

Holiday closings

The 18th District Court will be closed to the public Thursday, Dec. 29, through Monday, Jan. 2.

City of Westland offices, including the Recycling Center, will be closed Friday, Dec. 30, 2011, through Monday, Jan. 2, while the library will be closed Saturday, Dec. 31, through Monday, Jan. 2. The Westland Friendship Center is also closed through Monday, Jan. 2. Trash collection will be unaffected by the holiday.

The next Westland City Council meeting will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3, at Westland City Hall, 36601 Ford.

Contest winners

Five Wayne-Westland students have been selected as winners of an essay and poster contest depicting the district's mission statement.

Receiving oversized reproductions of their works and two Detroit Pistons tickets were essay winners Karim Gharib, a sixth-grader at Adams Upper Elementary School, and Brittany Gall, an 11th-grader at Wayne Memorial High School, and poster winners Chailyn Wacasse, a fourth-grader at Walker-Winter Elementary School, John Gatton, a sixth-grader at Adams Upper Elementary School, and Drake Carpenter, a ninth-grader at Wayne Memorial High School.

According to Bill Schwartz, the district's director of media services, the essay and posters were the students' "reflection of school in their lives."

The students were honored at the Dec. 12 school board meeting.

Office closings

The offices of the Wayne County Clerk Vitals Statistics Division and the Westland Satellite Office at 3100 Henry Ruff, north of Michigan Avenue, will be closed the first and third Monday of the month due to mandatory furlough days, beginning in January.

Services affected by closings are birth and death certificates, marriage licenses, assumed names, notary publics and concealed weapons.

The Northville Satellite Office at 44405 Six Mile will continue to remain open on both Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Former employee charged with embezzling church funds

By LeAnne Rogers
Observer Staff Writer

Galoch

A Canton woman has been charged with embezzling more than $13,000 from a Westland church where she was a longtime employee.

That amount is only a fraction of the nearly $143,000 reported missing from St. Theodore Catholic Church and allegedly used by former book-keeper Kathleen Galoch to pay her family's personal bills, with the permission of the parish priest.

Galoch, 63, has been arraigned on a charge of embezzling over $1,000 from a nonprofit organization — a 10-year felony. A not-guilty plea was entered on behalf of Galoch, who was freed on a $10,000 personal bond and scheduled for a Jan. 19 preliminary examination in Westland's 18th District Court.

Employed at the parish from 1986 until earlier this year when she was laid off due to financial problems, Galoch was hired as an administrative assistant, later having the job titles of parish administrator and business manager. Her duties included day-to-day book-keeping, check preparation, bank reconciliation, counting and depositing cash collected, payroll and related duties.

Once Galoch had been laid off March 31, the parish payroll was reviewed and some questionable transactions were identified. The Archdiocese of Detroit did a complete audit going back to January 1997 and reported nearly $143,000 missing from Galoch paying herself extra wages, paying personal expenses for herself and family members and using parish funds for what were described as loans/donations to herself and her

UAW local gives back to community with charitable work

By LeAnne Rogers

The Goodfellows, the Lions Club, the Salvation Army, Toys for Tots, Relay for Life. The conference room walls at UAW Local 900, representing Ford Wayne Assembly workers, are completely filled with plaques of appreciation for an endless number of charitable donations and fundraisers.

A recent example was the more than $60,000 Local 900 members raised at a golf outing and bowling event that was donated to the Westland Goodfellows.

"They raised $18,000 years ago, which was great. Now to triple that, in worse economic times, is really an amazing amount," said John Adams, Westland Goodfellows co-chairman. "I don't have the words to truly express the gratitude for the charity that I chair. They truly made a difference."

Chaired by Bill Johnson, Local 900 members have also contributed about $25,000 toward the construction of a new veterans memorial in Westland, helped raised money for the Lions and food drives that benefited the Wayne County Family Center and other charities.

"It's unbelievable what Bill and the folks at the local do. They are always there to help and if you need anything extra," Westland Lions Club member Ken Sharp said. "I don't think you can write too many nice things about them."

Sharp's wife Carol, who heads the Warm Hearts charitable group which assists young mothers and infants, agrees.

"I think they're awesome. It's so easy to figure out it's someone else's job. It's not just Warm Hearts — they walk on water in my view," Carol Sharp said. "We

W-W budget on target for 2011-12

By Sue Mason
Observer Staff Writer

The Wayne-Westland Community Schools will take in more revenue in fiscal 2011-12 and spend more, but the bottom line that was projected when its budget was adopted in June will remain virtually unchanged.

"The bottom line adjustment is about the same," said Gary Martin, deputy superintendent for administrative and business services. "There's a $137,000 difference from the original budget and that's fairly small."

Six months into the budget year, Martin is projecting that the district will now receive $109 million in revenue and spend $112.7 million.

The district will use a portion of its $12.7 million fund equity to cover the revenue shortfall, leaving it with an $8.7 million surplus.

Helping the bottom line on the revenue side was a carryover of $1.4 million in at-risk funding from last year, a better than expected Medicaid reimbursement of $430,000 and in larger than expected shared time enrollment and state school aid for the William D. Ford Career Technical Center. The district has agreements with several school districts to provide vocational education at the center, which Martin called a "lighthouse type of program." The

Wild: New laws give flexibility in sharing services

By LeAnne Rogers
Observer Staff Writer

A package of bills signed by Gov. Rick Snyder aimed at removing road blocks to local governments sharing services may provide some benefit to Westland and neighboring communities.

In part, the bills eliminate requirements of maintaining prior labor contracts, seniority and benefit packages when communities move to shared services.

"I guess you can say I'm still studying them. Meeting the higher (labor) contracts was an obstacle," Westland Mayor William

Wild said. "That would give us more flexibility."

Public safety — police and fire services — is a large expense for the city and an area where city officials would like to save. But it is also one of the more complicated areas in which to make changes, Wild said.

For several years, Westland has provided dispatching services for Inkster. The city of Wayne and Garden City now have a joint dispatching operation — something Canton and Livonia have been studying. Whether Westland could join into the plan remains to be seen.

"We're having some discussions," Wild said. "We will look at (whatever Canton and Livonia do) after the first of the year."

Earlier this year, Westland and Wayne established a good neighbor program under which residents of each community can utilize recreation programs in each city at resident rates.

"Parks and Recreation is a little easier than police and fire," Wild said.

• Related bills exclude shared service contracts from being subject to a local referendum under a charter or ordinance and set funding guidelines for joint ventures.

• Another bill prohibits bargaining of agreements that limit a public employer's ability to enter into an intergovernmental agreement. The bill doesn't eliminate the ability to collectively bargain on the effect of an intergovernmental agreement that results in consolidated services.

"Local governments willing to share common services are often held back by the very laws intended to help them," Snyder said in a statement. "The reforms I have signed into law offer municipal leaders a clear path to common sense collaborations. By reaching across historical boundary lines, dynamic communities are built and valuable taxpayer dollars are saved."

Westland, along with Garden City, Wayne, Dearborn Heights and Inkster, will soon have a final report from consultants studying consolidations of the district courts.

"We should have the final report for the court consolidation after the first of the year," Wild said. "We sent the draft report back for more work."

increased use by other districts is bringing in an additional $250,000 this year.

On the expenditure side, the instruction increased from $63.7 million to $66.3 million, due in part to changes in its basic program and additional costs related to salary and benefits and final personnel placement. The changes include $700,000 related to a 4 percent step increase in salaries and salaries related to the negotiated class overload size. The district had projected a zero increase in step increase.

The budget presentation was the last for Martin, who, along with Linda Kempton, the senior executive director of business and operations, is retiring. That did not go unnoticed by school board members who approved the budget amendment 6-1 with Trustee Andrea Clawson voting no.

"Mr. Martin, this is your last go-round, your last time presenting a budget," said board President Carol Middel. "I'm going to miss you, you've always been very patient with me."

are a small obscure non-profit. This was the first time they helped us."

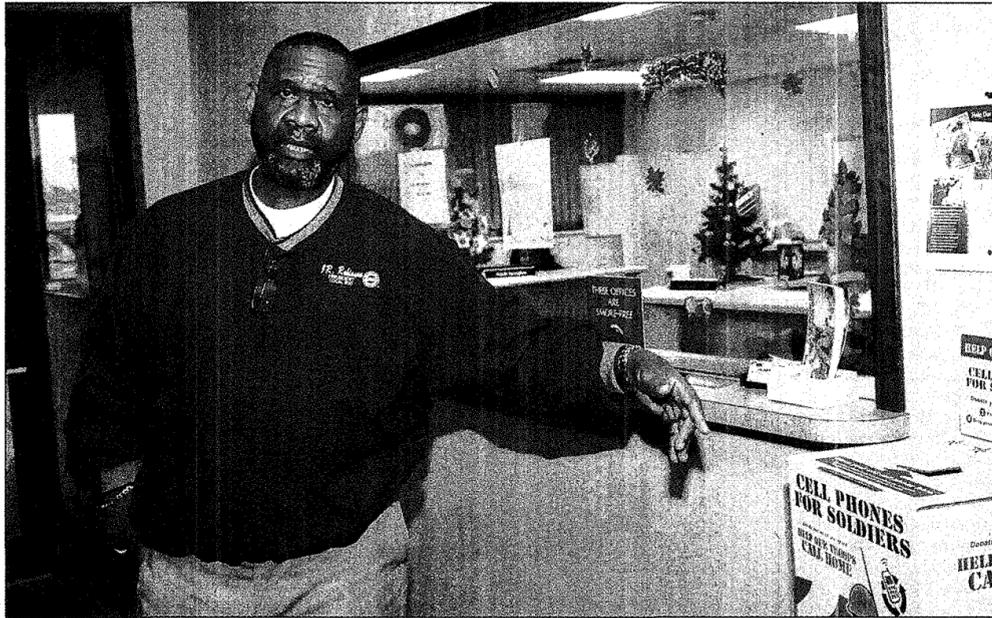

Local businessman Glenn Shaw donated space for Warm Hearts to stage its Christmas donation program. As it happened, Johnson was using space in the same building as his headquarters in a successful bid to be re-elected to the Westland City Council.

In talking with Johnson, he asked what help was needed. Turns out help was needed loading up and delivering the gifts. Johnson and some volunteers returned with trucks to deliver gifts to needy children around the metro area.

"In our culture today, in manufacturing, they like to talk that the unions have destroyed everything," Carol Sharp said. "Who else does this in the community? It's very impressive. They really give back."

No one at Local 900, which has about 3,700 members working in two plants on Michigan Avenue in Wayne, tries to take credit for the charitable efforts, especially Johnson.

"I don't think we've turned down a charity. These guys have busted their butts. If there is a charity, at one time another, we've participated," Johnson said. "If it has to do with children, we've got 'sucker' written on our forehead. We don't think twice."

Along with money raised and donated to the Goodfellows, Local 900 also has an Adopt an Angel program.

"We ask churches and other groups if they know of a family that needs help," Local 900 Vice President Mike Smith said.

There always seems to be some sort of fundraiser or other charitable effort at the local and/or the plant. Along with food drives, there have been clothing drives to benefit veterans and currently used cell phones are being collected to be sold for calling cards for active military members serving overseas.

"We've had a lot of layoffs, but we still do the charities," Smith said.

"People think we're overpaid autoworkers. If they knew half what the plant does, it would knock socks off," said Johnson, who credits the efforts of the local members with the support of UAW officials and plant management. "I believe its the makeup of people in the plant. They know they have it better than a lot of people. And we get great support from businesses in the community."

It's instilled in UAW

members to give back to the community, Smith said. "It's a great feeling. People tell us they got help from the Goodfellows," he added.

The Local 900 members have been fantastic to work with each year, Adams said.

"They are motivated, intelligent guys with a drive to help. They do some fantastic fundraising," he added.

relatives.

An archdiocesan representative presented the audit to Westland police seeking criminal charges against Galoch over the missing $143,000. The audit showed checks written to pay mobile home rental fees, utilities and other expenses for Galoch's adult son, James E. Galoch, and wages for her husband, James J. Galoch. Both men had done maintenance-type work at the parish. Personal bills were also paid for Galoch's former daughter-in-law, Shannon.

However, when Sgt. Matt Price interviewed the Rev. Gary Michalik, who had been the St. Theodore parish priest, the case became more complicated.

"The priest had verbally authorized checks to pay the son's utilities and trailer lot rent," said Price, adding other checks and payments were also verbally authorized by Michalik, who is now assigned to St. Colette Catholic Church in Livonia.

The nearly $14,000 was identified as transactions not authorized by Michalik — loans or donations to Shannon Galoch covering her mortgage and car payment, personal transactions for Kathleen Galoch including property tax payments, taxes owed on her personal income tax return, a traffic ticket for her son and a personal tax consultation fee.

In a statement to police, Galoch said that she worked very hard for the church, which did not pay overtime and felt she deserved extra compensation. Additionally, Galoch told police she was angry at being laid off and cashed additional checks incorrectly sent to her after she was laid off.

Galoch had improperly filed her income taxes, adding money her husband earned to her income, she told police so that her husband wouldn't lose his Social Security benefits.

On deadly blast's anniversary, store's future uncertain

By Matt Jachman
Observer Staff Writer

A year after an explosion destroyed William C. Franks Furniture, killing two employees and seriously injuring the owner, the fate of the business is uncertain.

"I'm just not there," Paul Franks said earlier this month about the future of the store, a fixture on Wayne Road since 1963. Franks, who lives in Plymouth Township, said he may soon be ready to make an announcement, but that planning is coming together "very, very slowly."

The Dec. 29, 2010, natural gas explosion, just after Paul Franks and other employees arrived for work, sent debris into Wayne Road and damaged several other buildings. The buildings on either side of the fenced-off Franks site, just north of downtown Wayne, remain closed, with signs on some establishments, such as the Hope Medical Clinic and the Northwest Alano Club, directing visitors to temporary locations.

The blast killed two Westland residents, Leslie Machniak, 54, a secretary, and James Zell, 64, a salesman. The exact cause remains undetermined.

'So desolate'

Business people in the area say that things returned to normal for their businesses within weeks, and they'd welcome Franks' return to the site.

"It's too soon for us to tell how that's going to affect us," said Bob Kaplan, the owner of Northside Hardware, of the prospect of a long-term vacant lot at the Franks site.

Northside, directly across Wayne Road, was damaged in the explosion, and Kaplan said repairs were only recently completed. The hardware store was closed for a day because of the blast, and it took a few weeks for business to return to normal, he said.

He'd like to see the furniture store return. "We think everybody would," he said.

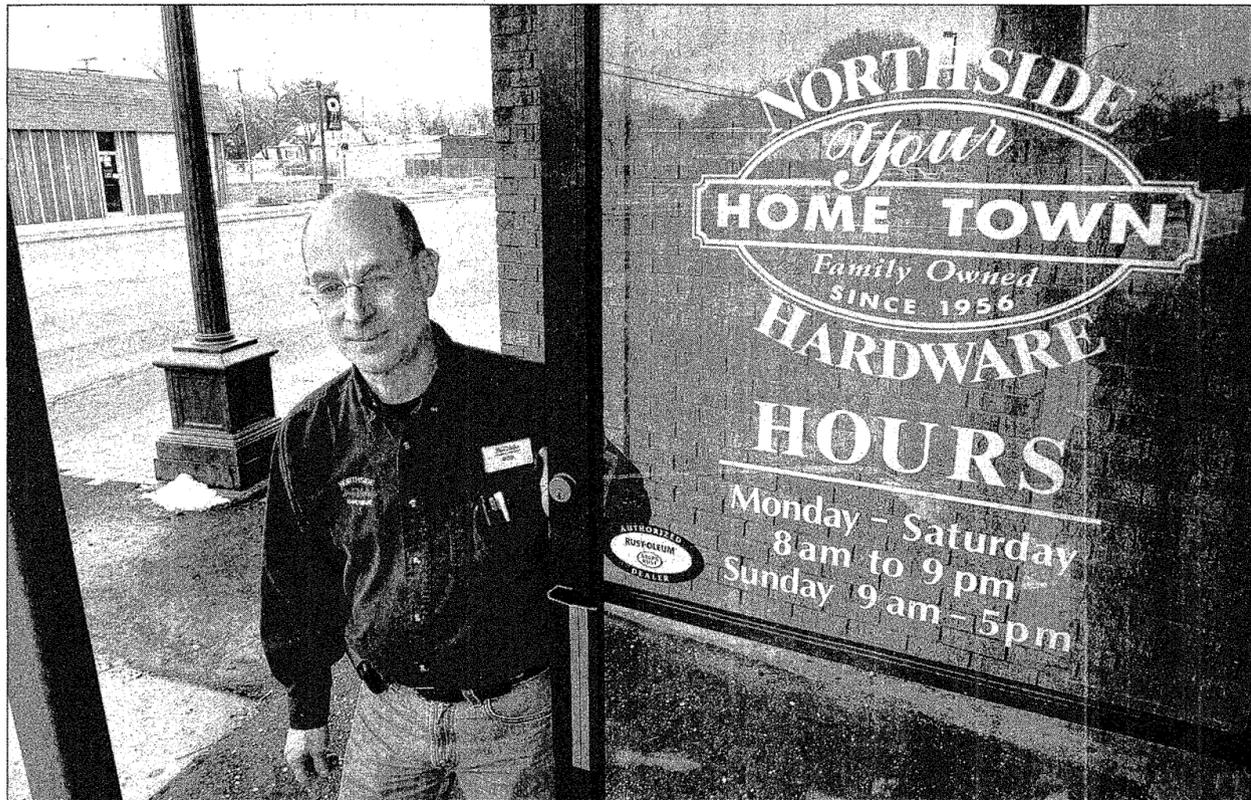

"That is just so desolate. It's like an empty shell over there," said Irene Yaklin, a cashier at the nearby Marathon gas station. "It'd be good to have all those places open again."

Yaklin said the gas station used to get a lot of business from Alano Club members, who would walk over for snacks and beverages. The club is a support and social organization for people recovering from alcohol and drug problems.

"We knew them all because they were like regular customers," Yaklin said.

On the east side of Wayne Road, just north of the Franks site, sits a nearly empty strip mall. Only a Subway sandwich shop and a Dollar Tree remain; closed are Aco Hardware, the Cantonese Village restaurant, Dollar Palace, an Armed Forces Recruiting Center and an H&R Block branch.

Aco closed within the last year, but Yaklin said her understanding is that the closure wasn't related to the explosion at Franks.

'That's their home'

Josh Justice, the day manager at Subway, said customers ask about Paul Franks on a regular basis, and that he'd welcome the store's return.

"Where else would they go? That's their home," he said. The store, launched by Paul Franks' father William, opened in 1963 and had its roots in a furniture refinishing business dating from 1946.

Justice said furniture store customers would sometimes stop in for something to eat, and that Machniak was a regular customer.

Subway sustained damage to the interior lights and ceiling tiles. Justice said things there were back to normal within a couple of weeks.

Paul Franks declined to sit down for an interview for this story, saying that without solid plans for the future of the business, "I don't think I've got enough to make it very interesting."

The store has been operating out of a warehouse on Dearborn Street in Wayne, and although shoppers are welcome, display space is limited and would-be customers are urged to call to discuss their furniture needs with sales personnel. The phone number is (734) 721-1044.

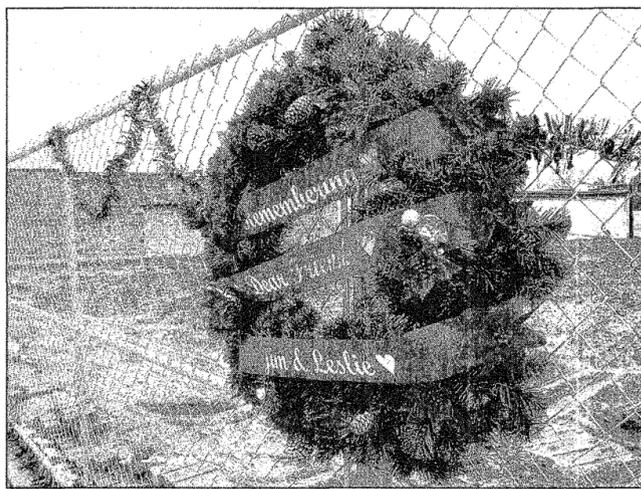

Probe inconclusive

Consumers Energy, which supplies natural gas to the area, on Dec. 20 filed a report with the Michigan Public Service Commission on its investigation of the explosion. The 65-page report listed possible sources of the gas — a gas-main rupture 230 feet from the building, the migration of natural gas through a sewer line, or a leak inside the store — but said there wasn't enough evidence to show exactly what happened.

For example, testing determined the gas main break 230 feet from Franks was the result downward force on the pipe, but the evidence didn't show whether the break occurred before the explosion or as a result of it, according to a fact sheet supplied by Consumers spokesman Dan Bishop.

Consumers in August reached an undisclosed settlement with Paul Franks, who had sued the company, according to Wayne County Circuit Court records.

OBSERVER AREA POLICE CALLS

Canton

Robbery try

A man threatened to stab a Walmart security officer about 2:30 p.m. Dec. 21 after he was asked to stop while leaving the store with stolen merchandise, a police report said. No injuries were reported.

Canton police went to the store on Ford Road east of Lotz after receiving reports that a man had just committed a retail fraud. He was last seen running across Ford Road.

A store employee reportedly saw the man put merchandise in a bag and tried to stop him as he left the store. The suspect reportedly dropped the bags, warned the employee that he had a knife and threatened to stab him unless he backed away.

The suspect then reportedly fled and the employee retrieved merchandise totaling $515 that the man had dropped.

The suspect was described as a black male, possibly in his 40s. He was wearing a camouflage jacket, and he was described as 6 feet tall with a bald spot on the back of his head. He also had a mustache.

Break-in

A woman told Canton police someone broke into her apartment on Crossbow Circle, northeast of Palmer and Haggerty, and stole a 55-inch plasma TV, costume jewelry and an iPod Touch.

The break-in happened between 4 p.m. and 10 p.m. Christmas Day.

Parking revenge

Someone apparently became angry over the way a woman parked her vehicle at the Emagine Theater on Ford Road east of Lotz. The woman said she returned to her vehicle about 1 p.m. and found that someone had keyed the car from front to back along both sides. She found a note that read: "Nice park job ... Merry Christmas."

Farmington Hills

Stolen vehicle

A 28-year-old Redford woman reported her vehicle was stolen Dec. 19 while parked in the lot of Grand Tavern on Halsted near Grand River in Farmington Hills. The Pontiac G6 had Christmas presents, two bowling balls and a cell phone inside. The woman checked with her family members, to make sure they had not borrowed the car, but they had not.

Heroin possession

Two South Lyon men, ages 21 and 41, were arrested for possession of heroin Dec. 19 while driving through Farmington Hills. An officer was behind the suspects' vehicle in the area of Grand River and Rockwell and noticed the vehicle had a broken brake light, police said. The officer, along with K9 unit Argos, discovered several folds of heroin and syringes in the vehicle, police said.

Drunk driving

A resident on the 21000 block of Lundy called police when an unknown motorist drove into his backyard at about 10:30 p.m., Dec. 24 and became stuck in the mud. The driver, a 38-year-old Detroit man, was arrested for drinking and driving, third offense. He reportedly told police he was looking for his friend's house, which was around the block, and was trying to turn around, when his van became stuck in the mud. Police reportedly found an empty liquor bottle and a full liquor bottle in the van. He was taken to Botsford Hospital for a blood draw, because he refused to take a preliminary breath test, police said.

Stolen goods

A security officer at Home Depot on Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills reported seeing a man take several items from the electrical aisle and conceal them in his jacket before walking out of the store. The 44-year-old man from Burton, Mich., was arrested for retail fraud. He was wanted on warrants for similar offenses in three other cities, police said.

Break-in

A resident on the 23000 block of Tuck Road reported someone broke into her home sometime between Dec. 24-26, while she was out of town for the holidays, and stole a 600-pound safe containing about $60,000 in jewelry, plus two pairs of designer boots and a TV. The front door to the home was reportedly forced open.

Garden City

Stolen vehicle

A resident in the 500 block of Gilman was loading Christmas presents into her idling vehicle when it was stolen Dec. 25 in Garden City.

The woman told police she ran back into the home for one more trip and, upon her return, the vehicle was gone.

Two days later, an officer on patrol spotted the vehicle at the gas pump at Cherry Hill and Middlebelt. It was occupied by three men. As the officer approached the men, he reportedly saw the driver draw a handgun from his waistband and place it on the floorboard.

The men were taken from the stolen vehicle and a loaded 40 caliber handgun was recovered along with a quantity of narcotics and a black face mask, police said. The three men, two from Inkster ages 29 and 25, and one from Detroit age 37, were taken to GCPD and lodged pending further investigation. The gun had been reported stolen to Grosse Ile police in 2007, police said.

Stolen car

A red 1997 Ford Escort, reported stolen in Livonia on Nov. 7, was recovered Dec. 25 in the lot of Amantea's Restaurant, 32777 Warren Road, by an officer on patrol in Garden City. The officer reported the vehicle had heavy damage to the passenger side and was full of trash.

Break-in

An owner who had been refurbishing a vacant home in the 28800 block of Rush in Garden City told police Dec. 23 that about $1,500 in building supplies were stolen from the home overnight. The man said he was working in the home the day before and secured the residence at the end of his work day. Upon his return the next day, he discovered the front door was forced open and several items, including tile, paint and a sink, were taken.

Vehicles ransacked

Several vehicle owners in the area of Brandt and Sheridan in Garden City reported that their unlocked vehicles were ransacked and miscellaneous items like change and medication were stolen Dec. 24. The police were able to follow footprints in the fresh snow and it appeared as if the culprit wandered around the neighborhood trying the doors on vehicles and struck when an unlocked door was found, according to police. While investigating, officers recovered several pieces of jewelry that had been dropped in the area of Sheridan and Henry Ruff.

Speeding motorist

An apparent inattentive driver who didn't realize there was a police car waiting next to him at a red light, accelerated to 55 mph after the light changed Dec. 24 on Ford at Henry Ruff in Garden City, police said.

While the officer paced the vehicle, the 23-year-old Plymouth man reportedly began tailgating another motorist and flashed his lights and honked his horn in an effort to get that driver out of the way. The officer stopped the man and reportedly discovered he was driving on a suspended license and had a license plate that expired in September which bore a bogus renewal sticker.

Livonia

Car wash struck

A 45-year-old Westland man was arrested for drunk driving after he reportedly drove his companion's truck into a stall at a car wash on Plymouth Road on Christmas Eve.

Livonia police were called at about 1:30 p.m. on a report that someone driving a red truck had run into a car wash port at PB Car Wash, 33905 Plymouth. Police arrived and reportedly found two men standing at the rear of the truck, and both men appeared intoxicated with slurred speech and bloodshot eyes.

The truck's owner said he was washing the truck and it "took off," but police reportedly located someone nearby who said that the red truck drove past him and crashed into the stall and identified the owner's companion as the driver. When police questioned him, he reportedly said he drank two beers, then changed his story and said he drank five beers. The officer then asked the man what time it was and he reportedly said "seven or eight," even though it was actually early afternoon. The officer asked him whether it was day or night, and the man reportedly responded that it was night. The suspect was reportedly unstable during his sobriety test, failed one breath test and was arrested. He later blew a .33 on his breath test, more than triple the .08 legal limit, police said.

Gifts stolen

A resident on the 14000 block of Stonehouse reported that Christmas gifts were stolen from her garage Friday afternoon.

Three packages sent by a relative were delivered via FedEx at about 1:30 p.m. Friday. A resident at the home signed for the packages and placed them in the garage. The garage door was left open and the packages could be seen from the street. When the woman's husband returned home at 2:10 p.m., the packages were inside the garage, but when she went outside an hour later, the packages were missing. The packages contained children's toys, wine rack, clothing and men's shoes, a video game and other items.

Identity stolen

A Livonia man received credit cards in the mail with his name on them, but he never ordered them. There were two other women who were also named on the cards, so he reported it to police.

The man received credit cards for Abercrombie & Fitch, Value City and Pottery Barn with letters stating that his credit applications were approved. The man told police he never applied for the cards, nor did he know the women who were named. The cards were cancelled and no purchases had been made. Police advised the man to notify his bank about the fraudulent activity.

Plymouth Township

Armed robbery

A Dunkin' Donuts in Plymouth Township was robbed by three men early Friday, police said.

Police said the intruders went into the doughnut shop near Ann Arbor Road and I-275 about 1:30 a.m. The men, armed with semi-automatic pistols, announced a robbery and took an undisclosed amount of cash, police said. No one was injured, and the men reportedly fled north on I-275 in a dark colored mid-sized vehicle.

Anyone with information is asked to call the Plymouth Township Police Department at (734) 354-3250.

Westland

Break-in

A set of car stereo speakers and $200 in state collectible quarters were reported stolen Dec. 25 from a home in the 38000 block of Joy. The owner told police he was gone overnight and returned to find someone had kicked open the door after unsuccessfully trying to pry open the door-wall off his deck.

The coins were stolen from the master bedroom, he said. The speakers, valued at $100, were removed from the box and the box was left behind.

Break-in

A resident of the Westland Estates Apartments told police Dec. 26 that someone had stolen a three-piece couch set, a laptop computer and a TV valued at $4,000. The officer found no sign of forced entry and no witnesses who saw couches being removed from the apartment.

Days, nights on the beat fast-paced for TV reporter Lange

By Stacy Jenkins
Observer Staff Writer

Life's script couldn't have come together any better for Amy Lange.

The Emmy Award-winning Fox 2 Detroit general assignment and investigative reporter hit the city streets running as a 24-year-old reporter — and hasn't stopped, or regretted it, ever since.

Lange, who moved to Farmington nine years ago with her husband, Michael Shore, a Fox 2 Detroit videographer, said it's been quite a ride so far.

"There's not a better news town in the country," said Lange. "You can't make this stuff up."

Lange came to Detroit in 1998 from her first on-air news job at WEYI-TV in Flint, where she reported during the week and did weekend weather.

She knew it was going to be life-changing to come to a large, competitive market like the Detroit area.

"That was quite a challenge to go into such a big place," said Lange, who grew up in Michigan City, Ind.

Renaissance was the talk of Detroit, under then Mayor Dennis Archer.

"He seemed to have a lot of energy, and there was a lot of growth downtown, but the neighborhoods and schools still struggled," she said.

But, then "everything went on hold" when the texting scandal of succeeding Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick broke. Lange covered the unfolding events closely, often going on "Kwame watches."

"There were many cold days, sitting outside of the mansion," she said. "And, standing outside of city hall, waiting for his vehicle to leave, just to see if we could get a comment."

"Kwame certainly is the most all-encompassing, longest and biggest story that I've had the privilege of covering."

Even after the dust settled, Lange found herself continuing to report on Kilpatrick, although he had already serve jailed time and had moved his family to Texas. His recent book prompted more coverage.

"He's the story that just keeps on going," she said.

Many rewards

But, it's not always the big news making national headlines that make her job rewarding. Sometimes, it's the story of a struggling family or an inspiring story of someone's triumph.

"Just to be able to tell people's stories — there's no news in the newsroom, you've got to get out there and let them speak, let their voices be heard," she said. "It's liberating for people to be able to tell their stories, and it's an honor for me."

Fox 2 Detroit reporter Amy Lange enjoys spending time in downtown Farmington, where she's lived for nine years.

Deeper perspective

In 2008, Lange earned a master's degree in social justice from Marygrove College in Detroit. The program focused on social issues, from a global level.

The program has helped her gain insight into the deep-rooted social problems in race, class and gender that she sees every day on her beat.

"It gives me a broader perspective," she said. "I hope it continues to help me to look a little deeper and to understand. I hope I go in with a more open mind."

As an investigative reporter, she also hopes to make a real difference.

"In many ways, we can make people's lives better," she said.

When she's not reporting, Lange teaches a media and social justice class at Marygrove. And, she's active in the Homeless Action Network of Detroit.

"It's a challenge," she said. "We definitely have too many people falling through the cracks."

Another cause close to her heart led Lange and her husband to an Emmy Award for their series on an orphanage in Haiti, following last year's devastating earthquake.

She's also been honored for her work by the Society of Professional Journalists, the Michigan Association of Broadcasters and the Associated Press.

Making a comeback

One story hit close to home, and also earned her an Emmy — a 2009 news feature, "Spine Story — A Reporter Breaks Her Neck," her personal story, detailing life-threatening injuries she sustained after falling down the stairs at her home in June 2009.

She fell down the carpeted stairs when her shoe got tangled up in her long dress. Her husband rushed to see if she was OK. She said she was fine and just wanted to go to bed.

The next day, she and Michael drove to the west side of the state, to Saugatuck, to visit her parents for Father's Day. After getting back home, she was still uncomfortable and decided to see a doctor.

"We didn't know for a few days that I had actually broken my neck," she said.

It was fracture at the base of her neck and the vertebrae had also twisted.

"I would never in a million years have fathomed it," she said.

She needed traction and surgery that entailed plates and screws that will always have to remain in her neck.

After just one month, she was back to work.

A couple of years later, Lange found herself learning fast-paced, intricate dancing skills from instructor Fernando Caducio, who was her partner in the Dancing with our Local Stars fundraiser event in September at the San Marino Club in Troy to benefit the American Diabetes Association.

"It was a blast," she said. "We worked hard, getting ready for it — I had no prior experience.

I was a really inexperienced dancer."

They took second place and first place for raising the most donations.

Living in Farmington

Lange and her husband moved to Farmington nine years ago, just after getting married. She became involved in the pavilion committee, when plans were being made to build it in the parking lot of the Downtown Farmington Center. The pavilion and Riley Park — which replaced asphalt — are now gathering places for the community, and host to the popular Farmers & Artisans Market and many other community events.

"It's good to see that the momentum has continued," said Lange.

She said she enjoys living in Farmington, where everyone is encouraged to be involved.

"I think that's really nice," she said.

Farmington could, however, do more to attract young people to the city, she said.

"Young people have great ideas and they have that energy — we need to do more to attract them," she said.

Lange has a stepson, Alex, a freshman at Michigan State University.

'Presents' offer treats, activity at zoo

Just as businesses have office parties at this time of year, the animals at the Detroit Zoo in Royal Oak got down to business last week for some fun, unwrapping holiday-themed "gifts."

The occasion was the zoo's inaugural "That's a Wrap!"

Despite the rain and lack of holiday snow, visitors to the zoo seemed to still enjoy watching the animals enjoy their special treats, which were designed to be environmentally enriching, according to zoo staff.

Naughty or nice, the animals received treat-filled piñatas wrapped like holiday presents. The "gifts" were decorated with the traditional colors of Christmas, Hanukkah and Kwanzaa in universal celebration of the giving season.

The festively decorated packages and other enrichment treats were placed in the animals' habitats to stimulate natural behaviors, such as foraging and stalking.

"The wolverines will enjoy their piñata as much as the goodies inside," Animal Welfare Manager Elizabeth Arbaugh said, speaking before the event. "They'll play with the box all day long, like kids on Christmas morning."

The holiday treats are among the many forms of environmental enrichment used daily at the Detroit Zoo to enhance the animals' habitats to make them more dynamic. That enrichment includes the introduction of novel and sometimes unpredictable elements, such as objects, sounds, scents or other stimuli. Those elements give the animals the opportunity to express choice and control in their environments, and to make decisions, express individuality and behave in species-typical ways.

The Detroit Zoo is located at the intersection of 10 Mile Road and Woodward Avenue, just off I-696, in Royal Oak. It is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. now through March (closed New Year's Day). Admission is $12 for adults 15-61, $10 for senior citizens 62 and older and $8 for children 2-14 (children under 2 are free).

Some Sears, Kmart stores to close

Sears Holdings Corp. will close about 100 Sears and Kmart stores after holiday sales fell short due to a drop in demand for consumer electronics.

It is not known if any of the 100 to 120 stores slated to close are in Michigan.

Store officials at a Livonia Kmart and a Sears store at Livonia Marketplace would not comment on the report. A Sears store official in Livonia referred all questions to a public relations firm in Hoffman Estates, Ill., where Sears and Kmart is based.

A store official at a Kmart in Livonia who did not want to be identified said that store had not been notified about any closings. "Not a word," the official said. "We haven't heard any information. We've heard what you heard."

The official added that store has had a great holiday season and has a good customer base, so if that store would close, it would be a surprise.

Likewise, a manager at Kmart in Plymouth Township said they have no information.

The company has about 2,200 Kmart and Sears stores in the U.S. and Canada, with 80 Kmart stores and 67 Sears stores in Michigan. The city of Westland has both a Sears and a Kmart.

The company said Tuesday that the cuts will make the retailers more nimble as it struggles for market share. Same store sales plunged 5.2 percent for the eight-week holiday sales period that ended Dec. 26.

Holiday sales at Kmart and domestic Sears stores fell 4.4 percent and 6 percent, respectively.

"Given our performance and the difficult economic environment, especially for big-ticket items, we intend to implement a series of actions to reduce ongoing expenses, adjust our asset base and accelerate the transformation of our business model," chief executive Lou D'Ambrosio said in a statement.

The company kept weaker locations open while working to improve their performance but will now devote its resources to stronger stores "with the goal of converting their customer experience into a world-class integrated retail experience."

The move will generate $140 million to $170 million in cash as it sells inventory and real estate, the company said. The retailer also expects a noncash charge of about $1.6 billion to $1.8 billion due to a valuation allowance and an impairment charge on some goodwill balances for as much as $600 million.

The stock (SHLD) was down more than 20 percent before 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Two charged in string of bank robberies

Farmington Hills Police Chief Charles Nebus announced the arrest of two suspects believed to be responsible for a string of bank robberies in the metro Detroit area over the past few months.

Arthur Duane Payton, 44, of Detroit and Nancy Marie Barta, 33, of Westland, are charged with four bank robberies and were arraigned Dec. 16 in the United States District Court in Detroit.

They're reportedly believed to be responsible for the following bank robberies:

- Nov. 9 at the Citizens Bank at 31215 14 Mile in Farmington Hills. At 4:58 p.m., Nov. 9, a lone female suspect entered the bank and presented the teller with a note announcing a robbery. The note indicated that the suspect was armed with a firearm. After taking an undetermined amount of money, the suspect fled the scene on foot.

Three similar bank robberies occurred in the Detroit suburban area:

- Oct. 17 at Charter One Bank in Farmington
- Oct. 20 at a Bank of America in Livonia
- Oct. 28 at Flagstar Bank in Novi

Investigators from the Farmington Hills Police Department, Farmington Department of Public Safety, Livonia Police Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation coordinated their investigative efforts to solve these robberies.

A federal complaint was authorized charging the identified suspects with the four listed bank robberies.

Crowds thin out at the mall

A Sears employee, Jan Waldron didn't have much time to look for bargains before Christmas. Now the Garden City resident had time for some shopping.

By LeAnne Rogers
Observer Staff Writer

Now that the Christmas rush is over and people have shopped themselves out, the mall walkers have plenty of room again.

By Tuesday morning, Westland Shopping Center had a pretty empty parking lot and a pretty sparse crowd — a lot of them taking their morning constitutional.

Garden City resident Jan Waldron was among the shoppers, however. "I work at Sears so I don't get much of a chance to go into the mall," said Waldron. "So, I'm out getting the deals today. It was pretty busy yesterday (Monday) and not just returns. I started work at 7 a.m. and by 10 a.m. it was quite busy."

Waldron hadn't really started shopping yet — her husband had gotten some coffee — but the couple were heading to Kohl's to spend some Kohl's cash earned during some pre-Christmas shopping.

Adia Ciecierski, 11, of Garden City came by the mall with mother Margo to pick up a cover for the tablet she received as a Christmas gift. While she was at it, Adia also got a new cover for her cell phone.

All Saints collects food for charity

All Saints Catholic School in Canton is making a personal connection to All Saints Parish in Detroit. Led by the school's student council, a recent food drive to benefit the church yielded 495 pounds of donated food items.

"It's nice to know you helped someone in your own community," said Valentine Vena, an eighth-grader and president of the ASCS student council. "It was great that kids of all ages participated. Even preschoolers were a part of the effort and made a difference for those in need."

Although the issue of hunger is a serious one, the students brought some friendly competition into the picture to raise awareness about the collection campaign and spur donations. The school has two main hallways, with preschool through third grade in one, and fourth through eighth grade in the other.

The hallways "competed" against each other to see which one could donate the greatest quantity of food. The older kids won, but the true winners will be the people served by All Saints Parish.

The first hall collected 120 pounds of food, and the second hall collected 375 pounds of food. The total weight of all the food collected for All Saints Food Bank was 495 pounds. All Saints Parish picked up the donations on Dec. 19. The food will be used to serve prepared meals, as well as sent home with people to serve their families.

"I enjoyed seeing the creativity of the kids become apparent," said Emily Wagg, a sixth-grade teacher at All Saints and a student council adviser. "We had kids designing boxes to collect the food. We didn't have a lot of time to plan. It was nice to see everyone just jump in, get together and make it happen."

Wagg added that it was good to make the connection from one All Saints to another, and that students will be looking for future opportunities to help All Saints Parish.

All Saints Catholic School's efforts were not limited to the food drive, however. Two other major initiatives — a sock drive and a coin drive — were launched during the Advent season to support local community members at St. Aloysius Parish.

"The students learn to focus on the needs of others and learn ways to help express their Christian duty to reach out to those in need," said Deacon Donald Leach, the pastoral associate at St. Aloysius in Detroit. Leach explained how the students' efforts will help about 100 people.

"These donations are aimed at our seniors," he said. "They pay for transportation to doctor and dentist appointments, help to pay co-pays at these visits, help with drug purchase co-pays, and also to allow us to purchase small items like pots, pans and dishes for the apartment-dwelling seniors."

Coin drive

For the past few weeks — and continuing into January — the students are encouraged to drop their extra change into collection canisters in their classrooms. The money will be collected on Jan. 20, and donated to St. Aloysius. The need is great, since other sources of funding have been lost, according to Carolyn Forrest, a seventh- and eighth-grade religion teacher at All Saints.

"I think this is important to the students because they learn more about the people in our own community who need help," Forrest said. "We know there is poverty worldwide, but the kids also discover they can help those in need who are close to them by doing small things."

Sock drive

Also in conjunction with St. Aloysius, All Saints students have supported a sock drive. During the week of Dec. 5-9, students brought in new pairs of socks.

"We chose to do a sock drive because we thought it correlated well with our school theme for this year, which is 'Following in the Footsteps of Jesus,'" said Jessica Kotlarek, a second-grade teacher and a leader on the Catholic Identity Committee at the school. "We also held the drive during the week of St. Nicholas' feast day, to make the connection with the tradition of leaving a shoe for him to fill."

The students collected "two very large boxes," Kotlarek said. "I was overwhelmed, especially because we did little promotion or advertising at school, and hosted the drive rather quickly. Deacon Don Leach will pick up the socks, which will be placed into backpacks and distributed."

Leach is grateful to the ASCS students. "Thank you for all your efforts," he said. "I hope we will be able to develop other ways for you to integrate yourselves into the lives of the poor in the inner city over the years to come."

We must diversify our economy to capture

Our diversification strategy centers on "economic gardening," working with existing companies to find new markets for their products so they can create good-paying jobs.

Observer: What is Michigan Advantage and Pure Michigan?

Pure Michigan is the nationally known brand of the State of Michigan, administered by the state's marketing arm, the Michigan Economic Development Corporation. Since 2006, Pure Michigan advertising has described the wonders of Michigan, but in 2011 MEDC began bringing all of its activities under the popular brand, voted one of the 10 best destination brands ever by Forbes Magazine. Observer: How hard has it been to attract new business to Michigan? What is helping or hindering your efforts?

Observer: What's your goal for diversifying Michigan's economy in 2012? How do you plan to achieve that?

The goal for 2012 and beyond is to make Michigan a top 10 state in employment, GDP growth, per capita income, and young adult population growth. We will continue to work in what Governor Snyder describes as "dog years." This means ramping up all the things we've put into place in terms of our economic gardening toolkit, talent initiatives and other economic development programs.

Observer: What has been your biggest success in 2011?

Laying the foundation necessary to reinvent Michigan: creating one of the most competitive tax climates in the country, putting an emphasis on talent enhancement, shifting our focus to economic gardening and increasing the flow of capital to help start and grow new ventures.

The importance of teams in successful organizations

This is the second of a three-part series on the importance of teams. See Thursday, Jan. 5, for part three. The first installment was published Dec. 22.

By Martina Bogdanoska
Guest Columnist

In organizations, people very often reveal that it is much better to work in teams because teamwork improves execution of activities and mutual goals can be achieved faster.

It is so because no single person can have all relevant knowledge, skills and capabilities that are mutually complementary. Only in this way can a complementary team be built where its members will learn from individual differences and attain greater achievements because of them.

The team offers three major benefits:

1. It develops human potential at maximum level
2. It causes synergetic effects
3. It enables continuous improvement

Every team must address the following criteria:

- Personal identify of the team
- Membership involvement
- Influence, control, mutual trust
- Understanding, mutual loyalty

Every team goes through four phases of development: chaos, formality, maturity and team development. To achieve goals of successful work, relationship toward clients, innovation and motivation of the employees, managers should form different teams.

The teams should be formed by managers and should realize the goals of the organization. These teams include:

- Management (executive director, vice president and department heads)
- Research and Development

(members who have expertise in developing new products)

- Working groups (employees that report to one supervisor)
- Self-governing groups (employees who observe their own activities and the quality of produce and services they are providing)

The number of members in a team may be an important determinant of motivation for members and their commitment to the work of the group. There are several advantages to maintaining a relatively small group — between two and 10 members.

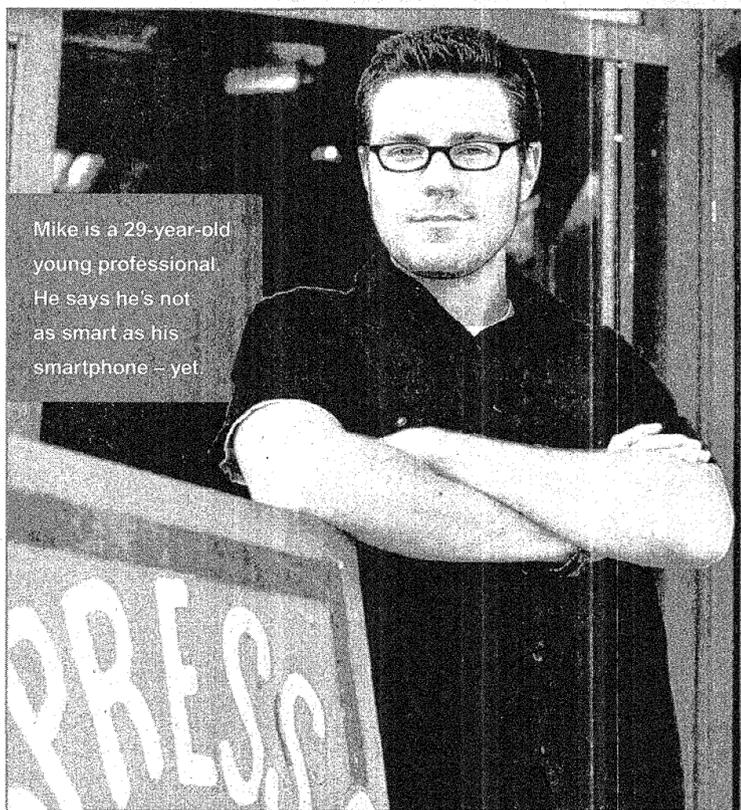

Compared with members of large groups, members of small groups tend to communicate more easily with each other and they can coordinate their efforts to be more motivated, satisfied and engaged. In these groups, it is easy to share information and to perceive the significance of personal contributions to the success of the group.

Recognizing these advantages, Muhvold Nathan, senior vice president for advanced technology at Microsoft Corp., found that eight is the ideal number of members for teams in research and development.

In choosing the appropriate size of the group, managers try to get the benefit of small groups while also forming groups with sufficient resources to achieve goals and have a well-developed division of labor. As a general rule, the groups should have more members than necessary to achieve the division of labor and resources necessary to meet the objectives of the group.

Martina Bogdanoska is pursuing her research doctoral degree in the field of human resource management within health care. She is an inspirational academic interested in transforming health care through innovative thinking. She holds a doctoral degree in dentistry and a master's degree in health management.

OUR VIEWS

Look to us for the local news that matters

With 2011 just about in the rearview mirror, it's time to start looking forward to the new year. And 2012 certainly promises to be a big one for Southeast Michigan and the nation as a whole.

The staff here at the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers is certainly anticipating a great 2012 — and looking forward to bringing all the news that matters to our readers. As always, our goal is to provide our readers with the most up to date look at the news stories that impact our local communities. Not only in our award-winning print editions, but also on our website, www.hometownlife.com, which is updated daily with breaking news stories.

For years, the so-called experts have been predicting the demise of the newspaper industry. And for sure, we've experienced some tough times in recent years — just like many other industries. But our commitment to our readers has never waned, even in the face of a faltering economy that has forced us to make some difficult changes. But we are still standing, and we thank all of our readers for standing with us. We are looking forward to a new year that promises to be filled with extraordinary news stories.

For the first time in what seems like an eternity, the economy — both locally and nationally — is on the upswing. Let us hope that continues. Far too many people in Michigan have been hurt by layoffs and lost income since the beginning of the "Great Recession" and we could certainly use some good news on the economic front. It will be nice to report some good news on that front this year, especially how an improved economy will mean brighter days for our communities.

Elections also promise to be big news in 2012. Many local, state and federal offices will be up for grabs. We hope to see an informed electorate head to the polls in the August primary and November general elections. While most of the national media will focus on the presidential race, we know that state and local campaigns will have a more direct impact on our readers, especially as it relates to taxes and services. You can look to us to provide the political coverage that hits closer to home.

We realize in most cases our newspapers are the only source when it comes to local news coverage. We take that responsibility very seriously. That's why we have reporters at school board and city council meetings, prep sporting events and all the other happenings that are important to our readers.

In 2012, we invite our readers to become more involved. Whether it is a letter to the editor or a comment on our website, we want everyone's voice to be heard. That's what we are here for. We just ask that everyone respects the opinions of others — even when you might not agree.

As we turn the page on another year, we hope you will continue to look to us as your trusted news source. We are proud to be a part of our communities. And we thank you for trust.

Teamwork vital for money worries

We've had our silent night. Now the area is about to get a whole lot noisier, and it won't just be from the revelry on New Year's Eve.

As a troubled year is ending, a challenging one is beginning throughout the region. Frequently, as individuals voice their New Year's resolutions, a big one is always to lose weight, but that was high on Gov. Rick Snyder's list even before the end of this year.

The kind of weight the governor had in mind was that from unnecessary expenses and duplication of service in our towns and schools. Officials railed bitterly against making awards in revenue sharing and aid to education dependent on meeting criteria showing moves to reduce expenses by sharing the burden of providing services. Most officials pointed out that their schools and local governments have already done just that.

But the truth is that the state budget has become skinny, skin and bones, if you will. It is providing the spine of structure, but little else for local entities.

Perhaps in a way this is better than the bulimic feeding frenzy of past years for funding for sustenance of services that may have been able to have been fed a more healthy diet. But who is to say what nutrients are essential and which are icing on the cake?

Well, the one good thing is that the governor has left it up to communities and schools to devise their own diet. The problem is that it has been a forced crash diet. So that noise you are about to hear as the New Year begins is likely to be from the gnashing of teeth as the budget process begins for the next fiscal year.

There is an image with a puzzle that involves a group of people sitting in a circle around a pot of food. Each person has a spoon, but it is a very, very long spoon — far too long to dip into the pot and then bring the nourishment to an individual's own lips.

The puzzle is: Will those people starve and go into receivership? Or will they find a solution to their collective problem? The answer to that puzzle is the one all schools and governments must embrace.

In the case of the pot of food, the people sitting around it discovered that the spoon may be too long to feed themselves, but it was just right to feed the person opposite them.

Local officials are all sitting around a pot of money, diminished though it is. As many times as they have called for cooperation, it is more essential now than ever.

Local officials will always have their own spoons, but they will have to come up with ways to make sure we all get our daily bread.

Jipping plays big in PCA win

By Tim Smith
Observer Staff Writer

Opponents flinch when Plymouth Christian Academy senior center Eric Jipping turns it up a notch.

And Dec. 22 against visiting Franklin Road Christian, the 6-foot-5 Jipping wasn't about to let the Warriors get any gift-wrapped victory.

Pounding the ball inside time after time, he scored 27 points — including a personal 7-0 run in the fourth to give PCA the lead for keeps — as the Eagles came away with a 56-55 Michigan Independent Athletics Conference crossover win to improve to 3-1.

Other PCA contributors included junior forwards Mick Noel (16 points, four assists) and Drew Ibach (seven points).

The physical Jipping, who also had 10 rebounds, is a treat to watch any time he's on the court. But on Thursday, his bulldog attitude brought a smile to PCA head coach Dominique Washington's face.

"He's our senior and our leader," said Washington, about Jipping taking control of the game in the fourth. "If he wants to play at the next level, he's going to have to be able to do that at this level."

"We have confidence in the decisions he makes. We know he's a great player, he's very, very confident. Fourth quarter, if he's going to step up he's going to step up. We're going to let him go."

The Warriors (1-3) led 51-47 midway through the final frame. Three Jipping power moves to the basket and a free throw later, it was a 54-51 PCA lead with just 1:44 remaining.

In all, Jipping tallied 12 of the Eagles' 15 points in the final stanza.

PCA never gave up the lead after that, although a triple at the horn by junior Quinn D'Ascenzo (21 points, eight rebounds) made it a one-point differential.

According to Franklin Road head coach Chico Hamilton, the play of Jipping wore down his defense, and contributed to senior forward Averett Barksdale's late foul trouble.

Barksdale (16 points), who has drawn interest from Schoolcraft College, had to ease up on his defensive pressure after drawing his fourth foul of the night.

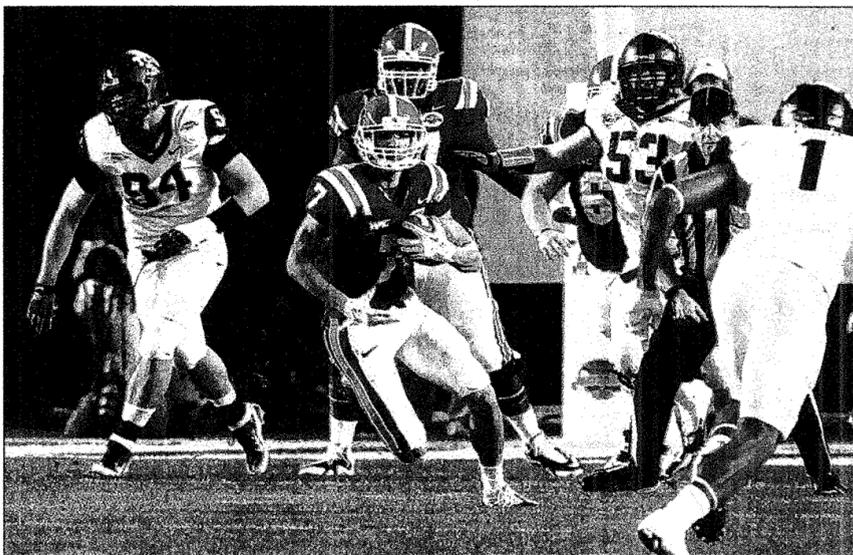

Hamilton subsequently had to use a guard against Jipping, creating a mismatch.

"He (Barksdale) had to play more tentatively and cautiously," Hamilton said.

On the flip side, Hamilton said the Warriors "took a couple bad shots where we could have worked the ball inside to get a better shot. Too many unnecessary threes. We weren't attacking the basket in the second half."

Despite the win, Washington said there is much room for the Eagles to improve.

Stevenson High grad Myles White (7) makes the grab for Louisiana Tech during last week's Poinsettia Bowl game in San Diego against TCU. White had seven catches for 110 yards in a 31-24 setback.

A White Christmas

'Tis better to receive for Stevenson grad at La. Tech

By Brad Emons
Observer Staff Writer

Myles White has taken a circuitous route to remain a Division I football player.

It's over 1,000 miles and a 17-hour drive from Livonia to Rushton, La., but the junior wide receiver from Stevenson High is thankful he's gotten a second chance after a couple of embarrassing incidents at Michigan State, which led to his transfer.

Myles White

After a sprained foot limited his play during the first half of the season, the 6-foot-1, 185-pound White finished the season with a flurry including a career-best seven catches for 110 yards — including a 61-yard touchdown reception that gave Louisiana Tech a late 24-17 third-quarter lead — in the Bulldogs' 31-24 loss last week to No. 18-ranked TCU in the Poinsettia Bowl held in San Diego.

For the season, White ranked third in receptions (30) for a total of 414 yards and three TDs for the 8-5 Bulldogs. He also averaged a team-best 13.8 yards per catch for the Western Athletic Conference champions.

"I was irritated that we lost because I felt everything was in place, but it was a fun game overall just to be on national television, and to play in front of everybody," White said. "Louisiana Tech hadn't been to a bowl game since 2008, so that was good for the school and the university.

After catching the 61-yard TD pass from quarterback Colby Cameron, the national TV cameras captured a glimpse of White on the sidelines. And never one to shy away from the cameras, White delivered a message.

"It's a shout out to Michigan and Livonia, and everybody back home, my whole family, and everybody at Stevenson," he said. "I just wanted to show everybody where my heart is."

White's heart was originally with Michigan State where he earned a football scholarship.

It's also the place where he his dad Michael ran track and where his twin brother, Mitchell, joined him the same year as walk-on defensive back.

The White brothers, which also included Austin (now at Central Michigan), led Stevenson to the 2007 MHSAA Division 1 state championship game.

After red shirting his freshman year (2008), Myles White appeared in six games for MSU during the 2009 season while earning his letter.

But later that season, White ran into trouble with the law

Buford

Buford opts out to Iowa

Canton senior defensive back/half-back/return specialist Kevin Buford will be a Hawkeye.

Buford recently visited the campus of the University of Iowa and immediately loved it enough — not to mention the lure of playing in the Big Ten — to decide to change his verbal commitment from the University of Toledo.

The Hawkeyes' football staff also liked Buford and he could make an impact as soon as the 2012 season.

Canton head football coach Tim Baechler said it's a good fit for the All-Observer player.

"Kevin will play corner at Iowa and may return kicks and punts as well," Baechler said. "They like his personality and character and his explosiveness and big play ability."

A formal signing will take place in February.

Blazers skate past Pioneer

Goalie Sarah Koch made 18 saves to post the shutout as red-hot Livonia Ladywood captured its fourth straight game last week with a 3-0 Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League win over the host Pioneers at Veterans Arena.

After a scoreless opening period, Ladywood's Lane Kolpacke tallied the game-winner from Katie Folk in the second.

The Blazers (4-5, 4-5) added two more goals in the third from Jackie Kristofik (unassisted) and Hannah Pereira (empty netter).

Paulina Arsenault made 21 saves for Ann Arbor (5-2, 5-2).

Moose skate vs. ex-Wings

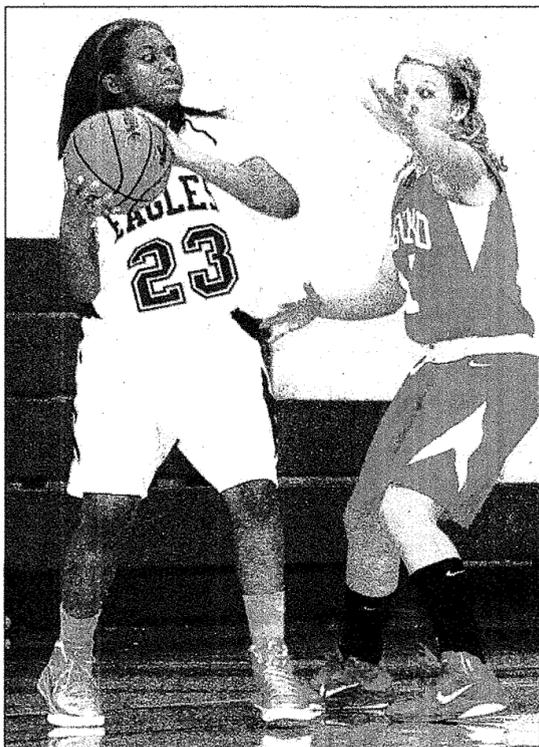

The Detroit Moose Hockey Club and the Detroit Red Wings Alumni Association will host their annual charity hockey game on Jan. 7 at the Arctic Edge Ice Arena in Canton.

All funds raised from the event will benefit the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation.

Doors open at 4:30 p.m. and the game will start at promptly at 5 p.m.

Tickets are $10 in advance and $15 the day of the game. (Children under the age of 10 will be admitted free.) A variety of raffle prizes will also be given away and all admission tickets will be entered into the drawing.

A special drawing will also be held for a shot to skate with the Detroit Red Wings Alumni, which will be announced during the Jan. 2 Winter Classic. These $25 tickets must be purchased in advance (adults only).

Redford Thurston sophomore point guard Brijanae Durrough scans the court for an open teammate during overtime of the Eagles' 56-49 setback to Bedford Tuesday night.

Thurston doomed by late collapse

By Ed Wright
Observer Staff Writer

Led by a high-performance Lexus, Redford Thurston's girls basketball team cruised through the first 28 minutes of Tuesday night's game against Temperance Bedford when it built a 10-point lead.

Unfortunately for the Eagles, the wheels came off down the stretch.

A big night from Thurston junior forward Lexus LeGardy (12 points) couldn't put the brakes on a furious fourth-quarter rally by Bedford, which survived with a 56-49 victory over the Eagles in an opening-night encounter in the Airport Christmas Classic.

Thurston (4-2) was set to play Adrian in Wednesday's action at Carleton Airport High School.

Sharing scoring honors with LeGardy was Taylor Hunt, who also poured in 12 points. Sophomore point guard Brijanae Durrough scored eight points for the Eagles.

Ellen Hays led the winners with 19 while Taylor Foster pumped in 14. After trailing 27-26 at the half, the Eagles surged in the third quarter and early in the fourth when they constructed a 45-35 advantage.

But the Kicking Mules took advantage of a sudden shooting slump by Thurston to knot the game at 48-48 at the end of regulation before holding the Eagles to just a single free throw by Hunt in the four-minute overtime.

"Once we got up by 10 in the fourth quarter, we kept shooting the ball instead of showing some patience," said Thurston head coach Marvin Essix. "We had too many wild shots and lazy passes. Bedford kept playing and made a couple plays to get back in it, then we panicked a little bit."

With the Eagles leading by two points and just over a minute remaining on the fourth-quarter clock, Durrough was injured when she collided with a Bedford player while in possession of the ball, however, no foul was called. Bedford tied the game with 53 seconds left in regulation.

"Lexus LeGardy shot the ball very well tonight," said Essix, when asked for some bright spots. "She was getting her feet set and her jumper was falling. We were patient with the ball as a team for most of the game. We passed the ball around until we got an easy basket — until the fourth quarter. Give Bedford credit. They kept playing and kept fighting."

Essix was also impressed by the effort of junior forward Adajaih Pittman, who pulled down a team-high 10 rebounds.

ed 12 for the victorious Phoenix, who improved to 3-2 overall. Junior guard Nick Daniels paced the Rockets (1-2) with 15 points, while senior forward Eric Covile chipped in with 12. After a 16-all halftime deadlock, Ypsilanti went on a 17-8 third-quarter run to take command. The Phoenix then outscored Glenn 16-11 during the final period. Ypsilanti connected on 7-of-12 free throws, while Glenn hit 7-of-12. The Rockets return to action 1 p.m. Friday at Ypsilanti to face Grosse Pointe South in the Metro Detroit Tournament.

and was sentenced two 18 months probation and 150 hours of community service for his involvement in incident at MSU's Rafter Hall. White pleaded guilty to misdemeanor assault, while a charge of conspiracy was dropped against him. He was also charged a month later with urinating in public, a 90-day misdemeanor, and with minor in possession of alcohol.

Suspended by MSU, White decided to go the junior college route landing at Northwest Mississippi Community College during the fall of 2010.

With the Rangers, White ranked sixth nationally in receptions (53) for 712 yards. He also caught six TD passes while earning NJCAA All-Region XXIII and All-Conference honors.

"I was looking for a place to go and I considered Grand Rapids CC (Community College), but I got a call and said I was better off in Mississippi," White said. "I went down there and had a pretty good season."

But playing for a JUCO in a place (Senatobia) where he had never been to before proved to be an adjustment.

"When I first got down there I was kind of in a culture shock because it was kind of 'country,'" said White, who helped his team to a 9-1 record and a playoff spot. "It kind of threw me off a little bit, but actually it was great. I'm glad I went down there and got some experience. There's something about the south and their hospitality... they love football and always go to the games. It wasn't much of a drop-off going from Michigan State to a junior college. It was just a whole bunch of kids playing for a few scholarships. It was just playing for fun... it was a great. I enjoyed the experience. Even though it was a setback, it was an enjoyable setback."

White fielded numerous offers following his junior college stint. Among the schools who offered included Utah State, Troy, Memphis, Arkansas State and New Mexico State.

"I kind of trusted Louisiana Tech more," said White, who was also a track standout at Stevenson. "The coaches flew up and came here, visited my parents, and that kind of sealed the deal."

"I got there in the spring of last year. I went to spring ball and into the fall season, and that's kind of the story in a nutshell."

White liked the spread attack Louisiana Tech head coach Sonny Dykes brought in as an offensive coordinator from Arizona.

Assistant head coach and wide receivers coach Rob Likens. Dykes coached Nick Foles "Coach (Sonny Dykes) coached at Texas Tech when they had Michael Crabtree (now with the San Francisco 49ers), so I had a pretty good idea of what kind of offense they were running," White said. "I decided that was the offense I wanted to be in. We just kept talking about it. It was the spread offense, and he was going to take care of me."

"Basically he earned the trust of me and my parents. I'm just thankful of everything he's allowed me to do, and given me the opportunity to play football at the D-1 level."

White, however, got off to rocky start.

"I had gotten hurt in the first game against Southern Miss and it was one of those injuries that took me out for three or four games, and it kind of lingered on throughout the entire season," he said. "I really wasn't healthy until the sixth or seventh game of the year. It was a foot sprain where I couldn't run. I was actually on crutches and in a boot for three or four weeks."

"I felt like myself after the Utah State game and it carried on."

His first game as a Bulldog, however, proved to be memorable in a 19-17 setback Sept. 3 at Southern Mississippi.

"The first game was an aftermath of a hurricane," White said. "It was a monsoon over there. There were puddles in the field. It was pretty crazy. I hadn't played in rain like that ever before."

Louisiana Tech, meanwhile, got off to a rough start as well (1-4), losing three of four games by a total of nine points. La Tech also fell to Houston (35-34) and SEC opponent Mississippi State (26-20). "It was kind of a heart-breaking situation," White said.

But the Bulldogs regrouped and went on a seven-game winning streak, including a 27-7 victory over another SEC foe Mississippi.

And while White is over a 1,000 miles away from home, he still keeps tabs on Michigan State, where his twin brother Mitchell is a back-up defensive back and special teams player.

He sees the Spartans go play in the inaugural Big Ten Championship game and win the Legends Division.

"There's no bad blood," White said. "I still love Michigan State. I still root for them. I love their coaching staff. Any time they play - with this bowl game with Georgia - I'm hoping they'll win. It's good to see a lot of the people I played and practiced with, and were friends with, especially Jerrell Worthy, Trenton Robinson and Keshawn (Martin). It's good to watch people you know do well."

White has a new home and he's acclimated to the environment and the climate.

"It's still country (Rush-ton, La.), but it's hot, too," he said. "The fans treat the team good. You couldn't ask for better fans and we're starting to turn the program around step-by-step. We went 8-5 this year and we expect big things next year."

"We're looking to go undefeated. We actually have 38 returning juniors. We have a chance to be really, really special. We just have to keep working hard and basically push each other as far as competition on the field."

During his second recruitment, White feels like he was given a clean slate by Dykes despite his past troubles in East Lansing.

"That stuff is really all behind me," the junior wide receiver said. "We kind of had a general understanding and I felt like and they got a grasp of that, and I grew up from that. It really wasn't much of a conversation. It's in the rear view mirror."

"Their big man (Barksdale) did a great job breaking our pressure at times," he noted. "But we composed ourselves and kept doing what we do best."

Back and forth

The game was a seesaw affair much of the way. Franklin Road trailed early, but bounced back midway through the second to take the lead 20-18 following back-to-back treys by D'Ascenzo and Phillip Isbell.

PCA regained the lead at halftime (27-26), sparked by junior guard Alex Huber's triple from the left flank.

There were four lead changes during the third quarter before the Eagles went on a 7-0 surge to take a 40-34 edge with three minutes to go. Eric Jipping muscled in for two putbacks during that span and sophomore guard Daniel Jipping (six boards) drove through the lane for a layup.

It was 42-39 PCA after three, but the Warriors weren't done, regaining the lead and increasing it to 51-47 thanks to a 10-3 run.

But all that did was hit a nerve with Eric Jipping. The Warriors found out that's not the thing to do.

All-Observer swimmers, divers set high standard

FIRST-TEAM INDIVIDUALS

Sato Kakahara, 200 free, Mercy: Kakahara finished fifth in the Division 1 state meet, and she had the best time in the area at 1:52.81. The senior also was fifth in the butterfly. In the Catholic League meet, she was third in the 200 freestyle and second in the 500. Kakahara ranks among the top 10 in the area in every freestyle event and the fly.

"For the past four years, Sato has been the benchmark for Mercy swimming," coach Shannon Dunworth said. "On a daily basis, no one swimmer has done more to establish the competitive, training atmosphere that is Mercy swimming's signature. Sato is as diverse, competitive and hard-working as any swimmer I have ever coached."

Maddy Loniewski, 200 IM, Mercy: Loniewski had an outstanding freshman season, finishing third in the IM at the Division 1 state meet with an area-best time of 2:04.82. She also was ninth in the breaststroke. Loniewski is the Catholic League champion in both events. She has a top-10 area time in all but two events.

"As an incoming freshman, we knew Maddy was extremely special in the pool," Dunworth said. "It didn't take long to understand why. She trains hard; she's extremely skilled and very competitive. Her potential to get better is unlimited."

Elliott Schinella, 50 free, Mercy: Schinella finished 10th in the 50 freestyle (24.31) at the D-1 state meet. The sophomore is second only to Loniewski in the area with a best time of 24.25. Schinella is the Catholic League champion in the backstroke and runner-up in the 50.

"She's done extremely well with not a tremendous amount of background in swimming," Dunworth said. "She swims year-round but has not had the bug that some kids have. I think she started to get it this year. Elli is one of those kids who's going to make a huge difference for us next year in determining our success."

Emmy Orrico, diving, Mercy: Orrico, who was on the all-area second team last year, moved up to the top spot after placing seventh in the D-1 state meet. She had her best score in the Catholic League meet, finishing second with an area-best of 402.25 points. Orrico will continue her diving career at the University of Michigan.

"In diving, it's not one race; it's 11 dives and you have to pull yourself together for every single one," Dunworth said. "Emmy was the only diver whose score in the (state) meet was going to help the overall score of the team. She had the weight of the Mercy swim team on her shoulders. Of all the great divers we've had at Mercy, she earned my respect more than anyone."

Annie Valentine, 100 fly, Mercy: Valentine placed sixth in the butterfly (56.94) at the D-1 state meet, and she ranks second only to Kakahara in the area with a best time of 56.75. The junior was second in the Catholic League meet in the IM and butterfly.

"Annie is as special as they come," Dunworth said. "She's willing to go above and beyond to make a coach feel like he's making a difference. She's an overachiever for sure. That's strictly because she's one of those kids, when you say jump, she's asking how high on the way up. Her biggest motivation is to contribute and do what's asked of her."

Olivia Samoray, 100 free, Mercy: Samoray is the Catholic League champion in the 100 and 200 freestyle events. She ranks No. 1 in the area with a best time of 52.13 in the 100. The senior didn't swim that event at the D-1 state meet, but she was fifth in the 500 and sixth in the 200.

"She's one of those overachieving kids, too," Dunworth said. "When she's looking at the coach, she's looking for the coach to confirm the confidence he has in her, because she's had to work for everything she's got. It doesn't come easy. When you watch Livvy swim, what you see is tremendous sustained effort, and that's her strength."

Lauren Seroka, 500 free, Salem: There hasn't been much that Seroka did not accomplish during her stellar four-year varsity career with the Rocks.

Seroka, a three-year team captain who carries a 4.02 grade-point average, earned D-1 all-state and Salem Most Valuable Swimmer honors for the fourth consecutive season.

At the state meet at Eastern Michigan University, the senior finished seventh in the 500 freestyle final to garner yet another award.

COACH OF THE YEAR

Ross Bandy, Farmington Harrison

She finished with a time of 5:04.47 — slightly slower than the Salem-record mark of 5:02.46 she set the previous day at the prelims.

Then in the final event she'd swim for Salem, she and teammates Maddie Gorman, Julia Suriano and Abby Aumiller set a school record in the 400 free relay, finishing in 3:38.12.

Those two new marks merely were the latest in a long list: 200 free, 1:54.67; 100 free, 53.80 and 200 medley relay, 1:51.58.

"Lauren has been the example of the successful high school student-athlete in every aspect," coach Chuck Olson said.

Abby Aumiller, 100 back, Salem: Perhaps Aumiller will be taking the team baton from Seroka as the junior has already been named a captain for 2012-13.

She is like Seroka in the water, too. This season's list of achievements is long and impressive.

Aumiller collected a Salem record in the 100 backstroke with a time of 58.32. That took place at the preliminaries of the D-1 state meet, where she barely missed making the finals.

She was part of the 400 free relay team that set another Rocks' standard (3:38.12), at the finals.

By the way, this was her third season as a qualifier for the state meet.

Earlier during her prep career she tallied a Salem record as part of the 200 medley relay team, with a time of 1:51.58.

Her efforts also were rewarded with the Salem Most Improved Swimmer award.

"Abby was able to reach some of her personal goals the past three years," Olson said. "She's very determined to achieve more personal and team goals in 2012."

Marina Borri, 100 breast, Harrison: Borri is one of Harrison's best all-time swimmers and will continue in the sport at Michigan State. At the D-2 state meet, she was fifth in the breaststroke (1:06.44) and sixth in the IM (2:09.94). The senior also placed third in the IM and fourth in the breaststroke at the OAA Red Division meet.

"She's one of the most decorated swimmers Harrison has ever had," coach Ross Bandy said. "She was All-America as a sophomore in the medley relay; she was a member of the 400 free relay that broke the school record; she holds the breaststroke record, and she's a fine IMer."

"She has a great opportunity, being in the Big Ten and swimming for Michigan State. Hopefully, the success she's had in high school swimming carries over to her college years."

SECOND-TEAM INDIVIDUALS

Maggie Hack, 200 free, Harrison: Hack placed fourth (1:54.56) in the 200 freestyle at the D-2 state meet, and she set school and division records in that event (1:53.37) when she won the OAA Red championship. The sophomore set a school record (53.17) with a ninth-place finish in the 100 freestyle at the state meet. She also was third in that event in the OAA Red with a then-record of 53.24.

Ross Bandy
Harrison coach

"Maggie is a young, raw talent and a great racer, Bandy said. "She has a lot of good qualities as a high school swimmer. She's a nice, well-rounded young lady; she's very quiet but has a lot of competitive fire."

Delaney Adams, 200 IM, Canton: The versatile, determined junior had an outstanding season, capped off by being a D-1 state qualifier in the 200 IM, 100 butterfly, 100 breaststroke and as part of the 200 medley relay.

At the state finals, Adams, Caitlin Orr, Hannah Jenkins and Destinee Barmore-Hicks placed 16th in the consolation round of the medley relay (1:52.67).

Earlier in the season, Adams swam the butterfly leg in that relay to help set a school mark of 1:52.28.

It was at prelims of the state meet where she scored her personal best in the 200 IM (2:12.29).

Adams had other big moments. Those included finishing seventh at the MISCA meet, third in two events at the KLAA South Division championships; fourth and sixth at the conference championships.

"I'm sure that Delaney will set even higher goals next season, and she knows what needs to be done to achieve them," coach Ed Weber said. "I'm looking forward to working with her again next year and I'm sure she'll have a great senior year."

Sandra Johnson, 50 free, Harrison: Johnson concluded her prep career by finishing seventh in the D-2 state meet, posting a best time of 24.44 in the prelims. She was fifth in the OAA Red Division, and the senior also qualified for state in the 100 freestyle.

"We had a great swimmer-coach relationship," Bandy said. "She didn't understand during the season why I was so tough on her, but she did at the end. She's a good racer, a good competitor. What I liked about her most was I could count on her in relays. She gave me her best when she was leading off, and she handled that role well."

Miranda Shelly, 100 fly, Harrison: Shelly capped her junior season by finishing seventh in this event at the state meet, swimming her best time in the prelims (58.45). She was fifth in the butterfly in the OAA Red Division, and she also qualified for state in the IM.

"She's a very soft-spoken young lady but very hungry and goal-oriented," Bandy said. "She sets her mind to things. I like her expectations; she has a lot of want and desire."

Erica Allor, diving, Mercy: The sophomore was fifth in the Catholic League meet in which she posted her highest score of 310.65, which ranks second only Orrico's area best. Allor was a state qualifier and was 24th in the preliminaries.

"She's going to inherit the reins of (former Mercy divers) Carly Sevald, Lauren Roberts and Emmy Orrico," Dunworth said. "She's very dedicated to her sport, and I have all the confidence she's going to carry on that great tradition we've had."

Roxanne Griffore, 100 free, Mercy: Griffore is another member of an outstanding freshman class for the Marlins. She was 16th in the 100 freestyle at the state meet and 15th in the backstroke. In the Catholic League meet, Griffore was third in both events.

"Her USS coach pulled me aside and said 'You're going to be very happy with who we're sending your way,'" Dunworth said. "Boy, was he right about Roxy! She's a pussycat on the outside; she's an absolute tiger on the inside. She's going to be a very special girl at Mercy before it's all over."

Kathleen McGee, 500 free, Mercy: McGee also made an immediate impact in her first year of high school swimming, finishing fourth in the 500 freestyle at the state meet. She was ninth in the 200. In the league meet, McGee won the 500 and placed fourth in the 200. She is second only to Seroka in the area with a best time of 5:03.62.

"Kathleen is a gamer," Dunworth said. "Do not count that girl out. All the kids work hard but, in the pool when it comes race time, you look in her eyes and you know she's up to the challenge."

Jordan Ewald, 100 back, Mercy: Ewald finished 14th in the backstroke at the state meet and also qualified in the IM. Her best time of 59.49 in the backstroke ranks third in the area. At the league meet, the sophomore was fifth in the IM and second in the backstroke.

"Jordan is probably the most on-task swimmer we have," Dunworth said. "Every day she asks to stay after practice for extra work. There was not a day went by that Jordan didn't take advantage of the extra help she could get. She's always willing to go that extra mile."

Halie Zulch, 100 breast, Mercy: Zulch swam her best time of 1:07.98 in the prelims at the state meet. Although she didn't qualify for the finals, she still had the third-best time in the area. The senior, who was on Mercy's All-America medley relay last year, was second in the league meet in the breaststroke.

"Halie came from being a kid who just wanted to be included in something and, by the time she was done, made All-American,"

Dunworth said. "Some of these kids are so terrific, when it comes to swimming at Mercy, I'm just fortunate to be the guy in charge. I think we worked together really well, and I'm extremely proud of all her accomplishments."

FIRST-TEAM RELAYS

200-yard medley, Mercy: Schinella, Loniewski, Valentine and Griffore were third in the D-1 state meet with an area-best time of 1:46.57. Schinella and Valentine also were on the team that won the Catholic League championship.

"What's important about the medley is it's the first event of meet, and it really sets the stage," Dunworth said. "These kids are well conditioned and prepared to swim fast. As the medley relay goes so goes the meet, and they just set the tone."

200-yard freestyle, Mercy: Loniewski, Schinella, Kakahara and Samoray were third in the D-1 state meet with an area-best time of 1:36.34. Loniewski, Samoray and Kakahara also were on the team that finished second in the league.

"We don't have any sprinters on the team past Elli Schinella," Dunworth said. "For that relay to do as well as it did shows how versatile those kids are. So hats off to them."

400-yard freestyle, Mercy: Kakahara, McGee, Griffore and Samoray finished fourth in the state meet with an area-best time of 3:31.11. The Marlins are Catholic League champs in this event with Kakahara, McGee and Samoray being part of that team, too.

"It's the third year on that relay for Sato and Livvy," Dunworth said. "They're true veterans and knew exactly what to expect. Roxy did so well at the state meet she got put on those relays. She was the frosting on the cake. We didn't have to double back some other kids, because she showed up so well."

"It's the opposite of the medley. It finishes the meet and, fortunately at that point, we knew what we had to do to win the meet, and they had the ability to do that."

SECOND-TEAM RELAYS

200-yard medley, Harrison: The Hawks scored all three relays in the championship heat at the D-2 state meet, starting with sixth place in the medley by Olivia Rath, Borri, Shelly and Johnson. Harrison's time of 1:48.99 is second only to Mercy.

"They like to challenge themselves," Bandy said. "They set their goals high. We swam a very solid race. The girls were poised and ready to swim."

200-yard freestyle, Harrison: Johnson, Miranda Doepker, Hack and Paige Kondek set a school record at the state meet when they swam 1:39.68 and finished fourth in the final.

"Sandra set it up with a fantastic leadoff swim," Bandy said. "Everyone did her part. We were concerned about the order. Nobody wanted to swim last. I put Paige Kondek last mainly because she's a great big-meet swimmer. She swims great when she's under pressure."

400-yard freestyle, Harrison: Hack, Doepker, Rath and Borri assured Harrison of a fifth-place team finish at the state meet when they swam 3:37.6 and finished in sixth place.

"I think the 400 relay was the best race we had for the whole meet," Bandy said. "I think it was because of the determination to make sure we finished well and could feel good walking out the door. That was probably the best race we had where all four individuals were in sync with each other."

COACH OF THE YEAR

Ross Bandy, Harrison: The veteran coach has built up the swim program over two decades to make it one of the best in the state. The four individuals and three relays on the 2011 All-Observer team are evidence of that.

The Hawks had their best state meet in Bandy's tenure if not school history, finishing fifth in Division 2. They might have been champions in many conferences, but third place in the OAA Red Division was a victory in itself; the teams ahead of Harrison were perennial powers Groves and Seaholm. The Hawks also finished fourth in the Oakland County meet.

"I think all the years I've had at Harrison have been pretty special, and we've had a lot of success," Bandy said. "This is just another one. Being fifth in Division 2 is quite an honor, especially amongst the schools we were competing with."

"I just wanted to make sure we kept it all together, that we focused on our goals. As a team, we reached the goals we were looking to achieve. I don't think we could have done much better."

New adult troupe debuts on youth stage in Livonia

By Sharon Dargay
 O&E Staff Writer

Motor City Youth Theatre's new adult offshoot — Motor City Musical Theatre — will debut Friday, Jan. 6, 2012 with a little-known Stephen Sondheim play.

"When we heard the rights for the show had been released, we wanted to get in on that. It's a rarely-performed piece ... a rare treat. It's the first time it will be performed in Michigan, and possibly even in the Midwest," said Dave Cowan, a cast member who's also handling publicity for the show.

The play, Saturday Night, with Sondheim's lyrics and music, was set to debut on Broadway in the mid-1950s and would have introduced Sondheim, then 25, to theatergoers for the first time. When one of its lead producers died in 1955, the show was shelved until 1997 when a small professional theater in London, England produced it for the first time.

The story, written by Julius and Philip Epstein, authors of Casablanca, tells the story of Gene, a dreamer and a Wall Street clerk, who convinces his lonely, dateless friends to invest in the stock market during the spring before the stock market crash of 1929. Gene uses their money in a series of impulsive purchases, and is lured back to the real world by a developing romance.

Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Jan. 6-7 and 13-14, 2012 and 2 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 8 and 15, 2012, at the Grantland Street Playhouse, 27555 Grantland, Livonia. Tickets are $17 for adults and $15 for seniors and students. Call (313) 535-8962 for reservations or e-mail to motorcitymusicaltheatre@gmail.com.

Hands-on actors

The cast includes mostly students and graduates from drama programs at Wayne State University and Oakland University, as well as a few actors from Windsor, Ont., Canada. They're involved in all facets of the show, including set-making, props, publicity and costuming.

"Everything is being done by the cast itself. We don't have to go through a hierarchy of who would normally make these decisions," Cowan said. "It's a nice change of pace and gives us more freedom. It's a blast."

Motor City Youth Theatre founder, Nancy Florkowski, told friends at Wayne State University a few years ago that she wanted to form an adult troupe.

"We got together, pooled resources and found a play we all wanted to do," said Cowan, a Wayne State University graduate who also teaches at the Youth Theatre. "We'll sprinkle in two or three (adult) shows a season."

Cast, crew

Jeremy Ryan Mossman of Windsor directs and appears in the show. Other cast members are Wayne State students George Abud, Luke Rose, Matthew Miazgowicz, Andrick Siegmund, Aaron Glenn, Dan Finn, Allison Fisher, Sydney Machesky, and Kendall Talbot; Oakland University student Elyse Moon; and Windsor resident Nathaniel Cedroni. Wayne State grads Adam Crinson designed the sets and Megan Amadon designed costumes.

Florkowski serves as artistic director and her husband, Fred Florkowski, is technical director.

Cowan said Saturday Night is the perfect

"The jokes are still funny," he said. "We're excited to have an audience. We've been rehearsing since October and we're ready to take the show to the next level."

Celebrate New Year with tasty, nonalcoholic drinks

AAA's popular "Great Pretenders Party Guide" is available as a digital publication to help party hosts plan festive holiday gatherings — including tips on how to help reduce drinking and driving deaths and injuries.

The free guide includes drink recipes from AAA-Diamond rated hotels and restaurants that are appropriate for year-round festivities as well as holiday gatherings. It also offers advice to help party hosts monitor alcohol consumption among guests.

Drunken driving continues to be a serious problem on roadways and is a factor in more than one-third of all traffic deaths. Among the safety tips for party hosts:

- If despite your best efforts, some of your guests have had too much to drink, arrange for a ride with another guest who is sober, call a cab or have them stay overnight.
- Choose a reliable "bartender" who will keep track of the size and number of drinks that guests consume. Don't let guests mix their own drinks.
- Plan activities like party games to engage people and make for less active consumption of alcohol.
- Serve foods that act as a buffer to alcohol. High protein foods such as cheese and meats are best because protein stays in the stomach longer slowing alcohol absorption.
- Always offer nonalcoholic drinks or "mocktails" for designated drivers and others who prefer not to drink alcohol. Sparking grape juice is a good alternative to champagne.

The digital guide is located at AAA.com/Pretenders. Recipe cards, which include a nonalcoholic drink and promote the digital guide, are available at AAA branches statewide.

"We're looking for original Michigan Apple recipes that will wow the judges," stated Denise Donohue, Executive Director of the Michigan Apple Committee. "Each year recipes submitted are different and possibly more creative than the previous year."

Amateur cooks may send recipes that highlight Michigan-grown apples, to the Michigan Apple Committee via mail or e-mail. Mailed entries must be received before Jan. 31, 2012 at Michigan Apple Committee, 13750 S. Sedona Parkway, Lansing, MI 48906. E-mail entries must arrive at Staff@MichiganApples.com before 5 p.m. on Jan. 31, 2012.

Recipes will be judged on taste, originality, preparation, and apple significance.

The top three highest-scoring recipe winners will receive a KitchenAid stand mixer. Their recipes also may be featured on cards distributed by the Michigan Apple Committee at select retailers and farm markets in the Midwest.

Cooks can visit www.MichiganApples.com/contests for more information.

Need a little inspiration to enter the contest? Here are recipes for three previous winners, Pure Bliss Apple Ginger Scones, Skillet Apple-Cherry Pie, and Baked Apple Stuffed French Toast.

Skillet Apple-Cherry Pie

Created by Donna Bardocz of Howell
7-8 Servings

- Refrigerated pie crust (15-ounce box)
- ½ cup dried cherries
- ½ cup chopped pecans
- ½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ cup (4 tablespoons) unsalted butter
- ½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- ½ cup (4 tablespoons) cherry preserves
- 4 tart Michigan baking apples, such as Golden Delicious, Gravenstein, Baldwin, Macoun, Northern Spy or Winesap, washed very well
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 tablespoon granulated sugar (for sprinkling on top)

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees F.

Combine the dried cherries, pecans, ½ cup brown sugar and cinnamon in a small bowl and set aside.

Select an ovenproof skillet that measures 9 inches across the bottom and 11-12 inches across the top. A cast-iron skillet works well and makes a home-style presentation. Melt the butter in the skillet over medium heat, and then stir in the other ½ cup of brown sugar and cherry preserves. When the mixture is bubbling evenly over the surface of the pan — 30 seconds or so — remove pan from the heat.

Do not peel the apples; the peels will help them to hold together. Halve them top to bottom, however, and core each half. Spoon some of the cherry-walnut mixture into each apple half, compacting it with a finger.

Quickly invert the stuffed apple halves and place them cut side down in the skillet. You should be able to get 6 or 7 around the outside and 1 in the center. Finely dice the remaining apple half, if left over, and scatter the pieces between the apples. Sprinkle the leftover cherry-nut mixture between the apples.

Between two sheets of waxed paper, converge and roll together both top and bottom pie crusts to form one 12-inch circle. After removing the top sheet of waxed paper, invert the pastry over the apples, center it and peel off the other sheet of paper. Lifting the edge of the pastry, either tuck the edge straight down along the inside of the pan or pinch it to crimp the edge. Poke two large vent holes in the pastry with a paring knife, twisting the knife to enlarge the holes slightly.

Lightly brush the pastry with the milk and sprinkle surface with sugar. Place the pie directly on the center oven rack and bake for 20 minutes. Reduce the oven temperature to 375 degrees and bake until the top crust is golden brown, another 25 minutes.

Transfer the pie to a cooling rack and let cool for at least 30 minutes or to room temperature before serving.

PURE BLISS Apple Ginger Scones

Created by Nadine Mesch of Mount Healthy, Ohio

- 2 cups flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 6 tablespoons cold butter
- 2 Gala apples, peeled and finely chopped
- ½ cup candied ginger, chopped
- 1 egg
- ½ cup heavy cream
- 1½ teaspoon lemon zest
- ½ cup powdered sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Line a baking sheet with parchment paper. In a large mixing bowl combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Using a cheese grater, grate the cold butter into the flour mixture. Stir. Add chopped Gala apples and candied ginger. In a small bowl mix together the egg, cream and lemon zest. Gently mix into apple mixture. Stir until dough forms. Knead dough 6 times. Place on parchment paper, form into an 8 inch round. About 1 inch thick. Cut into 8 wedges; separate slightly.

Bake for approximately 15 minutes until just lightly golden. Cool slightly. Combine powder sugar and lemon juice, drizzle over scones.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
