One of the pumpkins on display at the VCA of Garden City is the creation of Denise Toney of Redford, but she's mum about which one. That's to keep the annual pumpkin decorating contest on the up-and-up.

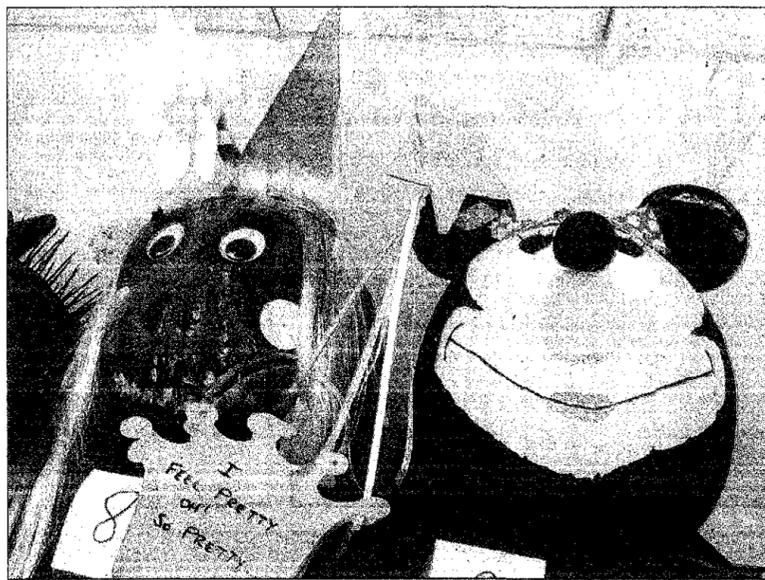

Veterinary staff gives new meaning to pumpkin decorating

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Dr. Brad Davis says it's nothing more than an "intense, but friendly" pumpkin decorating contest that started in 1994 and has evolved into a "clinic tradition" that is talked about all year long at the VCA Animal Hospital in Garden City.

"I remember I had this idea to hold a contest to show my superiority in decorating pumpkins," said the Westland resident. "I've only won once. Although technically I should win every year, but I get cheated out of it."

The top of a display case is lined with the staff's creations, and they're definitely not your usual Halloween pumpkins: a black and purple butterfly with wings that move — sometimes — an adult and baby giraffes, a turkey, Sesame Street's Ernie, a Grinchy-looking princess, Minnie Mouse and one wearing

The Grinch may be disguised as a princess, but Mini Mouse has his number, so to speak, in the VCA pumpkin decorating contest.

8 straight: WW wins accounting awards

BY SUE MASON

Wayne-Westland school board Trustee Steve Becher couldn't resist asking Deputy Superintendent Gary Martin if he had enough wall space to hang up two new accounting awards.

Martin, who head up the district's administrative and business service, didn't say yes and he didn't say no. "These are for the district,"

Martin said.

The awards were the Excellence in Financing Award from the Government Finance Officers Association and a Certificate of Excellence from the Association of School Business Officials. This is the eighth consecutive year Wayne-Westland school district has received the recognition for its financial accounting practices.

"It's the highest recognition a school district can get for financial reporting," Superintendent Greg Baracy said. "It's one of the most comprehensive reporting packages. I'm proud of what the finance department has done and everything Gary brings to the department."

Baracy announced the awards at the school board meeting Monday evening. The awards recognize the work done on the 88-page Comprehensive Annual Financial Report. The report was for 2005-06 and was judged for correctness and completeness according to national standards.

The certificate of excellence is the highest award school district financial operations can receive from the ASBO. It is given to districts that have met or exceeded the standards for the program. The GFOA certificate of achieve-

Goodfellows anticipate more families in need

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

With job losses and home foreclosures mounting, a Westland charity organization is bracing for a surge of local families asking for help in putting Christmas presents under the tree.

"Based on the economy and the foreclosures, I would say that would probably be the case," Westland Goodfellows President Jim Rachwal said.

Last holiday season, Goodfellows collected $15,873 and bought Christmas toys and gifts for 600 children. The amount of money raised in recent years has fluctuated from nearly $10,500 to more than $20,000.

This year, Goodfellows will get help from another charity group, the Westland Jaycees, which will roll out a party featuring celebrity impersonators performing songs by Shania Twain, Toby Keith, Neil Diamond, Jerry Lee Lewis, Buddy Holly and Elvis Presley.

"We're trying to help them kick off their campaign this year," Jaycees chaplain Gary Bulson said. "With the economy the way it is, there are so many more families and children out there who need help this holiday season."

The event, Tribute to the Stars, will cost $25 a person and include a mostaccioli dinner, beer and pop. Doors open at 6 p.m. Friday, Nov. 16, at the Wayne-Ford Civic League, with dinner at 6:30 p.m. and the show at 8 p.m.

Those who feel like dancing may have at it. Also, a 50/50 raffle and silent auction will take place.

Tribute to the Stars has drawn support from the Westland Rotary Club and Miller Lite. For tickets, call Bulson's business, Men on the Move, at (734) 729-6683 or the Westland Chamber of Commerce at (734) 326-7222.

In recent years, the Goodfellows group has tried to broaden its efforts to raise money. However, Rachwal said volunteers still plan to sell their familiar newspapers at city intersections on the day after Thanksgiving.

Seniors get creative in naming new bus

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland senior citizens have a new bus they need to name, but don't expect them to go Gray-hound.

Don't expect them to steal the name of MTV's Pimp My Ride, either.

Nonetheless, seniors are eagerly climbing on board for a name-the-bus contest unveiled by Mayor William Wild.

In all, Wild estimated that nearly 200 names have been submitted for the 27-passenger bus, used for outings from the senior Friendship Center on Newburgh south of Ford.

With Wednesday's contest entry deadline looming, Wild agreed to share a few bus names proposed by seniors: Get Up & Go, The Senior Chariot, The Westland Traveler, The Golden Age Shuttle, The Friendship Buggy, Heavenly Bound, The Westland Trippers and The Friendship Express.

Relax, seniors. Those aren't necessarily the finalists, but simply names that Wild rattled off when asked to share a few suggestions he has received.

The 2007 GMC bus takes seniors to places like Comerica Park, the Michigan State Fair

'Some of the names are quite humorous, but we do want them to be tasteful.'

and Greenfield Village, but seniors told city officials they often have a hard time spotting their ride when it's time to go home.

"A lot of cities get these same types of buses," Wild said.

A name could make the difference.

"We've had some very original names," senior Director Peggy Ellenwood said. "We've been anxiously wanting to get the bus lettered and painted up. Some of the names are quite humorous, but we do want them to be tasteful."

Contest entry forms will be available through Wednesday afternoon at the Friendship Center. Wild said a committee will then review the potential names and choose a winner.

Ellenwood revealed what's at stake for the winner: Bringing along three friends for lunch with the mayor at Macy's Lakeshore Grill at Westland Shopping Center.

hospital scrubs and surgical mask and sporting a long pony-tail like the one Davis has.

Nothing is left to chance in this contest. Davis has come up with two pages of rules, subtitled: "To keep Denise from cheating."

Denise Toney of Redford has won the contest three or four times, including last year when her Cinderella pumpkin shared first place with Kim Arbour's pink flamingoes.

"Most of the rules relate to me, but that's because I've been here the longest," she said.

Davis disagrees. "When Denise is alone with my pumpkin, something happens to it," he said.

That may explain Rule 19: "No vandalism of another entry."

Davis buys the pumpkins at the Wilson Barn in Livonia and gives them to the staff. The entries must include the original pumpkin, although others can be used. According to Toney, Davis has gone so far as to sign the bottom of the pumpkins to ensure that they are the ones entered in the contest.

The rules determine the amount of display space per pumpkin — 12 inches wide by 22 inches deep by 32 inches high — and prohibit the "selling/lending of pumpkin space for the competition." A drawing determines the order in the display, and the assigned space "cannot be traded or altered."

Rule 8 prohibits contestants and their relatives and friends from voting, but Toney says Davis has used his mother to stuff the ballot box. "His mother has people come in off the street to vote," she said. "He also has this special way of coming out and telling people they can only vote for one."

"I try to help people with their voting, but you know how the voting laws and about not getting too close to the polling place," Davis countered. "I just try to push them in the right direction."

Numbers hang in front of each entry and only the staff knows whose is whose. The ballot box is taped shut to avoid voter fraud.

Balloting runs from Oct. 21-

31. It ends at 5 p.m., when Davis will do the count. Results of the contest won't be announced until the November staff meeting.

"He does a big unveiling," Toney said. "He does a lot of cool stuff for us, but this is mainly the big thing."

There is a prize. Davis presents the winner with a certificate for ice cream. The year he won, he bought ice cream for his staff.

"It's probably the highlight of the year at the clinic," Davis said. "I have clients show up two, three weeks in advance asking about the pumpkins."

This year's butterfly entry is having an electrical problem. It's on its second motor. The first burned out and the designer had a new one overnighted to get the wings back to fluttering. Within two days, the wings stopped again. This time Toney suspects the entry may need new batteries.

When Davis first started the contest, the pumpkins were carved but they slowly turned "into piles of goo," Toney said. "That's why we have the garbage bags underneath them," she said. "One year Dr. Davis' pumpkin collapsed and fell. He blamed it on me."

Even using paint and accessories is no easy task. Laura Lapere of Westland had to use a marker to touch up the painting on her pumpkin. Rule 5 says entries can be "touched up during the course of the contest, but cannot be dramatically changed."

"This is my first year, and it wasn't easy," Lapere said. "We do have a lot of fun with it," Toney said.

It may be Halloween, but there's room for the next holiday, Thanksgiving.

ment of excellence also is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting.

"This is the highest recognition a school district can get for financial reporting," Baracy said.

Martin shared the accolades with members of his department, telling the board that Linda Kempton, the senior executive director for business and operations, and executive secretary Sue Rawson "were the chief architects of the financial report."

"I think the board, the citizens, parents, students and staff deserve to have an accounting $118 million in spending," Martin said.

Board members were quick to offer praise.

"I say congratulations for eight years," board Secretary Martha Pitsenberger said. "Yours is a great team."

Echoing sentiments expressed in previous years,

Trustee Ed Turner pointed out that "your department is the only department I know that can spend 10 cents and get 15 cents in change."

Blanket making teaches students lesson of caring

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

There was plenty of trick-or-treating through the halls of Edison Elementary School on Thursday evening. But in the midst of the fun, parents and students were invited to sit a spell and tie knots to help others.

When all was said and done, visitors to Tim Sullivan's classroom made 100 fleece blankets for patients at University of Michigan Hospital's cancer center.

"We had 400 people in the school for the Halloween Harvest Festival and I invited people to come in and make a blanket," Sullivan said. "We ended up making 100 of them."

The blanket making is part of a student council-sponsored Make a Difference Day project known as Warm Fuzzies.

The student council raised money to purchase the fleece for the throws. Then the council enlisted the help of parents and students to make them.

It's the second year the school has made the blankets and participated in Make a Difference Day.

The school began the project in honor of Kim Shock, a long-time volunteer at the school who died in June 2005 of cervical cancer. Last year's effort included making 300 throws as well as knotted dog toys that were given to the Michigan

Humane Society.

The amount was scaled back this year due in part to cost. However, students made bookmarks in art class, which have been laminated, that will be given to patients.

Even with the help of parents who do most of the preparation for the knot-tying and donations from North Bros. Ford and Westland Florist, the student council still had to raise several hundred dollars for the project.

"It's very expensive for the student council to do," Sullivan said. "The financial support we got was very helpful, but they still had to do fund-raisers like Hat Day and sales of their student newspaper."

Sullivan credits parents Birgid Quecke and Barb Patko for helping make this year's project a success.

"They stepped up and played a big part in it. They were the key to keep it going," Sullivan said. "They kept on watching the sales at Joanne's. The sale price plus my teacher discount kept the cost down, but we still paid around a $1 a blanket."

The blanket project got its start with a Brownie Girl Scout Troop in Pinckney that wanted to create a service project for U-M's cancer patients. For several years, they made caps, but in 2001 switched to the blanket for the cancer center which estimates it needs 180 new blankets

It's a date: MEAP retest is Nov. 7

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

They may have taken it once, but they'll be taking it again.

That's the word from the state Department of Education which has decided that fifth- and sixth-graders across the state will take — or retake, in some cases — the MEAP writing test on the same day, Nov. 7.

The decision follows what state school officials labeled a "security breach" of the fifth- and sixth-grade reading prompts, following an article that appeared in the Jackson Citizen Patriot newspaper earlier this month.

"They're trying to cut down the exposure to another breach," Wayne-Westland Superintendent Greg Baracy said. "We had already tested out fifth- and sixth-graders when this happened. It's going to be tough to keep the students motivated."

"All we can do is keep moving forward, do what we need to do," said Agnes Kubrak, Wayne-Westland's senior executive director for instruction. "All we can say is OK and let's move on."

State officials decided to call for statewide retesting after hearing from the U.S. Department of Education that failing to test all fifth- and sixth-graders using a replacement prompt could threaten the validity of the writing scores. Federal officials had indicated there was a risk that all schools in Michigan with fifth- and sixth-graders would not make adequate yearly progress, if there was no retesting.

"We realize that this could disrupt some school activities, but in this age of technology — with text messaging, blogging, and MySpace that kids use every day — we now have to resort to these additional security measures," Superintendent of Public Instruction Mike Flanagan said.

The flap occurred when a reporter interviewed students who had completed the writing test. During the course of the interview, the reporter heard a student correct the teacher about the subject matter for each grade level and included the information in his story.

Initially, the state announced that 260,000 fifth- and sixth-graders would take the test between Nov. 5-13, but that was changed to all students taking the test in the morning on the same day. Students who are absent during the school testing time may be given the replacement writing prompt at any subsequent time during the remainder of the one-week testing window.

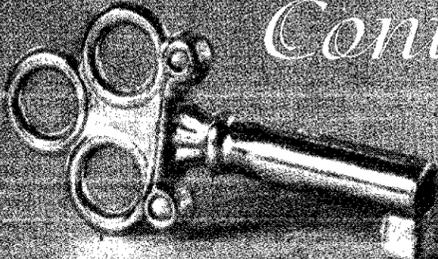

"We know that this is an unfortunate consequence of a newspaper's revealing in a news article what those writing prompts were," Flanagan said. "However, we have to be certain that we do everything necessary to be fair to all students; protect the integrity of the MEAP tests; and not put schools at risk of not making AYP."

More than 1,800 fifth- and sixth-graders will be retested in Wayne-Westland. The district brought in MEAP support for the original testing and may to do so again, according to Kubrak, who pointed out that the retesting will take students away from their learning and staff away from the things they do to support that process.

"The staff is trying to keep them motivated and keep their spirits up," she said. "I hope this retest doesn't affect their motivation and the test scores. I know the staff is trying very hard, but this certainly isn't a good situation."

Bats and Halloween

What Halloween scene would be complete without a bat lurking in the shadows?

Why do we tend to associate bats with Halloween? Is there really any connection between bats and Halloween? If you find yourself thinking about these questions this time of the year, the William P. Faust Public Library of Westland is just the place to help you find the answers.

Folklore has it that bats communicate with spirits because they are nocturnal.

"They come out at night, and that's when people think monsters and the boogeyman come out," said Mike Brown, lead mammal department keeper at Brookfield Zoo.

But the fact is, "Nocturnality offers protection from the heat and helps the bat maintain its body temperature and moisture," reports the National Museum of Natural History.

But when one myth is dispelled, another one takes its place, specifically, their choice of food. Bats are thought to dine on human blood. Wrong again.

Scientists tell us that of the more than 1000 species of bats, only three species of vampire bats suck blood - livestock blood, that is. Humans need not worry. And anyway, these species live in Latin America. Most other bats around the world eat a healthier diet of fruits, bugs, nectar and even fish.

Who can forget the perennial charge that "bats get tangled in peoples hair." This accusation creates just the right amount of eeriness surrounding the Halloween season. But, "although bats may occasionally fly very close to someone's face while catching insects, they do not get stuck in people's hair. That's because the bats ability to echolocate is so acute that it can avoid obstacles no wider than a piece of thread," according to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

So, if you find that you are interested in learning the real truth about bats, pick up a copy of David E. Brown's "Vampire: The Vampire Bat in Fact and Fiction" or Don E. Wilson's "Bats in Question: The Smithsonian Answer Book."

Maybe you would like to build a home for our furry friends, then take a look at Dale Gelfand's "Building Bat Houses" or log on to www.batcon.org and visit the Organization for Bat Conservation International whose mission is to teach people the value of bats, to protect and conserve critical bat habitats, and to advance scientific knowledge through research.

To keep up with the latest research surrounding bats and their environs visit the Center for North American Bat Research and Conservation at www.indstate.edu/ecology/centers/bat.htm and the Lube Bat Conservancy, an international non-profit organization working with others to save fruit and nectar bats and their habitats through conservation, research and education at www.lubee.org.

Just maybe we can learn a lesson from the Chinese who incorporate the image of bats in art and handicrafts as a symbol of happiness and good luck. As for Halloween, for my money there's no real scare as a black cat. So no matter what sets your hair up on end, just stop by the library to set your mind at ease. Call (734) 326-6123 or log on to www.westland.lib.mi.us.

Avoid investing in life insurance policies on terminally ill individuals

Q: Dear Rick: I was recently approached about buying a viatical contract. What do you think?

A: I am not a fan of viaticals. One rule I live by is never invest in anything I cannot check out independently. It's very difficult to research viaticals.

Money Matters
Rick Bloom

A viatical contract is a life insurance policy on a terminally ill individual. In theory, it is a win-win for both sides of the transaction. The contract allows the terminally ill individual to sell the policy and use the proceeds for whatever purpose they desire. Of course, they could always cash out the life insurance policy and receive the cash surrender value, but in theory by selling the policy they receive a greater amount than the cash surrender value.

The investor, upon the terminally ill individual's death, would receive the full face value of the policy. So if the individual passed on when expected, the investor could make a fair rate of return. However, in the real world other issues/problems develop when investing in viatical contracts.

The value of the contract is based upon a terminally ill individual's death. If he/she survives longer than expected, the investor's rate of return reduces dramatically. Not only do they have to wait longer to receive the face value of the insurance policy, but the new owner of the policy has to continue to make premium payments. This will substantially reduce the rate of return to an investor.

Another issue is the fraud that has been committed on both sides of the transaction - selling the same policy to more than one investor and undervaluing the policy.

I choose to avoid viaticals as an investment and I recommend you do the same.

Q: Dear Rick: At the beginning of the year, I set up a flexible spending account through my job. I have not spent any of the money and one of my fellow workers told me that unless I spend it before the end of the year, I lose it. Is that true?

A: Unfortunately, with few exceptions, that's the rule.

A few years ago, the Department of Treasury revised some regulations and allowed employers to extend the time to use flexible spending accounts for another two and a half months after the end of the year. This was not a mandatory change, but rather one that is optional and so some companies have extended the deadline. Ask your employer for the deadline and if they have not extended the deadline, you should encourage them to do so. I am a fan of the flexible spending account. It allows you to use pre-tax dollars to pay for certain expenses. When you use pre-tax dollars, it's like the government is subsidizing your expenses.

The majority of people use a flexible spending account for medical expenses.

Most people believe that flexible spending accounts are used to cover deductible and co-payments, however, they are more flexible. You can use your flex spending dollars for prescription sunglasses, a doctor approved weight-loss program or even laser eye procedures. Most flexible spending plans are very flexible, which is why I recommend them.

However, you should only fund your flexible spending account with money you will use. The downside of these programs is the use-it-or-lose-it feature.

As we get closer to the end of the year, if you have money in your flex account, make sure you use it. Whether it's for a dental visit or laser eye surgery, the bottom line is it's your money.

Unless you use it, you lose it.

Take precautions for a safe Halloween

The rustle of leaves under your feet, the autumn chill in the air, and decorations being put out that look like skeletons, witches and various grimaces on the faces of jack-o'-lanterns remind me of my favorite time of year and the celebration of Halloween.

While the trick-or-treating that we have become accustomed to didn't really take off until the 1930s, many children love to dress up in costume and collect treats on the evening of Oct. 31. The least we, as adults, can do is to make sure they are safe while doing it.

If you are expecting to invite children to your door, start by cleaning up your yard, so children won't trip over hoses, branches or slippery leaves. Put unused tools away and make sure your house lights will light the way for children to come to your house. If you must drive on Halloween, use extra caution, especially in neighborhoods where children have their minds on treats more than on watching for cars. Turn house lights on to welcome children, and do not ask them into your home.

Candles look nice when controlled, but the risks may be too great. Consider a trip to your local Halloween store to check out the many options for lighting pumpkins. They have small strobe lights, color-changing lights and I even lit up a jack-o'-lantern with a glow stick last year and it looked great!

If you have children who will be trick-or-treating on Halloween, try their costumes on well before Halloween so that you can add reflective tape, take up hems and make sure there is plenty of makeup for the big night. Makeup is recommended for the face over masks due to the peripheral visibility limitations of putting a mask on. Costumes should be plainly marked as flame-resistant or flame-retardant, and it shouldn't drag on the ground. Have children practice the "Stop, Drop and Roll" procedure in case their clothing and/or costume catches fire. Just because you may not use candles to light your jack-o'-lanterns doesn't mean that your neighbors do not.

Children should only travel in familiar areas and along an established route with a group of friends. Flashlights, glow sticks and reflective trim are a must, and a cell phone may be useful for children who are old enough to have them. Small children should always be accompanied by an adult and make sure they have their name and address pinned somewhere onto their clothing in case they do get separated from the group.

I am a huge fan of cell phones during Halloween. It allows parents to let kids go out with friends as long as they know they are close and who they are with. Make sure cell phone batteries are fully charged, and that you are pre-programmed into the cell phone for one-button calling.

Give your children a meal before they head out for the evening. A full stomach will make children less likely to grab treats until they can get home and have an adult inspect them prior to consumption. Any unwrapped candy or food items should be discarded. Don't give candy to pets, and any unwanted candy will certainly be welcomed at your nearest fire station!

Sheriff receives federal grant for marine equipment

In 2004, the Wayne County Sheriff's Office and Detroit Wayne County Port Authority began working together to apply for federal homeland security grants, only 5 percent of which typically reach Great Lakes ports.

However, since the partnership was formed, the Port Authority has been awarded more than $3 million in marine grants, at least half of which has been allocated to the Sheriff's Marine Unit to purchase new boats and equipment, according to the Sheriff's department.

Sheriff Warren Evans recently received word of a new $450,000 allocation and is just weeks away from putting out bids for more than $1 million in new marine unit equipment, including four new vessels, new motors for its existing boats, night vision technology and new and improved equipment for the Marine Unit's Dive Team and Special Response Team, including 40 gas masks.

Granholt brings budget message to meeting

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

The best news Gov. Jennifer Granholt delivered to hundreds of municipal representatives attending the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments General Assembly meeting Thursday afternoon at the Inn at St. John's in Plymouth Township Thursday was not necessarily good news.

"We have a freeze on revenue sharing," Granholt said. "I did propose a cost-of-living increase, an inflationary adjustment, when I proposed my budget. That didn't survive, but we did avoid major cuts."

That didn't seem like much solace to municipal leaders, who know a freeze still means a loss of money because of inflationary budget increases facing their communities. After Granholt's presentation on the budget and how it will affect businesses and the residents of Michigan, the governor was asked about the many blank stares as she delivered her speech.

"The folks who were in there understand the challenge, both of tough economic times and trying to make ends meet," Granholt said. "To say what it is we're going to become ... we just can't retrench and get small, we've got to be bold and come out swinging because we're never going to emerge victorious if we're not innovative."

"Michigan citizens are feeling the brunt of this global shift in manufacturing jobs," she added, "and having a plan and an aggressive strategy and working that plan ... and giving people some benchmarks so they know that progress is being made is important."

Granholt said presidential candidates need to take notice of what's happening in Michigan as they seek the nation's highest elected office.

"Michigan is a precursor to what will happen in other states as technology moves and other states grapple with a shift in their economic sector to other parts of the world," Granholt said. "These candidates have got to have a strategy that allows us to invest in making our businesses competitive. Candidates who talk about trade, and battling to keep the playing field level as well as investing in our people, are the candidates Michigan citizens will listen to."

Granholt was critical of the recall efforts of nearly a dozen lawmakers who cast votes in favor of the recent income tax hike, including Rep. Marc Coriveau (D-Northville).

"I think the representatives who cast tough votes to put our state on solid financial footing should not be recalled," Granholt said. "People need to understand these are the toughest votes of their careers, and they cast a vote to save Michigan, not to save themselves. They put themselves at risk, and I think anybody who came to the center in the bipartisan solution should be thanked and not recalled."

When asked if she specifically would help Coriveau in his efforts to avoid recall, Granholt said, "I'll help him in any way he needs help."

Haunted camp uses 3-D effects, boar's head

BY REBECCA JONES
STAFF WRITER

A hairy monster and wailing banshee aren't the only spooky effects that jump out at visitors to a 3-D open house at Emerson Middle School in Livonia.

Under the glow of black-light, images of Bigfoot's footprints, hundreds of neon skulls and spiders do too.

Those who dare to enter get 3-D glasses as they make their way to the creepy camp setting backstage at Emerson.

Snakes float among the brush dragged in from parents' backyards. Bats in the background are hard to spot, except for their beady red eyes.

"I've always wanted to do a 3-D haunted house but never knew how to go about it," said Jilda Macuga of Westland. She and another parent, Ann Green of Garden City, attended a haunt convention in May at the Dearborn Hyatt. "They had a workshop on 3-D haunted houses. That's how I found out the secrets."

The haunted house — a PTA tradition that began at Hayes Elementary 17 years ago — is in its second year at Emerson.

From 6-8 p.m. Monday, students and families from Cooper, Johnson and Riley and Webster's fifth- and sixth-graders are invited.

"We want them to be scared, but we try to balance that with being appropriate. We don't do gore. We don't do blood," Macuga said. "You don't need them to make a good scare."

No one carries a weapon, she said. "Nobody grabs you." "It's just a matter of where people are at, the music, and of course, the props."

Six dedicated volunteers work for more than a month to put it together. Running the show takes about 25 to 30 helpers.

Brandon Mickel of Westland, who has an eighth-grade son at Emerson, designed a pneumatic pop-up prop and a secret door.

Mickel, who has an acting background and "always wanted to be that guy on the block with the great Halloween display," will be in costume, lurking somewhere near his contraption.

More are stationed among the grave yard, infirmary, skull room, campsite and cave. Macuga's son Eric, a Franklin sophomore, plays the hockey-masked Halloween serial killer Jason. Sure to get some screams is a real, wild boar. (Don't worry — it's just his head.)

The creature made the mistake of chasing Green's Uncle Dave up a tree while he was bow hunting years ago. Green said her uncle — a former teacher with a sick sense of humor — has been using "Black Bart" to scare youngsters in the family since she was an adolescent.

Green and Macuga share a love for Halloween and knack for creating haunted houses, but neither will go in one.

"The one we did last year, I would not go through with the lights out," Green said. "That's why I do ticket sales outside."

Admission is $2. It recommended for ages 11 and older, but that's up to the parents, organizers said.

LeBlanc plan offers special hunt dates

Disable veterans could get an early firearms deer season under plan developed by State Rep. Richard LeBlanc, D-Westland.

His plan to create an early firearms deer season for disabled veterans has been heard by the House Tourism, Outdoor Recreation and Resources Committee, a move intended to allow more veterans to participate fully in this recreational activity and Michigan tradition.

LeBlanc's plan is the result of a successful pilot-program that enabled disabled veterans to participate in a special two-day hunting season last September.

"Michigan weather is unpredictable, and trying to maneuver through the state's fields and forests during November can present many challenges for people with disabilities," LeBlanc said. "Hunting is a great Michigan tradition, and I don't want to see anyone who loves this sport - especially our veterans - lose the opportunity to participate because of physical limitations."

"The men and women who fought to keep our country free deserve every opportunity in life. I am proud of this plan that designates a two-day hunting season for disabled veterans at the end of September every year."

Under current Michigan law, disabled veterans with hunting licenses participate in the regular deer hunting season in November. Under LeBlanc's plan, disabled veterans could take part in a two-day hunting season that coincides with the special youth hunting season, which typically comes at a designated time at the end of September.

After this year's successful pilot project in Marquette, Mason and Newaygo Counties, LeBlanc's annual program would now be designated throughout the entire state.

For eligibility, disabled veterans applying would need to have either a current firearm deer license, combination deer license or an antlerless deer license or a deer management assistance permit. In order to qualify, veterans would need to have unemployable status as a result of military service and entitled to veterans' benefits for a disability other than blindness.

"Hunting is a special part of life in Michigan and a critical component to the state's economy," LeBlanc said. "Establishing this annual program shows Michigan is committed to the sport of hunting and its timeless traditions and also to honoring our brave veterans who have sacrificed so much for all of us."

SWOLLEN HANDS
 Usually, you associate a swollen hand with arthritis, injury or infections. A typical aspect of gout of the wrist or knuckles is swelling of the back of the hand. In rheumatoid arthritis, inflammation of the tendons of the back of the hand causes the hand to take on a puffy appearance.

When injury is the cause for hand swelling, the incident that caused the problem is evident. At times, infection in the hand results in swelling. Again, the chain of circumstances is recent and evident in most instances; the only exception is if you are a diabetic. In this case, it is possible, though still unlikely, that a seemingly insignificant scratch could lead to a hand infection.

However, a number of instances of hand swelling cannot be explained as the result of arthritis, injury, or infection.

Most of these cases include the feature that the hand swelling is painless and that the swelling has been present and little changed for months to years. Such features allow your doctor to make a diagnosis without subjecting you to difficult procedures to confirm the cause. Painless and prolonged hand swelling occurs with venous or lymphatic obstruction in sites of the upper arm, axilla or neck.

Because the swelling is painless, you are able to use your hand normally. Because the swelling has remained unchanged over a prolonged period, there is little chance that the obstruction represents a cancer or dangerous clot.

Treatment includes use of a sleeve to give the arm and hand firm support, and elevating the arm as much as practical to encourage circulation from hand to heart.

Michigan Ghost Watchers out to prove there's life after death

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS
STAFF WRITER

The Michigan Ghost Watchers don't run from things that go bump in the night — they take a picture of it.

Founded by Canton woman Cindy Blake in 2001, the group has nearly 100 members and serves as a haven for serious ghost watchers.

"For as long as I can remember, I've been interested in paranormal and the supernatural," said Blake, 52. "I remember being 6-years-old and begging my father to take me to (my first horror) movie."

In their investigations, club members travel to places such as cemeteries, basements and historical buildings. They take photographs, record audio, access temperatures and tap into the skills of their spirit medium, Keith Norton, 37, of Madison Heights.

During these experiences, Blake said she's heard whispers, been touched and had footsteps following her when she was the only person in the room.

"I've definitely been startled but I haven't been afraid," she said, adding that her favorite investigation took place at the Gettysburg battlefield. "There is so much activity there. We recorded gun shots. It's a privilege to witness something that can't be explained through normal means."

MGW, which has blossomed to include chapters in North Carolina, Ireland, Virginia and Pennsylvania, is planning a trip in the spring to a sanatorium in Kentucky.

"Those who believe will believe," said Blake, a former Plymouth resident. "For those who don't want to believe, there's nothing you can say to change their mind."

Lon Kuehn, 44, of Clinton Township has been with MGW for four years and said he had his first paranormal experience as a toddler.

"My grandfather was buried the day before my first birthday and I saw his ghost when I was 3 years old," he said. "It freaked out my mom."

Kuehn, who describes himself as a "techno geek," said he gets a thrill out of being in MGW because it's filled with "like-minded individuals that are proving to the world there's life after death."

As Blake, Norton, Kuehn and another group member, Sue Bert of Waterford, walked around the historic cemetery on Sheldon north of Michigan Avenue, they snapped and compared photographs.

"We haven't had a hand come up out of the ground," Blake laughed, while Norton chimed in, "That would be nice, though. We're hoping that happens."

Cindy Blake of Canton notes the time that her voice recording begins. Keith Norton and Lon Kuehn take photographs and measure temperatures.

WJLB's Coco inspires Redford woman

Ebony Bell of Redford Township got a chance to lunch with the woman who inspired her "to be happy with myself." Bell won The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Buddy's Pizza "Dining With the Stars" contest featuring CoCo of WJLB-FM.

Bell and her husband, James Maloy, are the parents of three children ages 1 to 16. A stay-at-home mom, Bell was treated to a limo ride courtesy of All Class Transportation & Limousine Services, makeover from Beauty Salon by J. Lyle Lmt, featuring stylist and makeup artist Christine Fitzpatrick; $100 gift certificate to the Reaver Diamond Co. in Southfield and a dance exhibition by the Fred Astaire Dance Studio of Bloomfield Hills.

"Coco was so sweet I felt like I had known her for years" said Bell, who had lunch with CoCo at the original Buddy's on Six Mile Road in Detroit.

Bell was among five finalists in the August competition.

In her winning entry Bell wrote about how she "used every diet known to man to try and lose weight. One day I tried to give up the diets and give up on life... until I heard CoCo on the radio."

CoCo was talking about how television and some people promote diets and thin "even if it kills us," wrote Bell.

Bell suffered a heart attack in April 2002 - the result of dieting and stress. She credits CoCo's inspiration to be happy with who you are as the turning point in her life.

"I had never seen Coco in person before but I started to see pictures of her and I said she

Have you been living with headaches? You don't have to!

If you have a headache, you're not alone. Nine out of ten Americans suffer from headaches. For some people headaches are an occasional annoyance, for others a disabling chronic condition.

What do you do when you suffer from a pounding headache? Do you tighten your jaw and try to make it through the day? Lie down with your head under a pillow? Pop a pill and hope the pain goes away? There is a better alternative.

Modern chiropractic care has a lot to offer headache sufferers. Headaches have many causes, or "triggers." These may include foods, environmental stimuli (noises, lights, stress, etc.) and/or behaviors (insomnia, excessive exercise, blood sugar changes, etc.). Aspirin and other medications relieve the pain of tension headaches, migraines and cluster headaches without correcting the underlying causes. Drugs, on the other hand are designed to mask the pain.

Suggestions to help headache sufferers:

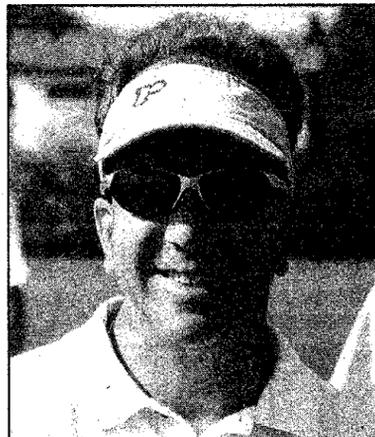

- * If you spend a large amount of time in one fixed position, such as in front of a computer, on a sewing machine, typing or reading, take a break and stretch every 30 minutes to one hour. The stretches should take your head and neck through a comfortable range of motion.

- * Low-impact exercise may help relieve the pain associated with primary headaches. However, if you are prone to dull, throbbing headaches, avoid heavy exercise. Engage in such activities as walking and low-impact aerobics.

- * Avoid teeth clenching. The upper teeth should never touch the lowers, except when swallowing. This results in stress at the temporomandibular joints (TMJ) - the two joints that connect your jaw to your skull - leading to TMJ irritation and a form of tension headaches.

- * Drink at least eight 8-ounce glasses of water a day to help avoid dehydration, which can lead to headaches.

Dr. Mashike can perform spinal manipulation or chiropractic adjustments to improve spinal function and alleviate the stress on your system. He can provide nutritional advice, recommending a change in diet and perhaps the addition of B complex vitamins if necessary. If you or someone you know is suffering from headaches, a Chiropractic evaluation is the first step to freedom from pain.

I suffered with headaches/migraines for over 20 years. I experienced several headaches each week and at least one migraine per month. The migraines would force me to lie in bed with an ice pack on my head, feeling nauseous and taking several medications to ease the pain. Since becoming a patient of Dr. Mashike and receiving adjustments to correct my subluxation, I am no longer on medication. I am happy to share that I have experienced only one migraine in the last two years. When I feel a headache coming on I see Dr. Mashike for treatment and relief.

Madonna's replaces gym floor

Workers began ripping up Madonna University's basketball court — the original flooring that was installed when the campus' activities building was built in 1975 — this week. The emergency floor replacement was prompted by a malfunction in the boiler room, located adjacent to the gymnasium, that caused a flood on the floor. The subsequent water damage left the gym floor unplayable. The work of replacing the floor, which is covered by insurance, is being handled by crews from Varsity Flooring of St. Clair Shores. They're working two shifts, 16 hours a day, seven days a week, to get it done in time for competition by Nov. 16. In the meantime, according to Athletic Director Bryan Rizzo, volleyball and basketball teams will be practicing at more than a half dozen different gyms across the Livonia and Redford area. One men's basketball game and a volleyball tournament were shifted to accommodate the replacement. The university isn't just dumping its historic wooden planks into the trash. Rizzo said. The athletic department will make some of the pieces available for sale as keepsakes to former players or coaches through its Web site, <http://ww3.madonna.edu/crusaders/>. Madonna University's floor had been sanded and restained regularly over the years. Three years ago was the last time, and that project included the painting of a Crusader emblem on the center court.

Michigan Eye Doctor Helps Legally Blind

Dr. Sheldon Smith helps those with macular degeneration and other eye conditions keep reading and driving.

By Elena Lombardi

For most of us, activities like reading, knitting, driving or playing cards seem like simple tasks, but for those who don't see well, these tasks can be difficult or even impossible. People with visual limitations from conditions like glaucoma, diabetes, cataracts or macular degeneration are said to have low vision. However for many of these people, Michigan Optometrist Dr. Sheldon Smith has the answers they have been seeking.

"People don't know that there are experienced doctors who can help them with specialized low vision care," says Dr. Smith. Dr. Smith, a Low Vision Specialist, helps people who have lost vision from these types of eye diseases. A Fellow of the International Academy of Low Vision Specialists, Dr. Smith is one of a select group of doctors serving the visually impaired.

"Many people are told by their doctor that nothing more can be done for their eye condition, but there are ways to improve vision" says Dr. Smith. "We fit specially designed devices to help patients meet their personal visual goals."

Many patients seeking to help themselves end up using weak, clumsy hand-held magnifiers. Conversely Dr. Smith prescribes hands-free devices that are easier to use. "We use the same telescopic devices surgeons use during operations," says Dr. Smith. "That's how powerful and convenient they are."

"Mostly, telescopic glasses focus on distance objects like TV, passing neighbors or scenery" the doctor said, "but they can be set up for closer tasks as well. They can even help with driving" the doctor explained. Michigan is one of 46 states that allow bioptic telescopic glasses for driving.

Mr. Charles Willim age 81 of Taylor MI came to get his driver license restored after macular degeneration reduced his vision to 20/70. Dr. Smith fit him with special driving telescopes that improved his vision to 20/40. A few weeks later Charles passed his road test and is now a licensed driver again. "Those telescopic glasses are pretty darn good" he said.

Buddy Standafer age 70 of Westland had diabetic eye problems. He came to reinstate his driver license and read better. His regular vision was 20/200 but with special driving telescopes he saw 20/50. Prismatic reading glasses got him reading newsprint. Two months later his license was restored. "Now I see the traffic lights much better. I am happy to be on the road again. I tell a lot of people about Dr. Smith" Buddy said.

Special prismatic reading glasses and microscopes are another way to help make reading a little easier. There are as many low vision devices as there are various activities. Dr. Smith also counsels his patients on using sun filters and nutritional supplements to safeguard the vision from getting worse.

Special glasses and telescopes range in price from $600 to $2,500. "Every patient is unique, with different amounts of vision and individual goals," says Dr. Smith. "My objective is to help each patient do what matters most to them. Whatever the goal, I try to match it with a device to meet that need. People really improve their quality of life and independence."

If you or someone you know is struggling to do the things they love because of severe vision problems, call Dr. Smith to find out how low vision care can help. There is help available. You just need to know where to find it. You can reach Dr. Smith and Suburban Low Vision of Michigan at 1-877-677-2020

Dr. Smith has offices in Livonia, Warren, Shelby Township and the Lansing area.

OUR VIEWS

Help Gleaners feed hungry

Gleaners Community Food Bank of Southeastern Michigan, the area's largest emergency food provider, has put out an urgent SOS. At a time when the need is the greatest, the supply of food is critically low.

The agency reports that its inventory is down by 1.5 million pounds of food. Meanwhile, from January through September, Gleaners' distribution has increased by 2.2 million pounds, a 12.7 percent increase from the same period last year. In the months July through September, Gleaners distributed 704,964 more pounds of food than in the same period in 2006.

Improved efficiencies by national food companies have had a devastating effect on surplus supplies for emergency food centers. The agency reports that the 35 percent decline in donations so far this year is the largest falloff to date.

Also contributing to the food shortage is the diversion of some food and feed crops to ethanol manufacturing.

This is especially hard on Michigan and metro Detroit, which continues to be economically hard hit. In September, United Way's 2-1-1 call center received the highest volume of calls for service since the program was launched in December 2005.

Gleaners Community Food Bank needs to acquire two million pounds of food before Thanksgiving to ensure it can meet the needs of 250,000 people who depend on its emergency food to feed themselves and their families.

Gleaners is asking for help.

"We have thus far been able to meet the demands of our partners, the 400 soup kitchens, shelters, churches and pantries who serve our hungry neighbors," said Gerry Brisson, Gleaners vice president for development. "But without help it is only a matter of time before hungry children, seniors and families will be denied assistance due to lack of food."

Gleaners is seeking monetary donations so it can purchase food. To donate and learn more, visit www.gcfb.org.

Vote is disappointing

I am disappointed that Rep. Thaddeus McCotter voted to support the president's veto of the SCHIP program.

The bill was designed to expand the overwhelmingly successful program to extend health care coverage to cover more of the nation's uninsured children.

It is appalling that the United States is alone among the industrialized nations in its failure to provide for the health of its children. Apparently covering some kids is good enough for Rep. McCotter. Can he really believe it is better to let thousands of children go without health insurance?

Rep. McCotter is willing to sink this country deeper in debt every day to pay for the disastrous war in Iraq. Heaven forbid even a small fraction of that money go to children under SCHIP.

Help domestic violence victims

Domestic violence affects a huge part of our population. In fact, one out of three American women report being abused at some point in their lifetime. And contrary to some misconceptions, domestic violence knows no social or economic boundaries.

Because it knows no boundaries, it preys on the communities where we live, work and play. It also helps to create future abusers, and affects more than just the women involved. It harms children and entire families. That's why it is important to take a stand and work to put an end to this widely pervasive, yet rarely discussed, attacker.

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month, and Verizon Wireless is asking for your help by donating to its HopeLine phone recycling program, which turns no-longer-used wireless phones into support for area domestic violence shelters and organizations, including those throughout Michigan. Wireless phones, batteries and other accessories are collected at Verizon Wireless Communications Stores nationwide and in special collections throughout the year. The phones are either refurbished for reuse or recycled in an environmentally sound way.

Since October 2001, when Verizon Wireless launched its national recycling program, HopeLine has collected more than four million wireless phones. The program has disposed of nearly one million phones in an environmentally sound way and refurbished the remaining phones for resale and reuse. Over the last five years, Verizon Wireless also has distributed more than 45,000 phones with airtime and other features valued at more than $10 million to be used by victims of domestic violence.

So far this year, Verizon Wireless has donated more than $420,000 in cash grants, phones and airtime to shelters and other organizations in Michigan working to support victims of domestic violence and their families. In Plymouth, First Step received a $9,800 grant to help fund case management and advocacy/counseling services to assist more domestic violence survivors.

This October, I highly encourage everyone to dig through their closets, ask friends and family members for their used phones and accessories, and donate as much wireless equipment as possible to the HopeLine program and help make a difference in the lives of the victims in the Plymouth area and throughout Michigan. Equipment can be donated at the following Verizon Wireless locations in the Plymouth area: Canton Corners, 42447 Ford Road, Canton; 35105 Warren Road, Westland; 20580 Haggerty, Northville; and in Circuit City, 36300 Warren Road, Westland.

Lawrence Berkove's own volume pulls together works from the late 19th century.

Local man strikes mother lode of Wild West tales

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

Before retiring from the University of Michigan-Dearborn, professor Lawrence Berkove taught English and American literature.

This past weekend in Nevada, however, the Southfield resident was being recognized for his work on the Sagebrush School of Writers, 19th century authors who lived and wrote about the famous Comstock Lode that yielded $400 million (as much as $600 billion in today's dollars) in the last half of the 1800s.

"These guys were good writers," Berkove said last week as he prepared for the October meeting of the Western Literature Association.

While Berkove is extremely knowledgeable about Ambrose Bierce, Samuel L. Clemens, Bret Harte and Dan DeQuille, perhaps the most well-known of the sagebrush writers, he is considered an expert on Sam Davis and other lesser known authors of the time.

"Larry has virtually single-handedly recovered long-forgotten works from 19th century Nevada," said Cheryl Glotfelty, a faculty member at the University of Nevada at Las Vegas.

She was to present a paper — entitled Daring Acts of Literary Recovery: Lawrence I. Berkove and the Sagebrush School — at the association meeting.

While it's nice to be recognized, Berkove said his lifelong research has been rewarding in its own right. "All the work I've done (since the 1950s, as an assistant instructor at the University of Pennsylvania) has been demanding," he said, "but fascinating."

Among the most rewarding developments, he said, occurred in the 1990s when he interviewed the granddaughter of Sam Davis, who among other things was a newspaper writer in Nevada.

As part of an interview about her grandfather, Berkove recalled, he examined several original manuscripts. "I was about to leave," he said, "when she said, 'Don't you want to see the rest?'"

"Davis' granddaughter had an entire trunk of notes, personal letters and other (largely unpublished) material."

He spent months copying materials in that trunk, Berkove recalled. "And now I am the expert on Sam Davis," he said.

Gail Berkove, his wife and a psychologist in Southfield, said she has enjoyed her husband's research and life's avocation almost as much as he has. "He's like a detective," she said.

Berkove said retirement is rewarding. But he still enjoys working with students, as he did in the summer of 2003, when he taught summer school at Elmira College.

"I've always enjoyed teaching," he said.

Patriots pull upset special, stun Monroe

Fortin's return fuels 39-38 win

BY BRAD EMONS

Livonia Franklin brought out its secret slingshot - David Fortin - to pull off an upset of GIANT proportions in the opening round of the state football playoffs.

The Patriots, who earned the last spot in the 256-team MHSAA field as a 5-4 at-large, got 238 yards rushing from the 5-foot-10, 195-pound junior Friday night to stun host Monroe in double-overtime, 39-38.

Franklin moves on to the Division 1-Region 2-District 2 championship game to face 8-2 Dearborn Fordson, which advanced Friday with a 35-7 win over Taylor Truman.

Fortin, who was a starter as a sophomore, hadn't played since the opening game of the season in a 26-17 loss to Westland John Glenn after suffering a broken ulna bone (in his forearm).

The hard-running up-back didn't look at all rusty after missing eight games although

Close shave Spartans fend off Wildcats, 27-21

In a game that was capped by four of the wildest, drama-packed, comeback-filled minutes imaginable Friday night, unbeaten and No. 4-ranked Livonia Stevenson survived against never-say-die Plymouth.

Led by a junior back-up quarterback who's been chomping at the bit all season to show his stuff, and a defense that registered big plays when it absolutely had to, the host Spartans persevered against the Wildcats, 27-21, in a Division 1 pre-district contest played in mild, misty conditions. The 10-0 Spartans, whose most recent postseason victory came 13 years ago against Howell, meets Novi (9-1) at 7 p.m. this Friday night in a district final. Novi advanced with a 13-9 triumph Friday night over Livonia Churchill.

Plymouth closed out first-year head coach Mike Sawchuk's first season with a 6-4 record - and a serious dose of respect from those in attendance Friday night.

On a very wet Friday night at Novi, Livonia Churchill came within inches of raining on the Wildcats' prep football playoff parade.

Novi junior linebacker Pat Favorite stopped Churchill's Daran Carey just inches short of the goal line with 8:45 left, and the Vikings toughed out a narrow 13-9 Division I-Region 4-District 1 playoff win.

"We thought we had a good plan and we were playing hard," Churchill coach John Filiatraut said afterward. "(But) we made two big mistakes in the first half, and when you're playing a good defense like Novi's, you can't afford to do that."

The victory sends Novi (9-1) to the district final Friday against unbeaten Livonia Stevenson (10-0), who likewise fought off a challenge from a decided underdog in posting a 27-21 win over Plymouth (6-4).

But it comes only after a tense second half Friday, when the Vikings built a 13-0 lead only to watch Churchill battle back after the break.

The Chargers (7-3) tried an inside kick to start the second half. Novi recovered, but promptly fumbled on the first play, a miscue recovered by senior linebacker Joe DiCicco. That Churchill drive stalled at the Novi 6-yard-line, but it helped Churchill win a field position battle.

After Novi was forced to punt, Churchill's Matt Kowalis (12 carries, 69 yards) rumbled 47 yards to cap a 50-yard, six-play drive that pulled the Chargers within 13-7. A safety on Novi's next possession made it 13-9.

The Chargers took the ensuing kickoff at the Novi 49 and worked their way downfield. It appeared the Wildcats had stopped Churchill when quarterback Grant Morgan's pass fell harmlessly incomplete. But the Wildcats were flagged for pass interference, giving Churchill new life at the Novi 3.

But with 8:45 left in the game, Favorite stuffed Carey just shy of a touchdown.

"I thought he was close, and I just grabbed him and pulled him back as hard as I could," Favorite said. "I got some help from my teammates, but I was pulling as hard as I could."

Filiatraut said the play was designed to go wide, but Carey saw an opening upfield.

"We thought we could get to the edge, but (Carey) cut it up," the coach said. "It was a good running back decision, but (Favorite) just made the play."

Churchill had one last shot, but Novi's Garrett Green intercepted a halfback-option pass with 5:10 remaining, and Novi ran out the clock.

Novi's Arshaun Hall gave the Wildcats a 7-0 lead with a five-yard touchdown run with 4:38 left in the first quarter, and the Wildcats scored 44 seconds into the second quarter (a one-yard run by quarterback Mark Heard) for the 13-0 lead.

Hall, a 5-11 senior running back, finished with 80 yards on 27 carries.

Neither team had much success running the ball - Novi 38-for-89 and Churchill 38-for-89.

The Wildcats had 88 in the air to Churchill's 76 and led in first downs, 10-7.

our kids played with a lot of pride tonight and I was happy with the way they hung in there.

"We've won a lot of games by wide margins this season and now we've had two games in a row in which the score has been close and we haven't panicked. We didn't close it out real well, but I think that's part of the learning process."

Facing late-game, uphill scenarios that may have forced lesser teams to pack it in, the Wildcats kept clawing and nearly wiped out 20-7 and 27-14 deficits in the contest's final four minutes.

"The most important thing our entire coaching staff tried to instill in these kids from the very first day was that you can't quit - you have to keep battling - both on and off the football field," Sawchuk said.

Stevenson played without starting senior quarterback Mitchell White, who was injured early in last week's 14-0 victory over Brighton.

In stepped junior Jacob Gudeman, who brushed off a few early-game jitters to complete 11-of-20 passes for 175 yards and a TD. He also may have earned the nickname Jake "The Snake" by slithering out of several near sacks and rushing for 37 yards.

"I've been a starter my whole life before this year, so I was happy to get a chance to start tonight," Gudeman said. "I was a little nervous early in the game, but Mitchell (White) and coach Gabel helped me calm down. It took me a little while to get into my groove."

The scoreless first quarter was monopolized for the most part by both teams' defenses. Stevenson drove to Plymouth's 23 on its initial possession, but was turned back when Wade Stahl was stopped for no gain by Connor Martin on a fourth-and-two play.

The scoreboard was lit up for the first time with 8:30 left in the first half when Austin White - Mitchell's younger brother - hauled in a 3-yard scoring pass from Gudeman, climaxing a 10-play, 66-yard drive. Jonny Myshock's point after - his first of three on the night - made it 7-0.

Plymouth evened the count at 7-all with 1:32 remaining in the half when running back Myron Puryear finished off an eight-play march with a 2-yard scoring plunge. Michael Korona tacked on the first of his three PATs. The drive was set up by Ronnie Goble's fumble recovery at the Stevenson 35.

Taking over at its 20 with 92 ticks left in the half, Stevenson appeared to regain the advantage on the first play of its next drive when Gudeman and Austin White hooked up on an 80-yard scoring strike. However, the TD was called back due to a holding penalty.

Undaunted, Gudeman rifled a perfectly thrown spiral returned the kickoff 47 yards to the Franklin 44 and two plays later, Willie Johnson hit Alex Russo for a 22-yard TD pass with only 38.6 seconds left to send the game into OT (following Nielsen's PAT).

In the first OT, with each team getting four downs from the 10-yard line, Monroe scored on first down as Willie Johnson connected with Harris out of the backfield, while Franklin needed a clutch fourth down pass from Carpenter to Cole Kelly. (Both teams made the point-after to knot the count at 32-all.)

In the second OT, Franklin got the ball first as Fortin went 6 and then 4 yards (carrying tacklers into the end zone) for a score.

With a 39-32 advantage, Monroe responded with Willie Johnson's 5-yard TD run on third down.

The Trojans then lined up for the extra point and Franklin was called offside, putting the ball inside the 2. The subsequent snap from center sailed high and Willie Johnson couldn't corral it. The junior picked up the loose ball and rolled out to his left, but couldn't find an open receiver in the end zone. His pass was batted down by Carpenter and the Patriots stormed onto the field in jubilation.

"This is the biggest thing I've experienced either playing or coaching," Franklin coach Chris Kelbert said, "And I played in a state championship game. Just the way it we started the game, I just didn't know. But this group of kids refused to stop playing."

Monroe, which ended its season at 8-1 and was the top seed in Region 4, outgained the Patriots slightly in total offense, 392-386.

Following the loss, Monroe connected with Martin on a 12-yard TD pass with 3:35 left to cut Plymouth's deficit to 20-14.

Stevenson appeared to put the game on ice with 54 seconds to play when Stahl took a reverse hand-off 54 yards to the end zone to make it 27-14.

However, Plymouth responded 22 seconds later when Gregory lofted a perfect pass to Alexander Minch who sprinted past the Spartans' secondary to finish off a 59-yard TD, bringing the 'Cats to within 22-21.

Stevenson's Steve Eideh sealed the win when he pounced on an onside kick at the 30.

Austin White led the winners' ground game with 81 yards on 18 carries. Senior Myles White, Mitchell's twin brother and the older sibling of Austin, caught three passes for 60 yards. Stahl was dangerous all night, gaining 79 yards on seven carries while catching a pair of passes for 44 yards.

Puryear closed out a fine senior year with 122 yards on 24 attempts. Plymouth starting quarterback Matt Skubik was 4-of-12 for 42 yards while Gregory finished 3-of-8 for 80 yards and two TDs.

"We knew after watching the film that we could play with them," Sawchuk said. "They were a little bit bigger than us and they made a couple more plays than we did, that's all there was to it."

he fumbled three times, losing two.

"It feels great," Fortin said of the arm. "But I was getting mad. I promised the team I wouldn't fumble again. I lost it three times. I don't like to make excuses, but the first one the ball was a little wet. I feel fresh actually. I've got to hand it to my linemen - that's where it all starts. My line blocked perfectly."

Franklin trailed 15-0 with 7:35 remaining in the third quarter after Monroe's Jessie Johnson scored on a 41-yard touchdown run followed by coach Greg Hudkins questioned officials as they were leaving the field following the muffed extra point attempt.

"I thought one of their guys jumped offside, but I don't want to take anything away from Franklin," said Hudkins, who coached five seasons at Livonia Clarenceville. "We were kicking it (the final extra point). It was not designed to go for two. It was a bad snap. But if it was offside, I'll just flip out because then I would have gone for two and the win."

Fortin's performance, meanwhile, was extraordinary to say the least after missing a huge chunk of the season.

"I had to pull him many times off the sideline," Kelbert said. "His desire to get back on the field was so intense. That built-in frustration came out tonight. As far as our game plan, he was 'the' run game. Did I know it was going to work that well? No, I can't say I thought it would be like that."

Fortin had 238 of the Patriots' 235 net yards rushing. "I got a little winded, but I feel I'm getting back in shape," he said. "I've been waiting all too long."

Franklin's offense sputtered in the first half as Monroe took a 7-0 lead just before the half ended when Harris broke loose 80 yards for a TD with only 34.4 seconds to go.

"This game was an example of our whole season - the first half we come out slowly and come on later," said Kelbert, whose Patriots are 6-4 overall. "We couldn't do it right the first half. We made some adjustments, but it was an attitude speech, not Xs-and-Os. We had to get our heads up and keep playing the second half."

Rocks outlast Glenn spikers in 5

Westland John Glenn's Brittany Holbrook had a "monster night," but it wasn't enough Wednesday as the host Rockets fell in five games on Senior Night to Salem in a WLA-Lakes Division girls volleyball match.

Holbrook racked up 30 kills, 19 digs, five blocks and three ace serves, but Salem prevailed by rallying in the final two games by scores of 25-21, 22-25, 23-25, 25-13, 15-8.

The visiting Rocks improved to 33-12 overall and finish 6-4 in the division, while Glenn falls to 19-4 overall and 3-7.

"This was the last game of the regular season, we really wanted to send our seniors out on a winning note tonight," Glenn coach Julian Wargo said. "We came out fired up and ready to play, and were able to maintain a lot of that emotion through the night, especially the second and third games."

Glenn senior outside hitter Kirstin Kirk finished with 56 digs and four kills, while senior libero Aranda Phare had 29 digs.

Junior outside hitter Stacey Truskowski added 10 kills, five aces, one block and 15 digs, while freshman hitter Halie Baker had eight kills and six blocks.

"You have to give a lot of credit to Salem - they didn't panic and wore us down in Games 4 and 5," Wargo said. "I think we played some of our best volleyball of the season tonight. Right now, everybody is contributing and that is going to make us a better team in the end."

CHURCHILL 3, W.L. CENTRAL 0: Setters Kristy DeClercq and Kayla Johnston combined for 37 assist-to-kills Wednesday as WLA-Lakes Division champion Livonia Churchill (37-2-3, 10-0) defeated Walled Lake Central in three games, 25-12, 25-16, 25-20.

Ashley Price and Brianna Taylor led the Patriots with nine kills apiece, while Brittany Taylor added seven.

Libero Amy McGaughey paced the defense with 20 digs, while Amanda Borieo added eight.

PLYMOUTH 3, WAYNE 0: In a WLA-Western Division match Wednesday, the host Wildcats (29-8-5, 7-3) downed Wayne Memorial (1-23, 0-10) in three games, 25-18, 25-15, 25-11.

The Zebras' Kristen Miller and Emily Rudy recorded four and three blocks, respectively.

In Monday's 25-10, 25-10, 25-14 loss at home to divisional champion Canton, Catie Badrak was Wayne's leading hitter, while recent JV call-up Brandi Pietruszka led the defense.

MU spikers pull off upset vs. reigning NAIA champs

The Madonna University women's volleyball team pulled rank Friday night in the Crusader Classic, upsetting reigning NAIA National champion and fourth-ranked National American (S.D.) in four games, 30-28, 30-23, 22-30, 30-26, at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Monsters in the night

Experts tell how to keep kids safe this Halloween

BY LINDA ANN CHOHIN
STAFF WRITER

Dr. Steve McGraw isn't as concerned about candy tampering this Halloween as broken bones and lacerations. As an emergency room physician, he's treated children who wore costumes hazardous to their health.

McGraw's own little princess will be wearing tennis shoes when he takes McKenna, 8, Erica, 6, Corey, 5, and Carrigan 4, trick or treating while wife Bobi stays home to hand out candy.

"The number one thing we see in the ER are injuries from kids wearing costumes that cause them to fall onto porches or steps and break bones," said Dr. Steve McGraw, an ER physician at Providence Hospital in Southfield. "It's the long flowing gowns of princess outfits and high heels that can cause injuries. Make sure they can walk easily up and down the steps of a porch. In my neighborhood I've seen kids tripping over shoes and gowns. Ninja outfits trip too."

Sgt. Debra Newsome made sure her 3-year-old son's Superman costume was fireproof. Newsome suggests parents check out the Canton Police Department's Halloween Safety Tips at www.cantonpublicsafety.org before letting their little ones go door to door.

Neither the Canton Police or Providence Hospital screens candy anymore because of a decline in real-life ghouls planting razor blades in goodies. Nevertheless, Newsome urges parents to look for signs of tampering or candy which could pose a choking hazard for young children.

"My son is not wearing a mask, but if their child is, make sure the eye holes are big enough to see and there is reflective tape on costumes," said Sgt. Debra Newsome, community relations coordinator for Canton Public Safety. "Parents should have a flash light and always accompany young children. One way to gauge if they're too young to go out alone is if you're not going to leave your child home alone then accompany them. Even in a group they should be accompanied by an adult."

Donna Bucciarelli plans to walk through the neighborhood with her 8-year old daughter Elena. Bucciarelli is trauma prevention coordinator for Beaumont Hospitals and program manager of Safety City U.S.A. which offers classes from fire prevention to Decking Your Halls Safely (Dec. 11). For more information, call (248) 551-0100.

"Halloween is one of those days where I think people for one day of the year let their guard down. They take candy from strangers. Parents should stress never to enter a stranger's home or car to get a treat," said Donna Bucciarelli.

Although the Bucciarelli family lives in Livonia, Elena is trick or treating in Northville after performing at Miss Harriet's Dance Studio where Radio Disney will be broadcasting.

"At the dance studio she'll be a pirate but for the night she'll be in a witch costume," said Bucciarelli. "My husband and I will be with her making sure her costume is not dragging, she has the right shoes to wear, not on roller blades or wheelies. She doesn't have a mask. I worry about masks that might be sharp and if you fall could gash or poke an eye or they could get hurt on witch brooms or devil spears if they did trip and fall."

Like Newsome, Bucciarelli made sure Elena's costume is flame resistant. Decorative contact lenses are forbidden. Bucciarelli says older kids like to change their eye color but don't realize an improper fit or lack of hygiene could cause an infection or corneal abrasion which could lead to blindness.

"We put candles in our pumpkins, luminaries on the walk ways. Anything that's flowing, a cape or edge of a gown could catch fire," said Bucciarelli. "If something does catch fire, tell children don't run; that feeds the fire. Stop, drop and roll."

While Halloween can be hazardous so can the activities leading up to the fun night.

Bucciarelli warns about the danger of carving pumpkins and suggests parents involve their children in drawing a design on paper or cleaning out seeds. She offers safety tips at www.beaumont-hospitals.com, click on news then the press page.

"I tell my daughter to stay on sidewalks and walk ways. She could trip over a sprinkler hose," said Bucciarelli. "It's so dark on Halloween because it's at night when it's spooky."

To prevent anyone from getting lost in the dark, McGraw tells his children to meet at the last house on the corner at the end of each block. Over the years he's seen frost nipped fingers and ears in the ER on Halloween night even when children were out collecting candy for only a couple hours.

"My kids wear long john underwear like they would wear sledding. I always bring mittens and an extra hat, a blanket, and a wagon in case someone gets tired," said McGraw. "I stand with other dads at end of the walk very near the children to prevent kids from venturing off the sidewalk and into the road. With the flashlights it makes it easier for me to keep an eye on them. On Halloween in the ER we see various types of trauma, automobile accidents. People need to be very careful when driving. Children should all have a flashlight to keep from being hit."

To avoid ending up in the ER after Halloween, McGraw limits his children to no more than one piece of candy per day.

"A big load of carbohydrate can constipate, cause severe cramps and they can feel nauseated," said McGraw. "My wife and I give out Snickers bars, but also boxes of raisins. We like to give out healthy foods, granola bars from bulk food places."

Faith may be good for your health

Sue from Madison Heights e-mails and says she and her husband were discussing the power of prayer. Is there any truth that faith can help heal?

Sue, this is a great question.

Researchers have been studying this for years. It all comes down to you. You have to believe!

Researchers found faith, religion and prayer can produce health benefits from an increased lifespan to increased fertility to reduced risk of depression. A 28-year study of more than 5,000 people found those who went to religious services once a week reduced their risk of death by 25 percent. Another study of more than 21,000 people found those who attended religious services lived an average of seven years longer. Experts believe it all has to do with having faith, hope and being happy.

Ann from Taylor e-mails asking if there's any new news out about breast cancer.

Actually, Ann, there is and it is good news. A new study found the death rate from breast cancer continues to drop steadily by about 2 percent a year. There's more good news — breast cancer rates also fell. For women over age 50, the rates fell by almost 5 percent. Experts from the American Cancer Society say women have a lower chance of dying from breast cancer than they did decades ago. They say prevention is key. Proper nutrition and exercise is critical to prevent breast cancer and any disease.

Tips ensure all members of the family stay safe this Halloween

Costumed strangers, loud noises and a steady stream of visitors can make Halloween festivities frightening or even dangerous for companion animals, according to the Michigan Humane Society. MHS offers the following tips to help ensure a safe Halloween season for all family members:

Along with plenty of angels, there may be vicious pranksters in the area looking to tease, steal or harm animals on Halloween. Avoid leaving animals outside except under close supervision. The Michigan Humane Society recommends keeping cats indoors at all times but it is especially important several days before and after Halloween.

A dog or cat could dart outside when the door is opened for trick-or-treaters. Consider placing your companion animal in a safe, quiet room with a favorite toy and comfortable bedding. If he is nervous or frightened, play quiet music to help minimize stress.

Make sure your dog or cat is wearing current identification at all times. The MHS recommends an ID tag affixed to his collar as well as a permanent form of ID such as a microchip. If he escapes and becomes lost, having identification greatly increases the chance he will be returned to you.

Resist the temptation to feed an animal trick-or-treat candy and keep it out of your pet's reach. Chocolate is toxic to many animals. Also, tin foil and cellophane candy wrappers can be hazardous if swallowed.

Keep animals away from lit candles and jack-o'-lanterns which can pose a serious hazard. Keep this in mind if trick-or-treating with your dog.

If you dress your companion animal for Halloween festivities, introduce the costume two or three days in advance and make sure he is not uncomfortable or stressed by it. The costume should not restrict movement, vision, hearing or the ability to breathe or bark. Costumes that cover the animal's eyes, nose or ears are not recommended.

According to a survey by Pets Supplies "Plus," 29-percent of pet owners dressed their dogs for the festivities last year. Before putting the family pet into that Superdog or Princess Pooch costume, consider these tips from Pet Supplies "Plus."

Make sure the costume has no small or dangling pieces that a dog may chew on. Elastics, plastics and other pieces are choking hazards or may cause intestinal blockage.

Costumes must fit well. If they're too loose, dogs may trip on them. Lightweight fabrics are best to prevent overheating. Remember dogs have thick fur coats and respond to temperatures differently than humans. Supervise costumed dogs at all times to ensure they stay comfortable and safe.

If you plan on walking your pet outside on Halloween, Petland in Westland suggests owners take their stroll before dark, keep their dog on a shorter-than-normal leash and away from groups of children and other pets. Petland agrees with MHS about keeping chocolate away from pets. Chocolate contains theobromine which in large quantities can be fatal to pets. 10-ounces of milk chocolate and considerably less of unsweetened baking chocolate can be a lethal dose for small pets, especially those weighing 20-pounds or less. Donna Kurdziel, Petland's owner, says to call your veterinarian immediately if the animal has eaten chocolate.

When children are involved, take time with relationship

I have recently become engaged to a good guy. He has two sons from a previous relationship and is looking forward to having at least two more with me. The problem is that his children are out-of-control and I do not want to have anything to do with bringing more children into this situation. We have been together for about six months and I have serious questions about his parenting skills. He is a wonderful person, but he ignores the misbehavior of his kids and wants me to do the same. I have no control over this area of our lives and it is a constant source of stress for me. Is there any hope in this situation or am I fooling myself that things will change?

Chat Room

learning about another person and deciding if a relationship is possible.

You seem to recognize this for yourself. You are concerned about his parenting skills and this is an area that needs to be addressed before you commit to a long-term relationship. What happens if you get married and then find out that he does not want to change anything about the way that he handles misbehavior? It's far better to address these issues now rather than learn to live with them later.

Talk to him and tell him your concerns. Decide as a couple what needs to be done to correct this situation and then do it. You might take parenting classes or talk to a counselor or pursue some other avenue. But the key is to do it as a couple and to do it before the relationship goes any further. In this way, you can make an informed decision about your future and what part, if any, you will play.

Do not ignore the stress that you are experiencing and do not hope that it will be all better with time ... because it won't. Only if these issues are resolved in the present can there be any hope for a future together.

My husband and I recently caught our 13-year-old son visiting "adult" Web sites. He was grounded from going online for a one month. The problem is that his computer is in his room and we can't always be sure that he is not going online when he is in his room. Do you have any advice about how we can better police his online use? I'm sure that we're not the only parents dealing with this problem.

While it is inappropriate for your son to visit these sexually explicit Web sites, it is important to remember that his curiosity and interest in sex is not. I hope that you and your husband take this opportunity to talk to him about sex and why he wanted to go to these Web sites. Talk to him about your concerns and address any questions that he may have. As awkward as this may be, I know that you want him to get this type of information from you and not from some adult Web site.

Once this line of communication is opened, you can begin helping your son to make more appropriate online decisions. Help him to see that the following suggestions are to help him make these kinds of choices and are not meant as a punishment for him. These suggestions may also keep him safe from online predators.

To begin, I would activate the parental controls available through your internet provider. These can be customized to your son's age and may even provide you with a regular report card listing all Web sites visited.

In addition, I would encourage you to relocate his computer to a more public area of the home. By placing it outside of his private space, he may feel less secure that his online activity will be unobserved and may be less inclined to risk visiting inappropriate sites. It is also important that you actually come into the room while he is online to create the idea that he is being supervised. Do not follow a pattern but rather come in randomly to let him know that you can and will pop in unannounced.

Finally, I suggest that you keep talking to him about this as well as anything else that comes up. The best method for keeping a young person out of trouble is to engage them and let them know that you care for them and will be there for them if and when they need you. The earlier that this communication is established, the more effective it will be.

As much as your son may protest these changes, tell him that they are a non-negotiable part of his continued online use. Remind him that these measures are not a punishment but rather supportive actions intended to help him to make better online choices. These measures, especially the communication, may also increase the positive decisions that he makes in the real world as well.

Homeowners spare no expense on Halloween decorations

Looking for a good SCARE

The Piendzia home in Garden City turns scary this time of year.

The last week of September, kids on the school bus start looking for the monsters in Jim and Wilma Stoops' yard on Hanford, between Ridge and Beck. It's not unusual for the driver to stop the vehicle to look at the decorations as Halloween creeps closer.

Some of the ghouls do scare passers-by but the majority were intended to make the holiday fun. For those looking for a good scare, homes in Garden City, Livonia and every community in between display graveyard scenes, scarecrows and pumpkins all aglow. Like many of the decorators, Jim Stoops started creating the characters in September from old clothes and straw. Stoops displayed his first monster about 16 years ago after moving into the Canton home built in 1898. This year, fog machines boil over cauldrons as dead bodies lay on the ground near a headless horseman. The newest acquisition is a carriage pulled by two horses with a macabre scene inside. While the plastic decoration was purchased, Stoops makes most

Gala to raise funds for hospital renovations

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

It's true this year St. Mary Mercy Hospital's annual gala is jam packed with entertainment and gourmet food, but more importantly it's all for a good cause — the Behavioral Medicine Department. As vice president of the hospital's foundation, Richard DeLoof is leading the way to renovate the area that provides inpatient care for those battling chemical dependency and mental health disorders such as depression, anxiety, prolonged grief and loss issues, and schizophrenia. An intensive outpatient program offers treatment for addictions as well.

"It's a great plus for our patients," said Richard DeLoof. "We look to improving the health of patients."

Kelly Domagal used the hospital's inpatient rehabilitation unit as a guideline to envision the space which is sensitive to patients' emotional and physical needs. She then met with an interior designer to update every aspect of the Behavioral Medicine department including furnishings.

"We're using the newest products — a vinyl floor with grips to prevent falls," said Kelly Domagal, director of the Behavioral Medicine Department and an R.N. "The day room where most general activities takes place, we're making it more homelike. This is where group therapy and interactions occur. We'll have an occupational workshop with tables to adapt to wheelchairs and we're creating an interview room for therapy."

"Presently our inpatient is 70-percent occupancy. We would like to go to 90 percent. Inpatient mental health has been growing five years but especially the last year. Detroit Riverview closed and the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and there's an urgency to have more beds available. St. Mary's wants to utilize more beds. We're licensed for 31, but average about 22. We need for it to be more comfortable and therapeutic for patients."

Domagal estimates the entire renovation at $900,000.

The first phase begins at the end of the year and should cost between $450,000 to $500,000. DeLoof is counting on the gala to raise over $150,000 just like last year. In the past galas and golf outings supported improvements in cardiovascular and oncology services.

The hospital currently is running a capital campaign to provide the latest care in these areas so DeLoof looked for a new cause.

For several years, proceeds from the galas went to fund the hospital's new cancer center which opened in late September.

"We started driver's license evaluation about one month ago (outpatient for substance abuse). We have new medication to get off of illegal drugs, Vivitrol injections for alcoholics. New services create needs," said Domagal. "We serve uninsured and under insured in our area. Most health insurance covers only 50-percent of mental health and chemical dependency. We limit the amount of treatment people can receive. Research shows these are brain disorders and treatment works. Most are chronic conditions and require ongoing treatments."

Katherine Daudlin is making sure the gala is a success so patients can receive the mental health and substance abuse care but people will definitely be invited to join pros on the floor at the end after they put on a wonderful show," said Rose Kachnowski of Livonia. "It's a concert with dancers, a sit down dinner and silent auction with musically oriented items like wines with names like Symphony. We try to put a musical twist on everything in the silent auction. The orchestra's music will all be dance orientated with tangos, rhumbas. These are all professional dancers or very good dancers doing this."

Anja Walthall and partner Tom Desjardin twirl through a waltz, cha cha, Viennese waltz, and quick step before the night is done. Walthall first stepped onto the dance floor 30 years ago.

"I got bit by the disco bug and before I knew it I was competing and on Dance Fever. There are competitions everywhere every weekend," said Anja Walthall who teaches dance privately in Livonia.

"I have a lot of students who dance for pleasure because it's something wonderful to do with your spouse or as a single to meet people. Ballroom dancing is mentally and physically demanding so it keeps you young and healthy."

Walthall says the craze over ballroom dancing started back 8 to 10 years ago when it was proposed as an Olympic sport.

"There's a TV show every few years about dancing," said Walthall, 48. "So You Think You Can Dance and Dancing with the Stars brought it into the spotlight. I never miss the shows. Ballroom dancing is a throwback to when men were gentleman and ladies, ladies and you dressed up and were active. It's a fantastic stress reliever and a social outlet, just a wonderful way to get out and be social and be fit."

Dave Michalski has been doing ballroom dancing since the 1980s for many of the same reasons. He and partner Hope Larson perform a waltz, fox trot and the up tempo Viennese waltz.

"It's just so much fun, the exercise and meeting people," said Dave Michalski, 59 of Livonia. "Once a week I dance all over town, different studios, singles dances. That's how I met my wife. She came over and said I'd like to learn that."

Michalski took up dancing about the time disco started. "I originally started with Arthur Murray's, probably the only place teaching the disco stuff. That got me into the other dances and I was hooked," said Michalski, who's semi-retired. He works as a baker and assistant manager at Joe's Produce. "I watch Dancing with the Stars and So You Think You Can Dance all the time to see how things are progressing. They come out with new steps."

Michalski and Walthall will be joined on the dance floor for a waltz and Viennese waltz by Tom and Yvonne McCloud. In addition to raising money from the dinner and ballroom performances, Kachnowski said Baker's Square certificates will be sold for $11 at the event and the Dec. 1 Santa Claus Symphony concert. $3 out of each certificate goes to the symphony.

"We're trying to raise funds any way we can," said Kachnowski, LSO vice president of development. Kachnowski's son John and daughter Leslie play with the orchestra. "The musicians all donate services for this concert. We've had two volunteers come forth to entertain. Bob Bennett offered to play some piano music when people are coming in, and we'll have a harpist during dinner who's also donating services for the silent auction. At our concert on Saturday night (Oct. 20) my daughter donated an apple pie to go with the American theme to raise money to buy silent auction items. Our community is so lucky to have this orchestra."

"The Hearing Test"

Licensed Michigan Audiologist

A diagnostic hearing test evaluates the extent or degree of hearing loss in each ear. It is performed by an Audiologist in a sound proof booth via earphones with the use of an audiometer. The perception of sound, the understanding of speech and the function of the middle ear are all tested. If the Audiologist suspects a medical condition, he or she will refer you to your primary care physician, or to an otology specialist. (Hearing loss is caused by medical problems about 5-10% of the time.) When the testing is completed, the Audiologist will thoroughly explain the results of the hearing assessment and make any necessary recommendations.

of the monsters.

"On Halloween day, Jim and I dress in costumes to go out and greet the kids," said Wilma Stoops, a registered nurse in the surgical ICU unit at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. "They give us pictures that they draw of our yard. We started with one dummy, George. It's the only thing we've ever had stolen."

After 40 years of marriage nothing surprises Wilma when it comes to Jim's creativity. "I used a reindeer head (from Christmas decorations) to animate the wolfman," said Jim Stoops. "A couple years ago I made her mother a dummy. She put it on a chair on the porch of her Main Street home in Plymouth."

None of the Stoopses' four grandchildren under age 10 have ever been scared by the monsters. It seems grandparents especially enjoy thrilling not chilling youngsters with the creations.

Mike Bernacchi believes Halloween home decorations is a baby boomer phenomenon. A marketing professor at the University of Detroit Mercy, Bernacchi tracks the numbers that reveal the unabated growth of merchandising for the fun holiday.

"Baby boomers have always been noted for having a good time. The decade of the 1990s is probably where the magnificent growth started," said Bernacchi of Huntington Woods. "The National Retail Federation says it's about $1.4 billion. What folks don't realize is it's the second biggest home decoration time of year only surpassed by Christmas. I started to follow it in the late 1980s. Halloween sales are about $5 billion total with candy. It's no longer just a day. We now have the Halloween season which begins as soon as the back to school market starts to dwindle. We are baby boomers who are now grandparents and passed it onto our kids."

Two weekends ago, Tom and Sue Formes' five grandchildren, ages 4-11, helped put up the graveyard scene at their home at 9533 Hartel, east of Middlebelt, one block south of West Chicago in Livonia. Tom handmade the wrought iron cemetery fencing out of wood.

"My husband wants to make it more scarier," said Sue Formes. "He has a TV in one of the headstones and on Halloween night plays one of the Scream DVDs. The kids have fun with it. The best part of the holiday is watching the kids."

Three-year old Logan Piendzia says he's not afraid of monsters in his parents' yard at 29700 Brown Ct. in the Henry Ruff and Marquette area of Garden City.

His father, Michael Piendzia, began creating the graveyard scene about seven years ago from masks and clothes stuffed with hay.

"Michael does most of it," said his wife, Lynn Piendzia. "We might buy one thing a year at Halloween USA. Logan and his friends like to run around and play by the ghouls. We keep the big guy inside the front door because he cost a lot but nobody's ever taken anything. On Halloween night, my husband dresses up and moves through this not to scare the little ones but older kids."

Bernacchi has seven kids, more than double that in grandkids. He'll do his fair share of spending for Halloween which has grown into a multibillion dollar business that includes more than candy and decorations.

"We made it big time," said Bernacchi, 66. "There's always discussion about what you're going to be for Halloween. As a grandparent I send gift cards for Halloween. There's been amazing growth in the market for books. Go into Barnes & Noble and Borders and look at Halloween books for children. This business never existed in the '50s and '60s. From Snoopy to Clifford the Big Red Dog, everybody has a Halloween story."

"There's a growth of Halloween specials on television. Whether it's media, merchandise, movies, debuting Halloween 27 1/2, this is the time when we do it. The haunted house industry has grown. It may be the No. 2 day for decorations, but now it's in the top 5 or 6 for greeting cards. It's a worthwhile industry that transports you from back to school to Christmas without missing a step. It's the one day when the word fun is appropriate. Halloween is America's No. 1 fun holiday."

Times have changed with the new Lexus IS 350

Advertising Feature

CAReport

By Dave Menard
Avanti News Features

Time was (he said, in his best "old man" voice), when you could either get luxury or sportiness, but not both together. Times have changed, and several automakers, including Volvo, Cadillac, BMW, Infiniti, Acura and Lincoln have successfully developed the luxury sport segment.

Toyota's luxury marque, Lexus, has been in the game since the start and has a couple of stellar entries in this segment. One of those is the 2007 IS 350.

Introduced for the 2006 model year, the IS 350 is an all-wheel drive sedan. Its sibling, the IS 250, comes as either a rear- or all-wheel drive. The IS 350 comes with 17-inch, 10-spoke aluminum alloy wheels (18-inch wheels are a $720 option), dual chrome exhaust tips, dual high-intensity discharge headlamps (high-intensity headlamps with Adaptive Front Lighting are available for $875), puddle lamps mounted on the underside of the outer mirrors, shark fin radio antenna, foglamps, and color-keyed heated outside mirrors. Its low front end and wide stance make this a smart-looking package with nice lines and a sleek overall look.

Inside, the IS 350 is sharp. The cockpit is well laid out and looks like a performance car should. The instrument panel houses the tachometer, a 160 mph speedometer and the fuel and coolant gauges. You get a trip computer, automatic dual-zone climate control, manual tilt steering column topped off with a leather-trimmed steering wheel (which includes audio controls) a power moonroof, cruise control, power windows and locks and a programmable garage door opener.

The 10-way adjustable power seats are leather-trimmed and they provide good support. You can opt for that package that gives you heated and ventilated front seats, wood interior trim and perforated leather ($1,290). There's plenty of room up front; the rear seating area is a little tight for adults stuck behind a tall driver, but should be adequate for most passengers. The rear seats fold down for more cargo room. The front door pockets fold down for storage and they also include water bottle holders.

The standard audio system is an AM/FM/six-disc CD system with 13 speakers and rated with 194 watts of power. It's a pretty good system, but you can upgrade to a Mark Levinson Audio System which gives you 14 speakers, a

The 2007 Lexus IS 350 combines luxury-car style and sports-car performance.

DVD changer, and 300 watts of power. Both systems come with an auxiliary input for your iPod or other mp3 player.

You can also get a navigation system with the IS 350 ($2,550). The system is optional, but includes a feature I'd like to see become standard on all vehicles - the rear camera. It's great to be able to see behind the vehicle when backing up and it could be a life saver. The navigation system itself is clear and easy to use, and also allows you to use your Bluetooth-enabled devices.

So much for the "luxury" part of the luxury sport sedan, now let's look at the "sport" section. The IS 350 comes with a 3.5-liter DOHC, 24-valve V6 engine rated at 306 horsepower and 277 lb.-ft. of torque. It's mated with a six-speed automatic with steering-wheel-mounted paddle shifters for more control, if you choose. The IS 350 can go 0-60mph in an estimated 5.6 seconds, so you know you'll get power off the line. EPA rates the mileage of the IS 350 at 21/28 on premium fuel. The six-speed automatic shifts smoothly, but you can always do it yourself.

The IS 350 comes with one of those "new and improved" features I'm rather ambivalent about: push-button start/stop. Yes, the push button means you don't need to actually take your key out of your pocket or purse, but on some models, when the fob battery dies, you can't start the car. It's a personal thing, I guess - I prefer a real key.

The IS 350 got an all-new front and rear suspension system last year, plus new steering and brakes. The front suspension features a double-wishbone system with a high-mount upper control arm and gas-filled shocks. In the rear, it's a multi-link system with high-mount upper arms, coil springs and gas-filled shocks. The result is a tight ride with some road feel, but not enough to make long journeys unpleasant. Speed-sensing power-assist steering is standard and the IS 350 handles very well in tight spots. The standard anti-lock brakes are very good.

Dual-front airbags, front-seat-mounted side airbags, knee airbags for the front seat passenger and driver, and side-curtain airbags are all standard on the IS 350.

The IS 350 starts at about $36,000. Add the larger wheels, upgraded seats, high-intensity headlamps and navigation system and you're up around $42,000.

It's tricky putting together the right combination of luxury and sportiness and Lexus has pulled it off nicely with the IS 350.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT PUT-OFFS

WORKWISE
by Mildred L. Culp

Imagine yourself on a project with a team that seems to be working together, frequently at breakneck speed. Suddenly, you notice an annoying communication pattern. People don't want to work. Some are more obvious about it than others. What should you do? What (BEGIN ITAL)can(EN) you do?

FUELING PUT-OFFS
Before you take action, you need to understand what put-offs are and what fuels them. Matt Eventoff, president of Princeton Public Speaking L.L.C., in Princeton, N.J., defines them as "a pattern of delay, a pattern of avoidance or a pattern of just not answering a question or questions." Think, for example, about e-mails you send that come back with "I'll try to find out." Beware of the tentativeness of "try to," in written and spoken conversation. Eventoff also attributes the problem in part to the constant barrage of messages people receive.

Garrett Gunderson, founding partner of consulting firm Engenuity L.L.C., in Sandy, Utah, says that if something is necessary "or in line with what people truly want," it doesn't get converted into a put-off. (This would suggest a possible need for reminders about how tasks are related to their objectives.) He also maintains that "people get caught in social agreements of mediocrity." One clear sign of this is the person who says he'll get back to you with a response by a certain time and never does. You contribute to that mediocrity by not calling him on it.
Less charitably, you might think that increased put-offs may evolve from failed communication, failed honesty, even lack of commitment. You can't assume that the intent of one put-off is the same of another, Eventoff explains. "The only way to determine it," he states, "is to have a face-to-face conversation. Even then, you don't know if they have had a bad day." They might be keeping information from you. In some cases, you must allow for the need for privacy. That doesn't mean, however, that you must remain perpetually silent.

TAKING CHARGE

Kerul Kassel, author of "Productive Procrastination" (forthcoming, Echelon Press, January, 2008), writes that "pester(ing) . . . doesn't motivate you in a positive way, doesn't build your morale, doesn't endeavor you to the person who did it to you and doesn't make you want to excel for that person." In other words, it's a non-alternative, she indicates, that's become so "automatic" that it undercuts productivity all of the way around.
Eventoff agrees with Kassel about what not to do. He states that "consistent battering and continuing to push for an answer" aren't the answer. These tactics might be interpreted as bullying. "I like to tell people to take a step back and give the (offending parties) an opportunity if they're overloaded, not feeling well or in the middle of something in their family life," he observes. "These can cause lack of focus." You might want to protect yourself and your job further. He advocates documenting your attempts to communicate with problem individuals.
You need to know whether the put-off is temporary or permanent. Ask. Eventoff tells clients to give people a week's breather before reviving the subject. When you do, Kassel recommends asking when they expect to complete the tasks and what resources you can provide.

A spoken "no" can be a very powerful, telling put-off. Recognize it for what it is, a roadblock and an opportunity for you to redirect. The next time around, Kassel advises, "head it off at the pass with a trial run." Eventoff says that redefining is another alternative, along with "almost cutting them off." In other words, don't you procrastinate when others are doing the same. You need not follow their lead.
