Man charged with using police gear

By LeAnne Rogers
Staff Writer

A Westland man is facing charges of using flashing lights on his vehicle and fake badges, effectively impersonating a law enforcement officer.

Nathaniel Helton Jr., 71, was ordered bound over for trial on a felony count of possessing a dangerous weapon — an asp or collapsible baton — following a preliminary examination in 18th District Court on Thursday. He also is facing misdemeanor charges of possessing police badges and having police-style flashing red and blue lights on his vehicle.

Westland Police reportedly seized three vehicles with police-style lights, bumper push bars and other law enforcement type equipment from

Helton

Helton, who has pleaded not guilty.

Along with this case, which dates back to June 2013, a second set of charges are pending against Helton and were scheduled for April 30 preliminary examination. There are no allegations that Helton attempted to conduct any traffic stops or other police duties.

During the June incident, Westland Police Sgt. Nathan Macrae testified that he had gone to Stockdale's, a bar in Wayne, with a friend while off-duty. In the parking lot, he said he noticed a black Ford Crown Victoria parked illegally next to the dumpster.

With a vanity license plate of numbers with an X in the middle, Macrae said he remembered the car from a traffic stop about month earlier.

"Typically municipal plates have a small x in the middle. This plate had a capital letter," he said. "In my opinion, it was an attempt to look like a municipal plate."

Additional lights

The car also had additional lights installed that were similar to equipment on police cars, Macrae said. During the traffic stop in May, Macrae said Helton claimed to be a court officer but he suspected Helton was not truthful.

Helton was sitting at the bar, said Macrae, who followed

"The Addams Family" cast includes Grandmama (Summer Warren), Wednesday Addams (Jacquelyn Schlicht), Gomez Addams (Korey Corona), Lurch (Eric Kudlawiec), Morticia Addams (Morgan Gratwick), Pugsley Addams (Jeremy Singleton), and Uncle Fester (Kevin Booth).

Glenn thespians go Broadway with 'The Addams Family'

Tall, slim and with spiked hair, Kevin Booth admits he'll need some adjustments to transform himself into a bald, trenchcoat wearing Uncle Fester for this week's production of The Addams Family at John Glenn High School.

"I look nothing like the character in the show," Booth said. "I'm going to need gallons of stuffing and a bald cap latexed to my head. All my exposed skin will be white and I'll have black under my eyes."

A senior, Booth is appearing in "a role I knew I had to have" for his final theatrical performance at the Westland high school.

Morgan Gratwick saw herself playing Wednesday in the musical, but when the casting was done by co-directors Kevin Gidley and Belinda Walkonis-Semak, she ended up as Morticia.

"For four years, I've wanted to be Wednesday Addams, but I knew I could be a better Morticia," she said. "I looked inside myself and decided to be her. I'm glad I did it. I couldn't see myself as anyone else."

The musical will be presented at 7 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, April 16-18, at the high school on Marquette, west of Wayne Road. It's based on Charles Addams' single-panel cartoons about a ghoulish American family with an affinity for all things macabre.

Created by Marshall Brickman and Rick Elice, the musical features an original story is described as "every father's nightmare." Wednesday Addams has fallen in love with a young man from a respectable family. She confides in her father, Gomez, and asks that he doesn't tell her mother. He must do something he has never done before: keep a secret from his beloved wife Morticia. But everything changes for

Number of Wayne council openings questioned

By LeAnne Rogers
Staff Writer

Wayne voters will be selecting a mayor and four council members during upcoming elections.

At a recent council meeting, residents Chris Sanders and Ron Roberts argued that a fifth council seat should be on the ballot.

Under the new ward voting system, there will be three seats open every four years. During this election, Ward 1 will have an open seat while council members John Rhaesa and Skip Monit — whose terms are expiring — are in Wards 2 and 3, respectively.

Additionally, voters will fill the unexpired term of James Henley, who resigned in 2014, and select a mayor who will serve a two-year term. David James was appointed to fill Henley's seat until the election.

The fifth term not included would be that of James Hawley, who replaced Al Haidous as mayor. Haidous resigned midway in his two-year term after being elected Wayne County commissioner.

Hawley's council term doesn't expire until 2017. Anthony Miller was appointed to replace Hawley.

Citing the city charter and Michigan Home Rules Cities Act, Sanders said Miller's appointment is effective only until the next regular election.

'Null and void'

"There are two appointees and three wards (whose terms) are up. I believe the election will be null and void, if you

Wayne, Westland hold forum to learn about road proposal

By LeAnne Rogers
Staff Writer

It's referred to as the Roads Proposal, but Proposal 1 on the May 5 ballot entails much more than road funding.

To help voters get better informed about Proposal 1, Wayne and Westland are joining with Wayne-Westland Community Schools to hold a community forum to share information about the impact of the roads proposal on funding for both cities and the school district, if it is approved by voters.

This community forum will be held from 7-8 p.m. Wednesday, April 15, in the Grande Ballroom at Westland City Hall, 36300 Warren Road.

"I encourage everyone to attend this community forum on the roads proposal so that voters can make an informed choice when casting their ballots May 5," Westland Mayor William Wild said.

The Westland and Wayne city councils haven't taken a public position on Proposal 1. The Wayne-Westland school board passed a resolution urging voters to support the proposal, which will provide additional funding to cities and schools.

The Michigan Municipal

League will give a presentation explaining the various aspects of funding the roads proposal provides for improving Michigan's roads and other areas identified in the proposal that will benefit the cities and school district. A question-and-

Wayne Main Street hosts Building Basics Workshop

Wayne Main Street will hold an informational meeting for business and building owners at 5:30 p.m. Monday, April 13, at the Wayne Fire Station, 3300 S. Wayne Road, north of Michigan Avenue, to explain its design services program.

Wayne Main Street Executive Director Lindsey Wooten will present information about the program and show the "Building Basics" webinar by the Michigan Main Street Center.

The program is one of the services offered to Wayne Main Street as a Michigan Main Street Select Level community.

In the first five years of the program, Wayne Main Street will receive design training and consultation services by the State Historic Preservation Office to help maintain and enhance downtown Wayne's historic integrity. Individualized design assistance for facade improvements of downtown buildings is part of the Main Street Design Services.

Wayne Main Street will award up to three services per year for five years, with a maximum of 15 services. Services include a site visit by the Michigan Main Street design specialist, meeting with the property owner, schematic drawings detailing the proposed facade improvements, paint samples, example photographs and additional information needed to complete the work. Each service is valued at $2,000-$3,000.

The application deadline for design services is May 22. To be eligible for this service, the property owner/business owner must attend the Building Basics Workshop. The workshop will educate attendees on the Main Street program and its Four Point Approach to downtown revitalization. This will be the only time this webinar will be presented this year.

Information will also be given on how to apply for design services and what must be included with the application. US 12 Bar and Grill, Dairy Queen and one other property on Wayne Road were awarded design services last year.

The Michigan Main Street Center @ MSHDA also has announced that downtown Wayne will receive a communications planning service. Wayne Main Street was awarded the service after a competitive application process late last year. The communications planning, scheduled to be completed before 2016, will focus on audience, capacity and current and potential resources to strengthen the awareness of downtown Wayne and the Wayne Main Street program.

The service is provided by the Michigan Main Street Center @ MSHDA through its partnership with the National Main Street Center. Jay Schlinsog from Downtown Professionals Network will be working with MMS staff and Wayne Main Street to provide custom community development strategies for the community.

"This is one of the many great benefits of being a Main Street community," Wooten said.

For more information on Wayne Main Street's communication planning service or Wayne Main Street and how to get involved with future projects, contact the Main Street office at 734-629-6822 or visit downtownwayne.org.

answer session will follow the presentation.

If approved, Proposal 1 would:

- » Eliminate the sales and use tax on vehicle gasoline and diesel fuel.
- » Increase the state's sales tax from 6 percent to 7 percent.

- » Dedicate 60 percent of the first 5 percent of the sales tax and an amount equal to 12.3 percent of the first 5 percent of the use tax to the School Aid Fund. Currently, 60 percent of the first 4 percent of the sales tax is earmarked for the fund.

- » Provide for the School Aid Fund to be used exclusively for aid to public K-12 and community colleges and eliminate universities as an allowable use for the fund.

- » Dedicate 15 percent of the sales tax to be used for revenue sharing with townships, cities and villages. Currently, 15 percent of the first 4 percent is earmarked for revenue sharing with local governments.

- » Increase the fuel tax to 41.7 cents per gallon from 19 cents per gallon of gasoline and 15 cents per gallon of diesel.

- » Remove the depreciation discount for annual vehicle registration fees.

The House Fiscal Agency has estimated that the sales tax increase would generate more than $1.6 billion per year, with $1.2 billion going toward roads, $130 million to mass transit, $300 million to the school aid fund and $95 million to local governments.

Westland estimates that Proposal 1 would result in higher than the currently projected 3-percent annual increases in state shared revenues. Additional local road funding due to Proposal 1 for Westland is estimated at $1 million the first year, increasing to over $3 million in 2017-18.

Also on the May 5 ballot, Wayne voters are being asked to approve establishment of a separate P.A. 345 police and fire retirement system along with 3 mills funding to be levied for five years. The measure would free up about $1 million in general fund revenues for the city, projected to have a $2 million deficit in 2015-16.

the family when they host a dinner party for Wednesday's "normal" boyfriend and his parents.

"This show is fun. The Addams family is an unusual group, and the humor is great," Gidley said. "I've enjoyed it with all of its little innuendos. The kids wanted to do it last year, but the rights hadn't come out. Morgan really pushed for it, so we looked into it."

Bit of Broadway

Gidley wanted students to try their hand at something big like The Addams Family, a Broadway show. The hope always is that it will be "better than Broadway," and Gidley believes the students have stepped up to that challenge.

Auditions were held in late January and have been rehearsing 2-3 hours four days a week, working around mid-winter recess in February and last week's spring break. The challenge now is the production dates. The curtain goes up on a matinee performance Wednesday, just three days after they return from spring break. As a result, dress and technical rehearsals had to be held a week early.

"They should know everything. They should know their lines and their blocking before they go off on spring break so they can practice that," Gidley said. "Some are planning to go on trips, some are planning to get together to practice.

Their first show will be the Wednesday matinee for the seniors."

The play is student-driven with many of the students creating their own costumes. Booth dressed up his black overcoat by putting fur on the collar and adding oversized buttons for his role as Uncle Fester. It's a role he knew he had to have. When he read the lines, it reminded him of the senile old pirate, Uncle Charlie, he played in the fall production his junior year.

"I didn't know what I'd look like as Uncle Fester, and I ended up being taller than most of the cast," he said.

In addition to his role in the play, he also is one of the two student directors. Gratwick is filling the other position. He's the behind-the-scenes person, working offstage with the cast with their lines and as the vocal coach. This is Booth's second stint as an assistant director. His first experience doing it was "so great," he wants to sure those coming up behind him see that and step up to the role.

As the assistant director, Gratwick is the on-stage person, helping the actors with their performances and in blocking the dance moves. She admits she fell in love with the musical her freshman year.

"It's symbolic that I found it my freshman year and am performing it at the end of my career," she said. "It's a perfect way to go out. This is my favorite show. I loved Totally Awesome '80s, but hands down this is the one I love."

don't change it," Sanders said.

"The city charter doesn't allow for reappointment (of an appointed council member). Mr. Miller has to run or not," Roberts said. "You can't hold it based on whether Hawley is elected (as mayor) or not."

The city charter includes the Netter amendment, which established the mayor as a separately elected position rather than a post filled from among council members.

While the charter has language addressing how a council vacancy is filled, there is no such language on replacing the mayor, City Attorney Keith Madden said. Despite being separately elected, he noted that the mayor votes and participates in the same manner as council members.

"Election of the mayor by council is still in there (the charter). The council can vote for one of themselves or anyone as mayor," Madden said. "They still fill the vacancy on the council."

Appointed to serve as mayor until the election, Madden said Hawley has two roles: acting mayor and councilman. As a result, he said if Hawley doesn't run for mayor or runs but isn't elected, he resumes his seat as councilman.

If Hawley were to be elected mayor, Madden said the council would need to make an appointment to fill the two years remaining on his council term.

The Wayne City Clerk's Office is accepting nominating petitions for mayor and the four council seats. Candidates must live in Wards 1, 2, 3 and run for a four-year term or file for the at large seat, which has a two-year term. The filing deadline is 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 21.

when the defendant left the bar driving the Crown Victoria. Helton headed north on Wayne Road, then west on Palmer, followed by Macrae.

As they crossed Newburgh, Macrae said a white sedan was stopped in the roadway and a male got out of the passenger door apparently having a dispute with others in the car.

"The Crown Vic had turned on red and blue flashing lights from the rear window," Macrae said. "They looked like police lights."

The sedan pulled into parking lot briefly, then headed north on Newburgh before heading west on Avondale. Thinking there might an assault or other crime happening, Macrae said he followed the sedan.

A short time later as he turned onto westbound Avondale, Macrae said a spotlight hit his rear view mirror and he saw red and blue flashing lights.

"I pulled over on the shoulder, I believed it was a police car trying to get past me," Macrae said. "As it passed, I recognized the plate as Helton's. I'm not sure of his intentions, but he was driving and using the lights in a way typical of a police officer."

Using his cell phone, Macrae contacted an on-duty Westland police officer who went to Helton's home on Edwin. The Crown Victoria was parked at the home, and it was seized, Macrae said.

Doing an inventory of the vehicle contents, Macrae testified to finding eight badges reading court officer or sheriff's deputy. Specifically, two listed 36th District Court in Detroit and Third Circuit Court in Detroit, he said. In addition, officers found the asp and flex ties used as handcuffs.

Challenges officer

Representing Helton, former assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Convertino at one point accused Macrae of conducting a vendetta against his client.

Convertino questioned Macrae about a Thanksgiving Day 2009 traffic accident in which Helton hit and killed a pedestrian. Macrae assisted more senior officers in investigating the accident in which Helton was found not at fault.

There were also many questions from Convertino about the May 2013 traffic stop. Judge Sandra Cicirelli several times questioned the relevance of testimony about that incident, which wasn't the subject of the charges, telling Convertino to move on.

After lengthy questioning about the June incident, Cicirelli told Convertino the questioning was repetitive.

Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Ryan Lukiewski objected to comments and questions from Convertino apparently challenging the validity of the search warrant, noting that needed to come at an evidentiary hearing at circuit court.

Third Livonia resident set to hike Appalachian Trail

By David Veselenak
Staff Writer

The Appalachian Mountains are starting to get crowded with Livonia residents.

A third Livonia resident will attempt to hike the entirety of one of the most famous nature trails in North America.

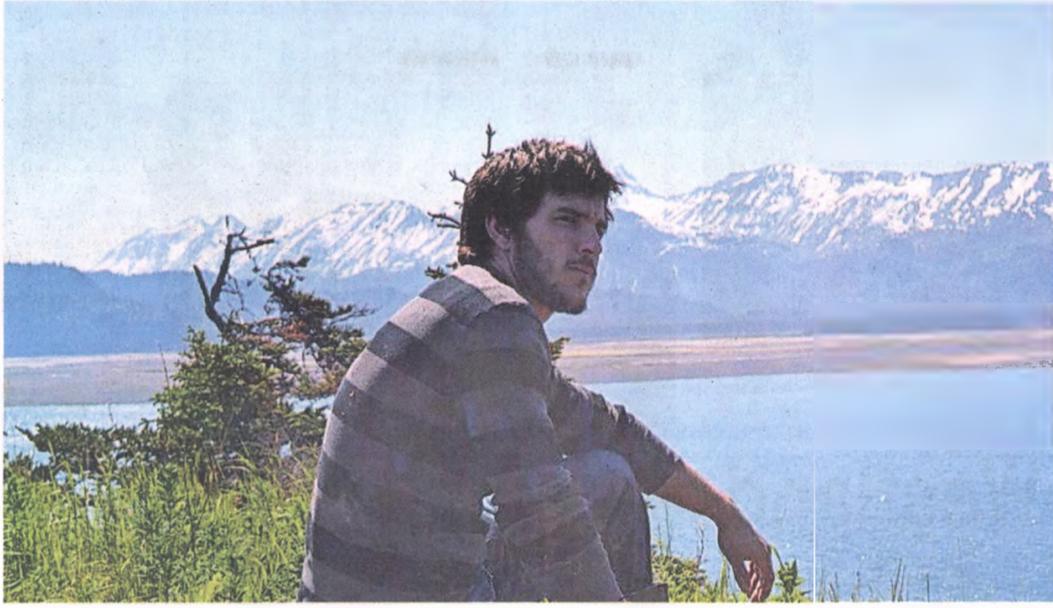

Joe Steckel, 23, is heading to Georgia on Wednesday to begin hiking the Appalachian Trail. He said he hopes to complete the trail — on his own — in five months.

"I really wanted to do it for the past three years since I first learned about it," said Steckel, a Franklin High School and Michigan State University graduate. "I just like a good challenge."

Steckel said his decision to hike the trail solo has surprised some people.

He made the decision after deciding he wanted to make the trip more of a personal discovery mission and to prove to himself that he can do it.

"For me, I think it's more of a personal journey to sort of get away from my day-to-day life," he said. "It's more of a personal challenge as opposed to competing."

Joe Steckel, a Livonia resident seen here in Alaska, is beginning to hike the Appalachian Trail on Wednesday.

He'll be several hundred miles behind two other Livonia residents currently hiking the trail: Churchill High School graduates Quinn Osgood and Ryan Keeling began hiking the Appalachian Trail at the beginning of March. As of last Monday, they had logged more than 600 miles and were in Virginia, according to their social media postings.

Steckel said he got to know both Keeling and Osgood better after meeting them at the Livonia Community Recreation Center. He said he joined them on one of their practice hikes on the Superior Hiking Trail in northeastern Minnesota several months back.

Steckel said he's kept tabs on the two as they hike along the trail and has gotten some pointers for when he begins.

"Every picture they post they seem to have smiles on their faces," he said.

The Appalachian Trail

runs for about 2,200 miles from Georgia to Maine.

About 25 percent of "thru-hikers" — those who attempt to complete the trail in a 12-month period — actually complete it.

Steckel said in addition to keeping fit, he's worked to keep mentally strong, especially because he will be on his own during the trek. He said he's looking forward to seeing several areas along the trail, including Pennsylvania, an area he's never been to.

"I think that will be an exciting time," he said. "That's where the trail begins to get tough again."

Similar to Keeling and Osgood, Steckel will share some of his experience on various social networks. Those interested in following him can do so on Twitter @TheJosephJames, as well as by adding "JosephJames22" on Instagram and Snapchat.

Family and friends have been supportive of his work to prepare, he said. He said his girlfriend plans to try and join him along some parts of the trail when she can fly out, and his brother will help coordinate dropping items off at base camps.

Even his employer, a local food and feed supplier, has supported him. "Everyone's been very supportive," Steckel said. "I couldn't be happier."

Presbyterian Village CEO to speak at Madonna

The McManus Distinguished Business Lecture at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Madonna University's Kresge Hall will feature Roger Myers, President and CEO of Presbyterian Villages of Michigan (PVM).

His lecture, "Entrepreneurial Ventures for the Senior Market," is hosted by Madonna University's School of Business and Madonna's Aging Studies Department, both of which celebrate 40 years of academic excellence this year. He will share his expertise

Myers

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Myers has led PVM since 1992. His work has contributed to public policy initiatives that have improved quality of life for Michigan seniors.

Under Myers' entrepreneurial leadership, PVM, a nonprofit founded in 1945, has grown from five locations to 25; eight of which are in Detroit. Currently he is working with other Detroit leaders to prevent the displacement of seniors as new development occurs. The company serves more than 4,300 seniors of all faiths across Michigan.

Thome Rivertown Neighborhood, the newest venture for PVM, has been recognized as a national model of collaboration.

Wayne-Westland students hit books for Reading Month

March was National Reading Month, and students throughout the Wayne-Westland Community Schools were hitting the books.

Schools planned activities to get students reading and even brought in guest readers. State Rep. Robert Kosowski, D-Westland, stopped by Wildwood Elementary School on March 20 to read The Tooth Book to Heather Hamilton and Mary Devine's kindergarten class.

"Visiting classrooms and reading to kids is one of the best parts of my job," Kosowski said. "Instilling a love of reading in children sets them up for a lifetime of success."

Wayne-Westland School Superintendent Michele Harmala also stopped by Edison Elementary School to read to students in Elsbeth Schweit-zer's kindergarten class and Melanee Hirvela's second-grade class.

Among the activities held at schools throughout the district was a PJ, Book and Blanket Day at Hamilton Elementary where the school-wide goal is to read 200,000 minutes. If students reach or exceed that goal, Principal Katie Booth will cut and donate 6 inches of her hair and read from the roof of the school.

Elliott Elementary held its annual ELA night in honor of the school's March is Reading Month celebrations. This year the students read the book, Miss Alaineus, A Vocabulary Disaster, written and illustrated by Debra Frasier.

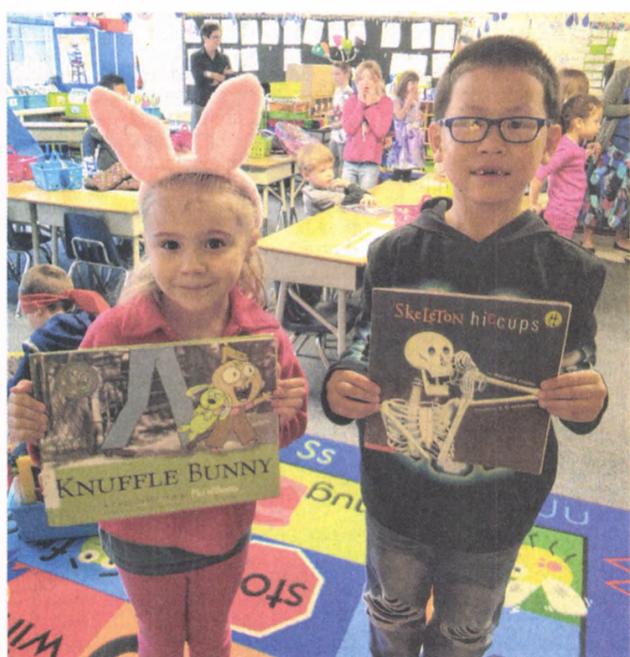

The Vocabulary Parade described in the book looked like so much fun, Elliott decided to host their own science-themed Vocabulary Parade.

"The turnout was amazing, and the students did a wonderful job dressing up like grade-level science vocabulary words," staffer Debbie Ritchie. "Some examples included water, flower, mammal, temperature, the five senses, and light."

In addition to guest readers and a family reading night, Edison got "Wild about Reading" with a Vocabulary Parade in which students are encouraged to dress like a vocabulary word and dress like their favorite book character for a Dress like Your Favorite Storybook Character Day.

And Walker-Winter Elementary in Canton had a baseball theme for Reading Month. Students who complete the weekly reading log moved to the next base on the ball diamond outside of their classroom. Those who earned a home run got to eat hot dogs at the Run the Bases Celebration that was held Monday. The top two readers from each classroom also won a free book and gathered together for a free pizza party.

At Edison Elementary School, students and staff were encouraged to dress like their favorite storybook character to celebrate National Reading Month in March. Paityn Wright dressed for "Knuffle Bunny" and Shenhao Deng for "Skeleton Hiccups." They're students in Claire Jones' first-grade class. WWCSO

New service gets Livonia veterans to their medical appointments

Livonia veterans having trouble getting to appointments at the V.A. Hospital in Ann Arbor are about to get some help.

Livonia Community Transit (LCT) is expanding its service in an effort to assist qualifying veterans who need to get to the hospital for various appointments. LCT has begun a service that will take veterans to Westland, where they'll be able to board a shuttle bus to Ann Arbor.

"We were specifically looking to improve our service to our veterans," said Donna McDowell, co-director of Community Resources for the City of Livonia. "This program offers veterans access to additional transportation services. It will allow us to better serve this important part of our population."

The program evolved from a 2012 grant the city received through the Federal Transit Authority and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) that allowed for software updates and the chance to build out the transportation program.

The service is much like what LCT offers seniors and the disabled. For a $2 fee, veterans can be picked up at their home and driven to the Westland pickup point.

U.S. Army veteran Henry Mitchell and his wife, Wanda, rode the shuttle on its maiden ride. Mitchell, who served in Korea in 1954, found the service to be very convenient.

"Sometimes I may not be able to drive to my appointment in Ann Arbor," Mitchell said. "Having the bus available, for just $2, is very nice."

The VA shuttle departs Westland three times a day: at 8:50 a.m., 1:15 p.m. and 5:10 p.m.

"Our veterans have served their country with honor," said Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey, himself a U.S. Air Force veteran. "We're proud that we can offer this expanded service to help meet their needs."

Veterans must qualify in one of four ways:

- » Be qualified for the property tax relief credit for disabled veterans available through the city;
- » Be referred by the V.A. Hospital;
- » Be disabled;
- » Prove a financial hardship.

For more information or to make a reservation, call 734-466-2700.

Army veteran Henry Mitchell and his wife, Wanda, were the first riders on Livonia Community Transportation's new service, which gets veterans to Westland in order to catch a shuttle to Ann Arbor.

Beware of real estate seminars that use high-pressure sales tactics

Q: Dear Rick: I lost my job a couple years ago. I looked at franchises; however, the ones that I liked were too expensive. Last week, I heard an ad on the radio that talked about getting involved in the real estate business. I contacted the company and I'm going to a seminar to see what's involved. They basically say that you can get involved in real estate and buy homes with no money down and make a substantial amount of money without risk. Do you think this is legitimate? Can you actually buy homes with no money or very little money down?

A: Over the years I have heard many ads with regard to real estate. They are basically the same – saying you can buy real estate without any money down and explain how easy and profitable it can be. These companies offer free seminars where they talk about their system. They try to sell you their methodology. Typically, it is on the sale of their methodology – books, DVDs or whatever they're selling – where these companies make their money.

Rick Bloom

I know people who have gone to these seminars and have purchased the materials. However, I don't know anyone who has done this and who has been successful.

Typically, these seminars show you all sorts of success stories and then put pressure on you to buy their system.

I don't like these seminars because I don't want to be pressured. You have to realize when you go to one of these seminars you're dealing with professionals. These people are very good at selling their products. Even people who go to these seminars stating in advance that they won't buy anything tend to fold under the pressure.

I don't mean to suggest that you can't make money in real estate. There are many people who have done very well in the real estate industry. However, those people who have been successful will tell you it is not easy or simple.

Real estate is no different than any other business. If you don't know what you're doing and you don't have the expertise, it can be a very costly proposition.

Can you buy homes for no money down? Yes. Federal agencies that have foreclosed on homes offer a variety of programs to buy without a down payment. However, the problem is: What sort of condition these houses are in and how much it will cost to repair them?

If you decide to attend the seminar, make sure you go with your eyes wide open.

Good luck.

Davenport launches master of accountancy

Grand Rapids-based Davenport University, which has a campus in Livonia, will launch a new Master of Accountancy degree program in its 2015 fall semester.

This program is one of only a handful across the country to offer graduate-level concentrations in fraud investigation, managerial accounting and internal auditing. Students entering the program may choose from multiple tracks that culminate in preparation courses for the Certified Public Accountant (CPA), Certified Management Accountant (CMA), Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE) or Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) exams, or that focus more broadly on a general accountancy or finance emphasis. If a student already possesses one of these certifications, he or she can earn credit and have a shorter time to completion.

Applications are currently being accepted for classes beginning fall 2015. For more information, call 800-686-1600 or visit davenport.edu.

Evans highlights county's challenges

Wayne County Executive Warren C. Evans will host a series of Community Updates to highlight the fiscal challenges faced by the county and provide an update on solutions to move the county forward.

In addition to the traditional State of the County, these Community Updates provide the platform for Evans to directly engage with the community by allowing a question-and-answer period. Department directors will also be present to answer questions and provide resources.

To make attendance convenient for constituents, the four updates will be hosted by the Wayne County Community College District campuses in Detroit, Taylor and Belleville.

The four meetings, each 6-7:30 p.m., will be Tuesday, April 14, in the Cooper Conference Room on the WCCCD Eastern Campus at 5901 Conner St., Detroit; Thursday, April 16, in the Ray Mix Room East 126 on the Downriver Campus, 21000 Northline, Taylor; Tuesday, April 21, in the atrium of the Denise Wellons-Glover Welcome Center on the WCCCD Northwest Campus, 8200 W. Outer Dr., Detroit; and Thursday, April 23, in the Ted C. Scott Multi-Purpose Room on the WCCCD Western Campus at 9555 Haggerty Road, Belleville.

Evans

The Western Campus meeting is for residents living in Redford, Livonia, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth Township, Canton, Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Inkster, Romulus, Belleville, Dearborn Heights and Sumpter, Huron and Van Buren townships.

WWII veteran couldn't wait to get out of school, join Navy

Stanley L. Trybus had to get his dad's permission to enlist in the Navy at age 17.

World War II veteran Stanley L. Trybus of Livonia was honored as the April "Veteran of the Month" by the Sons of the American Legion Squadron of the Myron H. Beals American Legion Post 32 in Livonia.

Trybus served in the U.S. Navy from 1945 to 1950. In the spring of 1945 the war had been raging for more than three years and Trybus, a student at Cass Tech, was itching to get into the action to defend his country and way of life. Patriotism and morale were high, and the country was anxious to end the war.

On April 17, 1945, Trybus turned 17. Three weeks later, on May 8, the war in Europe ended and Japanese cities were under heavy attack by air. In June, U.S. ground troops were still fighting on Okinawa and Trybus was now on summer break from school and determined to enter the military. Because of his age, he was required by law to have his father authorize his enlistment into the Navy. Proudly his father did so with no hesitation, for he had also served in the Navy. On June 19, 1945, he received acceptance into the Naval Station Great Lakes (NAVSTA Great Lakes) located near North Chicago, Ill. By Aug. 28, 1945, Trybus had completed his training, receiving the Rate Insignia as an S2c, Seaman 2nd Class (World War II).

On Sept. 11, 1945, he was stationed at the San Bruno, Calif., naval base. On July 20, 1946, he re-enlisted to complete four years of service as a Class V-6 in active duty under Commandant 9th Naval District. During his years of service, he was aboard the U.S.S.

Melvin DD-680 Fletcher-Class Destroyer in the Pacific theater. He was responsible for radio maintenance and communications. He received an honorable discharge July 19, 1950.

Trybus is a member of the American Legion, Post 32 and retired from Ford Motor Co. as a senior design engineer.

On April 7, Stanley's daughter, Linda Michels, attended the S.A.L. meeting representing her father who could not attend due to illness. She related the story of her father's time in the service and was then presented a plaque with his picture and service information. An additional plaque is also on display in the vestibule of the American Legion Hall during the month of April.

The S.A.L. invites local residents to attend its monthly meetings to hear about the Veteran of the Month. The public is also encouraged to nominate veterans to be honored at its meetings. Nomination forms can be picked up at the American Legion Hall, 9318 Newburgh Road, Livonia.

Beaumont's Myoelectric Center changes child's life for the better

Just like most 5-year-olds, Shreyas Ikare never stops moving, exploring and playing. He was born without a hand, wrist or a portion of his forearm, but he refuses to let that hold him back.

Sudhir Ikare, Shreyas' father, said, "When he was born, the first thing that kept running through my mind was, 'How am I going to help him?'"

Shreyas and his parents recently moved to Novi from India. He has been wearing a non-functional prosthetic hand since age 2.

"We all have problems. We come across problems. After a period of time, we should get over that and look into the future," Sudhir Ikare said.

Ikare remembers the

first time he met Dabrowski. "I was like, 'Wow! This is what I have been looking for,'" he said.

Dabrowski said, "This has been the best kept secret in the United States. Hopefully, we're going to be changing that."

Dabrowski has decades of experience working with children and myoelectric arms. Beaumont is one of the only places in the country with this kind of program.

"It was really natural and he grasped it so fast that it was really awesome. We really didn't have to teach him a lot," Ikare said. "They made it really simple. Now, he is really happy. He is working it out every day."

Shreyas goes to the Beaumont Health Center on a regular basis for occupational therapy to teach him the bilateral use of both arms.

"We're retraining the brain to use the myoelectric arm and normalize it as much as possible. The goal is for the child to use both arms for play and in daily activities," said Manjula Amarnath, Beaumont Children's Hospital occupational therapist.

Shreyas Ikare with Manjula Amarnath, Beaumont Children's Hospital occupational therapist.

Shreyas Ikare has been wearing a non-functional prosthetic hand since age 2.

Insurance pays for some of the cost, but a partnership with Variety the Children's Charity-Detroit covers the gap insurance doesn't cover.

"Without Variety, this program would not be viable. The funding makes a huge difference," Dabrowski said. Shreyas' mother, Ro-hini Bhoir, said: "I would recommend to all parents to go forward and look into this, because it's going to help your kid."

Livonia resident earns national Girl Scouts award

Suzanne Misiaszek of Livonia received a National Volunteer Award from Girl Scouts of Southeastern Michigan (GSSEM) during a banquet March 21 in Troy. National awards are presented to volunteers who contributed outstanding service while partnering directly with girls to implement the Girl Scout Leadership Experience (GSLE), or who have gone beyond expectations in supporting GSSEM's mission-delivery goals in one or more functional areas including Membership, Volunteer Relations and Fund Development. Misiaszek received the Volunteer of Excellence Award. Misiaszek serves as a Community Events Coordinator and is known for going above and beyond in her desire to provide quality leadership experiences to girls. She places a strong emphasis on building sisterhood within her community and throughout the Council. Her energy and drive have helped her in her efforts to recruit and mentor new event directors.

Fellow volunteers, or GSSEM staff who can vouch for their "above and beyond the call of duty" level of service to girls and other adult volunteers in the GSSEM service area must nominate all honorees. "Volunteers represent one of the best parts of all Girl Scouting has to offer," said Denise Dalrymple, CEO of GSSEM.

"Whether in direct service to girls, in support of other adults who directly serve girls, or in helping to guide our Council administrative decisions and policies which impact how we serve girls, volunteers' contribution help to move communities, our country, and even the world forward. They significantly help to advance the Girl Scout mission to build girls of courage, confidence and character who make the world a better place." GSSEM serves more than 36,000 girls and adult volunteers in Oakland, Macomb, Genesee, St. Clair, Sanilac, and parts of Wayne, Monroe and Livingston counties.

U-M student, advocates: Sexual assault on campus prevalent

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Laurel Ruza, a senior at the University of Michigan, thinks her Ann Arbor campus takes sexual assault seriously, based on her advocacy work with U-M administrators. "I think the university is really trying to take steps to improve campus safety," said Ruza, a 2011 West Bloomfield High School graduate who'll complete her bachelor's degree in public policy this spring. "I think more can be done," Ruza said. "They're definitely willing to listen to student voices on this issue." Sexual assault on college campuses is the focus of this year's Sexual Assault Awareness Month. Representatives from the National Sexual Violence Resource Center, The Hunting Ground film, the "It's On Us" campaign, the University of Michigan Sexual Assault Prevention and Awareness Center and the Michigan Coalition To End

Domestic and Sexual Violence held a conference call April 9 on the issue. Call participants included The Hunting Ground director Kirby Dick, "It's On Us" U-M student organizer Ruza, NSVRC prevention campaign specialist Laura Palumbo, University of Michigan SAPAC director Holly Rider-Milkovich and MCEDSV senior program manager Lisa Winchell-Caldwell. Ruza's internships include work with the U.S. Justice Department in Washington, D.C., as well as being an advocacy intern with Jewish Women International, also in D.C. "The solution begins with us," Ruza said in her remarks. She and others at U-M organized a three-day series of roundtables, recognizing sexual violence impacts those of all ethnic groups, races and genders. "I wanted to make sure we had as many voices in the room as possible," Ruza said. "We wanted to focus on what we as students can do to facilitate this cultural shift." Many U-M students have told her they'd like more related programming. Ruza cited collaboration with student groups and with administrators. "Everybody has a role to play in the prevention of sexual assaults," she said, including active intervention. Palumbo said, "We believe everyone has a role to play in ending sexual assault. Our hope is that educational efforts will reach far beyond April."

Laurel Ruza is pleased with progress on sexual assault awareness at the University of Michigan, but would like to see more done. She's a senior at U-M and 2011 West Bloomfield High School graduate.

"I wanted to make sure we had as many voices in the room as possible. We wanted to focus on what we as students can do to facilitate this cultural shift."

LAUREL RUZA, senior at the University of Michigan

Campus sexual violence has drawn attention and this year's SAAM campaign is expected to be the most far-reaching since it was officially first observed in April 2001. During the conference call, speakers discussed the need for investigation and adjudication of campus crimes, with measures to stop sexual predators. "We want our students to be giving verbal, sober, enthusiastic consent (to sex)," Rider-Milkovich said. "That's something we are striving for as a future goal. We are not there yet. What we need to do is to continue to work toward that." The film's Dick also called on college/university presidents to step forward and speak up on sexual assault concerns. The Hunting Ground, an exposé of sexual assault on U.S. campuses, and "It's On Us," a campaign launched by the White House and Generation Progress in September as an effort to engage all in ending campus sexual assault, have joined forces during this year's SAAM campaign to bring increased attention to the issue. The Hunting Ground was to be shown April 9 at U-M. "I think it is important to have difficult conversations to get to the heart of this issue," Rider-Milkovich said. "We're really excited to have the film come to campus."

Local blood drives help meet critical need in southeast Michigan

The American Red Cross is encouraging eligible blood donors to make a difference in the lives of patients this spring by giving blood. Donated blood is perishable and must be constantly replenished to keep up with the demand. Red blood cells, with a shelf life of only 42 days, are the most frequently transfused blood component, and are always needed by hospitals. Eligible donors can give red cells through either a regular whole blood donation or a double red cell donation, where available. Double red cell donations yield twice the usual amount of red cells in a single appointment and are accepted at select donation locations. Double red cell donors must meet additional eligibility criteria, which will be determined at the donation appointment. Donors with all blood types are needed, especially those with types O negative, A negative and B negative. Whole blood can be donated every 56 days, and double red cells may be donated every 112 days, up to three times per year. To find a donation opportunity or make an appointment to give blood, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). Upcoming blood donation opportunities include: Livonia — 6 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. April 16 at St. Mary Mercy Hospital, 36475 Five Mile. Plymouth — 2:30 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. April 16, at Bird Elementary School, 220 N. Sheldon; 1 p.m.-6:45 p.m. April 20 at the Church of Christ Plymouth, 9301 Sheldon, and 1:30-7:15 p.m. April 27 at VFW Post 6695 Plymouth, 1426 S. Mill St. Redford — 3-8:45 p.m. April 22 at Jane Addams Elementary School, 14025 Berwyn St. Westland — 8 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. April 19 at Divine Savior Catholic Church, 39375 Joy, and 8 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. April 26 at Ss. Simon and Jude Catholic Church, 32500 Palmer. Blood donations also can be made at American Red Cross Blood

Donation Centers. They include: Bloomfield Blood Donation Center at 4190 S. Telegraph, Bloomfield. Hours are 12:45-6:45 p.m. Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. Prom time for a good cause

Pull out your old gowns, it's time for Mom Prom

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

Every woman eventually faces a conundrum in her life — what to do with the old prom gowns and, of course, what about those bridesmaid dresses?

If you are Betsy Crapps, you build a girls night out around the old gowns and turn the event into what has become a national charity effort known as Mom Prom.

"My mom had been cleaning out the family home. One year, she came over with my old prom dresses," said the former Canton resident and director of religious education at St. Thomas a'Beckett Catholic Church.

"Right away I knew where I would wear them — an Oscar party," said Crapps of South Lyon.

She and her friends dressed in their gowns of a former era, dined and danced. "We had complete strangers asking if they could take pictures of us," she added.

That was 10 years ago. Crapps and her friends are continuing the tradition with the annual Mom Prom 8-11 p.m. Saturday, April 25, at St. Thomas a'Beckett. The event is no longer spanking new, but the charities Crapps and about 100 women pick are. Tickets are $35 in advance and $40 at the door. For tickets, email to themomprom@yahoo.com.

To see all of the other planned Mom Proms around the country this year, go to www.momprom.org.

This year, money from the Plymouth-Canton Mom Prom will be given to MaxYourBrain.org, which raises money for Mott's Children's Hospital. It is a charity established by local residents Max Merget and his parents, Nina and Rob.

Max was first diagnosed with brain cancer when he was 3. He is now cancer-free, but continues to want to help others who are battling brain cancer. The foundation was created two years ago, when Max was a Salem High School senior.

"We are thrilled that the Mom Prom chose Max's fund to raise money for this year. Max works hard to get information out about supporting cancer research so other young people can hopefully avoid going through the years of surgeries and treatments that he has gone through," Nina Merget said.

And no doubt Mom Prom will raise money for MaxYourBrain. For all of the Mom Proms across the country — that started with the Canton event — hundreds of thousands of dollars have been raised for good causes.

In 2013 alone, Mom Proms raised $200,000 for charity, Crapps said.

"It has gone national. We were even mocked on Saturday Night Live (by Seth Meyers)," she added.

So while raising money for a good cause, the moms — and you don't have to be a mom or even wear a prom dress to attend — share laughter, talk, dancing, food and music.

Monica Capilla of Canton, who is on the prom committee, plans to wear her original prom gown. "It is just a fun night," she said. "Betsy is awesome. It is for charity."

Anne Truax, assistant religious education director at St. Thomas a'Beckett, plans to wear her mother-of-the-bride gown and probably a big hairdo. Lisa Campos-DeWitt expects to wear a borrowed dress. Her sister, Rebecca Johnson — both are Canton residents — last went to her 1993 prom.

"I have them (dresses) in a big box. And that's where they will stay," Johnson said. "What I thought was good back then ..."

Admittedly, Campos-DeWitt doesn't like dressing up. But it's for a good cause: "It's once a year with no kids, no husbands." And as Truax said, "it's better than just cutting a check. You can go in and just dance."

But speaking of husbands and kids, they are left at home. The girls, after all, just want to have fun. But there are a couple of men in attendance. This year, Prince Harry and actor Jim Parsons of the Big Bang Theory TV show will be on hand. Oh, but they aren't real. They are life-sized cardboard cutouts, but, nonetheless, handsome.

"There's just some

nights when we want to be with our girlfriends," Crapps said.

The Mom Prom will boast a silent auction, music by Diana Korte of Silver Sounds and some fun contests. A prom queen will be chosen and the ladies can compete in the Tackiest Dress Contest and the Aqua Net Contest for the biggest 1980s hairdo. There will also likely be a dollar dance.

Typically, the Mom Prom draws some 150 women. Tickets are still available, but you have to be at least 21 years old to attend. "You really don't have to be a mom," Crapps said.

And spoken like a woman who has painfully partied in dressy, high heels, Crapps added, "We usually wear tennis shoes or flip flops."

Gov. Warner Mansion fashion show set to wow

Vintage and modern fashions will be the focus of "Fashions Then and Now," the seventh annual spring fundraiser fashion show for the Gov. Warner Mansion, Farmington's museum of local history.

The event is scheduled for Tuesday, May 12, at the Huron River Hunting and Fishing Club, located at 22575 Farmington Road. Doors will open at 11 a.m. for boutique shopping. Before lunch, guests will also have the opportunity to enter in a raffle to win prizes donated by local businesses and artisans.

Narrating the show will be guest speaker Lynn Anderson, fashion curator at the traveling exhibit "Fashion and the Automobile: An Exhibit in 10 Eras." At the conclusion of each decade, she will provide styling tips on how to incorporate the glamor of by-gone days into a unique wardrobe for the 21st century.

During the show, live models will dazzle guests with a stunning array of vintage gowns, starting with the hoop skirts and crinolines of the Victorian era and traveling through time to highlight the elegant Edwardians, the carefree flappers of the Roaring '20s, the glamorous gowns of the DIRK VAN DEN MUIJSEBERG Vintage outfits, like these worn by Erica Reaves and Tracy Freeman in last year's show, will be modeled.

SUBMITTED Speaker Lynn Anderson is fashion curator at the traveling exhibit "Fashion and the Automobile: An Exhibit in 10 Eras."

1930s ... all the way up through the 1970s.

The theme reflects the Mansion's historic prominence: built in 1867, it served as home to Farmington's only Michigan governor from 1905-1911.

"Since we represent a historical museum, it seems fitting that we should have a show to highlight vintage and historic clothing," Warner Mansion director Jean Schornick said.

Tickets are $40, with $21 being tax deductible, and must be purchased in advance. Call 248-474-5500, Ext. 2225, for information and reservations. Seating is limited, so plan to purchase your tickets early, especially if planning to sit with a group.

The Gov. Warner Mansion is located at 33805 Grand River Ave., two blocks west of Farmington Road. For more information, visit Facebook or www.ci.farmington.mi.us, or call the Farmington City Clerk's Office at 248-474-5500, Ext. 2225.

MUSCLE INJURY

How does it happen? Injuries occur working in a garden, a slip and fall on the sidewalk, a tumble down the stairs. The injuries that come to mind are bruises or broken bones, but muscles experience injury too. In most instances a muscle injury means a tendon that is frayed, ripped or ruptured, but the muscle itself, called the muscle belly, can tear.

In some instances a muscle tear can make itself known by a sudden searing pain. In that case what has occurred is that the tear caused a muscle artery to bleed. The result is a sudden swelling of the muscle belly; it is the unexpected expansion of muscle that causes the intense pain. A doctor can determine that bleeding into the muscle has occurred because signs of bleeding, called ecchymoses appear in the skin surrounding the muscle.

More often the torn muscle does not show such evidence of injury. The tear usually starts with an ache or intermittent pain that worsens over days as the tear develops its boundaries and depth. What brings a person to seek medical care is that the pain stays.

By examining the painful arm or leg, a doctor can determine that no broken bone is present, and further examination can evaluate that no injury to the nerve has occurred.

When the doctor is assured that the problem is a muscle tear he needs to inform the patient that healing can take a long time, by that statement the doctor means months; six to eight months is not an unusual healing period. The delay occurs because a person uses muscles every day. Healing proceeds slowly though. Heat and massage help. However, patience is the most important aspect of therapy.

State reps Greig, Love discuss veterans legislation at VFW Post

State Reps. Leslie Love, D-Detroit, and Christine Greig, D-Farmington Hills visited VFW Post 345 in Redford earlier this month to outline recent changes in state laws that affect veterans and to inform them of ongoing efforts to support the men and women who served our country.

"It was an honor to visit with our veterans at one of the most active VFW posts in our area and bring them up-to-date on things happening in Lansing that will affect them," Love said. "While I'm encouraged that our state has taken so many steps to help our veterans, I know there is still a lot of work to be done, and I will work hard to honor them in Lansing."

During the tour, the representatives discussed current initiatives and issues, including Senate Bill 155, which would give a $4,000 tax credit to businesses that hire a veteran, veterans' access to service dogs, property tax exemptions for surviving spouses of Michigan veterans (HB 4238), barriers that female veterans face and general sales tax exemption on the fundraising sale of personal property by a veterans organization.

"These men and women have sacrificed so much to serve all of us, so it makes sense that we stand behind them once they return home," Greig said. "We need to do more to help veterans find good jobs after coming home, and ensure that they always get the quality health care they've earned. It's an honor to work on their behalf in the Legislature."

State Rep. Christine Greig, D-Farmington Hills, (left) and Rep. Leslie Love, D-Detroit, recently visited VFW Hall 345 in Redford to meet with veterans and talk about initiatives to assist them.

Barber's hard work leads to hardware

Awards pile up for Stevenson goalie

By Ed Wright
Staff Writer

Given that his family's bloodlines are tightly intertwined with blue lines, Cullen Barber's recent haul of postseason high school hockey awards is far from astonishing.

The son of a former NHL player (Don) and current skating coach (Stacy), and the brother of a collegiate hockey star and 2012 draft pick of the Washington Capitals (Riley), the youngest Barber excels on sheets of ice just like his family members.

Although instead of depositing pucks into nets like his dad and oldest sibling, Cullen does everything he can to keep the mesh clear of the hard, rubber discs.

"When I first started playing hockey when I was young, I was actually a player like my dad and brother," Barber reflected. "But, as the story goes, whenever I played mini-sticks with my two older brothers (Logan is the middle Barber son),

John Glenn pitchers throw back-to-back gems

By Ed Wright
Staff Writer

It took almost two decades for a Westland John Glenn baseball pitcher to throw a no-hitter, then less than two hours for a second Rocket to almost throw another.

During the first game of Wednesday afternoon's double-header against visiting Lincoln Park, John Glenn senior left-hander Brendan Wetmore zeroed in on his school's first no-no since 1996 when he stymied the Railsplitters' bats during a 7-1 victory.

Wetmore struck out seven, walked three and was aided by a couple of spectacular defensive plays, the most notable being freshman third baseman Brian Martin's diving, back-handed stab of a grounder down the line that robbed the Railsplitters' lead-off batter of a sure-thing double in the top of the seventh.

It was Martin's turn to shine on the hill in the nightcap as he carried a perfect game into the final frame of the Rockets' 9-0 victory until Lincoln Park's first batter in the seventh laced a solid single to spoil the bid, but not diminish the freshman's accomplishment.

"Brendan would get ahead with a fastball and then he'd throw a nice breaking ball," said John Glenn head coach Lawrence Scheffer, when asked about Wetmore's repertoire. "He's a good little pitcher, and he's smart."

Zebras throw combined no-hitter

Wayne Memorial's baseball team upended host Livonia Clarenceville, 7-2, Wednesday afternoon in a nonconference contest.

The victory improved the Zebras' record to 1-2 while the Trojans slipped to 0-5.

Wayne starting pitcher Kent Goodling earned the win after striking out seven while yielding no hits through the first three innings. Brendon Benton didn't allow a hit over the final four innings. He struck out five and walked two.

Offensively, Beau Smith wielded a hot bat for the Zebras, going 2-for-4 with a home run, two RBI and a pair of stolen bases. Devin Pucket went 2-for-4 with three RBI and Jimmy Hernon had a hit and two runs batted in.

Thurston wins softball game

Sophomore Sydney Taylor went 3-for-3 with four RBI to lead Redford Thurston's softball team to a season-opening 15-0 victory over visiting Detroit Edison on April 1. The game lasted just three innings due to the MHSAA mercy rule.

Also excelling at the plate for the Eagles were Ivory Mamo (2-for-2, three-run home run) and Chelsea Williams, (two-run double, three RBI). Jayla Johnson, Rachel Pegouske and Laura Rousseau all contributed two hits.

Rousseau sparked on the mound, yielding just two hits and two walks while striking out six.

Stevenson boys hoops camp

The Livonia Stevenson boys basketball program will host a four-day camp June 15-18 (6-8:30 p.m. each night) in the high school's field house.

The cost of the camp is $75, which includes instruction from members of the Stevenson coaching staff that will help participants become more complete players.

The camp is designed for boys entering sixth through ninth grades in the fall of 2015.

For more information, contact head coach Kareem Smartt at Kareem.smartt@yahoo.com.

Call in results

Local high school athletic coaches are encouraged to report results of their team's contests to Observer sports editor Ed Wright, who can be reached at 734-578-2767 or ewright@hometownlife.com.

The deadline for Sunday editions of the Observer is 10 p.m. Friday. The deadline for Thursday editions is 10 p.m. Tuesday.

BLAST FROM THE PAST

Carbo is living a fulfilling post-major league life

Former Livonia Franklin baseball star now teaching sport to youngsters

By Ed Wright
Staff Writer

High-tech videotaping software that analyzes young hitters' swings didn't exist during the pre-high school years of Bernie Carbo's baseball career.

Heck, travel baseball hadn't even been conceived yet — unless you count grabbing your mitt and a bag of balls and traveling a few blocks down the street to one of the diamonds cut into a well-kept field along Hines Drive.

"When I was young, almost every day in the summer my friends and I would meet at Hines Park in the morning and we'd play all day until it was dark," said the 67-year-old Carbo, who grew up in Nankin Township, which later became Westland. "We'd pick teams and play without umpires. If you told a group of young kids to do that today, they'd look at you like you were crazy."

A former professional baseball player who hit one of the sport's most memorable World Series home runs, Carbo has lived an amazing — and, at times, tumultuous — life since leaving suburban Detroit in summer 1965, not long after he was selected in the first round of the inaugural Major League Baseball Draft. In fact, the way Carbo discovered he was drafted was borderline amazing. (Hint: he did not get a tweet from the Cincinnati Reds on his smart phone.)

John Glenn's Parrinello to spike for SC

Westland John Glenn senior Erin Parrinello recently signed a letter of intent to play volleyball at the next level for Schoolcraft College. One of the top all-around players in the KLAAs Kensington Conference, Parrinello helped lead the Rockets to a Class A district championship last fall.

"I was sitting in Mrs. Kangas' classroom in Livonia Franklin my senior year and they announced over the loud speaker that I had been drafted in the first round by the Reds," Carbo said. "That's how I found out. Yeah, I was surprised. I knew there was a draft and all, but I didn't know when it was and I had no idea I'd be picked in the first round."

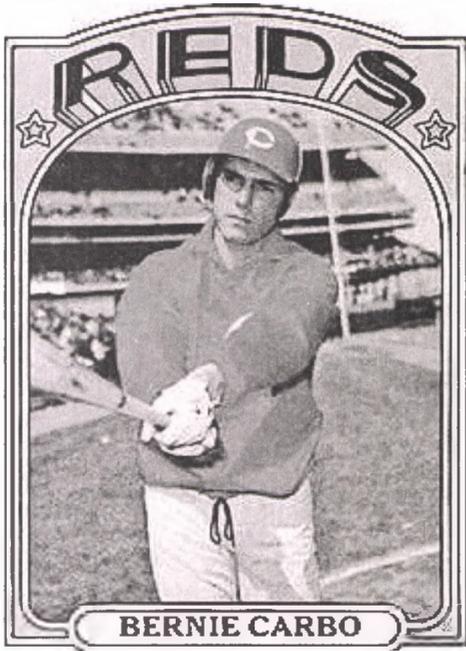

The Reds' second-round pick that year: hall of fame catcher Johnny Bench.

"It turns out Bill Lajoie, who went on to become the general manager of the Detroit Tigers, was a scout for the Reds in the Detroit area and I found out he had been keeping an eye on me starting when I was 12 years old," Carbo said.

In the 50 years that have followed, Carbo has never drifted far from baseball and he intends to keep it that way.

Along with his wife Tammy, Carbo lives in Mobile, Ala., where he operates the Diamond Club Ministry, an organization founded in 1993 that helps him guide youngsters and their families through tough times using baseball as a healing tool.

Carbo offers kids hitting instruction – and, yes, he uses high-tech videotaping software – while spreading the word about his Christian values.

Carbo readily admits in a book he recently authored with Dr. Peter Hantzis, Saving Bernie Carbo, that his life and baseball career were derailed in their prime by alcoholism and drug addiction.

He retired from professional baseball in 1980 at the age of 33.

The abuse reached such epidemic proportions in the 1970s that he often showed up for major league games impaired by drugs, often cocaine.

"I've been clean for 21 years now," he said. "I travel the country, talking to men's groups; I visit jails and talk to prisoners, giving my testimony, telling them what I've been through and that they can make it through, too."

Many of Carbo's travels take him to New England, where he became a beloved legend with one swing of his bat on the night of Oct. 6, 1975.

With his Red Sox trailing Cincinnati, 6-3, in the bottom of the eighth inning in the sixth game of the World Series – and the Reds leading the series, three games to two – Carbo was called on to pinch hit for pitcher Roger Moret with two runners on and two outs.

"I had played for (Reds manager) Sparky Anderson and I knew him well," Carbo said. "I knew once I was announced as the hitter, he'd take out Rawly Eastwick and bring in

Will McEnaney. I hit from the left side and Eastwick was right-handed. I even told Juan Beniquez, who hit right-handed, to get ready because he was going to be the one to pinch hit.

"But for whatever reason, Sparky left Eastwick in and, well, the rest is history."

Facing a 2-2 count, Carbo barely fouled off a cut fastball offered by Eastwick.

Carbo took advantage of his new life by launching the next pitch over the center field fence to tie the game at 6-6 and set the stage for teammate Carlton Fisk's game-winning, extra-inning home run.

"To hit a pinch-hit home run in what many people consider the greatest game ever played means a lot to me," he said.

But Carbo still holds the home run he hit in his first major league game in April 1970 as the equal to his more renowned World Series blast.

Carbo said he still remains friends with many of the 1975 Red Sox – including Rico Petrocelli, Bill Lee and Fred Lynn – and is looking forward to seeing many of them this summer at Fenway Park for the 40th anniversary reunion of the the 1975 team.

Although his busy schedule prevents him from returning to the Detroit area often, he said he will always hold dear memories of his hometown.

"I grew up with some really great people – good, hard-working people, who I think of often," he said.

PREP TENNIS

Stevenson aces test against Cougars

Livonia Stevenson's girls tennis team closed its pre-spring break schedule with a convincing 9-0 victory over KLAAs Central Division opponent South Lyon East.

No. 1 singles player Sam Cyrus set the tone for the Spartans by up-ending Megan Shaffer, 6-4, 6-3. Sophomore No. 2 singles player Jill Weiland followed suit by outlasting Megan Renahan, 6-4, 6-4.

Stevenson completed the singles sweep thanks to strong showings from No. 3 player Danielle Marzec, who handled Monika Sedik, 6-1, 6-0, and No. 4 Molly Cormier, who defeated Camille Cave by an identical score.

The Spartans' doubles duos kept the momentum flowing at a high rate as the No. 1 tandem of Sam Digiovanni and Arryn Dohenetz (both seniors) blanked Breanna Keeney and Heidi Surdyk, 6-0, 6-0.

The No. 2 team of Noel Hillert and Natalie Hay also had few hiccups in their 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Lea Fields and Bridget Dolan.

Closing out the April 1 sweep were the No. 3 twosome of Lauren Larson and Sarah Morse, who toppled Emily Plave and Brace Richarlsky, 6-2, 7-5; the No. 4 combination of Claressa Smith and Caitlyn McCamant, who were 6-2, 6-0 victors over Alyssa Petz and Michelle Rinkel; and the No. 5 team of Alyssa Ayash and Allison Malkowski, who won 6-0, 6-0.

"Brian throws harder than Brendan and he has a nice curve, too. They both pitched great."

Scheffer also raved about another facet of the game his team has excelled at during the season's early going.

"Our defense has been strong, and that makes me happy because that's what we stress all the time," he said. "We're big on making the routine plays, and the kids are buying into it."

In addition to Martin's web gem in the first game, left-fielder Jacob Damian made a sweet catch while sprinting toward the left-field line in the fourth inning.

One inning later, second baseman Kevin Brewer gloved a sizzling one-hopper that appeared headed to right field, spun and threw out the batter by two strides to keep Wetmore's no-hitter intact.

John Glenn actually trailed 1-0 early in the first game after the Rail-splitters tallied an un-earned run in the first.

The Rockets secured the lead for good in the bottom of the second when Damian led off with a single, Bernard Snell walked and they both came around to score on two wild pitches and two more free passes, the last of which Wetmore drew with the bases loaded.

The Rockets gave Wetmore some breathing room in the fourth when Brewer drew a lead-off walk, stole second and came home on Wetmore's double. Wetmore later scored on a passed ball and Zach Croft made it 5-1 when he scored from third on a ground-out by Martin.

Wetmore, Martin and Snell all went 2-for-4 with an RBI in the second game. Jordan Fuchs also added a ribbie.

Connor Gawne caught Wetmore's no-hitter before giving way to Noah Damian, who was behind the dish for Martin's near-perfect game.

Top bowlers strike it big with area honors

FIRST TEAM
Nick Bell, sr., John Glenn: Bell struck early and often during his final season as he helped lead the Rockets to the Division 1 state meet with a third-place showing (behind only Canton and Wayne Memorial) at the team regional at Canton's Super Bowl. Bell placed 18th at the D1 individual regional with a six-game series of 1,192, which included a pair of 212 games.

Brandon June, sr., Wayne: June was instrumental in the Zebras' amazing surge to the 2015 Division 1 team state championship as he racked up a 213 average and rolled a high game of 266. He was a two-year varsity performer after spending his sophomore season on the junior varsity squad.

"Brandon's biggest assets were his determination and his ability to make quality shots when we needed them," Wayne coach Bob Jawor said. "He will be missed next year for sure."

Tyler Shady, jr., Farm. Unified: Shady posted a 213 league average, fifth highest in the OAA. That was an increase of 30 pins over the previous season and more than 40 pins during Shady's two years in the program.

Shady bowled a career-high game of 278 and a high series of 511 the past season. He was named to the all-OAA first team.

"In a rematch of last year's title match with Royal Oak, Tyler bowled games of 239 and 233 to help us win the OAA White Division," coach Dennis Hermani said. "During the season, Tyler shared the anchor duties and performed extremely well in his 50 games, bowling 200 or better in 21.

"Tyler has begun to realize the potential he has to be a very powerful bowler. With another off season for Tyler to develop, the coaching staff hopes to see continued growth toward an unbelievable senior season."

Conner Weber, jr., Wayne: Weber had a spectacular season for the state champions, torching the pins to the tune of a 209 average. He flirted with a perfect game during his season-high effort of 280.

"Conner has more raw ability than a lot of kids his age," Jawor said. "He also loves to bowl and practice. Sometimes his head gets in the way, but that's all part of growing up. I look for him to have a great career in bowling."

Nick King, sr., Farm. Unified: King finished the season with a 209 league average, eighth highest in the OAA. He raised his average 22 pins over the previous season and more than 40 over the past two.

King, who made the jump from the all-area second team last year, was 11th in the Super Bowl regional and missed going to state by 13 pins. He was named to the all-OAA second team.

"Nick has come a long way since his freshman year, when he showed up bowling left-handed," Hermani said, adding the coaches changed his delivery to the right side.

King, who plans to study engineering at Western Michigan University, bowled a career-high game of 267 in the OAA singles tournament and a high series of 456.

"This young man has improved more than anyone in our program during the past 10 years, raising his average nearly 100 pins," Hermani said. "He is an amazing leader and showed it when he bowled his last varsity game of 216.

"Knowing he needed a big game to qualify for state after missing two spares in the first four frames, Nick looked me dead in the eyes and said, 'Coach, I am going to strike out.' He did! When the results were about to be announced, I had to break the terrible news to him that he had fallen just short.

"In true Nick fashion, he showed no negative emotion, shrugged his shoulders and shook his head. He had given his all and come up short. I am pleased to say Nick King is a bowler I am proud to have coached."

Josh Criscenti, sr., Canton: When Criscenti was a freshman, he suffered a serious leg injury and had to give up basketball.

That ended his career in that sport and started it in another and Criscenti made the best of that situation, capping it off as a senior by bowling so well that he won the D1 individual regional (1,378), qualifying for the state finals.

With an average of 198, the all-KLAA performer also was essential to Canton's team success (tying with Salem for the KLAA South Division and winning the team regional). Criscenti, who threw a personal best 259, will get to continue his late-blooming bowling career at Siena Heights.

"Josh was a solid lead-off man for us this year," coach Karl Brubaker said. "He had some big games when we needed them. ... He set the pace for the team all year long and will be missed."

Jacob Peltz, sr., Canton: Although Peltz was another key contributor for the Chiefs thanks to his ability to knock down pins, he also helped in other ways — boosting team chemistry and camaraderie with his smile and positive energy.

"Jacob Peltz was the guy that kept things light and fun," Brubaker said. "He always seemed to spark us when we needed him to."

Peltz averaged 198 per game, highlighted by a 257 high game. At the D1 individual regional, he tied for sixth with a 1,303 total to qualify for the individual state finals.

Peltz enjoyed success at there, finishing fourth in the qualifying block (1,331) and going on to finish in the elite eight with a 336 total for two games in singles play.

"He was very focused at the state finals and made a nice run in the finals to finish in the top eight," Brubaker said.

SECOND TEAM
Mitchell Rusinek, soph., Salem: One reason the future is bright for the Rocks is the presence of Rusinek, who still has two seasons to go.

Rusinek brings a calm demeanor and unflappable consistency to his game, helping him average 205 pins per game.

"Mitchell is so reserved and quiet," coach Kathie Hahn said. "After he throws his ball and comes back, from his expression and demeanor you don't know if he threw a strike, a gutter or left a big split. "I don't think he knows his talent and capabilities."

The all-KLAA performer had a third-place showing at the D1 regional (1,352), qualifying for the state finals. He also tallied personal bests for one game (279), two games (535) and three games (746).

"Mitch was on fire this year," Hahn said. "We can't wait for another hot season from him in 2015-16."

Aaron Madsen, sr., Canton: The captain and anchor man was instrumental to Canton winning a share of the division and capturing a D1 team regional.

Madsen was as consistent as they come, averaging just under 205 pins per game and throwing a high game of 257, enough to earn selection to the all-KLAA team.

At the individual regional, he finished second with a 1,373 score to qualify for the state finals, where he finished 27th with a 1,185 tally.

"Aaron was a steady competitor for the team all year and was very strong in all the tournaments we won this year," Brubaker said.

Madsen will study and bowl at Concordia University.

Tyler Ridgeway, sr., Salem: In just two short seasons, Ridgeway went from unknown commodity — arriving to the Park in summer 2013 from Idaho — to one of Salem's best-ever bowlers.

The team captain excelled in 2014-15 with a 207.57 average, featuring a 286 high game and a two-game series of 511. He earned selection to the all-KLAA team as a result of his efforts.

"Tyler was our team captain, our anchor, talented two-handed bowler and all-around team leader," Hahn said. "In these last two years, Tyler has grown and matured in his bowling and team leadership.

"Tyler will be missed by the team and myself. I wish him all the best in his further endeavors."

Matt Helisek, sr., Farm. Unified: Helisek was right there with his teammates on the all-area first team, posting a 207 league average. He was ranked ninth in the OAA, one place behind Nick King.

Since tryouts his freshman year, Helisek improved his average by 75 pins. He added 20 pins to it from his junior season.

Helisek bowled career highs this year with a 267 game and 482 series. He also bowled a 256 game against Royal Oak to help clinch the league title.

"Matt shared the anchor position with Tyler Shady, and he could always be counted on to perform at his best when needed," Hermani said. "Matt had 13 games of 200 or better last year as his teammates voted him Most Improved Bowler, and he increased that to 28 games this year.

"Last year I wrote this about Matt in my speech: 'As coaches, we look for continued hard work and improvement from Matt throughout the off season and into his senior campaign. It's quite possible Matt could challenge the 200 average mark next season.'

"I was underestimating his ability and hard work. The boys told me, as did Jim Hamblin (owner of Country Lanes), that Matt was in the bowling alley almost daily during the off season to improve his game.

"It showed during tryouts when he began by averaging 213, including a 278 game the second day of tryouts.

"Because of this hard work and determination, this year his teammates voted him Most Valuable Bowler for the 2014-15 season."

Mitchell Zelenak, jr., Canton: On a team that enjoyed a lot of success, the co-captain registered the top average (207.55) and individual game (279).

Consistent and clutch all season, Zelenak, named to the all-KLAA squad, was instrumental to the Chiefs prevailing as team regional champion.

At the D1 individual regional, he registered a solid 1,094 tally.

"Mitch had a very good year and was a huge part of the success in matches and tournaments," Brubaker said. "He will be back for his senior season and will lead a new group of Canton bowlers."

Brian Martin, fresh., John Glenn: He's a freshman? That's what John Glenn opponents most certainly were asking this season whenever it was Martin's turn to bowl. He was the lone ninth-grader at his individual regional to place in the top 10 (he averaged 216 in six games).

Martin capped his first year with a 36th-place showing at the D1 individual state meet.

Jake Preiss, sr., John Glenn: He played a huge role in the Rockets qualifying for the D1 team state tournament. He also shined in individual outings, taking ninth at the regional with a six-game series of 1,270 (high game of 244) before placing 48th in the individual state meet (1,092 series).

(10-2), but went on to prevail in the team regional. The Chiefs defeated Wayne Memorial 4,231 to 4,108 to win a team regional for the first time in program history.

Canton then had the tables turned on them by the Zebras at the D1 team finals. Wayne bested the Chiefs 1,370 to 1,277 in a quarterfinal contest.

"The starting five for the team this year all averaged over 200 in tournaments, which led to the success we had," Brubaker said. "This team put up numbers that will be hard to match in future seasons."

Brubaker, meanwhile, is optimistic that Canton will continue to be very competitive.

"We lose some players this year, but have a strong group of JV kids coming right behind them," Brubaker said. "I look forward to next season."

Bob Jawor, Wayne Memorial: Jawor has been the Zebras' head coach since the program's inception nine years ago. A USBC Bronze Level coach, he has led Wayne to the state tournament five times, with one runner-up finish to go along with this season's state championship.

"I watched this group of kids grow into a team over the course of the season," Jawor said. "We had highs and lows; more lows than highs in the beginning.

"This group pulled for each other, whether they were playing or sitting the bench, never complaining about playing time. I'm a believer that when that happens, you can accomplish great things. That being said, we did have some very talented players — top to bottom — making the coach look very good."

Madonna stumbles in twinbill loss to Saints

The Madonna University baseball team hit a bump in the road Wednesday afternoon falling in a double-header to visiting Siena Heights University, 5-4 and 9-0, at Ilitch Ballpark.

The two losses drop the third-place Crusaders to 23-11 overall and 13-4 in the Wolverine-

Hoosier Athletic Conference, while fourth-place Siena Heights improved to 13-17 and 8-9.

Madonna couldn't hold a 4-0 lead after two innings in the opener as the Saints got a run back in the third and added four more in the top of the eighth to pin the loss on freshman reliever Patrick Wierimaa (Redford Union), who gave up two runs (one earned) on two hits and a pair of walks.

Eric Henderson paced Siena Heights' 11-hit attack going 3-for-4 with two RBI, while Dennis Sharp Jr. and Zach Dunlop each added two hits.

Ryan Lambrecht went 2-for-3 with an RBI, while Ben Matigian (Livonia Churchill) contributed two hits in a losing cause. John Lauro also knocked in a run.

Siena Heights starter Brent Vaccaro (4-0) went all nine innings allowing just one earned run on eight hits and three walks. He struck out eight.

MU starter Taylor Turner (Northville) lasted 3½ innings allowing one earned run on four hits and four walks. Dylan Cooper came on and pitched the next 4½ innings allowing two runs on five hits and a walk before giving way to Wierimaa, who slipped to 3-2 on the year.

Meanwhile, the second game was all Saints as Henderson led the way once again offensively going 2-for-4 with a triple and two RBI. Joe Williams (Livonia Churchill), who went 3-for-9 on the day, added two hits, while Freddy Jehle was 2-for-2 and scored two runs. Drew Milligan also contributed two RBI.

Lauro went 2-for-3 for the Crusaders.

Winning pitcher Justin McPherson (2-0), who retired 10 straight MU hitters to close out the victory, worked the final 3½ innings in place of Saints starter Kyle Burkholder, who allowed six hits in 3½ innings of work.

Madonna starter Cliff Landess (2-1), who was tagged for three runs in the first inning, took the loss. He allowed a total of four runs (one earned) on three hits and three walks before Zach Schmidtke came on for the final 2½ innings where he allowed five runs (four earned) on seven hits.

MU returns to WHAC action with a pair of double-headers beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at Ilitch Ballpark to face Aquinas College (12-17, 7-10) in a four-game set.

Clarenceville has slew of quality track athletes

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

The Clarenceville girls and boys track teams might be short on numbers, but that doesn't mean they fall short in the talent department. On the girls side, senior Staneisha Chambers is the defending league champion in the shot put and school-record holder in the discus. The throws will be strong events for the girls as junior

Andrea Hill and senior Jackie Herron return from career-best seasons and will complement Chambers. Junior Delaney MacRea is the team's top hurdler and A'Sha Whittaker, though she is new to the sport, the top sprinter. MacRea will help in the sprint relays. Whittaker will compete in the long jump, too. The girls team has no distance runners, however. Clarenceville will try to find ways to make up for the loss of former standouts Ayana Buckley and Micah Willingham and the points they scored. Both were all-area, first-team selections last year - Buckley in the high jump and Willingham in the 300-meter hurdles. "We look at it as an opportunity, a challenge," assistant coach Jazna Ealy said, adding the Lady Trojans are in a rebuilding phase. "We're looking to build a stronger team. Even though we are a small team, we are a strong team. That goes with Trojan Pride." The boys have a strong lineup of throwers with returning seniors Jonathan Hogan, Dylan Gooden and Justin Moore. The Trojans are always good in the sprints and will look to returning seniors Nick Ballard, Cody Cardoza and James Hill, who will play football at Wayne State, to lead the way. Senior Elijah Bean is new to track, but he has played football and basketball. He'll help in the sprints and high jump. Ballard and Cardoza are long jumpers, too. Clarenceville lost Kimani Dooley, who was on the all-area second team in the 800 meters, to graduation. Jonathan Harris will lead the team in the middle distances with help from freshman Kyle Nolan.

Blazers in position again for title run

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Many of the key pieces remain firmly in place for another banner Livonia Ladywood softball season. The Blazers, who return all but two starters from last year's MHSAA Division 2 state runner-up squad, will be gunning for their sixth Final Four berth and second state title under coach Scott Combs, now in his eighth season. Ladywood, 29-15 a year ago, opened its season this weekend in Kenosha, Wis., against a pair of state championship teams and expectations remain high despite the loss of a pair of first-team all-Observer selections in shortstop Haley Lawrence (Hillsdale College) and first baseman Hallea Garcia (University of Michigan-Dearborn). that out last season. In the middle of the season we were just going through the motions. We had to attitude adjust a little bit, then at the end of the season and the playoffs we really played to our potential. "We'll really strive to do that all year this year and they've been talking about that the last three weeks to really win as many games as we can rather than hang around and wait for the state playoffs. I'm kind of a victim of that. I've always said we play for state titles and everything else is secondary. And I think they kind of took that too much to heart last year." Junior right-hander Rozlyn Price, entering her third varsity season on the mound, returns after going 24-8 with a 2.6 earned run average. She pitched 190 innings with 235 strikeouts and 62 walks. bemons@hometownlife.com

they made me play goalie, and I started to like it." Before Barber knew it, like turned into love, and the mini-goalie sticks were shelved for the real things. Two years ago, he started working diligently with personal goalie coach Jimmy Blanchard to hone the finer points of the position. Judging by his recently completed junior season at Livonia Stevenson, his crease skills are razor sharp. His goals-against (1.71) and save-percentage (.935) statistics were gold standard. Last month, just a few days after anchoring the Spartans' run to the Division 2 championship game against Birmingham Brother Rice, Barber learned he had earned the ultimate award trifecta: first-team all-state, starting goalie for the Michigan High School Hockey Coaches Association's "Dream Team" and the trophy that goes to the top goalie in the state. "First of all, I was surprised when I found out I was all-state," Barber admitted. "Then when I arrived at the all-state banquet, I was looking through one of the programs on the table, and I saw I had made the 'Dream Team'. That was a shock. I'm not even sure my coaches knew." His night got even better moments later when he happened to see the name "Cullen Barber" engraved on the trophy to be presented to the state's top goalie. "I look at these awards as being a reward for all the work I've been putting in - practicing day in and day out, coming in on weekend mornings to catch some extra time, working with my private coach, doing a lot of off-ice training," Barber said. Barber said the average hockey fan might be surprised by how much specialized training goes into playing his position. "I don't think people realize how much you have to work on footwork to be a good goalie," he said. "There are a lot of different drills I do to improve my quickness and getting the angles right. There's a lot that goes into stopping the puck; it's more than just going down and blocking it." Although he acknowledges he can't stop every shot, Barber said it's always painful to have to fish the puck out of the net - even if it's only once or twice a game. "There's always going to be a shot you don't see, or the team you're playing against makes a really nice play, or just bad luck," he said. "But no matter what, I always want to have that goal back. Always." During the 2014-15 regular season, Barber was half of Stevenson's superb two-goalie platoon that also included senior Andrew Rozenbaum, who earned all-state honors as a junior. "Obviously, coming into this season, my ultimate goal was to be the starter, but Rozenbaum was coming off an all-state season, so we split time," Barber said. "I just tried to take it one game at a time and hope for the best for the team. The coaches were great at communicating with us when it came to knowing who was going to start. Coach would usually meet with us either in his office or we'd meet up at Biggy's. We'd always know two or three days in advance what the plans were." In his oldest brother Riley - a junior forward at Miami University in Ohio - Barber has the perfect training partner. "Riley has played a big supporting role in my hockey career," Barber said. "Whenever he comes back home, he shoots at me. Getting to face shots from a high-level player like him helps because he can put the puck on a dime. He helps me realize how much harder I have to work to get to where I want to be." Barber is currently competing as a member of the prestigious USA Hockey's Team Michigan junior squad, which will be competing against teams consisting of high school juniors from Minnesota and Wisconsin later this spring. Stevenson's Nathan Sudek and Alec Allen are his teammates. An outstanding student, Barber has carved out a stellar 3.6 grade point average despite a challenging workload that includes advanced and global-education classes. "I'd like to eventually play juniors and ultimately play for a Division 1 college team," Barber said. Given his bloodlines and his high-level work ethic, no one is betting against him. ewright@hometownlife.com

Zebras zap Trojans in baseball, 7-2

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

Four errors and a lack of hitting proved costly for the Clarenceville baseball team Wednesday in a 7-2 loss to Wayne Memorial. "Our pitching gave us a chance," Trojans coach Craig Cotter said. "When you have the bases loaded or men on second and third in four of the seven innings and only come away with two runs, you're in for some frustration." Cotter added the young Trojans team is gaining valuable experience that will be beneficial in the long run. "The process is more important than the game right now, and I believe it will help as the season progresses," Cotter said. The lone Trojan hit was by Mitch Kubiak. Freshman Nick Bisaro went 4 1/2 innings on the mound and took the loss. He and reliever Zach Richards combined for 13 strikeouts and six hits. Bisaro had eight strikeouts; Richards allowed only one hit and didn't walk a batter over the final 2 1/2 innings. "Nick pitched very well,"

Cotter said. "He was always around the plate. Zach has pitched well in both outings so far this year." The Trojans are 0-5 thus far and will play at Garden City on Tuesday. RICHARD 9, C'VILLE 3: Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard scored five runs in the bottom of the fifth inning Tuesday to take a 9-3 lead and sweep a doubleheader. The Trojans had pulled within a run in the top of that inning. Kam MacIver pitched five innings in the loss and, despite giving up 11 hits and six earned runs, pitched well, according to coach Craig Cotter. Untimely errors extended innings and had the Trojans playing catch up, he added. Mitch Kubiak came out for one inning of shutout relief. "We left the bases loaded to end the game and had men on second and third with less than two outs twice and did not score," Cotter said. "Striking out 10 times did not help, especially when four of them were called third strikes." Jayson Harris led the Trojans offensively, getting on base three times and stealing a base. Bobby Jaber went 2-for-4; Kubiak, Matt Drain and Justin Kelley chipped in one hit apiece. "The season is young," Cotter said. "Our kids are getting plenty of early reps. Our team has only 12 players. These kind of meaningful reps will help us down the road." RICHARD 8, C'VILLE 1: Mental mistakes caused the demise of the Trojans in the first game of the Tuesday doubleheader, too. After getting out to an early lead, Clarenceville gave up eight runs, five of which resulted from mental miscues. Adam Sade went the distance and got the loss. "We kept shooting ourselves in the foot," Cotter said, adding Sade gave the Trojans a chance. "We could not make the plays behind him, because we were out of position most of the game." The Trojans did have some bright spots. Harris went 3-for-4 with two stolen bases and is hitting well over .500. Kelley chipped in two hits; Drain had one. The Trojans struck out nine times. Several of those were with men in scoring position.

COC marks 50 years of helping developmentally disabled persons

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Meet Anne Munn and Jean Ann Mies.

Munn, 49, is an avid bowler whose trophies line family room shelves in her neat Livonia ranch-style house. Step into her bedroom and you'll notice cherished family photos that decorate lilac-colored walls. Take a whiff as you pass the kitchen — that's her meatloaf cooking in the oven — and head to the craft center, where she'll show you her handmade greeting cards.

Mies, 54, is a Hello Kitty fan who also loves the color pink. You'll see the two concepts merge in her bedroom, where the iconic kitten graces everything from a wall clock, to CD player, to a table lamp. Notice the fleece blankets neatly stacked on her bed and she'll tell you about the hand-tied blankets she made for every member of her family. Then check out the tablet she uses to play puzzles, games, videos, Power Rangers and even learn math.

The longtime friends have lived together for 22 years, first in an apartment, and for the last two years in Munn's childhood home. They live on their own with support from their families and from the Community Opportunity Center, a Livonia-based nonprofit organization that helps developmentally disabled persons live as independently as possible. COC provides housing — COC-owned, leased or rented — for its clients. It also offers support staff in its homes and to clients like Munn and Mies who live in family-owned houses or condos. Debbie Smart of Plymouth, for example, works with the two women twice weekly to assist with daily living tasks, such as meal planning, grocery shopping, and paying utility bills.

It's time for Debbie Smart to leave for the day. Anne Munn gives her a big hug. Smart, a Plymouth resident, helps Munn with tasks such as menu planning and grocery shopping.

The roommates are among 87 clients served by COC, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year. Denise King, COC executive director, credits families, board members and the community for the organization's longevity.

"We have so many dynamic people who care," King said. "We've seen generations of people getting involved. It makes such a difference in a corporation like ours when you have everyone that pulls together for the benefit of their loved ones. They all work together."

Family-driven

Families and advocates formed COC in 1965 with a mission to establish a sheltered workshop for persons with developmental disabilities. The workshop opened a year later, employing 13 workers and staff, and was merged with the Detroit League for the Handicapped in 1967.

Denise King, executive director of Community Opportunity Center, shares a moment with Anne Munn.

COC remained inactive for three years, and then reinstated its charter in 1970. A new board took the organization in a new direction in 1972.

"The families involved said, why not look at some housing alternatives. The consensus was that housing was a greater need (than work programs)," King said.

In the early 1970s, the State of Michigan began to look at housing alternatives to institutions. The trend was to move individuals into group homes in community settings. With approval from the Michigan State Housing Authority, COC built its first 16-person group home in Livonia. A group home in Redford followed, but were met with neighborhood resistance.

"I remember when I started at Livonia House (as manager), there was a major uproar and that was in 1980. There were threats of burning the home down. When I was there once a brick was thrown through the window. It was a rough time. People were marching at City Hall. It took a while before people realized our homes weren't a menace to the community, that our residents weren't people to be fearful of."

Senior homes

Today the trend is toward smaller homes. COC's few 16-person homes have downsized and the organization's focus is on offering a variety of smaller housing options. It also has tailored homes to meet the needs of its aging pop-

'Westies' in kilts will parade with rescue dogs at 30th annual show

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

"Westies" will put on the dog for the West Highland White Terrier Club of Southeastern Michigan rescue parade, which will take place at the club's 30th annual specialty breed show this month in Whitmore Lake.

Many of the club members' dogs will wear formal tux, diamonds or pearls in keeping with the anniversary theme. Club dogs that parade to support their recently-rescued brethren, will show off their kilts.

"We invite all the the prior year's rescues to attend the parade," said Carole Beaudry of Plymouth, a club member. "We introduce them and tell their stories. It's a real tear-jerker. We had two little dogs that were litter mates born in 2010 that were surrendered because their family didn't have enough time to spend with them. Fortunately, we were able to adopt them out together.

Watson, a "Westie" from Plymouth, wears his kilt. His owner, Carole Beaudry, is a member of the West Highland White Terrier Club of Southeastern Michigan, which runs a parade and show on April 25.

"Then we had six puppy mill dogs came in. They were living in rabbit hutches out in the cold all winter. Almost all of them have been adopted out."

The parade runs 20-30 minutes, depending on how many rescue dogs attend. It also includes Scottish pipers, a parade marshal and kilt-wearing Westies.

"We call them wee marshals," Beaudry said, adding that Westie Rescue Michigan sells doggy kilts as a fundraiser. They run $40-$50. "They are adorable wearing them. They go around the body and have a pleated skirt. I have to say, the parade attracts a lot of people."

Beaudry, who also is involved with Westie rescue, isn't sure whether her dog, Watson, will participate this year. In previous years he and his adopted brother, Wesley, who died last year, walked as wee marshals.

Spunky personality

The parade includes honored rescue dogs, Scottish pipers, a parade marshal and "wee marshals" dressed in their doggy kilts.

Beaudry and her husband took in their first Westie in 1984 and have loved the breed ever since.

"They've got such good personalities. They love lots of attention. They are wonderful dogs to have around. And they are very bright," she said.

"If you come out and see them at the show, you'll get to see what they are like. People can talk to owners and see the dogs. And there's always an information table with literature."

The show draws dogs from several states to participate in conformation judging. It also will include the parade, an auction, and fundraising items. Lunch will be available for $7 for adults and $4 for children under 10. Doors open at 7:30 a.m. and show hours are 8 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Saturday, April 25, at the Ann Arbor Dog Training Club, 1575 E. N. Territorial Road. Admission and parking are free.

ulation. "We thought it was time to have a house with no stairs. We started our first home (for seniors) through a grant through the mental health system. It's all one floor in Livonia. Because we've been around for so long, people have aged with us. Our oldest gal is going to be 87."

COC maintains a waiting list for housing and staff assistance. King said some families place their adult developmentally disabled children on the list when they aren't immediately ready to see them move into a group or independent living environment.

"Often we hear from the parents when they are starting to age. The last person who moved into Livonia house, it was a struggle for mom and dad. It was hard to see their son move on, but in the end they are happy and he's happy."

Many moves

Mies and Munn both lived in COC group housing after moving out of their parents' homes and before moving into apartments together and eventually into Munn's childhood home, which became available after her mother moved into a senior residence.

"There certainly was potential in both of the ladies to live more independently," King said. "Anne and Jean Ann feel safe living together here."

Munn knows the neighbors, having grown up in the house. Family members frequently visit and the women work regularly with COC staff.

King said the community has pitched in to help COC residents who don't have family nearby. Three families from Resurrection Catholic Church in Canton reached out to become friends with several residents. Community groups assist with sprucing up properties and have come together for a wellness program COC recently started.

"All kinds of people have reached out to say, how can we help? How can we make the lives of the people you're supporting better?"

As for Mies and Munn, they've found their perfect home.

"We had a housewarming and everybody came and we had a good time," Munn said.

COMMUNITY OPPORTUNITY CENTER 50TH ANNIVERSARY

When: 6 p.m. Saturday, April 18

Where: Laurel Manor Banquet & Conference Center, 39000 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia

Who: Community Opportunity Center is a nonprofit organization that provides housing and support for individuals with developmental disabilities

Details: Randy Lewis, author of No Greatness Without Goodness, is the guest speaker at the event, which also will include a dinner of filet mignon and chicken del signore and music for dancing by The Relic Band. Lewis, a senior vice president at Walgreens, introduced an inclusive model in the company's distribution centers that resulted in 10 percent of its work force being staffed by persons with disabilities. Tickets: $40; reserve by calling 734-422-1020

"I like it because we have that big back yard that we never had before," Mies added.

New warranty laws needed to lengthen appliance lifespan

Several years ago, I wrote about the different and strange screws that manufacturers were using in production of their appliances. It's as if they didn't want you to take it apart because you didn't have a screw driver to fit the screw and that became a big problem for the do-it-yourselfer.

Nowadays, your new appliance may look like it's welded together and almost impossible to take it apart unless you get some expert to show you how it comes apart. I believe the idea was a built into the design to create more work for the appliance repair technicians, especially those directly employed by the manufacturer. Not only does this make it hard on repair technicians who see a new appliance for the first time, it also takes away that feeling we all get from repairing something out of our spectrum. People can gain a big sense of pride in fixing an appliance, saving a lot of money and keeping it out of America's landfills. Keep in mind that the more we fix, the fewer new products have to be built. I don't have to explain that this doesn't bode well with the appliance manufacturers because their goal is always to sell more and more. With this mindset, the most important aspect of quality has been diminished and appliance life spans have been so reduced that some products are throw-away pieces of junk.

I can tell you personally that I receive information from homeowners who tell me how much dissatisfaction they have with their new products. You only have to go to appliance reviews to see what I mean and yet the producers of these products just don't seem to care one little bit about our opinions. What ever happened to the word quality and the sense of pride we all had in this country's production?

I must say that we are not alone in this global economy as other countries are going through the same thing, but they are doing something about it. They have mandates to produce more durable products and I think this country can follow suit.

I have been reading about the new law in France which is on the side of do-it-yourselfers. The law outlaws planned obsolescence and manufacturers will have to label products with information about how long parts will be available. Products will have a two-year warranty or free replacement for failed products. Germany and Norway already have similar laws and in the U.K. there is the Sale of Goods Act which mandates retailers specifically to refund, repair or replace goods with an inherent fault for up to six years after purchase. These kinds of laws can give a consumer a real sense of confidence when shopping and buying a major appliance. All of this can result in a better-made product and cause those people responsible to put quality back where it belongs. It's obvious that standards like this would increase the life span of products and those not up to snuff would be left blowing in the wind.

Right now in this country we have the biggest hot-button subject of clothes washers not doing the job because of energy standards mandated by our energy department. These guidelines tie the hands of washer manufacturers into knots which can't be undone. Homeowners are so dissatisfied with performance they purchase clothes washers and get rid of them within two years. The new hot water heater regulations that take effect on April 15 will add several hundreds of dollars to the cost and yet only save you $12-$14 per year. It all doesn't make sense to me and yes, I believe we should move forward in developing some new laws in this county and do it now. Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard at 8 a.m. Saturdays on WAAM 1600. You can email your problems and questions on appliances to appldr@twmi.rr.com.

MILESTONES

ANNIVERSARY

60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

What started out as a high school crush led to 60 years of "happily forever after" for Wesley and Sandy (Sisk) Knight, 45-year Livonia residents. They were married April 9, 1955, at Eber Memorial Baptist Church in Detroit.

Wesley was serving in the U.S. Army and stationed in Germany at the time the two were married while he was home on leave. Sandy joined him in Europe shortly after their wedding, and before returning to the United States the couple gave birth to Karen and Heidi in Heidelberg, Germany.

After returning from service, the couple settled in Dearborn. Wesley went to work for Ford Motor Co., where he spent the rest of his career in data processing and telecommunications. The couple soon gave birth to Tammy, and then Randy, completing the family.

Wesley and Sandy Knight of Livonia are celebrating their 60th anniversary. They were married April 9, 1955.

Through Ford Motor Co., the Knights and their children returned to Europe. They lived in Belgium and England before moving back to the United States — this time with the addition of a schnauzer named Liebschen — and settling in Livonia in 1970

Sandy took a job with A.J. Foland's where she worked her way into a managerial position within the company's jewelry department.

The Knights' love for family, golf and schnauzers perseveres. Their current schnauzer, a female, is named Schatzi. The couple also enjoys spending winter months in Surprise, Ariz., making their passion for golf and travel a year-round reality.

The Knights spent many years attending Grand River Baptist Church in Livonia before it closed and now call NorthRidge Church home. Their family has grown to include 10 grandkids and 10 great-grandkids.

CLARKE, CATHERINE (KATE THE GREAT)

Passed peacefully on April 1, 2015. Happily married to John B. Clarke for 60 years. Kate was the life of the party! The original fashionista in her fishnet stockings and "go-go" boots of the '60s to crazy, cool hats throughout her fun-filled life. She had a huge, kind heart and was a wonderful mother to her three children, Jennifer, Ken, and Jim. Grandmother to seven whom she loved dearly. A fabulous cook and always entertaining. We will miss her and hold her in our hearts forever. Forever thus, as she would say. Memorial open House April 19 from 3 to 5 p.m. at her daughter's home in Wolverine Lake Village, Michigan.

MARIHUGH, DOLORES

Beloved wife of the late Paul R. (4/18/04). Dearest mother of Darlene D. DeBerry, Larry P. (Debra), Michael "Turk" (Zona) & Pat (Barb) Marihugh. Loving Grandmother of Michelle Bruner, Mike DeBerry Jr., David, Scott, Brett & Meghan Marihugh, Sheradyn Holden, John, Jeff & Jamie Marihugh. Also great grandmother of five. Leaves siblings; David & Doug Shepley and Cheryl DeVore. Service Monday, 11:00 a.m. at The Fisher Funeral Home, 24501 Five Mile (Btw Beech Daly & Telegraph) Redford Twp. (313) 535-3030. Memorials suggested to the Alzheimer's Assoc. Vistation today 2 p.m. - 8 p.m.

PITTMAN-HADLEY, MARGARET LEE BANCROFT

Age 95, passed away peacefully on Friday, March 27, 2015, at Clare Bridge of Grand Blanc assisted living facility in Holly, Michigan. Born in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, on January 2, 1920, she grew up in Toledo, Ohio, and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1942 with a Bachelor of Science in Zoology. Following graduation, she married Raymond Alvin Pittman of Toledo, a graduate of the University of Michigan College of Engineering. They settled in Ann Arbor, where she worked as a laboratory technician at University of Michigan Hospital until her children were born. She was married to Mr. Pittman for over 53 years, and together they reared three children. The couple spent most of their married lives in Ann Arbor, where she taught Sunday School at the First Methodist Church and participated in public school and community activities. After the children were older, she worked as an accountant at the former Marti Walker's dress shop on State Street in Ann Arbor. The couple also lived in Boston, Massachusetts, where Mr. Pittman attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Port Elizabeth, South Africa, where she was an active member of the Canadian-American Womens Club and loved to run her Rhodesian Ridgeback hound along the beach at Sardinia Bay; London, England, where she renewed her interest in horseback riding and discovered British antiques; and Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, where she supported the Meadow Brook Music Festival and the Red Cross. For several years, the couple participated in a longitudinal gerontology study at the University of Michigan, providing insight into the aging process. After Mr. Pittman passed away, she married Richard Marshall Hadley in 1997. Theirs was the first wedding for the Henry Ford Village Senior Living Community in Dearborn, Michigan, where she became a square dance enthusiast and a regular member of the welcoming committee. The couple traveled extensively, and visited Italy, England, Alaska, and California. After Mr. Hadley passed away in 2004, she remained at Henry Ford Village, continuing her work with the welcoming committee and leading exercise classes until she moved to Holly, Michigan in 2012. She adored dogs and always had at least one by her side. Having studied classical music, she played the piano for most of her life. She is survived by her three children, son Raymond Pittman (Linda) of Allen Park, Michigan; son Richard Pittman (Diane) of Dallas, Texas; and daughter Margaret Pittman (Mark Carter) of Germantown, Maryland. She also is survived by stepdaughter Donna Christopherson (John) of Plainfield, Illinois; stepdaughter Lynne Fowlkes (Edward) of Northville, Michigan; stepson Philip Hadley (Suzanne) of West Bloomfield, Michigan; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; four step-great-grandchildren; one sister, Mary Ann Bancroft Draheim, of Reno, Nevada; and six nieces and nephews. A private memorial service will be scheduled at a later date. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations to the Humane Society of Huron Valley, 3100 Cherry Hill Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48105, (734) 662-5585, www.hshv.org

Senior care company offers prep list for bad weather

Older adults are among the most vulnerable victims when weather disasters strike. With the severe weather season in full swing, Home Instead Senior Care suggests the seniors and their families be prepared for natural disasters.

The caregiving company offers a safety preparation checklist to help prepare seniors:

» Tune in. Contact the local emergency management office to learn about the most likely natural disasters that may strike. Stay abreast of what's going on through radio, television, Internet.

» Take stock. Decide what your senior can or can't do in the event of a natural disaster. Make a list of what would be needed if a disaster occurred. For example, if your loved one is wheelchair-bound, determine an evacuation strategy ahead of time.

» To go or to stay? When deciding to evacuate, older adults should go sooner rather than later. By waiting too long, they may be unable to leave if they require assistance.

» Make a plan. Schedule a family meeting to develop a plan of action. Include in your plan key people, such as neighbors, friends, relatives and professional caregivers who could help.

» More than one way out. Seniors should develop at least two escape routes — one to evacuate their home and one to evacuate their community. The local emergency management office can offer community escape routes.

» Meet up. Designate a place to meet relatives or key support network people outside the house, as well as a second location outside the neighborhood, such as a school or church. Practice the plan twice a year.

» Get up and "Go Kit." Have an easy-to-carry backpack including three days nonperishable food and water with an additional four days of food and water readily accessible at home. Have at least one gallon of bottled water per person per day. Refresh and replace your supplies at least twice a year. And don't forget the blanket and paper products such as toilet paper.

» Pack extras and copies. Have at least a one-month supply of medication on hand at all times. Make ready other important documents in a water-proof protector including copies of prescriptions, car title registration and driver's license, insurance documents and bank account numbers, and spare checkbook. Also take extra eyeglasses and hearing-aid batteries. Label every piece of important equipment or personal item in case they are lost.

» Your contact list. Compile a contact list and include people on a senior's support network as well as doctors and other important health care professionals.

New women's cancer support group meets Thursdays in Livonia

St. Mary Mercy Hospital's new Love & Learn Women's Circle will focus on head-to-toe skin care, 6-7:30 p.m. April 23, in the Wellness Center at the hospital, 36475 Five Mile, Livonia.

The monthly support group for women with cancer started in March and meets the fourth Thursday of the month. The group is open to women who currently have cancer, or those who have completed treatment.

"Attending a support group can be very helpful for individuals with cancer and their families," said Michelle Eggenberger, L.M.S.W., a social worker at the hospital. "Support groups allow individuals to gather with others who have similar experiences. Together, these individuals can share stories, advice and help each other understand the disease."

The upcoming gathering will include representatives from St. Mary Mercy's Helen Palmer Image Recovery Center. They will discuss how cancer treatment affects the skin. Skin care products will be available to sample and women will learn how to keep their skin looking fresh throughout the cancer journey and beyond.

"Cancer is a life-altering disease," Eggenberger said. "Our cancer program is focused on treating the whole person — body, mind and spirit. In addition to traditional medical treatment such as oncology and radiation, we have services to help patients with image recovery, navigation, nutrition, social work and spirituality."

For more information, call 734-655-2973.
