Weathering economic storm

Budget avoids layoffs, holds on to surplus

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Despite worsening economic problems, Westland Mayor William Wild has proposed a balanced budget that maintains a $2 million surplus, avoids layoffs and protects city services.

"We're still holding our own," he said. "I feel like we're still in good shape — better shape than some surrounding communities."

Cost-cutting measures and an increase in investment revenues have helped offset rising expenses for fuel, utilities, employee health care and repairs to aging city buildings. Even so, city officials expect deepening losses in state-shared dollars, road funds, cable franchise fees and new building revenues.

"Michigan's worsening economy has made balancing the budget a very challenging ordeal," city Finance Director Steven Smith wrote in a two-page budget summary to Wild.

Wild, Smith and Deputy Mayor Courtney Brown responded Wednesday to questions about the proposed $60.8 million general fund budget during a meeting, requested by the Observer, in the mayor's office.

Wild has submitted his budget proposal to the seven-member Westland City Council, which will start a series of public discussions at 5:30 p.m. Monday at City Hall. The first round of talks will include a budget overview and then focus on 18th District Court and three city departments — fire, police and public service.

The council will consider any changes before voting on a spending plan in early June.

trim revenues they share with local communities. During the last six years, that has meant about $8 million less than what was once projected for Westland.

During the budget year that starts July 1, city officials are bracing for potential further cuts in state-shared revenue, possibly as much as $275,000.

"We could absorb it," Wild said, but the $2 million surplus would suffer.

Despite a bleak economy, the new spending plan isn't all gloom and doom for residents, who themselves are struggling to survive amid job losses, increasing expenses and rising foreclosures. Consider why:

• Wild has proposed reducing the garbage-disposal and drain-project taxes, saving the owner of a $100,000 home about $15 a year unless the council decides against it.

— Layoffs would be avoided, meaning that police, fire and other services would be maintained.

— Although some businesses have closed their doors, new companies also have located in Westland. Brown viewed that as an indication that the city is weathering the economic storm as much as possible.

— Water-sewer rates would inch up just 2.7 percent, compared to substantially larger increases in some communities. A typical household that uses 22,000 gallons every two months would see costs increase $20 a year, Smith said. Water-sewer rate hikes would reflect only those increases passed to the city from Detroit and Wayne County.

— Dorsey Street, between Venoy and Merriman in the mostly low-income Norwayne neighborhood, would benefit

7 arrested in major home break-in ring

Livonia police nabbed four men and three women this week in a major home invasion ring that operated at least a half-dozen western Wayne County towns.

Police say the crew was responsible for 20-30 house break-ins in Canton, Westland, Redford, Garden City, Dearborn Heights and Livonia. They mainly stole jewelry and other valuables such as cell phones, cameras, computer equipment and guns.

On Friday, four of the suspects were facing possible weekend arraignments in Westland, police Sgt. Thad Nelson confirmed.

One or more suspects have been linked to seven home invasions from January to early April in Westland, including five in the Merriman-Ann Arbor Trail area and two in the city's south end, Nelson said.

Those on the south side occurred in an area bounded by Wildwood, Wayne, Palmer and Avondale, he said.

Their method of operation was viewed firsthand in Livonia Wednesday at a home on Harrison Street near Joy, thanks to a Livonia police surveillance team, according to Livonia Sgt. Cory Williams.

Those officers had followed the crew for two days after tracking them down due in large part to a woman who described a man with a crew cut and a

Library week promises activities, fun for all

With the search for a new director over, the Westland public library is gearing up for some National Library Week activities that employees promise will offer fun for visitors of all ages.

"We're really excited," said Marilyn Kwik, head of reference/adult services and acting co-director until new Director Cheryl Napsha takes over May 1.

Library employees hope that new and longtime patrons, alike, will buy into this year's theme, Come Together at Your Library.

National Library Week will be April 15-21.

"We're really promoting all these programs to people of all ages. ... We're always interested in bringing more people into the library," Kwik said.

For more information and specific dates and times about the following programs, call the Westland library at (734) 326-6123 or visit its Web site at www.westland.lib.mi.us.

On Sunday, April 15, the library will kick off a week of special programs with a visit from characters from the Rainforest Café.

Patrons are welcome to spend a lazy Sunday afternoon with Matt Watroba from the Detroit public radio program Folks Like Us as he performs an all-ages show of folk music and singing, illustrating this year's theme of Come Together at Your Library.

On the evening of Monday, April 16, library employees say it's time to step up the pace a notch and learn some smooth moves in salsa or hip-hop classes taught by dance instructor and freelance choreographer Lisa Davis-English.

On the evening of Tuesday, April 17, coffee and food will be available at Coffee House & Game Night.

Library employees welcome patrons for a game of Pictionary or some chocolate chip cookies, and patrons are urged to bring their friends and family.

On the afternoon of Wednesday, April 18, children are invited to an interactive story time and puzzle craft program.

Then, National Library Week will come to a close with Family Movie Night on Saturday, April 21, with a showing of the film Eragon, adapted from the hit young adult novel.

In addition to the many programs at the library, there will be a continuous stream of raffles, activities and contests, providing ample opportunity to win some great prizes.

The activities were planned by a committee that included Kwik, Amber Browne, Bernadette Dewyer, Mary Beth Fixler, Anne Prokopchak and Bridget Sturdy.

Alternative fuels

One of the hot topics these days is the use of alternative fuels, especially in the automotive industry. Alternative fuels, as defined by the Energy Policy Act of 1992 (EPA), include ethanol, natural gas, propane, hydrogen, biodiesel, electricity, methanol, and p-series fuels.

Using these alternative fuels in vehicles can generally reduce harmful pollutants and exhaust emissions. In addition, most of these fuels can be domestically produced and derived from renewable sources.

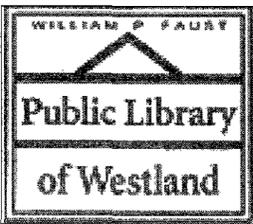

In his 2007 State of the Union Address, President George W. Bush championed energy alternatives. Among his emphases was the potential of biomass - plant materials - to fulfill a greater share of our nation's transportation fuel needs.

One of Bush's latest initiatives is his 20-in-10 plan, which calls for reducing U.S. gasoline consumption by 20 percent in 10 years through boosting alternative-fuel consumption to 35 billion gallons a year from 7 billion gallons now, as well as raising fuel-economy standards.

Using alternative fuels is not a new idea. Electric vehicles have been around since the 1800s, but lost favor in the mid 1900s due to better road conditions, need to travel longer distances and a growing domestic oil/gas industry.

The 1960s and 1970s saw a need for alternative-fueled vehicles to reduce the problems of exhaust emissions from internal combustion engines and to reduce the dependency on imported foreign crude oil. These reasons haven't changed over time and the effect on global warming has become an added incentive to look once again at alternative fuels.

If you're interested in learning more about alternative fuels, the William P. Faust Public Library has resources that might be of interest to you. Some books that might help you sort out the reasons for using these types of fuel include Energy Alternatives: Opposing Viewpoints; Richard Heinberg's The Party's Over: Oil, War and the Fate of Industrial Societies and William Sweet's Kicking the Carbon Habit: Global Warming and The Case for Renewable and Nuclear Energy.

If electric and hybrid cars are of interest to you, check these out: Who Killed the Electric Car? (DVD); Curtis D. Anderson's Electric and Hybrid Cars: A History; Joe Sherman's Charging Ahead and Daniel Sperling's Future Drive: Electric Vehicles and Sustainable Transportation.

Two Web sites to check out for specific information on alternative fuels and the government's energy initiatives are www.eere.energy.gov/afdc/altfuel/altfuels.html and www.nrel.gov/.

The William P. Faust Public Library of Westland is open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday-Saturday and noon-5 p.m. Sunday.

LIVONIA SCHOOL ELECTION

Freeman stands by Legacy plan, wants more teacher development

BY REBECCA JONES
STAFF WRITER

Freeman

Robert Freeman, an engineer and father of two Livonia Public Schools graduates, is seeking a second term on the school board.

Freeman, who volunteers by reading with first-graders and mentoring middle schoolers, said he serves on the board because he wants to give back to the community.

"I love being able to make an impact on kids' lives," said Freeman, 49.

Big issues facing the board include finances and preparing to meet all requirements of the federal No Child Left Behind Act by 2014. To that end, Freeman proposes more professional development for teachers.

In his first term, Freeman voted in favor of a plan to close seven schools and reconfigure grade levels. He and like-minded trustees were targeted for recall in August, but maintained their seats.

Freeman stands by the Legacy decision and said the support he received throughout the recall led him to decide to run again.

As for next year's budget, he said, "we're looking at anywhere between $5 million and $10 million in cuts."

But, he added that music and other upper elementary programs added as a result of the Legacy Initiative are safe.

There were two reasons for the Legacy Initiative, fewer students and fewer finances, Freeman said. Academics was his No. 1 concern throughout the decision-making process, he said.

"We knew that we needed to close schools," he said. "I think we have a better educational model as a result of what we did."

Futrell: Focus on enrollment, communication and finances

BY REBECCA JONES
STAFF WRITER

Futrell

Steve Futrell, a father of four who owns three Livonia businesses, is running for a four-year term on the Livonia Public Schools board.

He said he wants to improve communication, finances and district enrollment.

"The district is in a financial mess," he said, adding that board members have to take the lead in that regard. "I will be that person who asks those questions."

Futrell, 41, formerly served as president of the group Citizens for Livonia's Future, which led a failed recall effort against school board members following their decision to close seven schools and reconfigure grade levels.

Futrell said he doesn't like the new school grade configurations, citing busing and bullying concerns based on sizes of buildings. His children, ages 13, 11, 7 and 5, will all attend different LPS schools next year. However, he said he is not running to undo the Legacy Initiative.

"That's not even up for debate. It is what it is. My issue in getting on the board is, How do we bring children back to the district? How do we establish a plan going forward financially, and understanding what our parents and citizens want as a district?"

LPS should survey families to see if the district can lure private and home schools students, he said. "What is it that they're needing that they're not getting in Livonia Public Schools and why aren't we asking those questions?"

The Legacy Initiative was a symptom of a problem, he said. "It did not solve any of our financial woes."

Current school board members suggest lobbying the state legislature for funding, he said. "At what point do we take a level of responsibility and put together our own plan?" he asked.

Kids bundle up for the big drop

You never know about the weather in Michigan in April.

And so parents had to bundle their youngsters well for the 23rd annual Marshmallow Drop Friday at Nankin Mills Park in Westland.

The event is sponsored by the Wayne County Parks department and gathers youngsters together to watch thousands of marshmallows be dropped from a helicopter. Then, the children - separated by age groups - can pick up one or more marshmallows in their baskets and later turn them in for a treat, with one treat per child.

The event, along with another drop the same morning in Trenton, is put on in cooperation with the Westland Civitans and Trenton Parks & Recreation. Help is also provided by DTE Energy, ITCtransmission, WNIC radio and Morley Candy Makers.

Ready to high-five the Easter bunny is Matthew Wilson, 2, (right), in the arms of mother Ariana. They live in Livonia.

Nicholas Painter, 5, of Garden City picks up a marshmallow.

Bundled up, Abby Watt 3 1/2 of Dearborn waits for the helicopter to arrive.

Bill would let residents place security freeze on credit info

State Rep. Richard LeBlanc, D-Westland, recently voted in support of a plan to fight identity theft by allowing residents to place a security freeze on their credit report. The plan also prohibits a credit-reporting agency from releasing or using information without proper authorization. "As identity theft grows, we must ensure that our laws are keeping pace," said LeBlanc, a reserve police officer with the Canton Police Department. "Identity theft is growing at an alarming pace. This plan gives our consumers the tools they need to keep their personal financial information in a lock-box." The legislation features security provisions, including a personal identification number (PIN) that gives users easy access to their personal and confidential credit information. According to the Identity Theft Resource Center, 10 million people are harmed by identity theft each year. That means about 19 individuals become identity theft victims every minute. According to the U.S. Department of Justice, identity theft has passed drug trafficking as the No. 1 crime in the nation and costs businesses and consumers billions of dollars each year. The bill combats this crime by locking down unsecured access to consumers' credit information, limiting security breaches. The bill also lets consumers freeze all accounts, limiting access to those records through the sole use of the consumers' PIN. The freeze will remain in effect on all accounts through the three official credit reporting agencies until the consumer chooses to lift it. "Identity theft can happen in seconds, but it can take years to recover when your personal information has been stolen," LeBlanc said. "This plan will help our residents maintain control of their personal information, and will protect that information from being compromised by identity thieves. "This is the right thing to do for our consumers."

BUDGET

FROM PAGE A1 from a $550,000 paving project. "I can't remember the last time the city did a road project in Norwayne," Wild said. Residents who use the Mike Modano Ice Arena and Jaycee Park would benefit — or at least their vehicles would — from parking lot repairs. Some services are expected to improve, such as the ability of residents to conduct more city business online, Smith said. In a minor cost-saving measure, council members last month rejected pay raises of 1 percent this year and next for themselves, overriding a decision by the Local Officers Compensation Commission. Moreover, Wild proposed no salary increases for his directors. Those decisions came as the city prepares this year to enter into contract talks with some employee groups. For years, one of the most troubling aspects of financial planning for city officials has been sudden changes in income, such as state-shared revenues. Smith, in his letter to the mayor, warned of potentially deeper problems. "It is apparent the probability of cuts will continue for the foreseeable future," Smith wrote. "In addition to the yearly cut in state-shared revenues, the state is starting to cut other revenue streams the city receives." In conclusion, however, Smith wrote, "While Michigan's economy is still slow to recover, we were able to produce a budget that has met all of the challenges." The hope of city officials is that those challenges don't become substantially greater.

ARRESTS

FROM PAGE A1 vehicle after a break-in last week while she was at her home in the Joy and Middlebelt area, Williams said. The break-in on Harrison happened about 11:15 a.m. Wednesday. There, police watched a woman knock on the front door and then act as a lookout, while a man kicked in the back door. Officers caught him and found assorted jewelry in his pockets — including a woman's watch and ring — valued at about $1,100, according to reports. The other members of the crew were arrested for receiving and concealing stolen property. They were expected to have been arraigned Friday or Saturday. Williams said the group was selling the stolen items to pay for crack cocaine. All the robberies were daytime burglaries, often in quiet neighborhoods where most of the people were at work, Williams said. The crew, all western Wayne County residents, used different vehicles in different cities. "This is going to clean up a lot, a lot of the home invasions and burglaries, and more will come forward," Williams said. He cited the work of Livonia Detective Martin Donnelly and the help of other police departments in breaking the case. Staff writer Darrell Clem contributed to this story. dvarga@hometownlife.com | (734) 953-2119

Michigan at defining moment to get financial house in order

Any company facing disaster must do three things:

- 1) Cut costs to the bone in order to survive.
- 2) Stabilize its financial position to gain breathing room.
- 3) Invest heavily and systematically in whatever distinctive, proprietary and competitive assets it has. The goal has to be to drive sales up and gain market share.

Michigan is no different. We're facing financial disaster. And this state needs to right-size and stabilize itself fast — while figuring out how to become more competitive in the future.

Let's look first at where we stand: State government faces a general fund budget deficit that is now at least $686 million, and which must be resolved in less than six months.

But then a new fiscal year starts — and the total projected shortfall for the 2007-08 fiscal year that will begin Oct. 1 is around $900 million. That's assuming the Single Business Tax that the Legislature voted to repeal as of Dec. 31 is fully replaced. That tax produces around $1.9 billion a year in money the state cannot afford to lose. Yet the Legislature still isn't close to agreeing on any replacement tax, and the clock is ticking.

There's more. For years, the state has been borrowing more than $1 billion every year to paper over the chronic general fund deficit, a shortfall created by unrealistic economic assumptions.

Seven years ago, when we had a healthy "rainy day" fund, we were raking in nearly $140 million from interest income.

Today, the cupboard is bare, and we're spending $85 million a year in interest to finance the deficit. But the shell game is about over. Michigan is at its short-term borrowing limit, so we won't be able to finance our fiscal irresponsibility any longer, at least this year.

What all this means is that we need to launch — right now! — a far-reaching, broadly acceptable package of financial reforms modeled on what any company has to do in order to survive:

1) First, cut costs. Michigan is operating on a structure of government dating back to the 19th century that we simply cannot afford today. The buzz word is "restructure."

What that means is taking a hard look at how government is organized, what it does and how much it costs.

Thanks to the Home Rule Act, adopted in 1909, we have one of the most complex local government systems in the entire nation. We have 83 counties, 1,242 townships, 274 cities with less than 10,000 population, 259 villages and 553 school districts.

And each of those has its own overlapping and duplicating costs, bureaucracies and sources of funding. Do we really need that many school districts and townships? Of course we don't. We should require consolidation and cost sharing for any money the locals get from the state.

Our teachers do, by and large, an OK job. But they're among the highest-paid in the country. And their pension and health care benefits are gold-plated, a legacy of the good old days when we were the world's automaker. Health care alone costs more than $1,200 per pupil, and best estimates are that one in every three dollars of school aid funds will go to pensions and health care by 2018.

The total unfunded liability for state workers' and school district employees' pension and retiree health care benefits is $35 billion.

Workers in the private sector have had pension and health care benefits cut, so why shouldn't public employees share the pain?

2) Once we get serious about cutting costs, we then gain the moral legitimacy to bring the tax system kicking and screaming into the 21st century. In advocating a 2-percent sales tax on services, Gov. Jennifer Granholm got the sequence wrong. She should have started with cutting government costs and only then looked to raise revenue.

Many people — including, very privately, many members of the Legislature — believe we cannot simply cut our way to prosperity. They expect that taxes are going to have to be raised. But it is not simply a question of turning a tap. It will take the Department of Treasury months to work out how to administer and collect whatever tax system the Legislature passes and the governor signs.

Lansing, which will need that money as soon as possible, needs to realize that time is rapidly running out.

3) If we fix the tax system, we have a chance to stabilize our financial position by curing — once and for all — the chronic, structural billion-dollar annual deficit in the general fund. For years, the Legislature and governor have papered over this deficit by a combination of one-time fixes, accounting gimmicks and mid-year budget cuts. Left unresolved, this chronic budget deficit will result in a "fiscal train wreck," according to Tom Clay, the highly respected and semi-retired research director of the Citizens Research Council.

4) If we stabilize our financial position, we can generate the funds required for a sustained investment program to beef up Michigan's durable, distinctive, competitive assets. Those include our colleges and universities; the brains and skills of our people; our environment and the admirable quality of life it brings. Without such an investment program, we'll lose the competition with other states and enjoy chasing Alabama and Mississippi in the race to the bottom.

None of this is rocket science. Indeed, conversations I've had with thousands of Michiganders over the past year leads me to believe this program taps into the core of an emerging consensus of far-reaching reform principles for our state.

But a complete fix will be a complex and long-term matter, and nobody I've talked with thinks it can be enacted thoughtfully or competently by Lansing in the next few months.

What's much more likely in the short-term is that the governor and the Legislature will cobble something together over the next month or two that just barely squeaks us past financial disaster.

But we can and should do some things right now, to start us on the longer-term road for reform. Granholm should re-summon the Emergency Financial Advisory Panel that was so disgracefully ignored after its fir-seeing and intelligent report was released at the end of January. She might add to it a group of the state's most distinguished and powerful business leaders to add financial realism and just plain guts to the discussion.

The governor should also convene a panel of experts to examine the structure and costs of state and local government. One perfect vehicle for that already exists: The Center for Local, State and Urban Policy at the University of Michigan's Ford School of Public Policy.

The hour is late. The full magnitude of the crisis is almost upon us. We're approaching Michigan's defining moment.

And we — all of us — better snap to it, before it's too late.

Who was that? Some names deserve to be remembered

Did you know that Mark Twain's daughter lived in Detroit?

Neither did I. But I stumbled across her name as I was perusing my copy of The Official Who's Who in Michigan for 1936. There she is, on page 74: "Clemens, Clara, (Mrs. Osip Gabrilowitsch). Singer; Actress. ADDRESS — 611 Boston Blvd. W., Detroit, Mich.; b. Elmira, N.Y.; (daughter) Samuel L. Clemens ("Mark Twain") ...

It goes on to note that she played eight leading roles at the Civic Theatre in the 1928-29 season, and was the author of Why be Nervous and My Father Mark Twain.

Oh, and she was an adherent of the "Yoga Philosophy."

I like to rummage through old books on local history. You can find some fascinating facts, like the reference to Clara Clemens.

There are about 1,500 names listed in this Who's Who, each with a brief bio. Interestingly, Henry Ford's bio is three-and-a-half inches long. That's typical, but hardly compares to Dr. Virgil Raymond Drexel Kirkham's bio, which is a whopping nine inches long.

Who? He was an "economic geologist," whatever that is, with the Peters Trust Co., whatever that was. And he must have been pretty important.

In a way, this is a sad book. Of the 1,500 or so people listed in it, I counted out all the ones I recognized: 24, and one them, Mrs. Maurice Keyworth, I only knew of through her husband, who was a great educator. Others still notable, at least to me, were Carl Sandburg, of Harbert; Walter Briggs, Edgar Guest, William Scripps and Homer Ferguson of Detroit; and an assortment of other persons from around the state.

I recognized one of the 20 names from Birmingham — George Averill, editor and publisher of the Birmingham Eccentric — and two of the 12 from Bloomfield Hills, Henry Booth and Eliel Saarinen.

I despise clichés, but nevertheless will resort to one here: Fame is fleeting.

Granted, I'm sure other people going through the list would recognize names that I don't, but does anyone remember Elmer Osum, who was a physician, or Howard Spedding, a photographer in Detroit who was not only included in this volume, but also in Who's Who in Portraiture in America? Or how about Harry S. Toy? He is one who generated some long-lasting recognition somewhere, as he served briefly as a justice of the state Supreme Court. But how many people remember that name today?

As one interested in local history, I hate to see names lost to the past. Everyone who ever lived had an impact on someone else, and in that way, on the world as a whole. With the exception of those who turned on society, child killers perhaps, no one should be forgotten.

I'm in the process of creating biographical files of "significant" (I hate that term, but it will do for now) people from my home town. I have a few thousand already and add about 10 a week. I pore through old newspaper, magazines and books, like The Official Who's Who in Michigan, for new ones to add. In a way, I feel I am reaching into the past and pulling people from the darkness of forgotten obscurity into the light of today.

These people lived and made an important contribution to the world of our community and sometimes to the world as a whole. The above mentioned Mrs.

Keyworth's husband Maurice designed educational programs that were adopted by school districts across the country and even overseas. He was the state superintendent of schools in 1936, was considered a brilliant educator and was respected nationally. He certainly would have earned his own entry into Who's Who, but died in a car accident, probably just as the book was being edited. He deserves to be remembered.

Ever heard of him? You have now.

And that's the point. Greg Kowalski is editor of the Birmingham Eccentric. He can be reached at (248) 901-2570 or by e-mail at gkowalski@hometownlife.com.

Shredder essential tool to destroy documents

I just got done completing my tax return. How long do I need to save my old tax returns and how long should I save financial papers in general?

- J.K.

With regards to your tax returns, the IRS can audit you up to three years after your return has been filed. For example, your 2003 tax return would have been filed by April 15, 2004, unless you filed for an extension. Therefore, the IRS can audit you on that return up until April 15, 2007.

You need to save your tax returns and underlying documentation for a minimum of three years after you file the return. In a great majority of situations, you can destroy your tax returns and supporting documents after three years. The one exception is the IRS can audit you up to seven years after the return has been filed if they suspect fraud.

Therefore, if you have taken any unusual deductions or if there was anything unusual about your tax return, then I would retain that tax information for seven years after the return has been filed.

Money Matters

My general rule on financial statements is to destroy the old statement when new statement arrives. When I receive my March statements, I destroy my February statements. If there are any statements to save, it would be the year-end statement.

I generally destroy checks after I reconcile my bank account, except checks that I need for backup documentation for tax returns. In today's world where so much information is stored digitally on computers, there is very little reason to retain this type of documentation.

When I talk about destroying a document, whether it is a check or old tax returns, I do not mean just throwing it in the garbage. You need to shred the document. A shredder, as far as I am concerned, is an essential appliance. Identity theft is one of the fastest growing white collar crimes in America and although there is nothing that you and I can do to eliminate the risk, we certainly can make it harder on crooks.

I have a large position in DaimlerChrysler stock. It represents approximately 90 percent of my portfolio. I read your column about diversification and I agree that I need to do something. Should I wait until Chrysler is divested from DaimlerChrysler to sell my stock or should I sell it now?

- N.M.

Although there has been much speculation over the last few weeks, it was confirmed at the recent DaimlerChrysler shareholder meeting in Germany that Chrysler is for sale. The problem is we have no idea when the sale will occur or the terms.

Lots of things can happen which can affect the value of the stock both positively and negatively. I believe keeping 90 percent of your portfolio in one stock is far too great of a risk. My recommendation is you begin to reduce your position in DaimlerChrysler stock now.

That doesn't mean you have to sell all the stock at once. You could begin a program of dollar-cost averaging out of DaimlerChrysler. In other words, you may decide to sell 10 percent of your DaimlerChrysler stock now and another 10 percent next month and so on. Just as dollar cost averaging makes sense for people purchasing an investment, it also makes sense when selling. The bottom line is you own too much of Chrysler stock and that you need to diversify. Good luck!

I am 66 years old and consider myself a very conservative investor. I do not need income and I have some cash to invest. I am concerned with taxes and I am considering a CD or an annuity. Which would you recommend?

- Pam

In your situation, I lean towards a fixed annuity. A fixed annuity will give you the same protection as a CD. Fixed annuities in Michigan are guaranteed up to $100,000 just like CDs but in addition, annuities give you the benefit of having money grow tax-deferred.

The fact this money grows tax-deferred will save taxes in two ways. First, since you do not need the income and you are letting it reinvest, that money will grow tax deferred unlike a CD which is subject to income tax. In addition, because you are 66 and are collecting Social Security, you may find because you are letting money in the annuity grow tax deferred, your Social Security is subject to less income taxes.

Unfortunately, not all annuities are the same. I would recommend a traditional-fixed annuity or an equity-indexed annuity. In a traditional-fixed annuity, you get a guaranteed rate of return. In an equity-indexed annuity, you also get a guaranteed rate of return, typically a little lower than the fixed annuity, however, if the stock market does well, you get additional earnings based on the growth in a broad market index such as the S&P 500 Index. In the equity-indexed, just like the fixed annuity, you can't lose money. If you do not need the money for a number of years, the equity-indexed annuity is the way to go.

Not all equity-indexed annuities are the same. I like the no-load variety which just like in mutual funds, means more money ends up in your pocket where it belongs.

Annuities, unlike mutual funds, require you to use an agent. A local company that handles no-load annuities is Hutton Financial, (800) 870-4444.

ALTERNATIVES
The best treatment for a worn out knee or shoulder is joint replacement. However, this solution may not be appropriate if you suffer from advanced lung or heart disease, are under treatment for cancer with chemotherapy, or are experiencing a neurologic problem such as advancing Parkinson's Disease, to name a few of the conditions that would preclude joint replacement.

If joint surgery is out of the question, what are your alternatives? Medication to relieve pain helps. You could continue with Tylenol, ibuprofen, and possibly small amounts of codeine-like drugs. Another option is periodic joint aspiration and injection.

The common view is that you should undergo only a limited number of injections a year for the shoulder or knee. Some people say three injections a year, others say no more than five. The fact is that the medical profession has never established a single number that is good or bad. Any number you hear is without scientific basis.

What is important is that your knee or shoulder is as free from pain as is reasonable, and that you are able to care for yourself and exercise as needed for your health. Experience with injections will determine the number of injections appropriate for you; it may even mean one a month.

A schedule for joint injections that is best for you, is an example of the medical motto: If the standard is not practical, the practical becomes standard.

League merger plan between WLAA, KVC ready

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

A merger between the Western Lakes Activities Association and the Kensington Valley Conference appears all but a done deal for the 2008-09 school year.

The merger will also include two Waterford schools, Mott and Kettering, from the Oakland Activities Association.

The conference, yet to be named, will feature 24 schools divided into four six-team divisions based on geographic locations.

"I'm confident in saying things are close," said Lakeland athletic director Greg Michaels, who has helped spearhead the merger effort. "Things are positive and we just have to tie up some loose ends as far as drafting a resolution, as well as putting a constitution and the by-laws together."

Michaels said that one major hurdle was cleared last week when principals from the Western Lakes unanimously voted to accept being part of the merger.

The two leagues will have a follow-up meeting to discuss scheduling issues, by-laws and a constitution on April 26.

"The only reason we could not put it in writing is because it has to be approved by the boards in Pinckney and Howell, but it's my understanding both

Area girls golf teams focused on more success

See capsule outlook of area girls golf teams, B4.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

With eight of the area's top 12 players returning this season, three area girls golf teams will have plenty to say this season at the statewide level.

Livonia Ladywood, Livonia Stevenson and Livonia Churchill should all make plenty of noise in 2007.

Ladywood returns four of its top six players off last year's team, which finished runner-up in the Catholic League, second in the regional and sixth in the Division II state finals. The Blazers are led by senior Andrea Warzyniec, the Catholic League runner-up and third-place finisher at the regional. She was 11th in the state tournament held at Grand Valley State's The Meadows.

First-team All-Observer picks Angela Jamrog and Erica Mazur also are back along with second-team All-Observer choice Kelly Thomas.

"Our young ladies have the talent to be state champions, but as we all know, it takes more than talent to win a state championship," said Ladywood coach Kelliann Nagy, whose team finished 6-1 in the Catholic League. "Our focus this year is to work hard and put together all of the elements that it takes to be a champion, one step at a time."

"We have our team goals as well as each player having their own goals and together, one day at a time. We will tackle all of them, and in the end, we hope to attain all of our goals."

Livonia Stevenson just missed making the Division I state tournament a year ago, finishing six strokes behind third-place finisher Saline en route to a fourth at the regional.

The Spartans, however, enjoyed a stellar regular season, going 11-1 overall and winning the Western Lakes Activities Association crown.

PREVIEW

The Spartans are led by senior Chelsea Bathurst, who earned WLAA medalist honors along with a seventh at the regional.

She is joined by a pair of second-team All-Area performers, Abbey Wolfe and Chrissy McHenry, both seniors.

"Our ultimate goal is to make it to states as a team and repeat as conference champion," Stevenson second-year coach Jason Delo said.

Nobody can underestimate Livonia Churchill, which finished 8-3 in dual meets and took third in the WLAA tourney. The Chargers, fifth in last year's regional, are led by Michigan's premier prep female golfer, junior Shannon Warner, who earned the state title as a sophomore shooting 67-69 last June at Forest Akers (East Course) in East Lansing. The Chargers, despite the loss of second-team All-Area pick Ashley Bint, hope to contend as well for postseason honors.

"Our team goals are to win the conference and make the state tournament," Churchill coach Gary Harper said. "We believe this team has the potential to compete hard and accomplish these goals."

"We have some new players on the team this year that have some great potential. I'm excited to see them develop throughout the season."

Improvement is the key word this spring for Livonia Franklin, Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial.

Franklin returns four starters for new coach Brian McCalister, led by All-Division honoree Mariel Meyers, a senior.

Westland John Glenn, 6-8 last year in dual meets, returns its entire cast.

Wayne Memorial, winless in the WLAA a year ago, already has a victory (over Taylor Truman) in 2007 for new coach Lee VanValkenburgh, who takes over for Dennis Chall.

This haul catches walleye anglers by surprise

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

It was far from beginners luck.

That's because Greg Sultana, Ron Barry and Scott Delano are all experienced anglers when it comes to catching walleye.

But in the Downriver Walleye Federation's first tournament of 2007 season last Sunday, this big haul took the three by surprise.

In the waters off Great Lakes Steel Co. in the Wyandotte area on the Detroit River between the U.S. and Canadian side, the trio, along with Barry's 7-year-old son Andrew, won the tournament with impressive five-catch weight total of 39.08 pounds, 10 pounds better than the runner-up team.

What made the win even more special was that three of the five walleye all weighed in the 10-pound range.

"It's pretty rare to get that many 10-pound fish in the boat in one day, it's not that common," said Barry, a food service manager who lives in Livonia.

Barry should know a thing or two because he works charters for Michigan Walleye Adventures as a guide for Tom Dennenwith, who won the FLW League event the night before on the Detroit River.

Urged on by his son Andrew to enter, Ron Barry paid the $15 tournament entry fee and hopped aboard Delano's Stratus watercraft, which was sold to him by pro guide Jim Barta.

Fishing started promptly at 7:30 a.m.

And it didn't take long for the foursome to hit quickly.

Using both five-eighths and three-quarter ounce jigs attached with a 4-inch rubber Wyandotte Wonder Worm called the Tattle Tale, the crew got hot on the Canadian side, as Sultana hooked 10.5-pounder followed by another that weighed 9.6.

"We had five bites in a flurry, we stayed in the spot for two hours," Barry said.

Sultana, a technologist for Ford Motor Co. who also lives in Livonia, couldn't believe it happened within the first hour despite a nasty wind school districts are on board and ready to go," Michaels said. The proposed set-up would include a division with all schools from the 12-school WLAA including Livonia Churchill, Livonia Franklin, Canton, Plymouth, Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial. The next division would merge three schools each from the WLAA and KVC including Livonia Stevenson, Salem and Northville, along with Novi, South Lyon and South Lyon East (which opens in the fall of 2007). Yet another division will consist of schools along the M-59 corridor - Walled Lake Western, Central and Northern, all from the WLAA; White Lake Lakeland of the KVC; and both Mott and Kettering from the OAA. The fourth division will include all schools that are current members of the KVC - Brighton, Hartland, Pinckney, Milford and Howell, along with Howell Parker (set to open next fall as well). Concerns about rising transportation costs caused both leagues to look at ways to maximize scheduling concerns, as well as accommodating new sports such as lacrosse, bowling, figure skating, etc. . . . "We don't have any fall schedules set yet (for 2008-09), but we now can certainly get more creative now," Michaels said. The Lakeland A.D. said he also hopes the new league can address the gender equity issue following Monday's decision by the U.S. Supreme Court, which upheld a lower federal court decision to switch girls basketball to the winter and girls volleyball to the fall. Also affected was both boys and girls golf and tennis, which is being flipped between the spring and fall. "There's a lot ahead," Michaels said. "As far as scheduling girls basketball, we're looking at three different scenarios and seeking a consensus in 2008-09. But this (merger) was a natural because we both (the KVC and WLAA) share the same philosophies." Michaels is pleased the way the divisions have been set up geographically. "Those schools in our division are all 11 miles within each other and it benefits us the most distance-wise," he said. "The Waterford schools have been in the mix unofficially all along. "After the three Farmington schools (Harrison, North and Farmington of the OAA) said no to our invitation last fall, we got a letter of inquiry about joining awhile back from Tim Domke when he was A.D. We've always had a close working relationship with Mike Butterfield (at Mott) because they're right in our back yard."

Belle Tire rules USA Hockey's 16-and-under Nationals

BY BRAD EMONS
 STAFF WRITER

Kyle Krug, who coached Hobey Baker Award winners Kip Miller (Michigan State) and Brian Holzinger (Bowling Green), knows a thing or two about hockey talent. And the Livonia resident put it to good use last weekend as he guided Belle Tire's AAA Minor Midget team, which captured the USA Hockey 16-and-under National Championship Sunday at Great Lakes Sports City in Fraser. Belle Tire, which finished 61-7-6 on the year and took third in the Midwest Elite Hockey League, reached the national tourney by defeating Little Caesars, 4-1, in the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association championship game played last month at the Taylor SportsPlex. In the National Tournament, which opened March 28, Belle Tire earned a 3-2 overtime win over Shattuck St. Mary's (Minn.). Krug's team capped a six-game tournament run by beating the same Shattuck St. Mary's team in the championship, 2-1, as Westland's Tyler Brown (Livonia Churchill High) scored the game-winning goal in the second period, while Trenton's Jordan Miller added the other goal. In between, Belle Tire defeated New Jersey (3-1), Team Wisconsin (4-3 in double-overtime), Little Caesars (3-1) and TPH Thunder Attack of Atlanta, Ga. (6-0). "We played really consistent, we just keep coming at you with all four lines," Krug said. "This team has been together for two years. We added seven new guys this year." Goaltender Joe Rogers of Port Huron, who started five of the six tourney games, was in the nets for the final. Rogers' story is unique and has been chronicled recently. He plays with just one hand due to a birth defect. Belle Tire's defense is anchored by Krug's son Torey, who attends Churchill; Micki Mihailovich, a student at Westland John Glenn High; Chris Leone, Dearborn Heights; Kevin Albers and P.J.

Klebba, both of Lake Orion; Beau Schmitz, Howell; and Kyle Verdino, Trenton (via Phoenix, Ariz.). Schmitz was the second pick overall in the Ontario Hockey League Draft by the Windsor Spitfires, but Krug said he is expected to play next year for the USA Hockey's Under-17 National Development Team. Verdino, meanwhile, was drafted by the Kelowna (B.C.) Rockets of the Western Hockey League. Southgate's Matt Boley is Rogers' backup in goal. Joining Brown and Miller on the forward lines are Trenton's Kevin Bechard and Brad Smith (committed to Ohio State); Zach Golembiewski, St. Clair; Doug Clifford, Woodhaven; Mac Olson, Grosse Pointe; Travis Lynch, Milford; Monroe's R.J. Mahalak and Blake Coleman (via Dallas, Tex.); Zach Rourke, Lake Orion; and Travis Lynch, Milford. Krug is assisted on the bench by coaches Mike McLean, Rob Smith and Randy Sedlak.

 and fog. "It was unreal, it was a great start to the year," he said. "I just entered the club. I fished a number of events in the Michigan-Ontario Muskie Club. "This is tough competition. There are a lot of good fishermen down there." Things eventually quieted down and as the 3:30 p.m. tournament deadline approached, Delano's Stratus moved over to the U.S. side. They also switched earlier from a brown-colored worm to a bright green one with a garlic scent (purchased at Cabela's). And despite having 32 pounds already in the boat, the group figured it was already a productive day even though they didn't know where they stood overall. "I said to myself, 'Let's head in and have a beer,' but they were real determined," Sultana, who four years ago hauled in a walleye that weighed 14 pounds, 5 ounces. "They wanted to fish like maniacs. It was awesome." With just five minutes to spare from the cut-off in 13 feet of water, Delano (of Allen Park) reeled in another walleye that weighed in 9.8 pounds. "We had one heck of a time out there," Barry said. "I told my son, 'This is lot different than going out for just pleasure. Being in a tourney is a whole different ballgame.'" The group's catch of 39.08 pounds was not a record compare with last year's 43-pound total, but it was nothing to sneeze at. "Most people would be happy to put one of the three on the wall, Barry said. "It was one of the best days I've had on the water. "It rates right up there."

Lousy weather puts MU schedule on hold

With snow, brutal cold and wind continuing through the Midwest, all weekend Madonna University baseball and softball games have been cancelled with no make-up dates announced. The Crusaders baseball team edged Indiana Wesleyan 6-5 on Tuesday, to improve to 14-11 overall and 2-4 in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference. But Wednesday's doubleheader at Aquinas was rained out and games Thursday at Indiana Northwest and Friday-Saturday at St. Xavier were cancelled due to cold weather and a forecast of snow. On the plus side, Madonna announced a doubleheader at Eastern Michigan University 3 p.m. Wednesday, April 25. Although the Crusaders are scheduled to host Rochester at 1 p.m. Tuesday and Concordia at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Iltich Ballpark, there is no guarantee those games will be played, either. The early forecast for mid-week calls for a mix of snow and rain. As for the MU softball team, things weren't any better. Because of cold, wintery weather in Grand Rapids and the Chicago area, Thursday's doubleheader at Aquinas was postponed and the weekend tourney at St. Francis cancelled. The Crusaders (16-9, 3-1) will host Concordia at 4 p.m. Tuesday in a doubleheader, again, weather permitting. Meanwhile, Madonna's golf team is competing Monday in the Siena Heights Invitational, rather than the originally scheduled Saturday date. The tournament also is being moved to Lenawee Country Club in Adrian.

McQueen, Sillanpaa lift Trojans to another win

Livonia Clarenceville's softball team goes into spring break with a 2-3 record thanks to its second straight improbable come-from-behind victory.
 The Trojans, who rallied for eight runs in top of the ninth inning Monday after trailing 10-3 for an 11-10 triumph over Westland John Glenn, did it again on Wednesday against Inkster.

Clarenceville trailed 11-3 entering the bottom of the sixth against the Vikings, but rallied for eight runs to tie and added the game-winner in the seventh for a 12-11 victory.

"We could have lost this game by laying down, but our girls decided to play a little in the sixth," Clarenceville coach Joe DeCaire said. "Despite the snow and the (low) temperature, we go the win."

Sophomore Charmaine McQueen's 3-run triple keyed the eight-run comeback in the sixth. The Trojans took advantage of five Inkster walks and added three hits to deadlock the game at 11-11.

And after Inkster stranded a runner in the top of the seventh, the Trojans earn the victory as McQueen had a lead-off single, stole second and took third on a passed ball. That set the stage for junior left fielder Samantha Sillanpaa, who collected her second hit of the game to bring McQueen home with the game-winner.

Abby Sochacki, the winning pitcher in relief, had two hits along with McQueen and Sillanpaa.

Junior Danielle Maples, the starting pitcher, lasted two innings before giving way to Sochacki, who earned her second win of the year. In five innings, Sochacki allowed four runs on two hits. She walked seven and struck out five.

"McQueen and Sillanpaa really stepped it up, and Abby kept us in it," DeCaire said. "Inkster really came to play and we had trouble matching their energy."

Clarenceville returns to action 4:30 p.m. Monday, April 16 at Lutheran High Westland in the Metro Conference opener for both teams.

Mazur bolsters C'ville to victory

Livonia Clarenceville earned its second baseball victory of the season Wednesday with a 10-3 triumph at home over Inkster.

The Trojans, who went winless in 19 games a year ago, are now 2-3 overall. The loss drops Inkster to 2-2.

PREP BASEBALL Allen Mazur was stellar both on the mound and with the bat to lead Clarenceville. He pitched all seven innings, allowing just two hits and two walks, while fanning 15. Offensively, Mazur went 3-for-3 with a run batted in.

Other standouts for the Trojans included Nick Garant, 2-for-2, with two RBI and four stolen bases; Paul Wilcox, 2-for-4 with a double and two RBI; and Andrew Abbott, 1-for-3 with two RBI.

Focus on desires gets results

My brother and sisters were teenagers when I was born. There was no sibling rivalry with such a wide age gap, at least not on my part. I enjoyed their attention.

My sister, Nancy, who was the baby of the family until I showed up, surprised me on my 21st birthday when she said, "I finally forgive you for being born."

My oldest sister, reminiscing, gave me a compliment. She said, "Even when you were in elementary school, you were a centered person. It even showed in the poster you had hanging in your bedroom." She couldn't be talking about the David Cassidy and Bobby Sherman posters.

Marilyn Suttle

When those came down, I filled my walls with posters of chimpanzees, my favorite animal after seeing the movie, Planet of the Apes. That movie sparked a huge interest in communicating with real apes. It was the focus of my ninth-grade term paper. I learned about sign language being taught to gorillas and clicking sounds being used to communicate with dolphins. I read everything the library had to offer, and everybody in the family knew it was my favorite topic of conversation.

The biggest poster in my room, was a chimpanzee sitting in a flower pot with a big flower hat on its head. My sister said, "You always seem to live by the caption on that poster." I didn't remember a caption. "Bloom where you are planted," she said.

Could it be that those words had somehow stuck with me? They didn't seem to be there when I was wilting after several years as an information systems consultant in the 1980s. I hated my job.

There were no blooms where I was planted, but there was a small bud of hope that held the potential for changing my path to follow my desires. Soon, I blossomed as a pregnant lady and in three years time, produced two little offshoots, and started following my passion the way I did as a kid.

This time, it was communication with humans — especially the way people communicate with themselves. It's what helped me cope when my kids reached that "you can't make me," stage. It's what helped me be supportive when my husband said, "I know I'm 40, but I want to start a rock and roll band, and practice in our basement."

Recently, I spent five powerful days with Jack Canfield, on the assisting staff, at his Advanced Success training in California. Much time was spent on visualizing successes, feeling the feelings you'd have if you had already achieved those successes, and getting your actions in alignment with desires. During an exercise, I kept thinking about Michigan.

Right now, our economy is ranked near the bottom. What used to work, is no longer working. The car companies are scrambling to figure out what to do. People are worrying about job security and whether their kids will have jobs here when they graduate. Business meetings are filled with people announcing, "I'm moving away," and others saying, "I'm so tired of going to going-away parties."

I started visualizing and asking myself, "How can Michigan transition into a successful thriving state?" And what about you? How can you transition from where you are to where you want to be? Success comes quickly when you focus on the opportunities that your current situation holds. I can be more productive by focusing on my desire for a thriving state, than focusing on my fears and losses. Inspired action comes from desire, not fear.

Yet, transition can ruffle your feathers. It's scary if you focus on what's bad about the change, but transition can be exciting and filled with the buds of possibility.

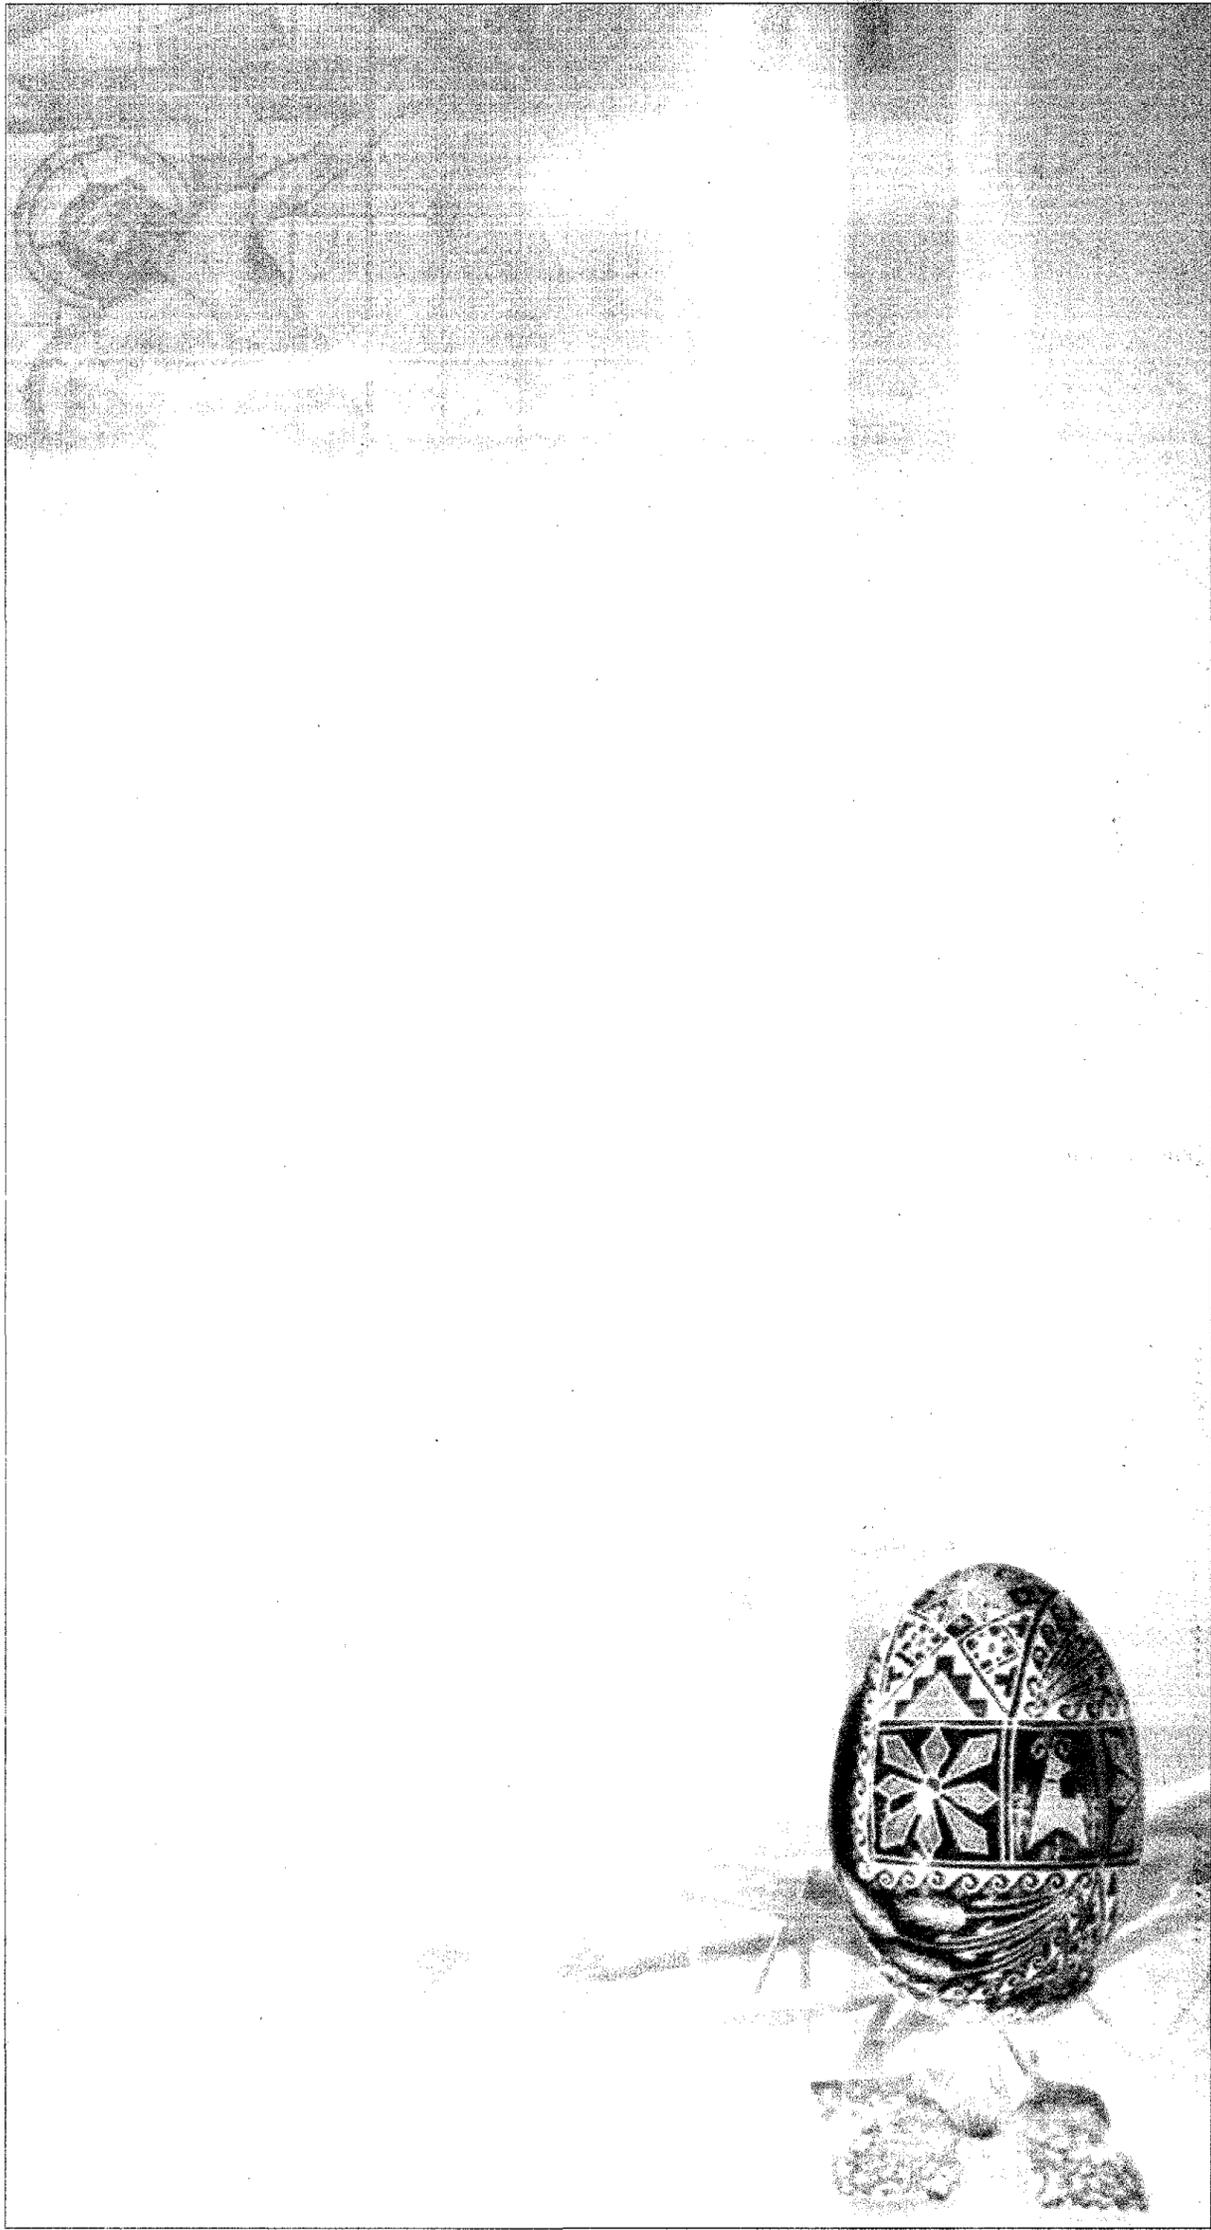

The leaders and residents who envision Michigan as it can become, and follow that desire, are the best champions for success. How can you be a champion for your successes?

Read the following questions to help you uncover the thoughts and actions you need to bloom where you are planted: If you knew for certain that you would succeed, what dream would you go after? What did you want to do when you were a kid that still lights you up now? What opportunities exist in one of your current difficulties? What action can you take now, so your desire can lead to future successes?

I met a woman at a party. She had a high power career before having kids and now is living her passion of being a full-time mom. She shared that someday, when her kids are older, she'd like to produce a show involving her love of exotic animals. "It's a dream I have to put on a shelf for now," she said.

I asked her, "What could you do now, that would help you be more prepared to achieve your dream when the time is right?" In a gush of excitement she realized that now would be a wonderful time to learn some of the things she might need to learn, read the books she might need to read, and develop relationships with the people who she might need to know. I wonder if, one of her future shows will feature apes.

Orchestra to perform lighter side of Shostakovich

West Bloomfield pianist Pauline Martin performs with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra.

Volodymyr Shesiuik is always trying to come up with a signature sound so when the Livonia Symphony music committee was selecting programs for the 2006-07 season Dmitri Shostakovich came to mind.

Shades of Shostakovich introduces the audience to the lighter side of the Russian composer 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 14, in the fifth concert of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra series at Clarenceville High School in Livonia. Shostakovich's music is often referred to as dissonant. His Symphony No. 9, Ballet Suite No. 3, First Piano Concerto, Romance (from Gadfly), and Waltz II (Jazz Suite No. 2) demonstrate his witty, spirited nature.

Tickets are $17, $5 child/student, and available at Livonia libraries and at the door. For more information, visit www.livoniasymphony.com or call the hotline at (734) 421-1111. The concert is sponsored by the Livonia Town Hall.

"It's a little different program with Symphony No. 9. Not many orchestras play this. It was written after World War II. It's so personal for me," said Shesiuik who like Shostakovich lived under Soviet rule — Shostakovich in St. Petersburg, Shesiuik in Ukraine.

"We also have nice surprises with Pauline Martin performing (Shostakovich's) concerto for Matt Michaels of Southfield is one of the dueling pianists performing in a benefit concert for the Michigan Jazz Festival.

Dueling for dollars

Pianists to raise money for free jazz festival

Pianists Matt Michaels and Cliff Monear duel each other on Steinway Grand pianos 3 p.m. Sunday, April 15, in the VisTaTech Center at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, between Six Mile and Seven Mile, Livonia. They will follow the format used on Public Radio's Marian McPartland Piano Jazz program.

The concert will be totally improvisational and unrehearsed. In between dueling, the pianists will discuss the tunes they play, the composers, and different ways jazz allows the freedom to never play a piece the same way twice. They will each solo and may play duets on the same or separate pianos.

Tickets are $15 and available at the door or by calling (248) 474-2720.

Proceeds go toward producing the 13th annual Michigan Jazz Festival scheduled for Sunday, July 15, at Schoolcraft College.

piano, strings and trumpet." Martin has been a guest artist with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra a couple of times in the past. The West Bloomfield pianist earned a doctorate of musical arts at the University of Michigan School of Music.

In addition to appearing as a soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, New American Chamber Orchestra, Florida West Coast Symphony, and Orchestra London (Canada), Martin performs with Detroit Chamber Winds & Strings. In 1989 she founded the St. Clair Trio whose CD, Hobson's Choice, received a first round Grammy nomination in 1996. Martin currently teaches at Oakland University in Rochester. She also serves as artistic director of the Pro Mozart Society of Greater Detroit.

"Shostakovich's First Concerto features prominently the trumpet so it's really interesting scoring," said Martin.

"People have a tendency to think of Shostakovich as less accessible. The more one hears his music you recognize, at least in my opinion, he's the most expressive composer we might have found in the 20th century. Shostakovich puts in his score a huge range of emotion with an economy of means. The slow movement is absolutely beautiful. There's a lot of humor in his work. His music is more and more gaining popularity."

Clarenceville High School is at 20155 Middlebelt, south of Eight Mile.

Reliefs by Redford sculptor inspires dance

The Detroit Dance Collective is premiering new works by Barbara Selinger and Paula Kramer which features the art of internationally recognized painters Jo Powers and Mel Rosas, and sculptor Sergio De Giusti of Redford.

The Michigan Trilogy II Concert takes place 8 p.m. Friday, April 20, at the Ford Community & Performing Arts Center, 15801 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn.

Tickets are $22, $18 students and seniors, $15 for individuals in groups of 10 or more.

Call (313) 943-2354 or order online at www.dearbornfordcenter.com, or download a form at www.detroitdancecollective.org then mail in your ticket order.

Selinger, DDC's artistic director and a Farmington Hills resident, choreographed Moments of Revelation which was inspired by De Giusti's thought provoking bas reliefs of shrouded figures.

The piece opens the program with breathtaking images of mysterious veiled figures that emerge from within, followed by a dynamic trio who are bonded together by long bands that stretch across the stage. A sensuous duet and mesmerizing finale complete the dance. The work is performed to the music of Christos Hatzis.

Selinger also presents The Line Between which was inspired by a painting of Rosas whose dreamlike landscape divides the real world from the imaginative. Through the use of video projections Rosas' painting is exposed layer by layer as the artist created it.

Choreography by Paula Kramer, DDC's founder and former co-artistic director, includes Up for the Count inspired by Powers' paintings. Kramer created this solo work for Selinger to music by Kenji Bunch.

Even before the birds start to sing on Easter Sunday morning, Volodymyr and Luba Shesiuk head for church to celebrate the Resurrection at Mass. It's a tradition the Garden City couple brought with them from Ukraine in 1991.

Afterwards, they'll gather their two adult daughters, son-in-law and friends around the kitchen table for a breakfast shared only on this festive Christian occasion. Over the years, different ethnic groups have observed Easter Sunday in a variety of ways, but church services and food remain at the heart of rejoicing over Jesus rising from the dead after his crucifixion.

"Luba is preparing very special bread. It smells so nice in the house. It's a very long preparation for this," said Volodymyr Shesiuk, conductor of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra. "Around 5 a.m. we go to church then have a very special breakfast with eggs, paska (sweet bread with raisins), kielbasa (sausage). At Easter time everything tastes so good."

POLISH EASTER

Sister Nancy Jamroz grew up in a Polish family who celebrated the entire week from Palm Sunday to Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Holy Saturday, and Easter. Today as a Felician nun, Sister Jamroz follows similar observances.

"On Holy Thursday for Catholics the evening Mass is the Last Supper and celebration of the institution of the priesthood preceded by a supper or agape from Latin meaning love feast," said Sister Jamroz, vice president for student services at Madonna University in Livonia. "On Good Friday, many Polish people spend all three hours in church. Besides the Stations of the Cross, Polish people have special prayers called lamentations. If you talk to any Polish about Gorzkie Zale they will know."

Earlier in the week or on Good Friday afternoon, Sister Jamroz' family colored eggs in preparation for Swieconka, the Easter Roman Seniuk combines traditional designs with his compositions in these Ukrainian pysanky. Seniuk demonstrates the art 1-5 p.m. Sunday, April 15, at the Scarab Club.

ITALIAN EASTER

Quinto Milito left Italy in 1959 but brought the tradition of the Easter feast with him to America. On Easter morning the Livonia man will go to church before gathering for a "huge family dinner."

Two weeks later, the artistic director of the Friends of the Opera of Michigan, presents the nonprofit's annual Easter concert 4:30 p.m. Sunday, April 22, at St. Priscilla Church, 19120 Purlingbrook, Livonia. For details about the concert featuring Theodore Dubois' 'The Seven Last Words of Christ,' call (313) 582-0997, or (248) 476-4700.

feast. On Holy Saturday, Polish and Ukrainian families traditionally take their Easter baskets filled with paska bread, sausage, salt, butter, and eggs to church to be blessed. At the Felician Motherhouse, a priest comes to bless the food eaten by the nuns.

"We have eight tables with breads made into rabbits and Easter baskets, a table with meats including Polish sausage, dairy products with butter lams, another with desserts including candy and bunny cakes, another table with fruits," said Sister Jamroz. "There is a special blessing for each of the foods."

"On Sunday morning at 6 a.m. is a Polish tradition of the Resurrection Mass. Children wear new Easter clothes and carry lilies in procession, and either have a cross without the body of Jesus draped with white cloths, or the resurrected Jesus. Afterward all the food that was blessed on Saturday will be eaten during large family gatherings."

Grandma Donna Kenske of Canton hunts Easter eggs with grandchildren Olivia, Anthony and Emily.

Home hunts a happy Easter happening

BY DONNA KENSKE
CORRESPONDENT

Grandmothers unite! Instead of the "big" Easter Egg Hunt put on by parks, have you ever given thought to having one at your house, condo or homeowners association? Think it's too much trouble? Wrong. A few simple steps and you'll find a new family tradition your grandchildren will await with glee.

This is your lucky day! Calling all kids, the hunt is on! Invest in a few bags of plastic eggs; the amount varies by the number of children attending (be sure to retrieve eggs at end of hunt for next year). Next, a bag or two of wrapped candy will do, or visit the bulk-food section at the grocery store for a greater variety.

Raid your change jar and the couch. I put either one or two pieces of candy or small change in each egg and secure with scotch tape.

Opportunities are endless, because the eggs can be filled with anything. Need some ideas? Girls love barrettes or hair bows while boys prefer matchbox cars or tattoos. All kids love stickers, bubbles and glow-in-the-dark bracelets or even a deck of cards.

This Easter I kicked it up a notch by writing "Grandma Coupons" to put inside the eggs. My coupons say "You have won a trip to the movies, one-night stay at Grandma's house, a trip to the library, lunch with Grandpa", you get the idea.

Personalize your coupons to fit your children. Make a master list so you can record who won what.

Now: Hiding the eggs. Children actually love the hunting part more than the contents of the eggs! They feel like pirates going after buried treasure. Do not underestimate the ability of even the youngest child.

They can sniff out candy anywhere. They feel like pirates going after buried treasure. They will look high and low.

I hide my eggs in the bushes, in and under trees, the window ledge, on the landscape rocks or the park bench. Don't forget the hose cart, the front porch or window sills. Having a car in the driveway is a bonus. Place an egg in front of and behind a tire, on the hood or bumper; balance an egg on the door handle.

Here's the most important part: Get out your camera and have a ball, capturing the giggles and surprises as reflected in their faces.

Down the Beach

This pastel painting, Down the Beach, is one of the landscapes on exhibit by Jerry Power through April 29, at the Village Theater Gallery, 50400 Cherry Hill, Canton. Meet the artist 2-5 p.m. Saturday, April 14. Exhibit hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday-Friday, 7-9 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and 5:30-7:30 p.m. Sunday. For information, call (734) 394-5300.

Art exhibit features encaustic paintings

Artist Dee Ann Segula exhibits her unique, colorful and richly textured encaustic paintings through April 29, at the Plymouth Community Arts Council's Joann Winkelman Hulce Center for the Arts, 774 N. Sheldon. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday. Visitors can meet the artist 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 14, during special exhibit viewing hours.

A self-supporting artist, Segula has been working in oil painting, print making, drawing, metals, calligraphy, and mixed media for more than 25 years. While this Milford-based artist has always been known for her whimsical and thought-provoking work, she has recently learned the ancient technique of encaustic.

Encaustic is the method of painting molten beeswax and pigment on a surface. Historians date this practice back to ancient Greece and it has even adorned the statues at the Acropolis. Every century since, artists have utilized encaustic in one form or another including Diego Rivera and Jasper Johns.

Segula's take on the encaustic technique has found her experimenting with themes of nature like animals, flora and fauna. She combines layers of lacquer between layers of oil paint which gives her paintings and drawings a distinctive depth and brilliance.

"It's the hands-on process that intrigues me, the tactile feeling of the medium and the myriad ways you can work with it," said Segula. "It's exploring unknown territory and unexpected results. It's the beauty and the richness that can be achieved that has held me."

Advances in treatment

Cause for hope for people with multiple sclerosis

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Dr. Robert Lisak has seen more progress in treating multiple sclerosis in the last decade than the years since 1966 when he became involved with MS research. This is good news for patients suffering with the devastating autoimmune disease which attacks the central nervous system, in many cases crippling the body and mind.

In early March, the Michigan Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society held a series of events to let MS patients and their families know there is help for the nerve-damaging disease. Lisak presented the latest findings. He is considered the leading authority on MS and internationally known for his research work at Wayne State University.

Lisak emphasizes that while none of the six therapies approved by the Food and Drug Administration are a cure, the treatments do decrease the relapse rate and severity of attacks in general, and over a three- to five-year period reduce the amount of disability. About 85 percent of patients have relapsing multiple sclerosis with periods of remission. "We have several clinical trials at WSU including newer agents and our MS Center is involved in basic science in genetics. We're looking for genes to see who gets mild or horribly disabling MS, to see what genes get MS and who doesn't," said Lisak, professor and chair of neurology, and professor of immunology and microbiology at Wayne State University School of Medicine, Neurologist-in-Chief, Detroit Medical Center, and Chief of Neurology, Harper University Hospital.

The six FDA-approved therapies include three injectable interferon beta drugs; glatiramer acetate, which is not an interferon but works for relapsing MS; mitoxantrone, a chemotherapy drug used for T-cell leukemia and patients in secondary MS to stabilize the disease; and infusion natalizumab for relapsing-remitting MS which was approved then withdrawn from the market because some patients developed progressive multi-focal leukoencephalopathy, a brain virus usually only seen in AIDS patients. The FDA put it back on the market, but not for use in combination with other therapies. Lisak said most physicians would not use this as the first drug.

"I'm encouraged we'll have better and better therapies," said Lisak of Bloomfield Hills. "The first step is understanding the disease and getting better therapies and eventually if not have a cure, although we may."

Kevin Palmer says he's seen an improvement in his brother, Jason Bledso, since Palmer began giving him daily injections of the non-interferon Copaxone (glatiramer acetate) in January. Bledso came to live with his brother in West Bloomfield in December after their mother died in Kansas where Bledso had been staying.

"Prior to this he had episodes

Joyce Nelson and Jason Bledso recently took part in National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Michigan Chapter events to raise awareness about the disease. Nelson is president and CEO of the national organization based in Denver.

when MS would prohibit nerves from relaying messages to muscles," Kevin Palmer said. "He hasn't had any episodes since receiving injections."

Diagnosed with MS in 2000 at the age of 21, Bledso became unable to walk four years ago but can still feed himself and brush his teeth. He's especially grateful for the social activities and classes provided by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Michigan Chapter based in Southfield.

Bledso takes part in tai chi, yoga and computer classes once a week. Palmer says his brother is a "stickler on having his independence and insists on taking the SMART bus by himself" to classes.

"I look forward to yoga because I get to breathe in deep and relax," said Jason Bledso, 28.

Joyce Nelson says the National Multiple Sclerosis Society exists to make sure MS doesn't stop people

Weight is linked to cancer risk

Rich from Southfield e-mails for the latest research on the link between weight gain and cancer risk.

Rich, we all know that weight gain puts the heart at risk, but not much research has been done linking obesity and cancer. Now the largest study ever done shows a powerful link between being overweight and a variety of cancers, in fact nearly all of them.

Researchers tracked a million men for years. They found that excess weight accounts for 14 percent of cancer deaths in men and 20 percent in women. In the U.S., that adds up to around 90,000 extra cancer deaths per year. If you are overweight, these numbers should scare you. Talk to a doctor or nutritionist about a proper diet before you become a statistic.

Peter's Principles

Peter Nielsen

Jim e-mails from Southfield and asks for information on the dangers of osteoporosis in men.

Jim, osteoporosis is a male health hazard that often goes unnoticed. In fact, a male over the age of 50 has a greater chance of a bone break because of osteoporosis than of being diagnosed with prostate cancer. Here's another sobering statistic: one in five men will suffer a hip fracture by the age of 90; one-third of them will die during the healing process. But medical experts say that osteoporosis continues to be viewed as a woman's disease.

Men should know the warning signs. They include things like height loss, poor posture and sudden back pain. Treatments for men are getting better. There are new medicines and testosterone replacement therapy. Men, like women, can also help prevent the disease by not smoking, taking calcium supplements and exercising.

Colorectal cancer screening saves lives

Dr. Michael Biederman is trying to raise awareness of the colorectal cancer and emphasize the importance of early detection through screenings. Colorectal cancer is the cancer of the colon and/or rectum and is the third most common cancer in both men and women. It is also one of the most preventable cancers because it can develop from polyps that can be removed before they become cancerous.

Colorectal cancer usually starts as a small polyp growing on the inside of the colon or rectum.

"Most polyps never become cancer, but if you find them and remove them, you significantly reduce the risk of it becoming colon cancer," said Dr. Michael Biederman, a Botsford Hospital gastroenterologist. "Everyone should have a colonoscopy when they are 50 as this is when the cancer usually starts to show up."

In addition to people age 50 and older, individuals with a personal or family history of colorectal cancer, colorectal polyps, or inflammatory bowel disease (ulcerative colitis or Crohn's disease); smokers, or people who are obese and are sedentary are also at risk for colorectal cancer.

Biederman offers the following prevention tips:

- Exercise regularly and maintain a healthy weight.
- Eat a healthy diet that includes fruits, vegetables and whole grains.
- Do not smoke and do not drink alcohol excessively.
- The most important prevention measure is to get regular screening tests.

Michigan passes law for CF screening of newborns

Newborns in Michigan will be screened for cystic fibrosis (CF), beginning in fall 2007. Michigan is the 36th state, plus the District of Columbia, to support routine CF screening at birth.

Cystic fibrosis is a fatal genetic disease that affects 30,000 children and adults in the U. S. Newborn screening for CF is important because more than 10 million Americans are unknowing, symptomless carriers of a cystic fibrosis gene. Most people who have a child with CF are not aware of a family history of the disease. Cystic fibrosis causes thick mucus to build up in the lungs and other organs, causing life-threatening infections and serious digestive complications.

Research studies show that newborn screening for CF will likely improve and extend the lives of those born with CF. Newborn screening involves a blood test that searches for the most common defective gene in CF patients. Early diagnosis allows affected infants to begin nutritional interventions immediately. In research studies on the benefits of newborn screening, these interventions have been shown to improve height, weight and cognitive function as well as benefits in maintaining or improving lung function and life expectancy, and in reducing hospitalizations.

When the CF Foundation was created in 1955, few children lived to attend elementary school. Today, as a result of dramatic improvements in research and care, supported by donations from individuals, corporations and foundations, the median survival age for a person with CF is nearly 37 years.

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is the leading U.S. organization devoted to curing and controlling CF. For information, visit www.cff.org.

from moving. When myelin, a fatty tissue protecting the nerve fibers, is damaged in one or "multiple" areas and results in scarring, the nerves are unable to conduct electrical impulses to and from the brain. The scarring or "sclerosis" thus hinders movement and causes vision and memory problems, bladder and bowel dysfunction, spasticity, numbness, pain, and fatigue. The progression and intensity of symptoms varies in the four recognized types of MS. In addition to offering services and programs for MS patients and their families, the Society funds research on the causes and treatments for the unpredictable disease.

"We had over $3 million of research going on at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University in 2003," said Joyce Nelson, president and CEO of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society based in Denver.

Nelson was in town during the week of March 5-11, which was proclaimed "MS Awareness Week" in Michigan by Gov. Jennifer Granholm. During that time the national organization launched a campaign to make the public aware of the devastating disease affecting more than 16,000 people in the state and 400,000 in the country.

Once thought to attack people between the ages of 20 and 50, Nelson says children as young as age 4 are being diagnosed with MS today. Lisak says he doesn't know if there's a trend in children developing MS or that it was just underdiagnosed. Advances in diagnostic tools such as the MRI could account for the increase. In response to the growing numbers, the society is funding six regional pediatric centers to treat children with MS.

"I'm excited about letting everyone know there is a movement afoot," Nelson said. "I want to encourage everyone who has MS or a family member to contact the chapter here in Michigan to get the latest information on treatments, research."

"The six FDA-approved therapies, while not a cure, do seem to show a slowing of the attack. Unfortunately they're all injectables or an infusion and also very costly. The cost of these drugs can be as high as $40,000 a year. We work with Medicare and Medicaid folks and private insurers to make sure people have access to these therapies."

Rose Jones Taylor works daily to raise awareness not only about the help available at the National Multiple Sclerosis Society in Southfield, but the disease itself. In March she was encouraged by the collaboration which occurred during an MS advocacy conference in Washington, D.C. Non-MS Society groups together with the organization are working to promote public policy to benefit people with MS.

"We want to raise awareness about the MS cause, increase visibility so we can reach people with MS and anyone who's a part of the lives of individuals with MS — caregivers, professionals," said Rose Jones Taylor, vice president of programs for the Society's Michigan Chapter. "We want to make sure they know we're here for them."

DON'T LET FOOT INJURIES RUIN YOUR SPRING BREAK

As thousands of Americans hit the beaches in Florida, Mexico, or the Caribbean, Dr. Randy H. Bernstein, DPM, FACFAS, a foot and ankle surgeon in Dearborn Heights, shares these safety tips from the American College of Foot and Ankle Surgeons.

Puncture wounds and cuts: Wear shoes to protect your feet from puncture wounds and cuts caused by sea shells, broken glass and other sharp objects. Don't go in the water if your skin gets cut — bacteria in oceans and lakes can cause infection. To avoid complications from a puncture wound, see a foot and ankle surgeon for treatment within 24 hours.

Jellyfish stings: Remember that a jellyfish washed up on the beach can still sting if you step on it. If their tentacles stick to the foot or ankle, remove them, but protect your hands from getting stung too. Vinegar, meat tenderizer or baking soda reduce pain and swelling. Most jellyfish stings heal within days, but if they don't medical treatment is required.

Sunburns: Feet get sunburn too. Rare but deadly skin cancers can occur on the foot. Don't forget to apply sunscreen to the tops and bottoms of your feet.

Burns: Sand, sidewalks and paved surfaces get hot in the summer sun. Wear shoes to protect your soles from getting burned, especially if you have diabetes.

Ankle injuries, arch and heel pain: Walking, jogging and playing sports on soft, uneven surfaces like sand frequently leads to arch pain, heel pain, ankle sprains and other injuries. Athletic shoes provide the heel cushioning and arch support that flip-flop and sandals lack. If injuries occur, use rest, ice, compression and elevation to ease pain and swelling. Any injury that does not resolve within a few days should be examined by a foot and ankle surgeon.

Diabetes risks: The 20 million Americans with diabetes face serious foot safety risks at the beach. The disease causes poor blood circulation and numbness in the feet. A diabetic may not feel pain from a cut, puncture wound or burn. Any type of skin break on a diabetic foot has the potential to get infected and ulcerate if it isn't noticed right away. Diabetics should always wear shoes to the beach, and remove them regularly to check for foreign objects like sand and shells that can cause sores, ulcers and infections.

For treatment of beach-related foot injuries, contact Dr. Bernstein at (313) 274-7047 27235 Joy at Inkster

Daily newspapers enjoy the kind of popular support most politicians can only dream of. A recent study shows that newspaper is the dominant news franchise in the U.S. Newspapers reach 70% of all adults during an average week (Source: Media Market Research Inc.).

Some of them read the paper-and-ink edition, some read the online edition, and some read both.

So while new technologies have splintered audiences for TV and radio, they've actually expanded readership of newspapers. Consider this.

Thanks to the popularity of newspaper websites, total newspaper readership among 25- to 34-year-olds is up 15% (Source: Scarborough 2006).

Newspaper sites receive more than 58 million unique visitors per month.

That's more than Yahoo!® News and MSNBC.com combined (Source: Nielsen/Net Ratings 2006, 2007).

Why all the love? Consumers appreciate the core strengths of newspapers, like in-depth reporting. Newspapers have the largest, most experienced newsgathering staffs around. Small wonder newspaper organizations, because they've been part of those communities much longer. That explains why newspaper websites are the hands-down favorites for online reporting gets reused in other new media outlets, and by pundits and bloggers.

Another thing readers of all ages like — local expertise. Daily newspapers have a closer connection with their local communities than other news

The widespread popularity of newspapers is a huge opportunity for advertisers. Because whether they're online or in print, display or classified, ads in newspapers get noticed by an unusually educated, affluent audience.
