Students learn new riffs in guitar class

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Three weeks, three classes, learn three great rock riffs.

That was the hook for a guitar class offered at the Bailey Recreation Center and teacher John Feliks delivered. At the final class, the students were working their way through ZZTop's La Grange, Green Day's When I Come Around and what Feliks described as the most challenging song, the Beatles' Here Comes the Sun.

"These songs have great guitar riffs and a variety of riffs," said Feliks. "Everyone in class has different skill levels. These songs have well-known chords, so you can strum along or do the more difficult parts. They're well-known songs but challenging."

Several of the students had taken classes with Feliks, a self-taught musician, previously. An earlier class Feliks taught at the Bailey Center focused on 12-bar blues.

"You learn something new — it's kind of like a refresher course. He always gives me sometime to practice," said Brian Boyle, a Farmington Hills resident who had taken a class with Feliks at Schoolcraft College.

Westland resident Becky Thomason had also taken an earlier class with Feliks. "I like that he teaches at multiple skill levels — that's what appeals to me," said Thomason. "After the very first class you can play song that is recognizable."

For Thomason, who said she has played guitar on and off since childhood, that first song she learned was Deep Purple's Smoke on the Water.

Less funding means lots of changes for city departments

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

With revenues about $5 million less than the previous year, nearly all of Westland's municipal departments would see changes under the proposed budget the council has started to study.

"My budget letter is a little lengthier than last year. There are new council members and a lot more changes in the budget than last year," said Mayor William Wild.

A starting point for developing two years balanced budgets was a five-year financial forecast put together by city auditors Plante Moran and city staff late in 2008. The forecast was presented to the council at two daylong strategic planning sessions in February 2009.

"This forecast put on paper the reality of how big the challenges were going to be for the next five years," said Wild in his budget letter. "The changes this five-year forecast indicated were essential have lead to an in-depth review of all departments and municipal operations." That meant a phrase heard often in the private sector in recent years — rightsizing, along with reorganization, collaboration and innovation in the delivery of city services. Part of that process has been eliminating 60 staff positions through a combination of negotiated early retirements, lay-offs and attrition.

Concessions from employee bargaining units delaying raises, lower starting pay, health care and pensions changes for new hires are helping balance the two-year budgets and reduce city spending going forward.

Other budget changes include: "The Water Fund will have 2.5 fewer funded positions as the water rates have been increased 16 percent and a $5 per bill administrative fee had been added to water bills to cover newly implemented fix costs fees from the Detroit Water and Sewerage Board and Wayne County, which handles sewage treatment.

Other proposed changes

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Other proposed changes in the 2010-11 budget include:

"The clerk's budget was combined with budgets controlled by that department including elections, police and fire Civil Service and the Zoning Board of Appeals. As part of the reorganization, two clerical positions were removed from the clerk's budget.

"One clerical employee, transferred from the Building Department, would be returned to the Assessing Department budget.

"We hope to free up time for the assessor and appraiser — we are planning a residential property canvas. That has been beneficial in other communities," said Mayor William Wild.

"Due to the current economy and lack of building activity, the Building Department would be reorganized again animal control duties transferred to the police department. Commercial inspections would be handled by the fire department. Existing Building Department inspectors would handle code enforcement.

A currently vacant secretarial position would remain unfilled and a full-time plumbing inspector position would be eliminated. A contractor who currently does mechanical and rental inspections would take over the plumbing inspections.

"In the Department of Public Services, the construction and maintenance superintendent position will be eliminated and those duties will be picked

Donations benefit local family and charity

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Two charitable donations, including one to assist with the family of two Westland boys killed in a fire, were officially presented on behalf of the Wayne Ford Civic League at a recent council meeting.

The league board had agreed to cover the costs for a luncheon attended by about 300 people following the funeral for Xavier Williams, 13, and his brother, Blake, 11, who were killed in an apartment fire late Feb. 26.

"It was a tragedy in the community when two young boys were lost in a fire," said Vic Barra, the league president who presented a check for $490. "Their mother was left with little or nothing."

The boys' mother, Tasha Williams, was a single parent and full-time student and unable to pay for the funerals. Westland firefighters donated $1,000 and police officers contributed $750. Other donations were made for the mortuary services, burial vaults, caskets, cemetery plots and other related items.

"It was a horrible tragedy. So many people stepped up it was astounding and it really touched me," said Deputy Chief Bruce Tenniswood, who accepted the donation. "We had collected over $20,000. It was truly heart-warming. It was just tragedy. We try so hard to avoid it — it just happens."

The donation was appreciated by Councilman Dewey Reeves. "I want to say thanks to Vic Barra and the civic league. They didn't have to pay for the funeral meal. It shows community spirit and that's what it is all about," said Reeves.

The second donation from the league was made to Linda Walker, a three-year breast cancer survivor, and her daughter, Holly, who are doing the 60-mile Breast Cancer 3-Day walk as the Boobie Walkers. Nearly $3,000 was donated for the breast cancer fund-raiser which will be held Aug. 13-15.

Over 30 days, nearly $1,500 was raised by bingo players, Barra said, with the league board agreeing to match whatever was raised through bingo.

Another fund-raiser Barra noted was collection of recyclable paper in the league parking lot to benefit Special Olympics. "We have a recycling Dumpster in the parking lot. I hope we're not in trouble with the council for not getting approval. They're doing pretty well with it," he said.

"I play for myself. All my friends are in band and play. I'm amazed by their talent," said Thomason. "I'll never be like them. I just want to learn more."

With a smaller class — four or five students — Feliks is able to give each of the students personal attention and help them with specific questions about technique or focus on particular problem they're having with a song. Collectively, the class played along with Feliks initially at a slow pace and gradually increasing the tempo.

The students were playing acoustic guitars but pitch pipes or tuning forks these days. Each of the students came with their own electronic tuning devices. Thomason loads the songs onto her computer so that she can play along for practice.

"My parents were in from Florida, so I couldn't practice," said Thomason, who Feliks encouraged to play what she could of the song as the class played together.

The average cost per residential bill is estimated at $15.50.

•Millage rates would remain unchanged except for the police and fire millage which pays for the retirement fund. That is proposed to increase from 3.35 mills to 4.50 mills — the first time the millage would have been increased in six years. A resident whose home has a taxable valued of $50,000 would see a $58 annual property tax increase.

The increase would offset lower investment earnings and decrease taxable values. The increase, which is subject only to council approval, would also help defray costs associated with the police and fire early retirement program.

•The only capital improvement budgeted for 2010-11 is $250,000 for improvements to Central City Park, which is expected to undergo a $1.5 million remediation funded through Wayne County, which owns the park. That would be combined with money earmarked in the current fiscal year for a total of $500,000.

The City Council is scheduled to hold a second budget study session 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday in the council chambers. Adoption of the budget would be scheduled for June prior to the July 1 start of the fiscal year.

up by existing DPS administrators. The Highway and Maintenance Department has been reorganized with the majority of savings coming from nine staff members expected to participate in the early retirement program.

The former superintendent will transfer to a new position as an assistant parks and recreation director overseeing the golf course and ice arena. A deputy parks and recreation director position, vacant due to a retirement, will be left vacant.

The Sanitation Department will have a three-quarter reduction in personnel. Each city department is now responsible for getting their recyclables to the curb each week.

•Phase 2 of the city's curb-side recycling program will get under way at budgeted cost of $500,000. That will expand the program to multifamily residences such as apartments, condominiums and mobile home parks.

The city no longer pays for recycled materials to be taken to Great Lakes Recycling and less than a year into the program receives a monthly payment for the recycled materials — something the city hadn't expected until the third year of the program.

Brandon talks 'change' at Economic Club

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

David Brandon says he's all about change in business.

When the former CEO of Domino's got research that said the company, a leader in the pizza industry for 50 years, wasn't growing at the pace it could be — "People said Domino's was 'OK' but not great," he recalled — he decided a change was needed. The company developed a marketing concept where they admitted their pizza could be better, listened to customers about changes that could be made, and then made changes.

And it worked. "It was bold," Brandon told a gathering at the Canton Economic Club Wednesday. "It's hard after 50 years at the top to feature people (in commercials) telling you your product is terrible. It was a big risk, but we felt it had a great reward."

"I would characterize what happened to us as transformational," he added. "And it was all about change."

That's the message he most wanted to deliver at the Economic Club lunch — that business has to be willing to change, and not just for change's sake, but to grow. It's an attitude he's had at all his jobs, whether it was at Valassis Communications, at Domino's or in the athletic department at the University of Michigan, where he is now the athletic director.

He made change at Valassis where, he said, he had to develop a leadership team that was all on the same page. He made change at Domino's, and now he's made changes in himself, by taking the U-M job.

He said he's been getting the same question a lot — "Why take this job that pays a little less?" he said, drawing laughs — since moving to U-M.

"They ask, 'Why would you do that?'" Brandon said. "Anyone who asks me that doesn't know me very well. It's all about 'change to grow.'"

Canton Township Supervisor Phil LaJoy, a former state representative in the Michigan House, loved what he heard.

"I thought it was terrific," LaJoy said. "He's looking for ways to be better at what you're doing. He talked about hard work and how you have to keep finding different ways of doing things. I thought it was a great message."

The message also resonated with the audience. Bennie Hayden is getting ready to start a small business related to "going green," and he thought Brandon's speech was right on target, not only for business but to rally the state's economy.

"I think that's where our state is at, as well," Hayden said. "We need to change the way we do things to change our economy."

Brandon's latest change comes largely as a result of his passion for the university that has affected his life so much. Consider:

- He went to U-M on an athletic scholarship, proceeded to be a part of three Big Ten football championships and earned an education that cost him all of $5 — "There was some lab kit that for some reason wasn't covered" by the scholarship, he said.

- When his twin sons were born very ill, they were taken to Mott Children's Hospital at U-M, where he said doctors saved their lives.

"We were in a situation where we were going to lose those boys," Brandon remembered. "But we didn't, because a guy at Mott knew what to do."

- When he was diagnosed with prostate cancer, he said he traveled the world trying to find the right doctor to treat it. He said all of the advice he got wherever he traveled led back to one doctor: a U-M doctor.

"I traveled the world and found out the best doctor to treat me was three miles from my front door," he said. "That's the University of Michigan. It's a special place."

He said he's always been an unconventional candidate for most of the jobs he's taken. He didn't know much about Valassis when he took over, nor did he know much about the pizza business. But he was successful in both.

That's why he shrugs off the fact he knew little of running an athletic department when he agreed to replace Bill Martin as U-M's athletic director.

"People said, 'What does he know about athletic administration?'" Brandon said. "Well, we'll figure it out."

Brandon said change-to-grow is coming to U-M, too. For instance:

- In December, Michigan and Michigan State will play the first outdoor hockey game in Michigan Stadium history. Brandon figures the national attendance record for a hockey game — more than 70,000 — could fall at The Big House.

- In September 2011, Notre Dame travels to the Big House for the first night game in stadium history.

Brandon, whose original career goals would have led him into education, took the business path instead, being guided by, among other things, advice given him by Bo Schembechler, the legendary football coach. Now, he's as close to that educational goal as ever.

"I never got to be a teacher or a coach, like I wanted to," said Brandon, a football and basketball player himself in high school. "But I'm close now."

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

David Brandon's message about "change to grow" in business was well-received by audience members at the Canton Economic Club lunch Wednesday.

Men steal 12-pack of beer

Two men worked together to steal a 12-pack of beer from the 7-Eleven on Ford at Gilman store about 4 a.m. April 7.

One man entered the store and went directly to the back of the store where the coolers are located, the clerk told police. The other man tried to distract the clerk by talking to the employee and asking if there was a drinking fountain inside the store.

Both men fled from the store into a waiting vehicle near Gilman.

Minor in possession

Garden City police arrested a 17-year-old Garden City man after they found that he had open intoxicants and had consumed alcohol about 1:30 p.m. April 7 in the area of Cambridge and Middlebelt. The police were responding to a call about some teens breaking into cars. The police report didn't indicate that any cars were tampered with when they arrived on the scene.

No license

Police arrested a 34-year-old Detroit man in the area of Middlebelt and Garden about 3 p.m. after he was stopped for having a cracked windshield. The officer found that he only had an Illinois state prison identification and had a failure to appear warrant from the 72nd District Court in Port Huron. He also had a suspended license.

Damaged vehicle

A vehicle that was parked in the 31900 block of Harrison sustained damage when an unknown vehicle pushed it 20 yards into a stop sign. When the owner returned to her car at 5:30 a.m. April 7, she realized that it wasn't parked in the same location where she parked it.

Stolen prescription

A resident in the 31400 block of James told police April 6 that she suspected that her cousin who has been staying with her had stolen some prescription medicine from her house. The cousin stays with her two days a week because he has no home, she said.

When she returned to her home, she found that she only had one quarter of a 90-day supply of pills left. She told police that her cousin knows where she keeps her medication.

Fraud

A Monroe man said that an unknown person used his Michigan unemployment Visa card to make a purchase he hadn't authorized April 7 at Kmart, 29600 Ford.

Stephanie Gertsen is matter-of-fact about why she's sitting in a classroom at the William D. Ford Career Technical Center learning about back boards and neck braces.

"I want to go into the medical field when I'm older," the John Glenn High School student said.

Gertsen is among a group of Wayne-Westland high school students who have signed on for the inaugural year of the new Emergency Medical Technician class being offered at the center. Taught by Westland fire Capt. Brian Craft, the class gives the students hands-on training that will send them out the door after graduation with the skills to get a job in a fast-growing field.

"If they pass the class, if they take the state test and pass that, they can become a licensed EMT in the state," said Craft. "It's one of the fields showing job growth in Michigan. They're putting EMTs in ERs, the casinos, the movie studios in Allen Park, sleep apnea clinics. There's a lot of jobs for these kids."

According to Principal Ginny Kowalski, enrollment in the center's medical fields was increasing to the point where there wasn't enough room. Westland Assistant Fire Chief Scott Lucas offered up the idea of an EMT class and the district agreed.

"We knew we needed another health care class," said Kowalski. "We decided to start with 45 students and we're very pleased. For the first year, it's been great. It's definitely a success."

Kowalski believes the high-school based EMT class — only seniors can enroll in the class — may be one of a kind in western Wayne County. The class gives students a leg up in testing for positions on fire departments which require at least an EMT certification, said Craft and it also opens the door for them to go on to be paramedics or even enter the medical field like Green wants to do.

"I know a doctor who started as an EMT and is now an ER doctor," he said.

In Craft's class, students get the practical knowledge, but they also get hands-on real experience at hospitals like Oakwood Annapolis in Wayne and Garden City Hospital.

"We teach the book stuff and we use graphic videos as teaching tools. You can sit and learn 24/7, but unless you have the real experience of helping people, you don't learn," said Craft.

Melissa Deyo, a Glenn student, admits she expected class to be a lot easier, but finds it rewarding.

"You definitely have to study," she said. "Some days the learning is dry but today we're learning about chest wounds. After I get out of this class, I feel like I can help someone."

Austin Baker said the EMT class the "hardest class I've taken in high school."

"You actually get to do something in this class. It's like chemistry, but it's far from boring," he said.

Craft told the students from the get-go that they would be treated as adults, not students. He explained that they had to study.

"I think it helped them in school," he said. "I'm impressed with this class, it's a good group of kids."

Carleton Green's mother was diagnosed with Type II diabetes because he was able to tell before she went to see the doctor that she needed to be tested for it.

"I was able to tell her to get the test done because of what I learned and she was able to get her pills," said the Glenn student. "We now know how quickly a situation can change."

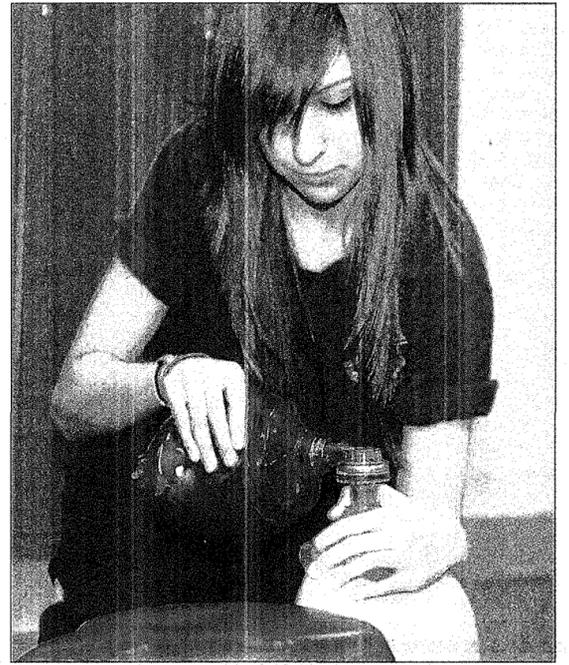

"The basis of the program is that you don't diagnose, you know the signs and symptoms and how much you can help someone," Craft added. Being the first such EMT class, students have had no one to talk to about what they're getting into. After sitting in the classroom, they're now watching medical shows on TV in a different way. What shown on TV is nothing like what happens in the real world, they said.

Thursday is uniform day for the EMT students who wear blue shirts and blue slacks like instructor Brian Craft (back row on left).

Nicole Mari works on CPR during the EMT class.

Youngsters take spring break safari

BY SUE BUCK
 OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

About 80 children spent their spring break on an African safari at the Maplewood Community Center.

The safari fun began when children arrived. They received a passport to Africa which was stamped as they entered into each adventure room — the animal craft room, an obstacle course over crocodiles, sand digging to find insects and toe fishing.

Little binoculars were provided to each child to search for animals in the Jungle Room. Pizza, salad and jungle cake was served in the Zebra Cantina. Children ages 4-9 came with parents, grandparents and others.

"It's cool," said Shiori Wojtas, 8, "I came to see the 'animals.'" She also researched information about creatures which live in Africa, like tree snakes, before coming to the event.

Olivia Harrison, 5, a Garden City resident, who takes cheerleading at the center, brought her father, Charlie. She wanted to see the elephants.

Nathaniel Smielewski, 5, of Westland hoped to see tigers.

The women who usually volunteer in the center's thrift store switched gears and volunteered their time to serve food to the youngsters.

It took about three days to decorate the rooms for the safari, a first time event, according to center Supervisor Cheryl Stepanian.

In one room, the children colored a photo frame and made bead bracelets.

Julianna Tomosi, 6, immediately enjoyed this activity. "I like making the bracelets," Julianna said.

Author drafts blueprint for finding a job

BY JAY GROSSMAN
ECCENTRIC STAFF WRITER

It's a difficult time, if not downright impossible, trying to find work today.

Therese Boldt wants to make it a little easier for you.

The professional career coach is the author of Yes! You Can Land a Job (Even) in a Crummy Economy, a comprehensive guide toward getting a leg up on the competition in this ultra-competitive job market.

The book illustrates the importance of networking, resumes, personal appearance, phone manners and finding opportunity in a stressful situation. An entire chapter is devoted to communication skills.

"There's a funny thing happening with the Gen Y group," said Boldt, 48. "They believe they can build relationships through e-mail when it comes to careers. What they're finding is you can't replace that face-to-face or ear-to-ear communication."

Reading the book won't land someone a specific job. It can help in trying to figure out a suitable career. Boldt believes most people become their own biggest obstacle when forced to switch professions.

"What typically happens to person who finds themselves without a job is they go into a reactive mode," she said. "They look for any job ... but what they don't do is take the time to figure out what they're good at and what they're not good at. It's no different for the facilities engineer at Ford or the accountant who worked for a mid-sized auto supplier. It's the same dynamic: How do you change the mindset?"

Boldt is president of the alumni association for Wayne State University's business school. She's also the WJBK-TV FOX2 morning news career coach. She said the book, which is self-published, is her way of giving back.

"I never had a burning desire to write a book," she said. "I had a burning desire to help all the people who I couldn't place as a recruiter, to help them find a job."

The book challenges readers to conduct a thorough self-evaluation of their skill sets and goals. It forces the reader to consider what they want to do for a living, versus "what they're good at."

Most of all, the book urges readers to take action.

"I have a list of probably 90 churches that have career ministries — and that's not a complete list," she said. "If you can't find the resources, you're not looking for them. And if you not looking it's because you don't believe you'll succeed.

"My entire platform is here in Michigan, we have the opportunity to really show the rest of the nation how it can be done under the worst possible case scenario. If we can draw together and share resources among one another, then we can move forward out of this rut we're in."

Boldt laughed when told it seems her book takes a "tough love" approach toward helping people find work.

"I'm the youngest of eight kids," she said. "We grew up in an 850-square-foot house with one bathroom in Ferndale ... we put our dining room table in the basement because we didn't have enough space upstairs. I get what it means to work hard."

Jazz Appreciation Month

Sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution, Jazz Appreciation Month (or JAM for short) seeks to extend awareness of and interest in this music, which is arguably America's most unique contribution to world arts.

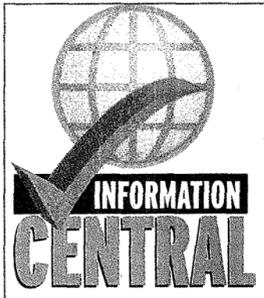

Jazz music is mainly an instrumental music which derives from many African-American influences, including church-like call and responses, blues-style improvisations and an African emphasis on percussion and rhythm. Though purely an African-American invention, it has appealed to a wide variety of musicians with its lively group interplay and the individualized act of improvisation.

Jazz first gained notoriety in the 1920s as Louis Armstrong's early bands began making records. Jazz reached its heyday in the 1940s and 1950s with such big-name acts as Miles Davis, John Coltrane, Duke Ellington, Charlie Parker and Benny Goodman selling out clubs and halls. Beat Generation writers like Jack Kerouac and Allen Ginsberg cite bebop-style jazz as a primary influence in their writing.

Jazz has also been called America's "classical music," although it is still going strong today — witness the 750,000 people who descend on Detroit during the Labor Day Jazz Festival. While jazz also has been a primary influence on many types of music, including rock 'n' roll, which took its cues from the blues, rap, R&B, techno and country, it also remains an incredibly elastic music, with artists such as John Scofield and Joshua Redman incorporating these and more genres into jazz's unique chords and time structures.

The Westland Public Library has a nice collection of jazz CDs for the purist and the person who wants to hear new jazz. We also have definitive biographies of many of the above-mentioned musicians, as well as books which discuss the history of jazz. Look, or listen, for jazz concerts at the library this summer, too.

If you have any questions, please come to the Reference Desk at the library, 6123 Central City Parkway, (734) 326-6123 or visit westlandlibrary.org.

Stabenow: Bill would level playing field

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

In 17 years at Atlas Tube, one of the country's largest manufacturers of hollow steel tubing products, plant manager Jeff Cole has seen sales drop and employees laid off because of uneven pricing that allows overseas competitors to sell products and services cheaper.

If legislation being pushed by U.S. Sen. Debbie Stabenow, aimed at the way the Chinese value their currency, can do something about it, Cole is all for it.

Stabenow was at Atlas Tube's Plymouth plant Tuesday, stumping for support for her Currency Exchange Rate and Oversight Reform Act, which would penalize countries like China, she says, which undervalues its currency to artificially discount its foreign products.

Stabenow believes the job loss due to such practices numbered more than 2 million between 2001-08.

"When you undervalue your currency, it gives you a huge unfair advantage," Seeger said. "Congress has been reluctant to address it. I'm sure it's complicated politically ... to get tough with China on trade. I think (that reluctance) comes at the cost of thousands of manufacturing jobs across the country."

The legislation would:
• Require the Department of Treasury to act when it sees that a currency is being undervalued as a result of clear government policies that interfere with the currency market.
• Require the Department of Commerce to act when an American company complains that Chinese products get a subsidy or because manipulated currency results in prices that are artificially low.

• Provide the Department of Commerce with formulas to impose penalties for dumping or subsidies so manufacturers and businesses do not have to wait for action by the Treasury Department.

Stabenow said the Chinese haven't ever followed those rules; consequently, she said, the Chinese "dump their products" into the U.S. at much cheaper rates than companies like Atlas Tube.

Atlas Tube, located on Eckles in Plymouth Township, has a production capacity of some 180,000 tons and employs more than 50 workers. It's a division of John Maneely Co., which Atlas president Dave Seeger said has lost some 500 jobs because of tactics such as those he says the Chinese use.

Stabenow contends some countries undervalue their currency to give themselves a competitive advantage in the global economy. One of those, Stabenow said, is China, which she says undervalues its cur-

Area boys track teams eye openers

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

For area coaches, there are more questions than answers to the start of the 2010 boys track and field season.

With spring break out of the way, the dual meet season gets under way Tuesday. And what to expect this season is anyone's guess.

Livonia Stevenson is coming off a banner 2009 season in which the Spartans captured the KLAAs Central Division and Kensington Conference titles, along with a runner-up finish at the Division 1 regional.

But the defending Livonia City champs were hard hit by graduation losses, including first-team All-Observer sprinter Nick Anagnostou, who went 10.7 in the 100-meter dash, along with the area's top long jumper in David Simor (21 feet, 11.75 inches).

Middle distance runner Nate Sergison will also be missed, along with all four members of Stevenson's first-team All-Area 800 relay team.

"It's kind of a rebuilding season, but I think we'll fare pretty well,"

Tony Frezzell Churchill

Scott Coppola Churchill

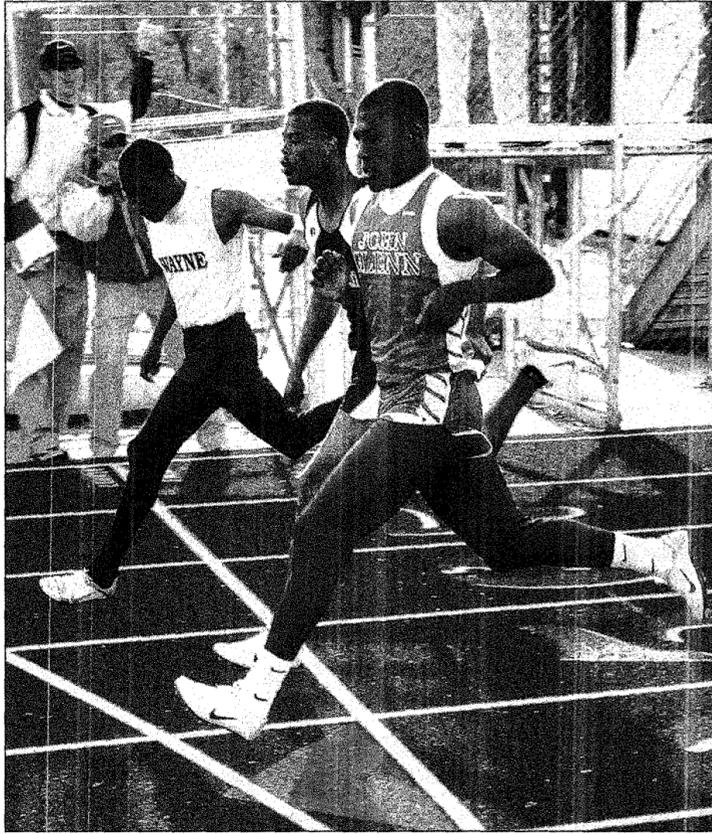

Stevenson coach Scott Shaw said. "We have a young team, but not as fast as we have been in the past."

Livonia Franklin went 5-0 to win the KLAAs South Division's dual meet title last spring. The Patriots also lost some key performers, but return two of their top sprinters in Mike Baumgardner and Richard Duncan.

Franklin's shot put trio of Nate Coleman (48-0), Sean McAuliffe (46-9.5) and Jay Woolfork (46-9) also returns.

"We have a more versatile group this year with many young men look-

SIDELINES

Sidor spurs sweep

It was a virtual hit parade Friday as Madonna University swept a Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference women's softball double-header in Grand Rapids, 9-2 and 14-1 (five-inning mercy).

MU, which improved to 19-6 overall and 3-1 in the WHAC, completed the sweep by winning the nightcap behind a 15-hit attack led by Cat Sidor (Livonia Churchill), who went 3-for-4 with five RBI.

Other hitting stars included winning pitcher Hallie Minch (3-for-4; three RBI); Brittney Scero (3-for-4; one RBI); Erica Landess (2-for-3; one RBI) and Tara LaMilza (2-for-3).

Minch (8-4) tossed a four-hitter, did not allow a walk and struck out three.

Jess Irwin (11-2) threw a two-hitter and struck out 14 in the first game.

Sidor went 3-for-5 to pace a 13-hit MU attack.

Ashley Shay, Landess and Rachael Kethe each added two hits and two RBI. Amber Rafko also had two hits.

Cornerstone falls to 6-19 and 3-3.

MU baseball falls

The No. 18-ranked Madonna University baseball team took a pounding Friday in Battle Creek.

St. Xavier (Ill.) collected 16 hits in a 16-2 triumph over the Crusaders at Nichols Field.

The loss drop MU to 22-6 overall, while St. Xavier improves to 20-21-1.

Matt Erickson and Jim Pipolo each had two hits and three RBI for the victorious Cougars. Anthony Maziur, Tony Testin and Mark Siefert contributed two hits and two RBI each. One of Maziur's hits was a homer.

Spencer Sarel went 3-for-4 with two RBI for the Crusaders, who committed five errors. Jeff Bultinck added two hits.

Winning pitcher Ken Hurta (7-1) scattered six hits, walked two and struck out five in six innings.

MU used seven different pitchers with Trent Pohl (1-1) suffering the loss. In 2.1 innings he gave up six earned runs on seven hits and five walks.

New Crusader

Madonna University women's basketball coach Carl Graves added his second recruit for the 2010-11 season by signing Ida's Carrie Kloster to an NAA letter-of-intent on Wednesday.

Kloster averaged 13.8 points this season and helped the Bluestreaks to back-to-back undefeated regular seasons and an overall record of 78-12 in four years. She was also a two-time Lenawee County Athletic Association selection as a junior and senior and led Ida to LCAA titles. She also lettered in three other sports.

"When people and fans at MU meet her, they will know right away that this kid is for real," Graves said. "Her size and athleticism are fun to watch, and she has the work ethic on and off the court as good as any I've ever seen at her age."

Kloster, an honor roll student, joins Kayleigh McCollum (Muskegon Catholic Central) as part of the 2010-11 recruiting class.

Thunderbirds stop Rockets in DH

PREP BASEBALL

Westland John Glenn's baseball team got left out in the cold during Thursday's doubleheader against host Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Playing under frigid and windy conditions, the Rockets fell to 0-3 on the season after being swept by the Thunderbirds, 9-3 and 14-4.

Winning pitcher Pat Broderick helped his own cause by going 2-for-4 with a pair of RBI as Edsel overcame an early 3-0 deficit to win the opener.

Broderick went the first five innings, allowing five hits and three walks. He struck out nine.

Caleb Clenney went 2-for-4 and scored a pair of runs for the Rockets.

Losing pitcher Rob Schurig, the Glenn starter, worked the first four innings, allowing eight runs on six hits and five walks. He fanned five.

In the nightcap, Glenn trailed 5-4 after scoring a run in the top of the fifth, but Edsel Ford invoked the 10-run mercy rule by scoring nine times in the bottom half of the inning.

Bruce Tebelman, the T-Birds' ninth hitter, went 3-for-3, including a three-run triple to end the game.

Broderick also went 2-for-3 with three RBI as Edsel improved to 5-1 overall.

Ryan Gilbert was the winning pitcher. In five innings he struck out three, walked four and scattered five hits.

Andrew McGrath, the Rockets' starter, took the loss. In four innings he allowed seven hits, walked two and struck out two.

Schurig went 2-for-2 with a sacrifice and two RBI. McGrath also knocked in a run.

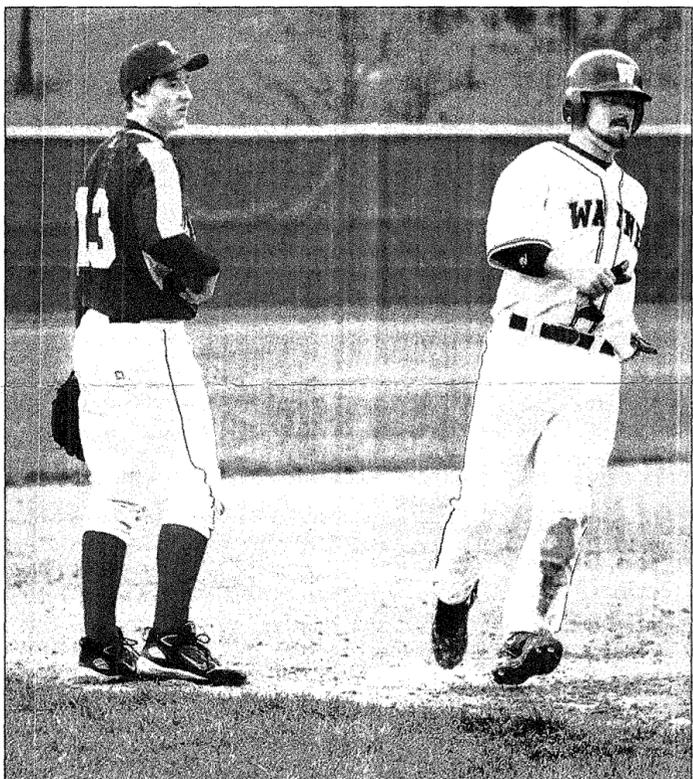

Glenn will try to break into the win column Monday when it travels to face defending KLAAs Kensington Conference champion Northville. The crossover game starts at 4 p.m.

CRANBROOK 7, JOHN GLENN 1: Westland John Glenn (0-1) could muster only three hits Tuesday, dropping its 2010 season opener to visiting Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook (1-0).

Jacob Chapman led the victorious Cranes with a pair of doubles and three RBI.

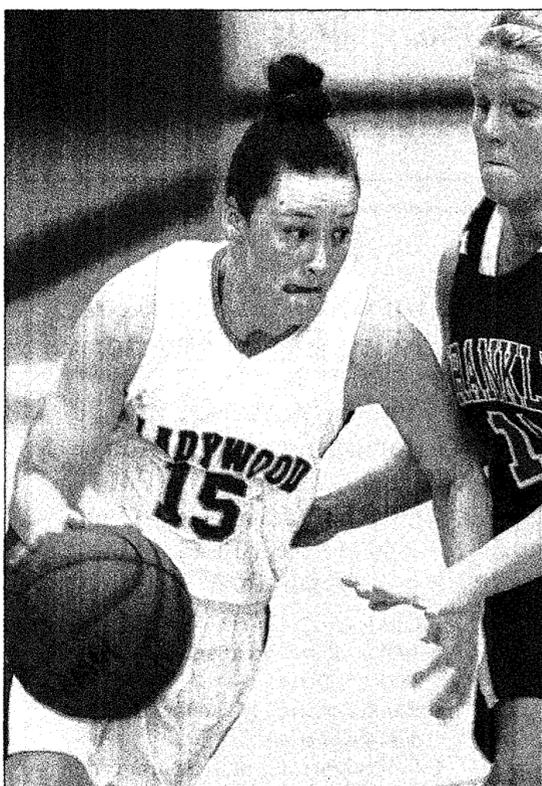

Winning pitcher Nick Cassell went the first three innings and allowed a run in the second inning when Spencer Dowd singled home Caleb Clenney, who finished with two of Glenn's three hits.

Dowd, who started and worked the first 2½ innings, took the loss on the mound for the Rockets. Reliever Rob Schurig came on and pitched scoreless 3½ innings, allowing just an infield single and no walks while striking out four.

Weather permitting

Wayne's Shane Kommer (20) rounds third base during Wednesday's home opener against Ypsilanti. The first game of a double-header was called after four innings because of rain with Wayne leading 9-0. The Zebras' Jake White had a 2-run homer and pitched four scoreless innings with four strikeouts. Shane Wilson and Dominik Corredino also collected two hits apiece. Wayne outlived the Phoenix, 9-2.

Long legacy

Athletics play pivotal role at Ladywood

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Although Livonia Ladywood High is marking its 60-year anniversary April 25 with a special Mass, there's been 34 years of celebration since the Blazers became a member school of the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

Numerous championship banners adorn the walls inside the gymnasium, a $2.1 million structure that was dedicated Feb. 2, 1992.

The all-girls Catholic school has enjoyed its share of success at the state level and offers one of the most comprehensive athletic programs in the state.

Ladywood currently fields 33 various teams at the varsity, JV and freshman levels. Approximately 73 percent of Ladywood's student body participates in at least one sport.

By next season it will be a total of 20 sports as pom pon arrives on the scene.

Among the MHSAA sports Ladywood offers are volleyball, golf, cross country and swimming in the fall; basketball, competitive cheer, bowling and skiing in the winter; track and field, softball, tennis and lacrosse in the spring.

C'ville goes 0-4 in Spring Break Tournament

It turned out to be a tough week for the Livonia Clarenceville baseball team in the Oakland County Spring Break Tournament hosted by Rochester High School.

The Trojans lost their first four games in Pool 1 of the seven-team bracket to fall to 2-5 on the season.

In an 8-5 setback Wednesday against Milford, Eric Trotter suffered the loss despite limiting the Mavericks to just four hits on the afternoon.

The Trojans, meanwhile, collected nine hits against Milford pitching with Zac Rosen, Mike Schiffman, Garett Hintzman and Chris Diaz paving the way with two apiece.

Rosen also had two RBI, while Schiffman and Diaz knocked in one each.

In an 11-2 loss to New Baltimore Anchor Bay, Clarenceville was out-hit 9-2 with Rosen collecting two RBI.

Starter Ben Gehan suffered the loss.

On Monday, the Trojans fell first on Monday to Ortonville Brandon, 11-1, and then to host Falcons, 9-0.

In the defeat to Rochester, Schiffman took the loss as Falcon bats pounded out 11 hits.

Damien Quarles had the only two hits off Rochester starter Chris Saber.

Against Brandon, Clarenceville's offense was held in check again, collecting just five hits in the five-inning mercy-shortened affair.

John James had a single and run scored and Gehan chipped in with an RBI to lead Clarenceville.

Quarles struck out six in his pitching performance.

Promising newcomers: Jacob Humphreys, Fr., sprints; Robert Foster, Fr., sprints; Ben Yates, Fr., distance; Scott Hamill, Sr., sprints; Jaylin Freeman, Soph., sprints; Raynord Allen, Sr., sprints; Jaylin Ewing, Jr., sprints.

Austin's 2010 outlook: "We look solid once again in the pole vault and sprints. That will be our strength again this year as we combine some promising newcomers with returners from last year's state finalist 4 x 100 relay team. Our distance group looks pretty strong as does our field events. Our hurdle group will have to mature and score for us this season. The kids have set their goals high. Even though our division will be very competitive, I think that we have great potential to compete for the South Division title."

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

Head coach: Pat Koelzer, second year. League affiliation: KLAAS Kensington Conference (South Division).

Last year's finish: Division (first); Conference (fifth); Division 1 regional (seventh).

Promising newcomers: Joe Steckel, Sr., distance; Kade Johnson, Jr., hurdles; Hunter Sterling, Soph., middle distance; Brian Johnson, Fr., hurdles; Joe McRobb, Fr., sprints; Mike Witt, Fr., distance.

Koelzer's 2010 outlook: "We lost some valuable athletes from last year's squad, but we also return a lot of talent. Our throwers will once again lead the way and our distance and middle distance crews should be much improved. Our hurdlers and jumpers will be thin at first, but should grow stronger. The sprinters that returned should put up some points while the younger ones gain experience. Once again, I expect us to be competitive in our strong division and conference this year."

Promising newcomers: Scott Brewer, Jr., 400. Shaw's 2010 outlook: "We'll be competitive in the 100 and 200, but both Anagnostou and Sergison were big losses. It will be hard to replace those guys. We don't have any dominating sprinter. In the field events were looking for people to fill varsity spots. We have a need in the throws. Everybody else is inexperienced. It's the same in the long jump except with Burek coming back."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN

Head coach: Jess Shough, 24th year. League affiliation: KLAAS Kensington Conference (South Division).

Promising newcomers: Erloy Bell, Soph., sprints; Chorey Stewart, Jr., high jump-sprints; Marcus Jordan, Fr., middle distance; Chris Bowie, Sr., throws.

We're going to go out there and compete every meet. The kids will work hard to improve their distances, heights and times. That's what we're going to do."

Notable losses to graduation: Jamie Stewart (first-team All-Area); Joe Happala, Taylor Hall, Andrew Jasmir, Tony Lawson, Todd McCuller.

Leading returnees: Levonte Brooks, Sr., sprints-relays; Ben Watts, Sr., hurdles-relays; Leonard Hogan, Sr., middle distance; Kassius Kelly, Soph., sprints-relays; Moses Hobson, Jr., sprints-long jump; Ardit Dushkaj, Jr., middle distance-relays; Phil Strachan, Sr., middle distance.

Promising newcomers: De'Andre Hogan, Jr., throws; Shawn Cummings, Soph., throws; Chavis Cooley, Jr., middle distance; Mattius Hoffman, distance; Ian Bunker, distance; David Gibson, middle distance; Anthony Giordano, throws.

Gustafson's 2010 outlook: "The boys are looking to return to conference and regional success shooting for number one instead of two this year. We return three members - Brooks, Kelly, and Hobson - off of a 4 x 200 relay team that placed at 'states.' Although we lost the top three throwers in our league to graduation, Cummings, (De'Andre) Hogan, and Giordano show signs of matching that showing. Strachan, Dushkaj and Leonard Hogan look to anchor our middle distance while our newcomers Ian Bunker, David Gibson, and Mattius Hoffman hope to improve every meet."

LUTHERAN HIGH WESTLAND

Head coach: Mike Unger, 23rd year. League affiliation: Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

Last year's finish: Division 1 regional (first); Conference (third); 3-2 dual meet record.

Notable losses to graduation: Spencer Lyle (second-team All-Area); Zech Robinson, Alex Kemp, Bob Schwartz, Garrett Wilson, Brad LaRose, Charles Kelly, Joe Krueger, Drew Maynard.

Leading returnees: Josh Andrzejewski, Sr., 300 hurdles; Zach Musial, Jr., 110 hurdles; Ethan Haller, Sr., long jump-sprint relays; Dave Moldenhauer, Sr., 800-1,600; Derrick Mozham, Jr., sprints-relays; Nolan Edwards, Soph., high jump; Caleb Kempf, Soph., high jump; Micah Kempf, Jr., hurdles; Jacob Fairbairn, Soph., high jump-300 hurdles-relays.

Promising newcomers: Travis Doney, Jr., throws; Dawson Davenport, Soph., throws.

Unger's 2010 outlook: "The team is very young having only a total of 10 juniors and seniors out of 32, so it's a little difficult to make predictions about the team. Being in a new conference, it's also hard to determine where we stack up against the other teams in the conference. I think the leading teams will be Southfield Christian, (Birmingham) Roeper, (Rochester Hills) Lutheran Northwest and (Auburn Hills) Oakland Christian. We believe the juniors and seniors will do their part, but to have team success we are going to need key contributions from the sophomores and freshmen, and right now it's too early to tell where those contributions may develop."

ing to step into the roles left open from our departures," Franklin second-year coach Pat Koelzer said.

Livonia Churchill hopes to make up for the loss of Division 1 state pole vault runner-up Derik Peterman (15-8), who is now at Michigan State.

The Chargers have a solid sprint corps led by seniors Anthony Frezzell and Scott Coppola, who recorded a school-record 42.82 en route to a fifth-place finish in the 4 x 100 relay in the Division 1 state meet.

Senior Deon Clemons (50-8) also returns in the shot put.

"We are coming off a disappointing season in 2009 in which we finished second in our division," Churchill coach Rick Austin said. "That became our inspiration in the off-season as many of our kids have been training with purpose."

Westland John Glenn could surprise after finishing eighth in the Kensington Conference and eighth in the regional.

The Rockets will miss first-team All-Area discus thrower T.J. Arancibia, but one of the top sprinters in the area, Michigan State football signee Jeremy Lankford (10.9 in the 100 and 22.6 in the 200), returns for his season season.

"We should be strong in our sprinting events this season and much improved in our middle distance," said Glenn coach Jess Shough, who is entering his 24th season.

"But our depth in some of the remaining events will determine our success in our dual meet season."

Wayne Memorial is rebuilding as seventh-year coach Lee Grizzell tries to replace first-team All-Area selections Renaldo Powell (now at Central Michigan University) and Parish Clayborn.

Lutheran High Westland, meanwhile, is switching conferences. The Warriors have moved out of the Metro and will compete this spring in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

Spencer Lyle, who went 1:59.16 in the 800, will be hard to replace. But 23rd-year coach Mike Unger will lean on Josh Andrzejewski in the 300 hurdles.

Livonia Clarenceville will remain in the Metro as Brady Gustafson takes over for Dean Bergeron as head coach.

The Trojans, who lost first-team All-Area high jumper Jamie Stewart (6-7) to graduation, are coming off a successful 7-3 dual-meet campaign with runner-up finishes in both the conference and Division 3 regional meets.

Seniors Levonte Brooks, Ben Watts and Leonard Hogan will lead the way, along with sophomore Kassius Kelly for Clarenceville.

League affiliation: KLA A Kensington Conference (South Division).

McCalister's 2010 outlook: "We are returning nine letter winners and a competitive group of young players. This will make settling the lineup very difficult. They will have to work hard in practice and the classroom to earn the playing time. So far the early returns from competitive practices is promising.
 We have some goals this year and a big one is to get back to the regional tournament. I look forward to getting the season started. It will be exciting."

Omietanski's 2010 outlook: "The 2010 team will consist of four of the six returning starting varsity players. The team has a lot of varsity experience returning this year. I have a very strong core of seniors with hopes that my juniors and sophomores, coupled with a quality group of freshman, can fill out the final varsity spots. I have a great group of kids with great attitudes combined with desire to win."

Pilon's 2010 outlook: "The veterans will show a lot of promise along with the quarterfinal level in volleyball, basketball, track and field, competitive cheer and baseball-softball (in conjunction with Madonna University). Malek said he would like one day to add tennis courts to the campus.

 "That would probably be next thing if we could raise the money," he said. "But I don't know if we'd ever get a swimming pool."
 Since 1976, Ladywood has captured seven state titles, including two in basketball (Class B 1983 and 1985), two in volleyball (Class A 1988, 1989), one in cross country (Class B 1980) and two in lacrosse (Class C 2003, 2004).
 The Blazers have also been runners-up seven times in state championships, the most recent coming last June when they took second to Niles in the 2009 softball Division 2 finals.
 Among the Blazers' most noteworthy athletes are state cross country and track champions Kelly Champagne and Jennifer Rioux (early 1980s), 1984 Miss Basketball Emily Wagner, 2004 Class B singles bowling champ Sarah Jaeger and 2007 Miss Hockey Laura Szwed.
 "My 18 years here have been phenomenal," Malek said. "There's nothing more exciting than watching high school athletics."

new players. We're 2-1 right now. We beat Taylor Truman and Redford Thurston and lost to New Boston Huron. So far so good."

Chall's 2010 outlook: "Gary Neill has been with the program since his sophomore year and demonstrates by example, a great work ethic and strong leadership. All of our players are committed to maximizing improvement and contributing to our success as a team. One of the cornerstones of my program is to develop a team of teachers. By this I mean, older more experienced players that have been part of the program share their knowledge with players new to the game. I'm very impressed with the level of commitment from this team. Personal goals for each player are measured by their overall improvement over the course of the season or in the case of older players from when they began the program."

Thompson's 2010 outlook: "We won first match of the season against Macomb Christian on March 30 at our new home course (Idyl Wyld). If the seniors play to their potential, and the younger players get some experience, we should be improved over last season and continue to build for a bright future of Hawks golf. We also have a JV squad of two sophomores and two freshmen who will gain valuable experience for the future."

Additionally, the Blazers also field teams in field hockey, ice hockey, figure skating, equestrian and even snowboarding.
 "The biggest challenge is to keep up with what kids like as far as what we offer," Ladywood Athletic Director Sal Malek said. "What happens in the Olympics usually comes to us two years later."
 "The other big challenge is finding coaches and finding people who are dedicated and have the time to coach."
 Malek juggles many balls while overseeing all the different sports. He receives ample help from his athletic secretary Janet Horal and his assistant A.D. Bill Williams.
 Many of Ladywood's teams play off-campus, including bowling (Woodland Lanes and Oak Lanes), cross country (Cass Benton Park), swimming (Livonia Community Rec Center), tennis (Schoolcraft College), equestrian (Wayne County Fairgrounds), golf (St. John's in Plymouth), skiing (Alpine Valley), figure skating (Westland's Modano Arena) and ice hockey (Arctic Pond and Arctic Edge).
 "We have a lot of great arrangements," Malek said. "The people we have been dealing with have been wonderful." The year 1996 also marked an important step in the overall development of Ladywood's outdoor sports programs with the construction of the Michael Polsinelli Athletic Complex, which now features soccer-lacrosse, softball and field hockey fields, along with a 400-meter track and bleachers. There is also a concession stand adjacent to the track and school.

 "At the time, we had nothing," Malek said about prior to 1996. "Our track team practiced in the parking lot. We played softball at Bicentennial Park (in Livonia). We had a soccer field, but we had man-hole covers that came into play. We only played soccer when we didn't get a flood."
 Polsinelli was a building contractor and a vice president at the time for Schostak Brothers. He was also a classmate of Malek during their days at the University of Detroit Jesuit H.S.
 "Michael had the vision and he was going to find a way to get an athletic complex," Malek said. "He was on our board and his daughter ran track and cross country for us. He was a good fit for us."

Dolls come to life at convention

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
CORRESPONDENT

The pretty painted eyes almost seem to wink as visitors enter the upstairs room devoted to Janie Hunt's dolls and sewing projects.

Hunt's grandson used to wait for the dolls to move when he was a toddler. It's his sister Emily's turn to stare at the shelves lining both walls from top to bottom in the Canton home.

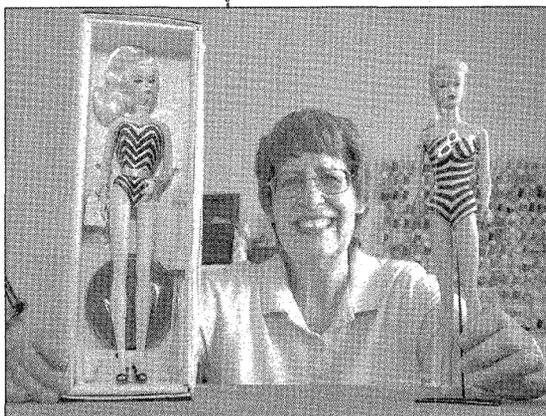

The dolls of Hunt and Pam Kletzka, a Livonia collector, seem ready to spring to life in time for the Grant-A-Wish Fund Convention, Friday-Sunday, April 16-18, at the Livonia Marriott. The convention part of the weekend is sold out, but the sales room is open to the public Saturday and Sunday.

Proceeds from the auction of collectibles Friday benefit the 32nd Detroit Masonic Learning Center for Dyslexic Children, Salvation Army and Leader Dogs for the Blind. The Friday event is open only to members of the Great Lakes Fashion Doll Club that is hosting the weekend activities, including luncheon speakers Bill Greening, Mattel's leading Barbie designer, and Lauren Doucette, marketing coordinator for Barbie Collectibles.

"We'll have dolls of all kinds for sale and accessories, including vintage," said Debra Forde, a doll club member from White Lake. "Dealers come in from Toronto, Chicago. One woman does jewelry for dolls. Other club members sell clothes for dolls. You name it, we've got it there for the dolls."

Mattel donates dolls for the charity auction. Forde designed the jewelry and members provided the outfits.

"Over the years we've donated $320,000 to charities

Janie Hunt holds a 1960 play Barbie, at right. At left is the 2009 50th Anniversary collectors version made of silkstone instead of vinyl.

and produce a souvenir doll for those who come to the weekend event," Forde said. "We've had people from Taiwan and this year from Australia. We're the second largest convention and have more than 70 members. Some members have thousands and thousands of dolls. I collect because I enjoy it and like to sew for the dolls."

CHILDHOOD TREASURES

Hunt loves to sew for the dolls as well. One wall in her home holds dozens of spools of colorful threads. Some were used to make clothes for 30 centerpiece dolls for the luncheon.

It's obvious Hunt loves dolls. She still has 30 from when she was a little girl.

"I don't count them," said Hunt, who has been collecting since 1989. "I always loved my dolls. At age 14, I got Barbie. I loved sewing clothes for the dolls."

Fashion dolls are her favorites. Hunt has sewn many of the outfits for them.

"Dolls are the next most collectible item in the world after coins and stamps," Hunt said. "I wanted it so that I could dress and play with them. Mine are not in boxes. Mine are played with."

Souvenir dolls will be given to all convention attendees. It's up to each individual if they want to play with them.

"Barbie is a big doll to collect because she's affordable. The (souvenir) doll from two years ago that Mattel gave us we repainted and redressed them and today they sell for $400 on eBay," Hunt said. "There were only 250 dolls, so they're limited. We take all of the paint off and repaint. Most dolls have stenciled on eyes. They don't have the spark from a portrait artist. Portrait artists give them life."

INCREASED VALUE

Hunt holds an original Barbie from 1960, purchased at a hardware store for $2.95 and worth $600 today. The striped sun suit-attired doll stands next to the 50th anniversary replica made of Silkstone. Hunt is a wealth of information as she talks about the dolls.

"Vinyl dolls were for play. The Silkstone (version) feels like porcelain," said Hunt, who's especially proud of her Gene dolls modeled after actress Gene Tierney. Designed by Mel Odom for Ashton Drake Galleries, the dolls started the 15-inch trend of fashion dolls.

Pam Kletzka's collection is 98 percent Barbie dolls that stand 12 inches tall. She started thinking about buying a Barbie in 1989, when they first came out for the holiday.

"I found out about the Barbie club in 1995-96 and attended the first convention, and made outfits for the souvenir doll," Kletzka said. "Conventions are a lot of fun and we're always looking for new club members.

Mattel came out with its first Holiday Barbie in 1988, when her daughter was born. At the time Kletzka couldn't afford the $30 to $35 to purchase the doll.

"You dream about having all those outfits. Some vintage outfits are more expensive than the dolls," said Kletzka, who estimates she owns a couple of hundred dolls.

Tucked inside the master bedroom closet are boxes and boxes of unopened Holiday Barbies. Kletzka's vintage dolls, including ones from around the world, are showcased in two large curio cabinets in the living room. It's obvious, like Hunt, she loves the dolls and the convention.

SHARING BIRTHDAYS

"Barbie is 51 today. My daughter's birthday is on the same day as Barbie's, March 9. Last year our convention celebrated Barbie's 50th birthday," Kletzka said. "A lot of people just look, come and have fun. We have dolls from $5 to thousands of dollars."

Kletzka picks up a Twist and Turn Barbie with moveable waist. Earrings on the older dolls can leave green ears. She uses Clearasil to remove the stains.

Pam Kletzka holds two doll from her collection. At right is a 1961 "Bubble Cut" Barbie, so named for the doll's hairstyle. At left is a "Twist and Turn" Barbie from the mid to late 1960s.

"I've run out of room and keep an overflow of dolls," Kletzka said.

On the shelves, one Barbie from 1961 is dressed in lime green, another doll in a hippie era outfit. Even Kletzka is wearing Barbie. Her shirt was on auction at one of the conventions and spotlights the fashion doll loved by millions.

The sales showroom is open to the public 7:30-9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 3 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $10 Saturday and includes Sunday, or $5 Sunday only. Girl Scouts in uniforms get in free to the show at the Livonia Marriott (Laurel Park), 37700 W. Six Mile. For information, contact Debra Forde at (248) 421-1140 or damforde@earthlink.net.

THE INTERPLAY OF DIABETES AND ARTHRITIS

When a doctor cares for a patient with arthritis, the doctor invariably asks the patient if he or she has diabetes. If the doctor wants to treat the patient's arthritis with a steroid injection, then the patient's diabetic status becomes important. Cortisone causes a rise in blood sugar. If the patient is not a diabetic, this increase will be slight and the body will handle the blood sugar elevation with no difficulty. If the patient is a diabetic, then a steroid injection can raise the blood sugar very high, and the elevation may continue for 2-3 days. The doctor will need to instruct the patient on how to temporarily increase the diabetic medication and/or insulin to counter the steroid effect.

If the patient's arthritis brings up a question of daily steroids by mouth, then the doctor will usually look for an alternative medicine rather than have the patient remain at risk for ongoing high blood sugar and poor diabetic control.

Diabetes also causes a number of arthritis problems including thickening of the hands that interfere with the ability of the fingers to move freely, loss of shoulder mobility known as adhesive capsulitis, loss of nerve ending feeling that can cause a fracture in the foot, and susceptibility to infection in joints such as the knee and ankle.

On the other hand, arthritis and diabetes share several goals of treatment. In both conditions weight control and daily exercise are vital to the success of therapy.

SEEDLINGS FUND-RAISER

Seedlings Braille Books for Children is encouraging supporters to sign up for the Kroger Rewards Program as a means of raising funds for the organization. Kroger donated nearly $4,000 to Seedlings through the shopper program last year.

Supporters sign up online for a card and then use it every time they shop at Kroger.

A portion of the total will be donated to Seedlings, a Livonia-based organization dedicated to increasing the availability of braille books, promoting literacy skills and a love of reading.

April is the month for enrolling or re-enrolling at www.krogercommunityrewards.com.

SHE SEES GHOSTS

Paranormal events have captivated Kristy Robinett since birth. The psychic medium uses her abilities to help paranormal investigation teams deal with the psychological side of ghosts.

She'll talk about her experiences from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday, April 17, at the Farmington Civic Theatre, 3332 Grand River Ave., Farmington. Participants will learn about local spirits and enjoy a gallery reading which will entail Kristy touching into the spirits and guides of those in the audience.

Cost is $25 or $35, which includes a copy of her Ghosts of Southeast Michigan now available on Amazon, Barnes and Noble and Borders. Visit www.tangledwishes.com to buy tickets.

Replace old appliances, get a rebate

An appliance rebate for consumers who want to buy a new refrigerator, washer or dishwasher went into effect on Feb. 10, but I don't believe that it is going all that well.

This rebate program was designed to remove old energy-guzzling models, give homeowners an incentive to get rid of the old and introduce new energy-saving products and stimulate appliance sales in Michigan. This slowly is being accomplished in our area but not nearly as fast as in some other states. The reason is that the rebates offered in other states are much larger than in Michigan. We get $50 or $100 dollars when buying a refrigerator whereas you could get as much as $300-$700 dollars in some other parts of the country. We started out with some $6.5 million allocated for appliances and two months later we still have more than $5 million dollars to dish out to Michigan residents.

We really can't complain because something is always better than nothing. You can make arrangements for getting a rebate by going to MIrebates.com or calling (866)-621-8782.

In a big push to save water a new washing machine is being designed for use in commercial laundries as early as next year. This new washer made by Xeros will use eight gallons of water instead of 80 to wash a 45 pound load. A home-style washer is expected for the home market in 2013 that will use 90 percent less water than current washers. The principal of operation is using small plastic beads made of the same material (nylon) used in carpets. The properties that make nylon easy to stain also make it a great scrubber. Its polarized molecules attract soil, and in the humidity created by a little water, the polymer chains separate slightly to absorb grime and lock it into the beads' cores. I do hope this new concept works but it surely brings a lot of questions into my mind.

past month alone. The police department placed GPS devices in the appliances of some vacant homes and even placed a huge green sticker announcing this fact on the houses. Apparently the crooks didn't notice the sticker and are in jail as a result.

Speaking of crooks and appliances, let me give you a personal story. I recently replaced our 11-year-old hot water heater. I asked my darling Valorie what to do with the old one and she told me to place it on the street where it would be picked up and we would get a bill from the city for doing so. The same day I received a fax on our machine from a company that buys used metal anything. I called them and was told they would give me $50 for the old heater. I put it by the garage door and felt pretty smart by possibly making a few dollars. For seven straight days I kept calling this company who sent me the fax and they told me they would get to it and call me. They had my address and all that and yet they never showed up. I began to wonder if this company was just getting addresses to scout out the neighborhood and do some hauling away on their own. Be careful who you deal with because there are times when things are not the same as they seem. Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard at 8 a.m., Saturdays on WAAM 1600 and Sundays at 2 p.m. on WDTK 1400. You can e-mail your problems and questions on appliances to apdr@twmri.com

NANCY ELLIOTT MCCUEN

Miss McCuen, age 66, of Nottingham Village Nursing Center, Northumberland, Pennsylvania, passed away early Thursday morning, March 11, 2010. She was born in Detroit, Michigan, on September 8, 1943, daughter of the late Newell Hoyt McCuen and Amy Jose McCuen. Miss McCuen attended Bloomfield Country Day School in Michigan and was a resident of Birmingham, Michigan for almost 65 years before moving to Graysonview Manor in Selinsgrove, Pennsylvania in July 2008. Miss McCuen lived a very challenging life from an early age. At age 7, she was hit by a truck while crossing the street with a green light going to buy her younger sister a birthday present. Despite being seriously injured in that accident, which left the right side of her body paralyzed for life, Miss McCuen respected her education through high school and then worked for a company that employed handicapped persons to assemble parts for the automobile industry. In the 1970s, she became an unpaid volunteer for the public television station in Detroit where she assisted the station staff in organizing its fund raising efforts. For her voluntary efforts, Miss McCuen was presented in 1974 with the "Heart of Gold" Award of the United Way of Greater Detroit. She was a lifetime member of the Birmingham Unitarian Church. Miss McCuen was a vocal spokesperson for the rights of handicapped persons to be treated with respect and dignity, and she set off boldly on many adventures on her own without being intimidated by her circumstances or surroundings. She also devoted herself to corresponding with friends and spent many happy hours doing weavings, needlepoint and decorations for friends and family. (Wife Sharon) McCuen of Selinsgrove, PA; three nieces and nephews, Lauren Kristen Roberts, Heather Marise McCuen and Graham Scott McCuen; and three great nieces and nephews, Kiera Christine Roberts, Aidan Christopher Roberts, and Luca Francis Andino. Parkinson's support important for survival

CORRESPONDENT

Ruth Ann Butler wants patients with Parkinson's disease to know they're not alone. Even though she is slowing down at 85, Butler continues to facilitate the Livonia (Western Wayne) Support Group with the hope of helping patients and their families.

The monthly meetings provide the latest information about the progressive neurodegenerative disorder that causes tremors, rigidity and stiffness, slowness of movement, and difficulty with balance.

A retired R.N., Butler brings in neurologists, pharmacists and various speakers to talk not only about the disorder and side effects of medication, but benefits of exercise and movement.

Butler continues to learn as well. Information was unavailable when her husband Pierce was diagnosed with Parkinson's at age 36. Dopamine-producing cells in the brain allow the muscles to move smoothly. In Parkinson's patients, 80 percent or more of these cells are damaged, dead or degenerated.

"The tremors weren't evident to me and he had gone to the doctor without me knowing," said Butler of Westland. "We had four children and were expecting the fifth child when he noticed stiffness in his writing and it became very small."

"As years passed he had problems with shuffling, balance ... later on, problems speaking and throwing out his voice. Parkinson's affects the speech and patients have hallucinations often brought on by the drugs. Eventually he could not speak or swallow, had to have a stomach tube put in. He was bed-ridden 18 months before dying in 2001 at age 77."

As his caregiver, Butler struggled as well until the founding of the Michigan Parkinson Foundation in 1983 and the Livonia support group 26 years ago. Today, she serves on the Professional Advisory Board of MPF.

"They did not know as much about Parkinson's then. He lost his job. He was a proud man and supported his family. He couldn't work, so I went back to work," Butler said. "It was humiliating for him and yet he never complained. Back then you were overworking and misdiagnosed. We've come a long way. We didn't talk about it. Many people think it's an old person's disease. It's not. I've seen a boy 12 years old with Parkinson. It can hit anybody."

UNIFIED

Today, a total of 55 support groups in Michigan offer valuable information in addition to social interaction. Frustration is prevalent among Parkinson's patients, their caregivers and families. The groups allow individuals in similar situations to share their thoughts.

"The support group provides unity for those having the same disease. We want them to understand there are others out there," Butler said.

"We have a picnic, Christmas party, because that's also therapy. We have singing, someone playing an instrument, dancing afterward at the meetings. On St. Patrick's Day, we get the Irish dancers to come and show Parkinsonians how they can move a little bit. One gentleman with Parkinson always brought his harmonica. He said, he played it in the evening and his breathing was much better and he could sleep at night."

It's Deborah Orloff's job as CEO of the Michigan Parkinson Foundation to let patients and their families know about the latest information. According to Orloff, MPF estimates that 30,000 Michigan residents have Parkinson's. The average age at diagnosis is 58, with 2 percent of the population over 60, 10 percent under 40. As yet, there is no diagnostic test and treatments vary among individuals.

GETTING THE WORD OUT

"We're getting so many more calls from the newly diagnosed. People are hearing more that there are resources available for them. There's more publicity for Parkinson," Orloff said from her Southfield MPF office. "I'm excited about the walk-a-thons, a new Living with Parkinson's series at St.

John's Hospital, and new support groups in West Bloomfield, Hillsdale, Monroe and Dearborn. The important thing is getting the word out. We want people to know we're here for Parkinson's patients and their families."

Michigan Gov. Jennifer Granholm signed a proclamation making April Awareness Month for Parkinson. U.S. Sen. Debbie Stabenow of Michigan took it to the national level to spread the word in time for the annual fund-raisers for MPF.

This year the nonprofit is providing demonstrations of BIG Therapy at the I Gave My Sole for Parkinson's Walk-a-thon and 5K Run, May 22 in St. Clair Shores and May 23 in Northville. BIG retrains the brains of Parkinson's patients.

"We'll have DMC rehab and physical therapists from St. John to demonstrate a new therapy to get people to move better, walk better and speak louder," Orloff said. "They'll be showing how to make movements big to counter the tremor and slowness of movement."

Last year, MPF raised more than $75,000 and had 1,200 walkers at the two sites. The money goes to programs for referral and information, and educational programs for patients and their families.

"People bring their dogs and dress them up in the T-shirts," Orloff said. "What's exciting to me is that people that don't generally move around were walking. Exercise is very important. It might be a protective. That's why the walks are important, too, for people to get out and walk. If anyone wants to volunteer, we have openings."

To volunteer or for information about Parkinson's or the walk, call (248) 433-1011, visit www.parkinsonsmi.org or the Facebook page for the Michigan Parkinson Foundation.

The Livonia area Parkinson's Support Group meets at 7 p.m. on the second Thursday of the month at the Senior Citizens Center, 15218 Farmington Road, Livonia. For information, call Ruth Ann Butler at (734) 421-4208.

See banking office for complete details. 1.49% rate (1.50% APY) referenced in any of the following tiers is guaranteed for at least 90 days from the date of account opening then may change at any time as the Huntington Premier Plus Money Market Account (HPPMMA) is a variable rate account. Different rates apply to different balance tiers. Rates and corresponding APYs listed in the tiers that do not earn 1.49% rate (1.50% APY) are also variable and subject to change without notice even prior to the first 90 days. Initial minimum opening deposit required is $20,000.00 and must be new money to Huntington. The interest rate for balances $0.01-$19,999.99 is 0.00% (0.00% APY); the interest rate for the following balance tiers, $20,000.00 to $49,999.99, $50,000.00 to $99,999.99, and $100,000.00 to $2,000,000.99 is currently 1.49% rate (1.50% APY) and will apply for at least 90 days. When your balance falls into a particular rate tier, your entire balance will earn the applicable rate in effect for that tier. i.e., if your balance reaches $2,000,001.00 or more, your entire balance will earn that lower rate. Balances below $20,000.00 are subject to a $20.00 per month maintenance fee. Interest is compounded and paid monthly. Limit one account per household. APPLICABLE TO BOTH HPPMMA AND CHECKING ACCOUNTS: Fees may reduce earnings on the account. An Early Account Closing fee will apply to accounts closed within 180 days of opening.
