Sentence brings quick end to fatal crash case

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Wayne County judge on Friday sentenced a Redford Township teenager to 10-15 years for causing a fatal crash in Westland that killed a Walled Lake man.

However, Probate Judge Frank Szymanski has delayed imposing the full sentence, opting instead to place 16-year-old Ramon Foster in a high-security juvenile facility where he will remain while his case is periodically reviewed, Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Maria Miller said. Foster could be released early if he stays out of trouble and shows improved behavior, or he could serve the full time, if the judge decides he hasn't been rehabilitated. Foster's sentence came after he pleaded guilty to second-degree murder for the Oct. 14 death of 35-year-old Ndalima Yussuf Nzaro. Foster led Westland police on a high-speed chase on eastbound Warren until the Mercedes Benz he was illegally driving slammed into Nzaro's Honda Accord, which was stopped at a traffic light on southbound Merriman. Foster was designated in court as an adult even though he was 15 when the accident happened. "It is truly a tragedy that should never have happened," Westland Police Chief James Ridener said Friday. "As far as the police department is concerned, the sentence is a little light for what he did." However, Ridener acknowledged that the judge took into consideration that Foster was a juvenile, and "we're pleased that the case went through the system as quickly as it did." Foster pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and, in return, prosecutors dropped charges of operating a vehicle while under the influence of a controlled substance and causing a death; first-degree fleeing and eluding; failing to stop at an accident involving injury or death; and operating without a driver's license. Authorities have said Foster, accompanied by other youngsters, was driving at speeds well over 100 mph. Nzaro was on his way to work as a custodian when his Honda Accord and another vehicle were struck. He died two days later at the University of Michigan Hospital.

LeBlanc has perfect attendance for his 1st term in legislature

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

State Rep. Richard LeBlanc, D-Westland, amassed a perfect attendance record during his first two-year term and didn't miss any of the 1,257 roll call votes taken on the House floor.

LeBlanc

"I am dedicated to this position," LeBlanc, 50, said. "When it comes time to vote, I make sure I am there."

In what amounted to an even tougher challenge, he boasted perfect attendance in all four House subcommittees he serves on, including Michigan State Police, military and veterans affairs, transportation, and labor and economic growth. He often found himself darting among meetings, especially since he chaired the police and veterans groups, and he admitted he was lucky that none of the sessions completely overlapped.

"It was a stretch to attend all of them," he said, but he acknowledged that much of the real work gets done in committees.

LeBlanc had pledged early on to bring the same level of commitment to his state House job that he brought to his earlier elected positions on the Westland City Council and the Wayne-Westland school board.

And, although he works in Lansing, he had vowed to maintain close ties to his constituents and his family, a promise he kept by returning home to Westland every evening except one during his first two-year term. On that night, he had one meeting that lasted until 10 p.m. and another that started early the next day, so he stayed in a hotel room.

LeBlanc described himself as proud of his legislative attendance record, but he also defended colleagues who have missed only a few House votes and for good reasons. If he has any regrets, it's that he didn't go to California when he learned that his father would need heart bypass surgery, which was successful.

"I struggled with that for about a day," he said, and upon reflection he believes he should have made the trip.

After starting his second term this month, LeBlanc said it hardly seems possible that he already has finished his first two years in Lansing.

"It seems like a day and a half since I first got the job," he said.

With the help of his cousins, Alan and Mark Eden, Chris Badynee has seen his vision of a cardboard box bass become a reality. Now he's looking for an investor to take it to the next level.

Dreamer: He turns box into upright bass

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

In no way is Chris Badynee a shy person. Give him an opening and he'll gladly talk and talk about his dream musical instrument.

You won't hear about the legendary Fender guitar or the famous Stradivarius violin. No, Badynee conversation revolves around some strings and a box that he and his cousins have turned in the Bogdon Box Bass, an upright bass made out of a cardboard box.

"We have no competition in the whole world," said the Westland resident. "Nobody makes an acoustic upright bass on the cheap."

Badynee has been the pitch man for the bass that bears his father's middle name, for two-three years, according to Alan Eden, Badynee's cousin who helped turn the vision into an actual instrument.

"It was really his idea, we just made it sound like the real thing," Eden said. "We went through a lot of trials and errors to get the bridge piece so it sounded just right."

Badynee has shown off the cardboard box bass at Pine Knob and Nashville and made the circuit of music conventions, landing a best in show for innovation in 2008 from NAMM, the trade association of the international music products industry.

A mailman by day and an entrepreneur by night, Badynee has gone so far as to sing the praises of the instrument in an elevator for MSNBC's Elevator Pitch. Badynee was hoping the three-minute performance would find investors willing to provide $500,000 in capital to take the instrument to a new business level.

"I was so on, it was so great," said Badynee, who traveled to New York City with Eden to tape the segment. "I started playing a lick from the Cosby Kids show."

Badynee happened on the idea of cardboard box bass while remodeling the bathroom of his home following a fire. Alan Eden got drawn into the dream by his father, Dave, who called him to say "I think Chris's got something here." What he saw was a crude version of the box bass, but "it looked like he did have something," Eden said.

Joining Eden, an acoustical engineer, on developing the box bass was his brother, Mark, an electrical engineer. They spent six-eight months developing the box bass, taking into account the shape of the box, the thickness of the bridge and assembly. Mark Eden helped

Detroit man charged in robbery at Rite Aid

Guerin

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Westland police have arrested a Detroit man amid charges he was a pistol-packing bandit who robbed the Rite Aid at Wayne and Ford roads of prescription drugs.

Michael Henry Guerin, 53, was arraigned Thursday in Westland 18th District Court on charges of armed robbery, felony firearm, three felony drug counts and being a habitual offender. He is jailed with a $5 million cash bond as he awaits a Jan. 15 hearing that will determine whether he should stand trial.

A not-guilty plea was entered for him.

Guerin is accused of robbing the pharmacy of more than 7,000 doses of drugs such as OxyContin, Ritalin and morphine during an incident that police said happened at 10:38 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16.

Westland police released a suspect photo to the media and received a tip that led them to Guerin, police Sgt. Steve Borisch said. Officers from the multi-agency Metro Street Enforcement Team executed a search warrant at Guerin's home and, according to Borisch, officers found drugs like those taken from the Rite Aid.

Although a gun was revealed during the robbery, no shots were fired and no one was injured. Surveillance cameras captured pictures of a man while he was walking from the store.

If convicted, Guerin could face penalties ranging up to life in prison.

Man pleads guilty to robbing Best Bank

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A 28-year-old man could spend up to 15 years in prison after he pleaded guilty to robbing a Best Bank branch inside the Kroger store near the northeast corner of Michigan Avenue and Merriman.

Michael John Polgar was sentenced in December in Wayne County Circuit Court after he pleaded guilty to a charge of bank robbery for an incident that happened about 3:20 p.m. Sept. 11.

He was ordered to spend between three years, six months and 15 years in prison, according to the Michigan Department of Corrections. Even with good behavior, his earliest release date will be June 9, 2012.

Polgar had been ordered to stand trial after Best Bank teller Rose Mattes identified him during a Sept. 15 preliminary hearing in Westland 18th District Court as the lone bandit who took nearly $2,000 from her. Her testimony convinced Judge Sandra Ference Cicirelli that Polgar should stand trial.

Mattes accused Polgar of handing her a note and implying that he had a weapon. The note "started that he was coming in for the money from my top drawer and that I had 20 seconds to give it to him," she testified.

Mattes said Polgar told her verbally and also implied in his note that he had a weapon. She said he took the piece of paper with him when he fled the store.

Westland police Sgt. Steve Borisch has said the defendant was captured a few hours later following a similar incident inside a Kroger store near Michigan Avenue and Outer Drive in Dearborn.

Westland police Lt. Dan Karrick has said that authorities retrieved most of the money.

According to the Michigan Department of Corrections, Polgar had a criminal history that included breaking into a vehicle, resisting a police officer, retail fraud, felonious assault and receiving stolen property worth $1,000 to $10,000.

Polgar's decision to plead guilty to the Sept. 11 bank robbery averted what could have been a longer prison sentence. If he had gone to trial and been convicted, he could have faced penalties ranging up to life in prison.

VEGETATION MANAGEMENT NOTICE

ITC will be in the Neighborhood
For Transmission Line Tree Maintenance

Trees and high voltage power lines are a hazardous combination. Trees that come into contact with transmission lines can cause serious system outages and pose a significant safety threat to residents and the public. Even when there is no direct contact, electricity can arc from transmission lines to nearby tree branches, posing personal safety and fire issues.

ITC Holdings Corp., through its subsidiaries ITC Transmission and Michigan Electric Transmission Company, LLC. (METC), owns, operates and maintains more than 8,100 miles of high voltage transmission lines in Michigan's Lower Peninsula. ITC is federally required to maintain its utility corridors to prevent all vegetation-related electrical outages.

ITC has begun vegetation management in its corridors in Livonia, Westland and Canton. Where permissible, the following will occur:

- In areas directly under the transmission line or 10 feet outside of the line, trees will be removed.
- Outside of this area, trees that threaten safety or reliability will be targeted for removal.
- If ITC lacks tree removal rights or permission for removal is not obtained, trees will be pruned to the extent easements permit.

If you have questions about ITC's vegetation management practices, please call 1-877-ITC-ITC9 (1-877-482-4829).

Westland woman faces 3 charges in theft case

Reed

A Westland mother of five is facing a court hearing for accusations she broke into a neighbor's residence, stole her car and drove it to Livonia, where a home invasion occurred.

Angel Latrice Reed, 25, faces a Jan. 15 preliminary hearing after she was arraigned Monday in Westland 18th District Court on charges of first-degree home invasion, auto theft and possession of stolen property.

Reed is jailed with a $250,000 cash bond, and a not-guilty plea was entered for her. Her five children, ages 9 and under, are staying with relatives, police Sgt. Steve Borisch said.

Reed is accused in December of going into a neighbor's unlocked residence at Warren Wood Apartments on Warren west of Venoy, taking a purse, removing the car keys, stealing items from a storage unit and driving off in a car used during a home invasion in Livonia, Borisch said.

A subsequent investigation led police to Reed.

in come up with the hardware so that the box bass can be plugged into an amplifier.

"An instrument can be very expensive, but it doesn't matter what they're made of," said Alan Eden. "If they're properly engineered you can make a box sound like an upright bass."

What the trio came up with is three box basses — a two-string bass with assembly required for $93.80 and two three-string basses for $119.50 and $134.50.

They've sold about 1,000 of the instruments. Thirteen retailers around the country and one in Mexico City carry the box bass and it's also available on the Bogdon Web site at www.bogdonmusic.com.

They've also mailed the box bass to Uruguay, the United Kingdom, Finland and the Swiss Alps.

"We sell about 30-40 a month," said Alan Eden. "Interest spiked a little after the show, but our sales have been steady even with the downturn in the economy."

Admittedly, no one is ready to quit their day job, but Badynee is enjoying himself, pitching the product. His dream is to do it on The Tonight Show.

"My competition is a $1,000 introductory bass. There is no $100 introductory bass, the customer who spends $4,000-$5,000 on a base is buying it," Badynee said. "I'm still hoping an investor will see it. Every sale makes my pitch all the more solid."

Police investigate complaints against defunct funeral home

The Livonia Police Department and a state oversight agency are pursuing more than a dozen complaints that an area funeral home, now out of business, has mishandled pre-paid funeral arrangement funds.

According to Livonia Police Lt. Greg Winn, Livonia police and state investigators served a search warrant at a Canton Township home looking for documents relating to the investigation into the now-closed Ziomek Funeral Home.

"So far there have been 15 criminal complaints," Winn said. "The first complaint came in November of 2007 and they range between $5,000 and $10,000."

According to Detective Dean Langley, the funeral home had sold pre-need funeral arrangements for 16 years before going out of business two years ago.

The funds for those services should have been set in the hands of a third party, an escrow agent to whom both the company and the person who purchased the services would be accessible, Langley said.

"There should be a paper trail," Langley said. "We have not been able to locate it."

Winn said that while some of the people who have filed charges have been reimbursed, others have not. Shelby Township attorney David Forest is representing four people who are trying to get money back from the funeral home owners. In a brief he filed with the state, he states the Ziomek Funeral Home was not licensed to sell pre-paid funeral services.

"Two of them have been reimbursed," he said. "The first went to the Livonia police, they leaned on the owners and they coughed up a check. The other went through the state and they got paid. I suspect the squeaky wheel gets the grease."

The Department of Labor and Economic Growth, Bureau of Commercial Services is also investigating, though department Audit Manager Tim Teague said he could not comment on the details of the investigation.

Former owners Christopher and Nancy Ziomek could not be reached for comment.

Adding Abe artifacts

Museum adds little-seen items to Lincoln exhibit

BY TONY BRUSCATO
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth Historical Museum, which already has the state's largest Abraham Lincoln collection, scored another coup to celebrate the 200th birthday (Feb. 12) of the United States' 16th president.

The museum will have on loan from The Henry Ford in Dearborn four pieces that belonged to Honest Abe in Springfield, Ill., which were sold before he moved to the White House in 1861. They will be the cornerstones of the "In the Presence of Lincoln" display at the Plymouth Historical Museum, from Jan. 21-Nov. 4.

"We're getting two rockers, which belonged to Abe and his wife, Mary," said Dan Packer, Lincoln curator and board member at the Plymouth Historical Museum. "Other than the assassination chair at The Henry Ford, this is second best."

"There's a parlor table, mahogany with claw feet; and a mantle clock which Lincoln was standing next to when the Republican delegation came to him with the nomination for president of the United States," Packer added. "Outside of Springfield, this museum is on par with major museums around the country when it comes to Lincoln."

The search for the items began when ancestors of the man who bought the pieces from Lincoln showed up the Plymouth Historical Museum looking for them. Packer led the family members to The Henry Ford, which - with Packer's help - found them in a warehouse used to store items not on display in the main Dearborn museum. The four items have been displayed to the public before, but it's unlikely many have seen them.

"They had previously been on display at the Logan County Courthouse, where Lincoln practiced law," said Leslie Mio, loan coordinator at The Henry Ford. "But, it's been decades since they were shown."

The Plymouth Historical Museum had to fill out a 50-page facilities report in order to get the items.

"As a result, we've enhanced the level of security in the whole building, not just for the Lincoln items, but for our displays, too," said Liz Kerstens, museum director, who said the four pieces will be put in the former doll house outside the permanent Lincoln room with special humidity and light levels to preserve them.

"It's still a community museum, and nothing will take away from that, but because we will be having items we believe haven't been displayed for such a long time, hopefully the word will get out."

Along with the new items and current Lincoln room display - which includes a lock of Lincoln's hair and the dictionary he used as a child - there will be speakers and workshops during the nearly year-long celebration of Lincoln.

Kerstens is fund-raising to pay for the cost of borrowing the furniture, additional security, advertising and other costs, which she said will be in the "tens of thousands" of dollars. The major sponsor for the event is Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury.

The Plymouth Historical Museum's Lincoln artifacts were purchased in 1998 from Dr. Weldon Petz of West Bloomfield. The museum fund-raised for $150,000 to pay Petz, as well as develop and preserve the display which opened in 2002.

River sleuths

Forget the skates, sleds and come outside to hunt for bugs

BY SHARON DARGAY
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Tom Elliott will look for larvae in the frigid outdoors this month.

"On the face of it, it sounds like the silliest thing a grown person can do," he admitted. "Actually, it's a badge of courage."

That's because his search for the pre-hatched insects will include a walk into the freezing Rouge River and several hours at water's edge, sorting through earth samples.

"Over the years the January search has encountered some of the worst weather the state has thrown at us."

Elliott, a Birmingham resident and an accountant by trade, calls the amateur entomology "a lot of fun," but he wouldn't mind a little sunshine when he and other volunteers gather for the seventh annual Friends of the Rouge Winter Stonefly Search from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 24, at University of Michigan-Dearborn's Environmental Interpretive Center, 4901 Evergreen, in Dearborn.

Families, individuals and children accompanied by a parent, can sign up to take part in the hunt — which helps the organization collect data about the river's health — by calling (313) 792-9621, by Jan. 16. No experience is necessary, although warm clothing is a must.

SAMPLING THE MUCK

Elliott and other team leaders will don waders and walk into the water at various points along the Rouge, scooping up river bed that volunteers on shore will examine for stonefly larvae. The pollution-sensitive bugs live in healthy creeks and rivers, and hatch into adult insects in the winter. The more bugs there are, the better the water quality.

Teams will work on sites in Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Farmington Hills, Farmington, Salem Township and Superior Township. Volunteers have never found stoneflies in the main branch that runs through Birmingham.

"But we have found them in the upper branch, in Farmington and Farmington Hills," said Sally Petrella, Friends director. "They're basically the only insect out in the dead of winter."

"I think they are beautiful. Basically the more of them we find, the better. We hope to find them at a lot of different sites. No one has reported seeing the flying insects," she added, stressing that volunteers will retrieve larvae from the river muck.

COLLECTING DATA

The organization will share its results with the Department of Environmental Quality and communities along the Rouge.

"It helps them to track change over time and evaluate projects to improve the river, to see if they are having an impact."

Friends of the Rouge also conducts a spring and a fall search of the river bed for macro-invertebrates. The winter hunt can be more challenging because of the weather — last year leaders had to hack through the river's frozen crust — but equally as entertaining as its mild weather versions.

"There aren't a lot of opportunities to be outdoors and do activities like this in January," Petrella said, explaining why the winter search draws eager participants. "In January there isn't much going on. People start to get stir crazy."

It's also just plain fun in the middle of winter, says Jeremy Geist, program coordinator for the Clinton River Watershed Council. The organization also plans a winter stonefly search on Saturday, Jan. 24. Hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Volunteers will meet at Yates Roadside Park, along the north side of Avon, between 23 Mile and Dequindre, in Rochester Hills. Register by calling (248) 601-0606 or by emailing to contact@crwc.org.

"Whoever wants to get into the water can," said Geist. "By no means will we be in a fast current. We'll make sure the area we're sampling in will be safe. If people are eager to get in there, we'll give them a net and waders."

Most of the volunteers are likely to stay on land, lending a hand with the sorting process. "You'll see lots of life. It's a funny thing, they are bugs and people are kind of creeped out by it, but it's a good thing to have in our water," he said.

Geist also is offering an aquatic insect identification class from 6-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 27, at the Auburn Hills Community Center. Participants will look at preserved specimens, unlike the river sleuths who will see live larvae.

IRA distributions may be reinvested in a Roth IRA

Q: Dear Rick: I'd like to find out if a person can take a distribution from a traditional IRA and add it to an existing Roth IRA. Would you suggest not taking a distribution this year?

A: The answer to your first question is yes. A person can take a distribution from a traditional IRA and add it to an existing Roth IRA. All you need to do is to follow the rules for a Roth conversion to perform the transaction.

Money Matters

Rick Bloom

crisis, President George Bush recently signed legislation

When someone turns 70½ they are required by law to begin taking required minimum distributions from their retirement account. However, due to the financial that suspends the required minimum distribution rules for 2009. Therefore, for the first time, individuals who are over 70½ have an option as to whether they take a distribution from their retirement account this year.

The first issue when deciding whether to take a distribution is do you need the income. If you need the income continue taking distributions. Those who do not need the income, have another option. It is important to note where you stand with regards to taxes. If withdrawing the money puts you in a higher tax bracket, it may not make sense to take a distribution.

If taking a distribution does not put you into a higher tax bracket, take a distribution, pay your taxes and then reinvest the money either in a Roth IRA (by means of a conversion) or invest the money outside of your retirement

It is important to understand the tax consequences of distributions from retirement accounts. When money is withdrawn from a traditional IRA or a traditional 401(k), it is subject to ordinary income taxes (typically the highest bracket). Money invested outside of a retirement account can be subject to the more favorable capital gain tax bracket. The maximum capital gain tax bracket is 15 percent and many taxpayers find themselves in a 5 percent bracket.

Ordinary income taxes for the average individual are 28 percent and above. The tax bracket for withdrawals from Roth IRAs is zero as Roth IRAs are not subject to income taxes.

In a normal tax year, required minimum distribution from a retirement account is not eligible to be converted to a Roth IRA. However, 2009 is not a typical tax year. Any withdrawal from a retirement account in 2009 can be potentially converted into a Roth IRA. The only requirement is that a taxpayer's adjusted gross income be less than $100,000.

The suspension of required minimum distributions for 2009 also affects individuals who have inherited IRAs. When someone inherits an IRA they have a number of different options as to how that money can be withdrawn. One of the more popular ways is to take a distribution over a five-year period. However, because required minimum distribution rules have been suspended for 2009, an individual can stretch that five-year period over another year.

Like everything else regarding tax laws, there are some potential minefields. One of these affects people who turned 70½ in 2008. In the year that you turn 70½ you do not necessarily have to take a distribution that year. Rather, the law allows you defer the distribution until April 1 of the next year.

For example, someone who turns 70½ in 2008 technically does not have to take their 2008 required minimum distribution until April 1, 2009. If you are in that situation, you still are required to take your distribution by April 1. The reason is that although the law says that you can delay the distribution until April 1, 2009, it is still considered a 2008 distribution. Because the new law only deals with required distributions for 2009, you still must make a 2008 distribution before April 1, 2009.

No matter what advice is given in regard to taxes, the key is to make sure it applies to your situation. In addition, don't let the tax tail wag the dog. The goal is to have more money in your pocket. Good luck!

There's not much glamour behind the Hollywood glitter

I was driving home one day a while ago when I saw that the street was blocked with police cars, their warning lights flashing.

Greg Kowalski

Now what, I thought. But when I approached the intersection blocked by the police, I saw more than police cars: Trailers with huge spotlights were lined up along the curb as well.

This was not a police siege facing a barricaded gunman. It was Drew Barrymore. The police were just on hand to block traffic while a film crew from Hollywood was on site filming a scene for her movie Whip It!

More and more, Hollywood film crews are coming to Michigan to shoot movies, thanks to some generous incentives the state has adopted to make filming here a bargain. Even Birmingham is looking at ways to make the city attractive to potential producers.

I had one up-close view of a Hollywood film crew and what it takes to make a movie, and that forever stripped away any visions of glamour.

It was in the summer of 1977, when the film crews rolled into town to film a scene for the movie Blue Collar. This was something. Blue Collar was a major film starring Richard Pryor, Harvey Keitel and Yaphet Kotto, and was about a corrupt union and three auto workers who pull off a small-time robbery that has big consequences.

On a Friday evening in June, trucks full of cameras and lights pulled up in front of a modest house a few blocks from where I live to film a key scene in the movie. In the scene, two supposed hitmen arrive to get Kotto in his home, but he has been tipped off and is waiting for them — with a baseball bat. He chases them out of the house and clobbers them on the front lawn. On film, it lasts about a minute. On the street, it took about 12 hours to shoot.

And that's where I saw what movie making is all about: Hours and hours of standing around punctuated by minutes of actual filming. The light from a street lamp was too glaring, so someone when to cut a tree branch from somewhere, and it was hoisted up a pole and strategically placed in front of the lamp so it would cast a small shadow on the sidewalk. That took about an hour.

Camera angles had to be determined and all the props had to be in place. About a half-dozen plastic baseball bats were lined up on the sidewalk, although only one was used. The two would-be hit men spent a long time adjusting padding that fit under their clothes. They needed it because in the scene they come flying out of the house and fall down the stairs. The steps were real, and I could see that these guys had to know exactly what they were doing or risked getting really hurt.

Take after take was shot. And as the hours dragged on well past midnight, I began to realize that this wasn't Hollywood high life. It was work. Grueling work.

I finally went home, but they were still filming. I have a copy of Blue Collar. It's a pretty highly regarded film, and I like to watch the scene I saw filmed.

But I don't think I view it like most people who see it. My view will always be tainted by what I saw behind the camera.

Another illusion shattered, I guess. But it was fascinating to see.

Take care of car

With gas prices at a four-year low, now is the perfect time to invest that savings into preventative maintenance and repairs to extend the life of your vehicle. According to recently released statistics from the Energy Information Administration, the average retail price for gasoline dropped to $1.684 a gallon, the lowest price since February 2004. Gas prices are down more than 55% from the $4.11 mid-July peak.

Because most analysts are predicting oil and gas price increases in the spring, this is the opportune time to invest those short-term gas-pump savings into a long-term vehicle investment.

Keeping your vehicle in safe working order makes financial sense, adding years of reliable life and saving the cost of new car payments and higher insurance rates. In fact, over a four-year period, the cost difference between keeping a car and buying a new one is nearly $10,894, according to Runzheimer International.

System needs fixing

We have been doing some research on adoption for a school project and neither of us believes adoption is wrong. We actually think it is a very good process. Unfortunately there are some defects in the system. We believe these defects should be changed. One problem is that adoption is too expensive for the average American. The average American makes $50,233 a year. The average cost of adoption is $20,000-$30,000. That is more than half of the income that most adults make a year.

Money is going to be needed to take care of the child. The economy is already bad enough, which results in some people not getting paid and that decreases the amount of money an adult gets per year.

Another issue is that the process of adoption takes a long time. The average amount of time that it takes for adoption to be complete, for the child to be in their new parent's hands, is 18-30 months. When children are taken out of orphanages or from their parents and placed with different people, it is a life-changing experience for them. If they can be placed with good families, why should the kids be deprived of a good life, just because of cost or time?

Hamas propaganda

Do not blindly accept the carefully crafted propaganda regarding recent Israeli-Palestinian conflicts as an accurate representation of the situation.

Israel seeks peace and has returned territories won when it was attacked in previous wars with its neighbors as part of several peace agreements. Israel withdrew from Gaza in 2005, but instead of nation-building, Hamas seized control and has abused Gaza to build its terrorist capabilities and incite hatred and violence. Hamas systematically brainwashes children that the annihilation of all Jews is their duty and seeks to convince its youth that martyrdom is an honorable way to die with the added benefit of providing for one's family.

Hamas has continued launching rockets and mortars that target civilian men, women, and children in southern Israel, purely to instigate a military response, since a military response is necessary to further brainwash potential terrorists into suicide attacks. They know these rockets will never win a war or that they can best Israel in a full-scale conflict.

This tactic supports their long-term goal of influencing world opinion to present themselves as not aggressors but the oppressed.

The civilized world must support the right and above all, the duty, of every sovereign nation, including Israel, to defend its citizens from armed aggression. No nation can or should allow daily, incessant attacks against its people. Imagine the reaction of India or China to daily rocket barrages from its neighbors.

Propaganda presented in the media by Palestinian representatives would have you believe Israel has taken to unprovoked bombing of Gaza in an attempt to exterminate the community. They even have the audacity to use the word "holocaust" to describe what in reality is a set of defensive military operations designed to protect civilians from further assault.

While our government has recognized Israel is not the aggressor in Gaza, our representatives must take a more active role in challenging Hamas propaganda. The media also has a responsibility to challenge the claims of those interviewed and not blindly replay misinformation and biased lies just to fill minutes in their newscasts. Newspapers must insist editorial letters to the editor contain facts and not propaganda purely designed to present Hamas as an oppressed people instead of the calculating terrorists they really are.

Minister's background enriches work at St. John's Episcopal

BY JULIE BROWN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The Rev. Ann Webber brings life experience, including work as a registered nurse, to her ministry at St. John's Episcopal Church in Westland.

"I think life experience is really important," said Webber, a native of England who took over as intentional interim pastor at the church on Wayne Road in November. "We encounter all sorts of things in church life. It helps to have dealt with people."

The Rochester Hills resident, who describes herself as "sort of middle-aged plus a bit," earned her master of divinity degree from Seabury Western Theological Seminary in Chicago, following work as a registered nurse and "health visitor" in England.

In England, she was an independent practitioner focusing on the well population's health of body, mind and spirit, with a holistic approach. She grew up in Kent and later lived in the west country, near Bath and Bristol.

"I sort of did a lot of what your pediatricians do," she said.

Her husband, Paul, was transferred to the U.S. in 1989. The couple has three grown children and six young grandchildren.

Webber had been assistant director of a nonprofit service organization and did hospital chaplain work. She "felt a strong call to ordained ministry."

The Episcopal church has a process of discernment which is structured and lasts several years.

"It has to go through the bishop and a standing committee. You can't just say, 'I want to be a priest' and that's it," she said.

Webber was ordained to the transitional deaconate in 2003 and the priesthood in 2004.

"I take churches through times of change," said Webber, who's also served congregations in Toledo and Royal Oak. When a rector leaves a church, there's a time of self-examination, revisiting its vision. A profile is then posted online.

"They look for a rector who fits that profile," said Webber, who will serve no more than two years in Westland.

"The people," she said of what she likes best about the ministry. "I love liturgy, too, and outreach, everything."

She found her nursing work helped with listening and people skills. "Everybody has gifts to offer," she said. "I think any gift I have is a reliance on God."

Her church draws between 60-100 at the two Sunday services, "depending on the weather. I've come down in the worst weather possible."

She's still learning the community, working a three-quarters time schedule: "I'm still getting to know people and the churches."

She has issues for the church to address, "especially in our economic crisis in the moment."

She added that the ministry involves all who are baptized who bring their gifts.

"We're all about spreading the good news," Webber said.

She and other area clergy are looking forward to a 7 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 18, service of Christian unity hosted by Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 37775 Palmer in Westland. All are welcome.

The Rev. Ann Webber, a native of England, is settling into her role as intentional interim pastor at St. John's Episcopal Church in Westland.

Move over New Orleans, Rotary hosts Mardi Gras party

BY JULIE BROWN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Gary Bulson gets excited talking about the Westland Rotary's Mardi Gras Extravaganza, a Jan. 31 fundraising event he's chairing.

"It's always fun when you know you're helping the community," said Bulson.

The benefit is set for 6 p.m. to midnight Saturday, Jan. 31, at the Wayne-Ford Civic League, 1645 N. Wayne Road, south of Ford in Westland.

He's grateful for sponsorships, including major sponsor Dr. Amanda Apfelblat of Michigan Chiropractic Specialists. Bourbon Street sponsors are Westland Mayor William Wild, Juenemann Insurance Agency, dentist Dr. Joseph Tseng, North Brothers Ford and Pepsi. French Quarter sponsors are Ameriprise Financial-Antoinette Martin, C&M Printing and Imaging, Men on the Move and Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union.

"It's one of our major two fund-raisers," said Bulson of the event, adding that the other is a spring golf outing. Proceeds support such charitable efforts as the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army's summer camp and after school programs, student scholarships, backpacks and school supplies and special projects like the recent $13,000 walking path in Westland's Rotary Park.

This year's benefit will feature the Cool 2 Duel Dueling Pianos, a new approach.

"They interact with the audience," Bulson said. "It's an interactive piano experience."

There will be silent and live auctions, and a New Orleans-style buffet dinner will be served, along with beer and wine. Each couple attending will be eligible for a $1,000 raffle prize.

"People like to let go and party," said co-chair Mary Vellardita. Tables of eight cost $340 while individual tickets are $45, which doesn't include the raffle ticket. The couple tickets at $90 and include one Royal Raffle ticket. Additional Royal Raffle tickets are $45 each. Mardi Gras attire is optional.

Tickets are available at C&M Printing and Imaging, on the east side of Wayne Road north of Ford, and at the Westland Chamber of Commerce office, on Ford between Wayne and Newburgh roads. For information about the Mardi Gras Extravaganza or to make donations to the Westland Rotary Charitable Foundation, a 501(c)3 organization, call Bulson at (734) 729-6683.

CC's Darnell scores all 3 to thwart Stevenson

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVERS STAFF WRITER

Brent Darnell was the straw that stirred the drink in Novi-Detroit Catholic Central's come-from-behind 3-2 hockey win Friday night over host Livonia Stevenson in a game played at Edgar Arena.

The 6-foot, 180-pound junior forward, who has already committed to Michigan State, scored all three goals, including two in the final period, to propel the state-ranked Shamrocks to victory.

CC is now 8-1-1 overall, while Stevenson falls to 5-4-1. Stevenson took a 2-1 lead into the final 15 minutes of action on a pair of second-period goals by Justin Shureb. The sophomore scored on a power-play at 2:26 from Cole Rochowiak and Evan Malick followed by a nifty effort splitting a pair of CC defensemen at 12:43 off an assist from R.J. Kierdorf.

But Darnell, who scored the

game's first goal (unassisted) at 12:24 of the opening period, evened the count at 2-all just 42 seconds into the third off assists from Steven Hensley and Tony Thomas.

Darnell then bagged the game-winner with 9:12 remaining on a shot that caromed off the inside post with assists going to Hensley and Ryan Obuchowski.

Stevenson head coach David

Mitchell knows Darnell all too well. He was an assistant coach on a Compuware youth team where Darnell played as an 11- and 12-year-old.

"They (CC) are a solid and deep team, and Darnell is an elite player who did what they needed him to do to win," Mitchell said. "He's a great hockey player."

Stevenson junior netminder Danny Sager stood out as he stopped 25-of-28 CC shots.

"Danny is a good, hard-working kid and it's good to see him play well against a strong and experienced team like CC," Mitchell said.

Despite the loss, Mitchell was pleased with his team's play.

"I think we grew up tonight as a hockey team," he said. "I'm happy with the effort, not necessarily the outcome. We still have to work on consistency and we need to get better. That's been our motto since the beginning of the year."

Rocks edge Pats in low-scoring affair

BY ED WRIGHT
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Starving for its first win of the season, Salem's girls basketball team ordered a red-hot Brotz late in Friday night's KLAA cross-over game against Livonia Franklin.

Fortunately for the Rocks, Victoria Brotz's jumper was cookin'.

In a defensive struggle that barely needed a score-keeper, Brotz buried a pair of big shots during the game's waning moments to lift Salem to a 26-23 triumph.

The victory was the first in five games for Salem while the setback was the Patriots' first in six contests.

Brotz's first clutch "J" came with 3:40 remaining when she drained a long triple from the left wing to bring Salem to within 23-21.

She struck again with 2:00 left, swishing a 15-footer to give the Rocks the lead for good, 24-23.

The game-winner almost never launched as Brotz looked initially to pass the ball to a teammate. However, Salem coach Fred Thomann, who was seated only a few feet away, implored the unselfish Brotz to fire away.

"I reminded her that that was her shot," said Thomann, referring to his pre-shot instructions during the game's pivotal moment. "When she gets her feet set and she squares up to the basket, she can knock that shot down. In fact, for this team to be successful, we need Victoria to shoot."

After building a 20-13 halftime advantage, the normally potent Patriots misfired on all cylinders during the final 16 minutes when they managed to tally just three points — a Chelsea Williams free throw and a Briana Taylor layup, both of which came in the third quarter.

"We stood around too much on offense in the second half," lamented Franklin coach Dave McCall. "And we didn't rebound on the offensive end. We got one shot and that was it."

"Salem has a very good team, so I knew it wasn't going to be easy and I knew they'd make adjustments at halftime, which they did."

Thirty seconds after Brotz put the Rocks up by one, Franklin nearly regained the lead, however, a break-away layup rolled off the rim and into the hands of Salem's Sara Stone.

A Brotz steal with 24.5 seconds to play led to a pair of Chelsea Davis free throws that extended Salem's lead to 26-23.

Hounded by the scrappy Rocks, Franklin was unable to get off a potential game-tying three before the buzzer sounded.

Franklin's Briana Taylor led all scorers with 10 points. She also hauled down seven rebounds. Her twin sister, Brittany, added six points and nine boards.

Brotz paced Salem with nine points. Franklin hit 10-of-37 field goals (27 percent) — and just 1-of-16 in the second half.

The Rocks were even colder, sinking just 8-of-31 attempts (25.8 percent).

Both teams made half their free throws. The difference was Salem shot 16 and the Patriots attempted two.

Franklin was hampered by the absence of junior Seneca Scott, who suffered an injured wrist in Tuesday night's victory over Waterford Kettering.

Warriors whip neighbor HVL

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Lutheran Westland and Westland Huron Valley Lutheran high schools are located only 100 yards apart, but in boys basketball the gap is more than a country mile.

It was all Lutheran Westland on Friday night as the Warriors improved to 4-1 overall with a resounding 72-37 win over the host Hawks.

Senior guard Eric Shoats led a balanced Lutheran Westland scoring attack with 16 points. Micah Hausch and Gage Flanery chipped in with 12 and 10, respectively, while Austin Baglow and Sam Ahlersmeyer contributed nine and eight.

"We're both Lutheran schools, it's a good crowd and it's a Friday night game... the kids get excited," Lutheran Westland coach Brandon Bekius said.

Huron Valley (3-2) had trouble protecting the basketball, committing a total of 26 turnovers. The Warriors, implementing a full-court press, sprinted out to a 23-11 first-quarter lead and never looked back.

"We wanted to pressure from the get-go," Bekius said. "I told our guys before the game that's what we had to do because we're the smaller team. We had to create turnovers, score off of our defense, hit open shots, control the boards and we'd win the game." The Warriors made 26-of-62 shots from the floor, including nine 3-pointers. They also made 12-of-14 free throws.

"Their pressure did not kill us, it was not physical, but more of a mental meltdown," Huron Valley coach Jim Ott said. "We were coming off a game (Tuesday) against (Wyandotte) Mount Carmel that was a different style of play that was not good for us."

Kyle Tacia, a 6-foot-4 senior forward, was the only Hawk in double figures with 10 points. Aaron Howell added six as the Hawks shot only 32 percent from the floor (16-of-50).

Meanwhile, hopefully the boys hoop rivals can create a rivalry in the near future when Lutheran Westland leaves the Metro Conference to join Huron Valley in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

"I feel like they (Lutheran Westland) have a psychological advantage," Ott said. "The kids think they have something to prove, but it's the parents who hype it up, too."

Ladywood clipped by Mustangs

BY MARTY BUDNER
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Livonia Ladywood, last year's regular season champion, and Birmingham Marian, last year's tournament champion, met for the first time this season Friday evening in Catholic League Central Division girls basketball action.

The host Mustangs survived for a 41-33 triumph.

Marian, playing with only one substitute because of injuries, held a 35-27 lead with 6:39 remaining in the game.

The Blazers clamped down on defense and did not allow the Mustangs a point over the next six minutes. Ladywood did score six straight points to climb within 35-33 with 30 seconds remaining.

However, Marian closed the game with a perfect 6-for-6 effort from the free throw line to claim the tough eight-point victory.

Ladywood defeated Marian, now 8-1 overall and 2-0 in the division, twice last season en route to the regular-season crown. Marian went on to defeat the Blazers in the Catholic League tournament.

Churchill icers slip past Plymouth, 3-2

Livonia Churchill made a two-goal lead after two periods hold up en route to a 3-2 boys hockey victory Wednesday night over Plymouth in a game played at Livonia's Edgar Arena.

Churchill is 3-3-3 overall and 3-1-2 in the South Division of the Kensington Lakes Activities Association.

Steven Klisz scored a pair of first-period goals for the Chargers at 3:36 (unassisted) and 6:55 (from Stefan Kubas).

In the second period, Plymouth's Chris Merrill scored from Mitch Martin and Ryan Renault at 3:47 on a power play, but Churchill's Ryan Cioch responded at 12:33 on a power play from Drew Sieber.

Plymouth cut the deficit to 3-2 with 4:28 remaining in the game when Renault scored from Kyle Callahan and Luke Merandi, but the Wildcats couldn't get the equalizer on Charger netminder Adrian Motta (15 saves).

"Once again we were able to jump out early," Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni said. "I think we are starting to figure out what we need to do to be successful."

Unfortunately - the things we did in the first period we did not do in the second and we took too many penalties. We regrouped in the third period and got the 'W.' It was good to get back to back wins in the division."

Mike Justus made 14

saves for the Wildcats.

STEVENSON 8, FRANKLIN 0: Justin Shureb had a pair of goals and two assists as Livonia Stevenson (5-3-1, 3-2-1) rolled to a win Wednesday night over Livonia Franklin (0-7, 0-5) at Edgar Arena.

The Spartans, who outshot the Patriots 38-7, led 3-0 after one period and 7-0 after two periods before ending the game four minutes into the final period.

Cole Rochowiak added a goal and two assists, while R.J. Kierdorf, Tim Pruchnik, J.J. Petterson and John Strauch contributed one goal and one assist each. John Vella also scored for the Spartans.

Richie Dunphy and Danny Sager split time in goal for the Spartans.

LADYWOOD 10, WALLED LAKE 4: Shelby Kucharski led the way with a hat trick, raising her season total to 25, to go along with three assists Wednesday as Livonia Ladywood (6-2, 4-2) cruised to a Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League victory over host Walled Lake (4-4, 3-3) at Suburban Ice Rink.

Emann Freij also had a hat trick and two assists for the victorious Blazers, who outshot Walled Lake 20-16.

Other Ladywood goal scorers included Brittany Galvin, Lane Kolpacke, Rana Freij and Veronica Fradette.

Other assists went to Erin Doyle and Kaitlin Gaule, two each; Rana Freij, Kelsey Campbell, Kolpacke, Katie Yelick.

Jenna Karagosian led Walled Lake with three goals and one assist. Katie Acheson had the other goals.

Ladywood netminder Jessica Pavela made 16 saves, while Walled Lake's Sophie Kew had six.

Indiana Tech eludes Crusaders

MEN'S COLLEGE HOOPS

The Madonna University men's basketball team nearly pulled off an upset Wednesday night in its Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference opener, only to fall to nationally-ranked Indiana Tech, 77-74, at the MU Activities Center.

The Crusaders led 38-35 at halftime and opened up a 51-35 advantage with a 13-1 run during the first 4:08 of the second half only to have the Warriors storm back for the victory.

Wayne Memorial High product Cedric Sims led the host Crusaders (6-11, 0-1) with 21 points, eight rebounds and six assists.

Ryan Waidman (Canton) and Josh Gay chipped in with 14 and 12 points, respectively.

Shaun Cabrera led the Warriors (10-4, 1-0), ranked No. 17 in the latest NAIA Division II poll, with 22 points. Brad Webster added 11 points and 10 rebounds.

A key to Indiana Tech's win was the bench scoring (28-12) as Anthony Johnson led the way with nine points.

Ocelots edged, 76-75

In an MCCA Eastern Conference game Wednesday, Kirtland Community College got 26 points apiece from Torey Throop and Charles Brown to beat host Schoolcraft College, which dropped its eighth straight.

Bruce Watson, a 6-foot-8, 265-pound sophomore center, paced the Ocelots (4-12, 1-4) with 25 points and 12 rebounds.

Martez Abney (Wayne Memorial) chipped in with 20 points and five assists, while Eric Henry finished with 10 points and five assists for the Ocelots, who trailed 40-33 at halftime.

Kirtland is 4-10 overall and 1-4 in the conference.

Watson had 17 points and Greg Leavell (Farmington Hills Harrison) added 11 in Monday's 92-43 setback at Flint Mott CC, ranked No. 3 in the latest NJCAA Division II poll.

Crestwood sinks ice-cold Warriors

Connecting on 29 percent of shots from the floor isn't a good recipe to win games at any level of basketball and that held true Wednesday for the Lutheran High Westland boys basketball team.

The visiting Warriors suffered a 72-56 setback to Dearborn Heights Crestwood, making just 13-of-45 field goal attempts.

Lutheran Westland falls to 3-1 overall, while Crestwood stands at 1-5.

"I thought we played hard but got down early and never recovered," Warriors' coach Brandon Bekius said. "They did a nice job of pressuring the ball and taking us out of our offense, which forced us to take too many shots."

Crestwood led 14-8 after the first quarter and opened up a 39-25 halftime lead following a 25-point second stanza.

The Warriors bounced back in the third (14-11), but couldn't sustain that momentum enough to make a dent in the Chargers' arsenal.

Top scorers for the Warriors were Josh Kruger (21 points) and Sam Ahlersmeyer (19).

Claude Glenn tallied 23 points for Crestwood.

"It's going to be tough to win games shooting 13-for-45 from the field and allowing your opponent to score in the 70s," Bekius added.

Spartans seize 4th straight vs. Howell

KLAA BOYS HOOPS

Brian Rowe and Bobby Naubert led the way with 18 and 17 points, respectively, as Livonia Stevenson notched its fourth consecutive boys basketball victory Thursday night at Howell, 62-52.

The Spartans, who pulled away in the second half with a 35-27 surge, improved to 4-1 overall.

Jordan El-Sabeh added eight of his 12 points in the opening quarter for the Spartans, who made 20-of-28 free throws on the night.

"The kids really shot the ball well tonight and that was the difference in the ballgame," Stevenson coach Mike Allie said. "Jordan kept us in the game. I was very pleased with his effort throughout the game. Rowe and Naubert were both outstanding as well.

"I thought (Mark) Grisa (seven points) played his best game of the year on both ends of the floor. We were efficient on offense, but we must improve our rebounding if we want to have any chance next Friday night against John Glenn."

Howell (2-3) got 16 points from Danny Fondriest and 10 from Tyler Hughes.

The Highlanders were 14-of-21 from the line.

WAYNE 71, RIVERVIEW 57: Four players scored in double figures Friday as host Wayne Memorial (1-3) earned its first victory of the season against the Pirates (2-3).

Senior guard Robert Woodson led the balanced Wayne scoring attack with 17 points followed by Daniel Hill and Delorean Holland with 15 apiece, and Mike Safford with 11.

Mike Boelz scored 17 for Riverview.

JOHN GLENN 71, S. LYON EAST 36: Senior guard Austin Anderson tallied 22 points and added seven assists Friday to lead host Westland John Glenn (4-1) to its fourth straight win against South Lyon East (0-4).

Jon Swagerty and Derrick Crosby added 12 and 10 points, respectively, for the Rockets, who led 31-15 at halftime before going on a 24-9 third-quarter run.

Blake Jones had 11 points for the Cougars.

Collins breaks assist mark in Ocelots' win

Schoolcraft College's Brittany Collins continues to dish out punishment on opposing defenses.

The 5-foot sophomore guard from Detroit Renaissance eclipsed her own school assist record just two days earlier with 14 on Wednesday to propel the host Lady Ocelots to a convincing 96-33 win over Kirtland Community College.

Collins had 13 assists in Monday's win over Flint Mott CC tying the mark set in 2000 by Antone Watson.

Six Schoolcraft players scored in double figures led by Taylor Langham (Salem), who finished with 22 points. Also getting into the act were April Goins (15), Sheray Brown (13), Amber Avery (13), Antania Shepherd (12) and Angela Burrell (10).

Nationally-ranked Schoolcraft, which led 48-17 at halftime, improved to 12-2 overall and 5-0 in the Eastern Conference of the MCCA.

Kirtland, getting eight points from Kaylor Leslie, falls to 9-4 overall and 3-2 in the conference.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE HOOPS

MU women win opener

Alyssa Guerin (Salem) paced a balanced scoring attack Wednesday night with 13 points to lead the Madonna University women's basketball team to a 61-51 triumph over host Indiana Tech in a game played at the Schaefer Center in Fort Wayne.

Plymouth High's Kim Olech added 11 points and game-high 13 rebounds as the Crusaders improved to 6-11 overall and 1-0 in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference.

Tabatha Wydryck finished with 10 points and four assists, while Katie Mount and Sheryl Jager contributed eight points apiece.

Hannah Thieke led the Warriors (7-7, 0-1), who shot a dreadful 23.1 percent from the floor (15-of-65) with 12 pounds. Tech was only 5-of-31 from three-point range.

McGrath paces easy Spartan win

Kaylee McGrath paved the way for an easy Livonia Stevenson girls basketball win Friday as the host Spartans rolled to a 51-15 triumph over Wayne Memorial.

The senior center finished with 17 points, 12 rebounds and four steals to even their season record at 3-3.

Courtney Lewis contributed nine points, while Tasi Newton, Sarah Smith and Kristen Balhorn added six each.

The Spartans, who had a total of 22 steals, led 28-8 at halftime and put it out of reach with a 20-0 third-quarter run.

Holland Boertje paced the Zebras (1-5) with four points.

JOHN GLENN 50, S. LYON EAST 33: Chanel Payne and Nyah McReynolds each tallied 13 points Friday to pace Westland John Glenn (4-2) to the win over South Lyon East (1-5).

Kate Grunewald and Courtney Emery tallied 12 and 10 points, respectively, for the Cougars, who trailed 25-12 at intermission.

SOUTH LYON 35, CHURCHILL 32: Danielle Gotham scored 12 points Friday night to lead the host Lions (6-0) to the victory over Livonia Churchill (3-3).

South Lyon made a 22-15 halftime lead hold up for the win.

Alysa Boldizar scored 10 points to pace the Chargers, who made only 1-of-5 foul shots. Taylor Byron added six points and 10 rebounds.

GREENHILLS 44, CLARENCEVILLE 30: Difficulty shutting down Ann Arbor Greenhills low-post player Jaclyn Walker on Friday night cost visiting Livonia Clarenceville.

The Gryphons (5-2), fueled by Walker's 25-point night, never were threatened. They led 14-7 after the first quarter and were up 26-14 at halftime following a 10-0 run.

"We played them evenly the rest of the game, but never recovered from that run," Clarenceville coach Julie Patterson said. One big reason for that was Walker.

"We had a tough time defending Walker," Patterson said. "She had a big size and strength advantage and a nice touch around the rim."

Kristen Jolly paced the Trojans with 13 points.

ANNAPOLIS 54, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 45: Three players reached double figures Thursday for host Dearborn Heights Annapolis (7-1) in this non-conference matchup and the Warriors (0-4) were unable to offset that.

Justina Williams (19 points), Kelly Sapinski (18) and Tabitha Perrine (12) keyed the Cougars to the victory.

Junior forward Rachel Storck scored 12 points (6-of-7 from the field) and senior guard Allyson Yankee chipped in with 10 points and tough defense for Lutheran Westland.

"We played a very solid game against a rough opponent," said Warriors' head coach Bill Strang. "It was a good improvement compared to Tuesday's game versus Cranbrook-Kingswood."

Crusader baseball gets preseason recognition

Collegiate Baseball announced its 2008 NAIA Baseball Poll and "Players to Watch" list and the defending Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference champion Madonna University was recognized on both lists.

The publication listed MU at No. 26 in the preseason poll while seniors Jeff Sonnenberg (Holt) and Kevin Zerbo (Farmington Hills Harrison) were tabbed to the "Players to Watch" list.

MU captured both the WHAC regular season and tournament titles last season for the third time in the last four seasons and made its fourth straight appearance in the NAIA Regional tournament.

The Crusaders posted a 37-14 record in 2008 and were ranked 16th in the final poll of '08.

The Collegiate Baseball poll marks the second appearance for the Royal Blue and Gold in a preseason ranking as the NAIA tabbed MU at No. 24 in its poll released in November.

Sonnenberg returns for his final season after going 3-2 while posting a 2.50 earned run average in 43 innings. The right-hander recorded 41 strikeouts while only walking 11 batters. The highlight of his junior season came when we threw the first no-hitter at MU since the 2005 season when he shut down Aquinas 4-0 on April 19.

Zerbo, the reigning WHAC Player of the Year, led MU with a .377 batting average while posting nine home runs to go along with a team best 13 doubles and 46 RBI en route to being tabbed as the WHAC's top player and a first-team all-conference selection.

The Crusaders swing into their 21st season of action on Feb. 28 in a double-header against St. Xavier (Ill.) as part of the RussMatt Invitational in Winter Haven, Fla.

MU opens its home slate 1 p.m. Sunday, March 29 against Davenport at Ilitch Ballpark.

some serious defense," said Marian's veteran coach Mary Cicerone. "It wasn't a great offensive output. I thought we looked a little sluggish today, but give Ladywood credit."
 Ladywood actually made three more baskets than the Mustangs, 14-11. However, the difference was the Mustangs made five 3-pointers to Ladywood's two. Marian also enjoyed a 14-for-18 effort from the free throw line while the Blazers made three of four.
 "I thought our girls did a great job of fighting to get back into this game," said first-year head coach Pat Cannon, whose team is 4-5 and 0-2. "They had a series of three-pointers that we had to make some adjustments on, and once we made that adjustment, we had to fight back and fight back and it's hard to get over that hump."

 "But Marian's a very good team. We battled them and I'm very proud of the way we fought back."
 The teams played a relatively even first half. Ladywood scored the game's first basket then Marian scored seven straight points and finished with a 9-7 first quarter lead. The Mustangs netted the first five points of the second quarter for a 14-7 advantage.
 Ladywood then went on an 8-0 run to take a 15-14 advantage, which would be its last lead of the game. Marian scored the quarter's last two baskets and held an 18-15 halftime lead.

Marian came out on fire in the second half, hitting three treys and soaring to a 31-19 lead. Senior guard Michelle Lindsey canned two of those treys and logged nine points in Marian's pivotal 13-4 run. The Blazers battled back over the next seven minutes, but just couldn't catch the Mustangs.
 Lindsey finished with a game-high 13 points and senior guard Anina Cicerone added 12. Junior guard Rachel Melcher contributed eight points, four assists and four steals. Sophomore forward Mara Mulroy led Marian with seven rebounds.
 Ladywood's leading scorer was senior guard Caitlin Szczyпка with 11. Junior guards Mary Fitzgerald and Molly Gacioch scored eight points each.

Go Red for women

Campaign raises awareness about women, heart disease

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
OGE STAFF WRITER

Dr. Joan Crawford has never been busier as a cardiologist. The Bloomfield Hills physician blames the increase on the crisis in the economy. As a result, women and men have come to her complaining of chest pain, making this year's Go Red for Women Luncheon on Wednesday, Feb. 25, more important than ever.

For the sixth year, the American Heart Association event educates women about heart disease and the difference in symptoms for the sexes. Instead of pains in the chest and left arm as in men, women need to question the reason behind shortness of breath, fatigue, palpitations, and lightheadedness.

"We have an opportunity to impact 700 to 800 people to make sure they're aware heart disease is the No. 1 killer of women," said Crawford, chief of cardiology at St. John Oakland and Macomb hospitals, director of St. John Macomb women's services, and medical director of the Go Red campaign which culminates with Wear Red Day on Friday, Feb. 6.

"Anyone with a new set of symptoms needs to be checked out. Detroit's going through a rough time. I have a lot of people coming in panicked because they're going to lose health care, lost a job, taken a pay cut, and get chest pain. They might be nervous but don't make that assumption. Many are younger, prettier, fitter than you think but if mom, dad or a sibling had an early heart attack, congenital heart defects, a doctor's visit is not that expensive. What is expensive is having a heart attack and having an $80,000 hospital bill."

EQUALITY CONCERNS

Although Crawford is less concerned than a decade ago about women's symptoms going unrecognized, she still believes not all of the medical community treat women equally with men. Crawford recently came in contact with a University of Michigan student who had just finished a rotation in the ER and said he couldn't believe the hysterical women who come in complaining.

"Physicians are being informed, but we have to keep re-educating," said Crawford who's equally concerned about patients who can't afford medication for high blood pressure, a major cause of heart attacks and stroke. She receives about 20 calls a week and warns them not to stop their medicine. "There are programs out there through Wal-Mart, Target, Kroger for pills that only cost $4. Tell your doctor. We still have closets with free pills."

More than two dozen health care professionals, executives and media members took part in a photo shoot at the Detroit Institute of Arts in August for a calendar to promote awareness of heart disease in women.

In addition to a healthy lunch and blood pressure screenings, guests can once again learn about topics including staying fit to prevent heart disease. The fashion show returns as well with designs, red, of course, by students from the International Academy of Design & Technology in Troy. As a special treat, everyone coming through the door receives a calendar featuring photographs of local health care professionals and media taken at the Detroit Institute of Arts in October by Nancy Swearingen. One of the highlights of the event is sure to be the silent auction of items including celebrity purses donated by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Luncheon chairman Lin Cummins is especially excited about the keynote speaker, Dr. Annabelle Volgman who's probably best known to the public as Oprah's cardiologist. Cummins still gets a thrill every time she enters the room at the Detroit Marriott at the Renaissance Center where the women assemble for the luncheon.

"There are 500 women dressed in red," said Cummins, a Rochester resident. "It's the most amazing thing you've ever seen to see so many people in the room at one time cheering for the same cause and to learn more about what you can do to save your life from not only heart disease but stroke."

Cummins became involved with the American Heart Association after her mother died of heart disease. Initially, she was executive leader of the annual heart walk in Southfield and the No. 1 fund-raiser. As a busy professional woman, Cummins knows it's usually her who comes last.

"I've been a career woman for over 30 years and with the kind of work schedule professional women have we don't take care of ourselves," said Cummins, executive vice president of communications for ArvinMeritor in Troy. "I haven't had a physical in almost two years because I didn't have the time. If we don't speak about this we won't be around to take care of everybody else."

"It's good as a career woman to see how many professional women have joined in this campaign for this disease. Most research is done on men and women don't know symptoms like a sore jaw, nausea should be checked out. My mom was feeling nauseated before her heart attack."

Trinity church sponsors mobile food pantry

Trinity Evangelical Presbyterian Church is more than just a place to pray. The Plymouth house of worship is composed of members and staff who care about the community, which is why they're partnering with Gleaners Food Bank Saturday, Jan. 17, to provide food for those in need in western Wayne County and Ypsilanti.

Linda Chomin

Recipients must register between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., Tuesday-Thursday, Jan. 13-15, by calling (734) 459-9557 to schedule a pick up. This is the second time the church has arranged for the mobile food pantry. In November the refurbished beverage truck arrived with 2,500-3,000 pounds of food. Between 450 to 500 families showed up then in the parking lot at Kmart on the corner of Haggerty and Ann Arbor Road. On Saturday, a hot lunch will be served as well, this time at the church by members who come not only from Plymouth, but Livonia, Westland, Canton, Ann Arbor, Novi and Northville.

"We purchase food from them and distribute to folks in need," said Ellie Schupra, director of outreach at Trinity church. "There's enough food for five to seven days for a family of four. We want people in Plymouth and Canton and nearby communities to benefit. We certainly aren't going to turn people away. The reason we instruct people to call a certain number is to reserve a time to avoid pandemonium."

Trinity's Team Mission is always looking for ways to serve people in the community. Volunteers from the church have worked at Gleaners' Howell site and the main warehouse downtown to sort and package food. Last summer members helped Central Detroit Christian renovate a former dry cleaners to open the Peaches and Cream market so inner city residents could eat fresh fruit and produce.

"It seemed obvious for us to host the mobile food pantry given our economic times," said Schupra. "We have families in need at Trinity. We're meeting the needs of our own family here as well as outside. We've organized volunteers for Grace Centers of Hope in Pontiac, helped distribute food at Hope Clinic in Ypsilanti, and when gas prices were high went into service stations to buy down people's gas 20 cents and wash their windows."

"It's a matter of looking at the needs and plugging in. At Sherwood Village we gave turkeys and food at Thanksgiving. November was phenomenal. We had some seniors, but the bulk was mostly people with families. We gave chickens, eggs, sausage patties, fresh fruit and bread. It was a beautiful picture of the community coming together to help others. One person brought all the workers pizza, Others brought food and donated it. People were very appreciative. There were tears of gratitude."

The team at Trinity hopes to offer at least two more mobile food pantries during these trying economic times. Schupra is hoping families with young children are attracted to the effort. The church, which first held services at Isbister Elementary in Plymouth nearly 30 years ago, is always looking for new members to join the 650-700 worshippers on Sundays.

"We have a lot of young families attracted to Trinity," said Schupra. "We have a great children and youth ministry with youth and children involved. We're very intentional about some of the things we choose to do so children can learn about helping others."

A time for children

Kids Hope USA mentor Norm Sorensen enjoys the time he spends with Coolidge Elementary School third-grader Cole Custer.

Coolidge Elementary School third-grade teacher Ann Brady talks about the impact the Kids Hope USA mentoring program has on students such as Brian Smith.

Mentors make a difference for students

Cole Custer never cared much about reading until Norm Sorensen began volunteering as part of Kids Hope USA at Coolidge Elementary in Livonia. The pilot program is proof that mentors make a difference when it comes to instilling a love for books and school in children.

Sorensen, as a member of Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Livonia, spends one hour weekly with Cole in the program that unites volunteers with first- to fourth-grade students in need of one-on-one attention. Sorensen craftily used his interest in paper airplanes to form a bond with the boy who's nearly 9. In return, Cole draws a dragon for Sorensen on this Tuesday afternoon.

The first 20 minutes of the program focuses on academics. The rest of the time is for playing games and talking.

"He taught me how to make airplanes, how to read and write more. I hadn't been reading a lot," said Cole, a third-grader.

Sorensen, on the other hand, is able to spend time with a child.

"My son is 52 and doesn't want to make airplanes anymore," quipped Sorensen. "I get the fun of hanging out with a young person and hear stories from teachers about positive changes in Cole."

INFLUENCING CHILDREN

Rickey Amstutz was looking for a way to influence a child's life when she organized the local program with the help of the national organization begun as a research project in 1993. Holy Cross pastor Dana Runestad learned about Kids Hope USA from a college friend. She wants the public to understand there are no strings attached, only a hope that children "feel loved" by mentors from the church.

"One of the big things at Holy Cross is to reach out to the community," said Amstutz, director of the program that started Oct. 1, at Coolidge. "We have 16 mentors including myself to work with at risk children who may have learning problems or can't get along. We need 15 more mentors from the congregation, but have seven new mentors joining in January. Twenty percent of the congregation is involved. We're starting to make a difference. We hope other churches come in. Although faith-based, church and state are kept totally separate."

Principal Ann Kalec has embraced the program with open arms. She has a waiting list of children who could use help from the volunteers trained last fall on the importance of confidentiality.

Boot camp builds healthy bodies, minds, spirits

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
O&E STAFF WRITER

Edwin Petty runs through the drill designed to build not only a healthy body, but mind and spirit. The format offers a way to get or stay in shape without a military environment.

As troop leader, Petty won't be yelling commands in the faces of those participating in the Michigan Transformation Boot Camp. Instead the certified personal trainer uses encouragement as motivation in the metabolic boosting workout, incorporating exercise and information about fitness and nutrition.

Petty lives what he preaches. At age 48, he's slim and moves through the squats without missing a breath while speaking about the Monday through Friday program at Boliard's Martial Arts Studio in Canton. Petty first started studying for a black belt at age 12, so he was attracted to the camps founded by fitness expert Mike Thornton in Texas. The routines combine karate kicks with army exercises like pushups, free weights, and yoga. The matted area is set up with stations at which campers perform tasks including jumping rope.

"There are two separate drills to increase heart rate and re-energize you," said Petty. "Everyone is not ready for a boot camp. They can go at their own pace. Someone may be an athlete. Another may not have exercised for years. We can regress or modify each exercise. Basically, nobody gets left behind. I've trained people 100 pounds overweight. They can walk instead of run."

Boot campers, no matter their fitness level or age, warm up by jogging around the room then doing jumping jacks and stretches. In summer Petty plans to move the camps outdoors.

SECOND CAREER

These are the first camps Petty is holding so he's learning as he goes, just like participants. Petty took an early retirement from Blue Cross/Blue Shield last year to offer the program for men, women and families. He and his wife, Patricia, son Sean, 23, and daughter Brittany, 19, work out together. For years, he and Sean have taken martial arts classes on-one relationship. They can teach them to read and write and to believe today may be dark but tomorrow will be better," said Kalec. "I've been talking it up with other principals and hope to present to the board in spring. It's been fantastic. The most important thing we need is relationships. All children don't have good relationships. Research shows at risk kids made it because they had a mentor."

SHOWING APPRECIATION

Livonia Public Schools Superintendent Randy Liepa is just as supportive of ensuring success in students.

He recently spoke at a spaghetti dinner put on by teachers and staff to show appreciation for the volunteers.

"The concept is wonderful to have mentors working with children," said Liepa. "Any kind of support for a child supports the teacher. We're thankful for the organization."

As student assistant provider, Loretta Zimes has seen the benefits first hand. She works with children with social, behavioral, and emotional problems including grieving the loss of a loved one.

"They glow when mentors come in. They get a little extra boost," said Zimes, a social worker, "It's made a difference behaviorally."

Brian Smith probably doesn't realize the progress he's made since Gail Cebelak began devoting time to the third-grade student. This day he was learning to follow directions for building a race car.

"He's starting to be more himself," said Cebelak. "He was very quiet, only spoke when spoken to, now he's willing to state what he wants. He's come out of himself some. I heard last year he had trouble focusing and staying on track. This year he's good at math and numbers."

Brian's teacher Ann Brady has noticed "a big change."

"It builds his self-confidence, gives them an opportunity to shine with an adult, to find success," said Brady. "Sometimes parents don't have the time."

Third-grade teacher Kristina Collyer says the program has helped two of her students.

"My students need more emotional support," said Collyer. "Kids look forward to mentors coming. For them to be excited about coming to school is a big deal."

WORKING TOGETHER

Frank Stenrose was having trouble completing assignments when Bill Coughlin became a mentor to the fourth-grade student who will be 10 in April. Coughlin is still working on Frank's favorite subject being recess.

"We talk about football," said Coughlin. "Frank and I are building a good relationship, focusing on academic needs, playing multiplication baseball. Frank plays left guard on the Livonia Eagles whose coach tells him school comes first."

Bacteria-covered drain pan may cause health problems

In 1994 I wrote my first book titled, Appliance First Aid, and the following can be found on page 75 under the headline, Clean drain pan underneath the refrigerator:

This small tray designed to hold the runoff created in self-defrosting refrigerators has to be cleaned with hot soapy water every time you clean the coils. It doesn't matter if it looks dry. The small amount of water from the defrost cycle evaporates rapidly but the dark, moist climate under the refrigerator makes the drain pan the ideal place for bacteria formation.

Dr. Shildberg, a good doctor friend of mine tells me that the drain pan is the worst place in the kitchen as far as bacteria is concerned. It is a "hot house" and a definite health hazard.

Many refrigerators also locate blower motors on the under side of the appliance. This blows the bacteria ridden air around the kitchen. To stop this nonsense, wash the drain pan out in hot, soapy water at least once a month. Use a brush and get into all the corners. Get rid of the calcium deposits left by the evaporating moisture. Rinse and dry the pan and replace. Dr. Shildberg recommends pouring some Hydrogen Peroxide into the pan to kill off the bacteria before replacing.

Drain pans are made of very flimsy materials; therefore, they tend to crack easily. If you spring a leak, you usually don't have to replace it. Just line the pan with aluminum foil. This fix should last for about ten years.

For 30 years before I wrote this book and many years after, I visited many American homes and worked on refrigerators where there was an odor in the kitchen that was not traceable by the homeowner. Odor comes from bacteria and when I pulled a drain pan out and placed it in the customers kitchen sink and showed them what it looked like, I'm sure they kept it cleaned from then on.

Back in those days the refrigerator manual you received also had instructions telling you to clean the drain pan. Isn't it rather scary to realize that your flu and cold symptoms or worse could be caused by that hidden drain pan?

Now let me give you some more alarming news. The majority of today's modern refrigerators don't allow you to pull out the drain pan and clean it.

Yes, you just read this correctly. You can't pull it out because it is welded in place under the refrigerator and is very difficult for you to get a wet rag inside it to clean it. In my view the manufacturers redesigned the product to save on the cost of a replaceable drain pan without any consideration whatsoever of the health factor involved. They couldn't care less whether or not you get sick from using their product, just so long as you purchase it. I personally think that these corporate heads should be locked up in a combined out house some place. Stay tuned.

ACID DRINKS AND ENAMEL LOSS

Nationwide, dentists have noted an increase in dental erosion (tooth enamel loss), which has now been confirmed by a recent study. When researchers examined 900 middle-school students (aged 10 to 14), they found that nearly a third of them displayed eroded tooth enamel. When searching for possible causes, researchers had to look no farther than many of the popular soft drinks, sport drinks, some fruit drinks, and herbal teas that many of us consume. Some of these beverages have sufficient acid content to strip teeth of their enamel, causing brittleness and sensitivity. It is the dentist's job to make patients aware of this problem so they can make the adjustments necessary to prevent or stop it.

Preventive techniques of all kinds are the keystone of our practice. Whether it's as simple as cutting down on beverages loaded with enamel-eating acid and brushing and flossing daily, or more complicated like replacing lost fillings, repairing a broken crown or wearing a custom mouthguard, we urge you to keep on top of your dental healthcare needs. We'll help here at 496 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Ste. 201, Plymouth, with complete, compassionate dental care, including cleanings and checkups, restorative work, and cosmetic dentistry. Please call 734-453-9413 for an appointment.

P.S. Other possible causes of dental erosion include some medications (such as aspirin) and certain medical conditions (such as acid reflex disease) that introduce gastric acids into the mouth.

with Grand Master Greg Boliard. Last summer Petty helped Brittany strengthen her core muscles with simple exercises to run track and field at the University of Michigan where she is a student.

"There's no magic about working out on machines. It's about movement," said Petty. "If we just started moving we'd be a healthier nation."

SAME PHILOSOPHIES

Petty is doing everything possible to transform everyone's health including writing the Christian-based e-book, Organic Brain and Body Fitness.

He and Boliard believe the brain needs exercise as much as the body. A physical education teacher at Marshall Elementary in Wayne-

Westland Schools for 34 years, Boliard holds many of the same beliefs about fitness so he welcomes Petty and the camps to his studio, which has offered classes in martial arts, weaponry and self-defense since 1988 in Canton. Boliard began teaching martial arts through continuing education at John Glenn High School in 1973. He coached volleyball for 29 years.

"My martial arts movements can be seen in everyday life and sports," said Boliard of Canton. "I begin the year teaching my middle school students about muscle groups and the importance of movement which is the same whether it's a volleyball block or a basketball throw or a tennis serve. It's all repetitive and exercises the brain. The brain loves to be challenged. I like to work on sequencing, constantly activating the brain not to atrophy."

So Desperate You Will Try Anything - DON'T

Physicians understand that the pains of arthritis can become intense, and if conventional medical therapy fails, you may feel driven to look elsewhere for relief.

However, stay away from newspaper or Internet ads, and put little faith in what you see in television commercials or even newspaper reports about "breakthroughs" in medical care.

The medical community skepticism does not come from disappointment at not finding the "right" treatment. Rather, distrust of commercial claims of success comes from medical experience in seeing how difficult is the road to prove that a therapy works.

The first problem is the false claim. A testimonial is suspect because you don't know if it is made up or if the pain relief obtained, was short lived. The second problem is the medication's ingredients. Wonder cures in arthritis have a history of being laced with steroids; such medications, when taken over months, will lead to serious side effects.

The third problem is lack of a clinical trial. A properly designed drug trial will take into account differences in individual metabolism, the chance of spontaneous cure, and will compare the new medication with what drugs are already available. The clinical trial will also bring to light side effects of the new therapy.

Finally, these unproven cures are often costly. You can laugh at the people taken in by phony stock market gains, but don't turn around and be fooled by hucksters pushing drugs of dubious merit. The saying holds for drugs as well as stocks: if it is too good to be true, it isn't.

AGE DISCRIMINATION: PROMOTIONS AND ASSIGNMENTS

by
Mildred L. Culp

Under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA), you don't have to be white-haired to experience age discrimination. Cincinnati's Timothy Davis, who practices on behalf of employees through The Lawrence Firm, P.C., states that a company acts illegally "any time (it) treats workers 40 and over differently from younger workers. Termination is not required for a valid claim." How can you be certain you're experiencing age discrimination in a promotion or assignment? How should you respond?

OTHERS
Kira Fonteneau of The Fonteneau Firm in Birmingham, Ala., whose employment law clients are almost exclusively employees, says that some of the most subtle discrimination occurs in promotions and assignments. To gather data, she advises:
-- listening, observing and analyzing.
-- being alert to "code words, such as 'fresh appeal' and 'new perspective.'"
-- developing and documenting your findings to suggest an age-related problem. (For example, if management is under 40 and well-qualified older people who apply are rejected, you might have evidence.)

-- watching for "obstacles, such as a new restriction being put in your way, like a college diploma or, in a job description, the omission of requirement X, which only you have."
-- determining whether you have every qualification the younger person has but a different outcome.
-- noting whether older workers are penalized for being late, while younger ones aren't.
-- "being intuitive when things just don't seem right."

If an employer hands your job to a younger employee to increase your discomfort with the idea you'll resign, you're facing age discrimination, according to Fonteneau. The same kind of discrimination, termed constructive discharge, is possible if younger employees receive encouragement and support but older ones don't, adds Davis. Fonteneau asks, "How much do they turn up the heat on the individual? Be able to prove that the situation was unbearable."
Martin Gringer of Franklin, Gringer & Cohen P.C., in Garden City, N.Y., who represents management in labor and employment law cases, cautions against concluding that you're privy to every factor behind a company's decisions or practices. In addition, excellent performance reviews might be irrelevant if the company has new management.
YOU
If you remain silent, you waive the employer's right to redress the situation. "Under the law, you're required to follow the complaint route," Gringer points out. "If you don't... the company is not required to act on (the discrimination)."

How can you cautiously take action? Donna Ballman of Ft. Lauderdale's Donna M. Ballman P.A., for whom about 90 percent of clients are employees, says, "Make sure you apply for positions. Don't take yourself out of the running. If you apply and a younger person is put in, don't assume you're out of the running for promotions."
Former middle manager Scott Barer of Los Angeles' The Law Offices of Scott I. Barer serves frequently as expert witness for employees. He mentions that accurate, succinct documentation is essential should an investigation take place. "It's very frustrating for investigators to ask about the employee's allegations and (see) the employee have difficulty recalling details," he comments.
Who should hear your complaint? Barer recommends bypassing your immediate supervisor in favor of HR. "If the supervisor is doing the discriminating or knows the person involved," he remarks, "you risk him circling the wagons. If HR does nothing, and you know the company's attorney, go there. He'll then... call HR. I've worked with a lot of HR people. I think the vast majority of them really want to do the right thing."
Lodge your complaint formally. Ballman directs you to write it up: "To preserve your protected status, say that it's a 'formal complaint of age-based harassment' or 'formal complaint of age discrimination.' These are the powerful (phrases), which will protect you from retaliation. She says to omit words like "longevity, harassment and hostile work environment," which won't.
