The Community House at (248) 644-5832 or register online at www.thecommunityhouse.com. The workshop fee is $24.

DIABETES & ARTHRITIS

The effects of diabetes are far reaching, and include your joints. For example, diabetes causes a neuritis in the feet. The neuropathy causes loss of feeling and impairment in sensing if you are on slippery or uneven ground. Over time, the resulting undue strain on your feet, ankles and knees brings on wear and tear arthritis. Also, you are at risk for falls and the fractures that injury brings on.

By an effect not understood, diabetes can cause adhesive capsulitis of the shoulder. In this condition the capsule of the shoulder joint shrinks making it both painful and difficult to move the joint. The common name - frozen shoulder - describes the problem well.

Diabetes can bring on a thickening of the tissues of the hands. The tendons that cross the palm to reach the fingers becomes surrounded by this dense tissue and you are unable to pull and flex the fingers freely. Physicians call that condition "trigger finger."

Diabetes increases your risk for gout. The kidney controls the body's pool of uric acid, the chemical causing gout. Diabetes impairs this renal regulation allowing the pool of uric acid increase beyond the body's capacity to absorb it; an attack of gout results.

Diabetes can lead to the condition aseptic necrosis. Small blood vessels bring nourishment to the joints particularly the knee and hip. Diabetes in association with cholesterol blocks these vessels, cutting off blood supply to the bone. If closure is complete the bone may die.

For reasons noted above, when a doctor sees you for a joint problem, he immediately inquires if you have a diabetic condition.

Open Letter to all DFCU Financial Member-Owners

Restore Member Trust - It's time for a change in Leadership!

Dear Member-Owners,

DFCU Owners United is pleased to endorse three highly competent DFCU Financial members who are running for the credit union's volunteer board of directors. After fulfilling all the requirements mandated by the credit union's bylaws, Jesse D.L. Brunais, Linda M. Malec and Salvatore Mazzola have been notified by the DFCU Financial Board of Directors Nominating Committee that their names will be included on the ballot for the 2007 Board of Directors election.

Bruce D. Gearns, Ryan M. Hershberger and Ronald K. Seiler, endorsed by DFCU Owners United, also qualified to run for the board election. However, they have since notified DFCU Financial that they wish to have their names withdrawn from the ballot, and will lend their support to BRUNAIS, MALEC and MAZZOLA for the three announced open board positions.

Brunais, Malec & Mazzola pledge that putting members first is their #1 commitment. Each of these candidates has a passion for DFCU Financial Federal Credit Union, and they have expressed their displeasure at the recent attempt to change their credit union to a bank.

"It is no secret that DFCU's recent initiative to become a bank provoked very strong opposition from member-owners of the credit union. Early in 2006, I took the time to learn more about this ill-fated proposal by talking with others, attending informational meetings sponsored by DFCU Owners United, and reading industry related periodicals. The more I learned, the more my personal opposition grew. I now ask the members of DFCU for their vote as a candidate for DFCU's Board of Directors in order to help guide this great institution in an open and transparent manner as governed by the credit union's bylaws and policies."

--- Jesse D.L. Brunais, automotive product design engineer in Powertrain Operations at Ford Motor Company. A member of DFCU Financial since 1981, Brunais is a graduate of Michigan State University with a Master's degree in electronics and computer science from Wayne State University.

"I became re-involved in DFCU during the attempt to convert it into a for-profit bank. During that time, I also listened to members unhappy with other changes that seemed to be trending toward 'just another bank.' I was stunned because, as a cooperative, DFCU operates for the benefit of member-owners and should strive to be 'better than the competition' by returning earnings back to members with better rates on savings, lower rates on loans, and providing exemplary services so that over time, all members benefit. With your vote, I pledge to 'put members first' and to support continuing the great traditions of DFCU, its employees and members." --- Linda M. Malec, human resources associate on the corporate staff at Ford Motor Company's World Headquarters. A member of DFCU Financial for 36 years, Malec served on DFCU's board of directors from 1980 to 2000, including chairperson from 1988 to 1998. Malec holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan.

"In the nine years I have been a member of DFCU, I have come to value the credit union for what it is—an efficient organization of exceptionally competent professionals, committed to serving all its members as owners and not as customers. I first became involved with DFCU Owners United when my confidence in the present Board of Directors was shaken by last year's proposed bank conversion, which was strongly opposed by the membership. In seeking the members' vote for the Board of Directors, I ask DFCU member-owners to support continuing the credit union's traditions of professional service and growth driven by members' needs." --- Salvatore Mazzola, funding analyst in the Treasurer's Office of Ford Motor Company. Mazzola earned his Bachelor of Science degree from Michigan Technological University and a Master of Science degree from the University of Illinois, as well as a Master of Business Administration degree from Wayne State University.

Ballots are expected to be mailed to members in January 2007, in advance of DFCU Financial's Annual Membership Meeting scheduled for February 15, 2007.

At a credit union, it's one member--one vote.
